

HOME RULE CONFERENCE WAS ADJOURNED UNTIL TOMORROW --FULL ATTENDANCE OF PARTIES

King George Was Present and Greeted Representatives --Must Have Been Chilly Atmosphere as Several "Never Speaks" Were Also There--King is Severely Criticized--Conservatives and Liberals Cordial, But Could in No Wise be Called Friendly.

LONDON, July 21--While the leaders of the Liberals, Conservatives, Nationalists and Ulster Unionists were in conference to-day at Buckingham Palace, endeavoring to find a solution of the Home Rule problem, preparations were being made by the chief Unionist organizer for a general election.

During the time the conferees sat around the table in Buckingham Palace they found an opportunity to discuss many points of difference county will be allowed by eight politicians of the exclusion of the County of Tyrone from the operation of the Irish Home Rule Bill, a point which everybody recognizes as the most thorny one of the whole subject.

The general impression prevails that the conference will settle this matter since nobody believes that the question of the exclusion of oce and before adjourning touched on question possessing the ability of the confregres to turn the scales for civil war.

At the same time it is not thought that parliament will accept any compromise going beyond the offers already made and refused, and if the House of Commons did do so, Ireland would not fall into line.

Deep Interest Taken

LONDON, July 21--So deep is the interest taken by the public of all classes in the crisis which has arisen over the Irish home rule question that great crowds gathered to-day outside Buckingham palace to witness the arrival of the various party leaders who are to participate in the conference inaugurated by King George with a view to bringing about a peaceable settlement.

King Greets Them

King George with Baron Stamfordham, his private secretary, received the statesmen in the chamber where the privy council always meets and he shook hands cordially with all of them. Probably this was the first time that John E. Redmond and John Dillon, the Irish Nationalist leaders, had ever exchanged greetings with their sovereign as it had been the practice of Nationalist members of parliament to remain away from all functions where members of the House of Commons were likely to be brought into contact with royalty.

Cordial But Not Friendly

The meeting of the Conservative and Liberal leaders on such an intimate footing was apparently friendly, but could not have been cordial as Premier Asquith and Andrew Bonar Law have been barely on speaking terms, as Mr. Law practically accused the premier in the House of Commons of lying about recent government plans to suppress the Ulster volunteers.

Chilly Atmosphere

The Marquis of Landsdowne, the leader of the Unionists in the House of Lords and David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, two of the other conferees, represent the most extreme aristocratic and democratic schools of British politics and are generally believed to be bitter personal enemies. At the same time the members of the Irish Nationalist and Ulster Unionist factions could not have felt much pleasure in finding themselves in such close association.

King is Criticized.

For the first time in his reign King George is criticized strongly, though respectfully, by some of the very important Liberal newspapers which express the belief to-day if his majesty forced the holding of a conference on the home rule question, he overstepped the constitutional duty of a limited monarch and interfered with the rights of Parliament and the responsibility of the cabinet. The Manchester Guardian says: "Any such transfer of responsibility and initiative, if it has actually taken place, is of course to be deprecated."

The Daily News takes a stronger attitude saying: "There are profound misgivings on the Liberal benches where impatience at the obstacles put in the path of the Government is reaching breaking point. It is asked with growing indignation whether the story of the past two years is to be the experience of Parliament whenever a Liberal Government is engaged in passing Liberal measures."

Have we only escaped the domination of the House of Lords to discover that the aristocracy has equally formidable resources at its command to defeat the will of the country? The Daily Citizen, the official organ of the Labor unions under the heading "Buckingham Palace again," denounces the alleged interference of the throne and says: "The House of Commons and not some private room in the King's palace is the proper place to debate and settle political differences."

Several Liberal members of the House of Commons opposed to the conference to-day called a caucus of their sympathizers which probably will adopt resolutions of a similar character to those passed by the Labor members last night referring to the undue interference of the crown, which the Labor members said was calculated to defeat the purposes of the parliament act.

OTTAWA BULLETIN ON HOW TO BEST FIGHT THE ARMY WORMS

Trenches Must be Dug Immediately as Most Effective Means of Checking Advance--Paris Green Must be Used With Great Care

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

OTTAWA, July 21--The commission of conservation has issued a special bulletin advising how best to fight the army worm, now ravaging the crops in Western Ontario. It says:

"On account of the crops in some districts being badly attacked by this pest, it is advisable for every farmer to be on the lookout and ready to combat it if it comes his way.

"The army worm is about one and one half inches long when full grown and is striped with black, yellow and green, of a dingy appearance and much resembling the cutworm. When detected all efforts should be centered on keeping the worms out of crops not yet attacked. A deep furrow (several furrows are better), ploughing around the fields with the vertical side of the furrow next to the crop to be protected, serves as a barrier to prevent the march of the worms, as they will not be able to crawl up the straight side of the furrow. Holes or pits should be dug in the bottom of the furrow every ten or twelve feet to catch the worms as they crawl along looking for a place to get out. They can then be destroyed with a blunt stick or burning straw over them.

"By thoroughly spraying or dusting a small strip of the crop in advance of the worms, with Paris green and liberally distributing poisoned bran (mixed at the rate of fifty pounds of bran and one pound of Paris green with enough molasses and water to sweeten it) large numbers may be destroyed. A field so poisoned must not be pastured until rain has thoroughly washed it. Whatever is done must be done quickly, and at once for a single day's delay may often mean the ruin of a valuable crop."

Wife of former French Premier Charged with Murder Made Good Impression--Evidence Is Heard To-day From Employees of the Figaro--All France Is Interested in the Great Case.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

PARIS, July 21-- Mme. Henriette Caillaux was up at seven this morning for the second day's hearing on the charge against her of wilful murder on March 16 of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro. The wife of the former Premier and Minister of Finance, took an early breakfast and before eight o'clock was waiting for her husband, who, however, did not call at the prison of the Conciergerie until between nine and ten o'clock. The prisoner and her husband conversed for half an hour and afterwards she lunched.

The prisoner had previously looked through a mass of morning papers and had found that generally she had been sympathetically treated. The stenographic report of her testimony filled sixteen columns in some of the newspapers, and besides there were many appreciations of her dexterous arrangements of facts and of the feeling she had put into her descriptions of her agony.

The court was a little late in assembling to-day and meanwhile Madame Caillaux talked over her case with Fernand Labori, her advocate, in a private waiting compartment. After Judge Albaladejo and his associates and his associates had taken their places on the bench, Mme. Caillaux entered the prisoners' enclosure without hesitation and with an air of making herself at home. She was dressed precisely as she had been on the first day of the trial. She took off and folded her jacket and looked quietly around at the crowded court. Dark circles under her eyes and her quick nervous gestures, however, seem to betray the strain she was undergoing.

Joseph Caillaux, the prisoner's husband, then entered the court and took his place among the witnesses. He was accompanied by two detectives, owing to the effect that a group of bystanders had hooted him and shouted insults at him as he left the prison after visiting his wife.

Two office boys from the Figaro were the first witnesses to-day. They described the arrival at the offices of The Figaro on the day of the crime of Mme. Caillaux. They told how she waited and gave details of her entrance into the room occupied by Gaston Calmette, and of their hearing shots.

One of the boys, Adrien Nicet, crouched down in the witness stand and utter a series of low cries to show how he had found M. Calmette sheltering himself behind his desk. Paul Bourget, the "immortal" who was with Calmette in his office at the moment when Mme. Caillaux's card was brought in, then told the jury of the incident.

"You will not see her," I said. "I cannot refuse to receive a woman," he replied. Matre Labori then thrilled the overcrowded court room by reading a dialogue from Bourget's novel, "The Demon of the Midi," in which the characters discuss and condemn the publication of the heroine's love letters. Coming immediately after M. Bourget's eulogy of Gaston Calmette, with which he had closed his testimony, the reading of the dialogue by Matre Labori was regarded by observing lawyers as a master stroke.

Matre Labori's voice was musical and full of dramatic feeling. "When he had concluded Paul Bourget remarked, "Literature is not life," his agreed, however, that private letters ought not to be published, and said he did not believe Calmette had intended to publish the Caillaux letters. The scene of the shooting was then reconstructed by a succession of employees of The Figaro.

The scene of the shooting was then reconstructed by a succession of employees of The Figaro.

Charles Graudeau, a reporter; Henri Rouleau, a messenger, and Jean Cerle, a telephone operator, then related portions of their experiences. They said Louis Voisin of the advertising department, was talking with Henri Honore, an artist, and Edouard Masson, in the room where Mme. Caillaux was waiting to see M. Calmette.

