CHAPTER XXIV.

"Come down with us to Lynne-woide Court," said Lord Lynne. "If you know nothing of English country-house life, it will amuse you; we can find you some good shooting, too."

A flush of gratification spread over the count's face.

"I shall be most happy, my lord," he replied, "to avail myself of your kindness."

As he spoke his eyes fell upon Lady Lynne's face, and he read there that it was in her power to prevent it he should never go to Lynne-woide.

Without being able to protest against it, Lady Lynne found herself obliged to receive the count as a daily visitor at her house. He did not again seek a private interview with her; on the contrary, he shunned it. He never gave her any opportunity of speaking to him, save in the presence of others. He was careful, too, he did not push his victory too far. He cautiously abstained from every word or look that could displease or irritate her. Lord Lynne and Agatha were much amused at what they deemed her capricious dislike to Count Rinaldo.

"It is all of a piece, Inez," said her husband to her one day. "I believe you detest Spain, Serrano, and everything and everybody connected with them."

"You are quite right," she replied. "I should like best never to hear even the names again."

The young lord thought with pity how wretched and dull her existence must have been that she dreaded even to think of it.

Life was almost intolerable to Lady Lynne. It was little wonder that her cheeks grew pale and her eyes dim. Some women have suffered less, and have died of the pain. It was not only the undying remembrance, the bitter shame of that miserable past—not only the hatred and loathing she felt for the count, the scorn she had for herself—but she could not endure the deception practiced upon the noble, honest man who had made her his wife.

There were times when she felt inclined to kneel at his feet and tell him all. She knew his notions of honor were rigid and unbending. If it broke his own heart and hers, she knew that he would leave her that very hour, and never see her again. He would not reproach her—no angry word would fall from his lips—she would show neither scorn nor contempt—day, he would pity her youth and folly—for Lord Lynne was ever gentle and tender in his treatment of women; but he would never see her again. She had sinned to win him; could she bear to lose him? She was young, a long life lay before her; how could she bear the dreary blank without him? No; at any cost she must keep her secret, even though the anguish of bearing it consumed her strength and her life. From that sad, tortured breast there rose night and day that one wailing cry, "My sin has found me out." Outwardly there was no sign of anything wrong. No one could have dreamed there was a skeleton in the closet of that beautiful, brilliant Lady Lynne. She was still the reigning belle, the leading star of fashion; the wealthy, the noble, the great—all laid their homage at her feet. Invitations poured in upon her. Day by day she became more popular and admired. Little thought those who looked with wonder and envy upon her beauty and her wealth, that this magnificent lady would gladly have changed places with the poorest and meanest to have enjoyed that greatest of all blessings, the charm of a good and peaceful conscience—a blessing that was never again to fall to the lot of Inez Lynne.

Lord Lynne really liked the society of Count Rinaldo. The wily Italian had the great art of knowing how to flatter so delicately that it was impossible to detect in his gay, courteous words any flattery at all. Agatha liked him in her gentle, undemonstrative way. She laughed at his gallant compliments, and smiled at his admiration. No day passed without its bringing the count, under some pretext or other, to Lord Lynne's house; and Inez dared not object; she dared not say much of her dislike—she had to conceal it under a semblance of indifference. She dreaded being questioned by her husband and Agatha as to how and why she alone disliked the gay and courteous count.

One evening, as the count was taking leave of her, he slipped a little note into her hands; when she was alone she read it. There were but few lines, but they contained the death-warrant of Inez Lynne.

"The time has come when I claim your assistance. I love your sister Agatha, and by your help and influence intend to make her my wife."

CHAPTER XXV.

It was with the calmness of despair that Lady Lynne read the little penciled note, of such fatal import to her.

"I must save her," she said, "at any cost. I have betrayed myself—betrayed my husband; but I will not add to my guilt—I will not betray my sister."

She thought of many plans by which this could be averted without any open rupture between Rinaldo and herself. The one she decided upon at last was, warning Agatha that the Italian was learning to love her. If her sister did not care for him, all would be well; but if she loved, or was inclined to love him, then she must be warned of his treacherous character. If that did not suffice, other steps must be taken, even if they were fatal to herself; but in any case, that golden-haired, gentle sister, whose lover she had taken from her, must not, should not be sacrificed. In her own mind she resolved to save Agatha.

On the following day Inez was going in the evening to a grand concert given at Lifford House, the residence of her Grace the Duchess of Silverton. Lord Lynne had asked Rinaldo to accompany them, and he had promised to do so.

It was under pretence of some questions about her dress that Lady Lynne sought her sister's room. She found Agatha reading, and smiled as her eyes fell upon the book.

"How staidous you are," she said. "Tell me, Agatha, have you decided about your dress for Lifford House?"

"No," replied her sister, in some surprise. "I do not know that I have thought of it yet. Michell always arranges my dress."

"I want you to look very nice," said Lady Lynne. "The season will soon be over now, and I am ambitious for my sister. I should like her to return to Lynne-woide the promised bride of some one worthy of her. The Marquis of Hortington likes you more than any one else; if you gave him a little encouragement he would soon be at your feet."

"What a new and novel character for you to appear in, Inez," replied Agatha, with a bright smile. "I never knew you to be the least bit of a match-maker before."

There was not the least shadow of pain on her fair young face as she spoke; the old wound was healed, and no trace of it remained.

"I do not like the marquis," she continued; "and, Inez dear, if the truth must be told, I may say I do not like London, or London life, or its fashions, or its gaiety. I am not made for it, as you are. I should be a thousand times happier at Lynne-woide."

"But you must marry some day," said Inez.

"I do not see the necessity," she replied, gayly. "If ever I do marry, it will be some one with tastes like my own, who loves the country, and will not bring me to this wretched London every year."

Lady Lynne gave a sigh of great relief.

"You would never marry a fashionable man, then?" she said.

"No never," replied Agatha, honestly. "But tell me, what has given you this anxiety about me?"

That was the opening Lady Lynne waited for.

"I have been thinking a great deal about you lately, my dear," said Inez, affectionately. "I cannot help seeing that Count Montalt is very much in love with you."

"In love with me!" said Agatha. "I think not—I hope not."

"Then you do not care for him?" asked Lady Lynne, eagerly. "Care for him!—oh, no," was the reply. "He is amusing and interesting; but I am not sure if I like him. There is something about him, I cannot define what, which gives me the impression that he is false. I hope I am no judging him unkindly."

"I think you are right in your opinion," said Lady Lynne. "And now, Agatha, dear, will you let me give you a little advice?"

"As much as you please," she replied.

"Then let me ask you to alter your conduct toward Count Rinaldo," continued Inez. "Philip likes him, and he is often here. He loves you, I am sure; and from your kindness and amiability he has drawn great hopes. He does not understand you. He thinks, because you smile as you listen to him, and talk to him frankly and kindly, you return his love. You must avoid him. I know what the Italian nature is. If you continue to give him what he considers encouragement, he will propose to you; and then, if you refuse him, he will say you trifled with him. I am convinced you would be wretched for life."

"I should never dream of it," replied Agatha, who had grown pale and silent while her sister spoke. "I did not even know that he liked me."

"He loves you," said Lady Lynne, "and the love of such a man is dangerous."

"What am I to do?" asked Agatha, hopelessly. "I wish we were back again at Lynne-woide."

"You can do nothing," said Lady Lynne, "but gradually shun him. Do not talk to him more than you can help. Do not smile and look interested when he speaks; avoid talking his arm as much as you can; but mind, this must be done gradually; it would be dangerous to arouse suddenly the anger or jealousy of such a man."

"I never want to see him again," said Agatha, half impatiently. "What have I to do with him, or he with me, that I should fear him?"

