CHAPTER XX.

"He has not deserted you," she said. "He has left you word to go on doing all the good and noble things he began. We—you—have no right to expect him to stay here, if he does not wish to. Why should he not go away?"

Bright sighed and reached for his hat.

"It's like you to speak like that, and you're right. He's his own master. But I feel anxious and worried about it. You see, I'm fond of him. Of course, I can't expect you to share my feelings. I'll go back to the Hall and see about closing it up. This will be a blow to the country and the neighborhood. And after such a splendid success as last night, too! Well, well! Good-morning."

He got his hat, and sighed himself out of the room.

Decima stood by the window, looking straight before her. All the brightness seemed to have gone out of her life. She remembered that he had said "good-bye" last night—remembered the tone of his voice. It was significant enough now. It was evident that he had resolved last night to leave Leafmore. Why had he done so?—what had happened? Had he heard bad news, or was he tired of the place, and of—all his friends?

No answer was forthcoming. She went back to the table, but she could eat no more. She wandered about the house as if she were in a dream, and later on she put on her out-door things and went down to the village. The people were full of Lord Gaunt's departure, and she had to stand and listen to Mrs. Topper's lamentations echoed shrilly by Mrs. Murphy. A cloud seemed to have fallen on the place and darkened all its brightness.

Decima went her charitable rounds with a dull aching at her heart. At the Leafmore gates, she stopped for a moment and looked down the avenue. Some men were taking down the fairy lamps which had been stretched from tree to tree; some grooms were exercising the horses; the men were talking among themselves, and she caught a few words. They were talking of Lord Gaunt's departure and the loss it would mean to them.

She returned slowly and heavily to the Woodbines. As she passed through the hall, the door leading to the laboratory was ajar, and she heard her father and Mr. Mershon talking.

She had not forgotten his proposal; it had oppressed her at the first moment of her waking; but Lord Gaunt's flight—for it was little else—had for a time driven all thoughts of Mr. Mershon from her mind; but now the scene with him in the conservatory rose before her, and she drew back with a little catch in her breath. Suddenly she heard her father utter an exclamation of dismay and a groan. She pushed open the door, and entered.

Her father was pacing up and down, his hands tightly gripped behind him, his head bent, his hair in wild disorder. Mr. Mershon was, as usual, seated on the bench; there was a big cigar in his mouth, as usual, and he was regarding Mr. Dean with a half-cynical, half-curious expression.

Decima went straight to her father. "Did you call, father? Did you want me?"

Mr. Deane stopped in his pacing to and fro, and regarded her with a vacant, troubled stare; then he pushed his hands through his hair and stifled a groan.

"No; no; I didn't call!" he said. "I'm engaged on business with Mr. Mershon. Go away, Decima."

Decima turned to Mershon.

"What is this business?" she asked, almost demanded. "What is troubling my father so?"

Mershon extinguished his cigar by jabbing it on the bench, and kept his small eyes fixed on the operation.

"I thought you knew," he said. "It's this Electric Storage Company."

"I do not know," said Decima.

"What about it? Tell me."

Mershon glanced at her for a moment.

"It's this invention of your father's," he said. "An awfully clever thing. There ought to be a lot of money in it, and I thought there was. You see, I don't understand this kind of thing myself, and I relied upon Mr. Deane. He ought to know."

"If I do not know, who does?" exclaimed Mr. Deane, throwing out his hands with pitiful vanity.

"Just so," said Mershon, slowly, and shooting another glance at Decima.

"If he doesn't know, who does? That's what I told them in the city."

"What is the matter?" asked Decima. "Has anything gone wrong?"

"Well, yes; I'm afraid there has," he said. "The thing—the invention doesn't seem quite to work out somehow."

"It does; it must!" broke in Mr. Deane, wildly. "I will explain."

"I'm afraid it isn't much use explaining to me," said Mershon. "As I said, I don't understand anything about the invention, the machine; all I undertook was to float the company; and I should have done that right enough if it hadn't been for this hitch."

"Is it some mistake?" said Decima.

"Can it not be put right?" She turned anxiously from Mr. Mershon to her father.

"I hope so; upon my soul, I hope so," replied Mershon. "I've sunk a lot of money in the affair. But that's nothing," he went on quickly. "It won't break me if I lose it, every penny of

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden; it hinders activity, and a curb upon pleasure. Many forms of advice to reduce weight have been advanced, such as dieting, hard work, excessive exercise, etc., all of which are either unpleasant or dangerous.

The latest, more modern and pleasant way to take off burdensome fat, is to take, after each meal and at bedtime, a Marmola Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous Marmola Prescription from which they take their name.

To get rid of fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or skinbines will remain to show where the fat came off.

They are for sale by all druggists at $1 for a good size box. If you prefer to have them come to you direct by mail, prepaid, in a sealed cover, send amount to the Marmola Co., 27, Gresham Building, Detroit, Mich. and bid goodbye to dieting, exercise and fat. Be powerful, slim, trim and attractive.

it; but I'm afraid your father's gone in for it rather heavily."

Mr. Deane groaned.

"I—I have invested a great deal," he said.

It is very probable that he did not know how much, seeing that he had left the matter entirely to Mr. Mershon.

Decima was too young, too ignorant of the world to understand clearly and fully; but a sense of coming evil oppressed her. She laid her hand upon her father's arm.

"Perhaps it will all come right, father," she said.

"Of course it will!" responded the inventor, with a kind of desperate courage. "I can't be wrong. It is the great idea of my life. It only wants explanation."

He grabbed at some drawings and unfolded them with a trembling hand. Mr. Mershon regarded them sideways with cynical dubiosity.

"Better explain them to the shareholders," he said. "I can't make head or tail of them." He reached for his hat and looked at Decima as he smoothed it. "I should like a word with you, Miss Decima," he said, under his breath, and with a jerk of his head toward the door.

Leaving her father poring over the drawings, Decima followed Mr. Mershon out.

"I'm afraid your father's deeper in this thing than I thought," he said, flicking at a rose-bush with his stick and glancing up at her sideways. "I cautioned him not to go into it too heavily, but he seemed so certain of the success of the thing that I shouldn't be surprised if he'd sunk the greater portion of his fortune in it."

Decima regarded him with troubled eyes.

"And—and you think he will lose it?" she said in a low voice.

"I shouldn't wonder," he answered. "That's the worst of these inventions, there's generally a screw loose somewhere."

"What shall I do?" said Decima to herself.

Mershon picked a leaf off the rose-bush, examined it critically, then glanced up at her in his covert way.

"I'm afraid your father's a bit worried about your brother, Miss Decima, isn't he?" he said.

Decima stared at him.

"My brother!" she said.

"Yes," replied Mershon, picking the leaf to pieces with his long nails. "Seems to have been going the pace. Been writing to your father for more money again."

"Bobby?" exclaimed Decima. "I—I don't understand!"

"Oh, it's a way young fellows have when they go up to London," said Mershon. "I dare say it isn't serious, and he'll pull through. Good-morning."

Decima did not return the adieu, and he came back and glanced at her again.

"So Lord Gaunt's off!" he said. "Thought he'd cut the place all of a sudden like this. Gone to Africa, I hear."

The red flooded Decima's face for an instant, then left it pale again.

Mershon stood with his eyes fixed on the ground.

"You haven't forgotten what I said to you last night, Miss Decima?" he said. "Whatever happens, I stand by what I said—every word of it. Good-morning." He held out his hand, and Decima just touched it with her fingers; then she went back to her father.

"Tell me what all this means, father," she asked.

Mr. Deane launched into a torrent of words to prove that his invention was impregnable; but it is needless to say that they carried no conviction to Decima's mind.

"And what is this about Bobby, father?" she asked, anxiously.

Mr. Deane paced up and down, and tore at his hair.

"I don't know; I don't understand!" he said, impatiently. "Your brother Robert keeps writing for money, and says that he has incurred debts which must be discharged at once. I have sent him all the money I can. Yesterday I had a letter from the banker's saying that I had overdrawn my account. Mr. Mershon has been kind enough to lend me a hundred pounds."

"Mr. Mershon!" said Decima, faintly.

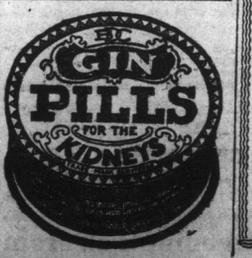

"Yes, yes," responded Mr. Deane; "he is extremely kind. I don't know what I should do without him."

Decima stole out of the laboratory feeling faint and sick.

S.A. Commonwealth Saved From Civil War.

Smuts and Unionists Coalesce-- Crimean Situation Not so Bad as Reported--Turkey Hedging on Peace Treaty--League Covenant May go into Discard--Boston Fishermen Challenge Gloucester Winner.

SOUTH AFRICAN PARTIES UNITE.

LONDON, Nov. 7. The Times leader to-day says that General Smuts' patriotism and wisdom and that of the Dutch speaking people who call him leader, has saved South Africa from the dark certainty of civil war. They made attempts at reconciliation with Hertog and the Nationalists, but always on the stern condition of no compromise with nationalism, which the Nationalists would not concede. General Smuts has now turned his appeal to all South Africans who believe in racial unity to reject Republicanism, which appeal has been enthusiastically endorsed by his own and the South African party, and also by the Unionists, which represents almost wholly the English speaking South Africans led by Sir Thomas Smart. The new party to be formed may involve the complete disappearance of the Unionists. Both component parts of the new party, says the Times, make costly sacrifices, namely Smuts and his party that of a formidable breach with men of their own race, and Smart and the Unionists that of the identity of their party with all its traditions and proper pride.

WRANGEL'S POSITION NOT DESPERATE.

