

The Railway Board Unfair

Not Acceptable as Arbitrators

Cars May Tie Up to-Day

Situation Reaches Acute Stage Thru Refusal of Men to Leave the Question to Government Commission—Sharp Criticism by Magnus Sinclair, Organizer of Men.

Hamilton, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—The street railway situation reached an acute stage to-day, when the street railway men positively refused to consent to the Ontario municipal and railway board having anything to do with the settlement of their trouble with the Hamilton Street Railway, the Hamilton and Dundas, and the Radial Road.

Magnus Sinclair of Toronto, the chairman of the Canadian executive board, stated that the reason for the refusal was that the board was unfair in the London street car strike, and that it was on the union's unfair list.

The agreement between the street railway employees and the company expires to-morrow, and from present indications a strike will be declared, if the street railway men go out. It will mean a general tie-up of nearly all the radial lines around Hamilton, as they are all, with one exception, controlled by the Cataract company, and the employees of the other roads will go out in sympathy with the men.

The company will not concede from its position taken when the negotiations first started, that the employees of each road must present their grievances separately. It is stated that action of the union has been precipitated by a statement made by H. N. Kitchin, the Hamilton representative on the railway board, that the union had no more right to expect the Cataract Company to deal with the employees of the three roads combined any more than the employees of the three concerns in which he was interested might expect him to deal with them.

The manner in which the board brought itself into the middle of the union was in connection with an investigation made by the board at London into the dismissal of three employees. The union representatives maintain that there was an abundance of evidence to prove that the men were intimidated by the company in every way possible in order to get them to withdraw from the union, and that, in the face of this, the board decided that the company was justified in dismissing the men.

Deal Separately.

Clyde Green, traction manager of the Cataract Company, in a letter to the union yesterday repeated the offer that he would insist on dealing with the employees of the three roads separately. He stated that if negotiations failed, the company was willing to submit the question to arbitration.

The union, in reply, appealed to the company to make another offer, and the question by an amicable conference between the men and the officers of the company, failing in which they were prepared to act on the basis of the company to arbitrate, the board of arbitration to consist of three interested citizens of Hamilton, one to be chosen by the union, one to be chosen by the company, and the two to choose a third.

CENSURE FOR EVERYBODY.

Hamilton Board of Health Passes on Alleged Nuisance.

Hamilton, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—The board of health met to-night and discussed the report of the provincial board of health on the coal oil inlet nuisance, and proceeded to act on the recommendations of the board in an endeavor to remedy the unhealthy conditions existing there. The report was a voluminous one, and contained a scathing terms the admirable conditions which have been allowed to prevail in a city like Hamilton.

Censure for Everybody.

The Fowler's Canadian Co. was severely criticized because fertilizer and lime were made in the same building and on account of its poor sewage system. Stour's cattle yards were condemned as being filthy and unsanitary, and the Canadian Oil Co., the G. T. R. Freeman Fertilizer Works were all more or less censured for the unhealthy conditions and bad odors connected with their places. The city was also criticized for allowing sewage to pass into the river.

A resolution was passed, thanking the provincial board for the report, and it was decided to place the report in the hands of the acting city solicitor, who will confer with the provincial board and advise the local board as to the proper course to be taken in order to abate the nuisances complained of.

Delegates Chosen.

At the finance committee meeting to-night Aldermen Wright, Martin and Stewart were chosen as delegates to the annual municipal convention, which will be held at Toronto on Aug. 29 and 30.

William J. Harris died in the City Hospital to-day. He had been in the hospital only a short time, and the heat is thought to have been indirectly responsible for his death.

Mrs. Louisa McComas died this afternoon at her late residence, 374 North Hughson-street, aged 47 years.

PLAY HAVOC WITH CROPS.

Storms Do Damage in Wentworth—Cataract Company Sues.

Hamilton, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—The recent storms in the country about here have played havoc with the crops, and a number of barns were burned by lightning.

The Cataract Power Co. has brought an action against J. P. Mulren of the Victoria Hotel, to make him vacate the premises occupied by him. The company bought the property recently, but as Mulren's lease is not up, he refuses to leave. The company contends that Mulren has violated the agreement of his lease by renting a stable on the premises, and therefore made the lease void.

