THE Lady of the Night

Amelia Makes Success

CHAPTER XXX.
ON THE ICE.

As she did so, Miss Deborah looked up, and started.

"Bless my soul!" she exclaimed, "how like you are to that young imp! What do you say you are—his sister?"

"His cousin," replied Nora demurely. "Yes, I am very like him, and I hope you will be as kind to me as you were to him. I can't help being a girl."

"No, I suppose not," retorted Miss Deborah with a snort, "or you wouldn't shut the door after you, most hussies leave them open."

Nora was as much amazed as she was delighted at the success of her plot. It is true that her heart smote her for the deceitful part she was playing, but she tried to soothe her conscience by telling herself that her beneficence would sustain no loss. For some little time, for a few hours really, Miss Deborah regarded her new companion suspiciously and endeavoured to keep her at arm's length. Day who could forbear resist the blandishments of our Nora?

In the evening a visitor was announced. It was Mr. Striple, and he entered with his usual humble and deprecatory air. Nora was sitting at needlework with Miss Deborah, and Mr. Striple's eyes and mouth opened like those of one who had just seen when he saw the beautiful young girl, and there was perplexity plain depicted on his face as Nora passed him with a slight inclination of the head.

"Dear me!" he said, "that's a very beautiful young lady. A friend of yours, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Miss Deborah, "she is my companion. I suppose you would call her, she is a sister, or a cousin, or some kind of relative of my boy Cyril."

"Ah! that accounts for the extraordinary likeness I noticed," said Mr. Striple, as he proceeded to get out a packet of papers, which he endeavoured, with more or less success, to explain to the old lady. This was his third visit, and Mr. Striple was almost in despair for Miss Deborah was so absent-minded and so incapable of returning a consecutive piece that Mr. Striple found that at each interview he had to begin all over again with the mysterious business he had in hand, and on this occasion he went away shaking his head and shrugging his shoulders and muttering—

"She's not a head like a sieve; you can pour away all day, but it all runs through. I don't believe she can remember anything for five minutes together. If there was only some one to help me with her! That young lady looks interested. I wonder if I could trust her? But not to risk it! If a word gets out before the time is right, if that old fox scents mischief, he'll beat us dead. Oh, dear, what a troublesome world this is!"

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and health will be yours. Write for free book. It will help you as it did Mrs. Lindsay.

Legion of the Lost.

Every year no fewer than thirty thousand persons disappear in the city of London alone. Some of them are never seen or heard of again; others, after months or weeks of absence, return and take up the threads of their former life as if they had never left it.

"I recall my case," said a New Scotland Yard official, "in which a City man sent a telegram to his wife informing him that he had been called away to the Continent on urgent business, but hoped to be back within a week. But years passed without receiving a trace of him. Ten years later he walked into the house, kissed his wife, and began to talk about home and family affairs as unconcernedly as if he had left her that morning. And it was not until some months later that it was discovered that he had spent the entire period of his absence in Clerkenwell, less than a dozen miles away, where disguised and under an assumed name, he had made a living by keeping a small grocery shop."

"In another case a barrister left his children in the Temple, telling his clerk that he would be back in an hour for a consultation. When he failed to return, his friends grew alarmed. Six years passed before he was discovered in the guise of a waiter in a New York hotel. When he was challenged he declared that his name was not that by which he was addressed. He was persuaded to return to London, where he resumed his work as naturally as if he had left it the day before. But to this day he vows that he has no recollection whatsoever of the period of his absence or why he left London so mysteriously."

Just Folks

THE NEWSPAPER MAN.

Bit of a priest and bit of a sailor. Bit of a doctor and bit of a tailor. Bit of a lawyer, and bit of detective. Bit of a judge, for his work is corrective; cheering the living and soothing the dying. Raking all things, even dare-devil flying. True to his paper and true to his class—Just look him over, the newspaper man.

Sleep! There are times that he'll do with a little. Work till his nerves and his temper are brittle. Fire cannot burn him, nor long hours disturb him. Gold cannot buy him and threats cannot curb him; Highborn or lowborn, your own speech he'll hand you. Talk as you will to him, he'll understand you. He'll go wherever another man can. This is the way of the newspaper man.

Surgeon, if urgent the need be, you'll see him. He'll give the ether and never once falter. Say the last rites like a priest at the death bed. Which is proved now and then when his keen eye grows teary. Facing all things in life's curious plan. That is the way of the newspaper man.

One night's work may be rest from his labor. One day at home to be father and neighbor.

Just a few hours for his own bit of leisure. All the rest's gazing at other men's pleasure. All the rest's toiling, and yet he remains. All the world is, and that men do, he knows a calling more glorious than any. The day-by-day-work of the newspaper man?

A Bishop of Fifty Parson-Power.

Captain Monckton, for many years Resident Magistrate of New Guinea, some remarkable stories of his life ready appeared in these columns, tells some remarkable stories of his life among the diggers in the Yodda gold-field.

The Yodda miners, we are told, were about as hard-bitten, hard-swearers and utterly reckless a lot of "hard cases" as could be found under the British flag. The Captain says: "They had got a cemetery—which, I might remark in passing, was afterwards washed out, with the bones of its inhabitants, because a payable streak of gold was found in it—and it was well filled with dead diggers."

"The Bishop, after looking at it, suggested that he should read the burial service over the graves. I agreed that it might be a good thing; making a mental note that afterwards, when anxious relatives wrote to me about their dear relatives, I could say that the Bishop of New Guinea had given them Christian burial. I sent a summons to the miners, telling them what was to take place, and they rolled up in strength to attend.

"The Bishop read the impressive service of the Church in a voice and manner that struck home to those miners, and produced an unexpected result. Mat Crow, a prominent man among them, was deeply affected; and, at the end, he strode up to the Bishop, and, with hearty on the back, and broke forth:

"Boys, this is kind of the Bishop. There's Alligator Jack and Red Bill, there is Blank and Blank and Blank planted here, and nobody knows what they were like, and we know what the Warden is like who read prayers over them; he was better than nothing; but he is no good long-side a person and a Bishop is fifty-parson-power in one. Boys, I move a vote of thanks to the Bishop, with three times three; and may we all have a Bishop to plant us. Alligator Jack would be a proud man today if he knew what was being done for him."

"Bishop Stone Wigg led, as the vote of thanks was carried with enthusiasm, and the cheers for the fifty-parson-power person echoed over the grave-yard."

Once Weak and Delicate.

63, Eldridge Road, Clapham Park, S.W.4.

Dear Sir,—At three months old my baby was weak and delicate, causing us a great deal of anxiety. We were advised to try "Virol," and did so, with the result that now at 11 months of age he is as bonny a baby as any mother could wish to have; he weighs 22 lbs. 2 ozs., is firm and well proportioned. We feel confident that this is due to the regular use of Virol, and should advise all mothers to use it.

I am, yours truly,
E. COATES.

Virol is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother, besides being for children; it supplies those vital elements which are necessary for the building up of the body. It is also a good stimulant, and food of the nerves. Virol helps to form firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Travesty of Justice

Trial of German War Criminals Merely a Farce--Further Irish Negotiations Suggested--Cuban Sugar Workers Riot--Non-ballooning Miners Return to Collieries.

HUNS PLAYING AT JUSTICE.
BRUSSELS, June 18. The Minister of Justice in presenting the report of Belgian representatives on the recent acquittal by the Leipzig Court, which is trying war criminals, of Max Randorh, a Leipzig student, charged with the ill-treatment and imprisonment of Belgian children at Grammont in 1917, announced that the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Berlin immediately to protest against the acquittal. The Minister at Berlin was instructed to inform the German Government that Belgium intended to insist upon its right to try accused persons under the terms of the Versailles Treaty, which recognizes the right of Allied and Associated Powers to bring before a Military Tribunal persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs of war.

