TEN PAGES—ONE CENT

GREEKS HAVE FIVE IN THE LIST

Batting Averages of The League Players

BLACK REAL LEADER

O'Brien Has Made the Most Runs, Little the Most Sacrifice Hits and Marcotte and Ganley Tie as Base Stealers

Thanks to Joe Page, the Times presents this afternoon the record of the players of the N. B. W. League, including the game of last Friday. Five of the Greeks are in the list of batsmen making 300 or over.

In addition to the tabulated figures it should be said that O'Brien of St. John leads as a run getter, having scored twelve times. Marcotte has been nine times across the plate and Black and White seven times each.

Little leads in sacrifice hits, with four and Marcotte and Ganley lead as base stealers, each with four.

WILL NOT REMOVE TO WINNIPEG

Archbishop Langevin Puts End to Proposal to Remove See From St. Boniface

St. Boniface, Man., June 9.—His Grace Archbishop Langevin, addressing the congregation of the cathedral parish on a pastoral visit yesterday put an end to the proposal to remove the archiepiscopal see from St. Boniface to Winnipeg. It had been urged on him that by removing the see he would be located in a larger city, one that would grow in time to such importance that it might become the actual capital of the dominion and thus enhance the prestige of the archdiocese of St. Boniface. His Grace declared: "I have replied definitely that, as St. Boniface had been the first mission, the first apostolic vicariate, the first bishopric, the first archbishopric of the west, the clergy, the sisters, and the laity had toiled and suffered there, as in its church were the bones of the earliest missionaries, of Bishop Provencher and of Archbishop Tache and in its cemetery were the remains of the great pioneers of the northwest and as St. Boniface is the center from which the word of God has gone forth to the extremities of the land and is the cradle of the religious, civic and political life of the west, I will remain here in the first home of the Catholic church here, the home of my ancestors in the faith."

CRAMP, SHIPBUILDER, DEAD

Philadelphia, June 7.—Charles H. Cramp, former head of the shipbuilding firm of William Cramp & Sons, died here yesterday after a lingering illness. He was eighty-five years old and was the eldest son of William Cramp, who founded the business in 1830.

JUNE WEDDINGS

McLean-Hayes The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley V. Hayes, Charles street, was the scene of an interesting ceremony this morning, when their daughter, Miss Ethel, was united in marriage to Robert A. McLean, Rev. Dr. Hutchinson officiating. The house was nicely decorated with apple blossoms. The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of white nixon over white silk, caught up with lilies of the valley, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was given away by her father, and was attended by Miss Gladys Dykeman as flower girl.

COMRADE OF SCOTT TELLS THE CANADIAN CLUB OF POLAR TRIP

Winnipeg, June 9.—How, after endless months of weary travel over many fields of snow and ice, with but their own voices to break the monotony in their journey to the frozen south, the Captain Scott expedition reached their long sought for goal on January 18 last, only to find that Captain Amundsen and his men had been ahead of them, was told to the Canadian Club on Saturday by C. S. Wright, of Toronto, the only Canadian member of the expedition.

THIRTY THOUSAND ATHLETES PARADE AT STADIUM DEDICATION

Berlin, June 9.—With becoming ceremony, the Kaiser, accompanied by several members of the imperial family dedicated the great permanent stadium at Grawald, which is to be used for the Olympic games in 1916. After the Kaiser had given an address, 30,000 athletes paraded. They consisted of men, women and children representing every form of athletics which is recognized by the German Olympic committee.

ST. JOHN MAY GET THE NEXT MEETING

Kingston, Ont., is Rival For Presbyterian General Assembly of 1914—Sessions in Toronto to Be Ended on Thursday

(Canadian Press) Toronto, June 9.—The Presbyterian General Assembly will this afternoon again take up the debate on church union, and it is expected that some disposition will be made at that session. Church union has already occupied a good deal of the time of the assembly, and as it is planned to conclude on Thursday, it is necessary to find some way out soon.

SENSATIONAL SERMON IN TORONTO CHURCH IS FOLLOWED BY APPLAUSE

Baptist Minister Had Sharply Criticized Judge and Others in Matter of Theatrical Performance

Toronto, June 9.—"The Devil and Deceit" was the theme of a highly sensational sermon by Rev. T. T. Shields in Jarvis street Baptist church last night, when he severely castigated Judge Mosson, Hartley Dewar, K. C., William Banks, secretary of the theatrical union, the author and players who appeared in the recent performance of "Deborah" in the Princess Theatre, and players generally.

Madrid, June 9.—A commercial treaty between Spain and Japan, which is to replace a treaty which expired recently and has already been ratified by the lower house, came up in the senate yesterday. Its ratification was voted unanimously by the 129 senators present. They, however, did not constitute a quorum and the vote was nugatory.

The Bitter Chaff Removed

The men who bleed, prepare and pack Red Rose Coffee know well what will please good judges of coffee. They crush—not grind—the fresh-roasted bean into small, even grains which brew readily and settle quickly to pour bright and clear. The chaff is removed, and with it the bitter essence you have disliked in other coffees. You will surely like Red Rose Coffee.

The Dominion Coal Company have chartered three vessels to replace their large new steamer, the Glace Bay, which was wrecked on the Newfoundland coast May 2. The vessels are the Glenace, and the Norwegian steamers Sommerstad and Nytra. The latter has already engaged in the trade. The steamers Malmsudet and Berwick, now discharging coal for the company at their Hochelaga towers, Montreal, will be loaded with grain and consigned to Europe as soon as their coal cargoes have been shipped.

Mr. Downie Back From West.
Wm. Downie, general superintendent of the Atlantic Division of the C. P. R., returned to St. John on Saturday after a trip to the Pacific coast. During his trip he met many men from the maritime provinces and all of them seemed to be doing well. In the western provinces he found no diminution in the real estate activity, but in British Columbia the business was dull although prices remain firm. Mr. Downie was greatly impressed with the agricultural development of the west, but said that he regarded New Brunswick farms as of least equal value.

Gerald Mandell, the three-year-old son of Matthew Mandell of Fountain Springs, Pa., was the sixth member of the Mandell family including the mother, to submit to an operation for appendicitis in two months.

