HOW GOVERNMENT SALE WORKS IN ALBERTA

(One of a series of twenty articles following impartial investigation of government sale of liquor as practised in Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia and Quebec.)

MERCHANTS LOSING TRADE AS DRUNKENNESS DOUBLES UNDER GOVERNMENT SALE

Businessmen In Alberta Disgusted With Results Under New Law—Rural Districts Suffer As Consumption of All Liquors, Good and Bad, Increases.

LIVES ENDANGERED BY RECKLESS DRIVING

Government control having been in operation in Alberta less than four months, it is not surprising that some citizens in Alberta have not definite or final opinions as to what results are being obtained.

The chief of police of Edmonton thought it was working fairly satisfactorily, although he said there was more drunkenness than under prohibition and more reckless driving. He felt that the provision for drinking in rooms at the hotels might be a mistake, as people went there, sometimes men with women, and made themselves a nuisance to the rest of the guests.

I noticed some hilarity at night in a number of the rooms of the hotel where I was staying, but nothing of a scandalous nature.

Ex-Mayor Duggan was of the opinion that businessmen were not pleased with tendencies developed by the act. Business certainly had not been helped by government control, and there was more drinking and drunkenness. Drunks were becoming common on the streets and quite a lot of comment about it was being heard.

A man in the furniture business told me that under prohibition there had been a great improvement in his business and in the buying of supplies for the home. He could not say that he had noticed any appreciable change during recent months, but that might be due to special conditions in connection with his particular store.

Bad in Rural Districts. I heard of one party of prominent Edmonton citizens who formed a very unfavorable impression of the act as a result of a trip through the province. One of these men was a banker. Another was a leading merchant. The third was a broker. The fourth was connected with municipal government. They all take an occasional glass. But their verdict, after visiting some of the towns in which the government control board had granted not say that any were drunk; many were flushed and excited.

Four Drunks at One Place.

It was just closing time as I passed a third hotel on my way back to my room. Things were livelier here and the police timekeeper had some strenuous arguments with customers who did not want to quit drinking. I saw four men stagger out of this place, two of them trying vainly to steady one another. Another chap, a fine-looking young fellow, well dressed and in knee breeches, apparently a stranger in town, was in a great state of consternation over the closing down of the taverns at such a Puritan hour. He stumbled into the restaurant next door looking for additional refreshment, and asking what in the heck did they think it was—midnight. Later at the MacDonald Hotel I saw the same chap come in and try to use his blandishment on the celestial bellboy, who, in his inimitable way, told the blubious one that he was out of luck.

I saw more drunkenness in Edmonton than I had noticed in Winnipeg. The fact that I was there on Saturday night and at the closing hour may explain why Edmonton looked worse than the Manitoba capital.

Put Blame on Ottawa.

A provincial government official was very indignant with what he called the laxity of the dominion government in enforcing the excise laws. In Edmonton, as in Winnipeg, the authorities intimated that something was very rotten in the customs and excise department.

My Alberta government informant said that whiskey was being smuggled into Alberta from British Columbia and being sold to bootleggers, who, relieved of the heavy duties, undersold the government. This man, not a prohibitionist, declared that the dominion collected duties and taxes of $20 per gallon on whiskey that sold in Scotland for $2. I do not vouch for these figures, but pass them on for what they are worth, believing that they illustrate, if they exaggerate, a truth. Men of varying shades of opinion told me that the government whiskey prices were too high and drove people to the bootleggers.

In Alberta civil service circles it is said that steamers take whiskey through the Panama canal to British Columbia ports, where the whiskey is placed in bond. It is then released for export to some foreign country, but travels only a short distance and puts back to Canada to be distributed by various subterranean means to the bootlegging and rum-running fraternity. Calgary was suffering more in that respect, I was led to believe, than Edmonton.

Not What People Expected.

A man interested in the all-round development of the boy told me that he found a lot of people in church circles who had voted for government control saying, "Why, this is not what we voted for; we expected something altogether different." This man said that a lot of people voted for government control because they were told it would reduce drinking and drunkenness, swell the provincial and municipal revenues and reduce taxation. Taxation had not been reduced and there was considerably more drinking and drunkenness. So these people felt very much cheated.

A prominent citizen, who can enjoy a drink, said he regarded the sale of beer by many licensed places as the worst form of government control. It was prejudicial to business. People were getting drunk and either must be drinking larger quantities of beer or getting stronger stuff put into their glasses. Things had become wide open. They could not be controlled. Such tendencies had already developed and it seemed certain that government control was riding for a fall in Alberta.

Besides the menace of beer drinking in a multitude of places endorsed by the government control board I was informed that many foreign settlers, particularly Russians, made strong liquor in their homes. Chief Shute of the Edmonton police emphasized this fact. The foreigners, he said, had always made their home brew. They had done so on the continent—terrible, poisonous stuff. They continued under prohibition. And they were still at it. And whiskey prices were so high that when these foreigners took their product to country towns they readily found buyers.

Figures of Drunkenness.

I was given the figures for drunkenness and for reckless driving of motor cars by intoxicated men during the months of June and July, since the system of government control got well under way. These figures were prepared by men who are not hostile to government control and record the result of activity by police who naturally show a tendency to be more lenient with drunks when they can buy liquor from the government than when all purchasing and sale of liquor are illegal:

	1923.	1924.
June	20	65
July	33	67
Total, two months	63	132

These figures from Edmonton show an increase of 70 cases in drunkenness, or 111 per cent, during two months under a venient control as against the same two months of last year under prohibition. In July of this year, because of the increase in reckless driving, three persons convicted of driving automobiles while intoxicated were given jail sentences. The total of such cases for all last year was 10. During June and July this year eight persons were charged with having liquor illegally in their possession as against five for the corresponding period last year.

Beauty, Comedy and Songs Fantastic Dancing Scenes All Make 'The Cameo Girl'

Play By Londoners Amazes With Cleverness and Quality of Acting.

CHORUSES DELIGHT

Miss Marion Beck and Lady King-Tension Are Charming.

"The Cameo Girl" went across with a bang on the first night of its showing in the grand opera house. The large audience which packed pit and galleries may have come through curiosity, but left amazed at the excellent entertainment which had been offered.

For rarely does London have the opportunity of seeing so fine a musical comedy. And almost never do the musical comedy writers of London produce persons known in the community.

Out of a galaxy of brilliant choruses stood "The Cameo Girl," played by Miss Marion Beck and Lady King-Tension, who, with their charming stage presence, subtle personality and beautiful singing voice helped to lift the production to almost professional dignity.

And with her, more than vying for the honors of the evening, were Lady Brigid King-Tension and Stanley Meredith, the star comedians of the performance.

While Miss Beck captured her audience with her voice and her personality, Lady King-Tension and Mr. Meredith, sent that same audience into gales of merry laughter by their spontaneous humor.

Lady Brigid is a born comedian. Her fun-making is quick and irresistible. As the "Duchess" she is one of the players who "make the show." Mr. Meredith's stage work is well known. In "The Cameo Girl" he is seen at his best, and plays up to Lady Brigid in clever fashion.

One of the finest voices of the cast is that of Harold Hinde, an actor, who played opposite Miss Beck in the role of an artist of Greenwich village. Their duet "In Shadowland" was one of the loveliest numbers of the evening.

Mr. Hambridge has an assured stage presence and dramatic sense. It is well cast in the leading male role.

Duets Beautiful.

Miss Shirley Johnston and Sydney Kingsmill have a lovely duet of "Mimi and Rudolph" were also heard together in a pretty duet "Nursery of Love." Miss Johnston proved a vision and altogether charming. Mimi, Mr. Kingsmill was an adequate Rudolph.

The music of "The Cameo Girl" is attractive, the costumes pretty, the direction of the production is excellent. The role was well taken by Mrs. Reid. Altogether it was a most successful production. It was given by the National Municipal League in aid of the National O. D. E. scholarship fund for deceased soldiers' children, and will be repeated tonight and twice on Wednesday.

One of the most attractive choruses was "The Cinderella Ballet," a large troupe of old-fashioned style, with pretty grace, led by Pat Manuel, Catherine Dickinson and Lucy Cownham. The Puddle Aisle Chorus, led by Miss Marjorie Skinner, made one of the biggest hits. Still others might be mentioned—the Pierrette Chorus, the Powder Puff, the great Coronation Ballet, the Jazz Girls and the Cameo Girls.

The costumes throughout was effective and colorful. "I Think I See" sung by Mr. Hambridge and the Phantom Chorus, is a pretty number, introducing small spotlights.

Two of the favorite performers were Miss Mitchell and Miss Catherine Beltz, as merry little buglers in the coronation scene. Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce was seen in a popular solo dance, "The Stolen Gypsy."

The comedy roles of the three chancellors are taken by Major Logan Towns, Marcus Anden and Colin Scatcherd, who give a very fine exhibition of the lock-step.

Other Principals.

Other principals in the cast are George Mitchell, Jack Hungerford, Miss Constance Gisholm, Miss Gussie Wilson and Miss Regina Kennedy, all of whom have been excellently cast. Miss Reta Lowry and Miss Gertrude Morgan do very fine work as entertainers.

The production is being skillfully directed by Miss Edna Schroppe of New York, while Mrs. E. H. Johnston, who has been acting as general convenor on behalf of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, under whose auspices "The Cameo Girl" was presented.

The first scene of "The Cameo Girl" is laid in Greenwich Village, the Bohemian section of New York city, while the production concludes with a spectacular coronation scene in Morovia, a mythical kingdom of Europe. This scene is given for elaborate costuming and attractive choruses.

The curtain rises on "Shadowland," depicted by the use of a shallow stage and effective drop curtain. Three chancellors appear, looking for the long-lost princess of Morovia. They are greeted by the Spirit of Shadowland and her bevy of pretty Powder Puffs, who dance down into the audience to find faces to dust.

This chorus includes: Marion McCann, Eileen Stevens, Anita Foster, Doda Pearce, Marjorie Harper, Helen Langford, Evelyn Gandy, Dorothy Spittal, Dorothy Field, Helen McCormick, Toots McCauley.

Coronation Ballet.—Dorothy Coleridge, Eileen Stevens, Peggy Shannon, Iva Clements, Gladys Brown, Mary Kay, Phyllis Butchart, Blanche Carrothers, Barbara Gibberd, Mary Clark, Marjorie Hookway, Velda Fisher, Lillian Brady, Marjorie Montgomery, Thelma Delaney, Agnes Garvey, Marion Gillelan, Ruth Curroe, Janet Jones, Helen Sweet, Gertrude Quigley, Mary Steele, Betty Wismer, Shirley Thompson, Margaret Mugan.

The confidante responsible for the production included: Mrs. E. H. Johnston, general convenor; co-conveners, Mrs. A. E. Miller, Mrs. Allen McLean, Mrs. V. E. H. Hinde, Mrs. D. E. Campbell and 7th Regiment Chapter; talent, Mrs. Gordon Hunt and Princess Patricia Chapter; publicity, Mrs. Suburban and Hugh Niven Chapter; details, Mrs. W. H. Line and Harriet A. MAJESTIC OFFERS GOOD BURLESQUE

Kandy Kids Seething With Fine Songs—Audience Well Satisfied.