BOLSHEVISTS ASSIST TURKS.
PARIS, June 18. Russian Bolsheviks have sent to the assistance of Turkish Nationalists by the Moscow Soviet Government, are at present sixty miles west of Erzurum, former capital of Armenia, says a Reval despatch to the Excelsior. These forces include two divisions of infantry, one division and one brigade of cavalry, besides artillery and technical units. The 11th Soviet army, numbering sixty thousand, is said to be following at a short distance.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT COM-PROMISE.
LONDON, June 18. Adjournment of the debate in the House of Lords yesterday after lengthy arguments by Lord Buxton and Viscount Bryce in favor of amending the Home Rule Bill, and entering into negotiations with moderate Sinn Feiners, together with the announcement that the Government would reply on Tuesday, brought out new peace rumors yesterday. The idea generally favored is that some prominent man like Jan Smuts, South African Premier, Viscount Grey and the Earl of Derby should be designated by the Government to meet delegations representing the Northern and Southern Irish Parliaments, and endeavor to negotiate an acceptable compromise.

RIOTS IN CUBA.
KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 18. Serious uprising among laborers on a pure sugar estate in Cuba, is reported in advices received here. The riots broke out when the laborers were unable to obtain their wages. One of the managers of the estate and four others were killed.

SOME MINERS TO RESUME DES-PTITE BAILLON.
LONDON, June 18.

The Executive Committee of the Miners' Union, which met this morning to consider the coal strike situation, decided to ask all trades unions affected by wage disputes to meet the miners' representatives at an early date with the object of taking national action with the miners to secure their mutual demands. Secretary Hodges of the miners said this implied a general strike, if other unions agreed. Many thousands of miners who did not participate in balloting, as well as many who voted for acceptance of the owners' settlement offer, are preparing to resume work on Monday in response to notices posted at several pitheads, announcing that the works would open tomorrow night, according to advices from mining centres to-day. In Warwickshire two collieries are already working.

ANTI-BOLSHEVISTS ADVANCE.

HARBIN, Manchuria, June 18. Further successes by the troops of General Baron Von Ungern-Stromborg, anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, are reported here. His forces are said to have captured Petrovsky, on the trans-Siberian railway, midway between Irkutsk and Chita, and to be threatening Chita, capital of the Government of the Far-Eastern Republic of Siberia. Advices declare General Von Ungern-Stromborg has issued a proclamation looking to the restoration of the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovich, younger brother of former Emperor Nicholas, "whose whereabouts have been a mystery for some time." The same advices declare that troops sent from Chita to meet the Ungern-Stromborg forces mutilated and refused to fight the advancing anti-Bolshevik army. The insurgent movement in Central Siberia seems to be spreading southward, as insurgent successes in Semipalatinsk and Barnaul, southeast of Tomsk, are reported.

PAPER STRIKE NOT SETTLED.
NEW YORK, June 18.

Conferences between officials of the International Paper Co. and representatives of International Union of Paper Mill Workers to arrange a strike settlement ended yesterday without results. No date was set for future meetings. The strike at the International Paper Company's mills has been in progress since May 1st, with 7,000 men out of work.

CARBONAR MAN DIES.
MONTREAL, June 18.

The death occurred at Ganaoquo, this morning, after a short illness, of Andrew Archibald, Welsh Proprietor of the Ganaoquo Inn. Mr. Welsh was born in Carbonar, Nfld., 68 years ago, and was the son of the late Daniel Hastie Welsh, who was representative in the Maritime Provinces of Gault Brothers of Montreal.

U. S. SINN FEINERS SPLIT.
DENVER, Col., June 18.

A split between the two factions of Irish sympathizers in the American Federation of Labor Convention, widened to-night when a majority of signers of a resolution, demanding the boycott of British goods, announced they had petitioned the resolutions committee asking permission to withdraw the declaration.

GREEK MORALE DOUBTFUL.
CONSTANTINOPLE, June 18.

Delay is predicted in the Greek offensive against Turkish Nationalists. It is believed in many neutral quarters here to be due to the uncertain morale of the Greek troops, coupled with what is reported to be fairly good condition of the Turkish forces.

MURDER AND ARSON.
DUBLIN, June 18.

The count of casualties resulting from the ambush of the Crown forces at the junction of Ryder's Row and Capel Street last night, shows one officer, five soldiers and ten civilians wounded in the fighting. During the week-end there were nine nine fatal shootings in the district. The Sinn Fein campaign against steamers carrying supplies and coast guard stations continues unabated. There were numerous burnings of Government property.

U.S. WIN POLO MATCH.
HURLINGHAM, June 18.

The United States won the first of the Polo matches for the International Trophy played here, Saturday, defeating Great Britain by a score of 11 to 4.

WASHINGTON, June 18.

Satisfactory proof that Daniel O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, has left U.S.A., has been furnished the Department of Labor by Michael Francis Doyle, Attorney for O'Callaghan. It was announced yesterday at the Department of Labor.

TIME NOT OPPORTUNE.
PARIS, June 18.

Consideration of Senator Duplantier's interpellation asking what measures the French Government intends to take concerning William Hohenzollern was indefinitely postponed to-day.

The Beginning of the British Navy.

Perhaps the real foundation of the British navy was laid in the reign of Henry VII. Larger and finer warships were then built, the first two celebrated being the "Regent", which was copied from a French ship of 600 tons, and the "Sovereign". They were launched on June 20, 1490, but unfortunately the "Regent" was burnt in 1512 in an action off Brest. Another very famous battleship launched in the reign of Henry VIII, was the "Henry Grace a Dieu." She was built by the first master-shipwright of the Royal Navy, and pictures may still be seen of her at Hampton Court Palace. She was armed with 21 heavy all-brass guns. At this time the chief naval station was Portsmouth, where 41 vessels were always stationed. In the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth little was done for the fleet, but in 1588 it gave ample evidence of its strength when it defeated the Spanish Armada. Henry VIII. contributed greatly towards the defence and arsenal of the Navy. He fortified Gravesend and Tilbury, and built many strongholds of castles, and at Southsea, Walmer, Sandgate, Sandown, Cowes, Penzance, and St. Mary's, Plymouth in the Navy at this time were very severe and often barbarous, but justice was certainly done to each offender, who was tried by what was really the beginning of the Court Martial. Charles I. found the men of the Navy were badly fed, ill-clothed, and terribly discontented; indeed, he received an official document which set forth that unless he took some steps "His Majesty will lose the honour of the sea, the love and loyalty of his sailors, and his Majesty will droop." Wages were immediately raised, and the food and clothing question was inquired into. A little signalling at sea was commenced at this time by lights, but flag-signalling was still in its infancy. Medals for distinguished conduct were instituted, and given to officers only at first, but later on to seamen. These ranged in value from £50 to £5, while to Blake, Monck, and Penn, three distinguished officers, medals were given with gold chains attached of a great value and much beauty.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris's reply to a letter of mine to observing June 24 as the holiday, states, among other things, that "it would be quite a proper day on the ground either that it is St. John the Baptist's Day, or that it is Midsummer Day, but certainly not on the ground of commemorating an event which is unsupported by any sound evidence."

