William Rylie Smith, should be incapacitated and prevented from earning his living, as he had done previous to the war, the will directed that he should be paid $3,000.

Given a Past District Master's Jewel

A special meeting of the district lodge was held in the Orange hall on Tuesday evening, Mar. 11th, with a good representation from the several lodges in the district. After the business of the evening was completed and the lodge closed, a social evening was indulged in, the ladies from Carleton Place and a number from Ottawa being present. There was a lengthy program, including addresses from the Supreme Grand Treasurer, Mrs. Klisick of Ottawa, Mrs. Hage, P. M. No. 12, Ottawa, Mrs. Lee, also of Ottawa, and Dr. J. J. McGregor of Carleton Place. Dr. G. S. Howard, of town, was presented with a Past District Master's Jewel, to which he made a neat and fitting reply. Refreshments were served during the evening by the ladies of Carleton Place lodge. The address to Dr. Howard was as follows:

Importance of Good Seed

It is not only important that vital seed of good quality be used for seeding, but much depends upon the variety of seed chosen for planting. One of the principal functions of the Dominion Experimental Farms system is to develop and prove the relative values of sorts of grains and other field crop. As a guide to farmers in deciding what varieties to sow, Circular No. 16 of the Experimental Farms has been prepared. This pamphlet discusses the merits of the leading varieties that have been tested during a series of years. The best kinds are arranged approximately in order of merit for the different parts of Canada. Spring wheats are divided into four classes. Following are the leading sorts in each class: Late ripening, Red Fife; early ripening, Marquis; very early, Ruby; extremely early, Prelude. The specially early sorts, though not as productive as the late ripening, are recommended for northern areas. In oats the Banner is placed first. Manchurian leads in six-rowed barley. Duncmill in two-row, Success and Champion in hooded and Guy Mayle in hullless. Arthur leads in peas and Navy in beans. Flax is classed as seed and fibre. Novelty is the best of the former and Longstem of the latter.

During 1918 some 1,600 newspapers in the United States and Canada were forced out of business in addition to hundreds of others which were consolidated or merged during the year.

Fire Brigade Had a Run

Last Saturday afternoon the fire brigade had a call for a burning flue at the home of Mr. Harry Purdy, Brick street, but fortunately their services were not required, the flames being extinguished with buckets before any serious damage resulted.

A Golden Harvest

Sweet clover is just beginning to come into its own in the farming business and the growing of it for seed is apparently profitable. It is reported in the press that a farmer at Kippen, Ont., harvested 146 bushels of clean seed off 18 acres, which he sold at $15 a bushel. That represents a total of $2,190 or at the rate of $121 an acre. Such returns, however, are apt to last only so long as few people know about them.

As shown by the Minister of Public Works for the year ended March 31, 1917, the appropriations granted by Parliament to the Department in the year was declared, amounted to $47,154,196.60. The Parliamentary grant was reduced in 1915-16 to $34,599,183.99; in 1916-17, to $30,828,281.99, and in 1917-18, to $20,822,663.75, or considerably less than one-half the sum voted only three years before.

From 1884 to March 31, 1917, the yearly subsidy payments made to various railways by the Government of Canada amounted to $75,017,687.29, as shown by the public accounts for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1917.

OUR SOLDIERS WELCOMED HOME

Civic Reception a Great Success The Hall Crowded with a Merry Throng

The first "At Home" for our returned soldiers was held last evening in the town hall, under the direction of the Town Council, assisted by the women's organizations, and was a signal success. About half a hundred of the boys were expected, but all were not available, and so only about forty were present to receive the address of welcome and the illuminated scroll presented by the town.

The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the seats being arranged on the sides, and small tables placed at intervals for cards and games. The attendance was so large that seats could not be provided for all and many had to stand. Throughout the evening instrumental music was rendered by the Steele orchestra.

The social hour passed all too quickly, when Mayor Bates introduced Mr. Harry Bragg, of the Repatriation Committee, who was present by invitation and after referring to the splendid work of our soldiers and extending them a hearty welcome home, directed his attention to the duty of the people, whose safety and liberty were made possible by the sacrifice of our soldiers, and exhorted all to remember this and in justice to our men and honor to the principles for which they fought to endeavor to build up a nation worthy of the name, and closed with a quotation from Punch: "The war is over; another war has yet to be waged against poverty and sordid environment; against the disabilities of birth, against the abuse of health, against the mutual suspicions of Capital and Labor, against sloth, indifference, self-complacency, short memories. It is easy enough to be patriotic in war time, when you haven't got to fight. A man has now to decide whether he will serve himself or his country, a much harder task of patriotism."

Refreshments were served, all present participating in the spread, after which Mayor Bates, on behalf of the town, presented scrolls to the following returned men who had not previously been recognized:

Geo. Wilkinson, J. S. Shaw, W. A. Bennett, I. A. Giles, A. W. Brooks, W. G. Bates, Harold Taber, W. A. Shaw, J. A. Call, T. Matthie, S. Lett Simpson, A. E. Munson, H. H. Munson, E. H. Gotb, E. A. Swayne, G. E. Macklem, T. J. Gorrod, J. T. Breesee, R. J. Graham, R. G. Waugh, Carleton Pattie, N. Williamson, Ross McFarlane, A. E. Dunlop, E. McPeak, Herb. Bennett, Ralph Simpson, J. C. McMullen, J. Condon, Rex Sibbitt, J. W. Dumsert, C. C. McCullum, R. H. Dean, J. Gerrard, R. McDonald, A. T. McCaehen.

After the presentation dancing was the order, the old and the young mixing together in the old cotillion in the most social fashion and all too soon the time passed until the national anthem brought the function to a close.

The committee in charge, the ladies and all who assisted to make the reception a success are to be congratulated. It is the intention to hold these receptions monthly, we understand, until all the boys are home, when a general public demonstration will be held.

Pretty Baby

This popular comedy is billed for Carleton Place for Friday evening of this week, the biggest show of the season. Plan opens to-morrow at Pattie's drug store.

Death of Robert Bradley

Mr. Robert Bradley, who returned from the west some weeks ago, after an absence of many years, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Glover early Thursday morning, aged 69 years. Deceased was a native of Beckwith township and was well known in this locality. He is last of the four brothers to pass into the great beyond. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, the remains being placed in St. James vault.

Hawthorn Wins the Trophy

The protested game in the town hockey league was ordered to be played over, and on Wednesday night last the C.P.R. and the Hawthorn Mills tried conclusions again. It was a strenuous game, neither side taking any chances, and very close. The C.P.R. led in the first half, but in the second part the Mill men overtook the railroaders and finished with one goal to the good, the score being 4 to 3. Thus the Hawthorn Mills win the Nichols Shield and the local championship for this season.

Death of William Ingram

Mr. William Ingram, who had been in poor health for some time, passed away on Saturday morning at his home on Moffatt street, aged 37 years. The deceased was a Scotchman by birth and had been in Canada for quite a time. For several years he worked with Messrs. Brown & Sons and then took to farming, but his health giving out he returned to town. He is survived by his wife and four children, who have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to Pine Grove cemetery, Rev. Mr. Monds conducting the service, deceased being a member of St. Andrew's congregation.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

TRUE COURTESY.
True courtesy is "the beauty of the heart." How well it is that no class has a monopoly in this kind of beauty; that while favorable circumstances undoubtedly do render good manners more common among persons moving in higher rather than in lower sphere, there should nevertheless be no positive hindrance to the poorest classes having good manners. Here is an illustration of true politeness exhibited by both classes of society. One day, in hastily turning the corners of a crooked street in the city, a young lady ran with great force against a ragged little beggar boy, and almost knocked him down. Stopping as soon as she could, she turned around and said very kindly to the boy, "I beg your pardon, my little fellow. I am very sorry that I ran against you."

The poor boy was astonished. He looked at her for a moment in surprise and then taking off about three-quarters of a cap, he made a low bow and said, while a pleasant smile spread itself all over his face. "You can live my parding, miss, and welcome; and the next time you run again me, you can knock me clean down and I won't say a word." After the lady had passed on he turned to his companion and said, "I say, Jim its the first time I ever had anybody ask my parding, and it kind of took me off my feet."

Meddlesome persons who are continually prying into other people's affairs and carrying tales between friends and acquaintances create a great deal of mischief and are best contented when they can spread scandal. It seems more natural for them to speak ill of a person than to utter words of praise, and their habit of gossiping becomes so fixed that they can talk scandals almost unconsciously. It is just as easy to say a good word for friends and acquaintances, even if not wholly deserved, as it is to spread ill of them, and the effect on the community is always beneficial in a general way. Scandal gathes as it travels by word of mouth and can never be recalled when once in circulation. Try speaking well of everyone and see what a change it will make in your own happiness as in the welfare of others.

A trade is a good thing to have; it is better than gold—brings a larger premium. But to make a premium, the trade must be perfect—no silver plated affair. Determine in your mind to be a good workman, or let the job out. Learning a trade is different from eating mush and milk—mechanical education does not slip down without chewing. Never slight your work, never. Every job you do is a sign. Poor signs are against success.

