How A Diver Dodged A Shark

There are all kinds of shark stories floating around the Pacific, but while most of them may be as unreliable as the nature of the fish itself, one that comes from the South Seas on the steamer Mariposa has all the appearance of being as true as it is thrilling.

Capt. Adams, while an American by birth, has lived in the South Seas for many years, and knows as much about pearl shell diving and other industries as the natives themselves.

A few weeks ago, while on the island of Apaki, in the Poroto group, he decided to go down after pearl shells, and was furnished by the native divers with one of their suits, consisting of a helmet and a rubber garment reaching only to the waist.

The air hose was connected with the diver at any depth by simply filling the lungs through the air hose and blowing the air into the waist, when the suit soars up over the head of the diver, while the man easily rises to the surface, like a swimmer after a long dive.

On this occasion, when at an estimated depth of 25 fathoms, and while standing beside a huge boulder, and coral growth many feet in diameter, he observed an immense body a short distance above him. It soon appeared to be moving, and to save himself from possible attack by a shark, Capt. Adams projected himself into a small indentation of the rock, but he could not get entirely in.

Advice to a Young Wife

Never disparage a man while reading the paper.

Never ask a fit man for anything while pulling on his boots.

Never speak to a man until he has had something good to eat.

When you want anything wait until your husband has had his breakfast, and then help him to it.

When you see a man smoothing his collar the right way, ask for it.

When he looks injured and plaintive examine his plate, there is sure to be a vacancy.

If he lies on the sofa after dinner and shakes the house with his snores, accuse him not of sleeping, for he is merely thinking with his eyes shut.

If he says he is going to the club for an hour, don't bid him adieu for the evening.

If he loses his handkerchiefs every where but at home let him have his own way about it—that the washerwoman is dishonest without your knowing it.

If you want him to do anything never tell him it is good for him, for he will not be "tied to a woman's apron strings."

Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F.,

Closing Proceedings.

ST. STEPHEN, Aug. 15.—Thursday afternoon Grand Lodge received and dealt with many reports from committees.

A most interesting report was presented from a special committee on Practical Philanthropy. This report dealt with the dreaded disease of consumption and its prevention and cure.

It was recommended that the incoming Grand Master, in conjunction with the retiring Grand Master, Dr. Walker, take such means as may be necessary to bring the subject before the respective lodges to the end that some scheme may be evolved for the presentation at the next annual meeting of the Grand Lodge by which the order may aid in furthering the movement for the prevention and cure of consumption.

The question of private yards in provincial or other hospitals for the benefit of Oddfellows was also discussed. No further action, however, was taken on the matter.

The installation of officers took place this evening. A. F. Fraser, New Glasgow, Grand Marshal; Charles Comblen, Grand Guardian; H. E. Colner, Grand Herald.

Speeches were made by grand officers and others. A social reunion was held during which refreshments were served.

Stabbed Companion; Threw Him Overboard

Labec, Me., Aug. 18.—A rather sensational stabbing affray, in which David Batron was probably fatally wounded by Fred Case during a quarrel in a sail boat, was witnessed by people on the shore of the bay here today.

Case and Batron, aged 30 and 20 years, respectively, were heard to be having some words, as the boat came in from a little cruise through the nature of the quarrel is unknown.

Case was seen to draw a large fishing knife and strike his companion a severe blow in the side. The man fell in agony, apparently unconscious, and near the shore Case was seen to throw the body overboard. Some of those who had seen the affair, rushed out and recovered Batron, whom they thought at first to be dead.

He was removed to his home with a deep knife wound in his breast.

Others who had seen the stabbing attempted to capture Case, but the latter got the sail boat under way quickly and headed for the New Brunswick shore.

Police officers immediately left on a ferry steamer and overtook Case of Eastport. He was brought back here and locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Batron's wound is quite serious in itself and the physician fears that blood poisoning will set in. He is a single man with his assistant is married and has three children. It is said that both men had been drinking.

Still Anxious About Crops in The West

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.—Fearing in regard to the crop continues one of anxiety and unrest. The weather of the past week has not been favorable.

There were one or two days of hot weather with light winds, but these were followed by severe storms, with hail in many places, and it is not yet known how much damage will result.

Frequent showers are making straw grow and white heads are filling out more slowly than they should do at this season.