MAKE BACKWARD CHILDREN INTO GOOD CITIZENS

Work Being Done in Potter School in Detroit

SYSTEM OF TESTS

Types Heretofore Unreached Are Now Being Taught—Boys in The Majority—A Visit To The School and Description of The Work

(Detroit Journal.)

The Potter school, located on Tilden avenue, near Myrtle street, was built in 1888, and named for Henry C. Potter, a public-spirited and universally popular member of the Detroit school board. The interest of the present article mainly concerns the pupils in a special class, in charge of Miss Anna M. Engle, doing according to age and ability, a portion of the work outlined for the four primary grades.

On account of various untoward circumstances, the mental progress of these children has been hindered more or less. Loss of time from illness and its attendant discouragement and self-distrust, with other less definitely understood causes, have prevented them from passing with their grades.

For about two and a half years an interesting and somewhat elaborate system of tests has been employed, to estimate, as far as possible, the intellectual capacity of backward children. The intelligent sympathy of twentieth century educators and physicians throughout the United States is reaching types of intellect that a generation ago were allowed to go unheeded and untaught. Experimented work and research among European scientists have been combined with the work here, until there is now a reasonable basis of grouping and a growing definiteness in terminology. Not "the survival of the fittest" is the aim of present-day education, but "how shall we best fit the largest possible number to survive and enjoy the blessings of civilization?"

The special class is one of the answers to this question; it calls for a high order of teaching ability in the instructor, and it makes no appeal whatever to selfish, worldly-minded or indolent motives. The membership in such a class is limited in Detroit to eighteen.

Boys in the Majority

On my first visit to Miss Engel's room all the seats were occupied. There were fifteen boys and three girls present. In these classes the boys are always greatly in the majority. Quizzed as to the reasons, Miss Engel stated, the principal said: "It is often commented upon, but I am not aware of any satisfactory attempt having been made to account for it. Some have thought that possibly it is because girls have more pride than boys and, when they find themselves falling behind their class-mates, they try harder to catch up."

"We are encouraged by the good quality of the handwork done by the boys. Their basket weaving is very good. They make and furnish for the doll's house; caps, hats, muffs, knitted slippers and various other doll garments. There are also numbers of useful and ornamental articles, suitable for adults.

For the girls the most interesting is of special interest and value, as it leads easily to the earning of home in later lesson.

The woodworking in the manual training classes is an advantage to the boys. It is one of the best activities of their hands in disciplining their mental powers. A highly interesting case in point is recorded in Dr. Shuttlesworth's book, "Mentally Deficient Children, Their Treatment and Training." A boy of twelve, entering one of these special classes, could neither read nor write, but after two years of instruction he was able to read, write, draw and make simple articles in a joiner's shop. After ten years' training he was an excellent joiner and won prizes in arts and crafts exhibitions. Five years later he had gained a fluent command of English and was made an instructor in wood carving. He is now an accurate and artistic wood carver, and makes his own panel designs.

The duty and blessedness of being brave, strong, and hopeful are constantly taught—both directly and indirectly in Miss Engel's room. Children, reared by the humoring and misplaced sympathy of relatives, find a much more wholesome moral atmosphere within the school building. They learn that they can and should co-operate with the school physician and their teacher in overcoming their own handicaps. In fact, the mental progress of these exceptional children depends so much upon their bodily well-being that the teachers and school physicians are constantly comparing notes.

Splendid marches with good music and carefully planned gymnastic exercises help them obtain muscular control. In fact, singing and instrumental music of all kinds have a distinct remedial effect. The children respond to it heartily. Some sing very well.

Approves Outdoor Work

Miss Stuart is a strong advocate of outdoor work for all children, both the ordinary classes and the exceptional. Gymnastic exercises are conducted

Daily Hints For the Cook

CHOCOLATE PUDDING
One pint milk, three tablespoons grated chocolate, one egg, three tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch; flavor with one teaspoonful vanilla. Place over a slow fire until it thickens, remove to a baking dish and bake until slightly brown. Serve with meringue on top.

RUSSIAN SALAD

Bodily Health Affects Character

Character, as well as success in life, depends very largely on the condition of the health. You cannot imagine a sufferer from indigestion being cheerful in disposition. Nor do you expect a person with exhausted nerves to be other than nervous, irritable, easily excited and short-tempered.

There was formerly much guess-work in the treatment of exhausted nerves, but since Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been so successful in restoring nerve force to the system there is no necessity for experimentalism. Some experiments are necessary for the advance of science, but they need not be at your expense or your risk.

No one can develop good character and ability with nervous headache, indigestion and the depressing effect of an exhausted nervous system. There is always the dark cloud of nervous collapse, and some form of paralysis to look forward to.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is not a "quick cure"—no sedatives to lull the patient in the delusion that his pains are disappearing, no narcotic or injurious stimulants to exhilarate him temporarily at the future expense of health.

This food cure positively forms new, rich blood and builds up in the most natural way the starved and worn-out nerves.

NEW BRUNSWICK WILL GET $24,500 FOR AGRICULTURE

Our Share of Federal Grant—In Addition to Provincial Grant—How it Must Be Spent—Plans of Cabinet Ministers

Ottawa, June 8.—The minister of agriculture, acting on the advice of C. J. C. Cameron, ex-deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario, who has been engaged by the government to administer the annual grant for aid to agriculture under the vote of $10,000,000 passed this session, has announced the details as to the spending of the money this year.

The total appropriation to be distributed among the provinces during the current fiscal year is $20,000,000. Ontario's share on the per capita basis is $175,783; Quebec, $149,423; Nova Scotia, $24,883; New Brunswick, $24,500; British Columbia, $27,353; Manitoba, $31,780; Saskatchewan, $54,393; Alberta, $29,846.

The major portion of New Brunswick's grant this year is to be devoted to the following purposes: Horticulture, $4,000; dairying, $4,000; agricultural instructions in rural schools, $2,000; demonstrations in seed selection and collection, $2,000; agricultural meetings, stock and seed fairs, $2,000.