CLEVER DANCING

If it would not be considered an exaggeration, we would like to call Jake Potar's "Kandy Kids" a monopoly. The presentation, which opened at the Majestic Theatre yesterday for the first "free days of this week, seems to have cornered most of the worthwhile ingredients which, with a happy mixture of song, dance and capers, topped with the "Kandy Kids" themselves, go to make first-class burlesque.

Not that the show has a monopoly of old stuff with a new setting; the material for the most part is new and striking in its originality. It might best be called a show of specialties.

Some of these were: "The Dance of the Wooden Soldiers," in which Billy Reed danced so well that the Majestic rang with applause, and well it might, for he is one of the most skillful dancers seen here this season.

A song "Shine" made one of the several hits of the performance. The chorus invaded the aisles and sang the number several times, while Miss Syd Burke, soubrette sang, Sammy Spears, as Shinsky, an impromptu traffic cop in an informal atmosphere had a hard time persuading the audience to permit the shoe shiners to go back to the scenery.

It was the extra touch of informality that makes the Kandy Kids more or less of a riot. The chorus is given lots of latitude and the members have opportunities to express themselves. Were this not so who would have thought that Lady Astor was among them and she brought shrieks of delight from the audience when she spoke of dear old Piccadilly.

Babe Spears, a chorus lady who is not too bashful, sang a ditty entitled, "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Ocean." Elsie Garring, Flo Bennett, in fact, the whole chorus was good. It is to the credit of the management that the girls are given a chance to get out and display their talents along with the principals. Needless to say, it also put life in the show.

Sammy Spears, as Shinsky the Hebrew, gives a clever interpretation. He is a humorist, and no mean dancer. He has any amount of snappy jokes and keeps the crowd giggling long past the usual time for going home.

Johnny Weber, who helps him, makes the comedy end of the bill strong. He dispenses a nice line of foolishness. George Gray and Warren Boyd in turn help him. He has lots of help.

Miss DeLoce has a voice that is better than one looks for in burlesque, thus "June Night" and other songs are made more pleasing to the ear. Miss Elsie Raynor also sings and leads the Kandy Kids in many popular hits. To sum it up in a few words, it's a real good show.

Uniform Standard For Marking Exams Planned By Public School Inspector

UNIFORM GRADING OF PUPILS URGED

Junior Public School Inspector Engaged in Charting Sixteen Schools.

STANDARD PLAN

G. A. Wheable, junior public school inspector, is at present engaged in charting the sixteen schools of his district with a view to establishing a uniform standard for grading the pupils at the examinations held throughout the year.

For some years past the London public school entrance board has followed a system of its own to determine a standard for comparing the marking of examination papers by the different entrance class teachers throughout the city schools.

Statistics prepared by Inspector Wheable thus far in his charting indicate that the system followed by the entrance board has been a fair and accurate one. Consequently the inspector feels that his charting system will prove of reliable value with regard to the classes below entrance grade.

One of the chief objects Inspector Wheable has in mind in carrying out his charting scheme is to make 50 per cent in one class the same as 50 per cent in the same grade in another school. At present there is a wide variance in the marking of papers, some teachers marking the papers too severely, while others are inclined to grade higher.

A considerable amount of work is entailed in securing the complete information Inspector Wheable is seeking. He has completed figures showing the average mark throughout the city schools on the various subjects of study in grade VII and grade VIII. For purposes of comparison the inspector is going back to secure figures for the year 1923 as well as 1924. Figures prepared by Inspector Wheable to date are as follows:

	Grade 7.	Grade 8.
Reading	72	72
Spelling	68	67
Writing	63	67
Literature	64	70
Composition	65	65
Geography	58	72.5
History	63	61
Arithmetic	55	59
Grammar	60	64

In comparing the figures for the averages for grade VIII are lower for 1924 than for 1923. Inspector Wheable stated that such was the result of the policy being followed recently throughout the schools in allowing every boy or girl to write the entrance examination who had a possible chance to pass the examination successfully.

ROTARIANS PAY SANATORIUM VISIT

Members of Club Are Welcomed at Byron by Sir Adam Beck.

The visit paid by the members of the Rotary club was pronounced as both enjoyable and instructive by the Rotarians, who attended to the number of over 100.

The Rotarians were welcomed upon their arrival at the hospital by Dr. Pratten, superintendent, and Sir Adam Beck, president of the London Health association.

Formalities were largely dispensed with, and following a brief speech of welcome by Sir Adam Beck, the party upon being divided up into five or six groups, was shown over the entire establishment by members of the staff detailed to do the honors. In his address Sir Adam expressed the hope that the Rotarians would make it a point to visit the sanatorium at least once a year. Last year speeches took up so much of the time that little or no opportunity was afforded the members of the club to make an inspection of the hospital.

American Engineer Tells of Elaborate Burial Places of Indian Chiefs.

GREAT BALLS OF GOLD

Ancient Cathedrals, Churches Discovered Hidden in Dense Jungle.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Oct. 7.—A young engineer, W. R. Flanagan, returning today from Panama, tells of the finding of the tombs of Indian chiefs in the mountains of Panama, who have slept for 8,000 years.

Flanagan, who is vice-president and consulting engineer of the National Construction Company, who arrived here on board the Grace Line steamer Santa Eliza to recover from an attack of malaria, contracted while building a road through the jungles of Panama, told of finding not only the bodies of the chiefs, but the garden spot where they rest, and of cathedrals and churches hidden away in the center of this jungle.

"Baqueito," said Flanagan, who was embraced on the pier before boarding ship by the retiring president of Panama, Belasario Porras, "was a center of wealth and a crude kind of culture center before the coming of the Spaniards. The old world was civilized. That is what we have been delving about there have concluded. For all you know, civilization may have started on this side of the world after all."

"When I was in Baquete recently the natives digging in the side of a dead volcano found the tombs of chiefs of the tribe of Indians that lived in that region 8,000 years ago. Archaeologists who have been in there say the tombs must have been made 8,000 years ago. Some of the work is famous archaeologists. I am told, are now flocking there to continue the interesting discovery."

Instead of mummified bodies, that absorbed the bodies of the chiefs, there must be rich gold deposits near by, as the metal must have been plentiful. Great solid gold balls, hampered and rounded by the soil, and small gold balls are found in the tombs, as well as rich and flaming colored pottery of a make that is found no longer.

Some of the tombs have been found. In some of the tombs are clubs and other symbols of the rank of the dead man."

MARKET BYLAW MUST BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Mayor Wenige Declares Council Ruling on Hucksters Must Be Obeyed.

Mayor Wenige avers that the provisions of the market by-law must be rigidly enforced. He started action today to see that clauses regulating hucksters were obeyed and carried out by Market Clerk Maker and that the 80 per cent clause, which is still in existence, was observed.

"I was over to the market this morning. There were plenty of hucksters there in bad locations. The 80 per cent clause is still law and it must be observed by the market clerk."

Mayor Wenige's proposal to have the 80 per cent clause respecting bona fide growers inserted in the new by-law failed to gain the necessary majority last night at the council. However, his words point out that the new by-law has not been completed and the old statutes must be adhered to for the present.

"Y" SWIMMERS TO GET TRAINING IN SPEED

Frank Shaw, heading the aquatic department of the Y. M. C. A., is shortly to start a talk on last year.

The club will be made up of London men who will measure up to the standard set by the International Swimming Association. The local men will compete against the local associations when dual meets have been arranged.

NUKOL PLANT IS SOLD FOR $2,500

Extensive Port Stanley Property Bought by Two Toronto Firms.

COST $25,000

The extensive property of the Port Stanley Nukol Company has been sold by the official guardians, the General Trust Company of Toronto, to two firms of that city.

The price realized, according to N. S. Cornell, president of the Nukol Company, which went into liquidation early in 1922, was in the neighborhood of $2,500. Mr. Cornell stated further that he considered this an extremely low price, owing to the fact that when the Nukol Company purchased the building for $5,000, it lacked the modern improvements and machinery which it now possesses.

With the liquidation of the company the numerous shareholders of Western Ontario lost heavily on their investments. Bonds were sold on the property to the extent of nearly $100,000, but the small amount obtained by the sale of this property is a little prospect of the bondholders securing any return on their investment.

It is estimated that the value of the machinery in the building, which is to be shipped to Toronto for scrapping purposes, is between $15,000 and $20,000. The investors in London and St. Thomas have been heavy losers through the Nukol Company's operations.

This company was originated by Frank Slater of Toronto, who, with his son-in-law, Gerald Thompson, was sentenced after a lengthy trial to a term in the penitentiary for fraudulent practices. Thompson was afterwards pardoned for coming to the aid of jail guards in an attempt to escape by concealing the Port Stanley Nukol company in parole on account of his becoming totally blind.

The Nukol property was formerly owned by the Standard Implement Company, which fifteen years ago manufactured farm implements. The property lay idle until 1920, when it was purchased by the Port Stanley Nukol company, which commenced operations at once.

NIGHT CLASSES OPEN WITH BIG ENROLLMENT

Additional Classes Necessary in Many Courses, Principal Beal States.

The night classes at the Technical high school opened last night with the largest enrollment ever experienced in the history of the classes.

Principal H. B. Beal intimated this morning that registration for the different courses, 50 in number, will be continued throughout the week. The principal is confident that the total enrollment of next year will exceed that of last year by a considerable number.

There were 1,025 taking the night classes last year at the Tech school.

Principal Beal stated that because of the particularly large number enrolled in certain courses, additional classes had been formed in cooking, dressmaking, shorthand typewriting, millinery, industrial chemistry, drafting, science of electricity, electric wiring, machine shop work and show-card writing.

GAME HUNTING SEASON OPENS AT PORT STANLEY

The game hunting season at Port Stanley and the surrounding district has started.

Rabbits are plentiful, and the demand for rabbit pies in many homes is on the increase. A number of specimens weighing nearly two pounds each were caught by hunters on Saturday.

Skunk and groundhog skins are also being sought, the fur being valuable in a few weeks' time. The skins are cleaned and sent to New York and Boston by Port Stanley fisherman, who have nothing else to occupy their time in winter months.

ST. JAMES' A. Y. P. A.

At a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting of St. James' Anglican A. Y. P. A., the election of officers took place. Much rivalry was seen in the voting, some of the officers having to be voted on twice before a decision was arrived at. Jack Liddle was re-elected president for a third term; Norman Campbell, first vice-president; Fred Myers, second vice-president; Kenneth Hodgins, third vice-president; Florence Martin, secretary; and Myrtle Richmond, treasurer.

The rector gave a talk on the aims of the A. Y. P. A. During the evening the presentation of a beautiful pair of candlesticks was made to Mrs. Allison, formerly Miss Edith S. Pay, a reading by Miss Margery Fisher, and a solo by Mr. Warren were greatly enjoyed. Mr. Merrifield and Miss Jean Cadwallader had charge of the games. A fine program is being worked out for the season, which will be held on the 11th of October.

NEW DOG BY-LAW MAY BE PASSED

Westminster Township Lacks
Law To Take Action Against Owners.

MEETS TODAY

Westminster township council meeting at the county buildings today will likely pass a by-law to do away with all stray dogs in the township and make some provision to destroy vicious dogs who attack people.

Some weeks ago a dog bit a child in the leg, but the owner could not be prosecuted because there was no by-law to cover the offence.

