Only a Beggar; A Queen Among Women

CHAPTER XIX.

"I can see no one," he said. "Was it one of the keepers, woodmen, dearest? I'll have the fellow hauled over the coals. No one has any right to skulk about the drive—"

Diana laid her hand on his arm. "Don't be angry, dearest," she said. "Yes; I dare say it was one of the keepers. I am not frightened, there is no harm done. See, there is Lord Wrayborough. What care you take of me!"

At the foot of the stairs, she remembered Donald's photograph, got it from Vane and held it in her hand as she talked to Lord Wrayborough, who, as usual, wanted to know all the details of the ride, how she had enjoyed herself, and whether she was sure she was not tired. She told him of Donald's purchase of the photograph and his request, and the old man, proud and pleased, drew her into his room.

"Bravo, Donald! Fine fellow that, eh, Diana? Compliment! I should think so. And he behaved like a gentleman, eh?"

"Like a prince!" said Diana.

"Here's the pen and ink. Write it large and plain. That's it. Hem! Pity he hadn't waited a little; you could have written 'Diana Dalesford.' What?"

He put his hand on her shoulder and pressed it lovingly, and did not move when the butler, at the open door, said:

"Mr. Fielding has arrived, my lord. He would be glad if Miss Bourne could see him."

"Fielding? Eh, Diana? What?"

"Oh, I'll come directly," said Diana, and, dropping the photograph on the table, she left the room and followed the butler to the library.

CHAPTER XX.

Mr. Fielding rose as Diana entered, and, smiling at her with a fine mixture of the paternal and legal, held her hand and patted it.

"Don't be alarmed, Miss Bourne," he said. "My sudden and unexpected visit has no evil import. May I say that you are looking both well and happy?"

"Alarmed! I am delighted, Fairy Godmother!" responded Diana, laughing. "I suppose you flew here on your broomstick? Yes; I am quite well, and quite happy," she added frankly, but with a blush and a sudden glow in the eyes that always met his straightly.

"No evil import; but on business, of course. I would wait until this evening or to-morrow before bothering you, but it is just possible I may receive a wire that will take me back by the night mail."

"Oh, poor Mr. Fielding!"

He nodded and sighed. "Yes! Taking all things into consideration, a lawyer's life is not an easy one, my dear Miss Diana. But to business! It is connected with your father's estate. Do sit down"—he put a chair for her, and sat opposite, leaning forward a little, his eyes, guarded now, fixed on hers. "Our investigations into the amount and character of your father's property have taken a great deal of time, as you may easily understand. Neither his will nor the few papers he left behind him gave any list or clue to his investments or holdings, and we had to hunt them up. Now, the man we sent out, a very capable and reliable person, of course, made a strange discovery."

Diana listened gravely and with intense interest. Her father, his career, his very fate, were for her invested with a deep and tragic mystery. He seemed intangible, almost mythical, to this girl who had not until lately heard his name mentioned, who had almost forgotten that she had a father.

"It was this," continued Mr. Fielding. "It appears that your father had a partner, a man named Brown; this partner was with your father when he died. They were up in the mountains, almost if not completely alone; and those who were near them in that wild locality knew nothing of them. I believe that the two partners were prospecting for gold, or, perhaps, examining some new investment or speculation. However, your father died there, and soon afterward the partner disappeared—well, that is scarcely the fair word to describe his departure; for there was nothing secret about it. He was very much affected by his partner's death, and he spoke openly of leaving the country, of coming to Europe."

"Poor man! Ah, yes, I understand. He was with my father when he died. Could I not find him, Mr. Fielding? I should—should like to see him," Diana said in a low voice.

Mr. Fielding nodded. "As usual, with woman's wit and directness, you have put your finger on the spot, my dear young lady," he said approvingly. "We, too, want to see this partner of your father's; for, on going over his accounts—your father's, I mean—we find that just before he died he had sold his partner, Mr. Brown, several properties, shares in mines and companies, and so on; and it is rather difficult to trace the money your father ought to have received. It amounts to a very large sum very large; and, of course, we want to know whether Mr. Brown paid, and where the money has gone. Do I make myself clear?"

"Quite," said Diana. "But—but you don't suggest that Mr. Brown didn't pay my father?"

"No," replied Mr. Fielding. "That would be going rather far—very much farther than I should care to venture; for, you see, your father was too keen a business man to part with such valuable properties without receiving payment, and, as his accounts were very loosely kept—indeed, we have had to construct them for ourselves in the kind of way the famous naturalist constructed the megatherium—from a single bone—it is quite possible he invested the money as soon as he got it or buried it, or—gave it away. As Mr. Brown realized these properties before he left South America and we can't trace him, it's difficult to come to a decision. And now, this is my business to-night: Will you accept the estate as it stands, with this question of Mr. Brown's indebtedness left open, or will you wait until we can track him down—if that is not an inappropriate expression?"

"Wait?" said Diana.

Mr. Fielding nodded and smiled at her.

"Yes; postpone the wedding, I mean. Because you will have to do so if you do not care to leave this question open. Wait!" for Diana's face had grown crimson and her lids drooped. "Even without this money which Mr. Brown may or may not owe, you are an extremely wealthy young lady. If you will glance at these figures—this is the total at the bottom—"

He handed her a paper, and Diana, looking at it, uttered an exclamation. "You think it is enough?" he said with a smile. "You won't trouble about Mr. Brown, and will not keep Lord Dalesford waiting?"

"No," she whispered. "I—I promised him—in a fortnight—"

Mr. Fielding rose and took both her hands.

"A very sensible decision! It is said heartily. Let me wish you every happiness, both of you! And there's every prospect of my wishes coming true. The marriage settlements shall be completed at once, and—"

A footman knocked, and, entering

Bright, Rudy Cheeks For Pale Girls.

NO LONGER ANY NEED TO BE PALE, WEAK OR ANAEMIC.

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwan You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Edie McEwan, of Hallburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00 by mail from The Catarrhons Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

carried a telegram on a salver to Mr. Fielding, who groaned aloud.

"As I feared. Just time to get a snack before I start on my return journey. I must have a few words with Lord Dalesford. Is there anything I can do for you? No? Have you everything in the world you want? Ah, well, you deserve it."

"Why, Fairy Godmother?" Diana asked, as she held his hand.

"Because—oh, never mind! Good-by!"

It was a quiet house-party that night, for they were all feeling the effects of the ball of the preceding night; but the Wrayboroughs, family, and the earl and Mabel especially, were happy and complacent. Vane had told them that the wedding-day was fixed; and the earl was in the seventh heaven of delighted satisfaction. After dinner he sat for some time beside Diana, holding her hand now and again and patting it, as if she were a beloved child who had been more than ordinarily good.

Early in the evening, she went up to her own room and poured out her heart to her Aunt Mary. The letter was just a song of happiness, of wondering bliss; and when she heard Vane's voice calling her in the corridor, she went out to him with a light in her face which struck him silent, as if with awe.

The night was fine, though dark, for there was no moon, and he coaxed her on to the terrace, where they paced up and down or stood in a cozy and sheltered corner rap in the lovers' silence that is so much more eloquent than words.

He had drawn one of Lady Selina's thick shawls round her as they had gone out, and as they reentered the hall by one of the back doors she slipped into the earl's room so that Vane might take the shawl off her. While he was doing so—and how long the simple action took!—she fancied she heard something drop; but a passing footstep in the hall startled her out of his embrace, and she forgot to look for whatever it was. The earl drove her to bed early, and just as she was falling asleep she remembered the little, tinkling sound that had struck her ear as Vane had taken the shawl from her shoulders, and wondered what had caused it. She fell asleep while she was still wondering; but awake presently, and with a start, for her brain, that mystic piece of machinery, had been at work while she slept, and had whispered: "Aunt Mary's portrait!"