Hon. Frank Cochrane will, after some time, be going through to the Pacific coast looking after public works projects, including arrangements for constructing the proposed new government grain transfer terminal and elevator at Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Calgary and Vancouver.

Hon. W. T. White will also shortly leave for a trip through the west.

Hon. Col. Hughes will spend the next month accompanying General Ian Hamilton on an inspection trip of militia training camps. The minister of militia will visit the camps in eastern Canada during the next two weeks and will then proceed to western Canada, going as far as the coast.

Hon. Frank Cochrane will leave in a few days for an inspection trip over the interprovincial.

Premier Borden will remain in Ottawa until the end of the month. It is altogether probable that he, in company with Hon. J. D. Hanson, will again go to London this summer to resume negotiations with the admiralty.

outside whenever the weather is suitable.

Edouard Seguin, the French physician, author and educator, a man fully competent in advance of his time, was a pioneer in this intellectual field. Later he was invited to the United States, where he established the first schools for the mentally deficient.

The celebrated Dr. Maria Montessori is indebted to Dr. Seguin for the foundation of her work.

Miss Stuart, however, differs from those American educators who tend to replace the American kindergarten by Montessori work.

Said she:

"I cannot see a very great deal in this Italian teacher's method that would suit American needs. It is difficult for me to see what advantage there would be to our children in being taught to write beautifully at four or five years of age. The childhood period of life is too short at best. I would be sorry to see anything introduced into our schools that would interfere with the importance of song and story, the very things which inspire and lead to more books and wish to learn reading."

TELEGRAPH AND TIMES BOOK CAN DO THE THINKING

Half of the Real Work is Done for Successful People by Others

Did you ever watch a skilled workman? The speed and accuracy of his accomplishment seems wonderful. Not a moment is ever lost in finding the right tool for every part. He is never hampered by any other thought than that of the execution, which is the making of the work.

Did it ever occur to you that nearly half of his thinking is done for him? Look more carefully and, whether it be in the smoke and grime of the mill, or in the carpeted office, or in the shop, or in the school, or in the home, you will invariably find the modest effective helper near at hand.

The Telegraph and Times Dictionary is just such a helper. You have watched the boy throwing red-hot rivets to a structural iron-worker and marvelled at the two minute work in which he makes and the accuracy with which the bits of heated metal are hurled just as they are needed.

The dictionary is just such a helper, ready to hurl just the right word, just the right time up to where your mind is working in creative effort. Those who keep The Telegraph and Times Dictionary at their elbows are always sure of having at hand just the right word for their tongue needs.

A millman from a nearby town expressed his appreciation of the dictionary just received by Webster's and was inspecting it with delight, when he said: "You see how the best helper could work when I'm in the mill, but when I get home and try to write anything I'm sure in need of aid. This little black book is going to be my helper and hand me the word I want when I need it most, and I'll be that whatever I write will be spelled right, anyhow."

"I get that dictionary: six consecutive coupons and a small expense bonus."

This Dictionary is not published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

BURIED YESTERDAY
The funeral of Mrs. Samuel Crothers was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from her late residence in Queen street to Fernhill cemetery for interment. Services were conducted at the house by Rev. Mr. Teale and a quartette sang. The funeral was very largely attended.

YOUR HAIR IS TURNING GREY AND IT MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

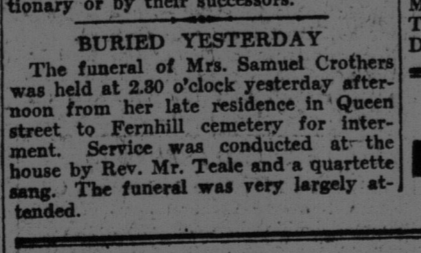

TO KEEP POPULAR KEEP YOUR APPEARANCE OF YOUTH

A young man was surprised to have his application for a position "turned down." He was better equipped for the position than the fellow who got it.

He discovered that his grey hairs did it. He was "too old" looking. It's the same everywhere. There is no doubt but that grey hair does make a man or woman look old. There is no use waiting another minute—don't lose your position or fall in getting a better one.

because you are old looking—use Hay's Hair Health now. Those who are recommended it to their friends, because it is genuinely good, always restores grey hair to its natural color; destroys dandruff, keeps the scalp clean and healthy. You begin to note the difference at once. The few grey hairs disappear and never return.

Why look old when you are young? Get a bottle of Hay's Hair Health at once, start using it and see what a difference a few applications make. E. Clifton Brown, Union and Waterloo streets.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right to the source of the trouble, cure the weak aching back, and prevent any further complications arising. Mrs. W. J. Hodge, Fielding, Saskatchewan writes: "A few lines highly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. For this last year I have been troubled very much with a sore back and aching head, and I could not get any relief from any other medicine, but I tried many kinds of pills and medicines, but it seemed almost in vain. I began to give up in despair of ever getting well and strong again, when a kind neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from them, for now I am never troubled with a sore back or aching head, and I feel as if I had been reborn. I will always say Doan's Kidney Pills for mine and can highly recommend them to any sufferer."

NOW WEALTHIEST OF THE SENATORS This is Distinction Borne By Former New Brunswicker VERY POOR IN YOUNG DAYS An Entertaining Sketch of Isaac Stephenson, Born Near Fredericton, Who Now is the Cressus of the United States Senate

(Boston Post) With the departure, from the United States Senate, of Simon Guggenheim of Colorado, Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, takes his place as the wealthiest man in that body. He is said to derive an income of $3,700,000 a year from his fortune of $74,000,000, which will make him one of the heaviest contributors in the country to the new income tax. As he receives more than $300,000 a month, he will probably have little difficulty in paying the $148,000 which he will be assessed.

Senator Stephenson, or "Uncle Ike" as he is known to residents of Wisconsin, is one of the unique characters in the senate. Like Lorimer, he recently was tried for wholesale bribery in procuring his election, but unlike the senator from Illinois, he was allowed to retain his seat. Had Senator Stephenson not accumulated millions in the lumber he might have made a considerable fortune on the vaudeville stage. Few people living have such a retentive memory. He can answer correctly nine times out of ten any question that relates to his life since his third birthday, even giving the day of the week and the month in which any event took place. He can tell off-hand just how much he got for lumber fifty years ago, he can even tell the exact amount of a check that he made out in payment of a bill when he was a young man.

