SEVEN KILLED AND FIFTEEN INJURED IN WRECK NEAR MONTREAL

KING ALFONSO'S COURAGE SAVED LIFE WHEN ANARCHIST FIRED A BULLET ON STREET IN MADRID

Man Seized Bridle of King's Horse and Pointed Revolver, Whereupon the Rider Caused the Animal to Rear Violently, Thus Escaping Bullet—Assailant Fired Twice While Struggling With Captors.

MADRID, April 13.—For the third time in his reign, King Alfonso narrowly escaped today being the victim of an anarchist attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king this afternoon in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Allegro, who was immediately overpowered.

King Alfonso owed his life to his own courage, quickness and skilled horsemanship. Accompanied by his staff he was riding along the Calle de Alcala on the way back from the ceremony of swearing in the recruits when a man sprang from the sidewalk and seized the bridle of the king's horse with one hand, pointing a revolver point blank with the other.

The king took to the situation at a glance. With lightning rapidity he dug his spurs into the horse, which reared violently. His quickness saved his life. The bullet, instead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse on the neck, but so close was it that the king's left hand glove was blackened by the powder discharge.

Would-be Assassin Seized.
Before the assailant was able to pull the trigger again a secret service man sprang upon him. The two men fell to the ground locked in each other's arms, struggling furiously. The assassin managed to free his revolver arm and fired two more shots in rapid succession, but the officer knocked his arm aside and the bullets flew harmlessly thru the air.

At the sound of the first shot the king's staff forced their horses on the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought long and fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

King Alfonso, as soon as he saw that the man had been secured, raised himself in the stirrups, turned to the crowd, gave a military salute and shouted in ringing voice: "Long live Spain."

Cheered Wildly.
He then dismounted and reassured his staff, saying: "It is nothing, gentlemen." Then uprose a mighty roar from the wildly enthusiastic crowds, which rolled along in great waves of sound, all the way as the king rode to the palace, collected and smiling.

A spectator, a pensioned royal hatter, pushed forward so impetuously to offer his congratulations to the monarch that he was mistaken for another assassin and arrested. He was released, however, as soon as the mistake was discovered.

A young Frenchman, who was standing beside Allegro, was also arrested, but it does not appear that he was in any way connected with him.

Later the two squares near the palace were black with people desiring of showing their joy at the king's safety and their admiration for his display of bravery. The king went to the balcony and acknowledged the cheers and then sought the queen, and the two stood bowing to the throngs for several minutes.

Don't Want Licenses

The temperance people of Aurora, Newmarket, King, Whitchurch and Richmond Hill will interview Hon. W. J. Hanna on Tuesday at 11 a.m. with a view to preventing licenses in Aurora being granted.

DIRECT CABLES FROM TORONTO TO LONDON

First Message Ever Sent Direct From This City Was Transmitted Yesterday From the Toronto World to Lord Strathcona by Gott-Morse System, a Wonderful Invention.

For the first time in the city's history, Toronto was placed in direct cable connection with the City of London, Eng., at noon yesterday. It was also the first cable connection between London and the Dominion of Canada.

In the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's telegraph operating rooms, in the top floor of the Toronto Board of Trade Building, the first direct cable message from Toronto to London, Eng., was sent out by an operator by means of the ordinary telegraph key. "That message marked the cutting in two of the time heretofore required to get in communication with London. It also inaugurated a system of sending cables which obviates the possibility of error by one half and which allows fully fifty per cent more speed both on the part of the sending and the receiving operator."

The first direct cable message to leave Toronto, which was received less than five minutes later by the operator at London, Eng., was a greeting to Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner, from The Toronto World. The message read: "Lord Strathcona, London: Toronto World sends greetings. Toronto to London direct, over Gott-Morse Cable System, on first test."

W. F. Maclean, M.P., the second message sent out was to the Chamber of Commerce, of the City of London, from F. G. Morley, secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade, and was as follows: "Chamber of Commerce, London. Greetings—Direct wire Toronto-London via Gott-Morse system, via continued on Page 7, Column 3."

HAS PUGSLEY DISCOVERED WAY OUT? OTTAWA HEARS SENSATIONAL RUMOR

OTTAWA, April 13.—(Special.)—Rumors are flying about the effect that the Liberals have discovered a way out of their present apparently hopeless position in the house, and that Hon. William Pugsley will make a stroke in parliamentary tactics tomorrow as startling and successful as the one put over by the government on Wednesday last.

Details are lacking, however, and enquiries of the authorities reveal no clue as to the possible manoeuvre. The government forces are quite confident that their position is impregnable, and that a division will occur early this week, and in no event later than Thursday.

Whatever Mr. Pugsley's plan may be, the rank and file of the opposition are not in the secret, and appear to be frankly divided into warring camps. One section of the party is ready to throw up the sponge and to facilitate the immediate passage of the naval bill thru both houses of parliament. The other section, apparently in the minority, favor creating a violent scene of disorder in the house which will attract attention in Canada and England alike and strengthen the hands of the senate.

It is pointed out by some observers that the closure debate has been carried out in the main by back benchers, and that the leading Liberals have taken no part. Mr. Pugsley has been absent almost continually from the chamber and has devoted himself to a close study of the parliamentary authorities, with what result will be known perhaps tomorrow, and certainly before a vote is reached.

GARFIELD TILL ELECTROCUTED

Toronto Man Was Killed Instantly at Oakville When He Touched a Live Wire.

Garfield Till of Toronto was instantly killed at Oakville yesterday morning in the cellar of the Murray House. He had gone down to fix a water pipe which was leaking, and in some way which is not yet explained, was electrocuted by an ordinary electric lamp. His body was discovered by his brother, Lewis Till, the proprietor of the hotel, whose suspicions were aroused by the fumes of burning in the house.

The cellar was full of smoke and Garfield Till was lying face down on the floor, with the lamp clamped to his breast.

He was a son of Edward Till of the Toronto Freight Association, and left the city last Wednesday to visit Oakville for a few days previous to going to his farm in North Ontario, where he owns a quarter section.

He leaves a widow and three children, two boys and a girl, the eldest being only seven years old. He married Miss Mary Phillips, a daughter of Thomas Phillips, hardware merchant, Orillia.

Pending the inquest the remains have been left at home, but all necessary arrangements have been made for the funeral, which will take place at the Necropolis, Toronto, from the father's house, at 235 Crawford street, Toronto.

Engine Jumped Tracks Near Montreal Suburb and the Coaches Immediately Behind Smashed, Causing Terrible Loss of Life and Injuries—Victims Had Visited Real Estate Subdivisions.

MONTREAL, April 13.—(Can. Press.)—Seven persons are dead and fifteen injured as the result of the derailment of an excursion train this afternoon on the Montreal-Chemby branch of the Central Vermont Railway, about five miles from St. Lambert. The train was carrying about 700 passengers who had taken advantage of the free trip given by Cottrell, Limited, real estate agents, to prospective purchasers of lots at Albany subdivision and was returning to Montreal at a speed of about 25 miles an hour when the engine and the three and four coaches left the rails near the Sunlight city subdivision, near East Green field station. The engine was running tender first. When the derailment occurred the tender jumped to the right side of the track, turning bottom up, while the engine went to the left, falling on its side. The engineer and fireman were both thrown from the cab, the fireman receiving injuries from which he died soon after, while the engineer escaped with some painful bruises.

Three Coaches Telescoped.
The three coaches which were derailed remained upright on their trucks, but the telescoping of their ends caused most of the fatalities. The first coach rested across the track from right angles, the second being superimposed upon the overturned engine. The second coach stood in an oblique angle across the track, its front end jammed into the rear of the forward coach, while the third coach, to the left of and parallel to the track, was wedged into the side of the second coach, near its rear.

The passengers of the first and second cars were the worst sufferers. The deaths, except that of the fireman, and most of the injuries, occurred in these two cars. These cars were crowded to their full capacity, many persons standing on the platform. Steam from the engine, which filled the coaches and added to the horror and confusion of the surviving passengers and impeded them in their efforts to escape.

The occupants of the four coaches, which remained on the rails, quickly made their way out, and a number of them hastened to extricate the dead and injured from the wreckage. Their efforts were fruitless in the case of some of the victims, whose bodies were so firmly wedged in the shattered remains of the coaches that they were only released after hours of work by the wrecking crew. Between the first and second coaches two bodies were crushed, one being that of little Maggie Deer, aged 10, an dthe other that of an unidentified man. They had not been released at midnight. A heartrending incident was the presence of the child's mother, herself badly shaken by the accident, who begged the rescuers to release her child.

Terrible Injuries.
Another man, Rochon by name, was pinned under a truck and although almost disembowelled, lived for several hours in an unconscious condition while efforts were made to effect his release.