It was a miniature which an artist in Paris had painted for Diana; an exquisite piece of work, and so small that Diana wore it as a pendant.

She sat up asking herself whether it was the miniature that had dropped, and, after a minute or two, she got out of bed and went to see if it was on the table.

It was not there, nor was it on any of the other tables or in the places where the maid would have been likely to put it. Diana was now convinced that it was the miniature that had fallen, and she tried to tell herself that it would be quite safe where it had dropped in the earl's room until the morning. But she was uneasy about it, and could not sleep; when she closed her eyes she pictured the servant sweeping it away; the thing was so small that a sleepy housemaid might easily overlook it.

She grew so restless in her anxiety about it that she sat up and thought of ringing for Janet, her maid; but Diana was one of those women—they are not too plentiful, by the way—who consider the comfort and well-being of their servants; and she was reluctant to awaken the girl and send her down. Why, it was much better for her to go herself, for she was already awake.

She got out, and, slipping into her dressing-gown, opened the door and listened. The great house was wrapt in silence, a silence broken only by the ticking of the big clock and the crackling of the logs in the fire-place in the hall. She stood hesitating, feeling a little nervous, and half dreading the journey from her room, along the corridor, down the staircase, across the hall into the earl's room. It seemed fearsome and weird in the dead of night—the turret-clock chimed two as she listened—in that intense silence.

But presently, ashamed of herself, she, woman-like, passed out quickly, and as quickly went down the stairs and across the hall. Her movements were absolutely noiseless, for she wore her felt ballet slippers, and trod like a thing of air, a fitting vision of girlishhood trembling on womanhood. As noiselessly she pushed open the door of the earl's den, and found that it opened only a little way, and some obstacle stopped it. She looked round and saw a small wedge of wood lying against the door. It was within reach of her foot, and with her foot she pushed it away, and, without asking herself why it was there and how it had come there, she entered the room, turned up the electric light, and began to look for the miniature.

She had not to search long, for she saw it lying under a small table where it had rolled when the shawl had broken the slender, thread-like chain. With a sigh of relief she picked it up, pressed it to her with a girlish gesture of relief, and was passing out again swiftly when she heard a peculiar noise in the adjoining room.

BATTLE FAVORABLE TO THE RUSSIANS.

LONDON, Nov. 28. To the Governor, Newfoundland: Following from Press Bureau.—On the whole front between the Vistula and the Wartha, the battle has been favorable to the Russians, guns and prisoners have been captured, but the number of prisoners is not yet exactly ascertained.

The Germans are holding their trenches in the direction of Lodz.

On the Czestochowa-Cracow front, more than 4,000 prisoners were taken on Nov. 28.

Bochnia has been carried by assault. Over 2,000 prisoners, ten guns and machine guns have been taken. (Bochnia is in Austrian Galicia, an important railway centre, half way between Turnow and Cracow. The town has a population of 10,000.)

On the right bank of the Vistula, and in the Cracow region, the enemy is in disorderly retreat.

In France and Belgium there is nothing to report.

HARCOURT.

REINFORCEMENTS REACH FRANCE.

PARIS, Nov. 28. For three days British reinforcements have been pouring into France. There has been a steady stream of transports into the harbors of Havre, Dieppe and Boulogne. It is believed that the arrival of these reinforcements will be the signal for a general offensive movement. The exact number of men of this new force is unknown, but it is believed that more than a million fresh troops have reached French soil.

STORIES FROM PETROGRAD.

PARIS, Nov. 28. Three German army corps are now practically surrounded in the Brezitz-Strykoff region in Poland. One corps has been captured and another routed, according to a Petrograd despatch to the Matin to-day. It has been learned on highest authority, the despatch states, that the German losses are considerably more than one army corps of men, who have been captured. Another has been routed, and three corps are now practically surrounded in the above region.

FIGHTING IN POLAND.

BERLIN, Nov. 28. Desperate fighting continues in Poland, but without decisive results. It is stated here to-day, it is expected that the German troops will be able to resume offensive, but it is admitted that heavy reinforcements, which have arrived on the frontier, are causing considerable trouble.

GERMAN AIR RAID.

PARIS, Nov. 28. An official announcement is made this afternoon that the Germans attempted an aeroplane raid against Amiens on Nov. 18. Aerial duels between French and German airmen were fought on that day. The Germans were trying to destroy a French aerial depot, but were driven away.

THE BELWARK INQUEST.

CHATHAM, Nov. 28. The inquest into the deaths of 800 men who were lost, when the battleship Belwark was blown up off Sheerness, was adjourned to-day until Dec. 6th, pending the Admiralty inquiry.

PRaises THE TROOPS.

LONDON, Nov. 28. General Sir Douglas Haig praises the troops of the First Army Corps for their valor in bearing the brunt of the fighting for four weeks.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

BERLIN, Nov. 28. An official announcement this afternoon says that the situation in the west is unchanged, and that there have been unimportant engagements in the east.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(Official.) As on yesterday, there is nothing of importance to report.

MINE LAYER CAUGHT.

FLEETWOOD, Lancashire, Nov. 29. British warships have arrested the Norwegian trawler Nestor, accused of having laid mines on the North Coast of Ireland, while flying a neutral flag.

ADVISE CAUTION.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Reuter's Petrograd correspondent sends an official statement which warns the public to observe caution in accepting rumors of a crushing Russian victory. The statement says that the retreating Germans are offering a desperate resistance, and that the battle has not yet been finished.

PRESIDENT POINCARÉ'S SPEECH.

PARIS, Nov. 29. President Poincaré has decorated General Joffre with the Médaille Militaire, in token of the national gratitude. He pronounced, on that occasion, a speech, ending as follows: "The mourning and horrors of this sanguinary war, shall not affect the enthusiasm of our troops. The losses and sorrow sustained by the nation shall not shake her constancy, or cause her will to waver. France has exhausted every means to spare humanity in this unprecedented catastrophe. She is aware that to avoid a renewal, she must hand in hand with her allies, definitely abolish the cause. She knows that the present generation is bearing the legacy of the past and the responsibility of the future. She knows that a nation does not stand wholly in such a tragic pass of its collective existence, and that unless we surrender our whole history we have not the right to repudiate our sacred mission of civilization and liberty. An indecisive victory, followed by a precarious peace, would expose to-morrow our French genius to renewed insults from that refined barbarity which takes the mask of science to gratify better, its dominating instincts. The French nation will continue till the end, by the inviolable union of all her children, and with the persevering co-operation of her allies, the work of Europe's liberation, that is now started; and when she will have ended it, she will find under the auspices of her dead, a more intense life in glory, concordance and security."

LATEST FROM RUSSIAN GENERAL STAFF.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 29. A communication issued to-day by the General staff of the Russian Army says: "Our troops have won important successes along the Proschovitsk-Bieszko-Bochninwisch front, (Galicia, from 30 to 60 miles southeast of Cracow). In this locality on Nov. 28th, we routed the Austrian army, taking more than 7,000 prisoners, and capturing 20 cannon, ten of which were outfitted with horses, and over 20 machine guns. A Russian battalion at Bieszko captured what was left of the thirty-first regiment of the Hungarian honved. These prisoners included a commandant, two officers, and 1,250 soldiers, also a flag. We also took an automobile, carrying officers of the general staff. We are continuing our energetic pursuit of the enemy.

In the fighting at Lodz which continued on Nov. 28, we succeeded also in making progress at certain points. In the Carpathians our troops have attacked considerable Austrian forces.

THE FIGHTING IN POLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 29. While deprecating exaggerated reports of Russian successes in the battle in Northern Poland, where the German Emperor has joined Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, to offer his advice and encourage his troops, later available official reports from the Russian headquarters state that advantage in the fighting still lies with the Russian Army. It is also officially said that enormous losses have been inflicted on the Germans, but no mention is made of the capture of German divisions, which has been so freely claimed by Petrograd correspondents of London and Paris papers. Opposed to this are German official reports, which say that the Russian attacks have been repulsed, and that German counter attacks have been successful. Some days must elapse before this battle, which promises to prove the most decisive of the war, is concluded. So far, all that is definitely known is that the German advance has been brought to a standstill, and some of the German troops have been partly or wholly surrounded, but they are still stubbornly fighting to break their way through the Russian lines, apparently to the northward. Reinforcements have been sent from Thora.