Senator Stephenson was born near Fredericton, New Brunswick, in 1829. His parents were so poor that he was able to gain but a mediocre education and long before he was out of his teens he was compelled to go to work to help support the family. At the age of eleven he went to Bangor and a year later he was taken to Wisconsin.

For several years he worked on the farm, in the woods with the lumbermen and as a common sailor on ships that sailed the Great Lakes. By the time he had reached his 23rd birthday he had saved enough money to purchase an interest in a timber and saw mill. Senator Stephenson now owns practically all the stock of this concern, which has several mills and owns millions of acres of land.

In 1867 he devised a plan for running logs on the Menominee River and built the boom that handles more logs than any other in the world. He became president of the largest retail lumber company in Chicago, president of the Stephenson National Bank of Barometer, president of the Peabody Lumber Company, and president of the Stephenson Manufacturing Company, which cuts 15,000,000 feet of lumber annually.

He is probably the closest rival to former Senator Clark of Montana in the amount of money that he has spent in politics. He served several years in the Wisconsin state legislature, and three terms as congressman. Then he decided to run for the senate.

He was naturally a conservative of conservatives, but he thought that Senator Spooner and the other regular republican leaders of his state had enured him out of the office upon which he had set his heart. He had spent large sums of money and had even sent a special train of Wisconsin residents to San Francisco to witness the launching of the battleship named for the state which was christened by one of his daughters. Despite his lavish expenditures, Spooner was elected to the vacancy, and Stephenson turned upon his former friends.

He contributed liberally to the insurgent cause which was then headed by Robert M. La Follette, and finally, in 1907, he was chosen to succeed Senator Spooner. He was too conservative to continue leashed to Senator La Follette, and the Wisconsin senators have seldom found occasion to vote upon the same side of measures.

Under the terms of the Laurier Naval Service Act the Borden government had power to build and pay for all the ships of war which Canada might need. Mr. Borden might have proceeded with construction, and left it to the people of Canada to decide whether the ships should be sent to Great Britain without crews, or should be manned by Canadians.

"This much is now clear," says the London Times, "that no naval policy, whether temporary or permanent, can be carried into effect without reference to the electorate." But Mr. Borden proposes to do nothing until Death has wiped out the Liberal majority in the Senate.

The average man to be advised not to go to the parks on Sunday in order that the street car men may observe the Sabbath? If so, the Sabbath a day only for those who have automobiles, horses and yachts? A day in the country, in the parks, or on the water, be it Sunday or week day, will not hurt the ordinary citizen and his family provided they behave themselves.

The consumer is told that meat grows scarcer continually. He knows that the price goes up. The New York Evening Post gives him a sort of peep behind the scenes: The figures of the government report on the falling off in cattle led even the Tribune to favor a removal of all duties on cattle or meat.

Such is Fame

Louis Brownlow was born in what may be described as the backwoods down South. In the course of time he straightened his plumage, flapped his wings and sailed out into the cold and dreary world to collect for himself success and fame. He landed on a newspaper in a southern city and made so good on his job that his articles were "blasted" under his signature across the front page of his journal every day.

After he had felt for several months one thrill of uplifting humanity and having people come up to him and tell him what a fine writer, deep thinker and excellent judge of human nature he was, he went back home. So far as he was able to determine, he was a subaltern on the horizon of Journalism and fame had hung about his form all the lights and illuminations possible.

"Louis," asked one of the old men at the grocery store, speaking with a pronounced drawl, and curving his long thin whiskers, "what be your line of endeavor?"

"The newspaper business," replied Brownlow, distinctly proud.

"Well, Louis," pursued the patriarch, "be you selling of the papers or a set-ting of the type?" - Popular Magazine

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRE

A slight earthquake shock was felt yesterday morning early, at Lachute, Que. No damage was done, but the tremor was felt quite forcibly.

Rudolph, the three-year-old son of Ernest Crosby, living at Lake Anson, near Yarmouth, N. S., was burned to death on Saturday when a can of kerosene exploded after he had spread it. His elder brother, Gerald, had his arm painfully burned.

The German government has decided that unskilled laborers will no longer be allowed to come into Canada without the $25 required before they can be admitted here. On account of the scarcity of labor the law requiring workmen to be in possession of this sum had been suspended for a time, but it is now being enforced again.

Miss Emily Davison, the suffragette who was knocked down at the Derby on Wednesday last while attempting to stop the king's horse, Anmer, died at the Epsom hospital, London, yesterday, aged 32 years. She was married to W. F. Humphrey and had six children.

A shipment of sixty-nine live foxes is now on the way to E. E. Island from North Battleford, Sask., where they have been collected. They represent a value of more than $60,000.

The German steamer "Mala" from Grindstone Island, struck on Seal Island, N. S., yesterday morning and is held there. The crew and passengers were rescued.

Arthur Doris was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary on Saturday by Judge Ritchie at Kewville, N. S., for attempting to poison his brother. Samuel Gould found guilty of burglary was given fourteen years and Wm. Salsman and Percy Hills each seven years.

At the General Presbyterian Assembly in Toronto on Saturday nineteen Ruthenians were admitted to the ranks of the church from the Presbytery of Winnipeg. The ceremony was most impressive.

Ottawa, June 8—A dominion charter has been obtained by the Ontario Steel Products Company, the Canadian branch of the United States Steel Corporation. The capital of the company is placed at $20,000,000, the chief place of business being at Oshway (Ont).

The Firebug Again

There are strong reasons to believe that an incendiary is still at work in North End. He is not operating as steadily as was the case a few months ago, but his work is sufficient to terrify a section of that district and there is a demand for improved police protection. Plain-clothesmen being favored as a means of capturing the culprit. On Saturday evening a fire was set in Douglas avenue, beneath a set of steps in the rear of the home of Wm. McMillan. Shavings and oil had been strewn about and James McAndrews who was passing along the street, said he saw a young man deliberately start a match to the pile of matter which he had collected. The firebug, when he saw the flames spreading to the shed adjoining the stairs, ran hastily toward Indian town. The chemical was called out and the blaze extinguished before much damage was done.