Since that time another child has been bitten and still nothing has been done.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council this morning and action is promised at the afternoon session.

Deputy-Reeve Boler was quite anxious to have the council members journey to Byron and look over the site of a proposed township road in the vicinity of Steve Houston's farm.

"I don't want to go," objected Reeve Laidlaw.

"I want you to go," replied Mr. Boler. "These people have been hollering at me for weeks."

The county engineer stated he would be glad to make the trip late that afternoon and give the council advice on the matter and Mr. Boler thought he had the affair settled.

"We can't go tonight. It gets dark too early," objected the reeve once more.

Councillor Greive was also anxious to get home early and he stood behind the reeve. Councillors Davis and Johnston weren't anxious for the trip to Byron and the matter was finally shelved.

"We might go on October 23," suggested one councillor, suggesting that Mr. Boler will be tied up that day with his duties as election clerk for East Middlesex.

The reeve was appointed to meet with representatives of North Dorchester township regarding a proposed drain from Dorchester into Westminster township.

spirit of mediaeval crookedness and torture.

"The government," he declared, "is not to be censured, but only insulted. It is not to be executed—only put on the rack. By this little manoeuvre we are to go down and the fortunes of the Liberal party are to be restored. They mistake their men."

Doing Best Possible.

The Conservative motion referred to censures the government, and with regard to the abandonment of sedition charges against James Ross Campbell, acting editor of Workers Weekly, a communist publication.

The amendment by the Liberals, proposes that instead of censuring the government a select committee shall be appointed to investigate the circumstances leading to the withdrawal of the prosecution of the editor.

After detailing the principal successes since Labor had been in power, the premier said a cure for unemployment had not yet been found, "but no government has done more than this government, to alleviate the hard lot of the victims of unemployment."

The next Labor budget, he added, would carry on the good work of its predecessors in the reduction of taxes and duty on commodities for the benefit of the workers.

After making a declaration of support for Communism, the premier expressed the hope that the Labor movement in Great Britain and other countries would be induced to fall into the Communist trap and thus render countenance to one of the ordinary excuses which capitalists use to avoid the use of force to increase their grip on the lives of the workers.

The prime minister's address was loudly applauded by the communists, who adopted the same line of reasoning in their own speeches.

On its record, approving its handling of the Irish situation and offering "our fullest support and encouragement" to the premier, the cabinet and the parliamentary party.

At a meeting of the London Public School Principals' Association held last night the following resolution in support of the Ontario Temperance act was passed unanimously:

"We, the members of the London Public School Principals' Association, wish to put ourselves on record as endorsing the many beneficial results of the O. T. A., inasmuch as it has brought about a very improved condition in the children of our schools."

"In the days before prohibition there was always a number of pupils who were poorly clothed and underfed, coming from homes where liquor was the result of parents using liquor. Today that class has entirely disappeared from the schools, and families who were formerly poor and wretched are now prosperous, well-clothed and happy."

"For these reasons and many others we feel that with the improvement promised by the prime minister, the O. T. A. is very much to be preferred to any system of government control."

The association raised the sum of $38 for the temperance campaign, which sum is to be turned over to the London plebiscite campaign committee.

CULTIVATE SENSE OF HUMOR AND AVOID ROWS, SAYS SHAW

Bulgarian Students in Berlin
Interest Noted Irish Dramatist.

DEFENDS PLAY

Ridicules Flurry Over Recent Production of "Arms and the Man."

Associated Press Despatch.
Berlin, Oct. 7.—Bulgarian students in Berlin and Vienna are admonished by Bernard Shaw, the Irish dramatist, to develop a sense of humor. The writer promises to assist them in this, pleading that such an acquisition will eliminate future trouble.

The playwright's advice is embodied in a whimsical letter written to a Berlin editor, which was prompted by the recent flurry over the production of Shaw's "Arms and the Man," to which the Bulgarian legion made a formal protest, and which subsequently involved the intervention of the German foreign office in a censorial capacity.

The foreign office proved diplomatic, the Bulgarian colony in Berlin was appeased, and the local production of the play became the beneficiary of unexpected publicity.

Urging that the functions of the writer of comedy is the chastening of morals by ridicule, Shaw in his letter assumes that civilized Bulgarians enjoy "Arms and the Man," quite as much as do German audiences, as they are more directly interested.

He continues: "The barbarous Bulgarians (Bulgaria, like other nations, has its rustic and barbarians) behave exactly as my own countrymen behaved when Synge's 'Playboy of the Western World' was performed in Dublin. But for the credit of their country's civilization, they should have been shot, even if they feel they would like to shoot me, as many people do in England and the United States."

Councillor Greive was also anxious to get home early and he stood behind the reeve. Councillors Davis and Johnston weren't anxious for the trip to Byron and the matter was finally shelved.

G.W.V.A. INDORSES BOY SCOUT IDEAS

Resolution Passed by Local Branch After Long Discussion.

A resolution declaring the local branch of the G. W. V. A. to be in sympathy with the cadet and boy scout movement, was passed last night at a general meeting of the branch in the Dugout.

The resolution after a long discussion was passed unanimously, the members agreeing on the beneficial effects of discipline on young and growing boys.

Harry Wray, president of the branch, said this morning: "We feel that in these times when there is a certain amount of disregard for authority that the discipline which boys get in these two movements is the best antidote. We are veterans, and we know all about service and militarism. For militarism we have no use, and we are quite open about that, but we do believe that in the world, Mr. Wallace said. Although it is impossible to estimate its total cost, Mr. Wallace said it would eventually run into millions."

The court has already set $2,000,000 aside from the estate of George J. Gould to defray his share of the trial expense, and Wallace said he believed that the $10,000 a day estimate understated the actual expense.

This figure, he explained, covers the fees of all of the 35 counsel, the allowance made by the big money and the cost of stenography and printing.

Today that class has entirely disappeared from the schools, and families who were formerly poor and wretched are now prosperous, well-clothed and happy."

"For these reasons and many others we feel that with the improvement promised by the prime minister, the O. T. A. is very much to be preferred to any system of government control."

The association raised the sum of $38 for the temperance campaign, which sum is to be turned over to the London plebiscite campaign committee.

At a meeting of the London Public School Principals' Association held last night the following resolution in support of the Ontario Temperance act was passed unanimously:

"We, the members of the London Public School Principals' Association, wish to put ourselves on record as endorsing the many beneficial results of the O. T. A., inasmuch as it has brought about a very improved condition in the children of our schools."

"In the days before prohibition there was always a number of pupils who were poorly clothed and underfed, coming from homes where liquor was the result of parents using liquor. Today that class has entirely disappeared from the schools, and families who were formerly poor and wretched are now prosperous, well-clothed and happy."

BAPTIST Y.P.U.'S HOLD BIG RALLY

United Societies Hear Fine
Address by Rev. A. A.
Burgess—Elected Officers.

According to reports given by Secretary McIntyre and Treasurer Cooke at the annual meeting of the Baptist Young People's union held last night in the Adelaide Street Baptist church, that organization has grown both in size and financial standing during the last year.

This very large gathering was attended by all the young people of the city. The great enthusiasm shown, promises an even greater report for next year.

The new officers for the coming year were presented by the nominating committee, and carried as a whole. They are as follows: Honorary president, Miss P. Kennedy; president, James Gibson; vice-president, Miss Alice Clarke; corresponding secretary, Miss Pym; treasurer, R. Cooke; superintendent of junior department, Miss Hazel Shaw; and superintendent of missions, Miss Shaw.

Tie for Shield.
The Kensal Park and Hope Mission bands tied for the shield offered to the group having the largest number present. Since the Hope mission had already held the shield for two terms of three months, the shield was awarded to Kensal Park for the coming six weeks. At the end of that time it will be turned over to their opponents, who will retain it for the balance of the period.

Each group sang its motto, while giving its report, and the tunes varied from hymns to popular music.

Speaks on Christianity.
Rev. A. A. Burgess was the speaker of the evening, taking as his subject, "The Challenge of the Cross." "Christianity," he said, "is not a religion of the incompetent; it belongs to the people who are the backbone of the world, and who are ready and willing to die for it."

Showing that this which is the making of a nation is indeed greater, he gave statistics on the early advances of the church.

"Originally, there was Christ alone," he said. "He took twelve men and his followers, and in 40 days when John died there were 500,000, and now there are 40,000,000."

"Never has any one man gathered so many followers as Christ, and there will never be a personage who will compare with him in the history of the world," continued the speaker.

"He is the one to whom the problems of man can be submitted, and the people will always find a solution, and it is through him that civilization is kept up. Take away the respect for God and the church and the world would be a chaos before the morals of our country are gone."

The Only Religion.
"Christianity is the only religion that looks to the future, and in every other belief there is a presentism."

"It is growing rapidly through the co-operation of the people in Canada and other Christian lands and today the boundaries are from one end of the earth to the other."

"What has brought this about? Nothing but the challenge of the cross, which is being made to us daily, but in so many cases not being heeded. Our work and extension is not being won through cunning, but by the love that is in our hearts for our Master, and the desire that others as well as ourselves should have it."

Garden flowers of all varieties are becoming scarcer on the local market.

Although a few pansies were noticed this morning, no sweet peas, snapdragons, geraniums or hydrangeas are to be obtained. Growers state that the recent sunshine and rain, together with the absence of frost will make it possible to offer probably the last of these on Saturday.

Last Saturday a large and varied assortment of flowers and ferns was offered and local growers assert that the coming Saturday will be a repetition of the success of the previous Saturday, and view the colorful scene.

GRANT APPLICATIONS.
Applications of Adelaide street Baptist church and of Hale street Methodist church for the use of the East End hall have been granted, subject to terms which will be arranged by Chairman Douglass of the finance committee of the city council, and City Treasurer Bell.

Inspector George Tustin of the humane society has returned from a trip to Exeter where he found two farmers working horses that were not fit to be on the roads, he declares.

"One man is being summoned," stated the inspector today. "The other man I let go with a warning. He has a large family to keep and is doing his best to make his way in the world. I told him he must not work his horses until they were better, and he gave me his promise."

TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY
SHOW $354,917 VALUATION

Transfers of property recorded during the month show valuation of $354,917 for 130 exchanges. In September, 1923, there were 143 transfers, though values were little higher.

Many interesting figures for the sale of real estate property are shown in the following table: Sales during the month included those of the clergyman's residences at Wortley road Baptist church and of St. John the Evangelist (Anglican).

AMERICAN COAL TO SUPPLY NEEDS

Production in Canadian Fields
Has Been Gradually on Decrease.

Whether the winter of 1924-1925 is going to be a 30-below affair or not, it is going to be American coal which is going to keep the frost out. Coal production in the Dominion whether in Alberta or in the Maritimes has been slackening for some time past, and in July a new low figure was reached. It was two per cent below the previous low record which was established in May last.

In June the total importation from the United States and Great Britain increased over 15 per cent. For the whole year the importation of coal into the Dominion was slightly in excess of 9,000,000 tons.

Although the total amount of coal mined in July in the Dominion was more than in June, it was 16 per cent less than the amount for July in the last five-year period. At the end of July there were 17,522 men working in Canada mining coal, as compared with 20,830 in July of last year. The average, however, produced more coal than they did last year and produced for the month 38.1 tons as against 34.7 in July, 1923.

