Austrians Continue Their Drive Against Italy
German Chancellor Talks on Peace Situation

TURKISH ARMY HAS BEGUN ITS RETREAT TOWARDS CITY OF BAGDAD

Russian Menace From the North-east Has Made the Enemy Draw Back to That Vicinity—Turk Rearguard May be Cut Off.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, May 23.—(New York Times)—The Daily Chronicle says: "The Turkish army has begun its retreat toward Bagdad. Evidently orders have been given to concentrate in that locality in view of the new Russian menace from the northeast. The Turkish base in Mesopotamia is at Mosul, which is now the railroad, and it is clearly a good strategic policy on the part of the enemy to shorten his long and exposed line of communication along the Tigris to Kut-el-Amarat. "At Bagdad the Turks would be in a position to meet the British and Russian thrusts at their point of convergence, an obvious advantage, but in that along the north bank of the river. If the enemy succeeds in withdrawing several divisions without heavy losses he will be singularly fortunate. Forced marches will have to be made if he is to escape our pursuit, which the possession of river transport line will enormously facilitate. The extricating of the Turkish rearguard, which must be fairly strong, will be especially difficult."

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, May 23.—(New York Sun cable)—The Prince of Wales has returned from Egypt to the British fighting line in the west. He recently visited the Italian front.

Further Deposits. By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, May 23.—Additional gold from Canada, amounting to $2,000,000, was deposited by J. P. Morgan & Co. at the assay office to-day, making a total for the present movement of about $14,500,000. These imports represent shipments made by the Canadian branch of the Bank of England for account of purchases by the British Government in this country.

AUSTRIAN ADVANCE SEEMS AS IF IT WAS NOW STOPPED BY THE ITALIAN RESISTANCE

Huge Guns of the Enemy Seem to Split the Alpine Peaks by Their Detonations--Bombardment is Kept up Night and Day.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Rome, May 22.—Via Paris, May 23.—The Austrians have transferred to the Italian front a number of 381 and 420 millimetre guns. The latter cannon have been taken from the battleships which have been bottled up in the harbor of Pola since the beginning of the war. The detonations of these enormous cannon seem to actually split the Alpine peaks, causing frequent avalanches. But in spite of the terrific bombardment which is going on day and night and the reckless expenditure of ammunition by the Austrians their further advance seems impossible in view of the positions which the Italians hold tenaciously. Cont Zugata, a peak 6,000 feet high, which dominates Rovereto and the Lagarina and Arza valleys, is strongly held by the Italians. On the high plateau of Arsiero the Austrians occupy only the peak of Spitz Tonzza 5,000 feet high. All the other surrounding high mountains are in the hands of the Italians. The greatest effort of the Austrians is apparently now against the Asigo plateau, to the east of Arsiero, where desperate fighting is going on.

THE DYING GASP OF THE GERMANS IS AT VERDUN

American Military Critic Claims French Gradually Winning.

FIGHTING THERE IS TERRIBLE.

Soldiers Take Communion in a Dug-out in Midst of Bombardment.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, May 23.—The Paris correspondent of The Tribune cables the following: "I talked this morning with one of the American military observers in France who had just returned from the front, where he witnessed the German attacks on Verdun on Saturday and Sunday. "What do you think the attack means?" I asked. "It looks to me like the dying gasp," he replied. "But haven't there been a good many of these 'dying gasps'?" I said. "Yes," he answered. "They began several weeks ago, and since they began the French, who until that time had acted purely on the defensive, have been gradually taking the offensive into their hands. If you follow the action closely you will see that recently the offensive has often, if not more often, comes from the French as well as from the Germans."

HAVE TO ATTACK.

"This puts the Germans in the position where they have to attack. They are now in the position of the man who was wrestling with the bear. The man was ready to quit, but the bear wouldn't. The Germans have either got to attack at Verdun or submit to attack by the French, while the French hold the dominating positions. "This seems the veritable dying gasp by the Germans before Verdun, but it is a terrible conviction. The fighting there is terrific and marvellous. I have seen things which would seem only possible in fiction. "LIKE A GOLD MINE. "Yesterday morning we went down to examine a mine. The French had dug a long gallery out from their front trenches and had mined the ground for 500 yards along their front. It was exactly like going through the tunnels, crosscut and drifts in a gold mine in the Rockies. But at the entrance to the main tunnel the regimental chaplain had persuaded the colonel to take a chamber, and the chaplain had fitted it up as a chapel. "A RELIGIOUS SERVICE. "There in that underground chapel in the front line trenches, at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, while cannon booming overhead in a terrific bombardment told of a preparatory for a German assault, we, with 200 French soldiers listened to the mass, the colonel taking part. We saw soldiers going to the altar and receiving communion, while two of their comrades sat in a little chamber, hollowed in one side of the chamber, with their fingers on electric buttons ready to explode mines if the signal came that the attacking Germans had reached the mine field."

FIGHTING ON BOTH BANKS OF THE MEUSE

French Made Further Gains Within Fort Douaumont.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Paris, May 23.—Fighting continued with extreme violence on both banks of the Meuse, along the Verdun front, during the whole night. Two German counter attacks on French positions on Hill 304 failed completely, the war office announced this afternoon. The French made further gains within Fort Douaumont. The Germans now hold only a small angle in the northeastern corner of the fort. The battle around Hill 304 was especially severe. In attacking French positions on the west side of the hill the Germans used liquid gas, the official statement says, and penetrated one of the French trenches, but were dislodged at once. On the east side of the hill the Germans attacked in mass after intense artillery preparation, but were not permitted to reach the French lines. The principal fighting east of the Meuse was in the sector between Thiaumont and Douaumont. The Germans attacked in mass formation, and are said to have suffered enormous losses. They succeeded in re-occupying one of the trenches north of Thiaumont farm, which had been captured by the French.

CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY GIVES AN INTERVIEW

Wants to Get Down to Facts and Discuss Peace.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, May 23.—A special cable to The World from Staff Correspondent, Karl H. Von Wiegand at Berlin, under yesterday's date, contains the following statements, as given in an interview by Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg: "I have twice publicly stated that Germany has been, and is prepared to discuss the termination of the war upon a basis that offers guaranty against further attack from the coalition of her enemies and insures peace to Europe. "Only when statesmen of the warring nations come down to a basis of the real facts; when they take the war situation as every war who shows it to be; when with honest sincerity will they are prepared to terminate this terrible bloodshed and are prepared to discuss war and peace problems with one another in a practical manner—only then will be nearing peace. "I fear we will not come nearer to the peace desired by all peoples as long as the responsible statesmen of the Entente powers indulge in and confine themselves to observations about Prussian militarism, and to pathetic declamations about their own superiority and perfection. "Did the democratic constitution of England hinder English statesmen from making secret arrangements in the agreements with Russia and France which were one of the essential causes of this war? "General press polemics and public speeches will only tend still more to intensify the hatred among peoples. That is not the way that leads to ideal conditions of Sir Edward Grey, when free peoples and nations with equality of rights and privileges will limit their arguments and solve their differences and disputes through arbitration's decisions instead of war."

BERLIN TALKS OF CROP FAILURE

Reports That Conditions in Russia Are Very Bad.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, May 23.—(By wireless to Saville)—A crop disaster in Russia is reported in advices received from Stockholm by the Overseas News Agency. It is said all the winter crops of the northern and middle governments of Russia have been destroyed by a severe frost in the governments of Kazan and Samara, in Southern Russia, where the crops were well advanced, owing to the early spring. They are said to have been frozen. The Russian government, according to this report, is deliberating whether to have the ground immediately ploughed up and replanted.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, May 23.—The first indictments resulting from the tapping of telephone wires in this city were returned by the King's county grand jury to-day. John A. Kingsbury, city commissioner of charities, and Winn H. Hitchcock, were men named in the indictments.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Sasse-Terre, Guadeloupe, May 23.—A decree has been promulgated stipulating that all foreigners who enter this port must have passports bearing their photographs and vised by French consuls at the points of departure.

BURFORD'S NEW POST OFFICE BUILDING NOW FORMALLY OPENED

Despite Inclement Weather There Was a Large Attendance—Mr. J. H. Fisher M. P. and the Residents Came in For Many Congratulations—Very Handsome and Most Complete in Every Detail.

Monday was about the most juicy day of an exceedingly damp season, yet that fact did not prevent a large attendance at the formal opening of Burford's new public building, secured for that village by Mr. J. H. Fisher, the popular North Brant member. The committee having the most successful affair in hand were Messrs. D. G. Hamner, W. Creighton and W. B. Messer, Village Trustees, and George Armstrong, C. F. Saunders, F. Miles, Dr. Johnston, E. A. Burgess and Geo. Aulsebrook. "Col. D. G. Hamner occupied the chair in a most happy manner, and a feature was the attendance of the school children carrying flags. They marched into the building, and under the leadership of their teacher, Miss Good, rendered "Tipperary" in good voice and tone. Mr. Hamner said he supposed he had been asked to preside because he had been looked upon as a sort of town father. He then handed Postmaster Cox a letter which he asked him to post—the first epistle to be handled in the new structure. It was written by Mr. J. H. Fisher to Hon. Mr. Rogers, apprising him of the opening.

MR. HALL, clerk of the work, handed the keys of the building to Col. Ross, chief post office inspector, and in doing so said that he could vouch for it that the workmanship was of the best. He congratulated the residents upon the fact that Mr. J. H. Fisher had been able to secure for them such a fine structure.

COL. ROSS, in accepting the keys, said that he could sincerely state that the building was one of the best of the size he had ever seen, and that all of the equipment and paraphernalia, although not extravagant, was most satisfactory in every way. He was there to represent the Postmaster-General, who, in common with the other members of the Dominion Cabinet, was kept busy at the capital during these serious war times. "I accept these keys in his name, and I assure you that nothing further is required to make the office complete, it will be forthcoming."

MR. DAVIDSON, the local member for North Brant, who was heartily applauded, said the building was theirs. He was more than pleased to see so many patriotic boys and girls present, and also so many adults. On his way through the rain and over the roads deep in mud, he had thought that perhaps the meeting would consist of fifteen or twenty red hot Tories, yet here was a crowd to be proud of, formed of all classes and political beliefs. Mr. Davidson had said that the people of Burford knew how to get things, and perhaps that was because they voted right. At any rate, all other considerations aside, they had simply gained a recognition which they deserved. He was pleased to know that they had (Continued on Page 3)

