HOPE IT IS

The root of true religion is summed up in the fine old word, "loving-kindness". We believe that the spirit of living-kindness is daily more abroad in the land.—(London Daily Herald)

A NEW IDEA

A Kansan has been feeding wheat to his chickens, claiming that it makes the grain worth about three dollars a bushel. It also might help to put the chicken-dinner back on the old time basis.—(Border Cities Star)

WEDDINGS

Balcom-Crowell.
Yarmouth.—The marriage of Miss Deborah C. H., eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Crowell, to Roy Irving Balcom, of Halifax, took place at their home on Tuesday of last week. The service was conducted by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. J. H. Balcom, a retired U. B. pastor, of Paradise, Annapolis County, father of the groom, also by Rev. M. S. Richardson, of Zion U. B. Church, Yarmouth. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion, particularly the parlor, where the ceremony took place, which had been converted into a handsome bower of pink rambler roses. Miss Annie Miller played the wedding march. The bride was prettily gowned in a dress of white broad-canton crepe, and carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses and sweet peas. Both bride and groom were unattended. Only the families of the young couple, with a few immediate friends, witnessed the ceremony, and after the service a luncheon was served.
Later Mr. and Mrs. Balcom left by auto on a camping trip, which will be spent at the Argyles in this County. The bride's going away gown was of blue tricotine with hat to match. Both bride and groom are well known. Mr. Balcom is a chartered accountant. The bride for several years has been a very successful teacher, and has held positions in the public schools of Annapolis Royal, where she was Vice-Principal, at Liverpool, and other Nova Scotia towns. They were the recipients of many valuable presents, including a handsome bar pin from the groom, substantial cheques, silver, china, etc.
Among the out-of-town guests were Rev. and Mrs. Balcom, Paradise; Mrs. Fillmore, Parrishboro, and Harvey E. Crowell, Halifax. At the conclusion of their camping trip Mr. and Mrs. Balcom will proceed to Halifax to reside.

MARY CARR COMING IN WM. FOX "SILVER WINGS"

"Mother of Screen's" New Photoplay Out-Rivals Former Great Success, "Over The Hill".

William Fox's super-production, "Silver Wings," featuring Mary Carr, will be shown for the first time in Bridgetown at the Princess Theatre, Friday and Saturday. According to advices from the William Fox offices in New York City, this feature production shows Mary Carr in a far better characterization than in the famous "Over the Hill".

Mary Carr's role is that of a mother and a devoted wife who assumes, upon the death of her husband, the care of a profitable business that he had built as well as the care of two boys and a daughter. One son is a quiet, unassuming chap and the other a lazy lad who permits himself to become the victim of social parasites and bogus business men.

The daughter marries for love much against the wishes of her proud brother. The young son who has toiled diligently in his father's factory is forced to run away because of his brother's crime which has been fastened upon him. The mother—Mary Carr—watches two of her children depart and then discovers that this promising son on whom she has showered so much affection, is himself accused of forgery. He, too, absconds, but his waywardness forces his mother into bankruptcy. After the mother has drunken deep the dregs of poverty the family is brought together by curious twists of fate and once again happiness enters into the portals of their lives.

THE BOYS WHO TELL

A gift that touched the hearts of many in their inspection of the Memorial Hall, was that of the picture found hanging over the mantel in the Council Chamber. On the oak frame, a brass plate inscribed "Presented to the town of Annapolis Royal by Frederick W. Harris," gives the identity of the loyal citizen who has the thanks of the community for his thoughtful gift. The picture contains the portraits of the thirteen citizens who died in the late conflict, together with the following inscription:

"1914-1918. For your tomorrow they gave their day. Men from Annapolis Royal who gave their lives in the Great War."