Writs have been issued against the Hamilton Street Railway Company on behalf of Miss Jessie Williamson, Cheever-street, for injuries received by being thrown from a car, and for Edward Williams, Nightingale-street, who claims $200 for the loss of a horse,

WIFE OF PRESIDENT-ELECT ROBBED OF JEWELS BY THUGS

Bandits Cut Ears and Fingers Off to Obtain Valuables When House Collapsed.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 23.—Further details received here to-day from Valparaiso, Chile, show that out of 40 employees of the Telephone Company, 38 were killed. When the house of President-elect Montt collapsed, his wife fell from the balcony into the street, and bandits, who were passing, cut off her ears and fingers to rob her of her jewelry. She was taken in a lying state on board the Chilean warship O'Higgins, which departed for Valparaiso in Frederico Valdivia, the famous capitalist and politician.

Considerable alarm is felt here, in view of the conditions in Chile, as no food supplies are coming from the republic to Peru, and the latter does not have to-day, and the use of her inhabitants. Therefore, parties starvation, at least, is feared, faces the middle and poorer classes of the Peruvian population.

FEARS OF PESTILENCE CONCERN OF VALPARAISO

Valparaiso, Chile, Aug. 23.—Some of the business houses here reopened to-day for the first time since the earthquake. Telephone and telegraph communication with Santiago has been re-established, but the lines are almost exclusively used by the government officials.

The city is still under martial law; traffic ceases at 5 o'clock in the evening, and everybody is compelled to take some part in the work of restoration.

As a first instalment, the government has appropriated $400,000 for the relief of the destitute. The custom house was reopened to-day, and traffic by water and by rail has been resumed. The post service is also in operation.

One of the greatest difficulties encountered by the authorities is the burial of the bodies recovered from the ruins, as all the cemeteries were destroyed. At the temporary morgues, heaps of coffins have accumulated. The work of recovering the bodies is being pushed to the utmost in order to avoid an epidemic, in fear of which many families are leaving the city.

Survivors of the earthquake say that during the shocks it was impossible to stand erect without support.

All the provinces of the north and south which have not suffered from the earthquake are sending supplies of food and money to the stricken cities and towns. The department of public works at Santiago has appropriated $100,000 for the construction of sheds to shelter the refugees from Valparaiso and elsewhere. The army has sent a division to the Chilean capital in large numbers.

Valparaiso is still without street lights at night, but order is maintained, thanks to the severity of the authori-

BIG CONFISCATION.

$100,000 Worth of English Twine Seized by Government.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—In the neighborhood of 100,000 worth of binder twine consigned to Canadian dealers by two old country houses was recently seized by the government inspectors on the ground that the measurement of the packages did not correspond with the actual length of twine in the balls.

A CASE WITHDRAWN.

It was stated yesterday, at the attorney-general's office that the complaint from Long Branch had been withdrawn, the parties accused paying all damages.

It is claimed that there was no criminal intent.

The "victim of the outrage" had in some way made himself somewhat objectionable to the cottagers, and they were attempting a mild sort of "white capping."

Stenaland Not Arrested.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 23.—The mayor of Ciudad Calientes, Mexico, denies that Stenaland, the fugitive bank president, has been arrested there.

CRIPPLES AND FAKES.

Editor World: I was pleased to see in your columns that the city authorities have decided to move off Dufferin-street, in the vicinity of the fair grounds, the large and ever increasing collection of unfortunate cripples that have congregated there for many years past. Many of these people appear to be deserving of some sort of assistance, but they should receive aid thru proper channels and not be allowed to turn Dufferin-street into an annual camp. A lot of these people make Toronto their rendezvous during fair time, not only on Dufferin-street, but all over principal downtown streets and it is a question to me if they should not be kept off the streets at that time. For the sake of the deserving, there are numbers who are hobos in disguise, and these should be made to go to work or keep off the streets. It would be a good thing also if the police would keep an eye on the fake shows and games of chance that crop up with mushroom-like suddenness about exhibition time. The soil of Toronto must be particularly suitable for these fellows, or can it be that the number of "rubes" who come to the city at that time, makes this a profitable place for their business?

NOTICE TO FARMERS-WANTED: Four visiting delegates to the United Farmers' Union will float a flexible glass banner at their head in the coming Labor Day parade.

This is one of the most unique attempts that have ever been made by any labor organization in the way of demonstrating the handiwork of its craft. Interwoven in the banner will be the organization's message in gaudy glittering colors, and it should add considerably to the prospective brilliancy of the pageant.

Four visiting delegates to the United Garment Workers' convention, which opens here Monday and continues in session a week, attended the meeting of the local union last night and addressed the men. They were: International President P. A. Rickert, Benjamin Schwetzer and Isaac Hashkins of New York City and Robert Noren of Chicago.

The Imperial Cap Works have conceded the demands of the union makers and will be recognized as "fair" this morning.

Do the Farmers Want Cheaper Railway Fares?

An Examination of the Views of Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., and E. D. Smith, M.P., on this Subject.