"We never mentioned Caillaux," said Voisin, "as she said yesterday." Mme. Caillaux here interposed, saying, "I wish to ask M. Voisin whether one of his friends did not say, "Is the sheet ready," and whether M. Voisin did not answer, "We have a great paper on Caillaux to-morrow?" "That is absolutely false," said Voisin.

Madame Caillaux, "I heard Voisin say to his friend, "It costs dear, but we are letting loose the hunting dogs on all sides." Honore was then called, and denied that Caillaux had been mentioned, while Masson's deposition was read to the same effect.

Rainbow at Vancouver Ready For Hindu Attack

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 21--The Rainbow entered Vancouver at 8:15 o'clock and took upon anchorage near the Komagata Maru.

The Rainbow made a fairly good run up the gulf but at no more than half speed. Commander Rose was forced to proceed carefully in the fog. The Rainbow was a welcome sight to H. H. Stevens, M. P., and various officials. Mr. Stevens with Messrs Reid and Hopkinson and the military commanders at once made ready to go aboard for consultation with Commander Rose. Arrangements for this meeting had been made by telegraph last evening. At this conference it was proposed to complete plans for the attack if one should prove necessary. Hopkinson transmitted a final appeal and a notice in writing to Gurdit Singh this morning.

Hindus Look On

VANCOUVER, B.C. July 21--At 9 o'clock the conference between the officials and Commander Rose aboard the Rainbow was proceeding. As she swings at anchor her bow is about 300 yards from the Komagata, whose bows are crowded with Hindus anxiously gazing toward the cruiser.

All day yesterday the Hindus aboard had been erecting barricades of wood and carrying up coal from the cargo in the hold. It is not believed there is more than one revolver aboard the vessel so that in the way of offence as at all events, she is not at all for-

Vancouver, July 31--At 9:45 the Hindus were served with an ultimatum giving them until noon to decide whether to surrender or fight.

More than a thousand men should be on the war vessel when she goes out early to-day to take possession of the Komagata Maru. Unless the Hindus suffer a violent change of mind during the night, they will show a stubborn resistance, and a bloody fight may result.

Japanese Consul Hori received cabled instructions from his Government this morning to see that the Japanese crew of the Komagata Maru was not mixed up in any battle. To this end the whole Japanese crew was last evening taken off the ship, and will remain off until such time as the Rainbow blue-jackets have the matter under control. C. Garner Johnson, agent for the owners, and Sir Chas. H. Tupper, counsel for the owners, had a midday conference, and the lawyer has addressed another letter to the Hindu committee on the Komagata Maru pointing out that the ship has all the water she needs, and assuring them that plenty of provisions will be put on board for the trip across the Pacific. The letter goes on to point out the fact that the Hindus will have to return, and that, therefore, they might as well go peacefully.

JAPANESE CREW LANDS.

But Hindus Erect Barricades on Deck of Vessel

VANCOUVER, July 21--Two hundred men, selected from the Sixth Regiment, Duke of Connaughts Own Rifles, and the newly-formed Irish Fusiliers, were called out last night by a special order signed by Col. Duff-Stewart and Col. Geo. C. Mc-

GRANT OF $500 MADE TO FIGHT ARMY WORMS

Thousands of Dollars Damage Has Already Been Occasioned by the Pests--County Council Held a Special Meeting Yesterday at Which Best Means of Getting Rid of Nuisance Was Discussed.

The County Council is anxious to stamp out the Army Worm and decided to give $500 towards the elimination of the pest at their meeting last night. There was a full gathering presided over by Warden Milmine, and they heard Mr. H. F. Hudson, an expert from Ottawa speak upon the worm, Mr. R. Schuyler also spoke briefly, while Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P., told those present that he had wired to Ottawa, which had resulted in the visit of Mr. Hudson, who was doing good work in advising the farmers upon the best way to deal with the worm.

Mr. Morgan Harris gave a few of his experiences with the army worm, and his remarks were interesting. Mr. Hudson when called upon addressed the Council and said there was only one way to deal with the worms and that was by co-operation and prompt action. He then went into the principle of digging trenches and the proper method of so doing as had already been explained in these columns. In Princeton they had successfully coped with the pest by co-operation in trench digging. He recommended proper furrowing and trench digging as the best method of preventing the worms. Everyone should now work determinedly to eradicate the worms which it was possible to do by good furrowing. He had noticed men working singly on farms and he would advise them that singly, men could not cope with the worms in their numbers.

Mr. Schuler had found the worms very bad in Burford district. They were in other districts but not by any means so serious.

The worms had done by a rough estimate, many thousands of dollars damage. He agreed that co-operation was the only way to checkmate the worms and if it was in the power of the council he would ask them to enforce all farmers to work together. He noticed that several farmers did not like to co-operate, so thinking it was a plague from God. What people required was knowledge of the worms, and of its habits, because they were now acting in ignorance.

He thought the remedy suggested by Mr. Hudson was very efficient and he could not say more than had already been said.

The Council asked a number of

NO LICENSE RENEWAL FOR WALKERTON HOTEL

WALKERTON, July 21.—The license commission of South Bruce met yesterday to consider extending the license of Mrs. Klump of the Royal Hotel.

In April, Mrs. Klump's application for a new license was refused and she was given three months to sell out her stock. The commissioners declined to renew the license, although a largely signed petition was presented.

SUMMER RACE MEET AT HAMILTON

The Hamilton Jockey Club mid-summer meeting which commences on Saturday next and continues until August 1, promises to be a great success. Applications for stabling room are being received daily at the Hamilton track and already there are a number of horses at the course including quite a few jumpers which are being schooled for the contests through the field. There will be 7 races carded for each day and with fine weather should be the banner meeting in the history of the club.

On opening day the Prince Edward Selling Stakes for 3-year-olds and upwards will be the feature race, the distance being 1 1/4 miles. On Tuesday July 28th the Nursery Plate for 2-year-olds will be run which will bring together a class field of youngsters. The Brantford Selling Handicap will be run on Thursday, this race for a year olds and upwards, the distance being 1 mile on the turf, and on Saturday August 1st the Hamilton Cup handicap at a mile and a quarter for 3-year-olds and upwards will be carded, and promises to bring together a lot of the best horses on the Canadian circuit this year.

Cars will leave Brantford each day during the races at 12.45 o'clock.

PRETTY RUSSIAN JAILED AS A SPY.

TOULON, July 21.—A pretty Russian girl named Claire Popiersch, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of spying on an important scale on which forts and naval bases and also with providing naval officers with a liberal supply of cocaine, pretended that the notes found in her possession were material for a sensational novel which she hoped to copyright in the United States. This statement aroused the suspicion of the magistrate and he discovered that the notes were "copyrighted for a military power, not the United States."

The Steamship Canada brought to Boston to-day an Orang-Outang which is able to perform all the duties of a sailor and dines at the head of the table with the crew.

More and more diamonds are bought, sold and worn every year. And this in spite of the fact that the tendency of diamond prices is steadily upward.

Which last fact makes the purchase of a good diamond a worth-while investment.

RAINBOW AT VAN.

pared to make a vigorous defence.
A Peace Parley.
Immigration Inspector Hopkinson had quite an interesting confab yesterday morning with Gurdit Singh, who officially represented the passengers on the boat at the conference. Gurdit said that the passengers were willing to leave if the provisions were put on at once; if medical attention was furnished for those injured in the fight and if they were given a chance to hold a talk first with some of the Hindus on shore in order to say goodbye to them and to ask forgiveness for all the trouble which they had caused.

Mr. Hopkinson came back with a counter-proposition. He said that if the Hindus allowed the Japanese crew to get up steam and agreed in writing to permit the boat to weigh anchor and proceed to sea five hours after steam was up, the immigration people would start putting the $6,000 worth of provisions on board. Arrangements would also be made to permit the secretary of the Sikh temple and Rham Singh, one of the alleged charterers of the Maru, to go on board and talk to the passengers.
Mr. Hopkinson demanded to see some of the Hindus said to have been hurt the other night; but Gurdit Singh did not care to produce them.

Gurdit further refused to agree to the suggestions and said that the provisions would have to be put on board at once.

This was so manifestly unfair that it was refused, and the Hindus were informed that an agreement in writing would have to be made and before any provisions would be put on board steam must be up. It pointed out that if the provisions were put on board now from the Sea Lion, the Hindus, with their four hundred tons of water and with the $6,000 worth of food, could take life easy and laugh at the immigration officials.

"Then you can send thousands of soldiers against us if you wish," declared Gurdit Singh dramatically. "We would sooner die here than go to sea, unless we get provisions right now, see our shore friends, and have our sick attended to."

