To Nervous Sufferers.

$\rightarrow$-atsix 5000.

It is not a very pleasurable task we have undertaken, that of issuing a treatise to Nervous Sufferers and those afflicted withr Chronic Diseases. What we chiefly wish is to gain the confidence of our patients and the public, and hope by a straightforward statement of our object and plan treatment to permanently merit that confidence. But we have many difficulties and prejudices to overcome before that end can be obtained-the greatest of these is the fact that numerous imposters have advertised worthless preparations at different times, andthose who ha ve so often beon deceived fear again to trust themselver to advertised -mmanim...'Th

Fngland our firm has for many years overcome this prejudice, but in Canada it is only of late years that we have been advertising and selling our remedies, and so of course we cannot expect the public to recive us with confidence unless we can prove to them that our intentions are strictly honourable, and that we practise not merely to extort money from our patients, but that our earnest endealours is to do them good as well as reimburse ourselves for our time and knowledge.

The question now is, which is the best way to attain these objects? When the first established an agency in Canada it whe our intention to sell Dr. J. Bell Stanyson's Specific and Tonic Pill only, but the great demand for them and the frequent requests for special treatment decided us upon having one of the medical gentlemen connected with the English firm come to Canada for the purpose of visiting those places where his services were in request.

Dr. Simpson's partner, who arrived in Canada in the early part of the present year (1874), has had many years experience men who denounce newspaper advorfaing caning it unprofessional, although hiey fatre good care to advertise themselvas in every other way possible. At the risk of being called unprofessional, we contend that it is only justice to the suffering $\}$ let it be known in the plainest possinite manner that a road is open to themont of all their trouble, and at least" a chance of recovery given them. Therefore it Hollows that the only way to let the public know what we claim to be able to do is to advertise.

Da. J. Bell Suppson, the oldest partner in the firm of J. BexL Supsoti. Co: was in youth the pupil and in later years the partner and friend of the late Dre W. Willis Mosmley, of London, England, acknowledged to be the greatestauthority in the world on Nervous Diseases from Thatever cause arising, and than whom no man in the history of medicine has borrie more wide spread reputation His consulting rooms were constantly filled with patients-numbers of whom mnked among England's nobility. Hundreds came yearly from long distances tol consult him, and his correspondence was enormous. His fees were often as high as ONE HUNDRED GUINEAS for aconsultation. In such a school did Dr. J! Bell Simpson first learn the science of the successful treatment of Chronic Olseases, and he has himself attained a reputation equal to that of his talented patior, Although we by no means desire It to be thought that we can in every case efdot a cure, for there are some cases Which will defy every effort, still we do claim that from long experience in the metropolis of the world with every opportinity of closely studying every phase of disease, with experience in the largest hospitals in Europe, we are in a position to offer hope even in the most aggravated cases.

We do not claim to hava any particular medicine which will cure almost every known disease. We treat petionts on scien itic principles, and in complierter? cases have to vary the treatment accorcing to the symptoms.

But for one disease we do clairi a SPECIFIC and that is in the one known as Nervous Debility. We might enter into along explanation of the symptoms and effects of this disease, but of what use would it be? it would only satisfy idle curiosity in those not requiring treatment; and perhaps needlessly alarm those already suffering. Few are so ignoraint of the fearful effects of this most temible affliction, or of its extent, as to make it necessary to enter into particuiars. Thousands yearly sink into promature graver from its effects, while thousands more suffer silently, hardly daring to acknowiedgel even to themselves, the fearful misery = it entails. Nor, is it confined to one sex alone ; in both we find the same symptoms, the nerves tremulous, mind conficsed, lassitude, debility, weakness of the organs, loss of memory, palpitation of the heart, pains in the back and limbs and head, dulness of vision, incapacity for work, lnnguid and pale cointenance (in females, hysteria), danle circles uniter the eyes, melancholy, anemia, dizziness, shortness of breath, lose of confidence, invoillingness to look any one in the face, and many others, not to mention the most distressing of all which :nless checked, by adaily or weekly drain on the system, produces all the fopalts mentioned above, and proves an insurmpountable obstacle to marriage.

Not need it be supposed that all this is alwage broughtion by a fault of the person suffering. In many cases it is hereditaty meakness, or constitutional, or caused by a. deatior disease, as well as by errors of youth.

