"Stella Maris."

Sentiment, one of the characters of life, is everything in life. Without it no heroic action would ever be performed, no self-sacrifice shown, everything would be just tolerable. Mr.
Locke can certainly not be accused of losing sight of this most pleasing human attribute. Stella Maris, with her delicate thoughts and fancies, is thoroughly charming. Rixen and Herold are both quite captivating. The story as a whole is well worthy to rank with Locke's best and most successful novels. Special Colonial Editions

One in a Thousand, BUT TRUE TO THE LAST

CHAPTER XXVI.

"To My Cost!"

"Not just yet," I plead, "after a while, perhaps. Couldn't we try Scotland, or Wales?"

"Both, if you like; or we might go to Park Royal."

I laugh inmoderately at the idea. Poor "daddy"—he does not know it, but the idea is so absurd!

It ends by our taking a house in the Isle of Wight; and, before very long, we are established there. I find it just as irksome, just as distasteful as Utrecht; but I continue to keep my sentiments to myself. I cannot drag my father about much more; he is not so young as he was.

If a pretty house and picturesque scenery could satisfy anyone, I should be as happy as possible; but, unfortunately, they cannot, and they do not. I think very often that I frighten my father, for all during the long July and August days I exist—I do not live. Hour after hour I sit doing nothing; a book or newspaper I never touch; fancy work never enters my head. I drive out, when someone suggests it to me; but I do not think I should adopt the plan of my own free will. I do not care to be out of doors, but sit hour after hour in that very chair. They used to be fond of at Idemister, looking out, with blank, unseeing eyes, across the sea, and indifferent to everybody and everything around me. Lane dresses me as she likes, and now does not often ask my wishes; the answer was, and is, always the same—"Just as you like," or "I don't mind at all."

In the beginning of September Loys and Teddy come; but even that does not rouse me from the stupor into which I have fallen. I often find Loys looking at me, with tears in her soft eyes; but that does not touch me at all. I even wonder sometimes, in a dull kind of way, why they seem to be so troubled about me. I have a painful impression that I am going mad! I wonder indeed—I have speculated many times—if insane persons have any knowledge of their infirmity. I suppose not; they are probably past that. Very likely, when I am quite mad, I shall forget who I am, and all my story—forget the dread I once had of my brain going. I wonder if I shall be a dangerous lunatic. I smile at myself as the question rises in my brain. I dangerous? Why, I have not the strength of a cat!

But there comes a sudden check, which clears the cobwebs out of my brain, and makes me restlessly active once more. We are sitting one evening at dinner, when a telegram is handed to "daddy." He reads it through, and gives it to Teddy, without a word. In his turn, Teddy reads it, and then looks doubtfully at me. "You have bad news," I say, calmly, holding out my hand. "Give it to me, please, Teddy."

"Sir Adrian Charteris was hurt out shooting to-day. If possible, come at once."

Secret of Mysterious Power Revealed at Last.

How Prominent People have Gained Wealth and Fame.

Simple Method that enables anyone to control thoughts and acts of others, cure diseases and habits without drugs, win the love and friendship of others and read the secret thoughts and desires of people though thousands of miles away.

"TO UPLIFT AND BENEFIT MANKIND," says THE REV. JAMES STANLEY WENTZ.

WONDERFUL BOOK DESCRIBING THIS STRANGE FORCE AND A CHARACTER DELINEATION POST FREE TO ALL WHO WRITE AT ONCE.

The National Institute of Sciences of London, England, has appropriated $25,000 toward a fund for the free distribution of Prof. Knowles' new book, "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of Eastern Yogis, and explains a wonderfully simple system for the development of Personal Magnetism, Hypnotic and Telepathic Powers, and the curing of diseases and habits without drugs. The subject of Practical Character Reading is also extensively dealt with, and the author describes a simple method of accurately reading the secret thoughts and desires of others though thousands of miles away. The almost endless stream of letters requesting copies of the book and character delineations indicate clearly the universal interest in Psychological and Occult Sciences.

"That Prof. Knowles' system is exciting the interest of the brightest intellect of the present day is clearly shown by the scores of recommendations, among which the following, from representative British publications, the clergy and the medical profession are striking examples:

THE CHRISTIAN AGE.—"Professor Knowles' System has cured disease, corrected bad habits, strengthened memory, and proved highly beneficial in the cultivation of Personality and a Personal Influence."

THE LONDON WEEKLY TIMES.—"Professor Elmer E. Knowles' Complete System of Personal Influence and Healing provides the embryo enthusiast with just such knowledge as could be adapted to his own personal circumstances and inclinations."

THE LONDON MAIL.—"Professor Knowles' System embraces a great deal of erudition in a form which can be readily grasped by all who have the ability to read and understand simple prose. No better help towards success in life could be desired."

MODERN SOCIETY.—"No modern investigator along psychological lines has received so large an amount of praise as that accorded to Professor Elmer E. Knowles for his marvellous System of Personal Influence and Healing. Here at last is a man who is at once a great scholar, a born teacher and a practical helper—for the instruction papers reveal a nature which is sympathetic and of good fellowship for an ambitious, yet misguided population."

"I must go at once," says my father, rising from his chair. "I rise, too, and follow him out of the room."

"Daddy," I say, going close up to him, "I am going with you."

"There is my good girl," he says, fondly; "but can you do it? Won't it knock you up?"

"I shall die of anxiety here," I say, passionately. "I must come, or I shall go mad. I think I was almost so as it was."

"Then you shall go. Lane must go with you, and Loys will stay till we return."

We have a long, tiresome journey. For Thornton Charteris is in the west country, and not very easy of access. By the time we drive up to the door, I am almost fainting from exhaustion. A very stately house-keeper receives me, with grave formality, and tells us that Sir Adrian was hurt by the exploding of a gun, not his own, and is seriously wounded in the chest.

"What the doctors fear is injury to the lungs, my lady," she says, "and that hemorrhage may set in."

"But he is not in danger?" I say, pitiously. "She will, evidently, spare me nothing."

"In the greatest danger, my lady," she says, gravely, "or we should not have sent for you."

A Millionaire's; Countess Westerleigh.

CHAPTER II.

Notwithstanding his boast, he felt that even his vaunted Irish frieze would not withstand such rain as this, and he cowered up to a shelving rock at the entrance to the valley and got into as much shelter as he could.

He lighted his pipe, turned up his collar, and made himself as comfortable as possible. The storm came on, and broke in real earnest; the thunder rolled along the hills and through the mountain-gorge with the roar of a park of artillery, and the flashes of lightning revealed a scene of grim solemnity which made him—

He was not an artist—think of the opening scene in a pantomime, when, to the weird squeaking of the fiddles and the double bass, the demons and ghouls flit about the stage and threaten things portentous.

The comparison had scarcely crossed his mind when, to his amazement, he saw, on a ledge of rock in front of him, the figure of a young girl.

For a moment he thought he must be dreaming. He had not passed a house, had not seen a sign of one; the only road was the one from which he had just turned off. It was impossible that a young girl should be walking, in what seemed an unaccountable manner, along the side of a cliff upon which a goat would find it difficult, in such a wind and rain storm, to keep its footing.

He strained his eyes through the darkness, but the flash had almost blinded him and he could see nothing. Suddenly he heard a cry. It was something like that of a curlew. But Vane did not spend all his life in his chambers in St. James's Street. He had stralked wild fowl too often not to know a curlew—

"Cur-loo!" from the real cry. It came from the spot a little higher, perhaps—on which he had seen the figure; and as he stared curiously, another flash came, and he saw the girl again.

"Anyway, they're not afraid of a storm in these parts," he said to himself, keeping his eyes fixed on the cliffs opposite; but the figure did not appear again, though he fancied he heard the curious "cur-loo" still higher up the mountain.

The storm subsided, and he rode out on to the moor again. He was wet through, notwithstanding the quilt, and his horse was as wet and cold as himself.