Local Man Plans Long Flight

C. F. Montague Chambers, who has been engaged as a draughtsman in this city for the past few months, is planning an attempt to cross the Atlantic in a hydroplane. He is an experienced aviator, holding certificates from the European associations and was engaged last year, with several others, to take seven airplanes to Greece for use in the war with Turkey, but was prevented by other governments for international reasons. He would take with him Samuel Larsson of Stockholm, Sweden, as mechanic. Larsson, who is also working in this city at present has had considerable experience in aviation in his native country. Mr. Chambers plans the trip from Newfoundland in August or September and would fly to either Ireland or England, the latter making a distance of 1,800 miles, which he would expect to cover at an average of sixty miles an hour. He has been promised financial support by two St. John men but will need to secure more funds before he can make the attempt.

Violet Reid in Court

Violet Reid, of Fredericton Junction, appeared before Magistrate Ritchie in the police court on Saturday on the charge of the murder of her child in this city on April 16 last and was remanded to jail. The preliminary examination will be held on Friday.

Race in 1914 For American Cup Recalls Previous Efforts

By TOM ANDREWS

With the arrangements practically completed between the New York Yacht Club and Sir Thomas Lipton for an international yacht race in 1914 for possession of the America cup, interest in the event is becoming universal. It is just ten years since the Shamrock II, built by Sir Thomas Lipton, tried to lift the famous cup, losing to the Reliance, built by the Iselin syndicate.

Yachting will benefit all over the country from the series of international races again, for it is such races that stimulate the proper interest in the sport. The British have tried hard to win back the America cup, which they lost in 1881, when the yacht America, owned by G. L. Schuyler, defeated the British yacht Aurora. That is nearly three-quarters of a century ago and during that time only thirteen races have been held for the cup. The Earl of Dunraven made several attempts to lift it as did Sir Thomas Lipton, and the latter is still after it.

A record of the various races for the cup will no doubt prove interesting at this time. They are as follows:—

New Sydney Sloop

(Halifax Chronicle)

That Nova Scotian yachting is becoming more widely recognized than before is the tenor of an article in the current issue of the American publication "Yachting." The full description and plans of the sloop "Shibley," built in Sydney, C. B., are contained in the article, which emphasizes the speed possibilities of this craft. "The Shibley" last year published a similar description of the Zets of Halifax and some few words on the new local yacht Gem may be soon looked for. "Yachting" says in part of the Shibley:

"The Q. class, under the universal Rule, has always been a particularly popular one among yachtmen on the Atlantic coast and some very fast and at the same time able boats have been built to it. John Pinard, associated with John G. Alden, of Boston, has designed a boat of this class for a yachtman of Sydney, C. B., which is unusual, and which, judging from the plans embodied some interesting features and should prove extremely fast."

The dimensions of the boat are 45 feet 6 inches over all; 26 ft. waterline; 9 ft. 9 inches extreme beam; 9 ft. 11 inches draft. The ends are long drawn out while the sections forward are fairly sharp and she seems to combine the best features of the old Savannah class boats with those built under the present rule.

The hull plan comprises 980 square ft. 705 of which are in the main sail. This gives her a large rig as Q class boats go, but, on account of her length and beam, she would be able to carry it easily. She has a water tight cockpit, with the deck beams carried across at the forward end to form a bridge deck while there is a low narrow cabin trunk giving comfortable accommodation below, with 8 feet 2 inches head-room under the carlines. The ballast is all outside. The boat is built in the best manner possible.

MORNING LOCALS

James Cresswell, special deputy supreme regent of the Royal Arcanum, is in the city and is registered at the Dufferin. He is in the city in connection with the development of the branch here.

The feast of Pentecost will commence at sunset tomorrow among the orthodox Jews and continue for two days. The local Jews are planning special services to mark the feast.

After being here with his wife only a few days, Captain Alfred Howard was called back to Norfolk on Saturday to resume command of his boat, a large passenger steamer running between Norfolk, Va., and other southern points. He had intended to spend several weeks here. Captain Howard is a son of Wm. Howard of west side.

The body of an infant was found recently enclosed in a box in a rear room of an hotel at Fort Kent. It was believed that it had been there for months or two and the decomposition made it difficult to tell whether or not its death had been due to natural causes.

The Farm Settlement Board is preparing to take over two more farms in Westmorland county and four on the North Shore.

The eighty-fifth anniversary of the Sunday school of Portland Methodist church was celebrated last evening by a special service. Reports submitted showed an enrollment of 918 and receipts for the past year of $226.64.

A warrant was issued by Magistrate Ritchie on Saturday for the arrest of Richard D. Isaac. It was sworn out by G. E. Logan on information laid by Albert McArthur at the request of the Alberta authorities. The warrant will be sent at once to Boston where Isaac is being held on other charges. The St. John warrant charges him with uttering forged certificates of title in the Alberta lands office.

The custom of holding Sunday Vespers in the Cathedral in the afternoon was changed yesterday and hereafter they will be sung in the evenings. The only time in the past that the vespers were held in the evening has been on special occasions and the announcement came as a surprise to the congregation.

Loch Lomond Camp Entered

L. P. Jordan who resides at Loch Lomond reported on Saturday to Walter S. Knowles and E. A. Goodwin that their summer camps at that place had been broken into and much damage done. Mr. Knowles had returned from his camp with his wife on Thursday last and it is thought the break was made on Friday. Whoever entered took a sheet from one of the beds and used it as a sail for Mr. Knowles' boat in which he went to the home of Mr. Goodwin, ransacking both places.

REVIEW OF THE SITUATION BY WALL ST. EXPERT

New York, June 7.—When the Balkan war broke out and Europe unloaded large amounts of American securities, our market, which was then in a hopeful mood, took them without flinching and the avalanche seemed to be readily absorbed.

The European markets, although international disturbances are now out of the way, are suffering under the large government loans for armament, coming on the heels of numerous unsalable underwritings, which only waited for a show of peace there, to be launched.