Mothers sometimes say when a child shows a vile temper and shrieks a good deal, that it would endanger his life to punish him; perhaps so, but you still more endanger his future if you don't punish him. Many a gallows tragedy

Victory Bond Holders As W.S. Stamp Collectors

Victory bondholders should become War Savings Stamp Collectors. They should invest the interest, or a portion, of what they draw from their bonds in War Savings Stamps. It would pay them to do so. These Stamps are really a government "Baby Bond," every bit as good as Victory Bonds, and always worth the money they represent. They also carry a good rate of interest. If Victory Bondholders can be induced to do this, Canada will have an army of 1,000,000 persons continuously saving for her. And as time rolls on this number will increase rapidly. There is no good reason why within a year there should not be 2,000,000 in the Canadian War Savings Army. With these enrolled and retained in the ranks there is no financial problem that Canada cannot solve.

WHAT TO USE TO PREVENT APPENDICITIS

Carleton Place people should know simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract so completely that appendicitis is prevented. ONE SPOONFUL Adler-i-ka relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation because it removes ALL foul matter which clogged and poisoned your system. The INSTANT action surprises both doctors and patients.

Favorable Circumstances

A vain brother got up in meeting and told how he had plumed, cropped, harvested and saved. He gave Providence a bit of credit for his success, but not much. He himself was the author of nearly all his prosperity. His hearers knew perfectly well that his coming out on the right side of the ledger was due to the good management of his wife; but the little woman sat very demurely and no one could gather from her expression any doubt concerning the glory claimed for himself by her lord and master.

The man went along taking unto his own ability the credit for everything that had gone well. Finally, however, he did say, "I'll admit that circumstances were favorable."

A neighbor whispered to the wife: "Where do you come in?" "Oh," she said sweetly, "I'm one of the circumstances."

had its beginning on the mother's lap. We wish we could write it in imperishable, glowing letters on the walls of every home—obedience, obedience, obedience. Obedience to law—to household law; to parental authority; unquestioning, instant, exact obedience. Obedience in the family, obedience in the school! Whenever, from the beginning, from the first glimmering intelligence in the child, there is expression of law, let there be taught respect for it and obedience to it. It is the royal road to virtue, to good citizenship, it is the only road.

The matron who appears before the members of the family in a shabby, soiled wrapper and makes the excuse if indeed she takes the trouble to make one at all, that "it is so much more comfortable," has little idea of the possible consequences of such a course. Could she but realize that her dress is an evil example to her daughters, and productive of consequences that will reach far beyond her own span of life; that her husband and sons cannot fail to draw comparisons between her dress and that of the ladies they meet in other homes, and that these comparisons cannot fail to decrease their respect for her—she might be induced to give more attention to her personal appearance.

Society at the present day demands that girls shall be what they call accomplished; and to fulfil this demand the mothers of Christendom teach their daughters to a knowledge of all that belong to life's duties at home is not one of the requirements, that manual labor must be concomitant with drawing room cultivation. And so their lily hands slip idly over the piano keys; they waltz in the most approved style; sip a little French or German, quote poetry—and society says they are accomplished. Doubtless they are, and by-and-by, as all modern fashionables do, they win a husband.

We have seen little children while running at play, or perhaps on an errand for their parents, get a fall and bump a head or skin a finger, and when they would go to their parents for a kind word of comfort they would say: "Well, next time look where you are going and don't be so awkward, go long now and hush." That child will certainly find out sooner or later that its parents have no love or sympathy for it, and it will grow up without any kind feeling toward that parent. But on the other hand let the child come to the parents for advice, and if kind words are spoken the child will never forget it, and will always look with respect on that parent.

We know that music is pleasant and home is not home where there are no songs or sweet harmonies; but a knowledge of the piano will not help a woman discharge her wifely duties, and a smattering of French or an ability to waltz gracefully, will do but little towards preparing a palatable dinner for a husband when he comes home hungry.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR BABY'S OWN TABLETS

No medicine receives such great praise from thankful mothers as do Baby's Own Tablets. Once a mother has used them for her little ones she will use nothing else. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; cure colds and simple fevers; promote healthful sleep and make teething easy. Concerning them Mrs. Omer LeBlou, Maddington Falls, Que., writes:—"I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets and will always use them for my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Boy Wanted

A big business house in the city wants a young man who is willing to start at the bottom and work up. Some of the requirements are that if the elevator has stopped he will not wait but climb the stairs. They want him to know how to spell, punctuate and know the meaning of words. Not a fellow who merely looks ahead to help build up the business, work overtime if necessary and become a real active part of business—not a girl, because if she is a good one some fellow will want to marry her. But a boy who wants to be a man in all that the term means—who can be a stenographer, a clerk, a real honest, earnest boy who can make good and is willing to do so. A thousand places are now open to such boys, but only one in a thousand for a boy who is only a salary hunter. Where are all the boys who want to make good and are willing to work to make good? The best places in the land wait them.

AMONG THE NEW SWEATERS

Sleeveless Garments Made of Ribbon; One With Long Ends Which Tie in the Back.

"Ribbons and laces and feminine graces" have been so continually linked together in verse that one suggests the other to the mind of the average person, and in consequence the new sleeveless sweaters made of ribbon seem the most delightfully feminine of all such garments.

They are by no means as impractical as they sound either, and can be recommended both for beauty and for warmth. The very narrow baby ribbon in any shade can be used and with large knitting needles one could easily duplicate the sweaters now on sale in the shops. Most of them are purled about the waist and are finished off with bow-knots, but of course they could be made as elaborate or as plain as one desired. The ribbon being so much heavier than the average wool, it requires fewer stitches, but as it does not stretch as much as wool does one must be careful to allow plenty of leeway to slip it on over the head.

Another new type of sweater that is proving very popular is the one with long ends which cross in the front and tie in a sash at the back. These are never than the slip-on sweaters, but are a little harder to make. They should be very loosely knitted, of course, and the sleeves may be knitted kimono style or made afterward and set in. As for the sweater itself it starts at the waist line in the back, and is knitted like the ordinary sweater up to the neck. Then when the stitches are cast off and the shoulder knitted, the fronts are done separately, adding on two stitches at every row until the bottom is reached, and then a narrow sash is knitted and fastened to the end. These are only pretty when they are done in what some people call "in and out" stitch, that is knit a row and purl a row, so that there are no ribs to show, and should be done on very large needles. Needless to say, these are made of one of the new wool substitutes.

VEILS ARE NOW THE RAGE

Face Covering Has Gained a Prominence That Has Not Been Equalled in Many Years.

In looking over present modes, notes a fashion correspondent, we can surely say that the accidentals seem to be more important than the key itself. Take veils, for example. Perhaps you have not been addicted to veils for some time. No matter. This year you will go out and buy yourself one. Veils are now raging with a virulence not known for many a day. For morning wear those of the best taste are fine mesh varieties, often with a georgette hem attached with French knot variety. For more elaborate occasions this accessory becomes more and more skittish.

Thus we have all sorts and conditions of hems for veils. It may be chenille clover leaves with jet blossoms, it may be ostrich blue embroidery, and again, your hem is apt to be edged with duvetya matching the duvetya of the turban. Another popular conceit at present is to border the veil with the same material and color which face the hat brim. So one can take the black veil with henna or with taupe. There is no end of flavorings for this accessory.

Hats, too, are doing much to enliven the dress world. Feather tams are seen occasionally now. So is the hat trimmed with cock feathers—a pleasant little souvenir of the gay Italian bersagliero who, with their fluttering plumage, marched down the avenue during the Liberty loan drive. Many of the smartest hats are of black and some of them show little trimming.

SMART COAT OF TAN VELOURS

This attractive coat of tan velours corduroy is a very stylish and serviceable garment for afternoon and evening wear. The lines are full and loose and an interesting cape makes an effective item.

A Lesson from the Almanac

Well, son, so you want to learn to be an editor? You think it would be such a fine thing to "mould public opinions;" to help "lift up the masses;" to write choice puff worth five dollars a paragraph, in return for twenty-five cents, paper-covered novels; to tell the public that the man your party has nominated is one of God's noblest, while the other fellow is a rascal from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet? Yes, yes, son, so it would! But don't you remember the Aye's almanac that you used to hang in grandpa's kitchen? And don't you remember the poor chap that always stood in the centre of the first picture on the first page, with the fish and the scorpions and the sheep and the bulls and the twigs around him? And don't you remember that he had nothing in his stomach to speak of? Well, son, that poor fellow used to edit a newspaper.

A Suspicious Change

Old Jenkins was mad with rage. For twelve months he had taken the plate around at the local church every Sunday. Now some one else had been asked to perform the duty. "I consider I have been grossly insulted," he said to a friend. "But," said the latter, "I don't think there is any bad feeling toward you." "I don't know about that," roared Jenkins, "but it looks very suspicious. The fellow they have asked to do the job has only one army."

Where It Belonged

It happened in England where one of the crack regiments of horsemen were drilling. One very wild horse made a dash across the field in spite of all his rider could do. Instruction—Where are you going? Rider—I don't know, sir, but the horse belongs in Canada.