Mexican Schooner Lenora Captured by British Cruiser Now in Harbor at Victoria

First Prize of the War to be Brought Into B. C. Port.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Seattle, Wash., May 23.—The Mexican auxiliary schooner Lenora, which was captured by a British cruiser off Lower California, May 3, to-day is lying in Esquimalt harbor at Victoria, B.C., awaiting prize court proceedings. The schooner, which is the first prize brought into Victoria since the outbreak of the war arrived Sunday in charge of a prize crew. The Lenora was under charter to German interests in Mexico at the time of her capture. The captain and purser, both Mexicans, are the only members of the original crew that aboard the Lenora, the others having been put ashore at Mazatlan. It is said the schooner belongs to the Mexican Lloyd company, of which Captain Fred Jobson, who owned the steamer Mazatlan, since captured and taken as a prize to Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, was the principal owner. BRURFORD'S NEW POST OFFICE with them that day Col. Ross, Chief Post Office Inspector. He was both an able and a courteous man, and would at all times see that the office got everything needed. As Col. Hamner had told them, he had been waiting in Paris by a deputation representative of both political parties, and after hearing them, he had made up his mind to help them to get what they wanted, if it was at all possible to do so. As to that, the case was good, and he had no doubts. He had heard it said a $5,000 building would have sufficed. This was ridiculous and he was certain that they all felt as he did, that the money had been well spent. They had not only to build for the Burfordites of the present, but also for those of the future. It should be remembered that four rural mails a day now went out of the Burford post office, and that adequate room was an essential.

Well he had brought the matter to the attention of Hon. Mr. Rogers with favorable results, and he wished to take the opportunity to pay a personal tribute to that gentleman. Mr. Rogers was a high-minded man, held in the highest esteem by the best members on both sides of the House. He must admit that a clerk of the Postal department, when asked to give the Minister the population of Burford, had mistakenly figured 4,500, having quoted the figures for the Township, but that aside, the structure was not one whit too good for the inhabitants of their progressive community. For himself, if the people were satisfied, he felt fully repaid. There were two more things which he thought Burford should who by the bye is in his 80th year and still most vigorous, gave some interesting reminiscences of the time when Mr. Vancouver was a good deal larger than Burford. At that period there was a mail to the village once every two days.

MR. P. H. SECORD.

President of the firm of Secord and Son, said that he took more than a usual interest in the events of the day, as he used to be a resident of Burford Township. He was naturally pleased to have heard so many compliments passed that day upon the structure. This was the third public building they had constructed, the other two consisting of those at Newmarket and Brantford. North Brant certainly had a most excellent representative in Mr. Fisher.

LT. COL. MUIR.

said that this was certainly a great day for Burford. The public building just opened was for all of them, whereas the armories, to all intents and purposes were for the military alone. He understood that the residents had the matter of a library well under way, and he hoped in the future that more business concerns would locate in the village and an electric railway reach them.

LT. COL. H. COCKSHUTT.

joined in the general congratulations of the day. He did not there for recruiting purposes, but he would like to mention that his Battalion, 215th, would be sincerely glad to have a Burford platoon.

referred to the many public occasions on which he had visited Burford, but never for a more happy purpose than to participate in the opening of that new building. Among other remarks he paid a high tribute to Mr. Fisher.

EX-MAYOR SPENCE.

said that he was very glad indeed to be a participant in the proceedings of the day. He understood that Mr. Fisher had been able to secure for them. To his mind, nothing was too good for Burford. As collector of Customs at the Brantford port, he would be very glad indeed to see an outpost at Burford. He felt sure that Burford would do her part in connection with the 215th.

MAYOR PATTERSON.

of Paris, voiced the congratulations of that place. Burford ranked next to Paris as the best place in the County of Brant.

COL. HANMER

returned hearty thanks to the speakers and those in attendance, and proceedings closed with the National Anthem.
Afterwards an adjournment took place to the court room where coffee and cake were served.

THE BUILDING.

Burford's new building is a very handsome one of red pressed brick with cut stone facings. It is of two stories with a basement and clock tower. The upper story is for the offices and quarters for the caretaker. The roof is of slate and the interior fittings are of oak, with tiled floors. There is steam heating, up to date plumbing and all other appointments are of the very best. On the ground floor there is a most spacious lobby and splendid room for the handling of the postal business. The entire cost, including the work in the neighborhood of $30,000.

The Situation.

Heavier artillery than that possessed by the Allies still continues to tell a large part of the story with regard to both the German and the Austrian operations. After a very heavy bombardment of the British lines all day Sunday, the Huns, according to the official report, succeeded in carrying almost a mile of British trenches at the northern end of the Vimy ridge, and they penetrated to a depth of from one hundred to three hundred yards. That the ground lost will be retaken, is likely to be only a matter of a few days.

As an offset to this setback there comes the news that the tri-color again floats over Fort Douaumont. This point has been in possession of the enemy for many weeks. At Dead Man's Hill and Hill 304 the sanguinary struggle still continues and the Germans are said to have thrown sixty thousand fresh men into the conflict at these points.

The Austrians seem to be progressing on the Trentino front and they make large claims as to the capture of prisoners and war material. It is said however, that the Italians now hold very strong positions and that any further advance of the foe would seem to be impossible.

The Turkish army has commenced to retreat towards Bagdad. They have evidently decided to concentrate in order the better to give battle to the advancing Russians and British.

The Ross Rifle.

It has always been the case of more or less conflicting testimony with reference to Canada's arm—the Ross Rifle. Its superiority for target use has been freely conceded, but the claim has been made that in rough and tumble war work, it does not come up to some others. The main complaint has been made with reference to jamming, but Sir Robert Borden, during a recent speech in the House on the subject, showed that this was a fault not confined to the Ross weapon alone. In this regard, he said:

"The only difficulty with the Ross rifle that I ever heard of up to the time I went to Great Britain last year was with regard to jamming; as far as I can remember, I did not hear of any other difficulty. That jamming was not confined to the Ross rifle; it occurred in a very great measure—in almost equal measure, I think—with the Lee-Enfield rifle, and if we had taken away from our men the Ross rifle and armed them with Lee-Enfields the jamming would still have occurred if the same ammunition had been used."