On July 5 last in the house of commons at Ottawa a proposal was made for a maximum standard passenger rate on Canadian railways of two cents a mile.

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., opposed it. Here are his words: I can speak for the people of Victoria County. We have fought this out before, with faddists of the honorable gentleman's (the M.P. for South York) kind who came there to agitate it. The people do not want the railways do? They would simply say: All right; you people have passed the law fixing the rate at two cents a mile, you can get no more excursion rates; and if we cannot get enough out of that rate we are going to tax the farmer higher freight rates on his cattle and his grain.

Here we have the gallant colonel in his fighting trim. "We have fought this out before," and the faddist who came into Victoria County to agitate it was smote in the belly till he died. May we, in an intermittent way, ask the name of the corpse and where in dear old Victoria the fight took place. And how like Billy Moore is cutting off "the excursion rates"!

But there is a paper published up in London called the Farmers' Advocate. In one of its July issues it says:

For the Canadian fiscal year, ending July 31st, the revenue from the sale of postage stamps totaled $7,088,927, an increase of $486,095 over last year, and of $2,828,188 as compared with 1897-8, when the three-cent Canadian letter rate obtained. The striking increase in revenue, following the introduction of imperial penny postage, and, subsequently, the domestic two-cent letter rate, serves well to illustrate a principle. While much of the increased use of the mails is due to increased population and increased prosperity, there is no doubt whatever that without these contributory factors the cheaper rate would still have induced freer use of the mails that would have almost made up for the reduction of the postage toll. The people save a cent on every letter, and are able to afford to use the mails more largely, while business is benefited directly and indirectly. The lower rate is thus an immense economic advantage. Any public service which is run with a view to maximum public utility can be operated with far more moderate charges than a service which is exploited for maximum profits to its investors. There is good reason to believe that a reduction of the Canadian railway passenger rates from a three-cent single and five-cent return per mile to a straight two cents each way, would result in enough more travelling to nearly compensate for the reduced rate; while from the freer communication would flow substantial benefits to the country and to the railroads that handle its freight, express and passenger traffic. The trouble is the railways are so greedily viewing the ready dollar, that they will be almost certain to delay the reduction of rates until absolutely compelled to change. Is it not time for public opinion on the matter to assert itself?

This farmers' paper does not anticipate an advance of freight rates as a result of reduced passenger rates. There has been a widespread reduction of passenger rates in the States of late—all in the direction of a maximum two-cent rate. Can Col. Hughes tell us of a single case where the freights went up? He must prove his case. And can Col. Hughes justify, or would he justify, such a railway as the Canadian Pacific, with its enormous earnings, its reserves, its regular dividends and interest on all its securities (including $60,000,000 of watered stock), jumping up its freights on farmers' produce if it were compelled by law to give a two-cent rate? The World's columns are open to the colonel, or we will send a reporter to publish in full any speech he may make to the farmers of Victoria in justification of the present three and four cents a mile that many farmers in Ontario, in Quebec and in the west are paying to-day.

And as a clincher for the gallant colonel on the "excursion rates" argument let us reprint from our columns of Wednesday the following news item:

That two-cent fares do not prevent excursion rates is sufficiently shown by the advertisements in the Columbus, Ohio, newspaper. Altho the two-cent-a-mile law became effective March 30, the Hocking Valley is advertising tickets from Columbus to Toledo and return for $1.50 (240 miles); the Norfolk & Western is advertising from Columbus to Kenora, W.Va., an return, $1.75 (260 miles), and also similar rates for intermediate stations; the B. & O. is advertising to Cincinnati and return, $2 (240 miles); the Ohio Central, to Marietta and return $1.25 (150 miles); the Pennsylvania, to Akron and return, $1.75 (200 miles); the Big Four, to Cleveland and return, $2 (250 miles).

Besides these, are advertised trips at about one cent a mile to Niagara Falls, Put-in-Bay, etc., including boat. The New York Central (also a two-cent-a-mile road) offers a trip from Columbus to New York and return, 1200 miles, at $17.35.

And now we come to another representative of a farmers' constituency, E. D. Smith, M.P. for Wentworth, Wentworth is a fruit garden with a lot of fine farms about it. Here is Mr. Smith's latest:

Wentworth, Ont., Aug. 18, 1906. Editor World: Your favor of Aug. 16, enclosing copy of a letter to the World, signed by "Wentworth," in regard to two-cent fares, to hand. I also have a copy of The World in which a few remarks which I made in the house of commons on July 5, 1906, are printed.

It would be interesting and profitable to know in how many journals and magazines Toronto has been pictured and described and has furnished space for its share in furtherance of the publicity movement.

