Love a Conqueror

—OR—
WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER LII.

His voice was low and faint now, that only she, quite close to him as she was, could hear the words; and, as she bent over him again, the clear silvery tones of her voice reached his falling senses, and the peaceful expression grew upon his face. She was repeating to him softly the words of Him who was giving her comfort now in this dread hour, the words of the Great Physician who came not to those who were whole, but to the ailing and sin-laden and weary, whose hands were waiting even then to open the prison doors that were never to be barred again, whose death had paid all ransom due. No sweeter, truer death-bed message was ever given; and even the old clergyman felt his eyes fill with tears at the perfect faith and trust and love which the words evinced.

And the shadow of the hovering wings drew nearer and nearer as each minute went by.

"Shirley!"
The heavy head resting upon her bosom lay still and helpless now; only the great eyes raised to her face, and never moving thence, gave token that he lived.

"Yes, dear Hugh."
"The end is drawing near; it is very dark, is it not?"

"Evening is coming on, dear."
"I can hardly see your dear face, Shirley. My darling, I never dared to hope that such happiness as this should be mine—that I should die in your arms."

"You are happy, Hugh?"

"Quite happy."
The words parted the pale lips, but were uttered with difficulty; the failing eyes never moved from her face, so full of compassion and tenderest pity.

"Is Guy there?" he murmured, after a minute's silence.
"Yes, Hugh—yes, dear fellow! What can I do for you?"
"Do you remember some lines we read together long ago and liked—some lines from Sintram about death. You will not have forgotten; Guy, let me hear them now."

There was a momentary pause as Guy recalled the words, and with them the place where he had read them first—Hugh Glynn's luxurious college rooms with their books and flowers and the open piano at which Hugh had been sitting when Guy first read the words.

"Have you—forgotten, Guy?"

"No, dear Hugh." And softly and clearly Guy repeated the lines—

"When death is coming near,
And thy heart shrinks with fear,
And thy limbs fall,
Then raise thy hands and pray
To Him who smooths the way
Through the dark vale.

"See'st thou the eastern dawn,
Hear'st thou in the red morn
The angels song?
Oh, lift thy drooping head,
Thou who in gloom and dread
Hast lain so long!

"Death comes to set thee free,
Oh, meet him cheerily,
As thy true friend,
And all thy fears shall cease.
And in eternal peace
Thy penance end!"

The death dews were gathering up on Hugh Glynn's forehead; the dying eyes, almost blind, almost unseeing now, still looking upward at Shirley's face.

"Shirley, my friend—has come; will you—this once, my darling! It will be the first—and the last—time."

She understood him, and, stooping instantly, put her lips to his in one long last kiss. When she raised her head, there was a smile upon his face which lingered there.

"Hugh—oh, Hugh!"

But even her voice had no power to call him back from the goal which he had reached. As their lips had met, the over-shadowing wings had touched him, his head fell back, his eyes closed. He had come to the end of the journey.
In the whitewashed prison cell, with flowers on his breast and a faint smile upon his lips, the erring, sinful wanderer lay at rest.

So it happened that the sensational newspapers never reported the trial to which they had looked forward so eagerly, and only a quiet little paragraph appeared announcing Sir Hugh Glynn's death in Adinbrooke Castle, and making public his confession of the crime which he had committed, and for which his sufferings must have atoned in the eyes of his fellowmen. He had stood at no earthly tribunal, no earthly judge had summed up the particulars of his crime, but to the Judge who is all-merciful, all-loving, those who mourned him most deeply left him, with contrite and grateful hearts.

The June roses had bloomed and faded and summer had twice succeeded summer before Guy Stuart came back from a tour abroad, the beginning of which had been taken up with researches for any kindred or relatives of the unfortunate man who had met his death on the rocks at Easton. Every effort had failed, and therefore even the poor atonement of gifts and money was impossible; so Guy, having discharged this duty, pushed onward in his travels, biding his time as patiently as he might until he could return to England and ask the woman he loved so dearly to crown his life with the light and glory of her love.

He had not seen Shirley for more than a year, and only once or twice during his long exile had a letter from her reached him—frank friendly letters, such as a sister might write to a brother who was absent from her. Guy had smiled a little sadly over the cordial words; they were the only letters he had received from her, save the few during their brief separation just subsequent to their engagement, and, contrasting them with these, he saw how the eager young girl had grown into the grave saddened woman who had suffered and loved and borne a load of anguish rarely laid upon the shoulders of frail humanity. But all the letters breathed a spirit of tenderness and trust which touched Guy sensibly as he read them, and which made it easier to keep away from her until such time had passed after that peaceful death in Adinbrooke Castle as would admit of his claiming the precious charge Sir Hugh had left him.

He heard much of her from others, more especially from Lady Oliphant, who was a constant correspondent. She told him how useful and earnest and beautiful was the life which Shirley led in the pretty cottage-home she had chosen; for she had steadily refused any of Sir Hugh's wealth save the small annuity he had left her in the will he so regretted at the last. She told him what good she did, how much she was loved, and she cheered him with a few words of hope which brightened Guy's lonely life abroad with the thought that perhaps, after all, the visions poor Hugh Glynn had seen with his dying eyes might become blessed realities in the time to come.

But, when the roses were in bloom and a second time, Guy received his summons home in a pretty affectionate note from Madge Oliphant, asking him to come back to be present at her marriage.

And, with his heart beating with a sense of joyous expectation and a passionately tender longing for the sight of Shirley's face once more, Guy turned his own toward home.

Love That Knew No Bounds.

CHAPTER I.

It is a good many years now, though there are people living in the old West-country town who recollect it still, since the time when a prominent figure in their midst was John Alwyn, magistrate, counselor of the borough, counsel-man on matters pecuniary, personal, domestic, or civic to numberless fellow-burgers; last surviving representative of a high-class legal firm, which through three generations had held honorable rank in the country, and foremost place in the society of Stillcote-Upton.

He was a tall, fine man, this lawyer, bearing his more than half century of life with the ease of one who has always owned perfect health, few cares, and a full purse; liberal-minded, as cordial intercourse with every grade betokened; trusted and trustworthy, heartily respected by his wide circle of acquaintance, heartily liked by a smaller circle of intimates.