The largest loss in production took place in Saskatchewan, where it was 26 per cent, and lowest in Nova Scotia, where it was 3 per cent. In New Brunswick there was actually an increase in production of 6 per cent for July. These figures are supplied in the monthly report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on the coal situation, published from Ottawa.

Triscuit has arrived!

Your grocer has it—the new Triscuit you have been waiting for. It is a real whole wheat cracker, not made of flour. It is the whole wheat cooked in steam, shredded and baked. The crisp, savory shreds of whole wheat encourage thorough chewing—and the more you chew it the better it tastes. Full of nutriment and easy to digest. Delicious with butter or soft cheese. Tastes better when toasted in the oven to restore its crispness.

"BILL" AND "JERRY."

W. C. Coloff, popularly known as "Bill" in his home town of Tillsonburg, has a tame crow, "Jerry," as a pet. "Jerry" rides regularly to the office with Mr. Coloff, and is becoming a genial pal despite his persistent pranks.

Tame Crow In Tillsonburg Goes To Work With Master

Special to The Advertiser.
Tillsonburg, Oct. 5.—The Pan-Dei town would be a dead town without W. C. Coloff, president of the Tillsonburg Shoe Company, Limited, and his pet.
"Bill" as every school kid in the district addresses him, now owns a very smart, tame crow by the name of Jerry, and during the past two weeks he has been the centre of attraction on Broadway, surrounded by school children and merchants alike. Every morning he proudly rides on the hood of his owner's car to the office, then flies to the postoffice and proudly walks down the pavement where the merchants feed him peanuts, meats and other foods.
Jerry has a habit of taking things belonging to other folks, and just lately R. Snell, a neighbor of Mr. Coloff, cleaned his favorite pipe and laid it up on the clothesline post. Within the next five minutes the pipe was in Jerry's possession and flying through the air. Mr. Snell waited for some two hours and was finally rewarded by having his pipe dropped into his lap. Jerry also puts up quite a scrap for bones thrown out for the pet dogs of Mr. Coloff, and in every 24 hours is guilty of several laughable pranks about the town.

BODY CONTROLLED BY HUMAN MIND

Noted Christian Scientist Declares That Physiology Theory Is Wrong.

PEOPLE MISLED

Peter V. Ross, C.S.B., of San Francisco, member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., was heard with interest last night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on the subject, "The Operation of Divine Law in Human Affairs."

In speaking of Mary Baker Eddy as the discoverer and founder of Christian science, Mr. Ross said: "People are sometimes heard to say that they cannot accept Mrs. Eddy's views. They forget that Mrs. Eddy has not put forward her own opinions, she has promulgated the fundamental truths of divine science as they have been revealed to her. They forget that Mrs. Eddy has not created science, she has discovered it. The body, in belief, are necessarily deranged and there is sickness. Even a machine will not operate smoothly or satisfactorily when the power which propels it is erratic. How can a mentality clouded by vice or actuated by malice give proper direction to the body? Over and over again has it been found in Christian Science practice that when some lurking sin, fear, or hate has been detected in the mind of the patient, and antidoted or destroyed by love and truth, his physical suffering so-called has been relieved. Thus it is apparent that disease, whatever its name or type, has its origin and support in thought, and can be cured, really cured, only by correcting and normalizing the mentality of the sufferer. This is precisely what Christian Science treatment does. It overcomes disease by overcoming the false thoughts which are responsible for disease."

It should not be inferred that well people are necessarily very good or that ill people are necessarily very bad. The consequences of wrong doing do not always overtake the offender immediately. Nor on the other hand, does obedience to the letter of the Commandments avail the individual against incursions of disease, if he believes that germs are deadly, or indulges, on occasion, in what he calls righteous indignation, or fails to utilize his knowledge or science to close the door of his mental home against the lying suggestions of mortal mind. But to those good people whose healing seems to be delayed let it be said that no right effort is wasted. Every attempt to think and act along the lines mapped out by Christian Science brings you one step nearer to relief. The work of escape is prepared in Ohio, where already found it. That you will do so is certain as that God reigns.

Other Women's Teeth

are whiter, clear, glistening—why not yours?

Remove the dingy film that's clouding them—you'll be surprised that your own teeth are as pretty as anyone's—make this unique test.

THAT most of us have pretty teeth without ever revealing them, is the remarkable assertion of many high dental authorities.

This is why:

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which you cannot see with your eye, but which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and control it.

This Estate is Yours ---For the Taxes

Suppose someone should offer you a valuable piece of property on condition that you keep the taxes paid during your lifetime—at your death clear title to the property to pass to your family. That would be a very attractive proposition wouldn't it?

But if in addition it should be guaranteed to you

- (1) that the value of the estate will not shrink,
- (2) that the rates, which are lower than tax rates of most Canadian cities will never be increased, wouldn't you accept a $10,000, $25,000 or $50,000 estate?

This is just the proposition offered you by the London Life Insurance Company in its new Jubilee Policy—the product of fifty years' service.

Example—

An insurance estate set up in 1923 by a young man age 31.

Value of estate $10,000.00
Annual taxes (premium) 188.50

Rate: approximately 19 mills on the dollar,—reduced in 1924 to 18 mills.

A Life Insurance Estate is one of the most valuable and stable assets you could have—and so easy to secure under this plan. Ask one of our representatives to explain it to you or write to—

LEPER MISSION HEARS OF WORK IN THE EAST

Rev. F. A. Steven Gives an Interesting Address at Meeting Held in Y.M.C.A.

Rev. F. A. Steven, representative of the China inland mission, gave a very fine address on the very excellent work which is being carried on in the interests of lepers in the Orient yesterday afternoon. He spoke before the local branch of the Leper Mission in the Y. M. C. A.

Referring more particularly to the lepers of Tibet, he declared that Tibet was a disease-infested country, that a hospital on the Tibetan border was making an attempt to control leprosy, but was being sadly handicapped through the lack of funds.

Arrangements were made for the thank offering meeting to be held next month, when Dean Norman Tucker would be asked to speak. Mrs. J. W. Jones, the president, was in the chair.

Picture postcards and Scriptural text cards are being collected by the executive to be sent on to leper children for Christmas, and an appeal is being made for donations of this nature.

The collection from the meeting amounted to $22.10, and included the contents of two special big banks of the organization, coming from New St. James' church and Mrs. Jones, the president. During the afternoon a reading was given by Mrs. D. A. Campbell, entitled "Leprosy in Ancient England," and a vocal solo by Mrs. Robert Durst.

Women Secretaries, the "Daytime Wives" of Their Employers—Are Early Marriages a Mistake?—Would It Be Wise to Continue Her Friendship With a Japanese Girl?

Dear Miss Dix—My employer is a splendid young man with a wife who doesn't deserve the kindness he heaps upon her. She spends most of her time at clubs and in her automobile, and does little else but waste his money and have a good time.

Don't you think that the girl who serves a man faithfully as his stenographer or secretary, who works for him eight hours a day, is doing him more downright good in many instances than his wife who spends his money, instead of helping him to make it?

I consider myself, for instance, a really vital asset to my boss in his struggle to get ahead. The word "wife" in its true sense means helpmeet. Therefore we girls who help our employers are often really more their wives—that is, helpmeets—than the women to whom they are married.

BERTHA.

Answer:

Undoubtedly you are right, Bertha, and in that lies the danger of the relationship between a man and his woman secretary. It is a situation compounded of all sorts of sentimental fire hazards—propinquity, mutual helpfulness and dependence, understanding, sympathy and the same interest and aim and ambitions.

Every efficient private secretary knows ten times as much about a man as his wife will ever find out. At home, to his wife, he is just the children's father and the bill payer, and a man who generally has to be cajoled into going out of an evening. His wife doesn't know anything about his business. She doesn't know what his aspirations are. She even knows only of his successes or failures in a vague way. And she is generally not much interested in any of these things except in so far as they bring in more money.

But the secretary is in the thick of the fight with the man. She stands shoulder to shoulder with him in the struggle, and if he is victorious it is largely through her help. She knows what the odds were again him; how plucky the fight he put up, and how clever the strategy by which he outwitted his foes. So if it is no wonder that the man turns to her, rather than to his wife, for sympathy and comprehension.

And on her part, the woman gives of her ability and service without stint. She becomes a blind partisan. She makes a hero of her employer and only too often she finds herself caring too greatly for the man who belongs to another woman.

For that spells misery for all three of them, the man, the wife and herself.

As to a woman's helping a man, that is a curious problem. Bertha, and there are many answers to it. Undoubtedly, you help your employer by giving him efficient service and bearing part of his load for him. Perhaps his butterfly wife helps him, too, just by being a butterfly. You never can tell.

Just as the tired businessman prefers idiotic musical comedy to Shakespeare, so many men find rest and relaxation in playing with doll-baby women when they are not at work. They want frills and frills, instead of helpmates. And many an extravagant wife drives a man into being a money-getter who ends up as a millionaire.

Men are strange creatures, Bertha. No woman can guess the answer to one of them. But don't let yourself get to pitying your employer because he hasn't got a helpful wife. He may not prefer that kind. There is nothing in this daytime wife fallacy except sorrow for the girl who puts her faith in it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of early marriages? Should a girl tell the young man she goes with all of her family affairs?

QUESTIONER.

Answer:

I think that early marriages are almost invariably a mistake. Accidents will happen, and occasionally when a boy and girl get married they grow up together and continue to love each other, and live in peace and happiness, but this rarely happens. Generally, when two undeveloped youngsters get married, they grow away from each other instead of together. One stays put, and the other goes on, and by the time they reach man's and woman's estate, they have nothing in common but the chain that binds them together, and which they hate.

Marriage is a serious business for grownups, not a lark for children. It takes a stiff neck to bear the yoke of wedlock without breaking under its weight, and this no boy or girl possesses.

So I advise you not to marry until you have come to yourself, until your tastes are formed and you know what sort of a life partner you really want; not to marry until you have had your playtime and are ready to settle down; not to marry until you have enough income upon which to live.

The love that won't stand the waiting test during an engagement would melt away like ice in the sun before the trials and tribulations of matrimony.

Certainly a girl shouldn't blab her family secrets to any stranger. It is most dishonouring for her to do so. She is betraying her own blood. She is broadcasting things that should never be told. What a girl's father and mother and sisters and brothers do does not concern her best best.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been associating with a Japanese girl who is wealthy and highly educated. I like her very much. Do you think it will hurt me to continue our friendship?

UNKNOWN.

Answer:

On the contrary, I think it a very great privilege for you to have such a friend, and that almost every Canadian girl could be greatly improved by associating with a highly-bred Japanese girl.

No women in the world are more refined, more gentle, more delicate and dainty in every way than are Japanese ladies. From their infancy they are taught every charm of manner and grace of deportment. They are schooled in self-control, and self-sacrifice is held up before them as the highest ideal of womanhood. They are brought up to reverence old age, to be generous and kindly to the poor, and to look upon education as the highest privilege that the gods can grant.

Surely, Canadian girls need to be taught these things, and any Canadian girl is lucky who can learn them from a flower-like Japanese playmate.

Ontario Should Consider.