Days are shorter and nights cooler than in July, so a week now does not mean the same development that it did a month ago.

Crop news can not be regarded as anything but bullish until there is at least some chance of getting blisters to work, and the most sanguine, do not expect cutting in the Northwest before the 25th of this month and not much to be done before September first.

OBITUARY

MRS. N. B. SMITH

Mrs. Maggie Smith, wife of N. B. Smith, druggist of Dock street, died last night about ten o'clock of congestion of the lungs.

She had been ill only since Monday and the sudden death will be a great shock to many friends.

Mrs. Smith leaves, besides her husband, one son and two daughters, for whom much sympathy will be felt.

Mrs. Smith was Miss Buck, and she leaves five brothers—Trieman and Hall Buck, of Rochester; Harry, Joseph and Alexander of Boston, and William, of Winnipeg, and one sister, Mrs. J. D. B. Hurd, of this city. The date of funeral is to be announced later.

MARTIN CONE, CALAIS

CALAIS, Aug. 17.—Martin Cone, one of the best known turmen in this section of the state and proprietor of Cone's livery stable, died at noon on Thursday at his home on Washington street, death resulting from the inroads of a cancerous growth in the throat.

Mr. Cone has been falling in health for upwards of a year and during the past winter underwent a serious operation in a Boston hospital in hope of gaining relief from the malady which had fastened upon him but the respite was only temporary and it was realized by his family and friends that the end was approaching.

Mr. Cone was a veteran of the Civil war and was one of the best known turmen doing business on the St. Croix. He was upright and honorable in all his dealings and had a large circle of acquaintances throughout the state. He is survived by a widow, son and daughter

The Collins Case

A correspondent of the Fredericton Herald writes from Albert:

The most celebrated occupant the jail has had for many years is Tom Collins, charged with the murder of Mary Ann McAuley of New Ireland, in August last. He has already had two trials and is to have another on the 17th of next month.

The people about here seem to get mad when spoken to about the Collins case. The judge, they say, is to blame for the failure of the first trial, and with one accord they lay the blame for the second upon the jury.

I asked a man yesterday what he thought would be the probable outcome of the third trial, and his reply was: "They may convict Collins, but he will never get the rope."

"Notwithstanding the fact that the belief is almost universal here that Collins was the perpetrator of as cold blooded and cowardly a murder as the annals of crime in this province can show, there is a strong undercurrent of sympathy for him. He has been well fed and cared for at the county jail, and has probably had the time of his life during the past year.

Collins spends most of his time reading and drawing and has become quite an expert with the crayon. He has a stock of portion of sawdust. The margin, it is held, is ample for the maintenance of his life. Moreover, the running water carrying away the emanations of the sawdust beds and banks works to purification, and makes the conditions in a stream different from those in an aquarium. Therefore, Professor Knight concludes, as in a general way he did in his report of 1902, that no stream can be hand be declared to be poisoned by sawdust, but each case must be studied by itself and its conditions understood before coming to a judgment. He adds that no stream he has yet studied in books and magazines in his cell that would fill an ordinary dry goods box, and he says he has read them all. He is always ready to talk about his case, and seems confident that in the end he will be acquitted. Collins is nothing more than a brat of a boy, rather small in stature, and he certainly has an innocent look. He takes things remarkably cool for one in his position, and is either a clever actor, or a moral degenerate, with the odds in favor of the latter.

Mark Twain raves over the two most delightful things in England--the women and strawberries. He says the former are the most beautiful he has ever seen, and he has invited them all to his funeral. It will be the greatest gathering of beauty and magnificence the world has ever seen. As to the strawberries, they are both spectacular and refreshing, and a fit complement to the beautiful English women. Yes, it is quite time for Mark to come home.

An Increasing Demand For I C R Literature

The steady increase of passenger travel over the I C R and the growing interest in the "People's Railway" is most satisfactorily shown this year by the unprecedented demand for the time folders of the railway and the other publications issued by the General Passenger Department. Of time folder, a larger supply than last season has been found altogether inadequate to meet the demands of the outside agents and the distributing companies, and every day insistent appeals for more folders pour into the office. In a letter to the I C R Advertising Department, Mr. J. D. Seely, manager of the Time Table Distributing Company, of Canada, writes: "Our travelling agents report that they never saw the I C R folders go out faster than this summer."