That this need not have been small goes without saying, for not a house in Stillcote-Upton but would gladly have welcomed Mr. Alwyn for its guest—not a family but would have been delighted to visit at his red-brick dwelling, "Sturants," as it had been named long ago, when for an hour it sheltered a royal fugitive from a fatal field; and which, with front first floor dedicated to clerks and offices, stood at the main entrance of the town, faced by an iron-palisaded inclosure of smooth-shaven lawn, through which curved a crescent drive, beginning and ending with tall gates flanked by sturdy brick pillars, each wearing as its crown a huge lichen-tinted stone ball; but the burden of general visiting, the master of this mansion had never cared to incur. As a bachelor he had not been expected to cultivate the art of entertaining. There were dozens of ways by which he could—and did—require such hospitality as he received of other folks. For the rest, he liked nothing better than to keep his house as it had been in his father's time before him; solid and handsome in all its equipments, unchanged by fluctuating fashions of the day, and to spend his evenings mostly in the solitude—to him never wearisome—of a well-stocked library.

But this rule of life knew one exception. Once every week post-prandial seclusion gave place to another arrangement, which might almost be called an institution.

On every Wednesday the leather-covered table of the study retired to a bay-window overlooking a long garden; four stands, residing elsewhere up four corners of the room, were brought forth and set in unvarying array before four chairs, which would be presently tenanted by the host and a trio as devoted to the intricacies of classical instrumentation as he himself.

Never had Beethoven a more devout worshiper than the leader of this weekly quartet, and never, perhaps, was his life to know happier moments than those spent in affectionate interpretation of some unspeakably lovely adagio, some minuet as graceful as the scent of a new-blown rose is sweet, or some rondo so crisp and fresh as to put the long-drawn discords of latter-day harmony to shame.

For three hours these coadjutors would ply their bows, and then would follow supper—plain, but excellent as epicure could wish; and then, as the time-piece between the windows rang forth "Auld Lang Syne," and struck eleven, the party would break up. Second violin and 'cello—one the widower-rector of the chief church, St. Clement's, the other a physician of ample means and leisure—would go off arm-in-arm toward the west end of the little town, while the viola would turn down High Street to a more modest abode.

Socially, he was somewhat less than the others; by name Jacob Cheene, chief of the copying and what may be called "general drudgery" department in Mr. Alwyn's office—a man of great devotion to his employer, but of perhaps, except in one direction, no particular ability, since he gained no upward step in his employment from youth to age, save what long plodding service entitled him to.

People were amused at the lawyer's patronage of his subordinate when it began years before, and thought he might have chosen, as sharer of his tastes and companion of his two daily walks, some one more suitable than an inferior employee. But Mr. Alwyn had a habit of following his own prejudices. Possibly he may have had other reasons for taking to Jacob Cheene over and above their mutual love of one harmonious mistress; but, at any rate, his kindly notice of the quiet, shy man never slackened. By now the clerk's place in the quartet was as well established as his master's; while year in and year out, as half past nine chimed from St. Clement's tower, the lawyer would emerge from his door, and bend his steps eastward as far as Mr. Cheene's domicile; then the two would return, reaching the office invariably at ten, reappearing to make precisely the same journey at four o'clock to the minute.

PIN PRICKS.

By RUTH CAMERON.

How can anyone love another and yet seize every opportunity to hurt him with a little pin prick of sarcasm or unkind allusion? You say it isn't possible? Ah, but it is, and not only possible but common.

I'm thinking of an average family. At bottom they love each other very much. If anyone of them is sick or in trouble this love comes to the surface, and there is nothing the rest will not do for him.

And yet in their daily intercourse, each one seems to try to think of as many sharp, deprecating, sarcastic things as possible to say about the others.

For instance, The guest whom Judith has brought home to Sunday dinner happens to mention that Judith was late in meeting her. Whereupon big brother assures her, "Oh, Judith is always late. You mustn't expect her to get to any place on time. I always reckon on a half hour out of the way."

Again, little sister spills the coffee when she is passing it to the guest. She is a sensitive little thing, under the crust of pretended hardness which the family habit of saying sharp things has forced her to assume. And she really suffers when Judith says scornfully, "Agnes has ten thumbs you know instead of fingers. I don't believe she ever passed anything in her life without spilling it."

Someone asks big brother if he has read a certain rather serious book that is being much talked about; and when he says he hasn't, Judith has a chance to return his thrust by informing his questioner that John never reads anything besides magazines and newspapers. "It's against his principles."

You would think that mother and father would surely be too wise and loving to indulge in any such baiting. And yet when Judith admires her friend's embroidered waist and wishes she could make one, it is her mother who says, "It won't do you much good to wish that, Judith, when you couldn't even do that simple center piece properly. You know you never can embroider like other girls."

And when mother drops her fork, it is father who asks her if she has borrowed some of Agnes' thumbs.

Of course, I understand that there is a certain percentage of raillery in all these remarks, and a certain half playful, half serious spirit of thrust and fend.

Each has the right to give as good as he gets, and the non-combatants applaud the victor.

But although theoretically, nobody minds what anybody else says, in reality these little pin pricks of sarcasm and reproach often leave a lacerated heart.

It doesn't do anyone any good to be constantly reminded of his faults, even by his family.

Freedom of speech in the home, or in the nation, is an inalienable right but when it degenerates into license of speech, it is wrong and harmful. And those who guide the destinies of either home or nation should curb it.

Sunday Concerts.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the correspondence about the recent so-called sacred concert in the Casino Theatre, one cannot but be struck with the studied begging of the question at issue and the specious plea in defence of the part of its defenders. With regard to Mr. Steer's letter it is not so surprising as he is wont to "step in where angels fear to tread," and I doubt if he has even yet discovered the question at issue. It is not however, so easy to understand the remarks of the Editor of the Daily News in to-day's issue. It looks as if he were trying to take a rise out of the rev. gentlemen who have made a protest against this entertainment. Does he suppose that they do not perhaps more fully than he appreciate the views expressed by Addison as to the influence of good music and which he quotes in part. Who is he smiling at anyway?

Does he believe for one moment that the concert in question was intended for the glory of God or to be in any sense a religious service? If so were there not six nights in the week in which it could have been shown open to the public?

Why contravene under any flimsy pretext the great commandment and open the door still wider for Sabbath desecration which is having such a fatal effect on the life of the individual as well as on that of the nation?

It has been openly declared by its defenders that the concert was held for commercial purpose and we have seen it advertised for sale and purchase as would be any other merchandise, and it stated that the proceeds are to be paid to the promoter, Mr. Allen.