To make matters worse, he discovered, after half an hour, that he had lost his way. The slight moor creek had disappeared, and he was riding hap-hazard, without anything to guide him.

He pulled up and looked around. It was growing late, and through the rifts in the clouds the moon was shining in a watery fashion, which forboded another storm presently.

"Well, of all the heasty places!" he began. Then he swore a little, but finished up with a laugh. "I would give anything if Sen were here," he said. "He hates this kind of thing so heartily. What's to be done? Go back, I suppose; but it seems to me that it would be as difficult to find my way back to the inn as to the Hall. What it really means, I expect, is a 'camp-out' in the most sheltered spot I can find.

Thank goodness, there's food for the horse; but oh, Lord! what would I give for a chop and a glass of Bass! It's lucky I've got some bacca; it's generally on occasions like this that you run out, or find you've forgotten your pipe, or used your last match."

He dropped the reins to get a light, and as he did so, the horse which had stood perfectly still—the storm and the distance had taken all the mischief out of it—moved forward slowly, and steadily, and his doing so sent a sensible idea into Vane's head.

"Right!" he said. "You know the way, perhaps. Anyhow, I don't; so you can't make it worse than it is, old man. Go your own road," and he let the reins hang loose.

THE REV. JAMES STANLEY WENTZ, says:—"No one can give the system a careful perusal without becoming satisfied that in giving his knowledge to the world, Prof. Knowles is actuated by the earnest desire to uplift and benefit mankind. I heartily recommend this course to all who desire to develop and cultivate their inner forces."

A LEADING LONDON PHYSICIAN, Dr. R. N. Pickering, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., L.S.A.C., in a letter to Prof. Knowles, says:—"I consider your system the most complete and accurate literature upon the subject. You have treated the sciences with much ability."

A PROMINENT AMERICAN PHYSICIAN, A. W. Fisher, M.D., Ph.D., M.E., Principal of the Douglas Institute, writes:—"Your system is very useful to me in my practice."

"Rich and poor alike benefit by the teachings of this new system," says Prof. Knowles, "and the person who wishes to achieve greater success has but to apply the simple rules laid down."

That many wealthy and prominent people owe their success to the power of Personal Influence there is not the slightest doubt, but the great mass of people have remained in utter ignorance of these phenomena. The National Institute of Sciences has therefore undertaken the somewhat arduous task of distributing broadcast-inquired for me. I did not expect him to do that. What I wanted to know was, had he been wishing for anyone else, otherwise Theo. While I am casting about in my mind for the best way of obtaining this information, my father comes back. "Do you think you can come up dear?" he says, anxiously. "He is not worse, daddy?" I ask, my voice shaking. "No, no, dear—a little better. But he has been asking for you, and seems restless and fretful." (To be Continued.)

Blood Runs in Streets of Milan.

Milan, August 8.—Five hundred strikers to-day were under arrest and many were said to be killed and wounded as the result of the clashes taking place in the last four days between 100,000 workmen and women engaged in a general strike and the police and soldiers.

A strict press censorship caused facts to be withheld until now. Hundreds of women and girls lay down on the railroad tracks in order to prevent the running of railway trains and some of them were injured. Scores more were trampled and injured when cavalry charges were made in order to get them from tracks.

Anarchists are in possession of many parts of the city, barricading streets with up-torn granite paving blocks in order to prevent charges by soldiers and carabinieri.

Metall Workers' Strike Start of Trouble. The agitation arose out of the metall workers' strike in Lombardy and Piedmont where the masters refused to grant a collective demand for an all-round rise of half a cent an hour in wages.

The Government, while proclaiming neutrality, has, as usual, resorted to the daring device of muzzling the press, and there has been a wholesale scheme of foreign press telegrams regarding the disorders. Large bodies of troops have been drafted from other centres, and the city resounds with the clang and clatter of armed men and wears an aspect of military occupation.

Yesterday proved a sanguinary one. Not only were the troops mercilessly stoned, but the exasperated crowds attacked the soldiers with daggers and revolvers. Forty wounded officers of cavalry, carabinieri, and civil police are lying in hospitals, many in a dangerous condition. Many pistol shots were fired from upper stories of dwellings against the police.

The disorders have spread to provincial towns, where the situation is serious on account of the astounding deficiency of police. This latter circumstance has enabled gangs to rob and burglar to undertake systematic raids upon the private residences of the many families known to be away holiday-making.

Sues For Money In Poker Game. New York, Aug. 5.—Morris Schantz, an assignee of a claim held by Louis M. Koster, a travelling salesman, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to recover $4,000 from Herbert Niles, a merchant. The suit is the outcome of a "stud" poker game, in which Koster, Niles and John Crossberg played. Koster lost $2,400 to Niles. Not having all the money with him he paid the debt later, part in cash and the rest in notes and a cheque. Now Koster declares that he received no legal consideration for his money, and through the assignee of the claim he seeks the return of the notes and money.

Facts About Tinned Goods. Poisoning by canned goods will not occur if care is exercised in their selection. Never purchase cans with two lumps of solder as this shows that the contents had worked and so had to be heated over, and resoldered. If top of can bulges outward do not take the can, as the contents are fermenting, and, if finger is pressed on can and dent falls right back in place as soon as the finger is removed, the same is true, as it is gas which quickly pushes the tin back in its place. If a can is bent or dented one may be assured that the contents are in fine condition. Always empty the contents of can as soon as possible. —Housekeeper.

Most people know Dr. Chase's Ointment best as a cure for eczema and itching skin. Not in this, to be wondered at when you think of the remarkable record made by this class of cures.

But there are scores of other uses for this ointment, which are quite discovered when it is kept constantly at hand.

Mrs. Martin, 11 Carroll Street, Toronto, formerly of Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years, and found it valuable in treating skin irritations and all sorts of burns and wounds. In fact, we would not be without it in the house. It is a most excellent treatment for granulated eyelids, from which I suffered without finding anything to help me."

Wherever there is itching of the skin of a sore that refuses to heal you can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with full assurance that it will prove entirely satisfactory. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or direct from Chase & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Kings As Editors.

There is One Real Newspaper Run by Royalty.

"We will have a royal newspaper. I will be editor, the Queen sub-editor, and members of the Court contributors." Although he did not actually say this, that is what the Prince Consort meant when, years ago, he founded the Court Circular, to which every newspaper has since been indebted for a faithful record of royal movements and engagements.

Lately there has been some talk of discontinuing the Circular, for King George, unlike King Edward, who attached much importance to the publication and was a great stickler for minute accuracy, especially in the descriptions of the persons mentioned, is said to have expressed his opinion that the paper costs more than it is worth. He holds that in these days of up-to-date journalism it is unnecessary. But so far the Court Circular has not been discontinued.

Queen Victoria took a keen interest in the Circular, and it was her rule, when Her Majesty was in residence at Balmoral, to send a special copy to one of the Aberdeen papers every evening. Furthermore, although the Court Newsmen were responsible for the publication of the Circular, the late Queen herself on special occasions contributed to its pages.

As the Observer has pointed out, perhaps the most remarkable Court Circular ever sent out—certainly no other one has been so much spoken about—was issued one day in 1833, when John Brown, Her Majesty's faithful Highland attendant, died. It contained the following lines:

"An honest, faithful, and devoted follower, a trustworthy, discreet, and straightforward man, possessed of strong sense, he filled a position of great and anxious responsibility, the duties of which he performed with such constant and increasing care as to secure for himself the real friendship of the Queen. To Her Majesty the loss is irreparable, and the death of this truly faithful and devoted servant has been a grievous shock to the Queen."

Not was this tribute surprising considering the high regard Queen Victoria entertained for the stalwart Highlander, whose fidelity to his duties was such as to earn not only the entire confidence, but the real friendship of the Queen. Once Her Majesty wrote of him: "He was always respectful, never servile, always useful, never obtrusive, usually silent, but when he did speak he was blunt and direct."

