COURAGEOUS BATTLE WITH DEATH TO RECOVER BODY FROM RIVER

Crowds Hold Breath as Intrepid Rescuers Attempt to Save Unknown Woman From Angry Waters of the Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 27.—Four men risked their lives last night to recover the body of an unidentified woman from the lower river. The body was recovered and towed back to the Maid of the Mist landing, on the Canadian side, the men had battled for it most of the night with the swift currents of the lower river and they were almost swept to their death in the rapids below.

Wrestled With Death

Those who figured in the recovery of the body and fished with death to bring it safely to the landing were James Conner, William Shellington, 22 years old, of Norristown, Pa., a member of the Canadian military police stationed on the Canadian end of the upper bridge; E. L. Grimm of Niagara Falls, Ont., and George Speedie of Toronto, employees of the Maid of the Mist at Niagara Falls, Ont., and Red Hill, a veteran river man who has rescued more than a score of persons from the rapids and falls.

Shellington was just going out duty on the bridge when the body was seen to pass under the bridge. He clambered over the railing and went down the ladder at the Canadian end of the bridge. He ran along the water's edge following the body as it tumbled through the water. At Lower Eddy, which is opposite the Aluminum Company of America's lower river plant the body drifted in towards shore. Shellington found a long pole, waded through the water, stepped on the body with the pole and clung on, fighting with the current.

Alarm Carried to Cities

Meanwhile the alarm was carried to the two Falls cities and the banks on each side of the river were soon lined with people, who shouted encouragement to Shellington as he fought with the current to keep the body from drifting out into the middle of the stream, and on to the rapids below.

Grimm started out from the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side in one of the heavy rowboats moored there. He kept to the middle of the stream. Before he realized his danger he was in the swift current between the bridge and swift drift which leads on to the rapids. Those on the banks saw him pulling hard on the oars and for a time it was thought that he would be carried into the stronger current. For a half hour he pulled and tugged, the little boat seeming to stand still in the middle of the river.

As Grimm battled with the current Speedie got out one of the lighter skiffs moored at the boat landing and started out to his rescue. He knew little of the river, but he kept on, hoping to throw a line to Grimm and Criticize Treatment Handed out to Strike Leaders in Winnipeg—Good Work for Beck and his Concessions to Men on Chippewa Work.

The Trade and Labor Councils held one of the most successful meetings last night that has been held for some time with an exceptionally large number present. The municipal committee reported the sale of Government fish at McClelland's store good. Each member having purchased some and found it to be in first class condition.

The organization committee reported work done since the last meeting, and two new unions became affiliated with the Trades and Labor Councils, and delegates were given seats. The unions were sulphur workers of Merritt and Thorold and the hod carriers and common laborers.

THE SPECIAL HOLIDAY

In view of the difficulty which arises should Monday be a holiday the Mayor stated today that any public holiday which is observed under the proclamation issued shall begin at 10 a.m. Further, milk and bread men are permitted to make their regular deliveries. This is done to permit house holders and others to get in their food supplies. Bakers delivering on Saturday cannot supply enough bread to carry people over until Wednesday, the time they would have to go if every place was closed up all day Monday. Under these circumstances the proclamation provides that stores may be open Monday till 10 a.m.

Went Down Ladder

Hill was summoned by the immigration officers on the bridge and he went down the ladder to the water's edge, joining Shellington who still held the body out of the swift current. Glassbrook and John Douglas of Niagara Falls, came to their aid.

Few knew the river like Hill. Lower eddy where Shellington held the body was familiar to him as it was there that he rescued Roth when the ice bridge went out on February 4, 1912. Hill brought a line which was thrown from the bridge and this he gave to Shellington who made the body fast. Then Hill stood on the shore and shouted instructions to Grimm and Speedie in the two boats. By following his instructions the two men pulled their boats out of the swift current towards shore.

When Grimm reached the quieter water he collapsed and the four men on the bank drew his boat to safety. By a hand-boat Speedie reached the body. While the men fought with the current the people who thronged the gorge banks encouraged them by shouting and the tooting of automobile horns.

Towed Body Up River

Glassbrook and Hill got into Speedie's boat and the former rowed up along the river bank towing the body. Grimm followed with Douglas and Shellington. The men made the turn around the upper bridge abutments carefully and pulled in at the Maid landing while the crowds on the gorge banks cheered.

The body is that of a woman between 45 and 50 years old. The only clothing on the body was black shoes and black stockings. She wore small gold earrings. The hair is sandy. The body had been in the water for sometime and is in bad condition.

A few weeks ago a woman's small Panama hat with a black and white band and a handbag containing two small purses was found near the water edge just above the Goat Island bridge in this city. It was believed even that the hat and bag had been left there by someone who went over the falls. There was nothing in the bag to identify the owner. The body recovered may be the body of the owner of the bag and hat.

Tribute to Beck.

The report of the Welland Canal situation was not so favorable. A tribute was paid to Sir Adam Beck as a big man on a job with broad minded views.

A resolution was passed condemning recent legislation regarding so-called treasonable act, and the treatment meted out to the strike winners in Winnipeg.

FARMERETTES AGAIN RULE IN NIAGARA BELT

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, ONT., June 27.—Once more the farmerettes rule in the Niagara Fruit Belt, more being daily added to their numbers as schools and colleges close. The fruit farmers say they can use the services of all the farmerettes they can get this summer, and there seems little reason to believe the labor market will be overstocked with them.

Farmers' wives and daughters are sometimes seen in the fields walking behind a harrow, and also assisting in getting in the hay. Haying is at its height now, and the wet weather of a few weeks ago has made the crop a very heavy one.

The canning factories of the district, some of them, at least, have adopted a new system with reference to female labor. Some factories particularly the one here, will employ only Canadian women in preparing the fruit and vegetables for canning, provided they can get enough of them. High wages are paid. Hitherto Polish girls have been brought in from Buffalo to do the work.

WHY SHIPS SENT TO SCAPA FLOW

Internment of German Fleet in Britain Result of Compromise.

PARIS, June 27.—The Council of three, composed of Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau and President Wilson, discussed the scuttling of the German fleet at Scapa Flow. The council had before it and examined fully the facts relative to what took place with regard to the ships at the time the armistice was signed. The following statement, the news agency says, may be regarded as an official explanation:

"At the time of the signing of the armistice the British Admiralty and the British Government strongly urged that the German ships be surrendered. The French military authorities, however, put forward the view that for the purpose of the armistice the surrender of the German ships was not absolutely essential. They were most anxious that the armistice should be concluded, having regard for the very serious loss of life daily on the western front. Insistence upon surrender of the fleet, they felt, might delay the signing, for which, despite rumors to the contrary, Marshal Foch was as desirous as anyone.

"The French (therefore) suggested that the German ships be interned in neutral ports, a course which they believed would not be regarded by the enemy in the same way as would the surrender of the ships. This view was supported by Admiral Benson (American naval representative in Paris).

"Ultimately a compromise was reached providing for the internment of the ships in a British port."

RIOTS IN HAMBURG BECOME SERIOUS

Many Have Been Killed in Street Disorders—Trouble Increasing in Berlin—Field Marshal's Opinion.

LONDON, June 27.—The killed in the rioting at Hamburg number 185, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

Disorders are increasing in Berlin the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam reports. Many streets there are barricaded and there have been serious engagements between government troops and mobs.

In military circles in Berlin, the dispatch adds, it is asserted that a counter revolution will be as soon as a Communist revolt against the government is started.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in reply to a request from Minister of Defense Noske, concerning the Allied rejection of German reservations in the peace treaty, said that in the event of a resumption of hostilities according to a Berlin dispatch, the Germans would be able to reconquer Posen, and maintain the frontier to reckon on success in the west. The field Marshal is said to have added:

"A favorable issue to our operations is, therefore, very doubtful, but as a soldier must prefer an honorable fall to an ignominious peace."