Is not this a reflection upon us as a religious community that a man of Mr. Allen's professional standing should be compelled to extraordinary Sunday labor in order to supplement his salary. And is it allowed that he ply his trade on Sunday, why should not other men have the same privilege, or on what ground in logic or common sense can we object to the open stores that make Sunday in some of the streets in our city the busiest day of the week. The character of the concert provided on Sunday has no bearing whatever on the question at issue. The same ground may be taken with respect to an opera or any other entertainment. The essential principle of Sabbath observance is violated in either case and

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known, they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ailments arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after other remedies failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

Holy Name Society.

The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society took place yesterday. There was a large attendance of members at 8 o'clock mass, which was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Greece, who preached a sermon on the Gospel of the 4th and administered Holy Communion.

At 3 p.m. the Society met in the cathedral and attended Benediction which was sung by Rev. Fr. Sheehan, after which the members repaired to the Aule Maxima of St. Bonaventure's College where they listened to an instructive paper read by the Spiritual Director. The usual business of the society being conducted the meeting closed. It is present voting that the day was one of the most successful in the annals of the Holy Name Society.

MONDAY, March 16, 1914.

Well-Timed.

The week-end announcement of Mr. Asquith that to-day he will set forth the details of the changes in the Home Rule Bill, which the concessions he announced last Monday will involve, has been carefully timed. What better opportunity could have been seized than the eve of St. Patrick's Day. The offer of Sir Edward Carson, with of course a further concession which might be expected from a keen bargainer, to submit the proposal to an Ulster convention, is evidence enough that the danger zone has been passed, and this is fully corroborated by the tone of insurance people, which is interpreted to mean that civil war is no longer considered a possibility. It should be remembered that there are strong men in the Unionist Party, like the Earl of Derby, who have all along through the alarms of civil war, set their faces firmly and unflinchingly against the wild campaign of tumult and disaster, and now that the Liberal Party leaders and the Nationalist leaders have been most accommodating in their endeavours to meet the sentiments of their opponents in Ulster, there can be no firm ground for the Carsonites to stand on. We have already pointed out that Mr. Asquith has been most happy in selecting the eve of St. Patrick's Day for his full statement of the changes he is willing to make in the Home Rule measure to meet the wishes of the Ulster Unionists, and he was also wise in making a general statement last Monday of the broad grounds of the concessions, for that afforded a week for reflection as to the effect of these concessions on the Unionists in Ireland. In all probability to-day many of the latter are not so keen for any such concessions as they have been in the past, and this applies more particularly to the Unionists scattered throughout the provinces of Leinster, Munster and Connaught, and the counties of Ulster not affected by the concessions. They will be under the rule of the Dublin Parliament and they would naturally prefer to be associated in it with their political friends. Then again the latter will lose much ground in not being associated with the new parliament from its inception. No doubt these thoughts will weigh much with Unionists in arriving at an understanding, and it is no far-fetched notion to believe in the possibility of an All Ireland Parliament before the year is out.

Irish Night.

On to-morrow night the annual Irish night in aid of St. Bonaventure's College will be held in the Methodist College Hall. As usual the performance will be a success and all lovers of Irish music should be present. The promoters of the concert expect every St. Bon's boy, past and present, old and young, to be there to-morrow night to see the first performance of "Gentleman Jim," a short sketch which is sure to make a hit. A case of mistaken identity, it like Billiken will make you laugh and be cheerful. The tickets are at the Atlantic Bookstore and for the convenience of those unable to get them to-day the plan will be of the Methodist College Hall to-morrow morning. So get busy.

Muldoon's Picnic at Rossley's

There is a fine program at Rossley's for to-night, five splendid reels and all new specialties. And on St. Patrick's Day there will also be another of Rossley's big shows. Muldoon's company, new songs, dances, all new jokes and some new costumes. Poor Muldoon has been celebrating and Mrs. Muldoon interferes. It is a very lively plot. Each St. Patrick's Day the Rossleys have been with us, they have given us some of the finest shows ever seen. A fitting entertainment for the great day. The clever little St. John's artists Handford and Squires will give another novelty number that is sure to please.

Under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson, the ladies of the Cowan Mission will hold their Annual Tea and Concert in the Methodist College Hall on St. Patrick's Day. Tickets 30c., including tea. Concert 3.30. Home made Candy for sale.—mar13,16

THE LEAGUERS.—United Epworth League services will continue at Gower Street Church this week. A choice programme has been arranged for each evening. The meeting Sunday night was well attended. Mr. Arthur Mews presided at the organ assisted by Mrs. Joyce, Mr. Mew and Mr. Claridge with piano, cornet and violin, respectively, a splendid audience of young people were present.

COMING ON EXPRESS.—Mr. J. L. Slattery, who was abroad on a health trip, is due to arrive on to-night's express.

One Thousand Persons Perish

380 Buildings Swept Away By Tidal Wave In South Russia.

Special to the Evening Telegram. EKATERINODAP, Russia, To-day: Over one thousand persons perished to-day in inundations in the towns of Stanitzka and Achtyrekja by a tidal wave from the Sea of Azov. The wave struck the towns during a violent hurricane which swept the Province of Kuban. Over a hundred and fifty persons were also drowned in floods in Yassenka. A dam collapsed near the town of Temrink, situated on the Tamir Peninsula 18 miles north-west of this city, flooding the greater part of the city and drowning many persons. The sea washed away three hundred and eighty buildings in Achtyrekja. Temrink is a historic town with a population of 16,000.

The Home Rule Question Again.

Special to the Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day:

A settlement of the Irish Home Rule difficulty apparently has been little advanced by the British Government's great concessions to the Ulsterites, and taking the assertions of both political parties at their face value the deadlock to-day remains as immovable as before Asquith's conciliatory offer was made in the Commons on March 9.

Signers of the Ulster covenant declare strongly that nothing less than permanent exclusion of protestant counties of Ulster from the Irish Government at Dublin, instead of a proposed six year option will be considered by them. The more radical covenanters demand not only exclusion of the four counties of Armagh, Londonderry, Down and the protestants are in majority, but Ulster to be excluded. Anything else they say would be desertion of their comrades in the counties where protestants are in a minority and would be treason to their covenant. Sir Edward Carson sent a message to Belfast saying, so far as our preparations are concerned the pronouncement of the Government, if anything, necessitates a still more forward movement. This year we are going to make good in action all we have been saying and preparing for during the past two years. On the other side the Government newspapers assert Asquith's scheme is absolutely the limit of concessions and is not a basis for further negotiations. Sir Edward Russell who is a close friend of Asquith, writing in the Liverpool Daily Post, of which he is Editor, takes a different view. He writes that in non political clubs everybody is confident that Asquith has made up his own mind to let the Nationalists go and that sooner or later he will tell Redmond that the only feasible Home Rule is one with the entire exclusion of Ulster. Little talk is now heard that Orangemen's preparations to fight are a gigantic bluff. The covenanters claim to have ninety thousand men drilling in Carson's army with sixty thousand rifles and some pieces of artillery.