PARIS, Nov. 7. General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader in the Crimea, is still holding the Isthmus of Perekop, the only means of ingress to the Crimean Peninsula by land, and the military situation from his standpoint is not hopeless, according to information which has reached the French Foreign Office in a report from M. De Martel, French High Commissioner at Sebastopol. Wrangel, according to the report, is confident the Bolsheviks will be unable to break through his line of defence at the Isthmus and invade Crimea.

TURKEY AND PEACE TREATY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7. The Turkish Government has addressed a note to the powers, in which it is declared that the present time is inopportune for the ratification of the Peace Treaty by Turkey.

FRANCE READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH U.S.A.

PARIS, Nov. 7. The view was expressed in official circles Saturday that the French Government would be ready to co-operate with the authorities at Washington in formulating something different from the Covenant of the League of Nations as drawn at Versailles in order to take its place. This statement was made in official quarters in referring to the declaration of President-elect Harding, as cabled from Marion to the French press to the effect that the Versailles Covenant was now "deceased." This is interpreted by officials as applying to the Covenant as drawn at Versailles and as indicating that something different from the Versailles agreement

BOSTON FISHERMEN CHALLENGE ESPERANTO.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7. Boston fishermen are not inclined to admit that the victory of the Esperanto over the Nova Scotia schooner Delawana established the Gloucester boat as champion of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, and last night they sent a challenge to the Cape Ann salts to race the Esperanto against the Boston fisherman Josephine de Costa, challenger for one race or for the best two out of three.

POLAND NOT JOINING LITTLE ENTENTE.

WARSAW, Nov. 7. It was semi-officially announced Saturday that Poland had decided not to join the "Little Entente" formed by Czechoslovakia, Serbia and Rumania for their protection against Russia or enemies in the Balkans for the present. Take Jonsescu, minister without portfolio in the Rumanian cabinet, who had come to Warsaw seeking Poland's adherence, said he hoped Poland would join the "Little Entente" later.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNT TO DEATH.

LANGDEN, N.D., Nov. 7. Four small children of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Olson, ranging in age from five months to five years, perished in a fire which destroyed their home Friday. The parents and other children were in the field at the time. When attracted by the flames the mother ran to aid her children, but was overcome by smoke and had to be rescued from the burning house.

ADOPTS PREFERENTIAL TARIFF.

TRINIDAD, Nov. 7. The local government yesterday announced a revision of customs tariff under agreement with Canada for granting preference to her products according to the decision reached at the recent Ottawa Conference. Under the new revision all foodstuffs and cattle produced in British Dominions are made free of duty, as are also British produced machinery and certain cotton goods and glassware. The duty on United States foodstuffs is now fifty per cent. more than that on similar Canadian products.

BOLSHEVS TAKE PRISONERS.

PARIS, Nov. 6. A Moscow despatch tells of violent fighting in the Crimean region, and capture by Bolsheviks of one thousand prisoners and some cannon.

INVOLVED.

PARIS, Nov. 6. Official circles here do not believe Senator Harding's declaration that "The League of Nations is dead," but it literally means what it says. It is thought it refers to the League as drawn up at Versailles.

NOT SO CLEAR AS IT MIGHT BE.

LONDON, Nov. 6. The new statesman suggests that a good plan for enquiry into Irish conditions would be for the United States press to send over an army of its most able and trusted correspondents. The British Government says the paper would then be faced with the alternative of exclusion of correspondent, or admittance with impunity and safety from "Black and Tan."

NORDICA'S CREW AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, Nov. 6. The crew of the ninety-ton schr. Nordica, picked up last month in mid-air, the crew subsisting on the S.S. Rosalind, enroute to their homes in Newfoundland. After the schooner became disabled, she drifted about for ten days, and provisions ran short, the crew subsisting on bread and water for six days, before being picked up by S.S. Wilkaro.

HUGHES MAKES STATEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 6. Premier Hughes in a debate in the Australian parliament yesterday, denied that MacSweeney had died in a just cause.

AMERICAN MISSION CAPTURED.

LONDON, Nov. 6. The United States mission in Southern Russia has fallen into the hands of Bolsheviks. The mission was headed by General Morel, who had the task of combating bandits in the White Army, says report.

A LITTLE BLOODLETTING.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6. Further clashes between Socialists and Liberals in Yucatan, arising out of state election campaign there, were reported yesterday in despatches from Merida. Several persons are dead and scores wounded as a result of pitched battle.

The Heroes of Charikar.

Before dawn, November 5, 1841, the sound of a thousand Afghan drums was heard by the defenders of the isolated "fort" of Charikar, a mere collection of barrack buildings lacking even the protection of an outer gate, the defenders being a "handful" of stalwart Gurkhas under Captain Codrington and Lieut. Haughton, two young English officers, with Eldred Pottinger, political agent, in supreme command. The attack lasted for an hour—"hell itself seemed to be let loose"—but the little Gurkhas fought with the ferocity of tigers, flinging back the Afghan swarms again and again, and moving them down with the sweep of their curved swords. But the heroism of the little band demanded a heavy price. Pottinger, who had fought in the thickest of the battle, was struck down by a bullet in the thigh. Codrington was hit by a bullet in the chest while shouting "Stand close, men, stand close! No surrender!" and on Haughton fell the command at the supreme hour of crisis. When night fell, the enemy drew off but the attack was renewed at dawn, and during the whole day the battle raged fiercely. At every assault they were swept back, with heavy loss, and dusk saw them again withdrawing, as impotent as ever. More than two hundred of the defenders had fallen. For six days the defenders held the fort, but on the 11th matters came to a terrible pass. Ammunition was exhausted, and their few guns were sored with nails, scraps of iron, and fragments of lead. As for water, the only supply now came from the pits and hollows outside the wall, in which men, at the risk of their lives, soaked rags and wrung them out to the last drop. Of the original force, only 350 utterly worn-out men remained with 140 women and children, while as a crowning blow Haughton himself was severely wounded. There remained either surrender to a faithless and merciless enemy, or an attempt to reach Cabul, and the latter alternative was chosen. To Pottinger, still suffering agonies from his wound, fell the task of organizing the retreat. At length chaos was reduced to order. Haughton's hand was severed by the doctor, and he was lifted in to a saddle, with a Gurkha supporting him on either side, a cushion being held under his chin to keep his head up. Thus the big-hearted boy started on the terrible journey of 50 miles, which after indescribable suffering and perils was to bring him and his heroic Gurkhas to safety. Well might George Lawrence say to Pottinger when the pitiful remnant of the Charikar garrison was at last safe within the Cabul gate, "It's a chapter of miracles all through. Humanly speaking, you and Haughton have no business to be here!" Pottinger smiled as he answered simply, "It is the Lord's doing, and marvelous in our eyes, Haughton's leadership and courage are beyond all praise. But for him not one of us would be here."

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mr. R. F. W. Strong, of the Newfoundland Co-operative Corporation, Ltd., Benton, is in town for a few days. Mr. Strong is changing his residence, and in future, will occupy the house recently vacated by Mrs. Bailey, who, with her family have removed to St. John's to make their home.

Valuable Mineral Deposit.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—You will please oblige by giving space in your paper for a few remarks concerning a deposit of valuable mineral situated near the branch railway between Bay de Verde and Grates Cove. This ore was discovered in 1908, and according to sample, after being analyzed, contains 65 per cent. of metallic and iron. According to investigation there is an abundance of this ore on the surface in this location, and if it was developed would be a valuable asset to the country's resources.

T. HENRY SMITH.
 Although I have been in St. John's only five weeks I have perhaps (from a wide and travelled commercial experience) been able to gather something of the trials, troubles and successes possible to traders of all classes here.
 Now my experience may be taken, perhaps, as a guide to the future of St. John's, at least I hope I may benefit somebody, for I have met politeness here which I greatly appreciate. I rather think I can almost exactly compare the St. John's of to-day with the Cardiff of 30 years ago (and Cardiff to-day is a British city of great importance). The Water Street of to-day compares with the Butte St. Cardiff of the past, therefore bar accident Water Street will not be the shopping centre but the wholesale and office district. I should say the shopping centre will go westward and eastward with possibly the smaller traders going straight to the point: I have heard recently the remark, "Oh, trade will wake up soon, the outport folk will come in to buy sooner or later." Now I wish to deal with that remark specially. Some few years ago I owned (and I was quite young) a number of stores and a factory in Cardiff. At that time we traders depended chiefly on the workers from "the valleys" (you St. John's traders depend on the "outports," and "the valleys" of Wales was then the precise equivalent) and a merry time we had I can assure my readers until, ah! something happened! and that was the "valley" folk did not come up to buy in such numbers and (like St. John's to-day) the Cardiff traders suggested amongst themselves, "Oh, it's all right, they'll come along shortly." However, to cut a long story short, they did not come along any more, nor do they to-day even, and Cardiff has lost the bulk of the "valley" trade.
 Will this be the case with St. John's? I say "Yes," (and I should hate to appear presumptuous, too). Yet Cardiff is prosperous and so will St. John's be, very, but not in the same manner of trade or trading.
 What happened in Wales? Traders opened up some smart shops in the "valleys" and took the trade from Cardiff—simple surely—and I was one of the first to open a country (valley) depot. Is this happening in the outports? Not having had time I cannot ascertain, but I guess it is so. The (c)akers will note, I say, St. John's will prosper greatly but not in the same manner or style of trade as that carried on to-day.
 The money is in the country, but the holders of capital in the lower and middle classes have not been educated to the fact that there is anything other than fish to invest in. Some day fish will be a side-line in Newfoundland and minerals and other products will, when worked, provide the nucleus of many large industrial concerns. Many a former fishing port has forgotten fish in various parts of the world, and now runs great factories instead. At one time those folk almost worshipped fish. (In passing I would suggest a great export trade could be done if the authorities could find a buyer for "St. John's Street Mud"—Guaranteed to beat all others! Buy the "Juley" brand!")

