The Old Marquis

The Girl of the Cloisters

CHAPTER XXXVII.
THE SECRET OUT.

With a shriek, Lela sprang to her feet and tore at the handle of the door, as if to get near the awful spot, that was a quarter of a mile from them; but Bowen leaped from the box, and, white and trembling, put up his hand.

"Sit still! For Heaven's sake, sit still, my lady! Drive to Lord Edgar's villa!" he shouted, as he sprang upon the box, again.

"Oh, my lady, my lady, don't take on so!" implored Lovel, as Lela, crouched on the bottom of the cab, hid her face in her hands, as if to shut out the picture that was burning into her brain. "Don't take on so! Bear up! My master mayn't be hurt!"

"Dead! dead!" she moaned.

"No, no! For Heaven's sake, don't think it! Not yet, my lady! If he's not dead, you'll want all your strength."

The words were wisely chosen. They acted like magic. With a sudden cry, she sat up, and pressing her hand to her heart, she gasped out to him:

"Don't speak to me! Not a word! I will, I will believe you! No, no, no! He is not dead! He will want me! I will be strong!"

The frantic horses dashed down the hill toward the town, and reached the villa; the fly had to make its way through crowds that seemed converging to one spot—that of their own destination. A wild hum of horror and sympathy, of disappointment and alarm, seemed to fill the air.

On Lela's now acute ears the name of Lord Edgar struck frequently; and once she heard a man standing near the fly, as it whirled past him, say:

"Dead as a stone!"

And she quivered through every limb; but still she bore up, still mastered and overcome, beat back by woman's force of love and will, that nameless, death-like stupor that fought to claim her for its own.

Suddenly, with a jerk, the fly stopped at the door of the villa, and Lovel, flinging himself out, forced back the crowd to make way for her, and taking her arm within his, led her up the steps.

The door was closed, and two policemen stood on guard, answering the questions of the crowd who stood around in hushed quietness.

Lovel got out the words "Lady Fane!" and one of the policemen knocked on the door, and they entered.

As if by instinct Lela passed through the hall, and, going like one blind, felt her way, as it were, up the stairs, and entered a room in which she could hear a hushed murmur of voices. Lovel close upon her heels, and Bowen following.

She stood for a moment and looked around.

There, on the bed, lay the stalwart form of the man whom she loved—her husband, her lover, her god! She saw no one else, though a doctor was leaning over him, and the tall, bent figure of the marquis stood on the other side of the bed.

She made one step forward, staggered, recovered herself, then walked to the bed, and, feeling on her knees, looked at the white face, white but for a streak of blood that ran across the nasal forehead.

She saw nothing but that face, was conscious of nothing save it in that moment of anguish; then she turned her eyes heavy with dread, to the grave face of the doctor, and if ever eyes spoke, hers spoke then.

"Is he dead?" they asked.

He hit up his finger warningly, and his lips formed the word "No."

With a shudder of relief that was so fierce that it was almost a pain, her face fell on her hands.

A moment passed, then she knew that some one had touched her, and looking up, she saw the marquis standing beside her.

She had no fear of him now; there was only a look of stupor and surprise in her eyes that any one should speak to her.

"Come with me!" he whispered.

She looked at him, wearily. Did he mean leave her husband? She did not move.

"Come with me," he said again.

"I ask it for his sake," and he pointed to the bed.

Something in his voice touched her. She looked at the doctor, and he nodded.

"Please do so!" he said. He had no idea who she was.

"I can not leave him," she panted, almost inaudibly. "Why do you ask me?" Then it flashed upon her. "Ah, you do not know! I am his wife!"

The marquis did not start, but his hand, which he had laid gently upon her shoulder, fell to his side, and his lips closed.

"I am his wife!" she repeated, pitifully.

"That is not true!" said a voice, a strained voice, almost hoarse in its intensity.

All eyes were turned in its direction, and Lela, turning hers wearily, saw Edith Drayton standing beside the bed, her hand clinched at her heart as if to still its fierce throbbing, her eyes fixed with an awful, passionate yearning upon the white face beneath her.

The doctor looked from one to another with a frown.

"Not true!" said Lela, mechanically, as if she had dreamed the words. "Who says it? I am his wife—his wife!"

"It is not true!" said the voice again, and this time the dark eyes met here with a defiant late.

Lela staggered and turned to the bed; then she turned suddenly.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only a few cents

Magie! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

"Yes—I will go. I am—not fit to stay. I shall be stronger directly. You will"—pitifully—"let me come back!" to the marquis. For she thought that the words, the very face of Edith Drayton, were phantoms of her disordered brain.

The marquis drew her arm within his and led her out, and the doctor, turning to Edith Drayton, somewhat sternly pointed to the door.

She knelt at the bedside for a moment and touched Lord Edgar's hand with her lips, then followed.

Trembling, Lela allowed the marquis to take her into a room on the same floor and place her in a chair. Then she looked up at him.

"A few minutes"—she breathed—"a few minutes! I shall be strong then! Oh, my lord, my lord, have pity on me! Don't let them keep me from him because I seem weak! I—I saw him fall!" and she shuddered.

The marquis looked down at her, and his stern, white face quivered.

"My child!" he said, then his voice grew harder. "Girl, I know not what to think. Why are you here?"

"Why?" She stared at him with her pain-dimmed eyes, then she laughed—a hushed, discordant laugh. "Are you mad to ask such a question?" she said. "Why am I—I, his wife?"

The marquis turned to where Edith Drayton stood white and picturesque.

"Perhaps, madame," he said, "you can explain this mystery. Perhaps you will tell me why, at such a moment as this, you—and she—are here."

Edith Drayton looked at him steadily.

"I am here because"—her voice did not falter; it grew, if anything, fuller and deeper—"I love him. She"—and she pointed to Lela—"is here because she thinks herself his wife!"

The marquis turned to Lela—to Lela, staring as if through a mist for a moment, then the full meaning of the words—the cruel words—seemed to strike her, and slowly she rose and stood upright.

"You hear?" said the marquis, sternly. "What have you to say?"

Lela struggled for breath, for strength.

"I say that I am Lord Edgar's wife," she asked, and her voice, low and hushed as it was, was full of sweet dignity. "It is my husband who lies in the next room, and I must—I will go to him!" and the slight, slim figure seemed to dilate.

The marquis' brow grew dark.

"Either you are deceived, or—" He paused; he could not say the words, that were then on his tongue; he could not, looking at the pure, sweet, anguished eyes, say them.