Rev. L. A. Anspach on pages 27, 28 of his History of Newfoundland, quoting Fabian, a contemporary of John Cabot, states that "he has at last, on the 24th of June, a sight of land, to which he gave the name of Prima Vista or Bonavista. (first or pleasing sight), a Cape still so called on the Eastern Coast of Newfoundland." Having landed in the adjoining bay he saw several natives who were dressed in the skins of animals. He, in the name of the King of England, took possession of that island, which he named Baccaios, the word used for codfish by the natives."

In Sir Richard Henry Bonycastle's "Newfoundland in 1842," on page 12 it is stated: "It is said that Sebastian Cabot's fleet made the land of the New World near Bonavista Bay about the Island of Baccaios on the 24th of June, 1497."

Judge Frowse in the second edition of his history, page 8, states: "On the 24th of June, at early morn, an inscription on the Cabot map says, 'they first sighted the New World.'" On page 16 he states: "In this colony an unbroken tradition points to Cape Bonavista, Newfoundland, as the first land seen. The tradition is confirmed by an English map of Newfoundland made by John Mason, a distinguished captain in the Royal Navy of England about 1616. On this ground I claim for Cape Bonavista the honour of being the first land seen in North America. In all probability St. John's was also discovered either on Cabot's first or second voyage."

In "Newfoundland, the Oldest Colony," by Joseph Hatton and the Rev. M. Harvey on page 6, it is said: "We do not know much more of it than may be set forth in the laconic record that on the 24th of June, following the departure from Bristol the glad cry of 'Land ho' was heard, and that Cabot named the headland which he saw 'Prima Vista.' A Bristol manuscript, which has survived the wrecks of time, chronicles the discovery in the following curt terms: 'In the year 1497, the 24th of June, or St. John's Day, was Newfoundland found by Bristol men in a ship called the 'Mathew.'"

His Grace Archbishop Howley in his "Ecclesiastical History of Newfoundland," on pages 49, 59, 61, 62 and 63 reviews the authorities. He states that not Bonavista, but St. John's was the place Cabot first landed. Having entered the harbor on the 24th of June he gave it the name of St. John's. For my purpose it is a matter of indifference whether Cape Bonavista or St. John's was the first place discovered. All the writers agree that Newfoundland was discovered by Cabot on the 24th of June. There is unbroken tradition to that effect.

The 24th of June is good enough for us. We ought to observe some day. Shall we go back on tradition and the historians of Newfoundland, even though so eminent a personage as His Excellency would damp our enthusiasm by casting doubt on the long accepted fact that Newfoundland, the beginning of the British Empire overseas was discovered by Cabot on the 24th of June, fourteen hundred and ninety-seven.

Yours sincerely,

Fleeing the Fishermen.

In their insane desire to produce a revenue to meet extravagant and reckless expenditure, the Government are prepared to go to any extreme in the matter of taxing the fishermen. Not content with the already heavy tariff rates in addition to the Morris-surtax-of-ten-percent the acting Minister of Finance and Customs, who is that notable Liberal-Reform Leader, Sir R. A. Squires, has in his budget imposed a super-tax of twenty-five per cent. on all dutiable articles imported into the Colony, and not satisfied with that overburdening weight, has added still yet another extra importation tax of five per cent. on everything enumerated in the tariff, with the exception of flour upon which is levied a tax of three per cent. Goods hitherto exempted from duty have to pay this tax. As a euphemism this tax is quoted as a Sales tax, which is not by any means, for being collectible at the Custom House only, it becomes, because of that, an extra tax on imports, and cannot by any stretch of the imagination be deemed a Sales tax. It is a revenue getter purely and simply, and is probably the most barefaced way of fleecing fishermen, laborers, tradesmen and every class of employee, that ever was designed by a Government.

It has been pointed out already just what extra cash will be sweated out of the people by "Sir Tax Squires." The fishermen particularly are the chief sufferers and they have been specially aimed at by this most nefarious method of raising a revenue. Every last item of their supplies will be boosted in price by the clapping on of this five per cent. and Flour, Pork, Beef, Butter, Hard Bread, Salt, Lines, Twines, Molasses, Cutch, Tobacco, Rubber Boots, Oil, Clothes, Kero. Oil, Gasoline, Paint, Tar and the hundred other articles required by them will carry increased prices, when everybody expected them to be lower. Perhaps the worst feature of all this mischievous tariff is the restoration of duty on Kerosene Oil, when imported in hardwood barrels. Last year with a great flourish of Government trumpets, free entry was given Kerosene Oil when imported in wood, the idea being to encourage the purchase abroad of hardwood casks in order that these packages be used in the export of fish oils. This year that preference is to be removed, and fishermen who use a great deal of kerosene for lighting purposes and still more as a motive power producer for their engine-fishing boats, are discriminated against by the restoration of the five cents a gallon tariff rate, plus ten per cent. surtax, plus twenty-five per cent. super-tax, plus five per cent. extra importation tax on cost, freight and regular duty, in addition to a duty on the package itself. The Government thereby expects to raise one hundred thousand dollars, the bulk of which will be wholly and solely bled from the fishermen. Why is this done? Why should the fishermen be fleeced and shorn? Has the restoration of the Kerosene Oil duty been made, as has been charged in the House of Assembly, at the instance of certain friends of Oil Corporations? There must be some reason other than the raising of the sum named. What is it?

Mr. Coaker said in the House on Friday afternoon, when queried by the Opposition on this point, that the Government must raise revenue. But why does not this friend of the underdogs demand that an equivalent sum be saved by retrenchment in that most useless and expensive of all departments—Education—and thus remit to the fishermen the sum which is to be taken out of their pockets by imposing duty on Kerosene Oil again. Four hundred thousand dollars, at least, could be saved to the Colony by abolishing the Department of Education and cleaning out the premises that abound there. Let the work of Education be done under the Superintendents as of yore, until such time as a department with a minister is absolutely necessary. Are the fishermen to be penalised that hangars-on and office toadies may receive fat salaries for doing nothing. The Prime Minister should be ashamed of himself, if Mr. Coaker is not. Coming back to the use of wooden packages for containing fish oil for export, it is possible that some one has a large quantity of these on hand to be disposed of, and that the duty has again been put on that prospective vendors of casks may benefit. Mr. Coaker made a statement that there were at least 25,000 wooden oil casks in the country, but when pinned down to details by the leader of the Opposition, he could not enumerate half of that complement. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries further made the unbelievable announcement that fishermen preferred steel barrels to wooden for containing oil. Coming from any other expert on fishery matters this would sound strange, but emanating from the fountain of all knowledge of fishery affairs, the one individual who on his own testimony knows it all, it is as sheer an exhibition of ignorance as could be expected from a native of the island. Not in the history of Newfoundland's fishery has fish oils been exported in steel barrels. It is unheard of. Codliver oil has been shipped out of the country in tin lined wood barrels, but the real convenient, only suitable package for common cod oil is the hardwood kerosene cask. Even if steel barrels were the ideal containers, at ten dollars each, taking seven to the ton, what returns do the fishermen hope to make with the price at $90 or $100? It is inconceivable that Mr. Coaker should have made such an absurd statement, but he did it. Regarding further this putting on of duty on kerosene, there is a "nigger in the fence" somewhere, and it is up to the Opposition to find him. That the colored gentleman will be located successfully when the House resumes again, there is no doubt. Meanwhile let the fishermen ponder this latest official extortion.

Methodist Conference.
The Ministerial Section of the Methodist Conference opens in Gowar St. Church to-morrow morning at 9.30 o'clock. In the afternoon the Nominating and Stationing Committee meet, and at night the Statistical and Religious Education Committee. Several Ministers and Delegates have arrived, and they are expected to reach the city by to-day's express. At 4 p.m. today the Probationers' Record Committee consisting of the Chairman of District, Secretary of Conference and Board of Examiners meet in Room 4.