Had Stormy Trip From Labrador.

The schooner Elizabeth, of Harbor Grace, the last of the Conception Bay fleet, is back from the Labrador. The crew reported at the home port that their return trip occupied five weeks during which the weather they say was the worst they ever experienced. Snow storms were frequent and but that the craft harbored many times coming along, might have fared badly. When the Elizabeth left the Labrador coast there was every sign of a severe winter north. The hills were covered with snow to a depth of a couple of feet, while the atmosphere was intensely cold.

Recruiting for Reserve Force.

To-day recruiting for the reserve force of the Newfoundland Regiment commences and with what we can gather there is much enthusiasm being displayed and a goodly number will likely offer themselves at the Recruiting Office to-night. We have no doubt that those in charge will have little trouble in getting the men required. The trouble will arise in connection with the facilities for training and especially in the smaller outposts. The Committee in charge will face the problem and overcome the difficulties as they occur. In August and September, the problem of training was simpler. Weather conditions were such that a camp could be formed at Pleasantville and another at the Range on the Southside, and the training of the men could go on day by day. The course to be pursued now is for the city men to have drill three nights a week and also to have training with Morris tubes in the brigade armouries, and when shelters are erected at the firing points of the range to have regular target practice. This is probably the best that can be done for the present, but it is obviously much more imperfect than the training afforded the first contingent at Pleasantville, whereas there will be a much larger preparation of the new volunteers who have not had the advantages of brigade training which two-thirds of the 1st contingent had before enlisting. As to the outposts, the intention is to get as many enrolled as possible, and then to take up the problem of training, on the lines of sending a drill instructor to any large outpost where fifty recruits can be gathered together. It is obviously desirable to bring as many men together at central points to facilitate training. To do this, men will have to give up work they do during the winter. This difficulty might be overcome and means afforded to get warm clothing and good food by offering a rate of pay to men under training for the front. There are also a number of men out of work or will soon be out of work who will need keep and clothing, and they should be looked after immediately they start training. In view of these facts, we respectfully suggest to the Finance Committee that they should reconsider their plans as to the non-payment of volunteers, until they are embarked for the front.

PASSED QUEBEC.—The s.s. Sindh passed Quebec at 8 o'clock on Saturday night, according to a message received by Mr. George Sheel. The steamer is on her way here from Montreal with a general cargo, chiefly flour, and will be the last vessel to come down the St. Lawrence this season. The Sindh should arrive here to-morrow night.

Hon. James Baird 86 Years Old To-Day.

We extend our heartiest congratulations to the Honorable James Baird, M.L.C., who to-day celebrates the 86th anniversary of his birthday, and in honor of the occasion the firm's waterfront premises is dressed with bunting. We wish our octogenarian many happy returns of the day and we voice the sentiments of his numerous friends both here and abroad in expressing the hope that his present good health will continue until, at least, the century mark is reached.

GERMAN ARMY CORPS IN PERILOUS POSITION.

A cable to the Herald from London this morning says: Practically surrounded by Russians, two and possibly three German army corps are this morning fighting desperately to break their way through the encompassing lines toward the South, in the hope of joining reinforcements sent from Thorn to aid them there. With their forces in the heart of Poland, and with only a narrow line of communication to the Posen frontier, still open, an office too small to permit the passage of the force without danger of annihilation, the Germans present one of the most dramatic pictures from the Eastern theatre of war. Can they escape a "Sedan" in all London was asking last night. That they are fighting with great determination, Petrograd admits. With enormous reinforcements, which the Grand Duke Nicholas is constantly receiving along railway line in his rear, there is little disposition to doubt the ultimate fate of beleaguered corps. Impelled by the gravity of the situation on the Eastern front, the Kaiser has again appeared on the Russian frontier and has joined Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to offer his advice and encourage his troops.

FRENCH OFFICIAL NEWS.

PARIS, To-day. French Official communication given out in Paris this afternoon is as follows: In Belgium the enemy is remaining on the defensive. Artillery fire has been feeble and we have made progress at certain points in vicinity of Antwerp but without result. There is nothing to report in the Vosges.

In the Argonne several attacks on the 27th of Dagblie were repulsed by our troops. There has been a heavy fog on the heights of the Meuse. In Woerwé district the enemy bombarded the forest of Antwerp but without result. There is nothing to report in the Vosges.

Anxious to Visit St. John's.

A communication has been received from a gentleman in Sydney asking what the probabilities are for bringing an aggregation of hockeyists here this season to play a series of games with a city team. Nothing definite regarding an answer to the foregoing has yet been decided on pending a meeting of the League which is being arranged for one night next week when the matter in question will be dealt with fully, though it is not likely that the arrangement of a visit from the Sydneysites will prove feasible in view of the war.

SEEVING WITH SIGNALLING CORPS IN FRANCE.

Among those associated with the Grand Trunk Railway System, who have enlisted for active service, is Mr. R. F. Morkill, signal engineer, who was gazetted a lieutenant. Word has been received at Montreal that Mr. Morkill is already engaged in important work in Europe for the imperial authorities. The above clipping is taken from the Montreal Gazette of recent date. The Mr. Morkill referred to was in charge of the Sub-Station of the Reid Co.'s electrical department. After spending a year here, during which time he made hosts of friends, he left in 1900 for Canada where he joined a Canadian contingent for South Africa. He saw service in the Anglo-Boer war and took part in several engagements. When the war was over he received an appointment as signalling engineer with the Central South African Railway Co., and occupied the position of Chief Signal Engineer upon his resignation. Upon returning from South Africa he worked with the Union Switch and Signal Co., of New York and later as Chief Signal Engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway, which position he resigned to enlist in the "War of the Nations."

Supreme Court on Circuit.

The Fall session of the Supreme Court on Circuit closed at Carbonar on Saturday. Mr. Justice Johnson presided and several members of the Bar were in attendance. Owing to the depression caused by the war and a poor Labrador fishery there was not much legal work for the Court.

At Harbor Grace a rape case was disposed of in record time. The offence was committed on Wednesday evening, the prisoner, who was rescued just in time from an enraged mob, who were proceeding to lynch him, came before Magistrate Oke on Thursday morning, was committed by noon, sent to the Grand Jury at 2.30, true bill found in an hour. The prisoner pleaded "guilty" and received a sentence at 6 o'clock of five years in the Penitentiary, hardly more than 24 hours from the moment the offence was committed.

A case for contempt of court against Mrs. Josiah Goss, who was charged with obstructing Deputy Sheriff Hierlly, of Bay Roberts, in the performance of his duty, was dismissed, the Judge contending the offence too trivial for punishment. Mr. C. E. Hunt acted for the Crown in above cases. Mr. McNeily defended Mrs. Goss.

Three actions were taken against Mr. Willis Davis in a matter arising out of the purchase of a whaling factory at Aquaforte. The plaintiffs got judgment in Carson vs. Davis for $330.00, in March vs. Davis for $230.00, and in Martin vs. Davis for $79.00. The lawyers engaged in these cases were Messrs. Summers, McNeily and Higgins.

There being no business ready at Carbonar on opening day, Court rose and sat on Saturday to hear the case of Cameron vs. Foote concerning a right of way.

Personal.

Messrs. P. J. Summers, W. R. Howley, L. E. Emerson, L. Carter, C. E. Hunt and J. Higgins returned by the shore train on Saturday from Harbor Grace where they were in attendance on the Circuit Court.

LAUGHABLE SKETCH.