NATIONAL ASPECT OF THE THRIFT CAMPAIGN

Many persons appear to be more or less sceptical as to the necessity or even the advantage of continuing the campaign of thrift and saving now that the war is over. A few of the reasons, chiefly from a national point of view, for the continuation of this policy, and, incidentally, for promoting the investment in thrift stamps, may be stated.

In the first place, though the war has ended so propitiously for the Allies, and, therefore for Canada, the very heavy national outlay involved in our contribution towards the present safety and future freedom of civilization is far from being paid for. Apart from the heavy taxation required to gradually liquidate the enormous increase in the national debt, the war still entails a very great and even increasing outlay of many millions annually for interest on the war debt and pensions for the soldiers who served in the war and their dependents. To meet these unavoidable requirements and to resume the normal activities of peace, many of which were more or less crippled or even suspended during the war period, the country must continue to raise even more in the way of additional taxation than was obtained from the various war taxes during the actual duration of the conflict. If, therefore, there was necessity for economy and thrift during the war period, they are at least quite as essential both now and for several years to come.

Under stress of actual necessity during the struggle, foreign capital markets being partly at least closed to us, we learned that we could more fully furnish our own capital than had been supposed. It will be of great national advantage, and therefore of individual benefit, that the repayment of these domestic loans, and the interest disbursements in the meantime, will be distributed in Canada instead of requiring to be sent out of the country in the shape of products of native industry for which no corresponding return would be received.

Though the specific restrictions on borrowings abroad are now practically removed, yet the desirability of continuing to supply the capital needs of both governments and corporations from within Canada itself is quite as vital since the war as during it. The extensive profits incidental to the production of munitions and all other supplies of an urgent nature during the war period, are coming to an end. Many of the new industries arising, instead of subscribing largely to capital funds, will themselves be calling for capital in common with many other industries and corporations which were more or less out of the market during the war. These new capital funds, as we have seen, should come from within Canada, but will require more largely in future to be derived from smaller savings rather than from exceptional profits. The diffusion of participation in the capital supply of the country makes for economic and social stability and a more intelligent interest in the efficient administration of national enterprise.

It is not desirable that the needs of the Dominion Government should curtail the capital fund for general economic reconstructions and new developments. Further, small investors have not the knowledge and experience requisite to make wise investments in the general interests of the country. Moreover, it is not practicable to make small and frequent investments in these lines. It is absolutely safe, however, and perfectly practicable to make small investments in the national funds. If, therefore, the small investors in sufficient numbers and with sufficient frequency will furnish the Dominion Government from their personal savings with a considerable proportion of the additional funds which it requires, either to meet new obligations or cancel maturing claims, the larger savings available for investments may be devoted to the supply of the

POULTRY DISEASES

Mr. A. B. Wickware, Assistant Pathologist of the Biological Laboratory, Ottawa, writes: For a number of years investigations have been conducted in Canada, to determine the nature and prevalence of diseases of poultry.

The need for further research is emphasized by the fact that the exigencies of war-time have given a stimulus to the poultry industry, and it is natural to assume that this additional interest has led to an increase, rather than a decrease, of poultry disorders.

When the work was first started by this department, very little was known about the ground thoroughly, poultrymen were requested by press notices, correspondence and personal appeals to cooperate as fully as possible by sending in sick and dead birds for study and diagnosis. In pursuance of this policy, the department guaranteed express charges, and in the last five or six years, the examination of specimens has become a task of considerable magnitude.

It therefore seems timely, when economy is the watchword, to make a few suggestions as to what work we desire to undertake, and to point out the various causes which result in individual deaths in flocks, and which can be easily recognized by the poultryman at home. In this connection, it may be pointed out that live and dead fowls are frequently forwarded to us via express from remote districts in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the expense of transporting these birds is wholly unjustifiable where the losses are limited to one or two fowls.

From a study of our records individual losses may be attributed to the following conditions, none which can be transmitted to other members of the flock: Affection of the Heart—These are usually manifested by a quantity of fluid within the covering membrane, and in some instances by an accumulation of yolk-like material, the result of inflammation.

Rupture of the Liver—This occurs in fowls which are excessively fat, and is recognized by sudden death, and the filling of the bowel cavity with blood.

Apoxy, or a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain. This disease can be determined only by the absence of other lesions and the suddenness of death.

Peritonitis, or inflammation of the bowels and covering membranes. Peritonitis is caused by the partial development of eggs in the bowel cavity; closure of the egg-duct by large eggs; or accumulated yolk material, etc. Frequently the diseased ovary is responsible for this latter condition.

The above diseases are those usually responsible for individual deaths, and may be detected by examining the birds. The infectious diseases which spread rapidly through flocks concern us chiefly. Such diseases as Fowl-cholera, Tuberculosis, Blackhead in turkeys, Roup and Coccidiosis may be classified as infectious, and it is essential that they be recognized early, so that their spread may be checked.

Worms are also very troublesome, and we have already published directions for getting rid of these parasites. These bulletins may be obtained upon application to the Publications Branch of the Department.

If poultry owners desire to have parasites identified, the parasites—preserved in alcohol and securely packed—may be sent by mail to the Laboratory. With reference to Tuberculosis and Blackhead, our bulletins fully describe these two diseases, and any poultryman should be able to diagnose them after reading our literature and seeing the illustrations.

To prevent misunderstanding of the aims of the department, we wish to restate that we are desirous of investigating affections which are responsible for large losses. In cases of suspected poisoning, a public analyst should be consulted, as we do not undertake work of this nature.

As previously stated, where only one or two deaths occur, the express charges usually total more than the market value of the birds. We trust, therefore, that poultrymen will assist us in our economic policy and send fowls only when several deaths have occurred simultaneously and the cause cannot be determined at home.

Wesley Dale, a farmer, thirty years of age, of Mersea township, was instantly killed when a circular saw he was serving broke.

The Civil Service, as it stood on the 1st April, 1918, had a strength of 4,147 permanent and 6,324 temporary inside employees, and 18,593 permanent and 12,555 temporary outside, a total of 41,619.

industrial capital of the country. The incomes of skilled labor, clerical employees, agriculturists, and certain other classes have been considerably increased within the past few years, and are not likely to diminish in proportion to the fall in the cost of living. Such incomes therefore, afford a much larger range for the exercise of economy and thrift, and thus for the accumulation of moderate but substantial funds of capital. Not only will these, if invested with the government, be the means of their own increase, but will furnish a reserve for emergencies or assistance in declining years. There are, of course, many other phases of this subject, especially those connected with the personal advantage of the small investors in the national funds, through the purchase of thrift stamps or otherwise. The above considerations, however, sufficiently indicate at once the national advantage and the urgent national requirements that every form of saving is necessary to meet the present and future needs for additional domestic capital for the maintenance and development of the country.

Ingenious Prisoners

Amongst the prisoners in the French convict settlement of New Caledonia were two marine officers of engineering, who, a few years ago, received a pardon for making a daring and ingenious attempt to escape.

Living together in the same hut, these men were engaged for years in digging a secret tunnel to the beach. At the end of the tunnel they hollowed out a chamber, in which, with pieces of drift-wood and little bits of steel and iron smuggled into the hut, they fashioned a boat, the metal being at first used to make tools and afterwards to form bolts and rivets. Then with infinite pains they built an engine to propel the boat. After laboring for seven years they completed their task. Everything was ready except the provisioning of the vessel, when they were betrayed by a fellow-convict to whom they had confided their plan.

So impressed, however, was the French commandant by their marvellous energy, skill, and patience that he succeeded eventually in obtaining after a year a pardon for them.

No Luck Neither

An old darkey who got religion last month decided to join the church. He selected, of course, the richest and handsomest church in town, the church with the finest music and the best preaching. Then he called on the pastor and stated his design.

But the pastor hummed and hawed. He felt that his fashionable flock wouldn't welcome such an addition as the old darkey. He didn't want to hurt the old fellow's feelings, however, and finally he said:

"Go home, Uncle Rooster. Go home and pray over it. This is an important matter and it should be made a subject of prayer."

Old Uncle Rooster went home, and in a few days he was back again.

"Well?" said the divine. "Well, what's the verdict now?" "Ah prayed 'an' Ah prayed," said Uncle Rooster; "an' de good Lawd he say to me, 'Rooster, my son. Ah wouldn't bother mah haid about dat matalh no mo'. Ah've been a-tryin' to get into dat church mah-self fo' de last twenty-one years an' Ah ain't had no luck nuther."

Great Preservative

Secretary Daniels, apropos of nationwide prohibition, said the other day: "After all, nationwide prohibition, if strictly enforced, will be good thing for us. The only praise that can be given alcohol is that it is an excellent preservative."

Mr. Daniels smiled. "Yes," he ended "you can preserve anything in alcohol, except your health and your secrets."

At Last

A poor man, who had hardly been able to clothe his wife and family properly, one day hit upon an invention—something to do with air-planes—which he sold for a good round sum.

The poor man went to his wife with tears in his eyes. "At last, my dear," he cried, "you will be able to buy yourself some decent clothes."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," she retorted. "I'll get the same sort the rest of the women are wearing!"