For instance, at present, I am organizing manufacture in the furniture trade here. Why? Because in a country where home life is rendered very essential owing to the conditions of the climate, I feel there must be a big field, and I hope to produce better furniture than that now imported, and certainly sell very much below imported price. I know the trade from A to Z.

However, to return to St. John's, I would point out I have been a keen observer at all times, and if I stay in Newfoundland I shall be fully prepared to see St. John's wear "a silk hat and a frock coat" in the near future, by which I mean it will some day be a fine city, well paved, well lighted, mud-free, The Harbor sides will be valuable property, very, and the positions near the Station will be the best retail or shopping positions.

Should I offend the intelligence of the leading merchants by "teaching them to suck eggs," I would retort, there are eggs for setting and eggs for sucking.
 Anyhow, since my arrival on October 4th, I feel I like Newfoundland folk very much, and those workers whom I hustle will surely forgive me when they understand I wish them to improve their position and themselves (for I made mine in Great Britain in face of high-grade competition).

What a God-send compulsory education would be. To be without that is a crime on the part of those responsible. Wake up! St. John's folk, and educate your children from this very day at all costs.

(The writer of the above article was formerly British Overseas Trade Organizer in London, but is now re-organizing the Newfoundland Furniture and Bedding Co. Ltd., St. John's.)

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

CODFISH.—The shipments of fish from St. John's this week to foreign markets amounting to 10,916 quintals. The schooner Alcala took away 2,352 quintals to Martinique from Messrs. Job Brothers & Co. Ltd., the schooner Hasbet 2,564 quintals from G. M. Barr to Gibraltar for orders, and the Andressa Roca 6,000 quintals to Seville for F. D. Garces.

In the outports the Nellie T. Walters sailed from Hermitage for Oporto with 3,510 quintals for Thos. Garland, and the General Plumer cleared from Marystown with 4,210 quintals for the Marystown Trading Co. The schooner Proven sailed from Carbonar for Alicante with 2,730 quintals for W. J. Moores, the Rita M. Clunet from Burin with 2,883 quintals for Oporto from E. Inkenp. The Ave Maria from Fogo for Malaga with 3,000 quintals for Earle Sons & Co., and the General Smuts from Grand Bank for Oporto with 4,658 quintals for S. Harris, Ltd.

This makes a total of 29,991 from outports, which added to 10,916 from St. John's makes a grand total of 40,907 quintals.

COMMON COD OIL.—The market is lifeless. Efforts to sell on the foreign market are without result, and the trade are simply marking time. The United States buyers hope to see some improvement now that the Presidential election is over. The British buyers have been saying the same in reference to the coal strike that has held everything up for weeks. We hear of a few sales at $1.80, but the general price is from $1.40 to $1.70 per ton in the local market.

CODLIVER OIL.—Very little doing in Codliver Oil this week, the market being stagnant both at home and abroad. A large importer at New York, writing to an exporter here says, "We regret to say that we can make no offer in Codliver Oil. The demand is at a very low ebb and there is no immediate prospect for business." The local quotation is around $1.00 per gallon.

HERRING.—The fishery is now in full swing at Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay. Preparations have been made for a pack of about 30,000 barrels. Scotch Pack are quoted at $11 to $11.50 per barrel. Herring are plentiful, but much of the catch are small. The Americans want large and medium this season. Shrinking of many nets in the mesh by barking has resulted in small herring.

BEEF.—The Beef Market continues quiet but firm, and there is no change in quotations, according to advices received from the United States markets during the week. In the local market owing to the great disparity between Beef and Pork, Choice Boneless is $22.00, as compared with $35.00 for best grade Pork. Bos. Flank $35.00, Family $34.00. Imports for the week 625 barrels.

PORK.—There have been considerable fluctuations recently in the American market from day to day, influenced by labor conditions in the United States and strikes in Great Britain. There is a noticeable increase in pork exports to Europe the past month, which tends to keep the prices on the upward grade. The imports for the week amounted to 600 barrels. Prices are: Mess, $38.00, Fat Back, $44.00, Short Mess, $55.00, Ham Butt, $53.00. The total imports to date from January 1st are 24,451 barrels.

FLOUR.—Messrs. Harvey & Co.'s circular summarizing the flour situation this week says that "Locally the importation is nearly 70,000 barrels short, with very little during the next two weeks." Importers have been holding off for lower prices and this is the main cause of the scarcity. There are several large consignments coming forward from Montreal by steamers this month. Meantime an effort is being made to get flour to distant Northern outports that are likely to be shut out by weather conditions and ice before the end of the year. Leading brands here are quoted to-day at $15.75, other grades grades $14.75 to $15.50.

SUGAR.—There are about 6,500 barrels of the "controlled" sugar remaining, which is believed to be sufficient to supply all requirements till March. There is a rumor that the F. C. Board contemplates importing 5,000 barrels of the present low priced sugar to make up their former loss by its sale. We hardly can believe that this will be done, for there is a possibility that sugar may go still lower and new losses would be incurred. There are all the signs of a declining market in existence that prevailed when some 15 years ago sugar went down to 3 cents in New York. Meddling with the sugar market by inexperienced people is extremely dangerous at the best of times, and is outside the functions of a Government, except in extreme cases of either securing adequate supply or preventing profiteering. These grounds for interference no longer exist. Therefore, the market should be left open to the regular importers.

MOLASSES.—Owing to the fall in sugar prices, molasses has declined about ten cents per gallon from the Summer price despite the short supply. The St. John's quotation is now $1.58 for Fancy and $1.52 for Choice per gallon wholesale. There are three cents and barrels five cents over this price.

POTATOES.—During the past week there were many sales made in the city of home-grown potatoes at $3 to $3.50 per barrel from first hands. In the outports large lots were taken at $2.50, and this is likely the lowest point that will be reached this season for home-grown. Storekeepers here are asking as high as $4.00 to-day. Canadian importers are looking stronger and will probably sell at $5.00 per sack of 180 pounds next month.

 "No; you see, they both happened to take their pipes out together. Well, they filled them and then each calmly waited for the other to strike a match."
 "Well, what happened?"
 "Oh, I brought out my pipe, so both of them waited for my match."

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I am a children's nurse, and I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted me to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women, as I am only too glad to recommend the medicine."

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

SOMEONE BUSIER.

RUTH CAMERON

There's always someone busier. When you were driven to distraction by the number of duties that seem to clamour for your attention, did you ever think of that? It doesn't seem to me I ever knew anyone who did not think that he or she was a very busy person.

I have known women living in homes with not one thing in the world to do but look after themselves to how busy they had been and how they had no time to answer letters.

Each One Thought She Was Terribly Busy.

When I've known of women without children, and with small, easily cared-for homes, complaining of how busy they were.

Again I know a woman who has three children and keeps two maids who think her life is most strenuous.

Get across the street from her is a woman who has three children and no maid. If the one is busy, how about the other?

Some Really Hard Lives. Again, I know a woman who works very hard in an office and thinks she has a most difficult life. But across the street from her lives another who works as hard in the office and comes home and helps her mother (who keeps boarders) with the dishes every night. And still another office worker of whom I know, used to be for years to the care of an invalid mother. Sometimes being up three-quarters of the night with her.

So there you are. If you want to be yourself of self-pity, just look out for someone who has a good deal harder row to hoe than you, and chances are you can easily find one or her.

Of course, there must be somewhere the ultimately busiest person, but presumably there is only one of her kind (I seem to feel pretty sure of a her).

How to Get Rid of a Big Obstacle. You may say that it doesn't make your way any easier to know about other people's troubles. But it should, in this way—if you have the right stuff in you, you can't help being ashamed of pitying yourself when you really have less to stand up under than your neighbor. And if you get rid of some of your self-pity you have gotten rid of one big obstacle.

A woman who was left a widow with three children and who went out into the world and made a living for them and then came home at night and looked after her house and made most of their clothes, said that she drew a great deal of her strength from saying to herself, "What anyone else has done, I can do."

Someone who heard her said they called that conceit. I don't. I call it the opposite of conceit—namely, the finest kind of pride and courage.

Mainly About People.

Captain Robert M. Lavender, of the Somerville, Mass., Board of Health, wears a watch which was presented to his uncle, Captain Joseph A. Lavender, of Boston, now dead, by Queen Victoria for heroic rescue at sea of the British brig Louisa.

Tom Shotwell is one of the leading financial writers of the country. He writes in New York under the "plume," "Broadway Wall." The oldest financial writer in New York is Alexander Dana Noyes, he is now financial editor of the New York Times.

James Boothby Burke Roche, aged 69 years, South American revolutionist, explorer in the wilds, gold hunter in Alaska, and oil hunter in Texas, has just succeeded to the Irish peerage as Lord Fermoy. New Yorkers know him as the divorced husband of beautiful Frances Work, by whom he had two sons, Edmund Maurice and Francis George. Edmund is in line for the peerage.

Edwin Gould is a rich man, even as wealth is reckoned in Wall Street. He could well devote himself to the pleasures so much enjoyed by his brothers, George and Frank—polo, yachting and touring of Europe. He is now giving his time to the developing of his little railroad in Texas, known as the Texas Pacific, which is now in the hands of a receiver.

Mr. Bottomley's "Recollections of the Law," now appearing in John Bull, contains an amusing story concerning the purchase of his reminiscences by the News of the World some 20 years ago. The editor deleted some of the statements in the early part of the reminiscences, as he considered they might be libellous. Thereupon Mr. Bottomley brought an action to restrain us from publishing an expurgated edition. He says in his recent article that this was done by arrangement to secure a free advertisement through the law courts. We do not admit the soft impeachment, but in any event the case gave Mr. Bottomley the opportunity of making a most amusing and telling speech. When he had finished, the judge remarked, "Both your reminiscences, Mr. Bottomley, and the News of the World have now had sufficient advertisement, so I dismiss the application."