A report from Berlin on Wednesday said that Field Marshal von Hindenburg had resigned from the chief command. Later dispatches said that General Grosner had succeeded him. Representatives of industrial councils have assumed full political and military powers in Hamburg and are sitting in the Town Hall, according to advices from Berlin, quoting newspaper advices received there. General von Vorbeck has been ordered to Hamburg with strong forces to restore order.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, June 27.—The area of low pressure has passed to the lower St. Lawrence Valley while the high area from Manitoba is moving south eastward over the Great Lakes. Rain has been general in southern and eastern Ontario and in Quebec and has occurred more locally in Saskatchewan.

DENTAL SURVEY

To be Made of Children of the Lower School Grades.

HAMILTON, June 27.—A dental survey of the pupils of the lower grades of all the public schools was decided upon here by the board of health, following a conference with Dr. Manning, of the public school clinic. It was pointed out that, by correcting the teeth of the children when they were young, the troubles of after years were minimized, and the general health of the scholars benefited. Arrangements for the survey were left in the hands of Ald. Davis, chairman, and Dr. Roberts.

OXFORD HONORS MANY NOTABLES

Degrees Conferred on Leading Men of the Allied Countries.

OXFORD, Eng., June 27.—A distinguished company of noted men from the allied countries were honored by Oxford University with degrees of Doctor of Civil Law. The ceremony was held in the Sheldonian theatre. It was the culminating feature of the annual Exaetna, or commemoration exercises.

The event was rich in ceremonial pomp, fostered by the traditions of this famous institution.

Earl Curzon, chancellor of the university, presided, and, according to custom, solemnly went through the prescribed formula of proposing the degrees to the House. After the House had as solemnly granted the degrees, the recipients were summoned in turn by the public orator.

Those upon whom the degrees were conferred were:

Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, Major-General Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, chief of the British Imperial Staff; Vice-Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, first sea lord; Marshal Joffre of France; General Pershing and Herbert C. Hoover of the United States; and Baron Makino, head of the Japanese Peace Conference delegation.

Former Premier Orlando of Italy and Premier Ignace Paderewski of Poland, received degrees by proxy.

Each of these men, as they were presented with their degrees, bowed their thanks and took their seats. No speeches were made by those to whom the degrees were given, and the ceremony was concluded quickly.

BIGAMY CHARGE AGAINST SIMPSON

Case of Alleged Duplicity With Wives Comes up This Morning in the Police Court—Held Over for few Days.

Benjamin Simpson, on a charge of bigamy, was before the Magistrate this morning. He married Lilian May Dickson, of this city, while he had a wife and one son, 14 years of age, in the Old Country, to whom he was married on September 26th, 1896, by Rev. W. A. Stanfield, of Leeds, England.

Through his counsel, J. W. Hird, who appeared in the absence of Mr. M. J. McCarron, the case was remanded until next Thursday.

A NARROW ESCAPE

An accident which might have proved fatal occurred on the Thorold Road on Wednesday, at noon. While Ward Hagar was driving his horse along the road the animal became frightened at something invisible to the driver and dashed away at a furious rate throwing Mr. Hagar to the roadway causing serious intestinal injuries. He was taken by automobile to his home and medical aid summoned. At the present writing he is doing as well as can be expected.

POSTIES DISAPPOINTED

LONDON, ONT., June 27.—Employees of London Post office have drafted and forwarded to Ottawa a strong protest against the re-classification bill, adopted by Parliament last week. The men declare in their resolution that they are bitterly disappointed and that they expected greater consideration from Parliament upon the conclusion of hostilities. Now they say that they have found that some of them actually have their salaries lowered under the new regulations, whereas they had anticipated that their needs for higher pay would be acknowledged.

MAY EXPEL MEMBERS

DENVER, COLO., June 27.—For participation in the general strike in Canada several hundred members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers face expulsion from that organization, according to discussion on the floor of the brotherhood's convention here yesterday.

News of the return to work of the Canadian strikers next Thursday and the arrival yesterday of Arthur J. Lovell, Vice-President of the Brotherhood from Canada, where he was delegated to investigate conditions, precipitated debate on this subject.

FORD MAKES PLAN TO RETURN WAR PROFITS TO GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—Henry Ford yesterday asked Secretary Glass to send an expert to examine the books of the Ford Motor Company, to determine the amount of Mr. Ford's share of the profits on war contracts which he desires to return to the government.

Commissioner Roper instructed the Detroit branch of the Internal Revenue bureau to supply Mr. Ford with expert assistance.

Resolution Unanimously Passed Last Night at Public Meeting Called by Mayor That Whole Day be set Aside to Celebrate Notable Event.

At a public meeting called for last night in the Council Chamber for the purpose of discussing plans for a suitable celebration on receipt of the news that peace is signed, a resolution was moved by Rev. Dr. Smith seconded by Mr. Arthur Robinson, that the Mayor be requested to proclaim the day next following the receipt of news as a public holiday and that the City Council be requested to bring to inform the people of the "electric flash."

This was unanimously adopted although not all present thought it well to make a whole holiday on Monday. However, no person voted against it and the Council, when asked by the Mayor if they approved of the idea, all endorsed the proposal.

The conclusion was not arrived at without a good deal of discussion touching upon various phases. Chair Makes Statement.

The Mayor in opening the meeting said the meeting had been called to hear the views of all concerned. The City Council had been active since Sunday last in trying to make suitable arrangements and had decided that if the news had come through early this week that a half holiday would have been proclaimed. The uncertainty now of the day when peace would be signed coupled with the fact that Wednesday was a half holiday and then Saturday the chief business day of the week being followed by Sunday and then Dominion Day coming on Tuesday made the situation somewhat perplexing.

"This meeting has not been called however," said the Mayor, "as a result of insistent demands of citizens as stated in an evening paper. To say the least I regard that kind of comment as arrogant and mischievous nonsense. There have been few demands indeed and the small attendance at this meeting tonight is indicative of the lack of interest. We recognize though that the signing of peace will be an important epoch in the history of the world and should be suitably observed."

Two Phases to Event

His Worship also said there were two phases to the event, the one which would give vent to the feelings of people in a sort of spontaneous combustion, the other was the serious side which might well take the form of a sacred service or services. He then asked for opinions as to the best programme to be carried out.

Opinions of Citizens. Mr. John Madill said there was so much uncertainty as to the arrival of the news that he did not think much of a programme could be planned.

Mr. Arthur Robinson said that to many of the retail merchants a holiday Saturday afternoon and evening standpoint he would sooner see things closed two days any other time than to have business places closed on Saturday.

Ald. Westwood believed it would be best to make the holiday on Wednesday. (Continued on page 5)

THE PUBLIC HOLIDAY

Many conflicting ideas are expressed today over how and when the peace celebration should be held. Each business interest has its own individual problems and it is impossible to so adjust the event that everybody will be satisfied. It was with the desire of giving everyone an opportunity of stating opinions so that an arrangement could be made that would fairly represent the majority, that a public meeting was called last night. The meeting was well advertised and announced by the Mayor and yet only a few citizens came out and many business people who did not bother attending are today critical of the conclusions reached.

Those who were present, however, offered a resolution which was unanimously passed, and accepted by the Council, to the effect that the day following (except Sunday) the receipt of authoritative news of the signing of peace, should be declared by the mayor a public holiday.

In view of the need of households for food such as milk, bread and meat, etc., the Mayor's proclamation provides that stores may remain open till 10 a. m., of whatever day the holiday falls, and that milk and bread men may make their regular deliveries.