Presentation to Rev. Hemmeon.
The Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, B.A., addressed a joint meeting of the Young Ladies' and Young Men's Bible Classes at George St. Church Sunday afternoon. His address was of a very high order and was greatly appreciated by all those present. At the close, the President, Mr. Barbour, presented Rev. Hemmeon with a gold mounted fountain pen, this being the last opportunity the Rev. gentlemen will have of addressing the Class before leaving for Canada. The members feel that the Class as well as the community are losing a very talented and inspiring worker.

Dr. Grenfell at Cochrane St. Church.

At Cochrane Street Church yesterday morning and at Gower Street Church last night the speaker was Dr. Grenfell, C.M.G. It is some time since the writer has been privileged to listen to an address by the Doctor, who speaks with a conversational fluency that is not only pleasing but effective. The theme for the occasion may be defined as "The Privilege of Service." His illustrations, and they were many, were apt and inspiring. The Mission's medical work has conferred immense benefits on the Peninsula of Labrador and on Northern Newfoundland, indeed upon all sections of the island, for St. Anthony has long been a mecca for the sick and suffering in places remote from the capital. One story told will not readily be forgotten while at Battle Harbor the Doctor was called on by an oil-cask fisherman with the request to visit a sick man in a small village, some seven miles away. Arriving at the scene he found a woman awaiting him from the good wife and family, who, out of their poverty, gave of the best they had. The patient was in a loft over the living room, dying in the last stages of a peculiarly virulent cancer. So malignant was the growth that the windows at either end were continually open, so that the wind might keep the little dwelling sweet and pure. An aged woman, stone blind, acted as nurse. When leaving, the fisherman told the Doctor that he was very grateful, but had no means to pay him. Supposing that the sick man was a relative, the Doctor asked some questions. No, sir, he is no relation, was the reply. Where does he come from? From the north, little about him, I found him, he mentioning a small cove some distance away—and he was dreadfully ill, so I brought him here. Why did you do that? asked the Doctor. The man could give no reply. Dr. Grenfell supplied the answer. This poor fisherman knew nothing of creeds and of theology, perhaps he knew little of theoretical Christianity, but he lived the Christ life, and living it prompted him to perform an act of brotherliness and sympathy whose beauty enriched the giver as its charity blessed the recipient. The grandeur and nobility of self-sacrifice has rarely been better illustrated. A poor man, and his faithful wife, deprived of life's luxuries, and with the most meagre of life's necessities at hand, take into their little dwelling, a stranger, suffering from a loathsome and incurable disease, for no other reason than because he was in dire distress. To what church the good Samaritan belonged the Doctor knew not, but this man lived Christianity, and to him was the message, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren ye have done it unto Me." The contrast between the little sacrifices of those with great opportunities and the great sacrifice of these humble fishermen, with none, was lightly touched on, but the arrow must have gone home to many a heart. The story was told feelingly by the Doctor, and amongst other experiences, confirmed him in that optimism which, despite the sadness and the darkness which enshroud the world to-day, he professes and rejoices in.

Newfoundland War Memorial.

Through the omission of a line in an item in our columns on Saturday it would appear that only five centres for the receipt of voluntary subscriptions are being opened. This is incorrect, as commanding Thursday subscriptions towards the War Memorial will be received at the following centres: A. W. Kennedy, Duckworth Street; The Board of Trade, T. Murdoch & Co. Ltd., and Connors' Drug Store, Water Street; Peter O'Mara, Water Street West; O'Mara's Drug Store, Ramsay Street; and Parsons' Drug Store, LeMarchant Road. Voluntary subscriptions to the amount of $150.00 were received Saturday, bringing the total to date up to $277.00; and when the subscription centres are opened it is expected that this amount will be greatly increased.

Football Notes.

Stars vs. Cadets.—It is unfortunate that the weather to-day is not very conducive to good football because the game which takes place to-night between the Stars and Cadets should be a hard and close one. So far as can be ascertained there will be no change in the players of either team although it is possible that the Cadets will change their forward line about, playing Maddigan on the right wing and Finn at centre forward.

Another Important Rule.—The following is the F.A. rule concerning the goal-keeper:—"A goal-keeper may not take more than two paces with the ball in his hands; nor must he handle the ball outside the penalty area. If he does so a free kick is awarded his opponents. For carrying the ball more than two paces a free kick is awarded but the ball must touch a second player before a goal is scored from this kick. A goal-keeper may not be charged unless he has the ball, and if in so doing, he falls on the ground and is surrounded by players attempting to recover the ball play should be stopped and a free kick awarded to the defending side."

Practice To-night.—The C.L.B. Old Comrades will have a practice to-night for the purpose of trying out some new men. The Saints are also having a practice to-night to try out some new material.

The Second Test Match.

From the latest reports received concerning the second test match between England and Australia which began last week in England, the Australians were winning easily. England suffered a collapse in the first innings, scoring only 137 runs, of which Woolley obtained 35 and Douglas 34. The Australian made 241 runs in their first innings. England had 245 runs for 5 wickets in her second innings, according to the latest news received.

Sang at St. Andrew's.

A large congregation at the Presbyterian Church last night had the privilege of hearing the famous baritone, Earl Spicer. During the service he sang "Near to the Heart" and "Fear ye not O Israel." Professor Kent delivered an instructive sermon which was listened to with rapt attention. After the service Mr. Spicer gave a recital the numbers being "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Why do the Heathen rage."

WANT BRITAIN TO INTERVENE.
LONDON, June 19.

An offer of Anglo intervention would be welcomed by the best opinion in Greece, in order to avoid unnecessary bloodshed in the forthcoming offensive, the Smyrna correspondent of the London Times has authoritative grounds to believe. He adds that the British Consul officially visited Premier Gounaris on Saturday.

CANNOT AGREE.
PARIS, June 19.

Great Britain, France and Italy have again appealed to Greece to postpone her offensive, and accept their mediation in an effort to forestall war in Asia Minor. This is the outcome of two days Conference between Premier Briand and Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, which ended this evening with the despatch of a note to King Constantine, asking for an immediate reply as to whether Greece was willing to let the Allies settle the Turkish question. If a favorable answer is received, it is probable Greece will be asked to state the terms upon which she is willing to make peace, and Turkish Nationalists will then be approached. M. Briand and Lord Curzon devoted part of this afternoon to the subject of Upper Silesia. They decided to ask High Commissioners for a unanimous report on the disposition of that territory. Failing this, experts will be sent to make an equitable distribution, and stern measures will be taken against Poles and Germans, if either or both refuse to accept Allied decisions. Lord Curzon pressed for a settlement of the Turkish question to-day, but Premier Briand would not commit France one way or the other. He pointed out that the consent of both Greeks and Turks to mediation was the first thing necessary. Plan of procedure would then follow. The British plan involves the withdrawal of Greek forces from all Smyrna and the restoration of Turkish sovereignty over this territory, with international police forces to guarantee the protection of Minorities. The Ministers failed to agree on thrace, Lord Curzon advocating the maintenance of the Treaty of Sevres, while M. Briand favored the substitution of the Enos-Midia line for the original line. It was decided that no settlement could be determined until Turks and Greeks agree to mediation. The Italian Government replied favorably this afternoon to a note sent to Italian representatives, asking Italy's consent to the forwarding of a Greek note.

Police Court.

