Allied Supreme Council Decides That Clauses Making Ottoman Empire Virtually Po werless Must Be Inserted in Peace Treaty To Be Submitted by the Allies.

London, March 3.—The Allied supreme council today decided that the peace treaty should provide that the warships of the Turkish navy be broken up. The Turkish army will be reduced to such a point by the peace terms that it would not be effective against another country.

When Premier Nitti of Italy learned this morning that the French prime minister, M. Millerand, was unlikely to return to the London conference, he reverted to his first plan to leave for Rome on Thursday. This will leave only the foreign ministers Rome on Thursday. This will leave only the foreign ministers and ambassadors to clear up the details of the Turkish treaty, on GAS COMPANY CLAIMS which the council is agreed in principle.

A matter which claimed a great deal of the attention of the Mothers' Club meeting yesterday was the showing of questionable vaudeville acts in the local theatres. The members believed that the local managements wanted to give only what was best to the public, and hydro sub-station here, stated to The Advertiser today that he would resign that often they were not directly rehis position at the end of this month sponsible for some of the acts put on here, the censorship having taken place United States.

Efforts are being made by the utilities commission to retain his services here, as he is regarded as a valuable employee, and it is possible that he may be induced to change his decision.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was reported that these efforts were unsuccessful, and that Mr. Colby would leave at the end of the month. General Manager E. V. Buchanan expressed regret at his decision. He has been with the commission since the inception of hydro-electric work here elsewhere. In fact, the mothers knew that, after a first performance, one management had called up a couple of vaudeville artists and roundly rated them for putting on the act they did. But this was too late to prevent harm being done to children who might have been in the audience. The Mothers' Clubs feel that the local managements should censor such acts before they apinception of hydro-electric work here in 1910 and 1911, and has handled his work in a most efficient manner. "Unless they improve in this matter, we intend to take action," declared Mrs. John Gemmell, president of the club. "We love our children to see such pictures as "Anne of Green Gables," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and the like, but we cannot send them to the theatre unless we know that the vaude-ville which is put on at the same time is fit for children to listen to. The managements should be especially particular in the selection of their vaude-ville acts when such pictures as these are showing, and yet very often it is on these occasions that the acts are most questionable."

RESIGNS POSITION

SPRING PLOWING ON LONDON STREETS

Ice and Snow Being Carted Away and Charged to Street Railway.

Spring plowing has commenced, but it is on the paved streets of the city, and not on the fertile fields of the surrounding county. Dundas street between Wellington and Clarence resembled the ice fields of the Arctic Circle when the city's workmen got busy with it yesterday. Snow was bound to be almost a foot deep on the street. Under the street railway agreement the company is required to keep the walks down to a level of six inches on certain streefs designated by the agreement. They have not the teams available, so the city is doing the work and charging it to them.

In addition to this the city is plowing out gutters throughout the city so that the water will have a free course. Both Dundas and Richmond streets were badly in need of snow removal. On Dundas street most of the snow had been kept clear of the tracks by the sweeper and had been piled up on each side of the track. The snow cleared from the sidewalks was also thrown to the centre of the street, so that a noticeable increase in the height of the highway took place.

This was not conducive to pleasant traveling for vehicles, so most of them sought the car tracks as the best route. They found it a much easier, matter to get in than to get out. Automobiles which got in the tracks at Wellington street had to travel to the switch at Richmond street before they could get out. Even the two big fire trucks were trapped in this way.

Tuesday an automobile was going eastward in the north track on Dundas street. It was suddenly confronted with a street car going in the opposite direction. It attempted to get out of the track, but found it impossible. Port Stanley will become a regular port of call.

According to Mr. Pocock if the agitation throughout southwestern Ontario to have the P. M. R. electrified proves successful the London and Port Stanely Railroad will be benefitted considerably. In his opinion electrification would be the best thing that could ever happen to the Pere Marquette, as it serves a populous and fertile district. It is not a trunk road and the many towns along its right of way would be helped by a rapid local service, such as is possible on an electric system.