It is unfortunate that when the public is so keenly expectant of a world wide event and when the announcement of a public gathering was so carefully set forth in the newspapers yesterday, that the business men of the city should not attend and present arguments as to what they think best. It can scarcely be said that a chance was not, at least, afforded them.

As it is the allowance for bread and milk deliveries and for the purchase of provisions in the morning of the holiday will not seriously hamper any person or business interest.

According to the latest news, at the time this article is being written, it does not look as though the world would come through till Sunday or Monday, though the world is expecting it tomorrow. The Germans are gasping for breath and taking all the time they can squeeze by one means and another out of the Allies. The feeling is growing that if the Allies had smashed through to Berlin there would not have been so much jockeying by the Huns.

EVERYBODY COME!

The Four Parties to Industry

W. L. MACKEN ZIE KING.

I have chosen as a subject "The Four Parties to Industry," in order to emphasize a truth which seems to be fundamental in any attempt to cope with the industrial unrest which has followed so closely and, one might add, so inevitably, in the wake of the war. It there is to be release from the thralldom of fear in which men's minds are everywhere held, it is the Truth that shall set us free, and the enforcement of that Social Justice which the Truth demands.

The Meaning of Industrial Unrest.
 Especially in industrial relations have we accepted with complacency an order of things to which we have grown accustomed. The shock of war stirring the world's soul to its very depths, has brought before our eyes the shattered image of an industrial civilization which is full of injustice. It has left us to decide whether the new order shall be little more than a return to the old, with all its worship of material wealth and material power, and its relative indifference to human worth and human well being; or whether it will be an order worthy of the sacrifices of the heroic dead, and the services of those who, on land and sea, have endured all manner of hardship and peril to preserve the liberties and freedom that we still enjoy.

Let us be assured of this: the unrest in the world of industry today is no ephemeral and transitory affair; no mere aftermath of the hideous convulsion which has shaken existing society to its very foundations. It is the voice of a grief-stricken humanity crying for justice in the relations of industry. Let us be equally assured that the sword is not the instrument, and repression not the method, to stay this unrest. The truth is mightier than the sword, and in conference and co-operation between all the parties in interest, not in coercion of the others by any one, lies the only hope of an ultimate solution. What is industry?

We shall reach no understanding of the problems of industry until we adequately appreciate what industry itself is, and who the parties are that are responsible for the carrying out of industry.

Industry is the means by which the material resources of the world are transformed, through human intelligence and human energy, with the aid of natural powers, tools and machines into commodities and services available for human use. It is a vast process of transformation, itself a series of transforming processes so inter-related and numerous as to unite man kind, in this age of world wide industrial expansion, in an enterprise that encompasses the globe.

The Parties to Industry.
 We are accustomed to discuss the problems of industry in terms of Capital and Labor. The inability to find a workable solution to many of these problems arises from a vision thus circumscribed, and an ignoring of other factors equal in significance and importance. To carry on industry in any but the most primitive kind of way, four parties, discharging separate and distinct functions, are necessary.

First of all, there is Labor, which supplies the muscular and mental energy necessary to direct the processes of immediate transformation.

Next there is Capital, which is necessary to provide the raw materials the tools, appliances, and equipment essential to industrial processes, and the advances in the way of food, clothing, and shelter required by Labor pending the distribution of the finished product.

Then there is Management, or Directing Ability. So frequently has Management been associated with the ownership of capital, that the identity of the former has more or less been merged in the latter. However, a moment's reflection is sufficient to disclose the complete dissimilarity of function between the two. Capital's contribution to industry is in the nature of material substance loaned by way of investment. Its possessor may be any kind of person, from a social parasite or ne'er-do-well who is the inheritor of a fortune, to an infant totally incapable of any service to industry, and whose property is necessarily held in trust. Managerial ability, on the other hand, is in the nature of personal service of the very highest order and is wholly necessary, not only to bring about efficient co-operation between Labor and Capital in the work of production, but also to effect and maintain right relations with the fourth party without whose co-operation in all that pertains to industry, the other three parties could accomplish, little or nothing.

The fourth party is the Community, that entity which we speak of sometimes as organized society, under whose sanction all industry is carried on, and by whose continuous co-operation with the other parties to industry, production, distribution and exchange are rendered possible.

Parties to Industry Interdependent.
 Not only are the four parties necessary to industry, but they are equally necessary to one another. Capital can do nothing without Labor. Labor can do nothing without Capital. Neither Labor nor Capital can co-operate effectively in industry save under the guiding genius of Management; and Management, however great its genius can do nothing apart from the opportunities and privileges the Community affords.

If all four parties are necessary to industry, and equally necessary to one another, then, surely, all four should have some voice in the control of industry, and with regard to the conditions under which their services to industry are rendered. Existing Organization of Industry Inadequate.

In our present organization of industry in any way suggestive of a partnership, in which Labor, Capital, Management and the Community are regarded as inter-related and inter-dependent? Far from it, as everyone knows who has given the organization of industry a moment's reflection—I am dealing, of course, only with the dominant types of large industrial organization, for it is mainly from this source that our present problems arise: transportation, manufacturing, mining, etc., etc.—So far as control goes, it is all in the nature of monopoly, and that a monopoly of control on the part of Capital.

The owners of capital, the capital investors, choose the Board of Directors; the Board of Directors choose the Management and dictate the pol-

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

An attractive skin wins admiration. In social life and in business the girl or woman whose face and hands show evidence of constant care enjoys a tremendous advantage over those who do not realize the value of a healthy skin and a spotless complexion.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smootheners and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin.

ity to the exclusion of the other parties? Under this Socialistic State, the Government would choose the managers of industry, would own the instruments of production, levying taxation where more Capital was required, and would fix the wages of Labor and the prices at which commodities are to be sold.

The War has revealed that the Socialistic State, which many workers have been led to believe is certain to be beneficial and idealistic, may become the most bureaucratic and autocratic of agencies, holding within its power the lives and freedom of men, as well as the conditions of their employment. Germany has given that object lesson to the world.

The little there has been of State control during the War has also revealed that the substitution of political managers for industrial managers is not likely to be the best for either industry or the State. Of that, all countries have had a taste.

Drift Toward Monopoly of Control of Labor.
 What are the extreme movements

Monopoly of Control by Capital Responsible for Reactions.
 It is this monopoly on the part of Capital in the control and direction of industry that has led to the developments that are described as socialistic, ultra-radical, and even anarchistic. More than any other factor, it lies at the root of the industrial upheavals of the present time. The other parties to industry, though feeling themselves entitled to be regarded as partners, have despaired of gaining any measure of joint control by concession. They have felt themselves driven to exact, by force, what they believe to be their rightful due. In the case of Labor, this demand for recognition in the control of industry has asserted itself in the form of arbitrary exaction, leading to an assumption of single control by the state or municipality.

Drift Toward Monopoly of Control by the Community
 What is the Socialistic State, or Collectivism, which is its industrial expression, other than industry so organized as to transfer industrial control from Capital to the Commuon the part of Labor but a similar reaction against the monopoly of Capital control? In its most violent forms, this reaction has found expression in Revolutionary Syndicalism, Bolshevism and certain forms of I.W.O.-ism, where, in addition to the ignoring of Capital and Management as parties to industry, the Community is also ignored, and Red Terror used to supplant Reason in all that pertains to the accomplishment of lawless designs.

Guild Socialism is similarly a reaction on the part of Labor against monopoly of control on the part of Capital. Like State Socialism, it would rule out Capital's right to joint control as effectively as Capitalism seeks to rule out Labor's right to joint control; but as the predominant factor in control it would substitute national guilds for the state. Industrial unions would select the managers, would own the capital, and would determine alike wages and the prices.