Silverplate of Greater Merit for the Bride

THE Trade-mark "Holmes & Edwards" on silverplate stamps it at once as having unusual merits.

Its gleaming hand-burnished lustre alone proclaims its superlatively rich quality. Exquisite too, in their charm and simplicity are the fascinating patterns—patterns whose exclusiveness is appealing in itself.

But crowning all these merits "Holmes & Edwards" offers tenacious, life-long utility and joy because pure silver is generously used in making it.

Your jeweler will be interested in explaining to you, the two superior qualities in "Holmes & Edwards"—"SILVER INLAID" and "SUPER PLATE"—both protected at the wear points.

Sumptuous table appointments, such as Flower Baskets, Casseroles, Pie Plates, Cake Baskets and Bread Trays can be obtained from your jeweller. We particularly suggest that you note the matchless beauty of the famous "Adam" design as shown here.

Fashion Plates

The Home Dressmaker should have a Catalogue Scrap Book of the latest fashions. These will be found useful to refer to from time to time.

A NEW AND SIMPLE MODEL.

4361. This may be charmingly developed in cretonne or chintz, with bias binding in a contrasting color for trimming. It is also good for gingham, linen, or rubberized material. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, Medium, Large, and Extra Large. A Medium size requires yards of 27 inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PRETTY FROCK FOR DANCE PARTY.

4364. Dotted Swiss was chosen for this model with frills of organdy. This is a pretty style for voile and for the new figured cottons, also for mull and organdy. The bertha may be omitted. This Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, and 12 years. A 10 year girl requires 4 1/2 yards of 26 inch material. It would be attractive in plain crepe or crepe de chene with plaids or bandings in self or contrasting color. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Fencing Experts to Meet in London.

NEW YORK, June 7.—(A.P.)—New regulations and conditions for the international fencing matches in London, July 20, 21 and 23, between British and American teams for the Robt. M. Thompson trophy, laid down by the Amateur Fencers' Association of Great Britain, have been accepted by the American Fencers' organization. The new conditions were made, the British authorities announced, in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the unsatisfactory outcome of the 1921 international matches held in this country and won by the United States.

In 1921 America won the foils match, and the epee match went to the English swordsmen. The sabre match was a tie in bouts, but the British team scored the greatest aggregate number of touches. America, however, was awarded the trophy on bouts under the rules. The American rule permitting frequent substitutions also did not meet with the approval of the British team.

This year the foils and sabre bouts will be decided by the greatest number of hits in nine, and the epee by one touch. Each team will consist of six swordsmen, four of whom fence. Substitutions will be allowed only in cases of accident or illness. The decision will be by matches instead of by bouts, as in 1921. In case of a tie in matches the decision will be by bouts, and in event of a tie in bouts, by touches.

There will be sixteen bouts with each weapon, constituting three matches for a total of 48 bouts.

Forest Fire Destruction. DUE TO HUMAN RECKLESSNESS.

Ottawa, June 16.—The meaning of the sudden outburst of forest fires in Ontario and parts of Quebec recently is that the limited remaining supply of timber in Eastern Canada has dropped several notches lower and the "franchise" of 6,000 industries has been substantially shortened. This is the gist of a statement made the other day by the Canadian Forestry Association. "The forest is the stuff that jobs are made of and Canada's supply of forests is now so limited that every serious conflagration in timber areas definitely cuts down employment and shortens the life of one or many industries. The causes of the recent terrific fires have not been reported as yet, but year after year the records show that nine-tenths of all forest destruction is due to human recklessness. The Canadian citizen, on pleasure bent, appears determined that the biggest industrial magnet our nation possesses shall be wiped out of the state of national assets within the lifetime of the present generation."

Decay of London Buildings

TO BE STUDIED BY EXPERTS. LONDON, May 19 (A.P.)—London is said to be slowly crumbling away, or at least most of the historic buildings are decaying.

In an effort to ascertain the cause of this crumbling of apparently insoluble stonework, the government has appointed a committee of scientific experts to thoroughly probe the matter.

It is known that stone used in one part of the country will stand unaffected, but if used in another it will decay. This is a mystery the experts have to probe, and it will take considerable time, for it involves questions of chemistry, biology and physics. Among the buildings needing immediate attention are the famous Carlton Club, Tower of London, Houses of Parliament, Holyrood Castle and Tintern Abbey.

$5,000,000 is Latest Estimate of New Brunswick Fire Loss--France Makes New Move to Force Germany to Come to Terms.

FRANCE'S LATEST MOVE.

ESSEN, June 17. Miners and factory workers in various parts of Ruhr held meetings today to determine what action should be taken in view of the latest moves of the forces of occupation to break the passive resistance of Germans by taking over of the railway stations of Dortmund, Bochum, Essen, Gelsenkirchen and other industrial towns. The French control absolutely all the railroad lines leading into and thru Ruhr by which up to last Saturday the Germans had been bringing in food supplies from unoccupied Germany. These shipments to Ruhr have been from five to six hundred shipments daily. When the remaining lines here were taken over the German railroad men quit work as part of their passive resistance programme. Owing to the seizure of the lines, according to the French authorities the Germans now will be forced to come to terms in order to allow the necessary food supplies to reach the inhabitants of Ruhr.

FRENCH METHOD TO ENFORCE PAYMENT.

DUSSELDORF, June 17. Plans to take control of the coal, coke and raw material supplies of all factories in the Ruhr, were announced Saturday at French headquarters here. This method is adopted to enforce payment for coal which all but a few of the smaller plants have heretofore refused to pay.

BRITAIN'S NEWEST SUBMARINE.

CHATHAM, Eng., June 16. Submarine XI, the largest and most powerful underwater craft in the world, was launched here to-day. This mystery ship, as she has been called, displaces 2,780 tons on the surface and 3,600 tons submerged, which is greater by more than a thousand tons than any similar craft now afloat. The submarine will mount a twelve inch gun and her great speed will be a match for any surface warcraft.

300 CHINESE DROWNED IN COAL MINE.

SHANGHAI, June 17. Three hundred Chinese coal miners were drowned at Taichowang on Friday when meddlesome soldiers cut off the electric power, stopping the pumps, according to advices received here.

TERRIFIC HURRICANE SWEEPS SASKATCHEWAN.

SASKATOON, Sask., June 17. One death and a rapidly mounting toll of property loss is reported here from a hurricane which swept Central Saskatchewan Saturday night. Store fronts were demolished, farm buildings carried hundreds of yards through the air, telephone lines blown down, and farm houses destroyed by lightning, according to reports from points over a two hundred mile radius. Fifteen were killed when a bunk house near Rosetown was picked up bodily and thrown twenty yards through the air. Ten miles northwest of Rosetown a shack, in which Mr. and Mrs. Nile Woods were sleeping, was picked up by the wind and tumbled for a mile and a half across the prairie. The woman escaped with a bad shaking up, but Woods is reported in a serious condition. Six patients on the upper floor of Rosetown Hospital were endangered when the roof of the structure vanished, but the building itself did not give way. Many persons had miraculous escapes. Arthur Brown was sleeping in a bunkhouse near Rosetown, which started a five hundred yard journey, finally falling over a haystack. Landing on its side it smashed to pieces. Brown was not hurt, but as he was crawling to shelter a barrel struck him on the head. He is in hospital but will recover. Edward Allan's large farm house in Rosetown district, with himself and family in it, was switched right around on its foundation. No one was hurt. His barn and out-buildings, including six granaries, were badly smashed and eight horses and several cattle killed.

BELFAST, June 17. Ulster went partially dry to-day. All public houses will be closed on Sunday hereafter, and only guests in hotels will be allowed refreshments of that kind.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE FIVE MILLION DOLLARS.