With connections with the London and Port Stanley Railroad in St. Thomas much traffic that would be picked up in the country west of that city would come on to London, because it is the largest city in Western Ontario, and therefore a drawing card to shoppers.

Paris Says Flowers!

With the promise of spring our millinery department has blossomed forth like a garden. Paris has said, "Let there be flowers," and so it is, flowers for trimming. Exquisite are the blendings of the colors. Now and then a touch of ribbon adds a softening touch. All sizes and shapes are well represented, but it would be folly for us to attempt to give you a word picture of the beautiful creations. You just must see them.

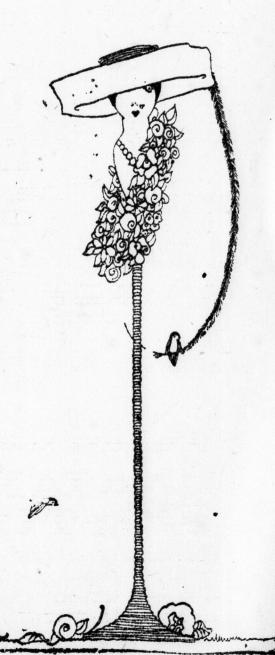

There is a new inspiration in the spring millinery. It is "cire," which means "shiny" according to the French. The new hats are gleaming. They are bright with flowers and fruits and bright surface straws and gleamy satin, for Paris says, "spring millinery must

SAYS CONTRACTORS DOING SCHOOL WORK PAY UNFAIR WAGES

Charge Made by T. and L. Council Deputation.

ASK FAIR-WAGE CLAUSE

And Access To Pay Sheets in Order To Check Up This Matter.

That school contractors under agreement to pay union wages had paid less than the union scale and pocketed the difference, was the charge made at a board of education meeting Tuesday afternoon by a deputation from the Trades and Labor Council. They asked that in future contracts of the board a fair wage clause be inserted, and that the pay sheets of the contractor be open to inspection in order to insure this being carried out.

R. H. Hessel, one member of the delegation, said the main object of this was to give the ratepayer what he paid for. He claimed to have pay envelopes from school contracts in which the rate paid was 28 cents to 30 cents an hour, while the amount stipulated in the contract was 40 cents an hour. Raymond Smith, another speaker, also claimed that certain employers had been agreeing to the clause and had not been living up to it.

"Do you know of any specific instances in which this has been done?" asked Trustee Wright.
"I am speaking of principles," replied Mr. Rowe.

Every citizen should protest against the proposal to have garbage placed at the curb. Examples.

Examples of inefficiency on the part of garbage collectors were cited as evidence that the curb system would make things even more impossible than they are now. One man in London North had not been around for garbage for two weeks, and when a housewife called to him to take away her refuse, he simply laughed and drove away, although A was only yet 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Another collector was known to leave for work at 8 in the morning, returning by 11, and again very early in the afternoon. DISPOSAL OF WHEAT

OTTAWA, March 2.—(By Canadian Press.)—The question of the disposal of Canadian wheat, which has been of Canadian wheat, which has been the subject of much discussion at farmers' conventions throughout the West, is to come up in the House to-morrow in the form of a question by P. Michaud, member for Victoria, N B. Mr. Michaud asks how many bushels of wheat were exported from Canada to the United States during 1919. What amount, if any, is, or was, due by Germany by way of war expenditure, and how much has been re funded to Canada is a question being asked tomorrow by E. B. Devlin of Wright. Mr. Devlin also asks what amount is due the Dominion from Great Dominion.

"Speaking in my own name and in that of the province of Quebec," Mr. Gauthier declared, "I will quote the words of one of our public men, who says that the province of Quebec is not in a state of mind to enter into any conference."

Mr. Gauthier continued: "The province of Quebec has been padly treated. It has been slandered, It is waiting for its hour. After that it will confer and not before."

The words brought Mr. Burnham to his feet. He demanded to know if they were intended as a threat.

"It is not a threat. It is a declaration." Mr. Gauthier called back.

