MACISTRATE SPEAKS FOR ZAM-BUK

Magistrate Perry, of Goldfish, B.C., believes in making a good thing known. Writing of Zam-Buk, the great household ointment, he says: "After a very fair trial I have proved it to be eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years' standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in his home. The ointment is quite right. Every home needs Zam-Buk! Unequipped for cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, blood poisoning and all skin diseases. All stores and druggists sell it at 50 cents a box. Sure cure for piles."

DON'T NEGLECT THAT SORE!

A Chicago man has just died from blood poisoning arising from neglect of a small sore. Don't neglect a cut, a patch of eczema, or an open sore of any kind. The air in the pores is poisonous, waiting to start up their evil results in neglected sores, wounds, etc. In Zam-Buk is also the best ointment for sores. Zam-Buk is so highly antiseptic that applied to any kind of sore or injury it makes blood poisoning impossible. In using Zam-Buk you have three processes going on at once for Zam-Buk is heating, soothing and antiseptic. Try it without delay.

A GENUINE OFFER.

TEST ZAM-BUK AT OUR EXPENSE!

We appreciate the position taken by the man or woman who says: "If your preparation is what you claim, you should not object to letting us try it before spending our money on it." To every person taking this view we say, send one cent for postage and name and date of this paper to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will mail you a free trial box of Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is purely herbarial, suitable for the delicate skin of little children, yet powerful enough to heal chronic sores of long years' standing. All druggists and stores, 50c. per box, 3 for $1.25.

Plot That Failed;

Love That Would Not Be Denied.

CHAPTER IV.

"Nonsense!" said Polly, tripping into the tap-room.

Mr. Starling, with a cast of his sharp eyes in that direction, strolled up to the bar and bowed with proper respect to the landlady.

"Good-morning, ma'am. I hope I see you well. Beautiful morning for the day."

"Do you want anything to drink?" sternly interrupted Martha.

Not at all discomfited, Mr. Starling intimated that he should feel obliged if the lady would favor him with a glass of her very best ale, and draw it mild.

Perfectly unmoved by his grand manner and repeated bows, Martha drew the glass of ale and flung the twopenny with a clash into the large pocket at her side.

Mr. Starling winked at the ceiling, chuckled noiselessly, and disposed of the ale with a peculiar drawing in of the breath and turn of the little finger.

"That's good tackle," he said.

"Ye asked for the best," said Martha, who was not to be conciliated.

"And I've got it; and I'll have another," said Mr. Starling.

This glass he dealt with more mercifully, and after taking a draught carried the remainder to the tap-room door.

The sunburnt faces and bright eyes of the lads were lifted as he appeared, and Willie's sharp gray orbs seemed to take an inventory of his every inch, as Mr. Starling, with a nod and a smile, said:

"Good-morning. Any fish this morning?"

"Ay, lots," said Willie, curtly.

"Ah, glad to hear it," said Mr. Starling, edging a little further into the room. "I'm very fond of fishing—alike was. Used to catch little bats with an umbrella handle and a bent pin when I was so high," and he put his hand about five inches from the floor.

"Oh, we don't fish with that tackle in these parts," said Willie, quietly. "Won't you come in?" and he raised his tankard.

Mr. Starling responded candidly, and was soon seated beside the huge fisherman and discussing a fresh tankard, produced at his expense.

Mr. Starling was of a convivial turn, and the little parlor was soon echoing with short, sharp laughter and snatches of rough wit, all of which, however, did not prevent a sharp scrutiny which Big Willie was continually trying to bear upon the stranger.

Once or twice he raised his eyes and glanced significantly at an old man who had entered after Starling and was seated near the door, but the old fisherman shook his head in response to the look of inquiry, and Big Willie grew more silent and serious.

At last he said, in one of the pauses of conversation:

"You seem to have travelled a main. Where be ye bound for?"

Mr. Starling nodded up toward the ceiling and jerked his thumb over his shoulder.

"I'm staying at The Park," he said. "Come along with Captain Murpoint."

"You're his servant," said Willie.

"Yes, I'm his servant," said Mr. Starling, looking into the bottom of his quart pot with one eye closed.

"Oh," said the fisherman, with an air almost of relief. "Oh, that's it, is it?" he said. "I thought perhaps ye were loafing round a bit."

Mr. Starling grinned.

"I can do a bit at that trade," he said, with a wink that elicited a guffaw.

"Noo doubt," said Willie. "An' what sort of a man is the captain?" he asked.

"What sort?" said Mr. Starling. "A good sort, or he wouldn't be my master."

"And where do ye come from?"

"India."

Willie shook his head.

"Ay, that's where Master John coom from."

"Just so," said Mr. Starling. "They were sworn friends—what you may call brothers with two mothers. My gunner was Mr. Mildmay's particular pal, thick as thieves, and—come, what do you say to another wet?"

"No more," said Willie, answering for himself and the rest of the company.

"Well, if you won't I'll see about climbing," said Mr. Starling. "It's a rum thing to build a house on a hill; it's awkward for a gentleman after he's took his evening's glass at the pub. Now, if it was me I should 'a' built it down here in the village, just next door to the Blue Lion," and with a wink he stuck his hat well on the side of his head and walked toward the door.

At that moment, however, Martha entered, and, looking round, said sharply:

"Are ye going to sit here all day, Willie Sanderson, with all them fish to send off to Lunnon? Are ye daft, man?"

Willie Sanderson rose and looked at her, raising his hand and scratching first his right, then his left ear.

Mr. Starling, who happened to turn at the doorway to observe how the customers would take such summary elections, noticed the action, and was somewhat struck to observe Mrs. Martha's sharp tone dropped considerably, and that with a quick purring of the lips she raised her hand and scratched her own ears, first her right, then her left.

Now, Mr. Starling, who knew something of signs and countergains, and had had occasion during his rather adventurous life to avail himself of such devices, instantly decided that there was some secret understanding between the hostess of the "Blue Lion" and the burly fisherman, and was confirmed in his suspicions by the silent and immediate obedience of the lads who, at a toss of the head from their leader, rose quietly and left the house, giving Mr. Starling a gruff good-bay as they strolled past.

Mr. Starling looked after them, then turned on his heel, stuck his hands into the mysterious depths of his light trousers, and commenced his climb.

Halfway up the hill, however, he stopped abruptly and swinging round smacked his leg with an emphatic thwack, muttering:

"Hang me if I can make it out. What the Villikins and his Dinah does the landlady of a village inn want a making signs with a wooden-headed fisherman?"

Mr. Starling's wits would have been still farther sharpened could he have followed Willie Sanderson down the village and watched him unsee.

The lads, once clear of the "Blue Lion," turned swiftly to the left and ran down to the beach, where, in a confused heap, were the recently taken fish and the baskets in which they were to be packed.

Willie Sanderson, however, after a word or two with the old fisherman, turned to the right and walked slowly toward the end of the village.