LANARK

From the Era.
Sad news reached Mrs. Albert Easton on Friday when a message from her parents in Appleton was received announcing the death of her brother, Pte. Frank A. Hueston, in France. Deceased enlisted in the West and came through many severe battles only to become a victim to influenza.
Mr. Wm. Connors commenced work on remodelling the Town Hall last Monday. In one day he removed the old plaster from the ceiling and is now engaged in preparing for the new ceiling.
Mr. Connors is an expert workman.
Mr. Ben. Willis has sold the "Donaldson farm" recently purchased from Mr. Robert Write, to Mr. Allan Watt of 11th line Bathurst. The latter disposed of his farm to Messrs. Wm. Stanley and James Clyne. Mr. Willis also sold his house and lot at Playfair, the purchaser being Mr. James A. Darou of this village.
Lieut. Chas. R. Watt, who has been engaged in the exhilarating sport of chasing submarines in the Mediterranean for over two years, is now enjoying a thirty days' leave in England and Scotland. To Charlie belongs the distinction of sinking probably the last enemy submarine sunk during the war. On Nov. 9th, two days before the armistice was signed, a German sub, the U-34, was endeavoring to make her way through the Straits of Gibraltar, when observed by Lieut. Watt, who dropped a "pill" and succeeded in dispatching it. For this feat he received prize money sufficient to ensure him a good time while on leave.
There passed away in North Sherbrooke on the evening of March 3rd, in his eighty-eighth year, an old respected resident of that township in the person of Mr. Wm. Sergeant, being one of the men who was among the first born in the township after it was settled, a son of the late Robert Sergeant. He was an honest, upright industrious man and hewed out a home for himself in the south corner of the township, chopping wood, burning the log piles into ashes, and making potash. He saw the hardships of the early days of the country. He married Miss Janet Wilson of the same township, who predeceased him about sixteen years ago and since then he resided with his son on the old homestead. The union was blessed with a family of five sons and four daughters.
On Sunday, March 2nd, Kate Alexandria Caldwell, second daughter of the late W. C. Caldwell, Esq., M.P.P. of North Lanark, and Mrs. Caldwell, and beloved wife of Victor W. Thornton of Los Angeles, Cal., passed away. Her husband and three young sons are left to mourn her loss. A private funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the residence of her uncle, Mr. T. B. Caldwell, Perth. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Scott.

Andrew Bonar Law, speaking in the British House of Commons, announced the Government is considering employment of discharged soldiers in immediate construction of a tunnel under the English Channel.
Sir Thomas Lipton, has offered another cup to replace that won by Nutmeg III, which latter boat was recently purchased at Marblehead, Mass., for the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto.
The British Admiralty's new airship, the largest in the world, was given her trial flight recently. Her five engines of 250 horse power each drove the monster ship at a speed of seventy miles an hour, carrying thirty of a crew and gasoline enough for an eighty-hour flight. This monster machine, the last word in aircraft construction, will shortly make the first attempt to cross the Atlantic.

EX-KAISER STILL SAFE

Allies Cannot Agree Regarding His Crimes.

Fate Rests With Council of Ten, But British and American Diplomats Claim That In Order to Punish Him It Will Be Necessary to Prove Some Specific Act of Murder.

PARIS, March 17.—The preliminary report of the Commission on Responsibilities shows that an important question has developed respecting the personal legal responsibility of the ex-Kaiser from the point of view of British and American law. Both maintain that the former Kaiser cannot be made penally responsible for acts done in his capacity as a sovereign, such as provoking the war or violating Belgium, for in effect, as already stated in despatches, war is recognized as a legal method for settling differences.

To bring the former Kaiser to justice it will be necessary to prove some specific criminal act, such as inciting to the murder of prisoners, or, for instance, if he decorated the captain who sank the Lusitania, that would make him in British law an accessory to the murder after the fact.

The commission proposed also to set up an international tribunal for the trial of criminals without regard to their rank.

The French make it no secret that their position is that to punish the former Kaiser is a matter of sentiment with them, with their 1,400,000 dead; and that legal niceties should not stand in the way. The question also arises whether the procedure proposed would be in accord with the American constitution as involving retroactive legislation. The whole matter goes to the Council of Ten for a decision.

The future of German-Austria is still troubling the conference, and as its union with Germany would make new German frontiers coterminous with the Italian, and on the southwest would extend along Swiss territory, a condition that both of these countries and France desire to prevent, the latest suggestion is for the neutralization of the Tyrol, cutting off the Vorarlberg district from Austria, and its incorporation as a new canton in Switzerland.

But the French and Italian cantons oppose this solution as it would incorporate a large additional German population in Switzerland, giving the Germans a considerable preponderance, and therefore the conference seems to be thrown back on the scheme for neutralization of German Austria, as on the whole the surest safeguard against its joining forces with Germany.

In the meantime, as to precisely how the peace preliminaries are to be presented to Germany, there seems a distinct conflict of views between the British and French, I am informed. Andre Tardieu stated Saturday, that as we are still formally at war with Germany that these terms be handed Germany by a military delegation, under the same conditions as the armistice, whereas British information is that as the conditions are not merely military, but also financial and economic, the German delegates must be seen respecting them.

This seems to be the reasonable course, but the matter is still unsettled.

CARRIED IRISH FLAG.

Strange Demonstration Was Witnessed in Montreal.

MONTREAL, March 17.—Irishmen defied the elements Sunday as they marched and slid on the slippery streets behind their large emerald banner, flanked by the green, white and orange flags of the new republic—the first occasion on which this emblem has been publicly carried in a St. Patrick's Day parade in Montreal.

Both in numbers and appearance the Ancient Order of Hibernians made a fine showing. Their uniformed Knights marched and looked well. St. Ann's Young Men's Society, headed by a jaunting car, and St. Patrick's Society, which brought up the rear of the procession, to mention but two more of the organizations walking, also made a good appearance. Acting Mayor Carmel, wearing the Mayoral chain of office, represented the corporation of Montreal.

All Intellectuals Bolshevik Victims.

HELSINGFORS, March 17.—Two days after Bolsheviks entered Kiev they shot Prof. Tugan Baronovsky, the economist, who recently was appointed to represent the Ukrainians in Paris; then they murdered Prof. Zabolotny, a surgeon, and Prof. Efimanko, a philosopher.
The orders for the shooting were given by Rakovsky, and several days later he executed eleven journalists, the President of the municipality, and Gen. Balbachan.

Was of Unsound Mind.

LONDON, March 17.—A verdict of suicide while of an unsound mind has been rendered in the case of Ernest Skinner, son of Sir Thomas Skinner, Director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was killed by a train at Blackfrairs. Spectators said that Skinner jumped deliberately before the train. He had been depressed because he had not secured an appointment.

VISCOUNT GREY HAS GONE BLIND

Lost Sight in the Service of His Country.

IS A GREAT STATESMAN

Even the German Ambassador to London at the Outbreak of the War Admits That Lord Grey Did Everything Possible to Preserve Peace by Establishing Network of Agreements Between the Nations.

After being afflicted for many years with eye trouble, Viscount Grey, former British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has become totally blind. It is stated that he is already earnestly at work learning the Braille system of raised letters.

Viscount Grey, or, as he then was, Sir Edward Grey, played a highly important part in 1914 when the war started. It is generally felt that he made all possible efforts to avert strife between Britain and Germany and to bring about an amicable arrangement. Prince Lichnowsky, who was German Ambassador at London when the war began, confirms this in the famous memorandum which he wrote in 1916 in an effort to justify his position, which had been assailed. This memorandum, primarily intended for the private consumption of friends only, ultimately became public property and proved a most enlightening document. In it he described how the aims of the then Sir

VISCOUNT GREY.

Edward Grey were not to isolate Germany but to induce Germany to take part in the already established concert by removing the causes of friction between Great Britain and Germany and securing the peace of the world by a network of agreements. Viscount Grey is an enthusiastic advocate of the league of nations and favors including Germany in it.

The New York Evening Post interestingly writes:

"Viscount Grey is not the first representative of Britain in foreign affairs to lose his eyesight; the other instance is of the Latin Secretary to the Council of State under the Commonwealth. Grey, like Milton, may claim to have lost his eyesight in the service of his country. There is no reason why blindness should cause the retirement from public affairs of a man esteemed one of the ablest friends of international peace. Senator Gore attained his position in spite of totally losing his sight at the age of eleven. A young Englishman who lost his sight while studying law in London became not only a noted professor and writer on economics, but a prominent statesman—Henry Fawcett. Leslie Stephen has told how when his opponents for Parliament urged his blindness as a disqualification he obtained a hearing and told his own story with a simple eloquence that fascinated all hearers." He carried reforms at Cambridge; agitated so persistently for Indian betterment that he was called "member for India," and under Gladstone was one of Britain's best Postmasters-General. Sir Arthur Pearson would doubtless maintain that blindness is only a minor misfortune."

The Lightest Wood.

The lightest wood is the wood of ambach, a leguminous plant that grows near Lake Chad and on the tributaries of the upper Nile. The tree, which is sometimes called the pith tree, often attains a diameter of six inches in the two or three years of its life. At that age it dies and another shoot starts from its roots. When cut the wood is almost white and is soft and brittle, like the pith of elder.