The names under the portraits are: Pte. John Milledge Buckler, Royal Canadian Regt. Killed at Ypres, July 16th, 1916; Major Leverett de Veber Chipman, 13th Royal Highlanders, died at Halifax, Dec. 16th, 1918; Pte. Wilfrid Keith Fielding, 44th Batt., C. E. F., killed at Cambrai, Sept. 25th, 1917; Commander Richard Loftus Fortier, D.S.O., R.D., R.N. died at Annapolis Royal, March 17th, 1921; Pte. James Dennison How, 43rd Cameron Highlanders, killed at Merrickville, Sept. 11th, 1917; Pte. Robert Gordon Haines, 55th Batt., N.S. Highlanders, killed July 22nd, 1918; Pte. Guy Ole Haines, Composite Battery, died at Halifax, Feb. 8th, 1916; Lieut. Frederick Courtney Mellor, 1st Royal Nfld. SINGING AND THE METHODISTS

At the late remarkable gathering at a hotel in Bristol, England, an impromptu sing song was held. Gypsy Smith and others sang some good old fashioned Methodist hymns. The Dean of Bristol, who had come from the Cathedral with the President of the Methodist Conference immensely enjoyed this climax to a memorable day. He said that Mrs. Davidson, wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury, remarked to him on the previous day, "There is one thing in which the Methodists always beat us, and that is in their singing. Our people can never sing hymns as they do." Dean Burroughs added smilingly, "When you are reunited with us I am afraid we shall be in for a good deal of stiff choir training."

WE MADE A MISTAKE

The Courier made an error last week, in fact two of them, and both in connection with the Oddfellows. We announced the memorial service to take place on Sunday at three o'clock, (instead of 2) and we said the Rebekahs would meet on Monday when it should have been this coming Monday. Probably thirty people drew our attention to it. On Sunday we heard a sermon in the Baptist church. It was a good sermon but closing it, the preacher told a story of the President of Chile and referred to him as sitting in front of his residence looking over the Atlantic. At Chile is on the Pacific coast that would be impossible, on Monday a member of our household bought six peaches at a local grocery and on taking them home found only five had been put in the bag; the same day two pieces of mail addressed to some one else got into our box at the office and the next day a paper addressed to us but put in the wrong box was handed in to this office; this week we got a remittance for a subscription which was fifty cents shy. Yes, the Courier made two mistakes last week and about thirty people told us about it.—Digby Courier.

GOT HIS SMELL OF IT

A George Street barber who came to this country from that Ancient Colony beyond Cabot Strait, which toads and snakes and skunks do not inhabit, possessed the curiosity to smell a skunk. "What do they smell like?" was an interrogation he submitted to many customers, but no one seemed able to tell him. The last chair shaver suggested many resembling odors, but the net result of the boss's enquiries only added fire to his curiosity. Now, owing to a turn in events near his home dwelling a few nights ago, his enquiries have been completely silenced, and he declines to discuss the episode. Some mischievous boys in his neighborhood killed one of the rodents and the gentle zephyrs of the night blew in his direction. These zephyrs wafted on their wings the pungency that not only dismissed the need of further enquiries as to what a skunk smells like, but added to the education of one not born on Canadian soil.—Eastern Chronicle.

STORY OF AN OLD LOG WHICH DRIFTED ABOUT BAY FUNDY

Serving for eighty-five years as part of the sub-structure of the old Beacon Light at the mouth of St. John harbor, then tossed about the water of the Bay of Fundy and finally pulled up on the shores of Mace's Bay, where it was manufactured into boards for a cabin for a motor boat a few days ago, is the record of a large white pine log. In 1828, when the Beacon Light was erected, this log was placed in the sub-structure and in the fall of 1913, when the light was demolished it went adrift. A short time later it was hauled on the shore of Mace's Bay by Robert J. Mawhinney and set aside for future use. Last Monday his son John was looking about for a log to cut into boards and selected this old pine. Despite the fact that it had been in use for nearly a century, it was in a perfect state of preservation and turned out some of the finest boards ever seen in that part of the country. There was not a knot in the log and it seemed as clear and as strong as if it had been but recently cut.