Nearly every event of state importance is notified in the Court Circular. Every time the King receives a Prime Minister or any officer of State the fact is duly chronicled, and in the same way, when His Majesty has an audience with ambassadors for government, or when he performs any ceremony or act, the public is informed of it through the Court Newsmen.

The Annual Congress of the Salvation Army, which commences on Saturday, 16th inst., will be conducted by Commissioner David M. Rees, assisted by Colonel Maitland, his Chief Secretary, Major Desbrisay and Adjutant Debow. The party will arrive in the city by Friday's express.

The College Hall has been taken for Sunday's Meetings, and at 3 p.m. the Commissioner will Lecture on the Life and Work of the late General Booth.

The Hon. D. Morrison has kindly consented to take the chair. At 7 p.m. the Commissioner will conduct a public Salvation Meeting. All are welcome! Aug. 14.

The Occasion Calls for the Man!

We have copied into to-day's issue of the Evening Telegram a very important pronouncement on the political situation which appeared in the Fishermen's Advocate which was issued this morning. A similar pronouncement under the caption "The President's Return from Northern Tour. Sir Robert Bond Invited to Assume Leadership of Liberal and Union Forces," runs thus:

"Come on, Sir Robert. We, on behalf of the North and the F. P. U., invite you to array your forces side by side with the Union forces and to lead the Combined Party on to victory such as will slay forever and ever that ugly and corrupt monster that has arisen in public affairs during the present administration. We invite you to re-enter the political arena from which you retired some three years ago and to assume the leadership of the Liberal and Union forces in the approaching battle. We speak on behalf of 18,000 men now arrayed to do battle, who are organized under the banner of the F. P. U. We do this publicly, because we are so instructed by our Councils, and we ask you to reply publicly in the columns of this paper at your earliest convenience."

These statements are opportune, and will no doubt be read throughout the country with feelings of gratification and hope. Gratification, because they officially announce the decision of the Fishermen's Protective Union to offer their support to the Party that shall be led by the Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond at the forthcoming General Election; hope, because we know that the Western Districts, where the Fishermen's Protective Union has not yet been established, have made their desire known to Sir Robert Bond, and have

Strongly Urged Him to Reconsider the Matter of retirement from the public life of the Colony which he announced in 1909. We are fully aware that for more than one reason Sir Robert would now greatly prefer a quiet country life to the grave responsibility and Herculean task of grappling with the chaotic and deplorable conditions into which the country has been plunged by incapacity, recklessness and bungling of the present Government. And, after more than thirty years of honourable and zealous public service, there are very few, if any, who would question his right to rest from public labours, or begrudge him the full enjoyment of his country home with its fine library and delightful surroundings. No man has rendered greater public service to Newfoundland, and as our contemporary at Bell Island said in a recent issue of his paper, Sir Robert Bond has the esteem and best wishes not only of his political followers, but of those who differ from him in politics. While this is all true, yet we cannot ignore the fact that there is work for him to do, and the great mass of his countrymen recognize that he is the man to do it,

And They Want a Continuance of His Services at this juncture. The occasion calls for the man, and the call is in no uncertain tone, as will be seen by the invitation issued by the 18,000 fishermen of the F. P. U. The Address presented to Sir Robert Bond by the citizens of St. John's East and West, a copy of which is before us, expresses this need in the following language:

"If ever there was a time when your services were needed in behalf of Newfoundland, it is now, in order to put an end to the mismanagement of public affairs that has been going on, and to re-establish the government of the country on a sound and solid basis. Your experience and honourable record in public affairs, and the important position which Newfoundland has attained in the Empire under your Leadership, are at once evidence as well as credentials of a statesmanship that will be much needed in the future government of our country."

We know Sir Robert Bond well enough to affirm that if he is convinced that it is his duty to enter the arena of a general election again, his own personal comfort and convenience will not weigh in the balance, and that, if he bares his sword for the fight he will not sheath it again until victory perches on his banner.

In the overwhelming evidence of a call for his services which we know he has received from his countrymen, we feel certain he will recognize that it is his duty to respond to the call and lead the way to victory.

It is the whole people who are calling, and Vox Populi is in this instance Vox Dei; and not to be denied.

Sir Robert Bond is expected in town next week and we then hope and expect to be able to acquaint the public of his decision.

SYDNEY, To-day.
Ben Atkinson, proprietor of the Minto Hotel, one of the best known citizens of Sydney, was killed last evening, being thrown from his buggy.

VANCOUVER, To-day.
The Victoria militia are now considered to have control of the situation, and all fear of a strike riot is dismissed. Nearly a thousand militia are encamped at the centre of the trouble. Any further outbreaks are expected to be sternly dealt with. Those who are in close touch with the situation claim that the long drawn out coal mining troubles will be settled in a few days. The agreement as suggested by the Vancouver and Nanaimo Coal Company, has been endorsed by the men. It is expected therefore, that the Jingle Pot Shaft will resume to-day in Ladysmith. Men who are known to have been employed as strike breakers, have been warned to get out within twenty-four hours.

LONDON, To-day.
Lieut. General Chang, delegate to the National Opium Prohibition Union of China, who has been in England three months, endeavoring to induce the Government to release China from her obligation to receive any more Indian opium, started yesterday for China to report to Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai the failure of his mission. In the statement issued to the British public, General Kiang said: "Our people are dead in earnest in their efforts to rid themselves of the opium evil. They cannot help feeling resentment against a country which is forcing upon us a product by which we were degraded, disgraced. It is intolerable when we reflect we are sacrificing millions of revenue and hundreds of lives and struggling against enormous difficulties, that foreign countries should force us to receive for two or three years longer, a poison we so earnestly are striving to stamp out." The Lieut. General concluded by appealing to the British friends of China to do their utmost to induce the British Government to join with us in removing room for wrong, and for promoting righteousness in the world.

The hot winds simmered from the South and made the people cuss; no hotter blasts ere left the mouth of old Vesuvius. The corn was withered where it stood, the grass was shriveled sore, and in the pasture and the wood the panting cattle swore. I saw a sad-eyed farmer stand and view his ruined field; he had a pitchfork in his hand, the which he did not wield; he merely stood and looked around, as one who's stunned and sick, as one who might look, if some one found your midriff with a brick. I cauterized blithely up to him, and spoke some words of cheer: "Don't let your eyes with tears be dim—the luck will change next year. The brave man's garments are not torn, nor does he tear his hair, because he sees his fields of corn burned up beyond repair. Next year the winds will cool, or be, the rains will come in time; so dance and sing and whoop with glee—despondency's a crime." That's why I'm sitting up in bed, too sore to swat the flies, a flaxseed poultice on my head, a beefsteak on my eyes. Yes, when I'm on my feet again I'll spring my helpful spells, and urge the gloomy sons of men to dance on joyous heels. I still shall sing a merry note, but I will always be more cautious when I choose the goal to hear my ecstasy.

Time Flies and the Waits for The Feeling

For some weeks a feeling of uneasiness has been evident among the people of this city because of the persistent rumor that Sir Robert Bond will retire from public life before the General Election, the time which is rapidly approaching, earnest are the people of St. John's in their desire to end the reign of boodle and graft, and anxious are they that the "irrepressible Commover," Sir Robert Bond, should lead the hosts to victory, that we understand the city of St. John's, East and West, presided Sir Robert Bond with address expressive of his feelings of alarm and dismay because of rumor abroad, and imploring to give a denial to the rumor to raise once again the Liberal banner. We don't know what reply was given or if any reply so far has been given to the Memorialists. But, this we know, that time flies and the city expects an announcement are aware that Sir Robert Bond's resignation of the leadership of the Liberal Party was sent in to his lower three years ago, and that he has advised his friends all over Newfoundland politics. But, we know in all sincerity, that it would be a thing short of a public calamity if Sir Robert were to retire at this crisis, and he must not be allowed to retire. In his Manifesto of 1910, he foreshadowed his retirement, and his purpose, no doubt, was good at the time, and intended to emphasize freedom from personal considerations in the fight he was about

Time Flies and the Country Waits for Action!