Another feature of interest this summer is the increased demand for the suburban folders issued between St. John and Hampton and between Halifax and Windsor Junction. This demonstrates clearly that there has been a growth of the suburban business between the points mentioned, and that people are appreciating the improvements in the suburban train service.

With regard to the illustrated booklets and the hunting folders the same satisfactory condition of affairs exists. From all parts of Canada and the United States applications are pouring in, and the I C R agents at various outside points report they are receiving a growing demand for all of the I C R publications.

It would certainly seem as if the I C R was now reaping the harvest as a result of the vigorous advertising of past years. Passenger traffic all over the line is unprecedentedly heavy.

GROWTH OF BROOK TROUT

There are many questions concerning the growth of brook trout which I am frequently called upon to answer. I am well aware of the fact that it is very difficult to answer these questions with any degree of positiveness, for the reason that these fish differ in size and growth in nearly every locality and then again the speckled trout which inhabit lakes are known to attain a larger growth than the speckled trout of the streams. Talking these two features into consideration a correct general reply would be impossible.

From careful measurements of brook trout taken from Caledonia Spring Creek I am enabled to give the following dimensions:

A brook or speckled trout when first hatched is nine-sixteenths of an inch long, at three years old eight inches long, and at six years old twelve inches long. After they have reached the age of six years their increase in length is usually very slow, but they are like old men, they increase in breadth and thickness. These measurements are a fair average, but fish are like people and animals; some grow faster than others under the same conditions and frequently a two-year-old trout will be as large as a three-year-old.

Some waters are much better supplied with food than others and this regulates their growth more than any other one thing, but there is no question about their being large and small families of trout the same as there are large and small families of horses and cattle, and no matter how well supplied with food or how favorable the conditions were the small family would never equal the large in point of size.

As a rule trout are found to grow in proportion to the size of the stream in which they are found. I have known of streams in which trout exceeding a half pound weight are very rarely caught and they would be considered as large for that stream as a pound trout would for another. Brook trout sent from this locality to Long Island waters will far outstrip those of the same brood remaining here. I attribute it to the food found there and also to the salt they get. It is my opinion that fish crave salt the same as a deer and a little given them occasionally is of great benefit.

The largest speckled trout I ever saw which was caught in a brook weighed four pounds and two ounces and measured eighteen inches in length. The largest speckled trout I ever heard of was caught in the Rangeley Lakes, Maine, which if my memory serves me correctly, weighed ten and one-quarter pounds.

SITH GREEN.

A cure for the tobacco habit has been discovered. Want it? Perhaps it would be well to hand it out to those little boys who are surreptitiously smoking cigarettes, for this nicotyl, as it is called, causes a person to loathe the taste of tobacco. He has only to gargle his throat with this liquid, which is said to be absolutely tasteless, to render a cigar horrible after the first puff. The smoker will drop the cigar never wishing to return to it or any other. Nicotyl must be a powerful antidote for the habit, but what is the effect, and will not the nervous system take its revenge for being brought up in such a round turn? The effect, then, of nicotyl may be worse than the tobacco habit.

Odd Things Women are Doing

Suffering from the Odessa horrors of a year ago, Katie Scholer, a Russian girl, killed herself in New York.

While conducting religious services at her home, Mrs. May Parnell of Atlanta, Ga., chastised two men who had insulted her and then called in the police.

Miss Stella Anderson of Lewiston, Wash., has been appointed pastor of a Methodist church in Idaho.

By agreement signed by her husband and recorded in the city clerk's office, Mrs. L. A. Leinen of Council Bluffs, Ia., is to be the "boss" of the household and not to be disturbed by him under any circumstances.

Mrs. G. O. Smith of Kansas City refused to pay dog taxes on her pet wolf, saying she would kill him first.

The quick wit of Mrs. Margaret Jackson, who alarmed the villagers by firing a revolver several times, saved the town of Vallenia, Ind., from destruction by fire.

Because she did not have a graduating gown, 14-year-old Carrie Strom ran away from her Chicago home, leaving a note saying she was ashamed to wear the dress made by her sister at commencement two years ago.

