Lady Wyverne's Daughter.

CHAPTER V.

He had spent the last three years on the Continent, and was so improved by his travels, and so altered, that Agatha hardly recognized him. He had learned a great deal, but he had not learned to forget her. He had seen brilliant and beautiful women; but the calm, gentle face he loved had more charms for him than Venus herself would have had.

The distance between them did not seem so great now, and Allan had returned to England resolved to risk all, and woo and endeavor to win the girl he had loved so long.

He looked with surprise at the beautiful girl by Agatha's side. His father had told him that Miss Lynne had been sent for to Lynneville; but he had said nothing of what she was like, and Allan had pictured to himself a dark, foreign-looking girl, by the side of whom his beloved would shine like a star. He was not prepared to see the loveliest and most brilliant woman he had ever met with.

It was a merry party that sat during those warm sunny hours under the great cedars. Yet Inez smiled half bitterly to herself as she noted that both the gentlemen were devoted to her sister. She wondered if they were charmed by her child-like gaiety, by her simple innocent sweetness, or by the winning grace of her manner, so kind and thoughtful. She wondered half bitterly why her own magnificent beauty had not more power, why those cold English hearts did not warm to her; she felt almost alone, did this strange gifted woman. Perhaps there was something too regal and unqueenly in the style of her beauty, for it was evident that both Philip and Allan stood rather in awe of her.

"I can give you the latest news of Spain, Miss Lynne," said Allan, "for I spent the last six months there."

"How happy you must be to have travelled and have seen so much!" said Agatha; "I would give anything to go to Spain."

It was amusing to know that each gentleman, as he listened, mentally resolved that her wish should be gratified.

Stop Laxatives

Which Only Aggravate Constipation

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Try it today.

Nujol

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

"What makes you wish to go to Spain, Agatha?" asked Mrs. Lynne.

"I think it is one of the most picturesque of countries," she replied.

"I read the romance of the Cid some years ago, and most of my ideas of chivalry are connected with Spain."

"I will not disabuse you," said Allan, with a slightly cynical smile.

"You could not," replied Agatha; "then I should like to see a Spanish lady in her mantilla, with a rose in her hair."

Lord Lynne held a glowing damask rose in his hand; a sudden thought seemed to strike him as he looked at it.

"If my mother will lend you her black lace scarf for one moment, Miss Lynne," he said, "we might show your sister the dress of a Spanish lady."

They smiled as he handed her the rose. It was the first flower he had ever offered her, the first time he had ever asked her to gratify any little wish, for Lord Lynne was usually somewhat reserved with his beautiful cousin. Although it was merely to please Agatha, and not from any interest in herself, that he made his request, she was glad and happy to grant it.

"I shall want a fan to make the costume complete," she said.

"You shall have a bough from that lilac-tree," said Allan; "three tufts of lilac will make a pretty fan."

"But the color is too tame; I must have white or deep crimson to make the picture," replied Inez.

"What an artist you are!" said Allan gaily; and he made her a fan of dark glowing crimson flowers peeping between green leaves.

Inez was no coquette, but she knew the value of effects; she placed the black lace mantilla on her head, and fastened the flower in her hair. Then she rose and stood before Agatha, making a low, sweeping courtesy. She looked wondrously beautiful as she stood there, holding the crimson flowers to her bosom with the inimitable grace known only to Spanish women, and her splendid eyes drooped before the admiring glances back upon her.

"Good heavens," said Lord Lynne to himself, "how handsome she is!"

And for the first time her beauty seemed to reach his heart, and his senses Allan Leigh applauded loudly.

"You would make a capital actress, Miss Lynne, I am sure!" he cried, eagerly. "Could we not get up some charades or tableaux?—I do enjoy them so much. What do you say?"

"I should like it above all things," replied Inez. "I will restore your scarf, Mrs. Lynne, as our masquerade is ended," she said; but they would not allow her to do what Agatha called English Spain. Allan made her a throne of moss, and sat at her feet. Lord Lynne declared they only wanted a very brown gypsy, with a very old guitar, to make him think he was in Spain.

"Come over this evening," said Lord Lynne to Allan, "and we will arrange for some tableaux. I owe my neighbors a party, and we will have one."

CHAPTER VI.

"Where shall we hold our committee?" asked Lord Lynne, as he entered the drawing-room after dinner.

"We do not want flowers and birds to distract us," replied Allan. "Let us remain here, if the ladies are willing, and settle the programme of our tableaux-vivants. Miss Lynne, will you accept the rôle of prima donna, and tell us what scenes from 'the enchanted realms of fancy' we shall enact?"

Inez smiled and bowed assent. She looked happier and brighter than usual. There was no doubt that that brilliant, beautiful face could express any passion or emotion.

"We had better arrange a proper programme," said Lord Lynne. "I think we will dispense with the dinner part of the business. My mother thought of a dinner-party, but it will be better to give a large party, including dancing and tableaux. I owe an invitation to nearly all my neighbors. We can have a grand supper, mother," he added, smiling at Mrs. Lynne, "and that will console you for missing a formal, ceremonious dinner."

"You will have the old ball-room fitted up, I suppose," said Mrs. Lynne.

"Yes, it shall be decorated in what the Barfordshire Courier calls a truly magnificent style," he replied. "We will have hangings and flowers such as never were seen in Lynneville before."

"The drawing-room would be the best place for the tableaux," said Inez; "they could be arranged in the small drawing-room, and the audience could be seated in the large one."

"That would do capitally," said Allan. "We can have a curtain fixed under the arch, and it will be a perfect little theatre."

"Let us have the tableaux first," said Agatha, "and then we can begin the dancing afterward. It would spoil both to mix them."

"Certainly," said Lord Lynne. "Do you think, my little cousin, we should spring at once from a polka into a picture? Believe me, tableaux require a great deal of preparation. We will say, as they do on the playbills, 'Tableaux-vivants at nine o'clock—dancing to commence at ten.' And now to business. What shall we try to represent?"

"Are you conversant with English literature?" asked Allan of Miss Lynne.

"Yes," she replied. "I never had anything to do but read. I know Walter Scott almost by rote."

"Nothing could be better than a scene from 'Ivanhoe,'" said Allan.

"Miss Agatha, you will be a perfect Rowena, and you, Miss Lynne, a still more perfect Rebecca."

"No," said Inez; "I do not think I could look like Rebecca. Let me have something I feel at home in. Certainly I shall not do so in any attitude of patience, of self-sacrifice, or resignation. I do not like to be Rebecca. I should like to be prosperous, happy, and beloved. I do not think I should look at all patient if any fair-haired Rowena took all I loved best from me."

She spoke rapidly, with a curious ring in her musical voice, and her listeners gazed at her in surprise. It would have been easier for that proud, beautiful girl to do than to enact Rebecca to Agatha's Rowena, while Lord Lynne was Ivanhoe.

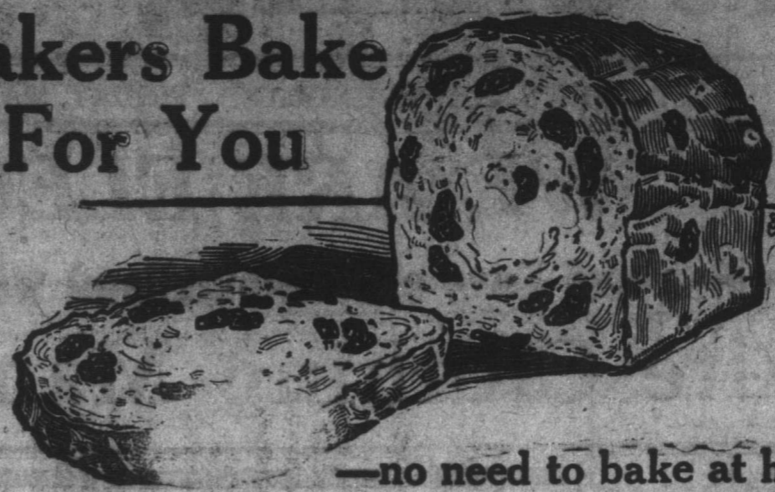

"I see what style of character you like," said Allan. "What do you think of a scene from 'Kenilworth?' Miss Agatha would make an excellent Amy Robsart."

"And I could take the part of Queen Elizabeth," said Inez. "Yes—I could look as she did before she knew who Amy Robsart was."

"That will do excellently for one, then," said Lord Lynne.

(To be continued.)

Bakers Bake It For You

—no need to bake at home

HERE'S your old-time favorite—full-fruited raisin bread with at least eight tempting raisins to the slice—already baked for you by master bakers in your city.

Simply phone your grocer or a neighborhood bake shop and have a fresh loaf for lunch or dinner to delight your folks.

We've arranged with bakers in almost every town and city to bake this full-fruited raisin bread.

Made with big, plump, tender seeded raisins. The raisin flavor permeates the bread. You've never tasted finer food. Order a loaf now and count the raisins.

Raisin bread is a rare combination of nutritious cereal and fruit—both good and good for you. Serve at least twice weekly to get the benefits.

Use Sun-Maid for home cooking of puddings, cakes, cookies, etc.

You may be offered other brands that you know less well than Sun-Maid, but the tip you want is the kind you know is good. Insist therefore, on Sun-Maid brand. They cost a more than ordinary raisins.

Museums to Unite for Improvement and Mutual Help.

NEW YORK—The launching of a national museum movement which, for the first time, will enable the art, history, science, commerce and industry-museums of the country to attack jointly their common problems, has been announced by Laurence Vail Coleman, Secretary of the American Association of Museums. At the same time Mr. Coleman made public the fact that a grant of $25,000 has been made to the association by one of the big educational foundations on condition that an additional $55,000 be raised from museums and their supporters. Encouraging progress already has been made toward securing this amount, and the completion of the fund is in sight, the secretary said.

The plan of the new museum movement is described in the call for the eighteenth annual meeting of the association, held by Frederick Allen Whiting, director of the Cleveland Museum of Art, and president of the association. This meeting will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the founding of America's first museum and will be held April 4 to 6 at Charleston, S.C.

It is expected that the $85,000 will furnish the nucleus of support for the work for three years, but the project looks far into the future, and plans are being laid for its continued support and growth. It calls for the establishment of permanent headquarters for the association, probably at Washington. The Smithsonian Institute has offered a suite of offices for the use of the association.