The accident occurred about 5:20 p.m., and it was over an hour later before the wrecking crew arrived with the appliances necessary for effective rescue work, and it was midnight before the relief train reached Montreal. Officials of the road put a strict cordon about all information, making the identification difficult.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by spreading rails.

PAPAL BULLETIN THO HIS PHYSICIAN'S BULLETIN IS "CONDITION SATISFACTORY"

Great Alarm Caused by a Severe Fit of Coughing With Blood Expectorations—Dr. Marchiafava Says It Is Probable That the Pope's Robust Constitution Will Enable Him to Survive This Difficulty.

Special Cable to The World.
ROME, April 14.—At midnight the Pope's temperature was rising. It was feared he had developed pneumonia. An hour or two earlier a severe fit of coughing with blood expectorations. The Pope's confessor entered his room and remained forty-five minutes.

Prof. Marchiafava, the principal physician of Pius X., said to The World correspondent tonight: "I can assure you that, at least for the moment, the state of the pontiff's health, although it is serious, does not fully justify the alarm that it has occasioned. The seriousness of the case depends not upon the character of the illness, which is following a normal course, so much as the patient's advanced age and the continuing of the local symptoms, although they are not acute. There is no question yet of lung disease, although in cases of bronchial catarrh the lungs may suffer. But it is probable that the Pope's robust constitution will enable him to survive this difficulty."

Ground for Hope.
"Of one thing I can assure you, and that is the fact gives good ground for hope. There is no trace of albumen."

The Pope's two physicians issued the following bulletin at 9 p.m., and decided to issue no other tonight unless there should be change for the worse: "The day passed off tranquilly, but in the afternoon the fever rose to 101, but tonight it is already decreasing. The tracheal bronchial systems are unchanged. The general condition has always been satisfactory." Signed Marchiafava, Amiel.

The Pope was tranquil at 10:25 a.m. This bulletin was issued at night. This morning the fever had diminished to a little under 100 degrees. The tracheal bronchial systems persist with prevalence on the left side. The kidneys are in good order and the general condition is satisfactory."

The De Wet of Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—(Can. Press.)—David Pasha, formerly Turkish commander at Uskup, continues to be a thorn in the side of the Servian army in Macedonia. He is now reported to have captured Avlona, imprisoned the members of the council and hoisted the Turkish flag.

MADE ATTEMPT TO BURN SCHOOL

Militants Spurred to Fresh Efforts by Firebrand Utterances—Paraded Around Holloway Jail.

LONDON, April 12.—(Can. Press.)—The inflammatory speech made by George Lansbury, a former member of the house of commons, at the suffragette meeting at Albert Hall, Thursday night, urging the militants to continue their campaign of incendiarism and show no regard for property of any kind, has borne fruit. An attempt was made today to burn down the Shipcote Council Schools at Gateshead. Thru a window of a rear building the incendiaries gained access to the room in which carpentry is taught. After drenching the place with kerosene, they set it afire. The outbreak was discovered early, which enabled the firemen to prevent the flames from spreading to the other class rooms.

Evidence that the perpetrators were suffragettes was afforded by labels scattered about the premises, inscribed: "We burn to get votes for women"; "For the damages done sue Asquith"; "You cannot stop us by the cat and mouse bill."

Several hundred militants, many of them wearing black banners, marched in procession this evening, accompanied by two brass bands to Holloway jail, where fourteen suffragettes are said to be on hunger strike.

Serenaded Suffering Sisters.
They circled the jail twice, singing the "March of the Women." They gave three lusty cheers for their imprisoned comrades before starting on the return. The object of the demonstration was to encourage the hunger strikers to resist all temptations to surrender to the pangs of hunger and the discomfort of forcible feeding.

The suffragettes continue to harass the cabinet ministers whenever they get a chance. Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, who attended a meeting today, was serenaded by Miss Nancy Lightman, a prominent militant. When the curtain fell she addressed the secretary in a loud voice, saying: "How can you, as an honorable man, continue as a member of this despicable government which breaks its pledges to the women? We will soon show you that the cat-and-mouse bill is utterly useless."

Some of the audience blessed, but many women cried "Bravo."

SAD HOTELMAN PAID FOR VOTES

EXETER, Ont., April 12.—(Can. Press.)—Ezra Bremner, hotelkeeper at Grand Bend, was committed for trial by Magistrates Saunders and Moir here today on a charge of bribery in connection with the local option vote in Stephen Township last January. Joseph Bremner, his father, was similarly charged, but his case was dismissed. County Crown Attorney Seager of Goderich conducted the case, while F. W. Gladman of Exeter watched the interests of the temperance people. The case, in which a hearing has several times been postponed, caused keen interest, and the courtroom was crowded. Rev. S. S. Sharpe, Rev. E. G. Powell and G. H. McAllister of Exeter being present.

Nelson Jesjardine, one of the witnesses, swore that Ezra Bremner gave him one dollar to vote against local option. The next day Constable Down came to the house and the money was turned over to him, together with the information regarding its receipt. Bremner came back again the following Saturday, and Jesjardine told him what he had done with the money.

A. H. Dixon, counsel for Bremner, tried to break the evidence of Constable Down, who corroborated the testimony of Jesjardine, that he had received the dollar from Jesjardine after its receipt from Bremner.

HE VIEWS WITH ALARM

POWERS ANSWER NOTE OF ALLEGES

SOFIA, April 13.—(Can. Press.)—The representative of the powers to-day handed to Premier Guechoff their reply to the last note of the allies regarding the proposals for mediation in the war with Turkey. M. Guechoff promised to confer with the representatives of the allies and obtain their views on the note. The reply of the powers is as follows: "The powers note with satisfaction the disposition of the allies in favor of peace, and make reply in the following manner to the points raised by the allies' note: To the first point, Bulgaria's demand regarding the Turco-Bulgarian frontier, no objections are raised. On the second point the powers point out that the fate of the Aegean Islands, having been reserved for the consideration of the powers, this point can only be admitted subject to decisions arrived at regarding certain of the islands.

On the third point, the powers inform the allies that they are ready to communicate to them at once the north and northeastern frontier of Albania, and that the southeastern point south frontier will be communicated to the allies as soon as it is determined. On the fourth point, the powers state that the solution of all questions of a financial character having been reserved for a technical commission in Paris, in which delegates of the belligerents shall take part, they do not see any reason for giving their views at present on the question of indemnity."

IRREGULARITIES ARE DISCOVERED

Bank of England Securities Worth Thousands Missing From Strong Rooms, Says London Newspaper.

Special Cable to The World.
LONDON, April 13.—(Copyright.)—The News of the World said on Sunday that a grave sensation has been caused in London owing to irregularities being discovered in the Bank of England's securities to the value of many thousands of pounds are missing from strong rooms, it asserts.

Rumor was floated four or five days ago when an advertisement appeared in The Times cautioning bankers, brokers and others against dealing in certain bonds, described as "lost or stolen." The face value of these bonds was stated to be $17,500, but the rumors says the losses of the Bank of England are not confined to these securities alone, running well into five figures. The last Bank of England scandal occurred in 1894, when the chief cashier named May, was forced to resign owing to huge irregularities. The bank was said to have $1,250,000 to meet contingencies.

ANOTHER ADDED TO LONG LIST

Toronto theatregoers have been fortunate in seeing so many really good plays this season, but it is doubtful if one has been presented that will meet with as universal favor as "Disraeli," which will be given by that sterling actor George Arliss, at the Princess Theatre this week.

LONDON'S SOCIETY WAS ASTONISHED

Queen Mary Has Adopted New Role of Broadmindedness BY INVITING AMERICANS Has Proved Her Fondness For the Duchess of Marlborough.

Special Cable to The World. LONDON, April 12.—The American women are some of the most sensible in London, King George remarked lately. Some people believe that Queen Mary is cultivating Americans so as to learn of their ways and to rid herself of her appalling shyness of manner. That she has improved every one admires.

The Queen is astonishing society in her new role of broadmindedness. Evidently she is determined to dispel the rumors current in the early months of her husband's reign as to the limited circle she would have around her. The invitation sent to Mrs. George Keppel is still talked of everywhere. Many pious people were shocked that such an invitation should be sent. Others applaud her. The Queen appears not a bit concerned about either opinion. She has always liked Mrs. Keppel, who is living quietly with her husband, and that is enough for Her Majesty. At the small dance at the palace, the Queen was especially gracious to Mrs. Keppel. In the brief intervals when not dancing, she picked her out for a chat, and in an informal manner asked her, Mrs. Keppel said the Duchess of Marlborough to join the royal supper party, which was set at two tables in one of the smaller rooms. Society is wondering what will happen next.