Do the Farmers Want Cheaper Railway Fares?

An Examination of the Views of Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., and E. D. Smith, M.P., on this Subject.

On July 5 last in the house of commons at Ottawa a proposal was made for a maximum standard passenger rate on Canadian railways of two cents a mile.

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., opposed it. Here are his words: I can speak for the people of Victoria County. We have fought this out before, with faddists of the honorable gentleman's (the M.P. for South York) kind who came there to agitate it. The people do not want the railways do? They would simply say: All right; you people have passed the law fixing the rate at two cents a mile, you can get no more excursion rates; and if we cannot get enough out of that rate we are going to tax the farmer higher freight rates on his cattle and his grain.

Here we have the gallant colonel in his fighting trim. "We have fought this out before," and the faddist who came into Victoria County to agitate it was smote in the belly till he died. May we, in an intermittent way, ask the name of the corpse and where in dear old Victoria the fight took place. And how like Billy Moore is cutting off "the excursion rates"!

But there is a paper published up in London called the Farmers' Advocate. In one of its July issues it says:

For the Canadian fiscal year, ending July 31st, the revenue from the sale of postage stamps totaled $7,088,927, an increase of $486,095 over last year, and of $2,828,188 as compared with 1897-8, when the three-cent Canadian letter rate obtained. The striking increase in revenue, following the introduction of imperial penny postage, and, subsequently, the domestic two-cent letter rate, serves well to illustrate a principle. While much of the increased use of the mails is due to increased population and increased prosperity, there is no doubt whatever that without these contributory factors the cheaper rate would still have induced freer use of the mails that would have almost made up for the reduction of the postage toll. The people save a cent on every letter, and are able to afford to use the mails more largely, while business is benefited directly and indirectly. The lower rate is thus an immense economic advantage. Any public service which is run with a view to maximum public utility can be operated with far more moderate charges than a service which is exploited for maximum profits to its investors. There is good reason to believe that a reduction of the Canadian railway passenger rates from a three-cent single and five-cent return per mile to a straight two cents each way, would result in enough more travelling to nearly compensate for the reduced rate; while from the freer communication would flow substantial benefits to the country and to the railroads that handle its freight, express and passenger traffic. MAIN FLOOR—QUEEN STREET. THE T. EATON CO. LIMITED To-morrow (Saturday) Store Closes at 1 p.m.

Now if "Wentworth" will read these remarks, which only occupy space in your paper of about three inches, in a single column, they contain my answer.

In his letter "Wentworth" does not answer a single one of the three substantial and valid reasons I gave why the Dominion parliament should not arbitrarily compel all railroads in the Dominion of Canada to carry passengers at two cents per mile. No one has answered these three objections. All the speeches made in the house beat around the bush and evaded these unanswerable reasons.

I thank you for drawing my attention to the matter and will be pleased at any time to discuss this question with my constituents upon the public platform. E. D. Smith.

Now let us see what Mr. Smith said in this three-inch speech—a commendable feature in itself:

I propose to vote against the amendment (a two-cent rate) for three reasons. In the first place the power to regulate rates has been delegated by this parliament to the board of railway commissioners. They possess the power absolutely and I see no reason why we should take it away from them.

Now, Mr. Smith, is this so? True, we have given such jurisdiction to the commission, but to say "absolutely" is to mis-state the fact. Parliament specifically retained to itself the right, the absolute right, to intervene at any stage of railway regulation. It simply delegated to a commission some of its powers—it surrendered none of them. It gave for the time being concurrent jurisdiction. That's all. As a matter of fact, this over-worked railway board would not have the courage or the assumption to make a widespread alteration in passenger rates without the sanction of the legislature.

All the reductions in passenger rates (outside of those voluntarily made by the railroads) that have gone into force in the United States have been made by the legislatures of these states where they have state railway boards as well. And these legislatures were in every case moved to act by reason of an agitation led by farmers' representatives. Ohio is the most striking example. But Michigan and New York are among other examples. And in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Illinois, in a dozen other states, where fall elections are in sight, this question is up for discussion to be settled by a vote in the legislature. It was the legislature of Manitoba that brought down passenger rates from four to three cents in that province.

So much for Mr. Smith's first reason. Whether we have answered it or not it is for Mr. Smith's constituents to judge.

Now for his second reason:

In the second place, it would not be fair to make an arbitrary rate for all roads. A two-cent rate might pay on one road, whereas it might cause an absolute loss to another road not having so large a traffic. It would be most unfair for this parliament to compel a road to operate at a loss.

