THE LENGTH of a Match.
"I think that I will take these, they are the longest."
The storekeeper laughed as he received the money over the counter.
"I never knew anyone to select a match on account of its length before," he said.
"I never did it before myself," replied the boy, "but these are unusually long, and in making a fire it may save the trouble of lighting a second match, which is often a bother."
"That lad is going to make his way in the world," mused the proprietor of the store as he stood by the door watching his late customer racing up the village street. "He's generous and open hearted; not a bit of a miser, but with a keen eye for business." Then, a swift coming into the shop, he turned to wait upon her and thought no more of the circumstance.
Neither did the purchaser of the matches. He used them as occasion required, but he forgot to note, in the lighting of numerous fires, whether the length had proved of any particular advantage to him. He was a boy of ideas, a specialist, his mother called him, for he was always busy about a particular hobby; now botany, now wood-carving, and during this summer of which I write it was geology.
But unlike most hobbyists, he did not give up till he had accomplished a good deal in each line. He was very much interested now in collecting specimens for his school work in the fall, and his search carried him far and wide, on long delightful tramps through the country. Some days he would be gone from morning till night returning footsore and dearly tired with his pride and delight over his success.
"I'm bound for the Cliffs, mother," he announced one morning at breakfast; "so you must not expect me back till late. It is a long distance, and I shall want to be there two or three hours."
"Then you will need some lunch, responded his mother kindly. "And,
Harry, dear, do be very careful, for the Cliffs are steep and slippery; and above all do not be absent-minded."
"You mustn't worry, mother. You know I always turn up all right.
But I will be careful," he added.
"And now good-by; and thank you for the lunch."
But when he was half way to the gate he turned and went back to the porch where she stood watching him, and gave her a hearty boyish kiss as a sort of seal to the promise.
The walk, though long, was very beautiful and a constant delight to the young naturalist, who had formed the habit of using his eyes to the best advantage, a habit, by the way, which is worth hours of book study to any girl or boy. Once among the rocks, however, he forgot all else in his engaged search, and it was long past noon

Saurus Cords.
(Bills Carries.)
The wind on the cliffs,
The breath of God over the face of the ground Whisper a word.
The tribes of his heavy dominion rejoice having heard.
Crimes of Indian villainy
Orange of maple plume,
As a web of endless pattern,
Rings from orb and sheath,
So silently, only a spirit
Could guess at the spirit beneath.
For these are the movent people,
Who only abide the silence,
Yet no less fast the heart beat
To the life of the spirit above.
They are the keepers of alms,
Who only show and are dumb,
Who only have the heart beat
To the life of the spirit above.
The holding they know will come.
The rest of leaves is beginning.
The rev of rap is air!
Dogwood and peach and magnolia,
Have wended they to not defer.
In the long, sweet breath of the rain winds
In the warm, sweet breath of sun,
They arise at the Saurus Cords,
A thousand uplifted as one.

ward, pausing now and then to feel his way with his staff. Presently the point met with no resistance, and then he knew that the end of that stage of his journey had been reached. Raising himself carefully to his feet he struck his match. Whether his hand had trembled or the wood was imperfect, it mattered little, but it snapped in two and fell among the splinters of rock at his feet. But two now remained, and with a terrible sinking of heart Harry placed one in the inside pocket of his jacket and struck the other on the box. It caught and blazed, showing him the bridge not two steps beyond, and without the loss of a second he was upon it, and with the desperate literally upon the length of that last match. If it did not break in the lighting—it it was not blown out in the passage—would it last till he reached the other side? To insure himself against the first mentioned catastrophe, he must light it at the expiring spark in his hand, and in the second time thus employed his mind flew back to his mother and a feeling of thankfulness filled his heart. Oh, if he had but heeded her earnest warning! But the match had caught and there was not an instant to be lost, so, protecting the blaze with his hand as before, he stepped firmly forward. Twelve feet is but a short distance, an absurdly short distance under some circumstances, but when one's life is hanging, so to speak, on a tiny splinter of wood which each moment is shortening when one must walk slowly not to fan the flame or to make a mistake, it is—well, not short.

The match was burning evenly and well, but it was burning down only an inch remained. But that inch—the inch by which it had exceeded in length that other match between which and it the choice had lain on that bright morning long ago—that inch served to show the plank's end and to save the life of the boy who held it till his feet were planted on the solid rock, all danger past. That he sank then, a half-unconscious heap on the floor of the passage, mattered little. At the flutter end the daylight was glimmering when finally he opened his eyes; and slowly, for he was still weak and trembling, he made his way toward it, and on into the glorious afternoon, radiant with the setting sun. The cool, delicious air revived him, and then he gathered his strength together and hurried homeward, a great hunger to be near his mother's possessing him.
"You are much less absent-minded than you used to be, dear," his mother said to him one day a month later.