As he neared the row of cottages he saw, coming toward him on the road that led by many a weary mile to London, a smart tax cart.

Willie's eyes were sharp and though the little white-covered cart apparently differed in nothing from its kindred, he knew it at a glance, and, drawing a little aside, he sat down on a heap of empty baskets to wait patiently.

Presently the cart came up, and the driver, a little, thick-set man, dressed in an ordinary guernsey, and thick, white trousers peculiar to the seacoast, and wearing a patch over his left eye, shot a sharp glance from the driver's seat.

Certainly the Earl of Lackland was a most important individual.

Besides the great Lackland Hall there were also the great mansion in Grosvenor Square, the castle in Scotland, the villa on the banks of the Arno, and the fishing boxes in Ireland and Wales.

The present earl and countess was blessed, in addition to the places of residence above enumerated, with a son and daughter.

The former, Lord Fitz Plantagenet Doldale, was a young man just past his majority. Fair—inspired he would have been called had he not been the heir to Lackland—somewhat simple-minded, certainly not clever, and extremely fond of dress, billiards, his betting-book, and his cigar.

Lady Ethel Doldale, his sister, presented a marked contrast to him.

She was tall, dark, by no means insipid, and if not positively clever, certainly possessed of the average quantity of brains.

To say in what direction her taste inclined would be perhaps at present rather premature.

It is difficult to analyze the lady's disposition, and probably the reader at some future time might be disappointed and inclined to pooh, pooh our opinion of Lady Ethel if we pronounced it thus early. Suffice it to say she was fond of reading, was deeply attached to her brother, and would have been equally so to her parents had they encouraged or even permitted her to be so.

"Good-morning, Job, lad," replied Willie, and with a smile he repeated the action which had surprised Mr. Starling.

In an instant the old fellow's hand went up to his ears, and, with a reflection of Willie Sanderson's smile, he "tckd" to the horse and passed on.

Beyond the salutation not a word had passed, but Willie Sanderson rose to his feet and set off toward the beach; whistling with the satisfaction of a man who has adroitly accomplished a difficult and dangerous undertaking.

CHAPTER V.

To the unsophisticated inhabitants of the little seacoast village the Midlands of the Park, and the Dodsons of the Cedars, were very great folk, indeed, but we have now to do with far greater, with no less a personage and family, indeed, than the well-known Earl of Lackland and his children.

A very great man was the Earl of Lackland. His ancestors had fought at Cressy, and at Hastings.

Lackland Hall was an immense place in the Midlands, a grand old house, with famous associations. You could not turn a page of English history without coming directly or indirectly, upon the deeds and doings of the Lacklands.

It was a question with some politicians whether if by some dreadful chance the house of Lacklands had been extinguished, the history of England could have been written at all!

There were men who, when they wanted to illustrate the grandeur, the nobility, the importance of England, would point the admiring finger at Lacklands and exclaim:

"There is one type! Look at Lacklands and see epitomized the glory of our land!"

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ill, are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1132—A VERY SIMPLE BUT PLEASING MODEL.

Girls' Dress with Long or Short Sleeve.

This design will readily appeal to the busy thoughtful mother, who is mindful of her little girl's comfort. Dresses that hang from the shoulders as this one piece model are best for growing children, for they give freedom of movement and do not hamper or bind. The style in its simplicity, will be easy to develop. The front is shaped at the closing, and the sleeves in either length has a neat cuff. A simple round collar finishes the neck edge. Galatea, Devonshire crepe, percale, chambray, seersucker, percale, cashmere or seersucker are good for this dress. It will be so charming in any pretty inexpensive wash material, or in the novelty plaid or striped wool and cotton goods. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1139—A SIMPLE FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Girls' Dress with Long or Short Sleeve and Collar or in Round Neck Outline.

Blue cashmere with trimming of soutache braid is here shown. Brown or red serge with facings of striped or plaid woolen would also be effective. The waist portions are cut in one with the sleeves, and these may be in short or wrist length. The skirt is a three piece model with a lap tucked at the centre back. The Pattern is splendid for all wash materials, such as galatea, kindergarten, cloth, poplin, percale, gingham, seersucker and chambray. Also for velvet, silk, cloth or novelty woolsens. It is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

From the sea to the Oise the day was nearly calm. Rainy weather prevailed. Artillery duels on certain parts of the front. Opposite Neufchatel our heavy artillery has silenced the German batteries. On the Ameuse and in the Champagne, cannonading was particularly violent, our batteries confirming their superiority and bringing under their range some of the enemy's reserves. Several German positions have been captured in Perthes and Mesnel les Hurles district. Intermitting cannonading between the Argonne and the Meuse. An attempt made yesterday by the Germans to take Boueulles failed. Our advance still continues in Le Petre woods. DARES-SALAAM TAKEN.

NAIROBI, British East Africa, January 3.

The British battleship Goliath, and the light cruiser Fox, have effected successful operations against Dar-es-Salaam, the capital of German East Africa. The warships bombarded the town, inflicting considerable damage. All the German vessels in the harbor were disabled. Four Europeans and twenty natives were taken prisoners. The British loss was one killed and twelve wounded.

SETTLEMENT IN PROGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.

Developments in the negotiations to stop British interruptions of American copper shipments have reached the point, it was understood yesterday, where Britain will not interfere with shipments to well-known steel firms, if they are made in Italy and ships. Shipments to well-known manufacturers in Sweden and Finland, it was also understood, would be uninterrupted, but it has not been made plain if they must be made in ships of those countries.

CONSULTING FRANCE.

LONDON, Jan. 4.

The British Government's reply to the American note concerning Cuba, band, will be sent before the end of this week. An outline of the reply has been submitted to France, and is greatly interested, because of the activity of French ships in so-called Mediterranean cargoes. It is expected there will be a statement shortly showing that Italy and Finland, and her Allies have arranged an understanding concerning Cuba band satisfactory to all the countries affected.

FORMIDABLE TORPEDO.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.

An official announcement in public through the official news bureau to-day, says: A German mine line boat reports by wireless telegraph to the Admiralty in Berlin, that it has torpedoed and sunk in the English Channel, off Plymouth, the battleship Formidabl, a submarine was destroyed by British destroyers, but escaped damaged.

A TRICK THAT FAILED.

LONDON, Jan. 4.

The Daily Telegraph's Correspondent says: A Norwegian merchant captain who has returned here from Gibraltar, reports that the Hamburg-American line steamer attempted to cross the Atlantic from Norway under the name of the ship "Svea," but she was stopped by a British cruiser which discovered her real name which had been painted over. The cruiser thereupon took the steamer as a prize to Gibraltar. She carried a cargo of coal for German warships in the harbor.

THE DEADLY MIN.

LONDON, Jan. 4.