"When it was discovered that the Ross rifle, as well as the Lee-Enfield rifle, did jam with certain types of ammunition, but not with others, it was thought desirable to enlarge the chamber of the Ross rifle. It was thought desirable by the British Government, as I am informed, to enlarge the chamber of the Lee-Enfield. This course was taken with regard to each rifle for precisely the same reason. I do not affirm that there was the same amount of jamming in the Lee-Enfield as in the Ross—I do not know about that; I have heard contradicting statements with regard to it. The Minister of Militia directed that the enlargement made in the chamber of the Ross rifle should make that chamber slightly larger than the chamber of the Lee-Enfield, in order that we might be on the safe side. And I am informed that the Ross rifles were all called in and the alteration in the chamber was made, and in the new Ross rifles produced after that the chamber was made of the enlarged size."

In view of the conflicting testimony it is gratifying to know that the Dominion Government has requested Sir Douglas Haig, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces at the front, to make a comparative test of both the Ross and Lee-Enfield.

Brantford's New Building.

The residents of Brantford naturally take a great deal of pride in their new post office building, which was yesterday finally declared open for business. It is a structure fully worthy of that pretty and well kept place, which most observers believe will develop in the future to much larger proportions. That such a peaceful even could be successfully observed during these strenuous war times brings home the fact that this great Dominion is under the protecting aegis of the Union Jack, and that John Bull's fleet is still master of the seas. Up to date, in this struggle, let the fact not be forgotten, that with the exception of air ship raids on the Mother Land, not one foot of British soil has been placed in jeopardy. During the day, Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P., came in for some well-deserved compliments with reference to the event. He certainly makes a most thoughtful and alert representative.

It is interesting to recall the fact that Burford Township was undoubtedly the first portion of the present County of Brant to attract settlers. They came there in 1793, and prior to that time the district was tenanted only by wild animals and wandering savages of some of the least civilized tribes of Indians. The pioneer families included those of Wheeler, Douglas, Dr. Allen, John Yeigh, James Rounds, John Fowler, Nathaniel Landon, Abraham Daton, Capt. White, Michael Showers, the Posters, Lymburners and Woodens. In 1797 the first white child was born in what is now Burford—Stephen Landon. The whole district is full of historical associations, and trials and struggles—things which afford a marked contrast to the modern new building, of which the keys were yesterday handed over.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The expected happened in yesterday's Provincial contest in Quebec and as the outcome the Liberals retained power by 72 to 7. Gouin is manifestly a great man to stay in.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived in Toronto last night to confer with his friends. If they tell him the truth with regard to what he has done to his party over the bi-lingual issue, the old gentleman will have a very unpleasant time of it.

Simcoe ratepayers by a vote of 541 to 3 have granted special privileges to a proposed shoe industry. They were evidently looking for something to find their feet.

Even the most rabid Grit sheets have commenced to side-step the featuring of the Ottawa fife enquiry.

A return from Ottawa announces that up to May 15th 236,640 men have joined the colors in Canada. Pretty good going that for the 500,000 mark.

CARELESSNESS IN SWEEPING OFF SIDEWALKS

The City Engineer desires to call the attention of the occupants of some of the stores who are in the habit of sweeping their cleanings on to the pavement, to the objections to this course. These sweepings often include straw, hay, cigar stubs, paper, rubbish and dust. If the pavement has been cleaned by these unsightly heaps are left on the street, and the dust raised from them is very objectionable. If the pavement has not been flushed, the water used in flushing carries them down, spreads them in the gutter and blocks the street gulleys. The placing of rubbish of any kind on the streets is directly contrary to the City by-laws and the Engineer is sure that now attention has been called to the matter, he can count on the co-operation of the occupants of the stores in remedying this defect.

Empire Day Celebration

In accordance with a circular recently issued by Minister of Education Pyne, concerning the celebration of Empire Day in the schools of Ontario, a collection is being taken up to-day in all the schools of the city, for the purpose of supplying comforts to the soldiers at the front. Addresses were also delivered this morning by the teachers to their classes upon the part taken in the present war by the Canadians at the front, special stress being laid upon such battles as Ypres, St. Julien, Festubert and Langemarck. Other patriotic speeches, recitations and songs were given in some of the schools on the occasion of the day. Patriotic concerts were also staged in the various kindergartens of the city, the parents of all children being invited to attend, and patriotic numbers rendered.

Confronted by a burglar, Mrs. Charles F. Bond, of Beaver Falls, Pa., pleaded with him not to steal anything and leave the house quietly because her husband was seriously ill. Mr. Burglar complied.

Beauty Aids That You Should Always Carry About with You

By LUCREZIA BORI Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York.

There are so many little "aids to beauty" which a woman should always have with her that it is a difficult matter to decide which is really first in importance.

Other Valuable Accessories. A small tube of dental floss should be carried in every one's purse. It is essential to the proper care of the teeth. If the small particles of food which collect between the teeth are not removed after each meal, the heat and moisture will cause their decomposition and fermentation takes place, which will cause the teeth to decay.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young girl, 16 years old. Every day I meet a young man whom I like very much. My sister knows him, and he is always asking for me, but we never happen to be with each other when I meet him, and I would like to know him personally.