"One time I feared that only some hard lesson would teach you how really serious a falling it was, but I am thankful to see that you have overcome without that help."
And then, for the first time the danger being so long past that he thought he might safely do so, Harry unfolded to his mother the story of that terrible day. "I thought first I'd spare you the knowledge of the danger I encountered, fearing you would never feel like trusting me again. But I think, mother, I learned more than one lesson in that hour of danger. I can never, it seems to me, be again the thoughtless boy I was."

The mother reached and laid her hand on her boy's shoulder.
"God be thanked you spanned that narrow bridge in safety. And may a light guard be used by you in life's greater dangers."—Annie I. Hannah

Meat on the Farm.
Much valuable information regarding the butchering, curing and keeping of meat is given in Farmers' Bulletin No. 183 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, entitled "Meat on the farm." The many illustrations enable anyone to follow closely the directions for killing and cutting up cattle, sheep and swine. The general advice given is worthy of close attention by all farmers who do not depend on the butcher for their meat supply.

SELECTION OF ANIMALS. The author of the bulletin points out that in the selection of animals for meat health should be given first consideration.
No matter how fat an animal may be he will grow old, if it is not in perfect health the best quality of meat cannot be obtained. If suffering from fever, or any serious derangement of the system, the flesh will not be wholesome food. Flesh of animals that have recovered from the ravages of disease before slaughter is not likely to cure well and is very difficult to keep after curing. Bruises, broken limbs, or like accidents all have the same effect on the meat as ill health, and unless the animal can be killed and dressed immediately after such accident, it is not best to use the meat for food. A rise of two degrees or more in the animal's temperature at or just previous to slaughtering is almost sure to result in stringy, gluey meat and to create a tendency to sour in curing.

CONDITION. First class meat cannot be obtained from animals that are poor in flesh. A reasonable amount of flesh must be present to give juicy-ness and flavor to the flesh, and the latter an animal is, within reasonable limits, the better will be the meat.
The presence or large amounts of fat is not essential, however, to wholesome meat and it is far more important that an animal be in good health than that it be extremely fat. It is not wise to kill an animal that is losing flesh, as the muscle fibres are shrinking in volume and contain correspondingly less water. As a consequence the meat is tougher and drier. When an animal is gaining in flesh the opposite condition obtains and a better quality of meat is the result. Also a better product will be obtained from a fat animal than from a lean one.

FEEDING AND QUALITY. Quality in meat is largely dependent on the health and condition of the animals slaughtered and yet the best quality of meat is rarely, if ever, obtained from poorly bred stock. The desired "marbling" or admixture of fat and lean is never of the best in scrub stock, nor do the over fed showing animals furnish the ideal in quality of meat. There seems to be a connection between a smooth, even and deeply fleshed animal and nicely marbled meat that is not easily explained. Fine bones, soft, luxuriant hair and mellow flesh are always desirable in an animal to be used for meat, as they are indications of small waste and good quality of meat.

AGE FOR KILLING. Age affects the flavor and texture of the meat to quite an extent. It is a well-known fact that meat from old animals is more likely to be tough than that from young ones. The flesh from very young animals lacks flavor and is watery. An old animal properly fattened and in good health would be preferred to a younger one in poor condition. Cattle are fit for beef at eighteen or twenty months if properly fed, though meat from such animals lacks in flavor. The best beef will be obtained from animals from twenty to forty months old.
A calf should not be used for veal under six weeks of age, and is at its best when ten weeks old and raised on the cow. Hogs may be used at any age after six weeks, but the most profitable age at which to slaughter is eight or twelve months. Sheep may be used when two to three months old and at any time thereafter.
They will be at their best previous to reaching two years of age, usually eight to twelve months.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 10, 1904.

The street authorities have recently completed a piece of work on the east end of Main street, from the foot of Church Hill, west which from present appearance should prove a very satisfactory job. A large quantity of stone from the quarry has been used, evenly graded and rolled, giving a smooth and hard road, and one which should wear well. Work of this kind done by the committee last year on Front street produced a good road, and the continuance of similar street-construction will no doubt be productive of great improvement.