Admires Duchess of Marlborough. Another mark of favor was bestowed upon an American Duchess whose position in the royal circle had been doubtful for years—the Duchess of Marlborough. The present King and Queen have never had that extraordinary infatuation for the Churchill family which swayed King Edward. Queen Alexandra always sided with the Duchess, and now Queen Mary, seeing that the Duke and Duchess cannot be drawn together, has openly shown whose side she has always taken.

The Queen is an ardent suffragette (the diffusing the militants), and an admirer of the Duchess's many charities. The Queen knows the east end well, and in early days often made excursions at midnight under the sole guidance of the bishop of London. She has seen some of the families who are permanently helped by the Duchess and some time ago wrote her expressing her satisfaction. Several times the Duchess has privately visited the Queen at the palace and the two ladies have combined to further private charities in a thoroughly practical manner. She Was a Militant. At the last of the "at homes" given by Mrs. Lewis Harcourt, at Berkeley Square, she was going down to tea when a young and pretty woman, who was shaking hands with the hostess, who extended her hand before she realized that the lady was unknown to her. "I am a militant," the visitor said, "but don't be alarmed, I merely came to tell you that those two poor men who have been guarding your windows day and night may have a rest. My friends and I have passed and repassed your door hundreds of times and could have smashed every window within reach had we wished. I am sorry to have intruded." Then the suffragette ran lightly downstairs. Lady Paget is expected back in town from the Riviera soon and before she goes to Ireland will give a big dinner party and music as a temporary farewell until after the high season. Her daughter Lady Ralph Paget does not figure at her mother's entertainments. Lady Ralph Paget has been in very delicate health for the past year or more and is now taking a rest cure at a house on the north side of Hyde Park, where the Duke of Devonshire and Lady Paget—the bearer of one of the very oldest of English titles—looks for a consideration women and girls for weeks been in strict retirement not allowed to read or write, and she is much stronger for the rest.

Mrs. Almeric Paget has been a martyr to nerves for the past three or four years. She has now taken a new lease of life and after her arrival on the Riviera, she has regained her looks and health. She will return to London and give a big fancy dress dinner. She hopes her sister, Mrs. Willard Straight, will be over with her at that time. Mrs. Charles Schwab is giving a series of dinner parties. She entertained a very fine luncheon just before Easter, at which the Countess of Essex, Lady Sackville, Mrs. Grenville, the Duke of Manchester and Lady Acheson were among the guests.

Special Cable to The World. LONDON, April 13.—(Copyright.)—The futurists' pop note was struck by Signor Gino Severini, in a series of scrutable canvases now being exhibited in the Marlborough gallery here. Severini's trouble is that he sees everything in the abstract, and his abstract portraits of Parisian beauties resemble nothing earthly, being devoid of form or meaning. In some cases his cubist imaginings are rendered still more unintelligible by sticking on spangles to indicate that the puzzle is intended to convey an abstract idea of a Spanish dancer. His conception of the motor bus is like what a man in the last stages of delirium tremens might be supposed to find it. His own description of it is: "It has been my endeavor to produce by means of lines and planes, the rhythmic sensation of speed, spasmodic motion and deafening noise. The houses enter the motor bus, the motor bus enters the houses." The futurists' joke is now regarded as played out.

FREE SUGAR NOT FOR FREE LIST

Democratic Caucus by Overwhelming Majority Against Immediate Action. A THREE-YEAR RESPITE Exact Date When Duty Will Be Dropped Is Left Open.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(Can. Press.)—Immediate free sugar was rejected today by the house Democratic caucus by an overwhelming vote, following an appeal of the Democratic leaders to stand by the president and the ways and means committee. This leaves the sugar schedule unchanged from the compromise form in which it was presented to the caucus by Chairman Underwood and his colleagues of the committee, following conferences between the White House and leaders of both houses.

The Democratic members of the committee, including such free traders as Representatives Harrison of New York, and Rainey of Illinois stood as a unit for the three year gradual reduction to a free sugar basis. Besides this action, the caucus left open the exact date when sugar would go on the free list in 1916. The amendment prepared by Representative Hardwick of Georgia, proposed that the time it should take effect should be May 1916, so as to be effective before the beginning of the canning season. The caucus agreed to leave the matter to be brought up by the ways and means committee after all the rest of the tariff bill has been disposed of in caucus.

The overture of the immediate free sugar movement came at the close of a day of arguments and the amendment proposing that sugar should become free with the operation of the new tariff law was made by representative Hardwick. It precipitated the real fight of the day and was lost by a vote of 155 to 39. The agricultural schedule comes up on Monday and fights are expected on the flour and citrus fruit items. "HEAVENS, WHAT A LIFE!"—PROF. LAW

Such Was His Disgusted Comment About Bridge Players. DO NOT SERVE OTHERS Able Sermon at Convocation Hall on Christ's Ideal of Service.

Prof. Law of Knox College, in the course of an able sermon at Convocation Hall yesterday morning, declared his faith in the advent of a real, living Christianity throughout the world in which all men shall meekly serve their fellows. "What the world sincerely needs," he said, "is that we should accept Christ's ideal of service—the principle of the One who came not to be ministered unto but to minister. The day of this is far off perhaps, but it's coming. I see it coming."

Prof. Law's sermon was on the subject of service. He found his text in Acts xiii, 36. "For David after he had served his own generation by the will of God fell asleep and was laid unto his fathers and saw corruption." True service, he said, was philanthropic or religious work. The vastest philanthropic work on earth and the only permanent one was the everyday work of life, of routine business in which there is a perpetual exchange of services. The millennium in which Prof. Law believes will see every man in business the embodiment of unselfishness and respect for his competitor's interests. "When the average business man works every day with diligence, faithfulness, honesty and unselfishness in his calling he will be leading that life of service according to Christ's ideal," said the preacher.

Mutual Service. Every idea in the universe suggests service. From the divine life which was one of incessant servitude to humanity is the arduous duty of the existence of the smallest and lowest animals, "even as the busy bee," there is the principle of energy expended to a purpose. The basis of all society is the necessity for mutual service, and society properly directed may lead to the fulfillment of the prayer, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." And history, among its many uses, has the one of bringing to our favorable attention the crowns of reward that have fallen on the heads of the unselfish servants of mankind, and teaching us by example the just fates that have similarly been meted out to the worldly and avaricious. "Why is a mother queen in the home?" he asked. "It is because her whole life and being is filled with devoted service. For this reason, too, a king like David attracts the love of all his people."

Christ taught us there was a way of making people subservient to one's purposes. It was not the world's way of climbing up to lord over them, but Christ's way, that of falling down and serving them. "When the prime ideal of life, service of mankind, and the existence decays at the centre, the speaker continued. Then it corrupts and is corrupted. Here Prof. Law took occasion to denounce the habits of a large proportion of the people today—those with time to use, who use it in sport, bridge parties and all forms of self-indulgence. "Heavens, what a life!" was his disgusted comment. Our Opportunities. Here and now we have an age of unique opportunities to serve others and thereby serve God. It has been said that this is an age of averageness and of average men. Granting them this, Prof. Law said it was an age of unparalleled opportunities for the average man. It is a time when all may serve and win.

The preacher caused a ripple of laughter to burst forth over his vast congregation when he complained that they were endeavoring to win diplomas and degrees by the very minimum of time and effort. The truth of the statement struck a good many in a humorous way. Yesterday's service was the last for the present university year. On April 23, however, Victoria College graduating class will hear their baccalaureate sermon in Convocation Hall. Prof. Jackson will be the preacher, and as this will be his last sermon to Canadians before leaving for England, it is expected that a record attendance will mark the event.

PREMIER OF JAPAN BELIEVES U. S. FAIR But Tokio Papers Denounce What They Consider Breach of Treaty.

TOKIO, April 12.—(Can. Press.)—The Japanese premier told a deputation of the Conservative party which called upon him that he trusted implicitly the high sense of justice and fairness of Americans, while Baron Nobuaki Makino, the foreign minister, spoke to them in the same strain. The newspapers here declare that the proposed California legislation is just as much a breach of treaty as the Panama Canal bill, while the foreign press retorts that it is an object lesson for Japan in reciprocity since foreigners are not allowed to own land in Japan in spite of the law passed by the diet in 1910, which has never yet been promulgated.