Mr. Burnham again protested. "The difference between a threat and a declaration of that kind," he retorted, "is that the man who makes it is afraid to back it up."

"You have no right to insinuate that I am a coward," replied Mr. Gauthier. The Speaker intervened.

Mr. Burnham remarked that he was not attributing physical cowardice to Mr. Gauthier. "I am attributing to him Britain for advances of munitions and other war material.

Nothing to offer, no suggestions, no constructive vision, all these set aside and efrt turned to the task of hanging on to nowe against all odds.

Hon. Mr. King is justified in his criticism of the manner in which domestic issues are being subordinated. Is it nothing to the Government that distress follows from the excessive cost of ordinary maintenance today? Apparently they have been so busy negotiating an international agreement on opium that they forgot that Canadians might be lacking in ordinary necessities. A treaty with Bulgaria is tabled, but a dozen home problems are passed by. Evidently the Montreal Gazette was right, the country will the ministers have any energy, they will devote Take the combines, forcing all within their HAVE WE FILTSHED WITH COLD WINTERS? it to opium agreements and treaties with Bul- reach to surrender or be ruined. THE VIRTUE OF SAVING.

Mr. C. F. G. Masterman, the Asquithian Liberal, writes an article on the need of more, King's book is the following: not less, capital in the hands of individuals Saving, he urges, is the way to better things the one great saving virtue indeed, for society.

"No man, rich or poor, ever did harm to the present or the future by saving. It is not the unpopular capitalists among any class, but the popular spendthrifts among any class, that have the greater responsibility for the poverty of the world." That is wholesome truth. Those who spend their money recklessly on unnecessaries cause much labor to be diverted from the production of necessaries, so that less of these being produced, their price is enhanced and millions are pinched. In Canada we consume probably more candy, ice-cream and cake than we need. In Great Britain they cry out over the scarcity of sugar, but perhaps a bigger clamor would go up against a closing of the breweries which waste great loads of the article. People who don't drink beer or gormandize on candy and cake must nevertheless pay the high price: occasioned for sugar in necessary forms. "If all men, rich and poor alike," says Mr. Master man, "were to abandon all spending except on necessaries for a few generations, poverty might be abolished from the world." There would soon be a good many back on the farms. potatoes would be cheap, "and the world grow given they split even. The good of Adam Smith young again," as Shelley would say.

When you think over it, it seems as though smiths. true Christianity may consist in saving and denial for the encouragement and propagation of essential production. "There is no romance more fascinating in the annals of industrial economy and national olity, than the well-known story of James Watt and Adam Smith. Watt, the machinist, had been refused permission by the Hammersmiths of Glasgow to practice his trade in the city, because he was not a member of their privileged corporation. Smith, at the time professor of moral philosophy at Glasgow, gave him permission to establish a workshop within the buildings of the university. While Smith pursued his studies and wrote 'The Wealth of Nations.' Watt carried on experiments which demonstrated the power of steam, and led to the invention of the steam engine. The social outlook of the professor made possible the invention of the man he sought to befriend; and the invention of Watt, more than all else, made inevitable the spread of liberal doctrines which followed the publication of 'The Wealth of Nations.' In the case of Adam Smith and James Watt, the study and the laboratory combined to promote ideas and agencies which have furthered world-wide development of human intercourse, and which, as respects both industry and the state, have helped to substitute cosmopolitan for purely national ideals."

There is food here for much thought. The injustice of the Hammersmiths was averted by the justice of Adam Smith. Selfishness and self-conceit have not been confined to any class. According to a recent judicial decision the Prairie Provinces organized since Confederation have a right to establish such courts. Ontario and Quebec were united in the early days, and the latter, being strongly Catholic, prevented any provision being made for divorce. Marital troubles had to be ironed out before a Senate committee, and it depended very largely upon the members of this committee what disposition was made of a case. This opened the way to a possibility for graft, for none but a rich man uld afford the expense of getting a divorce. The cost is said to have run from $1,000 as a minimum

[By a Geologist, in London Daily Mail.]