"She has been deceived!" said Edith Drayton; "this is no time for concealment, my lord; even pity—and I do pity her—must yield to truth. Miss Temple—"

"I am Lady Fane!" breathed Lela, her eyes flashing.

"Miss Temple has been cruelly deceived," said Edith Drayton, as if Lela had not spoken. "But I have spoken the truth. She is not Lord Edgar's wife and has no claim to be near him."

The marquis stood leaning on his stick, silent, and at the moment the door opened and Clifford Revel entered. He paused as he saw the marquis and seemed as if about to retire, but Edith Drayton seized his arm, not hurriedly, but with a gesture that would not brook no denial.

"If you yorokship demands proof, this gentleman may give it, for he planned and carried out the deception."

Clifford Revel looked from one to the other, his face growing whiter and whiter beneath the scornful and piercing eyes of the marquis.

"What is your business here, sir?" he said, with a fierce coldness. "By whose invitation do you intrude in this house?"

The question seemed to fire Clifford Revel into a reckless passion.

"This house is your son's, my lord, for the present, and I am here as his guest. Can you say as much?" he returned, with an evil sneer.

The marquis was silent.

"I am Lord Edgar's guest," said Clifford Revel. "And while he lives"—no one can describe the fiendish malignity of triumph that breathed in the tone in which the significant words were spoken—"I have the right to remain."

The marquis did not flinch, but filled him with fierce scorn, but Lela shrank quivering into her chair.

Edith Drayton pointed to Lela.

"Mr. Revel, this lady says she is the wife of Lord Edgar; I have denied the truth of her statement; I call upon you to bear evidence in my favor."

He winced, and looked at her reproachfully, and was silent for a moment, then he looked around.

"I came to inquire after Lord Edgar—my cousin. Is he alive?"

"Yes, sir," answered the marquis, with stern defiance.

"And is there any hope?" asked Clifford Revel.

The marquis' eyes dropped.

Clifford Revel turned his head aside to hide the gleam of triumph that shone in his eyes, then he looked around again.

READY TO ADVANCE.
 COBLENZ, June 17. Concentration of troops preparatory to advancing further into Germany if the Germans refuse to sign the treaty will begin to-day throughout the occupied area. Orders to this effect was received from Foch yesterday.

PRINCE OF WALES IN CANADA IN AUGUST.
 OTTAWA, Ont., June 18. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is expected to arrive in Canada during the month of August and will be present at the beginning of the Canadian National exhibition at Toronto and at the official opening of the new Canadian Parliament Buildings. The following staff will accompany him on his Canadian tour: Chief of Staff the Marquis of Salisbury, Chief Private Secretary Lt. Col. E. M. Origgs, Assistant Secretary Sir Godfrey Thomas, Bart., Equerries, Capt. Lord Claud Hamilton and Capt. the Hon. T. W. Legh.

BETTER SIGN UP.
 WEIMAR, June 17. No statement has been issued by the German cabinet on the Allied reply to the German counter proposals, but the Associated Press learns that the cabinet is almost unanimously signing the treaty; the only objection being possibility of Bolshevism and chaos in Germany. The Frankfurt Gazette says, "Whatever we do will be terrible. Germany is in no position to sign the treaty when the signature is forced by ultimatum. Let us resign ourselves to the inevitable and hope for better future."

GIVING GERMANY A CHANCE.
 PARIS, June 18. The plan of the Allied and Associated Powers to make concessions to Germany with regard to ships and financial and economic measures if she signed the peace terms was deemed advisable to assure Germany a certain amount of financial and economic working capital, without which it would be impossible for her to resume her industries or pay reparations. Among the concessions was a permit to Germany to use for two years of thirty per cent. of her merchant shipping and facilities for obtaining certain ores and other raw materials as well as the retention of her gold reserve in order to maintain the German currency system and foreign credits.

EXPELLED.
 WINNIPEG, Man., June 18. Rev. Wm. Ivens, editor of the Western Labor News, who was arrested yesterday along with other strike leaders, was given notice of location by a motion passed this morning in a closed meeting of the Ministerial session of the Manitoba Conference of the Methodist Church. "Notice of Location" is

PRINCE ALBERT

YOU can't help cutting loose joy's remarks every time you flush your smokespot with Prince Albert—it hits you so fair and square. It's a scuttle full of jimmy pipe and cigarette makin's sunshine and as satisfying as it is delightful every hour of the twenty-four!

It's never too late to hop into the Prince Albert pleasure-pasture! For, P. A. is trigger-ready to give you more tobacco fun than you ever had in your smokecareer. That's because it has the quality.

Quick as you know Prince Albert you'll write it down that P. A. did not bite your tongue or parch your throat. And, it never will! For, our exclusive patented process cuts out bite and parch. Try it for what ails your tongue!

Most Canadian dealers now sell Prince Albert in the tidy red tin. If your dealer does not handle it tell him to order through his jobber. Leading Canadian jobbers are now supplied.

a technical term, by which a man is notified that he can no longer preach as a Minister of the Methodist Church, and that he gives up the standing and functions of a Minister conferred on him at his ordination. The only reason given for the action was that Rev. Ivens was not willing to devote himself to the work of a Methodist Minister.

RED FLAG IN FRANCE.
 BREST, June 18. Two hundred French sailors, carrying a red flag, attempted to enter the naval jail yesterday to rescue imprisoned sailors. The attempt failed. The imprisoned sailors are from the French battleship Justice, which recently returned from Sebastopol. The city was more calm to-day, but the situation is still serious.

A FREQUENT OCCURENCE.
 LONDON, June 18. Unrest among Canadian soldiers in England, because of continued postponement of homeward sailings culminated yesterday in an attack by four hundred of them on Epsom police station. Several policemen were wounded, one seriously. The purpose of the attack was to release Canadian soldiers who had been arrested.

PEACE TERMS COMMENT.
 LONDON, June 18. Commenting on the final terms to the Germans, the Daily Telegraph says: "The original terms have stood an unexampled fire of criticism from every imaginable quarter and have survived it fairly well. They will be imposed substantially unchanged. All modifications now conceded have only been one purpose, namely, to render the character of Justice they display still more unmistakable." The Times thinks there is a suggestion of some highly dubious concessions made through German impertunity. It is not surprised at the French doubts concerning the admission of Germany to the League of Nations at an early date. The News says that insofar as the terms have been modified, they have been modified to Germany's advantage. But substantially they remain as in original form. Refusal to sign will be a disaster for Germany and a misfortune for the whole world.