In commenting upon the project secretary Coleman says: "In the past museums have sprung up largely by chance and have lived as best they could, but now the time has come for concerted action which will enable museums more effectively to carry on their work. The public generally does not appreciate what museums are doing for education from the kindergarten to the university. Already the demands upon their resources far exceed their ability to deliver; and in order to meet this situation the present organized national effort has been instituted.

"The first step toward the improvement of this condition, and one which is supported most enthusiastically by the leading museums of the country, is the plan for the extensive publications which will broadcast the results of dozens of special experiments being carried on under the auspices of various institutions. The publications will report also the general studies to be made by the staff of the association.

"Another purpose of this national movement is the aim to dissipate the popular misconception of museums. The museum of the past has left in the minds of a majority of persons the notion that museums are storehouses of curious dead things, interesting chiefly to specialists, and having little relation to modern life. The association plans through the printed word, motion pictures, and the help of corps of lecturers, to bring home to the public an appreciation of the fact that the museum of today is truly the 'people's university.'

Another development which the future is expected to effect is the training of a new generation of museum executives and workers. In co-operation with universities the association hopes to bring about the study of museum administration by graduate students in order by degrees to prepare for the demand for trained personnel which will be necessary to man the museums of the future.

The programme was formulated by the following museum authorities:—Frederic Allen Whiting, President of the Association and Director of the Cleveland Museum of Art; Chauncey J. Mamin, President of the Buffalo Society of Natural Sciences; Della I. Griffin, Director of the Children's Museum of Boston; Edmund Otis Hovey, Curator of the American Museum of Natural History; Harold L. Madison, Curator of Education of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History; Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the American Museum of Natural History; Paul Marshall Res, Director of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History; L. Earle Rowe, Director of the Rhode Island School of Design; Landon Warner, Director of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art; and Laurence Vail Coleman, Director of the American Museum of Safety.

Why Wood Feels Warm.

Touch a piece of iron on a frosty day and it feels icy cold; a bit of wood lying beside it will feel very much warmer to the hand. Now is the iron really colder?

A test with a thermometer will probably surprise you, for you will find that both have precisely the same temperature.

Iron is a good conductor of heat; that is, it tends to draw warmth immediately out of anything that touches it. Hence, when your hand comes into contact with a piece of iron, its natural warmth at once begins to escape from it and to rush to the metal.

Wood, on the other hand, is a poor conductor of heat. It does not absorb heat so rapidly from your hand, hence it feels much warmer when you touch it. Pearson's Magazine.

When skimming soup the steam rises from the handle towards the side, and can easily be seen.

Head of Russian Soviet Killed at Lausanne.

Tragedies to French Fleet on Banks
—Russia's Note to Britain Offers Arbitration—Antwerp in Grip of Postal and Railroad Strike.

LAUSANNE, May 10. — The head of the Russian Soviet delegation at Lausanne, Peace Conference was assassinated tonight. He was shot several times and killed. M. Abram, head of the Soviet Bureau in Lausanne, and M. Kozlovski were wounded seriously at the Hotel Cecil. A young man, who was seen to be in the room, fled to the Russians and opened fire on the first victim. Abram then turned his weapon on the man who was shot three times in the chest and once in the shoulder. Abram managed to get away with the revolver but the water in the room was so hot that he was forced to drop it. M. Kozlovski was shot in the body. The assassin was seized as he attempted to escape. His name is Maurice Conrad and he is said to be a member of the Canton of Grisons. Conrad is thirty-eight years of age, and was born in Switzerland. He is a member of the Russian Army and recently from Russia. He is said to be a member of the Russian Army and recently from Russia. POSTAL AND RAILROAD STRIKE IN ANTWERP.

ANTWERP, May 10. — This city was almost completely isolated to-day by a strike of Postal, Telephone employees and Railroad men, which has completely tied up commerce and the situation is apparently assuming grave proportions.

Scientific Deep-Sea Soundings.

In many places the sea is between three and four miles deep. How are we able to measure these enormous depths? It is done by means of sounding, to make which great skill and patience are required. Specially equipped vessels are equipped for the task, they carry ingenious machines upon which are wound six or seven miles of wire similar to piano-wire. At the end of the wire is a tube two inches across and two feet long, and at the bottom is a trapdoor which opens when the tube strikes the sea-floor. The tube weighs about ten pounds, and in addition there are 3 weights of fifty pounds each. These are fitted in such a manner that they fall off when they reach the bottom of the sea. This is necessary, for when soundings are being taken at great depths the wire would be strong enough to pull them up again. Even as it is, the wire often breaks and the tube is lost.

TRAGEDIES OF THE FRENCH FISHING FLEET.

HALIFAX, May 10. — The French cruiser Regulus, now in port, has survivors from another disaster to the French fishing fleet on the Grand Banks. About two weeks ago the St. Malo schooner France, of Bretagne struck a berg and sank. Thirty of her crew have not been reported here, while five were picked up by the Regulus. The Regulus also picked up two French fishermen from the schooner La Tour du Pin, who had strayed in their dory and had been ten days and nights on the open sea with little or nothing to eat or drink. They were put in hospital here suffering from frostbites and exposure.

The Making of Pastry.

The eating of plain food goes a long way to maintain a good digestion. Not only so, but it is also true that plain food, if properly cooked, builds up the system, whereas the constant eating of rich foods is really harmful. The virtue of plain cooking should also be recognized in the matter of pastry making.

Housekeepers must always be on their guard against the tendency to make their pastry too rich. For family purposes it is well when making pastry to mix the fat and flour in the proportion of half the fat there is of flour. If butter is used and well kneaded, plain pastry of this kind is better and more wholesome than a richer variety. In the recipes which follow clear directions are given for turning out a few dishes with flaky pastry.

BEUF STEAK PIE.

Wipe and cut into neat pieces 1 1/2 lb. of shoulder or rump steak, also a sheep kidney. Dip these in seasoned flour, and fry in little fat in the stewpan. Add a teaspoonful and a half of water, stir until boiling, then simmer for one hour and a half, two hours, or until tender. When ready put into pie-dish with a hard-boiled sliced egg.

Put six ounces of flour on to a bake-board, cut up amongst it 1/4 ounce of butter or margarine. Put all into a basin, add half a teaspoonful of baking powder, and form into a stiff paste with a little cold water. Turn out, roll three and a half times, lastly rolling a little larger than the pie-dish. Cut bands for the edges, wet these, cover the pie, make a hole in the centre, decorate, brush with egg. Bake until the pastry is brown, and the gravy is beginning to bubble out.

MEAT ROLLS.

Stew until tender half pound mutton with pepper, salt, and a little flour and water. Make half pound flour, 2 ounces lard, 2 ounces butter or margarine, half teaspoonful of baking powder, and a little cold water into flaky pastry. Roll it into a large square, and cut into nine small squares. Have a mixture cold divide it into nine squares, wet edges with egg, brush with egg, and bake in hot oven for ten minutes, nicely browned.

Your Best Ear Foremost.

Which ear do you use the most: your right or your left? Off-hand you probably can't say, and perhaps you never even thought of it before, though you have known from earliest youth whether you were right or left-handed.

Yet most of us hear better with one ear than the other. Children and women, and most men, when listening for some faint sound, when listening. Though they do not know it, they are bringing the stronger ear towards the sound.

When you are sitting in a bus or train, try closing one ear and listening to the sounds with the other ear. Then see how it sounds with the other ear. You will be surprised at the difference unless you are a person the capacity of whose ears is exactly the same.

In one ear the sounds will be much louder and clearer, while in the other they will be fainter and more confused. If you are listening to music you will find the same again, and in this case the music sounds better and more musical in your best ear.

How to Make Blue-Prints

This is a delightful amusement for later on, when the days are hot; and all the materials you want are a photographic printing frame, some blue-print paper, and a little clean blotting-paper. If the frame is seven inches by five, you can use it for either large or small pictures. Choose a leaf, say maple, beech, or oak, or a fern frond, and lay it face downwards on the glass of the frame. Then on this put the sheet of blue-print paper, with the sensitized side next to the leaf, fasten the frame, and put it in the sun, when it will at once change colour. It must be exposed for four or five minutes; experience very quickly teaches you what is the best time, and then it must be taken from the frame and thoroughly washed in clean water. Next it should be placed between the blotting paper, and after a while taken out and dried. The thing you must be careful about is taking a fresh piece of paper from the box where you keep it. Handle it as little as possible, and do not expose it to the light till in the frame. It is a good plan to have a book at hand, and quickly slip the sheet into this to keep it from the light whilst you close

Obituary.

MR. WM. GRIFFIN.

The death of Mr. Wm. Griffin, of the Government Engineer's office removed from our midst one of St. John's most promising young men, and his passing will be regretted by those who knew him. The deceased had been in failing health for some time past, and about three months ago he entered the Sanitarium for treatment, and appeared to show signs of improvement. He eventually grew worse, and despite the attention of the Doctor and Nurses he passed away at 11.30 last night. The late Mr. Griffin was the eldest son of Mr. L. J. Griffin, foreman at Gaden's Aerated Water Works. He was a prominent member T.A. & B. Society. For some years he was President of the T. A. Juvenile Society. To those who mourn the Telegram offers its sincere sympathy.

DOROTHY CLARKE.

We regret to record the death of one of the bright girls of Brigus in the person of Dorothy Clarke, who after twenty months of suffering, passed away at the General Hospital Tuesday, April 27. Dorothy is the eldest daughter of Caleb and Mrs. Clarke. All the time she suffered her spirit was genial and hopeful, the characteristic expression of her lifelong attitude. Her many friends in the Sunday School were among the mourners at her funeral, as well as a large number of the members of the community. The family wish to heartily thank all the kind relatives and friends who visited her constantly during her long illness and proved themselves as comforters in the hour of sorrow. Special mention must be made of Mrs. (Capt.) W. Bartlett and Misses Emma and Eleanor Bartlett, Mr. Thompson, J.P., and Rev. O. Jackson; also the kindness of Dr. Stanley Martin and Mrs. G. Knowling. The thanks of the parents also go to Rev. T. Watkinson, Mrs. Lewis Bartlett, Miss Gladys Thompson and Miss Flossie Hillier, who visited her constantly in the hospital, and Nurse Smith. The young and old have shown their sympathy and thoughtfulness in many ways. In the hour of sorrow the kindness of Mr. Munden Clarke and Mr. H. French was much appreciated.

"We miss you darling Dorothy, and the loss is hard to bear. Our home is dark without you. We miss you everywhere."
CORRESPONDENT.