The more that is heard and learned of the policy of government selling as it operates in other provinces, the more the proof accumulates that this policy is making intoxicating liquor a commercial article, the sale of which is being exploited to the very limit. Not only are the number of places at which liquor can be legally procured being added to, but publicity of the most forceful character is being utilized to draw the attention of the public to the various brands of liquor offered for sale.

In Manitoba and Alberta the government does not do the advertising, but those who are interested in making and selling liquor attend to this end of the business. They spend their money freely to tell the people what the government stores have to offer them; their campaigns on this behalf are vigorous, and are carried on with the sole idea of getting the people to spend just as many million dollars as possible in intoxicating liquor.

To show how rapidly the system of easy distribution is working, the case of Alberta can be cited. It has had government selling for only a little over three months, and already has established 26 places where whiskey is sold; it has issued 259 hotel licenses, 45 clubs licenses and 10 for canteen purposes, and the number is being continually added to. That makes a total of 340.

From the standpoint of business alone, leaving out for the moment the effect on the people of such a widespread distribution of intoxicants, the effect cannot be good. Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan, which province adopted government selling in September, 1924, is not taken with the idea of the move being a revenue producer in the real sense of the word. Mr. Dunning, discussing this point, says:

"I have never known of a people drinking themselves rich, and certainly have never known of a community of any kind that drank itself into low taxes. The matter of revenue will not be of prime importance to the government."

It does not take much research to find the basis for this statement. In British Columbia, government selling has been in operation long enough to look at yearly records. It is possible to see just how much money has been taken out of the province through a system that continually nudges the people to go ahead and buy more liquor.

Figures taken from the reports of the liquor control board of British Columbia show the following amounts spent in government stores alone, which does not touch the figures rolled up by bootleggers:

June, 1921, to Sept., 1921.....	$2,288,918.17
Oct., 1921, to March, 1922.....	4,144,784.53
April, 1922, to Sept., 1922.....	4,273,841.49
Oct., 1922, to March, 1923.....	5,029,002.75
April, 1923, to Sept., 1923.....	5,717,624.23

Total$21,393,872.18
"Profits" handed back to municipalities in this same period totaled $1,537,789.91.
Worked out on the basis of one dollar received by the municipalities as "profit," we find that it was necessary for the people to spend for liquor $13.91 in order to get $1 back.

That is how the selling of liquor by the government is working out in British Columbia; it is the way in which it is starting to work in a lesser period in Alberta and Manitoba. The situation lends itself admirably to those who choose to exploit the opportunity for the increased sale of intoxicants.

Would that be a good thing for any province—would it be a good business move for Ontario? It would not. It would take a great deal of money that is now being used in the regular course of business, and place it in a position where it could not be recovered. In a province like Ontario the amount that would be put up by the people for liquor would run into millions. Worked out on the basis of population, we find that British Columbia has 524,582 people and Ontario 2,953,662. In the year 1923 the people of British Columbia spent $10,746,627.99 in the government stores. If Ontario patronized these stores at a similar rate, the provincial drink bill would be $60,508,930.

That would not be good business for this province, because at the end of the year it would not be possible to see what we had secured in the way of real value for the money spent. Our purchasing power would be diminished to a very great extent, and there would not be a retail or wholesale establishment, or an industry, outside of those interested in the manufacture and selling of intoxicants, that would not feel the results adversely.

The Case of Clarence Settell.

Clarence Settell, former private secretary to Sir Adam Beck, is in jail in Hamilton. As one story of wrongdoing differs from the one before it, so Settell's account of his trouble opens a page on which the writing is different. He had not played the races nor gambled, nor is there proof to back up rumors that always grow in such an atmosphere that he had been living a fast life or striking out for water that was too deep for his stroke.

Settell's version is that he took about $30,000 because he felt that amount "was coming to him." Apparently he had it worked out in detail, showing just how he had been worth more than he had been paid. To use a phrase that meets such a condition, he was "fed up" with the whole situation, and had decided to make his haul, get out of the country and live in a foreign land.

The trouble with such a decision is that it is impossible. When a man sits down to figure it out it looks easy, and with no one around to put in any adverse evidence he may even reach the conclusion that his course is fully justified.

But what happened to Settell? He had left Hamilton only a short time, and was driving out of St. Catharines when he met a man he knew was a hydro employee. The fugitive found out right there that he was wrong; he took a wallet containing $300 of his spoils and threw it in the canal, possibly a foolish thing to do, for the other hydro man may have known nothing of the plans Settell was trying to carry out. It was simply an indication of the fact that a man's conscience is a hard thing to deal with; it cannot be chloroformed at will, nor can it be made a party to many things that people want to do. It springs into action at the most inopportune moments, and it seems to have little regard for surroundings or consequences.

So Clarence Settell is behind the bars today; he talks to the guards and reporters—it may be that he talks too much for his own good. Like many others, he says he has made a fool of himself, and the next statement is one asking where all the friends are that he knew in the days when he was out and around in the usual routine of business. He wonders that they are not at hand to take him out of the place in which he is confined. So far the one cheering word he has received is a wire signed "Mother." His experience in this is not unlike that of others. They look for the friends of prosperity to be the anchors in adversity, only to find that they have departed or become increasingly engaged elsewhere. If there is one who is sure to write, or wire, and, if possible, appear in person, it is usually found that she bears that hallowed name of "Mother."

Extravagant Talking.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, who has held portfolios in various Conservative cabinets in Britain, describes the Labor government as "organized hypocrisy" and pictures it as "falling to inevitable doom."

Politicians have a language all their own. That British phrase is hardly as forceful as the one credited to Sir James Whitney when in opposition, describing an act of the Ross government as "the most heinous crime ever perpetrated on an unsuspecting public."

It may be that some people can be influenced by excess of speech. It was that belief that made way for the phrase of a politician addressing a meeting of men in a factory—"beneath that ragged shirt there beats an honest heart."

There has been some progress made in recent years, and it is because people are not as ready as they were previously to swallow everything that came their way. Sir William Joynson-Hicks may find some satisfaction in referring to the Labor government as "organized hypocrisy" and in reaching for the end of the bell rope to play a few strains of its death knell, but elections do not turn upon such pivots now. Sir William is feeling no one more than himself.

Civilization As It Works.

In United States last year the people bought $4,000,000 worth of pistols, largely through mail order houses.

The government lets the mail order houses operate, provides the mail service for distribution, and then hires a regiment of men called officers and detectives to clean up the mess in the trail of the pistol.

That is what we refer to as civilization.

The work of vandals in destroying headstones in the Jewish cemetery at London marks the outbreaking of a diseased mind. It is hard to analyze the state of mind that seeks an outlet for malicious activity in the desecration of the resting places of the dead.

Those responsible for the direction and condition of some of the detours on Ontario roads should be called to time. There are a number of places where these are dangerous to the point of inviting disaster, no matter how carefully the driving is done. There are others that have been in existence far too long. The work should be hustled along much faster than it has been.

Having a fire prevention week from October 5 to 11 is an excellent idea, particularly if the plan can be made operative the other 51 weeks in the year. No one week is more dangerous than another. The real test is in creating a spirit of watchful regard for safety at all times. If that can be accomplished by having a "prevention week," much has been accomplished. If not, the week will be in vain.

THE NATIVE RETURNS.

"Who's that seedy-looking guy?" said Files-on-Parade.

"The last of Europe's tourists, lad," the old policeman said.

"Why does he clench his fists and sigh?" said Files-on-Parade.

"Because he's broke and busted, lad," the old policeman said.

"For he stayed one month in Europe and they lopped off both his ears. They cleaned his works and took his shirt, they stripped him of his gears. To make up for his losses it will take a hundred years And he's going to take carbohic in the morning."

"Did he bring no money with him, chief?" said Files-on-Parade.

"Just fifteen thousand dollars, lad," the old policeman said.

"But wasn't that sufficient cash?" said Files-on-Parade.

"I see you don't know Europe, lad," the old policeman said.

"The Paris waiters gyped him, now he hasn't got a sou. The taximen, the theatres, the bellboys gyped him too. And now he's spent his last red cent he sighs and says: 'I'm through.' And he's going to take carbohic in the morning."

HISTORICAL NOTE.

"Make Caesar king!" cried those around him. So Caesar's pals, they up and crowned him.

Speakin' of Dances

It seems as how the men who dance and set the styles in dancin' ways, has met in France behind closed doors, discussin' things for several days.

And now they've opened up the door and told the world just what to do, a-scratchin' off this thing and that and writin' in the things what's new.

They've took the shimmy by the neck and chucked it in the garbage can, some other strange hoids they had they put 'em likewise on the ban.

And when they got these things all through they drew a list what's two feet long, a-tellin' folks just what to dance, what things is right and what is wrong.

It didn't used to be like this in days what's went to come no more, when folks they shoved the table out and danced upon the kitchen floor. They never sent to Paris then to find out what they was to do, they knew just how to do the thing, they knew each step right through and through.

Why all they needed was a chap who sawed the fiddle for the crowd, and someone hollerin' in a voice that had to be quite fairly loud. And then they'd line up here and there, be hanged what they might say in France, they'd trip and skip and turn and spin in doin' the old-time country dance.

I mind one chap, 'twas old Steve Lake, we reckoned he was quite smart, too, there wasn't much in dancin' steps that Steve he couldn't turn and do.

Why he could take his fiddle then, and play and dance the whole thing through, and if he took the notion then he'd turn and call the dances too.

And Steve he never went to France to sit in sessions in closed doors, but Steve he was an artist though in dancin' on the old barn floors.

It seems to me this thing's a joke, to think if people want to dance, they've got to stick around and wait until they get the word from France. I bet two dollars to a cent that Steve he knew more than them all, when he'd start out on goin' the rounds when dancin' started in the fall. Some place there lingers in my head, it's stacked away back in my dome, how Steve he used to holler out, "The ladies go a-visitin', the gents stay home."—ARK.

Dr. Frank Crane

A SHIFTING INSTRUMENT.

The intellect, for all that may be said of it, is a frail reed to lean upon.

It is a question whether it is governed more by traditions, customs, instincts and passions than by reason. Certain it is that unless there be some check upon the reason it is liable to lead us into all kinds of difficulty.

This was brought out by one of the experts in the Leopold and Loeb trial.

"The idea," said he, "for these master criminals was to do a good job. It was to be thoroughly and completely planned. There was to be no clue. An intellectual feat was to be accomplished."

In fact, the whole Leopold-Loeb case shows what the unaided intellect, solely depended upon, will lead us to. Unless there are sound instincts, underlying natural repulsions and attractions, that hold us to the mass of humanity and to decent conduct, the intelligence is liable to lead us astray.

People of very rudimentary intellect, grossly uneducated people, may, at the same time, be law-abiding and good neighbors. While the most dangerous rascal unhung is likely to be gifted with extraordinary powers.

The intellect is the cutting edge of a man. But, if the desires be wrong in the first place, the more intelligence he has the more capable he is of doing harm.

It is just like sharpening an axe. The training of the intellect is putting a good edge upon a piece of steel, but, if the steel itself is rotten, it makes no difference how well it is sharpened. Whether the plea of mental deficiency, or moral deficiency, is a good one on the part of young Leopold and Loeb we do not presume to say, but we do dare to assert that a man is safest in sticking to the great moralities which he has inherited from the race. He is safer, far, in so doing than in blazing a new way for himself. He who is guided by the moralities is governed by laws that have slowly been developed by the evolution of mankind. He who is governed by his intelligence alone is under the charge of a faulty master.