The conference ended right there.
Several "trick" "trick" up floating in the inlet this morning and were returned to the police station badly dented and smashed.

Getting Arms in U. S.

VANCOUVER, July 21.—That while the Komagata Maru expedition was organized purely as an emigrant, it later assumed the aspect of a real outbreak in relation to the political interest in India is the belief of Vancouver immigration officials. "The arrest of three Vancouver Hindus by United States authorities in Washington because they carried firearms, which apparently had been supplied by Hindus who have been fostering a revolutionary propaganda in the Pacific coast cities, is regarded by the United States as affording a link between Komagata Maru and the restless party in India," said an official this morning. For this reason Superintendent Reid has forwarded a request for a full official investigation by the American authorities. It is related that when Vancouver agitators after sending around to various stores in Vancouver found themselves unable to get arms in any number in Vancouver, one of their number declared boldly that it mattered little for they would be able to get what they wanted across the boundary line. Accordingly when three of the best known Vancouver Hindus crossed to Washington state they were carefully watched. Within 12 hours they had been arrested with revolvers and altogether more than one thousand cartridges in their pockets. Also they were in very bad company for they had held conferences with known leaders of the agitation on the American side. Chief among these was a Hindu agitator who many months was deported from Vancouver, but put so abruptly that Superintendent Malcolm Reid was hailed into court on an unsuccessfull contempt charge. Two others of the agitators have recently arrived in San Francisco from the Orient after having been refused admission to Canada.

Local Police Gave the Tip

Frank Mitchell, one of the pickpockets who were smartly arrested in this city when they claimed they were following the circus selling novelties has just been given a term of six months when he was convicted along with a gang of criminals in Toronto, upon charges of extensive robberies. He is an American crook and was identified by Chief Constable Sherwood by means of finger prints which were sent to Toronto headquarters by Chief Sleming who obtained them in the first place from the Pinkerton agency.

Mitchell, who was charged here along with a man named Malloy with vagrancy, was allowed to go as his vagrancy was too heavy for the county and because Immigration Inspector D. H. Reynolds did not appear to prosecute for a breach of immigration laws. They were known to be bad characters, however, and a full description of them was taken.

GRANT OF $500

questions which were all answered satisfactorily. They were principally relative to the depth of the trenches, which should be ten inches to a foot deep and steeply cut, and post holes which should be made every fifteen feet. The worms in the holes should be crushed or burned at intervals, otherwise they would become choked.

The Council was unanimous in appointing a committee formed of each reeve and Mr. Schuyler for the eradication of the worms, their expense not to exceed $500.

Mr. Hudson, at the request of Mr.
Fisher will remain for some days in the vicinity where his services will be at the command of the farmers requiring advice upon the subject of army worms.

No New Districts

This morning no new districts appear to have been visited by the army worms. There was a report current that they had invaded Clarence street in droves, but investigation did not bear out this statement.

Farmers in the county are busily engaged digging trenches as directed by Mr. Hudson, the Ottawa expert.
Some of them report the worms are proceeding with their deprecatious while another reports having saved half a field of corn through having headed off the worms with a deep furrow. Those upon the patch near the G. T. R. have been burned out, but they were never very serious.

The worms which appeared at Mohawk Institute have been subjected to a treatment of oil and they are not now seriously regarded.

Major Smith hearing of the worms being on the Six Nations Reserve travelled there this morning to make inquiries. He does not contemplate a serious outbreak. He returns tonight.

LAWN BOWLING.

This is the time of year when lawn bowling tournaments prove just about as general as the festive Fall Fair will do later. It is a very ancient English sport and even those who only have a most casual knowledge of historic events, will recall the fact that Sir Francis Drake decided to finish a game before he went out to thrash a Spanish Armada which had been reported in the offing.

It looks a very easy thing to lay a bowl close to the smaller white ball, called the jack, but it isn't. Moreover, unlike curling, with a fixed distance to the "T," the length varies with every end so that a keen judgment as to distance, and the necessary impetus has to be constantly maintained. The building up of an end, or finding the weak spots in the position of the opponents bowls, also calls for fine discrimination. The bonhomie which always prevails upon the green is another notable feature. "Good fellows" in the best sense of the term, and "bowling" seem to be synonymous, and the pastime is as interesting to a youth in his teens as to a man who has passed the three score and ten mark. Unlike golfers who spend much of their time looking for the festive pill, which has an uncanny knack of wanting to indulge in hide and seek, the lawn bowler cannot lose his ball, and any such pleasure as landing in a gravel pit, or sheet of water, does not belong to his itinerary. That the game was in reality played as far back as Bible times is proved by the circumstance that it is on record that Balaam addressed himself to a jack.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION IN THE OLD LAND.

Reports in Old Country newspapers show that the forty seventh anniversary of the birth of the Dominion was celebrated in London in notable fashion.

Mrs. Perley, wife of the acting High Commissioner, was the hostess during the afternoon of a large reception at the Royal Institute of Painters and there was a pathetic touch in the fact that she carried a beautiful bunch of carnations sent by Sir Charles Tupper the last surviving Father of Confederation.

At night there was a big banquet in the Connaught rooms, when many fine speeches were made, all paying high tribute to Canada's prospects and achievements.

The previous announcement that Prince Alexander of Teck, the coming Governor-General, was an apt speaker was abundantly demonstrated by his address. Here is one extract, of many which might be made, as an example:—

"It was my good fortune to accompany His Majesty, then Duke of York on his world-wide tour in the Ophir, and I have very agreeable memories of the Dominion in those days. But when I read that the population of Winnipeg, which in 1901 was 49,000 has risen to 200,000, and that Calgary has enlarged its citizenship from 5,000 to 80,000, I do not expect to find that the picture in my memory will serve me to much purpose in recognition. (Hear, hear) Judging by the reports that come to hand of the newest discovery of Calgary's resources, it looks as if the painting in oil in the immediate future will be still more gorgeous. (Laughter and cheers.)"

Any man who can make such apt reference as that, has the gift all right. Hon. Mr. Perley pointed out that amid a financial stringency existing all over the world Canada had passed through very well indeed. He didn't know of any investments which are surer than preferential stocks or bonds in Canadian companies which have been paying dividends for several years. If a man makes investments in lands far removed from the cities or buys shares in oil companies, he is not making an investment, but simply entering into a speculation, and if anything fails or goes wrong he cannot blame the country.

"We are in the position in Canada of a healthy man who has been taking too much exercise, and who thinks it is time for him to have a bit of a rest, but with the idea that before long he is going on to greater deeds and exercises. Canada's day has not passed. Canada's day has not yet begun. Our resources are still there. They haven't been altered. We have still our prairies and vast extents of arable land, almost untouched as yet. We have in Canada some 440,000,000 acres of land which can be cultivated, and today we have under cultivation only 36,000,000 acres. And there are still our mineral resources, our vast forests, fisheries, and water powers. Who can suggest that the Dominion of Canada is not all right at the core, and that this is not a purely temporary difficulty which you perhaps see more of here than we do in Canada."

The Courier considers it to be a decided anomaly that each Dominion birthday should be so cordially celebrated in the metropolis of the world with columns of space devoted to the event in the papers, whereas right at home there is no central observance. It would be an excellent thing on that date to have a national dinner with leading men of all shades of politics and walks of life as participants.

THE ARMY WORM

One of the editorial writers of the Globe is noted for his ornithological and entomological sketches, and this from his pen will prove of interest:—"A slight disturbance of the finely adjusted balance of Nature's forces has caused an outbreak of the army worm in several parts of Ontario. Insect pests are held in check by the action of parasites. In the soft flesh of the army worm the ichneumon fly deposits her eggs. These hatch into larvae that feed on the flesh and vital parts of the worm. It may pass into the inert or pupa stage, but does not awaken into a perfect moth. The parasite that preyed on it comes forth to perpetuate its parasitic life. The present outbreak of the army worm will provide such abundant food for the parasites that they will probably restore the balance of opposing forces. That is why such outbreaks seldom occur in two consecutive years. Insectivorous birds also play an important part in checking such outbreaks, and human agencies are also effective.

The worm is the larval stage of a night flying moth, leucania unipuncta, dark colored, with a single white spot on each fore wing. Like most moths it has but a brief life in its adult stage. This occurs in the fall, when the female lays her eggs, and thus ends her life history. The eggs do not hatch till spring, when the worms come forth, growing by successive moults. They are greenish, striped, and marked with black and yellow. It is in this stage that they are destructive. It is also the vulnerable stage, for they can be poisoned by any of the arsenical compounds used in spraying. If the food in their locality is not sufficient they move as by a common impulse, hence their popular name. They can be checked and destroyed by the turning of a furrow toward them and the digging of holes into which they fall. They are somewhat helpless and can be destroyed by burning when trapped in shallow pits.