BOLSHEVISTS TO BE DEPORTED.
 WINNIPEG, Man., June 18. An evening paper carries the following:—"According to information from a most highly authentic source, the eleven arrested Bolshevist leaders are to be deported without the formality of a civil trial. Their families will be deported either with or after them." The deportations will take place under the amended Immigration Act, whereby all including British subjects, who conspire to overthrow the constituted government, by forcible means, may be deported to the land of their birth, provided that agents of the Department of Justice are satisfied with the evidence in each case." In this case it is stated enough incriminating documents were secured in the Labor Temple raid to expose a Bolshevist conspiracy to embroil the whole of Canada.

STRIKE OFF.
 VICTORIA, June 18. There will be no strike in Victoria. The strike committee has dissolved. EIGHT-HOUR DAY FOR COAL

MINERS.
 PARIS, June 17. Labor leaders decided to-day not to provoke a general strike unless miners asked them to intervene. The Chamber of Deputies passed a bill to-day applying an eight-hour law to coal miners.

PROBABLY!
 PARIS, June 17. The Young Turks and the former German Emperor and Russian greed for Constantinople were responsible for Turkey's entrance into war, according to the statement of the Grand Vizier before the Council of Ten to-day.

FRENCH CRUISE DISABLED.
 WASHINGTON, June 18. A wireless message to the Navy Dept. to-day announced that the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc had been disabled at sea and that the transport Imperator had taken off Dr. Presso, President-elect of Brazil and party, who were en route to the United States from Lisbon. Later despatches to the Department said that the army transport Mongolla was towing the Jeanne d'Arc to the Azores, good progress being made.

FREIGHT BY AEROPLANE.
 BRUSSELS, June 18. Regular transportation by aeroplane between Brussels and Paris established by companies in the two cities, has already resulted in some unusual cargoes being carried. For instance, a consignment of nearly five hundred pounds of live lobsters brought by one of the aeroplanes of the system, arrived at the airdrome near here yesterday afternoon. The crustaceans were in excellent condition.

NORTHLIFFE OPERATED ON.
 LONDON, June 18. Viscount Northcliffe underwent an operation to-day. A bulletin says that the Viscount's condition is satisfactory.

Nursing Mothers!

When the supply of milk is deficient in quantity and poor in quality, "OVALTINE" will be found particularly beneficial. Not only does "OVALTINE" directly stimulate and ensure an adequate flow of milk, but it is also exceedingly nourishing and strengthening, thus helping the mother to stand the strain which nursing throws on the system. It is also advisable that "OVALTINE" should be regularly taken by the mother for a month or more before the birth; a rich store of strength and vitality is created and a good supply of milk ensured when the baby is born.

Bird-Fancying.
 (From an Exchange)
 Mr. Jones keeps pigeons, and Mr. Brown next door, tries to keep pigeons—quite a different state of affairs. Mr. Brown is constantly losing birds, while Mr. Jones is as constantly suspected of finding them. The other morning Mr. Brown, with a smile and a sixpence, approached the youthful son of Mr. Jones. "Willie," began Brown, holding up the coin, "did daddy find a bird yesterday?" Willie nodded. "And was it a blue bird with some white feathers in its wing?" "Daddy," responded Willie, pocketing the sixpence. "You can't tell their color when they're in a pie!"

Advertising Pays.

Wrigley's, manufacturers of the famous Spearmint, Doublemint and Juicy Fruit Chewing Gum, have just issued a unique circular to their retail trade, which tells one of the most wonderful advertising experiences that we have ever read. Wrigley's Chewing Gum has been introduced to the public in Canada, almost exclusively by newspaper advertising. Figures given in this circular show that Wrigley's is sold by more than 80,000 Canadian retailers, that it is advertised in 267 newspapers, magazines and farm papers, from Newfoundland to Vancouver. These publications have a total of 3,127,628 circulation each issue, which means 165 million Wrigley advertisements go out to the public yearly through these papers. With this tremendous force, it is no wonder that the public has responded so heartily in buying Wrigley's Gum.

It is barely ten years ago that this message began to go out to the reader. The sales have increased. Every year the sales have increased. Every year more papers have been used. To-day the advertising is larger than ever and the selling cost less.

Recently a western editor made a comparison between Wrigley's advertising and the advertising, or lack of advertising, of some of his local merchants. He published a statement in his columns to the effect that Wrigley's merchants spent more money with him in a month than some of his local merchants in a year, yet, his circulation was infinitely more valuable to the local man than it could be to Wrigley's. Wrigley's could only sell chewing gum. The local merchant has hundreds or maybe thousands, of items that interest the purchaser once he comes into the store. Advertising is needed to arouse interest, to create the desire to buy, in order that the merchant may get the sale. Then he must deliver the goods or the service which will induce the customer to come again. So with Wrigley's, the chewing gum must be good or the customer does not wish another package. Wrigley's have wisely added good advertising to good chewing gum. They have told people that in Wrigley's the flavor lasts, that it benefits the teeth, appetite and digestion and to "Chew it after every meal."

It seems to us such an advertising story as this is of interest to every reader of this paper, whether he wants to sell a stock of merchandise or a flock of chickens, whether he needs a page advertisement or a line ad. Advertising will help to sell goods, rent your house or get you a job.

Hat Aged Sixty-Eight.

A straw hat that lives to the age of twenty-seven years may be considered a veteran, but it is quite juvenile compared with one that has seen sixty-eight years' service, and which is worn daily by an elderly man who works in a Government office not a great distance from Parliament Square.

This hat is of the beaver type, and was handed down to the present proud wearer by his grand-father. The hat is said to look all its sixty-eight years, but has stood the test of time as no modern hat could do.

There is another man who possesses an overcoat which he has worn in all weathers for the past forty or more years, and "it still looks newer and fresher than other coats made many years later."

It was made in the Great Exhibition year, 1851, by the master tailor of the Carbineer regiment, for an officer who was the present owner's master, and to whom it was bequeathed after ten years' wear. It was taken to Mr. Poole, the well-known tailor, to be copied, but, alas! no such cloth, even in 1866, was to be found to equal that remarkable coat. In fact, it was the last of the Moh-cans in coats. And the present wearer is proudest when he dons it, with feet shod in a pair of shooting boots given to him fifty years ago.

Clemenceau as Duelist.