The audience in the Police Court this morning was the largest that has ever attended that, to a great many people, place of amusement, where many an idle hour can be passed away. Even standing room was at a premium.

A naval reservist was charged with assaulting a resident of Cuddihy Street in his own house. The accused said that the plaintiff had abused his wife and that was why he attacked him. The plaintiff, who presented a pretty battered condition, would give no reason for the assault. The defendant was fined $10. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre appeared for the plaintiff.

A returned soldier was charged with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting a police sergeant who arrested him. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre appeared for the accused and stated that he was suffering from shell shock. Sergeant Fitzgerald said that the defendant had bitten his hand and His Honour accordingly imposed a fine of $10.

An aged man charged with being drunk whilst in charge of a horse, said it was the first time he had been in that condition. He was discharged.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WILL THEY HOG THE LOWER AIR?

When we were out riding the other day we found ourselves behind a truck proceeding at a very leisurely pace well over into the middle of the road.

Being somewhat late and being therefore anxious to proceed at more than a very leisurely pace ourselves, we tried to get on in just such a position on the road that we must either pass on the wrong side or not at all, as a stream of cars coming in the opposite direction made it impossible to go way over to the other side of the street.

A True Masculine Trick.
For some five minutes we were held up in this way and all the while the driver of our car was expressing his opinion of the truckman, and with the true masculine trick of damning anything connected with that which annoys him—of the bread the truckman was carrying. "Wouldn't buy that bread for anything," he finally announced. "Wouldn't have anything to do with a firm that had that kind of a salesman."

Unjust? Perhaps, but surely true to human nature. And does it not carry a big idea for anyone who has a business which keeps machines of any sort on the road?

Most Impatient Person.
The average autolist is the most impatient person in the world. Anything which holds him up is sure to fill him with resentment. Any driver who shows him courtesy is sure to win his approval. Why wouldn't it be worth while for any employer of truck drivers to instruct his drivers never needlessly to hold up other drivers?

I feel sure that the drivers of the trucks containing a certain brand of gasoline have been so instructed from my experiences with them on the road, and I'll wager that that fact sells many a gallon of gasoline.

The Road Hog's Ancestry.

The road hog is a legitimate descendant of the end-seat hog. The man who clings the more closely to the middle of the road whenever you foot for him to give you clearance, the man who speeds up just a bit when you try to pass him and then drops back to his original pace—unquestionably these are the men who once upon a time made everyone clamber over their knees so that they might sit on the end seat.

I wonder what we shall find them doing in the next era. Will they be "hogging" the lower air, making everyone else climb laboriously over them? Who knows?

Canada's New Governor-General.

The announcement that Lord Byng, of Vimy, has been appointed to succeed the Duke of Devonshire as Governor-General of Canada, has been received with genuine satisfaction by the whole country. As Sir Julian Byng he played a heroic part in the war and in association with the Canadian detachments, won for himself and them enduring fame. Lord Byng is the seventh son of the Earl of Strathford and was born on Sept. 11th, 1862, so that he is now in his fifty-ninth year.

Lady Byng was Mary Evelyn Morison, daughter of the Hon. Sir Richard Morison. They were married in 1902.

A London despatch, announcing his appointment, says:

General Lord Byng of Vimy, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O., was created the first Baron of Vimy in 1919, and his title connects him with the famous engagement at Vimy Ridge, from April 9 to May 8, 1917, when under the command of General Byng the Canadian Corps in France attacking on a front of 8,000 yards, penetrated to a depth of six miles, capturing 7,000 prisoners and 67 guns, and with them the strongest position on the British front. The fight was officially known as the Battle of Arras. Gallant troops, superb generalship and elaborate pre-arrangements were factors which contributed to the success of the Canadian Corps.

After Vimy General Byng was promoted to the command of the Third British Army. General Byng first took over the command of the Canadians in February, 1916, succeeding General Alderson. He commanded the Canadians in several victorious actions against the Germans previous to the crowning achievement at Vimy Ridge. Before the Great War he had seen much military service, during the South African War, 1899-1902, and in various African and Egyptian campaigns.

A Wall Four Thousand Years Old.

The origin of a solid stone wall, 700 feet long and twenty to thirty feet high, the face of which is covered with hieroglyphics thus far new to savants, discovered twenty miles from Chattanooga, Tenn., at the base of the Chilhowee Mountain, is engaging the attention of scientists of the Smithsonian Institution. The officials can only say that the records and thousands of dusty volumes which repose in the Smithsonian Institution and allied institutions contain no record that will throw any light on the wall.

The wall is three feet thick and built of three-ply stone. It has been uncovered to a depth of twenty-two feet and the base of the wall has not yet been reached. Indications are that the base of the wall is yet ten feet deeper. Investigators for educational institutions in the South think that it has been buried four thousand years and that the inscriptions are of a religious or historical nature, written by the scribes of a race then at war and about to become extinct.

Inscriptions in an Ambigua Line.
The photographs show that instead of the inscriptions being either perpendicular or parallel with the surface of the earth they are in an oblique line, at an angle of about forty-five degrees. This adds to the mystery.

Throughout Tennessee archaeologists have from time to time excavated stone images in the shape of human beings, dogs, kangaroos and other animals, and oftentimes round plates have been found in Italian mounds. These are regarded as distinctively Tennessee products, and many of these have been found near the face of the wall as the excavators have dug down in search of the foundation. Also a large amount of pottery which resembles that manufactured by the Cherokee Indians has been found. But nothing has yet been found which bears symbols resembling those on the face of the wall.

The hieroglyphics have some semblance of being Arabic. They bear the earmarks of the Hebrew alphabet in some respects, while the letters R, U, G, E, H, K, of the English alphabet, all capitalised, with the figures 3, 4, 6, 7 and 8 abound in the lines of characters revealed.

An ethnologist with the Smithsonian Institution, has studied the photographs in connection with an investigation of the origin and early life of the Cherokee Indians in Tennessee and other southern states. He says the characters have in connection with early Indian life of this region, nor do the characters in any sense resemble the characters of the Indian alphabet that was given to the race of Sequoyas, the Indian scholar whose statue has recently been placed in the statuary hall in the capitol by the State of Oklahoma.

HELPFUL EXERCISE.

I used to sit in pump and state and took no exercise, and I achieved a very grisvous weight I pained the doctor's eyes. 'Twas very little grub I ate, my appetite unsound; but every bite increased my weight three quarters of a pound. And then I heard the doctor say, "You surely lard the earth; you'll have to walk twelve miles a day, and thus cut down your girth." So I put on my nine-league boots, and walked till I was lame, although I never carried three hoots for walking as a game. But one must heed whatever rules the doctors may invent, whatever sort of pathic schools those docs may represent. And so I walked along the shore about a hundred miles, and then I walked a hundred more, in all the ragtime styles. The first result of all this toll was appetite renewed; the women had to fry and boil great quantities of food. My appetite was strange and weird, it clamored still for more; the leaves and fishes disappeared, and all the larder's store. My weight increased by leaps and bounds, by bounds and leaps it grew, and where I used to gain two pounds I now gain twenty-two. The fat man falls in all he does, in all the schemes he tries, and alecks always round him buzz, and talk of exercise.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review)

Codfish.—The dried exports from Newfoundland this week amounted to 25,846 quintals as follows:—

From St. John's.—By schooner Florence Swyers for Oporto 4,652 qtls. from Messrs. A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd.; by schooner Ramona Burton for Naples 4,480 qtls. from G. J. Carter & Co.; by schooner Lowell F. Parks for Gibraltar for orders 3,270 qtls. from G. M. Barr, and by schooner Emily E. Selig to Gibraltar for orders 2,154 qtls. from G. M. Barr; total 13,926 quintals.