Kelly and Mack, the clever Irish comedians, will appear in another of their very funny sketches to-night entitled: "Pals." This is one of the funniest seen here, with songs, dances, instrumental music and real rollicking comedy. Every one likes Kelly and Mack, the boys from the Emerald Isle. The pictures seen at Rossley's are very good, in fact the patrons declare the best pictures seen in a long time. Mrs. Rossley has started rehearsals for pantomimes. The Christmas production will be a wonder with many novelties. Mrs. Rossley is too well known as a pantomime producer to need any introduction; for her wonderful method in training our children and giving us the treat of the year in good clean fun at the Piano.

LECTURE AT GRENPELL HALL.

Mr. W. H. Jones lectured to a crowded audience, including a large concourse of outport people, at the Grenfell Hall last night, taking as his subject "Walks and Talks with Jesus." The discourse was a most instructive and impressive one and listened to with rapt attention. Next Sunday Mr. Jones intends lecturing at the same place on "Belgium" with lantern slides of that country before and after the war.

ENNIS—PEDDLE.

St. Patrick's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the 25th inst., when Mr. George Ennis was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Mary Peddle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. McDermott. The bride looked charming in a dress of cream silk voile, and was attended by Miss Annie McKellop, whilst the groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Harry Ennis. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque, and to the bridesmaid, silver hat pins, after the ceremony the happy couple drove around Waterford Bridge and thence to their future home on Pleasant Street, where a reception was held, the presents received were numerous and costly. We wish the popular young couple many years of wedded bliss.

REACHED WOODS' ISLAND.—The schrs. Nobility and Sentinel have reached Woods' Island to load herring for Gloucester.

VESSEL LOST.—A message to the Customs Department from Codroy states that the schr. Monitor, Captain Robert Duggan, drove ashore at Codroy Island on Saturday morning last and became a total wreck. The vessel was supposed to be bound for Bay Islands for a cargo of herring.

Owing to the illness of one of the performers, the comedy, "Bob Roberts," in the Mechanics' Hall is postponed to Monday night, Dec. 7th.—nov30,1i

IN MEMORIAM.

A funeral Lodge Service will be held in the Masonic Temple at 8.30 to-night, in memory of the W.B. Robert Campbell Smith, District Grand Master Depute. A pathetic feature of the service is that to-night was set down for the induction of the late Mr. Smith as Master of the new St. Andrew's Lodge.

POLICE COURT.—Two drunks were each fined $2 or 7 days; a forty-year-old laborer, charged with indecent exposure, was let go, owing to want of evidence to prove that he was the proper party; a suspect in a larceny case was released and three young men summoned for using insulting language had to pay costs; an indecent assault case was heard in private and will be finished this afternoon.

FOGOTA BACK.

The s.s. Fogota, Capt. Dunn, arrived from the northward at 10 a.m. to-day, bringing a small freight and the following passengers: Messrs. Bowden, Hogan, Moore; Mesdames W. Winsor, E. T. W. Blundon, J. Winsor, D. Hale, Norris, Dr. Carrell, Rev. E. H. Humphries, Capt. Wes. Keen, Capt. W. Winsor, S. Jones, C. Tiller, E. Lodge, in saloon and 20 second class. The Fogota sails again for the northward at 6 p.m. to-morrow.

Enthusiastic Patriotic Meeting at Carbonar.

A very enthusiastic and successful patriotic meeting was held at Carbonar on Friday evening last. At the request of Magistrate Penney, Judge Johnson and members of the Bar delivered inspiring addresses in the Methodist Academy Hall. The spacious hall was filled to repletion at 8.30 when the speakers arrived and proceeded to the platform. Judge Penney presided and in a few words introduced the Hon. Justice Johnson. The learned Judge spoke for over an hour. He calmly and judiciously reviewed the causes and history of the war, clearly showing that eventually the military party and the German Empire must be crushed. He paid a tribute of praise to the German people, who he believed did not want this war and predicted that they would yet be seen on the side of England when the war was over and the German Empire became a republic. Mr. P. J. Summers followed in a particularly happy address. He showed how Belgium by her sacred regard for her word and her heroic resistance and saved France from a disastrous defeat and notably helped to preserve the existence of the British Empire. He closed an inspiring manhood of the country.

Mr. Edward Emerson, the next speaker, spoke of the absolute necessity of soldiers and sailors at the front and proved to his audience that although the Empire would ultimately win, the duty of enlisting now was cast on every eligible fisherman in the country.

Mr. Cyril Fox also spoke. He possesses a full rich voice and has command of a fine flow of language. His hearers greeted him with many plaudits. All the speeches were received most kindly, frequent outbursts of applause marking each point made. The meeting closed at 11.15, many of the audience expressing great regret that the speeches were not longer.

The energetic Sheriff, Mr. W. J. Carroll arranged the programme and was responsible for the patriotic songs sung between the speeches. We hear that similar meetings, in conjunction with Magistrates Oke and Thompson, were arranged by the Sheriff at Brisbane and Harbord Emerson. The same speakers gave addresses and patriotic songs were rendered by Messrs. Fox, Carter and residents of the towns. Scarcity of legal work in the towns visited enabled the Circuit Judge, officers of the Court and lawyers to devote all their energies to patriotic work. We understand several recruits will appear at the "Calypso" this week as a result of their efforts.

REPORT FROM GENERAL FRENCH

—HEAVY BRITISH CASUALTIES
—BUT ENEMY'S LOSSES THREE TIMES AS MUCH.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day. Field-Marshal Sir John French, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in the field, speaks in an optimistic vein concerning the position of the Allies as reported to-day by the Official Press Bureau. The report covers in general the activities of British troops from Nov. 14 to the 20th, with extensive reference to the fighting proceeding between those dates. Summing up the situation, in concluding his report, Field Marshal French says: As I close this despatch signs are evident that we are possibly in the last stages of the battle from Ypres to Orientieres (?). For several days past the artillery fire of the enemy has slackened considerably. His infantry attacks have practically ceased. In remarking upon the general military situation of the allies, as it appears to him at present, General French continues: It does not seem to be clearly understood that operations which we have been engaged, embrace nearly all the central parts of the Continent of Europe from east to west. Combined the French, British and Belgian armies in the West, and detached only in the east oppose to unite the forces of Germany and Austria, acting with combined armies between us. Our enemies attempted at the commencement of the war to throw the weight of their forces against our armies in the west, and detached only comparatively weak force, composed of very few first line troops, several corps of the second and third line troops to stem the Russian advance until the Western forces could be completely defeated and overwhelmed. Their strength enabled them from the outset to throw greatly superior forces against us in the west. This precluded the possibility of our taking vigorous offensive action, except when miscalculations and mistakes made by commanders opened up special opportunities for successful attack and pursuit. The Battle of the Marne was an example of this, as also our advance from Stoter and Hazebrouck to the line of the River Lys. We have consequently been called upon to occupy strong defensive positions to hold the ground gained, to invite the enemy's attacks to throw back these attacks, causing the enemy heavy losses in his retreat and following up with successful counter attacks to complete his discomfiture. The value and significance of work of this nature, since the commencement of hostilities by the Allies' forces in the West lie in the fact that at the moment when the Eastern Provinces of Germany are in imminent danger of being overthrown by the numerous and powerful armies of Russia, nearly the whole active army of Germany is tied down in a line of trenches extending from Verdun, from the Alsatian frontier with the sea at Newport and East Dunkirk, a distance of 200 miles, where they are held with much reduced numbers and impaired morale by successful action of our troops in the west. I cannot speak too highly of the services rendered by the Royal artillery throughout the battle. In spite of the fact that the enemy has brought up in support of the attacks, guns of great range and shell powers, our men have succeeded throughout in preventing the enemy from establishing anything in the nature of a superiority in artillery. The skill and courage displayed by the Commanders of the Royal artillery were marked. The Royal Engineers have been indefatigable in their efforts to assist the infantry in field fortification and trench work. I deeply regret the heavy casualty which we have suffered, but the nature of the fighting has been very desperate. We have been assailed by vastly superior numbers. I have every reason to know throughout the course of the battle we have placed at least three times as many of the enemy hors de combat in dead, wounded and prisoners. Throughout these operations General Joffre strained his resources to the utmost to afford me all support he could. Expressions of warm gratitude are also due to General Du-bail, commanding the Eight French Army Corps on my left, and General Demaud Ely commanding the Tenth Army on my right.