When fully matured they enter the inert stage. From this those not parasitized emerge. The males die after mating and the females after depositing their eggs. The causes which have combined to favor the present outbreak are somewhat uncertain, but there is no doubt that energetic destruction, clean cultivation, and the preservation of the insectivorous birds will have a preventative influence."

OUT OF DEBT.

At breakfast time, at eve, at noon, I eat a cabbage and a prune, as oft I've done before; I smile and chortle as I dine, for what I eat is strictly mine, and paid for at the store. No man can say to me, "You loon, you ought to pay me for that prune, before you eat the same;" no man has mortgage, claim or lien, upon the cabbage, rich and green, with which I pad my frame. A cup of water from the rill tastes better than a pint of from place to place. They carry with them a thirty five piece band of very high-class musicians.

There will be a variety of shows and something that will appeal to all. What pleases one will not always appeal to another. There will be a trained Wild Animal Show, the Loona Musical Show, Kemp's Model City and Farm, an Aztec Village, Laughland, The Igorottes, The Hindoos, The Jumping Horse An Egyptian Hall of Mystery and various others, twenty in all. This will be one of the cleanest and best Midways ever shown at the Exhibition. The Exhibition dates are September 11th to 19th. All information given on application to the Secretary London, Ont.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Two horses crashed into a Hamilton bar. They evidently believe in the abolish cry.

It will be ironical in more than one sense if those Hindus get sent back in irons.

Those army worms are just about as persistent as the military suffragettes. The only difference is that they distinctly refuse to go on a hunger strike.

The players of the American and National baseball leagues are threatening to strike. And if they don't strike, they also get fired, and there you are.

A despatch announces that "Hurtel laughs." As for Sir Wilfrid Laurier's sunny smile, it went out of business the night of the last general election.

A barrister named Price, has been appointed chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Act commission at a salary of $70,000 per. Nothing like living up to a good name.

A despatch from Germany says that two women Socialists beat the editor of the "Schwabischer Tages-Zeitung." A man running a sheet with a name like that ought to be able to stand for anything.

Rev. Father Minehan, who fought for Rowell, recently said:—"I have never discussed politics in the pulpit, but believe it was my right to do so from the public platform where all could hear, and reply to me."

That's the point exactly.

Official figures published in London for the half year, ending with June 30th, show an all round drop in emigration as follows:—

Table with 3 columns: Country, 1914, 1913. Rows: Canada (31,548 vs 80,059), Australia (7,607 vs 21,882), United States (13,449 vs 40,014)

Hon. Mr. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, speaking in Quebec, gave the lie direct to the statement that he had intimated that there would be a Dominion election this Fall. He added, "The Government at Ottawa would no more be influenced by what Mr. Roblin did in Manitoba than it would by what Mr. Whitney did in Ontario, but would be guided by their own acts entirely." And that's common sense.

The don't give a darn manner in which Montreal affairs are run is further exemplified by the fact that Paul Lamarche, M.P., who has been appointed city attorney, says he will still hang on to his membership. As excuse he points out that Mayor Martin is also an M.P., and that City Clerk David is a member of the Senate. The civic motto there ought to be "Hang onto everything with both hands."

To The Editor

Sir: If a stray dog is running loose doing harm to the public by killing chickens is it the police's duty to stop such a nuisance if notified. RESIDENT (If the dog has an owner, the owner can be proceeded against and damages recovered. If not the police, no doubt, when asked will assist in cradicate the nuisance.)

SCORE OF BANDS

Dozen Concerts Daily at Canadian National Exhibition. The Grenadier Guards Band and Creator's Band will give music-lovers a chance to hear the best bands of two continents, but this is only a small part of the musical program of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. A score of the best Canadian and American bands have been engaged and there will be a dozen band concerts every day.

MIDWAY AT THE WESTERN FAIR AT LONDON.

The Midway this year will be fitted by the Con. T. Kennedy Shows. This organization is not only the largest but is acknowledged the best in the field of outdoor amusements. It requires 30 double length railway cars to transport this great aggregation from place to place. They carry with them a thirty five piece band of very high-class musicians.

There will be a variety of shows and something that will appeal to all. What pleases one will not always appeal to another. There will be a trained Wild Animal Show, the Loona Musical Show, Kemp's Model City and Farm, an Aztec Village, Laughland, The Igorottes, The Hindoos, The Jumping Horse An Egyptian Hall of Mystery and various others, twenty in all. This will be one of the cleanest and best Midways ever shown at the Exhibition. The Exhibition dates are September 11th to 19th. All information given on application to the Secretary London, Ont.

Ban Johnson, President of the American League to-day called a meeting to discuss the players' strike trouble. Fraternity players are not unanimous as regards striking.

Latest Comment On Local Soccer Situation

The semi-finalists in the Courier Cup have been decided now that Paris have put the Sons out of the running. They are Tutela, Paris, Scots and Holmedale, and the pairing of these four will be of interest when it is drawn. The teams play off the games on August 1st. It has been suggested that instead of two important games such as these are being played off on the same day, the schedule should be so arranged as to allow for a different date for each, in order that the games would draw larger crowds. As the cup proceeds are for charitable purposes, there should be no reason why this should not be effected.

The result of playing all cup games on the same day was felt when the cash gathered for the first round was collected. It was a disappointing amount, because the majority of those who saw the round went to see the star match, that between Cockshutt and Tutela. It was at this game that the most of the forty odd dollars were collected.

Football has taken a good hold up on Brantford and district, as was seen at the game between Scots and Tutela on Saturday, and the best collection on record for a league game was being taken and was spoilt because of the unfortunate break in the game. The canny Scots had garnered in over $22 when the Richardson-Mason stoppage occurred, and with the crowd surging over the field further attempts to collect the lure were impossible. It is estimated that there were a thousand spectators gathered round the lines, and this number is not exaggerated, for it is now becoming a common thing to see 600 people at a soccer game. The Scots are particularly well followed in this respect. Paris are as well supported as any when they are at home and the number of fair ones who encourage the Parisian players has been remarked upon.

Tutela have a good contingent and Holmedale also have their numbers. The P. S. A. come up smiling every time, and no matter what the extent of their adversity, they optimistically look forward to better things. Of course as the youngest and least experienced team of the league, they could not be expected to carry everything before them, but the spirit in which they carry on their journey is commendable. We hear very little of the Wanderers now. They have some good material, but the trouble appears to be want of practice. This trouble seems also to bother other teams. It has been said that with a couple of smart men in the forward ranks, the Wanderers would be a different team. The difficulty is getting the smart men, however. The strength of the Scots lies in their defence, which has not been pierced more than thrice in a match for some time. This defence is augmented in the forward line by their recent acquisition of Jones, who has the knack of getting the net every time. Jones was out of the city when the Scots and Tutela met. Why should the Scots fail by such a score as 0-1 at Paris when they were able to play a 2 all tie on their own ground. Perhaps the excited attitude of the French supporters gave them a dose of nerves. At least this is not their current form. Holmedale performed well on Saturday to overcome the Cockshutt boys, who do not seem to have recovered from the loss sustained by Barney Uniacke's injury. They take his and starts, however, as their victory of 5-1 the previous week denotes. ROUGH WEATHER FORCES SHAMROCK INTO PORT PLYMOUTH, Eng. July 21.—Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the Americas Cup, which sailed from Portsmouth under convoy of the steam yacht Erin yesterday, put into Plymouth last evening because of stress of weather. The Shamrock was on her way to Falmouth, from which port she will start for the United States. The challenger however will remain here until the weather shows improvement.

Lineman Received Shock.

An employee of the Hydro-Electric by the name of Finnerty met with a rather serious accident yesterday afternoon while working on line work on Market St. In some manner his arm touched a live wire, and he was knocked from the pole unconscious to the ground. Despite the fact that Finnerty landed on the pavement he was only badly shaken up, and was able to walk over to the hydro office on George street. Dr. Stinson was called, however, and the man removed to his home at 77 Mary street, where he is suffering somewhat from shock to-day. His arm was burned just where the wire touched it, but otherwise he escaped uninjured.

Everybody's Goin' to Do It.