Our banking system has shown its inefficiency in not gathering together the reserves of the country, in adequate proportion to loans. A sound banking currency law would immediately marshal our scattered gold and build up a solid percentage of reserve.

Meanwhile, the other parts of the government should do their duty—the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of raising railroad rates and the responsible departments in quenching outbreaks against the corporations, and in doing their best to encourage business confidence.

EXCHEQUER COURT TO SIT HERE TOMORROW

Three Cases on the Docket—Judge Audette in The City Today

Sittings of the Exchequer court will open here at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning. Judge L. A. Audette of Ottawa, who will preside, arrived in the city at noon today accompanied by W. H. Huggins, court stenographer.

The King vs. the Nashua Lumber Company, Slipp & Hanson for the crown and F. R. Taylor for the defence. The King vs. J. C. Hartley for the crown, H. E. McLean, K. C. for the N. B. Railway Co. and F. Taylor for the Central Trust Company, which is joined as a defendant.

The first two cases are expropriation suits in connection with the right of way for the Nova Scotia Transcontinental Railway and the third is a petition of rights asking damages to the amount of $15,000 with interest from August 28, 1910, for loss in connection with a broken contract for transportation of pulpwood.

COLD WEATHER LATE SHIPPING

Washington, June 9.—The coldest weather ever recorded during June in the middle Atlantic and the New England States, the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region, was reported today to the weather bureau. The Gulf States are the only territory east of the Rockies to escape an unseasonable drop.

"A high barometric pressure of great magnitude" is the official reason. Frosts are reported from Vermont, Central New York, New England, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Frosts are predicted for tonight in the Great Lakes region, the north Atlantic states and the mountain districts of the middle Atlantic states.

Making a Flat World Round. When Columbus set out to reach India by sailing westward, he met with opposition and ridicule. He believed the earth to be round. Wise men held that it was flat—that Columbus was mad—and that he'd fall off somewhere if he departed from established beliefs. But Columbus' belief found him a continent and made him blessed of memory. The Business World is flat to some men. Their profit-bearing shores of Opportunity stretch only so far as their grandfathers' trod. Custom, superstition and apathy have set them confined which they may not pass. For instance, they believe the business year is a flat one—not an all-year round of trade, with East joining West, with Spring merging into Autumn—but just two distinct seasons, with sawed-off edges gaping into space. They confine their activities to a Spring trade and to a Fall trade. To them there is no intervening continent with stores of waiting wealth. Their world is flat. They have not explored the mid-year months of Summer trade, June, July and August are never-never land. Surely this conception of Summer as a "dull" season is as fallacious as the delusion that the earth was flat. People have just as much money in the hot weather and spend just as freely as in Spring and Fall. Granted that they are not buying skates and snow shovels in August, yet they are buying staple articles. Furthermore, they have an eye on luxuries and comforts they are counting upon purchasing in the Fall. The modern Columbus has discovered this Summer trade—this golden West lying between the known continents of old beliefs. Departing from established habit, many have made their energies and their Advertising an all-year-round proposition. Keeping up Advertising during the Summer months not only links your Spring and Fall, but produces rich harvests from the Summer months themselves.

Strike of 100,000 Men In Shipyards Threatens

Serious Crisis May Be Reached in Old Country

TRADE AND THE TARIFF

Belief in England That Reductions in Duties in States Means Great Opportunity For British Manufacturers—Features of Agricultural Employment Boards Bill

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, May 28.—One hundred thousand men employed in the shipyards on the northeast coast threaten a general strike. Anticipations which preceded the publication of the result of the boiler-makers' ballot to give a month's notice to cease work have been confirmed, but it may be some time before such notices are tendered. Both employers and men are of opinion that a strike will take place, but not before June is well advanced.

The vote was taken on the question of a special advance of 2-1-2 per cent on piecework riveting prices. The claim was originally 4 per cent. As the boiler-makers have not as yet met the employers on the modified claim, and in view of the decision of the former to act with the other shipbuilding trades in pressing for a general advance, they have decided to again see the employers, in the hope that they will give it more favorable consideration than they did to the 4 per cent request.

The other shipyard trades, eleven in number, which, unlike the boiler-makers, are signatories to the national shipyard agreement, have been taking a vote to enforce an advance of 5 per cent for piece work and a shilling a week for time and recognizing the desirability of common action, the boiler-makers are asking their members to empower their executive council to fix a date when they will also take a vote to enforce their demand. The employers are not likely to yield, consequently a crisis, affecting more than 100,000 skilled artisans, may be expected to develop towards the latter part of June.

Trade and the U. S. Tariff

The anticipation of a great increase in British export trade, consequent upon the reduction in the United States' tariff receives weighty confirmation from various authoritative sources. Experts concerned in several of the staple industries of Great Britain, interviewed by their respective press, believe that the impetus would be wide and far-reaching.

The reduction in the American stone-ware tariff is a very small one—America remains protected to a degree. The English tariff reformer suggests for this country—but even the slight reductions made cannot prove a serious blow to British manufacturers and traders who hitherto have found the American tariff system prohibitive.

This American tariff reduction will, if it passes into law, prove a valuable addition to the conclusion of peace in the near east as an incentive to a wide trade boom.

"The alteration in the American tariff," said the editor of the Draper's Record to an Express representative, "ought to provide a magnificent opportunity for British manufacturers of certain articles, the extent of which has not yet been realized thoroughly."

"From statements made by well-informed authorities in the United States it appears to be the fact that American manufacturers of woven goods, hosiery, lace, gloves, and millinery are very anxious about the effect of the new tariff on their interests."

"It is true that in regard to woolen goods any benefits which the tariff may confer on British exporters is to a great extent likely to be neutralized by the fact that the new tariff allows the raw material to enter the United States free of duty."

"This will, of course, assist the American manufacturer, and some authorities say that he will be placed in a position to take the aggressive."

"While it is early yet to arrive at a final conclusion on these points, there can be no doubt that the tariff as proposed provides a great opportunity for our manufacturers."