PRIVATE ARTHUR PITTMAN.
Another of our brave soldiers who saw active service in the late war passed to his final rest yesterday at the Sanitarium, where he had been a patient for the past three years. Deceased answered the call of his King and Country in the early part of the war, and embarked for overseas with C. Co. in 1915. He played an active part with "Ours" both at Gallipoli and France, and during his time in action he escaped unscathed. The late Pte. Pittman belongs to Pilley's Island, and the remains will be sent home by the S.S. Portia leaving this port to-morrow. The funeral of the late comrade will take place from Oke's Mortuary Rooms to-morrow morning at 9.45 to Bowring's wharf. The casket will be draped with the Union Jack, while wreaths received from the G.W.V.A. and Salvation Army will cover the hearse. All ex-service men who can possibly attend are asked to do so.

SIMON HEARN.
Riverhead, St. Mary's, May 10, 1923
Those who did not vote in the past election will have a chance to do so by coming to the C. C. C. Annual "At Home" in the C. C. C. Hall on May 23rd, and voting it the best yet.—may 11, 23, 11.

A Disclaimer.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—It is reported in this District that I made application for the position of Postmaster, which is now held by Mrs. Bonla. I absolutely deny that I ever did or ever will make such an application. I consider the present Mrs. Bonla is fully qualified to fill the position.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

CHINESE RELASING PRISONERS.

SHANGHAI, May 11.—The U.S. Minister Shurman who arrived here at midnight said he expected hourly to hear that the Szechow bandits had released all their prisoners.

DEMONSTRATION AGAINST ASSASSINATION OF VOROVSKY.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 11.—The executive committee of the Swiss Communist Party called upon all workers regardless of their political affiliation to join in a great demonstration against the assassination of Vorovsky.

VOROVSKY MURDER STIRS SWITZERLAND.

LAUSANNE, May 11.—The murder of Vorovsky, head of the Soviet Delegation to the Near East Conference, by Maurice Alexander Conrad, a Swiss, who once served in the Russian army, has stirred Switzerland as has no single event since the assassination of Empress Elizabeth of Austria at Geneva in Eighteen ninety eight. Conrad, who was seized by the police in the Hotel Cecil, after he had killed Vorovsky and wounded two attaches to the Russian delegation continues to maintain that he acted alone in an effort to avenge his father and uncle for mistreatment that they had received at the hands of the Bolsheviks during the Red terror. Switzerland keenly feels the position in which Conrad is set, places the country and fears the world opinion may hold that local Patriotic Associations are morally or materially responsible, in as much that the Swiss Fascist organization recently ordered Vorovsky to leave the country or take the consequences.

WOOD ALCOHOL POISONING.

QUEBEC, May 11.—Deathly sick from drinking wood alcohol in mistake for medicine and with their four children too distracted with fear to summon help at once, Mrs. Louis Gray and her husband died before assistance reached them.

Across the Channel for a Quarter.

LONDON—From Calais to Dover and back on a $350 aeroplane using only 25 cents worth of gasoline and from England to America in 12 hrs. are the latest possibilities of aeronautics. The latter achievement is claimed for a new engine designed to develop 2,300 h.p., built to the order of the Air Ministry. The former is declared to be possible by a new "baby-power monoplane," constructed for M. Barbot, a French aviator. There have been speed records and height records, trans-Atlantic and trans-continent flights, but the fact that Mr. Barbot's flying machine, costing half its price of a light automobile, is to be flown by its inventor across the English Channel and back on 25 cents worth of 'gas' is one of the biggest advances in aviation in recent years.

Big Battle in Sight.

DEMPSY vs. GIBBONS.

Jack Dempsey, World's Heavyweight Champion will receive $300,000 for risking his title against Tom Gibbons the St. Paul Challenger, in a 15 round contest to a decision at Shelby, Montana on July 4th. Gibbons will not receive a penny of the receipts until the first $100,000 is in the box office. He will receive 50 per cent. of all money over the amount until the $500,000 mark is reached. After this figure is reached the challenger will receive 25 per cent. of all over $500,000, and also will be given 25 per cent of the moving picture rights, in addition to $2,500 for training expenses. Dempsey has been allowed $10,000 to cover his training expenses. Mr. Jimmy Dougherty of Philadelphia will probably referee the bout.

Mid. Athlete Taken Suddenly Ill.

Word has been received in the city that Mr. Tommy Winter, son of Mr. Thomas Winter, who has been studying Civil Engineering at the Nova Scotia Technical College, was taken seriously ill a few days ago, and underwent an operation for appendicitis. Halifax papers made reference to his illness by stating that he was the hard luck boy of the Maritimes, because he was taken suddenly ill with the malady the day before his final examination. It is regrettable that he was unable to take his place with the rest of the graduating class, and we hope that the operation will be a complete success. He will probably take his exams later. Mr. Tommy Winter is well known in athletics and figured prominently with the Halifax Crescents Hockey team this winter.

L. S. P. U. Meeting.

NOMINATION OF OFFICERS.

Last night's special meeting of the L.S.P.U. was largely attended. The following officers were nominated, and the election will take place on Thursday next:—
President—Joseph Flavin, Wm. G. Sullivan.
Vice-Pres.—Ed. Spry, Wm. Bennett.
1st Vice-Pres.—James Butler, Wm. Howell.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Thos. Healey, John Dempsey, Harry Gardiner.
Financial Secretary—Joseph Cook.
Recording Secretary—James Caul, Thomas White.
1st Treasurer—James English.
2nd Treasurer—James Sullivan, Michael O'Rourke.
Grand Marshal—James Kavanagh, Michael Tavernor.

Aeroplane vs. Motor Car

PARIS—An exciting chase by aeroplane of a motor car laden with gold which was being smuggled out of the country, took place on the road between Damascus and Baghdad. The aeroplane, fitted with a machine gun, took the air fifteen minutes after word was received that the car was making for Baghdad. Shots were fired wide as the warning. The occupants stopped the car and fled to the shelter of some rocks where they were held by the encircling plane until the police and customs officials arrived.

Britain to Popularize Small Craft.

LONDON, May 9.—The Air Ministry are trying out a small three and a half horsepower aeroplane at the newly established R.A.F. School of gliding at Uphaven. The tiny engine is capable of lifting 300 pounds and the market price is stated to be approximately $750. The little machine is called "The Wren," and has attained a speed of 50 miles an hour. The idea is to try and popularize small aircraft of suitable type.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

DON'T SPOIL IT.
Argus (South Africa): Relatively speaking, we are in clover in Africa. Still the really safe line is to realize for some time to come and rather up-hill struggle every man putting his shoulder to the wheel for the common benefit. The only optimism that counts is that the day is, as General Smuts said, a long one. The fact is that the world recognizes that by hard, untiring work, and at the expense of great discomfort, he can win the storm to quieter waters ahead.

WE ARE LISTENING, TOO.
Telegraph: The interest in the bill before the Connecticut legislature to fine those who advance their voices to conform with day-dreaming time is not confined to Connecticut alone. New York and Massachusetts lead attentive ears, for they wonder what will happen if the law comes law and the citizens follow the argument of the standard steam roller operator. That argument is that if people want to get an hour earlier they can and there is no need to set the clock ahead. The law and go about their business as of old.

IT HELPS THE COUNTRY.
Boston Daily Mail: Where before the amount of direct taxation was only $27,000,000, it will for the present financial year exceed $40,000,000. The business man finds the amount appropriated by the State surplus goes to the tax-collector instead of being used to pay wages.

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE.
New York Tribune: It is refreshing to find that one clergyman, at least, is not despair of American youth. Despite the fascination of the "flaming" female generation to innumerable conventions, this clergyman, who hails from Canada, holds that they are superior in ability to the "flaming" female generation and will be just as well fitted to great-grandmotherhood. The clergyman in the fullness of time, if a woman could be taken of women of workers it would be found that the "flaming" intelligence, self-reliance and understanding of human nature which means ability to protect themselves they are making a steady advance. The clinging vine type is passing. And it is just as well that it should be. Now and then a stenographer weeps when a hard-hearted boss reminds her that Chicago is not spelled Shikago, but she does not faint or go into hysterics, as her prototype would have done fifty years ago. In America, and probably in the nations of Europe, woman's growing independence has become a powerful factor in the progress of the race. The millions of girls who are earning their own way form together a youth bloc which is going to be a great influence for good in the world.

COMPENSATION.
Los Angeles Times: The possibility of seeing with the skin has been demonstrated by a French scientist and fully illustrated by a blind student in Chicago. It isn't the skin that sees, however. It is presumably the delicate nerves beneath the skin. Now it is being further demonstrated that it is possible to hear in the same way. There is the case of a deaf girl in Wisconsin who is able to distinguish words and sounds as they are recorded on her finger tips. Another pupil at a school for deaf-mutes is able to understand a vocabulary of fifty or sixty words through the impressions of sound waves on the palm of the hand. The compensations which God gives the blind and the dumb and the deaf may be developed until the hardship itself is forgotten.

FRANCE IN AFRICA.
Boston Transcript: It were well, therefore, to bear in mind that France has other than European interests, that she has become a colonial Power of the first magnitude, and that the development of the colonial possessions in Africa, Asia and the Pacific must always be one of the prime concerns of French statesmen. Nor is Africa, after all, so remote from the range of American interests. Algiers, Tunis, Morocco, Mauritania, in these days of swift steamships, are quite near Boston and New York.

PROFIT-HUNTING AND TIPS.

London Daily Herald: A community wherein it is deemed right and proper to exploit one's fellows cannot logically protest against efforts to exploit fortune. It is reasonable to call the "punter" that he is pretty certain to enrich the bookmaker and not himself; and that trying to "spot winners" is a waste of purse and patience. It is also reasonable to say that in a decently organized society nobody would try and get money for nothing. But it is fat humming for the man who goes profit-hunting in the city to denounce his fellow who goes profit-hunting in the city and suburbs.

HIGH COST OF PARLIAMENT.

The Australasian: It is of the essence of our political system that the judgment and conscience of members of Parliament should be unfettered by any restriction whatsoever. Great Britain in the past gave their blood and treasure to establish this principle. The sovereignty of Parliament was achieved by the patriotism and the sacrifices of men—chiefly of the wealthy and well-bred classes, whom Labor now condemns—at a time when the laboring classes were too ignorant to comprehend the issue, and, let us say, "too proud to fight" for it.

and that the whole government is rotten. Though he believes he is right he cannot give a bill of particulars, but he can start an agitation which will compel such governments to reform or go down. To make every citizen legally answerable for such attacks would be to build a wall around crooked governments behind which they could carry out any scheme of secret corruption.