M. Clemenceau, the French Premier, is able to take very good care of himself when it comes to a duel with pistols.

It was after the uprising of the Communists of Paris of 1871, and the young Clemenceau, who had been Mayor of Montmartre, had just been acquitted of the charge of not having done enough to save the lives of two Generals. Scarcely, however, was his life relieved from jeopardy under the law than he was compelled to risk it, or so he thought, on the duelling ground.

Here, says Mr. Hyndman, Clemenceau was quite at home. But he used his skill with the pistol very moderately, being content to wound his adversary, Commandant Poussegas, in the leg.

None the less, the result was that he was committed to prison for a fortnight as a lesson to him not to act in accordance with the French code of honour in the future.

Ancient Perfumes.

The first nation to learn the secret of aromatic substances was Persia. The priests of Egypt were the only people who studied science at that time, and Egyptian perfumes achieved great celebrity, especially those made in Alexandria.

Reserved originally for religious rites, perfumes subsequently became of current use among the wealthy classes. During banquets they were diffused through the halls and were burned in profusion. The Israelites during their sojourn in Egypt adopted the use of aromatic substances primarily for religious purposes and afterwards for personal usage. The Jews were fond of cosmetics and even used them to paint the face.

All these perfumes were extracted from essences of trees and various plants. The Greeks, who loved elegance, were especially addicted to the use of perfumes, and they taught their secrets and usage to the Romans. The latter in the days of their decadence went so far as to scent the coats of their dogs.

In the Middle Ages the Arabs, Venetians, Genoese, and Florentines became famous for the preparation of sweet-smelling essences.

80 Pound Aeroplane.

The first Government sale by auction of aircraft and spare parts was held at Hendon. The lots put up for sale included 30,000 struts, 2,200 skids, 15 aeroplanes advertised as "in second-hand condition," canvas, ground flares, scrap material, and some 1,500 propellers.

Particular interest centred in the aeroplanes, which made from £60 to £260. Two Avros, with 110-h.p. Le Rhone engines, realized the highest figure, which was paid by the Cambridge School of Flying and Oglvie Brothers. Three other Avros, described in the catalogue as similar machines, were knocked down for £300, £205, and £210, while an Armstrong-Whitworth, with 160-h.p. Beardmore engine, realised £260. A couple of B. E. 2's made £80 and £90. The last three aeroplanes, all D. H. 6's, went at £95, £80, and £65. Mr. Grahame-White buying the first two. The bulk of the 400 lots offered did not bring very good prices, and 700 hollow spruce struts, 5ft. long, went for £5.

An interesting feature of the auction was the bidding by flying officers desirous of obtaining aeroplanes for private flights. The general impression among those attending the sale was that the prices were materially below the market value, and that sums more in keeping with the real worth of the lots, most of which went at firewood prices, would have been obtained if greater publicity had been given to the proceedings.

Why Pastor Blushed.

AMERICAN MINISTER ON WOMEN'S "ABSENCE OF CLOTHING."

There is a lively controversy between New York "Smart Society" and Dr. Stratton, pastor of one of New York's fashionable churches, on the subject of evening dress. Dr. Stratton having declared that although "C fronts" and "V backs" were "bad enough in the past, the modern Society woman, with her absence of clothing, made him positively blush the smart set retaliated by suggesting that Dr. Stratton's social position was such that he was not accustomed to seeing ladies in evening dress. Dr. Stratton's reply to this is that if social standing is judged by the size of one's money bags and one's pork-packing ancestors rather than by a connection with the "Black Douglasses" of Scotland, then he is not of the elite.

THE PUT-YOURSELF-IN-HE

RUTH CAMERON

In one of the yards which backs up against the railroad track, on the way to town there has stood for the last two weeks an automobile on which is a large placard "For Sale." This placard is plainly addressed to the people in the train.

I called the Authorman's attention to it one morning and he said, "How few people have any sympathetic imagination."

"What on earth has that to do with that machine," I asked.

"What would you do in case you were interested in that machine?" he countered.

"Why, I don't know. I suppose I'd have to get off at the nearest station and try to find the place."

Sympathetic Imagination Would Have Added A Telephone Number

"Exactly," he said, "and there'd be mighty little chance of your doing that. Wouldn't a person with any sympathetic imagination—which is just another way of saying put yourself-in-his-place sense—have put a telephone number on the placard. I saw there were telephone wires running to the house."

"I suppose so," I admitted.

"Of course he would," he asserted. "How many people do you think would telephone compared to those who'd get off and hunt the place up? Ten to one, ten to one, at least."

A fairly just proportion, don't you think?

And an interesting point of view on the business value of a sympathetic imagination.

A Key To The Minds And Hearts Of Men

A sympathetic imagination is a wonderful thing to have—because it is the key to the minds and hearts of men and women.

All great writers have the sympathetic imagination in a large degree, and all little writers in some degree.

THE PUT-YOURSELF-IN-HIS-PLACE SENSE

RUTH CAMERON

In one of the yards which backs up against the railroad track, on the way to town there has stood for the last two weeks an automobile on which is a large placard "For Sale." This placard is plainly addressed to the people in the train.

I called the Author's attention to it one morning and he said, "How few people have any sympathetic imagination." "What on earth has that to do with that machine," I asked. "What would you do in case you were interested in that machine?" he countered.

"Why, I don't know. I suppose I'd have to get off at the nearest station and try to find the place." Sympathetic Imagination Would Have Added A Telephone Number

"Exactly," he said, "and there'd be a little chance of your doing that. Wouldn't a person with any sympathetic imagination—which is just another way of saying put yourself-in-his-place sense—have put a telephone number on the placard. I saw there were telephone wires running to the house."

"I suppose so," I admitted. "Of course he would," he asserted. "How many people do you think would telephone compared to those who'd get off and hunt the place up? One to one, ten to one, at least." A fairly just proportion, don't you think?

And an interesting point of view on the business value of a sympathetic imagination.

A Key To The Minds And Hearts Of Men

A sympathetic imagination is a wonderful thing to have—because it is the key to the minds and hearts of men and women.

No one who has not a sympathetic imagination can really understand a child. People who make friends with children readily always have this quality.

Sympathetic imagination is valuable in a business way both in such cases as the above and because it helps you to understand motives and read characters. No man who hasn't some of this put-yourself-in-his-place sense can deal efficiently with his employees.

