Montreal, Nov. 27 .- Apart from the negro problem in the south and the Oriental question in the west, the two great evils which must be fought in the United States today are the Hearst press and the Ku Klux Klan, according to James Morton Jun. of New York, who addressed the members of the Reform Club at their weekly luncheon on Saturday.

In dealing with "race prejudice a menace to civilization," the speaker chiefly dwelt on the problems of his own country; but he also spoke of recent political happenings elsewhere, notably in Italy, where, he said, the large number of Armenian orphans to Fascisti have carried out a coup Canada was indorsed by a large d'état which has direct results.

Mr. Morton's solution to the racial problem was the breakdown of the language barriers by the universal teaching of Esperanto.

ADVISE PACKING

Speakers at Meeting of Apiarists Urged Better Care of Colonies.

F. W. Crouse of Guelph, the wellknown apiarist, addressed the Middlesex Beekeepers' Association their regular meeting Saturday afternoon in the County Buildings, taking as his subject "Permanent Packing."

Eight years of experimenting. Mr. rouse said, had proved to him the value of this systtem of protecting the hives, the three chief benefits being a more even temperature, not so much swarming, and more honey. The year 1914 was bad for bees, yet he found that colonies which were by permanent packin gave on the average 35 pounds of honey, while the colonies that were inpacked averaged about ten pounds Again, the permanent packing aved a great deal of work and labor.

There were no hives to carry into the cellar every spring and out out again every spring. cedar, he said, as he found it the best and most suitable wood to stand exposure to the weather. He used seven-eighths of an inch boards, while the packing between the outer and inner case was usually dried for-

Cork shavings were ideal for this purpose, being damp-resisting and mouse-proof, but the price had so much increased in late years as to render its use impossible.

Last Long Time. The cost of these cases was about 4 for each hive, but they lasted a long time, some of the cases on his place being sixteen years old, and Still remaining dry and serviceable During the last ten years, Mr Crouse claimed he had a record of less than three per cent of his colonies in hives that were permanently packed swarm, which had also averaged from five to ten pounds honey than the colonies that were not packed greatest enemy of bees were skunks, he said. Their presence irritated the bees, and prevented them going out and working, and a means that he had found efficacious was to set a rat trap near the hives, then the bees invariably killed any skunks that were caught by stinging them around the head. This was a handy method, and had the advantage of being an odorless way of getting rid of these pests. Mr. Crouse answered a number of questions asked by the members, and

On one occasion he had bought 60 very handsome queens; they were won derful layers, but their colonies had averaged about five dollars' worth less honey than the colonies of his own Trades and Labor Council and the queens. He did not believe that a very prolific queen meant a strong,

Mr. Morrison Is Wrong.

It is hard to understand what J. J. Morrison hopes to gain by his attitude toward newspapers in general. He has prepared his report for the year covering the operations of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, and that report will show that there can be no dividend paid because business conditions have not been favorable to such a desirable culmination of the year's activities. Then it is that Mr. Morrison goes

"All this has an effect upon the U. F. Co-operative Company, and it, like many others, cannot pay a dividend this year. Of course, this fact will receive great prominence in the will receive great prominence in the press, that is, that portion of the

As a matter of fast, newspapers know very well how many of their contemporaries have gone out of business. Every newspaper failure is recorded and reported and freely commented on. There is nothing covered up, and in the majority of cases the publisher freely admits that the cost of business has been too great for him to carry on, and he

To accuse the Conservative party with intent to stir up religious strife would bring forth mighty denials. But if it does not suggest just that, what does it suggest? Hon. Rufus Pope, Hon. James Calder and Senator Robertson, shattered idols of the Tory regime, are the three wise men who have been transported to Lanark to tell the people how to vote. Lanark County has long been a stronghold of Toryism. Lanark has been great battling ground even from the days of Confederation. The month for short term subscriptions.

one exception until 1917, when a supporter of the Union government was returned. The late Hon. J. A. Stewart won the contest in 1918 by acclamation, and in the last contest came back as a Conservative. The riding has been noted for small majorities, the Conservatives winning in 1900 by 7, and in 1908 by only 6 votes.

South Lanark never had a Liberal representative, and in the 12 elections and three by-elections from Confederation, Conservatives won every time. The two Lanarks were altered under the redistribution bill of 1914 and made into one riding.

Reports from that territory indicate that the trend of popular feeling is changing.

Results in the four preceding byelections show that the Conservative party has lost no inconsiderable amount of its old-time confidence. One election in Halifax found two Liberals running. In Quebec a similar situation existed. Prior to their defeat in 1921 the Conservaives would have contested these ridings to the last ditch.