This is not a plea for ignorance, nor any devil's argument in favor of the abandonment of reason. It is indeed a plea for a deeper education, the education of the morals more than of the brain.

TWO MONTHS IN JAIL FOR RECKLESS DRIVER

Buffalo Man Gets Credit For Time Already Served In St. Thomas.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Oct. 6.—Two months in jail, deducting each day already spent in confinement, was the sentence imposed by Judge Ross today on Michael McNearney of Buffalo, N.Y., found guilty by him two weeks ago on a charge of willful negligence while driving a car last May.

McNearney was the principal in an accident when his car crashed into one owned by William Stevenson of Fingal, resulting in serious injury of Mrs. Stevenson. McNearney, through his counsel, W. C. Cameron, K.C., stated that he had sent a cheque for $400 made out to Mrs. Stevenson to help defray expenses in connection with the accident.

Judge Ross complimented McNearney on the attitude he had taken in the case and stated that in the event of a civil action being taken, the gift of money would not be used to prejudice the case. He also considered the attitude of McNearney in mitigating the sentence, however.

A. H. MURPHY BUYS REGISTRY OFFICE DESPITE OFFER MADE BY UTILITIES COMMISSION

Property Sold At $10,500 May Sport Gasoline Service Station.

POLICE STATION UP

Street Railway Purchase Plan Referred Back To Committee.

The old registry office has been sold, the city council last night knocked down the property for $10,500, and no questions asked. The purchaser was A. H. Murphy, of the legal firm of Murphy, Gunn & Murphy. General understanding amongst the aldermen appeared to be that a service station would be erected on the corner, permission having been asked in the tender to go ahead with construction.

Offer of the public utilities commission to equal the bid of Mr. Murphy was turned down. Citations of objections to a service station at this point came chiefly from Ald. Bottrill and Ald. McKay, but without avail in changing the intentions of the council.

When the matter came to a vote, Ald. Greer moved that the public utilities commission's original tender of $10,100 be accepted. He was backed up by Ald. McKay, Ald. Bottrill and the mayor. When Ald. Douglas motioned to sell to Mr. Murphy was put, only Ald. Bottrill and Ald. McKay cast dissenting votes. Ald. Hayden, Ald. Warren and Ald. Shaw were absent from the meeting.

Philip Pocock Speaks.
Commissioners Philip Pocock, T. McFarlane and R. J. Webster and General Manager E. V. Buchanan were present to urge that consideration be given their interests. Mr. Pocock said the commission was ready to offer $10,500 now in order to get consideration. Mr. McFarlane said that the P. U. C. had not entered a third tender because they understood that bids were closed, and that only the construction of an office building was to be permitted. Mr. Buchanan gave assurance that the old registry building would be renovated, that no objectionable odors, dirt, noise, smoke or injurious "rays" would come from a transformer station, for which the commission desired the building.

The other side of the story was heard from A. H. Murphy, who had tendered for the building. It was absurd, he said, to report that the council did not know to whom it was selling the building. He was personally responsible for the purchase and had tendered his personal check to enter negotiations. He characterized the P. U. C. asking to re-open the matter as poor business ethics.

Dam Proposal Quashed.
The council turned down Mayor Wenig's proposal to have a municipal vote in connection with the construction of a $150,000 dam at Springbank. Objections raised were that the river would not be fit for swimming or bathing, even with the raised water level, unless a large sum were expended on sewage disposal apparatus. When the vote was taken the "yeas" were Drake, Walsh, Smith, Wenig. In opposition were Douglas, Anderson, McKay, Greer, Bottrill and Towe.

Wants New Police Station.
"We only have a barn now. I'm heartily in favor of the building of a new police station," So declared Ald. Towe when the report of No. 1 committee on the police station came up. On the motion of Ald. Douglas the matter was referred back to No. 1 committee.

Only Ald. Greer opposed the move of the mayor and Ald. McKay to recommend to the government the establishment of a bureau of municipal affairs. Ald. Greer's objection was that the matter had not been carefully considered in council.

Mayor Wenig's campaign to get the 80 per cent producers clause back in the market bylaw lost its footing and was rejected by the council. Ald. Smith, Ald. McKay and Ald. Bottrill supported the mayor.

Street Railway Question Up.
Just as the council was about to adjourn shortly after 10 o'clock, attention was called by the assistant city clerk that the clause respecting the street railway price in the finance

PREMIER APPEALS TO PROGRESSIVES

Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King Pleads for Unity Against Common Foe.

KEEPS PROMISES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Brandon, Man., Oct. 6.—A plea for unity and co-operation between Liberals and Progressives on the common ground of their mutual opposition to the principles of Conservatism was made here tonight by Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada and leader of the Liberal party, to an audience which contained many Progressives, including their federal leader, Robert Forke.

"If," he said, "the forces of those who think liberally and progressive are united from the Atlantic to the Pacific there is going to be a long term of Liberal-Progressive administration, but, if divided we come to face the forces of high protection, which are never divided when the need arises, then we may have an even longer period to regret the mistake we have made. Division of forces is likely to mean victory for the party of Arthur Meighen."

Names are secondary, he declared, and a party was only an instrument to an end.
"We are told," added the premier, "that what has been done by this government in the way of tariff reduction has been done under pressure of Western Progressives. That is not true. It was done because we

SQUAD OF POLICE SENT TO STOP HILL ST. FIGHT

One of Household Suffered Superficial Injuries—No Arrests Were Made

About 11 o'clock last night the telephone bell rang at the police station and an excited voice cried, "Come down to Hill street right away, somebody is being beat up."

The sergeant in charge sent the patrol and several men down, and when they arrived at the address given all seemed to be peace and quiet. The only thing resembling a fight was several black eyes on the individuals that were found in the house.

No arrests were made, as none of the neighbors wished to say whether there was a fight or not, so the police came away empty handed.

It was discovered later that one of the members was suffering from a badly-bruised jaw and an injured leg.

"IT IS MY DUTY TO TELL THE FACTS"

Says Toronto Man, in Telling His Experience With Tanlac.

"After what Tanlac has done for me I consider it my duty to tell others of its merits," is the candid statement of Robert Harding, painting contractor, 261 Pacific avenue, Toronto, Ont., Ontario, Canada.

"About a year ago," says Mr. Harding, "stomach trouble and its attendant ills had me worn down almost to the point of desperation. I seldom had any desire to eat, and when I did it was generally followed by intense pains in my stomach, extreme dizziness and sensations of nausea. I would often go to work without eating a bite of breakfast. Naturally, I felt tired out most of the time and was losing weight."

"After taking three bottles of Tanlac my appetite revived, my stomach was freed of all pain and discomfort after eating, the dizziness disappeared, and in fact Tanlac toned up and invigorated my whole system. Tanlac will always get a strong recommendation from me."

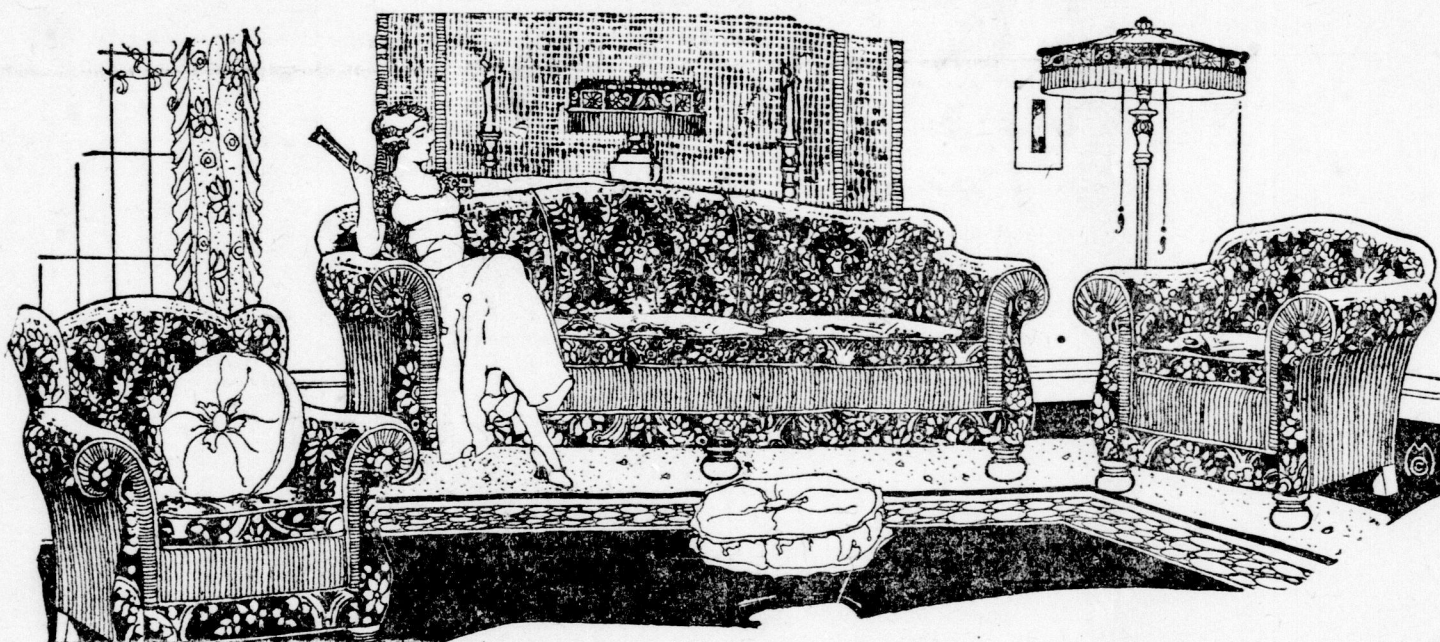

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Giants Win When Senators Fail To Come Through With Bases Full In Ninth SLUGGING GIANTS POUND OUT 6-4 WIN OVER WASHINGTON IN THIRD GAME HOLDING LEAD FROM SECOND TO END

With Sacks Loaded In Ninth, Jonnard, Third New York Hurler, Replaced By Watson, But Senators' Chances Fade When Miller Foul Out and Bluege Forced On Ruel's Grounder.

EIGHT PITCHERS USED IN GAME

Associated Press Despatch. Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 6.—The third game of the series with Washington here today, 6 to 4, and jumped into the lead in the series, two games to one. The game was replete with fielding and hitting features, Frisch, Rice and Young producing an abundance of fielding stunts which sparked with brilliancy.

"Rosy" Ryan, relief pitcher for McQuillan, who started for the Giants, was the batting hero with a driving homer to the upper stands in the fourth inning. Manager Harris used four pitchers to stop the Giants, Marberry starting, but he weakened, and Russell, Martina and Speece followed in quick succession.

Fought out a new battle before the greatest crowd that ever flocked to the Polo Grounds, fair of the four-time National league champions, the outcome was in doubt until the final play in the ninth inning, when the Senators were checked off after staging a typically spectacular finish.