From Outports.—By schooner Olwen, W. & J. Moore, Carbonara, 3,417 qtls. to Naples; by schooner Winifred Lee from Belfast & Co., Marytown, 2,895 qtls. for Oporto; by S.S. Stella Maria from Parqubar & Co., Ltd., Bonne Bay, 219 qtls. to Halifax; by schooner Cecil S. T. Garland, Gaultois, 2,014 qtls. to Oporto, and by schooner Mary H. from Hollett and Cheeseman, Burin, 3,275 qtls. to Halifax.

Cod Oil.—Prices are looking better in the foreign market than a week ago. It looks as if the lowest price was reached the first week of June when quotations were considerably lower than the cost of production. Buyers in the foreign markets have been using the greatest caution before placing any orders, and had allowed their stocks to become practically exhausted. At the present time, of course, the usual summer dullness prevails in the Cod Oil trade, but this week indications are not wanting that there will likely be a sharp revival in the near future with the possibilities of prices advancing 20 per cent. in value by the latter part of July. Ordinary Cod Oil is now selling at $90.00 a ton, but tanked Cod Oil free from dregs is worth $120.00 per ton.

Cod Liver Oil.—Oil statistics from Norway this week indicate that the large output of Refined Oil manufactured there this season will prevent any chance of obtaining high prices, as already there is more in sight than is normally required for the current season's medicinal purposes. The price has gone to such a low figure that there is certain to be an increased demand for industrial purposes with better prospects in view for next year.

Wheat.—The Lobster Fishery is so far very good in Picoctia and St. Mary's Bay, Fortune Bay, St. George's Bay one packer had 60 cases up to last Thursday and almost as good a record comes from St. George's. There is a great demand in the United States for half pound tins, but for various reasons it does not pay to pack any tins smaller than one pound in this country. The price opened well in the United States in May, but has fallen since from $3.00 to $4.00 a case. The price holds much better in Europe. The St. John's quotation is $15.00 and this is as good to the packer as $20.00 last year, considering cost of outfit (?).

Herring.—A city business man in 1919. From the above it will be seen that the market for cured herring in the States should soon show some improvement.

Flour.—In the local market flour was extremely scarce again this week. The demand on stocks for Fishery supplies has been at its height since June first, and as fast as it comes in is absorbed. There was an absolute clean up till the arrival of the S.S. Maple-dawn yesterday from Montreal. The wheat market (future option) shows considerable weakness, but cash wheat is firm at last week's quotations. The price of best Manitoba Patent in the St. John's market is $13.50 wholesale.

Pork.—The general condition of the Pork market shows no appreciable change. A fair movement of live stock is reported by the packers, but the demand is not particularly active for this season. The export to Europe and Continental Europe has been handicapped by the price of sterling exchange this week. The exports to the local market this week were 550 barrels, putting the total up to 4,285 barrels, which is about 144 per cent. in excess of 7,750 barrels. Prices are the same as quoted last week.

Beef.—The Beef market is quiet and prices continue unchanged. United States advices this week report a little better demand in cattle for export, but not any way near such volume as is notable at this season. A leading importer here gives it as his opinion that under all the circumstances the price of beef is not likely to decline any lower this season. It must be borne in mind that when all the charges are taken into account (freight duty, exchange, cost of packages, etc., are deducted, the original producer is away behind in price before the war. The imports for the week were 827 barrels.

Sugar.—The market shows very little change. The sales tax has the effect of adding a half cent per pound making to-day's selling price 13 cents per pound wholesale and 14 cents retail. There is an ample supply in the market and the consumption has declined about 25 per cent. since the new crop of cheaper molasses has come on the market. The total imports of sugar since New Year to St. John's is 33,892 cwt. against 44,413 cwt. this time last year.

Molasses.—The schooner Daxile arrives from Barbados bringing 22 puncheons, 50 barrels and 100 half-barrels of molasses, this week. This brings the total to date, up to 2,323 puncheons. The schooner Isabel Moore is now due with a load and the Hazel Trahey is also loading. The imports this date last year were 3,245 puncheons. Prices in the local market are about as low as they will be this season, 80 cents for Fair and 70 cents for Choice new molasses. There is some old molasses that sells for five cents cheaper.

Potatoes.—There is an abnormal scarcity in the local market at present. It is true that the "Sable I." brought in 1,000 sacks but these were all absorbed in 24 hours. The "Mapledawn," due from Montreal is bringing a large shipment which will keep the market standing at $1.00 for choice new potatoes and P.E.'s and all other imported stock and this rate will likely be maintained till the new crop is available. There are no home-grown worth while offering.

Hay.—The cable news from Quebec this week to dealers here indicates that the outlook for the new crop is unsatisfactory owing to lack of moisture and intensely hot weather. The prospect for low-priced new hay is therefore not promising. The local market is unchanged and prices hold at $43.00 per ton and $44.00 to $45.00 for small lots. There is a fair supply in stock. The arrivals the past week amounted to 521 bales.

Wool.—The market is a little weaker but not quotably lower so far. The quotation for mixed in the St. John's market is $3.50 to $3.70 per sack and for white $3.70 to $3.90. There is no black coming in. The local market is still supporting the arrival of the S.S. Winona were 244 sacks by the S.S. Winona. The oat market will, no doubt, continue to move in sympathy with other grains.

Feeds.—The quotations for Feeds are a little firmer due to the advance in corn. The price of Hominy is $3.00 to $3.25 per sack and Yellow Corn meal, the same. There has been a slack demand for feeds of all kinds the past month or so as the cattle have been finding good grazing.

A Strong Indictment.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—A letter appeared in your columns headed by "Citizen," in which he referred to public matters in this district, particularly the Bay Roberts and St. John's. I am quite sure that the writer of that letter in all that he says, especially about Mr. Barnes, our "alien" and "gutter" following, is following closely in the footsteps of his leader, Sir R. A., and adopting a one-man rule.

Now this same Mr. Barnes represented Hr. Grace District some years ago, and proved himself an utter failure. He is quite a nice man and so for some time before the 1919 election he was always telling his friends that he did not intend touching politics any more. But just previous to the election he discovered that the majority of the people were so anxious for a change that they were liable to forget his uselessness and elect him again. And cute man that he is, he was right, because notwithstanding his autocratic methods and manner and all the rest of it, he was elected by quite a majority over Piccott and over Russell, the latter being selected by the people as the candidate of the Liberal-Reform Party instead of Mr. Barnes. Russell refused to pledge himself to support the Party and the Party Leader against the interests of the people, and he was turned down.

Archibald, I see, has at last taken the stand that any true man to the people had to take. Sometimes there arises a time in a politician's career when he has to sacrifice party in the interests of the people, or else the interests of the people for the sake of Party. Barnes will not desert. Squires of the Party in the interests of the people. Nor will he heed the voice of the people, no matter how loudly they speak. A monster public meeting was held in the Court House here Monday night, June 13th, and a unanimous protest was registered against Barnes' decision to spend the Special Relief Money through a commission instead of through the regular channel, the Road Board, as it is being done in Harbor Grace, Spaniard's Bay, Shearstown, Country Road and other places.