Mrs. Louise Adamson Warren defeated the aldermanic attempt to make improvements in front of her Kenosha, Wis., property by talking the session "to death."

A prim-looking young and a stout young woman went wading, barefooted in the big fountain of the Cleveland city park, the other night.

Mrs. Rosa Platsch, age 64, of Altoona, Pa., wicketed a club so successful as to beat off two men who sought to rob her of her hard-earned savings.

Thirteen-year-old Bessie Burkhardt of Baltimore quit playing with doll babies long enough to get married.

Don't laugh at the boy who magnifies his place. You may see him coming from the Post Office with a big bundle of his employer's letters, which he displays with as much pride as though they were his own. He feels important and looks big, but he prinks of his place. He is attending to business, he likes to have the world know that he is at work for a busy concern. The boy who says "we" identifies himself with the firm. Its interests are his; he sides up for its credit and reputation he takes pleasure in his work and hopes to say one day in earnest. The boy who says "we" bows he keeps his grit and sticks to his job. You may take off your hat to him as one of the future solid men of the town. Let his employer do the right thing by him; check him kindly if he shows signs of being too big for his place, counsel him as to his habits and associates, and occasionally show him a glimpse of the prospect of others in his class. A little pride does an honest boy a heap of good. Good luck to the boy who says "We."—Exchange.

De Women Gossip

More Than Men

Honestly, one hardly thinks so. We women are always being accused of being terrible gossips, and perhaps we do like to chat over our neighbors' affairs, or here is no proof, however, that we are worse than our men folk in this regard. As a matter of fact they would appear to be quite as human as ourselves. Does not the husband know quite a lot about the private affairs of all the other men in the office? Can we not find a sympathetic listener in father or brother when we would fain discourse about a mutual friend? Of course we can, for the simple reason that to take an interest in the ways and doings of others is human. How else could we learn the best method of ordering our own lives, for our years would hardly be sufficient to enable us to buy all our wisdom by experience. We must watch a little and learn. Yet one would fancy there is a little difference between the gossip of the stronger sex and our own, and here we may learn to improve our ways. For the comments of a man are usually dictated by a somewhat broader mind than is ours. He is more likely to be a little more forbearing, and are a little more kind. After all there is no real objection to gossip, and so long as we approach the subject with even an open mind, and stick to the truth, we can do little harm. It is when we add a little, however, and allow ourselves to become spiteful that ill follows; wherefore we do well to remember that talk is human, but to allow an unkind tongue to run away with us is anything but good or wise.

Ordinary sour buttermilk is a better tonic, is a better food than was ever bottled or boxed up by the chemist or doctor. Buttermilk is a very heavy food. Two glasses a day is enough for anyone. This should be drunk with meals, or else should not be taken within two hours of a meal. This should be given for it is thoroughly digested before anything else is taken into the stomach. It takes buttermilk considerably over an hour to digest, and to drink another glass before the first one is digested is only to stir up difficulty with the digestive organs. Soaking the best way to drink buttermilk is with the meals, though it may be said that some people as a sort of easily digested lunch.

The Odessa railway police are searching for the author of a robbery of $600,000 which has taken place on the Kharkov-Odessa line near Labotin. Mue. Dobrinow, a rich landowner, left Kharkov by the evening train, intending to go abroad. She was the only occupant of the compartment, and she placed a bag containing $600,000 worth of scrip, money and jewels under her pillow before going to sleep. It was very hot in the train, and she consequently left the window open. Soon afterward she saw a man covered with soot entering through the window of her compartment. The man stretched out his arm toward the bag, which she in her fright held in her hand, saying, "Do not resist, or else it will be the worse for you." She let it go, and the robber seized the bag and swiftly jumped out of the window.

A remarkable case, in which a haunted house played a prominent part, has just been heard at Mupich. A family named Wolf hired a farm-house from an aged widow living near Ammersee. The house suited them, but the presence of the old woman in the house did not, and they began to supply the premises with a number of ghosts, as they knew the woman was most superstitious and in daily and nightly terror of supernatural beings. Wolf, with his wife and two daughters, installed altogether seventeen ghosts. First they tried wicker spirits, then angelic ones, with the result that the wretched widow was nearly driven crazy by her nightly visitants. The spirits injured the cows, killed cocks and hens, stole eggs and butter, and made unearthly midnight noises. Then Wolf offered help to cleanse the house of spirits for a consideration, and in process of time these cleansing operations cost over 14,000. The widow was robbed of all she had, and was, in addition, suffering from brain fever when the police began to take notice. The result was that Wolf was sentenced to five years' penal servitude and to pay a heavy fine and to suffer ten years' loss of civil rights; his wife and one of his daughters to two years and the other daughter to eighteen months' imprisonment. This family had regular rehearsals of their nocturnal swindle before practicing it on their victim.