We are glad to see a considerable improvement in the appearance of Main street during the past week or so. The council has arranged to have a man go over the street every day and clear off waste paper and other rubbish. As a result of this work the street presents a clean and tidy appearance, which must be very pleasing to every citizen. We trust that this work may be continued and thoroughly done, and that merchants and others will assist by looking carefully after sweepings, which in the past have been frequently thrown into back yards and alleys, to be blown upon the street by the first gust of wind.

At a meeting of the School Board on Monday evening the matter of home study of the lessons was taken up and discussed at some length. It is proposed that in the near future the study of the lessons by the pupils up to and including the fifth grade be confined to the school-room, and that no books be allowed to be taken to the home. This method, while not in operation so far as we know in this province, is not by any means an experiment. In Massachusetts, where prevalent perhaps the best system of public schools in the world, this mode of study has been followed with good results. It is held that not only are the parents relieved of much work, but that property belongs to the teacher, and all pupils have the same opportunity for advancement, but that the following of this method conduces very much to the health and well-being of the children. We freely open our columns for the discussion of this matter by parents and others interested in the progress of our schools.

THE ACADIAN is glad to learn that another effort is about to be made to improve the condition of Willow Bank Cemetery. A special meeting of the lot owners is called for Monday afternoon of next week, to consider the advisability of assessing the lots to raise the necessary funds. We understand that several of the citizens have already agreed to subscribe generous yearly donations to a fund for the purpose. The condition of our cemetery is not at all creditable to Wolfville, and we trust that something may be done to improve it to such an extent that citizens may be able to look with pride upon their "city of the dead." As we have repeatedly pointed out, with a reasonable amount of money and care expended upon it Willow Bank would be one of the prettiest cemeteries in Nova Scotia. We hope that lot owners and citizens generally will do all in their power to assist the good work.

World Wide.

Mrs Samuel M. Clemens, wife of Mark Twain, died in Italy Tuesday evening.

The race for the Derby stakes of 6,500 sovereigns was won by Mr Leopold Rothschild's horse, St. Amant.

Parliamentary business was suspended one day last week because the members left to see a circus parade that was in town.

A touring automobile, containing a party from Rhode Island, had a narrow escape at Roundy Creek, N. B., a few days ago. The machine had just crossed the creek, en route from St. John to Moncton when the bridge it had passed on broke through. A minute sooner and probably a fatal accident would have resulted.

The silent monotony of a desert sometimes has the effect of making human beings insane. The utter soundness becomes awful to persons used to the busy hum of cities, and the symptoms come on without warning. Unless the person suffering is taken in charge he is pretty sure to die of some member of the party.

Two of England's ancient castles will pass under the hammer this spring. One is Kingwear Castle, in South Devon, built in the time of King John. The other, Haverhill Castle, Oxfordshire, under whose roof King James I was sometimes guest, was the home of Sir Anthony Cope, the Puritan leader.

A great military walking match was held in St Germain, France, on May 31. Two thousand soldiers participated and the spectators numbered many thousands. The race was won by a private who did the distance of about twenty-eight miles in six hours, forty-nine minutes and two seconds. The competition was attended with fatal results, one man dying and several others being in dangerous conditions.

A New Yorker sends a letter to a friend, concerning American abolitionism, with the following: "With all their talk and how their flagging and 'holier than thou' business, these people of the United States are only half civilized; they talk like savages, eat like savages, drink like savages, and in every other way live and die like savages. They have their good points."

College Sports at St John.

The inter-collegiate sports at St John last week were witnessed by a large number of spectators. The struggle for supremacy was well maintained in several events. Acadia came out the winner in the aggregate, breaking the record in running, broad-jumping and hammer throwing.

Howe jumped 21 feet 11 3/4 inches, breaking the maritime record of 21 feet 6 inches.

Jones threw the hammer 125 feet 2 1/2 inch, breaking the record of 122 feet made by himself two years ago.

In the total of events Acadia took first place with 45 points, Sackville second with 33 points, and the University of New Brunswick third with twelve points.

Following were the events:— 100 yard dash—First, heat—Howe, Acadia, first; Powell, Mount Allison, second; time 10 4/5 seconds.

Second heat—Black, Mount Allison, first; Lewis, Acadia, second; time 10 4/5 seconds.

Third heat—Black, first; Howe, second, Power, third; time 10 4/5.

High jump—Powell, Mount Allison, first; Howe, Acadia, second.

Running broad jump—Howe, first; Squires, University of New Brunswick, second; Marr, Mount Allison, third; 21 feet 11 3/4 inches.