The Evening Story

SUN PARLOR AND NO PANTRY Joan gazed bleakly out at the Ordinarily the shining expanse of moonlighted ripples would have given her a vast amount of pleasure, but tonight even a flight of snowy birds against the chill blue of the frosty sky left her unmoved. She had had her first quarrel with her fiance, and she was experiencing the usual reaction after losing her

"If he cared anything about me," she reflected, trying to justify her-self, "he would want me to select our nome." Even then, with the know-edge that they had broken the just ledge that they had broken the just culminated engagement, Joan flushed deeply at the magic words, "our home." The lonely girl had known nothing of home life, for she had spent her girlhood years in various institutions. Perhaps it was because of the bitter poverty that she had known; possibly it was merely the thoughtlessness of youth. Anyway, she had had distorted ideas of Gerald's position in life. He earned only a fair salary as head bookkeeper, but ald's position in life. He earned only a fair salary as head bookkeeper, but already he had money invested in bonds. He planned to work hard and get along, so that when he became middle-aged he would own his own home and have a bank account. So when Joan had told him of the house she had set her heart upon, he had at first stared at her incredulously, and later, when she had clung to her idea heatedly, refused point blank to contemplate the purchase.

Gerald sat in his boarding-house room thinking. He longed to give in and make up, but he knew that if he started their married life extravagantly there would be scant pleasure for either of them. He had found a frame house—really a cottage of five rooms—that seemed to him the epitome of hominess. Low wide rooms, with an old-fashioned bay window in the dining-room. Rambling verandas around half of the first floor and around bales there. first floor and ample closet-room.

The pantry was a spacious affair, with an outside window. Gerald had often heard his sisters, in moving from flat to flat after the migratory fashion of city people, remark about the importance of pantries and venti-lation for them: "If we bought that flimsy stucco affair we would have there are street assessments coming due in six months, and there isn't a tree on the place. I know Joan would be fretted at the economies we would have to practice keep up those payments, but all she can think about is the modern sun-parlor on the poorly-built house. The pantry is a mere niche in the wall and perfectly dark. If we started out in life in that it seems to me that it would be symbolical—all sunparlor and no pantry. I thought we would have a real home, not a place to entertain. Perhaps I am mistaken in Joan, after all. I thought her a lovely home-loving girl, but if she only cares for display, why——" Restlessly unable to keep his mind or the book he held unseeingly before him, Gerald snatched his hat and went for a walk. He and Joan board sult of the extra blood supply, the glands of the lining membrane are overactive, and the secretions are increased.

"No, Miss Miller is out." The over-dressed young lady smiled at him mischievously. "I'm afraid somebody has cut you out. This is a lovely night to walk—such romantic moonlight." Coaxingly her voice trailed upward, and her really fine blacy eyes lingered on him hope

Gerald backed down the steps hastily. A moment's hesitation would have given him a companion for his walk. She had not said that Joan had gone out with another man, but she most certainly implied this, and the young fellow stalked moodily oughening lake into troubled silver shone bleakly on the unshaded stucce house with the pretentious sun par-for that Joan had set her heart upon. The trees in the park were flaunting red and gold leaves, for de-spite the crisp wind the summer had but barely merged into fall. It might have been winter, however, in the narrow lot that had no grass, shrubbery or trees. The contractor had not seeded the ground, and as the mer, the place was very unattractive, owing to the sun-baked earth that was now becoming strewn with rub-bish from adjoining places. The more Gerald stared at the pretentious little place that lacked foundation, the more dejected he be-came. "If this is her ideal of a home, we would not be congenial," he mut tered, and went on to the house h tered, and went on to the house he had chosen.

Turning a corner quickly, he came upon a bird's nest that had fallen from a near-by tree. "They are through with it," he thought, whimsically. "I want a permanent home, and," he added, with a trace of stubornness, "a real pantry. The pantry is an important part of the home The little gate creaked with a jolly ter of little consequence.

The was 60 feet in front, leaving for a grape arbor and an old-fash-ioned flower garden. The house cost much less than the modern stucco and was solidly built. Taking the key lent him by the agent, Gerald went in through the still rooms. The low, wide rooms, lighted by the moonlight, struck him with a poig-nant sense of loss. This little home embodied his dreams, but he could fancy nobody but Joan as mistress. The set of her scarlet lips as she had refused to compromise on the pantry instead of the sun parlor, the sweep of her glossy black hair as it waved back from her frank forehead, the disappointed expression in her dark eyes that he had caught before she had curtained them with swift she had curtained them with switch white lids, all haunted him, and he white lids, all haunted him, and he regretted his quick temper, whad flared instantly in response. LEADLEY'S FIELD GOAL IN LAST MINUTE WINS

Conacher, Though He Made All Points, Fumbled At Critical Times-Argo Line Was Held Tight.

Varsity Stadium, Nov. 25.—Queen's battling team came into its own today, and by defeating Argonauts, 12 to 11, in the Canadian rugby semi-final, earned the right to meet Edmonton Eskimos next Saturday, in the hardest-fought game in years. They came from behind to blemish the record of the undefeated Argonauts. Leadley and his taleated toe won the game for the Tricolor. His drop goal in the final moments of the context broke through Argos' two-point lead, and placed the lion-hearted Presbyterians in the lead by a solitary point, which they held to the finish. Leadley previously had broken away to a forty-five yard run, the longest of the day. Queen's deserved the victory by as much as they won it.