French Academy.

The French Academy is the oldest of five academies constituting the Institute of France, having been founded in 1635. It is composed of forty members elected for life, and known as the "Forty Immortals." They rank as the leading Frenchmen of their time in literature. Their judgment and decisions in all disputed literary matters are final.

Value of Poverty.

"You started in life as a poor man." "Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "And there was some advantage in the fact. I didn't have to take time away from my regular business to figure on my taxes."

DISHONORED THE DEAD.

Bolsheviki Maltreated Body of Great General.

After the tragic account of the death of the former Czar of Russia and his family at the hands of the Bolsheviki, comes the description of Gen. Korniloff's vain attempts to restore order in Russia, his fights against the Bolsheviki and Germans and his death.

When he escaped from Petrograd when the Bolsheviki took over the power of the Government, Gen. Korniloff left for South Russia where, with Generals Alexieff, Markoff and Denikino, he organized an army to fight Bolsheviki Germanism. Many times during the sanguinary encounters between his troops and those of the Bolsheviki, Gen. Korniloff shouldered a rifle himself and fought as a simple soldier. He was killed while directing an attack near Ekanerinobar by a bursting grenade thrown by a Bolsheviki in the hut where the famous general was working.

His soldiers before retiring, decided to bury the body temporarily, with the intention of coming back later and give their leader a grandiose funeral. In the meantime the Bolsheviki heard of Gen. Korniloff's death. They sent a special mission to find the body. Having discovered it, the Bolsheviki in the mad joy at having got rid of one of their bitterest opponents, fought for the body, which was finally hung on a tree. It did not remain there long, however, for a furious mob of anarchists tore it down, cut it into pieces, and for more than a quarter of an hour played football with the general's head in the presence of the great leader's friends, who had to stand by, vainly trying to persuade the Bolsheviki to have more respect for the dead body.

Parts of the general's clothing were regained, and each friend was given a piece. Basile Trachtenberg, who tells the above story, had his piece of the general's clothing with him when he was seen in Paris recently.

Red-headed Heroes.

"Ginger for pluck" is an old saying which would seem to be confirmed in the bestowal of military decorations for bravery, according to London Answers. "It was in the ruined square of demolished Ypres last Christmas Eve," writes a British officer, "that I was first impressed by the large number of red-haired men who were receiving the military medal."

"Since that afternoon I have noted the complexion of every officer and man wearing a military decoration, and the impression made at Ypres has been strengthened in consequence. There must be something in the old saying, for wherever soldiers are gathered together there is a red-haired, beribboned man in the midst of them."

"Take our most famous fighting division—the invincible Fifty-first. This is composed almost entirely of Highland troops, and the Highlanders are nearly all full-blonded. Of course, there are dark-haired heroes in plenty, but nevertheless red hair and pluck would seem to be synonymous. Red hair is common among our most daring airmen, and although I cannot say how many holders of the Victoria Cross sport ruddy locks, I am prepared to wager that they form a large percentage."

"Scientists say that red hair is caused by a large proportion of iron in the system, and certainly 'carrots and freckles' have been worn by men of iron while doing the work of men in the devil's own war."

New York.

New York was made by and for New Yorkers, and those that love it deserve no better fate than to live in it.

That babel of self-assured greatness is a terrible place to me. Carlyle called London a wen on nature's face; but what would he have said of New York, with its fervent money worship, its "society" folk with their innate and perpetual discussion of stocks, its thousands of other idle gamblers in drawing-room and den, its thousands of lackeys in and out of livery, its other thousands of make-believes who would have you think they were somebody, and while buying $10 dinners, are letting their washerwomen go unpaid; its blinded slaves of trade in their whirling strife, so complex, multifaceted, confused!

And then its "dandiacal body" in their exclusive clothes, exclusive hats, ties and shoes who belong to exclusive sets, wholly exclusive of brains! And then its millions of half-clothed, half-starved "people of the abyss," living in dark, effluviated hells instead of homes, suffering the cold, un-Christian contempt of their "betters!"—Bailey Millard.

Fighting Yellow Fever.

A celebrated Japanese physician and scientist now pursuing his studies in Ecuador is said to have isolated the bacillus which causes yellow fever, and has prepared an antiserum conferring immunity on those exposed to the disease. The discovery is being tested on Ecuadorian troops in the fever-ridden interior. The conquest of yellow fever is one of the important achievements. In the canal zone the first steps were taken; the fever was banished by sanitation. But proper sanitation is an extensive process, and is impracticable in sparsely settled regions, so the new discovery will in all probability wipe out the dread disease entirely.

Deep Water.

Ordinarily ground water at a depth of from forty to sixty feet is about 50 degrees and is nearly uniform throughout the year. At lesser depths the temperature is likely to be affected by atmospheric and seasonal changes which take place. Deep ground waters are generally progressively warmer, the deeper obtained, the increase being generally one degree for every fifty or sixty feet of depth.

War Fallacies Exploded

SOME of the accepted stories of the happenings of the momentous days just prior to the war are shattered in a book based on official documents and personal notes of diplomats and officials recently issued.

The book characterizes as a fallacy the belief that the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Serajevo was a "stage managed affair," but it is asserted from knowledge gained from official documents that if the assassination had not occurred the war certainly would have been started very soon.

The famous Potsdam conference of July 5, 1914, according to the book, was not what has been generally accepted. The meeting took place, but it was not a formal conference as has been declared repeatedly. It is asserted that many persons who were supposed to have been there were not present. Emperor William and members of the German imperial staff were present, however, and at this conference Germany definitely decided for war.

The book was written by Prof. Charles W. C. Oman, president of the Royal Historical Society and a professor of history at Oxford University. A. J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, and Earl Curzon, Government leader in the House of Lords, are understood to have taken an active interest in its compilation.

One of the "damning revelations," as Prof. Oman calls them, is his statement that from a close study of Munich newspapers he has established that the ultimatum from the Vienna Government to the Serbian Government was deliberately timed when President Poincare and Premier Viviani of France were at sea after their departure from Petrograd, in order to make it difficult for the Entente to reach an understanding. Prof. Oman gives what he calls a complete analysis of these revelations.

A series of hitherto unpublished communications between Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary in 1914, and Prince Lichnowsky, German Ambassador in London at the outbreak of the war, goes to prove, as Prof. Oman says, that the British Foreign Office believed that Lichnowsky was absolutely honest. The book says:

"They emphasize the personal anxiety of Lichnowsky and show that he was actually and literally betrayed by his Government—in other words that he was the unwilling tool of the Kaiser."

On July 29, 1914, Prince Lichnowsky wrote privately as follows to Sir Edward Grey:

"I begin to hope that it once more has been possible owing to Anglo-German collaboration to save the peace of Europe."

On July 30, Sir W. E. Goschen, British Ambassador in Berlin, wrote to Sir Edward Grey, saying:

"The Chancellor told me last night that he was pressing the button with a view to forming a moderating influence on Vienna."

Information contained in the book showed that the opposite was taking place and that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg was doing everything possible to get the German war machine going.

The book refers to a journalistic mystery—the publication by the Westminster Gazette on August 1, 1914, of a despatch dated in Berlin, giving the text of a purported telegram addressed on July 25 by Von Bethmann-Hollweg to the German Ambassador in Vienna, saying: "We must refuse to be drawn into a world conflagration through Austria-Hungary not respecting our advice."

Prof. Oman says that the newspaper never revealed the source of the despatch and it was never included in the German White Book or in any official publication, yet the document was dragged out two and one-half years later by Chancellor Michaelis and cited as proof that Germany was holding back until Russia mobilized, which mobilization Germany gives as the cause of the war. "Reservists refused to be drawn into a world conflagration through Austria-Hungary not respecting our advice."

It is shown, however, that this did not alter the general situation. It is also shown that when the Russian military chiefs ignored the midnight wavering of the Emperor and his order to suspend the mobilization they were justified, because a few hours later it became clear that Germany was bent on war.

It is shown that Baron von Schoen, German Ambassador to France, had in his possession a demand which would make it impossible for France to remain neutral—a demand for the surrender of the fortresses of Toul and Verdun. It is stated that Baron von Schoen actually had a German official demand to this effect in his pocket on one visit to the French Foreign Office.

One chapter of the book is devoted to an illustration of former Emperor William's personal treachery and his elastic memory, enabling him conveniently to forget unpleasant things. Other chapters point out the clumsy German attempt to lay the blame for the war on France.

The British Foreign Office sanctions the publication of the book at this time, hoping to clear up some obscure points and aiming to influence public opinion favorably during the Peace Conference.

Transforming The Prairies

SELDOM does a settler in a new country find things exactly as he would like to find them. Take trees as an illustration. It is true there are large stretches of country in different parts of the world where trees seem to be ideally interspersed. Large areas in the central parts of the Prairie Provinces of Canada are like this. Open spaces of forty to a hundred acres or more are almost surrounded by trees, affording excellent shelter for stock, and making a varied landscape. But such conditions are exceptional, though they serve to emphasize the rule. Mostly the new settler finds too many trees or practically none at all. In the former case considerable labor is required in clearing before the settler can hope for any crop. In the latter case, the settler has the advantage of being able to break his land immediately and, if he proceeds in the right manner, soon has it in a condition for producing a remunerative crop. But if he has come from a home which was surrounded by trees, he certainly misses them for a time.