220 yards dash—Howe first; Black second; Powell third; time 24 1/5 seconds.

Hammer throw—Jones, Acadia, first; Barker, University of New Brunswick, second; Howie, University of New Brunswick, third; distance, 121 feet 7 inches.

440 yards dash—Howe first; Black second; Powell third; time 51 3/4 seconds.

Putting shot—Jones first; Denton, Acadia, second; Barker, University of New Brunswick, third; distance 35 feet 3 1/4 inches.

Hurdles, first heat—Marr, Mount Allison, first; Jones second; time 18 1/2 seconds.

Second heat—Howe and Baker tied for first place; Dole, Mount Allison, second; time 19 3/5 seconds.

Third heat—Marr first; Jones second; Barker third; time 18 1/5 seconds.

Pole vault—Marr first; Lewis, Acadia, second; Malloy and Squires, both of the University of New Brunswick, tied far third; height, 9 ft 6 1/2 inches.

One mile run—Denton, Acadia, first; Atkinson, Mount Allison, second; Lynch, University of New Brunswick, third.

Dyspepsia Cured.

A SUFFERER TELLS HOW HE OVERCAME THE TROUBLE. "Not only do I not hesitate to declare the benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I feel it my duty to do so. These are the words which Mr Edward Lavoie, of St. Jerome, Que., lately addressed to the editor of L'Avenir du Nord, when relating the story of his cure. Mr Lavoie is well known in St. Jerome, and what he says carries weight among those who know him.

For a considerable time he was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, which caused severe headaches, pains in the stomach and sometimes nausea. Sometimes he felt as though he would suffocate, he would become dizzy, and experienced ringing noises in the ears. His appetite became poor, and his general health so bad that he found it almost impossible to work, and when the headaches attacked him he had to quit work. For six months, he says, he suffered both physically and mentally more than can be imagined. During this time he took medicine from several doctors, but found no help. Then one day he read of a cure of a similar case through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. He used the pills for a couple of months, and they have made him feel like a new person. He is no longer troubled with any of the old symptoms, and says he can now go about his work as though he never had dyspepsia.

The digestive organs—like all the other organs of the body—get their strength and nourishment from the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. This new blood strengthens the stomach, stimulates the liver, regulates the bowels and sets the whole digestive system in a healthy, vigorous state. Good blood is the true secret of good health. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always bring good health to those who use them. You can get these pills from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wolville's Subscription to the Second Forward Movement.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: I beg to report through your columns to the many friends of the College and the affiliated institutions that the pledge list from Wolville subscribers has reached the sum of $5,362.50. Of this amount six persons have subscribed $3,500. Two others have subscribed $200 each. Eight persons have subscribed $100 each. Thirty-two others have subscribed in smaller sums $662.50. The total number of subscribers in town so far is forty-eight. Others have intimated their purpose to subscribe later. Doubtless others still have the matter in mind, and will shortly be heard from. When speaking to the Baptist congregation on the subject I expressed the expectation that Wolville would pledge six or seven thousand dollars. With the present list in hand it looks entirely reasonable to expect the final amount to reach $7,000.

Very grateful for the generous response already made, and bespeaking the consideration of those who have not yet pledged, I am, Yours very truly, THOS. POTTER

Wolville, June 9th.

Bad Runaway.

A runaway attended by serious and what might have been fatal consequences occurred in town on Wednesday afternoon. Mr Harry Etter, of Greenfield, was in the store of Illey & Harvey and his carriage, in charge of Mrs Etter, was standing at the door. In some way the horse succeeded in getting the bridle off and started to run. Mr Etter heard the noise, and running out caught the horse by the neck and told his wife to jump out of the carriage, which she did escaping injury. Mr Etter then tried to stop the horse, which ran up Main street, but was unable to do so, and when in front of Regan's harness shop was thrown down, the horse and carriage passing over him. He was picked up in an unconscious state and carried into Mr Regan's shop. Dr. Bowles was called and found the man badly cut about the head and face, but fortunately with no bones broken and apparently not seriously injured. A number of stitches were put in and the injured man made as comfortable as possible, and in the evening he was taken home by Mr Frank Gertrude of Gaspereau, who provided a suitable team for the purpose. The horse after running up Main street, turned off on Linden avenue, and was finally stopped at the stable of Mr Selfridge.

Hood—Best.