HERE'S THE BIGGEST DEFECT IN MOST TIRES OF TO-DAY: LOOSENING OF THE TREAD. Dunlop Traction Tread Straight Side. All other made-in-Canada anti-skid tires, except Dunlop Traction Tread, are manufactured by the old method—the tread is simply a strip of rubber stuck on the tire proper. Naturally, in service, the stuck-on piece soon wears loose. Some tire users don't know what's going on in their tires until one day they find "loosening of the tread." Our Patented Tire, Most Envied Tire in all America. Unless your anti-skid is Dunlop Traction Tread you have a stuck-on-tread tire. We control the only successful way to make a built-in tread tire. That's why Dunlop Traction Tread is the most envied tire in all America. Thousands of motorists say: "Dunlop Straight Side, with or without Traction Tread, is the one tire which never did rim-cut." Dunlop Straight Side Tires have larger air capacity than any other tires made-in-Canada. Largest Tires in Canada. Never Did Rim-Cut. The Dunlop line consists of Tires for Automobile, Motor Truck, Motorcycle, Bicycle and Carriage, Rubber Belting, Packing, Hose, Heels, Mats, Tiling and General Rubber Specialties.

TRIBESMEN PRESS AMERICAN TROOPS Town of Jolo Under Siege For Nearly Three Months. MOROS HURL INSULTS "Come Out, You Cursed American Pigs," Their Cordial Invitation.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—(Can. Press.)—Manila papers received here today tell of the Moro siege of the town of Jolo, continued since the latter part of January, and say that 30 American soldiers are in the hospital there, 17 of them seriously wounded. The papers say a strict censorship is being maintained and it is difficult to obtain accurate information regarding conditions on the island. An American civilian brought information that women in Manila were fighting. He said officers and men were chafing under inaction, and they were not permitted to return the Moro fire. A one-sided battle was fought on the night of Feb. 25, more than 1000 shots being fired into the town by the tribesmen, he said, according to the paper. Four American soldiers were wounded, none of them seriously. "Come out, you cursed American pigs: come out and fight us like men, or we will make you swim the Zamboanga," was the taunt of the Moros, who came within easy talking distance of the walls and barred wire entanglements.

Weakening Under Strain. "In spite of the number of men within the walls, guard duty is so severe that all men are on duty every other night, and the strain is rapidly telling on them. The cordon of stone houses which encircle the town at a distance of half a mile, and which were formerly held by American troops, have been given up and are now occupied by Moros. "The burning of the crops and houses of friendly Moros goes on, the friendliest being either killed or forced to join the hostiles. "The cable office is strictly censored, as is the postoffice, and it is now impossible for even a civilian to send a message upon business matters. "To make matters more serious, the trouble has spread to the surrounding islands, and marauding bands are burning and killing on Zamboanga, Tawtaw, Dongao and Siasi."

NEW HOSPITAL WING IS OPENED AT BERLIN Lieutenant-Governor Gibson Presided at Interesting Ceremony on Saturday.

BERLIN, April 12.—(Special.)—The new wing of the Berlin and Waterloo hospital, costing $50,000, was formally opened this afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor Sir John M. Gibson of Toronto, who nineteen years ago as provincial secretary, laid the corner stone of the hospital building, which with the hospital property is today valued at $180,000. The new wing is equipped with the most modern appliances known. Mayor Buler extended a cordial welcome to the distinguished visitor and Mayor Fischer of Waterloo added words of welcome. Warden Cassel of New Hamburg spoke briefly, eulogizing the good work being done and Chairman Diehl of the building committee gave some statistics on hospital work. Dr. Honsberger, on behalf of the local medical fraternity, eulogized the hospital board and staff, and Rev. J. E. Mihm added his blessing to the work on behalf of the ministerial association.

The lieutenant-governor said he had observed the wonderful growth of Berlin in fifty years ago as he had very recently become a citizen of Berlin, having applied for the position of headmaster at the high school. He highly commended the hospital trust on the splendid improvements. Hospitals were for the benefit of mankind and contributing to their progress was doing something for humanity. It was the duty of every body to show a kindly disposition to one another. He concluded an interesting address by formally declaring the new wing of the hospital opened. The singing of national anthem brought a very delightful afternoon to a close. BRANTFORD SELLS DEBENTURES BRANTFORD, April 12.—(Special.)—Brantford has just disposed of city debentures amounting to $250,000, and while the price realized is considerably less than a few months ago, the sale is considered a satisfactory one.

CROWN PRINCE IS A GOOD FELLOW Had Camera Fiend Who "Annoyed" Him Released From Jail.

Special Cable to The World. BRUSSELS, April 13.—(Copyright.)—The German Crown Prince's goodnature and disposition to make himself agreeable was illustrated by an incident that has just occurred. He read in his morning newspaper that a Brussels camera fiend had been sent to prison the previous day for "earning his living in a railway station, the property of the state, and annoying the German Crown Prince by snaphotting him on the solemn occasion of his arrival for the funeral of the king's mother, the Countess of Flanders." Immediately the future emperor telegraphed to the Belgian minister of justice that he remembered the circumstance well, that it does not annoy him in the least to be photographed, in fact, he likes it, and that if he had would have given evidence on the commission in his favor. On receipt of this message the photographer was released and sent the prince an effusive letter of thanks, accompanied by a beautifully mounted copy of the photograph which got him into trouble.

Progress on the New C. P. R. Line From Agincourt to Smith's Falls

THE NEW C.P.R. STEEL BRIDGE OVER WILCOT'S CREEK (LITTLE ROUGE) IN SCARBORO, THE WHERE THE NEW LAKE-FRONT LINE OF THE CANADIAN PACIFIC BREAKS AWAY FROM THE MAIN LINE AT AGINCOURT TO GO TO WHITBY, ETC.

AGINCOURT, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Belleville, Trenton, etc., will all have a new artery for thru freight and rapid transit by December, when the new C. P. R. line from Agincourt to Smith's Falls is in operation and the road has been widened and double-tracked from Agincourt to Toronto.

All along the line at present the route of the new road is alive with graders, pile-drivers, steam shovels, and bridge builders, working against time to have the work finished by the fall.

only be done from Agincourt to Toronto, the new additional single track to Smith's Falls is sufficiently near the existing line to make practically a double track, with added advantages. The grades on the present main line are so heavy that an ordinary locomotive can only haul 30 cars, but on the new line under construction the same engine will be able to haul 60, as the grades are slight. This saving in energy and the fact that the new line is about 12 miles shorter for thru traffic, will be an enormous saving to the company, probably $500,000 per annum.

A world reporter spent an interesting day last week along the route of the new line. He was accompanied by The World's staff photographer.

engineer in charge of the work from Toronto to Oshawa. "I don't know that there's anything to tell," he said. "We're building a railroad. That's all there is to it."

This was as it should be from a man of facts and figures. "Just building a railroad," quite a simple matter for the initiated, but judicious questioning elicited a few unusual features in connection with the new line. In the 34 miles from Toronto to Oshawa there are 30 bridges spanning rivers and creeks on the route, which have entailed some very big fills and big abutments, the biggest one being the bridge at Dixie, which is 915 feet long and 55 feet high. The work is quite an undertaking in the time allowed owing to the heavy clay soil and the number of fills required.

With regard to the Agincourt-Toronto section, Mr. Charles said that the survey had just been started and that the actual work of widening all the embankments and the two Don bridges will begin in about a month.

Our lives and mine wouldn't be safe on the railroad if we weren't doing this," said Charles. "If the bark isn't taken off the tie, it would scale off a piece when the tie is in the roadbed and make the track loose and shaky."

"The most of these are hemlock, but it's a cinch when we strike a tamarack log. We can pass it up without doing anything to it. That's the pie in our business, but it doesn't come along very often."

"You are newspaper chaps, aren't you?" he ventured, after "Mac" had snapped them at work. "If you want to run up the line, we'll lend you our handcar."

No Traffic Yet. "No handcar for me, said 'Mac.' 'Suppose we meet a train, 'No fear of that,' was the reply. 'There's no traffic on the line yet.' 'Has it got a brake?' asked the reporter. 'You'll not need a brake,' said Charles, 'Just keep pumping,' she said, 'There's the key.' 'Good business to spin up the line and see everything.' We found the car 'beyond' the siding and after ten minutes' struggle with a very oily chain, we got it. 'Mac' shoved off, but he didn't reckon on the handle of that handcar. It came down as he jumped up, squashed west his Christie.

'Keep pumping.' We did. We pumped ourselves out in the neighborhood of Malvern, where we struck the construction camp. It was deserted, all the men were further up the line. The way was blocked by a long line of sleeping cars. Not the Pullman type, it's true, but fairly comfortable quarters with a good stove, where Pietro and Antonio speak freely to one another and more to their hearts' content.

'That line of cars meant a portage if we were going further up. Anyone who had seen us once and knew anything would handcars wouldn't expect that.' It was easier going back. The wind had a good deal to do with it, but there's no doubt that the handcar was well named. It certainly is a handcar.

At the Rouge. Later in the day we saw the work in progress on the bridge over the river Rouge, and got a very convincing view of the dangerous side of railroad construction when a big timber broke away from the men who were handling it. Those below had to step lively to get out of the way in time.