A large part of the Canadian prairies comes under the second category. Nearly all of the southern to the central parts of these provinces are open prairie, ready for the plow. Except near the rivers and creeks one could motor miles and miles without seeing a tree. But a wonderful transformation is slowly taking place. If nature has left these fertile prairies and vegetables, she has not left them devoid of the elements necessary to tree growth. Trees will grow there if properly planted and cared for, just as wheat and other grains, just as alfalfa and other fodders, just as potatoes and all manner of roots and vegetables, grow—wonderfully well. And they are being grown more and more extensively every year, beautifying many a farm home, and transforming the prairie landscape.

In this beautifying process, farmers are greatly encouraged by the Canadian Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Both are taking a keen interest in the planting of trees on the prairie farms, and encourage farmers to improve their home surroundings by distributing free of cost to farmers. Each man has large nurseries where trees are grown for this purpose under prairie conditions, the government at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and the Canadian Pacific Railway at Wolsley, Saskatchewan. Up to a few years ago both nurseries were typically open prairie. Now trees are being raised from seed on the government's farm at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, which comprises 450 acres, in sufficient quantities as to permit a distribution of between seven and eight million young plants annually. The Canadian Pacific Railway restricts its distribution of trees until they get thoroughly established, and in station gardens. To obtain trees, whether from the government or the railway company, can start to farm. He can begin to farm from the moment of his occupation. Farmers must make their plan of the land. And when he is ready to plant trees, he can plant them in any direction. Inspectors assure that, if given a little attention during the first year or two, they will grow as strong as trees of the forest.

"When I was your age, young man," remarked the father, after a demand for further funds, "I didn't have as much money to spend in a month as you have in a single day."
"Well, dad, don't scold me about it," replied the youth. "Grandfather's the culprit."
"Aren't you glad to see these food profiteers investigated?"
"I dunno," answered the ultimate consumer. "It always worries me a little to see anything done that adds to the expense of conducting their business."

What Happens to the food you eat?

During digestion certain kinds of food containing proteins, such as meat, egg white, milk casein, wheat gluten, etc., are split into many different substances.

Some of these the body uses to rebuild damaged or dead tissues; some, however, are not only useless and harmful but in some cases actually poisonous. Regular, thorough bowel evacuation gets rid of the latter.

Constipation permits stagnation and absorption of these poisons into the blood, with injury to the whole body.

Taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in order to force the bowels to move does not—cannot cure constipation—but makes it worse.

On the other hand Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug.

Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods of supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal and protection of the defensive properties of the blood itself.

Nujol has no deleterious after effects, produces no bad habits, makes the bowels regular as clockwork.

Nujol is efficient at any age—under any conditions—is satisfactory and safe.

How and Why Nujol overcomes constipation is described in an interesting and authoritative booklet, "Thirty Feet of Danger" free on request. Send for it and get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today.

Copyright, 1914, by the Bobbs-Merrill company. "However," Jonathan's smile reappeared—"I am fortunate to have found congenial friends here. Miss Summers is one. And now I add you to the list. With two friends a man ought to count himself rich, don't you think?"

Jonathan started away for the second time, then caught himself. "I forgot. I am ashamed to have forgotten. Perhaps you ought to be with your family Saturday evening. I should hate to feel—" "My family is away."

If David's voice had become suddenly curt Jonathan did not seem to perceive it. "Then we'll consider it settled." This time his departure was final, and the cloud, lifted a little by the efforts of a white faced bookkeeper and a comically ugly manikin, settled upon David once more. He bent grimly to his interrupted work.

At that moment Radbourne was obtaining Miss Summers' assent to the occasion of Saturday. It was not hard to obtain. "I like that young man," he confided. "I think we're going to be very good friends."

"I hope so." "Yes. It would mean much to me, Miss Summers."

"But I was thinking of him," she said gravely. And the slate gray eyes as they rested on the little man were very gentle.

An unwonted excitement pervaded the offices of Radbourne & Co. on that Saturday morning, radiated no doubt from the head of the concern himself. He flitted about restlessly, tugged at his whiskers continually, and his voice as he rattled off his correspondence to Miss Brown had a happy, boyish lilt. Occasionally chancing to catch Miss Summers' eye, he would nod with a sly, knowing wink.

For the original program for Saturday had been enlarged. Miss Summers and David had been notified to be ready at mid-afternoon for an event as yet cloaked in secrecy.

softly upon her, and David thought her the most beautiful thing he had ever seen. A very wisp of a woman she was. He could have held her in his arms and scarcely felt the weight. But he would have taken her very tenderly, so fragile she seemed. Under a filmy lace cap her hair, still fine and plentiful, shone silvery. The face, though the face of age and white and thin almost to transparency, was strangely unlined. She wore a black dress with many folds and flounces and fine ruching at neck and wrists.

He thought she was taking one of those naps which are the prerogative of age at any hour and began to tip toe away. But she started and sat upright, her face turned toward him. "Who is it?" she asked. "But I know. You are Mr. Quentin, of course. I am Jonathan's mother." She smiled. But something was wrong with that smile. It seemed incomplete. "You may come in."

She held out a hand. David advanced and took it. She caught his in both of hers in a soft, lingering clasp. She smiled again. "It is a good strong hand. You are quite tall, aren't you?" "Almost six feet."

"And broad too?" "Rather, I believe." He tried to speak lightly, but a hard lump was gathering in his throat. For he knew what was wrong with that smile—she was blind.

"I am glad that," she nodded brightly. "I am very fond of large men. It has been my cross that Jonathan took his size from me and not from his father. I could walk under his arm and not even graze his sleeve." She drew him down beside her. "Do you mind if I touch your face?"

"It isn't much of a face, you know." "But that lump was very stubborn. She reached up and passed both hands over his face, a light caressing touch he scarcely felt. "Now," she smiled, "I see you. You are quite mistaken. It is a good true face, and I like it very much. Ah! She had touched his lashes. "You are feeling sorry for me. But you must not," she chided gently. "I don't like people to be sorry for me."

"To that David had no answer. But on an impulse—or it may have been an inspiration—the little hands left his face he brushed one lightly with his lips. She beamed—always with that pathetic lack—just as Jonathan did when something pleased him. "That was very pretty," she nodded again. "I see I am to like Jonathan's new friend very much. You know, you have quite won him. He talks of you all the time. You like him, do you not?" The smile had become quite wistful.

"Better all the time," David answered promptly and with truth. "I am glad of that. And it is good of you to come here. We have so few visitors, I suppose," she sighed, "because we aren't very interesting. I am afraid Jonathan gets very lonely some evenings, having to spend most of his evenings here with no one but me. Not," she made haste to add, "that he isn't always good to me."

"I think he is good to every one." "You have found that out? It is because he had a great disappointment once, I think."

HUGE POTATO YIELDS

Seed From Northern Ontario Outyields All Others.

How to Lower Mortality of Young Lambs—Best Methods of Caring For Both Ewe and Lamb Explained.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

PLANS are being carefully evolved by the Department of Agriculture to continue experiments, begun last year, which it is expected will have far-reaching results for the potato industry in Ontario. The investigations which officials of the Department are making are thorough and extensive, and consequently somewhat slow. But it is confidently believed that within a few years potato seed grown in Ontario will be in great demand not only by other parts of the Dominion, but by many districts of the United States. This, it is anticipated, will be a distinct boon to the farmers of the province.

The two-fold program which was inaugurated last year of certifying a high standard of potato seed and making a survey to detect diseases is to be carried on on a much wider scale this coming season. Reports from the various inspectors have now been compiled by the Department, and the statistics are of considerable interest to the progressive and up-to-date agriculturist. The two foundation varieties which the Department is showing—Irish Cobbler, the early seed, and the Green Mountain—have been the subject of widespread discussion. There has been much difference of opinion as to which is the better for general table use. The reports for last year clearly prove that the Green Mountain is the best variety for the general farmer. Seed of these two varieties from three different sources—Northern Ontario, New Brunswick and Old Ontario—has been experimented with and planted in clay and sand in nearby districts in different parts of the province. These show the following average yields per acre:

Irish Cobbler—Northern Ontario, 153.4; New Brunswick, 148; Old Ontario, 127. The general average per acre on the different plots was 146.3 bushels. Irish Cobbler planted in sand, 151.5, and on clay, 126.1, which shows a yield of 25.4 bushels more to the acre from seed planted on sand. Green Mountain planted on sand, 169.3, and 153.2 bushels per acre on clay, a yield of 15.1 more bushels per acre from seed planted on sand. The results when the yields from all sources for Irish Cobbler are combined show the average number of bushels per acre was 142.1, and Green Mountain, 161.4 bushels. Thus will be seen that the Green Mountain gave the larger yield, being 19.3 bushels per acre ahead of the Irish Cobbler variety.