PEACHES: Why don't you ask your sister to introduce him to you? Don't make a mystery or a problem out of so simple a thing as meeting a young man whom your sister knows and who asks for you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: We are two young girls of 17, and we are in love with two boys one year our senior. We often go out to shows and parties with them, and they want us to stop going with only boys and to go with them steadily.

Cy Young's Record Stands

Cy Young's pitching record may endure for all time. Only one pitcher in the game to-day—Christy Mathewson—has a chance to eclipse it. But the sun seems to be setting on Matty's major league pitching life—and, wonderful as is his work, it cannot compare with that of the old warhorse. Young pitched the terrific pace of 22 campaigns. He quit the game along in 1910 and retired to his farm after having taken part in 819 combats. These he won 508, giving him a grand pitching average around .520 for the entire period.

At the end of the 1915 season Mathewson's record showed that over a stretch of 16 years under the big canvas he had worked in 614 games—205 less than Young figured in. To equal Young's record in games pitched Mathewson must remain in the majors at least six years longer—a seeming impossibility. Mathewson has won 268 and lost 185 of his games. The others did not figure in his won or lost column. Matty's grand average to date is .665. Even should he, by some miracle, remain in the major league spotlight until he has pitched more games than Young, it is beyond the range of probability that he can win 60 per cent. of the remaining games. And that is just about what the weakening arm must accomplish to beat the record of Young.

Braves Bunch Five Hits and Win From St. Louis

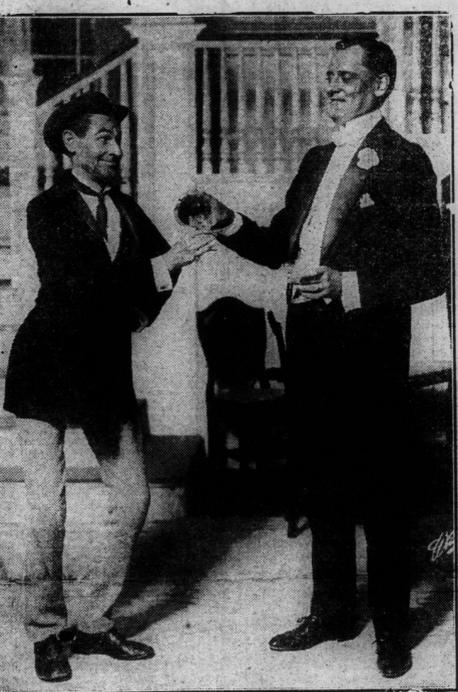

St. Louis, May 23.—Boston defeated St. Louis again yesterday by 8 to 5. The visitors started scoring in the sixth inning, when Evers' single and Collins' home run gave them two runs. In the eighth they pounded Williams for five hits and six runs. Hughes, for Boston, went well until the ninth, when he weakened and allowed the locals five runs off six hits. Score: R.H.E. Boston 00002060—8 9 0 St. Louis 00000005—5 9 3 Hughes and Gowdy; Williams and Snyder.

Grays Win Crazy Game From Montreal Royals

Montreal, May 23.—Providence, aided by five Royal errors, won from Montreal yesterday by 12 to 10, notwithstanding seventeen bases on balls given by the Grays' three pitchers. The scores: R.H.E. Providence 301000215—12 14 1 Montreal 00000004—10 6 5 Billiard, Schultz, Baumgartner and Yelle; Prieste and Madden.

AT THE BRANT

It is a very long time since patrons of the Brant theatre have had the opportunity of seeing such an all round star program as that presented at the popular theatre for the first three days of this week. There is not a number upon the bill which is not deserving of the highest commendation, and the consensus of opinion of all present at yesterday's performances was that Manager Moule had excelled himself in the way of securing a feature bill for the 24th.

Krichell Goes Home to Recover from Injury

Toronto, May 23.—Permission was granted yesterday by the Toronto club to catcher Paul Krichell to return to his home in New York to undergo treatment for a stubborn case of blood-poisoning in his right foot. The player realized that the trouble was not yielding to treatment and goes home at his own request.

One Veteran Pounded; Another Saves Game

New York, May 23.—St. Louis won here to-day by a score of 9 to 5. Plank was knocked out of the box in the eighth inning, but Groom saved the game for the visitors. Marsans starred with a home run and two singles, three runs, a stolen base and a great catch on Pipp. The score: R.H.E. St. Louis 013 002 012—9 14 2 New York 200 102 000—5 12 4 Plank, Groom and Hartley; Keating, Fisher, Markle and Walters.

Janvrin Drives Home Winning Run in Ninth

Boston, May 22.—A double by Walker and Janvrin's single in the ninth inning gave the Red Sox the run necessary to defeat Detroit 2 to 1 to-day. The score: R.H.E. Detroit 000 010 000—1 6 0 Boston 000 000 011—2 8 0 Dauss and Stange; Gregg, Foster and Carrigan, Thomas, Agnew.

Washington Take Lead in American League

Washington, May 22.—Washington went into first place in the American League pennant race to-day by beating Chicago 2 to 0 while Cleveland was losing to Philadelphia. Only 29 men faced Harper. He allowed but four hits, gave no bases on balls and struck out seven. The score: R.H.E. Chicago 000 000 000—0 4 1 Washington 011 000 000—2 7 0 Wolfgang, Russell and Schalk; Harper and Henry.

PASTIME LAWN BOWLERS OPEN UP TO-MORROW

Good Day Is Hoped For and Many Prizes to be Won. ECHO PLACE ALSO IN LINE.