According to advice received from Stockholm, the Swedish steamer Carma has been lost in the Baltic Sea, with her crew of 26 men. It is presumed the Carma struck a mine.

Developments in the negotiations to stop British interruptions of American copper shipments have reached the point, it was understood here today, where Britain will not interfere with shipments to well-known Italian firms, if they are made in Italian ships. The Daily Telegraph's Copenhagen correspondent says: A Norwegian merchant captain who has just returned here from Gibraltar, says that the Hamburg-American liner Grascia attempted to cross the Atlantic flying a Norwegian flag under the name of a Norwegian ship, but she was stopped by a British cruiser which discovered her real name which had been painted over. The cruiser thereupon took the steamer as a prize to Gibraltar. The steamer carried a cargo of provisions for German warships in the Atlantic.

THE DEADLY MINE.

LONDON, Jan. 4.
According to advices received here from Stockholm, the Swedish steamer Carma has been lost in the North Sea, with her crew of 20 men. It is presumed the Carma struck a mine.

FRENCH GAIN GROUND.

LONDON, Jan. 4.
Latest news from the battlefield indicates but little activity, the lull evidently being enforced by bad weather. Steinbach village and Upper Alsace is now in the hands of the French after house to house fighting. This loss Berlin admits. The day was marked by artillery duels with occasional infantry dashes with slight gains, but the line from the Olse to the sea is almost completely calm. The German headquarters declare the situation in the East remains unchanged. Nothing has reached London to contradict this statement.

S. S. Changes Hands.

Some months ago we stated that negotiations were going on between Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., and Messrs. James Baird, Ltd., for the purchase of the former's sealing steamer Diana, though the transfer did not actually take place until a few ago, when the vessel was taken over by the new owners. The purchase price, it is said, was seven thousand dollars. The Diana is a staunch wooden vessel, and on more than one occasion has carried exploring parties to the Arctic regions. The Diana was formerly the Hector up to about two decades ago, when she was rebuilt, re-named and her name changed. Last year the Diana prosecuted the seal-fishery at the front and since then has been thoroughly renovated. She will operate in the Gulf the coming season in charge of Capt. John Clarke, late of the Bloodhound. We wish the Diana, her new owners and Capt. Clarke a load of seals.

Preparing for Bank Fishery.

From passengers who recently arrived in the city from Burin we learn that at that port preparations are already being made for the bank fishery. Nearly all the crews have signed on and operations will begin about the end of the month. A supply of frozen herring has been brought along from Bonne Bay and Bay of Islands by the s.s. Portia, and in addition to this several of the bankers have a supply of salt squid on hand. Many of the bankers from Belleoram, Grand Bank and Fortune will start operations much earlier this season than in previous years.

Foreign Fish Markets.

The following letter, dated Dec. 4th, from Lind and Conto, of Operto, was received by the Board of Trade yesterday:—
"There has been no improvement in the consumption lately, due to the forcing into consumption of large quantities of deteriorated and under-cured fish at low prices, but the demand for good qualities is much below the average for the time of year. We hope there will be some improvement during the next fortnight owing to Christmas sale, but the Portuguese cure is now on the market and is competing with the imported article. We hear of very high prices being paid in Spain and Italy, but our market cannot afford to pay such high prices for codfish as is proved by the very limited demand for high priced fish and the good demand for cheaper qualities. We suppose too that the fish obtaining such high prices in Spain and Italy is of better quality than that sent here. The official rate of exchange, fixed by the Junta Reguladora do Cambio, has been steadily reduced until it is now identical with the open market rate, consequently, the Junta which did more harm than good by preventing free exchange business, may now be considered merely a nominal institution. The present rate is about 87-5-8d. but paper is difficult to obtain in any large amount and bankers will not deal in futures."

EDWARD the CONFESSOR died 1066. The Anglo-Saxon King who immediately preceded—save the reign of Harold of less than a year—the Norman Conquest and founded Westminster Abbey. He was a religious-minded mystic and was canonized in 1161 and given the shrine in the Abbey of his origination, which yet remains fairly intact, despite the ravages of Time and disturbing hands.

INDIA TO ENGLAND.

O England! in thine hour of need When Faith's reward and Valour's meed Is death or glory; When fate indites, with biting brand, Clasp'd in each warrior's stiffening hand, A Nation's story;

Though weak our hands, which faint would clasp The warrior's sword with warrior's grasp.

On Victory's field; Yet turn O mighty Mother! turn Unto the million hearts that burn To be thy shield!

Thine equal justice, mercy, grace, Have made a distinct alien race A part of thee!

'Twas thine to bid their souls rejoice When first they heard the living voice Of Liberty!

Unmindful of their ancient name And lost to Honor, Glory, Fame, And sunk in strife,

Thou found'st them, whom thy touch hath made Men, and to whom thy breath conveyed A nobler life!

They, whom thy love hath guarded long, They, whom thy care hath rendered strong

In love and faith, Their heart-strings round thy heart entwined; They are, they ever, will be thine. In life—in death!

—Nizam Jung, Judge of the High Court, Hyderabad.

Gr. Grace Notes.

On several days last week a number of men were out on the harbour in quest of sea birds, which were fairly plentiful.

Miss Lilly Snow, of St. John's, is in town the guest of her relative, Mr. George T. Gordon.

A concert was held at the Salvation Army Citadel on New Year's evening that was very enjoyable.

One of our oldest citizens, Mr. Thomas Peley died on Monday last after a long illness.

The members of the Conception Bay British Society and its Juvenile Branch attended Divine Service at the Methodist Church on Friday morning. It has been the custom of this Society since its formation to have a parade and attend service in one of the churches on the first day of the year. This year the parade was partly dispensed with, the Society going direct to the Church for their Thanksgiving Service. The Rev. Mr. Holmes took for his text the words found in the 6th chap. of St. Matthew's gospel, and part of 10th verse:—"They Kingdom Come." All the brethren were highly pleased with the excellent discourse, as they were with the services of the choir, and on return to the hall a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the pastor, the organist and the choir for the service rendered. The Newfoundland British Society through its Secretary, Bro. J. M. Carberry, sent kindly greetings to C. B. S., wishing it a prosperous year. Society's best wishes for the Newfoundland British Society. Before leaving the hall, the Society's fine band gave some selections, among them the Russian and French National Anthems.

Caught in Storm.

While enroute to Port aux Basques from Bay of Islands the Customs cruiser Flona got caught out in Sunday morning's storm, but reached her destination safe and sound, word to the above effect having been received by Deputy Minister of Customs L. Messurier.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one remarkable fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,800 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever been burned."

The Solidarity of the Empire.