The crowd numbered 16,367, and that was actual paid admissions and did not include touchline and press badges, which would add some few hundred more. The receipts totalled $16,056.45, setting a new mark in rugby by several thousand dollars.

Queens Sidestep

Welcome

Kingston, Nov. 26. — Several thousand people turned out this afternoon to welcome home Queen's team after their victory over the Argonauts in Toronto on Saturday, but they were much disappointed, as they did not get a chance to cheer the victors. The train pulled into the inner G. T. R. station to a lively Scotch air played by the kitties of the 14th Regiment, and the crowd were standing on their toes to give the players a reception. After the crowd had waited impatiently for some time, Mayor Corbett and others went into the carto investigate, but they found it

Queen's Bad Margin. In the first period in spite of playing against the wind, Queens had a good margin on the play, their superiority on the line being a big factor. They plunged for good gains, and when Leadley, Batstone and Harding got working they made their presence known Argos stone and Harding got working they made their presence known. Argos kicked frequently, having the wind behind them, and Conacher held his own fairly well, and it was tough luck that his fumble helped Queens in their scoring. He tried to make a running catch early in the game, but fumbled, and Queens secured. A quick line gave Leadley a chance to boot the ball over for a rouge.

Argos crashed into a tricolor and worked the ball down the field, and Conacher put the locals into the lead with a drop from 20 yards out. Queens than asserted themselves and brought the scullers down the field, a couple of penalties, and Argos fumbles helping the tricolor, and Conacher was twice forced to rouge before the quarter ended.

The visitors showed a much better balanced team than did the Big Four champions, and used a variety of plays, while Argos depended chiefly on Conny and his kick. Whenever Queens elected to kick they selected Conny as the target, and he was worked to death on both the offensive and defensive. Argos, in the second quarter, did not have a break, while the tricolor seemed to get them continually.

Argos got within striking distance of Queens when Batstone was forced to rouge. McCurry made a pretty run on the end of the Argos' half run, he making 30 yards after taking the ball. The officials had a problem when Queens had lost 20 yards on the first two downs, and Argos were penalized 15 for offside on the third. This left Queens five yards short, but Simpson finally gave them the third down with five yards to go.

HARVARD DEFEATS GET NEW LONDON HOCKEY W.F.A. CLOSES BEST ASSOCIATION STARTED

Most Representative Meeting Ever Held in City Gets To Work Over Week-End-Two Committees Named.

Connecticut hills tonight may be heard the yelping of the Yale buildogs.

Favored in the dope, favored in the betting and playing on his home field, he was neverthless crushed by the crimson sons of John Harvard, 10 to 3.

Just as the buildog was expected to chew up the Princeton tiger, and failed, so was the big blue team expected to master Harvard. But in both cases

London's amateur hockey association was given a shove down the ways at a meeting held in the Alert rooms over the week-end, which included representatives from every organization and social club in the city from the chamber of commerce down, and was probably the most representative hockey gathering ever held in the history of the city.

A meeting Wednesday night at the chamber of commerce rooms at 8 o'clock, at which reports from nominating and constitutional committees by clubs, and a general meeting again on Friday night, at which the new hockey body will be launched, about sums up the whirlwind campaign to produce unity in London hockey circles and start an administration of affairs by clubs, and a general meeting again on Friday night, at which the new hockey body will be launched, about sums up the whirlwind campaign to produce unity in London hockey circles and start an administration of affairs that will make itself felt when the time becomes opportune to start the ball rolling for an arena rolling for an arena. Meeting Is Unit. "Buster" Reid, delegate from the chamber of commerce, presided over the meeting. Various speakers out-lined the reasons why they believed a London hockey association was a vital need in London under the present circumstances, and at the same time paying tribute to the Abersame time paying tribute to the Alert club, who had sponsored the move.

It was pointed out that although the clubs had handled hockey in London Owen then kicked goal.

After a series of rushes in the third period, Pfaffman was hustled into the game for Harvard. The ball was on Yale's 20-yard line. Pfaffman booted it over for a drop kick, and three more points. sentative group of the community than any one club. sthe Western Football Association ever had. This fact was disclosed at an executive meeting Saturday, when secretary-Treasurer D. Forsyth presented a statement showing that there was a balance on hand of $560. The intermediate section drew exceptionally well. The juniors also did well, but the senior and Hough Cup series did not realize much in the way of finances. A committee, consisting of President H. W. Brown, D, Forsyth and Messrs. Fiebig, Elliott and Campbell, was appointed to bring in recommendations for the annual meeting of the association, which will again be held in Kitchener on Good Friday. This committee will endeavor to consolidate the series and make the senior section better by inducing some of the better intermediate clubs to play senior.