The canvassers for decorations of stores during the old home week have met with great success, every place of business on Colborne street, Dalhousie and Market streets having agreed to decorate their store front, except two, and these will likely be induced to do so. The executive will decorate every other hydro light post with flags and others with shields bearing the word "Welcome" in colored letters. It now remains for owners of private houses on residential streets to get busy and arrange for the decorations of their houses. The way this is usually done in other cities where such celebrations are being held, is for residents of a whole block to get together and "chip in" and arrange for a general scheme of decoration in their block. Recognition will be made by the executive of the best decorated blocks, and also of decorated stores, prizes being given for the best decorated.

JOE GILLIES FOUND GUILTY

Sentence Will be Passed To-morrow—What Will be Done With Old Joe?

A lengthy list was presented to the magistrate at the police court this morning. Drunks, composed the majority of offenders while there were a number of various offences.

W. J. McDonald was charged with theft by W. W. Vandusen, he claimed that defendant had stolen two deeds of property which he had obtained from him upon pretence of loaning them. Defendant had never returned the deeds and now declared they were lost, he being drunk when he got them. He had deposited $5 upon the property described in the deeds and he intended to fully purchase it in August. Mr. McEwen who defended said the defendant did not purchase the property by August 10. He was willing that the case go on. On this understanding the case was dismissed.

Appearing in the dock, mildly defiant and saying it mattered little if his counsel did not appear, Joseph Gillies once again made his appearance before the court. He pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of house-breaking laid against him. He had stolen, according to the charge, a-mong other things, two watches, a pair of pants and coins.

Mrs. Lizzie Smith of Bealton testified that her home had been broken into. She identified her watch and her husband's and also coins which were produced.

John Smith, the husband, and a farmer at Bealton, also gave evidence and corroborated his wife's statement. As to the pants Gillies swore, he had never seen them or had he been in the district. To this Detective Chapman responded that he knew different and Gillies resignedly answered: "Just as you say."

Amusement was caused when Gillies was asked to stand up and Mrs. Smith called. Upon seeing the trousers he was wearing she immediately recognized her husband's property. Again Gillies was ready with a reply, and he stated he had bought the pants. He also reminded the court that there were many trousseaus made of the same material with the same cut.

MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Dump in Rear of Hydro Station is Very Inflammable.

The city dumping heap on Green-wich Street, just back of the Hydro Electric station has become nothing more or less than a menace to the safety of the city on account of the fires that occur there either from the carelessness of passers-by or by spontaneous combustion. It is known that several fires have occurred there by small boys touching it off to chase the rats out. Yesterday the firemen were called down about 4 o'clock in the afternoon as fire had broken out again. A hose wagon and four men went down and fought the blaze until six o'clock by laying 700 feet of hose from the nearest hydrant in Wat-cous's yard. The whole pile was burning fiercely underneath and it is about impossible to quench it, so far does it smoulder down.

The danger yesterday was to the wooden poles that carry the high voltage hydro wires across the dump. These poles were put in hollow places and now the pile of refuse has risen to a height of over six feet around the poles. The smouldering fire might very easily burn away at the bottom of these poles practically unnoticed from the top, and should the poles give way, with the high voltage wires there would be trouble. The firemen extinguished the blaze yesterday but there is no telling when another may break out.

Paris News

PARIS, July 21.—In an interesting baseball game between Galt and Paris which took place on Saturday afternoon, the visitors were defeated by the home team by a score of 8 to 5.

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday morning at the home of the bride's parents, on St. Andrew Street, when Mr. George Near of Port Colborne was united in marriage to Miss Hettie Lawton, daughter of Mr. C. W. Lawton of the Paris "Review." Rev. Mr. Reid performed the ceremony in the presence of a few near relatives. After a wedding trip to Detroit and points west, Mr. and Mrs. Near will reside in Port Colborne.

Rev. R. G. McBeth of the Presbyterian church preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening last. The service was well attended, and the reverend gentleman took for his text, 20th chap. of Acts and 32nd verse, "And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of grace, which is able to build you up; and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified." There was no service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, in order that the congregation might have an opportunity of hearing Mr. McBeth's address. This speaks well for the high esteem he is held in town.

The local Salvation Army corps held their annual picnic on Saturday afternoon, which took place at "Kitchen's Grove," Canning. A jolly afternoon was given to all.

The excursion to Niagara Falls, given by the Men's Society of St. James church on Saturday last was a grand success. A large number took advantage of the cheap rates. Special Grand Valley cars conveyed the excursionists to the T. H. and B. Depot and splendid service given by both railways.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilborn and Miss Middlemiss are visiting in Ottawa, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cook of Swanton are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fawkes, St. Andrew street. Miss Lane (Travelling secretary for the Y. W. C. A.) was in town looking over the ground preparatory to doing something along that line in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. A. Davidson were at Niagara Falls last week when the former was a delegate to the Masonic Grand Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas are at Wat. Georgian Bay. Mrs. Jas. Cook and Mrs. Elkington are in Brantford to-day attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Hope, who was for many years a resident of Paris. Mrs. Hope was in her 86th year. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan and family of Trenton are holidaying at the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Knight.

Gabby Ivers Traded Today To Hamilton

Two Players, Dudley and Barrett, Will Come Here in Exchange For Him.

A unique trade was pulled off to-day between the Hamilton and Brantford Baseball clubs whereby Gabby Ivers goes to Hamilton and Barrett and Dudley have been playing 1st base for the Athletics, and has been playing good ball, so has Barrett, who has been playing right field. Both new players will be in the game this afternoon against Toronto when it will be seen if the trade has had the effect of strengthening the Red Sox.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS

The public are notified that unless the regulations governing the use of water upon lawns and gardens are strictly observed, that prosecutions will be made. The regulations must be observed, as people on Terrace Hill cannot get water while the lawns are on down in the city under present conditions.

ELMIRA INFANT DIES

ELMIRA, July 21.—The death took place on Saturday morning of little Aileen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Monto, at the age of 8 months. The child had been suffering with erysipelas for several weeks. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Elmira Union cemetery, for burial.

WHAT C. P. R. SPENT FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Last year's Canadian Pacific accounts showed that additional improvements to the system had cost $20,000,000, while rolling stock and machinery stood for $30,000,000. Construction of acquired branch lines amounted to $9,113,050. The Ogden shops at Calgary, $2,446,935; the dividends paid up to June 30 came to, in round figures $15,000,000.

These are odd figures taken at random to show the bulk of the features which stand out prominently in the annual reports of the company. This year the expenditures upon rolling stock will, for the company, be comparatively slight while ground has not been broken for any new work. This does not mean that there is any pause in the forward policy of the company. The great works which were begun two years ago, go on. The president said at the time that this work would be enough for the executive for some two or three years to come. This included the great irrigation works, the branch lines in the West, the laying down of big terminals and trackage thereon, and chiefly the double tracking, which is going steadily forward. For the last ten years the company has been spending in the Northwest between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000 per annum, justifying the remark made by Mr. H. S. Holt, one of the directors, that the executive had spent in the Northwest, in all, as much as the entire capitalization of the system. It dove-tailed in with the conditions that the company was not pledged to any large new work this year, though as stated no necessary feature has been in the least degree curtailed, notwithstanding the falling figures show curtailment of nearly $8,000,000 during the fiscal year which ended on the 30th of June. Every necessary work went on; every necessary man, high or low, remained at his post; there was no curtailment of services when the traffic was light; the elaboration which marks the dining car service, which marks the great hotels in their accommodation and cuisine, was in no degree altered throughout the period of decreases; on the contrary, everything went forward with the conviction that both the country and the system were too well equipped to suffer and serious eclipse.

DEL CHASE

Whose Pitching in Two Games Yesterday Was Brilliant

Sporting Comment

Toronto is in third place in the Canadian League and Brantford all but last, but there did not appear to be yesterday such a great disparagement between the two teams. In fact they appeared about equal strength. In both games Brantford out-hit the Beavers, although the latter showed at times some dangerous clotting ability. The Toronto team of late has been playing remarkably good ball and if Brantford wins the series from the Beavers, the Red Sox will be doing well.

It begins to look as if the efforts of Rubé Deneau to get his team strengthened this month will fail. While Lamond is filling in well in the outfield, everyone knows Matty isn't an outfielder, nor is Gabby Ivers or Rubé Deneau. All are pretty fair hitters. Brantford had a chance to get Buster Burrill in the spring, also Dad Stewart but because some person connected with the ball club did not like Burrill he was not ordered to report. The circus catch Buster pulled off on Ivers smash yesterday was worth the price of admission.

Burrill is also hitting the ball hard. With an outfield composed of Long Burrill and Stewart, many a game which the Sox have lost by one run would have been packed away on ice. Yesterday's second contest made it about the 25th game lost by a one-run margin.