An Antidote For Racial Hatred

Sympathetic imagination too is the best antidote for racial hatreds. If you can put yourself into the mind of the other fellow and see his angle on life, you may not feel called upon to agree with him but you can hardly keep on hating him.

The Authorman, while he realises the value of a sympathetic imagination makes a whimsical indictment of it. "It's a great thing to have," he said, "and of course I have to cultivate it for my work, but it's a two-edged tool just the same. I'm always feeling people's feelings and having to pity them and do things for them when I don't want to, and seeing their points of view on things when I want to stick to my own. A confounded nuisance I call it. Wish I didn't have to have it."

(But he doesn't wish so, really).

MONTH OF ROSES.

WALT MASON

Oh, joyous month of roses, I wish you'd last a year! Your scents enchant our noses, your sounds impress the ear. I have ten million roses, they never stale or cloy, and every one discloses the fact that June's a joy. I love the humble radish, appreciate the prune, and cabbage makes a glad dish—but oh, the rose of June! We do not boil or bake it, or slice it in to slaw, but to our noses take it, at every breath we draw. It has a rich aroma that simply can't be beat; from Taunton to Takoma there's nothing smells so sweet. And often 'twill remind us of scenes of long ago, of gardens left behind us, where roses used to grow; of old accustomed places, and vines above the door; of old familiar faces that smile on us no more. A rose's scent will carry us back to childhood's hours, when we were wont to tarry among the homely flowers; when life was all Elysian, and we had buoyant tread, and knew no backward vision, but always looked ahead. And so I sit here dreaming—and dreams are quite a boon—the sunlight on me streaming, among the scents of June; and as I view the roses it seems to me a sin that I've not worthy noses, to take the scent all in.

Won't Sail With Foreigners.

There is a growing antipathy among fishermen at St. Andrew's Dock, says the London "Fish Trades Gazette," to sail with skippers of foreign birth or nationality. Norwegian, Danish, and before the war, German skippers played a prominent part in the Hull fishing industry, and some of them have been highly successful. A feeling of strong antagonism has developed, and the fishermen are refusing to sail with "foreign skippers," as they designate them.

Lightning played its freaks in Brantford, Ont., township, when out of 44 head of cattle, owned by John McAuley, 11 were found dead. All the cattle were in the barn, and the surviving 33 were uninjured, and the barn was undamaged.

Sailor Shovels Fortune Into Sea.

A careless sailor on board the whaling schooner Margaret shovelled $20,000 worth of ambergris overboard into the sea, believing it to be refuse. Captain Louis Lopes told of this on his return from an eight months' cruise on the western grounds. The ambergris came from a sperm whale which they captured. The ambergris taken from the animal, which the captain estimated as easily worth $20,000, was lying upon the deck alongside sections of blubber put out for drying. It had all been shovelled over the side by the sailor before Capt. Lopes discovered what happened. Frantically he and some men climbed into a boat in an effort to rescue the precious substance; but it sank too quickly and the sea swallowed the fortune which it had hidden.

A FATHER'S WISH.

I'd like to have him famous and I'd like to have him great; I'd like to have him wise enough some day to rule the state; I'd like to have that lad o' mine possess the world's renown, And wear with honest modest success' golden crown, But rather than the fortune and the fame that he may win I'd like to have him take his little troubles with a grin.

I hope that he'll be clever and I hope he'll prove his worth, I've dreamed about his conquests since the moment of his birth. I hope he'll come to riches, for the good that he can do, But I'd rather have him manly, and I'd rather have him true, And when disappointments find him, as I know they must some day I'd like to have him meet them in a brave and cheerful way.

When another beats him fairly, I don't want that son o' mine To belittle his opponent or to whimper or to whine; I won't care what games he loses, if he's kept his record true, And still has the grit to chuckle though his body's black and blue; I hope to see him happy, but when trouble mars his day I'd like to have him take it in a manly sort of way.

A Sea Timber Raft.

"The largest timber raft constructed in Norway has just arrived from Mosher timber yards at Trondhjem, where she awaits the arrival of tugs from England to tow her across. The raft, containing 1,200 standard logs, about three ordinary steamship loads, looks like a submarine, and took two strong tugs to tow her at half a mile an hour, so that the journey to England is likely to be rather lengthy," says the Times Christiania correspondent.

Gallantry Rewarded.

Recognition of brave and gallant deeds is usually, when passing through the various official channels, apt to be tardy in fulfillment, yet though it is now considerably over a year since the heroic conduct of our seamen in facing death to save life from the ill-fated Florizel on that tragic Sunday in February, 1918, was presented to the proper authorities, none will cavil over the delay, in awarding to those daring spirits, so conspicuous and foremost in their successful endeavours at rescue work, the distinctions to which their superhuman courage entitled them. Not that they needed any decorative spur to urge them on. Life was in danger, and no matter what perils lay in the track of the rescuers they were determined to overcome them or perish in the attempt. The story of the dauntless courage of the men of the rescue steamers at the wreck of the Florizel has been written and recorded. It stands as a tribute to their inherent bravery and to the high spirit which animated them, and so long as Newfoundlanders cherish those lofty ideals of true valour, so long will the epic of these men of the sea, who so cheerfully faced death in order that they might save others, be an inspiration and an incentive to succeeding generations to emulate their brave deeds, and to maintain that sterling reputation which has been so long borne by the mariners of Terra Nova.

A fresh laurel wreath has been entwined, new names are added to the roll of fame, and upon the brows of the men who did, the coronals are set, and inscriptions to their steadfast and undaunted heroism are carved in the niches of fame.

Our congratulations to the gallant band whose members have received the medals for Gallantry in saving life at sea. "Their fame endureth for evermore." Our congratulations also, to those, who at the call of duty, offered and assisted in the work of rescue. They too are honored in the honor done their associates.

The men of the steamers Terra Nova, Gordon C. and Hawk have received their honors from the hands of the King himself and the Albert Medal will not shine more brightly or more lustreously upon breasts more gallant than those of Captains E. C. Perry and M. Dalton, Chief Engineer Robert Pierson, R.N.R.'s, Chas. W. Penney and Adolphus Morey; A.B.'s Harold Clouter, Daniel Ralph, Michael Whelan, Matthew Shanahan, Patrick Gall-gher, George Wescott and Joseph Budden.

The Albert Medal was instituted in 1866 and revised in 1867, 1877 and 1917 for the purpose of rewarding acts of heroism performed by civilians at sea or on land. The Albert Medal in gold is given only for "acts of extreme and heroic daring." The Silver and Bronze medals are bestowed for "gallantry in saving life at sea," and form the second and third class of the distinction.