St. Jeromes was snowed under, literally and figuratively, by Jack Newton's Sarnia C. I. huskies at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon by a score of 26 to 0. The struggle was carried on and through a field covered with snow eight inches deep on the level and in drifts in the hollows, through which the ball carriers plunged like young steam snowplows. As the game progressed the underfooting became more precarious and hummocky and fumbles of the wet, cold clammy pigskin by both sides became more frequent, and runners slipped, skated and slid to the ground as tacklers tried to reach them. St. Jeromes looked like pigmies beside the big border lads, but they fought back hard against their weightier opponents and had them held 6 to 0 at half time. Sarnia clearly had the edge, under any conditions, but during the first half their own weight seemed to slow them down, while the lighter St. Jeromes crew made some fine gains. n'meing and squirming through the standard and squirming through the serious conditions.

Passes Perfect.

The border outfit made impressive gains through the St. Jeromes line, but it was their running-passing plays, accurate and perfectly timed, even on the slippery going and with a soggy greasy ball, that gave them a victory which sends them one step nearer another championship.

St. Jeromes kicked off, and Hanna took the plgskin for a 40-yard run before Patrilack brought him down. Hayes then booted an onside kick to the right wing and the ball was kicked over from the ground, without being picked up, for a rouge. Passes Perfect.

St. Jeromes came back strong and took their heavy opponents down the line in a succession of bucks, but were finally stopped in mid-field. Jim Woodcroft, who has been the mainstay of the Kitchener team all year, pulled off a 30-yard run here, which would undoubtedly have gone for a try on a fast field, as this boy is the personification of speed. fast field, as this boy is directly fast field, as this boy is the speed.

Play in the second quarter centered around the St. Jeromes goal and much see-saw business ensued until Hanna, the Sarnia left half, got away for an end run, which resulted in a touchdown.

Dempsey Says He'll Meet Wrestler

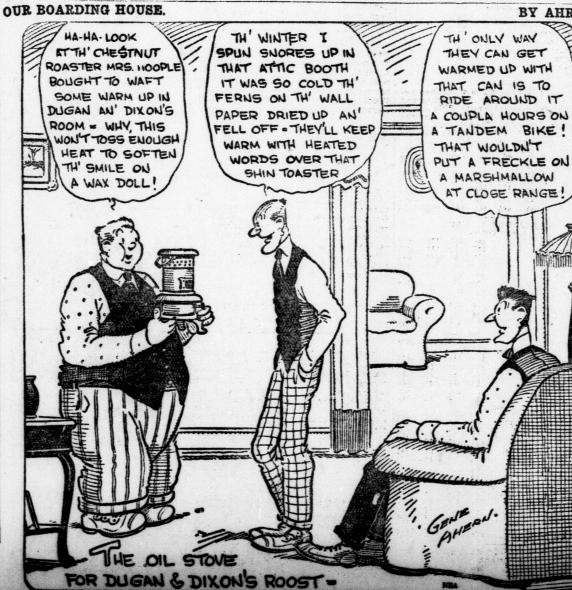

Chicago Nov. 26.—Jack Dempsey announced here today that he had accepted the offer of Al H. Woods, theatrical producer, for a mixed bout with Ed ("Stranger") Lewis and for fights with boxers yet to be named. The terms for the three matches are understood to approximate one million dollars. The place for the matches has not been fixed, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, said, but he indicated that Jersey City and New York were being considered. Jersey City and New York were being considered.

The first match will be in three months, Kearns indicated. Harry Wills, the negro fighter, and Joe Bockett are being considered as Dempsey's opponents for the second and third matches, he said. Dempsey and Kearns passed through Chicago today en route for Sait Lake City. Kearns said they would return east in about three weeks, when plans for the bouts are to be completed.

PUT QUIETUS ON N.O.H.A. SENIOR GROUP PLANNED

North Bay, Nov. 25.—The Advertiser learned today that the attitude of A. F. Brigham, general manager of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, and R. A. McInnes, general manager of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, have definitely placed the quietus on any possibility of a senior N. O. H. A. group comprised of Iroquois Falls, Timmins, Sudbury and Saut Ste. Marie this season. It is now known that they have told the players who are in their employ that if they leave for a week at a time, as such a grouping would mean, they would be without jobs in the respective mills when they return.

JURY FINDS DILTS SLAIN BY BECKETT

Accused's Counsel Appeals For Mental Examination in Welland Case.

Welland, Nov. 26 .- Sitting at Peln Centre Saturday afternoon. coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Dwight Dilts, a Pelham farmer, who was beaten to death in his barn on Thursday morning, came to his death at the hands of Charles H. W. Macoomb, counsel for Beckett, asked Coroner Davis to allow him to bring evidence as to Beckett's mental condition, but was refused mental condition, but was refused permission. Coroner Davis ruled that this evidence could be submitted in later developments.

Provincial Constable Gurnett told of arresting Beckett and getting his admission that he had "a bit of a scuffle" with Dilts. The trouble started when Beckett complained to Dilts that Americans had done him out of money while he was working. out of money while he was working across the line. Dilts replied that Beckett was probably to blame, and Beckett said he struck him then. Beckett admitted that he might have used the whiffle-tree which battered Dilt's head to a pulp.