THE GALLED JADE WINCES.
Springfield Republican: The tax on race bets urged by the British Chancellor of the Exchequer might not be unpopular if it were imposed only on winners. The loser is apt to feel that he is sufficiently taxed already.

How Sound is Seen.

When a motor-cyclist was fined recently for the excessive noise made by the exhaust of his machine, his counsel brought forward as witnesses actual photographs of the sound.
This feat was made possible by means of the "Audiometer," an instrument invented by Professor A. M. Low, which captures the sound waves and records their intensity on a photographic film.
The effect we know as sound is caused by waves of air beating against the sensitive drum of the ear. The waves are set up by a sudden disturbance of the air, just as a stone sets up waves in a pond.
In the audiometer the sound waves are directed by a funnel—like a square gramophone trumpet—against a sensitive diaphragm, which corresponds to the drum of the human ear. The waves breaking against this diaphragm cause it to vibrate and the louder the noise the more the diaphragm will tremble.
A small electric lamp directs a beam of light on to a mirror which is attached to the diaphragm. The ray of light is reflected from the mirror on to a sensitive photographic film which is moved by clockwork across the path of the light ray.
At this point science adopts the dodge used by the small boy, who, with a piece of looking-glass, flashes a beam of sunlight across the eyes of the unwary.
Without knowing it the boy has provided himself with a pointer of great length and absolutely no weight. If the beam of sunlight is directed on to a wall it will show as a bright spot and the least movement of the mirror will cause the spot to travel a foot or more.
In the same way the shaking of the diaphragm on the audiometer causes the mirror to tremble. Minute though the movements of the mirror may be, they are greatly magnified by the long beam of light which flickers about on the film, on which it traces a wavy line.
The nature of the sound determines the form of the wavy line. Low, rumbling sounds give a gently undulating line, whilst sharp, shrill sounds trace a line having a number of peaked waves, like the teeth of a saw.
With the aid of this new instrument the science of sound can be entirely reorganised and studied from permanent, visible records.

YOUR COMPLEXION

need not be neglected any longer, for Richard Hudnut's Three Flowers Vanishing Cream offers you a splendid aid to a good complexion. Used in combination with Hudnut's Skin and Tissue Cream it has a marvelous tonic effect on the skin, and imparts a lovely tone. You will be delighted with Three Flowers Vanishing Cream, and the odor is all that could be desired—dainty and distinctive.

GAS SERVICE.

The S.S. "Nevarra" has brought us a large cargo of "Westmoreland" double-screened GAS COAL. This coal is mined in Pennsylvania, and is unexcelled for Gas Works operations. It produces gas of the highest value for light, heat or power. The tar is superior to the imported article, as nothing is taken from it. The coke is of very high quality, and is a fine substitute for hard coal. Our Ammonium Sulphate is the best fertilizer extant. We are prepared for increased business, and cordially invite enquiries. ## Hints for Your Home.

To prevent cakes burning, grease the tins with lard and sprinkle lightly with flour.
Sour milk brightens hearth tiles and sinks; and a little added to the water in which the steps are washed makes them white.
To get instant relief from hiccup, moisten some granulated sugar with vinegar and then eat it. Brown sugar is equally effective.
For the bottom of table and dresser drawers use white oilcloth instead of paper; it looks better, is easily kept clean with a damp cloth, and does not harbour dust.
Handkerchiefs and garments which have become yellow should be allowed to soak in cold water with cream of tartar—a teaspoonful of cream of tartar to a quart of water. This is a simple but effective method of whitening them.
Plated tea-pots often become musty

Retrenchment.

The first evidence of the Government's intentions on the subject of retrenchment were made palpable this week by the appointment of four new officials. It is only by rigid retrenchment that we can hope for a reduction of taxation, and it is only by a reduction of taxation that the country can be saved. This appears to be hopeless, when we regard the record of the present Government. The same men are in control and no doubt the same old tactics in the lavish exploitation of the people's taxes will be pursued. The men who conduct the principal industry of the country, the codfishery, say unanimously: "We can't make a living out of the fishery as the price is to-day, under the present schedule of taxation on outfits. If we get a full load of fish and have to sell it for $4.00 for Labrador and $5.50 for Shore; there will be nothing left to get food and clothing for the winter, after we have paid our accounts. We do not want to run in debt and even if we did the opportunity will not be given us now as the merchants will not give and can't afford to give winter credit like in the olden times." This is the fisherman's position, and the Government knows it as well as we do. The question is how can it be remedied? The answer is reduce the expenditure in the Civil Service. Cut off all useless offices and postpone that ambitious educational scheme till you have found a way to make the fishery a paying occupation. The taxes that could be saved by a policy of retrenchment would put the Government in a position to help the fishing industry to that extent and enable the fishermen to make the business a paying venture. If the army of public officials is going to be increased instead of diminished, which is evident by the recent appointments, then the fishermen must give up all hope of a reduction in taxation. Besides there is a new army now on the field around Coaker and Squires looking for jobs in the Civil Service as a reward for the services they rendered at the election. All the defeated candidates are expecting positions of ease and big pay or a liberal share of patronage, so that to talk of retrenchment to the Government as a means to help the fishery seems to be useless. What is likely to happen though is not a policy of retrenchment but another big loan of five or ten millions and then "open her up again" for another orgy of waste and extravagance and consequently increased taxation that will crush the little remaining life and energy out of the people.

Enforced Emigration.

The saddest sight in the eyes of all who have a sincere interest in and regard for the future welfare of Newfoundland is to witness the steady flow of emigration going out through the Narrows every sailing of the Red Cross Line boats. This Exodus seems to have gained momentum since the Elections, and it is quite evident that decision on the part of the hundreds of young men to leave Newfoundland, was contingent on the result of the Election. When the Government of Sir Richard Squires was re-elected, they realized that there was no hope for the future, especially at the Fishery, and they made up their minds to emigrate. Every available berth in the S.S. Rosalind is taken up to-day and the bookings ahead cover the entire passenger accommodation of the next two boats sailing from St. John's. This is a deplorable condition of affairs, and a source of keen regret to all patriotic people who love their country and wish to see it prosper. It is the best blood of the country, too, that is going away. The young men who are the best asset of the commonwealth who can see no prospect of making an independent living in the land of their birth. Their brain and muscle will be utilized in building up the industrial and commercial fabric of the United States and Canada, to the great loss of Newfoundland. Every one of those young men who leaves our shores means the making of the burden of taxation all the more heavier on those who remain. Those young fishermen from Trinity, Bonavista and Notre Dame Bays who have schooners, traps and other valuable fishing gear, which it took years for their fathers to accumulate, have chosen to sacrifice their share in the property rather than take a chance in the fishery again the coming summer, knowing that even with good luck they would find themselves in debt at the close of the voyage. The political battle is now over and nothing can be gained by exaggerated assertions, but we say in all calmness and with deliberation that this condition of affairs has been mainly brought about by the maladministration of the Squires-Coaker Government. It is true that the majority of the fishermen electors have expressed themselves quite satisfied, by their votes. This is because they were deluded by false cries and misrepresentations and appeals of such an unworthy and contemptible nature that any man of honor and decency should feel ashamed of. However the die is now cast and the people will have to abide by their decision, and we say in all sincerity that we hope the people who gave the majority to the Government will have no cause to regret it. Sir Richard Squires has again control of the Government. He knows this emigration is going on. He knows it is as great an evil as could happen to the country. Let him then devise means to give encouragement to these young men to stay at home, or otherwise every one of them who has the price of his passage will go away. It is the want of this that is keeping hundreds of others from going. This is a subject that brooks no delay.

COAKER'S MAJORITY CONSIDERABLY REDUCED.

The count for Twillingate District finished at 9:30 p.m. yesterday, with Brown, Barnes and Jones leading the poll in the order named. Brown for the Government headed the list with a vote of 3491, whilst the leading man on the Opposition ticket, Ayre, has 1784 to his credit. In the election of 1919 the leading Coaker candidate, Jennings, polled 3718, against 922 votes cast for Mackay, the highest man on the Opposition. It will be thus seen that the defection from Mackay in the case in all the other Northern Districts is very considerable. At the election of 1919 the difference between Samson, the third Coaker member and Mackay was 2495. At the late election the difference between Jones and Ayre was 1622. Messrs. Ayre, Peters and Short are deserving of hearty congratulations on the showing they made.

Inter-Club Billiards.

HONORS DIVIDED LAST NIGHT.
A large attendance of Billiards enthusiasts witnessed two games of the second round Billiard Tournament in the B.I.S. Club Rooms last night. The first match was played by McKay (B.I.S.) and Snow (M.), the latter winning by a margin of 111 points. Snow took a commanding lead from the start and increased his majority as the game progressed. Both players made several good cannon shots. The breaks were:— McKay (239)—16, 17, 10, 12, 15, 22—92.
Snow (356)—19, 12, 15, 14, 22, 10, 16, 10, 17, 10, 11, 28—172.

At the Casino.

"THE NIGHT CAP."
Last evening's production of the "Night Cap" by the Casino Stock Company won the appreciation of a fairly large audience. In the portrayal of the different characters the players measured up fully to the enviable record which they have attained since the play appeared here. The Night Cap is a play which keeps the audience in suspense until the final curtain, when all of a sudden, a pleasing solution of a murder mystery is unfolded. As has been said previously it would spoil the interest in plot for those who have not yet seen the play to say any more than that it is a clever production which it is sure to please. There is comedy, joy and mystery interwoven in such perfect balance that every moment of the performance holds an appeal to the emotions of the audience. Lovers of the footlights should not fail to see the Night Cap. It is sure to please.

Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons, accompanied by their daughter, Fannie, arrived from Harbor House yesterday by train. Miss Parsons offers the General Hospital to-day to undergo treatment for appendicitis.
Mr. Jas. Haw, who had been spending the winter months in Bermuda, returned by the Rosalind.
Mrs. T. J. Daley, who was on an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. Courtney, in the Southern States, returned by the Rosalind yesterday.
Mr. C. DeMers, of the Royal Bank staff, has been transferred to the branch in Halifax, and leaves by the Rosalind to take up his new duties. Mr. DeMers has been a resident of St. John's for the past three years, and during that time he has made many friends, particularly in baseball circles. He was an ardent sport and figured prominently in baseball, having played with the Cubs and St. John's team. The many friends of Mr. DeMers will regret to hear of his departure.
Mr. and Mrs. Collishaw, who spent the winter in Florida, returned by the Rosalind.