The eccentricities of the weather, especially in regions of ice and snow, are precipitating a pretty quarrel among men of science, and we are all concerned in the dispute.

Old-fashioned weather is dead; and according to the newer view of the relation of our earth to the sun, this is no accident, but a certainty that can be prophesied. The one school asserts that warmer winters and cooler summers will prevail 2.000 years or so.

Let the facts come before the theories. It is beyond dispute that many glaciers are receding, growing smaller, shrinking toward their northern ome. You can trace their rather rapid retreat in witzerland, in Alaska, and toward both poles.

Time was, as we know, when the ice and snow were permanent at Durham and broken bits reached London. According to many geologists this was not so very long ago, only 6,000 or 7,000 years. Ever process is particularly rapid at present, because and the accumulation is at last breaking them up. perate period which follows the glacial or ice period cording to a definite formula.

What records there are of the weather itself, as well as the record of the rocks and remnants of evidence from prehistoric man, are very much in favor of the new theory. Indeed, the climatic discoveries made in the last expeditions to the South where ice is receding rapidly, suggest that the old ideas about the glacial epoch and the succeeding temperate epoch are wrong in certain essential points. So we come to the present dispute. It is this: The standard astronomical view is that the last ice age was at least 80,000 years ago, and that the change to a temperate period is too slow to mark in one man's lifetime. Incidentally, the astronomers have no explanation why ice should shrink at both poles simultaneously. In opposition to this, some geologists think that they have proof of a comparatively recent ice age. They are sure that within the last hundred or two hundred years the weather everywhere, with inevitable fluctuations, has been less extreme-warmer in winter, cooler in summer; and that what happens in the neighborhood of one pole also happens at the

Much of the evidence is quite new-of the last year or two-and, so the geologists assert, gives the lie to the standard view of the astronomers. They say: Facts do not support you. You must, therefore, change your theories."

They go further than this. They say that they have discovered a nineteenth century Newton. was known as Major-General Grayson; and he developed a simple and ingenious theory which enabled him, and has enabled his followers, to make some astoundingly accurate prophecies and calculations. At the time-nearly 50 years ago-he was "turned down" by the astronomers. But so mu that he said is supported by recent experience that his discovery has now been revived and is slowly gaining supporters all over the world.

Roughly, his view is that the earth has a double rotation, that it tilts more than astronomers hold, and that this tilt or "obliquity" changes more apidly. The more upright it is the warmer are the poles and the smaller the circle of ice. The more blique, the colder the poles and the warmer the equator. Whatever the truth, the view of the Graysonians demands an answer from the astro

Part Three.

One by one Betty brought her pupples out of the chicken coop and placed them down on the hot sand. She sighed in relief when she had them all safely placed, for they had been on a perilous journey. How far they had traveled she did not know. But Betty, like the wise dog she was, did not waste time thinking over the past, instead, she coaxed the pupples back to a place of safety, made them promise to stay there, and then went off in search of some food for them.

Betty's search was not a long one. A rabbit ran across her path, and in one spring she caught Mr. Rabbit, killed him, and carried him back to her little ones to feed upon. The rabbit was enough to satisfy their hunger. As soon as they had finished Betty went after something for herself to eat. She found some fish along the shore, and, as she had sense enough not to swallow the bones, devoured them.

At last Betty sighted a cave. Telling the pupples to stay where they were and wait for her, she hurried forward to investigate What a fine cave it was, she discovered, and what a comfortable bed of brush and dried grass was inside. It looked almost as if it had been prepared for them. There was a strange scent as if the place belonged to some other animal, but Betty was so tired and so anxious to find a restling place for her pupples, she paid little attention to this, and went back after her family. With everyone's hunger satisfied, there was only one more thing to do—that was to find a home or a nice resting place before night came on. Betty did not want to go to chicken coop again, for she feared the lake would carry it off, and she had enough of cruising. So, the old mother dog gathered her puppies about her and started off slowly in search of a place to sleep. The puppies were just before the groom. The bride looked very with navy hat to match and a set of look for the principal of the school, S. J. Newhouse.

