Legal Decisions.
1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the Post Office—whether directed to his name or another's or whether he has subscribed or not—is responsible for the payment.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay up all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, though the paper is taken from the office or not.

3. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the Post Office, or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Dreaming.

I saw the tall ships go sailing by,
As I stood by the sea at noon,
Like clouds that swim in a quiet sky
When the days are warm in June.
The sun came splendidly in through The gates of the morning. Snow had fallen; it had drifted into every corner of the dreary old court. It lay, white as a flower, on the very threshold of vice and misery, and with its pale touch it would blot out and cleanse away the crime and sorrow and despair that lurked there. Bess was astir in the early brightness. She shivered in the nipping air, and drew her old shawl closer about her. She went away down the court, and threaded the narrow streets, on and on. She came into broader ways, where there were beautiful homes. And still she trudged on.
Somewhere lay the place; she had heard of it, a beautiful place where trees and flowers grew, and it was warm, and birds sang. She would try to find it. Perhaps she could find the other country, too, that the boy sang about.
It was her Father's country. She would find Him. Maybe, the boy had said, maybe He was not ready for her to come yet, but she would tell Him how cold and hungry she was, and He surely would let her stay. So she walked on.

The sun mounted higher in the winter sky. He looked down and watched the child as she journeyed. There were trees by the wayside, grand and bare in the sunlight; they looked as if they too might be cold. She wondered when she should come to green fields.
She was growing very tired and cold and hungry. She had passed out into the open country. The wide fields were hushed and white in their folding of snow. She saw now and then a country house, with curls of smoke winding away from its chimney top.
She caught glimpses of fire light at the windows. A great despair came upon her at last. She was numb with the cold. Would she never find the country?
Perhaps she had not come the right way. The tears dropped slowly down her face, and she was about to brush them away. She stopped at the gate of the next house. A man went whistling across the yard. She could not see his face. She held up her hand to him and asked him, "Maybe he would tell her which way to go. A minute later the farmer felt a timid touch on his arm. He turned and saw her, a pale little waif, tear-stained and blue with the cold.

"Well, bless my soul!" he cried,
turning his broad, kindly face full up on her.

"I want to find my father," said
Bess with a sob in her voice.

"Bless my soul!" said the man again, "come straight to the fire and get warm. He picked up the miserable little bundle and carried her into the sitting room. "Here, mother, come quick and tend to this little snowbird I found out in the yard just now.
It's starved, frozen."

A motherly woman came bustling in from the kitchen. Her face grew soft and tender, and her eyes were very pitiful as she knelt and undid the old shawl and chafed the poor, frozen hands. The child was warmed and fed. She spread her little hands to the dancing blaze with a great content in her face.

"You say you are looking for your father?" the farmer asked. The child's lips trembled.

"I wanted to find him, and the country," she said vaguely. "The boy said I would never be cold or hungry any more and that my father was there."

The farmer scratched his head in a puzzled way.

"He said maybe my Father wasn't ready for me to come yet, but if I was good, sometime He would send for me."
The woman's cheeks were wet with sudden tears. "Father," she said, with a quiver in her voice, "I do believe she means heaven."

The farmer's lips twitched a little.
"Where did you come from?" he asked gently. The child looked puzzled.
Then she pointed uncertainly. "That way, I guess—oh, a long, long way!"

The farmer and his wife looked at one another. The tears gathered slowly in the woman's eyes. "Little Ellie was just that tall, she said softly.
The farmer walked away and looked out at the white fold.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

The song drifted tenderly through his mind. Perhaps, might it not be helping him? He thrust the money into the child's hand, and left her comforted.

There is a Country.

Bess wandered wearily down the dim lit street with her last unsold papers under her arm. It was late and the wind was growing cold, but she did not mind it much, she only shivered and kept close to the wall. A glimmer of light shone at the windows of the great church. She heard a sound of singing—the choir was practicing for the Sunday services. A little door stood open close by, and she stole inside. It was warmer there, the wind did not blow, and she crouched down in the dark to listen. The voices kept on in splendid chorus, full and mighty. Bess nodded drowsily in her sheltered corner. All at once a single voice rang on alone—a boy's voice—sweet, oh so sweet! Bess caught her breath with a little sob.
Then she leaned forward and listened eagerly. What were those words, those beautiful words, the voice was singing?
"They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more." Oh, what did it mean? The voice stopped and then began again:

"There is a country which is as heavenly"
Bess clasped her hands in the dark,
and the voice went on, low, sweet, thrilled her with hope, exultant, glad—
"Yes, she was sure of it this time:
"It shall hunger no more!"

Oh, if she could only find it! She sobbed softly to herself in the darkness,
and the voice took up the words again,
infinitely sweet and tender:

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

A door opened suddenly at the end of the passage; they were coming out,
they would not sing anymore to-night.