No Sign of Codfish.

Fishermen who have been out in the Bay during the past couple of days looking for a sign of codfish have been unsuccessful in their quest. So far none have been hooked. It is, however, the general opinion that the codfish remain on the grounds off port all the winter.

A plasterer of the Higher Levels arrested for being drunk, was given his freedom.
A laborer taken in for safe-keeping was allowed to go on the promise that he would secure work to-day.
Two well-known females arrested by the police at 3 o'clock this morning for being loose and disorderly, were removed to the Penitentiary.
An assault case between landlord and tenant, both residents of Pouch Cove, occupied the attention of the court as long as this morning. The case, however, was dismissed.

Exodus Still Continues.

250 PASSENGERS SAILING BY S.S. ROSALIND.
S.S. Rosalind, which sails to-morrow for Halifax and New York will be taking about 250 passengers. The majority of those taking passage are young men who hail from Conception and Trinity Bays and are men the country can ill-afford to lose. By last night's cross country express over 130 men arrived to take passage by the Sagana, leaving here for Sydney to-night. These men hail from the West Coast, and intend to go back fishing in Lunenburg, N.S. for the summer. It looks as if the promise of a Humber and prosperity will not deter our young manhood from seeking a livelihood in foreign lands. All day yesterday numbers of men applied for passage at the Red Cross Steamship office. Many of whom had to remain over and booked passage by the next sailing of the Silvia.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.
The weekly meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon at 7 o'clock. Mayor Cook presided and the following Councillors were present:—Mr. Martin, Yimcombe, Collier, and Dowden.

The preliminary report of the following committees was given consideration:—The committee on the water supply for testing the water in connection with tanks at the premises, was referred to the City Engineer, who it is anticipated will issue the necessary permit upon the applicants as amount for the said supply.

John Leamon asked that a sewer and gutter be placed in his residence, Monkstown, for which he stated he was willing to pay proportionate share as defined by the Act. In connection it was thought better would be accomplished if the residents would undertake to do the work with the applicant. This was an advantage to pedestrians and at the same time improve the appearance of their property. It was therefore decided that they be willing to contribute proportionate share for this improvement.

A. Brown, Merrymeeting Road, asked of himself and adjoining property, Mr. Diamond, also asked for concrete curb and gutter and improvements be made opposite the premises, and stated they were willing to contribute share of cost. The matter and if they agreed to have same extended fronting dwellings, the work will be done.

The Secretary of the Newfoundland Fire Underwriters called attention to the fact that a new dwelling erected on Bonaventure street was not in accordance with the regulations. In this connection it may be stated that provisions for other such inflammable materials are not permitted in the regulations of any buildings within the limits. For the information of the public generally, the following is a list of regulations:—

SECTION 377—It shall not be allowed to cover the roof of any building erected with other than metal, slate, asbestos, concrete, cement, or other non-inflammable material.

It is in re-covering the roof of any building already erected the use of shingles may be used within a period not exceeding ten years after the passing of this Act.

Communication was also read to the Secretary of the Board of Fire Underwriters with reference to the application of Mr. Ernest Church-ill, permission to erect garage and workshop, northwest of the Cur-Blair, Fort William Grounds, and that said erection was made in accordance with specification, he was of the opinion that there was no danger to the property, and that there was no warrant to increase insurance rates. A priest was called from the principal of the College against the building, and it was ordered that a copy of the letter be forwarded him. The tenders were read for the lead pipe and pig lead. In connection with the tender of Messrs. P. J. Smith, Ltd. was accepted.

The Council, having submitted and regulations with regard to the management of Bowring Park for approval of the Council. Same endorsed.

Tenders for the supply of horses to the Sanitary Department were read to the Sanitary Committee.

The following plans were passed, subject to the approval of the Engineer:—

1. J. B. Baird, Monkstown, 5000.
2. G. G. Knight, 5000.
3. Dr. Knight, 5000.
4. Dwellings, W. 5000.
5. Junction of King's, Bridge 5000.
6. E. Noseworthy, 5000.

Plans were passed provided material used conforms to Section 377 of the Act, as referred to above.

Plans for the application of the Council for permission to build a stable, Plymouth Road, Health Officer recommended that the same be granted conditional upon the same being used as a coach-house. Permit was therefore granted, subject to the approval of the Engineer.

Plans of Jas. Sharpe to erect a Sheehan Shute, was not approved. Plans of building and location of same were submitted. All plans for building permits must be submitted in duplicate, together with specification of material, etc., to the City Engineer, for the purpose of motion given by the Council at the last regular meeting was then taken up, and it was decided that the road formerly known as "St. Thomas' Avenue" should be named "St. Thomas' Avenue" and the name of Health Officer be changed to "St. Thomas' Avenue".

in the city for the past week.

The City Clerk tabled Financial Statements to April 30th last. It was pointed out that the Revenue, in several cases, showed a considerable decrease, and it was therefore decided that proceedings be immediately taken against citizens who were notified some time ago with regard to unpaid taxes.

The City Engineer reported on the work of the Roads, Waterworks and Sewerage Departments for the week.

After granting requisitions for the several departments, the passing of accounts presented, the meeting adjourned.

Bonar Law Very Sick Man Indeed.

"WEAKENED MORALE" SCARE DELAYED PRIME MINISTER HOLDING EARLIER.

LONDON—Bonar Law's holiday which has just begun would have been taken earlier but for fear that his ill-health would be used as a scare to weaken the morale of the Conservative party. He is a very sick man indeed, and it is not only his throat that troubles him. The throat trouble is of the obscure kind which mystified doctors and Premier Law always replies to enquiries from friends saying he does not know what is the matter with it. His old trouble of high blood pressure has not been eliminated, and he can only guard against it producing serious consequences by avoiding fatigue, which is hardly possible for any man leading the House of Commons to do.

Conservative ex-leaders Chamberlain, Horne, Birkenhead and Worthington Evans, who, in words of Birkenhead, failed to see ways the cat would jump, are believed to be banking on the Prime Minister's physical breakdown to force the party to beg for their aid, which will be given on terms. The terms are that they shall all be restored to office, including Birkenhead, whose waspish tongue against old colleagues has made reconciliation with him very unpalatable.

The junior men who are now in the Cabinet are naturally not desirous of stepping down to make room for others especially as these others make insidious claim to superior brains. One Conservative paper which urges the restoration of Chamberlainites makes great capital out of the supposition that the present ministry is weak in parliamentary debating power and popular platform power. Lord Younger, still the most of the "Die-hards" boldly asserting that the front-bench occupants are a very able set. The press, which supports the Government, is trying hard to improve the reputations of its members for personal ability. Baldwin's handling of the budget has been represented as a triumph. In short, the Government defenders are adopting the Cone treatment of asserting that they are always getting better and better in order to counteract their opponents' taunts of their lacking first-class brains.

Ontario Provincial Elections in June.

TORONTO, May 6 (By A.P.)—For the sixteenth time since Confederation, the electors of Ontario will during the last week in June select a new Legislature. For the second time women will take part in making that selection. What will the answer be? That is the question which is troubling a lot of members of the Fifteenth Legislature of Ontario as they leave Queen's Park for their homes at the prorogation. The month of June is becoming increasingly popular as a month for elections. Away back in 1894 June was the month, then again in 1902, in 1908 and in 1914. June is a convenient month for the farmers and any month is all right for the city voters. Leaders of each of the groups profess absolute confidence of victory but the careful observers who love to forecast such events are exceedingly doubtful at this distance. They are met by two outstanding difficulties. One is that they are really four parties, Farmers, Liberals and Conservatives. The other is that there is no outstanding difference of policy among them. The dividing lines are uncertain and indistinct.

Drury Government has good Record. When it is all stammered down the Drury Government goes to the country on its record as one good enough to merit a renewal of the people's confidence, while the Conservatives will make the opposite claim—that the U.F.O.-Labor Coalition should be turned out for the way it has handled things since it took over the reins of power. The Liberals will probably not be so critical of the administration but will urge that the party system would give a better management of affairs, and that the Liberal party, since it includes people of all occupations, would be able to present a stronger ministry than a group with which a large portion, particularly the professional classes, are not extensively identified. Later will probably endorse a straight Labor platform, and those friendly to the present Coalition will claim that the present government has gone farther to meet the wish of Labor than any previous regime. Now all this will furnish the basis for a lot of campaigning, but it is difficult to reach any conclusion as to which group will be most successful in convincing the electors.

PLAY SAFE!

With cuts and wounds. Prevent poison by applying Minard's. It cleanses, heals.

tion members in the Legislature this session that the Temperance question should be kept out of politics, government supporters came back with stout assertions that the temperance question was already in politics, and that the people would decide this election largely, if not wholly on how the Government had administered the O.T.A.

Prohibition Important Question.

Where do the parties stand on prohibition enforcement? The Government says "look at our record. We stand for strict enforcement of the act." The Conservatives say, "The Conservatives put the Ontario Temperance Act on the statute book. Our party's record on the temperance question in power was always a straight-forward one, that merits the confidence of the electors, as to its enforcement." The Liberals say "Advanced" temperance measures have for generations been one of the main planks in the Liberal platform, and Liberal leaders have been foremost in advocating strict enforcement."

Labor Stiles with Government.

Most of the Labor candidates are expected to line up with the Government in this issue. Of course there will be a number of candidates who will not agree exactly with their leaders on this temperance issue, and as the campaign progresses this will doubtless become apparent, more particularly among the Liberals and Conservatives. Then there will be the timber question. It will be a very contentious one. The Government candidates will point to the Timber Enquiry and the million dollars it collected from the Shevlin-Clarke Company as a condemnation of the management of timber limits by the Honest Government and more particularly by Hon. Howard Ferguson as denying the wisdom of the decision and would also argue that members of the Government have agreed that the fault was in the system of handling timber limits, under the former Government, not so much the particular minister and that the present government has failed to change the system. They will claim that the sale of limits to the Backus interests was a worse mistake than any the Conservatives made. The Government will retort that the Backus deal was in the best interests of the province and the Liberals will insist that neither of the other two parties have any cause for pride as to timber sales, that both have shown an absence of business methods. Road building will be another battle-ground with the Government pointing with pride to the accomplishments and the Opposition groups skank at the "terrible extravagance." The Government will be held responsible by its critics for the high taxes. "Lavish wastefulness," the opponents will say. The Government will defend itself by pointing to what has been accomplished with the money spent and how fairly it has nursed the revenue. So it will be a merry battle in the merry month of June with lots of outdoor meetings, lots of picnics, thousands of speeches—eloquent and otherwise—all to decide who will look after the business of Old Man Ontario. The U.F.O. claims that one effect of the Farmers' movement has been to encourage the farmers to take a deeper interest in politics. It is said the average man in the country has a better perspective on questions affecting the Government than do the electors in the city.