This Week's Wisdom.

All news isn't as black as it is printed.

Other men besides ministers marry for money.

It's easy to find remedies for other people's troubles.

A young man always takes a girl's hand before asking for it.

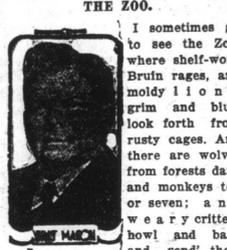

It's useless to waste sympathy on a man who has the toothache.

Many a man has been turned down while waiting for something to turn up.

All the love in the world won't make up to a man for the loss of his dinner.

Life is a journey on which we are always hurrying along to see what is round the corner.

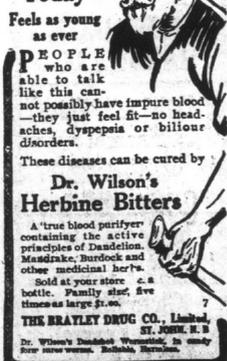

A man can make or lose a fortune while two women are saying goodbye to each other.

THE ZOO.

I sometimes go to see the Zoo, where shelf-worn Bruns rages, and moldy lions, grim and blue, look forth from rusty cages. And there are wolves from forests dark and monkeys ten or seven; and weary critters howl and bark and send their walls to heaven. All day they pace the sodden floor (save when the keepers feed 'em) and stick their noses through the door, and yearn and yelp for freedom. They're dreaming of the jungles deep where once they gayly gambled, or of the mountains wild and steep where in their youth they scrambled. They're thinking of the forest dense, of wood lore strange and clever; and now behind an iron fence they're doomed to pace forever. No more for these unhappy beasts the hunting call and rally; no more for them the outlaw feasts in desert, swamp or valley. No more in some vast silent land will their swift feet be racing; and idle human beings stand, and watch their tireless pacing. We've put these sad-eyed brutes in jail, without a writ or warrant, in musty cages foul and stale, with atmosphere abhorrent. They did not booze or beat their wives or do some speed law sinning; they merely tried to live their lives as planned in the beginning. And now the poor moth-eaten wrecks behind the bars must languish, that idle, snooping rubbernecks may view their endless anguish.

"Prince Charming."

Interesting Anecdotes About Edward of Wales.

No one knows exactly how or when the King's eldest son came to be called "Prince Charming."

Anyhow, it fits him to a "T," and by it he is known to-day to millions of men and women—especially women—all over the Empire.

It is well that he possesses a nickname of some sort, for his full titles and names are so numerous that it would puzzle the most loyal amongst us to remember them all.

They are H.R.H. Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Chester, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Prince and Great Stewart of Scotland, K.G.

And this recalls an anecdote concerning the Prince's cadet days at Osborne. Then, as now, he was quiet and unassuming, with not an atom of "side." Soon after his arrival a senior cadet, seeing that he was a new boy, demanded his name.

"Edward," was the reply.

"Edward? Edward what? Haven't you got another name, you jackass?"

"Edward of Wales," answered the Prince calmly. The older boy looked greatly surprised, and gave vent to an astonished whistle. "By Jove! So you're the chap, are you?" he said, and walked away, somewhat subdued in manner.

Glad He Was The Eldest Son.

His Royal Highness has a keen sense of humour. Once a certain fussy and rather sententious individual asked him whether he was not ever worried over the immense responsibility involved in being the King's eldest son.

"His answer was: 'Well, to tell you the truth I've never looked at it quite in that light. But I think it is rather good luck to be an eldest son, because then one does not have to wear one's brothers' old clothes.'

Although His Royal Highness is one of the wealthiest princes in Europe—since he came of age he has had complete control of an income exceeding £200,000 a year—he is far from being extravagant; a trait due in part, no doubt, to his early training. His first pocket-money was a shilling a week, and even when he was an undergraduate at Magdalen College, Oxford, he kept at the express wish of his mother, a strict account of his expenses.

Once the Queen in glancing over this noticed that the first item in each day's expenditure read as follows: "A. 1d."

"An Apple a Day—"

"Whatever does that mean?" asked the Queen of her son's tutor. "Oh, that is for an apple the Prince insists upon eating every morning before breakfast," was the reply. Evidently H.R.H. believes in the old adage: "An

Age Secrets.

As most people are aware it is possible to tell the age of a horse by examining its teeth.

The age of a sheep may be known in a similar manner—but is, by its teeth. The number of years a cow has lived is found by a different method. The horns are examined, and the number of rings on these horns tell almost exactly the age of the cow.

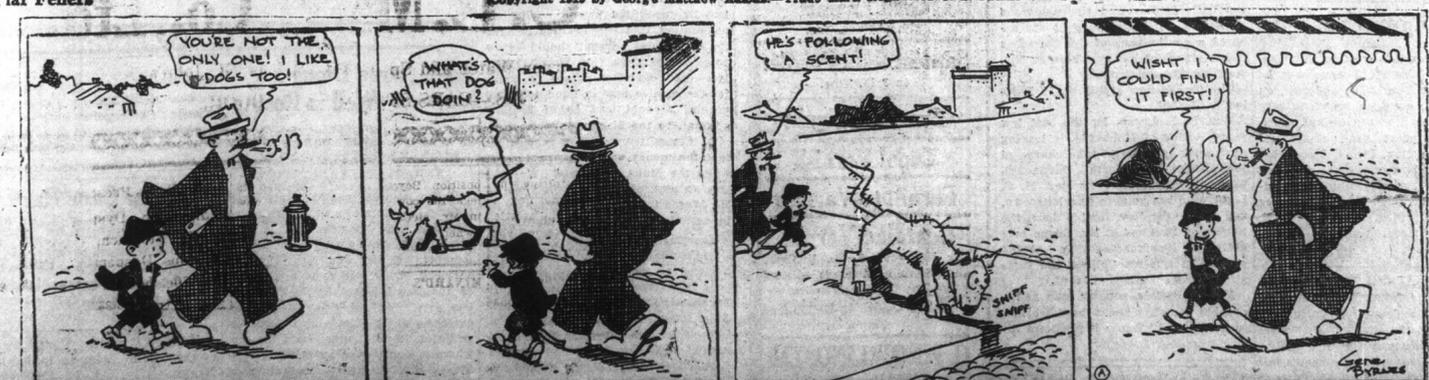

Just as the horns indicate the age of the cow, so the development of the antlers helps one to calculate the age of animals belonging to the deer family, and the length of life of other horned animals is arrived at in the same way.

The age of many birds can be discovered by examining the spurs. Trees often live to a very great age, and while they are standing it is a difficult matter to arrive at the age of these; but when they have been cut down the age of the tree may be reckoned by counting the number of rings visible in the section.

It is a comparatively easy matter to learn the age of growing mistletoe, as each shoot sends off two new shoots each year, and by counting the joints from the root to the tip of any branch, the number of years the mistletoe has lived may be computed.

The Passing of King Alexander.

Intrigue both in Athens and in other capitals has long been busy in behalf of each of the rival candidates for the Greek throne. More especially the death of King Alexander has aroused the hopes of the partisans of former King Constantine, who may, therefore, be expected to capitalize in their own interests the constitutional crisis which has now been precipitated in the domestic affairs of Greece.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Ask the Fishermen.

The Advocate day in and day out with painful reiteration repeats the ridiculous argument that but for the Fish Regulations, prices of Shore and Labrador would have dropped to a vanishing point this year, when all the time the common sense of the editor of that paper knows that the regulations have killed trade competition in fish buying and have brought the fishermen of the colony almost to the verge of destitution. But the cry, parrot-like, has to be kept up. To abandon it now would be fatal for those whom the Advocate is boosting. There was another slogan, used not long ago, but now laid aside having lost its potency, "The price of fish is what Coaker makes it." Just so. All agree to that assertion under present conditions. It is the unanswerable argument that Coaker's Fish Regulations are responsible for the demoralization of the local fish business, and that consequently the price of fish being what Coaker makes it, the blame for the slump in the local market, the low prices offered, the almost impossibility of sale of certain grades, must all be attributed to Mr. Coaker—AND THE FISHERMEN KNOW IT.

The insane regulations to which the Minister of Marine and Fisheries pledged his authority at the instance of a couple of exporting firms on Water Street, have practically brought about a state of chaos. Not only in St. John's are the evidences visible, but throughout the island generally. North, South, East and West have felt the disastrous effect produced by the enforcement of the regulations, and whole sections have been reduced to a state of semi-starvation because of them. How absurd and silly then to have exponents of the regulations argue that but for their prices would be nowhere. The fishermen who are going around the streets of St. John's to-day, with yaffles under their arms, as samples of quality, cured and made according to Mr. Coaker's instructions, are now awake to the fact that they were duped: that the regulations, instead of protecting, have penalized them. They experience difficulty in disposing of their season's catch. No one will make them an offer excepting at ruinous prices, and they naturally lay the blame to the policy advocated by Mr. Coaker and enforced by the regulations. Nothing that the Government press can say will any longer convince them that Mr. Coaker is their friend. They know now, that the price of fish is WHAT HE HAS MADE IT, and they see plainly as our correspondent X.Y.Z. stated in his letter on Saturday, that Coaker, the quondam friend of the fishermen, has now become Coaker the merchant, Coaker the capitalist, whose idea now is to closely follow the methods of the class he once so roundly and loudly denounced. We again declare, on the incontrovertible ermen last week, that but for the imposition of the Fish Regulations, prices would be better to-day than they are, and the restoration of fair and free trade would re-establish our old connections with foreign markets to the advantage of producer and consumer alike.