She crept into the shadow, and they passed by her. Then one came out alone; she heard him say good-night to the choir-master, who still lingered.
He came down the dim passage, singing softly to himself the words of his sola. "They shall hunger no more."

Now was the time, she would ask him. He knew about it. She put out her hand and touched his sleeve.
"Please tell me where to find it?"

He was startled; he had not seen her coming out of the bright choir room. He answered a little gruffly,
"What is it you have lost?"

"No, no, the country! Oh, I thought you knew, I thought you knew!" and Bess cast herself away in sudden, sobbing despair.

The boy whistled softly to himself,
"Oh," he said gently, after a minute.
"Come, don't cry, I'll tell you. I do know." Bess hushed herself and listened eagerly.

"It is God's country. If you will be good and love Him, He will come and take you to it some day, and you'll never be cold or hungry any more. He is your father."

"My father?" questioned the child, wonderingly, "Oh, tell me where to find Him!" "But maybe He isn't ready for you yet," said the boy, "you must wait till He sends for you."

"But I want to go now," said the child, sobbing pitifully, "I'm hungry
now."

The boy whistled softly for a minute or two. He put his hand in his pocket.
He knew there was just ten cents there.
If he gave her that it meant a long two mile trudge for him. "And God shall

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 9, 1893.

Wolfville Should Not be Behind.

The Kentville Board of Trade, although only organized a few weeks, gives indication of its value to the town already.

Highways.

Good roads are always a sign of advancing civilization. As communities grow older and richer their roads grow better.

An Unlimited Market.

The value of Canadian exports to Great Britain increased from $39,672,000 in 1883 to $55,000,000 in 1892.

Town Council.

June 6th, 1893. Council met at 7.30 p.m., present the Mayor and Councillors Thomson, Starr, Sawyer, Bars, Geo. W. Burden and C. H. Holden and the Recorder.

Report read from late Commissioner of Streets for Wolfville District, referring to a balance due by them for road expenditure; referred by motion to the Recorder to report on at next meeting.

Resolved that for the year 1893 the Council appropriate for roads and streets a sum not to exceed $700.00, and that the amount appropriated for each purpose be placed at the disposal of the street committee, with discretionary powers as to its use, said committee to report at each regular monthly meeting as to work done.

Letter read from Colin W. Roscoe referring to change of School District.

Tenders for school debentures from J. W. Bars, W. L. Lowell & Co., and J. C. MacKintosh were read, also accounts from the Morning Chronicle and the Herald Printing and Publishing Co. and A. & W. MacKintley. Tenders and accounts were referred to the Finance and Accounts committee.

Canada's Criminal Statistics.

The department of agriculture has in press the criminal statistics of Canada for 1892. In addition to the usual returns for the year prepared by Mr. St. Dennis, the blue book will this year contain a monograph on crime in Canada prepared by George Johnson.

Acadia Seminary.

The Halifax Herald's correspondent says: All the departments are in the hands of specialists, under the principalship of Miss Graves, an accomplished educationalist, whose governing body as well as by the pupils.

Town Topics.

The most reading matter, the most varied in character, and the best and brightest in quality of any weekly journal will be found in Town Topics, the world-famed, so-called society journal of New York.

From the same office is published a literary Quarterly, "Tales from Town Topics," 256 pages, in each number of which is given an original story, obtained by competition under an offer of a thousand dollar prize, and occupying about half the book, the balance of the volume being made up of short stories, etc., from the numbers of Town Topics of years back.

Both these publications, circulars are sent for one year for $5.00.

Still True to Canada. Somehow or other the words of Scripture, "We wept when we remembered Zion," will occur to the reader as his eyes linger over the few words in the report which tells how old Canadian folk wept even as they were singing "God save the Queen" with their fellow subjects in the Quebec Pavilion at Chicago on the Queen's Birthday.

God bless them. Distance from Canada has not separated them in heart from their land, their flag or their Queen. Precious memories of earlier years were awakened by the cadence of that song which they could not sing in a foreign land without thinking of the country to which their hearts are ever true.

A Tribute to the Memory of Lottio Simpson Freeman.

How much is said and written in praise of the so-called great men and women who are taken from this life. We have often thought, "Who are the great?" The books tell us in Dan., 7:27, "The kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him."

And then, of those belonging to his kingdom, Christ says, in Luke, 9:48: "For he that is least among you shall be great."

And again, in Matt., 12:50, "For whoever shall do the will of my father who is in heaven, the same is my brother and sister and mother."

A tent or a cottage, why should I care? They're building a palace for me over there.

Theo' I exiled from home, yet still I may sing:

All glory to God, I'm the child of a king! I'm the child of a king!