The following petition has been circulated in town and numerous signed. To The Honourable L. E. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

Sir:—The undersigned citizens and prominent tax payers of the Town and Parish of Saint George, in the County of Charlotte, realizing the fact that a fishway should be established at Saint George and Second Falls, in the Parish and County aforesaid, on the Magaguadavic River and the fact having again been prominently brought before your petitioners from many who know that salmon for years have been coming up to the head of tide water to the basin at Saint George seeking a chance to get up the Magaguadavic river and its beautiful tributaries leading to the many lakes which feed the same, also feeling sure that a Provincial Government Fish Hatchery would be established if said fishways were built, the cost of such two fishways would be very small for nature has done nearly all necessary, so with little help the Magaguadavic and its tributaries would be second only to the far famed Miramichi; thereby affording a great stimulus to prompt action on behalf of our people, which has so long been delayed, also bringing into eastern Charlotte many wealthy and good people whose presence and influence for the bettering of our condition could only be conducive to all interests concerned. And your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

How The Lamp Chimney Was Discovered.

The lamp chimney of every-day use is to be attributed to a child's restlessness. Argant a native of Switzerland, a poor man, invented a lamp the wick of which was fitted into a hollow cylinder, that allowed a current of air to supply oxygen to the interior as well as the exterior of the circular flame. The lamp was a success, but its inventor had never thought of adding a glass chimney, and probably never would have thought of it had not his little brother been playing in his work room while Argant was engaged with the burning lamp. The boy had gained possession of an old bottomless flask, and was amusing himself by putting over various small articles in the room. Suddenly he placed it over the top of the lamp. And the flame instantly responded by shooting with increased brilliancy up the narrow neck of the flask. Argant's ready mind caught the idea, and his lamp was perfected by the addition of a glass chimney.

Not So Crazy After All.

Mr. Jones became insane and was confined in an asylum for the insane. Upon recovering he was given a certificate of his sanity and left the asylum and returned to his home. Shortly after this Mr. Jones, while at a ploughing bee, entered into a heated argument with one of the large crowd that were listening to the controversy, when Jones' opponent said "Oh, you are crazy any way." Jones then looked puzzled, and, with a frown on his face, said, "Look here young man, I want you to understand that I am the only one in the crowd that can produce a certificate that he is not crazy."

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 16.—That the British immigrant movement to Canada during the winter and spring of 1907-08 will be the greatest in history is the opinion of E. Tiffin, general traffic manager of the government railways who returned today after a trip to the British Isles, during which he visited all the principal cities and immigration bureaus and where he found that the number of inquiries regarding Canada and things Canadian are increasing daily. The Dublin exposition with its splendid Canadian exhibit is tending to increase the interest in this country and on all sides are people who intend to come to Canada and locate.

Mr. Tiffin's visit to the United Kingdom was in connection with the establishment of agencies which would enable the I. C. R. to secure a portion of the immigration traffic but concerning this he said there was nothing definite for publication.

HOME-MADE COLD CREAM.—A very good pure cold cream may be made at home as follows: 4 oz of rose-water, 4 oz. of oil of sweet almonds, 1 oz. of spermaceti and 1 oz. of white wax. Melt oil, wax and spermaceti, removing the pan from the fire. To pour in rose water, bent to a froth with an egg whisk, perfume as desired. A few drops of tincture of benzoin will keep the cream from becoming rancid.

THE CARE OF TONGUE.—The tongue quickly betrays all disturbances in the economy of the body; in health it is clean, moderately red in color, and moist. When it is furred or "coated" it indicates fever, some impurity in the mouth, as foul or decayed teeth, or trouble with the digestive organs. If fever be the cause, the temperature of the body will be above the normal, 98.1-2 degrees Fahrenheit. It is easy to determine if bad teeth are at fault; if these be all right, seek for the source of the trouble in the stomach, liver or bowels. Constipation will produce a bad breath and a furred tongue. With nervous disease a dry tongue is a sign of nervous depression; and a pale, flabby tongue indicates an anemic condition.