Powerful Sermon by Rector of St. Thomas's.

Rev. Dr. Jones delivered a very powerful sermon last night on Some Phases of the Report of the Lambeth Conference, dealing particularly with Christian Industry and its social relations. First of all the Rev. Doctor dealt with what he called the three primary principles of social life, which are Human Value, Human Brotherhood and Human Responsibility. The preacher gave illustrations of all these principles, but space will not permit more than a mere mention of them. The speaker then said that there were two open sores in social life, Labor and Drink. Referring to the former, he dealt with the necessity for a living wage. He also stated that the element in wages could be settled only by the employer, and finally that the individual apart from a mere instrument of production. He then spoke of the insecurity of employment, and said the answer to this was that men should seek a better education, but he said, there must always be some who will be "hewers of wood and drawers of water." He expressed the hope that in the near future there would be a bureau to find "a man for every job, and a job for every man." He next dealt with the question of women in industry. Whilst admitting that there was room in industrial life for women, he stated that a woman's principal work is in her home, and that in home life is the secret of a Nation's life. He then spoke of the habit of taking children away from school too early.

To Honor Glorious Dead

In order to perpetuate the memory of our glorious dead, all normal activities in the country will cease for two minutes, commencing at 11 a.m. on Thursday next. The noon gun at Cabot Tower will be fired as a signal for the observance to begin. It is proposed that for the two minutes trains will be stopped on the railways, traffic on the streets, ships at sea (as far as possible), and work suspended everywhere, in schools, shops, mines, factories, etc. During the 2 minutes there should be complete silence. It is hoped that the many who last year forgot to make the observance, will do so this year.

Encounters Bad Weather.

The Danish schooner Energie, 45 days from Setubal, arrived in port yesterday morning. The vessel was bound for Little Bay Islands with salt for the Monroe Export Co., but encountering rough weather and becoming disabled, she was forced to put into St. John's. The Energie was at sea during the heavy storms experienced on the Atlantic lately and whilst off the Azores, lost her foremast and some of her canvas. When the weather became calmer a jury mast was rigged up, enabling the ship to reach port safely. It is likely that the Energie will discharge her cargo of salt here and have the necessary repairs made.

Wesley Epworth League.

At 8 o'clock this evening the Wesley Church Epworth League will be addressed by Hon. John Anderson on Civic Affairs, a subject which is very popular at the present time and which requires a great deal of careful thought. The Hon. Mr. Anderson being thoroughly conversant on such matters a very entertaining and informative address will reward those who attend. Mrs. (Rev.) W. B. Bugden will lead the service. All are welcome.

SNOWING ALONG THE LINE.

Along the line from Whitbourne to Bishop's Falls snow fell during all yesterday and the country was covered with a carpet nearly two inches deep. Last night the thermometer fell considerably and at Bishop's Falls it registered 10.

Gower Street Church.

Rev. Dr. Curtis Delivers Earnest Discourse on "Brotherhood."
(I.C.M.)

Although we hear a good deal about Brotherhood, and have in our midst a great many fraternal societies, it is not often that we hear a sermon which is wholly and directly devoted to the subject. But last night the Rev. Dr. Curtis broke the record, and in plain and stirring words made a strong plea for the brotherhood of all men.

There may be strong objections to the principles of human brotherhood from a social and physical standpoint, but according to the teachings of common Christianity, all men are brothers, and are heirs to eternal life. It was this great fact that the doctor dwelt upon, and in his usual vigorous manner pressed home the salient points of his discourse. As a basis of his subject the speaker quoted the great commandment—the Commandment upon which hang the law and the Prophets. This quotation, with other portions of Holy Writ, directly teach the Fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man; and the principle is so plainly defined, and the relationship so closely allied, that they cannot be separated without injury, one to the other; nor without loss and suffering to the children of men.

It is in this aspect that the lack of brotherhood is seen to-day, and whether it be in the church or the community, or in the state or the realm, or in the world at large, that this lack is found, the results are the same. In closing his discourse the preacher made a strong plea for a better feeling among men in general; and suggested the formation of a Brotherhood. Perhaps Dr. Curtis may repeat his discourse at a later date, or perhaps he may deliver it some Sunday afternoon in the College Hall, but whether it be repeated or not, we sincerely think that the sentiments which it contained will be borne in mind and that in daily life men will "Brothers be, the wide world over."

Dominion Sports.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the Dominion Sports which will be held on Monday, November 22nd, in the Prince's Rink. Quite a number of enthusiasts go to the rink each night to watch the competitors at practice. The 10-mile marathon is exciting deep interest, and as there are several competitors, all well known in city athletic circles, a thrilling contest is assured the public. One week previous to the sports the cups and medals will be on view in one of the city stores. The committee is doing its utmost to make the Dominion Sports a memorable affair in the annals of sport in this city.

Personal.

Mr. G. E. Squires, of Bonavista, is at present in the city purchasing goods.

Mr. Lindsay Crawford, Editor of the Canadian Statesman, is due here by the S.S. Rosalind and will likely give one or two lectures on Irish affairs during his stay in the city.

We learn that Mr. W. H. Bartlett is about to leave on an extended visit to the United States, probably going by the next sailing of S.S. Rosalind. During his absence his popular tonorial parlour will be conducted under the management of Mr. A. J. Wiseman. The latter has been for 15 years in Mr. Bartlett's employ and the numerous patrons of this establishment are assured a continuance of the courteous treatment which has ever been an outstanding feature there.

The firm is now styled W. H. Bartlett & Co. Ltd.
Rev. H. L. Leggo, for the past few years Rector of Hubbards, is leaving next week to come to take charge of the district of North Dartmouth, formerly looked after by Rev. H. C. Light, who has gone to Charlottetown, and will assist Rev. Noel Wilcox, the Rector of Dartmouth. Mr. Leggo is a native of Newfoundland, he having studied at Queen's College and later at Pembroke College, Oxford.
Mr. Leggo is a popular man and a capable preacher and a hard worker, so that a bright future is predicted for him.—Canadian Recorder.

Record Traffic Service.

11000 Passengers in Six Months.
Upwards of eleven thousand people were carried as passengers from Newfoundland to North Sydney during the six months ending October 31st by the steamers Kyle and Sable I., the former making tri-weekly trips from Port aux Basques, while the latter makes only one trip a week direct from St. John's. This exceeds the total number carried by both steamers during the whole of 1919, and judging from the heavy traffic every other day from the ancient colony the present season, when closed, will establish a record hitherto unequalled since the inauguration of the service nearly a quarter of a century ago.—North Sydney Herald.

Guy Tercentenary Committee.

A meeting of the majority of the members now resident here of the John Guy Tercentenary Celebration Committee was held recently for the purpose of determining about the transfer of the monies now in the Newfoundland Savings Bank to the credit of that Committee to the Committee of the Munn Memorial Hospital. The decision arrived at was that as one of the objects of the John Guy Celebration, namely the establishing of a Hospital in this town, had been undertaken by the people with greater chances of success than were likely to be had through the agency of the John Guy Committee, by the gift of the Munn family to the Braehed property, and as that the Committee had by resolution passed during the celebration that the balance remaining on general account should be devoted to the John Guy Hospital project—the Committee agreed to transfer the monies now in hand ($840.40) general account, and $89.87 hospital account, to the Munn Memorial Hospital Committee, on the conditions that the money would be paid over when the Munn Memorial Hospital was an assured fact, and that one of the Wards in the said Hospital would be named "The John Guy Ward."

The original Committee of the John Guy Celebration was formed of eleven citizens, of whom six are now resident in Harbor Grace—Messrs. H. H. Archibald, John Foley, John Trappell, John Cassey, M. T. Jones and W. A. Oke; of the remainder, Mr. W. J. James has left the country, and Messrs. Bernard Parsons, W. A. Strapp, W. Ward and Thomas Harrahan, have passed away.—H. Grace Standard.

placed on a gun carriage, covered with a Union Jack, brought from one of the battlefields of France. The funeral procession will then traverse the route to the Cenotaph. Pall bearers include Lord Beatty, Admirals Meux, Jackson, Sturdee, Madden, Lord French, Lord Haig and Sir Henry Wilson, Lord Horne and Lord Byng. The King with the Royal Princes will await the body at the Cenotaph, where also will be about forty cabinet ministers and ex-ministers, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dominion High Commissioners, Indian Princes and many other representative men. As Big Ben, the great clock at Westminster, strikes the last stroke of eleven o'clock the King will unveil the Cenotaph and two minutes' silence will follow. The "Last Post" from massed buglers will conclude the short service. The procession will then reform, the Archbishop and heads of religious denominations immediately preceding the coffin and pall bearers, and behind the latter the King will be on foot as chief mourner, attended by the Princes. Seats and places have been allocated in the Abbey to relatives of fallen warriors, members of the House of Lords and Commons having offered their seats at the ceremony to the mothers of the fallen. So great has been the applications for seats at the two ceremonies, that there has been a lottery for limited accommodation among those who have lost close relatives.

JAPAN AND U.S.A.

TOKIO, Nov. 8.—At a public meeting of two thousand persons Friday evening, it was recommended that a firm attitude toward United States, with respect to recent California Legislation, affecting Japanese, be adopted.

NEWSPAPERMEN THREATENED.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The correspondent of the Central News at Traloo reports that he will be shot, if he transmits any despatches without first submitting them to the police. Sir Haver Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was questioned in the House of Commons last Wednesday, regarding this story from a staff correspondent in Ireland, of the Daily News, to the effect that the correspondent's life was in danger from Black and Tans, because he wrote the truth. The Govt. said Sir Haver had not been informed of the threat, but he had induced the District Inspector at Traloo, where the threat was alleged to have been made, to give protection to all newspaper correspondents.