With Jesus, my saviour, I'm the child of a king!

It was not necessary to be with our dear departed sister long to know that she was indeed God's child.

Twenty-one grand jurors were present. E. H. Duncan was chosen foreman. Judge Graham briefly addressed the grand jurors, complimenting them on the fact that the county was free from crime.

Twenty-three petit jurors answered to their names. Judge Graham ordered that all jurors absent from the June sitting be fined, grand jurors, four dollars each, and petit jurors, two dollars each.

The baristers present were E. Webster, G. C. E. A. Pyke, E. J. Cogwell, E. S. Crawley, W. E. Roscoe, F. A. Masters, A. G. Morrison, W. P. Shaffner, H. L. Dennison, E. B. Cogwell, T. R. Robertson and E. L. Hill, of Shelburne. B. Webster, in behalf of the bar of the county and officers of the court welcomed Judge Graham, who is presiding on this circuit for the first time.

True Philanthropy. To the Editor: Please inform your readers that I will mail free to all sufferers the means by which I was restored to health and manly vigor after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness.

When I found among the trees. To one so young (nineteen years of age) the future promised much. Being exceedingly fond of music, we remember so well the keen disappointment when told by her physician that she must give up singing for a time.

Later, with the hope of returning health, she began a course of study at Acadia Seminary, but increasing weakness compelled her to leave at the end of one term.

With a sweet and patient grace, some cherished pain, some work, some bright hope was given up. When it came to life itself, she lovingly, confidently said, "Jesus, come quickly." One could not fail to notice the great influence she exerted over her young companions. It seemed to us their very steps were lighter, their voices more gentle, and smiles sweeter when they came into her presence.

How much we miss her! Yet we would not call her back. Out of the arms of earthy love, into the arms of infinite love!

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away."

H. E. G. Windsor, June 6th, 1893.

The Angel of Death.

Death's ruthless and unrelenting hand has snatched another young life from our midst. To-day it is our sad duty to chronicle the demise of Miss Jennie McDonald, at the early age of 19 years.

"SIX MONTHS IN HAD'S,"

A truly marvelous tale of to-day. $1,000 PRIZE NOVEL IN GREAT SUMMER NUMBER (B) OF TALES FROM TOWN TOPICS.

In addition to the prize story of 150 pages there are 50 very short stories, sketches, poems and witticisms from the old issues of Town Topics, that famous and spicy New York Journal known wherever English is read.

What The Independent says:—"Once again New York's fashionable society quarterly volume, 'Tales From Town Topics,' has made its appearance. The tales are spicy and the topics inexhaustible. Some of the tales skirt along the very edge of danger, but a firm hand holds them back within the bounds of a wholesome sense of propriety."

All news and book stands or send paper, 50 cents, in Town Topics, 21, W. at St. Street, New York.

$1.00 pays three months' trial subscription to Town Topics and you will get any back number of "Tales From Town Topics" FREE.

LIBERAL CLUB OFFER: Town Topics and "Tales from Town Topics" will both be sent one year for $5.00.

Town Topics, the great 32-page weekly, is universally recognized as the most complete weekly journal in the world.

Its "Sundering" columns are inimitable. Its society news, especially of the doings of the 400 of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and all over the world, is not equaled by any newspaper.

Its Financial Department is authority with all bankers and brokers. Its "Affid and Affid" makes it the most interesting paper for all lovers of sport—racing, foot ball, rowing, shooting, fishing, etc.

Its "On the Turf" excels all other racing notes. Its burlesques, poems and jokes are the cleverest. Its stories are by the best writers—among them Annie Rivers, Edgar Fawcett, Jerome K. Jerome, Gilbert Parker, Mary of Howler ("Lance Palester"), Barry Pain, Paul Bourget, etc., etc., etc.

WOLFFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 9, 1893. Local and Provincial.

Rev. Ia Wallace preached in the Baptist church on Sunday morning last.

Next Sunday, June 11th, there will be service in St. John's church at 11, a. m. and at 7, p. m.

We have been requested to state that until further notice the office hours of the Town Clerk will be from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Mr. Walter Brown is having the foundation prepared for a residence on Water street. The building will be completed as soon as possible we understand.

Another case of those celebrated 50 cent slippers at Borden's.

At the Gasperau river last Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. Higgins administered baptism to two candidates. At the same place Rev. M. P. Freeman, of Gasperau, baptized five persons.

Soda Water—pure, sparkling, cool, &c. at the Drugstore. 38

The superintendent of the streets has begun operations. We hope to see an improvement over old methods this year as the work proceeds and shall be glad to record improvements.