In protesting against an actual monopoly of control by Capital under Capitalism, and a possible monopoly of control by the State under Socialistic Guild Socialism, would establish monopoly of control by Labor under National Industrial Guilds. This is a natural reaction. It represents the extreme of the protest by a militant Labor Unionism against the monopoly of control by Capital, just as Collectivism represents the extreme of a protest of an aggressive State Socialism against the monopoly of Capitalistic control. Guild Socialism and Collectivism are alike in that each would oust Capitalism by setting up a monopoly of its own.

Abolition of Monopoly Control The Only Remedy.
 But the cure for monopoly of control by one of the parties to industry is not to be found in the substitution of monopoly of control by one of the other parties; it lies in the destruction of monopoly altogether. It is to be found in the substitution of joint control for single control.

Single control, whether it be by Capital, Labor or the State, sooner or later is certain to mean autocratic control. Whether Labor or the State as the autocrat is preferable to existing capitalist control, beholden as it is, on some measure at least, to both Labor and the State, is something to which the conditions in Europe at the present time afford an all-sufficient answer.

It is not monopoly of control in any form that we must seek to bring about in this period of transition, but a gradual evolution into a system of joint control, whereby each of the parties to industry will be afforded a voice in the determination of the policy to industry in every way eminently wise, as well as fundamentally just? Is it not in every way, in the long run, to the interests of industry, and to the interests of each of the parties to industry? Continuance of the system of monopoly of control by Capital is no longer possible. Once autocracy was doomed in the political world, its doom was equally sounded for the industrial. The interest of every one of the parties to industry is being menaced today in services to industry are rendered. The Wisdom and Justice of Joint Control

And is not joint control by all the reactions to which the monopoly of control by Capital has given rise. Existing Monopoly of Control Unfair to Capital.
No one of the parties stands to lose quite so much through a continuance of the struggle arising out of the monopoly of control by Capital, as Capital itself. As things are today, it is at Capital, and at Management, identified with Capital, that the stones are being blindly hurled. War ridden, hungry, and penniless, men and women have witnessed the wanton extravagance of many of those possessed of luxury. They have become bewildered with a condition which enable an idle investor to reap a fortune while the masses toil excessive hours for a bare subsistence. They have lost sight altogether of the services of Capital and Management in witnessing the debauchery of indolence combined with riches, and the unearned millions of profits.

But let the service that Capital and Management are capable of rendering industry once be loost to sight, and industry itself will be ruined, and with it the well-being of Labor and the Community as well. What is needed is, not the ruination of Capital and Management, but that each be given its rightful place in a system of the government of industry which will make for the good of all the parties to production.

Existing Monopoly of Control Unfair to Management
Now is the monopoly of control by Capital wholly fair to Management, or in its best interests. It has been my privilege to talk pretty freely during the past few years with the managers of many large industries and I find in the minds of not a few of them a feeling that everything is to be gained and nothing lost, by having the function of Capital and the function of Management kept separate and distinct, and Management given a freer hand in considering the interests of Labor and the Community.

Some managers there are who obtain their positions, not in virtue of any special skill in managerial ability, but because of personal ownership of large quantities of capital, or intimate association or relationship with some investor. The incompetence of such managers, and their slavish subservience to privilege and position, to the exclusion of a due consideration of the rights of Labor and of the Community, only serve to rouse the bitter antagonism of both these parties, who feel that their rightful interests, as necessary partners in industry, are being thwarted and jeopardized.

Not a title of the militant attitude on the part of Labor, and impatience on the part of the public with the present order of industry, is due to a feeling that some managers fail to render to industry any service at all commensurate with the enormous salaries they receive, and to a belief that the interests of Labor and of the Community alike are sacrificed to incompetence and extravagance which would not be permitted were all four parties to industry allowed some voice in the shaping of industrial policy.

Management, instead of being regarded as the servant of Capital exclusively, ought to be in a position to regard itself, as in fact it is, one of the necessary parties to industry, and as such entitled to a voice in matters which pertain to its administrative functions; responsible in the exercise of its duties, not to one party only, but to all.

In the emancipation of Management from the single control of any one of the parties, whether it be Capital, Labor, or the Community, and in the development of its function into that of a responsible executive, concerned equally with all the interests of the necessary parties to industry, lies the hope of any ultimate solution of the industrial problem.

Existing Monopoly of Control Unfair to Labor

Referring to what is fundamentally right and just, may it not be asked: Is Labor not quite as much entitled to a voice in the control of industry as Capital? Is the investment of industry which affords the right to share in corporate control. Capital and Management received representation on this basis. If Capital and Management are so entitled, why not Labor also?
Industry is a joint venture, a venture of Labor as well as of Capital. The difference in the nature of the investment of Capital and Labor only serves to emphasize the fundamental justice of Labor's right to a share in control. The investment of Capital is in the nature of an investment of substances and dollars; the investment of Labor is an investment in the nature of skill and life. The one is a material the other a human, investment; and of the two, the one involving life is the more precious.

The capital investor—the individual who in industry loans and risks his capital or a part of it—receives for his capital a return in the form of interest; but he receives something more. As an investor, he becomes entitled to a voice in the control of the industry in which his investment is made. The life or labor investor—the worker who in industry loans and risks his life, or gives to industry that part of it described as labor—receives for his labor, which is the use of his life and skill for the time in which labor is given, a return in the form of wages. He lacks, however the additional right, which Capital receives, of a share in the government of industry. If Capital obtain this right, in addition to financial reward for the use of capital for the time for which it is invested, is Labor not in justice equally entitled, in addition to its monetary reward, to a voice in the control of industry in which, for the time being, its life and skill are likewise invested? If investment in industry has any meaning at all, it is surely one equally shared by the man who give his labor and the man who gives his capital.

Existing Monopoly of Control Unfair to the Community

The Community's right to representation in the control of industry, and in the shaping of industrial policies, is wholly similar to that of Labor. But for Community investment on a local, national, and international scale, Capital, Labor and Management would be obliged to make scant shift under present day conditions of world competition. But what of the Community's part in industry? Here, too, is joint venture on the part of the Community just as much as on the part of Labor, Capital, or Management. What is 99 per cent. of the expenditure of government in normal times but outlays in the nature of investment in industry: investment in property and services of one kind or another, which alone makes possible the vast co-operation and co-ordination of effort which is the very life blood of industry?

The vaster industrial organization becomes, the more it depends, in a multitude of directions, upon the investments of the Community.

It is the Community which provides the natural resources and powers that underlie all production. Individuals may acquire title by one means or another, but it is from the Community and with the consent of the Community, that titles are held. It is the Community, organized in various ways, which maintains government and foreign relations, secures law and order, fosters the arts and inventions, aids education, breeds opinion, and promotes, through concession or otherwise, the agencies of transportation, communication, credit, banking, and the like, without which any production, save the most primitive, would be impossible. It is the Community which creates the demand for commodities and services, through which Labor is provided with remunerative employment, and Capital with a return upon its investment. Apart from the Community, inventive genius, organizing capacity, managerial or other ability would be of little value. Turn where one may, it is the Community that makes possible all the activities of industry, and helps to determine their value and scope.

Community investment is supposed to receive its return in enhanced purchasing power to consumers as respects the number and quality of available services and commodities. This is a return akin to the interest Capital receives, and to the wages Labor receives. But is not the Community equally entitled, on grounds of investment, to a voice in the control of industry and in the shaping of industrial policy? Without participation by the Community in the control of industry, there is nothing to prevent the emergence of a joint profiteering scheme by the other parties, in which high wages and high profits are secured by charges which fall either immediately or ultimately upon consumers.

Single Control Must Give Way to Partnership.

