CHAPTER XXVII.

[CONTINUED] 'A Jewess!' said Cedric, availing himself of the information to get clear of their interruption. Let me pass, woman! stop me not at your peril. I am fresh from my hely office, and would avoid pollu-

'Come this way, father,' said the old hag, 'thou art a stranger in this castle, and canst not leave it without a guide. Come hither, for I would speak with thee. 'And you daughter of an accursed race, go to the sick man's chambes, and 30 years; is convenient to the Public Offices, Steamboat Landings and Ferries, connecting with Riviere du Loup Railway; also, handy to the Free Market.

Rebecca retaeated. Her importunities had prevailed upon Urfrisd to suffer her to quit the turret, and Urfried had employed he services where she herself would most gladly have paid them, by the bedside of the wounded Ivanhoe. With an understanding awake to their dangerous situation, and prompt to to avail herself of each means of safety which occurred, Rebecca had hoped something from the premanner. Its shape gives commodious sence of a man of religion, who, space to the apartment, while its internal arrangements are simple, suitable she learned from Urfiied, had penetrated into this godless castle. She watched the return of the supposed JAS S. NEILL. ecclesias ic; with the purpose of addressing him, and interesting him in favor of the prisoners; with what imperfect success the reader has been just acquainted. When Urfried had with clamors THE Undersigned having for more than ten years painted for McFarlane, Douglas, has now put up a shop at the above place, and is prepared to duct the unwilling Cedrib into a Repair and Paint Carriages small apartment, the doar of which she heedfully secured. Then of every description at the shortest notice, good work, moderate charges WALTER WILLIS fetching from a cupboard a stoup of wine and two flagons, she placed them on the calking and a stoup them on the table, and said in a tone rather asserting a fact than asking a vuestion, "Thou art Saxon, father-deny it not," she continued, observing that Cedric hastaned not to reply; "the sounds of my native language are sweet to mine ears, though seldom heard save from the tongues of the F. & O. McGoldrick wretched and degraded seris on whom the proud Normans impose the meanest drudger Ther art a Saxon, ather-a Saxon, and, save as thou art a servant of God, a freeman. 'Do not Saxon priests visitithis castle, then?' replied Cedric; 'it were, methinks, their duty to com-Cash and the nighest prices paid fort the outcast and oppressed children of the soil.' 'They come not-or if they come, they better love to revel at the board of their conquerors,' answered Urfried, than to hear the groans of their countrymen-so, at least, report speaks of them-of myself I can say little. This castle, for ten years, has opened to no priest save the debauched Norman chaplain who partook the nightly revels of Front-de-Bœuf, and he has been long gone to render an account of his stewardship. But tkou art a Saxon-a Saxon priest, and I have one question to ask of

'I am a Saxon,' answered Cedric. but unworthy, surely, of the name of priest. Let me begone on my wey-I swear I will return, or send one of our fathers more worthy to hear your confession.'

'Stay yet awhile,' said Urfried ; the recents of the voice which thon hearest now will soon be choked in the cold earth, and I would not decend to it like the beast I have lived. But wine must give me strength to tell the horrors of my tale.' She poured out a cup, and drank it with a frightful avidity, which seemed desirous of draining the last drop in the goblet. 'It stupifies,' she said looking upwards, as she finished her draught, but it cannot cheer. Partake it, father, if you would hear my tale without sinking down upon the pavement.' Cedric would have avoided pledging her in this ominous conviviality, but the sign which she made to him expressed impatience and despair. He complied with her request, and answered her challenge in a large wine cup; she then proceeded with her story, as if appeased by his complaisance.

'I was not born,' she said, father the wretch that thou now seest me.-I was free, was happy, was bound ed, loved, and was beloved. I am now a slave, miserable and degraded-the sport of my masters' passions while I had yet beauty-the object of their contempt, scorn, and Dost thou wonder, father, that I should hate mankind, and, aboue all, the race that has wrought this change in me? Hayes' men returned yesterday morning, having got their drive in handsomely.

The bodies of two of the young men who were drowned on this drive, have been found and brought home. This accident was caused by a defect in the flat boat in which they were crossing the main river near the Rapids de Femme. It appears that when hauling it over the portage at the Grand Falls one end of it was allowed to drop so that it was cracked or "hogged" in the middle, and when it got into the strong water it yielded to the pressure

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HICHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of scett's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypephesphites of Lim and soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of Children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous. See What Phylicians and the People Say About It.

66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September 2, 1876. GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and preparation in scrofulous and preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and preparation in scrofulous d consumptive cases, palatable C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D. Messes. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen,—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypothosphites and ound it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate tomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen,—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can conside it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form.

December 10th, 1878.

Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen,—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and ra; I ly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats and short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I afterwards bought a dozen bottles, with the following results: Coughs subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight uncreased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine some friend on the street who asks, "What cured you?" and I answer, "Scott" EMULSION of COD LIVER OIL. etc." I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen, and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

January 20th, 1879.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne — Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2, 1378.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no on who saw me thought I could live longer than a few weeks at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commence mending, and now am able to ride and walk, and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.