Grateful for Prompt Assistance.

An esteemed correspondent, writing Hon. A. B. Morine, Minister of Justice, from Bonavista, under date of June 16th, describes the recent fire on the South Side of the Bay, most graphically. He says:

"Thank you very much for your prompt answer to my wire on Saturday for help for the 3 Amherst Coves. Had the fire continued at the rate it was going when I reached Amherst Cove, all three would have been wiped out within an hour. It was a most appalling sight. Half a gale of wind was blowing and preparations were made to evacuate all women and children; and all movable furniture, bedding etc., were piled in the landwash, in a very short time. Just as the first boat from Amherst Cove was taking away a load of women and children and a sick man to King's Cove, the first boat from Bonavista arrived and was at once put into the service. Carriages from Bonavista too began to remove the women and children from the Lower Cove about the same time. The fire had reached the crest of the hill above Josepa Little's house and was within half a mile of the Church at Middle Cove, when providentially the wind ceased, and instead of leaping began to go straight up. But night was coming on and fearing that a change of wind might make things even worse, all the women and children in the three coves, were placed in the motor boats and carried to Bonavista, or King's Cove. And all available men from Bonavista and all the men of the Coves that could be spared from guarding their goods, etc., went to the forest to cut "breaks" or to tackle the fire. The later was regarded as a hopeless suggestion, but incredible as it may seem it is an actual fact that a mile of forest fire was put out by a gang of men. The fire had come along so rapidly that only the foliage was aflame. Water was abundant from the creek and a chain of men passing buckets did admirable work in checking the fire at Middle Cove, while another gang tackled the Upper Amherst Cove danger, beat it back. When the wind did spring up it brought the rain and now all danger is past and the fire is completely extinguished and all the people are in their own homes again. Our all night fight was not in vain. I went as far as Hodder's, as soon as I thought it safe to venture, in search of a man who had left King's Cove on Saturday at 2 p.m. and not reported. I found him safe and sound just leaving Hodder's for home. Hodder's mill was not burnt, but every tree from that to the water's edge and as deep as Terry's Bridge on the way to Catalina, except the green fringe around the 3 Coves has been burnt. All the bridges need looking to. Three principal ones are destroyed. The bridge at the main brook, that at Grassy Steady and the one at Seal Cove pond. There was only one fire and it originated it is thought at Seven Mile Camp on the Branch Railway."

Ethie's Report.

Arriving at Humbermouth at 2.50 p.m. yesterday from the Straits ports, Capt. English of the Ethie sent on the following report to the Reid Nfld. Co.: "Reached as far as Red Bay; Straits filled with ice north of that point. Ice interfering with fishing; not much done this side of Bonne Bay."

Withdrawals From Competition.

Major Fiske the representative of St. John's, received a cable from this city, received a cable from his firm last night, informing him that Bolton and Paul had withdrawn their names from the Atlantic Flight Competition. It is thought that public opinion is against any further attempt until a machine is so perfected as to prevent any loss of life. It is thought that Bolton and Paul will do some endurance flying in Europe.

The gift has been made in slight recognition of the courtesy extended by the government and people of Newfoundland, and may be seen by all visitors to the Museum.

The Majestic.

The proof of the popularity in which Hawker and Griev were held is evidenced in the exceptionally big crowds that are flocking every night this week to see the picture of their fight at the Majestic Theatre. Last evening, again, there was a packed house, and the applause, as before, was generous and free. The feature story was entitled "Pamela's Past," a fine 5 reel picture featuring Maud Feoly who travelled in Sir Henry Irving's troupe of world famous actors and actresses. Coming to America, Miss Feoly liked the land of democracy more than that of her birth, and thus Sir Henry became the loser of one of his best actresses. The music last night was voted by all as being the very best ever heard in a St. John's moving picture theatre, and the Majestic is now known as the prime house.

About Good Marmalade.

Do you like good marmalade? Do you know good marmalade? Try Sunkist Marmalade which will shortly be on sale at the leading St. John's grocers and you will find a new delight in preserves.

To make Sunkist Marmalade first the fresh ripe fruit is taken from the groves of The California Fruit Growers Association and the yellow part of the peel is carefully removed. Then the fruit is cooked down to get all the rich, pure juice. The thin yellow peel is finely shredded so it won't form lumps and all pulp and white part of the peel discarded.

Next the juice and shredded peel is cooked together, adding pure sugar and a little grapefruit or lemon juice. Nothing else goes into it—no pulp, no glucose, no preservative of any kind whatever.

Two pounds of Fruit are cooked down to get one pound of Sunkist Marmalade—that is four times as much as some cooks use. Thus the full orange flavor is obtained. Orders now being booked from the trade for Sunkist Orange Marmalade, Sunkist Grape Fruit and Sunkist Orange Jelly by P. E. Outerbridge, Sole Agent.

Three Community Nurses are needed to do the public health work here and attend to the calls received. About three thousand dollars are necessary to finance this proposition for next year and the rest of this one. What are you going to give towards it? June 19, 1919.

North Pole Flight Postponed.

Information has been received that the contemplated flight to the North Pole by aeroplane by our heroic countryman Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, has been postponed until next year. Capt. Bob will accomplish the task in due course.

"Atlantic" Flies To-Day.

Latest news from Hr. Grace states that the Handley-Page monster bi-plane will get away on her trans-Atlantic flight this afternoon. The weather and meteorological conditions are favorable for flying, but the wind is not favorable for a take-off, as the plane must go against the wind, which would mean that she must be up grade—a difficult and even dangerous task with her load of seventeen hundred gallons of fuel and oil aboard. Once the take-off is accomplished, however, the rest will be plain sailing—or flying. The hope that all will be well goes out to the brave men, for what they propose to do can be appreciated by only those who understand the great difficulty of the take-off. Bon voyage, gentlemen; may you have the best of luck and may fortune smile upon you until you arrive safely in England—and after.

THE DOPE.
The fan sat on the upper deck.
Where the breeze howl and whiff;
But he did not see the games at all,
For he was frozen stiff.
It was cold—horribly so—at St.
George's Field yesterday for the opening of the baseball season, but his did not deter the thousand fans among whom there was a fair proportion of fem-fans) to witness the clashes. Immediately on arrival of the Vice-Regal party, Mayor Gosling stepped out to the plate, and put the first one over to Brazie the Irish pitcher amid great applause.
The first game between the B. I. S. and Wanderers was horribly disappointing to all except the Hartnettites and their immediate followers.