'By December at the latest,' says Mr. Charles, 'the work will be completed.' After that fast passenger flyers and thru freight trains will be sweeping over the new lines every hour, and the army of laborers and bridgebuilders will be tying more ties together in some other part of the Dominion.

Many Inquirers.
Today was cold and stormy and, although the Pope's life was supposed to be hanging in the balance, there was little outward sign of anything unusual. Few people were out of doors because of the exceptional weather, and the great square around St. Peter's was almost deserted tonight, save for a few carriages which drove at intervals through the bronze doors of the Vatican, with inquirers. Yet one question has been in everybody's mouth at all hours, and hope and fear alternated as reports, more or less unauthorized, circulated indicating changes for the better or for the worse.
A Sudden Change.
It was not until after midday Saturday that the sudden change for the worse was noticed. The Pope was suddenly seized with a trembling fit. Dr. Amici, who was called in haste, found the pulse 98 and the temperature 102. He summoned Marchiaviva, who diagnosed the case as a sudden relapse. All idea of receiving pilgrims was immediately abandoned, and after consultation with Dr. Amici, Prof. Marchiaviva decided to issue a bulletin announcing the reappearance of fever and an increase of the broncho-catharrhal trouble.
Great Alarm.
Although the fever receded last evening, the Pope's condition throughout the Vatican, where an all night watch was kept.
The chief of police of the S. Peter's neighborhood of the square were open all night and crowds of people awaited news.
During the early hours of Sunday morning a woman in black, accompanied by a young and an elderly man, drove to the bronze doors in a carriage, talked with the Swiss guards and then left, weeping.
Sisters on Hand.
Dr. Amici passed the night at the patient's bedside. The Pope's sisters were in an adjoining apartment, which had been the result of the devotion of men from the laws of Christianity and the loving kindness of Christ. The great remedy was a return to the truth, a re-throwing of the light of the world. When men turned from their worldly materialism and followed God's rules, then the clouds of social discontent would melt away and there would be peace. Social reform and reforms, politics and politicians, and the earnest endeavors of Christian men and women to improve the troubled world were dwelt upon and added interest to a thoughtful sermon. A large congregation listened, deeply interested.

LABOR AND CHURCH SHOULD JOIN HANDS
Rev. J. A. Rankin Preached Eloquent Sermon on Social Discontent.
At St. Paul's Methodist Church, Avenue road, last night, the pastor, Rev. J. A. Rankin, speaking from the viewpoint of a Christian philosopher, discussed the relations between the workman and the church, two great things of the modern world which are separated and starting at each other across a deep and wide sea of misunderstanding. "Thank God," exclaimed the eloquent preacher, referring to the unwillingness of the workman to come to church, "Thank God that, although a great number of these men do not come to church themselves, they send their children to our Sunday schools."
The title which the brilliant preacher gave to his sermon was "The Church and Social Discontent." As a scientist, shown a single bone from a long extinct creature, might be able to tell correctly the name and species of the animal, so might a man of ordinary gift gain a fair idea of Rev. Mr. Rankin's sermon from its title.
A Great Alliance.
"Of all alliances," said the preacher, "the alliance which would be most productive of good in this modern day would be an alliance between the forces of labor and the church." The pastor subjected the social discontent which troubles civilization to analysis and the materialism of the present to gentle criticism. The tendency of today, he said, was to regard God and the church of God with indifference, and to regard the materialism of the modern drift as away from Christ, and it was the great duty of the church to check this current and deflect it into the true channel which leads toward the Rock of Ages. This could be achieved only by teaching the true Christian ethics to children and young people, and moving the plastic clay of their youthful minds. "For," said the pulpit orator, "when a man has reached 35 very little can be done with him."
The speaker sketched a picture in dark, gloomy of the evil conditions

HOW TO BRING ALL PASSENGER TRAFFIC UPTOWN

TEN MILLION DOLLAR TERMINAL BETWEEN YONGE AND AVENUE RD. FOR ALL THE PASSENGER TRAFFIC

The Toronto World's Proposal to Centralize All the Railway Passenger Traffic in the North End of the City Would Leave a Central Esplanade on the Bay Front Without Any Tracks—Such an Uptown Passenger Terminal Means Saving of Thousands and Thousands of Dollars in Time, Distance and Cost of Operation.

Now that the question of a new union station on the city front, with an elevated viaduct leading thereto, is up in the air, The World takes the opportunity of suggesting a better solution of Greater Toronto's most pressing problem.

If the railways were to spend millions on such an elevated viaduct and new union station on the front, it would be at best a temporary measure! If this be true, is there a better scheme which would be a final settlement and make Toronto for all time the best laid-out railway city in Canada? The World presents such a new scheme; the map herewith has been specially prepared for that purpose.

Our proposal is to move all the passenger business of Toronto up town, along the present line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which crosses Yonge street north of Bloor street, with a great big new terminal station on the south of this line between Avenue road and Yonge. This line across the north portion of the city to be elevated and to carry at least six tracks; in substance, an enlargement of the viaduct scheme that is now being carried out; but instead of the station being just east of Yonge street, to be on the west side and nearer Avenue road, as shown on the map.

This scheme involves the abandonment of the Esplanade for all passenger trains, and the union station at present there, and of taking up all the railway tracks between York street and, say, Jarvis street, giving the whole of that space as an unimpeded approach to the water front, wharves, steamboats and ferries on the present natural level. The tracks at present west of York street would be used as a great big common freight terminal, and a similar terminal would be located east of Jarvis street, extending to the Don.

All the railway entrances to the city fit into this scheme with the one possible exception of the Grand Trunk's Hamilton line, which crosses the Humber at its mouth and comes along the city front to the old union station. Instead of following this line it would take the Canadian Pacific's cut-off east of Long Branch, and by it north to Lambton, thru Lambton and West Toronto to an Avenue road terminal of the most modern design. This would somewhat lengthen this one entrance to Toronto, but what was lost here would be made up in shortening the journey east, and would mean immense savings for all the other lines of the Grand Trunk: its lines to Detroit and North Bay; also the Pacific's main line to the west and to the north; and would let the Grand Trunk to the east out on a much shorter mileage. It would also let the Canadian Northern get east, west, northwest and northeast without any loss; and it would save all these lines the enormous cost of dropping down at least 140 feet to the present bay front level, and immediately climbing that same height every time a train goes out. It is this drop and this climb that makes the delay in all trains going into Toronto and going out. It still has a further paramount value, that the line proposed will in less than five years be in the very centre of population in Toronto from the Humber on the west to Leaside on the east.

Let us get down to further details. We suggest that (1) the Dominion Government (and the Dominion Government is providing a six-million terminal for Halifax), (2) the City of Toronto, and these two in conjunction with the three big railways, should get together and form one Toronto terminal proposition, extending from the Humber or some distance beyond the Humber, and as far east as Scarborough Junction. Every piece of track and every siding in that district to be made common to this terminal proposition, and every road to have equal rights thereover; each road to assume its proportion of the cost of clearing off all separate rights, and of putting in additional work necessary to the realization of the scheme.

It would involve a terminal station costing from ten to fifteen millions, but anyone who can appreciate now the growth of Toronto, and who sees what has been done in New York, what is proposed in Chicago, what has been done in Kansas City, in Washington, will at once admit that this is not an extravagant idea; because if the thing is made right now it will be right for all time; and it will cost less now than at any other time; and will from the start be at least as cheap as the proposed patchwork now held up for further consideration at Ottawa.

The World is further assured that the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern are both willing to enter into a proposition of this kind; the one uncertain factor is the Grand Trunk. We are confident that the city and the Dominion Government would be willing partners to the proposal that we outline. Of course, our proposal is on general lines and tentative, and could be adjusted in any direction which would best attain the object in view.

If you look at the map you will see that from near Islington, in Etobicoke, the three lines would cross the city on this northern viaduct, they would all discharge their passengers at the new terminal station (at the head of the Ter-aulay street tube), and would proceed along the same tracks thru Leaside Junction and over the new bridge that the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific are now planning across the West Don. At a point indicated in the map as Duffy's Junction, the consolidated line would take the new cut-off line of the Canadian Northern, and by it proceed due east and across the main Don on the proposed new bridge shown in the map, and then on farther to what is called Walton Junction, in Scarborough. Here the Grand Trunk would leave the joint trackage, and with a new cut-off of three-quarters of a mile it would run to its own main line, just east of Scarborough Junction, where the elevation is 300 feet above the lake level; then it would proceed east along its present line, making a much shorter cut than the present route by the bay front, and saving all the Grand Trunk trains east and west a 140-foot climb on every train.