The promotion of the Princess Patricia battalion to the trenches marks a step in the making of the great Imperial British army which is expected to exert decisive influence in smashing German militarism. The Dominion had already done something to add to the efficiency of the British Navy as a force ever ready to meet the foe. Cape Colony has already contributed the cost of the Good Hope which was lost off Coronel. New Zealand has paid for the battle cruiser New Zealand, which is with the Home Fleet. Australia has organized a Colonial Navy, mainly of a modern type, which has rendered already active war service in the Pacific and Indian waters. A sister ship of the New Zealand, the battle cruiser Australia, is the flag-ship, which carries Rear-Admiral Sir George E. Patey as commander of the squadron. The squadron also includes the Encounter, a light cruiser of 2,830 tons, completed ten years ago, which carries eleven six inch guns, and the Melbourne and Sydney, built in 1912 of 4,400 tons, and carrying eight six inch guns. The Brisbane is a sister at present building in Australia. The squadron also includes three destroyers and two submarines. Canada, somewhat backward owing to party disputes as to the form Canadian Naval aid should take, has the Niobe, in part manned by Newfoundland reservists taking part in the general patrol of the North West Atlantic, and the Rainbow in the Pacific. Newfoundland has already sent forward between seven and eight hundred reservists for active service and has pledged herself to bring up the number to a thousand. The effectiveness of the Navy is the British mainstay. It has already enabled British commerce to keep the seas, and driven the enemies' commerce from it. It has also enabled Indian troops and British garrison troops to be transported to Europe, to China, to East Africa, to Egypt and elsewhere to take part in holding British overseas and in seizing German overseas possessions. South Africa has played its part in throttling the rebellion of recalcitrant Boers fomented by Germany and is preparing to strike German troops in German East Africa. The greatest aid, however, that the Navy has contributed to the military situation is that it has given, in some five months now, for the raising and organizing, training and transporting of troops throughout the British world. The territorial forces have been doubled at home. Over three quarters of a million men have joined the Kitchener army. Large numbers of new troops have been raised in Canada, Newfoundland, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, India and elsewhere. The whole Expeditionary force in Britain, with territorial, Indian and Colonial additions are now at the front in France and Belgium, and an immense force of home and colonial troops are now organized at home in brigades, divisions, corps, and armies, with officer staff, medical units, service corps and all that is necessary to put them in the field. A force of such a size has never before been known in the British Isles. The feature of these forces at home is that they are at the front in that they represent the whole Empire. That it represents not only in its bodily form, but it represents the spirit of the Empire, for not a man of it, or of these two continents, is a forced man. All are volunteers. The Dominion have given of their blood and substance as a free will offering, and so have our kin at home. It is a heartening spectacle, and demonstrates, in a way that has never been demonstrated before the perfect solidarity of the British Empire.

The Potato.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slivash." The potato is an unostentatious and bumpy growth attached to the roots of a small plant which is a paradise for bugs.

Nothing is less attractive than a potato field which has lost the bloom of youth and is ready for the harvest except the potato itself. Nature wasted no time in making the potato handsome. It is as shapeless as a man with a 54 inch waist line, and when it was first introduced into Europe people refused to eat it until a law was passed forbidding them to do so.

By this means the potato was made a very popular food and the world was removed several paces farther from starvation. The passage of this law marks the highwater mark of statesmanship of potatoes could pass a law in this country compelling every citizen to drink and gamble at least four hours a day temperance would sweep over the country like a wave in flashy clothes would look up the word "work" in the dictionary.

The potato in spite of its dumpy and ill-bred appearance is stuffed full of nutriment and can support man almost unaided. It has practically maintained Ireland for the last century. Still the government of New York should not be blamed on the potato.

The potato is a present from the new world to the old. Spanish explorers found it in Chile and brought it home with them. It is much more highly appreciated in Europe than in America, for Germany raised 1,500,000-2,000 bushels of potatoes a year while we wriggle along with about 350,000-400 bushels and curse profoundly when called upon to deposit a dollar for a small sack of the same.

For this reason we should look to Germany and other European nations with considerable respect. If Germany and other European nations with considerable respect. If Germany had to depend upon wheat, rye and barley in the present war she would be in the bread line by spring. But each German has 23 bushels of potatoes laid away in a cool, dry place, and he should corrugate his brow with care.

Potatoes are raised in light sandy soil which isn't good enough to produce corn. They bring from 50 cents to $1 a bushel and with intelligence 400 bushels can be raised on an acre. But each German has 23 bushels of wheat and to eat 50 cents for a dish of disguised and maltreated potatoes at a good restaurant. It sometimes seems as if what this country needed is not dollars but sense.

Fame Travels.

Jog Jagsworth came to Punkville's shore, upon a breezy autumn day, and then he went to Corker's store, and said, "I've settled here to stay. A check I looked for isn't here, but it will come—it's overdue; so I must ask of you, I fear, some credit for a week or two." Old Corker scratched his snowy head, and took a paper from a hook; "I have a letter here," he said, "informing me that you're a crook. This comes from Mudtown-on-the-Hill, where you have lived a year or two; it says you never pay a bill while there's a chance to dodge in view. So, Mr. Jagsworth, there's the door, in which I take an honest pride; I pray you leave my moral store, and soak your head a while outside." There was a time when beats could go from town to town and play their game, for merchants didn't seem to know the way to circumvent the same. But now the man who will not pay is known and sidestepped everywhere; he cannot move so far away his reputation won't be there. And having won that sort of fame, 'twill always be a grievous load, and bring the burning blush of shame, when he has quit the crooked road. Be straight, be honest as the day, and never dodge a bill that's due; you'll find, when'er you chance to stray, that sort of fame will travel, too.

Have You an Itchy Spot? Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

The Red Cross Liner Stephano, arrived from New York via Halifax at press hour to-day, bringing a full freight and several passengers. "Bert" Channings, who left here with our First Contingent of volunteers, was invalided home. He is suffering from a tubercular knee and an immediate operation will be necessary.

"IN ONE RED BURIAL BLENT."

After the murderous encounters in the neighborhood of Verdun numbers of dead were left on the field awaiting burial.

The military and civil authorities, in doubt as to what form the religious ceremony should take, sent together four Army chaplains, including two Roman Catholic priests, a Protestant pastor, and a Jewish Rabbi. First the Rabbi, in virtue of his seniority, delivered an address and said a collective prayer over the dead. Then the prayers were said in Latin by the Catholic priests, in French by the pastor, and in Hebrew by the Rabbi.

ARABS ARE FOUND FROZEN.

London, Dec. 21.—The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle telegraphs from Petrograd: "Forty Arabs brought into hospital by the Russians after having been found frozen, say they left Bagdad numbering 10,000 not knowing whether they were going and unwilling to fight having heard only of war having broken out between the Germans and the Russians. They had not received clothes to equip them, and six thousand had been frozen on the way."

ESCAPE OF TWO CANADIANS.

London, Dec. 23.—Two members of the Canadian Veterinary Corps incarcerated in the Tower of London for disorderly conduct, broke their window bars, escaped when the guard was being changed, and returned to camp. These are the first escapes from the Tower of London recorded for a full century.