FREDERICTON, June 17. The latest estimate increases the damage from fires in New Brunswick to not less than five million dollars. Fires in the richest virgin forest of the Province continued to burn unabated. As a result of the serious aspect, C. W. Robinson, Minister of Lands and Mines, has issued a proclamation ordering prohibited all forest travel in eight northern counties. The situation eclipses the forest destruction in this Province in a century.

COUNTERFEIT PROFITS.

HALIFAX, June 18. The Mail publishes the story of a young Halifax captain who spent the winter and spring months in St. Pierre in the American trade, who when he came to Halifax to deposit his one hundred thousand dollars profits, found that the bank would only take twenty thousand. The rest was counterfeit.

England Worried Over Emigration to America.

LONDON, May 22.—Great Britain is worried over the increasing number of skilled artisans and domestic servants who want to take up their abode in the United States. The stream of emigrants which has flooded from these shores to America has caused a special committee of the government to inquire into the causes.

THE BELFRY TOWER.

London Morning Post: Even the Middle Ages England was the "Ringing Isle," and the love of bell music has endured amongst us to this day. Indeed, there are more bells in this country than in any other, and nowhere else is the athletic exercise of change-ringing anything like so popular. Not so very long ago our church bellies were regarded as outside the parson's jurisdiction; they were often the scene of drunken and disorderly frolics, which were thought to be justified by such bell inscriptions as the oft-quoted couplet: Hart, do ye hear? Our clappers want beer.

BROADCASTING.

Hong Kong Press: We see little prospect of "broadcasting" becoming a paying proposition in Hong Kong or of affording "listeners-in" any constant enjoyment unless we could count upon listening, say, to the daily performances of the famous Concerto Treats as may be provided anywhere between Tokyo and the Straits Settlements. Possibly the Chinese may be the first to take up the invention for the pleasure of listening to famous singers or actors in Canton. We fear, however, that if the absence of broadcasting in Hong Kong is to be taken as indicating a lack of enterprise, Hong Kong will remain under that stigma for some time yet to come.

MILLIONS.

Philadelphia Ledger: One of the outstanding romances of American industrial life is the story of Ford's rise to affluence and influence from the day twenty years ago when he and his wife tried to get credit for $1.50 from a Detroit shopkeeper when they wanted a chicken for their Sunday dinner. At the same time the wires bring the story of a bequest of $1,000,000 to a boy of fourteen. He must wait till he comes of age to get it.

London Chronicle: Summer time is perhaps the one good thing that came out of the war. For the worker in a city office at least it is an immeasurable boon. But it is in a fair way of becoming an immeasurable curse to the traveler and to all these agencies that are concerned with international traffic and intercourse. ### THE WORLD'S PRESS.

THE MIND STILL GOVERNS.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Harvard professor wants to reorganise society so as to create an aristocracy of the brains. But it exists, without monkeying with society.

ENCOURAGING DELUSIONS.

London Daily Mail: The two obstacles to agricultural revival in this country are the farmers' obstinate demand for a Protection which he will never get and his refusal in all but a few countries to recognize that the laborer is a partner with himself in the industry and cannot be crushed without destroying it. The Government policy is apparently to encourage both these fatal delusions.

CANADA'S NEED.

Le Canada: There is not a business man at the present time who will not admit that Canada's need is an industrial recovery which will both support the artisan population of the towns and equally a town market for our farm products. If we wish to pay our war debt and meet the railway deficit we must increase our population—and this is only possible by industrial development; that is to say more workmen supported by more farmers.

THOSE WHO DWELL IN CITIES.

London Daily Telegraph: If certain facts are ignored our national civilization will pay for it. One is the fact that those who do not possess property to be seized by the State are the great majority of the electorate. To them is addressed the specious argument that since confiscation would take nothing from them directly, they can have nothing to lose by it. The other is the fact that alone among great nations, Great Britain has a population of town-dwelling workers in excess of those who live and labor on the land.

DRESSING THE WINDOWS.

Natal Advertiser: After the Napoleonic wars there was an interval of many years before the Great Exhibition in Hyde Park. Now, within less than five years of the Armistice, British industrialists welcomed inspection of their products. If this dressing of the shop windows in Great Britain has such beneficial effects, how much greater will be the results when the shutters are raised to reveal the products and progress of the whole of the British Empire. All that is required for success is a stout heart and steady work.

Our Staple Industry

Taking all the surrounding circumstances into consideration one would not be inclined to advance the opinion that the price of our staple product will be satisfactorily high next fall and winter. The whole outlook, to the ordinary observer, would seem to militate against such a possibility. Nevertheless there is one exporter, doing business in the city, in this line, who did not hesitate to predict that the price of prime codfish will be at least seven dollars a quintal before next December. In our judgment we are apt to be altogether influenced by the conditions that exist at the moment, and because fish is low in price now and the foreign markets are in bad shape it is easy to be led into forming the opinion that the same state of affairs must prevail six months hence. Industrial and financial conditions change very rapidly these times, and it is just possible that we may be compelled to regard the situation from quite a different viewpoint before the end of the current year. Let us consider the factors that may operate to bring this about. In the first place our total catch under average penitence is certain to be short for the very sure and absolute reason that there will be about 100 per cent. less fishermen engaged this season at the codfishing. Probably the shortage of men will be even greater than this in the Labrador fishery. In the second place the foreign markets though paying a price that does not bring much profit to the owners are absorbing the holdings of 1922 fish at a rate that indicates very low holdings by the time new fish is ready. In the third place the South West Coast has no new cargoes in prospective, like other years, to send forward this summer. Finally the Norwegian catch is not an excessive one, and the financial condition of the peoples who purchase and consume our product shows signs of improvement, especially in Italy, Spain and Portugal, and probably will be in good purchasing condition, with more favorable exchange, by next October when our fish is ready to go forward. All these things may not turn out so favorable, and if the local price goes to $6.50 per quintal for good Shore and $4.50 for Labrador it will be very well, and the men engaged in the industry this season will make a paying venture out of the fishery.

The Sydney Strike

The anxiety with which the public of the city regarded the possibility of a long continuance of the strike at Sydney serves to "point a moral and adorn a tale." A sense of relief was felt when the news came that the strike was settled by the company agreeing to reinstate the men who had been dismissed. As to the merits or demerits of the justification for the strike in this case we have nothing to say. The point that we wish to make is that a strike of coal miners is likely to occur at any time, as has been the case so frequently in the past at the Sydney mines, and when it does, the people of Newfoundland, who have to depend on coal for home fuel for running factories, are completely at the mercy of the Sydney strikers. The fact the price advances under such circumstances is hard enough to bear, but we are used to that and have learned to submit to it philosophically. A time may come, however, when a strike may be followed by the announcement that we cannot get coal at any price. Realizing the possibility of this an earnest effort, with government encouragement, should be made to mine our own household coal if it be a fact, and there should be no reason to doubt it, that there is abundance of coal in our own country. A fatality seems to have followed all efforts so far to produce Newfoundland coal in quantity sufficient for local household use. Any time the Government did interfere, whether by blundering or preconceived design, the attempt to get out any appreciable quantity of good coal has turned out a failure, and the last effort made in this direction, besides being a failure involved the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the country. Mr. T. Freeman's company claims to have plenty of good coal in the different outcroppings that they have uncovered in St. George's District, and they say without hesitation that if they had received half the encouragement and financial assistance that the other company was given at South Branch the people of Newfoundland would now be able to depend on this coal for household supplies, and would be quite independent of possible strikes in Sydney. If this be so it certainly is not creditable to the Government. We understand that the engineers and experts, who represent the American company who hold the option on St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd. will arrive on the West Coast in a few days to make a final development test of the different uncovered seams. It is to be hoped by the public generally that they will receive every encouragement and that if the door is not closed against any financial help and no obstacles placed in their way, before the close of the current year we shall have a home supply of coal and be independent in the future of Sydney high prices and above all of Sydney recurrent strikes.