With Ewes at Lambing Time.

The two main factors contributing to a satisfactory lamb crop are the proper feeding and care of the sheep during the six months previous to lambing time together with care and detailed attention given to the flock during the lambing period. Plenty of exercise coupled with a sufficient amount of the right kind of feed to maintain the flock in good thriving condition will usually result in the birth of active, rugged lambs for which the mother will have a liberal supply of milk. In practically every case, the mother how well cared for, the attendant must be on hand frequently, day and night, during the period the lambs are arriving. A little attention at the proper time will often result in the saving of not a few lambs.

Absolute dryness and freedom from draught are very essential for the flock, and when the lambs are expected in March or early April provision should be made for reasonable protection from the cold. Wool balls in the stomach is often the cause of much loss in young lambs. This trouble as well as difficulty in getting the lambs to nurse may be avoided by clipping away all loose and dirty wool from around the udder and quarters of the ewes. Provision should be made for a few small pens located along the farm side of the building. The ewe to lamb is much safer separated from the main flock and in cases of difficult parturition, weak lambs, ewes disowning their lambs and numerous other difficulties that may arise they can be looked after in a great deal more satisfactorily when confined in small enclosures. It not infrequently happens that a ewe has difficulty in delivering her lamb; this is more common in the case of young ewes with their first lamb. When the lamb has come forward far enough so that the nose and front feet are in sight and the head is unable to pass through the ewe should be assisted by gentle pulling on the forehead. If this fails smear the inside of the vagina well with linseed oil, this has the effect of softening and allowing the opening to stretch and will, unless the case is a very severe one, give relief. No action should be taken until it is reasonably certain some assistance is needed and before investigating the hands should be perfectly clean and disinfected.

Lambs may be born weak and apparently helpless, more particularly in case of difficult delivery. These may be revived by quick action on the part of the attendant. First remove the phlegm from the mouth, then hold the mouth open and blow gently a few times to start lung action. Next lay the lamb on its belly and gently beat it on the sides next to the heart just back of the shoulder. —Prof. J. P. Sackville, O. A. College, Guelph.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR MARCH 23

ISRAEL WARNED AGAINST COMPROMISE.

(May be used with Temperance Applications.)

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 2:1-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Evel compassions corrupt good morals.—1 Corinthians 15:22. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Numbers 23:50-56; Joshua 9:3-27; Judges 2:1-3; 2:1-6; Colossians 2:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Loving and obeying God.—Joshua 2:16-28. JUNIOR TOPIC—Standing up for the right. INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Dangerous company.

Joshua, knowing that his life was drawing to a close, summoned the leaders of Israel to appear before him. He knew the tendencies which the nation was developing and the peril which faced it as his leadership was coming to an end. His jealousy for God and solicitude for them prompted him to assemble them and point out the great dangers which confronted them.

I. A Review of What God Had Done (23:3, 4).

1. God had fought Israel's battles (v. 3). He gave them victory over the strong nations which inhabited Canaan. Striking evidences of this are the capture of Jericho and victory at Gibeon when the sun stood still at Joshua's command. This victory had been secured quickly, which indicates that God had interposed in their behalf.

2. God by the hand of Joshua had apportioned the land among the tribes (v. 4) for an inheritance. In chapter 24 Joshua rehearses the wonderful things God had done for the nation extending from Abraham down through the ages.

II. Points Out the Promises as Yet Unfulfilled (23:5-10).

1. "He shall expel them before you" (v. 5). The actual possession which God had given was the pledge that he would give them full possession. God's promise was the guarantee of this. In view of God's faithful performance of all his promises there should be no room for doubt.

2. "One man of you shall chase a thousand" (v. 10). The reason of this was because the Lord God would fight for them. To have the Lord fight for us is to have the assurance of victory regardless of how few or how many.

3. The condition upon which these promises would be realized. (1) "Be very courageous" (v. 6). At a time like this it required courage to look to God for all the nation's needs. (2) "Keep and do all that is written in the law of Moses" (v. 6). Fidelity to God's law was essential. Turning aside in any particular would forfeit their claims upon him. (3) "Keep aloof from the Canaanites" (v. 7). This separation was to obtain with reference to (a) marriage among them (b) idolatrous customs. (4) Cleave wholly unto God (v. 8).

III. Solemn Warnings Issued (23:11-16).

1. Take good heed that you love God sincerely (v. 11). Love to God is the sum total of duty toward him.

2. Refrain from intermarriage among the Canaanites (v. 12). For God's people to intermarry among the heathen is to set in motion influences which would issue in confusion and disaster.

3. God will make the heathen snares, traps and scourges instead of giving victory over them (v. 13).

4. Evil things will come upon them just as good things had been done for them even to their destruction (v. 15).

5. The wrath of God kindled against them (v. 16).

Peace and Righteousness.

Righteousness means victory with the help of the Spirit of God over ourselves, over our inclinations, our passions, our tempers, our whole sinful natures. There is no peace without victory in the spiritual life, and I am inclined to think that holds good between men and nations. There is no peace until righteousness is done. The Prophet said: "They have healed also the hurt of my people slightly, saying Peace, Peace, when there is no peace." There must be righteousness toward God and our fellowmen if there is to be peace and good will on earth.

If We Suffer.

"If we suffer, we shall also reign with him," says St. Paul. What a crown is that for this, O sufferer! "Thy pains and sickness are all cured; thy body shall no more burden thee with weakness and weariness; thy aching head and heart, thy hunger and thirst, thy sleep and labor, are all gone. Oh, what a mighty change is this which shines as the brightness of the firmament!"—Baxter.

God's Will.

The kingdom of heaven is not come even when God's will is our law. It is come when God's will is our will. When God's will is our law, we are but a kind of noble slaves. When his will is our will, we are free children. —George Macdonald.

Follow Jesus Only.

Let this be thy whole endeavor, this thy prayer, thy wish—that thou mayest be stripped of all selfishness, and with entire simplicity follow Jesus only.—Thomas & Kempis.

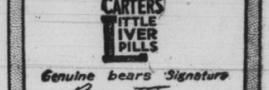

Nature's Way Is Best

Nature's laxative is bile. If your liver is sending the bile on its way as it should, you'll never be constipated.

Keep the liver tuned right up to its work.

Take one pill regularly (more only if necessary) until your bowels act regularly, freely, naturally.

Colorless faces often show the absence of iron in the blood. Carter's Iron Pills will help this condition.

He Ordered Pie.

My brother was telling me of a number of humorous incidents which took place at camp. This one cost the victim, a young rookie, a week end's visit to the guardhouse. He had been made believe by a few fellows who were in for some sport that if he wanted pie all he had to do was order it. When meal time came around the rookie ordered pie. Of course he didn't get it, so he raised a rumpus. After a few moments his commanding officer was heard to say, "You're in the army now. Perhaps we had better show you the guardhouse first."—Chicago Tribune.

Avenue of Honor.

The city of Cleveland has adopted a novel plan for honoring its soldier dead. For each Cleveland soldier that loses his life in this war a victory oak will be planted along one of the boulevards, and each of the oaks will be named for a soldier. This will constitute a beautiful and enduring memorial, with a practical as well as a sentimental value. Other cities may find it desirable to follow Cleveland's example.—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

The Attraction.

Slacker—What is there about a uniform that attracts a girl? Girl—Nothing. It's what the uniform is about that attracts her. A real man, you know.

Loose Soil Dries Rapidly.

Soil heaped up around plants has a higher average temperature than the level ground, but it becomes colder in the night, as it dries more rapidly.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 478 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

The late June sun was just sinking to rest when they entered the outskirts of the city and drew up before a rambling white house set well back on a velvet lawn. Two great elms stood in the front of the yard, and rhododendrons bloomed against the wide porch, their fragrance lingering on the evening air. "That," said Jonathan, "was a very spirited ride. But I hope"—this to David—"you aren't sorry it's ended, because this is my home, where we want you to come very often. Miss Summers," he added, "already knows her welcome is sure."

He got to the pavement and helped Miss Summers to alight as deferentially as if she had been the finest lady in the land. And, despite red whiskers and cap and goggles, to David the manner did not seem absurd. A little later David descended from the room where he had removed the traces of their ride. At the parlor door he stopped, looking uncertainly at the sole occupant of that cozy room. She was reclining, eyes closed and hands folded, on a pillowed settee, where the glow of a shaded lamp fell

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Carleton Place Board of Education met last Thursday evening, March 13th. Present: Mr. Caswell in the chair, and Messrs. Nichols, Richards, Muirhead, Patterson, Warren, Allan, Dr. Downing and Dr. Steele.

The chairman explained that the meeting had been called because there had been no quorum on the date of the regular meeting. On motion it was decided to take up the regular business, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The monthly report of the High School was presented. It showed 129 pupils on the roll, with average attendance of 108. The principal stated that Mr. A. F. Powell had presented a very fine specimen of a loon to add to the collection of stuffed birds in the school.

The principal's report of the public school showed 603 pupils on the roll and an average attendance of 528. A large number of pupils were absent during the month, and as the schools were closed five weeks during the past school year it will seriously interfere with the promotions next June. The sanitary condition at the Queen's school was again referred to. The principal also directed attention to the matter of pupils entering the school at Easter, when a large number come in and the primary classes are overcrowded. The fees for country pupils were not being paid.