If industry is to cease to be the battleground of rival factions, each selfishly sucking its own interest, regardless of the interests of the others, its government must cease altogether to be a matter of single control by one of the parties, or of contending controls by the several parties. The parties to industry must be brought into a relationship of partnership, with a recognized community of control.

Partnership is essentially a matter of status. It does not involve identity or similarity of function on the part of the parties, or equality of either service or rewards; but it does imply equality as respects the right of representation in the determination of policy on matters of common interest. It is this principle that has thus far so largely failed of recognition. The justice of the principle, however cannot be gainsaid.

The Necessary Transition

If to secure a just consideration of the rights of all four parties to industry something in the nature of a partnership, involving community of control, is necessary, how, it will be asked, is that transition to be effected? Certainly, it will never be brought about by violent upheavals or revolutionary methods, which serve only to disorganize industry and occasion loss to all its parties. It must be brought about in an evolutionary manner, here a little, there a little; line upon line, precept upon precept, all working toward the consummation of one ideal. Government in the State a Guide to Government in Industry

There is much in the government of the State to give us guidance as well as hope in the evolution of government within industry. The British constitution may have its limitations, but no instrument of government has ever been devised which has so effectively helped to preserve and extend the freedom and liberties of men. What the British constitution stands for in the government of the State, we should aim at effecting in the working out of a constitution for industry. It will not all be accomplished within a day; neither need it be the work of generations. With free political institutions our one great inheritance, the application to industry of those principles which underlie government within the State should be neither impossible nor difficult. A willingness to recognize the justice of them and to act in the light of knowledge we already have, is all that is necessary.

From Autocratic to Responsible Government.

In government within the State, there are three outstanding stages of development. The first stage is that of the autocratic executive, in which there is single control by one only of the parties of the State. King John is an outstanding example of this type of autocratic government. It was not believed, in the time of John, that the people had any ability to govern themselves. Even the lords and the nobles were without a voice in the government of the kingdom. They secured the first advance in popular liberties when they wrested the Magna Charta from John, and secured his signature to a written statement of their rights as citizens.

Representative Government marks the most important phase in the evolution of government within the State. That takes us back to 1285 to the famous Parliament of Simon de Montfort, when for the first time in British history there was at least an attempt at representation of all three estates. At the outset, representation was restricted and nominal. All subsequent development has been in the nature of broadening the basis of representation, and of rendering more effective the representation gained.

It is only within the past century that the highest form of government namely, Responsible Government, has been attained. Under Responsible Government, the executive is responsible to the people as a whole, not to any one class.

When the managers of industry become responsible to Labor, Capital and the Community for the manner in which their vast powers and opportunities are exercised, we shall have something in the government of industry closely resembling the responsible executive in the government of the State. Meanwhile, our duty would appear to be that of putting an end to autocracy and monopoly of control, no matter by which of the parties to industry it may be attempted or exercised and to work out a system of joint control based upon representa-

SELECTING MEMORIALS

Man has always been a maker of memorials. He desires to be so in a manifestation of his hate craving for immortality. From the very earliest times he has aspired to keep alive at least the memories of great men, or of great deeds, or of outstanding events. The Greatest of Teachers did not neglect this elemental phase of human character and one of the most beautiful services of the Christian Church was founded as a memorial. With this end in view, too, men have created, often with a tremendous expenditure of labor, many different kinds of commemorative monuments. In most instances, these structures have long been of historic value. The pyramids and obelisks of Egypt, the sculptured friezes and other forms of architecture of the Greeks and Romans and the altars erected by the ancient Israelites, each and all proclaimed in unmistakable terms the character and spirit of the men who erected them; quite as much as they kept alive the memories of the objects they were designed to commemorate.

During the past six months, very much has been said and written about memorials that will most fittingly call to the mind of future generations the splendid deeds of sacrifice performed throughout the war. To do this in the fullest and noblest sense, the memorials should possess characteristics that will symbolize the spirit that animated the men who fought and died. It is left for those who sacrificed in a lesser degree, or sacrificed not at all, to determine how these characteristics are to be exemplified.

The greater number of the memorials so far suggested are designed with a view to their being of service to the communities in which they will be erected. The time when it was customary to place bronze effigies of soldiers on granite pillars as an excuse for forgetting deeds of valour is happily past. At the same time the building of hospitals, schools, halls, libraries, churches and other community institutions for memorial purposes should be more than expression of a materialistic age. Such institutions may be of deep and lasting service, or they may be merely utilitarian. Such structures can be memorials in any real sense only, if those who erect them have felt deep within them the spirit of service and have given adequate thought to the visible embodiment of that spirit. Further, there is a danger that these, of themselves, will in time lose their glamor. To prevent this it will be desirable to hold patriotic festivals in them on the anniversaries of the great battles of the war in which special attention should be paid to the spirit of service as well as to the memory of men and women who transcribed their conception of service in terms of supreme sacrifice.

It is essential that memorials, whatever their form, should convey something of the beauty and courage and love of country that inspired the heroic deeds. It is important that they should be well and truly built, so that centuries hence they will recall these deeds to men and women and create in them a desire to cherish the memories of those who died in a titanic struggle for human freedom. In any case, it should be realized that future generations will be in a position to judge with unflinching accuracy whether the motives that prompted the building of the memorials were worthy ones or merely shame.—A.D.

"Betsy," he whispered, "as they sat together on the fence surrounding Mrs. Pilling's pigsty, 'How beautiful you be! Jes', think of it, Betsy! When us be married us will have a pig of our own. Think of that Betsy!'"

"Jan," she whispered, a note of resentment in her voice, "what do I care for pigs? I shan't want a pig when I've got you!"

Then all was silent once more save for the musical frolics of zephyrs already mentioned.

HOLIDAY TO BE PROCLAIMED

day next that would give them time enough.

Ald Smith took the view that the people would want to celebrate when the news comes through. They would not want to wait till Wednesday.

Suggests Saturday Closing
Mr. W. B. Burgoyne argued that the people would go out and celebrate when the word came. There would be nothing that would hold them in check. He expected the word would come by 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon and why not close things up from that time? He was prepared to close and give his staff a chance to celebrate.

"I am glad Mr. Burgoyne is going to close his own business early this time. He didn't do that when the armistice was signed" returned the Mayor.

"Hear, hear" came voices.
Great Sacrifices
Ald Rose said the great sacrifices made by the men who had gone overseas justified the public in wanting to have a holiday.

Mr. Robinson interjected something about exploiting the returned man and Ald. Rose denied any such suggestion. He thought Mr. Robinson should withdraw the remark.

The Mayor said the duty of the Council was to plan for a celebration on a sane, responsible way.

On behalf of the Sons of England Mr. Pipin, president, spoke in favor of a whole holiday.

Col. Thair thought there was included a serious side. Those who had made the supreme sacrifice could not celebrate and a celebration should be a service of thanksgiving.

"Let us have one big day" said Ald. Hill.

"It makes no difference to me when the holiday is held" said Ald. Riffer. "I think the people want a celebration and my men say they are going to take it."

Too Many Holidays
Mr. A. W. Moore said it was all right for the factories. They closed Saturday anyway. Store keepers had to pay wages for holidays and it was possible to carry the holiday demands to an extreme.

The celebration of peace was more important than the armistice was the opinion of Mr. E. Wismer and there might well be a holiday following the day the news arrives.

Mr. O'Donoghue and Mr. C. K. Bradley on behalf of the Great War Veterans said the returned men naturally felt that they wanted to celebrate so great an occasion.

Mr. Inksater believed there would be a general peace day later on but he would not stem the enthusiasm of citizens now.

Ald. Nash and Ald. Dakers also spoke briefly, the former thinking that there would be day set apart later for the whole Empire. The latter thought the people would go out when he news came.