LONDON, To-day:

Winston Churchill did his best in his speech at Bradford on Saturday to dissipate the expectations of the Opposition that any further concessions to Ulster would be made by the Government. In most emphatic language he declared the recent proposal of Asquith was the last offer the Government could or would make. He took a strong objection to Sir Edward Carson's Ulster convention dictating to the Government, observing the country had enough of this thing. The First Lord of the Admiralty vigorously denounced the threats of violence which had been made, and stated that once resort had been made to violence by the leaders of a Great British party, Ulster and its affairs would dwindle to comparative insignificance. The issue then would be whether Civil Government could be beaten down by the menace of an armed force; that issue had been fought 250 years ago at Marston Moor. Hingham, Chief Liberal Whip, intimated there would be no election until Home Rule, Welsh Disestablishment and Plural Voting measures had been passed.

SEALING NEWS.

Since we went to press Saturday, the following messages were received:

miles S.; Sagona, Eagle 25 miles north of Fogo."

Messrs. Job Bros. also had the following message which was sent yesterday from Capt. Barbour of the Diana:

"Arrived Fogo 1.30 p.m.; will clear and proceed immediately; Bloodhound in company."

FROM STEPHANO. "Ice open, making good headway; ship's position 30 miles S.E. Grey Islands; Beothic, Bellaventure Nascope in our wake all day; Florizel, Bonaventure, Adventure jammed."

FROM FLORIZEL. "Steamed a few miles to N.E. last night; jammed all day; Bonaventure and Adventure alongside; Newfoundland 10 miles south; her chances good for hoods."

On Saturday night the Deputy Minister of Customs had a message from Herring Neck to the effect that six steamers eleven or twelve miles off, supposed to be the Stephano, Nascope, Florizel, Beothic and two "Ventures; tried to force north; ice was tightly jammed."

Benefit For Icemen.

To-night will be benefit night for the icemen at the Prince's Rink. Hockey enthusiasts and the skating public generally, no doubt, appreciated the excellent efforts of icemen during the season and will help to swell the proceeds to-night.

Treasure Cave Of London.

Visit of the King and Queen—Underground Tour in the Wine Vaults—£250,000 Pile of Plumes.

The King and Queen, with Princess Mary, paid a long visit on Saturday afternoon to Dockland and spent two crowded hours among the treasure stores of London's commerce.

Their first visit was to the Cutler-street warehouse of the Port of London Authority, with its five golden acres of merchandise, an "Aladdin's Cave" with goods worth £3,000,000.

"In the large room devoted to cigars, principally from Havana and the Philippines, the King took great pleasure in speculating on the best brands. At one point he remarked, indicating a large bundle of half-crown cigars, bulging one either side of the hand with which they were tied, 'Surely those are packed too tight.' But on a closer examination he added, 'Ah, I see they are green, so I suppose it won't matter very much.'"

In the tea department His Majesty was informed that the majority of the stores were from India and Ceylon. "Personally," said the King to one of the storemen, "I prefer China tea, and nearly always drink it when I can obtain it. The flavour is more delicate." The Queen agreed.

The Queen and the Plumes.
The interest of the Queen and Princess Mary was aroused by a pile of gorgeous ostrich feathers. The value of the store was said to be a quarter of a million pounds.

The Queen was informed that the better feathers the largest, had gone down in price on account of the fact that the smaller plumes are now in fashion. Similarly the price of the smaller plumes had increased.

"I think that is a pity," said her Majesty. "The larger plumes are much prettier."

In the art department the King showed that he was a connoisseur. One of the conductors of the party said that most of the articles came from China. The King remarked, "Surely those carved ivories are from Japan, and very fine examples, too, of Japanese work."

Visit to the Wine Vaults.
From the Cutler Street warehouse they passed to the warehouses of the London Docks. Here they entered on what her Majesty described as "quite an adventure."

This was a visit to the underground wine vaults. Workmen sat up all night making special lamps for the party. In these vaults each visitor carries a safety lamp fixed to the end of a stick, to find the way in the darkness. The lamps are also used in order that the keeper of the vault may know how many people are in the vaults. Carrying these lamps, the royal party set out on their underground adventure, and afterwards they tasted some of the port.

While in the vaults the Queen was told of a famous rat-catcher of the vault—a cat which had been locked up for the occasion. The Queen expressed her anxiety to see it. The key was sent for and the cat released. It showed its joy by jumping up on Princess Mary's shoulder.

Daughter Of Erin.

To-morrow afternoon and night that well known Irish melo-drama will be staged by the B. I. S. Dramatic Company. The performance promises to be the best yet and the names of those in the cast are sufficient assurance of that. A feature will be specialities between the acts by Mr. T. H. O'Neil, under whose direction the play is being produced, and by Mr. H. H. Goodridge and Mr. A. Summers. To-night the play will be finally rehearsed.

READ PAPER.—Mrs. John Campbell read an interesting paper on the "Wrongs of Women" at Saturday's meeting of the Current Events Club. At the close teas were served by Mrs. W. Fraser.

THE DOCTOR SAID "I CAN'T HELP YOU"

Suffered 10 Months with Kidney Complaint. Gin Pills Cured.

Dunvegan, Inverness Co.
I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

Recognized everywhere and by experts as the very highest grade of baking powder—superior to other brands in purity, leavening strength and keeping quality.

Made from pure cream of tartar, the product of grapes, and the most healthful and useful of leavening agents.

Its use insures the bread, biscuit and cake against contamination from the cheap, improper or injurious ingredients from which lower priced baking powders may be made.

S. U. F. At Middle Bight.

Dear Sir.—The S.U.F. Lodge at Middle Bight, was the scene of a very happy event on Monday night, the 9th inst., when Bro. F. F. Furneaux, J.P., Past Master, was greeted with an agreeable surprise. The Worthy Master, Bro. R. Hibbs, having called the Lodge to order, informed Bro. Furneaux in a few appropriate words, that the Society was pleased to show some tangible recognition and appreciation of the long service rendered by him as Lay Reader in Foxtrap Mission, and proceeded to read the following address which was formally presented to Bro. Furneaux. His reply to which we also append.