The Feeling in St. John's.

(The Fishermen's Advocate.)

For some weeks a feeling of dismay has been evident among the people of this city because of the persistent rumor that Sir Robert Bond will retire from public life before the General Election, the time for which is rapidly approaching. So earnest are the people of St. John's in their desire to end the present reign of boodle and graft, and so anxious are they that the "Incorruptible Commiserator," Sir Robert Bond, should lead the hosts to victory, that we understand the citizens of St. John's, East and West, have presented Sir Robert Bond with an Address, expressive of their feelings of alarm and dismay because of the rumor aforesaid, and imploring him to give a denial to the rumor and to raise once again the Liberal Banner. We don't know what reply was given or if any reply so far has been sent in to the Memorials. But, this we do know, that time flies and the Country expects an announcement. We are aware that Sir Robert Bond's resignation of the leadership of the Liberal Party was sent in to his followers three years ago, and that he has advised his friends all over the Island of his desire to retire from Newfoundland politics. But, we say in all sincerity, that it would be nothing short of a public calamity if Sir Robert were to retire at this crisis, and he must not be allowed to retire. In his Manifesto of 1909 he foreshadowed his retirement. His purpose, no doubt, was good at that time, and intended to emphasize his freedom from personal considerations in the fight he was about to

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor. But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels. Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctor had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctor ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 75 cents a box, all dealers. Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

At the monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Institute, Aug. 10th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, in His Divine Wisdom, to remove from our ranks, by death, our lately esteemed brother member, William Croft, Sr., and whilst bowing in humble submission to God's Holy Will, we have to regret the loss of an earnest well wisher, if not active member, of the objects for which our Institute was founded. He had lived far beyond the years of the allotted span of life, as all the members of his robust manhood have long since passed away, still religion and charity found in him a faithful friend to the close of his well spent life; and therefore

BE IT RESOLVED that we tender to the family of our lately deceased brother member, our sincere sympathy with them in their hour of bereavement.

RESOLVED that copies of these resolutions be sent the family, and likewise to the daily papers for publication.

At the City Hall.

The Council met Thursday afternoon.

The Premier wrote saying that the expenditure for widening Topsail and Waterford Road would be given early consideration. This announcement was not given a hearty reception by the Councilors, who ordered that the work, which was going on, be stopped immediately.

The work of measuring fence on Parade Ground will be done before any payment is made.

J. Treble, E. Hawkins, N. J. Collier and S. Taylor were given permission to repair houses. Permit was also given to J. Trelligan to repair platform.

T. Kelly, appraiser, resigned.

R. White's plan of house was passed.

A fountain will be erected on Beaumont Street.

G. Earle was given leave to make sewerage connection.

Councillor Mullaly then introduced the Amusement Tax question. He stated that although the tax was reduced in 1911 certain theatre proprietors had increased their prices from 50 to 100 per cent; he also emphasized that the law laid down by the Council for the collection of taxes was not being carried out. He intimated that unless more interest was taken in city matters he would resign.

The Cachelot, operating at Hawke's Harbour, Labrador, has only nine fish to date. On the whole it looks as if the voyage will be a failure.

PRESCRIPTION "A."

Very Highly Recommended by An Outport Man.

Please send me by mail 1 large bottle of Stafford's Prescription "A". Enclosed you will find 50 cents, also 16 cents for postage. You sent me a trial size a few days ago and it almost cured my wife. Another 50 cent bottle will make a cure. I have tried doctors and all kinds of medicine, but I don't believe that there is any medicine that can cure a bad stomach like STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION "A".

I am more than thankful that ever you advertised that medicine. Please forward as soon as possible, as I am waiting anxiously for it.

Fishery North.

IMPROVEMENT AT WADHAM'S.

Since last report, there is a marked improvement in the northern fishery, according to reports brought along to-day by Capt. Barbour, of the Fogota. Outer and Inner Wadhams, two well known fish centres, cod were unusually plentiful last week and traps did well, some of them getting as high as fifty quintals in a single trap. However, trapping north is being well over, and within another few days all trawls will be taken out of the water and hand-lining carried on for the remainder of the season. It is estimated as correctly as possible that the trap fishing this year from St. John's north as far as Fogota, will be far ahead of an average voyage.

"I have called to collect the rent," said the landlord. "Yes," replied the lady of the house, "come in. Now, before I give you the money this month—just a minute, madam," said the landlord. "I can save you time for you. I know the dining-room wall-paper is a shock to people of refinement, the kitchen walls are a disgrace, and the back porch is a nuisance to life and limb. I'm also aware that you won't stay here another month unless the barber-shop wall-paper in the back bedroom is changed to something in a delicate pink, and I'm next to the fact that you are ashamed to have people look at such gas fixtures as I have provided. This spring I'm going to paint the front and back porches and let it go at that. Thank you very much, said the lady meekly. "You have saved me a lot of trouble. That is all I really expected to have done, but I was afraid that I should have to make the same old bluffs to get that much out of you."

Placentia Garden Party.

THE ARCHBISHOP PRESENT.

Special to Evening Telegram. PLACENTIA, To-day. The Placentia Garden Party passed off most successfully yesterday, the day itself being an ideal one. High Mass, coronation, was celebrated in the Parish Church at 10.30 o'clock a.m., Rev. Dr. Greene being the celebrant, Fathers St. John and Maher, deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. Monsignor Reardon assisted the Archbishop at the throne. The Benediction was imparted by His Grace immediately after Mass. At 2 o'clock the Blenheim grounds, kindly placed at the disposal of the ladies committee, were opened. Archbishop Howley and the visiting clergymen were conducted to the grounds by the Monsignor. At 3 o'clock, and remained until after six. Over one thousand visitors, young and old, attended the garden party. The decorations of the tables and grounds were greatly admired. The Placentia brass band, under the direction of Professor Power, discoursed delightful music during the evening. Too much praise cannot be given the ladies in charge of the tables and their splendid helpers for their untiring efforts to please their patrons. Delicious teas, ice creams and refreshments were served throughout the evening by their dainty hands. The sports were another attractive feature of the garden party and the committee in charge were complimented by the visitors on the splendid organization of the event to which so much of its success is due. A splendid concert conducted by Mr. John O'Reilly, took place in the Star Hall at 8.30 o'clock, bringing this joyful event to a successful close. Quite a number of visitors from the city and elsewhere were present and all were unanimous in their praise of the enjoyable day spent at the garden party and its financial results are said to fully equal that of last year.

To those happily so provided, corns lose their terrors, because by a judicious application of the Corn Silk they cease to exist for the wearer. If your corns give you trouble, or any colicous place on the feet seems inclined to be inflamed or painful, we recommend you to try a package of Acme Corn Silk. Price 10c.

American Cabbage Seeds seem almost universally in demand for the White Point business. Certain American Seeds suit the climate well, and produce heavy plants. We have all the most popular and prolific kinds. Price 20c. an ounce.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.—Just before going to press, we were apprised by telephone that a house, owned and occupied by Mr. John Joyce, at the Goulds, had been totally destroyed by fire this morning. Whether there was any insurance or not, our informant could not say. In any case the loss is a great misfortune on Mr. Joyce.

WINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARTS IN COWS.

Household Notes.