After a little more the resolution was presented and passed.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millicons of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

COMPARISON OF WAR GRATUITIES

Canada has Done More Than Most Countries—Facts Regarding Australia.

HAMILTON, June 27.—Although there is a strong agitation among returned soldiers for better war gratuities and great possibilities of the Dominion convention of the G.W.V.A. making a firm request for an increased gratuity, the returned men should bear in mind that Canada, compared to other countries, has done fairly well in the question of gratuities. It is true there are some real opportunities for complaints. It is also true that lack of gratitude is shown by a large number of citizens, so much so that the returned men feel they should merit the country, or rather, the war-rich for the maximum amount.

For the purposes of comparison, Secretary C. S. MacNeil, of the Great War Veterans' association, has gathered together facts regarding Australia's compensation of soldiers and has sent copies to the various branches of the G.W.V.A.

Facts in Australia.
"I have it from an authentic source that there is no war service (Army of 6000) ($2,000), or any other amount given to discharged soldiers in the commonwealth of Australia."

"In place of the war service gratuity, a system of unemployment insurance is in vogue under which the soldier without dependents may obtain a weekly income of $2.25 ($10.50), and the soldiers with dependents from $2.125 ($13) upwards. Vocational training is extended to (a) Apprentices whose apprenticeship has been interrupted by war service.

(b) Those who owing to war service, are unable to follow their pre-war occupation.

(c) Those who, while able to follow their pre-war occupation are unable, owing to injuries, to command immediately the full wages of their trade calling.

(d) Those who, at the time of enlistment, were under 20 years of age.

"A married soldier incapacitated to the extent of being unable to engage in his usual employment or a soldier who, prior to enlistment, was a dependant in a business, which he owned and conducted, may be advanced up to $250 ($1,250) to purchase a business plant or stock to again set himself a pin life. For the purchase of tools of trade, professional instruments or other articles of personal equipment, a sum not exceeding $10 ($50) may be given by way of gift, and a sum not exceeding $50 ($250) by way of loan. A totally and permanently incapacitated soldier or a widow in necessitous circumstances is eligible for a gift of furniture to the value of $25 ($125), while soldiers who are not incapacitated are advanced up to $35 ($175) by way of loan for the purchase of furniture to the value of $25 ($125), their establishment in life.

Generous provision is also made for the provision of homes for married and discharged soldiers.

"An advance up to -700 ($3500) for the erection or purchase of dwellings for blind soldiers may be made, or, in lieu of that, a rental allowance of $52 ($260) per annum may be made in respect of such soldiers.

"In translating the amounts into Canadian currency, one pound has been taken as $5, which is approximately, but not actually, correct."

of divorcees in Ontario and Quebec, the people of these two provinces are kept subject to a condition such as prevails in no other civilized country in the world, a condition in which in respect to marital unhappiness a relief is possible only practically to the rich, and is possible to them only by intimation legal proceedings before what is not even a court of law. The mere statement of such a case shows what an atrocious anomaly it is in a democratic and free country.

THE FOUR PARTIES TO INDUSTRY

(Continued from Page 5.) tion of all the parties in the determination of industrial policy. The Basis of an Industrial Constitution. Time forbids more than a suggestion or two as to the manner in which a constitution for the parties to industry might be worked out in a way which will help to allay the industrial unrest of our times and advance the highest interests of industry and of all its parties. Obviously, what is most needed is recognition of the fact that industry is not a matter which concerns only one party, but that it is a vital concern to all four: to Capital, to Labor, to Management, and to the Community, and that no one of the four is entitled to a monopoly of control.

Once recognition is given the four parties to industry, the solution of the problem of industrial relations is a matter simply of proceeding in accordance with principles which have long been regarded as obviously fair and just.

The Principle of Investigation. The first of these principles, I should like to mention is that of Investigation. It is impossible to get anywhere with a man with whom you are unwilling to confer. Confidence is chiefly a matter of attitude. It implies approach, good-will, confidence; not aloofness, distrust, a suspicion, which too frequently is the attitude between the parties to industry.

Confidence between the four parties to industry has been tried, and with the best of results. It was found absolutely necessary to the winning of the War. It was not until the Government of Britain, representing the Community, invited Capital, Management and Labor to meet in common, and policies were arrived at as the result of Round Table Conference, that the necessary adjustments of industry were so arranged as to make possible the vast production of munitions required to win the War. What was necessary to the winning of the War is equally necessary to the winning of Peace—which we can hardly say exists so long as international strife gives way only to industrial unrest.

The second principle is that of Investigation. Investigation is but a method of getting at the truth; and, as I said at the outset, it is the truth alone that shall set us free. In problems of the magnitude of those which industry presents, any just solution is impossible without a knowledge of the facts. There are certain evils which publicly is more effective in preventing and remedying than penalty; and unfair dealing between the parties to industry are of this kind. Meanness, injustice, gross selfishness—these can not endure under the light of an intelligently formed public opinion. Most industrial ills belong to this class.

Investigation, too, has been tried between the four parties to industry and found to be of the utmost service.

I notice that the Minister of Labor informed the House of Commons a day or two ago that Canada had had fewer strikes in recent years than any other country in the world. If that statement is true, and I believe it is, it is because we have on our statutes a law which makes provision for the investigation of industrial controversies prior to lockouts and strikes.

The principle of that law is the one being acted upon in Great Britain today. If England is being saved at the moment from industrial strife, hardly less frightful in its horrible consequences than actual war, it is because Capital and Management, Labor and the Community, are represented upon the Commission recently appointed by Mr. Lloyd George to investigate the demands of the miners and the condition of the coal mining industry throughout Britain.

It is upon the same principle of investigation prior to the commencement of hostilities that the League of Nations is being founded. If war between nations and between the parties to industry is to end, it will only be through the acceptance of the principle of investigation before a severance of relations.

What we need quite as much as a League of Nations is a League of the Parties to Industry to see to the enforcement of this great principle and the moulding of public opinion to that end. Such a league, I believe, would lead, even more quickly than a league of nations, to the maintenance of international peace. A vast number of industrial peace advocates men to the adoption of fundamental principles in adjusting their industrial relations, something which immediately concerns us in our every-day life, and the application of the principles of international affairs will take care of itself.

The Principle of Organization and Collective Action.

A third principle is that of Organization and Collective Action. A third principle is that of Organization and Collective Action. A third principle is that of Organization and Collective Action. A third principle is that of Organization and Collective Action.

To cope with them successfully, organization and Collective Action. The problems of industry are world problems. If its units were not permitted to adjust, and large organization of business thereby rendered impossible? What would become of the Community, if its activities were not organized? Deprive managers of the right of membership in an employers' or manufacturers' association and they would be the first to say that their liberties had been infringed. Where, then, is the justice of denying to one party to industry a right which is conceded as just and necessary to the other three? If Capital, Management and the Community have the right to organize, so also should Labor have the right.

Whom organization of Labor—where Capital, Management and the Community are organized—what equality of relationship can there possibly be between the four parties to industry? And where, under such a conditions, are the individual units of Labor likely to find themselves in the teeth of a world competition, more relentless where Labor is concerned than in the case of Capital or Management? Labor left but briefly in a condition of isolation will starve; Capital and Management are usually in a position to wait.

It is not against organization that we ought to protest, but against the possible abuses of organized power. In this connection it is well to remember that the use of a thing is one thing, and its abuse another; and that with human nature what it is, abuses of power are not confined to any one class.

The Principle of Representation.