A pleasing event occurred at the summer home of Dr. O. F. Best, Silver Spring, Providence, R. I., May 29, at 5 p. m., when his sister, Bertha Blanche Best, formerly of Grafton, N. S., was united in marriage to Richard Sanderson Hood, of Waltham, Mass. The rooms were beautifully decorated with palms and red and white carnations.

The bride, attired in a handsome going-away gown of fawn and brown silk, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses, entered on the arm of her brother, Dr. Best, by whom she was given away. She was attended by her sister, Mrs John Jenkins, of Collingville, Conn., as matron of honor, and her little niece Gladys Payson Best. The groom, in regulation afternoon dress, was attended by Mr Jenkins. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Woolsey. After partaking of a luncheon the happy couple took the evening train for New York, en route for St Louis, amidst the congratulations and good wishes of a large number of invited guests and friends.

The presents were numerous and valuable, including several handsome pieces of cut glass, silver, and china, also a handsome brass bed, and music cabinet from Dr. Best and Dr. H. H. Best. Upon their return they will reside at 224 Robbins street, Waltham, Mass.

Supreme Court.

The June sitting of the Supreme Court opened at Kentville on Tuesday, Judge Townshend presiding. In his remarks to the grand jury Judge Townshend congratulated the county upon the completion of the new court house, where everything was convenient for the conducting of the business to be brought before them.

Addressing the grand jurors he referred to the criminal cases that would be brought before them, one of them being of a terrible character, where evidently a woman had been murdered. He then referred to two charges of perjury and one of assault.

Subsequently the grand jurors reported a trap bill against James Robinson for perjury (he is a brother of William S. Robinson, charged with wife murder). He was found guilty and sentenced to a short term in the county jail.

The grand jurors also presented a true bill against William S. Robinson for assault. At the afternoon sitting the judge addressed the grand jury in regard to the murder case, pointing out the enormity of the crime and the terrible nature of the dispositions taken before Mr. Justice Rockwell and the statements therein contained of the various witnesses and also spoke of the story as told by the prisoner.

He complimented the magistrate, the crown prosecutor and the coroner for the thoroughness with which they had performed their duties and the manner in which the preliminary examination had been conducted.

After examining some of the witnesses a true bill was reported against William S. Robinson for the murder of his wife. A special sitting of the court will be held on the 19th of July for the trial of the prisoner.

The assault case was not tried at this sitting, pending the result of the trial of the prisoner, now charged with the great crime.

The present sitting closed with one day's work, as no civil cases were entered for trial.

An important celebration is to be held in Annapolis Royal on June 21st and 22nd, to commemorate the tercentenary of the landing of Demonts at Port Royal (now Annapolis Royal), being the first landing of Europeans in the Dominion of Canada for the purpose of settlement. Representatives of France, the United States, and of Canada, the Premiers of all the provinces of Canada, representatives of all the great Historical Societies and Universities of North America have been invited, and many of these will be present to take part in the celebration. Ships of war representing Great Britain, France, the United States and Canada will also visit the port and assist in the celebration.

From this the Saviour saves. And, like a happy infant, "Papa" can play among the graves.

He expressed the deep sympathy of the friends present for those who were in sorrow, and their hope that faith might do her gracious work and fill them with comfort and strength.

After singing, the Rev. Prof. Keirstead at the request of the pastor gave a very helpful address. He said that the sympathy of all present, as well as of their many friends elsewhere, will be given without measure to Mr and Mrs Chipman in this time of their deep sorrow. Some of us who have known them well for many years will especially enter into their feelings. Events like this one that brings us together today bind us most closely in a fellowship of sorrow.

When we lay the bodies of our parents in the tomb it seems as if we who are sharers of their lives are drawn into the grave with them. And when our children pass within the veil it seems almost as if we attended them in their journey and were already risen into the life that is yet unseen. We can rejoice that since Jesus rose the tomb can never be closed; but He broke the seal and forever, True, we cover the body with a few handfuls of earth; but this covering is only like a screen door we make for our house, that may secure privacy for the one sleeping within but through which one can pass when the brief rest taken in sleep is over. Jesus has left the graves where their bodies rest wide open, and He has opened the gates of heaven into which they have passed wide open also.

This great truth joins us all to-day, not only in a fellowship of sorrow, but in a fellowship of faith and hope. For if Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him. So our friends and we do not suffer as others who have no hope.

It is given to our friends to cherish these hopes and to confidently rejoice while they mourn; for their beloved who gave evidence through many months that he was taught of God.