A vinegar compress will quickly cure ringworm. Nuts grate best if started from the blossom end. Allow the children to climb. It gives them nerve and courage. A little pine vaseline will remove mildew and stains from leather. Cheesecloth hemmed, makes excellent drying cloths for glassware. Fish may be soaked more easily if dipped in boiling water for a moment. Mix ginger cookies with cold coffee instead of water. It will improve them. Stains made by medicine and liniment may be removed by strong ammonia. Turnips are improved by adding one or two teaspoonsful of sugar when cooking. A tiny pinch of salt will make the white of eggs beat up much firmer and faster. To remove stains from a coat collar rub it gently with a cloth dipped in ammonia. Salt put into the bottoms of shoes in winter will prevent the feet from getting cold. A bit of camphor put over the silver when not in use will prevent it from tarnishing. Mica in stoves can be cleaned if taken out and thoroughly washed with vinegar slightly diluted. To make a cake light and a few drops of glycerine in the batter at a teaspoonful to a pound of flour. Fresh fish have to be cooked and till, still red and this that stand up and the flesh is firm to the touch. New gas mantles if immersed in vinegar and hung up to dry will give a more brilliant light and last longer. Carbolic acid is powerless as a disinfectant unless diluted with at least twenty times its bulk of cold water. If white kid gloves are rubbed gently with bread crumbs after each wearing, they will keep clean much longer. Add a little lemon juice to water in which peaches are dropped before cooking. The fruit is not so apt to discolor. To keep pies and pastry flaky, do not put them away until they are entirely cold, and never put them in the refrigerator. Chamois leather should be washed in tepid water and plenty of soap. If dried with the soap left in it, it will be nice and soft. A spoonful of flour added to the grease in which eggs are fried will prevent them from breaking or sticking to the pan. Kitchen tables if washed with vinegar before being scrubbed will be very white. The vinegar removes the stains from the wood.

Hero of Strange Wager.

As a sportsman the Earl of Lonsdale enjoys an enviable reputation. He hunts, shoots, is fond of motor racing, yachting, and is also an adept in the art of slipping greyhounds. He is an expert on horseflesh, and horses have always formed his chief hobby. On one occasion he made a remarkable bet that he would drive twenty miles inside an hour. Though the weather was bad and the roads in vile condition he accomplished the feat. For the first five miles he drove a four-in-hand, the next five he handled a pair, then rode position and completed the journey by driving a single horse. He won his bet with four-and-a-half minutes to spare.

Another Attack on Mr. Downey in the Western Star.

In its issue of Wednesday last, August 14th, appears a long letter signed Axona. It has an attack on Mr. Downey as the Tory candidate of St. George's. It appears over the caption: "Won't Stand Further Neglect; Promises Unredeemed, Pledges Violated—Mr. Downey's Picture and Mr. Downey's Promises—Axona calls for Vigorous Action." It meets with editorial commendation, part of which is as follows:—

"It has the ring about it. The writer is no political partisan, though a staunch supporter of Sir Edward Morris and of his Government as a whole.

"Like ourselves, however, he is constrained to take issue with the Government on matters directly affecting this District as far as they relate to local improvements and the treatment the District has received from its representative during the past four years.

"The writer apparently has no desire to oppose the Government, but leaves no room for doubt as to his attitude towards the re-nomination of the sitting member, and from our information on the subject his opinions are shared by the majority of the people of St. George's."

From the letter itself we make some extracts:—

"I have before me as I write this card on one side of which is Mr. Downey's picture. He looks quite innocent. At first glance one would conclude that he is too innocent looking a man to be guilty of brazen political deceptions and falsehood. On the reverse side of the card however are a list of pledges made by this same mild looking individual in the years of our Lord 1908 and 1909. These promises were made by this same Downey on the very platform on which he stood in this district during the campaign of 1908 and again in 1909. He sent these cards in thousands throughout the District and distributed them to every voter with the solemn assurance from his own lips that they would be carried out. Nearly every voter received the cards and all were assured by Joseph Downey that every pledge on that card would be carried out before he would again seek their support. He pledged his word to hundreds of people in this district that unless the Government would perform the work outlined on that card he would resign his seat, cross the floors of the Assembly. I do not think Downey will deny this. I ask my neighbours of this part of the district if what I say is not correct. Did not Joseph Downey publicly and privately pledge himself to see that the Government of Sir Edward Morris would carry out these promises or he would cease to support? He did. Now, the what has Mr. Joseph Downey to say to us in 1913 regarding the pledges he so earnestly made, and to the carrying out of which he bound himself by the most solemn promises? How many of them has he carried out? I do not want any man to take my word for it. then ask himself what Mr. Downey's opinion of the intelligence of the electorate of this district is when he has the unsurpassed impudence to again impose himself upon us as a candidate for re-election. Surely no greater insult can be offered a people than this of which Downey is guilty if he contemplates offering himself for re-election. This feature of the matter I will let rest here for the present. I am not convinced that he will go so far. Therefore I will spare him further criticism.

"Mr. Downey as his candidate it will be a challenge which the electorate of St. George's if they have any regard for self-respect and the future good of their district, should take up. Such an indignity shall not be imposed upon us without protest. 'Promises may get friends, but it is performances that keep them.' is a proverb which Sir Edward Morris undoubtedly taught pupils in his early days. I merely ask him to apply that proverb to Mr. Downey's promises and performances and then decide if he can, with confidence, turn to the people of St. George's District and ask them to accept him as the standard bearer of his party. I ask Sir Edward Morris, and I ask it in no unfrivolous spirit, if he believes the people of this district will elect Mr. Joseph Downey as their representative next election with his record before them? Furthermore, I ask Sir Edward Morris if he can honestly say why we should elect Downey. Can he give us any reason why he should be elected? I, for one, wish to see Sir Edward's nominee successful in this District, but I warn Sir Edward that if his nominee is Joseph Downey, he will not be successful. He shall not be successful and I say it in no boastful spirit. We shall see that he does not impose upon us a man we do not want. When I say we, I mean at the very lowest estimate two-thirds of the electorate."

"I am aware that Mr. Downey is placing the blame on the Government for his utter failure to redeem his pledges. That is a matter for Mr. Downey and the Government to settle between themselves. For us it is a question of taking no chances with Mr. Downey any more or risking a repetition of the neglect and violated pledges of the past four years. The Government may be responsible in some measure, but I know, and every intelligent man in this district knows that Mr. Downey made no attempt to carry out his promises. The records of the Assembly gives a flat contradiction to his claim to the contrary. He shirked his duties and obligations for four years and we shall not take chances with him again. "In closing I would suggest to the electorate to discuss the advisability of meeting the Premier's announcement of Downey as his Party's candidate by protest in public meeting in every centre of population throughout the district."

Regatta Committee Meeting.

Last night at Wood's West End Restaurant the Regatta Committee met to wind up the season's business and to discuss protests lodged against the crews who took first and second places in the Naval Reserve race. Those present were: President Hiscock, Treasurer Ellis, Secretary Noonan, J. L. Slatery, F. W. Hayward, N. Andrews, R. Dowden, R. W. Jeans, A. G. Williams, P. F. Collins, A. T. Wood and T. J. Foran.

The Treasurer reported a small balance left in favour of the Committee. Messrs. Slatery and Hayward were appointed auditors. The President read a letter from His Excellency the Governor, who intimated his thanks for the kindness of the Committee to him. It was decided to purchase a new Judge's boat out of the money the Treasurer had, also to repair the band stand awning.

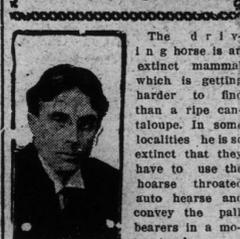

The protest against the crews who rowed in the Nettle B. and Mary in the Naval Race then came up. Considerable discussion took place. Messrs. Andrews and Wood took objection to the motion. The motion was carried and the two crews disqualified.

It was decided, on motion of Mr. Williams that the crews who rowed the Guard and Blue Peter be given gold and silver medals. Votes of thanks were passed to the officers, the C. L. B. caterers and the press, after which the meeting closed.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well, You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "If" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more than his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible. Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

The Driving Horse.

The driving horse is an extinct mammal which is getting harder to find than a ripe cantaloupe. In some localities he is so extinct that they have to use the hoarse throated auto hearse and convey the pall bearers in a motor truck.