Regatta Committee to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Regatta Committee takes place in the T.A. Armoury this evening at 8.30 o'clock. As various important matters will come up for discussion it is hoped that the attendance will be large. There will be no Football Races on the programme this season, the League having arrived at this decision at the annual meeting.

The Archbishop's Illness

It was announced yesterday at the Masses in the Roman Catholic Cathedral, that the health of His Grace the Archbishop, who has just returned from a brief visit to New York, is not as good as could be desired. The nature of His Grace's illness is such as to necessitate absolute rest, and the physicians whom he consulted in New York, as well as his local medical adviser, have ordered him to abandon all work for at least six months. His Grace, however, does not intend going abroad, but will remain at his residence, Topsail Road, and will keep in touch with the central administration of the Archdiocese through the Vicar-General, Monsignor McDermott, to whom all matters of diocesan and business importance should be transferred.

The Unemployed Situation.

PRIME MINISTER PROMISES ANSWER TO-MORROW. A deputation of the unemployed called at the Colonial Secretary's office this morning to receive the Prime Minister's reply to their request for work. Shortly before 1 p.m. the Deputy Colonial Secretary informed the men that he had received a message from Sir Richard Bannister promising to meet the deputation at noon to-morrow. On last Thursday the Prime Minister intimated to the unemployed committee that possibly he would not be able to give them an answer to-day as he was engaged on a very important document in relation to the Railroad, which would necessitate his consideration in discussion during Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

TO-NIGHT'S LINE-UP. The Feildians and Guards are the contesting teams in this evening's League football match. Both teams have made several changes in last year's line-up. To-night's players are: Feildians—Goal, R. Voseley; backs, F. Rendell, R. Chafe; half backs, Duke Winter, Ron Martin, Eric Chafe; forwards, E. Martin, S. Jerritt, E. G. Ewing, J. Withers, J. Goldstone. Guards—Goal, R. Pashue; backs, V. Ross, W. Thistle; halves, J. Angel, N. Ellis, W. Halford; forwards, J. Parsons, G. Quick, R. Macklin, W. Clouston, H. Coultas.

Helping the Orphans.

ARRANGING BELVEDERE GARDEN PARTY. A very enthusiastic gathering of the members of the gentlemen's committee met the Belvedere Ladies' Association at the Institution yesterday morning and made arrangements for the holding of the annual garden party. President Mrs. Hiscok, who invited the gentlemen, outlined briefly what was required, and the king of sport, Mr. W. J. Higgins, was appointed Chairman. Only preliminary arrangements were made, but it is the intention to make this season's event the banner one. In addition to last year's programme, an invitation will be issued to the Junior Football League to make their debut on the Orphan's Day, July 2nd. There will be several medals, which, we understand, are kindly donated, and likely a cup or medal for the road race, entries for which will be made at the store of Mr. Charles J. Ellis. With only a short time to prepare, the gentlemen intend to make it a gala day for all who attend.

This is not a night for the open road, too cold. It is a good night for "Knight for a Day."

A Gracious Tribute.

(Daily News.) On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. McKean, Hon. Treasurer of the Fund, received a bouquet of choice flowers, with a card attached, on which was written "In appreciation of your work in connection with Belvedere Hamel." The only signature was "A Mother." The ladies who worked so earnestly looked for neither thanks, nor reward. To them their work was a labour of love and a privilege. But the gracious act of "A Mother" is one that they cannot fail to appreciate. It is their joy to know that their labours have not been in vain, and that mothers of men, typified by the anonymous donor, are grateful.

Susu Arrives.

S.S. Susu, Capt. Roberts, arrived from the Fogo Mail Service route at 6 a.m. yesterday, bringing the following passengers:—Messrs. J. O. Newman, H. R. Randall; Mesdames E. C. Clench, P. House, F. Ryan, A. Monaghan; Misses A. Barry, E. Toppert, N. Lane and Cadet E. Bishop, and ten second class. The ship reports very little doing along the coast, and there is no sign of fish striking in as yet.

Dr. W. E. Jones.

IN PASSING.

His Excellency the Governor and Suite arrived in the city yesterday after paying official visits to several of the principal settlements in Conception Bay and northern districts. His Excellency, we understand, hopes to visit the Western districts when the House of Assembly progresses.

The Assembly meets at 3 o'clock this afternoon to receive the preliminary railway agreement and other documents relative to the Reid Humber Deal.

It is now more than two weeks since the House was officially opened, yet very little business has been transacted.

Adjournments extending over a week, because of the Government's failure to prepare and have ready sufficient business for the consideration of the members, are from every aspect received with disfavor. Previous Governments up to 1919 always made it a point to have the Spring sessions closed before the 1st of June, and very often earlier, to allow the members, particularly those who were directly interested in the fisheries, to attend to same.

A week ago yesterday, a child named Freddie, aged four years, was reported missing, and apart from a single attempt to search for the infant, no further interest was manifested.

Surely the authorities are not content with allowing the matter to be thus dropped without a complete investigation being held.

We learn that a woman who was crossing the trestle in the vicinity of the Round House, saw the child at 10 o'clock on the night he strayed away, and reported same the following morning, and the problem is: Did the little fellow fall off the trestle or wander away into the country and die of exposure?

On similar occurrences we have known the search to be continued for weeks, and the services of the Police, Brigades and other organizations were secured as searching parties to scour the country in the hope of finding the missing one, and very often good results were attained. Why the same interest was not displayed in this instance we are at a loss to determine. We leave it to the better judgment of the authorities who perhaps have satisfied themselves that "nothing further can be done in the matter."

Memorial to Fallen Soldiers.

PRESENTED BY SIR M. P. CASHIN. Yesterday afternoon the residents of the Goules met at the house of Mr. Thomas Bowe to form a committee and for the purpose of erecting a monument to perpetuate the memory of the young men of the Goules who have laid down their lives in the War. Sir Michael Cashin had been specially invited to come out from town and attend the meeting, and presided there at 2.30 p.m. by motor car accompanied by Messrs. P. F. Moore and P. J. Cashin, members of the district. When the purpose of the meeting was explained, Sir Michael, with his usual generosity volunteered to present the memorial as a grateful recognition to the people of the settlement of their loyalty to himself the past thirty years. The people were deeply affected at his touching remarks, especially those present who had lost sons in the War. Strong men were affected to tears at Sir Michael's allusion to their brave and self-sacrificing sons who gave up their lives for their country and the Empire, and were now resting beneath the poppy-clad fields of France and Flanders. P. F. Moore also addressed the gathering, and made touching allusions to the lifelong friendship between Sir Michael and the people which was as warm and true to-day as it was 30 years ago when he first stood on this spot and addressed them. On behalf of the people of his constituents he thanked Sir Michael and assured them that the monument would be worthy of their brave sons whose memory it was intended to perpetuate. They need not be told things like this by halves. The Goules made a record in enrollment in the War and no less than 70 joined the ranks, seven of whom never returned. The memorial will be erected in the Cemetery of the Parish Church and a committee was chosen at the close of the meeting to call on Rev. Father Tierney, the Parish Priest at Petty Hr., to ask his co-operation in making the necessary arrangements.

McMurdo's Store News.

"USE XILEX AND FORGET YOUR SKIN TROUBLES." Xylex, the new remedy for Skin Troubles, is the result of long experience in the treatment of skin diseases, and of the remedies for them. In many cases, after failure of other remedies, this remarkable ointment will effect a thorough and perfect cure. This is especially the case with the various forms of Eczema. And for Piles, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Bites and Stings, and Frostburn, it will be found of immense value. In fact, in every case where a healing, soothing antiseptic application is of value, Xylex can be used with confidence in the result. Try a Box 6c. T. McMURDO & CO., LTD., 1923.