Our Montreal Letter.

From our own Correspondent. The drug-evil is meeting its Waterloo. Day by day its forces are rounded up, and the millions of the law gives the limit, in the amount. But as high as $20,000 has been asked. Prisoners in the jail, as drug addicts, are crowded by guards in order to prevent them from receiving or using drugs.

The anti-drug campaign within the walls. Governor Beaulieu states that he has divided his attack into two drives. One he directed against the prisoners awaiting trial for drug offenses; the other against the condemned and doing time.

make not only an instructive one, but would be a great factor in making the city a better one.

85,000 citizens will change their residences on the 1st of May. Many people seem to be fond of "Moving Day". The change will benefit carriers and express companies to the amount of one million dollars ($1,000,000), the charges being $4 and $5 an hour.

The special "Strong Arm" Force of Detectives will hound from Montreal useless and non-working young men, who prey on night travellers. A type known as "Imported Lizards," who came here during the tourist season, who live by their wits, are the class that are a constant source of danger to law abiding citizens, and the city detectives are bound to put a stop to their night prowling.

vention of the Knights of Columbus will be held here. The official delegates will number 500. The opening of their new building on Mountain Street will take place at the Convention. The Hall will be the centre of Catholic activities for the rising generation as well as for their elders. All kind of amusement rooms, swimming pools and a fine gymnasium have been added and the Knight's future home will be one of the best of its kind in Montreal.

The Laurentian Bath on Craig St. East and the Crescent Bath on Dorchester St. West, have closed their doors and have gone out of business. The Crescent possessed the only Turkish Bath in Montreal, but lost heavily for the past eight years. The building is to be turned into an apartment house.

The first appearance of spring was reflected in the Recorder's Court when eleven men charged with drunkenness: eight were found lying drunk in different streets. The Recorder gave them 100 dollars and fined them.

One hundred Roman Catholic Unions in the Province of Quebec will be represented at the Convention of the Catholic Workers Federation to be held at Quebec on August 2 or August 15, next. About 150 delegates from various centres of the Catholic and National Syndicate are expected to attend.

In addition to matters of industrial interest, plans for the wide extension of Catholic and national unions will be discussed.

Building of the new Montreal headquarters of the Catholic and National Syndicate on the corner of Demontigny and Beaudry streets is being pushed rapidly forward and the building is expected to be ready for occupation on July 1. The official opening will be delayed until September when it will be made the occasion of an imposing ceremonial. It is expected that Bishop Gauthier will perform the opening ceremony.

All men organized in the building trades in the Catholic and National Union are now fully employed, it was stated. These are said to number round 2,000 men. There is a shortage of plumbers and painters, the Union

Good Programme Seen at the Nickel.

In spite of the excellent weather prevailing yesterday, the Nickel had its usual bumper house. The bill was exceptionally well balanced. "Tillie Wakes Up," featuring Marie Dressler and Johnny Hines created roars of laughter and provided the audience with plenty of entertainment. The picture entitled, "You Never Know Your Luck" was one of those dramas that appeals to the individual taste of the patron. House Peters was never seen to better advantage.

Miss Gladys Redstone was up to her usual high standard. Her solos were excellently delivered and won the appreciation of her hearers. Tonight, this same programme will be repeated and on Monday the Nickel will screen one of the finest productions of the season. Watch the advertising space for particulars.

By a unanimous vote "Quarantined" has been declared by theatre goers a huge success. One more chance to see this great comedy at St. Joseph's Hall on next Monday night, May 14th. Place: St. Joseph's Hall. Price 50c. and 30c.—may.10.12.14

FIVE QUESTIONS FOR MIDDLE AGE

"Nothing is more disgraceful than that an old man should have nothing to show that he has lived long except his years."—Seneca.

Of course you are not old. I would not for the world suggest such a thing. People seldom are old—only to be some day. One of my best friends is a man of 73 who often says what he will do "when I am an old man."

But you must admit that you are getting a little older each year. And if you do not want to run any risk of meriting Seneca's reproof you ought to be storing up "something to show that you have lived long besides your years." Are you?

What We Lose.

As we grow older we unquestionably lose some beautiful qualities. We lose some of the enthusiasm of youth, some of its divine hopefulness, some of its passionate belief that the world can be made right by this or that reform. ("For my part," says Stevenson, "I look back to the time when I was a socialist with something like regret.") What are we getting in return for these losses?

Here are a few suggestions for stock taking.

It seems to me that a person who ripens instead of souring into old age ought to be less positive as the years go by. A positive young person is a perfectly natural manifestation. A positive old person is a person who has been positive, found himself wrong ("even as you and I"), changed times, and still learned no lesson. Are you growing less positive with the years?

Things We Ought to Save.

The gracious old person ought to

Total Population—Two.

Islands Where Single Families Live In Solitary State.

The islet of Holm, one of the Orkney group, supports a population of exactly two people—a man and his wife.

If there is anywhere round our coasts an island on which only a solitary individual lives a Crusoe-like existence, as is sometimes asserted, the census takes no note of it.

Holm, therefore, ranks officially as the British island with the fewest population, though several others run it very close. Hunda Isle, for example, one of the same group, possesses a population of three all told, and Copinshay has seven.

Further north, in the Shetland group, three islands are mentioned which have three, four, and six inhabitants respectively.

Another curious fact record is that in these islands remote outposts of Britain, January 12 is celebrated as New Year's Day, and all other dates are correspondingly behindhand, the reason being that when the Gregorian Calendar was adopted by this

Your Watch.

Has it ever occurred to you to glance into the pocket where you generally keep your watch? If you do, you will probably be surprised to find there quite an accumulation of dust.

This dust works its way into the watch, with the result that the works are thrown out of gear, and you may have to spend a big sum for repairing.

Dust gets into the bearings, absorbs the oil, and eventually prevents the wheels from revolving. In time dust will eat away the pivots of the delicate wheels, so keep your watch-pocket clean by dusting it at frequent intervals.

Few people treat their watches with the right respect. For instance, they take the watch from its pocket at night, wind it, put it down somewhere, and expect it never to go wrong.

In the first place, the watch has been working at an even temperature in the pocket all day, so naturally it will derive no benefit from standing in a temperature that is bound to be lower. It is much better to have a little bag to put the watch in at night.

Other people go wrong over the winding. They wind mechanically and quickly, with the result that the hairspring is strained. It is always wise to wind slowly and give just one fewer turn to prevent that tight feeling.

Wrist-watch wearers are notorious offenders. They probably play golf or tennis without ever taking off their watches. Small wonder that the delicate machinery soon begins to get out of order. Violent movement has thrown it out of gear.

Ukraine Bride Makes the Groom's Suit

In the Ukraine the bride must furnish the bridegroom with a wedding shirt of homespun linen, beautifully stitched and elaborately embroidered. It is to be his Sunday best suit for the rest of his life.

Sometimes she buys her wedding dress, often she has a gown really not required. Dress, drinks and supper and gifts to the clergy, music for the dancing may very properly be paid for by the bridegroom.

The bride collects her 600 guests at her wedding. Custom bills are thrown into her arms as she greets the guests after the making is well started. The money gets in intended to be her exclusive property. She is not allowed to use it in furnishing her well as virtuous.

The Cause of Heart Trouble

Faulty digestion causes the generation of gases in the stomach which inflate and press on the heart and interfere with its regular action, causing faintness and pain. 15 to 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup after meals sets digestion right, which allows the heart to beat full and regular. 50c and $1.00 bottle at druggists.

Blue-jay

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in clear liquid and in thin plasters. The action is the same. At your druggist.

Farmers Leave and for Dominions.

More than 20,000 Englishmen left their native land in 1922 to make their home in the British Dominions. This exodus is a result of the settlement of the overseas. The number leaving each week is steadily increasing, and it is estimated that the total for 1923 will be the new Empire Settlement. The Government bears half of the emigration, and in the case of ex-service men the entire cost is paid. A few of the British colonies pay a part of the emigrant's share of the costs on his arrival.

The emigration scheme will cost the British Government approximately $5,000,000 by the end of 1924 for passage aid alone. Contrary to general opinion, only a small number of the emigrants are from the ranks of the unemployed. They are mostly hardy farmers, and domestic servants from the English provinces. One party of 800 emigrants is to be transported directly from the Hebrides Islands for Canada about the middle of April. Nearly three-fourths of this company are men, all of whom will work on farms, while the women will go into domestic service.

Races Round the World.

TRAVELLERS WHO HAVE MADE RECORD JOURNEYS.

A race round the world has always been a popular theme with novelists. Jules Verne, for instance, wrote "Round the World in Eighty Days," in which he described the record-breaking journey of one Phineas Fogg.

Wonderful performances have been accomplished by real people. The actual round-the-world record is held by an American, J. H. Mears, who, in 1912, circled the earth in 22 days, twenty-one hours, thirty-five minutes, and four-fifths of a second. Before this the record was held by Jaeger-Schmidt, who performed the trip in thirty-nine days and rather less than twenty minutes.

SCHOOLBOYS' WONDERFUL TRIP.

Mears undertook the feat with the support of an important American newspaper, and the time allowed was thirty-five days, twenty-three hours, thirty minutes. Mr. Mears left New York for Paris on July 2nd. From there he travelled by the Trans-Siberian Railway.

At one point he was held up for eighteen hours by a flood. He managed to pick up nine of the lost hours by bribing the engine-driver, but the Russian officials threatened to throw him into prison if he continued on this policy.

In all he covered 21,066 miles, and averaged 687 miles a day. He arrived back in New York on August 6th, well inside his time limit. The total cost of the trip was only £148.