The dwelling house of Harrison Porter, a Hillaton, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. The contents were saved. It is said to be partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

W. I. Grono can show you 500 different patterns from which to select a suit or overcoat.

There were 89 head of fat cattle on Wednesday's noon freight, on their way to Halifax. This is said to be the greatest number that ever passed through Wolffville on any one train since the opening of the road.

Miss Saunders, of Halifax, daughter of the Rev. E. M. Saunders, has been awarded a $200 prize offered by the American Humane Society for the best story on the kind and cruel treatment of domestic animals and birds.

K. D. C. cleanses and strengthens the stomach without weakening and destroying the tissues.

Mr. M. S. Read has been elected to a scholarship in the Sage School of Philosophy at Cornell University for distinguished work in that department during the past year. Mr. Read was graduated from Acadia in '91 and was subsequently Principal of the Wolffville Public School.

Parties from Wolffville ordering a new suit from W. I. Grono, Kentville, will be allowed a return ticket.

We understand that the Good Temple Lodge of Wolffville, Kentville and Hantsport are making arrangements to have a joint picnic at the "Look off," on Saturday June 17th. As these lodges are all in a prosperous condition, with a good membership, a pleasant day will no doubt be spent.

Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier—a splendid spring medicine—50 cts. a bottle at the Drugstore. 36

We learn upon good authority that the Rev. Henry DeBos, Rural Dean, has upon mature deliberation, declined the bishopric of the important parish of Wolffville, to which he was unanimously elected last Easter, finding it hard to sever his connection from the county in which he has spent the greater part of his life.—Wolffville Monitor.

One Vegetable Worm Syrup is warranted by us to be effective, safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Drugstore.

We notice that a philanthropic lady of Yarmouth—Miss Clara Killam—has presented a beautiful monumental fountain to that town. Have we not somebody in Wolffville who will make a similar gift to our town? Wolffville has an excellent water supply, and we should have at least one drinking fountain within the town limits. We have plenty of persons who are able, and we hope someone will follow up the suggestion in a substantial manner.

Wedding Bells. A very interesting event came off at Granville Ferry yesterday, when the Rev. W. B. Wallace, B. A., was united in marriage to Miss Alice W. Young, the Rev. Isaiah Wallace officiating.

The bride was dressed in a beautiful blue crepe and held in her hand a bouquet of flowers composed of lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots. The groom was supported by his brother, Lewis Wallace, while the bridesmaids were Miss Annie Hall and two nieces of the bride—Misses Susie and Prescilla Hall.

After the marriage ceremony was performed, about fifty sat down to dinner at the home of Capt. Joseph Hall.

The presents were very numerous, many of them coming from the former school friends of Mr and Mrs Wallace.

The happy couple left on the express for Wolffville where they will remain a few days before coming back to Granville and then to Owego, New York.—Annapolis Spectator.

Acadia's Alumni. At the meeting of the Associated Alumni of Acadia College on Jan. 1st, the following officers were elected:

Hon. J. P. Chipman, President. E. W. Sawyer, Vice-President, C. E. Seaman, Secretary-Treasurer. J. B. Hall, E. R. Morse, A. J. Kempton, H. L. Beckwith, C. A. Eaton, Frank H. Eaton, S. W. Cummings, Directors.

The society, as is well known, has undertaken the support of a professorship at Acadia. The occupant of the chair, Prof. Haley, has given general satisfaction. During the past year, local Acadia clubs have been formed with loyalty to Acadia's interests with the older society. The business affairs are on the whole gratifying.

Last year a few pheasants were brought to Nova Scotia from England and put out for the winter to see how the cold weather would effect them and to ascertain whether or no they could be dimalized. Notwithstanding the fact that last winter was an extraordinary cold one the birds are found to have done finely, so much so that the Nova Scotia Game society decided to make an importation of pheasants for the benefit of the province. Eighteen birds arrived on the Common Saturday consigned to the secretary George Piers, Dutch Village. Trials of them will be placed on farms in different parts of the province and fed until they breed and multiply.

Plants for Bedding. Cabbages, Tomatoes, Celery, &c., Petunias, Asters, Dahlias, Chrysanthemum, and all kinds of Bedding Plants ready now. A. J. WOODMAN, Wolffville Greenhouse.

The first meeting of the Union Driving Club will be held on the Kentville Driving Park on Thursday afternoon next, at 1:30 o'clock. There is expected to be a three minute club trotting race and a two-year-old club race; and a handicap race, open to all. We understand that the club is offering liberal purses.

The largest variety of goods ever shown in Kentville can now be seen at W. I. Grono's, Merchant Tailor, "Margeson's Block."

The Grand Division, Sons of Temperance in Nova Scotia spends about $2000 a year in agency work in the province. There are 263 divisions now in Nova Scotia with 14,118 members. The Grand Scoble claims this is the largest and best Grand Division in the world.