Bishop Renouf Receives Magnificent Reception.

ST. GEORGE'S, June 18. Special to Evening Telegram. Bishop Renouf returned to St. George's on Friday from his Ad Limina visit to Rome. A magnificent reception was given him on his arrival. All the priests of the Diocese and the people of the Parish met him at the train, accompanied him in procession, with the school children to the Cathedral, where Mr. A. J. O'Reilly in an eloquent speech welcomed him home and whose call for cheers for his Lordship was lustily responded to. Flags and bunting were everywhere in evidence. Arches with mottoes of welcome spanned the road on the way to the palace and the bell of the Institution pealed forth a hearty welcome. At night, the houses were beautifully illuminated, presenting a very impressive spectacle. On Saturday night an entertainment consisting of a play and operatic choruses was held in the Parish Hall. The key note of the performance was the well known sentiments of deep love and interest of his Lordship for the home land. Solemn high mass Coram Portico was celebrated on Sunday during which addresses and presentations from the parishioners and various societies were presented. His Lordship, who was evidently deeply touched by the enthusiastic reception, very feelingly replied to the addresses and gave an account of his journey and audience with the Holy Father and at the conclusion gave all present the Apostolic blessing, specially granted by his Holiness himself. To-night, the celebration finishes with a performance of an operetta and concert given by the pupils of the Academy and the Convent schools.

A Delightful Experience.

It is a real delightful experience to use Hudnut's fragrant Three Flowers Face Powder. This pure, fascinating toilet requisite gives a distinctive charm and creates a pleasant atmosphere around the person using it. In the Three Flowers odor there is a delicate touch of the natural fragrance of real flowers. The fineness of the powder itself is superb. Ladies who appreciate high quality always insist upon the Three Flowers Face Powder. It can be obtained in different shades at most drug and department stores.

Forty-Four Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram

Fisheries the "Mainstay" of the Country's Business.

It seems that men would rather live than man the craft offered for prosecution of the fishery, at the shore and Labrador this season. This is poor practice as we know that relief cannot accommodate the same rate as being paid for the fishery, even though great fortune is made thereby. Prices soar up as reported, and men would, if they took up the fishery, profit more so than by the sale of the small dole of relief. To the independent is loyal but the form of independence which cripples the industry, as well as their own well-being, is hardly commendable to those who were always so industrious.

It brings in the produce that the fishery holds forth, and some wealth is sent to the country generally, and nothing can be gained by holding back from the various offers that are made. No one knows but that it may be a good year and at the same time outside of Twillizate seems to be activity in the fitting up of boats and schooners, especially at Fogo and vicinity, and men seem to hope to reap some benefit even when fishermen laid up a little. The industry suffers as a consequence of the back the fishery such as mechanics, blacksmiths, carpenters, and all who share in the circulation of capital laid down for the carrying on of Newfoundland's most valuable industry.

The younger generation seems to be dissatisfied with the fishing industry in comparison with the old folks who look such an interest in cod nets, and jiggers and had not the same interest we have in the traps and other conveniences. Being filled with ambitions of money making, there is no uncertainty, they are the fishery. Some amateur fishermen claim that the expense of the boat is not as great as the loss of the motor boat, and they advise going back to smaller craft and that the expense in outfit, with no motor will net a better profit than can be derived otherwise. Experience has many a lesson and apparently the fishery has been over worked.

It is said there will be no enactment regarding regulation, this year, those who were unfavorable to a measure will have no cause to complain. But all seem to favor the sort of mutual agreement between exporters in the shipping of fish to foreign markets to relieve the situation. No one should discourage the fishery by discouraging the fishermen who are at present halting between two opinions, and by using the same tactics that hamper and hinder the industry of our folk, such as political mistakes of financing among our own people.

The fishery has yet to be boosted as living is to be won as no other industry or industries can take its place. Labor may be found with less ease than in past years, but the fishery is yet the "main stay" of the country's business, until other available resources are opened up.

Junior Football League.

OPENING GAME WEDNESDAY NIGHT.
The newly formed Junior Football League met on Saturday night last and all the teams registered their names and arrangements were finalized for the opening game on Wednesday night, the contesting teams being the Gallic League and St. John's. The meeting decided to make application to the Regatta Committee to place a Junior Football Race on the programme. It was also announced that several teams will enter the relay race in the C.L.B. on the 27th. The lads are very enthusiastic and the series promises to be interesting.

St. Bon's Meeting.

At the council meeting of St. Bon's Association held yesterday at the College, Mr. W. R. Howley presided, and a discussion took place in reference to the celebration of the 14th of the month. A resolution, introduced by Mr. J. G. Higgins, was carried in favor of the annual breakfast given in the Refectory of the College, as has been customary, that the same be held at the College on the next suitable date after the 14th, of which is practicable as it falls on a weekday. A committee was appointed to consult the Vicar-General to see whether the changes in view of the Morning Mass and Benediction can take place in the College as per custom on the 14th. Bro. Ryan, President of the College, was present and expressed his willingness to do all in his power to be in line with any new programme that the Association would make.

Obituary.

MRS. JESSIE B. SCLATER.
It is with feelings of deep regret that the Telegram has to chronicle to-day the passing of an esteemed lady in the person of Mrs. Jessie B. Sclater, death having occurred yesterday afternoon at her home Waterford Bridge Road. The late Mrs. Sclater, third daughter of the late David and Margaret Baird, was predeceased by three sisters, Mrs. R. Elph, Mrs. W. Ellis, Miss Polly Baird and her husband, James B. Sclater, two years ago. The late Mrs. Sclater was a lady whose loveliness of character made her universally beloved. Her bright and sunny disposition radiated happiness, and her chief aim in life was to help those who were unable to help themselves. The deceased lady was an active member and worker of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. J. C. Hepburn is a surviving sister. The funeral takes place at 3 p.m. to-morrow.

CHARLES A. McLARTHY.
Word has been received in the city of the death of Mr. Charles A. McLarthy, at Norfolk, Virginia. Mr. McLarthy, who was in his 60th year, left St. John's about 40 years ago to reside in the United States. For several years he conducted a gent's furnishing store on Broadway, New York. From there he moved to Florida, and carried on a business on similar lines for a period of twenty years. At the time of his death he was employed by the firm of Miller, Rhoads & Swartz, at Norfolk, Virginia. The late Mr. McLarthy will be remembered by many in St. John's as a keen sportsman. He was a keen Valonian, and a good shot, while in cricket he had few superiors. It was only three years ago that the deceased visited his native land, having been a guest of his cousin, Mr. George R. Williams, at Florence Grove. During his short stay he revived many old acquaintances, who will regret to hear of his passing. The deceased leaves to mourn a widow and two daughters, the brother George, in the U.S.A. and a sister Mrs. Martin Bale. The funeral took place at Norfolk, to Elmwood Cemetery.