MORE SECRET PACES.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A wireless from Moscow says a Secret Treaty has been concluded between Poland and Latvia, with a view to partitioning Lithuania. The Treaty is supported by France, and aims at the complete severance of Soviet Russia from Germany.

WILD SCENES IN DERRY.

BELFAST, Nov. 8.—Wild scenes were witnessed in Londonderry, Saturday night, as the sequel to a sudden attack on policemen there. Five policemen were shot, two of them so seriously that they are not expected to recover. Two shops were burned to the ground and seven others were wrecked. All the property belonged to Sinn Feiners. The attack on policemen was directed against officers who were guarding the Customs House, and a brisk exchange of shots followed. The affray occurred at nine o'clock in the evening, in a busy neighbourhood, and so terrified crowds of shoppers, that they fled homewards in panic. Afterwards police and military raided a large section of the city, holding up and searching everyone then found out of doors, and invading and searching numerous houses.

AS A PROTEST.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Hundreds of Irish sympathisers marched for an hour to-night in single file around the White House, as a protest against the recent death of MacSweeney. They announced that the demonstration would be repeated for seventy-three days, the time of MacSweeney's fast.

BELFAST IN A SEETH.

BELFAST, Nov. 8.—Fierce rioting broke out in North

Belfast yesterday. Hundreds joined in the fray, Unionists with stones and Sinn Fein with revolvers and rifles. They were finally dispersed by a large body of police and an armored military car. A laborer was shot dead in Cork by the military, who declared he disobeyed orders to halt.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Horses, Nov. 8, 1920. (British Wireless Service).—The body of the unknown British warrior to be buried in Westminster Abbey on Armistice Day—Thursday—after the unveiling by the King of Cenotaph in Whitehall, will be received, on arrival from the battlefields at Boulogne, with French military honors. The body will be brought on the British destroyer Verdun, to Dover, where it will be given similar honors. There will be a Field Marshal's salute of 19 guns, as it is brought ashore. On Thursday morning the coffin will be Burdensome Restrictions.

A business man on the West Coast, writing of existing conditions in the section in which he resides, says that the Fish and Sugar Regulations are condemned by everybody. Referring to the latter he continues: "I was at Sydney last week and could have bought sugar at $16 per hundred pounds, which could have been imported and sold at 22 cents per pound, the consumer thus receiving the benefit of a much lower rate than that imposed by the F.C.B. The sum saved per pound would be ten cents. Not being permitted to import direct, we do not intend to buy from the Board. Thus the consumers will have to do without sugar, or in paying the 32 cents controlled rate, be deliberated robbed by the Government of ten cents per pound." Commenting on the statement of the Prime Minister, made in England, "that there were no poor people in Newfoundland," the writer goes on, "I think Mr. Squires should take a trip this way and see for himself. Men are not making enough to-day to keep the wolf from the door. With flour away up, molasses $2 a gallon and sugar 32 cents a pound, and other necessities of life priced accordingly, there is not much hope for an early return of the prosperity which once they enjoyed. Many people have not yet got their winter coal in and what is more have no money wherewith to buy it. A few fishermen have a little salt fish in their stages but cannot sell, and as but a small proportion of the men are now prosecuting the fishery, where last year there were hundreds, prospects are none too bright. Skiff owners say that there is nothing to be gained by fishing, there being no sale whatever for it, and they curse the regulations which have brought about a state hitherto unknown here. It is all very well for people with their hands in the Government chest to talk about good times. They know little of actual conditions and care less."

Dogs Attack Policeman.

This morning an unusual scene occurred near the Mechanics Hall, when a policeman doing duty there had to defend himself from a crowd of savage dogs. It appears that in moving on his beat the dogs, five in number, came around him and started to fight. The limb of the law used his own lower limbs to good effect, but could not beat off the animals. He was obliged to draw his billy, with which he succeeded in clubbing several of the dogs into insensibility. A large crowd gathered to watch the fight, and incidentally, some of the spectators used their boots with some effect.

Supreme Court.

(Before Justice Kent.) Between Harvey & Co. Ltd. and Howard J. McDougall, Liquidator of Willar & Co. This is an action for the return of 20 barrels of sugar at $55.00 per barrel, a total amount of $1100. H. A. Winter for plaintiff. C. E. Hunt for defendant. H. A. Winter states the plaintiff's case. Patrick Grace, sworn and examined by Winter, cross-examined by Hunt and re-examined by Winter. W. G. Gosling sworn and examined by Winter, cross-examined by Hunt. This closes plaintiff's case. C. E. Hunt states the defendant's case. Wm. Willar sworn and examined by Hunt, cross-examined by Winter. This closes the defendant's case. The court at this juncture took recess and resumed the hearing at 2.30 o'clock.

Police Court.

Two carmen, charged with the larceny of 3 barrels of beef, valued at $105 were not asked to plead. Mr. W. J. Higgins representing the accused asked that bail be granted. The Crown was not prepared to proceed with the case pending further enquiry and bail for 8 days was granted in personal bonds of $500 each and 2 sureties of $250 each.

St. John's Editor Criticizes Dr. Grenfell.

High Sheriff Blandford, Dr. Mosdell, managing editor of the St. John's Star, and B. B. Stafford, wholesale druggist of the same city, who were here a few days ago, are now in Toronto in connection with the erection of a 200 room modern hotel at St. John's, the cost of which will be about $1,000,000. The company undertaking the project is known as the United Hotels Company, and the capital to be invested will be purely local. The visit of the above gentlemen to the queen city was to discuss the matter with George O'Neill, general manager of the King Edward hotel in Toronto. In speaking of things in general, Dr. Mosdell severely criticized Dr. Wilfred Grenfell the noted missionary of Labrador and northern Newfoundland, for "misleading people" about conditions in Newfoundland. Dr. Mosdell said Dr. Grenfell was giving the impression that Newfoundland was a bleak ice-bound region, whereas zero weather was rare, and St. John's harbor was open all the year round. "Neither are we poverty stricken," declared Dr. Mosdell, who said people in this country might think they were, after having heard Dr. Grenfell speak.—North Sydney Herald.

Nothing Doing With White Napes.

Fishermen are still travelling the town trying to sell their fish at anything above a ruinous price. One man belonging to Tacks Beach, P.B., who had about 150 qts. of fish to dispose of for another party, tried all over town to make a sale without success. He was, however, offered West India price $4.00 per qt. for his produce, by a member of Mr. Coaker's Advisory Board. The fish were not extra good being a slightly saltburnt, but they had the undesirable white napes.

Anniversary Celebration

On Thursday next Armistice Day Avalon Battalion, C.L.B. Cadets, will start its anniversary celebrations by a torchlight parade through the city, headed by the band. On the Sunday following Anniversary, Church parade will be held and on Tuesday the 16th a supper will be served to the Battalion in the Armoury, to be followed by a concert and addresses.

Methodist Sunday School Teachers Meet.

The meeting of the Sunday School Teachers' Institute held last week, under the chairmanship of Rev. O. J. Jackson of Brigus, Sunday School Secretary for the district of St. John's, were very successful and will be the means of stimulating the Methodist Sunday Schools of the city. Monday evening a well attended rally of Epworth Leagues, held in Wesley Church, was addressed by Rev. C. H. Johnson. The subject of the address was the early history of Methodism and the beginnings of the Epworth League. On Tuesday evening the Conference of Primary Teachers was held in George Street Sunday School room. The speakers were Miss M. Dingle, of the Methodist College Staff and Mrs. Good, teacher of the Presbyterian Kindergarten. On Wednesday evening Rev. E. W. Forbes spoke to the teachers of the Junior Department of the characteristics of the junior pupils and methods of teaching adapted to their requirements. At the meeting in Cochrane St. Sunday School room on Thursday evening the speaker was Rev. D. B. Hemmeon and his subject was the early teen age in the Sunday School. Rev. Oliver Jackson also spoke on the training of young people for leadership in Christian work. The closing meeting was held on Friday evening in Gower St. Sunday School room. Rev. Dr. Bond spoke on religious education in the Sunday School and Rev. T. B. Darby on Teacher Training. At the close of the meeting a Teachers' Training Class was formed by thirty teachers of the four schools. The following officers were elected: President, Rev. T. B. Darby; Vice-President, Miss Ada Horwood; Treasurer, Mr. Penney; Secretary, Miss Darby. The first session of the class will be held in the Institute Room of the Methodist College on Wednesday next at 8 o'clock. Rev. D. B. Hemmeon will be the teacher.

Obituary.

MICHAEL POWER.
An old and highly respected resident of Caplin Bay, in the person of Michael Power, passed to his Eternal reward on Sunday, October 24th. Though falling in strength the past two years, he was active until a few days before his death, and it was a sad coincidence that the new church of Caplin Bay, in which he was so deeply interested, and to the opening of which he looked forward with such joy, was, but for weather conditions, to have been dedicated on the very day of his death. Mr. Power was in his 80th year and one of the last of his race of pioneer fishermen planters. He leaves a sister, one son and three daughters, besides a vast circle of friends to mourn their sad loss.—COM.

Inter-Collegiate Football

On Saturday afternoon the final game in the Bishop Feild College Inter-House football series was played on St. George's field, the contesting teams representing East House and West House, both of which had fought their way into the finals by defeating North House and South House. The honor of being Gock House at football for 1920 falls to "West" who defeated their opponents by 2 goals to 1 in a hard fought game. West House is the first to hold the inter-House football trophy, a silver cup presented by Rev. E. Fletcher for competition each year. During the winter an inter-House Basketball series will be played and some interesting games are expected.

Bridge Party.