GRAY-DORT Dealers Lead

Most good automobile dealers know motor cars inside and out. They've watched the business from its infancy. They've seen cars come and go. Above all they know motor car values. They have to.

You will find in practically every city and town in Canada, that the leading motor car dealer is a Gray-Dort dealer.

Every motor car dealer knows the reason for this. Every Gray-Dort owner knows the reason. The Gray-Dort offers unequalled value to motor car purchasers.

The $1365 WAR GRAY-DORT is Dominant Value

What other car at anywhere near $1365 offers you these Gray-Dort qualities?

A motor larger and finer than usual for light cars-316" bore and 5" stroke-built from flawless castings and tough, high-carbon steel-and finely finished. The crankshaft weighs 40 pounds. The radiator is cellular type and the water jackets are extra large. An improved carburetor marks this car, and a better electrical system. Starting and lighting are Westinghouse, as in the most There's over-strength in the Gray-Dort frame of heavy channel steel; in the husky, Chatham-built rear axle; in the long, cantilever rear springs; in the specially designed, new steering gear; in the big brakes, now lined with Thermoid. The front wheels now have roller bearings. There is a new gas tank-larger, and in the rear.

Convenience of riding and driving is in the Gray-Dort. The steering wheel is of the height and size for tireless driving. The gears can be shifted with two fingers' pressure. The horn, the ignition and light switches, the clutch and brakes, all are placed for greatest ease in

A shorter and smarter cowl now gives more room in the driving compartment. A new Gray-Dort feature has greatly increased the leg-room in the tonneau. Seats are tilted at just the proper angle for comfort. As in cars costing $2000 and upwards, the Gray-Dort now has side-curtains opening with the doors.

CLEAN-CUT GOOD-LOOKS

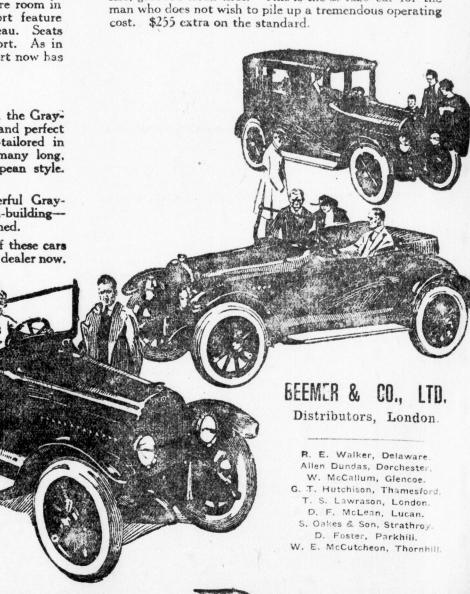

The Gray-Dort is not startlingly extreme, the Gray-Dort is a car of quiet beauty-smooth lines and perfect proportions. The smart, new top is hand-tailored in our own shops. The new hood, with its many long, narrow louvres lends just a touch of European style. French-pleated upholstery, too.

And completing the picture—the wonderful Gray-Dort finish—development of 60 years' coach-building applied by master craftsmen, Gray-Dort trained.

Unquestionably there will be a shortage of these cars at $1365. You had better see the Gray-Dort dealer now.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson minister of lands, forests and mines in the late the arst. Government, who formulated the soldiers' settlement policy was a witness today. Hon. Mr. Ferguson said he had chosen the site for the colony because of the excellent character of the soil there in the heart of the clay belt. He, was not at all pessimistic about the future of the colony. He had seen wheat fields there that had yielded 40 bushels to the acre, he said. He admitted that the seasons at Kapuskasing were shorter than those in Old Ontario.

Much of the dissatisfaction. he thought, was because many of the soldiers at the colony were not adapted to farming in a new country. He clalmed that the scheme should not be measured by the failures of the first two years even of the indebtedness of the settlers amounted to $47,700 as pointed out by the chairman of the commission, W. In the silence that followed this decisive plea, there was a faint snorting.

