The Way to Keep Down the Cost of Living:

Buy Your Groceries, Teas & Coffees From WENTZELL'S Limited.

From one end of the Province to the other WENTZELL'S LIMITED is known as the "Big Store." It is known as a store having a big stock, a big variety, and giving big value—the only part that is small is the price.

WENTZELL'S LIMITED buy in the very largest quantities direct from sources of supply. Having ample capital, they pay cash, thus securing everything at the very lowest market price.

The policy of the "Big Store" is "large sales and small profits." This has built up a tremendous business, nothing like it east of Montreal. That's the reason why the "Big Store" prices are always so reasonable, and why you can keep down the cost of living if you trade here.

Fight for the Right.

Oh! then ye, brother in the fight
Ye're fighting now, ye cannot fail;
For better is your cause of right,
Than kingly's triple mail.

The great hearts of your alien time
Are beating with you, fall and struggle,
All holy memories and sublime,
And glorious round you throng.

The tribles ye urge are borne abroad
By every changing wind and tide,
The voice of Nature and of God
Speak out upon your side.

Press on—and those who may not
The salt or glory of your fight,
May ask, at least, in earnest prayer,
God's blessing on the fight.

Germany's Future a Dark Prospect.

The twentieth century belongs to the Germans.—Pre-war German Proverb.

When the German Emperor took a few days' respite from the war-tumults on his battle front, when the imperial train rumbled over a Germany that has become a haunted land of silent factories, shattered warehouses, maimed men, broken women and fatherless children, does he ever lift a mental periscope and look into Germany's future?

Whether he wins the war or loses it, or whether the war ends in a stalemate the Kaiser knows now that the prosperity of his Empire has melted like snow, knows now that the Germany that was built by his grandfather and his father has crumbled as fortress walls have crumbled before his mortars. He knows that half the life-blood of German virility has ebbed already on battlefields. He knows that all the mighty commerce of Germany is a yester year's dream. He knows that the once boasted culture of Germany is so fouled that the very word "culture" has changed its meaning and become a synonym for bestiality. He knows, most of all, that the word "German" is a hissing and reproach throughout the world, and that Time will have to ply her scythe for a century before the German will again be unshowered among other peoples. These are black days for the peoples of the Allied nations, but it is no mean mental tonic to borrow the Kaiser's periscope and look into the twentieth century that belongs so terribly to the Germans.

There are night watches already of the New Attila when he must sweat at thought of the epithets that History, even a thousand years after this century that "belongs" to him, will barb her pen with when she writes his name. There is a writing which flames on the midnight upon castle wall or field tent of the German Emperor, and the words of it are: "As long as men have pens and women have tongues to tell children of the throes that you brought upon the world your name be most accursed of all human names except that of Judas."

No device or cajolery of the Kaiser or the Germans can alter that future. No repentance or contrition can wig his stony and sickened heart of Europe. How many years will it be before decent men of this world will knowingly sit at table with a German, before they will shake the spotted buttons of pleasure in the German land, or hold indeed any ordinary human comity with the Teuton? Will the Belgians, with their memories of Vise and Louvain? Will the French after Rheims has repaired her shattered holiness? Will the Russians—with that picture ever red before their eyes of the massacres and ghastly with the ghost of the Lusitania still walling her spectral airs?

Germany may breed again her population and outlive her tragedy of a Germany of old men, women and children. Tun by tun she may repudiate her old trade. Humbled and purged, she may even respect some little of the glories of learning, philosophy, poetry and song that she has trod into the kennel. But in the lifetime of no German living to-day will it be escape the only sweetness that makes the lives of nations, like the lives of individuals, endurable to themselves—the respect and friendship of their neighbors.

That is the twentieth century that belongs to Germany.—Tweele Brix.

The Burden of Age.

The kidneys seem to be about the first organs to wear out and fail to properly perform their work. The result is weak, lame, aching back, rheumatic pains and failing eyesight. Many people of advanced years have recovered health and comfort by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They ensure the healthful action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

His Last Letter Home.