If the weather man shows the least disposition that he has a heart to-morrow, there promises to be a real jolly time on the Pastime Bowling lawn, it being the occasion of the season's opening game. The usual contest of President vs. Vice-President will be dispensed with and a real live all day club competition will take its place for which prizes will be given the winners. Jno. Allen, the new lawn manager, has the lawn in capital shape and is ready to give the boys a hearty welcome. The new members are particularly requested to be on hand early as the new competition has been arranged with an eye for their special benefit and there promises to be a large number of new ones on hand. The draw will be made at 9.30 and play will start immediately after. Some forty new members have already signed up with the Pastime Club and before the season is far advanced it is confidently expected they will have the largest membership in their history and why shouldn't they, with such a genial bunch of good fellows as compose it and offering the best accommodation possible.

AT THE BRANT

The Echo Place Bowling Club have arranged to open their season on Wednesday, 24th inst. with a game between sides chosen by the president, Mr. Geo. W. Hall, and vice-president, Mr. H. E. Craddock, play to commence at 2 p.m. It is expected that there will be a good turnout of both new and old members. The greens are in very good shape, most of them having been resodded. The ladies are providing refreshments and a good afternoon's enjoyment is assured.

Elocutionist of Remarkable Gifts

Prof. Duxbury has a unique reputation, in both England and America, as an elocutionist of remarkable gifts. Speaking of one of his recitals, Dr. Simon says: "It was high-toned, vivid, picturesque and full of feeling. The great audience not only heard—they saw." You should hear him Thursday afternoon and evening in the Wellington St. Methodist Church.

ALGONQUIN PARK

Don't make your summer arrangements before considering the attractions that are offered at Algonquin Park. An area of 1,750,000 acres of virgin forest, lakes and rivers, 2,000 feet above the sea level assures the visitor pure and bracing air, and the lakes and streams hide the gamiest of the finny tribe. The Highland Inn, opened on May 1st, and offers comfortable accommodation at reasonable rates. Handsome illustrated descriptive matter free on application to Local Agent, or C. E. Horning, D. P. DUNLOP AUTOMOBILE TIRES

I have always maintained that you get the same quality in a tire that you get in the maker of that tire—High Sense of Values; High Record of Results. Also, to my way of thinking, Tire-Mileage is nothing else than the ability to deliver. Notice that 'Dunlop' and 'Deliver' commence with the same letter. # AN ARISTOCRAT OF SWEDEN CONFESSES TO A BRUTAL CRIME

Committed a Murder, the Mystery of Which Created Great Stir--Woman's Memory For Faces Was Undoing.

Stockholm, Sweden, May 23.—Correspondence of The Associated Press—Leonard Rudolph Alexander Gyllenpalm, a member of one of the oldest families in Sweden—a family knighted in the seventeenth century and registered in the "Riddarhus," or Swedish House of Nobles—has confessed to the double murder which recently occurred in one of the branch banks of Stockholm, and which stirred all Sweden because of the brutality and mystery of the crime. The manager of the bank was found with a hatchet in his skull and a woman clerk was shot dead.

The chance capture of Gyllenpalm and his own cold-blooded story of the crime have made thrilling reading for the Swedish people. His nemesis worked in the person of a young Swedish woman with a good memory for faces. She had seen the nobleman emerge from the bank, and though she did not know his name, she thought she recognized him but was not sure. With a girl companion she followed the man several blocks until they fell in with a policeman to whom the girl told her suspicions, and the officer decided to arrest him.

NEEDED THE MONEY

The nobleman at first denied all knowledge of the crime, but after he had been held for two days, and analysis of some spots on his clothes and shoes established that they were stains of human blood and when confronted with this evidence, Gyllenpalm confessed. He said he was in desperate need of money and had planned the crime weeks ahead. He only intended, however, to kill the branch manager, thinking no one else would be at the bank at the time. He carried the hatchet in a leather portfolio, or lawyer's brief case. He was surprised to see the woman clerk and followed his first impulse to shoot. Having committed the double murder, he became alarmed and fled without securing any money whatever.

Direct from the scene he went to a restaurant a few blocks away and joined a party of friends at a midday breakfast, eating a hearty meal and drinking several glasses of wine. That afternoon the newspapers were full of accounts of the mysterious murder. Gyllenpalm, however, moved about among his friends with the slightest evidence that he was more than ordinarily stirred by the news. He had dinner down town with a friend and when the meal was finished he suggested a walk around to the bank to see where such an atrocious murder had been committed. There was a crowd of the morbidly curious about the door, which was guarded by a policeman. Gyllenpalm, in his confession, told how while he was standing there in the crowd about the bank some one remarked:

"It is a curious thing, but a murderer always returns to the scene of his crime."

DECIDED TO STAY.

Gyllenpalm said that upon hearing this he gave way at the knees and almost sank to the sidewalk, but his friends had thought he merely slipped. When he had recovered his equilibrium Gyllenpalm asked the policeman if he thought the murderer would be caught.

"Yes," replied the officer, "if he is fool enough to try to leave the city. We have everything watched. If he stays in town though, it will be more difficult."

"I decided to stop in town," said Gyllenpalm in his confession.

Always fond of cafe and restaurant life, the murderer did not alter his course of living in any way. But evidently he began to worry, for after a week had elapsed he cabled to his father in Russia for funds to carry him to that country. This money, which might have enabled him to escape to complete safety for the rest of his days, arrived in Stockholm the morning after his arrest.