No Stove, Kindles Fire in Pan, Dies by Suffocation

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 26.—Isaac Sammons, colored, who must have been nearly 100 years old, was suffo-cated last night in a shack in which

FIRE IN STATION TIES UP TRAFFIC

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 26.—Traffic on all railroads entering this city is halted by a fire which is sweeping through the north station. The blaze, which started shortly after five oclock, had destroyed the waiting-room at six o'clock. The alarms summoned apparatus from all sections of the city.

EARTH TREMORS AGAIN ROCK CHILEAN TERRITORY

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 26.—A strong series of earth tremors has shaken a very considerable area along the Chilean coast, covering largely the zone which suffered most from the earthquakes of two weeks ago.

A strong shock was felt here at 8:50 this morning; it lasted about a minute and did no damage.

This one-armed worker, busy tamping with a steel bar, did not know he was being photographed when

The Proof That Wenige Is No Friend of Labor

When HARD TIMES broke on the EVE of CHRISTMAS, 1921, the Soldiers' Aid Commission had a register of 400 DOWN-AND-OUT UNEMPLOYED, and the city to spare its citizens the humiliation of the CHARITY OFFICE, put scores, unused to pick and shovel, to work on sewer construction. Ald G. A. Wenige ATTACKED these city laborers in written charges for "STALLING, LOAFING AND BUMING."

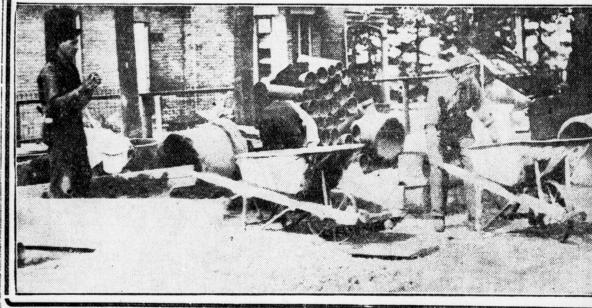

As a sample of LABORERS he would FIRE for "INEFFICIENCY," he photographed this man who laid down his shovel for a moment to light a cigarette, and this ONE-ARMED MAN fighting an UPHILL BATTLE for an HONEST LIVING. These photographs, put in as evidence in the case of Wenige vs the Workingman, are herewith re-

Engineer Brazier reported: "That the man complained of was quite capable, and had been employed previously by two contractors, one of whom stated he would gladly give him employment. The foreman states that he is a good workman and continuously employed and able to do his share of the work."

And because Wenige was not then mayor, the city council refused to act on the Wenige complaint; and the one-armed worker went on with his job, hoeing his own row and

How Flour, Feed and Grain sales are increased by Long Distance

Some quotations from recent reports:

"I use Long Distance entirely in my business (Hay and Grain). Sales are made quicker and with less expense than by travelling. Since yesterday I sold 2 cars of grain."

"I sold 10,000 jute sacks on which my commission was $100.00 at an expense of $2.80 for L. D. calls."

"I sold 3 customers in between $10,000 and $11,000 at a cost of 45 cents for Long Distance—a little over the price of two cigars."

"We regularly make Long Distance sales to customers from carload lots before placing orders for same."

"We accept reverse Long Distance calls on orders from customers."

ECONOMIC MATERIALISM. This is the second article of a series written exclusively for The Advertiser, and the sixty-eight other members of the North American Newspaper Alliance by Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France,"—Editor's Note.

BY GEORGES CLEMENCEAU. Europe is sick. The world is sick. Everywhere is economic disequilibium. Each one is complaining Germany, in declaring a "fresh and oyous" war, decided that this should e so. First comes the labor crisis. An immense decrease in working power; 9,000,000 of dead and 30.000 .-000 of wounded. A crisis also of labor suppressed by the mobilization To Friends in Galt for war purposes of 70,000,000 men. People are amazed at the universal trouble. Yet whenever was there so decisive a cause?

Next comes the crisis of raw material. The war destroyed without creating. For France alone, from steel, 14,000,000 shells were manufactured. While less was being produced more was being consumed and nothing went to replace in human nothing went to replace in human activity what the battlefield absorbed. Then there follows the crisis of personal property. On the one hand, the devastation of war—houses, factories, railways destroyed; on the other, the work neglected owing to above frontiers, which Europe is above frontiers, which Europe is The congregation was comprised activity what the battlefield absorbof his admirers from a wide circumed. The budgetary crisis came to a head everywhere in 1922, even among the richest in the land. Deficits on all sides-in France four milliards, not counting pensions and reparations. private property. Crisis Hits All Countries. This many-sided economic crisis hits all countries, some in the form Warsaw, Nov. 26.—Final returns of strikes, others in the rendering of the senatorial elections show that worthless of their money. It assails the mass and individuals. Finance ministers are obsessed by it and the man in the street cannot ignore it. That is why, very naturally, this particular feature in the general chaos has preoccupied us above all others. Yet we have not stopped to ponder whether these material phe-nomena are not profoundly related to moral and political factors. Peoe have preferred to study them by themselves, and to find a direct remedy expressing itself in a ma-

Iron and coal should rule far more than plebiscites. Need I recall the effect of this thesis, as manifested in Upper Silesia and elsewhere since 1920? All the revisioning and non-application of the treaties of 1919 have aided or can aid toward a revival of directly inspired by it. Even now the "brilliant" results accruing a thing as possible?