Here is a letter found upon the body of Lieutenant Chataway, of a French reserve regiment, addressed to his wife:

"I write this letter because one never knows what may happen. If you get it, it will mean that France has wasted all I could give her. Don't mourn for me for I shall have died happily. The only thing I worry about is the position you will be in with the children. But as for bringing up the girls I am not anxious. You will manage as well as I could have done. Kiss them for me, and tell them that their father has gone on a long journey, and did not forget them.

"There will also be another baby whom I shall not know. If it is a boy, I should like him to be a doctor, unless, of course, after this war France should still be in need of officers. Tell him when he is old enough to understand that his father gave his life that his country may be greater and stronger. I think I have told you all the essential things. Promise not to bear any grudge to France if she takes me. I hope we may meet again some day. My poor darling, I haven't even had time to think much about our love, great and strong though it be.

"Goodbye, the long goodbye. Be brave.—Thy Jean."

A Happy New Year.

How often in the roll of years have these words been linked together to add to the cheer of friends. We have different thoughts at this milestone of a New Year from those we cherish at other seasons. We think more of our another perhaps than at other times—at any rate we give more expression to our thoughts:

Over the heart at New Year's time
These steals the memory of other days.

When life was full of a joyous rhyme
For our feet had traversed its dewy ways.

Some time since we had wondered why
So little of sunshine, so much of rain,
Our eyes have been wet, our hearts
Been dry.

As we struggled to conquer life's bitter pain,
But to-day, as the chiming peal out again,
They ring with hope for the future years.

And our courage revives with the glad refrain,
And we put beneath us our useless tears.

With helpful hands let us go about
Living each day as brave souls should.
For the promise is ours, and we need not doubt
That all things work together for good.

Debt To Canada

A former mayor of Boston tells of a letter recently received from a nephew now in business in Canada. The young man was accosted on the street of a large city and urged to enlist. His reply was "I am an American." The recruiting sergeant looked him over and turned away with a sneer. "Well, I'm sorry for you then," he said. And that remark, writes the young man, is typical of the Canadian attitude toward those from this side of the border—general contempt for Americans because we are not joining in the war (that the British world firmly believes is in our defence as well as for its own). Correspondents in England and France send home the same story. It is not pleasant to know that Germany and its allies hate us because we are doing so much for their enemies, and at the same time Great Britain and France and their allies hold us in contempt because we are not standing side by side with them in the active warfare. It is the penalty of being un-biased citizens of a neutral nation. It is a situation full of unpleasant possibilities of many kinds when peace finally comes again.

Yet Canada is welcoming many thousands of good fighting Americans to the big army that it is raising, and at this time one whole regiment is being trained in Canada, the 97th Canadians, of which every individual among its 1200 officers and men is a citizen of the United States. If we feel any special degree of satisfaction that this is so, we should remember that it is only the payment of a debt that we have owed Canada for more than half a century. The records at Washington show that no fewer than 68,000 Canadians enlisted in the United States Army. About a third of these were in New York regiments, and most of the rest in New England regiments. To be sure, large numbers of them came across the border to offer their services after the hostilities were alluringly large, and thousands of them acquired the unsavory distinction of being "bounty jumpers" but many other thousands proved and enthusiastic soldiers. What Canada has done in the past year and a half, and the part played in it by

Who Said Hard Times?

Two hundred tons of gold, worth $102,000,000, and occupying the space of three cords of wood, are now stored in the United States assay office. The gold is in 16,345 bars. It represents the accumulation of British sovereigns and other foreign coins brought to the United States within about six weeks in an effort to maintain the financial balance between European nations and the United States.

The bars have been melted down to 916.6 fine. It is finer than the gold used in the United States mints. The employees of the assay office, working over-time finished the task of melting it down a few days ago.

Why Lightning Sours Milk.

Milk, it sometimes happens, not always, will turn sour during a thunderstorm. It is not always the lightning that causes it, for the heat before the storm is often great enough to make the milk ferment.

But lightning can and sometimes does make milk turn sour by its action on the air. Air, as everybody knows, is composed of two gases—oxygen and nitrogen, but these gases are mixed together, not combined. Lightning, however, makes the gases combine in the air through which it passes, and this combination produces nitric acid, some of which mixes with the milk and turns it sour.