KAISER IN THE EAST.

BERLIN, To-day. It is announced at military headquarters that Emperor William is now with the German army in the East.

WANDERING STARVED AND HALF FROZEN.

LONDON, To-day. It is impossible as yet accurately to estimate German losses around Lodz, says Reuter's Petrograd correspondent. Germans in groups and companies, even in battalions, are wandering starved and half frozen in the snow covered fields, seeking opportunity to surrender. It would require something like six or seven fresh army corps to shut off the German retreat completely.

ALLIES TAKING THE OFFENSIVE.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent reports that the Allies are taking the offensive, South of Ypres, having discovered that the German line is weakening.

TWO ATHLETES KILLED.

LONDON, To-day. The latest list of British killed in France contains the names of two well known athletes, G. R. L. Anderson, hurdler, and L. Collins, a cricket player. Anderson was twice English amateur champion of both high and low hurdles. Collins will always hold a place in the history of cricket as the batsman who made the highest individual score on record.

THE MOVEMENTS THAT FAILED.

LONDON, To-day. That the enterprise that failed in Flanders will be repeated for the present seems probable (?), as the Allies have been allowed to capture some points of vantage around Ypres, which previously were considered necessary to German plans. There has been a minor attack near Arras, but not in strong enough force to suggest that the Germans have decided to try to get to the coast by direct route from the East. An interesting report from Sir John French, covering the period of the battle in Flanders and the days immediately preceding it, shows that this battle was brought to outflank the Germans who countered and then planned to move to the north east to Ghent and Bruges which also failed. After this the German offensive began with the French coast ports as the objective, but this movement, like those of the allies, met with failure. There has been no development in the Balkan situation, but stress is laid on the clause of the King's speech at the opening of the Romanian Parliament, in which he said: "I am convinced that realizing the importance of the present situation you will give the Government every assistance in passing such legislation, as is demanded by circumstances, and required to meet the needs of the army."

SIEGE OF CRACOW BEGUN.

MILAN, To-day. The siege of Cracow has begun according to a correspondent who is with the Muscovite army. He writes that the Russians are bombarding forts with their heavy siege guns and that that of the suburbs of the city is reported to be in flames.

NOTHING DOING IN CAUCASUS.

PARIS, To-day. A despatch from Petrograd contains a statement issued by the General Staff of the Russian army in Caucasus. It says: "That there was no action of any importance on November 23rd."

Christian Brothers Collection.

Despite the many calls on the R. C. people during the present year, the annual collection for the Christian Brothers which was taken up yesterday amounted to $4,134.03 being only $8.31 less than that subscribed last year.

The totals are:—
Cathedral $2,912.61
St. Patrick's 1,086.95
St. Joseph's 74.67
Mt. Cashel 43.50
Littledale 6.30

$4,124.03

Last year the collections were as announced the first day:—

Cathedral $2,886.75
St. Patrick's 1,131.04
St. Joseph's 74.55
Mt. Cashel 38.00

$4,130.34

At the Deanery the amount of $1,086.95 was handed over to Rev. Bro. Cashman by Mr. Bambrick, the Treasurer, references being made by Messrs. J. Barron and T. J. Foran to the conditions responsible for the shortage. Rev. Bro. Cashman and Hearn made suitable replies.

At Mount St. Francis Hon. J. D. Ryan in announcing the total amount paid a worthy tribute to the Christian Brothers, who are so unselfishly giving their services in the cause of education.

Rev. Bro. M. C. Ryan replied thanking the people for their generosity, as shown by their liberal subscriptions at a time when the Empire was so largely taxed to face a problem that has been unequalled in history.

Messrs. T. J. Foran and J. T. Fitzpatrick replied respectively for St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's, and Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris referred to the work and self-sacrifice of the community of Mount St. Francis, and of their influence on the morals of the city. He also referred to the passing of the late Archbishop Howley.

Hon. P. T. McGrath, on behalf of the press, expressed appreciation of the work done by the Brothers, and also mentioned that the ex-pupils of their schools, who are now at Salisbury Plains, are maintaining that moral prestige, which is a fruit of the early training received from those devoted teachers.

Rev. Bro. J. E. Ryan, addressed the gathering thanking them for their help, and also for the welcome extended to him on his return after an absence of two years.

Report of Musketry Committee.

On Saturday afternoon the Musketry Committee of the Patriotic Association met to arrange for the instruction of the new regiment. It was reported that the requisition for the supplies, including Morris tubes, necessary for indoor training, had been approved of by the Finance Committee and ordered by telegraph and the goods should arrive here in the course of a few days. This will enable the recruits to commence right away training to shoot with the regular service rifle, and until the Morris tubes do arrive the miniature rifles will be used. The work of erecting wooden shelters at the Southside range will be started at once and a committee has been appointed to take charge of this arrangement, which will enable the volunteers to practice during the winter, except in stormy weather. The appointment of instructors and their duties was then discussed and everything was finalized so as instructors can report for duty as soon as called upon. Owing to the need for reinforcements in the Motherland, a special effort will be made to give the new contingent all the rifle training possible and in this connection the different brigade officers who are attending to the drill will be consulted on the matter by a representative of the Musketry Committee, and both sections will co-operate in carrying on the work.

Throughout the meeting much enthusiasm was manifested. At 8 o'clock this evening at the C.L.E. Armoury the enlisting of recruits will begin and it is hoped that the number will not only be satisfactory, but even exceed the number of volunteers who offered themselves for service with the First Nfld. Regiment on opening night.

GRAPHIC STORY OF LOSS OF BATTLESHIP

Sheerness, Eng., Nov. 26.—Lying at anchor in Sheerness harbor, one of the biggest naval bases in England, His Majesty's man-of-war Bulwark, a battleship of 15,000 tons displacement, was blown to pieces by a mysterious explosion, this morning. Wrapped in clouds of smoke and steam the vessel sank in five minutes, carrying all to their deaths, but twelve men of the crew numbering between 700 and 800 officers and men.

Officially, the destruction of the battleship is regarded as having been due to an accidental explosion in her magazines and from causes as yet unknown. Eye-witnesses have described to me the terrible moment which the magnificent ship met her doom. Workmen on shore who were waiting to be relieved after the night shift, say they were looking casually at the shipping in the harbor and not observing anything in particular, when a terrific crash went into the sky, immediately followed by clouds of smoke, but for a brief minute this amazement, not a vestige of the great battleship remained. So utterly staggering was the blow that the workmen, who had been dazed by the severity of the explosion, for a few moments even discredited their own senses and debated among themselves as to how many ships they had counted before the explosion.

SHATTERED EVERYTHING.

At once the harbor was in commotion. On board all the ships the officers and men rushed on deck, some of them half-stunned by the terrible explosion. I am told, indeed, that on some of the vessels near there was not a piece of glass or crockery left whole, even the half inch plate glass in the port holes being shattered and men on decks being hurled several yards and thrown down.

In a very few moments boats were being lowered from the various warships, and rescue boats soon steamed out from all directions. They came, however, on an almost fruitless errand. A warship cleared for action is so closely stripped of woodwork that there is nothing left to float, and the vast mass of metal that had been a battleship a minute before, had vanished as completely as though she had never figured on the navy list.

Here and there were floating a few living men, although most of these were terribly injured. These with a number of mutilated dead bodies were the only signs of the disaster.