The system of Mr. Keynes seems to be a negation of all the ideals which inspired and formed the motor power of the allied and associated nations during their common waging of the

The Collapse of Solidarity. If economic interests demand that Germany shall emerge intact from the catastrophe unloosed by her crime, then the big criminal nations of his-tory are forever assured impunity, since, in the event of their coup failing, the common interest demands that they shall be rehabilitated in their former position. Against this those people who happen to be economically weak never will be able to come to the surface politically. It is the old doctrine of Buelow and von Jegow, "Woe to the feeble." This theory has had some success because it was thought that it would remedy the difficulties of the ent. It was propaganded, vulgarized, developed by millions of men in the United States, in England, in the neutral countries and among the former enemy peoples. And, on the pretext of economic solidarity, the victors were invited to forego their victory and to repudiate the peace they made. One curious point: Those who preached this doctrine had not discovered its virtues on the morrow of the armistice. At that time, on the contrary, they refused to adopt it.

At the close of 1918 there was economic solidarity. It had been slowly. United States, in England, in the

I have not the intention to discuss in detail what is known as the debt problem. I will confine myself to remarking that if payment of debt is an obligation of honesty, such obligation should be as imperious for Germany as for all other countries. as for all other countries. Quite a lot of people don't seem to reason that, when they lavish advice on peoples who are creditors of the country which Lord Balfour chrisened with spirit three months ago the greatest international debtor." I fail to see which part of the world has undergone improvement as a result of the materialistic thesis of Mr. Keynes.

I see, on the contrary, signs almost everywhere of the supplementary trouble which that thesis has cretrouble which that thesis has created. That thesis which demands a revision of the treaties has propagated in effect a feeling of insecurity throughout the world. In other times once a treaty was signed, one executed it. That has all been changed. Lord Bryce has written that democratic form of government developing itself runs the risk becoming irreconcilable to an honoring of international engagements. 'ee years which we have in lived through would seem to justify his deduction—if, however, it had been demonstrated that democracy

Do you think that when he reads the Turkish papers today—papers which daily announce the fact that when Constantinople is the fact that when Constantinople is given back to victorious Turkey there will be no more place for a special regime of guarantees in favor of Christians—do you think that that businessman would not be sorry that he had placed such confidence in the word of the governments?

As a fact, such instability manifests itself almost everywhere, bringing in its train the same insecurity. No one in Europe is certain of the immediate political future. Practivant he had been, was the prophet of this conception.

CHILDS NAILS A CANARD.

CHILDS NAILS A CANARD.

Electors at Talbot street school on Saturday evening put their foot down firmly on a youth who has been campaigning in the interests of Ald. Childs' opponent, in interrupting meetings and attempting to furnish some color of truth to support allegations made in an anonymous pamphlet. In referring to the pamphlet at Saturday's meeting Ald. Childs' opponent stated that "it had got around." Despite the fact that Ald. Childs had stated publicly in the presence of his opponent that he knew nothing of the youth or the circumsances of his dismissal, the statement was repeated and published, and for that reason Mr. Childs procured from the city records the true facts of the case. It was shown from the records that the youth had been hired by the garbage department, but because of alleged inattention to his duties and unsatisfactory service he had been dismissed before completing his probationary period. Then when emergency sewer construction work was undertaken for the aid of the unemployed, he was placed on the register and out of ten shifts for which he was called to work, the report showed he worked but three, falling to report or coming late on all other days. The interrupter, discomfitted by the exposure, ceased fire, while the crowd laughed heartily, and called on the chairman to proceed to serious business. Ald. Childs has been distinguished since his boyhood for fairness and square dealing, and the unfair weapons used against him have but served to swell the ranks of his supporters.

WHO CHILDS IS.

Alderman Childs is a British subject, Canadian born, and a life-long resident of the city of London. An honest and successful busi-ness career and years of unselfish public service, freely given in the interests of this city, together with his recent training in civic work as a member of the city council in 1920, and as chairman of the finance committee of the city council in 1921, truly qualifies him to fill the mayor's chair for 1923.

Probably Alderman Childs' real strength lies in his ability to com-mayors chair for 1928.

Probably Alderman Childs' real strength lies in his ability to command the respect and sincers co-operation of the several heads of departments during his period of service as a public servant of the

The Tax Rate is a question that always receives great prominence during municipal election campaigns and oft-times wonderful self-elected reformers, such as Alderman Childs' opponent in this campaign, will promise great reductions in the tax rate, although they have little knowledge of the real facts which control civic expenditures, nor have they any constructive plans to offer that will bring about the much-desired result—a lower tax rate and a reduction in the actual taxes to be paid by the citizens.