Let us answer this "unanswerable reason" of Mr. Smith. Are not all the enactments of the Railway Act and the railway board arbitrary? They apply to all roads irrespective of earnings. There is no variation in the rules for unprofitable roads. They must all carry standard freight for standard rates, irrespective of earnings. But let Mr. Smith name these unnameable roads of his that would suffer by reduced passenger rates. Is the Canadian Pacific (with its enormous earnings) one of the roads that would suffer from this reduction? Come, Mr. Smith, get down to facts and give us names. Even tell us the name of the railway that it would be "most unfair" to. This kind of argument did not go with the farmers of Ohio.

In the third place, if we reduce the passenger rate the road might not be able to pay a dividend, and after these passenger rates have been reduced they must necessarily raise the freight rate.

We ask Mr. Smith to read our reply as given above to Col. Hughes on this point. There have been widespread reductions in passenger rates by reason of legislative action; let Mr. Smith quote a single case from these instances where freights have gone up. Can he name one?

Does Mr. Smith wish to pay dividends on watered stock before passenger rates are reduced? Even the Canadian Pacific, with its $65,000,000 of watered stock, pays big dividends. Couldn't it stand the reduction? Does he know that there are seven billions of watered stock in the railway capital of the United States? Is he a special guardian of this watered stock or did the farmers of Wentworth send him to get for them what the farmers are getting in many other places—lower fares?

Do you, gentle reader, think the farmers of Canada believe in the maintenance of three cents a mile, and four cents in the West, do you believe that either of these members of parliament voices the views of the farmers then he may on this subject, or do you, gentle reader, think that either of them has any good by a presentation of facts culled from railroad experience? It is railroad experience, railroad facts, that must settle these things, not mere views or reasons so-called. If their arguments were good they ought to bristle with facts culled from experience. Nor does either of these apologists for the present high and arbitrary rates give the name of a single farmer in his riding who is satisfied with three cents a mile and an occasional excursion rate at a cent a mile. If they can, will they give the farmer's name?

PRELIMINARIES OF THE EVENING

DR. GOLDWIN SMITH, IN BEAUTIFUL ADDRESS, PROPOSES TOAST TO GUESTS OF THE EVENING.

Dr. Goldwin Smith, in Beautiful Address, Proposes Toast to Guests of the Evening.

That long table down the north side of the Victoria Rink last night, should long dwell in the memory of the four hundred or more guests who ranged themselves below it. Whatever the decorations were in brilliance, it would have been difficult to exceed the brilliance of the assembled guests, and certainly almost impossible from the ranks of a single profession. Knights of the potter and the scalpel, such as these, might well reconcile a man to mortality in their company. It should be said that the arrangements for the dinner were most admirable. The rink lent itself well to the purpose for which it was used, and its airy height made a delightfully cool atmosphere possible. The decorations were unique, the electric designs the freshest maple leaf and the colored crown, and other emblems giving a fine effect. The music was really musical and cultured, beyond criticism. Dr. Graesset and the committee responsible for the arrangements may well be congratulated.

Among the speakers it is no reflection on anyone else to single out the words of the venerable Sage of the Niagara as the most noteworthy. His words are like jewels in the setting of his thought. If any comment might be made at all upon some of the other speakers, it is one which would apply to almost any Canadian dinner. They are too long-winded. Goldwin Smith's enunciation was perfect, and his words were minutes. One or two others bored the assembly in from twenty to twenty-five.

Earl Grey Telegraphed. The governor-general sent the following telegram, which was read during the proceedings:

"His excellency will be obliged if you will convey to the president and members of the British Medical Association his great regret that he is unable to accept your invitation to be with them to-night and his very sincere hope that the visit of the association to Canada may be full of pleasant memories to your distinguished guests, and fruitful results to the people of Canada."
—Capt. Trotter, A. D. C.

Dr. Reeve, president of the association, took the chair, and with him, at the guest table, Dr. J. H. Hingston, Dr. E. O. Osler, Sir Wm. Hingston, Dr. H. H. Hingston, Dr. Franklin, President Hutton, Dr. Henry Barnes, Sir James Grant, H. C. Cox, Sir Wm. Mulock, Sir Victor Horsley, Prof. Goldwin Smith, Sir William Broadbent, Dr. C. G. Kerley, Sir Thomas Barlow, Mayor Coatesworth, Sir James Baer, Dr. W. J. Mayo, Dr. J. Temple, Dr. Griffith, Justice Gwynne, Dr. F. W. McLaughlin, Dr. Donald MacAlister, Mr. Irving Cameron, Dr. Ross Robertson, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, Dr. M. Theodor, Dr. Montzambert, Dr. Graesset.