A message conveying this information to Barnes was despatched on Monday, June 13th. Do you think he took any notice of the people's request? Not a bit of it. These same men placed Barnes where he is today, enjoying a fat Government salary of over $5,000 a year, or $100 a week. He was begging these men for their votes in 1913. Now he ignores them. A few leading citizens who "doped" the people with all kinds of catch-words and falsehoods in 1913, and who succeeded in hoodwinking the electors in behalf of Barnes, are the white-headed boys with Barnes today. These few individuals count far more now than hundreds of or-

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

The common people are incapable of governing themselves, where, I ask, and how, are the people going to learn? If no chance is given the people; if no responsibility is thrust upon them; if no opportunity is given them; if they are to be kept outside the pale of the circle of the wise men and know-alls, how and when will they become competent?

Barnes, Squires and Coaker were the men who passed Minutes of Council, enforced fishery regulations, allowed profiteering to go on, increased taxation, practically brought the country to the verge of ruin which places thousands of industrious and independent people in a position of want, and after doing all this, and more, looks on without extending a helping hand.

The people who other years were employed on the land at Grand Falls, Bell Island, Sydney and other places, are left stranded, not knowing what to do this summer to earn bread for themselves and families.

Mr. Barnes can find $30,000 of the people's taxes to send twelve school-teachers to America to learn something about educational inspection, but on their return what will they find to inspect? Even the Educational Policy is turning out to be a farce and an artificial expense on the taxpayers of Newfoundland.

STANFIELD'S
Unshrinkable
UNDERWEAR

1921

A Canadian Industry Built on an Ideal

1921 is the Jubilee of Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear. It is a far cry to the magnificent mills at Truro—models of modern equipment and efficiency—from the tiny building in Prince Edward Island where the late Mr. C. E. Stanfield began the evolution of an ideal in 1856.

The late Mr. C. E. Stanfield learned the woollen trade in his uncle's mill in Bradford, England, then as now a center of the woollen industry. But the pride he took in his work developed ambition. He wanted to start out for himself. Canada was much talked about in the Old Country and he decided to come to the new world across the Atlantic.

He built his first mill at Tryon, P.E.I., in 1856. So successful was he that a wider field was sought and he chose Truro, Nova Scotia, locating there in 1870, moving from the original mill to a larger one, and finally in 1882, constructing a new plant on the bank of the Salmon River, the site of Stanfield's Limited, and beginning the nucleus of the present Stanfield mills.

In 1896, the late Mr. C. E. Stanfield decided to retire and sold out the growing business to his two sons, John and Frank, who are now President and Vice-President of Stanfield's Limited, a corporate company.

Stanfield and woollens are synonymous. A hundred years ago, Charles Stanfield was a woollen manufacturer in Bradford, England. He taught the business to a nephew, the late C. E. Stanfield, who made the first Cardigan jackets and Bannockburn tweeds in Canada. He, in turn handed down his knowledge to his sons, John and Frank, the active heads of the business to-day. Thus, Stanfields are carrying out the best of the old British traditions of trade—one generation following another in the same line of endeavour—adding knowledge and experience, building on the old foundations, broadening and strengthening, making the family name synonymous with all that is best in the trade.

That this vocational tradition is a good thing for business and for the world at large, is proven in the case of the Stanfield family, for it was due to the efforts of John and Frank Stanfield that Unshrinkable Underwear was made possible. These two experts, born in the business and absorbing the best traditions of the trade, evolved a process that took the shrink out of wool before the garments were woven, giving Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear to the world and making it the outstanding feature of the Stanfield products.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear was manufactured first for men who work outdoors—farmers, fishermen, trainmen. As towns developed into cities and the cities into worlds within themselves, Stanfields began to make finer underwear, in weights suited to men who worked indoors and were not so much exposed to the rigors of winter. Then came the addition of silk-and-wool and extra fine woollen underwear for women; and finally, Stanfield's Adjustable Underwear for children. To-day Stanfield's Underwear is a family affair both from the standpoint of wearers as well as makers.

Stanfields have steadily held to the original idea behind the business—to avoid fads and to make underwear of a quality demanded by the majority of the Canadian people, with quality kept up to a standard and prices kept down to a minimum consistent with quality.

It is this unswerving adherence to an ideal of quality that has built up a market for Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear that more than equals the supply, and has given a reputation to the name "Stanfield" that is an asset which cannot be valued in mere dollars and cents.

The Jubilee of Stanfield's Limited crowns with success the achievement of a Canadian institution which occupies its present proud position because of a rigid adherence to the fundamentals of sound business—making an essential article, making it better and keeping the price right.

Accession of Queen Victoria.

At five o'clock in the morning of June 20, 1837, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Chamberlain, accompanied by Sir Henry Hallford, the King's physician, arrived at Kensington Palace to announce to Victoria, daughter of the late Duke of Kent, that she was the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland. She had only just attained her eighteenth birthday, but her composure and self-possession created general surprise. Having taken her seat in the council chamber, held later in the day, after the Lord Chamberlain had administered the oaths, she made quite a nice little speech in the sweetest possible voice. Falling this young princess, the next, her throne was the Duke of Cumberland, notoriously a reactionary of a dangerous type. But Victoria, the late King's niece had been trained to a very high sense of duty, and became at once the political pupil of Lord Melbourne, who taught her the ideals of a constitutional monarch. She was also happy in marrying a prince whose sense of duty was as high as her own, and who proved himself capable of learning to grasp constitutional principles as remote enough from those known to any Continental court. A sentiment of chivalrous kindness toward a young girl placed in a very difficult position, revived the latent loyalty of her people, which was fostered by her own admirable character and conduct. And this girl was destined to reign for sixty-four years, during which period the principles of British constitutionalism became too firmly established to be easily shaken, whether by revolutionists or by reactionaries.

C. L. B. CADETS.

Yesterday morning the Brigade had hard luck—it was wet. The Battalion, with brass band (every bandsman in his place), C. and F. Companies, untill Lieut. Col. E. F. Goodfellow, Adjutant Henry and Regt. Sgt.-Major Roland Williams with the Old Comrades under Vice-President Sergt. Richard Volsey paraded at 10.15 to attend services at the Church of England Cathedral. The parade was much smaller than usual. The Girl Guides under their Scoutmistress, Miss Richards, B. were absent on leave, as this New Corps are not yet kitted for wet weather. Their absence was noticeable and we hope that next time when the College regiments in the fall, this sister corps will continue to attend Church Parades with the Battalion. Those of A. Armstrong, Chaplain, who attended with the other officers present can always be relied on to "answer the roll call, rain or shine" or go over the top when duty calls for anything else, even when snowing and drifting. Every man present yesterday is as good as ten of the "fine weather, feather bed soldiers," who were so conspicuously absent—it is easy to know the keen C. L. B. men when the weather is wet.

The usual morning service was held with special hymns. The Brigade occupied the front pews and the service was also attended by His Excellency the Governor and Captain (A.D.C.) W. J. Brinton, Battalion Chaplain, who preached by His Lordship Bishop White and appealed specially to the Brigade whom, he said, stood for certain principles, one of which was regular attendance at church. The National Anthem concluded the service, in which Rev. Canon Bolt, D.D. and Rev. J. Brinton, Battalion Chaplain, took part. Ranks were then reformed and the Battalion marched back direct to Headquarters.

Newfoundland Premier Not Coming.

Sir Edgar Bowring, the High Commissioner for Newfoundland, has received a message from Mr. Squires, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, stating that owing to the illness of the Minister of Finance, and the consequent extra pressure of Parliamentary work which has devolved upon himself in connection with the present session of the House of Assembly, he will be unable to attend the Imperial Peace Cabinet meeting. If no other Government representative is able to place of Mr. Squires, Newfoundland will probably be represented by the High Commissioner in London.—The Times, June 2.

Railway Management.