Every thinking citizen knows that these wild promises are seldom, if ever, carried out, and the men who talk the most about them before election day have usually proved the least effective when they have been called upon to administer the affairs of the municipality.

Discharging the officials of the city hall wholesale and hiring a Discharging the officials of the city hall wholesale and hiring a new gang of inexperienced individuals to take their places is not likely to save the citizens of London any money.

Alderman Childs' business training, his unusually firm but tactful methods of developing the best in those with whom he has been called upon to work with, is admittedly more likely to bring about the desired results than would the rash acts of inexperienced persons who claim to know so much about modern civic administration.

The men and women employed by the City of London are London citizens and British subjects, who may be depended upon to give their best to the city which they are so proud to serve, and Alderman Childs' policy of co-ordination of the spending bodies, together with the heads of the different city departments under his able leadership, is more likely to bring about the much-desired reduction in taxes than would any of the untried theories so far suggested by his opponent.

WHY LONDON NEEDS CHILDS.

WHY LONDON NEEDS CHILDS.

Alderman Childs has publicly stated that he favors the municipalizing of the London Street Railway, because he firmly believes it is the only way in which the citizens of London can put an end to the intolerable street railway service which they have been compelled to endure for the past twenty-three years. The street railway franchise period ends in the year 1925, and the citizens by their vote on Monday, Dec. 4, must decide whether they wish to cancel the franchise at the end of the period and take control of such part of the system as will be required to rehabilitate the line and build up under municipal ownership the *best electric street railway system on the North American continent, or continue for another eight years to allow the foreign owners of this railway to rob the citizens of London and refuse to give them adequate electrical transportation facilities, such as a growing city should demand.

The Bunnell report distinctly points out that the amount to be paid to the Street Railway Company under the arbitration plan, provided for by the terms of Bylaw 916, should not exceed at the most $900,000, so that by far the larger part of the $2.500,000, which the report declares will be required to put the street railway in first-class shape and to extend the lines to the different parts of the city in order to give proper service, will be spent by the commission for new and modern equipment and the building of new lines.

It should be further pointed out that the moneys required for the purchase and rebuilding of the London Street Railway System will not cost the citizens of London one dollar by way of increased tax rate or taxes to be paid, as the revenue received will be sufficient to carry the entire burden of interest and sinking fund on the total capital outlay, as well as to pay for the general operating expenses of the road.

Alderman Childs favors a general curtailment of expenditures of the road.

Alderman Childs favors a general curtailment of expenditures of all public bodies controlled in any way by the city council, and he promises to make "economy" the watchword for the year 1923 if he is elected to the mayor's chair.

Alderman Childs is deeply interested in the Children's Playground and will in any ways possible appropriate the children's playground.

Alderman Childs is deeply interested in the Children's Playground program and will in every way possible encourage clean, healthful recreation and sports, and will do his utmost to support the plans of those organizations who are undertaking this kind of public service. Alderman Childs has proven himself to be a steady-headed, sound executive, and an administrator who will not be rushed into wild untried schemes that would likely be attempted by his rash, impulsive opponent who is seeking the highest honor at the disposal of the citizens of this city.

Elect Alderman Childs mayor of the City of London for 1923 and you will insure a continuance of the steady growth, progress and prosperity that this city has had the privilege to enjoy during the past decade.

Club Decide to Establish Fund

To Help Western Men. subscribe a fund to be known as the "Rotary Loan Fund for Western University Students," the objective to be

$5,000. One quarter of this fund will be raised this year, and the remainder during the next three years at the rate of not more than 25 per cent each year. Blank subscription forms were signed at the meeting, and it was stated that eight or ten $100 ubscciptions were already in.
Rotarian C. B. King, chairman of he Education Loan Fund Committee, submitted the report of the com-mittee, and after the careful consideration of the members, it was adopted with one amendment. The clause No. 7, appearing below, was changed to allow the committe in charge of the fund the privilege of extending the time for repayment until the second year after graduation, because of the fact that the first

"The following recommendations are made to cover the subject in a general way, believing it wiser to leave further details to the proposed loan fund committee:

"That such a loan fund, to be known as the "Rotary Loan Fund for Western University Students," be established, beginning with approximately $5,000

mately $5,000.
That the London and Western Trust Company be made trustees of the fund by a trust deed setting forth the terms and conditions under which the fund is to be administered. That this fund be administered by a Rotary loan fund committee to be appointed by the Rotary board of directors. This committee is to consist of five members, to be appointed for a five-year term, except that the members of the first committee shall be appointed for 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years, respectively, so that one membership on the committee will expire Must Be Approved.

No application for a loan from the fund shall be granted unless such application is approved by officials to be designated by the Western University and by the Rotary Loan Fund Committee; the purpose of this provision being to confine assistance to students whose character and ability are such as to justify the aid given them. That interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum be charged for the That the student's honor be sufficient security if other security is not available, and that the death hazard be covered by insurance, the cost of same to be included in the loan. That the loans are to be repaid by the students at rates not less than 10 per cent of student's earnings after leaving the university.