Germans Call Kaiser

ONE OF MANKIND'S FOES KAISER HAS COVERED REPUTATION WITH IMPERIAL INFAMY.

London, Dec. 29.—The Post has received from Herr Bernstein, who writes from the dam, the following translation of New Year's appeal to be issued by the Socialists in Europe and by the committee of the German manly League:

"Dear Comrades—On the eve of New Year, which opens up a year of fear and ruthless crime, we are joined even in the massacre of our nation's infamous accomplices. Constantinople, we appeal to our brethren on the continent of Europe and in the United States of America not to hide themselves behind a screen of neutrality.

"We are face to face with the crimes of mankind. The German nation, driven into this wicked war by the Kaiser and his military age, cajoled by the perfidious Reichstag and by the false promises circulated in every State, has recklessly hurled itself blind against forces, which, sustained by indisputable moral considerations, show no signs of weakening or determination to expel from the territories with blood and fire, and probably injured an innocent nation, rulers had sworn to protect.

"We ask you to remember that the territory of no German State has been menaced by the Allies, who are fully and honorably defending the plain rights of the cruelly oppressed Belgians.

"Fellow-workers, can you remain idle and silent spectators of these stupendous crimes? "Are you forever to be denied the view of the awful scenes of carnage, flanders, in Brabant, in Alsace, in Lorraine? "Do you not see amid the mud and slaughter of the front, the old men, women, children and the aged, who are being driven to the front at the breast that the Kaiser covers our nation with imperial infamy, and that the toll of this means the sacrifice of the lives of toilers and wage earners, a devilish campaign, barbarous methods upon sea as upon land.

"We know from authentic source which reaches us, that the restless, indignant and deceived democracy, now undergoing privation and nursing its grief, cannot be strained by force from making a protest, and we must appeal to every comrade who is for maintenance of international relations, to strive his utmost to sweep away forever the domination of Prussian militarism in Germany, which by its cons against humanity has disgraced and humiliated our nation in the eyes of the civilized world."

Germans Call Kaiser

ONE OF MANKIND'S FOES.—SAYS KAISER HAS COVERED THE NATION WITH IMPERISHABLE INFAMY.

London, Dec. 29.—The Morning Post has received from Herr Karl Bernstein, who writes from Rotterdam, the following translation of a New Year's appeal to be issued to the Socialists in Europe and America by the committee of the German Humanity League:

"Dear Comrades—On the eve of a New Year, which opens up on scenes of fear and ruthless crime unparalleled even in the massacre rolls of our nation's infamous accomplices at Constantinople, we appeal to our brethren on the continent of Europe and in the United States of America not to hide themselves behind the screen of neutrality.

"We are forced to face with the enemies of mankind. The German nation, driven into this wicked war by the Kaiser and his military entourage, cajoled by the perjured States in the Reichstag and by the false records circulated in every State in order to deceive our compatriots, has recklessly hurled itself blindfolded against forces, which, sustained by indisputable moral considerations show no signs of weakening in their determination to expel from Belgium the troops which have covered her habitations with blood and irreparably injured an innocent nation our rulers had sworn to protect.

"We ask you to remember that the territory of no German State has been menaced by the Allies, who are lawfully and honorably defending the plain rights of the cruelly outraged Belgians.

"Fellow-workers, can you longer remain idle and silent spectators of these stupendous crimes?

"Are you forever to be dumb in view of the awful scenes of carnage in Flanders, in Brabant, in Alsace and in Lorraine?

"Do you not see amid the maiming and slaughter of innocents, unarmed old men, women, children and infants at the breast that the Kaiser has covered our nation with imperishable infamy, and that the toll of war means the sacrifice of the precious lives of toilers and wage earners in a devilish campaign, barbarous in its methods upon sea as upon land?

"We know from authentic intelligence which reaches us that the restless, indignant and deceived democracy, now undergoing privations and nursing its grief, cannot be restrained by force from making an active protest, and we most earnestly appeal to every comrade who cares for maintenance of international obligations, to strive his utmost to crush and sweep away forever the domination of Prussian militarism within Germany, which by its conspiracy against humanity has disgraced and humiliated our nation in the eyes of the civilized world."

British Labor Made Krupps.

"There died in Reading recently a man who some years ago occupied the position of managing engineer at Krupp's works at Essen. This was Mr. Robert Hall, who had attained the age of 82," says the Star.

"In the course of a conversation which Mr. Hall had with me a few days ago, he said that the building up of Krupp's firm, to the magnitude which it had attained was largely due to British labor, and in a measure to the parsimony of the 'master engineers' of this country nearly 50 years ago.

"In explaining this, Mr. Hall said there was about that period an agitation for more wages on the part of engineers in England, and the fact that employers of labor here refused to make a concession must by some means have become known to the founder of Krupps, as just about that time tempting advertisements were inserted in English newspapers representing that Krupps needed the finest skilled workmen in the different branches of their business. 'Englishmen preferred.'

"I went as one," said Mr. Hall, "and many others from different parts of this country I found there on my arrival, whilst others followed me. We were as well paid as our work merited.

"The works grew by leaps and bounds, and came to be known as the finest establishment of its kind in the world, but it was largely, very largely," added Mr. Hall, "British labor that did it."

"TWELFTH DAY."—To-morrow will be the Feast of the Epiphany, better known as "Twelfth Day." In the R. C. Churches the day will be observed as a holiday of obligation, and Masses will be celebrated at the same hours as on Sundays.

Our Volunteers

The total number of volunteers enrolled to date is 739, the following eight young men having enlisted yesterday:—

R. M. Winter, Burin. John Ploeman, Port Bexton. Whitefield Bannister, Port Bexton. Stephen Norris, Three Arms. S. G. Barry, Greenspond. E. T. Allen, St. John's. D. Curran, St. John's. D. J. Rogers, St. John's.

Two sections of No. 2 Platoon had miniature rifle practice at the Highlanders' Armoury last night, and today a squad visited the South Side Range. The instructors are very pleased with the progress made by the lads, many of whom have already made very creditable scores.

Enlisting will be continued daily at the C. L. B. Armoury; the recruiting office being open at 9 a.m.

Hockey Practice.

Before and after general skating at the Prince's Rink last evening the Victoria and Fildian hockey teams had practice, the ice being in excellent condition. On the whole the teams made a good show for the first "try out," though some players need lots of practice yet to take the kinks out of them, especially the "has beens," who were in evidence last night. The young material who will be seen in the ranks of the Fildians and Vics. this season have the making of ideal puck chasers. In view of last evening's practice, stiff contests may be expected during the League series. The opening game will come off next week.

New Years Entertainment

AT HOLYWOOD. On New Year's night an entertainment was given in the Star Hall, Holywood. The programme consisted of songs, action songs, drills, recitations, with a farce as the closing item. The object was to supplement the church funds as well as to provide some amusement during the festive season.