Two of the most notable record-breaking trips were those of Charles Fitzmorris, a schoolboy, who won a race organized by an American newspaper by travelling round the world in sixty days and thirteen and a half hours, and Nellie Bly, a woman journalist, who completed the journey in just over seventy-two days in 1889. The earliest known trip round the world was that of the Magellan expedition in 1519-1522. These hardy adventurers took three years over their voyage.

It might be thought that, as ten years have elapsed since the present record was set up, a modern traveller might lower it. A journey round the world to-day would take considerably longer than thirty-five days.

The last three records were set up with the assistance of the Trans-Siberian Railway. This is not working now owing to the state of affairs in Russia, and a world traveller would have to use the route which the early record-breakers followed—that is, by the Mediterranean, Suez Canal, Indian Ocean, and China. Fifty-four days in the least time, it would take to get round the earth to-day.

A traveller starting from New York could get to London in six days by means of one of the fastest liners; then from London to Paris and from Paris to Marseilles he could use the regular air services, which take about a day. From Marseilles a P and O mail steamer could take him to Hong-Kong to Yokohama, would take five days, and the journey from there to Vancouver would occupy another nine. From Vancouver to New York by train would occupy four days.

By aeroplane the world could be circled in less than fifteen days—that is, if there were a machine capable of making the journey without a stop. But this is not possible, and when stops and so on are taken into consideration the time works out at nearly three months. At least, this was the time allowed by Sir Ross Smith, who was preparing for a round-the-world flight when he met his death.—Tit-Bits.

Oldest Garment in Europe.

What is claimed to be the oldest garment in Europe has been discovered by peat cutters in Gerum Fen, near Sikara, Sweden. It was found only a few feet under the surface of the peat, and the preserving qualities of the fen water have kept it intact since the Bronze Age, about 1,000 years before the Christian era.

Professor Montelius, who died recently, made a careful examination of the cloak, and Professor Koskinen also examined it. Further confirmation of the authenticity of its age was forthcoming from Dr. L. von Post, the State Geologist of Sweden.

The garment has the appearance of a cloak to be hung over the shoulders, and it does not look very archaic when compared with more modern wear. It is woven by hand from wool.

Inquiries at the Bronze Age Department of the British Museum, revealed the fact that pieces of material hand-woven in the same period are tabulated here. "They were taken from the Swiss lake dwellings," said an official, "and there is no reason why this find should not be perfectly genuine."

"It is probable that the peat areas of Ireland cover and preserve much that would throw a great deal of light upon the little-known race of the Bronze Age period of northern Europe."

SPEAKING OF SPRING.

Now gentle Annie rules the land, and lovely are her eyes; the birdlets sing, to beat the hand, beneath the shining skies, and with a swifter in each hand once more I chase the flies. The grass is green upon the hill where late the blizzard blew, and little fishes in the rill are hunting things to chew; and with the sword of Bunker Hill I slice the flies in two. As sweet as incense is the air that sweeps the pasture lot; and lambs and colts and calves are there, and merrily they trot; and flies are buzzing everywhere, and roundly I must swat. The charms of nature are restored, her song is rich and deep, and all her beauties, are adored, on land and on the deep; and with a scuffling or a board I rook the flies to sleep. The smiling farmer goes to work and sows his fields of rye, and in the shadow of the kirk the dreaming poets lie, and with brass knuckles or a dirk I seek the nearest fly. In

Sea-Water Bread.

Sea-water bread does not sound very palatable, yet bread made of good wheat flour and mixed with pure sea water dipped up in a bucket from over the ship's side, is both pleasant to the taste and also is beneficial in certain ailments.

Sea-water bread was first made owing to the scarcity on board the ship of fresh water.

Then one ship's cook thought that instead of using salt and fresh water for bread making he would try mixing in some sea water. Soon he came to use all pure sea-water.

In practice it was found that the bread from sea-water does not dry up so quickly as ordinary bread, nor does it go mouldy.—Harold's Weekly.

Chicago to Build World's Largest Electric Plant.

CHICAGO, March 30.—(By the Associated Press)—Electrical engineers the world over are watching Chicago in her attempt to rear the largest electric power plant in the world—a station whose ultimate capacity will be approximately 900,000 horse power, or 600,000 kilowatts. The largest plant now in operation anywhere has a capacity rating of 230,000 kilowatts.

The new colossus, the project of the Commonwealth Edison Company, purveyor of lights electrical to almost the entire Chicago territory, is expected to be in operation by August, 1924. The generating room, which is to house 10 huge turbo-generator units, each capable of producing 40,000 to 60,000 kilowatts, will be slightly more than 800 feet long, and 125 feet wide. Each generator will produce 60-cycle energy at 12,000 volts. The entire plant, comprising three principal units in addition to the turbine room, will occupy 72 acres of city property. Storage space for 300,000 tons of coal is provided. Fuel requirements for the anticipated normal operation, which is expected never to reach capacity, will be about 135 cars of coal daily, or approximately 2,000,000 tons a year.

Economy of fuel was a chief aim of the designers, and to what extent their efforts in this direction were successful is indicated by the announcement that the same electrical output under the most efficient operating practice developed 10 years ago would have required close to 3,500,000 tons of coal, or 80 per cent. more than will be required in the new plant.

Availability of super-high-pressure steam boilers with which to operate the turbo-generators was the principal factor productive of the higher mechanical efficiency. The specially designed steam plant will feed the turbines at 550 pounds to the square inch, which compares with a pressure of 325 pounds in the local station of the Commonwealth Edison Company, the largest and generally accepted as the most efficient fuel-power producer now in operation. Fifty boilers, five to each generating unit, make up the energy center. Five steel smoke stacks, 19 feet in diameter and 175 feet high will carry off the smoke from their insalubrious throats.

Still another superlative appendage of the new plant will be its primary feed cables to other generating stations, designed to facilitate the switching of loads during abnormal "peak-draw periods" at the smaller plants. These cables, 10 in number, and entirely underground, will be operated

THE FISH CARRY HEADLIGHTS.

Storms at sea, when waves six hundred feet from crest to crest race across the ocean's surface, do not disturb the calm of the deep waters in the least.

Waves only effect a layer of water equal in depth to their own length from one crest to the next.

Thus, waves that are six feet from crest to crest disturb only a layer of water six feet deep. Waves eight hundred feet from crest to crest stir the ocean to a depth of eight hundred feet. Below that level all is calm and silent and still.

True, eight hundred feet depth of disturbance sounds a lot, but when one comes to think of the depths of the ocean in some parts—five or six miles or more—eight hundred feet is little more than a mere scratch on the surface of the water.

In these depths, below which the strongest surface waves have no effect, the seasons of the year have no effect either.

Although sea water is transparent, light cannot find its way down to these extreme depths. At a thousand feet or so all is pitch black, even though a brilliant tropical sun may be shining on the waves above.

Living, as we do, at the bottom of a vast ocean of air, there is a pressure of about a ton and a half on each square inch of our bodies. Were a man to get a mile below the surface of the ocean he would have an extra ton per square inch added to that. Two miles down he would be under a pressure of three and a-half tons per square inch.

Needless to say, no man could exist under such pressure, but numerous sea creatures can and do.

Living in everlasting night, they are in many cases totally blind. Some do not even possess eyes at all.

Most deep-sea creatures are fitted with phosphorescent lamps to light their way. But the most curious thing about these lamps is that the fish that possesses the most powerful highlight of all is completely blind!

His lamp is not much use to him, but it warns lesser creatures of the fact that he is near at hand—Pearson's Weekly.

Famous Jewels and Their Strange Stories.

THE KOH-I-NOOR.

There can be little doubt that the Koh-i-noor, or "Mountain of Light," is the best known gem that the world has ever seen. The date of its discovery is lost in the mists of antiquity. Some old legends say that it was found more than five thousand years ago, at the bed of the river Godavery, at Masulipatam; other authorities put the name of its "birth" at no earlier than the year 67 b.c.

However, that may be, the Koh-i-noor has always been treasured and revered, not only for its beauty and its pure water, but because of the Hindoos esteemed it as a magical stone, possessed and inhabited by a powerful and malignant genie or djinn, who roamed the lives of all who possessed it, since it was stolen from the line of Vikramaditya, the immortal.

One of the first historical references to the Koh-i-noor dates back to 1500, when it came into the possession of Ala-ud-din, believed by some to be the origin of Aladdin, and a very powerful ruler, who founded Delhi. But Delhi, the dynasty of Ala-ud-din and the great diamond all fell beneath the sway of Baber, founder of the Mogul Empire in 1526—when the Koh-i-noor is especially mentioned as being in the treasury of the conquered Malabar, at Delhi.

Later, in the seventeenth century, Tavernier, the French explorer, saw it amongst the jewels of the great Emperor, Aurangzeb, and estimated its weight roughly at 783 carats.

Mohammed Shah, the degenerate descendant of Aurangzeb, kept the diamond hidden in his turban when Nadir Shah captured Delhi, but he was forced to give it up, and it passed eventually to Shah Soojah-ul-mulk of the Afghan dynasty.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century Shah Soojah was driven by Dost Mohammed from Kabul, and fled for refuge into the domains of Runjeet Singh, the Sikh, who stipulated that the famous jewel, which Shah Soojah had carried with him into exile, should be the price of his hospitality.

This was a bitter pill for the Afghans to swallow! He tried by every means in his power to avoid giving up the Koh-i-noor, and when Runjeet's messengers came to fetch it, Soojah sent to the Maharajah in its place a huge topaz. But Runjeet Singh was far too cunning himself to be deceived in this manner, and finally the great diamond was sent to him in a crimson, velvet box.

Runjeet had it set as an amulet in an enamelled setting with strings to fasten it upon the arm. He was convinced of its magic powers and carried it about with him wherever he went, in a large camel trunk on the leading camel of a string of one hundred, well guarded by troops, whilst no one except its guardians knew upon which camel the treasure was carried.

Later Runjeet altered it to be worn as a turban ornament, but shortly afterwards it was again re-set to be worn as an amulet.

So confident was the Sikh ruler of its magical power that he wished to bequeath the diamond to the shrine of Juggernaut, in order to break the spell, but his relatives protested, and, as a matter of fact, not long afterwards, it was made over to the British Government on the annexation of the Punjab.

It was handed to Sir John Logan, the resident at Lahore, who had already, for some time, possessed complete authority over the "Toshkhana" or treasury. We read in his memoirs the most of the jewels were roughly threaded on string, like so many buttons, and that the Koh-i-noor was always kept in a safe and under a guard.