Let me allay your fears by telling you that for the last two hours I've been asleep—yes—actually without undressing—lying on top of the counterpane, on grand tenue! I was so beastly tired—" Miss Mary Higgins—that first-class mischief-maker—pushed her way into the room. The door was wide open so that we could see the whole of Alice's apartment.

"But the bed has never been iain on!" ejaculated little Higgins, with an air of innocent surprise that marked a genuine spite towards Alice. She pointed to the immaculate counterpane, and the smooth, undisturbed pillows, which bore no impress of a human head. "Maybe dear Mrs. Anstruther has been sleeping the formula of the impurities from the blood dear Mrs. Anstruther has been sleeping."

"She's asleep," he said, turning mechanically towards me, and ignoring Mary Higgins.

The latter tittered unpleasantly.
"Oh, but you must wake her up and tell her of the burglary. Dear Mr. Anstruther, Alice would never forgive you if she missed all the fun and excitement. Who knows"—here she tittered again—learning without any other covering? Andear Mrs. Anstruther—where's your scarf."

A queer, scared look was on her pretty face.

Alice started idlocy. He turned and strode into his own room, and we could hear him try the communicating door which led into the apartment of his wife.

It, too, was locked.

He came out again into the passage. He looked intensely worried.

"I can't make Alice hear. Helene, d'you think she's ill?"

"Why, no, you silly man. She's probably asleep." Inwardly I thought nothing of the sort. But I wanted to allay his fears. I rapped smartly on the door, "Alice, where art thou?" I clianted, with a gaiety I was far from feeling.

Still no answer.

"Oh, it's somewhere in the room."

"No. I think you'll find it downstairs," said Mary Higgins, smiling grimly.

"Then I'll run down and get it—and hear the latest developments in this thrilling burglary." Alice laid a hand on her husband's arm and nodded to me it join them.

The three of us descended, with May Higgins following. The latter reminded me of a cruel, determined little weasel, I knew she intended to see this affair to a finish.

If looks could kill, Alice would most certainly have slain the little spinster!

But swallowing down her anger, she turned abruptly to her husband.

"What on earth's the matter? Why have you all come here?"

It seemed to me there was a world of worry and anxiety in his eyes as he made answer:

"There's been an attempted burglary in the house. Someone tried to rob the money you paid him for it. We know money you paid him for it. We know no stronger argument for any medicine than the willingness of those who sell it to stand back of it in this way.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC PRETTY WELL OVER, SAYS THE M. O. H.

The Emergency Hospital Will Probably Be Closed.

SALARY INCREASES

Recommended For All Em. ployees But Dr. Downham _Latter Asks $4,000.

Dr. W. S. Downham, medical health officer for the city of London, expressed the opinion at the meeting of the board of health on Tuesday afternoon that the influenza epidemic in this city was "pretty well over." There even was talk of closing the Ottaway avenue emergency hospital, which now contains 80 influenza patients. In all probability action along this line will be taken, and the hospital, which is a wing of Victoria Hospital, will be handed over to the hospital trust.

Except in a few cases, including that of Dr. Downham the board will recommend to the city council that the salaries of all its employees be advanced 20 per cent. The medical health officer, who is receiving $2,500 per year, is asking $4,000 for 1920. The board would not support this, as it was thought that the city council would not support this, as it was thought that the city council would turn it down. Dr. Downham stated that if he did not receive the amount asked he would follow the example of the Hamilton official did this, and was granted $5,000 per annum. Dr. Downham said that members of his profession who had a private practice were earning as much as $5,000 a year, some of them having as many as 51 calls each day during the past month.

Evidently the members of the board expect that there will be an increase in the death-rate of canine citizens this year is it has placed $25 in its estimates for burying the "faithful." Last year this service cost $14.25.

One thousand dollars was voted for the venereal diseases clinic. The provincial health department will add a like sum to this.

In 1919 the total estimates were $12,02.62 and the expenditure $11. Service cost $14.25.