The entertainment was under the management of and the performers were trained by Miss Flynn, organist of Holy Cross Church; and indeed she has reason to feel proud of the successful production of the entertainment both intellectually and financially, and the full house which greeted the efforts of the performers, who were principally school children, assisted by a number of young ladies and gentlemen. The dance which followed was well patronized, and fiddler Ghaney was kept busy for some hours discoursing his popular strains to the never tiring dancers. Not the least attractive part was the supper which was served, and the caterers were kept busy serving patrons whose appetites had been sharpened by the dance. The entertainment is well worthy of repetition and should draw another full house on the Twelfth night. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to over $80.00.

"I went as one," said Mr. Hall, "and many others from different parts of this country I found there on my arrival, whilst others followed me. We were as well paid as our work merited.

"The works grew by leaps and bounds, and came to be known as the finest establishment of its kind in the world, but it was largely, very largely," added Mr. Hall, "British labor that did it."

See Great Show at the Nickel Theatre. There were large attendances at the Nickel yesterday, both afternoon and evening. The programme as we stated yesterday was one of the best ever seen here. The two reel film by the Pathe artists, "Race Memories," proved very interesting and was keenly watched. Those who were unable to attend yesterday and see this wonderful picture should not fail to take it in to-day. The Keystone comic also in two reels was a great film and kept the audiences in roars of laughter. Hundreds of shop hands availed of the opportunity to attend last evening. They were not able to go at night during the last few weeks but were charmed to do so last evening. They all agreed that there is no place like the Nickel. The pictures will be repeated this evening; don't miss them.

Our Young Soldier's Funeral.

His Excellency the Governor has received a message saying that as it is not feasible to send home the body of Private Jack Chaplin for interment, the funeral takes place at Fort George at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This is about 11.30 local time, so that before these lines are read Newfoundland's young soldier will be resting among the heroes who have trod the immortal path of duty and devotion to their country. Though separated from those he loved in life, the memory of his noble sacrifice will console them until they are united forever with him in the Land of Peace.

Employees Enlisted.

Altogether twelve of Bowring Bros. employees will be doing service for the Empire with the First Newfoundland Regiment. With the first contingent four officers of the s.s. Portia went, and the following from the office and other departments are now training with the second contingent: Frank Warren, James Lang, E. Barnes, W. Edwards, A. Edwards, C. Vavasour, G. Heath and G. Martin. Of the latter practically all have seen many years of service with the city brigades, and on that account will be a great addition to our regiment.

The Cynic Keeps House.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"The reason the average man talks so much about housekeeping," said the Author-man's wife, "is because he knows so little about it."

Everybody laughed and the Cynic, at whom it was aimed, joined in amiably.

"Then I'm the exception," he said. "I've been doing all the work about the house for the last week."

There was a murmur of surprise. "Now you know my mother is a good old-fashioned housekeeper," he continued. "When she became sick she didn't know what to do, but she hated the thought of getting a maid. When I suggested that I might get my meals and hers as well, she lifted her hands in horror and all but turned her face to the wall and died."

"I could cook a little—camping taught me that. And I do a lot of work at home and I figured I would do the housework in my spare time."

His First Day At It.

"The first day," said the Cynic, ignoring the interruption, "everything went wrong. I wanted to surprise my mother. But while I was setting the table, the toast burned, and while I was fixing the toast the lamb chops went to pot. Getting a full sized meal was more than I had planned for."

"I sat down and pondered. I had always talked system—here was my chance. The next meal was planned before I stepped into the kitchen. I assembled everything I needed before I started to cook! The table was set to the last implement and the last condiment. When I started cooking everything moved like clockwork—I knew just what I was about."

"The pans I rinsed and scrubbed, as fast as I took them from the stove. There were only two of us and everything that could be served, was served direct from the stove, without extra dishes. I had about half as many dishes to wash as mother always had, although she never noticed the difference in serving. And I cleaned up in less than fifteen minutes."

Trying the New System.

"What is more, mother said she never saw a meal gotten so quickly or easily—and that is some praise, coming from her. Incidentally everything had to be served well and temptingly, because my mother had to be coaxed to eat."

"But," protested the Author-Man's wife, "cooking is only a small part of housekeeping. How about the rest?"

"I'll tell you about that next time," said the Cynic. "I've got to skip back and get dinner now."

RACING TO SAFE WATERS.

Rotterdam, Dec. 28.—A graphic description of the sinking of the Markomannia, one of the supply ships of the German cruiser Emden, is contained in a letter just received from a Dutch naval officer in East India.

"To-day I had the day watch," he says. "Shortly after six o'clock I saw a smudge of smoke on the horizon. The previous night our wireless man had picked up code messages addressed to Singapore, so I surmised that the smoke came from a British cruiser. Close by our destroyer, two ships, one Greek and one German, both colliers of the Emden, were lying at anchor."

"The two colliers soon recognized their danger and, putting on every ounce of steam, they set out for territorial waters, but they were too late. Behind them the British cruiser, which turned out to be the Dartmouth, was racing after them with the speed of a greyhound. As the colliers sped toward the coast we ran alongside of them to ascertain when they crossed the three-mile limit."

"Minute by minute, the distance between the Dartmouth and the colliers grew less. It was now five minutes to seven a.m., and the colliers were still two miles from the three-mile limit. The Greek ship, realizing her helplessness, dropped back and hoisted her flag."

"Bang! A shot from the Dartmouth caused a column of spray to splash skyward behind the racing Markomannia. Only 2,000 yards more and the collier would be safe. Another shot rang out, then another and another. The Markomannia hoisted her German flag and dove to in order to face the enemy. Up to this time the Dartmouth had not hoisted her flag, nor did she do so afterwards. A shot carried away the Markomannia's flagstaff. Another set her on fire. She was drifting helplessly now under the fire of the British ship. The collier started to settle by her bows and soon she disappeared."

"Nothing remained but bits of charred wreckage where a short time before the proud, new ship had glistened in the sun."

"Sous-Lieutenant Camps, son of a distinguished French General, has made himself famous by his daring in directing the fire of his own and other batteries from the top of a tall chimney. The Germans perceived him there with their field glasses, and for two hours he remained 60 feet from the ground calmly locating the German batteries while they shelled the chimney in vain in the hope of bringing it down pell-mell."

"When at length, having obtained all the information worth having, he decided to descend, he rigged up an effigy of himself with his kepi on the top and exposed it on the parapet. The Germans wasted tons upon tons of shells upon the insolent mannequin and the chimney. All at last a lucky shot brought the whole structure crashing down amid shouts of derision from the French, who had taken precautions to escape the inevitable avalanche," says the Observer.

A Gentle Game.

New York League Passes Drastic Rule as to Body Checking.