Jack Dunn of Baltimore continues to sell his best players but his club continues to win ball games. The Orioles are leading the International League and they consist of a lot of misfits. Baseball looks as if it will receive a black eye this year in many quarters.

If the players of the two big leagues go on strike it will teach the National Commission that agreements are made to be kept. The lesson is worth while as there is reason to believe the Potentates have been actuated by purely monetary reasons and not by sportmanship in many of their actions.

The bowlers have started at London and we regret to report Husband's rink down in their first encounter. Tom McPhail is there, however, and with the luck with him McPhail will be heard from.

For a tailender and a Monday yesterday's crowd at the park should make most places sit up and take notice about Brantford's franchise being removed to Toledo where all home games are played on the road.

Young Rabbit Fried is uncovering for the Red Sox a display of speed which shows the other members of the outfit up. The youngster is going along so well that he has cinched his job for this season and he may develop strong next year.

BEEBE WINS PITCHERS' BATTLE FROM HOWICK ON REISLING'S HIT

London Hurler Wild, But Strong With Men On—"Doc" Drives in Winning Run in Fifth—Extra Base Hits Coupled With Athletics' Errors Give Erie Yankees Victory Over Hamilton—Ottawa Wins First Game of Series from Peterboro 9-3.

ST. THOMAS, July 21.—London grabbed the jump on the locals yesterday by romping off with the first game of the series by the close score of 2 to 1, again taking the measure of Moundsman Howick, who has been credited with three victories over London so far this season in five starts.

On the defensive Ben Beebe and his curve ball can be attributed for the lack of base hits by the Saints, as he outpitched Howick in a hurlers' battle, displaying some grand pitching in pinches since he was wild at times, which placed him in several bad holes, while the locals took every advantage of Snyder's arm by garnering three pilfered sacks, but all were left anchored, since the timely base hit could not be secured.

Doc Plays Good Game.
 On the other hand, the base hit which Manager Reisling secured off Howick with two men on bases really won the contest, while several little fielding stunts he pulled off saved occasional dismal outlooks for the visitors. The Saints were completely baffled by Beebe's shoots, as he usually quelled their efforts with men on bases by striking out the batsmen for the second out and made the last go by a pop out or an infield grounder. Two fast double plays by the visitors helped to dampen the ardor of the many fans.

A base on balls to Kopp to start in the first inning was worked into the only run the locals secured off Beebe. Craven sent hi mto second on a bunt. Hadley walked and Kading popped out to Bierbauer. McNeilis, however, smashed out one of the three hits off Beebe, but Dunn's throw to Beebe caught Hadley going to third. London had not secured a hit off Howick until the fourth, when the visitors bunched three for two runs. To start with, Mullin singled to Kussus with one out Snyder drew a base on balls, but Nevitt, in the excitement threw to center field trying to get Mullin going to second. This put Mullin on third and a moment later Snyder occupied second on a steal. With the local infield smashed in for a hot, Manager Reisling smashed a bunt, Manager McNeilis, scoring both runners. Beebe singled to deep right, but Craven replayed and caught him napping at first. Linnebrou grounded out to Howick, retiring the side. The score: London 2, St. Thomas 1.

Hams Field Poorly
 HAMILTON, July 21.—Eight errors and extra hitting were responsible for Hamilton's loss of the first game to a 9 to 5 score. The fixture was closely contested up until the seventh session, when the Athletics scored three runs, which gave them a two run lead, but Erie came back even stronger in the eighth and counted six tallies on a single, a triple, home run and three errors. Hamilton outhit Erie by one hit but the miscues offset this advantage. Doubles, triples and home runs were made frequently, with Hamilton having the better of the hitting.

Billy Cunningham will get back into the game at second to-morrow, which will mean that Gilhooley will be sent to the outfield. Teddy Baldwin will be given a rest on the bench being replaced at third by Tendry, a new third baseman, who has had considerable experience in the Central League. The score, Hamilton 5, Erie 9.

Senators Beat Pets
 PETERBORO, July 21.—Ottawa trimmed Peterborough here yesterday in the first game of the series by the decisive score of 9 to 3. Opposite hitting by the champions coupled with misplays by the locals was responsible for the win. Mitchell, the Senators new shortstop, reported yesterday and made a fine showing both at bat and in the field. The score, Ottawa 9, Peterboro 3.

BIG LEAGUE PLAYERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

National Commission Given Till Tomorrow to Make Good—Trouble All Over One Player.

CINCINNATI, July 21.—Chairman Herrmann, of the National Commission, made a statement this afternoon immediately after the ball game in reference to the letter from David Fultz, in which the president of the Players' Fraternity wrote to the effect that "Inasmuch as organized ball had broken section 18 and other sections of the national agreement, on and after July 22, players of organized ball would no longer consider themselves under contract.

The statement of Mr. Herrmann was made at a gathering which included Manager Herzog of the Reds, the Cincinnati players, Robert Hedges, the St. Louis American League magnate, and New York and Cincinnati newspaper men.

Mr. Herrmann calmly took up the matter of the Fultz letter, and the possibility of a players' strike. He began by saying that since he became president of the Cincinnati club, 13 years ago, this was the first time there had ever been occasion to call his players before him, or that he had met them all together except socially.

He read the Fultz communication, dated New York, July 18, which was in substance as given above, and then went on to speak of it and the Kraft case, the case which has brought the present situation to a head.

"I do not say that the commission's ruling in sending Kraft to the Nashville Club in place of Newark was right or that it was wrong. Neither do I say the contention of the other side is right or wrong, but I do consider that this (referring to the Fultz declaration) is not the way to settle it. Here is a thirty-six hour notice, and I am not in a position to give an answer to-day.

"Mr. Fultz says several other sections of the agreement have been violated. If that is the case, this is the first intimation the National Commission has had of it. The way to settle this thing is for both sides to the controversy to get together again and thrash it out.

Herrmann then read from the national agreement such portions of it that bore on the Kraft case, and briefly gave reasons for the commission's action in the case.

"There should be no undue haste in the serious matter," he added, "and it could go over until Fall without the players being injured.

"Mr. Herrmann next addressed his players and asked them if they purposed to strike to give the club due notice so that patrons could be notified beforehand if there was to be a strike and no game on Wednesday. Then the room was left to the players. Everybody else cleared out.

After a short wait a spokesman for the Cincinnati players came out, and told Herrmann that they had not had any orders from President Fultz and that they would let the matter go over until to-morrow. "No strike orders had been issued to the players.

"Fred Merkle, who represents the New York chapter in the Players' Fraternity, also said he had not heard anything from headquarters ordering a strike.

RED SOX DIVIDE A DOUBLE-HEADER WITH ORT'S BEAVERS

Fine Pitching by Chase, and Timely Hitting by His Teammates Enables Sox to Take First Game.

The Red Sox captured the first game of the double header with Toronto at Agricultural Park yesterday afternoon by the score of 6-1, but dropped the second game to the Beavers 3-2. Both games were good exhibitions of ball, and there was a good sized crowd present to witness the event. Chase and Lacroix handled both games for the Sox and Chase was a regular whirlwind in the first, striking out nine of the Beavers and allowing four scattered hits, one a two bagger in the seventh and Ort, accounting for the Beavers only run in the first game. The locals were in good hitting form in the first session and got to Roberts for nine hits and six runs. In the second game Chase allowed only four hits, but one of these was a home run by Hunt in the first inning, and two others, one by Harkins in third score and one by a two bagger by Ort in the fifth again scored Hunt. It will be noticed that in the second game the three runs of the Beavers were all secured by Hunt. Graham pitched the second game for Toronto, and though the Red Sox got to him for seven hits while the Beavers only got four off Chase, the locals could only turn two of the seven into runs. Good base work by the Beavers and some bonehead base running on the part of the Red Sox, account for this.

Miller made an efficient umpire, and the only trouble at all occurred when he ordered Taylor off the field in the seventh inning of the second game for some too lively coaching. The first session was a quiet one until the Red Sox's half of the third inning Lacroix, Roth and Deneau scored, Lacroix having singled, Roth, walked, and Rube singled. A timely hit by Gaby Ivers driving Rube in, in the sixth Ivers two bagger scored

Chase Displays Great Form in Second Game, But Local Boys Could Do Nothing With Graham and Lose 3-2

Ivers who had been walked by Roberts and then Fried scored. Ort scored for Toronto in the same inning after knocking a two-bagger. In the 7th, the Sox nearly scored again when Lacroix singled, Chase sacrificed and Long got to first on Isaacs error. But Lacroix went out at second, and Roth went out to left, making the third out. The last run was scored by Fried in the 8th, who having walked, singles by Ostrich and Lamond drove him over the plate. The "rabbit" showed good speed on the bases. Ort mixed his line-up some what in the eighth and ninth in an attempt to save the game. Kirley ran for Trout in the eighth, who had sprained his ankle at second, Buster Burrell hit for Gadsby in the eighth, getting a single and in the ninth Ort was placed on second base, and Snell on second. Roberts pitched out the game.