IN AID OF OLD LADIES' HOME.
The bridge party held on Saturday afternoon in aid of the Cowan Mission "Home for Old Ladies," was a great success both from a social and financial standpoint. Over eighty ladies attended and the quite respectable sum of $44 was made. All the visitors expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the interior of the Home, which reflects great credit upon the ladies of the Cowan Mission and the Matron, Miss Ellis. The Matron will be only too pleased to show visitors over the Home at any time. The committee in charge wish to acknowledge the following donations: Mrs. A. E. Hickman $10; Mrs. S. K. Bell $5; Mrs. Chas. Marshall 2 prs. heavy curtains; Mrs. Wm. Clouston 1 pr. curtains. Donations of money and necessities are urgently needed and should be sent to the Home or to members of the Committee.

FACTS ABOUT TANLAC ARE GIVEN TO PUBLIC.

Special Representative Tells Why It Has Become Most Talked of Medicine in the World To-day.

NO GREAT MYSTERY ABOUT IT, HE SAYS.

Merit Alone Has Confirmed It in the Minds of the People All Over the American Continent.

Thos. F. Carey, special representative in the Province of Newfoundland for Tanlac, the medicine that has created such a sensation all over the United States and Canada, gives some highly interesting facts about Tanlac and the remarkable results achieved by it.

"Contrary to popular opinion," he stated, "there is no great mystery about Tanlac, except in so far as the chemistry of the human body itself and what it does with substances taken into it, is a mystery. Some of the ingredients of Tanlac have been known and used as medicines for centuries. Others are of more recent discovery, but every one of them is recognized therapeutic value and used by the medical profession everywhere. Tanlac is simply a combining of these medicinal elements in a way hitherto unknown and which brings out their curative and reconstructive powers to a most remarkable degree. Briefly, it allays irritation of the stomach, strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, builds up and revitalizes the whole system, and gives the body new powers of resistance and strength. Gratifying gains in weight are not uncommon, especially where a person has suffered from under-nourishment brought on by dyspepsia, indigestion, illness, operation or other causes. "It is a demonstrated fact in medical science that the stomach is the starting point of most of the ills that afflict the human body, and many of the so-called diseases are not diseases at all, but reflex symptoms of the weakened condition of the body that naturally follows. Some kinds of rheumatism, gastritis, palpitation, nervousness, kidney disorders and liver-complaints are among the more common troubles developed through the stomach. Scores of other diseases have been traced to the same source.

Tanlac was made especially to overcome these stomach complaints and the various so-called diseases and symptoms that follow them, but the astonishing reconstructive powers revealed by it have not only astonished the general public, but have somewhat surprised even the originators of the medicine themselves. Thousands of letters reach the Tanlac offices from all parts of North America telling of remarkable results derived by people who have suffered for years without being able heretofore to find relief.

"Naturally, these remarkable achievements have spread the fame of Tanlac to all quarters of the continent, and the demand for it has necessitated working the laboratories night and day.

"The tremendous popularity of Tanlac grows steadily instead of diminishing and can be explained in only one way—merit. Its remarkable restorative effects seem to be more permanent than hitherto believed possible. Thousands of persons who took it when it was first introduced five years ago report that they are still enjoying excellent health, and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after having first tried it out thoroughly."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin Byrne, in Upper Gables by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gush, in Miramichi by Exploits Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Island by William Samson, in Jamestown by C. Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Freaque.

from me will write a letter showing the contrary over their own signature, I will, though I am signing this "Fisherman," answer over mine.

I am pleased to see by to-night's Advocate that there is nothing in that rumored Government guarantee which would be monstrous.

Yours truly,
FISHERMAN.

Now as I am firmly convinced that what I then wrote is correct, as from the comment of Mr. Coaker's career in connection with the Fishermen's Union, I believe he was influenced solely by the idea of benefiting the fishermen and trying in every way to get the highest price for their produce, and I admit that this noble object received without much compensation all the vim and energy which is one of his strongest characteristics. I am, however, sorry to say that this natural vim and energy of his does not appear to be manifested in the same direction now and I fear his association with the Advisory Board has changed his views, or this restriction on New York would not have been gazetted, for I cannot see how his views and those of the Advisory Board could coincide on this point, as the practical shutting out of this market would undoubtedly lower prices of Labrador in St. John's, when planters were disposing of their fish, and altho' I imagine Mr. Coaker almost performed a miracle when he got so many of the exporters to apparently fall in with his arrangements in re the European markets, I think that in this United States affair the Advisory Board got the advantage of him, and actually got him to do a thing which he would not be a party to two years ago.

What can be the real reason for the New York restrictions? Who were the means of carrying them out? Mr. Coaker, who claims that he is on the side of prices to the fishermen, or the Advisory Board, who as Exporters would in their own interests be in favor of Restrictions and less competition, especially from those who are prepared to pay cash down at the time they purchased here. This question is easily answered by fishermen themselves. As far as the fish Rules and Regulations are concerned, with a few exceptions, I do not approve of them. Free trade and competition in the matter of buying and selling, would in my opinion, put the producers in a better position this year, as the present system gives a chance for a monopoly which should not exist.

In this letter I am not going into the European situation, but shall probably in my next have something to say in re the profits that the Exporters make at 87½ to 90 in Greece, which, I fancy, may tend to show that even with the extremely low rate of Exchange, that purchasers here might be justified paying 50¢ to $1.00 a quintal higher prices than are now being paid, and still make a decent profit. But in the meantime as one who in my younger days had a considerable experience in a large exporters firm and know something of this business, I would ask Mr. Coaker to give this matter some consideration with a view to giving free trade with the United States before it is too late in the season for them to take the matter up again.

I want in closing to say that outside a few fishermen friends of mine, and possibly F.P.U. men at that, no one has spoken to me. This is entirely of my own bat and in the meantime I remain,
Yours truly,
JOHN COWAN.

Truckmen Arrested.

The three barrels of beef left by two truckmen in a cul de sac off George Street on Friday night, and later confiscated by the police, were claimed by Mr. T. Smyth, who asserts that they were taken from a quantity of barrels which he has stored on Browning's premises. Mr. Smyth also states that one barrel is still missing. The accused deny all knowledge of the theft.

A DAY AND A BOOK.
Old Brown was one who used to say: "Much like a book is every day—A book you want to read clear through."
And just what its people do: The story starts and causes doubts, But you must know how it turns out: The hero gets in trouble, and Appears to lose his sweetheart's hand. But in the closing pages, you Find happiness and marriage, too."

I like his notion. Every day I start a story just that way, And as I stand before my door, I wonder just what is in store—What joy or sadness shall be mine Before I reach the closing line? What new adventure shall I make? What different road be mine to take? But though the writing may be bad, I trust the ending will be glad.

Now here's a new book just begun This morning with the rising sun! Here wait perhaps adventures bold, A thrilling tale that must be told, Someone perhaps may rise to fame, And I may proudly speak his name, Across the current of my life May blow the changing winds of strife, And I may clearer come to see The answer to life's mystery.

The Bought Treaty.

On November 3, 1492, Henry VII. received from Charles of France the sum of £149,000 under the following circumstances. Duke Francis of Brittany had died, leaving his coronet to his daughter Anne, a girl of twelve, but as the French King claimed the dukedom, Henry, who had spent a great part of his exile in Brittany, was forced to send an army to aid the defenceless princess. This help, however, was burdened with the condition that she should give up two towns as security for the money spent in her cause, and that she should not marry without his consent. The raising of taxes to equip this army excited a revolt in the north of England, but the Earl of Surrey soon dispersed the insurgents, and their leader suffered death at York. Anne of Brittany was betrothed to Maximilian, King of the Romans, with the consent of Henry, but Charles of France forced her into a marriage with himself, and the King of England at last resolved on war. This was pleasing to the English people, for Henry had long been talking of war, and had often received supplies and extorted benevolences for the purpose; but it had not yet been fulfilled. Still he invented reasons for delay, and it was not until October, 1492, that he landed in France and laid siege to Boulogne. The invasion ended as did that of Edward IV. The French King knew Henry's love of money; and ere the siege had lasted many days he secured the Treaty of Estaples (now Etaples) by promising a large sum. Henry received this on November 3, and retained it, besides, all the money he had extorted from his own subjects for the war. This caused much discontent among the people, while the nobles murmured that they had been balked of their conquest of France, in anticipation of which many of them had mortgaged their estates.

ROW AT KING CAFE.—The King Cafe was again the scene of a disturbance last night when some riotous guests who were evidently the worse for drink started in to make things hum. The management was forced to call in the police who soon restored order without having to make any arrests.

The Fishery Regulations and American Buyers.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—As I have decided not to write anything further on this subject unless over my own signature, because if I have the honesty of my convictions I could not hesitate to sign my own name, I should ask for the privilege of reproducing what I gave you a few days ago over the signature of "Fisherman," which will better explain what I am now sending you as well as some future things that I may possibly have to say.

On the 27th October the following appeared in the Telegram:
"Dear Sir.—A few of the schooner holders, who are now in port, when in conversation with me on the fishery Rules and Regulations, which to them, is an all-absorbing subject, as one that has, and will have, an effect on their families and homes for either good or ill, wound up our conversations by suggesting that I write one of the papers and give my views, and although I had to admit that it was a subject on which I had some knowledge, yet, as I had not all the material at hand, and as, if I commenced writing on this subject of such interest to the fishermen of this country, I should wish to keep as near as possible to the truth at any rate as it appears to me; hence I should be prepared to say nothing until after giving the matter some thought.

However, as I said there are one or two things which I do not think brook delay and I will briefly refer to them. The first is the price United States are called on to pay and the restrictions otherwise imposed on them. As a matter of fact the price asked, $68 per cask for Labrador Choice and $63 per cask for Labrador Prime, is simply another way of saying We will not sell you. In fact we are turning down a business on a cash basis, and who may take a large portion of our Labrador fish at extremely high prices.