The name of Mr. Barry H. Burgess of Sheffield Mills, King's Co. N. S. appears in the Boston Globe in a list of students who have won distinction at the medical examinations recently held at Harvard University. He has been successful in winning a cash scholarship of $175 for proficiency in the subject of pathology, which is the third scholarship he has taken at Harvard. Mr. Burgess first took his B. A. degree from Acadia College and later graduated in arts at Harvard before entering the Medical Department.

Whoooping Cough.

Whoooping cough, the "whooping" cough, is a disease which is attributed to their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linnseed and Turpentine. We always have it in the house and recommend it to the king of all medicines. I was formerly completely cured of protruding pile by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

The old pensioner who blew the bellows for the organ had a most exasperating falling. In spite of frequent admonitions he would continue blowing after the music had stopped thereby producing most undesirable sounds. One day the organist could stand it no longer. The congregation had been set tittering by the old man's forgetfulness, and during the sermon the organist seized the opportunity to write him a note on the matter and hand it to the choir boy to deliver. Misunderstanding the whi-pered directions, the lad handed the note to the vicar, who astoundedly read the following:

"Will you stop when I tell you to? People come here to listen to my music, not to your horrible noise."

A denure looking Salvation Army lassie, who was traveling in a railway train, was asked by a man sitting next her whether she believed every word in the Bible.

"Yes," she replied, "I do."

"Surely," exclaimed the man, "you don't believe that Josiah was swallowed by a wha'?"

"I do," she answered, "and when I get to Heaven I'll ask him about it."

"But suppose he's not in Heaven," inquired the stranger.

"Then you ask him!" was the lassie's reply.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JAN. 14, 1916.

Editorial Brevities.

Easter this year will fall on April 23rd. Only once again in this century will it be so late, in 1943, when the date will be April 25th, the latest that is possible.

The date for holding the civic elections is rapidly approaching. It is none too soon to be thinking about who are to manage the affairs of the town during the coming year.

Recent Chicago papers report the death of that city of Rev. E. C. Spiney, D. D., which took place on December 30th. Dr. Spiney was a graduate of Acadia in the class of 1868. His boyhood home was in Wilmet, Annapolis county.

Fruit Growers' Parliament.

Next week will be a rather important one in Wolfville as the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association are to favor our town with their presence on the occasion of their annual meeting. Wolfville has always been regarded as the headquarters of the Association and for a long time the meetings were always held here. We doubt very much if the decision made some years ago to hold the annual meeting from place to place has proved to be a wise one.

Be that as it may we trust our people will do all in their power to make the visit of the fruit growers next week pleasant and profitable and the meetings successful and interesting.

Fruit-growing has assumed very large proportions in this vicinity during the past twenty-five years, and may be justly regarded as the leading industry. It is very proper, then, that we should consider these meetings as important. The program prepared for this year's meetings looks interesting, and special interest should be taken in the debate on Wednesday evening when the subject of mixed farming will be discussed by men well qualified. This is a subject of which we have heard very much during recent years in the valley and we presume much can be said in favor of its adoption by our orchardists. This, however, we will leave to the gentlemen who have been chosen to carry on the discussion.

An Appeal to the Men of Nova Scotia.

The Premier of Canada has just announced the decision of his government to call for 250,000 more men. This will make a total of half a million men called to the colors since the beginning of the war. While this announcement will cause a thrill of determination to do her full share in the prosecution of the war, it places a deep responsibility on every man and woman in the country to help to secure the men. In this province we have so far recruited about 12,000 men, so that the duty before us is to enlist at least as many more. This can only be done if every available young man who is physically fit places his services at the disposal of his country.

In this grave emergency when the fate of the Empire is being determined, we earnestly appeal to you, the young men of our own Province, to give continued proof of your courage and patriotism. We appeal to your sense of duty so that you may not evade the sacrifice involved in defending your country. We appeal to the manhood within you so that you may not be content to let your fighting be done for you by your friends and fellow citizens. Above all, we appeal to your sense of honor, so that the cry that comes back to us from the blood-stained trenches of Flanders may not go unanswered, so that the sons of Nova Scotia who have already made the supreme sacrifice, shall not have died in vain. Let your response to this appeal show that when it comes to a question of patriotic service, the young men of this noble little Province of ours will take second place to no other part of the King's Dominion.