Unionist Agriculture Bill

The text of the Agricultural Employment Boards Bill is published. The scheme was introduced into the House of Commons by J. W. Hills, Unionist member for Durham. It is "backed" by five other Unionist members, Mr. Astor of Plymouth, Lord Henry Cavendish of Beaulieu, Lord Northampton, Leslie Scott of Liverpool Exchange, Sir Mark Sykes of Central Hall and Captain Wellesley of Horncastle Division of Lincolnshire.

Its proposals bind nobody but those who have come forward as its sponsors. The scheme, however, is interesting as showing the direction in which the Unionist party is willing to go in the hope of securing a solution of the problem of rural labor. The introduction of the bill was welcomed by Lloyd George in a recent speech in which he appealed for a "non-party" settlement of the agricultural question.

The scheme has been framed very much on the lines of the coal mines (minimum wage) act of last year. It is to apply only to certain "districts" each of which is to be a county. These are set out in the first schedule as follows: Bedford, Buckingham, Cambridge, Cornwall, Devon, Dorset, Essex, Hereford, Huntingdon, Norfolk, Northampton, Oxford, Somerset, Suffolk, Wilts. It

T. P. O'CONNOR WRITES OF UNITED IRISH LEAGUE No Gambling Within Sixty Miles of Paris

The British Organization of Which He is President and The League in Ireland—A Gripping Letter on a Visit To Dublin After Years in England

(By T. P. O'CONNOR, M. P.) London, June 6.—The United Irish League of Great Britain is quite a separate organization from that in Ireland, and, though its purpose is the same, its methods are necessarily different. It devotes itself mainly to the organization of the Irish vote in the British constituencies and to active work at election times. It is scarcely necessary to say that its support is entirely guided by the attitude of the rival candidates on the question of home rule. It is hard to say how many constituencies this Irish vote influences, but it may be put at something like twenty; in some constituencies it is the decisive factor unless there be a tidal wave in favor of the one party or the other, when even a powerful minority is swept away.

In Ireland, the league has other demands upon its energies besides the ad- vance of home rule. It has been almost the most powerful lever in winning the great schemes of land reform which have transferred the soil of Ireland from the landlords to the people; it has fought for the laborers in the rural districts and transformed their condition; it is fighting for the tenants in the towns and thus, while its objects are patriotic, its members have gained enormous personal advantages from its beneficent work.

In the British organizations the purpose is purely impersonal and patriotic; its members gain nothing material from the reforms in Ireland. This is its first and its most extraordinary affection with which it is regarded by the Irish people at home. There is another reason, the Irish in Great Britain belong for the most part to the working classes; what is more, to the working classes who do the most work and get the least pay. And yet this organization of day wage earners has subscribed in the last quarter of a century no less a sum than £100,000, and has spent over and above this at least another £100,000 in assisting Ireland to regain her liberties.

It is a Great Force Active, unselfish, enthusiastic, it is a great force, and it is made the greater by its iron discipline. At every election its members own patiently the advice of the leaders of the movement, who are all members of the parliamentary party, and the moment their advice is given, it is followed in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred by every single member of the organization. Only once or twice in the course of the great fight for home rule during the last quarter of a century have any of its members broken away. Even then it was an infinitesimal minority.

The League of Great Britain has an annual convention at which it discusses its rules and its policy, and this convention is held in a different town each year. In recent years there has been a tendency to hold the meetings in some Irish town and the convention has met in Belfast, in Cork and finally this year in Dublin. The selection of Dublin for this year was suggested by the desire to see the Old Parliament House in College Green where the Irish Parliament used to meet and where unoubtedly it will meet again, and the feeling that as this might be the last convention for with the accomplishment of home rule, the mission of the organization is finished, its disappearance could best take place amid the surroundings of Ireland's capital city.

"Lay Pay" 30 Years President. In the year 1888 the organization was not in a very sound condition and Mr. Farrell asked me to become its president and I was elected to that office at the convention held in Leeds. I took office as did all my predecessors, for a year, little knowing that I would hold the same office thirty years afterwards and during that period, so that now its president I have assumed the duties willingly and proudly for I belong emphatically to that branch of the Irish race which lives in Great Britain and share and embody their views and experiences.

The organization has grown in strength and in discipline and above all in the keenness of its political intelligence during that period, so that now its proceedings at its annual conventions can compare favorably for good order and good sense with any deliberative body in the three kingdoms. Even its external appearance has undergone immense improvement, as in the Irish convention, there is a marked superiority in the clothes and the demeanor of the members; this is one of the many abounding signs of the progress the whole Irish race has made owing to the victories of the last thirty years; the days of extreme poverty and of external signs of extreme poverty have fortunately passed away.

The choice of Dublin this year was very fortunate. For many generations Dublin was more tightly in the hands of the Irish ascendancy party than it is now. No Catholic could be lord mayor, the property, the offices and the taxation of the city were all parts of the rich endowment given to the ascendancy party, and every attempt of Ireland to better herself found in the corporation its bitter and powerful enemy.

There were six seats in Dublin and its vicinity, two for the city, two for the county, two for Trinity College and the Dublin six as they came to be known, were for centuries all Tories, except when now and then in the last struggle for the preservation of the old Irish party, the members of the ascendancy party still retained its Tory members, but the four members which Dublin City is now entitled to are all Nationalists and, the county is also represented by two Nationalists. In addition, the lord mayor for many years has been a Nationalist and the Mansion House, which used to be the fortress of Orangism is now the chateau of the national party.

The Old and the New Every where you are reminded of the contrast between the old times and the present conditions. For instance, the walls have here and there fine portraits of Daniel O'Connell and Parnell.

The two statues are separated by the whole length of the street, and they are as different in character as were the men they represent.

When you turn, however, from the great spacious streets, with their public buildings, into the back streets, very different things meet your eye. At once you are transported into a region of squalor, of the abyss in which the poor, the casually employed, the hopeless have their abiding place in this rich world. Many of the children still go about in their bare feet, the women wear frayed shawls and their heads are uncovered, and the shops are small and frowzy, too. There are immense blocks of such streets, and in no city of the world are there so many of them.