FRANCE REGARDS BRITISH NOTE AS A POSITIVE DISAVOWAL OF THE ALLIES

And a Frank Espousal of the German Cause.

Paris.—The British note is regarded in French official circles as a positive disavowal of Great Britain's War Allies and a frank espousal of the German cause. It is thought that Premier Poincare will reply in the time, although at the Quai D'Orsay it is held the document smacks so much of propaganda it might properly be ignored.

"This amazing document proposes to haul France and Belgium before a tribunal to answer for their efforts to make Germany carry out her Treaty obligations," said an official of the Foreign Office. "France and Belgium are not ready to answer such a summons—even from Great Britain."

SNOW IN AUGUST

Sydney, N.S.—Some idea of the extent to which Summer has lingered in the lap of Spring this year may be gained from the statement of a member of the geodetic survey party in Victoria County, who visited the city last week for supplies. He stated that members of the party on Aug. 4th took snapshots of one another standing on a snowbank 100 feet long and four feet deep. Heavy snow is still being encountered in some parts of the woods.

KEEP ON DUSTING, IS THE ADVICE OF APPLE DEALERS

Present Just The Weather For Developing "Spot"—Fruit Expert Reports on Conditions In Valley.

Kentville.—It is learned from an apple dealer who has just finished a tour of the Valley, that there is considerable spot developing, principally on Gravensteins and Starks. In his opinion, the farmers did not take climatic conditions sufficiently into consideration. "The growers," he says, "will purchase his dusting materials for three or four dustings, or the same amount he put on the previous season and after he has put on all the materials he has bought, he considers he has done enough and will let Nature take its course. The past two or three weeks has been just the weather for developing spot, and unless the growers continue to put on dust there is going to be a lot of spotted apples and the benefits and expense of the dustings he has put on up to date will, to a large degree, be wasted. "If the grower has been using dust and he does not want to go to much more expense, let him use plain sulphur. This will check the spot and may be the means of him getting hundreds of dollars more for his crop. "At the present time, market conditions do not look any more encouraging than last season, and if a grower wants to get the most out of his fruit he should grow as many No. 1s and 2s as he possibly can, and this can only be done by keeping his apples clean."

Mr. Charles F. DeWitt's horse, Confection, won second money in the 219 class at Chatham last Friday. Taking first in the first heat, second in the second and third in the last two. The race was won by Peter Verde, Benoit, Charlottetown.
A large amount of news, local and from surrounding centres, is unavoidably carried over this issue on account of the unexpected arrival of a big bunch of advertising which had to be inserted in this particular issue of the paper.
Many of our readers will recall an item we published some time ago announcing another visit to Bridgetown by the Rev. Canon Osborne Morse for the first ten days of September. Whilst here he will conduct a series of special services in St. James' Church. We hope to publish the list of his sermon subjects next week.
On Thursday evening, Aug. 23rd, at 7.30, special films will be shown at the Primrose Theatre, followed by films on Nursing under the direction of Miss Mary L. Boswell, Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada. Mothers and daughters especially should not fail to be present to see these pictures and hear Miss Boswell's address on public health. Admission 15c. to all.
The tern schooner Ronald C. Longmire is now in New York loading a cargo of hard coal for J. H. Longmire & Sons.
The town is indebted for efficiency of police regulations during the Byns reception to the cheerful co-operation of Chief of Police Boyd Bishop, of Bridgetown, who personally came here to assist Chief Gilliat in the smooth running of the arrangements.—Spectator.
Blueberries have been quoted locally at 12 cents per quart and supplies coming in have been rather light. This is attributed in some quarters to heavy buying on the spot by dealers who ship their purchases to the cities. A gradually diminishing number of pickers also effects the situation.
Monday's mail from the West was very large, the reason being the arrival of Fall catalogues from mail order houses. This was general along the line. For all this mass of circumstantial data, there are still some business men in the country who maintain that it does not pay to advertise.