Dear Bro. Furneaux.—We the members of the Society of United Fishermen's Lodge, No. 33, having learned with regret of your decision to retire from active work in All Saints Church, Foxtrap, and lay down the Lay Readership in which capacity you have so zealously laboured during the last thirty-seven years, feel that we cannot permit this opportunity to pass without placing on record and conveying to yourself in person, some evidence of our appreciation and heartfelt thanks for the long years of service so unflinchingly given in God's service.

Standing at its close and looking back over more than a third of a century of faithful work, devoid of earthly recompense and too often hampered by this poor world's ingratitude, we see much in your career to inspire our own lives and prompt us to better deeds. In days of sickness and adversity you were ever ready to minister to the afflicted in body, as well as to keep the door of God's House open for Divine Service, and we feel that the motive which actuated you on behalf of Christ's Church and its congregation was that of a true Christian spirit, which will surely reap its reward in God's own best way.

In conclusion we ask you to accept this small gift, inadequate as it is, as a slight token of our esteem and regard, and it is our earnest hope that you may long be spared to enjoy a rest well won, after life's work well done.

We are, on behalf of the S.U.F., your faithful friends and Brothers:

REPLY.
To the Worthy Master and Brethren of the Society of United Fishermen, Lodge 33.

Dear Brethren—I sincerely thank you for your flattering and kind address, and the beautiful easy chair you have presented to me. Your presentation was quite unexpected, and I value very highly the kind sentiment that prompted such an action.

Mr. Allan's Concert.

The concert at the Casino, last night was well attended, and with the exception of many drawbacks in platform arrangements and an indelible atmosphere common to theatre halls from which light and air seem rigorously excluded, it was also musically successful. The Governor and Mrs. Davidson and the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, under whose patronage the concert took place, entered promptly at 8.30 and occupied the seats of honor at the front. The chorus work of the whole choir as well as the anthem by the Cathedral choir, was well rendered and though no applause was consequent on the nature of the programme, the whole audience stood with the "Hallelujah Chorus" and "Worthy is the Lamb" and "The Amen Chorus" were sung, eloquent testimony of the uplifting power of the words and the grandeur of their treatment by Handel.

The Orchestra, which has grown somewhat larger since last year, contributed two numbers, the "Solemn Melody" being of special interest. The soloists, Miss Herder, Miss Russell and Mr. McCarthy gave splendid renderings of the difficult solos which fell to them, and added much to the success of the programme. We understand that a second concert will be given on March 29th. We append the programme; the choruses and solos being taken from the "Messiah."

"God Save the King" arranged by Elgar. Solo—Miss Russell. Overture to the "Messiah." Solo and Chorus, "O Thou that tellest."

Chorus—"Surely He hath borne our griefs." Solo—"He was despised."

Chorus—"And with His stripes." Solo—"Solemn Melody" for strings and Organ—Davies.

And—"Lord, for Thy tender mercies sake."—Farrant. Cathedral Choir.

Air—"Why do the nations." Mr. McCarthy. "Hallelujah Chorus."

Chorus—"Since by man came death." Air—"The trumpet shall sound." Mr. McCarthy.

Chorus—"Worthy is the Lamb." "Amen" Chorus.

Silence.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Silence is one of the greatest unconserved human resources. The production of conversation is increasing each year by leaps and bounds. But very few new mines of silence are being developed. About the only way to obtain silence nowadays is to support a candidate vigorously and then wait for him to offer an appointment after he is elected.

Silence is decreasing in quantity so rapidly, in fact, that there is great cause for alarm. Railroad trains and automobiles have driven it out of our cities. The Chautauque platform had eradicated it in our statements. So many banquets are now held that a business man must now make four speeches a week of fall below the general average. The home was once silent while father read the paper in the evening. But even this deposit is

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You
Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy for as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.00.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough. You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in resin, oils, and all the natural healing plus elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the supply has been limited often, but never successfully. Your remedy of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, and with this in mind, your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE GREEN FLAG.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—An article in to-day's News would lead one to believe that the Green Flag of Ireland had not come into existence until 1798. The learned editor of the News did not quote any authority for his statement, nor doubt he can do so. If the flag is regarded as a national emblem, it is not a new flag, but one that has been used hundreds and hundreds of years before the days of the United Irishmen referred to in the Daily News. Here is a quotation from Moore in reference to this:—

"Let Erin remember the days of old,
Ere her faithless sons betrayed her;
When Malachi wore the collar of gold,
Which he won from the proud invaders."
When her Kings with standard of green unfurled,
Led the Red Branch Knights in danger;
Ere the Emerald gem of the western world
Was set in the crown of a stranger."
Moore began writing his Irish melodies about 1806, only eight years after the date given by the News as the birth of the green flag, and it is unreasonable to think that if the green flag were then only eight years old that Moore could have made a mistake of more than eight centuries.

Showed Benefits of Technical Training.

Yarmouth, March 16.—Dr. J. W. Robertson, chairman of the late commission on technical education, arrived here this afternoon by the Dominion Atlantic express and registered at Grand Hotel.

This evening at a public meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, under the auspices of the local school board, Dr. Robertson addressed a representative audience on the value and needs of technical education as shown by the work of his commission. Mayor Hood presided, and in well chosen remarks introduced the speaker. On the platform were members of the school board and town council, with Supervisor Kempton and others. The evening technical schools were closed and the students attended in a body.

A FIVE ADDRESS.

Professor Robertson in the course of one of the ablest and most interesting addresses ever delivered from a Yarmouth platform, dealt first with the ideal of developed intellectual and moral power to match the material progress, showing that the development of the people of Canada themselves should come along with the development of the country. The speaker then went on to discuss the need of vocational education and explained fully the nature of such. Turning then to the work of the commission itself, he described first its inception in Canada, and briefly outlined the evidence gleaned from the fifteen hundred of men and women examined. He then gave examples of the great work along vocational lines as accomplished in other countries, and drew the lesson for Canada to learn from their efforts.

BENEFITS WHOLE COUNTRY.

Professor Robertson emphasized the plain duty of the Dominion Parliament in this great work. He felt that such education benefits the whole country, so the central authorities should shoulder the expense of developing this work. His commission recommended a grant of $350,000 annually to be paid to the several Provinces, pro rata, to be used in establishing prevocational education, or for those under 14 years of age. This would be followed by a grant of $3,000,000 annually to assist the Provinces in providing industrial training and technical education for the young people of the Provinces over 14 years of age. He showed that Nova Scotia could out of these funds draw about $198,000 annually, and that Yarmouth's share of this would figure out at about $9,200.