That is a remarkable statement on the newspaper as the medium of highest value in advertising which ex-Gov. Douglas gives Henry C. Pagnani, the expert. Mr. Pagnani quotes him in an article as saying: "I have given every form of advertising the fairest sort of trial. I began with newspapers in 1883. The results were so good that later I also advertised in magazines. The returns did not warrant me in continuing. I withdrew my advertisements from the magazines, but later on tried the experiment again. Once more I took out my advertisements and since then I have used only newspapers to bring my goods before the public eye."

UPLIFT THE FALLEN

How much happier we would all be if we would but attempt to build instead of tearing down; how much sweeter our lives would be, if we would but encourage, by kind words, those of our fellow-men who have fallen by the wayside, extend a helping hand, whisper words of encouragement in their ear, and oh! how much brighter our lives and theirs would be. Give no heed to the tattler and gossip, turn a deaf ear, and tell them you are otherwise engaged, when you find them inclined to talk and very soon the tattlers will find their profession gone.

ULTIMATE

"Fish never die a natural death, said an old fisherman who has observed as he fished. 'If they did, bottles of cod fish would be floating on the surface of the water about all the while, because such bottles if unmoored, would have to float.'"

"I mean, of course, fish in nature never die a natural death, not fish in captivity. And perhaps it should not be called natural death that fish in captivity die," says the New York Sun. "Their environment implies mortality that fish in their natural habitat would escape, and these causes might be properly classed as among the accidents that carry the captive fish off."

"If fish in their native element were never molested, I believe they would never die. If they had sufficient food which would be impossible if they no longer preyed on one another, there would be no reason for their dying. It was to prevent such uninterrupted tenure of life that all fish were made ferociously predatory, if not remorselessly cannibalistic, as many kinds are. 'A fish's life is a constantly strenuous one, and one entirely selfish. A fish lives only to eat and to avoid being eaten.'"

SAWDUST AND FISH

That sawdust does not destroy fish life in the streams in which it is thrown is again maintained, this time by Professor A. P. Knight, of Queen's University, in an article in the volume of biological reports just issued by the department of marine and fisheries, says the Montreal Gazette. The subject has been dealt with in two reports by Professor Knight. As a result of laboratory experiments he concluded that strong sawdust solutions such as occur at the bottom of an aquarium do poison adult fish and fish fry, through the agency of compounds dissolved out of the wood cells. The over lying water in the aquarium, however, does not kill fish, except by suffocation through the dissolved oxygen being exhausted. In such an aquarium also bacteria multiply enormously and through oxidation change the poisonous extracts to harmless compounds. Larvae also live on the bacteria and fish eat the larvae. Subsequent aeration and sedimentation of sawdust water partly kills, so that fish can live in it without injury. Adult fish and black bass fry both refused to be driven into pine extracts at the bottom of an aquarium after they had experienced its effects, and the inference is that fish would desert a river much polluted with freshly made sawdust. The safety of the fish is due to the fact that even where for years mills have been casting their refuse into streams the volume of water that the contamination is not sufficient to make the water poisonous. In the laboratory a solution containing about one eighth of one per cent. of wood matter would quickly kill a minnow. In streams, however, a thousandth of one per cent. would be a large proportion (including the Ottawa.) New Brunswick or Nova Scotia is sufficiently polluted to destroy half-grown or full grown fish. The cause of the disappearance of anadromous fish, that is those which enter the streams to spawn, he ascribes to mill dams without proper fishways. These certainly should be changed. With these latter conclusion all will agree. Most people, too, in spite of the evident fairness of the argument of Professor Knight will think that, alike for the sake of the fish and the men and beasts that often have to drink stream water, it would be better that the practice of many saw mill owners should be stopped. Kx.