As speedily as possible the living and dead were picked up and taken to other warships. A little later they were removed in boats to the Sheerness Pier where motor boat ambulances from Chatham were ready to take them to the naval hospital.

LANDED SURVIVORS.

The living are said to number only twelve. Overnight leave had been given a limited number of men from the Bulwark, and these were returning down Midway aboard cutter boat.

HEARD FAR AND WIDE.

The explosion was heard far and wide. In Sittingbourne many people not only heard the explosion, but saw a great sheet of flame. "It was just like a wonderful sunset, if one could have a sunset at that time, and in that direction," said one man to me. In peace time the complement of the Bulwark was rated at 750 officers and men, but in war the personnel of our ships has proved to be higher rather than below the figure usually given in the reference book.

STORY OF COLLIER'S CREW.

A number of the crew of a collier lying near the Bulwark gives the following story: "I was on deck when I heard a most tremendous explosion, and at the same time I saw a sheet of red flame shoot up. Then there was a dense volume of black smoke, and as that cleared away, there was nothing—just a gap between."

I rubbed my eyes and wondered for a moment whether there really had been a ship there. It must have been all over in one minute."

WILLIAMS-ANTLE.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, when Mr. Frank Williams, of Utica, New York, and Miss Jane Antle, of Placentia, Newfoundland, were united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. O'Donovan, Parish Priest of Our Lady of Refuge Church. The bride wore a pretty dress of white crepe de chine, with veil and wreath, and carried a large bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Madeline Norris, of Salmonier, Newfoundland, who wore a dress of pink chiffon over satin. The groom was supported by Mr. Joseph McKeeney, of Brooklyn, New York. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to their future home, 52 Lincoln St., Brooklyn, where supper was served to about 50 guests. The bride was the recipient of many presents including a silver tea service. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond La Vallere, to the bridesmaid a gold ring, to the best man a gold stick pin. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Williams wish them many happy years of wedded life. Brooklyn, New York, Nov. 18, '14.

A Waterfront Wedding

A social event of much interest along the waterfront, and particularly among the fishermen of the port, took place on Monday evening, when Mr. Russell Kearley, secretary of the Halibut Fishermen's Union, and Miss Martha Mary Monk, were married at St. James's Church by the Rev. H. Edwards. Bride and bridegroom are daughter and son respectively of Newfoundland fishermen and both hail from Newfoundland. Mr. Kearley, who has been a resident in Vancouver, both as fisherman and as official of his union, for upwards of ten years, has made himself esteemed among employers and employed alike and there was a large attendance of fishermen at the church and afterwards at the residence of the bride's parents, where several of the local skippers added their congratulations. Mr. A. Caveran acted as "best man" at the wedding and Miss Annie Solder was bridesmaid. The many presents of which the pair were made recipients included a handsome one from the Halibut Fishermen's Union.—News Advertiser, Vancouver, Nov. 12.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up." Professor C. V. Boys, F.R.S., says, in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a blue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—Nov 17, 11

Naval Gunners' Work.

Up-River Excursions of British Destroyers. The Press Association's Dover correspondent telegraphs:—"Some details have reached here of the fine firing of the British naval gunners off the Belgian coast. I have it on good authority that the crew of one of the monitors watched the Germans bring up one of their big guns. They allowed them to get it into position, to take the range, and even to put the shell in the breech, when one of their 6 in. guns 'let drive.' The first shot told, and a further five shots hit every time. The gun and men were smashed to pieces. "It is also stated that our destroyers are having a fair picnic, as it was put. They go up the river at Newport, give a broadside, turn round, let drive with the opposite guns, and, as a parting shot, fire her stern gun. The Germans must have lost terribly. It is estimated that they left 2,000 dead in one field alone, whilst the naval fire has swept the trenches and caused enormous loss."

Overcoats.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slivash."

An overcoat is a sort of supercoat, designed for defence. Against a good thick overcoat a hostile winter can charge vainly for months, retiring with great losses in the spring. The overcoat is the logical division between the bread line and the pay check. It is the first thing a man buys after he has acquired a job and the last thing he pawns while watchfully waiting for the eminent financiers of the land to get over their regular attacks of tenth year shivers. A good thick overcoat against which a blizzard will curl 'up' and ruin his edge can be bought for $7.00. A considerably thinner overcoat can also be purchased for $120.00. Yet the man who buys the latter coat regards the purchaser of the former with scorn and alludes to him as "the ignorant" class.

Overcoats tell much more to the careful observer than the palms of the hands. When a man wears a broadcloth coat with a Persian lamb collar it is a sign that he will cure fervently when the income tax is mentioned. When a man wears a costly old coat with a greasy collar it is a sign that he is rich but not socially ambitious, and that dollars escaping from his hands will be considerably thinner and wider than before. When a husband and father wears an arrogant overcoat which flares in the skirts and looks saucy about the waist, it is a sign that his wife has to plan an attack upon him for a new winter hat as carefully as if he were defended by floating mines. On the other hand, when a husband and father is continually making last year's overcoat do for one more winter his family devours his pay check and he walks to and from work for exercise.

Now and then a young man may be observed wearing an overcoat which was apparently designed by a cubist master. In such cases it is perfectly safe to approach the young man in a familiar way and ask him for a cigarette and his college yell. Occasionally one also discovers an elderly man with iron gray hair wearing an overcoat with billows of furry collar and cuffs. In this case one should mention the stage with caution unless he is willing to spend the rest of the afternoon hearing about Broadway.

Overcoats are a punishment to the small boy, a boon to the grown man and a trial to the old settler who has to be hoisted into one by two daughters and a grandson. Americans are divided roughly into two classes—those who worry about styles in overcoats and those who ask how long they will wear.

VOUCHERS FOR TRUTH OF ATROCITY STORY. New York, Nov. 21.—The American says: "Germany has a army corps, equivalent to 300,000 officers and men, in this country already, and if she wins the present war, it will be our turn next."

Such was the statement made by John R. Drexel, of this city, when he returned from Europe to-day on the White Star Line steamer Adriatic. He has spent most of the last two months in Viche, France, and declared he had a splendid opportunity to see the German fighting machine at work. "It is a wonderful machine, and is being very cleverly handled by the most astute group of men in the world, the German General Staff," he continued. "It is up to this government to take immediate steps to increase the strength of her standing army and to double our fleet."

"My brother, Anthony T. Drexel, is fighting with a French regiment. He was in London two days before I left having brought home Lady Sarah Wilson, whose husband had been killed at Alsace. Lady Sarah, up to that time, had been with the Red Cross. Her husband's death and the terrible weather on the Continent were responsible for her prostration."

"You are going to hear of more atrocities before the war is over, and some of them will be more horrible than anyone ever imagined. While I was at Viche, a wounded German soldier was brought into the hospital. In his pocket was the hand of a woman with four valuable rings still on her fingers."

THE COLORS OF THE FLAG.

What is the blue on our flag, boys? The waves of the boundless sea, Where our vessels ride in their tameless pride.

And the feet of the winds are free: From the sun and smiles of the coral isles With dauntless tread through tempests dread.

The guardian ships go forth. What is the white on our flag, boys? The honor of our land, Which burns in our sight like a beacon light.

And stand while the hills shall stand. Yes, dearer than fame is our land's great name.

And we fight wherever we be, For the mothers and wives that pray for the lives

Of the brave hearts over the sea. What is the red on the flag, boys? 'Tis the blood of our heroes slain On the burning sands, in the wild waste lands.

And the froth of the purple main; And it cries to God from the crimson sod

And the crest of the waves outrolled. That he send us men to fight again As our fathers fought of old.

We'll stand by the dear old flag, boys, Whatever be said or done; Though the shots come fast, as we face the blast.

