Mirzapore Rugs

Hand made Muzapore Rugs are very little higher in price than Machine woven goods, but they give three times the wear. The pile is long and thick, making it a pleasure to walk on them and the colors, bright, but yet not gaudy, being dyed by vegetable dyes, are absolutely fast, and have not the injurious effect on the fabrics that chemical dyes always less or more have. These goods being in great demand, have been very scarce but we have just taken delivery of two bales, and now have them on sale. They are particularly suitable for halls, dining-rooms, dens etc., as they stand any amount of Hard Wear.

The sizes are as under:

Defending The Governor

Editor Albertan: With all due deference to Professor John Westlake's opinion, as reported in your issue today, allow me respectfully to point out that Governor Swettenham's action in ordering the United States armed troops off the island of Jamaica was justifiable and, under the circumstances, absolutely inevitable. The American admiral's action in landing armed troops on his own initiative without first obtaining the sanction of the British governor totally opposed to and a direct breach of international law. Had the governor permitted this he would have created a most danger-ous precedent with indefinite possibilities of imitation and expansion. GEORGE W. MASON,

J. B. Marsh, Manager.

Claudia enjoyed the worship, although she despised the worshippers. Her spirits had rebounded from their depression. She was Lady Vincent and in the present enjoyment and future anticipation of all the honors of her rank. She gloried in the adulation her youth, beauty, wealth and title commanded from her companions on the steamer; but she gloried more in anticipation of future suc cesses and triumphs on a larger scale and more extensive field.

She rehearsed in imagination her arrival in London, her introduction to the family of the viscount; her presentation to the queen; and the sensation she would produce at her majesty's drawing roam, where she was resolved, even if it should cost her her whole fortune, to eclipse every woman present, not only in the perfection of her beauty, but also in the magnificence of her dresses and the splendor of her jewels. And after that what a season she would pass in London! Whoever was queen of England, she would be queen beauty and fashion. And then she would visit with Lord Vincent all the different seats of his family; and every seat would be the scene of a new ovation! As the bride and the heir she would be idolized by the tenants and retainers of his noble family!

She would, with Lord Vincent, make a tour of the continent; she would see everything worth seeing in nature and in art, nodern and antique; she would be presented in succession at every foreign court, and everywhere by her beauty and splendor achieve new successes and triumphs! She would frequent the circles of American ministers, for the express purpose of meeting there her countrywomen and overwhelmby her magnificence those who had once dared to sneer at that high flavor of Ind an blood which given luster to her raven hair and fire to her dark eyes. Returning to England after this royal progress on the continent she would pass her days n cherishing her beauty and keeping up her state. And the course of her life should be like that of the sun, beautiful, glorious, regnant!, each splendid phase more dazzing than any that had preceded it. Was not this worth the price she had paid for it?

Such were Claudia's dreams and 2 lots, block 112, sec. 16 two $1600 visions. Such the scenes that she daily in imagination rehearsed. Such template. And nothing-neither the attentions of her husband, the conversation of her companions, nor me beauty and glory of sea and sky could win her from the contemplation of the delightful sub-

Meanwhile in that lovely October weather the "Empress" steamed her way over the sapphire blue sea and neared the cliffs of England.

At length on a fine afternoon in October they entered the mouth the Mersey River, and two hours later landed at Liverpool. Soon all was bustle with the cus tom house officers. Leaving their luggage a charge of his valet, to be got through the custom house, Lord Vincent hurried 3 corner lots, block 42, sec. 15 Claudia into a cab, followed her, and gave the direction:

"To the Crown and Miter." "Why not go to the Adelphi? All Americans go there, and I think it the best hotel in the city," said Claudia.

"The Crown and the Miter will serve our turn," was the curt reply of the viscount.

Claudia looked up in surprise at the brusqueness of his answer, and then ventured the opinion: 'It is a first class hotel, of

"You will get used to these little incanveniences after a while, dear,' said his lordship. A man with a greasy white apron and a soiled napkin approached them and bowed. "A bedroom anh parlor and supper immediately," was Lord Vincent's order to the functionary. "Yes sir. We can be happy to accommodate you, sir, with a bedroom but the parlor sir is out of our power; we have none vacant at the present time; but tomorrow sirbegan the polite waiter, when Lord Vincent cut him short with: "Show us into the bedroom then"