His Honor's Interest. Dr. Reeve thought it natural that the lieutenant-governor should take an interest in the medical profession. Not to be too modest, he thought the medical profession should always be represented among the best citizens. But his honor's interest was from the heart, and he felt the greater pleasure in proposing to the honor of the British Medical Association, and his honor with a Canadian flag in his button hole smiled benignly at the honor of the association.

In responding to his honor corroborated Dr. Reeve's statement regarding his interest. He came from a part of the world where the profession was regarded with almost too great veneration. Helping into a pleasant anecdotal mood he announced that he had some memories from Scotland fifty years ago. From long personal knowledge he knew that the profession pursued their desire to alleviate suffering from the motives of duty, and that for the poor they were always ready to exert their best skill with the hope of reward.

It would be a source of gratification to those present to hear the living words of those whose works they were in the habit of studying. They all knew that in this province there was arising an intense feeling in favor of imperialism. He trusted when they returned to their homes the visitors would tell their friends of the spirit alive in Canada. He had often been impressed with the dull, dead indifference existing in England with regard to this country.

He had frequently found, as on that afternoon, English letters asking to have documents witnessed by the British consul in Toronto. They might realize something of the Canadian spirit by the development of the Dominion. He concluded an exhaustive review of the resources of Ontario and Canada by wishing the visitors a safe return, and the realization of Hans Christian Andersen's thought that the bouquet of the whole voyage was the first moment of return home.

Foreign Themes. "The Parliament of Canada" was spoken to by Sir James Grant, who analyzed the causes why Toronto was chosen as the meeting place of this session, which was going to be one of the greatest institutions on the American continent. There was a tendency on the part of some people to give the go-by to Ontario, he said, but the province was undoubtedly the greatest of the Dominion. He concluded an exhaustive review of the resources of Ontario and Canada by wishing the visitors a safe return, and the realization of Hans Christian Andersen's thought that the bouquet of the whole voyage was the first moment of return home.

The toast will be proposed by the speaker, Mayor Coatesworth, said chairman. He said he was wondering who arranged the program, and the mayor made a speech and forgot to propose the toast also. The toast was drunk, however, amid laughter, and E. B. Osler, M.P., responded with admirable brevity. Parliament had it been in session, conditions would have been a resolution of welcome. Members of the association on the sunny side of fifty-eighty who traveled in the North-west and kept their eyes open would find in one generation what had never been seen before—a nation arising out of a colony, and loyal to its mother.

The champagne was "Dry Monocle" and this may account for the lapse of memory, but none would have supposed that the champagne would have such an effect on the mayor.

From Goldwin Smith. The British Medical Association was proposed by Goldwin Smith in a most delicately humorous and exquisitely phrased address. He was rather taken aback, he said, "when he had been asked to speak. He could not give the praise of an expert, but the expression of popular respect and gratitude which he could safely convey. If he could dilate on the advance of the profession, they might think of Dr. Johnson's advice to a lady who was reading and he was sure they were all worthy chiefs of a most illustrious profession, which all humanity from the beginning had loved and revered. Not even in the fury of civil war were violent hands laid on the physician.

Dr. Smith then spoke of many features of modern medical science, anaesthetics, hospital development, the training nurse and the organized service of women. He was in a new spirit, and he opened, and now men realized that they were not compounded of a soul and body as separate things, but to be taken together for the medical profession.

"Not that this should lead us into materialism—far from it," he remarked. One of the latest trends was away from materialism. He always insisted on calling himself a materialist, but one less of a materialist or more spiritually-minded man did not know in the circle of his acquaintance. They had been enlarging Toronto University and had done their best for the medical profession.

Be on Guard. "Guard your privileges, for they are not the privileges of your profession, but the safeguard of the public against empirical murder." He warned his hearers against the absurdities followed under the cloak of spiritualism, and related his own experience with a medium who gave him a long interview with an alleged nephew. He was thoroughly satisfied with the medium, as he had never had a nephew.

These are the sort of delusions stalking in a age of discovery," was his comment. He had used to attend the lecture of Prof. Osler, and remembered the shifts to which he was put to reconcile science with the thought of the time.

"Thank God science speaks freely now," exclaimed the professor. He proceeded to tell some good stories illustrating the ignorance of Englishmen about Canada. But this was to be expected. "How much do we know of the internal politics of Australia? We cannot expect more than have a faint feeling of good will," he said. He hoped they would tell their friends when they went back that they were good temperate robust farm boys, and that they were not in Canada, but if they were clerks they would starve in the streets.

Some of Canada's own children had come to Britain in the last quarter of a century, he said, and he had not thought much at first of the claims of our graduates. When visitors came to visit, he did not expect to see one before I die," said Dr. Smith.