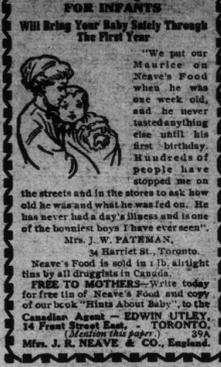

The reason for this is that the driving horse cannot go over fifteen miles an hour without littering up the roadside with human freight, hair switches and broken ribs. Prior to the advent of the automobile the driving horse could be found in every home. Father would go out to the barn before breakfast to massage him with a whiskbroom and accumulate the fragrant ozone of the hay mow. In the evening the entire family would go for a drive, after which the horse would walk all over father's feet while he was being unharnessed in the barn. The man who owned a family driving horse which could be driven up to a locomotive engine without standing up on his hind feet and sitting down in somebody's lap was considered a blue-veined nabob and aroused so much envy that he couldn't be elected justice of the peace.

The only place where people keep driving horses nowadays is in the state of Kentucky, where there is a lot of old fogies who have the unspoken Kentucky thoroughbred to shinned Kentucky gasolene tourabout. In certain parts of Kentucky it is said that you can still find driving horses with a family tree reaching back to the Norman conquest.

In the north the driving horse has been supplanted by the draft horse, which carries more wool and less brains than the sheep. The draft horse is about as duff and light on his feet as a square plough and the motor truck is fast urging him into the discard. It will not be long before the square-legged draft horse will be as a great curiosity as the spider-limbed roadster.

Terra Nova's Appeal To Sir Robert Bond.

Come, Sir Robert, come and lead them. They are thirsting for the fray. You, their idol, won't you heed them. Won't you hear their cry to-day? They are waiting for your answer. And they pray it soon may come. Newfoundlanders to a man, sir. Know you love your Island Home. You have proven you're a lover. Of the land which gave you birth. All the ties which round her hover. Make you love her best on earth. So the fondest aspirations. For her welfare throng in you. All they now await in patience. Just to hear what you will do. Have they not by you been shown it? Do not think their hearts forget? And to-day they truly own it. They've the same love for you yet. Do not doubt them, when they tender. You their love, and to you plead. Their dear country to defend her. Once more in her hour of need?

Was it not your heart that meted. Down for ages to come on. Manhood suffrage which was greeted. By each man of twenty-one. It was you, and well they knew it. When their hearts were sad and sore. Who came forth your love to show it. At the Crash of Ninety Four.

When once more the land was mourning. Bartered, sold in Ninety Eight. When her sons to you were turning. For to save her from the fate. That you call your property yours. And stood forth in all your pride. Like the Roman, Cincinnatus. Casting thoughts of self aside.

When you led her sons to glory. In the van you struck the blow. And you downed the traitor Tory. Who to-day is her old foe. And you'll come again she's hoping. For to lead her in the light. 'Gainst those traitors to be coping. For to win her lawful right.

Come, Sir Robert, come and lead them. On you now once more they call. You their idol, won't you lead them? Come and win with them this fall. All the old love lies about them. Of your manhood they are fond. Come, Sir Robert, do not doubt them. For they love the name of Bond. TERRA NOVA. St. John's, August 16th, 1913.

A Great Dance.

Among the big company coming to the Rosaley Theatre to open their engagement, Sept. 8th, is a Miss Robinson, one of the best lady dancers before the public to-day and winner of thirty-two medals for dancing. Miss Robinson when a mere baby had a passion for dancing, therefore her parents had her placed under Professor Lynch, of London, and when she finished at the Academy she was the most promising pupil ever turned out. She entered into many big competitions for dancing and always came out a winner. Her dancing is not of the late vulgar kind, just Irish reels, jig, hornpipes, and she excels in Scottish dances, being one of the finest sword dancers in the business. She is a dainty little lady and a great favourite every where.

Doctor Takes Poison To Show a Patient How

Noted Nerve Specialist Did Not Know Tablets Were Deadly Mercury.

New York, Aug. 8.—Dr. Thomas N. McNamara, one of the most noted nerve specialists in New Jersey, lies at the verge of death in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, from bichloride of mercury poisoning.

In the agony that attends the taking of the subtle drug, he declared last night: "I'm only glad it was I and not Edward. If I had let him take it, I couldn't have lived afterwards."

The accident that may become a tragedy, was the result of a strange and terrible mistake. Edward McNamara, cousin of the doctor, lives in the latter's house at No. 613 Hudson avenue, Hoboken. He had been afflicted with insomnia for several nights.

"Can't you give me something to quiet my nerves, Tom?" he asked.

"I think so," said the doctor.

He went up to his laboratory on the top floor of his home, where his carefully labelled medicines were stored. He took from his case a bottle which he thought contained aspirin tablets and went down again.

"I can't swallow it," complained the cousin, after putting a tablet in his mouth. "It's too big."

"This way—look," said Dr. McNamara, and gulping another tablet he took a drink and downed it easily.

The cousin tried again, but could not swallow the drug. Death was at his lips, but neither man knew it.

The doctor gave him another remedy and went to bed. Early yesterday he was awakened by fearful pains in his stomach and back. It was his turn to call for aid.

Edward McNamara had an automobile at the door in a few minutes and rushed the doctor to St. Mary's, but not before they had stood, arm in arm, the doctor tottering with weakness, before the cupboard in the laboratory, and had learned that the bottle of aspirin tablets lay there intact and that the bichloride of mercury was on the table downstairs.

Under every treatment known to science the distinguished specialist is fighting for his life. He is directing the battle at his bedside. He is calm, courageous and seemingly almost happy in the fact that he, not his kinsman, became the victim of the mistake.

Crop Conditions Fine.

Sir Donald Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway Co., returned from a sixteen-day trip in Western Canada, the first of this week, and in conversation with a representative of "Canadian Farm," made the statement that in his experience he had never seen crop conditions better in the Prairie Provinces.

"Where there has been good farming," said Sir Donald, "crops are excellent, where there has been bad farming, crops are good. In the different districts that I visited I did not hear any tales of bad crops. For the past four weeks weather conditions have been excellent with just the proper amounts of rain and sun.

"Harvesting has already commenced and will be general in about ten days. Labor conditions were never better and inasmuch as the straw is somewhat lighter than usual, the crop will not be an expensive one to garner. It is needless to say that the advanced harvest is a good guarantee against damage by frost during the balance of the season.

"It seems strange to me that the general public have not yet apparently appreciated the fact that the West is to have a bumper crop. The only men whom I have met familiar with the situation were the bankers and the heads of the large implement manufacturing concerns. Coming in 1913 a bumper crop is much appreciated in that it will instil confidence into those who may be inclined to doubt the permanency of Western Canada prosperity."

A Growing Vocabulary.

The English Language Has Thousands of New Words Added Annually.

As a result of a talk with a lexicographer, a writer for the New York Sun says that the English language is growing at the rate of 5,000 words a year.

The English novelist, Locke, author of "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," "Simple Septimus," and others, in which a large and flexible vocabulary is displayed, says that the English language possesses the richest language in the world, but prides themselves upon keeping their wealth of words between the covers of a dictionary and expressing themselves in slang.

If our language is growing at the rate of 5,000 words a year, none of us need hope to acquire any considerable proportion of the new words as they find their way into the dictionaries, but a good vocabulary is a great asset to anyone, not merely to writers, speakers and teachers.

What are you doing as the years pass to increase your vocabulary in other words, to secure your share of the wealth of words?

Reading good literature gives you easy means of becoming acquainted with new words. Even in old words you will find many possible and useful additions to your vocabulary, but the surest means of increasing your store of words, and at the same time increasing precision—not precise-

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.

SEATTLE, August 15.—The plan to halt the big Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Russia, at sea, and take on Prince Sulkowski on a charge of white slavery, which had been carefully worked out by United States Marshals, failed because the commander of the steamer failed to co-operate.

PEKIN, August 15.—A Belgian syndicate to-day signed with the Chinese Minister of Communications an agreement for a loan of fifty millions at five per cent. interest in connection with the new railroad to be constructed in the Province of Shan Si and Sze Chuan. The cabinet has approved the transaction which has not yet been submitted to the Chinese Government.