On behalf of the Recruiting Association,
DAVID MACKERN,
L. Governor of Nova Scotia, Hon. President.

New York Times: The Germans and the Austrians seem to glory in their outlaws, to be absolutely determined to make the rest of the world understand that they have detached themselves from civilization and are frankly given over to barbarism in this war.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body. In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dizziness, sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown. To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutrient gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. Free from harmful drugs. Scott & Borden, Toronto, Ont.

Volunteer-Or Conscript?

To recruit as many men in the next eight months as have been recruited in the last seventeen months is the task set the people of Canada. Can this task be accomplished without conscription? Will the young men volunteer, or must they be forced to do their duty?

One would have scorned to ask such a question before the war began, so confident were we of the loyalty and courage of the young manhood of the province; but the experience of the recruiting committee has shattered some idols, and given a rude shock to the general feeling of complacency. It is one thing to boast about our loyalty, and quite another thing to prove that loyalty. It is one thing to sing patriotic airs with great fervor, and quite another to put on a suit of khaki and train for active service.

Places of amusement and entertainment are more popular than recruiting meetings. Skating or dancing is more popular than marching to the tap of the drum. And yet a young man, writing in a dugout in France, in quarters where he could not stand up, wrote home the other day:—

"Yet the truth is—I am enjoying myself here—a thing I could not do if I were at home."
What is the difference between this young man and the one who goes to the rink or pool room or other place of pleasure of an afternoon or evening? The one has seen a vision of duty, the other will not see it until he is prodded with a bayonet.

Of course an exception must be made of the many young men and mere boys who have earnestly tried to enlist and have failed to pass the physical test. They deserve to be honored, and we may yet arrive at the time when they will be given a badge, so that everybody may know who has honestly tried to enlist and who was refused. The distinction would hardly be fair, however, because there are young men who for sufficient reason must stay home, and who are really eager to go. If the real slackers could be sorted out and labelled, their number would rapidly diminish—for the shame's sake—and the ranks of the battalions would be filled.

No doubt there are young men who have felt that they ought to go, and that eventually they would go, but the time has been put off from week to week. Perhaps some are influenced by ill-advised optimists who occasionally assert that the war will be over before men now enlisting have completed their training. For what would be the use of throwing up a position to train for a service that would never be required? This war may still be in progress two years hence. Most of us believe it will end before that time, but who knows? Who expected the Germans to be holding the fish Empire has not passed. It will not pass till Germany is crushed, Canada has offered another quarter of a million men, and Sir Sam Hughes believes they can be got without conscription. In his faith well-founded, or is his belief in the loyalty and courage of young Canadians misplaced? Is he leaning upon a broken reed, or upon the club that will eventually smash the German lines?

Baby's Battles Against Sickness

Can best be fought with Baby's Own Tablets—the little pleasant tasting Tablets that never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out all minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. H. Hower, Eastburg, Alta., says:—“I have four healthy children thanks to the use of Baby's Own Tablets. I have been using the Tablets for the past eight years and think them the best medicine in the world for little ones.” The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Liquor Traffic

In Manitoba legislation to be introduced provides for provincial prohibition, to be preceded by the popular referendum.

In Quebec the anti liquor league is asking the legislature for a no-trading law. The league also wants all bars closed at 7 p. m., and not open till 7 a. m., and asks for an amendment to the law which would permit of voting against licenses taking place in wards of municipalities. A regulation is sought for forbidding the licensing of a hotel within two hundred feet of a church, college, school or conv.

Certain changes in the clauses of the license law dealing with penalties are suggested, while it is urged that no new liquor licenses or privileges be granted to any clubs, societies or associations by the licensing authorities; while existing licenses shall not be transferred, and if cancelled or withdrawn for cause they shall not be replaced. It is also asked that no club licenses be granted for premises in wards in which hotel and other licenses are prohibited.