Baptist S. S. Picnic

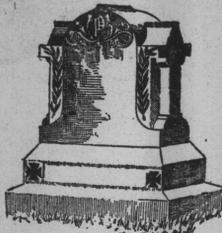

A balmy atmosphere, genial sunshine, and a cloudless sky was nature's contribution to the Baptist Sunday School picnic, which took place on the 14th. To the Committee, who had the affair in charge, the task of carrying out the arrangements has always been an arduous, yet pleasing one, and has been performed, never better, perhaps, than on this occasion.

With joyful laughter the young people left the landing in scows, yachts, motor boats, and the "big boy" in his row boat. They soon landed at Canal Point, where all enjoyed the day with vim and youthful enthusiasm.

The ladies had prepared a feast, which was complete in every detail, judging by the disappearance of all the good things that loaded the tables. The usual games were gone through, and the Com. announced time for departure. "All aboard was sounded and the beautiful Magagadavie had the jolly crowd sailing down its glossy surface, with shouts and laughter that made the "netkin ring."

Perry will hunt the pole till he dies. That is what his present declaration amounts to. "I shall make every effort to get there this time," says he. "It will take about 14 months to make the trip and return to the United States. If I do not succeed next summer I shall stay over another year and try again. If then I fail, I shall make a third attempt." Of course, there may come a time when people will get tired of "financing" the effort, particularly when it becomes regarded as a moonman's.

Losing ones temper and indulging in sarcastic remarks, over imaginary grievances, does not improve the condition of affairs.

A very exciting race took place in the Canal a few days ago between the motor boats owned by Thos. Sullivan, of Bonny River and Lawrence Murray of this town. Although the Sullivan boat is larger and had a start of some yards, the little one was in at the finish many yards to the good. Mr. Murray's boat has clearly demonstrated its superiority over all others, which secures much credit on its designer and builder.

The trim little yacht "Joker" broke from her mooring Saturday night, and would have been seriously damaged, but for the prompt work of several parties who happened to be in the vicinity of the wharf. The young gentlemen who have the boat in charge had gone to Lake Utopia on a fishing trip. They are very grateful to those who secured the boat and avoided what might have been a serious loss. Capt. Gardner is in command.

All precious records from St. George to Waters' have been smashed by Chas. Fuller and Will Berry, who made the distance last week in seventeen hours. Mr. Berry, who is a great admirer of horses, has made a very tempting offer for the horse which accomplished this feat, but Mr. Fuller will not part with this faithful animal, who has brought him safely through many hard journeys.

The pulpit of the Baptist Church was occupied morning and evening by the Rev. A. M. Hubby who comes from the Reformed Episcopal Church of Belleville. His discourses were enjoyed very much by the congregation, and it is hoped they may be fortunate enough to secure him again. His son the Rev. A. B. Hubby of Montreal was also on the platform. He will occupy the pulpit on Sunday next during the absence of the pastor.

Mr. Milliken Presented With Farewell Address

Mr. Edward Milliken, who, for the past three years, has been business manager for Mr. J. Sutton Clark, will sever his connection with Mr. Clark's industries, and will go to Winfield, Kas., where he has accepted an important position in an established business.

During Mr. Milliken's residence in St. George, he has made many friends, all of whom admire him warmly for his excellent personal and business characteristics. We join in wishing him every success in his new field of labor.

The following address, signed by a large number of the citizens, was presented Mr. Milliken at an informal gathering Saturday:

St. George, N. B., August 17, 1907
Edward Milliken, Esq.,
St. George, N. B.

Dear Sir:—

It was just within the last few days we learned with much regret of your intended departure for the great west to take up your home in the United States. Much as you will be missed from a social and business standpoint in this community we consider the move a wise one in your new home. We know you will find our American cousins as ever kind hearted, liberal and given to hospitality. Much as we shall miss you we wish you and your good wife every success in your new home and trust that you may both be spared long lives of happiness and prosperity, always remembering this "No distance breaks the ties of blood; brothers are brothers evermore."

Signed by a number of Citizens.

The Yellow Peril
(From the Ottawa Journal.)

Some Canadian newspapers seem to have worked themselves up over a declaration by the New York American to the effect that "the barrier between Canada and greatness is its adhesion to a dying empire and an obsolete form of government." Well, when the proprietor of the New York American is permitted to take any part in the government of his own country it will be time enough for him to talk about our faults. Last time he ran for office he and one other were the only man on their own ticket to be defeated.