The second game was played for seven innings only and went for the hour and ten minutes. In the first inning Hunt got a home run, Ort singled, Harkins sacrificed, Killilea was walked and Isaacs and Ort went out on a nice double play by Roth and Fried. For Brantford Long went out Killilea to Schultz, Roth the same; Rube singled but Ivers fled out to Buster. In the second, Schultz went out, Fried to Deneau, Burrell fled out to Roth, Snell walked and Graham struck out. Fried walked, Ostrich out to Hunt, Lamond singled, but got out Killilea to Ort; Lacroix out, Ort to Schultz. In the third, Hunt scored again on a single by Harkins, after taking first on a hit by pitched ball. Long scored for the Red Sox on Rube's single. In the fifth Ort two-bagger scored Hunt, while Chase a single a two-bagger scored on Roths setting. In the last two innings the Red Sox could do nothing, Ostrich, Lacroix and Chase striking out

Notes of Games

A little better base running would not hurt the Red Sox any.

In the fifth Chase got a lucky two-base hit. The ball bounded over Ort's head and Chase surprised everybody by beating it to second. The play was unexpected and he got away with it. In the third he attempted the same thing and was thrown out.

Fried showed a commendable lot of stuff at short stop. On yesterday's form he would be hard to replace.

Buster Burrill got a fine hand from the crowd and responded with a two-bagger. His catches in the outfield were the same old thrillers.

Roth was on the business end of a fine double play in the first inning. Chase pitched sixteen innings and allowed only eight hits. He gave a fine performance and should have been returned a winner in both games.

Chase struck out thirteen men in the two games.

In Brantford's second a fine chance was passed up. Fried was on third and Lamond on first with one out. Lamond failed to get to second and Lacroix hit into a double play.

Lacroix was called out on pitched strikes in Brantford's seventh. The strikes looked wide but were close and the umpire apparently wanted

The Man Who Would be King

By Rudyard Kipling

PART I.

THE beginning of everything was in a railway train upon the road to Mhow from Ajmir. There had been a deficit in the budget, which necessitated traveling not second class, which is only half as dear as first class, but by intermediate, which is very awful indeed.

My particular intermediate happened to be empty till I reached Nasirabad, when a huge gentleman in shirt sleeves entered and, following the custom of intermediates, passed the time of day. He was a wangler and a vagabond like myself, but with an educated taste for whisky. He told tales of things he had seen and done, of out of the way corners of the empire into which he had penetrated and of adventures in which he risked his life for a few days' food.

My friend wanted to send a telegram back from the next station to Ajmir, which is the turning off place from the Bombay to the Mhow line as you travel westward. My friend had no money beyond 8 annas, which he wanted for dinner, and I had no money at all on me. That means he'll be running through Ajmir about the night of the 23d.

"Did you say you are traveling back along this line within a few days?" asked he.

"Within ten," I said.

"Can't you make it eight?" said he.

"Mine is rather urgent business."

"I can send your telegram within ten days if that will serve you," I said.

"I couldn't trust the wire to fetch him, now I think of it. It's this way: He leaves Delhi on the 23d for Bombay. That means he'll be running through Ajmir about the night of the 23d."

"But I'm going into the Indian desert," I explained.

"Well and good," he said. "You'll be changing at Marwar Junction to get into Jodhpore territory—you must do that—and he'll be coming through Marwar Junction in the early morning of the 24th by the Bombay mail. Can you be at Marwar Junction, that time?"

"I would like to see the kind of you if you were to come out of central India in time to catch him at Marwar Junction and say to him, 'He has gone south for the week.' He'll know what that means. He's a big man with a red beard, and a great swell he is. You'll find him sleeping like a gentleman with all his luggage round him in a second class compartment. I ask you as a stranger—going to the west," he said with emphasis.

"Where have you come from?" said I.

"From the east," said he, "and I'm hoping that you will give him the message on the square—for the sake of my mother as well as your own."

"Englishmen are not usually softened by appeals to the memory of their mothers, but for certain reasons, which will be fully apparent, I saw fit to agree."

"I'll give the message if I catch him," I said, "and for the sake of your mother as well as mine I'll give you a word of advice. Don't try to run the Central India states just now as the correspondent of the Backwoodsman. There's a real one knocking about here, and it might lead to trouble."

"Thank you," said he simply. "And when will the swine be gone? I can't starve because he's ruining my work. I wanted to get hold of the Degumber Rajah down here about his father's widow and give him a jump."

"What did he do to his father's widow, then?"

"Filled her up with red pepper and slipped her to death as she hung from a beam. I found that out myself, and I'm the only man that would dare go into the state to get bush money for it. But you'll give the man at Marwar Junction my message?"

He got out at a little roadside station. When I left the train I did business with divers kings, and in eight days passed through many changes of life.

conceivable sort of person, to the prejudice of discipline. But that is the amusing part of the year. There are other six months wherein none ever come to call and the thermometer walks inch by inch up to the top of the glass.

It was in that season, and a remarkably evil season, that the paper began running the last issue of the week on Saturday night, which is to say Sunday morning, after the custom of a London paper.

One Saturday night it was my pleasant duty to put the paper to bed alone. It was a pitchy black night, as stilling as a June night can be, and the too, the red hot wind from the westward, was booming among the finer dry trees and pretending that the rain was on its way. It was a shade cooler in the pressroom than the office, so I sat there while the type ticked and clicked and the night jabs booted at the windows and the all but naked compositors wiped the sweat from their foreheads and called for water.

Then the roar and rattle of the wheels shivered the quiet into little bits. I rose to go away, but two men in white clothes stood in front of me. The first one said, "It's him!" The second said, "So it is!" And they both laughed almost as loudly as the machinery roared and mopped their foreheads. The smaller of the two was the man I had met in the Mhow train, and his fellow was the red bearded man of Marwar Junction.

I was not pleased, because I wished to go to sleep, not to squabble with loafers. "What do you want?" I asked.

"Half an hour's talk with you cool and comfortable in the office," said the first man. "We'd like some drink—the contract doesn't begin yet, Peachey, so you needn't look—but what we really want is advice. We don't want money. We ask you as a favor, because you did us a bad turn about Degumber."

I led from the press room to the sitting office with the maps on the wall, and the red haired man rubbed his hands. "That's something like," said he. "This was the proper shop to come to. Now, sir, let me introduce you to Brother Peachey Carnehann, that's his name, and Brother Daniel Dravot, that is me, and the less said about our profession the better, for we have been most things in our time. Carnehann is sober, and so am I. We'll take one of your cigars please, and you shall see us light."

I watched the test. The men were absolutely sober, so I gave them each a tepid peg.

"Well and good," said Carnehann of the cigars, wiping the froth from his mustache. "Let me talk now, Dan. We have decided that India isn't big enough for such as us."

"They certainly were too big for the office," Carnehann continued. "The country isn't half worked out because they that govern us won't let you touch it. Therefore, such as it is, we will let it alone and go away to some other place where a man isn't crowded and can come to his own. We are not little men, and there is nothing that we are afraid of except drink, and we have signed a contract on that. Therefore we are going away to be kings."

"Kings in our own right," muttered Dravot.

"Yes, of course," I said. "You've been tramping in the sun, and it's a very warm night, and hadn't you better sleep over the notion?"

"Neither drunk nor sunstruck," said Dravot. "I have slept over the notion half a year and require to see books and atlases, and we have decided that there is only one place now in the world that two strong men can Sar-a-whack. They call it Kafiristan."

By my reckoning it's the top right hand corner of Afghanistan, not more than 800 miles from Peshawar. They have two and thirty heathen idols there, and we'll be the thirty-third. It's a mountainous country, and the women are very beautiful."

"But that is provided against in the contract," said Carnehann. "Neither women nor liquor, Daniel."

"And that's all we know, except that no one has gone there, and they fight, and in any place where they fight a man who knows how to drill men can always be a king. We shall go to those parts and say to any king we find: 'Do you want to vanquish your foes? and we will show him how to drill men, for that we know better than anything else. Then we will subvert that king and seize his throne and establish a dynasty.'"