Watson Steps Rally

Three runs behind going into the ninth after a lackluster battle against heavy odds, the Senators scored one run and had the bases full with only one out when "Long John" Watson, the third Giant pitcher of the inning, stopped the rally and saved the game for the McGraw men. This was the climax to a game that, although sparkling at times with the most brilliant sort of play, was also largely of sandlot character, punctuated with loose work, missed opportunities and marked by a most ineffective exhibition of twirling. The series contest has witnessed in years, in a "parade of the wooden pitchers" four moundsmen were called into the hectic fray by each of the rival managers, while the rush of other reserves produced a total of twenty-nine combatants before the smoke of battle had cleared.

Frisch Stands Out

The Giants, leading from the start, but never out of danger, won because they were steadier, displayed the more effective punch when it was needed and the critical moments put up a formidable defensive barrier in which Frank Frisch, playing one of the most spectacular games of his career, was the outstanding figure. The Senators fought gamely, and they were always threatening, but the American league champions played against heavy odds after losing the services of their veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, bulwark of the team's great infield, the batting hero of yesterday's victory, Peck, pulling a "charley horse" running out an infield grounder in the second inning, was forced to retire against the Washington makeshift infield defense, after that, was wobbly.

But Peck's mishap which Manager Harris said tonight was not serious and probably would not keep him out tomorrow, was only one of several factors that produced the Senators' downfall and damaged their prospects of gaining their first world's championship.

TV COBB PICKS GIANTS TO WIN

Terms Roger Peckinpaugh's Injury Real Handicap To Senators.

By TV COBB. Special to The Advertiser. (Copyright.)

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 6.—The season's ninth thrilling was in evidence again today. A very peculiar thing about this world's series is that we have had a thrill in the ninth inning of every game. I also believe that this thrill would have been more highly developed had it not been for Miller's nervousness at the plate when Watson, the Giant pitcher, requested him to bat. Things were very tense with the tying run on second and the bases full.

Watson gave Miller one bad ball. The next, a high one inside, Miller went after, popped it up and the Giants' hopes soared.

I will long remember the wonderful work of Frisch, the Giants' star second baseman. He made three plays on Goslin's high fly, racing back to center field to catch the ball.

I would call the pitching in this game very much off color. That goes for both clubs.

There was a wonderful catch by Rice on Lindstrom in the fourth inning. The double play—McQuillan to Frisch to Terry; Marberry to Bluege to Harris to Judge.

Left on bases—Washington 13, New York 8. Bases on balls—Off Marberry 2 (McQuillan, Lindstrom); off Jonnard 1 (Bluege); off McQuillan 5 (Rice, 2, Ruel, 2, Bluege); off Ryan 3 (Tate, Liebold, Miller).

Umpires—Dillon at the plate; Quigley at first; Connelly at second; Klem at third.

The Orioles' Mottled pitchers, knocking out a win for the first time in the second game, allowing only three hits.

HUGH McQUILLAN

Hugh McQuillan, the Giants' star right-hander, started on the mound in yesterday's game against the hard-hitting Washington team, while Marberry was chosen by the Senators' manager to hold the McGraw men in check.

Both McQuillan and Marberry were taken out in the fourth inning. McQuillan being replaced by Rosy Ryan and Marberry by Russell.

FRED MARBERRY TOO ANXIOUS, IS WALTER JOHNSON'S VIEW

Veteran Washington Hurler Expects To Pitch Wednesday's Game.

IS QUITE CONFIDENT

By WALTER JOHNSON. Special to The Advertiser. (Copyright.)

New York, Oct. 6.—Franklin Frisch came close to beating us out of today's game all by himself. He played as brilliant a baseball as I have ever seen, and his fine example put new life into his team so that whenever we threatened to slump out in front the rest of the team would rally to him. Now I can understand why National league fans rave over Frisch. He surely deserves to be captain of the league champions. "Goose" Goslin is our hardest slugger, and we have been counting on him to do something here. It was Goslin's home run in Washington that put the fire into us and made victory seem a matter of time. Frisch robbed "Goose" of three clean hits.

In the fourth inning, with Rice on first, Frisch sent up a fly to short center. Frisch raced out like a deer and caught it just as it was about to fall. Now I would have ever reached it. Judge followed with a two-bagger, so you can see how important that catch was. In the very next inning Frisch repeated the feat, going into right field and grabbing what was expected to be a safe. However, that catch did not do much, as the slide was retired in order.

For the third time Frisch, looked on as a hit that might have done the trick. He made a good throw, but it was a bit off the mark. Frisch looked to be slipping in the seventh, and there were two on and two out when Goslin hit a hot grounder between Terry and Frisch. It ought to have been a clean hit, and would have only been for Frisch. He made a good throw, but it was a bit off the mark. Frisch looked to be slipping in the seventh, and there were two on and two out when Goslin hit a hot grounder between Terry and Frisch. It ought to have been a clean hit, and would have only been for Frisch.

On the whole I should say that today's game was a loose thing. It is not hard to see why. The McGraw men were in a bad mood, and the Senators were in a bad mood. The McGraw men were in a bad mood, and the Senators were in a bad mood. The McGraw men were in a bad mood, and the Senators were in a bad mood.

I was a bit surprised not to see Fred Marberry in the lineup. He must have been pressing too hard, too anxious to win. But he will come back, maybe. In his role as a pitcher, he can do what he wants to. He can do what he wants to. He can do what he wants to.

I think everybody realizes now that the Washington club has every right to be called the "Fighting Griffs." They were not dead today until John McGraw had called upon four more pitchers, and were going strong at the very end. Just a little bit better luck and not so much criticism by Frisch might have given us a victory.

Tomorrow I will probably have "Curly" Oeden called by the baseball writers. "Curly" is a first-class pitcher. "Curly" is a first-class pitcher. "Curly" is a first-class pitcher.

We suffered a severe loss today when Roger Peckinpaugh, pitcher, was hurt. He is a good pitcher, and has been the most timely hitter on our club in this series. He is a good pitcher, and has been the most timely hitter on our club in this series.

But to the ball players' work in handling those hot grounders when things looked critical was even better than the catches. It was too bad that Gowdy couldn't score that last home run of Frisch's, but I have just learned that the official scorers have given him a hit.

The ball was placed perfectly. Our team showed a clean superiority over the Senators in hitting and fielding. I don't wish to detract from Washington's errors, but I must say that the skillfulness of our pitchers. In the fourth inning when the Senators got two runs, McQuillan and Frisch hit the bases perfectly. The four bases on balls and Judge's two-base hit they got two runs. The later runs came from a similar source.

Fielding Brilliant. While the Senators were not so strong with the bat they made up a lot of the ground in brilliant fielding. In the fourth inning when the Senators got two runs, McQuillan and Frisch hit the bases perfectly. The four bases on balls and Judge's two-base hit they got two runs. The later runs came from a similar source.

O'Connell Heartened By Gambler's Anonymous Letter.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Oct. 6.—Jimmy O'Connell, New York Giants' outfielder, banished from baseball after confessing part in the effort to bribe Heinie Sand, of the Phillies, today declared that he would delay his departure for his California home when shown a letter alleged to have been written by a Broadway gambler.

The anonymous letter, which was printed in a New York newspaper, said that a certain group had wagered $100,000 that New York would win the National League flag by two games and that $50,000 had been paid over to a Giants player in the bribe effort.

O'Connell seemed heartened by the letter's insistence that he was only the "goat" as he has maintained since cast out by Commissioner Landis.

Growth.

Special to The Advertiser.
Windsor, Oct. 6.—Belief that nothing irregular in the listing of voters for the Ontario plebiscite has taken place by either the Moderation League, advocating government control of sale of liquor, or Windsor plebiscite committee, was expressed today by Prosecuting Attorney Urquhart, registrar in the coming election.

He denied a report that he intended to make any investigation of supposed swelled lists, numbering 37,000 persons.

Urquhart gave as reasons for the seeming large number out of the city's total population of 52,000 that there has possibly been duplication of voters' lists by the Moderation League and the Windsor plebiscite committee; that a great number of poll-tax dodgers who evaded the placing of their names on the assessment lists of the city came in at the

PROSECUTOR ASKS COURT TO CONVICT

D. L. McCarthy Maintains
Charge Should Be Willful Negligence.

BANK ACT REVIEWED

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 6.—The trial of Sidney H. Jones, Home Bank auditor, on charges of making out false statements of the bank's affairs, will be concluded tomorrow, but the trial of Clarence Smith, Home Bank director, will not be started until Wednesday, on the suggestion of D. L. McCarthy, crown counsel, to which Judge Coatsworth agreed.

R. H. Greer, defense counsel, made a request just before court adjourned today that the charges against Jones of wilfully making false statements be dropped, as there was no evidence to support it. Mr. McCarthy refused, stating he intended to argue that the negligence was so great that it amounted to wilful negligence. Mr. McCarthy addressed the judge this afternoon for three-quarters of an hour, after he had finished cross-examination of Jones, who was in the witness box most of the day.

Mr. McCarthy first reviewed the bank act respecting the duties of a bank auditor. He said that act demanded that the audit must be one for the shareholders and independent of the officers of the bank. In no case must the directors or bank officials take part in his appointment. As auditor he had access to all information and could "require" that bank officials give him full and complete information of all bank business. If he had any doubt about accounts he could demand and get information. If still in doubt he could make an audit of any branch or department.

Asks Conviction.
"In this case the one branch held most of the big securities and all the auditor had to do was walk downstairs and make his audit. We are asking your honor to find that it was his duty to have visited that branch and to have satisfied himself as to the accounts there, instead of being content with the meagre balance sheet submitted once a month by that branch."

Balance Sheet Ignored.
"The auditor need not value the securities, but he must report the truth to the shareholders, and if he is in some doubt as to their value, he should tell the shareholders he is not satisfied. I say that he is appointed by the act as the watchdog for the shareholders as against the directors. He must delve into the inner recesses of the bank, so that he can give a true account of the bank's affairs. I submit that the report was false and the balance sheet was not examined with the certified returns and in accordance with the act. He made an examination of the bad and doubtful statements from the west he would have noted shortage of a million dollars, and if he had noted that he would have required a statement from the Toronto branch where the shortage was eight or nine millions."

Accused Cross-Examined.
Mr. McCarthy resuming his cross-examination of the accused, asked what he knew of the Port McNell and Western Canada accounts. Jones said that all he knew was the entries in the ledgers and journal. He did not know the assets of the companies and admitted they were mere names to him. He had never inquired to see if the interest on these loans was paid.

Jones said that the inquiries of Sir Thomas White did not make him any more serious in his audit for the shareholders than he had been. He had not called the attention of the shareholders to the fact that Sir Thomas White, as minister of finance, had inquired regarding some accounts. His attention had never been drawn to the Daily nor to the Haney accounts. Neither had he made any inquiry as to an appropriation for bad and doubtful debts in the western branches.

Will Leave Victoria Today For Vancouver—Hunting Trip Cancelled.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Victoria, B.C., Oct. 6.—Rising before 8 o'clock the Prince of Wales started a two-day holiday as an ordinary visitor to Victoria today. At 10:30 he jumped into a taxi cab and was whisked away to the Oak Bay golf club course and did not return to the hotel until this evening. He took luncheon at the golf club and then drove around the city and into the country for an hour or two, before going to the Colonel Wood links for more golf in the afternoon. There was no time for his favorite game of squash racquet today.