By reason of his nobility of birth, Gyllenpalm can choose that he be put to death with the sword instead of the more plebeian blade of the guillotine. Such is his inalienable prerogative.

THE PROBLEM OF THE HOUR

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Men, Women and Modesty

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The middle-aged woman threw down her paper with a sniff. "Well," she said, "what is the world coming to? Here's a news item from a fashionable winter resort that says men are wearing red bathing suits and blue baby ones, too."

"Also for walking and motoring they are wearing bright green and bright scarlet coats—two soft pink morning jackets made quite a hit in the lounge room at one of the big hotels the other day."

"Worn by young girls—or delicate old ladies? Not at all! By men—great, big, husky, athletic, outdoor men—and nobody even offered to lynch them."

"Here's another interesting bit of news. A man in the middle West has introduced a bill into the Legislature of his state, providing that any woman who wears a skirt any shorter than half an inch above the top of her shoe be at once arrested and fined."

"The man who's introducing the bill says he's trying to fight for the morals of men. He has a growing son, he declares, and how can he expect that son to grow up into decent manhood if he's to run the risk of seeing two inches of a woman's 'limb' any time he happens to go down street on a windy day."

"Wait a minute—don't speak! Over on the back page of the same newspaper there's the cutest little telegram you ever saw—all about the new 'conversation stockings'—sweet things with pretty little sentiments and questions and answers on them, like the old-fashioned motto candles we used to hand each other at the surprise parties when I was a girl."

were all rather badly hurt and there wasn't a soul to do a thing for them for twenty-four hours, save the wife of the farmer in a lonely canyon and her buxom twenty-year-old daughter. And those two women bathed those three men and fed them and took care of them till the doctor could get there with a trained nurse.

"My husband told me he spoke to the farmer about it afterward and said how embarrassed the daughter must have been and what a noble girl she was to hide her mortification so beautifully."

"Why, yes," said the farmer, "Ma'naly and Maria both says it was some job! You holler'd something fierce and one of the kids kicked so she could hardly keep 'im from catching cold!"

The Real Veil

"My husband wonders about it yet. He won't admit it, but I can see that he's talked it all over with half a dozen different men, and they wonder about it, too. The girl's real pretty, too. She sent us her picture when she got our wedding present the other day."

"I don't see anything queer about it, do you? I think they'd have been queer if they'd have been any different, don't you?"

And of course I said "Yes." What else was there for me to say?

What a strange old idea it was to make women wear veils and muffle themselves in voluminous skirts! There's a veil so thick between every natural woman and the thoughts of almost every natural man that there doesn't seem to be much use of fussing with artificial disguises, does there?

Modesty and Modesty

"Again I ask you—what's the world coming to? Are there any men left anywhere, except those in my own family? Real men, with something to do but sit and think up new kinds of lounging jackets and 'daring' kinds of stockings?"

"Who on earth are these delicate little creatures who are afraid they might fall from grace if they happened to see an inch or two of a pretty girl's pretty stocking? Haven't they any mothers or sisters or maiden aunts—or even wives?"

"Let's see, I'm forty-three. Maybe I'm a bold thing, but I walk right into men's furnishing goods shops ever so often, as brizzon at brass itself, and look right at those thin lines and fins of men's socks and other things. You see how catching it is. A minute ago I would never have thought of calling them 'things,' but now I'm afraid to mention a simple, honest name for a decent, honest garment."

"Are we really so much thicker skinned than men? Are they more modest than we are? When my husband and my son and another young fellow were in that motor accident up in the mountains last year, they

How She Contrived a Motor Coat from Natural Colored Pongee.

WHEN a good-natured man like me suddenly begins to find fault with the way his eggs are looked after and criticizes the color of his neighbor's newly-painted house, it is a sure sign that his nerves are cutting up capers. So mother and I were not at all surprised when Ed announced that Dr. Mitchell had ordered him away for a complete change and rest.

Mother suggested that he ought to take a motor trip, alone, thinking it might be a relief to get away from the family, but he refused to listen to any such ideas. Our orders are to be ready to bill up stakes next week.

Suitable clothes for the trip was the next question to be considered. Our baggage is limited to a small motor trunk and a suit case, so our outfits date not be very elaborate.

Mother, in an extravagant mood, told me to have a motor coat made. We were undecided as to the material, for I wanted something light in weight with good wearing qualities. Mother was strong for English homespun, but I didn't want anything "woolly," so I telephoned to Mrs. Mathon, asking her to make the coat and try to suggest a practical material. She advised me to buy pongee in the natural color, and the best weight. She also told me that a lining of jorrie blue silk would make the coat very smart.

I followed her advice to the letter, and that afternoon she cut out the coat. We are early risers these days, and before Mrs. Mathon came the next morning I had the sections of the coat basted together.

The bodice portion has Vandyke points, both in the front and back, which extend well into the skirt. Mrs. Mathon is a wonder at cutting coats with unusual lines, but this one should be awarded the palm.

The long sleeves flare slightly from the elbow to the wrists and the strap-like cuffs are fastened with buttons and heavily embroidered satinettes. It worked the latter with heavy silk thread to match the color of the pongee.

Mrs. Mathon extended the sleeves over the shoulders, making oddly shaped armholes. Then she made a wide, rolled-down collar and outlined every seam of the bodice with a row of machine-stitched armholes. She did not care for the straight line of the double-breasted front, so she cut it to form a point at the top and a strap at the waistline.

Before turning the coat over to me, so that I could embroider the button-holes in the front, she stitched the bodice portion to the skirt.

The latter is very full, the fulness being supplied by godets at each side of the front and back.