It is to offer a remedy for this insiduous disease that he have opmne AN OFFICE IN Hantitor adta wo invife all to accopt advice, trate th oitre treety and wiphot OHARGE. This clast Of disedse पif beonso much neglected by the general modicai practicioner that many are socrifiged yearly through ignorance of where to obtain skilled advice. The most eminent medical authorities say that thefre in disease to which so many are bubjectod and from the effects of which 56 thatff constitutions break down, feaving themina confused and finally chabtic or taiotic: The insane asylum or an early grate clomed the scene.

We leave it to our readers if it ig noto noble task we have undertaken that of restoring those suffering as aboze to heaithand strength, and wê have coritidenco derived from long experience that 10 on do so. Wo only ask of our patian (thot they witl follow our directions frapiolz ind take the medrities pratinpis an have spoken bofor of ditficulties in qur way: First sufferers are often too impatient to be cured think that they ought to find imflediate relief, forgetting that the disease has been in existence for years, and in many cases health and strength have hever toent exporienced. The fact is that Nervorto pesblity catnot be quigkly cuted it is aldginint the nature of thinge to suppose so. The constitution must be gradually restored, and even with care and attention this occupies considerable time.

Again they fear excessive expense, but to this we answer that our charges are as moderate as possible, rarely exceeding $$ 10.00$, and in many cases not more than half that sum. We tell our patients candidly what we think of their case, whether hopeful or not. If hopeless we tell them so and ask no fee, if hopeful and they entrust themselves to our care, we do our best for them at as little expense to them as possible. But we think we will be agreed with when we say thatit is much better for any man to put up with any other inconvenience than want of health, and that money spent in regaining that should never be regretted. Many have a habit of grumbling at paying a doctor's bill, forgetting the benefit they have derived from his treatment which often amounts to being snatched from death itself.

Again patients do not follow our directions strictly. They continue to indulge in bad practices, and continue the

So much has been written and so many things offered to the public as a cure for Consumption and Lung Diseases that we hemitate to offer our services to that class of sufferers, not from any fear that we cannot relieve them, but doubting if we will be allowed a fair opportunity of doing so. In aggravated cases we can give the patient ease and quiet, in those not so far advanced good hope of perfect restoration, and in recent cases a certainty of cure. About this we will say no more.

Could we but publish the communications we have received the last few months we could convince the most skeptical that wa can cure these frightful diseases but as we regard all communications as strictly confidential, we never use any letter, even with the addrese and mhaie cut off. We sympathise with the afflictod and would sooner forego profit to ourselves than have our patients be subject to whie slightest suspicion. For this purpose we have our office arranged so thiat theres is no liklihood of one patient being seen 献 another, and we regard all communicaitions as sacred as the confessional. Parties from a distance wishing to consult ahould write beforehand, and have an hopr arranged so as not to be disappointed, as the Doctor is sometimes from home. When he intends visiting any town or city it will be announced in the local papers, stating when and where he is to be seem.

Advice can be given by letter free, adatd all lettors will be cheorfully and promptoty answered and medicine expressed to tany part of the Dominion. Our Post Office. address is J. BELL SIMPSON & Co., Drawer 91, P.O.j Hamilton, Onto

A WORD TO LADHES.

Any lady who entrusts her case to us may rely on having our best services. Chronic Diseases peculiar to females receive special attention, and satisfaction is guaranteed. What has come to be widely known as Dr. J. Bell Simpson's favorite prescription for FEMALE DISEASES can be relied on as a specific in these cases.

All communications will be regarded as strictly private and letters promptly answered. Children's diseases will also be successfully treated.

In conclusion we will only re-enumerate the diseases to which we give special attention, although it by no means follows from this that we. do not treat other diseases than those specially mentioned, for a knowledge of one necessarily involves a knowledge of all to a greater or less extent. However, to resume: We pay special attention to the treatment of

Nervous Debility from whatoveracause arising,
Diseasen of Women and Childron,

Chromic Discases of the Liver,

 Chronic Diseasen of the EIAnoye, Chest Disoases,Lung Disoacen,

Diceases of the Fieart; whother orgaric or functional,

Indigestion,

Stomach Complaints,

And those diseases in either sex which are better left unnamed, but from which unfortunately only too many erring and often repentant sinners are yearly sinking into premature graves.

We ask all suffering to give the above their earnest consideration, and promise them that if they will call at our office or write to us, they will receive at our hands the greatest consideration, strietest privacy and skillful treatment.