The Ottawa Free Press says that a number of prominent Ottawa gentlemen in conjunction with large employers of labor in the big cities, are starting a very vigorous campaign to induce parliament at the coming session to pass legislation prohibiting for the duration of the war the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors throughout Canada. The present idea of the committee is that the prohibitory legislation asked for should extend for a period of two years following the conclusion of peace—the recessive period—and that it should be repeated only by

“It may be taken for granted that there will be a prohibition debate in parliament in the coming session, and the attitude of the different members of both sides of the House will be watched with much interest. It is understood that, at the outset owing to the lack of time, there will be no effort to obtain a large number of signatures to the appeal of parliament, but an endeavor will be made to make it strikingly representative, and strong enough to bear on the members and senators.”

Fair Haven, Vt.—“I was so nervous and run down that I could not do my housework for my little family of three. I had doctor for nearly two years without help. One day I read about Vinol, and thought to try it, my health has been restored so I am doing all my housework again. I am telling all my friends what Vinol has done for me.”—Mrs. JAMES H. EDDY.

How to avoid Operations

These Three Women Tell How They Escaped the Dreadful Ordeal of Surgical Operations.

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All sick women should read them.

Marquette, Wis.—“I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured, and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again.”—Mrs. FRED BENNER, Marquette, Wis.

Detroit, Mich.—“When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run down with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wax and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well.”—Mrs. THOS. DWYER, 989 Milwaukee Ave., East, Detroit, Mich.

Bellevue, Pa.—“I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped. I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering woman.”—Miss IRENE FROSTMAN, 1923 Manhattan St., North Side, Bellevue, Pa.

If you would like special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Med. Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Sea Is His.

The sea is His; He made it,
Black gull and sunlit shoal;
From barred light to where the long
Leagues of Atlantic roll;
Small strait and ceaseless ocean
He bade each one to be,
The sea is His; He made it—
And England keeps it free.
By pain and stress and striving
Beyond the nation's ken,
By vigils stern when others sleep,
By many lives of men;
Through nights of storms, through dawnings
Blacker than midnight be—
This sea that God created,
England has kept it free.
Count me the splendid captains
Who sailed with courage high
To chart the perilous ways unknown—
Tell me where these men lie!
Tell me a path for ships to come
They moored at Dead Man's Quay;
The sea is God's; He made it—
And these men kept it free.
A little land of England,
O mother hearts too brave,
Men say this trust shall pass from thee
Who guardest Nelson's grave.
Ay, but these braggers yet shall learn
Who'd hold the world in fee,
The sea is God's—and England,
England shall keep it free.
—R. E. Verne, in London Eve'g Star.

The Charlottetown Guardian regards the latest amendments to the Prince Edward Island prohibitory law as "a splendid commentary on the growing temperance sentiment of the Province." They make illicit rum-selling much more hazardous.

The booze business has certainly fallen on hard times. The medical authorities have taken away from alcohol its standing as a drug. Big business has conspired against it, and has declared that sobriety is essential for business efficiency. And now it is being successfully attacked in its last stronghold—social custom. At a recent meeting of the Associated College News held in New York it was decreed that henceforth no liquor advertisements will be carried by any paper within the Association. This does not mean that wines will be barred from college functions in all cases, but it does mean that social customs are beginning to feel the effect of the temperance crusade. Already at social functions the absence of intoxicants is becoming more frequent. The action of these college journals is a good indication of the direction of the prevailing wind.

Drink and Crime.

The following is from the Pioneer: "A Grand jury sitting in Chicago a short time ago made a deliverance upon the liquor question which ought to have the careful consideration of everyone who seeks the welfare of his fellow-citizens."
"We find that a large percentage of the crime brought to our attention is caused directly by drinking malt or alcoholic liquors, and we call the attention of the public to the need of more stringent regulation of this traffic. We find that a large percentage of those charged with crime are from seventeen to twenty-five years old and that in nearly every case they drank malt or alcoholic liquors before or during the commission of the crimes for which they were indicted."
"We seriously question the wisdom of the state entering into a partnership with these interests for the sake of an apparent profit (through the license system), but which is really a dreadful economic loss, and through this partnership feeding

CANADA'S BLACK WATCH

Battalions of Montreal Regiment Affiliated With Historic Corps

The 5th Regiment Royal Highlanders (Royal Highlanders), the oldest regiment in the service, to which the King himself is Colonel-in-Chief, and which has had a good deal to do with the history of Canada. The regiment was formed early in the 18th century by Highland chieftains who were commissioned to raise bodies of their clansmen to keep order in their different districts. Around the standard of these chieftains there gathered the strongest and bravest young men of the Highlands.