LONDON, August 15.—The British Parliament prorogued today and will not reconvene until February next unless something extraordinary happens. The King's speech, read in the House of Lords, was even more enthusiastic than usual. One clause expressed confident hope that the recent loan of £15,000,000 to the Government of the Sudan would result in increased sources of supply for the common industry of this country.

LONDON, August 15.—Surprise has been caused in England by news from the United States that Ambassador Page has been instructed to apologize to the British Government for commenting on the British-Mexican policy by Wilson, the American Ambassador at Mexico. The affair has not excited the slightest attention, nor has the incident aroused any ill-feeling. British newspapers hitherto ignored Wilson's statement, but they print it today as an explanation of the grounds for the apology. The Westminster Gazette says the difficulty between President and Wilson is purely domestic, and will not cause a ripple in the relations between the British and American Governments. Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan may have good reasons of their own for not recognizing the Provisional President and the Huerta Government at the present moment, but they will not take offense at other governments which have adopted a different course, least of all at us in the circumstances which have now been disclosed.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Lloyd George's speech in the British Parliament, predicting a revolutionary protest from the people against increasing armaments, was the subject of an interesting discussion here. Senator Tillman, Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs, and Senator Chamberlain, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, agreed that the Chancellor had touched on a very grave tendency of modern governments.

"Lloyd George certainly touched on a very important subject, and one of vital importance to all European nations," said Tillman. "The question over there seems to be, which one of them will break down financially first. We have a very serious situation here. We have a very serious situation here. We have a very serious situation here."

Too Much Tango Dance

Muskoka Hotel Men May Put the Dance Off the Floor.

Muskoka, August 9.—"To tango or not to tango," is the hottest question at the cool Muskoka resort of Windermere. It is rumored that the hotel people are about to put the dance off the floor where it has been the most popular diversion for weeks. At first it was unobjectionable, but it is declared that few bold spirits with more boldness than discretion succeeded in vulgarizing the dance to such an extent that it attracted the attention of the manager of one hotel who says he "cannot permit the dance to go on while the dancers continue to introduce so many objectionable features."

Opinion of the other guests of the hotel is very much divided, but the majority express the belief that the management will make no mistake in cutting out the dance entirely.

Rothwell Crypt.

There are persons for whom the gruesome has great charm, and the well-known crypt at Hythe Church, England, which contains 2,000 skulls and 8,000 thigh bones, is one of the sights of Kent, and is visited annually by 15,000 persons.

A much larger collection of remains is, however, to be found at Rothwell Church, near Kettering, and the crypt in which these were found has been recently restored and the bones placed in a position which will tend to their better preservation. The crypt was discovered by accident about two hundred years ago by a grave-digger, who, while making a grave in the south aisle, was precipitated into a vault. The crypt is about thirty feet long by fifteen wide and is built in the Transitional twelfth century style. On the east wall faint remains of coloring are to be seen, and there would appear to have been two windows in the south wall.

A Paris Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In Paris the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing hats, which is due entirely to this new discovery. It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-sought-for article is proven every day.

The French are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant dressing, and is sold by your druggist. A large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50 cents.

THE STREAM.

(Addressed to a Young Lady.) Sweet stream, that winds through yonder glade, Apt emblem of a virtuous maid: Silent and chaste she stands along, Far from the world's gay busy throng, With gentle yet prevailing force, Intent upon her destined course; Gracious and useful all she does, Blessing and blessed wherever she goes; Pure-bosomed as that watery glass, And heaven reflected in her face. —Cowper.

THE DAFFODILS.

I wander'd lonely as a cloud That floats on high o'er vales and hills, When all at once I saw a crowd, A host of golden daffodils, Beside the lake, beneath the trees, Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine And twinkle on the milky way, They stretch'd in never-ending line Along the margin of a bay: Ten thousand saw I at a glance Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced, but they Out-did the sparkling waves in glee:— A Poet could not but be gay In such a jocund company: I gazed—and gazed—but little thought What wealth the show to me had brought;

For oft, when on my couch I lie In vacant or in pensive mood, They flash upon that inward eye Which is the bliss of solitude; And then my heart with pleasure fills, And dances with the daffodils. —Wordsworth.

THE NOBLE NATURE.

It is not growing like a tree In bulk, doth make Man better he; Or standing long an oak three hundred year, To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and bare: A Lily of a day Is fairer far in May. Although it fall and die that night— It was the plant and flower of Light. In small proportions we just beauties see; And in short measures life may perfect be. —Ben Jonson.

FROM "THE TASK."

By ceaseless action, all that is substantial sped their journey with a restless stream; The silent pace with which they steal away No wealth can bribe, no prayers persuade to stay; Alike irrevocable both when past, And a wide ocean swallows both at part. Though each resemble each in every part, A difference strikes at length the musing heart; Streams never flow in vain; where streams abound How laughs the land with various plenty crown'd! But time, that should enrich the nobler mind, Neglected, leaves a dreary waste behind. —Cowper.

He seems indeed indignant, and to feel The impression of the blast with proud disdain, Frowning as if in his unconquered arm He held the thunder. But the monarch owes His firm stability to what he scorns, More fixed below, the more disturbed above. The law, by which all creatures else are bound, Binds man, the lord of all. Himself derives No mean advantage from a kindred cause: From strenuous toil his hours of sweetest ease. The ordinary stretch their lazy length, When custom bids, but no refreshment find, For none they need: the languid eye, the cheek Deserted of its bloom, the flaccid shrunk, And wither'd muscle, and the rapid soul, Reproach their owner with that love of rest To which he forfeits even the rest he loves. Not such the alert and active. Measure life By its true worth, the comforts it affords, And these alone seem worthy of the name. Good health, and its associate in the most, Good temper; spirits prompt to undertake, And not soon spent, though in an arduous task; The powers of fancy and strong thought are theirs; Even age itself seems privileged in them. With clear exemption from its own defects, A sparkling eye beneath a wrinkled brow, The veteran shows, and gracing a gray beard With youthful smiles descends toward the grave. Sprightly, and old almost without decay. —Cowper.

A COMPARISON.

The lapse of time and rivers is the same, Both sped their journey with a restless stream; The silent pace with which they steal away No wealth can bribe, no prayers persuade to stay; Alike irrevocable both when past, And a wide ocean swallows both at part. Though each resemble each in every part, A difference strikes at length the musing heart; Streams never flow in vain; where streams abound How laughs the land with various plenty crown'd! But time, that should enrich the nobler mind, Neglected, leaves a dreary waste behind. —Cowper.

Confidence and Justice.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

There are a great many people in this world who always take a side with the person with whom they are talking, when that person brings up any grievance against another. We all know that type of person, and we can not feel helping this sympathy comforting, even though we know at the bottom of our hearts that if the other party to the grievance confides in her sympathetic one will undoubtedly take sides with the other party just as strongly as she has with us.

There is also another type, somewhat rarer, and yet known to most of us, who under similar conditions always take the side of the absent party. You tell such a person how much more than your share of the work you were obliged to do on that supper-committee, and instead of sympathizing with you she suggests that perhaps you didn't realize how much the other members did.

You tell a member of this type how ungrateful some friend has been for the favors you have done her, and the unsympathetic one tells you that your friend may be more grateful than you know, and may not understand just how to show her gratitude—a thing which you well know is not true since she had several excellent opportunities open to her and did not take any of them.

Undoubtedly these people act in this way because they are excessively anxious to be just. They dislike the hypocrisy of the ordinary confidante who always gives wholesale sympathy to the confidant regardless of where the rights of the case lie. But aren't they quite so unjust? In the effort to get away from hypocrisy aren't they slanting over backward onto another kind of injustice? The right of the case does not always lie with the absent party any more than with the one who is there to speak for himself. A Judge who always decided for the poor man would not be any more square than he who always decided for the rich litigant—though I agree with Mr. Roosevelt that if I were in doubt I'd swing the balance toward the poor man every time.