New York, Dec. 29.—Body checking in hockey games has been practically barred by the Amateur Hockey League according to a decision reached by that body at an early hour this morning. After passing on the changes recommended by the rules committee, the executive committee decided that no player who is not actually playing the puck can be checked. As interpreted by the committee this means that a man is playing the puck when it is within reach of his stick.

A player coming down the ice who carries the puck against the boards at the side must be given the right of way, according to the interpretation put on the rule by the committee. He cannot be checked against the boards.

This new rule, it is expected, will make the game faster and do away with some of the dangerous sides of hockey.

ALLIES GATHER TO FORCE DARDANELLES.

Athens, Dec. 29.—France and Britain have made preparations to occupy Constantinople, it was learned here to-day.

A fleet of transports bearing a big allied army has been assembled with the fleet of the western entrance of the Dardanelles. The French and British warships are preparing to launch another severe attack upon the Turkish forts in a supreme effort to force a passage.

The chief reason for this great attack, it is said, is the necessity to supply fresh arms and ammunition to Russia.

ATHLETE LOSES BOTH HIS LEGS.

Dunkirk, France, Dec. 29.—Jean Coujolle, a famous French international football player and track athlete, who was mentioned early in the war for a charge which won him the military medal, is in a field hospital with both legs amputated. The bones were shattered by a shell.

When Coujolle recovered consciousness and learned the extent of his wounds he dictated a letter to his superior officer, asking that he be sent back to the front as a tylist.

Coujolle was adjudged last year by several English critics to be the finest back in Europe.

"AN INSOLENT MANNEQUIN!"

Sous-Lieutenant Camps, son of a distinguished French General, has made himself famous by his daring in directing the fire of his own and other batteries from the top of a tall chimney. The Germans perceived him there with their field glasses, and for two hours he remained 60 feet from the ground calmly locating the German batteries while they shelled the chimney in vain in the hope of bringing it down pell-mell.

The Germans wasted tons upon tons of shells upon the insolent mannequin and the chimney. All at last a lucky shot brought the whole structure crashing down amid shouts of derision from the French, who had taken precautions to escape the inevitable avalanche," says the Observer.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS "CASCARETS."

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Stuggish Liver and Bowels—They work while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, a bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

Tin is a great saving of the expense of equipping a kitchen, if one wishes the outfit to be as small as possible. But it should be the thickly coated kind.

Sealing Commission.

(Monday, Jan. 4th.)

Nathan Kean, sworn, to the Minister of Justice—Was second hand on the Florizel at the ice last spring. The seals were in a string N.W. and S.E. Saw the Newfoundland's crew on March 31st, about 8 o'clock, they were coming towards the Stephano. Did not see them board the Stephano, but saw them when they were about a mile away. It was then fine weather. Did not expect bad weather; there was very little wind, but did not notice from what direction. The snow came on about 12.30, still mild, wind easterly, increasing. After dinner the men of the Florizel and Stephano were picked up, thinks it was then advisable to pick up the men. The Stephano was reached about 3.30, when the crews of each ship got on their own.

To Dr. Lloyd.—When he saw the Newfoundland's crew about 11 a.m., they were about a mile from the Florizel's flag, marked in chart. The Florizel was in smooth ice that morning, there was no heavy ice between her and the Stephano. When the Florizel's men came aboard from the Stephano, heard no talk about the whereabouts of the Newfoundland's men. About 1.30 his brother, Captain Joe Kean, told him he had sent a message to his father asking him to look after the Florizel's and the Newfoundland's men and he would look after the Stephano's. It was advisable to pick up one another's men because of the conditions prevailing. He estimates the Florizel was about 3 miles from the Stephano after they had burnt down. The Stephano was to the leeward of them and the whistle of the Stephano was powerful enough to be heard by them that afternoon and up to 8 p.m. He does not remember hearing the whistle of the Stephano blowing either in the usual or an unusual manner during that time.

To Judge Johnson.—Our ship went about 3 1/2 miles to the northwest, putting out our men. Some of the Stephano's crew were picked up at the end of our run. Don't know where the Stephano went. Did not hear her whistle, think it might have been heard. Saw the Stephano on Wednesday afternoon about five miles S.E. from us, we were then jammed, and thought the Stephano was too. Did not see the Newfoundland on Wednesday.

To Judge Emerson.—Witness is a brother of Capt. Joe Kean and a son of Capt. A. Kean.

George Yetman, sworn, to the Minister of Justice.—Was steward on board the Stephano last spring. Had been to the ice as cook and steward twenty springs in different ships. Remembers March 31st last. At 10 a.m. the weather was fine and warm, was in his shirt sleeves on deck. The Newfoundland's crew came on board about 11.30, the weather was then fine and mild, was on the top bridge and felt neither cold nor wet. Was on deck when the Newfoundland's men left. There was just a little snow falling, and thought it was going to be mild. Heard no anxiety expressed on board as to the Newfoundland's crew after they left. As steward his duty is to see to the cooking for captain, engineers and officers. Have nothing to do with the men. Witness had one cook with him, and a chief cook with three others for the men. There was also a baker for the ship. Had nothing to do with giving out food for the crew. Witness provided oatmeal, raisins, hard bread, sugar, cheese for the bags of those officers who went on the ice; this would be if he thought the men would be away all day.

To Dr. Lloyd.—Is brother-in-law of Capt. Kean. Heard the captain say nothing about looking for the Newfoundland's men during the afternoon. Does not remember whether the whistle was blowing before or after the supper. It may have been. Does not know anything of seals being taken on board—his work was below.

To Judge Johnson.—Might have been on the bridge 15 or 20 minutes. Was on the main deck when the Newfoundland's men got over; was not

Did not hear her whistle, think it might have been heard. Saw the Stephano on Wednesday afternoon about five miles S.E. from us, we were then jammed, and thought the Stephano was too. Did not see the Newfoundland on Wednesday.

To Judge Emerson.—Witness is a member of Capt. Joe Kean and a son of Capt. Kean. George Yetman, sworn, to the Minister of Justice.—Was steward on board the Stephano last spring. Had been to the ice as cook and steward twenty springs in different ships. Remembers March 31st last. At 10 a.m. the weather was fine and warm, was in his shirt sleeves on deck. there long. There was a little snow falling when the men left, and a little wind. Was in my shirt sleeves.

Alphonsus J. Harris, sworn, to the Minister of Justice.—Was at the ice last spring in the Newfoundland as ordinary sealer. Remember March 31st. Started towards the Stephano but only went part way, as the weather was getting thick, mild snow, not cold. Thought he was between 5 or 6 miles from the Newfoundland, and about 3 or 3 1/4 from the Stephano when he turned back. Others turned back also. The Stephano was going away when witness turned back. There was nothing said about that ship that witness heard. Thought when he went out they were looking for seals, but did not know they were to go to the Stephano. The snow was falling fast when they turned back. Wind about S.E. the whistle was not kept blowing after we returned to our ship; did not speak to the captain about it. Thinks it was about 2.30 when they got back.