BERTRAM GEORGE MAUNDER.
The death of Bertram George, second youngest son of Thomas and Fannie Maunder, occurred at his home, Portugal Cove Road, yesterday morning, after an illness of long duration. The deceased was a bright and promising youth of 20 years, and up to eight months ago was employed as clerk at the store of C. F. Bennett & Co., where he was admired and held in the highest esteem of all. The deceased suffered from a severe malady, and although everything possible was done by physicians, to save the young life, besides the care of parents and sisters at home, he gradually grew worse until the final spark was subdued at 7 a.m. yesterday. He is survived by father, mother, four brothers, Hubert and Maxwell, at home, and Chesley and Ronald in the United States, and three sisters, Misses Hilda and Jean this city, and Mrs. Harold Bartlett, Brigus. The Telegram offers its sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

KNIGHT FOR A DAY.
Amongst the big social events in London and New York are the opening and closing weeks of the Opera Season. This week at the Casino keep the close of our 1923-25 season, "Knight for a Day" being the vehicle chosen to wind up with. From our reporters' preview of this production two points are most prominent. First, the very short time that the players have found necessary to prepare the offering under Mr. W. Bentley's expert direction and the wonderful co-operation and co-ordination of the performers. (The show could easily have been staged last week) and second, the beautiful result attained from every angle be it scenic, singing, dancing or acting. It is of course, a comedy and a comedy par excellence. Clean, wholesome and what is most needed now, days for the over-worked, over worried worker whether he sit in the Director's chair or holds a daily insignificant position of third assistant office boy. It is a tonic for the times. See it and laugh yourself into a better frame of mind.

Shipping.

S.S. Digby sails at 6 p.m. for Liverpool.
Yacht Sylvia II, sailed yesterday at noon for Stag Bay, Labrador.
Schr. Lucille B. Creaser, Capt. T. Flander, sails to-day for Burna with a general cargo. From Burna the vessel will proceed to Sydney to load coal for St. John's.
S.S. Greens, for the Hook of Holland, with 10,400 tons, and the Montenegro for Philadelphia, with 3,400 tons of iron ore left Bell Island on Saturday.
S.S. Winona sailed Saturday for St. John, N.B. The ship will not be coming here this season, the Maple-aven and Misson keeping up the regular service.

nothing but hail to be expected in duplicating 1915 in the West. A marked change in the rains and farmers are now being lulled into a false sense of security. The crop of eight years ago in the other prairie states was highly satisfactory as compared with the outlook. In the West have arrived and rain now recorded after a long period of drought. It is particularly gratifying to report such satisfactory crops in Western Canada. In Alberta, in recent seasons, the business community has been afflicted with a lack of rain at the most opportune crop periods. This setting of favorable facts has been the cause of Western optimists who have crops for the fall season, and when a change of the situation on the business community has been prevented from those who have trade accounts are prior to the recent rains. In Alberta was not the same were afraid to purchase and build. That to proceed with the same. Now there is a change as indicated by the report from F. W. Cranford, a specialist, who operates in a province in Alberta for many years been a practical agricultural expert in Canada.

Only Hail Can Prevent the Alberta Crop from Equalling the Bumper Yields of 1915

Remarkable Change in the Crop Prospects Has Been Wrought by Recent Rains—Conditions Highly Satisfactory in Other Western Provinces.

...but hail to prevent Alberta duplicating 1915 in her yields. ...reliable advice received from the Financial Post. There has been a marked change in the situation in Alberta because of recent rains and farmers and business men are now imbued with an optimism that has been lacking since the crop of eight years ago. Conditions in other prairie provinces are highly satisfactory as regards the outlook. In the East timely rains have arrived and rapid growth is being recorded after a late start; prospects for field crops, fruits, etc., are splendid.

It is particularly gratifying to be able to report such a satisfactory outlook in Western Canada, particularly in Alberta. In recent years the Financial Post has, several times, at the season, been called upon to indicate the business community that because of lack of rain at the critical moment the optimistic crop talk of the past few months would have to be abandoned. This setting forth of disheartening facts has been resented by Western optimists who talk bumper crops for the chances of such a thing and when a false impression of the situation on the financial business community has done harm in preventing consideration from those to whom mortgage trade accounts are due.

As to the recent rains the situation in Alberta was not bright. Merchants were afraid to go ahead and purchase and build up their stocks. Now there is a marked change as indicated by the following letter from F. W. Crandall, a farm specialist, who operates large properties in Alberta and has many years been a close student of agricultural conditions in that province.

MARY—Conditions have definitely changed during the past two weeks. We have had one rain after another, covering a large part of Alberta—especially the Southern part where the needs were the greatest—today. We are all enthusiastic about the probable crop results. There is no doubt but that Alberta is duplicating 1915 in her yields. These do not mean any limited crop, but the province as a whole. There are some small districts where there has not been sufficient rain, but in the main, even with only a few showers from now till ripening time, this is to be expected—Financial Post.

CHURCH PARADE YESTERDAY.

Yesterday's church parade was under the personal command of Lieut. Colonel Walter E. Rendell, C.B.E., and Major R. H. Tait, M.C., Adjutant. A full staff of officers were on duty including Serjt. Ricketts, V.C., of Field College Company. All the city companies were on parade, as well as the C.L.B. Veterans—Old Comrades, under President Chafe, some ninety strong, and a Company of Girl Guides, from Spencer College under Captain Elwin-Nash and officers. Total of all ranks was four hundred and ten. The service was held at St. Thomas's Church at 3 p.m. All ranks including the Chaplains wore full decorations. The Rev. E. C. Harp, Rector of St. Thomas's and Rev. G. O. Lightbourn, conducted the service. The full choir being present was much appreciated by the congregation. Choir Master and Organist, H. W. Stirling L.L.C.M., manipulated the organ keys. The hymns were sung, "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus." "The Churches One Foundation" and the Brigade's own hymn, "Right the Good Fight." The procession was led by the Rev. G. O. Lightbourn, Brigade Chaplain, and his sermon was one of the best. He made a strong appeal to his hearers to choose the right path when they came to the cross roads—the path of service to Christ—and not the path of indifference—one of the greatest sins of the people to-day. The National Anthem concluded the service. Lieut. M. Job Taylor, was the officer in charge of the Colour Party. The Battalion marched back to the Armoury via Gower Street, Flavin Street and Military Road. Before the parade was dismissed Lieut. Col. Rendell addressed his command, expressing his appreciation of having the St. John's No. 1 Company of Girl Guides and Old Comrades Lodge, No. 1 present, and hoped that although that Spencer College will soon be closed that the Guides will parade with the C.L.B. during the holidays. He also announced that he had arranged that any ex-Brigade member who has not joined the Old Comrades—of any well wishes of the Brigade generally—can now be made an honorary member of the Church Lad's Brigade Cadets by paying a voluntary subscription—and in return would receive an official certificate of membership. Many interested friends wished to help the finances voluntarily and this will give those subscribers a status not otherwise enjoyed. The Girl Guides under command of Captain Elwin-Nash marched back to their headquarters—G.

Our Graves at Ayr.

We are informed by a person that has just returned from Ayr, and who was in conversation with the Town Clerk just previous to his sailing for St. John's, that the Corporation of Ayr has not been paid for the plot in which our lads rest. The reason for the non-payment of the bill presented by the Corporation, is said to be because the amount charged is an exorbitant one.

We have no hesitation in saying that when the work was ordered, there was no quibbling as to the price to be charged, and surely the Government or whoever has to do with this account will lose no time in settling the dispute.

Our informant also states that the plot is not kept up as it should be; the grass is grown over in many places and the wooden Crosses are unpainted. Surely an arrangement could be made with the caretaker of the Cemetery to look after this matter. We understand that the American plot in the same Cemetery is wonderfully kept, and that the caretaker is paid by the American Government for doing this work.

We think that this matter ought to be settled, and promptly at that. Is it true that a Newfoundland sailor lies in a pauper's grave in Aberdeenshire?

Is it true that one of our lads is buried in Edinburgh in the same grave with two Royal Scots?

Tommy Gibbons Has Made Boxing His Life Career.

ST. PAUL, June 7th.—(A.P.)—Just about the time most anxious fathers are "feeling out" their sons to ascertain their life-work desires, a young man of St. Paul—"hardly more than a kid," his friends said—grasped the lower rung of the ladder of pugilistic fame.