What can be the reason for this? It is plain to me that such an action can only have but one effect, viz, that of lessening the prices of Labrador to the fishermen during the next two months, and I certainly cannot imagine Mr. Coaker being a party to it. I believe Mr. Coaker to have been imbued at the outset by the procurer for the fishermen of the very highest prices, and influences from others must have been used to get him to fire this shot, which would be the means of lessening the price to the fishermen. That it must have that effect I am prepared not only to say but to prove, and although I am not a political manipulator or politician of any kind, and have no wish to enter into such a thing, I am firmly convinced that this restriction of New York is so wrong and unjust that if either Mr. Coaker or one of his Advisory Board who thinks differently

Conference of Older Boys.

The pioneer Older Boys Conference for Newfoundland was held on Saturday afternoon and evening in the Presbyterian Hall, sixty-five boys from the Sunday Schools of the city were present. The sessions were interesting and profitable throughout, and the conference did much to stimulate interest in religious work among older boys. Rev. Oliver Jackson occupied the chair during the afternoon. The opening address was given by Rev. Dr. Jones. He spoke of the necessity for four-fold development along physical, intellectual, religious and social lines. Rev. D. B. Hemmeon spoke on the boy and the community and asked the help of the boys in the care of property, the observance of law and securing cleaner streets in the city. Dr. Grieve spoke on the care of health and the strengthening of powers of endurance. After these addresses the conference adjourned to the gymnasium of the Methodist College, where an exhibition of gymnastic work was given by a number of the Methodist College boys under the direction of Mr. T. F. Beresford and the leadership of Mr. Fowler. A route march was then held through some of the city streets, which wound up at the Presbyterian Hall. There an appetizing bean supper awaited the delegation and an enjoyable hour was spent in social fellowship and the singing of popular songs. Lantern slides of the 1919 camp of the Gower St. Scouts were thrown on the screen. At the evening session the chair was taken by Mr. Arthur Mews. A question box on methods of work was conducted by Rev. E. W. Forbes. Mr. Jackson charted a boy, according to Canadian Efficiency Standard Tests and explained the meaning of the "C. S.E.T." The closing address on the investment of life was given by Rev. H. Hamilton of the Presbyterian Church. A vote of thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who had provided and served the bean supper was unanimously passed. Great credit attaches to Mr. Jackson for the success both of the Teachers' Institute and the Boys' Conference, and it is hoped that the latter will be made an annual affair in the future.

Notes From Bonavista.

The splendid Hotel "Thornlea" has just had electric fittings installed and is now as modern as any St. John's hostelry of like size. Mrs. Thorne and her talented daughters are ever busy catering to the needs of numerous patrons. Miss Gertrude, the third oldest daughter, is at present in the capital putting the finishing touches to her musical education, under the direction of Mr. F. J. King. Another daughter, Bessie, 8 years old, will, we are assured, make a name for herself. She has performed several times at concerts here and her whistling, with piano accompaniment, has thrilled her auditors. It is thought she will shortly visit St. John's, when the musical critics there may have the pleasure of hearing native talent of exceptional merit.

On Thursday night a store owned by Mr. Thos. Ford was razed to the ground by fire, being a complete loss to the owner. The place was occupied by Mr. Goldstone carrying on a dry goods store. The fire was supposed to have started from two large oil lamps igniting the ceiling. Nothing of the stock was saved, but we understand that it was insured.

The new electric lighting system for the town has been completed, and on Saturday the lights were turned on for the first time, many private residences having the system installed.

A visitor here after an absence of ten years, was much impressed with the improvements made during that period, many beautiful residences have been erected and the principal stores modernized, new and up-to-date ones, have been recently built. A butcher's store is also an addition to the town, it is owned by Mr. Fred Crowley, and is always stocked with choicest local meats. It may be noted that Mr. Crowley has amongst his fattening animals a Durham, which for size and condition, would be acceptable in the best English market.

The shore fishery this year has not been as good as in other years, and with the low price paid many families are feeling the pinch. Cash is being paid in settling up sales, but it is seldom that the account is not larger than the receipts. However, considering that conditions were more favorable in other years, the majority, having saved for the "rainy day," will weather the depression.

Funeral Yesterday.
The funeral of the late Dr. J. C. MacDonald took place yesterday afternoon, and a large concourse of mourners attended including many members of the Knights of Columbus, T.A. & B., B.I.S. and Elks of which societies deceased was a member. At the Cathedral the prayers for the dead were recited by Rev. Fr. Leamey, and interment took place at Belvedere cemetery.

On Wednesday evening next the Newfoundland Motor Association will hold their first annual dinner. The affair will be held at Donovan's commencing at 8 p.m. Already over 100 members and their friends have signified their intention of attending. The committee in charge of arrangements have prepared an excellent programme and toast list, so that a good time is assured all who are present.

Members who have not yet purchased tickets may obtain same up to Wednesday at one o'clock at F. V. Chesman's, 178 Water Street. The committee in charge of the dinner would deeply appreciate it if members requiring tickets for themselves and friends would purchase same promptly in order that they may inform Mrs. Hughes the exact number that she will be required to cater for.

Members who are likely to have spare seats in their cars with which they could accommodate guests of the Association would be conferring a favor on the Association if they would communicate with Mr. Thos. Soper (Telephone 480).

Guests of the Association who wish transportation arranged for them would also oblige the committee by communicating with Mr. Soper who will be happy to arrange transportation to and from Donovan's for them. The committee in charge of the dinner is doing everything to ensure member's personal guests a good time and it is hoped that as many as possible will attend.

Author of "Paradise Lost."

On November 8, 1674, during the reign of Charles the Second, John Milton died at his residence in Bunhill Row, London, and his remains were buried in the Parish Church of St. Giles, Cripplegate, where there is a monument to his memory. Another monument was erected to him in Westminster Abbey. He was born in Broad Street, London, on December 9, 1608, and his careful education by his literary and musical father was continued at St. Paul's School, and at Cambridge, at which he afterwards composed "Comus," considered an exquisite poem, "L'Allegro," "Il Penseroso," "Lycidas," and "Sonnets"; but the one that became by far the most celebrated is "Paradise Lost," for which, however, he could hardly find a publisher, and received for it only five pounds. Compared with the present time money was then so scarce that the price of necessities was nominally only a third of what it is now. In "Paradise Lost" he refers to the fact that he had become totally blind. But his "Paradise Regained," the brighter and Christian side, has been unfairly depreciated. His favorite place for thought and composition was with his head on cushions, and blankets over his body; some people even now find bed the best place for thinking and composing. Milton spent three years in Italy after leaving Cambridge, but returned to England on being informed of the political trouble between Charles the First and the Parliamentarians, he took the side of the latter, and was secretary to Oliver Cromwell all through the time that he was Protector. After the Restoration of Charles the Second in 1660, Milton was arrested by order of the House of Commons, but after a short confinement was liberated. By 1665 he had completed "Paradise Lost," but next year, during the great Plague in London, he removed to Chalfont, in Buckinghamshire. His first wife was a daughter of Mr. Powell, an Oxfordshire gentleman, but she deserted him because her father was attached to the Royal cause. After her death he married a second, and a third, and had two daughters, whom he taught to read Greek and Hebrew, and they served their blind father as his readers and as amanuenses in Latin, that is, "with hands," as writers.

"The Man From Home."

AT THE CASINO TO-NIGHT.
The Klark-Urban Company presents for the opening of their third week at the Casino to-night, "The Man From Home." The scenes of this production are laid in a town in Southern Italy, and deals with the efforts of American women to break into the European "four hundred" for the sake of influence and title. The intrigues of this reputed family of distinction were frustrated by the efforts of the "Man from Home." This role will be played by Mr. Harden Klark. When this play was produced in America it was given unsolicited approval by the clergy, and it has been amazing and enlightening to observe the quick response to this approval. On Wednesday and Thursday of this week the Company offers another play that is distinctly different from to-night's, namely "Eyes of Youth," New York's greatest success, a dramatic novelty. Seats now selling at Fred V. Chesman's.

Attractive
Coats for Winter
AT
Special Prices

We here illustrate two specially attractive Coats made from new Synthetic Fur material known as "Chase's Furwove Muskrat" for winter wear. These Coats are the newest belted models for 1920-1921 wear, perfectly cut and finished, built to resist, and as a protection against all weathers. They are well lined throughout, and so faithfully is the Muskrat Fur copied that it defies detection unless it is very minutely inspected.

These Coats come in two lengths, and are sold at two prices,

$65 and $75 respectively.

G. F. KEARNEY.

First ten per cent.—then twenty per cent. It is incredible! We thought when we staged our famous "Back to '14 Campaign" that ten per cent. was a generous reduction, though the effect it produced was well worth it. It showed to other stores the necessity for protecting the customer, and they followed our lead. Now—twenty per cent.! But there it is in black and white—"orders from headquarters," sent from New York, the buying centre of America. Kearney is there—and Kearney knows!

Everything goes into this Sale—lock, stock and barrel—giving you the benefit of next year's prices now, and selling you Quality Goods no matter how sheer the reduction.

Cash Purchases
Only. No

One thing essential in your Winter Coat is QUALITY. One has to wear their Winter Coat for many months, and to stand against this you require the best of material in it.

We have carefully selected our stock of Winter Coatings and feel we have goods that merit your approval. You can purchase enough excellent material to make a coat for $24.00, and if you wish we can make it up for you, and deliver the finished garment in a week or less if necessary. The material is equal in quality to that in coats which retail at $70.00 to $90.00.

We ask you to come in and see the goods, examine them, get samples and prices, compare with others, and come back and purchase the goods.