Phillips Brooks, if I mistake not, says that however early you speak to your child about God you find God has already spoken to him. I am told that the dear boy who has found his way into many of our hearts had found his way also into the heart of his Lord, as was shown by his words and prayers and the spirit of his life and conduct. He was an illustration of Wordsworth's view that "we come from God who is our home," that "heaven lies about us in our infancy."

That, whose exterior semblance doth belie Thy soul's immensity; That best philosopher, who yet dost keep Thy heritage; thou eye among the blind, that deaf and silent, read the eternal deep, haunted forever by the eternal mind, Mighty prophet! see'st thou best!

That little child, yet glorious in the might Of heaven-born freedom on thy being's height, While here, this darting of the house-hold was surely "Christ," now he is, we believe "with Christ."

And may not the passing to the other shore of this bright boy start in us all again the "truths that wake, to perish never?" May not "Our souls have sight of that immortal sea Which brought us hither, And see the children sport upon the shore, And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore?"

At the grave as our dear young friend was laid to rest pastor Morse offered prayer. In reference to the refreshing showers which were then descending he said: "As the rain cometh down from heaven and returneth not thither but watereth the earth, causing it to bring forth and bud, so may the lessons of this day remain in our memories and hearts a continual incentive to right thinking and living."

Nothing Like Experience. "One truth learned by actual experience does more good than ten experiences one hears about." Tell a man that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure his mother, and he will most likely forget it before the end of the day. Let him have a severe attack of that disease, feel that he is about to die, use this remedy, and learn from his own experience how quickly it gives relief, and he will remember it all his life. Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Sophia L. youngest daughter of Daniel B. Parker, of Hahorville, to Rev. S. Walter Schurman, of Lunenburg, which is announced to take place next Wednesday afternoon, June 15th.

The marriage of Miss Carita Ryserson, youngest daughter of J. A. M. Pushie, of Halifax, and Fred C. Churchill, druggist, of Middleton, is announced to take place on the 15th inst., at the residence of the bride's father.

Mr and Mrs Beckwith wish through THE ACADIAN to thank the members of the Wolfville Fire Co., for their prompt attendance at the fire at the Royal Hotel last week, and for the careful and efficient efforts to save the buildings and contents from destruction.

That Kentville has bidden out as a seaport town will be news to most people, but the following paragraph from a reliable source of the Halifax Herald proves it: The barque Avon, is Captain Porter, which arrived a day or two ago at Kentville, is on the beach being remodelled.

Mr Maynard Roach, son of Mr Frederick Roach, of Clarence, and brother of Rev. H. H. Roach, Pastor of Main street Baptist church, of St. John, died at his residence, Worcester, Mass., May 2nd. The deceased was greatly respected as a man of sterling worth and upright.

The Rev. Richard F. Dixon, rector of St. John's church, Wolfville, Nova Scotia, Canada, assisted in the services at Christ church, East Orange, last Sunday. He celebrated at the 8 o'clock service and preached a very interesting and impressive sermon in the evening, East Orange (N. J.) Chronicle.

The following units of active militia formed into provisional brigades will be represented for twelve days training in camp, for instruction, at Alderhot camp, Sept. 13th to 28th: Kings Canadian Hussars; No. 8 Company C. Rev. Dr. D. J. Fraser, pastor of St. Stephen's church, at John, has been appointed to the chair of New Testament Exegesis at the Montreal Presbyterian College. The salary attached to the position is $2500 a year, to be raised gradually to $2700. Dr. Fraser was formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church, in this town, and his many friends here will be glad to learn of his success. He is a man of large attainments, and his record as a preacher as well as a student is of a high order.

Mr Hydesaburo Ohashi, a celebrated Japanese lecturer and author, is being booked in this province for a series of lectures on Japan and the Japanese-Russian War in June. Mr. Ohashi has received his education in two different nations, and being a close student of military and economic theory, is able to portray the Eastern situation as few others can do. His coming to Nova Scotia at the present time will create widespread interest. The date for this town will be announced later.

Mr E. B. Eaton, Canning, overseer of fisheries for Kings County, and Mr Frank Tolson from the fish hatcheries, Bedford, placed 50,000 salmon fry in the Cornwallis River at Cambridge, and 50,000 more in the headwaters of the Gaspeaux, on Friday last. The Cornwallis River, because of its sandy and stony bottoms, has been found to be the best adapted for spawning purposes. A fish ladder has been ordered to be placed in the John Wood mill dam at Coldbrook, which heretofore has been a hindrance to the access of spawning and other fish.