And so a confidante who always decides for the absent party isn't any fairer than he who always oversteps in sympathy for the confidant. I once knew a case where two sisters each firmly believed that the mother was partial to the other because when either sister carried any grievance against the other to their mother, the mother always sided emphatically with the absent party, no matter where the rights of the case lay. Naturally, smarting under the injustice that the mother sometimes inflicted in this way, each sister felt that her mother was partial to the other.

Just as I'd give my decision for the poor man when the right of the case was absolutely balanced, so, under the same conditions, I should prefer to side with the absent party because he isn't there to speak for himself. But when the right is plainly on the side of your confidante, why not admit it? Or, if you aren't willing to do that, you can at least be silent.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, August 15. President Wilson publicly reprimanded Ambassador Wilson for his recent attack on the British Foreign Office, and Ambassador Page was instructed to express to Sir Edward Grey, the regret of the American Government that a diplomatic official of the United States should have been guilty of such impropriety. The action of the administration here followed the receipt of a cable from Ambassador Page officially confirming the despatch which had the quoted statement from the British Government that it had recognized the Huerta regime in Mexico along with France and Germany after a congratulatory speech to President Huerta by Ambassador Wilson on behalf of the Diplomatic Corps at Mexico City. The official interpretation of the statement here was that Great Britain at the time believed from Ambassador Wilson's act that the United States intended to recognize the Huerta Government.

SHANGHAI, August 15. Government troops have captured the Purple Hill, a position commanding Nankin, and the rebels in that city are not expected to offer any resistance. General Kwong Chang with five thousand Government troops has passed his forces three miles north of Pukowon on the northern bank of the Yang Tse Kiang. There has been some looting in Nankin, but foreign property has not been touched.

PARIS, August 15. The 'Petit Parisien' says it learns that France will support Russia in the proposal that Russia intends to make to the Powers that Turkey's supplies of money be cut off until the Ottoman Government orders the evacuation of Adrianople, Turkey, according to the paper, will be compensated for withdrawing from Adrianople by a rectification of the Enos Midia frontier line as determined by the Peace Conference in London.

VANCOUVER, August 15. Though matters were quiet during yesterday at Nanaimo, towards evening there was a recurrence of the previous day's disturbances, but not on such an extensive scale. Part of Nanaimo is in ruins. Extension is in a worse plight, and many of the strike-breakers are in the hills seeking refuge.

CALUMET, August 15. One striking copper miner was killed and two sheriffs wounded last night, in the first fatal outbreak in the copper miners' strike.

CARROLLINE, Mo., August 15. Five passengers in an auto were killed and the driver was badly injured when an Atchison Topeka and Pacific passenger train struck the machine at a crossing.

Minimise The Loss.

Practically farmers may easily minimise the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer. Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda, as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops.

The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated. We invite the attention of Farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application.

The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT COMPANY, Board of Trade Building, St. John's, Nfld.

Trouble With Tourists.

Yesterday afternoon there was a kick-up near the Red Cross Line pier between two tourists and a city cabman. The former were given a 7 hours' drive, which, according to the cab tariff was worth $5. This amount on being asked for by the driver was stoutly refused by the visitors. Whereupon Const. Peet was called to adjust the dispute. The cabman submitted his scale of prices to the officer with the result that the cheap pleasure seekers had to hand out the "greenback."

LAI'D UP FOR REPAIRS.

The Breadwinner can not afford to lie up, neither can his help-mate, nor the children at school, who have such a little while to store up the knowledge necessary for the years to come—no one can really afford sickness.

Much of the sickness prevalent to-day can more easily be prevented than cured.

Gatti Leading Tenor. Here and There.

Retaining with Stellar Organization from the Boston Opera House.

M. Giovanni Gatti is one of the leading tenors of the Grand Opera Festival which will visit St. John's on Sept. 28th and 30th, at the Casino Theatre. "M. Gatti made his American debut only last winter," said Mr. Edwin Bower-Hesser, of the Boston Opera Company, who is directing the British North America Tour. "His success here," he went on, "was fully up to the reputation which he brought with him from Europe. His opera repertoire is as extended as any tenor I know of, and in his official statement to the opera management he named twenty-four leading roles which he has sung at various opera houses in Europe. Among these are the roles which he will play alternately with M. Umberto Sacchetti, the other prime tenor of the aggregation. These roles are Turiddu in 'Cavalleria Rusticana', Alfredo Germont in 'La Traviata', and Ernesto in 'Don Pasquale'. All these roles are well fitted to the work of great tenors, and dress and public alike proclaim M. Gatti to be the greatest ever heard in the Provinces. The feminine leading roles, when M. Gatti sings, are taken by Mme. Maria de Gabbi, whose fame as a dramatic prima donna soprano is too great to need comment. 'Cavalleria' is the bill for Monday night, 'La Traviata' for Tuesday and 'Don Pasquale' for Wednesday.

M. Gatti was primo tenore—leading tenor—in the Venice Opera House last year, and he has previously held the same honored position in the Opera House of Bologna, Arezzo and Pola; beside being one of the great stars of the great Ricordi organization, who practically control the opera situation in Southern Europe. The Ricordis operate more than twenty opera houses, and incidentally control all the opera of the great composer, Puccini. It is a rare testimonial to M. Gatti's ability that he was chosen for the part of Dick Johnson in 'The Girl of the Golden West', and sang the part at all the leading productions. This is one of the roles which have proved such a splendid opportunity for Caruso, in New York.

Among the accomplishments of M. Gatti is the ability to speak English fluently, and to sing with ease—as Italian or French. But in his opinion, foreign languages are much better fitted to singing than the English, which though beautiful to the audience is much harder to the artist.

On the tour organized this spring to spread the gospel of grand opera, M. Gatti was assigned the heroic title role of 'Faust' and of 'Lionel' in 'Martha', the latter in English. He was also heard to great advantage in the wonderful concert programme that was everywhere considered such a valuable part of the programme. This included the quartette from 'Rigoletto' and the magnificent sextette from 'Les Huguenots', both of which will be repeated this year by special request from many music lovers in the Maritime Provinces.

12 Tumors Removed Without An Operation

Dear Mrs. Currah, I am enjoying better health than I have for eight years, and I think I am entirely cured. I have none of the old symptoms, I am very grateful for my present health, and this Orange Lily is the greatest testimony for women the world knows. We use it in my case caused 12 tumors or growths of some sort to be expelled. Some were as large as a baby's ear, and others smaller, down to the size of a walnut. You may use my case in your advertisement, for it is the solid truth, and you cannot describe all the good done for me, Mrs. Louise S. Boldridge.

This letter gives an indication of the positive benefits that always follow the use of Orange Lily. It is an applied treatment and comes in direct contact with the suffering organs. It produces painless, from the start in all cases of women's disorders, including painful periods, falling of womb, irregularities, leucorrhoea, etc.

I will send a sample box containing 10 days' treatment absolutely free to any lady who will send me her address. Enclose 1 stamp and address Mrs. FRANCES E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

GOOD ADVICE

It is a necessity to always have a bottle of good Brandy at hand. What Brandy will you buy?
The Medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is not a properly so-called medicine, but it has been selected from amongst the best known growths for their effective principles, and it is distilled so as to develop its tonic and digestive qualities. It is really the FAMILY BRANDY, which name the public has, for a long time, bestowed on it.
The celebrated French physician, DR. PHARZELLE, Inspector-in-Chief of the Great Medical Services, says: "The medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is eminently an easy digestive drink, remarkable for its tonifying and reinvigorating properties."
Ask for Medicinal Brandy Sanator from your liquor dealer; he has it.
DIRECTIONS.
Against weakness and bad digestion: a liquor glass at each meal.
Against Cold, Influenza: take as a hot drink, viz. one ounce and a half of Brandy, one ounce of hot water, with a little sugar.
Against summer complaints: use with chopped ice, or cold water.