It was his selection for a life profession and how well he has mastered it will be demonstrated July 4, when he seeks to wrest the heavyweight boxing crown from Jack Dempsey at Shelby, Montana.

For the young man who decided on fistfights as a life work was Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, only a youth of 18 years when he answered the lure of the game. Many boxers have gained their start in the ring through their prowess as rough-and-tumble-mixers, with science developed later as a necessary requisite to greater success.

Not so with Tommy Gibbons. It was purely a business proposition with him, and he selected his career for the same reason that many other young men have entered less violent professions. It was the attraction of more money than he could make any other way.

Tommy's path had been beaten by his brother, Mike Gibbons, five years his senior, whose boxing skill later gained for him the sobriquet of "The Phantom." It was the verbal persuasion of Mike, coupled with his success at fighting that decided Tommy.

"I had left school and had gone to work for the Great Northern Railway here," he said in recounting his start. "Of course, I was only making a little money; no more than a kid of that age is likely to make.

"One day Mike came to me with a proposition that I enter the ring. He said he could pay me more than the railroad company did, and as I had watched with some envy the money Mike was making, I decided to take him up.

"Mike was a great teacher, and from that time till very recent years, when Mike's eyes have been bothering him he gave me thorough instruction. It is this, of course, that I owe much of whatever boxing ability I possess."

It was the luster cast over him by his brother's success that took Tommy into his first fights—informal quiet affairs at a little "athletic club" the young men maintained out in the Gibbons's neighbourhood.

"The fellows expected me to be a fighter just because Mike was," Tommy said, "and so they generally matched me with the big fellows. I didn't have much to gain for they all expected me to win my fights, but I had a lot to lose—at least, it seemed a lot then—and so I naturally fought 'over my head' as a rule."

The father of Mike and Tommy had a keen aversion to fighting. It was over his strong protests that Mike entered the game, but when the senior Gibbons saw the remuneration that might result from a single engagement, his opposition gradually vanished and had disappeared by the time Tommy was ready for the professional ring.

However, the senior Gibbons never saw either of his sons in the ring. He died on the night that Tommy fought Billy Miske in New York last October; a fight Tommy entered with knowledge of his father's serious illness. The bout terminated when Gibbons fouled Miske.

"Champion Mother" Sues Husband.
WOMAN WHO BROUGHT UP 68 CHILDREN.
LONDON—Mrs. Emma Crossman, of White Hart Lane, Wood Green, who summoned her husband, George Edward Crossman, for £62 arrears under a maintenance order at the local police court recently, may perhaps claim to be the champion mother.
No fewer than 68 children have been mothered by Mrs. Crossman, who has been married twice.
Her flock has included 23 children of her own, seventeen of her second husband's by his first wife, and 28 nurse children.
She was one of a family of fourteen children and her mother was one of twelve. She has more than 90 grandchildren, and innumerable great-grandchildren. Mrs. Crossman has eighteen daughters and five sons. One of the daughters has eighteen children; two had fourteen each; and two others twelve each; these five alone thus accounting for seventy children.
One of her daughters named her little flock of twelve with floral names—Lily, Rose, Violet, and so on.

California Has Increase Of 389,000 Acres Devoted to Grapes
AND ALL THIS SINCE PROHIBITION.
WASHINGTON, June 18.—(By Canadian Press)—It is estimated that approximately fifty thousand refrigerator cars of California grapes, destined to become wine, will travel eastward this summer to help relieve a thirsty land. This another complication will be added to the already knotty problem of enforcing federal prohibition. Alarmed at the unprecedented number of cars the grape men will require, apple growers from Washington, Oregon and Idaho, who suffered a staggering loss last year because of their inability to secure refrigerator cars, are demanding that the Federal Government take some action against an undertaking which, they claim, resolves itself into an illicit business.
The average grape movement from California, the apple men point out, from 1917 to 1918, was only 18,000 cars. The increase, more than 150 per cent, represents efforts to supply a nationwide demand. B. W. Johnson, manager of the Oregon Apple Company, declares enough grapes were shipped from California last year to supply every person in the United States with ten pounds of the fruit. Assuming that he was right and that half the tonnage was used for wine, it would indicate that 22,500,000 gallons of wine were made in homes last year from California grapes alone. Before prohibition, Washington authorities state, California had 225,000 acres devoted to grapes. Now, without counting this year's planting, the total is over 714,000 acres.

Petrograd Hopes To Regain Position Lost Through War.
A. WILSON, Secy. C. H. E.
Petrograd, May 15.—(A.P.)—Petrograd has come back to the million population class. A recent police census showed the city has 1,065,000 inhabitants, as compared with 740,000 in 1920.
Although still almost dead industrially in comparison with its wartime status, Petrograd in general is beginning to "come back."
During the war days Petrograd had more than 2,000,000 people. After the Bolshevik revolution the capital was moved to Moscow and thousands of government employees and factory workers were evacuated. The lean and hungry years of the revolution brought about a further decrease in the population, many of the people going to the country districts where food was cheaper and more plentiful.
Two years ago Petrograd merited the predictions of foreign observers that it would be a city as dead as Pompeii. But the past year has brought a tremendous change. Factories are being re-opened, the port is in operation, and thousands of persons are returning to the city. Many of them have come from Moscow, which is so overcrowded with its 2,500,000 people in a city built for 1,000,000, that it is almost impossible to find a place to sleep. In Moscow one cannot get a spacious apartment for love or money; in Petrograd there are many of them. And so hundreds of Moscow business-men whose work keeps them in the capital, have sent their families to Petrograd where they can live comfortably.

While it does not seem probable that there is any immediate chance of the Bolshevik Government moving the capital back to Petrograd, nevertheless some institutions which help to overcrowd Moscow are to be moved to Petrograd this summer. This will further increase the population. Business conditions in Petrograd, however, do not seem as bright as they were last summer. Scores of shops closed during the winter because of high taxation, and the broad Nevsky Prospect presents a panorama of closed and shuttered stores. It is expected that port operations in the summer will bring about an improvement in business.

German Has Claim of Insulin Patent.
WILL RECLAIM 4800 PATENTS SEIZED DURING WAR.
NEW YORK, June 11.—Anticipating the progress of medical science a German chemist in 1908 obtained a patent in the United States which in general language described a process and product virtually akin to that under which insulin, the newest combatant of diabetes, is marketed and protected in the United States, says a despatch to the World from its correspondent in Wilmington, Del.
According to this correspondent, this fact will be revealed by the defence during the trial of the federal government's suit to reclaim the 4800 German patents which were seized during the war and were later sold to the Chemical Foundation, Limited.
Germany Will Wage War of Revenge.
NEW YORK, June 18.—(By Canadian Press)—Within the next fifty years Germany is going to wage a great war of revenge and wipe France off the map, according to Count Alexis Victor von Schoenermark, scion of an old German family, who is here in the interests of Germany's "middle class," which, he declares, is suffering frightfully.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

OWNING OR OWNED.

Some friends of ours are having a wonderful time this spring because they have just come into possession of an automobile. I fancy the husband would be surprised if he should see that statement. He would say: "Why, I bought that automobile last September and used it all the fall. Why do you say we just came into possession of it?" But I know the wife would understand perfectly.

An Ornament, not a Utility. For this is what she said to me: "We are really enjoying our automobile this year. You know last year it was so new and shiny and lovely, and we were so afraid we would hurt it, that we didn't have much fun out of it. Those first two months we used to inspect it every time we took it out, and dust it off and look for scratches, and if we found a new scratch on it that just spoiled the day for Henry. He wouldn't take it out if it was rainy, or if it had been raining and was muddy; and if we were going somewhere and found an oily road he would turn back; and he never wanted to go on the main road because the little roads are apt to be dusty. He hated any narrow country road because once he was pushed over into the bushes and scratched the car terribly. And then one day in the late fall we got caught in a frightful storm and got the car all muddy, and when we had it washed the garage man scratched it and ruined some of the varnish by using too much soap."