"You'll be cut to pieces before you're fifty miles across the border," I said.

"You have to travel through Afghanistan to get to that country. Are you at all in earnest?"

"A little," said Dravot sweetly. "Now, as big a map as you have got, even if it's all blank where Kafiristan is, and any books you've got. We can read, though we aren't very educated."

"There is no use your waiting," said Dravot politely. "It's about 4 o'clock now. We'll go before 6 o'clock if you want to sleep, and we won't steal any of the papers. When we've got our kingdom in going order we'll let you know, and you can come up and help us to govern it."

"Would two innocents make a contract like that?" asked Carnehann with subdued pride, showing me a greasy half sheet of note paper on which was written the following. I copied it then and there as a curiosity.

"This contract is between me and you pursuing witnesses in the name of God—Amen and so forth."

One—"That me and you will settle this matter together—I, e. to be King of Kafiristan."

Two—"That you and me will not, while this matter is being settled, look at any quarrel, nor any woman black, white or brown, so as to get mixed up with one or the other harmful."

Three—"That we conduct ourselves with dignity and discretion, and if one of us gets into trouble the other will stay by him."

Signed by you and me this day, Peachey Talaifarero Carnehann, Daniel Dravot, Both Gentlemen at Large.

I left them still poring over the map and making notes on the back of the contract. "Be sure to come down to the Serai tomorrow to say goodby," were their parting words.

The Kumbharen Serai is the great four square sink of humanity where the strings of camels and horses from the north load and unload. In the afternoon I went down there to see whether my friends intended to keep their word or were being about drunk.

A priest strolled up to me, gravely fixating a child's paper whirligig. Behind him was his servant, bending under the load of a crate of mud toys. The two were loading up two camels and the inhabitants of the Serai watched them with shrieks of laughter.

"The priest is mad," said a horse dealer to me. "He is going up to Kabul to sell toys to the ameer. He will either be raised to honor or have his head cut off. He came in here this morning and has been behaving madly ever since."

"From Room have I come," shouted the priest, waving his whirligig—"from Room, blown by the breath of a hundred devils across the sea! Who will take the protecting of God to the north to sell charms that are never still to the amir? Hol Hazar Mir Khan," he yelled to his servant, "drive out the camels, but let me first mount my own."

He leaped on the back of his beast as if he knelt and, turning round to me, cried, "Come, thou, also, shah, a little along the road and I will sell thee a charm, an amulet that shall make thee King of Kafiristan."

Then the light broke upon me, and I followed the two camels out of the Serai till we reached open road, and the priest halted.

"Want you think o' that?" said he in English. "Carnehann can't talk their patter, so I've made him my servant. He makes a handsome servant. 'Tisn't for nothing that I've been knocking about the country for fourteen years. Didn't I do that talk next? We'll hitch on to a caravan at Peshawar till we get to Jagdallah, and then we'll see if we can get donkeys for our camels and strike into Kafiristan. Whirligigs for the ameer, O Lord! Put your hand under the camel bags and tell me what you feel."

I felt the butt of a Martini and another, and another.

"Twenty of 'em," said Dravot placidly, "twenty of 'em, and ammunition to correspond under the whirligigs and the mud dolls."

"Heaven help you if you are caught with those things," I said. "A Martini is worth her weight in silver among the Pathans."

"Fifteen hundred rupees of capital—every rupee we could beg, borrow or steal—we invested on these two camels," said Dravot. "We won't get caught. We're going through the

Which Life View Is Best, My Friend's or "Boy's"

By Winifred Black

My friend is dreadfully discouraged about things. The world is all wrong, and the people in it are all wicked. There are a few who think they are happy—but they're mistaken. Nobody is honest, nobody is true, nobody is prosperous, and nobody counts.

What Two "Grown-ups" Said.

"We're all sick—heart-sick and body-sick, and brain-sick and soul-sick. We'll never be well again until the whole system of things is changed."

"And how are you going to change it?" said I to my discouraged friend.

"I don't know," said my discouraged friend to me, "but I'm going to try." And then he went away to take somebody else out into the perfectly good sunshine, and try to make it look as if the sky was thick with black and threatening clouds.

On the very next corner from the one on which my discouraged friend left me I met Another. Another is a woman—a nice, plain, motherly, interesting, rather stupid, very good little woman.

The world is glorious. The sun shines all day—and the moon or the stars all night—in the world where my friend, Another, lives. There is no sickness there and no pain and no sorrow.

Everybody's rich—if they want to be, and nobody is poor unless they prefer poverty. There are no ugly women and no weak men. The cowards are all dead and buried long ago—and so are the liars. Money is a good thing, and everybody can have all of it they want.

Nothing that you eat ever disagrees with you in the world where my friend, Another, lives. Nothing ever wears you out. Work is a delight; anxiety is a stimulant, discouragement is a sin and sorrow is a wicked folly.

I stood on the next corner and had Another tell me all about it.

"Who told you I was fit?" said my friend Another. "I am not fit, I am perfectly well. Oh, yes, I did think I was suffering—once, but that was before I knew. Now that I realize that it was all just an illusion—there isn't any more suffering. There isn't any suffering anywhere. There can't be—it's all a mistake."

"Poverty? Why, the idea. There's no sense in being poor."

"Old? Why, nonsense. I couldn't be old if I tried."

"Sad? Take the word out of the dictionary. It doesn't mean anything."

"We're all rich; we're all well; we're all strong; we're all good; we're all happy; everything is for the best."

And my good, kind, rather stupid little plain friend, Another, brushed an imaginary thread of her threadbare little gloves, straightened her shabby little hat, shook out her worn little skirts and walked jauntily away—as happy as a lark and, I'm afraid, almost as irresponsible.

What the Little Boy Thought.

When I went home I met the children skipping hand in hand from school. And they were laughing and the Little Boy sang as he skipped.

"What do you think of the world?" said I to the children. "Is it a good place to live in—are you very happy?"

The Little Boy laughed aloud for very joy.

"Oh," he said, "I'm so glad I live in this world!"

The Little Girl smiled wistfully and looked very grave, and very kind.

"But this morning, when you could not spell the word the teacher gave you, you cried," said the Little Girl very gently.

The Little Boy laughed again. "B-o-y, boy," he chanted triumphantly.

"I can spell it now—and that's what makes me laugh."

And the Little Girl and I both laughed, too, and the Little Boy waited ahead of us and sang a martial tune. Bravely did he sing it and lustily—and we all marched home in martial step to luncheon.

First the tears—then the laughter—then love. What a strange world it would be if most of us were not just a little bit like the children.

I don't want to live in the hideous world my friend who is so worried about things seems to know.

I'm afraid I should not quite like it in the strange world that is all light and no shadows at all in which my sweet friend, Another, appears to live.

"B-o-y, boy." When Johnny comes marching home again—hurrah, hurrah—how blithely the brave old tune led us up the hill—to home.

Come, children, I'll live with you—if you will let me.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear anywhere in the magazines of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

"I wish you did have to pay an income tax," she said. "In heaven's name, why?" "Oh, I don't know," said Mary airily. "I wish I were making sufficient to necessitate it." "That's what I mean," said Mary eagerly. "But I guessed from her air of guilt that there was something else in her mind."

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie: I am not like the 14 and 15-year-old, lovesick girls who write to you. I have lived 25 years! I am writing you for a few words of consolation, because I don't think much advice can be given.

I dearly love a young man, but I don't know that he cares for me in the way that I do for him. I have been associating with him for just two years, every day. He has treated me splendidly, and shown every courtesy that a young man could. I want to say and do just what will help me win him.

I have learned to love him, so that I must tell some one, although I have not confided even in any of my girl friends.

He doesn't keep company with any girls, although he corresponds with a couple of girls that I know, yet he never goes to see them. There is nothing in that way which could hinder us becoming very much to each other, and our position in life is not a hindrance.

I realize the restriction upon girls in choosing young men for their companions, therefore I cannot show my feeling toward him.

DISTRESSED

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

SALTS IF BACKACHY AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While if your Bladder is Troubling You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sores, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are often obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NEURALGIA SETTLED IN HER LUNGS

No Relief From The Pain Until She Took "Fruit-a-lives"

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., MAY 5th. 1913. "I cannot speak too highly of "Fruit-a-lives". For over thirty years, I have suffered from chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottles of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but "Fruit-a-lives" proved that the doctor was wrong by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me. "I would not have my present health if it were not for "Fruit-a-lives" and I am glad of this opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as "Fruit-a-lives". MRS. NATHAN DUNN. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, retail size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.