About 1766 the regiment, then known as the 42nd landed in America, and from this date began its connection with the making of our history. In various parts of the world this regiment won such glory for its courage and brilliant achievements that there was no difficulty in securing recruits for it at any time. In fact the Black Watch was held in such respect in the Highlands, and young men so readily enlisted into it, that recruiting parties of other regiments in order to allure the Highland youths, frequently assumed the black tartan of the old Highland regiment, for which they affected to be recruiting.

The old Highland regiment whose past was so glorious used to consist of the 42nd and 73rd battalions, the former coming to Nova Scotia in 1783, where it remained until 1879. When the present conflict broke loose the 5th R.H. of C. immediately sent out the 12th Battalion whose deeds of valor and chivalry at the front are, as we know, above description. It supplied 410 men and 7 officers to the 24th Battalion, then they raised the 42nd and 73rd Battalions which were among the finest bodies of men that left Canada. It will be seen therefore that there is a special significance for Canadians in the 42nd and 73rd Battalions owing to their historical connection and affiliation with the old Black Watch.

GIFTS TO MOTHERLAND

Canada Set Ball Rolling For All Colonies

Mr. W. E. Dowling says: "Canada's gift of four heads a record that encircles the globe. There have been given to the Old Country to help her in the struggle, cheese from Quebec (four million pounds of it), potatoes from New Brunswick, salmon from British Columbia, coal from Nova Scotia, oats and hay from Prince Edward Island, horses from Saskatchewan, apples from Ontario, sheepskins, butter, rabbits, beef, condensed milk, arrowroot, port wine, trawls, preserved fruits, sugar, jam, biscuits, and many other things from Australia; eggs from New Zealand, tea from Ceylon, bullocks from East Africa, fruits from the Straits Settlements, apples from Tasmania, sugar from Barbados and Mauritius, rice grown by East Indian colonists in British Guiana, and sent to the Indian troops in France, cocoa from the Windward Islands, limes and oranges and coconuts from Trinidad, arrowroot from St. Vincent, guava jelly from Montserrat, citron and jams from the West Indies generally." All the characteristic products of the Empire given without stint. And what a list it is! Enough to make a poor hungry Hun's mouth water.

Austrian Brutality

An Austrian soldier is here shown being punished for speaking disrespectfully to his superior officer. He is struck up by the wrists, his feet being allowed barely to touch a stone which rocks from side to side under his weight, thus throwing a frightful strain upon his wrists, arms and shoulders.

Impossible, and by the father impractical, and the only thing left is to ump them upon the State." What a commentary on our "Christian civilization!" The legalized saloon makes brutes of husbands and fathers, breaks up the homes, and the helpless mothers being unable to provide for the children, they are dumped into the orphanage!

AUSTRALIA'S NOVEL CONSCRIPTION SYSTEM

Compulsory Service For Every Fit Youth Over Long Period Produces Hardened Marksmen

In Australia they refer to the product of their new defense system as the "C.M.F." That means the Commonwealth Military Forces. Politically, the outstanding feature of the "C.M.F." is that it was called into being by a Labor ministry. The Australian Prime Minister who promulgated the Defence Bill upon which the present system was built was an ex-coal miner, the Minister of Defense was a carpenter.

The Australian system is of comparatively recent growth. In 1870 all imperial troops had been withdrawn and in their places were formed small groups of permanent professional forces around which it was intended to build an organization of citizen soldiers. An effort was made to operate this scheme successfully by means of a party-paid militia. In conjunction with this militia there was tried a scheme for military instruction in school for boys.

The step was taken at the close of the Boer War of opening opportunity for military training for any citizen of proper age and physical condition who desired it. Whether because of poor administration or lack of incentive, the system established in 1903 was found to be so unsatisfactory that in 1907 a law was passed making military training compulsory. This law did not become operative until June 30, 1911. During the intervening time enlistment continued to be voluntary.