In closing he urged the assuming by the Dominion Government of the responsibility that rests upon it in this new and very important national movement. In the course of his remarks, Dr. Robertson praised the good work already done along these lines by the local Government, and said we should feel well encouraged by the results already accomplished.

Monday.

On Monday, after Sabbath rest a man should go to work with vim, roll up his sleeves, pull down his vest, and show there are no flies on him. If happy fortune he decides to serve, he will scorn "Blue Monday's" woe, and he will say, "Now, watch my knives, and mark the swath that I shall mow." Get started right on Monday morn, nor pause with grouches to condescend; go, paint the fence or shill the corn, and work merrily in your soul. Go forth among the busy men, and show them you can do your share, and when the Sabbath comes again, 'twill find you right side up with care. Ods bodikins! Beshrew the skates who start the week with idle hands! The Master of the Vineyard waits and for our labor makes demands. Tradition says that Monday's blue, but that to us should seem a joke, if we have useful work to do and strength to bear our padded yoke. The man who has an honest task should never to a roar give vent, nor hide his face behind a mask of grouchiness and discontent. No mortal has a right to kick unless he has no work to do, or, having work, is too blamed sick his daily duties to pursue.

LONDON, March 15.
Mrs. Parkhurst has again been released from jail. She started a hunger and thirst strike after her arrest on Sunday last at Glasgow, and is reported to be in a weak condition.

NEW YORK, March 15.
Seventeen thousand pots of Shamrocks were brought to port yesterday by the Mauretania for St. Patrick's Day celebration. Every sailor wore a small bunch in his cap when he came ashore.

KOENIGSEBURG, March 15.
Another accident to a German Army aviator occurred to-day, when Lieut. De Lessero was instantly killed, when his aeroplane tipped over near the ground, and the pilot was crushed beneath the motor.

LONDON, March 15.
When Sir Edward Carson leads the people of Ulster to a possible war, he will have a magnificent silver-bitted sword of tempered steel, which was presented to him at a dinner at the Ritz hotel last night, at which the Duke of Marlborough, Marquis of Londonderry, Earl Londale and other peers entertained the Ulster leader.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.
General Alaristo, commanding a thousand men at Joyulta, was killed yesterday by his own men, who mutinied. The uprising was led by four lieutenants. Most of the higher officers of his command escaped massacre and went to the neighboring villages, where they mobilized a force to return to Alaristo. Meanwhile followers of the Rebel Zapata joined the mutineers, but, despite reinforcement, the mutineers were whipped by the loyal force. The War Department says that the majority of the mutineers were captured and executed.

NEW YORK, March 15.
A cable from London says that the Irish Party leaders are determined that the Home Rule Bill shall go through without further concessions to Ulster, whatever happens. T. P. O'Connor sends the following message to the New York American: "All is over but the shouting. There will still be a good deal of shouting but this will not matter. The Government has said its last word. The Tories may take it or leave it. I think they will take it." Devlin in a spirited letter in a local newspaper says: "The Carsons will not be conciliated at any cost. The Home Rule Bill will be carried as it stands, and the Government must take responsibility for enforcing the law against the aristocrats who are plotting rebellion." Devlin is now regarded as the most powerful influence in the Irish party, and great weight is attached to his manifesto.

Billiard Tournaments.

Four games were played in the B.I.S. Tourney on Saturday night, resulting as follows:

PLAINS.
M. Savage	200
J. L. Dee	200

"Ice packed close for 30 miles off Low Point, small strings from that to Port aux Basques."

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Wright, 215 South avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

B. I. S. Meeting.

St. Patrick's Day Parade Will be an Historic One.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society was continued yesterday, Mr. J. C. Pippy, 1st Vice-President, in the chair. After routine matters were disposed of, arrangements were finalized for the St. Patrick's Day parade, which takes place to-morrow. The members will meet at their hall at 9 a.m. and a half hour later, accompanied by the C.C.C. and City Bands will proceed via Theatre Hill and New Gower, Hamilton and Patrick's Streets to St. Patrick's Church and attend High Mass, during the course of which the Rev. Fr. Conway will deliver a panegyric on the life of Ireland's Patron Saint. After Mass the Society will visit the Desany and pay its respects to the Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G. representing His Grace Archbishop Howley. Again reforming ranks the body will march down Water Street, up Cochrane Street to Government House where the commitments of the Society will be extended to His Excellency the Governor. Re-

The Judging of John.

An affectionate bride once hit upon the original idea of expressing her husband's perfection in terms of chocolate cake; when he was good he was "chocolate cake three layers deep," when he was very good he was "four layers deep," and so on up the scale.

One day, however, the system broke down. The bride's mother dropped in, and noticed that her daughter looked vexed at something.

"How is John to-day?" the mother asked, pretending not to notice the bride's vexation. "Chocolate cake four layers deep?"

"No."

"Three layers deep?"

"No."

"Two?"

"No."

"No."

"Then what is he?"

"Dog biscuit."—Weekly Scotsman.

HEALTHY AND UNHEALTHY LIGHTING

Gas, it may be said, vitates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Muel, evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation. It is for this amongst other reasons that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being applied with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov8ft

Sunday Concerts.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I want to congratulate the Methodist Ministers of this city upon the stand they have taken respecting Sunday concerts.

Since Sunday concerts with an admission fee is under the ban of the law, in both England and Canada, it is a retrograde step to have them introduced into Newfoundland. Not one word have Methodist Ministers said against sacred music as such; their opposition is to using it on Sunday to bring in funds and help pay the conductor's salary.

Why should Sunday be made a convenience of in that way?

I want the Methodist Ministers to know that a large body of the people of this city is behind them, and not alone of the Methodist Church.

Yours truly,

LAYMAN.

George Street A. B. C.

Mr. H. E. Cowan delivered a practical and instructive discourse to the George Street Adult Bible Class yesterday on "Men who have Succeeded." The lecture was fraught with high ideals, and emphasized the necessity of intellectual advancement.

At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. C. J. Laughlin and seconded by Mr. A. Knight was unanimously accorded the speaker.

Mr. Stanley Green sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," in a very pleasing manner during the meeting.

Sensation Created.

Thought Inebriate Was Dead.