In company with our venerable post-master we had the pleasure of a walk through his fine garden one day recently. Mr Rand has been ever foremost in all matters connected with horticulture during his long residence in Wolfville, and we have to thank him for the introduction of many of the newest and best varieties of plants and fruits. He keeps a man almost constantly employed on his place, and the grounds show evidence of painstaking and intelligent treatment. Mr Rand is always most generous in assisting amateur gardeners with advice as well as contributions of a more substantial character, and his many friends have frequent opportunity of testing the good products of his garden.

Our ever up-to-date tonorial artist, Mr J. M. Shaw, has recently equipped his establishment with a new and valuable appliance in the way of a compressed air apparatus. This consists of a tank fitted in the cellar, into which air is pumped. From the tank pipes are carried to the rooms above and connected with attachments at each chair. These are fitted with atomizers. The use of this appliance is very much appreciated by patrons, especially on hot days, as the sensation is most delicious, and it is also very convenient for the operator. This we believe, is the only appliance of the kind in the Maritime Provinces, which speaks well for the enterprise of Mr Shaw.

Spring's Trumpet.

Did you ever stop to think that God hides away so many secrets under the snow of winter? Who can tell what mysteries are buried beneath the white cover, so deep, so dazzling in its purity when it first falls on the brown leaves and withered grass?

The large branches of the trees bend lovingly down in a feeble attempt to protect the little sleeping blossoms and the wind, we say, sighs mournfully as it rocks them to and fro, but it is only chanting a lullaby that is known to nature's children alone.

"To awaken to a larger life and greater loveliness. So when 'life's winter is past' and the snow has melted at the call of God's eternal spring what wonderful surprises await us. Life, full, free, throbbing life that will never need to sleep again under the winter's sorrow, for

"Behind the dim unknown Standeth God within the shadow keeping Watch above his own."

And what seemed death to the natural sense was only a hiding away of the germ immortal with God standing guard, ready to bring forth in good time. The king who comes and spreads his robe of ermine over all trends, oh so gently, because of the sleeping buds and tender blossoms beneath his feet in their earthly cradle.

The awakening time is not yet and they will sleep more sweetly under the ermine robe. Why do we not think of this when our hearts are heavy laden because of what has been hidden away from us, remembering that there lives one who never loses sight of our flowers, even though they wither here in the cold blasts that come from the sea of pain and the valley of the shadow. He knows they are only resting for a moment to come to a more marvelous growth in the gardens that are sun-kissed eternally and whose flowers know no winter time for sleep.

The earth flowers come back to us from under the winter's snow—and we are of more value than they. The little birds that build their homes in the heights and hide in the clouds come back, when they hear of the spring's new birth or resurrection—and we are of more value than they. We, too, will awaken from the sleep that closes the weary eyes just long enough for the angel in waiting to bear us over the bar into the eternal summer of that "Morning Land" of which it is said, "and there shall be no night there."

neither any snow, or pitiless rain is to befall, and the hidden treasures of the depths will come forth the hidden treasures. Dead, we said of the hidden treasures. Dead, we said of the hidden treasures. Dead, we said of the hidden treasures. Dead, we said of the hidden treasures. Dead, we said of the hidden treasures.

What is Dyspepsia? Qualms, nausea, longing for food yet dreading to eat. You may have the real thing, but Ferrozone will cure you like it did S. D. Huntington of Hamilton, who says, "I frequently was attacked with such acute dyspepsia that I thought it must be heart disease. I used Ferrozone and got relief. I kept on using Ferrozone and was cured. My digestion is in perfect order and I can eat anything today." Nothing is so good as Ferrozone for dyspepsia and those bothered with weak stomachs. Price 50c. at druggists.

A Sorely Happy Man is Mr. Thos. McGlashan of Pelham who was cured of muscular rheumatism by Nervilleine, the most powerful remedy in the world. "I suffered all manner of pain for years, he writes, and Nervilleine was the only thing that did me any good. I can heartily recommend Nervilleine for all forms of rheumatism, if it goes to the very core of the pain and brings lasting relief. Let every sufferer from lame back, aching joints and swelled limbs use Nervilleine. It's sure to cure and costs 25c. for a large bottle.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher.

The Late Sir H. M. Stanley on Sermons.

During one of his addresses in Edinburgh, some years ago, Stanley said: "It has been a custom with me during my interludes in civilization to go about the great cities of England and find out what are the texts generally preached on to humanity from the pulpits in the churches. I wandered many, and many a Sunday into the churches of London, and I assure you upon my word of honor, that I have never come across a single text which suited me—never heard one delivered from the pulpit that seemed to me to apply to my needs.