A report from the Penny Bank showed the average deposits made by pupils in the various towns.

A letter was received from the County Director of the National War Savings Committee, urging the sale of Thrift and War saving Stamps in the Schools.

A letter was received from the secretary of the Carleton Place Board of Trade enclosing a copy of a very important resolution passed by that Council at their meeting Feb. 20th, "That an earnest effort be made to secure a Technical School in the Town," and that the Board of Education be urged to take similar action. A copy of this resolution was also received from Mr. McIntosh.

The Finance Committee reported as follows:

Mr. Henry, wood cutting	$ 2 00
Messrs. Brown & Sons, light	5 20
W. H. Allen, insurance prem.	15 00
W. Muirhead, supplies	3 31

A. T. Hudson, insurance prem.	8 00
C. H. Abbott, postage and phone	1 75
W. Pattie, work done	3 50
W. Muirhead, supplies	9 12

Moved by Mr. Nichols, seconded by A. Downing that the report be adopted—Carried.

The report from the principals were now discussed. The Board highly appreciated Mr. Powell's gift to the collection of birds in the High School.

The difficulty arising when a large number of pupils enter at Easter was discussed, the Principal complaining of the serious trouble in the primary classes.

The Sanitary troubles at the "Queen's" school was left with the Contingent committee to arrange, to install some suitable apparatus. The non-payment of fees was left with the Secretary to write to the parents requesting payment.

The letter from the C.P. Board of Trade was taken up and a motion was introduced as follows:—

Moved by Mr. Jas. Richards, seconded by Dr. Downing, that the following petition be forwarded to the Honorable the Minister of Education, through our representative in Parliament, the Honorable Dr. Preston:—

The petition of the Board of Education, of the Town of Carleton Place, sheweth as follows:—

1. That this Board has learned with satisfaction that it is the policy of yourself and of the Department of Education to establish Technical Schools and Vocational Schools at various points in the Province of Ontario.
2. That this Board believes that such a policy is sound and statesmanlike.
3. That this Board believes that one of the most suitable locations for the establishment of a Technical School is in the Town of Carleton Place, on account of its large school population, and the large area which would be served, the geographical position of the Town as the gateway of the Ottawa Valley, its railway connections, its considerable textile metal and woodworking and other industries.
4. That in view of the fact that an additional school building will be required to be erected in the Town in the near future, in order to meet school conditions and the Department regulations, advantage might be gained by erecting one building to accommodate both a Technical School and a High School.

Your Petitioners therefore pray: That you take into consideration the desirability of establishing at Carleton Place, one of the Provincial Technical Schools.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Mr. Richards, and Dr. Downing and the Chairman spoke very strongly in favor of every effort being made to secure the erection of a Technical School in town, and the resolution was Carried.

The motion, notice of which was final at a previous meeting by Dr. Steele, was now introduced as follows:—

Moved by Mr. Muirhead, that By-law No. 31 be rescinded and the following substituted.

No. 1. Finance Committee;
No. 2. Property Committee;
No. 3. Management Committee;
No. 4. Contingent Committee.

Dr. Steele stated he thought the business of the Board would be conducted more systematically with these Committees.

Mr. Richards did not see any necessity for changing the present committees, and when the vote was taken the motion was lost.

Dr. Downing, who took his seat at this meeting of the Board, was welcomed by the chairman and members.

The Chairman brought up the matter of insurance on the school furniture in the Queens and Leach Schools. This was left with the Contingent Committee to arrange.

The Chairman called the attention of the Board to the offer of the Canadian Forestry Association to hold a lecture on Forests of Canada. "This had been arranged for February 6th, but owing to the flu" had to be put off.

The Secretary was requested by vote to communicate with the Association with a view to arranging another date for the Lecture.

The Board then adjourned.

Little Jimmy had a very pretty sister. Pretty sister had a very devoted admirer. One evening when he was waiting in the parlor for sister to appear he was approached by little Jimmy.

"Mr. Smith," queried the youngster, "do you love my sister Jenny?"

"Why, Jimmy?" was the amazed response of blushing Mr. Smith, "why do you ask me that?"

"Because," was the quick rejoinder of the youngster, "she said last night she would give a sovereign to know, and I need the money."

Uncle Sam Hodge came down from the mountains with his yearly produce to market. His team of oxen was somewhat weary with a two-days' pull. But when Sam reached the city limits he was confronted with the sign: "Speed limit, fifteen miles an hour." He pulled his whiskers a moment in silent meditation, and then drew out to his oxen, "Well, I know darn well we'll never make it, but we'll do our doggone best."

ALMONTE

From the Gazette
Lieut. Jack Haydon, recently returned from overseas, spent Monday in town calling on his many friends.

Mr. M. Aikenhead has disposed of his farm in Ramsay to Mr. John Andrews, and will remove to Almonte within a few weeks. The price paid for it was $9000. Mr. Andrews sold the Hyran farm on the eighth line to Mr. Wm. Leach, and also sold to Mr. Pressley a fourteen acre plot adjoining that gentleman's farm.

At the regular meeting of Athwell Rebekah lodge last Monday evening, ten new members were initiated. After lodge business was disposed of Bro. Alex. Wilson, recently home from overseas service, was presented with an address of welcome and an Oddfellows' lock.

On Tuesday afternoon of this week a pretty marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Giles, Albert street, when their eldest daughter, Miss Alma, was united in marriage to Mr. L. W. Frost, a prominent young business man of Renfrew, Rev. Chas. Saddington performing the ceremony.

Mrs. John More passed away at the Rosamond Memorial Hospital on Saturday. She had been ill since Christmas, but had become so bad that she had to be taken to the hospital for care and treatment. Her maiden name was Janet More, a daughter of the late James More. She was married to Mr. John More fifty years ago the 1st of last October, after which they went to Stafford, Ont., and four years later they returned to Ramsay, and for the past thirteen years have lived in Almonte. R. and Walter More of Ramsay, John in the west, Joseph in the States, Mrs. Arch Boyd and Mrs. Wm. Stevenson of Braeside, and Mrs. More of Monckton Ontario.

A Collection Dodge

At a village concert in aid of the Belgian refugees, the collection was taken halfway through the proceedings, to enable the chairman to announce the results at the close. Just before the public announcement was made Farmer Closefist asked one of the collectors on the quiet how much had been realized.

"$4, 198. 7d.," was the reply. "Oh, dang it," said the farmer, handing the surprised collector six-pence, "add this to it—five pound will look ever so much better!" Outside, after the meeting, a brother farmer approached the philanthropist with the remark, "Here's your half-crown, old man."

"I thought I was quite safe in betting that they wouldn't raise five pounds. And it was a close shave too, wasn't it?"

"It was so," agreed Farmer Closefist, as he pocketed the half-crown.

Working Both Ends

War Correspondent Lincoln Eyre tells of a rascally French innkeeper who had given a Sammie a bad piece of mopey. The incensed doughboy went back and demanded good mopey, and after some argument the innkeeper called him back.

"Pardon, monsieur, but will you kindly give me back the bad coin?"

"Can't be done, Frenchy," chuckled the doughboy. "It took me three hours to pass it myself."

DO YOU WANT PINK CHEEKS

They Can be Had by Keeping the Blood Rich Red and Pure

Every woman—every girl—wants pink cheeks. They mean not only beauty but good health. When a woman's blood is scanty or anaemic, her color fades, she looks debilitated, is short of breath and her heart palpitates after slight exertion. Sometimes this trouble is accompanied by severe headaches, or pains in the back or sides. This condition is entirely due to weak, watery blood, and can only be cured by making the blood rich, red and pure. For this purpose there is nothing can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which act directly upon the blood, and in this way bring new health and strength to weak, ailing people. Mrs. Anderson, Hearst, Ont., says:—"Before coming to Canada from England, I was a sufferer from anaemia for upwards of a year. I had been gradually getting paler and weaker. I did not realize that I was sick, but felt constantly tired and worn out. I had no ambition for anything, and grew so white that my brothers used to call me "snowball." At this stage my mother decided that she would get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are a favorite medicine in England as well as in Canada. On the day I commenced taking them I fainted on getting out of bed and another urged me to stay in bed for a few days. I really felt so weak that I was glad to take her advice. I looked more like a corpse than a living person. I remained in bed for a week, taking the pills regularly and then I felt that I was able to get up, though not able to go about. From that on, however, I gained strength daily, and in a little more than a month I was feeling as well as ever I did. The color returned to my cheeks and lips, and my friends were all surprised at my rapid recovery. I took no medicine but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so that they deserve all the credit for my restoration to health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Question of Age

A stout party had been in the boot shop for over an hour, and the patient shop assistant had had half the stock down for her inspection. She found a fault with them all until his patience became quite exhausted.

"These would suit you," he said, taking down another pair as a last resource.

"I don't like this sort," she said.

"They have a tendency to get wider when they are a bit old."

"Well, madam," retorted the exasperated assistant politely, "didn't you?"