Quite a sensation was created on Saturday night. The police picked up a foreign seaman who was in such an advanced state of intoxication that even the police thought the nebriate was dead, as he was motionless and apparently lifeless. A report quickly spread that death had occurred. The victim was placed in a vehicle and driven to the morgue followed by an immense crowd. On being examined by a doctor the seaman was found to be breathing and very much alive. He was then transferred to the lock up where he spent the night in No. 2.

Vessel Long Overdue.

Grave fears are now entertained for the schooner Grand Falls, which is over seventy days out from Margate town to Oporto, with a cargo of fish. Owing to the recent storms that swept the Atlantic the opinion is expressed that the vessel has foundered but it is earnestly hoped that the crew have been picked up. The Grand Falls was of semi-knockabout construction and perhaps the fastest sailing vessel engaged in the foreign fish trade.

LONDON, To-day. Suffragettes to-day chanted prayers in Westminster Abbey, York Minster and Brighton Parish Church for their imprisoned colleagues.

MEXICO CITY, To-day.

The Moncton Italian International Railroad between Ciudad, Portfirie, Diaz and Monterey, was taken by rebels who burned the railroad shops, 300 cars and sacked the town of San Diego.

CALONE, To-day.

One man was burned to death and another seriously wounded when bank raiders, believed to be Mexicans, attacked a general store at Teate and escaped over the border on the American side.

ST. PETERSBURG, To-day.

The hurricane which swept the Province of Kuban, Southern Russia, on Saturday, was violent, all telegraph lines were badly damaged, making communication impossible. Messrs. despatches received to-day, reported 1,000 lives lost as a result of the tidal wave from the Sea of Azov, but no reliable details of the disaster came through.

TIFLIS, Russia, To-day.

An unusual phenomenon occurred here and in adjacent towns to-day, the sky was covered in the early morning with dark yellow clouds and fog. Later there was a heavy snowfall mixed with dust which covered the ground with a thick layer of mud. The phenomenon is attributed to storms in the Baku District, where the wind raised such a tremendous cloud of dust that railway traffic was stopped by the accumulations it heaped at various stations.

BUDAPEST, To-day.

Count Serge Witte, former Premier of Russia, in an interview published here to-day is quoted as saying: "Only the first act of the Balkan affair has been played. It is now the 'intermission' which may last for years or perhaps only for months. The relations between Austria and Roumania constitute one of the points of danger while the relations between the triple alliance Germany, Italy, Austria and Triple Entente Russia are in no wise clear."

BIRMINGHAM, To-day.

Worshippers in the Cathedral to-day found the walls and floors of the edifice covered with suffragette proclamations printed in white letters a foot high, reading "Votes for Women." "The Clergy must rise in our behalf and stop the torturing of women in prison." Every foot of space except the altar had signs painted on it, including the seats. It is believed women concealed themselves in the Cathedral last night. It is thought it was done for the benefit of the judges of the Assizes who attended the services. The Assizes open here to-day.

Ice-men's Benefit.

To-night will be Ice-men's benefit night at the Prince's Rink. There is to be an exciting Hockey Match after which there will be general skating. As the season is getting late and you cannot expect to get much more skating this year you should bring her here to-night and let her enjoy with you a good skate on the excellent ice. Remember that by your presence you will benefit the ice-men and at the same time spend an enjoyable evening.

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance:—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which in value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick.

The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices on Water Street. Apply to Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9888—A Dainty Dress for the "TINY TOT."

Child's Dress with Yoke and Long or Shorter Sleeve. In High or Low Round Collarless Style.

Lawn, nainsook, dimity, crossbar muslin, crepe, voile, mul, silk, percale, cashmere, or flannellette may be used for this design. It has simple lines, is easy to make and pretty. The finish could be lace or embroidery for a "best" dress, while if made of nainsook, a yoke of "all over" would be nice, with a simple hem finish. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 2 year size, with 2 1/2 yards of 4 inch edging for ruffle. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Prospero Returns.

A QUICK WINTER TRIP.

The S. S. Prospero, Capt. Connors, arrived back from the Westward, after one of the quickest winter trips in the history of the winter coastal service. The run from Channel, coming east, was a record, being done in 66 hours or 5 hours less than ever before. The round trip was made in eight days. She brought a full freight and as saloon passengers:—Messrs. Whitmarsh, Butler and Burke and twenty in steerage.

St. Patrick's Day at the Crescent.

The Crescent Picture Palace is the place to go to-day and to-morrow afternoon and night. A special programme is arranged and patrons will enjoy themselves thoroughly. The first picture is a grand two reeler, entitled "Steel" or "The Inventor's Alternative." "Their Lucky Star" is a story of the trials of two dead broke actors. "The Race for a Bride" is an aviation story that brings with it a sprinkling of humor. "Hilda's Lovers," a comedy that is hard to beat. Miss Louise Arkandy sings an Irish illustrated ballad, "Shamrock," on St. Patrick's Day. Without exception this is the best bill set forth at the Crescent Palace since opening day, and from now on nothing but the best of pictures will be exhibited. On Wednesday and Thursday another two reel drama will be shown: "The cart of a Jewess."

A Baby's Face.

"How nice baby's skin is now; not a red mark or abrasion anywhere to be seen." "Yes, I was noticing. His face used to be so spotty that I often wondered if it were possible to do anything for him. How did you manage to cure the trouble?" "Simply enough after all. A few applications of that wonderful new ointment Zylex, and the steady use since of Zylex Soap was all that was needed, that made the little 'chap' right." Zylex (50c.) and Zylex Soap (25c.) can be had from your druggist. mar16.

Resignation of Mr. G. Evanturel

Vankleek Hill, Ont., March 8.—Condemned by the leaders of the liberal party in his native county of Prescott in a strongly worded resolution and received coldly by the rank and file on account of his action in writing to the liquor interests asking for $10,000 to use his influence in their behalf, Gustave Evanturel accepted the inevitable here Saturday afternoon and announced that he would resign his seat in the Ontario legislature on Tuesday and in doing so would present a full statement of the situation to the house. There are thirty members of the liberal association executive of Prescott county and there were 22 of them present at the meeting which sat in judgment on their provincial representative and unanimsly endorsed the action of the ruling powers at Toronto in ostracising him. Prior to adopting this resolution the executive held a conference in private with Mr. Evanturel in the Vankleek town hall, when the M.L.A. announced his intention to resign. It was suggested that Mr. Evanturel might desire to make some public statements and be at once went forward to the platform. Mr. Evanturel explained that he would delay the reading of his resignation in the house until Tuesday, as there was usually a sparse attendance on Monday. He was sure that while the executive was censuring him he still had their sympathy. He was a poor man and he thought that licensed interests could give him some financial aid for he would "stand forever against the abolition of the bar." Mr. Evanturel intimated that if he were guilty of wrong doing he was not the only member of the house, and said he might ask the provincial secretary if it were not a fact that he was retained by the Standard Oil Company. Mr. E. Proulx, M.P. for Prescott, said it was with profound regret that the committee had found it necessary to reach the decision it had. "The grand reputation of the county," he declared, "must be maintained and we have acted accordingly." Saturday night Mr. Evanturel held a meeting in Hawkesbury, the principal town in the riding where he was supposed to have many more friends than in the Vankleek Hill vicinity. However, if that was the case it was not in evidence. When he had spoken the crowd trooped out silently, everyone ignoring the invitation to discuss the question if they so desired.