He concluded with a finely voiced tribute to the British Medical Association. "Canada's Service." Sir Wm. Broadbent, in responding, stated that personally he had no official position in the association, but none the less heartily he returned thanks on their behalf. It was an honor to be asked to take an interest in the medical profession. Not to be too modest, he thought the medical profession should always be represented among the best citizens. But his honor's interest was from the heart, and he felt the greater pleasure in proposing to the honor of the British Medical Association, and his honor with a Canadian flag in his button hole smiled benignly at the honor of the association.

Actually TWO PIANOS in ONE, and you have the glorious tone of the Bell Piano as well. Come here and play this magnificent instrument. You need not know anything about music—yet you will be able to play it as well as anybody. Pianos rented.

The city architect reported to the board of control yesterday against allowing the use of 28 foot beams in the building to be erected by the Briggs Publishing Co. on the north side of Temperance-street, on the ground that the weight on the ends would cause the beams to bend in the middle. The controllers assented.

WESTERN'S HEAVY RAIN BRINGS TEMPORARY COOL More Warmth, However, is Due—Lightning Strikes Dingman's Hall.

The coolness in the atmosphere that came in the wake of yesterday afternoon's thunderstorm came from Northern Ontario, where, what the weatherman terms an "area of low barometric pressure" has obtained for the past few days. To go back further the cool wave started in the region of the central northwest plateau on Sunday, and has been spreading to the southeast. It is billed to continue to travel, so that Toronto must be prepared for a somewhat higher temperature, but there is no immediate prospect of a recurrence of the extreme sultriness of the past few days.

The forecast is for a fairly warm day, with a probability of light showers, such as were frequent through the province yesterday.

During the storm yesterday afternoon Dingman's Hall, Queen-street and Broadview-avenue, was a mark for the lightning. The "juice" hit the flag pole, ran down and tore a nice orifice in the roof, and was carried to McCord's office next door. Mr. Le Roy, owner of the building, was in his office at the time, and was frightened some.

A number of cellars south of Queen-street were damaged by the backing up of the sewer water and building operations in some places will be delayed by the rush of waters into the basement, opposed the motion.

ARCHDEACON'S FUNERAL. Body Will Be Taken to St. Luke's Church This Afternoon.

At a meeting of the members of the congregation of St. Luke's, held in the vestry of the church last night, a resolution of sympathy with the family of the late Archdeacon Langtry was moved by Clarkson Jones, seconded by James Young, and unanimously endorsed. The expense of the funeral will be borne by the congregation of St. Luke's.

The remains will this afternoon be taken to St. Luke's Church, where they will remain guarded by watchers until Saturday afternoon at 2.30, when the Lord Bishop will conduct the funeral service, which will occupy about an hour, as there will likewise be a communion service.

In accordance with the archdeacon's well-known and oft-expressed desire for a simple funeral service, together with a plain coffin, the wishes of the dead relative will be respected, and the casket will be of the plainest description. The interment will take place in St. James' Cemetery.

WORLD FREE DR. WILSON. Friends of Dr. Wilson of Montreal were energetic yesterday in taking steps to secure the honor of a recurrence of the doctorate of laws to the University of Toronto, and every time he visited it was struck with astonishment at the energy with which he was met.

Dr. Wilson, speaking in French in Queen's Hall, said that he was honored to be elected to the honor of a doctorate of laws by the University of Toronto, and every time he visited it was struck with astonishment at the energy with which he was met.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

Next Monday night at the Princess Theatre will occur the most important event in amusement circles for the local season. What is virtually a new playhouse will be thrown open to the public for the first time, with "Captain Careless," a new romantic comic opera in two acts by Robert M. Baker and Clifton Crawford. Mr. Whitney is said to have spent a fortune on the scenery, costumes and accessories of this production. The cast supporting Mr. Henshaw, who appears in the title role, will include Alice Yorke, May Ten Broeck, Forrest Huff, Effreda Busing, Sol Solomon, Frances Golden, Harry Lane, Kathryn Beresford, Walter Ware, Harry J. Siegfried, the Five Nosses, military band, and a chorus and ballet of eighty.

There are any amount of excellent songs to be found in the "Kentucky Belles," an exceptionally sterling burlesque troupe that is booked for an engagement at the Star Theatre, commencing next Monday matinee. One song in particular, as a novelty, has the alluring title of "Hello, Sweet Forty-nine."