I remember the time when the Socialists were threatening to demonstrate what they could do in the wealthy and mighty London. I went to hear Spurgeon, hoping against hope that a text which the Socialists ought to have heard, and which the people surrounding that church ought to have heard, would be uttered on that day. But instead of that there came out a doctrinal text and a doctrinal sermon from the Hebrews, and the Socialists next day perambulated through London, and you know how they entered certain silversmiths' shops, and took out the teapots and silver snugs and silver pitchers, and threw them at one another.

And I said to myself, "If the ministers of the Gospel only did their duty those Socialists would not be doing like this."

But I have preached to myself on very many occasions. One of the texts I like very much is, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' And who is thy neighbor? My neighbor is every man who is made after the image of God, whom I come in contact with.

Miss Nellie Balsalou Gives Interesting Interview. Tells How She Was Cured of Kidney Disease After Doctors Failed—Ferozone Alone Responsible For Her Recovery—It Cured Permanently.

"Miss Nellie M. Balsalou is well known in her native city of Wilmington, where every doctor of reputation tried to cure her. But they didn't succeed. This conclusively proves that Ferozone must certainly be an absolute cure for kidney trouble."

Six months ago I noticed lameness and dragging pains across the small of my back," writes Miss Balsalou "I felt completely worn out. It was not work that made me so tired, nothing but defective kidneys. I took the doctor's treatment, and used dozens of articles I read of for the kidneys. But in spite of this I kept getting worse. Then I used Ferozone. It was three weeks before I was perfectly satisfied it was helping me."

and got well. I know of no better remedy than Ferozone which has improved my health immensely and saved me from Bright's Disease."

Next to consumption, kidney disease is the most fatal. Many a life has been lost simply because the unfortunate victim of deranged kidneys wasn't aware of his perilous condition in time.

Here is a simple test. Put some urine in a glass and let it stand for twenty-four hours. If it shows germs floating about, looks milky or cloudy, if it contains any sediment your kidneys are diseased. Don't risk your life with doubtful remedies, use Ferozone, which doctors admit is the quickest and most certain cure. Ferozone contains in scientific combination the most valuable agents known for the kidneys. This explains marvelous cures and universal success. Ferozone is guaranteed and sold at fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by all druggists. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

Frightful Case of Protruding Piles. Doctor wanted to burn them with red-hot iron—Cured by Dr. Chas. H. Fletcher. MR. ALAN McLAAN, Tabor, N.S., writes: "A few months ago, on the railway, I was exposed to all sorts of weather, my health failed and I became afflicted with protruding piles." low-being, or of many fellow beings—or who destroyed the happiness of a whole nation? 'Who could be so cruel?' It is not possible that anyone could be so wicked," said the king, and as he recalled the question he asked Sir George what could be done lest he should disgrace the Maori people while in England. "I'll tell you," said Sir George. "We'll both sign a pledge, agreeing to abstain from alcohol in any form. That pledge will mutually bind us for a term of years, and there could be no more sacred contract." So in the last year of his life Sir George Grey was the strictest of teetotalers.

Alcoholic Medicine. The Wine and Spirit Journal, discussing the Dominion W. C. T. U. Convention, says: "The ladies of the W. C. T. U. have at last lit upon something to reform, which the wine and spirit trade also look upon as an evil, and would like to see abolished. Reference is made to sale of so-called patent medicines, which are in reality nothing more or less than concoctions containing a greater or less percentage of alcohol, and some of which are actually injurious—the majority of the balance quite ineffective in accomplishing the cures that are claimed for them."

Testimonial's Great Foundation. Teetotalism stands upon many strong reasons, such as: 1. The overwhelming weight of medical testimony is in favor of total abstinence. 2. The experience of countless thousands has shown that teetotalism means happy homes, educated families, and well-conducted business.

Some of the finest men I have ever known have been addicted to secret drinking. Who can tell the misery of their household? I have seen it, and gladly do I draw a thick veil over its ghastly features. I have seen homes broken up, families scattered, children orphaned, and the fairest social prospects ruined and blasted as if with lightning; by this accursed drink. To me these are not imaginary but facts, and such facts as arguments that carry away all petty and self-regarding opposition.

Too Great a Risk. In almost every neighbourhood someone has died from an attack of cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured, or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for diseases should be kept at hand. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by G. V. Rand.