Reports say that some definite arrangements will be made on the first of July about the Reform Bill. It is either that the Government or the Company will assume control of the railways and the whole system of mail, freight and passenger traffic by rail. The likelihood is that the R.N.R. Co. will resume control and that the Railway Commission will pass into oblivion. The company had the benefit of the money voted to it at the last session of the Legislature and the whole system is in better condition now than it has been before the Government came to the rescue and gave the people's money to rehabilitate what was generally admitted to be otherwise in a first class condition. Were not the words "ramshackle railway" used by someone in the people's House within the memory of ordinary men? The railway should be in a good condition today as those in charge of its operations have, first, a goodly gift from the people's treasury, secondly, reaped a rich harvest from the increase of passenger and freight rates. The increase in freight charges gradually advanced until a small, single parcel of liquid from the abused department of the government went up to thirty cents, and the passenger rates increased to such an extent that people had to perform to some class. The management had a monopoly and it took all and every advantage of the power that it held, with the result that the people had to suffer without redress.

Whether the Company or the Government assumes control of the system known in the old days as the Newfoundland Railway does not matter much, but it is a matter of great concern to the people that they are not taxed by and through the company and the Government for the experiment made about a year ago, the preamble of which was that the Company had three significant letters added to its title. The Government of today is expected to guard the people's interests, and by wise deliberation and thoughtful action, see that the power entrusted to it is not bartered away by the designs of men who seek their own profit at the expense of the country.—Hr. Grace Standard.

Remove the White Elephant.

Not only is the S.S.—or is it H.M.S.—Lobelia a white elephant on the hands of the Government but this ship is now becoming a nuisance and a menace to shipping moving in the harbor. The way she is anchored causes her to swing at every tide and wind and she is so obstructing schooners entering and leaving the port, that masters of vessels are asking for her removal. Mr. Cooker was understood to say in the House that he was willing to remove the ship to Port Union the best thing to do would be to let him take her away and keep her at home port as a perpetual monument to the extravagance of his Government.

Mrs. Cook Declares She Had Suffered Ever Since A Child.

But Her Troubles Of Twenty Years Duration All Seem Like A Dream Now, Says St. John's Woman.

"It's a fact Tanlac not only got me out of bed, where I had been flat on my back for three weeks, but it entirely relieved me of stomach trouble from which I had been suffering for twenty years," said Mrs. D. Cook, 21 York Street, St. John's, N.F.

"For the first time I can remember I am in good health, and the misery I suffered so long now seems just like a bad dream to me. Ever since childhood I have had chronic indigestion and didn't care to eat like other people. In recent years my trouble had been getting worse, and I lost weight and strength almost every day and became so weak I was unable to do any housework. I was almost a nervous wreck, and the slightest noise would set me all tremble and I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep.

"I eat anything I want, sleep like a child and I picked up in weight until I am actually thirty pounds heavier than I was when I began taking Tanlac. It certainly is the grandest medicine in the world."

May need our attention to put it in order for the summer months. It may need a MONUMENT or a HEADSTONE. Why not get one from us that will have that artistic effect that will make it look distinctive from every other memorial?

You may have a monument in your plot that has not been attended to for years. Let us put in some work on it and remove the traces of the weather by polishing and painting it again. You may want another inscription engraved. We attend to all this work during the next few months. A letter or a call at our Showroom will put you in touch with an up-to-date and prompt service that stands for satisfaction.

Mars' Wholesale Reductions Off Wholesale Prices

First-Week's Dry-Good Sales Far Above Expectations

Owing to our small staff we were unable during our first week's sale to give our customers the individual attention we should have liked to do, but in spite of this, many were satisfied to spend hours in our store, waiting to be served, rather than miss the opportunity of buying some of the wonderful bargains that have been offered in this unusual "Wholesale-Half-price-Retail Sale."

We shall continue to sell at these never-to-be-forgotten prices until our entire stock is disposed of, which, judging from the first week's sales, will not be longer than two or three weeks. Come along, bring your friends, look over the remarkable values we are offering and help yourself, and we will endeavour to tie up your parcel and take your money as quickly as possible.

During the next few days we shall list special lines at their cut prices which will be worth your attention.

Baseball.

The Baseball Season opens up Wednesday, June 22nd, with two games. The morning game starts at 10:30 sharp, when the Red Lions, last year's champions will clash with the B.I.S. while the afternoon game, the same day will be between the Cubs and C.E.I. There is greater interest than ever this year in baseball, all the teams have been strengthened and it looks like a great fight for the pennant and large crowds are looking forward to the opening day. Mayor Gosling has been invited to throw over the first ball for the season, and as customary in the American and Canadian cities, while the morning game will also be held under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and his staff, it is regrettable that the Wanderers' Club will not be seen in action this season owing to several of their most prominent players leaving the country, still, baseball patrons will be glad to hear that the Club's name still lives with the League and are hopeful of entering the arena again next season. Four Clubs now comprise the League viz. Red Lions, Cubs, B.I.S. and C.E.I. It has been decided that three rounds of play will be played, that games will be played the full nine innings, while in the event of darkness setting in at the third round, seven innings will terminate the match. Mr. F. V. Chesman has again consented to act as the Umpire in Chief, while he will be assisted on the bases by Messrs. T. Y. Eames, P. J. Grace and J. H. Fulmore. During July month the games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and on August 1st, all the Mondays are confined to baseball, with two other evenings, Thursday the 4th, and Thursday the 18th, while Wednesday afternoons are all at the disposal of the League, unless taken over for some other purpose. The schedule for the season is drawn up as follows:

Round 1.
B.I.S. vs. Red Lions.
Cubs vs. C.E.I.
B.I.S. vs. Cubs.
Red Lions vs. C.E.I.
B.I.S. vs. C.E.I.
Red Lions vs. Cubs.
It will be gratifying for the baseball patrons to know that the four teams have been practicing faithfully this past four weeks and are only too eager to display the fray when play is announced. There is even greater interest this year than ever on account of several of our best players being on the coast from the Canadian and United States Leagues. The Baseball League is also given to understand that the Manager of the Royal Canadian Mounted Eastern League Team is sending on a scout to look over one of our very promising pitchers, who will be seen in action on Wednesday. With this in view the boys will naturally be on their toes and furnish the classic kind of ball ever witnessed in the city since its inception. All the boys want is record attendances, then everyone will feel glad that the race is on for the 1921 pennant.

The Sales Tax.

The new Sales Tax which came into effect on June 13th will need some explanations before it will be readily understood by the public. It calls for a tax of 5 per cent on importations for sale, dutiable or otherwise (except fishery supplies and raw materials for manufacture) and is assessable on costs of goods per invoice plus freight and duty. The amount of the tax is to be paid to the Customs at the same time as duties are paid. With the present surcharges it will take some time to compute the Sales Tax. Goods imported direct, not for sale but for private use of the importer is not taxed. The burden of the tax falls upon the consumer who has to purchase his requirements locally, while persons with means can import their own necessities and evade the tax. This action if followed to any considerable extent would affect all the goods recently arrived at by the Manufacturers Association, regarding Home Industries and the labor question and build up a large mill order business with Canada and the United States.—Harbor Grace Standard.

Will Meet During Week

The Moderate Prohibitionists are arranging for a public meeting this week to secure the passing of the Plebiscite Bill now before the Legislature. The Committee intends to fight the proposed amendment to insert a bone-dry clause. The present Bill has but two questions, one asking the elector if he favours the proposal of the Royal Commission; the other those of the Moderate Prohibition Committee. A majority decides which of these proposals shall become law.