Almost every musical comedy or comic opera produced in the past few years has laid stress upon its pretty girls, but "The Yankee Consul," which opens at the Grand on Monday evening, enjoys the unique distinction of having the prettiest aggregation of chorus girls that ever graced a stage or added zest to a comic opera offering. The chorus in "The Yankee Consul" numbers forty pretty girls. The cast in all numbers 74 people. It is one of the most pretentious comic opera offerings of the season.

An entertainment that will appeal stringently to theatre-goers is "Buster Brown's Holiday," which will be given at the Majestic Theatre all next week. The manager has mounted the play with his usual good taste and liberality and given spectacular and musical accompaniments of ballet, chorus and a group of pretty girls of guaranteed quadruple plated loveliness, clad in robes of the latest style and richest texture.

MASTER RICE AS "BUSTER BROWN" IN "BUSTER'S HOLIDAY" AT THE MAJESTIC NEXT WEEK.

YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

WHAT EGLINTON SHOULD GET FROM THE METROPOLITAN RY.

Four Tickets for Ten Cents Not an Unreasonable Demand—Model Schools Opening.

The York Radial Co. already gives four tickets for 10 cents in Little York and the question arises, why should the Toronto Street Railway object to three tickets for 10 cents?

Some years ago the York Radial entered into an agreement with the people of Little York by which Little York gave the company the right to lay a double track thru the town, and the company in return gave special tickets to Little Yorkers. These special tickets are in a strip, four tickets to a strip, one ticket along the York Radial, two tickets over the Toronto line and one ticket York Radial, thus making a complete return trip of four tickets for 10 cents.

The Metropolitan Railway is seeking concessions from the Village of Eglington. The Metropolitan wants the right to double track thru the village, but the village council is objecting unless the railway has some concessions to give to the people. In view of the experience of Little York the citizens are now asking that the Metropolitan give them four tickets for 10c. As it is now it is much more than this. As one man, who works in the city and travels on return tickets, said yesterday, it costs him 14 cents a day. If the concession that Little York got is given also to Eglington this would mean a saving to this one man of four cents a day, a very considerable amount in the long run.

Toronto Junction.
Toronto Junction, Aug. 23.—A horse attached to a delivery wagon fell exhausted from heat about 2 o'clock this afternoon on the Weston-road, near Brown's Hotel.

E. B. Wright has been detailed by the C.L.A. to referee the semi-final game between Durham and Markdale at Markdale to-morrow afternoon.

At the fire test at the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. today the fire department, using the supplementary pumps of the factory, had five streams playing on the building at one time, and the water was forced to the fourth story.

The following scholarships and honors were won by the pupils of the Collegiate Institute at the recent university scholarship examinations: A. L. Hart, first in first-class honors in chemistry, physics, biology; second in first-class honors in mathematics; awarded the first Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics and science, also ranked for the first Edward Blake scholarship in science, the second Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics, and, by reversal, the eighth Edward Blake scholarship in general proficiency.

M. J. McHenry, first-class honors in chemistry, physics, and second-class honors in biology, with first-class honors in the science group and second-class honors in mathematics.

Miss B. Rogers, first-class honors in English, French and German, standing fifth in the modern language group.

Miss E. McHenry, second-class honors in English, French and German, third-class honors in history.

The town council and officials paid a visit to the works of the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. yesterday afternoon, had the process of manufacturing and assembling fully explained by General Manager A. Russell, Mr. C. H. Roberts and Mr. Emmerson, saw the fire fighting appliances of the company and town in actual operation, and, after refreshments, the aftermath being a round of oratory. The object of the inspection was to hear the company's outline of the proposed extension to the plant, and to look over a couple of parcels of land the company proposes to buy from the town. These parcels lie within the company's works, and are of no possible use or value to the town, and the aldermen were unanimous in saying the company's offer was generous. The company desires to spend the money they pay for the land on the improvement of Keele-street, in front of the factory.

Scarboro Old Boys.

A reunion of the old-time residents of the townships of Markham, Scarboro and East York, now living in the city, was held at Island Park yesterday afternoon and proved to be a thoroughly enjoyable and well attended event. About 60 of those invited were present, and so enthusiastic were the members over the success of the venture that it was unanimously decided to make the event an annual one. Luncheon was provided by the hotel. On motion of Mr. Clark, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered Simpson Rennie, D. A. Milne, of other minor washouts occurred in different parts of the town. The septic tank excavations were filled with water and for a time the middle of the railway track at Kenilworth-avenue was a miniature river.

Mr. Williamson and family have returned from Joseph Lake. W. G. Snells' handsome new store, near the corner of Lee-avenue and Queen-street, is nearly completed.

Workmen to-day were excavating the foundation for a new store to the west of Mr. Snell's on Queen-street, to be occupied by Mr. Marshall.