When it was delivered to him, on behalf of the East India Company, as a gift for Queen Victoria on May 3, 1849, he wrote to his wife that "the Koh-i-noor is far beyond what I imagined."

Logan felt the custody of the great jewel an overwhelming responsibility; and he was overjoyed when it was delivered over to Lord Dalhousie, to be carried to England.

Great precautions were taken for its safety on the long voyage. It was first enclosed in a small leather bag, made by Lady Dalhousie, then secured in a belt around Lord Dalhousie's waist, which was further fastened to a chain encircling his neck, and he never leaving him day or night, during the weeks and months on board H.M.S. Medea. No wonder Lord Dalhousie writes that he was "in a funk," and ejaculates—"My stars, what a relief to get rid of it!" at the end of the voyage.

The diamond was presented to Queen Victoria on June 2, 1850, and exhibited at the Great Exhibition in 1851. It was then lustreless and badly cut and the recutting, which increased its beauty, but took off from its historic value, was undertaken in 1862 by Messrs. Garrard, who employed a famous cutter called Voorsanger. The work took 33 days and cost £25,000.

The confiscation of the Koh-i-noor rankled in the mind of Dupleep Singh, heir to the Sikh dynasty, who lived in England as a young boy and man. He was intimate with the logins, and he told Lady Logan that he should like to see the famous heirloom of his family once more, saying that he was only an infant when it was surrendered by treaty, and that he desired to place it himself, of his own free will, in the hand of the Queen Empress.

Lady Logan told the Queen, and she at once said that it should be as the young Sikh wished, and that she would herself show the great diamond to its one-time owner. Lady Logan's vivid description of the scene makes one realize her intense anxiety when Dupleep Singh took the Koh-i-noor into his hand and remained gazing at it thus for more than half an hour—gazing at it with a passion of regret in his face.

Finally, with a sigh, he put an end to the tension by going over to Victoria, placing the diamond in her hands, and saying, "It is to me, ma'am, the greatest pleasure to have the opportunity, as a loyal subject, of myself tendering to my sovereign the Koh-i-noor."

The great diamond, is now, of course, to be seen at the Tower of London, with the rest of the Crown Jewels.

As we have already said, it was, and is, accounted by some Hindoos as an ill-omened stone, and it has been pointed out that all the Emperors which possessed it amongst their realia—the Mogul, Pathan, Sikh, and Dorrance dynasties—have all successively fallen into decay and ruin. It was also noticed at the time, and commented upon by the superstitious, that soon after it had come into the possession of the British Crown, these befell the terrible wars, of the Crimea and the Indian Mutiny.

But it can scarcely be said that either of these conflicts was disastrous to the British Empire—and Lord Dalhousie always ridiculed the idea that the great diamond brought bad luck. He enumerates in one of his letters the long list of conquerors who held the Koh-i-noor successively, from Akbar to Runjeet Singh. Moreover, he relates how he was told by Fakir-Nooraddeen, who heard it with his own ears, how when Runjeet Singh asked Shah Soojah to tell him the real value of the diamond, he said—"Its value is good fortune—for whoever holds it is victorious over his enemies."

Strongly as Runjeet and others believed in the magical and supernatural powers of the Koh-i-noor, it is scarcely to be thought that, if they had thought its influence malign, they would have striven so to obtain and hold it.

We have heard the Tavernier estimate the weight of the imperial diamond at over 773 carats; it has now been reduced by its mid-Victorian cutting to 106 1/10th carats, and Lady Logan tells us that Prince Dupleep Singh said that he did not think that it was at all improved thereby!

One can well imagine that the sight of the "Luck" of his house, reduced to less than a seventh of its former weight and size, must have been somewhat of a shock to the Sikh Prince—especially as, to Eastern ideas, Western cutting is in no way beautiful.

The Earth's Tail.

If we could make a journey through space until we were some millions of miles from the Earth, we should probably scarcely recognize this old globe when we look back at it. The Earth has a special distinction which is visible only to those who live in other worlds—it has a tail!

Saturn has his rings; Jupiter is covered with wonderful belts of colour; Mars is scored by strange lines that may be canals. And we have a great tail reaching far away behind us into space like that of a comet. We can catch a glimpse of it sometimes on clear evenings just after sunset. If you take your eyes from the golden hues of the West and turn right about towards the East you will notice a faint luminous patch in the sky exactly opposite the setting sun.

The Earth's tail may consist of a huge cloud of gases, hundreds of thousands of miles in length, or it may be formed by a countless swarm of tiny moons, ranging from the size of a cricket ball to that of a large house, which keep always to our dark side as dare too small to be seen individually.

The Prince of Wales has fallen off a horse again. He had better stick to the back seat of an automobile.

Death-Watch Beetle

Secretary of the Death-Watch of great interest, owing to its habit of tapping on wood. It lives inside of wood and floor-timbers of almost all buildings in the construction of which beams have been used. It is about a quarter of an inch long, and of a brownish color with lighter patches. Its habit of tapping on wood is a sign of impending trouble. The noise of the tapping is very simple than that of one tapping to get into connection with another, and it does not stand on its legs and beat on the wood. The tapping is a certain rhythm and comes from another part of the same form. One beetle is as far away as forty feet.

It is destroying the timber of churches, halls, school buildings. The wood is eaten through until it is like a sponge and will not support its own weight. It is a pest that is becoming a soft and sure. Its destruction is not caused by the beetle, but by its young form, the worm. Just as a butterfly is developed from a caterpillar, the Death-Watch Beetle develops a soft white grub, which burrows in the wood and feeds upon it. Insect hatches from an egg and the beetle, and the grub eats the wood.

The grub has jaws like a pair of shears, and these would be useless were it not for the necessary force behind the grub acquires the necessary force by bracing its body against the wood. The grub has made a tunnel in the wood, which it grips the wood with its many hard teeth, and applies a pressure to the jaws, which will bite into the hard wood. It eats all its life in darkness and in nearly three years before it reaches its full size and is ready to become a beetle, at which time it tunnels to the outside. Thence it changes to a chrysalis, a sleeping form which eventually becomes a beetle.

Death-Watch Beetle has been nearly all the old buildings in this country. The most important in Westminster Hall. Built by the time of William the Conqueror about 1084, it was the chief Court of Justice in England. It was the Court of King's Bench. The Court was built there. All these ancient-looking grubs were away the roof-timbers to find that when the roof was built in 1513 it was found that it was in a state of decay. The work of restoration was put in hand by efficient architects, and the work has been going on for many years. The section of the roof-timbers was removed and the grubs were found in the wood. The grubs were found in the wood. The grubs were found in the wood.

Line Dair

Household Notes.

Baked onions and cheese make a very wholesome and tasty supper dish, and are good for colds. Peel and boil as many onions as required until nearly soft. Remove and drain, and take out a little of each centre. Fill with the breadcrumbs liberally mixed with grated cheese and seasoned to taste. Place a little grated dripping in a pie-dish, and when piping hot lay in the onions and cook till well done.

A properly made potato crust is much nicer for covering a salsaparilla than plain mashed potatoes. Six ounces of flour to six ounces of sieved potatoes, two ounces of good fat, half a teaspoonful of baking-powder—unless, of course, the flour is self-rising—seasoning to taste, and a little milk for binding the mixture are the ingredients required.

Rub the fat into the flour, add seasoning, etc., and blend in the potatoes last. Mix into a light dough. The dough must not be rolled very thin or it will break, and the oven must be nice and hot to set and brown it quickly.

Mackerel are in season, and they are much more appetising split and grilled brown than boiled. The fishmonger will split them if asked, and to grill quickly they should first be placed in a warm oven to heat through. They will then cook in half the time. Mustard sauce is good with the fish cooked in this way.

To make your own plate powder and have more than half the expense, mix a pound of prepared chalk or whitening with three ounces of jeweller's rouge, and moisten with a little methylated spirit. Clean plate in the usual way.

Very seldom does one partake of stewed fruit cooked to perfection. There is generally far too much liquid. It is not juicy, it is much too weak. A perfect way to stew fruit is to place it in a china vessel with no water, and allow it to stand for several hours. Rubarb should be cut up in short lengths. The fruit and sugar will have well blended, and so much juice will be extracted that very little more liquid will be needed. The cooking should be done in a casserole, and, failing this, a stone jam-jar in preference to a saucepan of any kind.

Cheese to be used for savouries should be dried in a cool oven before grating. Moisture having evaporated the dish will be much lighter, and the cheese will go further.

Overalls are often in a very bad way after the spring-clean. If paint-spotted, a tablespoonful of turpentine should be added to every gallon of water in which they are boiled. If stained with furniture-polish, or grease of any kind, the spots should be well rubbed with lard, then scrubbed with a stiff brush and hot suds containing a little liquid ammonia.

Book Title Blunders.

FOUR WORDS THAT BROUGHT SUCCESS.

Funny mistakes are made owing to people misunderstanding the titles of books.

Some years ago Dr. O. M. Mitchell, Director of the Astronomical Observatory in Cincinnati, published a volume entitled "The Planetary and Stellar Worlds." The book was not very successful.

The publisher complained bitterly to a friend, saying, "I have not sold a single copy."

"Well," was the reply, "you have killed the book by its title. Why not give the book a striking new title, something like 'The Orbs of Heaven?'"

The hint was accepted and acted upon, and 6,000 copies were sold in a month.

The Shoemaker's Error.

Who that is unfamiliar with Horne Tooke's famous philological treatise would expect to find "The Diversions of Purley"—which at the time of its publication was ordered by a village book club under the impression that it was a book of amusing games—to be one of the drier and toughest books in the language; or who would suspect "Frian Bees," by Leo Al-lafius, to be a volume made up of biographs of great men who flourished during the pontificate of Urban VIII, whose family carried bees on their coat armorial.

Some years ago, at a public sale of books in London, Drew's Essay on "Souls" was knocked down to a shoemaker, who, to the great amusement of the other bidders, asked the auctioneer if he had "any more books on shoemaking."

Not long ago the corporation of a North of England town decided to erect a new cattle market. The Mayor of the town, who was on the lookout for suitable plans, ordered a copy of a work then recently published, entitled "On the Construction of Sheep-folds."

Imagine his astonishment when he received from London by return post a treatise on religious denominations by Mr. Ruskin—T.H. Bits.