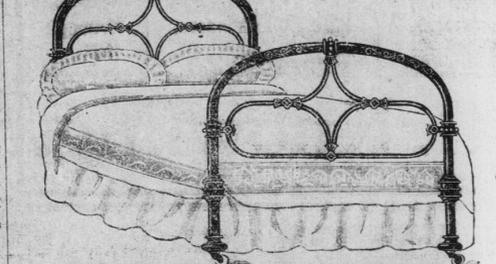

And the foe be ten to one— Though our only reward be the thrust of the sword.

And a bullet in heart or brain; What matters one gone if the flag float on.

And Britain be lord of the main. Overgarter boots are one of the winter fads, and they have the merit of being very warm.

Family Loyalty.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"There's one thing I simply cannot understand about Gertrude," said a neighbor of mine, in regard to a mutual friend. "She is such a clever, clever, frightened person about most things and yet she can't seem to see any fault in that silly, selfish little sister of hers."

"How do you know she can't?" "Because you can never get her to say a word against her. You know what close friends we are? Well, Gertrude will say almost anything to me, but never a word of complaint about Lucille, no matter what she does. And yet she knows that I can't help knowing about some of Lucille's performances." "I could not help smiling inwardly at my neighbour's surprise. No wonder she couldn't understand the family loyalty that sealed Gertrude's lips, for she hasn't an iota of it herself and thinks nothing of criticising her sister or brother, her father and even her mother, to outsiders, with a freedom that to ears used to reticence on such matters is fairly appalling. "I never was one of those people who cannot see a fault in those they love," she often says with evident pride. "I can see my family's faults and I love them in spite of those faults, not because I'm blind to them."

family loyalty to discuss them with an outsider, never presented itself to this woman. I don't doubt that Gertrude sees Lucille's faults. As her friend says, she is a very clear sighted person. Without doubt she knows, but she does not consider it necessary to talk about everything she knows. And I honor her for the reticence which refuses to be drawn into discussion of her sister. I once knew a girl who had a very trying relative in her immediate family. What that girl suffered from him, what humiliation, what deprivations, what anxiety, only anyone who has had a similar experience can realize. This girl and I lived together for a year, and never in the course of that time did she speak disparagingly of him. There is a fineness in such loyalty that commands one's highest respect. It seems to me that there is one case in which family loyalty can be carried too far, and that is when it makes anyone uphold the housemate against an outsider, even when the former is unquestionably wrong and the latter suffers injustice thereby. I know that many people consider even this justifiable, but it does not seem so to me. These same people would exalt patriotism above devotion to the right, and here, again, I cannot follow.

I believe one should shield and help and forgive, and best of all, love the wayward housemate to the last drop of heart's blood, but one should not wrong another to do it and no good will come when he does.

Austrians Eager To Finish Servians

During the Fall.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—Gen. Potiorek, commander of the Austrian army operating against the Servians, has issued a general order to the fifth and sixth armies fighting in Servia to do their utmost to break the last resistance of their opponents and end the campaign before winter sets in.

The only news appearing in the Vienna press from the Gallican scene of war is the official announcement that the post office has suspended entirely the parcels post service for Galicia.

Obituary.

MRS. BARBARA GIBBS.

A well known and estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Gibbs, beloved wife of Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., passed away at her late residence, LeMarchant Rd., shortly after 7 o'clock last evening. The deceased had been a sufferer for several years, and about three and a half years ago underwent treatment at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, but despite all medical skill a permanent cure could not be made. A recurrence of the malady became apparent in the early part of the year, and a second visit became necessary, but it was evident that life could only be prolonged for a few months.

The constant care of her physicians and devoted nursing helped her through many of the crises of her disease, until death came yesterday to release her from many years of patient suffering borne with true Christian resignation. Mrs. Gibbs was the daughter of the late Mr. James Eddie, a native of Perth, Scotland, and was married 16 years ago to Mr. Gibbs, then a member of the firm of Morrison, Morine and Gibbs. She leaves besides her husband, four children, James, Augustus, Barbara and Mary to whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

Mrs. John Morris, of this city, is an aunt, and Mr. William Merchant, also of this city, is an uncle of the deceased. Another uncle, Mr. J. F. Merchant, resides at Sydney, and several other relatives are in New Zealand.

Mrs. Gibbs was well known in the city for her charity, and to-day many a poor and afflicted one will feel her passing as a great personal loss. She was an active member of the St. Bonaventure's Ladies' Association, and though in delicate health, was ever interested in philanthropic work, a work that always afforded her much pleasure. The funeral will take place on Wednesday next at 2.30 p.m.

Aeroplane Dart Deadly

Physician Describes Effect of Terrible Blow of Airman's Weapon.

Paris, Nov. 20.—A French doctor who has just returned from Flanders, describing the effect of the "Fleche d'aero," as the steel darts with which the French airman are supplied, are generally called, said:

"Among the 2,000 wounded whom we treated in forty-eight hours, was a German who had been struck by an aeroplane dart. He was evidently bending over when hit, for the dart had entered the right thigh and traversed the whole leg, so that the point emerged just above the foot. The man was conscious when he was brought in, and said he felt no pain, only a heavy blow. He died soon afterwards from shock and loss of blood."

The darts resemble steel pencils. They are about five inches long with the unpointed half-fluted to insure their falling head first. It is calculated they strike with a hundred pounds force if thrown from an elevation of 1,000 meters.

For Belgian Refugees.

An exhibition of the work done by the ladies of St. Andrew's Patriotic Association for the Belgian refugees will be held at the Presbyterian Hall to-morrow afternoon. Mrs. R. H. Anderson, the President of the Association has worked untiringly in this truly deserving cause for some weeks past, and her efforts have been crowned with success. Her noble band of patriotic workers have made up a number of articles of clothing, which need only be seen to be appreciated. Lady Davidson has kindly consented to be present, and the following performers will take part in the concert to be given during the evening:—Misses G. Strang, J. Strang, L. Anderson, J. Anderson, Hanlon, A. Hayward, J. Trapnell, M. Doyle, M. Mitchell, and Mrs. King.

The exhibition will open at 3 p.m. Tea will be served during the afternoon, and the general admission is 10 cents.

Installation of Canons.

During matins yesterday at the C. of E. Cathedral Canon Rev. T. G. Netten, of Topsail and Rev. G. H. Field, Rector of Bay Roberts, appointed to the stalls of St. Augustine and St. Aidan, respectively, were installed. His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland, acting as Dean and President of the Chapter conducted the ceremony. The preacher was Rev. Canon Field.

Biggest Liner Strikes an Iceberg.

And is Lost at Sea. See To-day's Nickel.

A two reel feature film will be shown at the Nickel Theatre this evening. It is the masterpiece of the Gaumont artists and is one of the most remarkable pictures ever shown on canvas. It is entitled: "The Perils of the Atlantic" and is of the greatest interest from start to finish. The staging is perfect, the plot deep and gripping and there is a pathos about it which will appeal to everyone. It tells of the maiden voyage of the Queen of the Waves the mammoth steamship "Colossus," the largest and most magnificent steamer ever built. The voyage ends disastrously, for the mighty "Colossus" which all thought unshakable, strikes an iceberg and goes to bottom in mid-Atlantic. The hour was midnight, and hundreds of fashionable passengers were enjoying themselves when suddenly there is a crash and all is confusion. See the sinking of the Colossus. This is a picture that everyone should see. It is the chance of a lifetime, so attend to-day.

Mr. Arthur C. Huskins has two beautiful songs for this evening. Wednesday there is a phenomenal three part film entitled: "The White Glove Band" dealing with aristocratic thieves. This is a wonder film, do not miss it.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen,—Last Winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of inflammation.

"Great Britain at War."

Is depicted in a Gaumont graphic at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day, a film just received from London, showing scenes outside the London War Office in response to Lord Kitchener's appeal for 500,000 men, volunteers marching through London, etc.