While I put the finishing touches on the coat, Mrs. Mathon cut out the lining. Then she machine-stitched the seams together and adjusted it to the pongee top. This touch of color simply "made" the coat. Fascinating glimpses of the blue are to be seen about the deep folds of the hem and below the deep cuffs. I never realized before that tan and blue is such a lovely combination.

I like this motor coat so well that the one I had last year, and it cost a third less. Pongee is an inexpensive material and it is very durable.

Some one is "boasting" in front of our house and it "bites" eggs deserve my note: it is the sound of six Kimbura automobile horn. I promise to go with her to call on some people who have just moved to town.

"Let's Ask Mother"

BY FLORENCE HOWARD

My parent leathers and yours, too, look shabby," said Lois. "Yet Mother's are all like new, and she has been wearing hers longer than I have—and ours by far."

"It's a trick to care for patent leather shoes," said Harriet. "Let's ask Mother about it and maybe she can give us a hint or two that will make us wiser next time."

"So a little vaseline on your patent leathers," said Mother. "It will keep them in good condition. Rub it on well, and don't think you have to use much. A soft old woolen cloth is best. Wipe it off and polish with the cloth. Of course, if they get too shabby, you can have them shined just as you would the other leather."

The appointment of a "food factor" in Germany was foretold in the Cologne Gazette on May 17, to be due to his failure to resign as minister of the Interior. The resignation of Delbruck, possibly on account of ill health, was declared in unofficial advices from Berlin to be due to his failure to resign as minister of the Interior. Unusual distribution, due to conflicting laws and rivalry of various states of the empire, is blamed as the principal cause of food problem. Von Batocki is regarded as a very able organizer who high praise for his success in restoring order in East Prussia that country had been ravaged by Russians in the early months of the war.

How to Make a Brown Skin Whiter and More Beautiful

By LUCREZIA BORI

THE tan and freckle season is not yet at its height, and very few of us are ready to call into use the jar of bleaching paste warranted to remove these signs of Old Sol's beaming smile, but there are many requests for a remedy that will restore a brown, muddy complexion to its transparent whiteness.

At first try a mild bleach, and if this does not prove effective, resort to a stronger preparation. The most harmless of bleaches is made from equal parts of lemon juice and glycerine, diluting the latter with one-third the amount of water.

OUTBREAK OF CATERPILLARS

These Occur from Time to Time in Different Parts of Canada.

APPEAR IN THE SPRING.

Full Grown in June and Wander from Tree to Tree.

From time to time outbreaks of the tent caterpillars occur in different parts of Canada. Not infrequently these outbreaks attain serious proportions owing to the absence of natural or artificial means of control.

NATURE OF THE INJURY. The caterpillars appear in the spring and feed upon the leaves of broad-leaved trees of many species.

The American tent caterpillar is most common on fruit trees, wild cherry and hawthorn, but when very abundant it readily attacks a variety of shade and forest trees.

The forest tent caterpillar prefers poplar, birch, ash, maple and other trees; but is also found in orchards in years of great abundance.

The American tent caterpillar makes a distinct nest or tent familiar to everyone, while the forest caterpillar does not make a tent but a web where it hides.

The adults are brownish or reddish-brown moths, about the size of cutworm moths.

The winter is passed as a flatish egg-cluster formed around twigs much resembling small beads arranged side by side.

CONTROL MEASURES. There are no known means of controlling the forest tent caterpillar.

The American tent caterpillar must not be confused with the fall webworm, which constructs large tents during the latter part of the season.

The chief injury of such pests to orchards is due to the trees leafing out a second time the same season, which causes the wood to be unprepared when winter sets in.

A Battle of Mad Volcano Erupts
Germians Supply 100,000 Men— Fight in Tunnel

By Special Wire to the Courier.
New York, May 25.—A cable to New York Times from Paris, yesterday, says:

Since Saturday the Verdun lock has changed to the most pitched battle in history. Fully a million men are engaged along without a respite from slaughter. Whole regiments melt in a few days, but others take their places to perish in the same way.

"It is a battle of madmen in the midst of a volcano eruption," is a description given by a staff officer who left the fortress on a special mission yesterday afternoon. He continued:

TERRIFIC LOSSES.

"Between Saturday morning and Tuesday we reckon the Germans used up 100,000 men on the Meuse front alone. That is the price they paid for the capture of recent gains and seizure of our positions. It is a quarter of a million men, lost in a quarter of a month. More than half passed from possession, but the crescent position to the south prevents enemy from utilizing it."

IN THE HORROR OF DARKNESS.

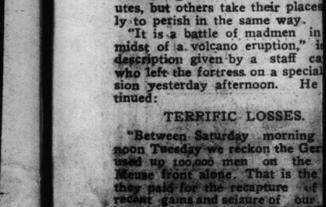

"The scene there is appalling. It is dwarfed in comparison with the fighting around Douaumont. West of Meuse at least, one dies in the air, but at Douaumont is the height of darkness, where the men fight in tunnels, screaming with the lunatic butchery, deafened by shells and gas, stifled by smoke.

THE WOUNDED FIGHT.

"Even the wounded refuse to don the struggle. As though possessed by devils they fight on, they fall senseless from loss of blood. A surgeon in a front line told me that in a redoubt at south part of the fort, of 200 French dead, fully half had more than wounds. Those he was able to seemed utterly insane. They shouting war cries and their blood, and strangest of all, seemed indifferent to pain. At present anaesthetic ran out of the impossibility of bringing-