At first it looked as though it might be interesting, but in the sixth the Irishmen duplicated the performance of the blimp "C-5" and went into etherial regions, and did not pounce earth until the boys in blue and white had 10 additional tallies to their credit. O'Leary, the B. I. S. slaban, couldn't be blamed for this however, as he was holding his own on the mound; the trouble was at the third sack. Its custodian was grace and he sure was punk. As a matter of fact he was absolutely hopeless, and assisted the Wanderers materially in securing their overwhelming victory.
Smith, the Wanderer pitcher, got in some effective work and was quite cunning though he lacks speed. His batting eye was good however and he got the only three-bagger for the afternoon, beating the throw-in to home. Dobbin was responsible for three runs and had two base hits to his credit. O'Donnell also had a two-bagger for the Irishmen. All the youngsters showed up well on both teams and in most cases considerably overshadowed the vets.
Those who found themselves able to withstand the rigours of the easterly wind for the second game were rewarded with one of the best exhibitions of baseball yet seen here when last year's champions went down to defeat at the hands of the Lions. It must be confessed that the result was a surprise, though the Lion fans were expecting great things from Nuts Ellis and they got them.
The game had settled down nicely but in the fourth, Canning's unfortunate error was primarily responsible for two of the Lions' runs. Hall did all in his power to recover the Cubs' balance and moved down the opposing batters right and left, but the Hiltz crew held to their lead like grim death. Good baselining by Duggan and Hall were features of the game.
Hiltz hit safely every time up, and was in great form. Joe Murphy failed to maintain his assertion that he could hit any pitcher in the League three times out of five. The only time he got on first was when he felt ed that position, but in this capacity he was easily the star. Harvey Thomas was missed yesterday on the coaching line for the Cubs, rumour hath it that Harvey fell out about something with somebody—and whisper—that's not (H) all. Orr might be that the chilly weather gave him cold feet in his new uniform.
Messrs. Chesman and Montgomerie put in their usual excellent work, but of course some things had to be disputed,—without however any dire results to either the umpires or players.

To-Day's Message.

SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITY.
AMERONGEN, HOLLAND.
June 17.—The former German Emperor's palace of exile in Amerongen Castle has become somewhat animated of late, after a long period of un-eventfulness. Last night Lieut. Col.
Hofer, of the Dutch Army, dined at the Castle together with William Hohensollern and Dr. Krieg, director of the German Foreign Office, who had returned to Amerongen from Berlin. To-day, Col. Monesebek, dressed in civilian clothes, was treated by general Von Esdorff to the Castle from Arnsheim, where he had arrived direct from Germany.
The reason of the visit of the Germans has not been ascertained, but it is generally assumed it is in connection with the situation existing in Germany, after the announcement of the reply of the Allies to the German counter proposals to the Peace terms. General Von Esdorff, to-day, is about to leave for Germany.

DECISION WITH PARLIAMENT.
LONDON, June 18.
(Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The coal commission has concluded its sittings, and there will probably be three reports, as previously. It is expected the miners' section will favor, and the owners' section disfavor, nationalization, while the chairman and independents consider a sufficient case has been made out for nationalization, therefore Parliament ought to decide.

WHAT'S BEHIND THIS?
LONDON, June 18.
(Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Evidencing the recrudescence of German competition, a large contract for commercial engineering in the British Empire has been accepted by a German firm at twenty pounds sterling per ton below the leading British companies' sitings. The Times refers to the mysterious lowest German tender, which is actually below the price of the raw material delivered by British rolling mills.

DECORATION DAY.
LONDON, June 18.
(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—
The ceremony of placing flowers on the graves of Canadian soldiers, buried in Shorncliffe cemetery, will be held to-morrow afternoon when five thousand school children from Folkestone, Hythe and Charlton will take part. The Mayor of Folkestone, the Mayor of Folkestone, the Deputy Mayor of Hythe, Rev. J. C. Artis, D.D., Brigadier Perdval, C.B., D.S.O., Commanding
Shorncliffe garrison, and Colonel Scott, Canadian A.S.C., will be present.

MORE TO COME.
WASHINGTON, June 18.
The menace of bomb outrages still hangs over the country in the belief of officials of the justice department.
William Flynn, chief of Department of Investigation, said to-day he believed there were "more bombs to come," but said it was impossible to say when the next attempt to create a reign of terror by explosions might be made.

GOVERNMENT SUSTAINED.
OTTAWA, June 18.
A vote on the Budget, taken early this morning, gave the Government a majority of fifty-one. Fourteen Unionist voting with the Opposition.

MACPHERSON HAS A PLAN.
DUBLIN, June 18.
James Ian Macpherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in an interview today said that he was an unrepentant Home Ruler, but that under the plan of Home Rule which he contemplated, Ireland certainly would remain in the British Empire.

Death of the Author of "Charley's Aunt."

Brandon Thomas, the author and creator of "Charley's Aunt," the most successful play that has ever been written, died, after a short illness, on June 19, 1914, at the age of 58 in London. Mr. Thomas had a long and eventful career as an actor, making his professional debut in 1877, and for more than thirty years he played leading parts on the West End stage. "Charley's Aunt" was produced in a modest way by the late W. S. Penley, the original "Charley's Aunt," at Bury St. Edmunds in 1892, where it was an instantaneous success. All the notices of it were enthusiastic, and the next morning Penley telegraphed to Thomas, "Your fortune is made." No dramatic author ever experienced such overwhelming success with a single play. At the time of the author's death, "Charley's Aunt" had been performed nearly 300,000 times by scores of companies, and it had launched its way round the world in eighteen different languages, including Russian, Chinese, and Modern Greek. It was said that the author's royalties sometimes amounted to as much as £2,000 for one week's performance; and the play after years of unbroken popularity, is "still running." When it was brought to London, a few months after its production, it ran for four years—1,456 performances—and one player, Mr. Stanley Cook has acted the title role 2,500 times. Millions of playgoers the world over are indebted to Mr. Brandon Thomas, the creator of "Charley's Aunt," for some of the heartiest laughs of their lives.

Have You Examined the Tyres on Your Car of Late?

Do any of them look as if you had taken a coarse file and used it crosswise or at an angle on the tread?

If they do, the wheels of your car are badly out of alignment and it would be wise to have them attended to at once.