From where the Grand Trunk breaks off at Walton Junction to go on to its own line, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern would still keep together and go along the Canadian Northern's line to just beyond Cherrywood, where the Canadian Pacific takes a short made, the more interviews we have had with the railway companies (with the exception of the Grand Trunk), the more are we convinced that it is the right thing for Toronto, and it is easier to find twenty-five or thirty-five millions of dollars for this proposal than it is to find ten millions of dollars that a cheaper proposal like the viaduct and Union Station at the front would entail.

We cannot have the new Grand Central Depot of New York: but we ought to seek to approach it in Toronto. The twentieth century railway terminal is a new thing—as far ahead of that of last century as the motor car is of the farmers' lumber wagon. Is it to be the lumber wagon or the motor car?

AMERICAN NAVAL ATTACHES IN BERLIN
Have Been in Germany For Twenty-Eight Years, Kaiser Is Informed.

Special Cable to The World.
BERLIN, April 13.—(Copyright)—United States Naval Attaché Niblack has presented to the Kaiser a complete list of American naval attaches in Berlin for twenty-eight years. Niblack was able to point out to the Kaiser that the United States was the first power to appoint a special naval attaché for Berlin, when Germany only mustered thirteen ships. The Kaiser was greatly interested in Niblack's list and accompanying notes and he handed them to an aid de camp, saying, "Keep that for me; I shall want it again."

German experts say that the United States is the only power which sees far enough ahead to post special attaches in places where naval and other developments are likely to take place. Germany is next smartest, while England usually delays until the developments are well forward.

The Kaiser's jubilee celebrations next June are producing the usual crop of society frills, offering all kinds of privileges to Americans willing to pay huge prices.

EQUAL FRANCHISE LEAGUE.
The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Margaret Eaton Studio, North street, at 3.30 p.m. today.

Some proposed changes in the constitution, in view of the annual meeting and election of officers in May, will be discussed.

Dr. Hastings will deliver an address which was prevented from giving at the last meeting on "Woman's Work in Public Health." Members are invited to bring friends.

consider the whole thing and work out the savings in distance, in elevation, in time, and present them after full study to the consideration of the public. We rather content ourselves with saying that the savings in all these directions would be enormous, and that the convenience of the public would be correspondingly increased. The map above is black-dotted on all the lines that would be common to three railways, or, at least, common to two, and that would lead to the new terminal station.

Furthermore, if ever the government brought the Intercolonial into Toronto it would secure an entrance by means of this new proposition.

All the radials would centre in the direction of the new uptown union terminal station, and would have connection with the downtown section by means of the Teranlay street tubes; and the Teranlay street tubes once built would be the easy and convenient means for transferring the business from downtown to uptown, while the change was in process.

The World knows that this proposition will meet with a good deal of criticism, but it wants every citizen to consider it carefully, to think it out, and once the criticism has crystallized the scheme can then be properly valued.

We submit the scheme to the railway companies, to the city, to the city council, to the board of trade, to the Dominion Government, and to the provincial authorities for that matter, with a view to making Toronto the best possible railway terminal in Canada, and at the same time making Toronto the best possible lake harbor, and realizing to the full the proposals in the matter of harbor improvements now in process of development by the new harbor commission. In a word, it believes it is railways up town, local freight terminals down town; railway passengers up town, steamboats down town, with the city tube to connect both.

It has taken The World some weeks to work out in the rough some idea of this scheme, but the more time we have spent on it, the more enquiry we have

QUEEN OF PEACE STILL HOPEFUL

"Carmen Sylva" Says Horrors of Balkan War Will Help Cause.

ARE NOT DISCOURAGED

Democratic Masses Will Come to See Folly of War.

Special Cable to The World.
BUCHAREST, April 13.—"Carmen Sylva" (Queen Elizabeth of Roumania) is greatly saddened by the war in which her Balkan neighbors have been engaged. Her hair is whiter than of yore, her step less firm. And yet the "Queen of Peace" was as enthusiastic about her ideal as ever when she received The World correspondent. She was sitting in a large room in the palace, lighted from above only, and opening on to a huge, warm conservatory, where many plants and flowers secured the air.

"It has been terrible, as all wars must be," she said, "but its very horrors will make more converts to our cause. The papers and magazines ought to spread the terrible details far and wide. None who reads them will want to see the war spectre in his own country. I know that we anti-Junges have had a bad time of it this winter, but we are not discouraged."

"Ever since the war broke out I have heard and read that war is necessary. Why? Is smallpox necessary to humanity? Is the plague, or starvation, or dirt or any other form of physical suffering? As soon as the benefits of doctors and hygiene were known and used we got rid of all these ills, or at least we put them down so much that they now trouble us far less. And I cannot see that it was needed, any more than other epidemics are needed. It only means that there are still terrible flaws in our political mechanism, just as there are in our best sanitary arrangements."

"If European diplomacy were up to its reputation, these political difficulties would have been solved without war. But diplomacy needs as much reformation as do people's ideas about war and peace."

The Folly of War.
"Who can read any of the books that have now come out about the war, by those who took part in it, without being struck by the terrible selfishness of the writers. They only reflect the feelings of the other actors in that terrible drama. Those who had food were ready to kill a starving man who came up to share it. It is every man for himself and push the other man into the ditch, run him thru the body, rather than diminish your own chance of getting a full meal and a night's rest. And this very instinct of self-preservation ought to show the war lovers that war is a mistake. These men don't want to die. They know how good it is to live. It is only when they are lashed into the war fury that they leave their homes and go out to kill their brother man."

"Let nations have their armies and navies so long as they don't spend on them to the detriment of social work and reform. But let them have them in order to keep the peace. They will be needed for some time, but not for long. Just as prevention is better than cure in medicine, so armaments will be needed when even armaments will be unnecessary."

"We peace lovers need not be dismayed. We must point the lessons this war has taught, and our cause will gain much thereby. I have the greatest confidence in the common sense of the masses. Democratic peoples, who are, after all, the descendants of those who used to have to fight just because some politicians told them to, see how useless wars are. It is they who pay for unnecessary evil. And they will think when they know best that war is a diplomacy to their own way of thinking."

HOW TO CULTURE GOOD TOMATOES

Growers May Benefit by Experiments of Dominion Horticulturist.

Almost anyone with a garden or farm in a temperate climate can grow tomatoes with greater or less success, but there is a great difference between the extent and quality of the crops grown by different persons in the same locality. These differences are due to several causes, among which the varieties grown and methods of cultivation practiced are perhaps the chief.

According to experiments carried on for years at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, Earlsboro, of which there are several strains, is the best early sort, but Bonny Best, Chalk's Early Jewel are also good early kinds. Of later varieties Matchless Trophy, Livingston's Globe and Plentiful rank high.

It is the early fruit that makes the profit. In growing plants what should be aimed at is the production of a stocky, sturdy plant, which will have some fruit set upon it when set in the field. After planting the chief work is cultivation, which should be done both ways in the plantation.

In order to protect tomato plants from diseases, of which there are several, they should be repeatedly sprayed, even when quite young, with Bordeaux mixture. These and many other points, which cover practically the whole field of tomato culture in the green house as well as in the garden and field, are fully treated in pamphlet No. 10 of the Central Experimental Farm, prepared by the Dominion Horticulturist, W. T. Macoun. This work is for free distribution to all who apply for it to the publication branch of the department of agriculture, Ottawa.

ESTABLISH JUNIOR CIVIC GOVERNMENT

Its Purpose Is to Train the Young For Citizenship.

Special to The Toronto World.
ITHACA, N.Y., April 13.—To train boys and girls for the responsibilities of citizenship by giving them responsibilities as citizens in junior governments of their own is the latest idea of William R. George of Freeville, N.Y., founder of the chain of George Junior Republics in America.

The first municipal government of this kind is to be organized in Ithaca. Mr. George says he will have a junior government in every city of the land, allowing every boy and girl upon reaching the age of 16 to become eligible for citizenship in this municipality. He plans to have the same officers as are elected by the regular city government, with the same duties.

Mr. George is convinced that when boys and girls commit wrong it is because of a lack of responsibility. City officials would not snub the new government because they would realize that every boy of sixteen would eventually become a citizen, and that he would then be a real voting power in the community. Mr. George predicts there would be a "miraculous change for good citizenship."

NAME WRONGFULLY USED.
The Canadian Northern Railway has No Connection with Industrial Shippers' Guide.

It has been brought to the attention of the Canadian Northern Railway that the publishers of a book entitled "Industrial Shippers' Guide," are using the name of this railway in soliciting advertising, and that they also claim that when finished the book will be distributed by the Canadian Northern Railway.