To Dr. Lloyd.—Heard the whistle once while they were on the ice, about a mile and a half away. Witness turned back because it was too bad to do any labor, and there was nothing to do. No delay was made after deciding to go back. Had no conversation with any others as to returning, nor heard any other talk of why they were going back. It is not customary for the captain to tell us where to go, the officers give these orders. Witness was in Dawson's watch, and he did not tell us where we were to go. Dawson was in the crowd with them. Did not hear Dawson speak a word when they turned back.

To Judge Johnson.—Others had turned back before witness. No others came after the men with witness. It was blowing hard with thick snow when they got back to their ship; could not see her; travelled by compass. Witness walked on in line not knowing where he was going. Witness would trust no master watch on the ice in a snow storm. It was Dawson's business to direct his watch, but he did not do it.

Roland Critch, sworn, to Dr. Lloyd.—Was at the ice in the Newfoundland last spring; has been twice at the ice. Remember March 31st last. The weather was not bad, but it was pecking snow. The sky was overcast, cloudy, but no serious indications of bad weather. Did not know where they were going, but followed the crowd with his chum. Five "beaters" were killed, this was about 10 o'clock. Stopped a good bit going back to make a "spell" or a bite to eat. Were travelling about two or three hours. Thinks they travelled about 6 miles. The weather was dirty when they started to return, snow was not over heavy, damp and soft. This condition was reached when the ship was blowing a stormy breeze from S.E. The snow was thicker and wind higher when the ship was boarded. Heard the whistle once when on the ice and once when on the ship afterwards. The captain said nothing when they went on board. Witness had a seal. The weather was getting bad, was witness' reason for going back. Did not learn where the men were going until he got on board. It was unfit for men to be on the ice when witness turned back, and also when the ship was reached. At 12 o'clock the weather was bad. It was not so over bad when they turned. Turned in after supper, shortly after dark; heard no talk about the other men. Does not remember talking about them before, but was thinking they were on the Stephano. Next day we imagined they were on the Stephano; heard from the captain that they were on the Stephano.

To Judge Johnson.—Witness did not know where the rest were going when he turned back. Followed on in a line not knowing where they were going. The Commission meets this afternoon.

MINISTERIAL CHANGES.

LONDON, To-day. Interesting Ministerial changes are likely to follow the death of Percy Hingworth, Chief Liberal Whip, according to the Daily News, which says it is probable Augustine Birrell will retire as Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and be succeeded by Herbert L. Samuel, Postmaster General.

RUSSIAN REINFORCEMENTS SECURED ADVANTAGES IN GALICIA.

BERLIN, To-day. Heavy reinforcements from Kiev were responsible for the recent change in the situation in Galicia, according to a correspondent of the Tageblatt, with the Austrian headquarters. The Russians after their defeat at Lodz and their unsuccessful battle at Limanowa, the correspondent says, seemed on the point of being ejected from Galicia and retired behind the Vistula, but reinforcements although principally militia were sufficient to turn the scale in favor of the Russians who launched a new offensive southwards in the direction of Nowy Sencic, in the hope of jamming in between Galician and Carpathian armies. The Austrians, however, by a new disposition of their troops and reinforcements succeeded in arresting the advance. A renewal of southward movement, the correspondent continues, is improbable now, as a further advance would bring the Russians between two fires. Instead of this a heavy pressure westward in the direction of the fortress of Cracow is now noticeable. Simultaneously the Russians turned on the Carpathian army but confined themselves to an attack on the south western passes, forcing their way into Hungary over the Utszk. This move assures them continued control of important petroleum fields south of Lemberg and Przemyel.

Went Down In Monmouth.

Mr. John O'Rourke, at one time petty officer on H. M. S. Calypso and now stationed at the Naval Barracks, Devonport, England, in a recent letter to Mr. P. Maher of the sub-station, R. N. Co., wishes to be remembered to all the boys of the C. C. with whom he was a general favorite during his term of office on the training ship. He also said that Petty Officer Badder, who had also been on the Calypso, had gone down in H. M. S. Monmouth in the naval fight off the Chilian coast. Mr. Badder was well known in the city and his many friends, though grieved to hear of his death, will remember with pride their friend who gave his life in the service of his country.

Was Not Sick On Voyage.

Regarding Reservist David Butler, who died in the naval hospital at Plymouth, as alluded to in yesterday's Telegram, we learn from Capt. Alan Goodridge, who left here in charge of the contingent of Reservists on the transport Franconia, that the deceased sailor never suffered from the slightest ailment during the voyage. In fact Capt. Goodridge's records show that deceased had been in excellent health all the way across, so that his illness, which proved fatal in the Old Country, must have been brief.

"STARR" HOCKEY SKATES

BEST FOR HOCKEY

BEST FOR FUN

THE MODERN MERCURY

Mercury, the winged messenger of the gods (according to ancient legends) had small wings on his feet to speed over the land with the ease of a bird. But Mercury had no advantage over the modern skater who uses Canadian-made "STARR" Skates.

"STARR" Skates take the place of wings—they are light, strong, comfortable—and enable the wearer to skim lightly and confidently over the ice—whether in pure fun or the swift sport of a hockey game.

The popular "STARR Mac-Mac Featherweight" Hockey Skate (trademark registered at Ottawa) shown at the bottom of this advertisement is a speedy hockey skate, and equally good for rink skating.

It is especially strong, because of the bar connecting the heel and sole plates. The specially welded and tempered steel blades retain their cutting surface longer and better. Very little sharpening is needed.

Hitch yourself to a "STARR" Skate and surprise yourself and your friends.

"STARR" Skates are equally good for artificial or natural ice.

We absolutely guarantee "STARR" Skates unconditionally—if they break, take them back and get a new pair.

BOWRING BROTHERS, Limited, Hardware Department.

Pantomime Leader and Winner.

There was a crowded house last night of delighted patrons to see the pantomime now in its third week, and it proves the popularity of both Rossleys and their work when the same entertainment can last so long a time. What vaudeville people or dramatic either, has ever visited St. John's and given the 20th performance without a change, that's how good Rossleys work is.

The next pantomime, Robin Hood and His Merry Men, will be very novel and picturesque with all new songs, dances, costumes and novelties. Last few nights now of the best show ever presented, and the pictures and music are up to the rest of the entertainment provided by the great show people, Rossleys.

MRS. H. HIGGINS will resume her Dressmaking Classes on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 11th and 12th, "Sunnyside," Monkstown Road.—Jan 5, 7

Operatic Star

AT "OUR" THEATRE.

Mr. Vincent Vernon sang last night at Rossley's West End Theatre and came as a surprise to the large crowd, for he has a magnificent voice, and one of the best singers St. John's has heard in years. He sang the old favourite, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and charmed all present.