That in the event of the disbanding of the local Rotary Club the de-tails of administration pass to the control of the Western University, subject to the provision that the fund be maintained unless wiped out through unavoidable misfortune. That a report of the activities of the Rotary loan fund committee be made to this club every three months.

That any changes in the above provisions be subject to the approval of the Rotary Club only after due notice of motion in writing. The $5,000 mentioned as the objective of this fund will not all be required at once, and the suggestion of your committee is, that subscriptions be made on a four-year basis,

25 per cent payable at once, and the balance subject to call at the rate of not more than 25 per cent annually. Report From U. S. Rotarian King read a report of the Dallas, Texas, Rotarian Fund, which was begun three years ago. It was

Montreal, Nov. 27.—Trading on the local stock exchange was decidedly bearlsh this morning, thus imitating wall street, where the bears make raid on raid upon many weak points they can discover. National Breweries created quite a sensation. This issue was one of the most active on the list, as well as one of the weakest, breaking to 49, the lowest price of the current year. No particular reason can be attached to the weakness, other than the bearish element on the street are do-

Agents For Atlas Secure Photograph Orders by Clever Ruse.

Woodstock, Nov. 26.-Some of the farmers of Oxford County are just now finding out they have been filmflammed.

During the past summer months canvassers went through different parts of the county with a camera taking photographs of the farmers' houses. Nothing was said at the time the photos were taken, but later on these men came back with nicelycolored pictures of the farm buildings and surroundings. Then followed the story that they were getting up a very up-to-date atlas of the county, in which pictures of the more important homes would appear on colors. At the same time they wanted to sell the farmers the colored photographs, the price ranging from $15 to $50, the price depending on the size of the pictures.

Many of the farmers told these men that they did not want pic-pictures of their homes, but they were anxious to have them in the atlas. An order form was then produced which the farmers were asked to sign, and many did sign without tak-

The temples had accumulated great stores of golden vessels and lost their hold upon the imaginations of men. It is difficult to estimate whether, amidst these constant wars, life had become more uncertain and unhappy than it had ever been before, but there can be no doubt that men for the weak and the women, there remained little comfort or assurance in the sacrifies, ritual, and formal devotions of the temples.

Such was the world to which the later prophets of Israel began to talk of the One God, and of a promise that some day the world should come to peace and unity and happiness. The Great "Promise."

The Hebrew prophets, and the steady expansion of their ideas toward one God in all the world, is a parallel development of the free conscience of mankind. From this time onward there runs through human thought, now weakly and obscurely, now gathering power, the idea of one rule in the world, and of a promise and possibility of an active and splendid peace and happiness in human affairs. "But I do want to know how this house happened to burn while I was absent. You are the only person who had a key to it, and you must have burned it or you would not have run away and hid yourself—now, what's the real story?"

The woman had a bit of delicate lace in her fingers. She put it up a moment to her lips. Then she spoke, addressing her two guests. Her voice was slow, serene, and de-tached, like one who speaks without interest, without emotion, and without any concern for effect. It was like a voice from a mechanical appliance, having intelligence, but no will or feel.

"I have been attached to Monsieur Dillard," she said. "There was a fortune before us, an immense, incredible fortune. The anticipation of it bound me to him, and so the burning of this house must have been an accident. The lure of a fortune is the only influence that does not loosen as one advances into life, in a world where presently every emotion fails. Therefore Monsieur Dillard had a right to feel that he could trust me, since my interest in this fortune was identical with his own." She paused and seemed to address Monsieur Jonquelle directly.

And it happened, monsieur, in the simplest fashion." There was absolute silence on the terrace before the villa. The vaguely blue sea seemed to underlie a world of amethyst. Heavy odors were in the air. A little beyond the terrace the leaves of a flowering vine moved where the footmen of the Princess Kitzenof searched as noiselessly as ghosts for the lost parrot. The shadowy figures of the two footmen were outlined to the woman in the chair, and perhaps to Monsteur Jonquelle, but they were not visible to the American.

ar more that will live.

Henry Ford plays a spectacular game. He pulls some wonderful stunts. He is a pinch-hitter in finance, and the idol of the bleachers. But there are better all-round men in the game. He is as temperamental as an artist, and as erratic. He has been known to fan out. And he certainly muffed a couple of balls in the case of the Peace Ship and his Jewitsh distribute. ish diatribes. He is not a team man. He must play the game alone and for himself. He has advanced a good many men on the bases of the financial diamond, but I do not recall that he ever did so by a sacrifice hit.

There are in guided by the best of judgment, but him neither that breadth nor depth on the whole it has won him more of mind, nor that moral grandeur, of the truly great. Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, but no man ever had greatness thrust upon him, Shakespeare to the contrary. He may be thrust into prominence, but not into eminence, for eminence is reached by climbing an inward spiritual ascent.

If Henry Ford would quit watching the popular winds, take down his political lightning rod, and devote himself to the solution of those human problems which press upon him I think he could attain a great and enviable reputation. It is in that direction, I believe, that he will find the fulfillment of the wish which he expressed to me when he said, "I do not