The Canadian Northern Railway desires to make it perfectly clear to all concerned that if the name of the railway is being used it is done without authority, and contrary to their wishes. The company has no intention of distributing the Industrial Shippers' Guide, and has no connection therewith, and desires to have this matter understood.

Neuralgic Condition of the Nerves

In this age of nervous disorders neuralgia is fearfully common. The first thought is of neuralgia in the head or splitting headache, but neuralgia may affect any part of the body in which there are sensitive nerves.

The teeth are often blamed and extracted in terror, when the cause of the trouble is in the impoverished condition of the blood and the starved nervous system.

Neuralgic pains are usually sharp and shooting, and consequently difficult to locate, and the seat of trouble is usually sore and tender under pressure.

Neuralgia is a pain, and as such is the symptom of a disease—nervous exhaustion. The nerves must be restored before cure can possibly be effected.

In many cases neuralgia is easily curable by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The patient is thin and bloodless and needs tonic treatment to form new, rich blood.

The application of cloths rung from hot water over the face and the suffering, and the regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a few weeks will completely overcome the neuralgic condition.

Powerful drugs are to be avoided, because of their injurious effect in further weakening the nervous system. The Nerve Food cures by building up the feeble wasted nerve cells, and for this reason is of lasting benefit.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT.

"Toronto Harbor From Development, 1912-1920" is the brief phrase which comprises one of the greatest tasks yet undertaken in Canada.

The property affected includes 1000 acres in Ashbridge's Bay, the bay shore of the island, many lots along the inner harbor and the water lots on the lake front from Bathurst street to the Humber. In all worth $9,000,000.

The extraordinary magnitude of the work is illustrated by the estimate for the material required for filling in the portion of the bay east of Woodbine avenue, which is to be raised eight feet above water level, and for which twenty-seven million cubic yards will be necessary.

The whole design, of which the foregoing are only partial details, indicates the advent of an entirely new spirit in civic affairs. It is no reflection on the past generation to say that the men of that time were incapable of such work.

The harbor scheme there is the first real dawn of a new day in Toronto, and the enterprise and business-like methods which distinguish its management are distinctly of the new school.

BRITAIN A PACIFIC ELEMENT

Certain sections of public opinion in the United Kingdom and on the North American Continent are inclined to condemn Sir Edward Grey for concurring with the other European powers in withholding Scutari from Montenegro.

If peace is to be preserved in Europe, a way must be found to reconcile the conflicting ambitions of these powers. Russia's sympathies are with the Slavs, but Austria sees in the rise of a great Slavic consideration a direct and serious menace.

prevent its acquisition of a port on the Adriatic or its possession of a fortress like Scutari, which would add materially to its military strength.

Austria's position may be unjustifiable ethnically, but unfortunately governments are not accustomed to conduct their policy by the laws of ethics, when what they consider to be vital interests are at stake.

If Sir Edward Grey's censures refuse to recognize the difficulties with which he is confronted they must be prepared to accept responsibility for the outbreak of a war, which might or might not result in fashioning the boundaries of the Balkan States as they desire these to be.

The whole situation emphasizes the impossibility of doing the city's business by the usual method. No departmental store could last a year which attempted to conduct its affairs by the city council method.

WATER SERVICE OUTSIDE CITY

Such a heroic frame of mind as the aldermen developed in connection with the question of permitting water services to parties outside the city limits, is somewhat unusual.

The real difficulty appears at present to be in the inadequacy of the city's own water supply. There is not a gallon more than the city requires, and of course we do not refer merely to the present specially restricted period.

WHY OLD GRAY WOLF CHASED THE BIRDS

"Where do the birds fly every fall?" asked Little Brown Bear.

"Well, they flew into the sunshine lazily watching a flock of birds flying southward in the blue sky above him. 'I wonder where they do go,' said the White Rabbit, flapping his long ears in a nervous way.

"How stupid you all are," boasted the Old Gray Wolf. "If you want to know where they go, why don't you follow them and find out?"

is a tacit confession of a weak case, if there be no better grounds for attacking the government. Or if there be better grounds, why injure the Liberal cause by adopting the policy of hostile and futile attacks on unoccupied fortifications?

THE ALDERMEN AND TWO CONTROLLERS.

Controller Church professes to think insulting the action of the council in moving for the appointment of substitutes for those controllers who refused to act on the council's plan to organize the board of control into an information bureau for the aldermen.

The aldermen are quite right to insist on the prerogatives which the Municipal Act bestows upon them, and had Controller Church and Foster made an honest attempt to conform to the wishes of the council, due allowance would have been made for any personal incapacity.

CIVIC FINANCES AND THE BARS.

Editor World: Is it not strange that municipal councils should show so much indifference towards the course followed by the Ontario Government and Legislature in continuously increasing the proportion of liquor revenue taken by the province and lessening the proportion granted to the municipalities?

A few years ago all the fees collected for wholesale, tavern and shop licenses, and transfers of licenses in this city, were paid into a license fund.

THE FOOD FORMULA

The days of complicated food formulas for babies foods are over. Any person with common sense enough to sterilize and measure, can modify ordinary milk so that it is suitable for the baby. Once it was a great temptation to use a prepared food that required only the adding of water or a little boiling, but now it is just as easy to modify milk, and so much better for the baby that few mothers hesitate about a choice of food. Plain whole cow's milk mixed with water and sugar answers all the requirements of a good food for seven or eight months, then barley or oatmeal gruels may be used instead of water. Plain milk mixed with water is easier to digest than cream or top milks, and nourishes just as well. The curd of cow's milk is very difficult for a baby to digest, and the fat or cream must also be changed. So we add water to the milk to make the curd and fat more digestible. Sugar is added for its nutritional value and for its laxative action.

Sometimes it is necessary to add lime water or bicarbonate of soda to overcome the acidity of the milk. The things to be considered then, in making up the food formula for the average healthy baby, are the amount of milk, the amount of sugar and the amount of water to be added to make up the necessary quantity. The total quantity of food needed in twenty-four hours is determined by the age, and to a certain extent the size of the child. The amount of milk and sugar is determined by the weight of the child. The amount of milk necessary to make a proper gain in weight is twice the number of ounces of milk that the baby weighs in pounds. That is, a seven pound baby requires fourteen ounces of milk. Supposing he can take three ounces of food at every one of his ten meals—every two hours from 6 in the morning until 10 at night, and one meal at 2 a.m., makes ten feedings in twenty-four hours—that makes thirty ounces of food altogether. We know that fourteen ounces of this is milk, so add sixteen ounces of water to make up the thirty, and also one ounce of sugar of milk. If the baby cannot digest this amount of sugar, add six ounces of milk for the one sugar left out.

The baby one week old takes from one to one and a half ounces of food every two hours from 6 until 10 and one meal during the night. At two weeks he has ten feedings of two ounces each; at three weeks ten feedings of two and a half ounces each. This formula continues thru the second month. The third month he has ten feedings of three ounces each. The fourth month he has eight feedings in twenty-four hours, because the interval between meals is now two and a half hours. He takes five ounces at each meal. At the fifth month the interval is three hours, which gives seven feedings of six ounces each. After this month the night feeding is abolished and baby gets six meals between 6 in the morning and 10 at night. At the seventh month he takes eight ounces at each meal, and has six meals in all. This formula continues until the changing of the diet to semi-solids. So that at the seventh month the mother makes up 48 ounces of food and divides it with 16 bottles of eight ounces each.

By ROGER POOCK

"Suppose I've grown," said Billy. "Well, mum, I got a notion to go home. Signed as A. B. in a four-masted barque, Clan Innes, out of Glasgow, for Vancouver, with general cargo. I quit her at Vancouver, made Ashcroft by C. P. R., blind baggage mostly, then hit the road foot. I thought I'd take my departure from the 'Fifty-Nine.' "The old bush trail?" "Hard going, but then I expected, of course, mother'd be there at the ranch, and you, mum, an' Jesse, of course, and— " "Jones?" "Dreading his news, I fought for this one little respite before he came to all I feared. If Jesse lived, if he only lived! But at thought of the old ranch life, Billy japed to a sheepish grin with one quaint glint of mischief. Then, with the utmost gravity, he asked me if Patsy, my nursemaid, was claimed." "There's many a little craft dips her colors for one who wants me to stand by, but still— " "Patsy is free." "Patsy! Can't help it, I backed my tawp!" "Proposed?" "Save us, it's time to offer a tow when they're union down, and a danger to navigation. Um, I'm off my course." "You must have found things changed when you got to the ranch." "Didn't get there. I'd news at Hat Creek, and kep' the road main north. Mother wasn't at the ranch any more. She'd poisoned Jesse's bear. Oh, mum, I don't want to hurt." "Go on, dear lad." "Mother'd took up with Polly at Split House." "Split House?" "It's the Ninety-Nine Mile House. There's a signboard right across the road." "THE NINETY-NINE MILE HOUSE. MRS. JESSE SMITH. "Just then the maid brought in the tea things, so cowardly as usual, I played hostess, delaying 'all the news I had to give. We gossiped of Captain Taylor's half-bred child, Jesse James at school down east, of Tearful George married to that dreadful young person at Eighty Mile House, who scratched herself at meals, so Jesse said. At the Hundred-and-Four, where Hundred Mile Hill casts its tremendous shadow on the lowlands northward, Pete Mathson and his wife were making new harness for the Star Pack-train. There a shadow fell on our attempt at gossip—why does the conversation always stop at twenty minutes past? Billy began to tell me about Split House." "Split House? How right Father Jared was, 'sword versus dragon,' he told us, 'is heroic: sword versus cockroach is heretics. Don't draw your sword on a cockroach.' This much he tried to explain to young O'Flynn, whose Irish blood has a fine sense of humor. But the smile he gave me was one of pity, turning my heart to ice. 'Jesse,' he said, 'made that mistake. That's why I've come six thousand miles to warn you. How-