"The Diamond Makers" is a great two reel detective feature produced by the Rex Company featuring Margarita Fischer, Queen of the Diamond Makers, and Bob Leonard, the Detective. Mr. Leonard has proved his ability as an actor on many occasions but rarely has he appeared to better advantage than in this remarkable drama.

A full reel of "Universal Animated Weekly," showing Gallic Sports in Chicago, Hensley Regatta, The Long Branch Baby Review, Fashions and many other interesting topics.

"Charlie's Little Game" is a lively Crystal Comedy featuring Pearl White and Chester Barnott.

Baldy Belmont figures as a Roman Gladiator in another side splitting comedy. Don't miss seeing this great show at the Crescent.

In the Camerons.

The following comes from a Lieutenant in a regiment now engaged in the Camerons: I spent two nights in Calabar, and then was ordered with a force of two companies and two guns to come up here, where there has been severe fighting at a place called —. We had taken the place before my lot arrived, and then had been driven out again; we had only 200 men and two guns, against 72 white Germans and 400 black German troops. Only seven of my old company have turned up so far out of nearly a hundred. I have not heard the news about the other company yet. However, we ousted 13 German officers and far more of their black troops than they did of ours. One of our subalterns came in yesterday. He had spent three whole days in the bush, trying to get back to us. He had no clothes on, no hat, and no boots, and also no food; his feet are all cut to pieces, but otherwise he is fairly fit. The Germans are arming the bushmen, and are making them shoot any of our stragglers. By god, they are doing some of the dirtiest tricks I have ever heard of. However, they are going to get it hot now! As we came up the river we passed all sorts of dead bodies floating down—Germans and our own—not a pleasing sight, as we are just going into the thick of the fun! Tomorrow I go off with my orderly to join another company.

Rule Britannia.

When Britain first, at Heaven's command,
Arose from out the azure main,
This was the charter of the land,
And guardian angels sung this strain:
"Rule, Britannia, rule the waves;
Britons never will be slaves."

The nations not so blessed as thee
Must in their turns, to tyrants fall;
While thou shalt flourish great and free,
The dread and envy of them all.

Still more majestic shalt thou rise,
More dreadful from each foreign stroke;
As the loud blast that tears the skies
Serves but to root thy native oak.

Thee haughty tyrants ne'er shall tame:
All their attempts to bend thee down
Will but arouse thy generous flame,
But work their woe, and thy renown.

To thee belongs the rural reign;
Thy cities shall with commerce shine:
All thine shall be the subject main,
And every shore it circles thine.

The Muses, still with freedom found,
Shall to thy happy coast repair;
Blessed Isle! with watchless beauty crowned,
And mainly hearts to guard the fair:

"Rule, Britannia, rule the waves;
Britons never will be slaves."
—James Thomson.

Worth Money.

Folks often say of Jasper Hinks, "That man is worth a million plunks." Which means he has a mighty hard in some sly place of safety stored. His value, though, to fellow gents, would not amount to fifty cents. He never helped a human soul since he acquired his buiging roll; he never lets a dime get loose, on any pretext or excuse, unless he knows that it will earn another dime, and then return. He judges all men by their wads; the millionaires rank with the gods, and men who have no pile of kink to Jasper seem both cheap and stale. He kicks at every forward move; he hates to see the town improve, because he fears that better times may tax him for his sacred dimes. He never thinks of aught but cash; all other things to him seem trash; the only books he reads are those which tell of how a fortune grows; the only pictures which appeal to his old heart of rusty steel, are those which on banknotes are seen—which decorate the good long green. He's worth a million, so they say. Ods bodikins! Alackaday! I wouldn't give ten cents a throw for fifty Jaspers in a row!

New Evidence of German Readiness.

BOOK PUBLISHED IN 1906 TOLD OFFICERS WHAT TO DO AND SAY.

Paris, Nov. 21.—Among the many instances of German foresight in preparing for the present war not the least curious is a book called "The Military Interpreter," by Captain von Scharfenort, professor and librarian of the Berlin Academy of War. This volume, published in 1906 says Le Temps, is composed of reports, letters, circulars and notices for use in France during the German occupation. On page 22 is a model letter to the commander-in-chief of the French army in reply to a circular accusing the German troops of numerous violations of international law. The letter addressed to the Generalissimo of the Enemy says:

"In a circular to the Minister of Foreign Affairs you have reproached the German troops with numerous violations of international law. The German troops are alleged to have rendered themselves guilty of acts of hostility against ambulance corps, of having taken prisoner M. A.—in the midst of an ambulance corps organized by him, of having made use of explosive bullets, of having forced peasants to work at digging trenches under fire of the fortress and having attempted to send food and ammunition trains under cover of a sign adopted by the Geneva convention. Lastly, a doctor, while attending a wounded Prussian soldier is alleged to have been killed by him."

"I have made inquiry with a view to learning if anything has taken place which could have been transformed by the informants unworthy of credence or of evil intention into the monstrosities denounced. An inquiry of this kind offers difficulties all the greater, inasmuch as the statements were drawn up in a form extraordinarily vague. For official assertions of so grave a character every indication of the name, place, and time is wanting completely. In the two cases in which reference is made to witnesses and statements—the case of explosive bullets and peasants forced to dig trenches—neither the tenor of the evidence or the names of witnesses or informers were indicated.

"The inquiry conducted on our side has found a real but singularly distorted basis for one alone of the accusations brought against the German troops. It is correct that M. A.— was arrested and that he was occupied tending the wounded, but his arrest was not effected in the midst of an ambulance corps. It was caused by the suspicion that he was in communication with the garrison of S—. As to the duration of his detention the military authority alone could decide. With reference to all the other statements I must declare them entirely invented."

V. C. Hero.

A Cardiff Man's Great Bravery. Sergeant-major White, of the Army Service Corps, who has the distinguished conduct medal, and was made Queen's Corporal for carrying Lieutenant Roberts, mortally wounded, from the danger zone at Colenso, has just been notified that he will receive the Victoria Cross for gallantry at LeChateau.

Recounting his experience at Cardiff, where he undergoes an operation to-day for the extraction of a bullet. White said:—

"We got orders at night to move a convoy. We ran into an ambush of Uhlans, and they gave it us hot. I accounted for four of them with my sword, but we had to retire.

"When we reached a place where we could pull ourselves together, the officer asked if anyone saw Captain Grey, who was in charge.

"It was stated that he had been shot down, and I said I would go back for him. I went and found him, and, placing him across my horse, galloped back to safety with bullets whistling round. I was hit in both legs."

White left the Army only a month before the present war broke out. He re-enlisted, and has fought at Mons and on the Marne and the Aisne.

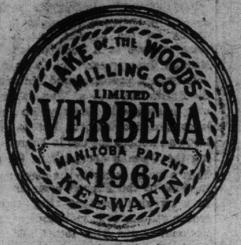

No Sympathy for DeWet

New York Sun.—To feel sympathy for General De Wet, wounded and a fugitive, requires something of an effort. For years before raising the standard of rebellion he had been Minister of Agriculture of the Orange River State and was honored and trusted by the British Government. Long before the Union of South Africa was organized De Wet had worked for reconstruction under the British flag, and formally proclaimed his loyalty as an example to his people after the Boer war. It is now evident that he did not wear his heart upon his sleeve.

Kaiser's Son Requests Shelter for Wounded.

A Red Cross nurse who was at Rheims from the time the town was first shelled by the Germans, tells the following story:

"One day a young officer in uniform tattered and extremely dirty, asked me politely in the street, after saluting, whether we could receive some wounded in our hospital. I replied it was impossible, as the place was full and it was impossible to feed those there. He thanked me. I saw him go to a shop and leave with his hands full of sausages and various eatables. The ragged young officer was the Kaiser's fourth son, a German general explained."

We reprint this to show how conspicuous soiled and dirty apparel always is, and at the same time to remind you of our process of restoring such garments to original freshness and beauty.