The prince and his party leave Victoria for Vancouver early Tuesday afternoon. Although a special hunting license has been issued, unless other arrangements are made, there is no time for the royal visitor or any of his party to bag any game on Vancouver Island.

A delegation from the Seattle chamber of commerce with a commodious speed launch, extended an invitation to the prince to step aboard and take a flying trip to Seattle, but the invitation was gracefully declined.

SETTELL LETTERS CONTAIN $7,000

Packages Are Opened In Presence of Premier Ferguson and Others.

LETTER OF 20 PAGES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 6.—There may be a little money coming to Clarence Settell, secretary to Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric commission, after the authorities get through checking up the sums reversed since his arrest. The package addressed to Montreal, which postal officials intercepted, was turned over to Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy, of the Ontario police, today. A preliminary examination pointed to a balance in favor of the prisoner, who is now in Hamilton jail.

The big package addressed to Settell's sister in Montreal, contained a letter to Sir Adam Beck and others, including Settell's wife. All contained money. These were intended to be sent from Montreal.

The package was opened today in the office of the premier at the parliament buildings. There were present the premier, W. H. Price, acting attorney-general; Edward Bayly, K. C., deputy attorney-general; Hon. J. B. Lucas, counsel to the Ontario hydro-electric commission, and Alfred Cuddy, deputy commissioner of the Ontario police.

$7,000 Recovered.
All the letters, with the single exception of one to Sir Adam Beck, were opened. The money totalled over $7,000.

Sir Adam Beck will be in the city tomorrow morning, and in the presence of the others will open the letter addressed to him. It is a bulky letter, said to comprise about 20 pages.

Hon. Mr. Lucas today assured Premier Ferguson that a close audit is being made of hydro accounts to ascertain if there are any more irregularities or checks missing.

Message Not Received.
Premier Ferguson stated that he had not received, nor even heard of a message that was supposed to have been sent to him by Settell, in which the former assistant secretary of the hydro-electric commission stated that he had something important to tell.

Questioned by Premier Ferguson in the presence of the press, Hon. Mr. Lucas stated that he did not think the signature on the check passed by Settell had been forged. Col. Price, provincial treasurer, said: "I believe that Settell held a blotter over the check while Sir Adam signed it. At least, it looks that way."

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Oct. 6.—Preparations for the hangings of the five condemned Hochelaga Bank bandits on October 24 at Bordeaux jail are now under way, and Arthur Ellis, official hangman, announced definitely this morning that there would be three scaffolds and that the men would be hanged singly.

Carpenters began today to erect a second scaffold, there being only one permanent one in the jail at present, while on Wednesday morning work will be started on a third, which is being brought from Valleyfield for the occasion. This third scaffold will be erected on the opposite side of the big prison from the one that has always been used.

Ellis, it was stated, today would not have an assistant, but would spring all the five traps himself.

The only other hanging that compares in numbers with the approaching execution occurred in 1877, during the when eleven men were hanged at the old jail on Notre Dame street.

THE EARLY ROUSER.

"Yes'm, I'm comin'. Oh, my gosh. Here I got t' sit up 'n' wash! Ho-o-hum! When I'm a man I won't sit up at all—'s' an' let 'em holler! Ho-o-o-hum! I guess maybe she won't come."

"All right—all right! I'm up! I told y' I was comin'! Water's cold. I bet, Ho-o-o-hum! I washed my hands. Laet night—they'll have t' do—My lands. I can't be washin' all th' time—I got t' eat—n' sleep... Gee, I'm—"

"Yes'm—I'm comin'—Right away! Well, what else cu a feller say? Ho-hum! Maybe I better had. Git up—she might holler fr' Dad. It's colder than last night, I know—I wonder what's fr'... break-fuss... Ho—"

"What's that? Yes'm, I'm comin' now! My goodness, but I don't see how a boy gets any sleep at all—Just when he wants t' snooze they call him. I could... sleep... a... year— Yes, sir! I'm up! I'm dressed! I'm here!"

Intensive Work.
Fitz—"Your football game is improving every season."
Van Gool—"Look at the constant practice a fellow gets nowadays in docking autos." Aha!

Rose—"Do you believe in love at first sight?"
Mary—"Where did you meet him,
dear?"

A Bargain.
He had just proposed and the dear girl was keeping him in suspense for her answer.

"I really don't know how to take you Gerald," she laughed.
"Why not take me for better, then,"
he replied; "you know you could do much worse."

PARLOR ETIQUETTE.
Girl (to her gentleman caller): "I hope my smoking doesn't bother you."

Mary Had—
Mary had a little puss—
With hair as fine as silk
It grew into a Maltese cat
'Cause she fed it malted milk.

Can Happen.
"How," argued the man on the outside, "could anyone write a story, using for a locale the battlefields of France, unless that person had at least been over there and had seen those fields?"

"Milton," replied the man on the inside, "wrote of heaven."

OLD STUFF.
Connell: "As you're getting home so late why don't you invent an excuse to tell your wife?"

Henpeck: "No use. Whatever I tell her she says that her first husband had a patent on it."

Not His.
"They say Green is henpecked, but honorable. His wife says you can depend on what he promises."

"Yes, he is a man of his word."

On to Him.
Mr. Kriss (returning from fishing trip)—"I had an awful time getting this fish."

Mrs. Kriss (sweetly)—"Yes? So many customers ahead of you?"

His Opinion.
"I don't see much practical nor businesslike in this yur thinkz of etiquette," grumbled Cap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "When you unexpectedly meet a feller that has been morating round that he's going to shoot you at sight you don't bow and scrape and tell him, 'After you, my dear What's-your-name,' but you just hop behind a tree and pour it to him."

Fugitives From Justice.
A pike with a venturesome flair.
Took a fisherman's worm on a dare,
When his friends, at a loss,
Asked his wife, "Where's the boss?"
She said: "He's out taking the air."

Have you heard how that clumsy
landlubber,
The lobster, who loves so to rubber,
Sat up the whole night,
With a star-fish for light,
While he waited to hear the whale blubber.

From Our Children's Garden of Curses.
Little Harry went into a music store to buy a string for his violin.
"Do you want a steel one?" asked the clerk.
"No, of course not," answered the boy indignantly. "I wanta buy one."

Telling Him.
Clarence (ardently)—"I'd gladly go to the devil for just one of your smiles, dear!"
Winnie (bored)—"Please don't make me laugh."

One half the world is beginning to find out how the other half can ride around in motor cars.

Just the Thing.
Madge—"What induced the girls to get up a football team?"
Marjorie—"We all had bobbed hair."

Pottery—The Most Ancient and Loveliest of Arts

Through pottery, the most ancient art of man, the present century follows countless others, in giving the best of its beauty and craftsmanship. Thus, of modern art, pottery has become one of the outstanding mediums. New ideas gradually evolve into new designs. New processes continually result in new types. Gracefulness of line and exquisitely finished surfaces persist through all.

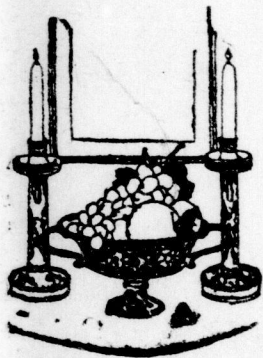

Examples of the new art in pottery are immediately noticeable in the Basement Chinaware Department. The stock there is extensive in variety and unusually interesting in value.

BLACK SATIN WARE.

Bright-hued autumn flowers, when they would glow in their richest beauty, require the contrast of a dully-gleaming bowl. So the artistic eye sees them at their best above a bowl of black satinware, newest and most striking development in pottery. Picture, too, a comfort in this exquisitely gleaming ware, piled high with golden fruit. Or colored candles, vivid above black candlesticks!

Vases in black satinware $1.25
Low comports with twisted stems $1.25
High Comports with twisted stems $1.35
Twisted Candlesticks $1.00 pair

Tall, Slender Candlesticks $2.50 pair

Dresses For Afternoon and Informal Wear

Modeled along smartly correct lines for afternoon wear, or exquisitely simple for evening $25.00 to $37.50

Women who are fashion-alert will recognize the newer points in these smart frocks. In line, fabric and ornament, they are typical of Parisian and Fifth Avenue modishness. Distinctive fashion features are incorporated in the four frocks listed.

Poudre Blue Crepe fashions a slipover model, round neck and sleeveless. It uses crystal and clear beads in a conventional design as its only ornament. A slight fullness at the hip emphasizes the smart, graceful line. Price, $37.50

A straight-line Slip Dress of orchid satin is trimmed at one side with pin tucks and embroidery, and to complement this at the opposite side is a shoulder drape, caught in slightly at the waistline. Price $35.00

Georgette in rust color is strikingly embroidered in black to create the smartness in a second straight-line model. A tinsel thread running through the bold pattern creates the metal glitter which new fashions demand. Price $30.00

Orchid Georgette forms another straight-line dress. It is ornamented with crystal beads which make an effective place for themselves on neck and sleeves and skirt. Price...$25.00

The BREATH of the AVENUE

FASHION SERVICE EXCLUSIVE TO SMALLMAN & INGRAM, LTD.

EMPHASIS ON NEW FASHIONS

At the first night of an Arabian Nights play, "Hassan," the most significant sight we see is the universal fashion of the shoulder flower.

Marilyn Miller enters her box with a great spray of real orchids across her shoulder. The other women in her party chooses gardenias, pinned with a diamond bar-pin. And many women in the audience wear artificial flowers just as becomingly.

HATS OF THE MOMENT

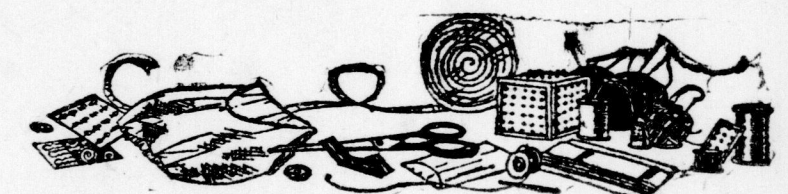

The Majestic, returning to New York with passengers from Paris, wearing new Paris costumes, emphasizes these facts about hats: The youngest women, who have arrived just in time for the opening of school or college, wear round-crowned unbound felts in colors to match their costumes. Their mothers are most likely to choose the severe-crowned shape in the severity of black hatter's plush.

Large hats—a small but important proportion are often black. And the trend toward the Spanish fashion of trimming placed above and below the brim is emphasized again, notably in the large hat's plush shape that carries one white rose resting on its brim and two more roses clustered to the wearer's hair.

DIRECTOIRE STREET DRESSES

The black daytime dress, to rival the autumn fashion of the brown costume, takes a bright flash of color. The Directoire vogue gives many opportunities for the introduction of this effective color note.

At the Ritz for luncheon, where the tailored dress, worn with the fur scarf is so important these days, the dress with the contrasting color waistcoat or long front panel is often worn. Revers faced in bright fabrics are details that also speak of Directoire days. Bright metal buttons often give another glint of colorful contrast to the dark street dress of this fall.

BIAS TAPES

The work basket is especially convenient when it is plentifully supplied with tapes and braids. The laces and embroidery department shows an assortment sufficiently large and complete to meet every possible need.

Bias Tapes, in all the needed colors, in 6-yard pieces 15c and 20c each