MAPLE SUGAR
 TIME was when maple sugar was the only sweetening Canadian kitchens knew aside from dark cane syrup, called "long sweetening." This last was brought north at such cost of time and trouble that its price was almost prohibitive, except to the well-to-do. Sugar made from this season's run of sap is just appearing in market and along with it are many toothsome tid-bits that are only had when "sugarin' time" comes. The maple syrup of today is lighter in color and finer in grain than it was a generation ago, and some persons claim that the flavor is less rich than formerly. The patent evaporators are blamed for this, as they reduce the sap to sugar rapidly and with greater heat than the old-time open sap kettle and wood fire. The abandonment of the social life of the sugar camp is also deplored. There was real enjoyment in an old-fashioned "sugar off." Good things like this should not be lost, especially when they have to do with edible treats. Of course, a sugar off in the kitchen does not compare with the real thing held in a sugar camp in Canada, but it is the next best thing. With two quarts of pure maple syrup a crowd of young folks can have a delightful evening, and maple wax at its close. Boil the syrup in a deep porcelain kettle, without stirring, until it waxes in cold water. While it is boiling, get ready some pieces of ice, four or five inches thick and six inches long. Put a piece on the plate of each guest. Now, when all is ready, carry the kettle of maple to the table on a tray and pour a spoonful of the thick sweetness over each piece of ice. Eat at once while it is warm, for if it cools it is still the richest and finest sweet in the world. If ice is not to be had, it may be poured into cold water or onto snow. Maple ousse is a dainty that is made with maple syrup and always moulded in small forms, is improved if served with maple sauce instead of the usual cream and sugar. The maple makes it very much like a "sundae." If the pudding itself is well chilled. Maple cream cake is one of the richest cakes made; its success depends upon the filling and frosting. Maple sugar should be used for this. Shave enough sugar from the sugar loaf to equal two cups, simmer this gently with a cup of water and add two teaspoons of best butter. When it threads from the spoon, remove from the fire and stir until it is like cream. Spread between the layers and over top of cake. This is also an excellent frosting for cup cakes and cream puffs.

Nuts may be added if desired. A blanc-mange, or cornstarch pudding, made with the whites of eggs and moulded in small forms, is improved if served with maple sauce instead of the usual cream and sugar. NORTH TORONTO LESS SUBURBAN Pleasant Country-Like Atmosphere Remains—Residences Spring Up Rapidly.

HOUSES OF HIGH TYPE Five Hundred Homes of Best Class, Besides Smaller Dwellings, Will Go Up.

North Toronto could hardly be termed a suburb now. It is becoming a well built up section of the city, and its pleasant country-like atmosphere remains.

At once the largest land deal of the year and the most significant move in suburban development for a long time, the Smith estate on Don Mills road was bought Saturday by W. N. McEachern & Sons at $425,000.

The coming into the city of the town has not meant a suspension of improvement work on the part of tract developers. There are some properties that have partially passed from the lot land period and which are held by a multiplicity of owners.

Deep Woods and Dales. Now he is preparing for the development of Mr. Nicholas Garland's beautiful grounds, Strathmore, which adjoin Lawrence Park at the south, and were bought by his Dovercourt Land Company late last fall.

Eastern Townships Dairywomen. At the meeting of the Eastern Townships Dairywomen's Association, held here this afternoon, twelve factories boarded three hundred and seventy-two packages of butter.

House Properties. AT RIVERDALE PARK, close to Broadway, seven rooms and underground attic, $1450; cash, $2150. This is a good buy. See it at once.

BIG DEVELOPMENT ON DON MILLS ROAD

Smith Estate Bought by McEachern at Over Four Hundred Thousand Dollars.

YEAR'S BIGGEST DEAL Property Will Be Improved and Bungalow Type of Houses Erected.

At once the largest land deal of the year and the most significant move in suburban development for a long time, the Smith estate on Don Mills road was bought Saturday by W. N. McEachern & Sons at $425,000.

The eighty-five acres in the property overlook the Don valley at one of its most beautiful reaches and are directly opposite the new Government House and Rosedale. The scheme of development is an ambitious and speedy one, and is of great moment to real estate circles because of its being the first land improvement proposal in that section of the city's suburbs.

Improvement Goes On. The coming into the city of the town has not meant a suspension of improvement work on the part of tract developers. There are some properties that have partially passed from the lot land period and which are held by a multiplicity of owners.

OWNERS WANT ALL COLLEGE ST. RELEASED

Wiping Out Some Restrictions by Payment of "Large Prices" Depricated.

Editor World: Since my last letter which you so kindly published, the university has prepared a bill for the legislature re College street. The property owners have had a conference with Mr. Lash as the representative of the governors, and the following facts were brought out, viz: the university and the city made an agreement which was ratified by the legislature in 1889, and College street was leased to the city for a long term. The owners of property along the street had no right of way, and it was arranged that they might acquire this right by paying the university an un-named amount per foot, with condition added that their property be entirely residential, and restricted against all business.

Are you moving this Spring? Just look at our list of "For Rent" ads in this paper today.

If there is anything this Twentieth Century has done for us besides teaching us to stay up long enough at night to spend what we earned during the day, it is in the matter of efficiency. And this efficiency has come about in everything from raising a baby to renting a house. Formerly, when moving time came around, a woman would come home at night with her feet so swollen that her shoe laces were tighter than her corset laces, and she would look at her husband with the agony of despair and say: "John, I've walked up and down every street in this city. I've looked for the signs in every window. I've been in every house that they'd let me in. I didn't stop till my legs gave out. I can't decide. I just can't decide. So, John, dear, you come with me tomorrow and we'll go all over it again." And John said—well, John wasn't a gentleman, if the truth were known. And now what a difference today. John says: "Well, dear, shall we move?" And "Dear" says: "I don't know; let's see what's vacant." So they turn over the pages of this paper to the columns that say "For Rent." Then they take a lead pencil and "Dear" checks the locations that appeal to them as suitable neighborhoods. Then, sometimes they take the telephone and get whatever other information they want, or "Dear" drops around in the morning and looks over the places they have checked. That evening when John comes home she says: "I've found three dandy places; let's go around after dinner and look at them." So they do; and it's done. Now, try it yourself. And mention this paper, please, when you find what you want.

Grain Prices Take Further Tumble at Chicago After Early Strength.

CHICAGO, April 12.—A forecast of fine weather all over the country for the next few days sent wheat values tumbling, and closing prices today showed from 1/8 to 1/4 cent loss. Corn had a net decline of 1/4 to 1/2 cent, oats were down 1/4 to 1/2 cent, but provisions were a shade lower to 1/8 higher.

The best show of strength made by wheat was shortly after the opening, when, on reports of a killing frost in Kansas, there was some buying. The rally was brief. Profit-taking activity caused a reaction below the opening figure. Good weather in the northwest helping seed operations and abundant moisture in most of the winter belt, brought on a lot of selling. There was talk of good export business, actual and prospective, but details were not made public and the downward trend of prices was steady. Foreign markets were generally a shade easier. A decrease in the English visible supply of 1,855,000 bushels against an increase of 239,000 bushels for the same week last year, did not serve to check the decline. Primary receipts of wheat were 480,000 bushels, against 260,000 bushels a year ago.

Break in Corn.
Corn was dull throughout and weakened sharply at the close, which was at the lowest figure of the day. Clearing weather forecasts gave promise of increased shipments and there was an absence of short buying.

Liquidation in May Oats on account of good weather depressed prices in the other futures also.
Provisions showed on covering by shorts. There was also some new investment buying. The bullish live stock report by the government was still a factor in the uplift in prices.