When the new law went into effect in 1911, even with the preparation that had been made for enforcing its provisions, the departure from the old theories of national defence was a most radical one. The male citizens of Australia awoke to the fact that from the age of eighteen to the age of sixty, they were members of the army defence and bound to military service should war come, but only within the limits of Australia. Those citizens between twelve and twenty-six years of age, except those who could take advantage of the exemptions in the Defence Act, found themselves compelled to undergo certain prescribed periods of military training in the several branches of service.

Must Pass All Tests

From the time that he reaches July 1st of his twelfth year, every Australian youth who has been found to be morally, mentally and physically fit is forced to give strict attention to this matter of muscle-fitness. At the time that he enters the ranks of the twelve-year-old cadets, he receives from his government an outfit of soldier's clothes. Ninety hours out of each year for two consecutive years he devotes to military training. If he passes the prescribed test at the end of each of the first two years, he is allowed to become a senior cadet. His senior cadetship lasts for four years. Each year he must receive not less than four 4-hour drills, twelve 2-hour drills, and twenty-four 1-hour drills. His equipment is extended to include a cadet rifle and belt, and if his performance develops to a stipulated point he is allowed to take part in target practice with a service rifle. During the senior cadet's four years his instruction progresses from the manual of arms and close-order drill into open-order exercises and the study of minor tactics. Through the periods of both his junior and senior cadetships his natural tendencies are watched, and he is encouraged toward the branch of the service in which he seems to take the strongest interest.

At nineteen provided he has passed successfully each year's examination, the Australian cadet becomes a member of the citizen army. He is supplied by the Government with a complete war outfit. Each year, until he is twenty-six, he must present himself for not less than sixteen days of training, of which eight must be in camps of continuous instruction. Attendance at one muster parade is all that is required of him during his last year. Then he is discharged from active service. His discharge at twenty-six depends upon his ability to present twelve annual certificates of proficiency. Failure at examination in any one year means that the year's work must be repeated until the examination is successfully met. He is liable for service until he is sixty and severe punishment is provided for reprisals or hindrances to serve.

That is the Australian system. Already it has produced soldiers in large numbers so superior in body and in military knowledge as to be selected for service where the fighting has been the most violent. It is expected that the system, under normal conditions, will maintain constantly a defensive force of 150,000 cadets and 120,000 citizen soldiers. The annual cost in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.—Harper's Weekly.

OPERATIONS for APPENDICITIS

And How They Can be Avoided

Operation Ordered

For Appendicitis—Lead Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Was Completely Cured.

Dr. David H. Bender writes as follows of appendicitis:—"In considering the treatment of any condition of sickness it has always been my rule to first find the cause. To my mind, it's the only logical way. Many people seem to think that if they have had an operation for appendicitis they are forever immune, and need have no further fear along that line, but I say emphatically, and I think you will agree I am right, that after an attack of appendicitis, even though you have been successfully operated upon and the appendix removed, your troubles have only just begun unless you remove the cause. What was the cause of the appendicitis?"

"The thoughtless will say inflammation in the appendix. No, inflammation in the appendix is appendicitis, but what caused the inflammation? Constipation, yes, that is the prime cause. If you were never constipated you would forever be safe. Appendicitis is only one of the results of the retention of fecal matter in the colon for too long a period."

There is no longer any question that the real cause of appendicitis is constipation. By keeping the bowels regular you not only prevent appendicitis, but also a host of other ills, some of which are even more dangerous than appendicitis. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are recommended to you in this connection, not as a mere relief by effecting the movement of the bowels, but rather as a positive cure for constipation. As is well known, the bile secreted by the healthy action of the liver is Nature's cathartic. So long as the bile flows freely into the intestines there is no constipation of the bowels and no clogging of the excretory organs. Hence the wisdom of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to ensure regular working of the liver, kidneys and bowels. You thereby save yourself much inconvenience from the minor ills of life, and ensure against such fatal diseases as appendicitis and peritonitis.

Wolfville, 1st 10th, 1915.

On the last day of school prizes were distributed at Peter's school. When the little boy returned home the mother was entertaining callers.
"Well, Peter," asked one of the callers, "did you get a prize?"
"No," replied Peter, "but I got horrible mention!"