A fourth principle is that of Representation. Here we are at the beginning of the real solution of the problems of industry. Government within the State has widened down from autocratic authority to authority broad-based upon a people's will. The expansions of the principle of representation is responsible for that development. It will be equally so in industry. The problems of industry are essentially problems of government. Adequate representation of the parties affected through organization, all enjoying the right of investigation and meeting in Round Table Conference—in such an obviously just and fair arrangement, we have the beginnings of law and order in industry, just as we have had it in the State, and the hope of a future development along constitutional and evolutionary lines, instead of along lines that are illegal and revolutionary.

Joint Committees and Joint Industrial Councils.

Once the principle of representation is conceded, it is only a step to the formation of joint committees of em-

Employers and employees, the establishment of known, orderly, and expeditious procedure in all matters requiring adjustment, and the determination of industrial policies in a manner which will have regard for the interests of all concerned. From joint committees in individual establishments, meeting at periodical intervals for little more than purposes of conference and consultation, the principle of representation should lead to the establishment of permanent standing joint industrial councils, embracing all the workers and all the employers in a given trade or industry and concerned with the determination of industrial policies, and the fixation of industrial standards enforceable throughout by the co-operation of Government, representing the Community and protecting its interests. This, as you know, is the objective of the recommendations of the so-called Whitley Committee which the Government of Great Britain has adopted as the corner stone of its reconstruction policy. Nor is the formation of such joint committees and industrial councils any longer a matter of experiment. Every day is adding to the number that are being formed, many of them in industries which have hitherto opposed anything in the way of organization among employees and which have conceded little or nothing in the way of conference. The Service of Organized Labor. The Trade Unions are mainly responsible for the development that has thus far been achieved. They have pioneered the path; they have blazed the trail which has led to collective bargaining, joint agreements, and contracts between the parties to industry. It has been a long and bitter struggle, this struggle for recognition on the part of Organized Labor. It has involved an amount of ill feeling and misunderstanding, and fostered no end of prejudice and hatred; but the real purpose of Labor's struggle is coming to be better understood, and the part which the large organizations of Capital and of Labor are capable of playing in reconstructing human society in emerging into clearer day. It is coming to be seen that the control of Labor by its leaders is wholly dependent upon its organization into conservatively directed unions; that it is among the unorganized and a-disciplined workers that Bolshevism and I.W.W.-ism recruit their armies of terror and destruction in a union of the organized forces of Labor and of Capital, against a common enemy which menaces all human society, lies the hope of the future. Industrial concerns which have hitherto stood out against anything in the nature of a democratic organization of industry will do well to evidence a disposition to act upon the principles of conference, investigation organization and representation, in dealing with their employees, and to concede to Labor the right of collective bargaining, and a voice in the determination of terms of employment and matters pertaining to their working and living conditions. It may be that Labor needs education, that its leaders need more in the way of experience; but, in the absence of other opportunities, whence are education and qualities of leadership to be gained if not in the industries in which Labor is employed, and through joint dealings with parties more highly favored? The Joint Industrial Councils being formed in England show how this new approach between Capital and Labor is certain, in its most highly developed forms, to take account of existing organizations of Labor and Capital, and to change the attitude of these powerful bodies from one of militancy based on a belief in opposed interests into one of co-operation based on a belief in the larger interests which they have in common. A New Spirit Necessary. One thing, and one thing only, remains to ensure a new world rising out of the ashes of the old; but without it nothing can be achieved. It is the acceptance by each of the parties to industry of the spirit which has saved not only Britain, but the world, in the overthrow of Prussian arrogance and ambition. It was through a love of liberty and a hatred of domination that men by millions sacrificed their lives that freedom might not perish from the earth. The overthrow of Prussian despotism is only part of the vast undertaking which the free nations of the world have still before them if Freedom worthy of the name is to be maintained. Industrial autocracy in politics. The latter combination is at ill-mated as the former is natural. To the nations that have won political freedom, there remains the task of reorganizing their industries into harmony with their governments. Anything short of harmony means perpetual conflict. Institutions opposed in organization and spirit work against each other only till one or the other prevails. To democratic industry, so that along with democracy in government there

ONE OF THE GOOFS VISITING RING TELLS FOLKS WHAT HE SEES

Special Writer in Toronto Star Makes Some Original Comments on Ring Scenes at Toledo. Opinions of Fighters. (By Ring W. Lardner in Toronto Star).

TOLEDO, OHIO, June 27.—Gents: A little while ago Doc Evans from old Chi., as I have nicknamed Chicago made a physical examination of Jess Willard, and said he looked O. K. to him, or something, and now they tell me Martin Delaney, the athletic coach, is coming down to overlook the big fellow and see if he is fit. But I think what they ought to do is send a bird here from some good psychopathic hospital and have him examine the ladies and gents that pay a quarter every day to see Jess and Jack work out. The reason I say work out is because they do it outdoors and call it work. I was one of the goofs in attendance yesterday p.m., but you can bet I did not pay no two bits to see it because I was in company with newspaper experts that get in free to everything, and Bob Edgren, which took us out in his car, knows all the trainers etc. so the minute they would see who I was with I had carte blanche, you might say, to mingle with the other insects at no expense to myself. The Camp of the Big Fellow. The first place Bob took us was to the camp of the big fellow, because his work out comes first every day. When I first heard that Willard and Dempsey was going to fight I thought of course they must be mad at each other or why would they do it, but I don't see now how they can be mad at each other, or why would one of them start his work-out at the head of the other and every day, so that there is no competition for the bugs' twenty-five-cent pieces. Well, anyway when we arrived in the big fellow's camp, the big fellow was spooning with a bird named Hempt, but I immediately nicknamed him the little fellow, because he looked that way alongside of the big fellow. Well to make a short story out of a long story, we stayed there till Jess had worked ten rounds, all told, with four sparring partners, and the more I saw of the sparring partners the more I couldn't help for wishing that Darwin could be seen there. Well, I suppose the public will want to know what I think of the big fellow after seeing him work. Well, I am going to be original if nothing else, and I will say to you, gents, that he looked to me to be as fit as a fiddle and fast as a streak. A whole lot of other experts have made the remark that his betting seemed to be kind of far around, but I was too hot and tired to go all the way around it and find out. Besides, if a person looks and fat I don't think it's polite to make remarks about it, male or female. Looking Over Dempsey. Well, we left the big fellow and went over to Dempsey's clubhouse, and the thing that impressed me the minute we went inside was that they had a phonograph playing a patriotic song. Well, Jack wasn't ready to work yet, so we sat on the front porch and looked at the bay and wondered if there was more fish out there or on land. Then somebody pointed out Bat Nelson's patent mechanical sparring partner, which is said to be just as good as live partners. Bat said it couldn't be knocked down and I took his word for it. All of a sudden they shouted that Dempsey was ready to work, so we dashed out to see him, but Dickerson stopped I and Damon Runyon and took our picture, and Damon said now he thought he could call it a perfect day, as he had always wanted to have his picture taken. When we finally got inside the ball pen Dempsey was boxing with a partner named the Jamaica Kid because he is so full of ginger. I would also judge from looking at him that he had got a few drops of negro blood in his veins. Well, to make a short story out of a long story, Jack boxed with a tall shabby tree named Bill Tate and a fast little bird named Jack Malone, and we went out again and got in Mr. Edgren's car and the other experts asked me what I thought of Dempsey, and I said I thought he looked slow and fat and old, and they tried to talk me out of it, but when I got an opinion on a subject I am going to stick to it. So we rode back to town and that's about all the news, except that they are going to name the referee to-morrow morning and I suppose we will all be so nervous to-night that we can't.