They Own a Car Now. "I was simply heartbroken when I saw it. I didn't mind so much myself, but I knew Henry would feel terribly. And what do you suppose he said? He felt badly at first, and then he just took a deep breath and said: "Well, I'm sorry it happened, but maybe it isn't such a misfortune, after all. We'll stop worrying about it now and enjoy it next spring, and maybe that will be just as good."

If You Care Too Much. I know another woman who puts up with a comparatively incompetent maid because she says the maid cares more about staying than she does about keeping her and so she is never nervous about her. When the other woman boasts of her treasure she is not in the least envious. "I could get a treasure, too," she says, "if I were willing to give up my peace of mind."

To be thrifty and careful about what one owns seems to me commendable. I hate the careless indifference that abuses and destroys a possession. Even if one has the money to buy another, that means that some of the world's labor power is devoted to produce a second article when it might have been used for better purposes if you had taken reasonable care of the first one.

But reasonable care is one thing. And the care that makes such a fetch session that one cannot get any real use or pleasure out of it, is quite another thing. Between the two extremes, as always, lies the golden mean.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE SICK BABY.
Poor little drowsy eyes,
No joy in them to-day,
No laughter, no surprise,
No wish to romp and play.
Poor little hands that lie
So simple at your side,
Last night we heard you sob,
And wondered why you cried.

Put all the toys away,
No smile the rabbit brings,
There is no joy to-day
In all those pretty things.
My watch has lost its charms,
You are too tired to play;
Only your mother's arms
Can comfort you to-day.

Poor little cheeks so red,
Poor little fevered brow,
Little you know the dread
Which weigh upon us now.
Little you know the fear
Which chills us through,
No joy can rouse us here
When joy has fled from you.

We hear the neighbors say:
"To-morrow she will smile;
She will begin to play
In just a little while.
Some slight disturbance makes
A baby moan in pain,
Yet when the morning breaks
She will be well again."

Yet when the baby's ill
And fever burns her cheeks,
It seems our hearts stand still,
The hours are long as weeks.
So sad is she to see,
So pitiful her pain,
We quite forget that she
Will soon be well again.

It is estimated that alarm clocks added 500 cuss words to our language.

THE WAY IT GOES.

I said, "I'll feed on garden sass until I lose some weight; I am so large I scarce can pass through yonder beehard gate," and then I called for bran and grass, a diet truly great. I said, "I'll cut out all the grub that makes a gent obese, that makes him rounder than a tub, and pads his ribs with grease; I know 'twill be a long, hard rub, but gaining flesh must cease." And then exclaimed James Joseph Juice, "Come home with em, by heck; you're dieting!"

Oh, what's the use, when such grub is on deck? "My aunt is at my house to-day," said Ebenezer Wise; "I am not boasting when I say she makes the smoothest pies; so come and join us—bran and hay are things the horses prize." "Oh, stay," Jim Hoskins said, "and rest, and feed an hour or two; our home-made sausage is the best that ever cured the flu, a pound will fill your soul with zest, and make you good as new." "I see your eyes with hunger gleam," said Reuben Ushot Brown; "your spitless diet is a scream that gives you punk renown; now here's a jug of Jersey cream—let's see you pour it down." "Oh, how can any man adhere to bran and sawdust cakes, when kindly neighbors, far and near, bring pies and luscious steaks, and cans of wholesome Volstead beer? My high resolves are fakes.

Former German Prince Stirs Ire of Socialists.

BERLIN, May 29.—(A.P.)—Prince Eitel Friedrich, the second son of ex-Empress Wilhelm II of Germany, has recently created a number of new Knights of Honor in the Order of St. John, of which he is a supreme commander for Brandenburg province, and has thereby created as well the usual annual uproar among the socialists.

There are several angles about this yearly action of the prince that the German radicals do not like, although they do not express any fundamental objections to the original organization itself, which dates back to the sixteenth century days of Gregory the Great in Jerusalem.

In the first place, with the Hohenzollerns in the discard, the socialists disapprove of Eitel's action in still issuing high-toned parchment proclamations creating Knights of St. John which pretentiously start off with: "We, Wilhelm Eitel Friedrich Christian Karl, Prince of Prussia by the Grace of God," etc.

Secondly, the socialists regard "as monarchistic masquerading" the annual ceremony of knighting, with its flowing robes and plume-crowned hats. Yet capping the climax in the radicals' eyes is the fact that the new knights include not only officers of the old monarchial army but even members of republican Germany's new Reichwehr and Security police. Vorwarts, the socialists' official newspaper, declares Eitel has created at least 233 knights this year, 36 of whom belong to the new army and navy.

The Order of St. John is said to be continuing its extensive charitable activities throughout Germany. Before the war it had established nearly half a hundred hospitals in this country besides two abroad.

Spain Will Honor Castilian Founder of St. Augustine.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(A.P.)—Harking back to the days of conquest when proud galleons sailed into the setting sun to explore the riches of the newly discovered hemisphere, the little village of Aviles, Spain, has invited St. Augustine, Fla., to return a social obligation incurred 358 years ago.

Aviles is making ready to move the bones of one of her proudest Castilians and most noted heroes, Adelantado Pedro Menendez de Aviles, to a new and more pretentious sepulcher. And since de Aviles was the founder of St. Augustine, oldest white inhabitants on the American Continent, that city has been asked to send some of its natives to Spain for the ceremonials.

So confident is Aviles that the invitation will be accepted that one of her sons, Don Angel Cuesta, a millionaire in his own home town and for 30 years a resident of Tampa, Fla., has sailed for Spain to welcome the American delegation when it arrives for the celebration in August. In fact, numerous entertainments and festivities for the St. Augustinians are already being arranged over there, according to cables received by Spanish newspaper correspondents in this city from Don Julian Orbon, director of the ceremonial.

The invitation to St. Augustine is reported already on its way. Another invitation to the United States government, with a request that it dispatch a gunboat overseas for the occasion, is reported to have been tendered through Alexander P. Moore, ambassador at Madrid. A third invitation is said to have been sent to Senator Fletcher of Florida, asking him to have the battleship Florida designated for this mission.

Adelantado Pedro Menendez de Aviles was a haughty adventurer in the reign of King Philip II whose name appears in the almost-forgotten histories of more than one American settlement.

He was born at Aviles, in the province of Asturias, in 1519 and, like many of the aristocratic youths of his day, the castles of his ambitions lay to the westward where Columbus, the Italian to whom Queen Isabella had been godmother, had but recently found fame and fortune. He joined the navy, became a captain-general, served his king in many daring enterprises and in 1560 landed in prison, disgraced.

But Columbus, too, had been disgraced once, so this young Spaniard kept heart. In five years he regained the king's favor and shortly was appointed governor of Cuba and Florida, with orders to colonize the latter country.

With a proud armada of 19 ships and 1,500 men, de Aviles sailed from Cadiz in 1565. A storm scattered the expedition. Only seven of the ships reached Florida. Ten weeks from the day they embarked, de Aviles founded St. Augustine and, after massacring nearly all of a colony of French Protestants that clung precariously to the banks of the St. John's river, Spanish dominion was established over Florida.

On subsequent expeditions Menendez raised the flag of his king over a post on Fort Royal Bay, South Carolina, and founded a mission on Chesapeake Bay. When the Indians annihilated the latter colony in 1572, the founder sailed his ships up the Chesapeake and Potomac and slaughtered hundreds of the red-skinned natives.

His career ended at sea, for he died soon after being placed in command of an armada which was destined to descend upon the Netherlands.