9886—A PRACTICAL AND PLEASING HOUSE OR HOME DRESS.

Ladies' House Dress (In Raised or Normal Waistline) with Long or Shorter Sleeve.

Black and white checked gingham, with facings of white linen is here shown. The design would be pretty in figured lawn or dimity, or in a neat percale pattern. For serviceable wear it would look well in gray or blue striped seersucker, with collar, cuffs and facings in contrasting color. For afternoon or porch wear, there are many dainty materials, also linens and satines, that will lend themselves admirably to this style. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 40 inch material for a 34 inch size. The skirt measures 1 1/2 yard at the foot, in a Medium size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Collision Saturday Afternoon.

A collision between two express waggons occurred near Job's Bridges, Saturday afternoon. W. Campbell's horse bolted from the South Side and dashing across the bridge ran into Cook the butcher's waggon and as a result Campbell's horse was injured. Both vehicles were damaged considerably, but the drivers escaped without serious injury.

Harbour Grace Notes.

Mrs. Alfred Sheppard, of this town, died last evening last week of the almost sudden death of her sister, Mrs. Solomon Reid, of New Hr. The deceased leaves a husband and seven children to mourn their loss.

Mrs. John Lynch, of Harvey Street, died last evening after a comparatively short illness, aged 66 years. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch kept a shop on Harvey Street and did a good business. The deceased is well known here and at St. John's for honest, straightforward dealings, and very charitable. The aged partner has our sympathy.

Mr. Moses Shute, after an illness of four or five weeks, was able to resume work this week at the Oil refinery plant of Mr. W. A. Munn.

Thomas, the 2-year-old son of Mr. Thomas Lynch, of Pipe-Track Road, was so seriously burnt on Saturday week that he died this morning. It seems that the mother had an occasion to go to the home of her next door neighbor, leaving the little one with two other small children in the kitchen. She locked the door to keep them in as the ground was wet and sloppy around the place. After a few minutes the mother heard the screaming of the children, and on returning found the baby behind the door on fire. It is supposed that the child sat before the stove and a spark from the wood caught fire to the clothes. The little one suffered much pain since, and death relieved it of its sufferings to-day.

That celebrated Irish drama "Eirin O'Braugh" will be put on the boards here on St. Patrick's Night, by a local company. A glance at the programme will assure any person that the affair will be a success. They have all been on the stage in some very strange roles and are sure to make a good hit now.

TESTIMONIALS.

To Dr. F. Stafford & Son. Dear Sirs,—There is no family that have used more Liniment than we have. I have no hesitation whatever in emphatically stating that "Stafford's Liniment" is the best Liniment procurable to-day. I sprained my arm a short while ago and was advised by a neighbour to try a bottle, this I did and after using it about two or three times never felt any pain since. Your Liniment is good for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia and all Aches and Pains of every description and I recommend it to every person suffering from either of the above ailments. I am more than pleased that I took my neighbour's advice and the consequence is that I shall always use Stafford's Liniment. You can publish this testimony if you wish. Yours truly, D. V. S.

P. S.—The above testimonial can be seen at any time by calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill. We sold over 15,000 bottles last year and this year we are going to sell twice as much, the reason is very simple. Results count every time. Dr. F. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Nfld., manufacturers of the Three Specialties: Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A," Stafford's Phosphate Cough Cure.

Note of Thanks.

The Committee of Management of Company No. 6, C.C.C., Bell Island, desire to thank all who contributed to the success of the Company's first annual "At Home," particularly the ladies and gentlemen who rendered the musical programme and the ladies who so generously provided the refreshments gratuitously for the occasion.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, March 16, '14. Do any of the children suffer from Chillsblains. If so they can get rid of this annoying and painful affection by the use of Tosa which will do the work without any trouble. Price 35c. a stick. Zylex Soap is one of the best medicinal Soaps we have ever come across. It contains as its two principal medicinal ingredients Ichthylol and boracic acid both soothing and antiseptic agents; besides which, the soap itself being perfectly pure and perfectly bland and unirritating makes it an excellent toilet soap. Price 25 cents a cake.

Collision Saturday Afternoon.

A collision between two express waggons occurred near Job's Bridges, Saturday afternoon. W. Campbell's horse bolted from the South Side and dashing across the bridge ran into Cook the butcher's waggon and as a result Campbell's horse was injured. Both vehicles were damaged considerably, but the drivers escaped without serious injury.

A CRYSTAL LIGHT.

Doesn't that suggest a clear, bright light? That is why the name CRYSTALITE was chosen.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE is a crystal light, giving forth mellow, penetrating rays. It gives no smoke nor smell, and is good to the last drop.

TEXACO CRYSTALITE will not fluctuate, it gives a steady glow.

The next time you buy illuminating oil don't merely ask for "a gallon of kerosene". Ask for TEXACO CRYSTALITE and find out why this illuminating oil is known as "the light of the home".

TEXACO CRYSTALITE costs no more than ordinary kinds and most good stores have it.

Remember the name. It will be worth your while to discriminate.

There's hardly a household or hamlet where "Queen Quality" Shoes are not worn or known. Travelers too, see the familiar "Queen Quality" trademark sign in many foreign lands.

What greater proof of their quality and excellence than the fact that they are demanded year in and year out by over three million women the civilized world over? NONE.

KORFF'S COCOA

(Established 1811.)

103 years ago Korff & Co. started manufacturing Cocoa in a very modest way. To-day they feel that there is no part of the world that Korff's Cocoa is not known and used.

The British Medical Journal has this to say:—"Korff's Cocoa is absolutely pure, and from a health standpoint can be highly recommended."