Perhaps the error of alignment is slight and the extra wear on your tyres will not be noticed quickly.

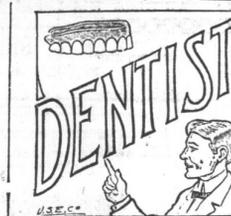

But if it is there, you will notice it on your tyre account. Just a little error may cost you thousands of miles of wear.

To be safe we suggest that you drive around to our garage frequently and let us measure up your wheels for you and see that they are kept straight.

It will take only a few minutes and our work will be free. It's part of our service as a Good year Dealer.

Looks Good, Doesn't It? And the Picture Doesn't Begin to Do It Justice—But Most of All, ECONOMICAL

It is graceful in design and beautiful in finish—smart and stylish in every detail. Nothing lacking for beauty, comfort, performance or endurance. Drive all day and you won't be cramped or tired. In fuel economy this car is almost without an equal—18 to 22 miles to the gallon of gasoline are the rule rather than the exception. The steering is the easiest; the control the simplest. Easy riding whether fully or partially loaded; remarkable in this respect. Abundant power for hard pulls—fine driving qualities at all speeds—and all the speed you want. Reliable quality is a certainty in the Elcar. Its buyers learned to put in quality years ago when building cars selling up to and above $3000. It is a quality car at a popular price—good and large enough to fulfill any motor car requirement. Don't think of choosing until you have seen the Elcar.

Brief Mention of Elcar Points.

The Value of Sawdust.

It is not very long since sawdust at the mills was considered a nuisance, and for the greater part was thrown into the water, says the Canadian Lumberman. If a small quantity of it could be sold now and again, it brought a price from 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. The largest mills in Norway thought they did well when they could earn from sawdust $2,000 to $3,000 a year. Now this refuse has become valuable, the price having risen from 10 to 15 cents, and from the large quantities sold form a considerable item in the incomes of the mills, some of them now earning from this source $30,000 to $40,000 a year. The reasons for this heavy rise in the value of sawdust are several. The high price of coal and wood during the last few years has caused sawdust to be employed as fuel. However, sawdust attained its principal value after the cellulose mills commenced to use this material; and thereby it has secured a steady demand, and what is very important for the future, a comparatively high price, when the prices of fuel again become normal.—Acadian Recorder.

In Quiet St. John.

Moose Wanders Through Streets and Finally Kills Itself. St. John, N.B., June 12.—A young cow moose wanders into the city limits here this morning, swam the river at the Reversing Falls and for a time wandered through the streets of the north end. In Hillyard street it charged into an automobile and bent some parts of the machine. At the end of High street which overlooks a mill pond, the animal walked onto a residence verandah, sprang over the railing and plunged over a fifty foot incline where it lay dead, with its neck broken.

DISEASED GUMS AND TEETH.

Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by the diseased gums and teeth are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

Premature—Events of the past two days at Winnipeg should convince the strikers at Vancouver that they acted rather hastily in their sympathy strike.—Buffalo Commercial.

Heavy Enough—The Canadian income tax does not compare with those in England and the United States so far as imposts on huge incomes are concerned. But it falls heavily enough on the little fellow.—Quebec Telegraph.

A Difficult Job—Establishing international boundaries is about as hazardous a task as determining the location of a "line fence" between the properties of two belligerent farmers.—Vancouver Province.

Mexico Lacks Finesse—Mexico refuses to recognize the Monroe Doctrine. This is a social calamity for an aspiring niece of Uncle Sam, after having just been introduced to the Society of Nations.—Quebec Telegraph.

The Hunn Ideas—The Hunn seem to imagine that the Allies had no other idea in fighting the war, achieving the victory and organising the peace conference than to produce a treaty that would be popular in Germany.—Fredericton Gleaner.

Where is Austria's Indemnity?—Nothing is said in the peace terms about any indemnity that Austria must pay for its share of the war, and the havoc wrought in Serbia. Austria cannot afford to pay any lavish indemnity but it should not be left off for its work of deprecation upon a nation which it invaded. Austria started the war.—Calgary Albertan.

Hawker's Ordeal.

(From the Westminister Gazette.)
If Hawker and Grieve were ever tempted to wish they had left the Atlantic flight contest alone, it must have been when they arrived in London. I imagine them both to be modest men, and their welcome yesterday might have made the hardened seeker after applause uncomfortable. They probably envied the airman who escorted them, and who looked down on the King's Cross crowds from his solitude in the sky. The crowd was so dense—and so offensive—that Hawker had positively to be saved—by a mounted constable—from his friends. One of many men who sat on the roof of a motor-car some fifty yards in advance of him, and who seemed to have constituted himself major-domo, prepared the spectators for the shock by shouting, "He's on a horse! He's on a horse!" As for Grieve, he was a long way behind, the apex of a pyramid of men in another car. In fact, the procession was hopelessly broken up and scattered, and Mrs. Hawker was left somewhere in the rear. Hawker, in short, had the most tumultuous welcome on record, and I shuddered to think what would have happened to him had his flight been successful.

A Heroine.

England did well in paying great honors to Edith Cavell. Among the world's heroes and heroines there is none who occupies a place exactly like hers in history. One of the women consecrated to the mitigation of war's endless sufferings, she was given immortality by the stupid savagery of the enemy because the distress of fugitives among her countrymen and others appealed strongly to her womanly sympathies. Because of her courage and devotion she became the most celebrated feminine figure of the war and sentiment inclined strongly against those responsible for the shameful penalty she underwent. Dead, she fought more effectively for England's cause than the incumbents of high stations and possessors of great titles whose descent to the grave will be marked by funeral pomp made an occasion of national mourning.—St. Louis Dispatch.

A Fine Old Hen.

"The best thing that ever happened to me," says Lord Fisher, "was this. I was directed by the Admiralty to entertain an American admiral, who was a very fine fellow, and I proposed his health and turned on as much hot air as I could, but the beggar never said a word. "Presently one of his officers went up and whispered something in his ear. I sent the port round, and the admiral then got up and made the best speech I ever heard. "He said: 'It was a fine old hen that hatched the American Eagle.'"

JAVA VOLCANO KILLS THOUSANDS.

The volcano of Kalut, in Java, has burst into eruption, wiping out twenty villages in the district of Brought and eleven in the vicinity of Blitar and causing deaths estimated at 15,000. The volcano Kalut (Koloet) is one of fourteen active volcanoes on the Island of Java south of Surabaya.