Gentlemen of England Won by an Innings and 133 Runs Yesterday

LONDON, June 27.—The Australian cricketers suffered their first defeat yesterday from Gentlemen of England, who won by an innings and 133 runs. In cricket games played during the past week Derbyshire was beaten by Lancashire by an innings and 24 runs. J. Tyldesley contributed 272 to the Lancashire total of 461. Kent, after scoring 261 five wickets, declared and then beat Sussex, which could only score 80 and 78. Woolley took twelve wickets for 91 and Raiserserve seven for 41. Yorkshire scored 221 and 26 for no wicket against Derbyshire, which made 74 and 172 for ten wickets. Blackburn took five Derbyshire wickets for 17. Warwickshire scored 302 for five wickets and 104 for two, drawing with Northamptonshire, which made 251. Leicester, 330, drew with Lancashire, 279 for seven. Worcestershire versus Gloucestershire was a draw; the former scored 201 and 282 for 9 wickets, the latter 534 and 109 for four. Warwickshire 159 and 185, Surrey 198 and 90 for six, a draw.

MCKINNONS AT FALLS SUNDAY

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 28.—After conducting negotiations for several days, Manager Charles Johnson of the Aluminums announced this morning that he had booked the fast St. Catharines, Ont., nine to oppose his aggregation at Aluminum park next Sunday afternoon. When he learned that the Hamilton semi-pros who gave the Aluminums a hard tussle here last Sunday, had been vanquished in a decisive manner by the Garden City team 8-2, Johnson immediately determined to put forth every effort to induce the Canadians to play here. He finally succeeded after removing several obstacles.

Several able diamond stars, well known to local fans will appear with the St. Kitts team next Sunday. Pat Manley, former N. U. and Crume star whose flashing fielding and daring base running featured many a local contest, is back at his home in Thorold after several months in a German prison camp. Manley was with the Canadian air forces and fell behind the German lines. "Red" Cleary, former Crume second baseman, will be at his old station and Manley will cover shot Otto Adept, star pitcher of the Central, Depewa, will hurt for the Canadian next Sunday and three fast Buffalo players will accompany the team as well as Charlie Butler and Wilford McAvoy who have just returned from overseas.

EPIDEMIOLOGICAL WRESTLING MATCH ENDS IN A FATALITY

LONDON, ONT., June 27.—Injuries accidentally suffered on Sunday in a friendly wrestling match at the officers' mess of the Canadian Garrison Regiment on Carling Heights will probably cause the death before morning of Pte. Arthur Lockhart of York, Haldimand county. His relatives have been summoned to London, while an official Court of Inquiry is being arranged for by Major Stanbury, C.G.R., at the direction of District Headquarters. Pte. Elijah Danford, also of the Canadian Garrison Regiment an Indian from Muncey, who engaged in the contest with Lockhart, has been so seriously disturbed by grief over the outcome that he was to-day admitted to hospital for treatment. Lockhart has made a statement to the effect that he suffered his injuries in a purely accidental manner and other witnesses have joined in exonerating Danford.

HENLEY REGATTA FIXTURE IS SET FOR JULY 25TH.

Old Time Aquatic Sport Being Revived and Local Event Promises to be Largest yet Held—Crack Oarsmen Coming. That a regatta will be held this year on the Henley course at Port Dalhousie, and will be perhaps the largest and best yet, is likely from the efforts now being made to revive the enthusiasm in rowing clubs and to get first class entries. Mr. Mulqueen and Mr. Francis Nelson, two widely known sportsmen of Toronto, were in this city yesterday looking over the course to decide if the regatta can be held. They want to report back to the rowing men of Toronto.

WANTS TO GO AHEAD

"I am going back to tell our people that we can go ahead with the event and that we have found a good spirit manifested in St. Catharines toward the fixture." Mr. Nelson, who was for many years sporting editor of the Toronto Globe, said that the Governments of the country were recognizing the value and necessity of providing sporting accommodation for returned men and the public generally. Some repairs are to be made to the grand stand at Port Dalhousie to make it safe for spectators. The clubhouse has fallen into disrepair, but it will cost considerably to fix it and the works may not be undertaken until next year.

DATE IS FIXED

It has been decided, Mr. Mulqueen stated, to hold the regatta on Friday and Saturday, July 25 and 26. It was proposed to make it later, but it was felt that some of the oarsmen are getting in such good trim that they can row here and then go to the National Regatta in the United States.

BIG TEAMS COMING

It is now certain that Joe Wright, coach at the University of Philadelphia, will send the Undines, a senior eight, from that university. Two eights are also coming over from Captain Dunfield's club, Detroit. Bobbie Dibble, former champion, will likely be here. He has asked permission to row at Philadelphia on July fourth.

ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE LOCAL HENRY

One of the features of the local Henry races this year will be the additional races put on for returned men. Many of those who were overseas went overseas during the war and are now taking again to their old sport. The Argonauts, senior eight of Toronto, is made up this year of men who have been at the front.

The list of men who were members of the St. Catharines Rowing Club and who went into uniform during the war is surprisingly large.

PIANO LESSONS HELP IN VIOLIN STUDIES

There are excellent musical instruments besides the piano, many of them more attractive to some of the boys and girls. If a child prefers the violin or cornet he should, nevertheless, take piano lessons first, if possible. Even a small amount of piano study will greatly enrich his harmonic experience. Of all instruments the piano most nearly approaches the orchestra in the expression of the finest and most complex harmonies, together with the wonderful facility for tone control in every part.
To play a worthy composition on the piano is almost as beneficial as ensemble work to a person who is accustomed to an instrument of meagre harmonic possibility. Pianistic knowledge gives the young musician a clear view of the rhythmic and harmonic relations of parts. Acquaintance with the piano is as beneficial to a musician as a knowledge of Latin to the student of European languages.

Quick and accurate vision, a most valuable asset in our complex modern life, is remarkably developed by the rapid note-reading of the pianist who, through long practice, acquires a well trained eye and intimate co-ordination of eye and hand.

The fidelity of the ear and the quality of musical taste are improved by piano practice. A legitimate, though unusual harmonic sequence, sometimes impresses a pupil as incorrect, but as he practices, his constantly developing taste and ear will finally approve of the passage. Faithful piano practice, which trains the ear and develops a discerning harmonic sense will gradually lead even the unpromising pupil to an appreciation of the best in music.

BETTER RENT A VIOLIN THAN BUY A FOUR ONE

It is hard to change human nature and, recognizing the reluctance of people to buy violins of good quality until they are sure the pupil will not tire of the violin and give it up in a short time, some teachers keep a few violins of good quality which they rent to pupils temporarily. It is also often possible to rent violins from violin dealers, and music dealers. Some dealers in old violins have an arrangement whereby they sell the violin with an agreement that they will refund the money paid for it, less a reasonable commission, if the purchaser desires to return it at any time.

The idea of buying a very cheap violin to start with would not be so bad if a better violin were purchased after a few weeks' trial, wherein it is seen whether the pupil will "take" to violin study. As a rule, however, the better violin is not bought and the matter drifts on for months or years before the pupil is provided with a good violin. Meanwhile the young violinist is tortured with the wretched first instrument which has been bought, through false economy, to see whether he will study the violin permanently.

REGISTRATION
W-S-S.
(War-Savings Stamps)

The Dominion of Canada offers you every safeguard for your investment in War-Savings Stamps.

Affix your W-S-S. (costing $4.01 each this month) to the Certificate provided, and ask the Postmaster at any Money-Order Post Office to register the stamp or stamps for you.

The stamps are then absolutely useless to anyone but yourself. If your registered W-S-S. are lost by theft, fire, or other cause, the interest continues to accumulate and you can obtain your money at the office where the stamps were registered.

Remember, that at the rate of interest allowed on W-S-S., four dollars would grow to $361.39 in 100 years.

EVERY time you are tempted to spend money needlessly, buy Thrift Stamps instead, at 25 cents each. Sixteen of these on a Thrift Card represent $4.00 in the purchase of a W-S-S.