It is no wonder that, as they gazed around on this magnificent hall and recalled its very different past and the cause of its creation, these Nationalists should feel that already Ireland had gone a long way towards the consummation of all her aspirations and was now beholding the end of her centuries of suffering and of struggle.

The proceedings, I need scarcely say, were enthusiastic from the first moment, and there was a special feeling of affectionate gratitude to Mr. Sherlock, the present lord mayor, for his hospitality and for the grace and eloquence of all his utterances.

Thoughts on Re-visiting Dublin I pass thus briefly from this organization and its proceedings to a description of the feelings which Dublin creates in the minds of those who return to it after long years of absence. These feelings are somewhat mixed. The first and perhaps the most enduring impression is the beauty and the seductive charm of the city and of its people. Few cities in the world have more beautiful streets and buildings in the central parts. Sackville street, as it used to be called, has been re-christened the Nationalists' street, and it is dotted all over with statues, some good, some bad, and chief among the good ones are the statues of Daniel O'Connell and Parnell.

two men. O'Connell's statue is gigantic; in his flowing robes, in his massive form, in his essentially Irish face, round, almost chubby, with features strong and irregular, there stands the typical Celt, and all around the base of the statue are the crowds who gathered to hear him and whose limbs he freed from shackles. Thus he was throughout his life and by the quality of his personality, a genial, companionable, eloquent, shrewd Irishman in the midst of the crowds whom he could move to laughter and to tears as no man ever did before, and whom he could gather in such multitudes as never before were brought together by one man's thunderous and inspiring voice.

The Paradi Monument The statue of Parnell is equally characteristic of the man as he was in the flesh. He is tall, thin, with the thin oval face, the delicate nose, the beautifully curved mouth, the eyes so vividly febrilely active and yet from the start with the seeds of early exhaustion and premature death. And, unlike O'Connell, he is there alone in death as in life. And this almost oppressive sense of loneliness is magnified by the strange and daring device of the Franco-American Irish genius, St. Gaudens, by whom the statue was made. For towering above the back of Parnell, is an irregular piece of rock which towers above his head and forms the complete background; it is weird, impressive, accentuating the loneliness of the man by its suggestion of a bleak giant mountain on the side of a Matterhorn or of a fierce cliff that looks down and defies the fiercer sea.

The Poor Districts When you turn, however, from the great spacious streets, with their public buildings, into the back streets, very different things meet your eye. SMOKING ON INCREASE

Senator Berenger Has a Great Scheme of Relief For the Out-of-Works and Destitute—Society of Writers of Plays Which Controls the Drama

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Paris, May 27.—The future of Eng- lish Casino, where Parisians and visitors to Paris may gamble after a ten minutes' railway journey as though they were in a real watering-place, is threatened by the French parliament. After a stormy discussion the budget committee has decided that no casino shall be allowed within sixty miles of Paris.

Until the year 1904 gambling was illegal in France. But a certain toleration was extended to several casinos and clubs. In 1907 a law was passed which allowed gambling and the establishment of casinos in the country and in a short time 187 casinos or gambling saloons were authorized. Last year 128 new establishments were opened.

There had been a similar average in the years that preceded. The amount of revenue collected by the state was 14,000,000 francs in 1907, 28,000,000 in 1910 and 1911, and last year the revenue was about 28,000,000 francs.

But while casinos were authorized, a limit still remains on the kind of game allowed. So far roulette and quare and the roulette have not yet been permitted, and Monte Carlo still has a monopoly of these games. The only ones allowed by President Fallieres were bac- carat or petits chevaux, bridge, baccarat and piquet. The funds collected, however, do not swell the general budget of the state, as the entire revenue is to be devoted to public works, such as drains, waterworks, etc.

When M. Berenger, before the budget committee, proposed the withholding of concessions from any gambling casino within a radius of sixty miles of Paris, his subject in view was the sup- pression of the casino of English; but it coming to the knowledge of some of the members that the management of the casino in question proposed set- ting up an establishment at Pierrefonds, in the department of Oise, just outside the thirty miles limit, the budget com- mittee made the radius sixty miles.

The committee further passed a reso- lution that all existing concessions which would be abrogated on December 31, would be renewed by the government, which was an amendment brought forward by M. Augagneur. It is said that the government will accept and support these decisions of the budget com- mittee as a part of its project.

The result will be the abolition of the Eng- lish Casino without further discussion in the chamber relative to the particu- lar of deputies in its management and profits.

The Administration of Indirect Con- tributions has just published the fig- ures of the sale of tobacco during last year, showing a total of $101,751,690, or an increase of rather more than $5,000,000 over the figures for the preceding year. It seems that in spite of the attempts of the regime to disgust its customers by selling more and more de- testable cigars, unsmokable cigars and packets of tobacco containing every imaginable object, even to dead mice, nothing can daunt the consumers.

The department of the Seine alone has moved their furniture to such an extent that the monthly consumption of cigars was from 120,000 lb., most of which came from the Lasy factory, and a few from Nantes and Mans.

Another feature of the report is the increase in pipe smoking, which is especially noticeable in the north of France. The south prefers cigars, and pipe smokers are universal and ever-increasing favorites. This must remain a mystery to those who have ever smoked any cigars other than the malodorous brand sold in France under that name.

Scheme of Reform Senator Berenger, a French reformer, whose name is almost a by-word in connection with schemes for the im- provement of public decency, virtue, and good morals, is now about to associate his name with a vast scheme for the relief of the out-of-works and destitute, especially those who are burdened with large families. The senator's proposal amounts to creating large barracks for the poor. M. Berenger's attention has been drawn to the subject by the dis- tress of the Federation des Locataires or Tenants' League, and their extreme- ly enterprising leader, M. Cochon, who recently amused Paris by escorting evicted workmen with large families through the streets and lodging them at haphazard in the ministries and other public buildings.

M. Cochon one day found building sheds in the gardens of the Tuileries for his poor proteges. Another time he moved their furniture on handcarts in- to the court of the ministry of the in- terior. Next he tried to lodge them at the Elysee, at the ministry of war, and at the Palais Bourbon. M. Berenger declares that whatever there may be in the grotesque in such enterprises, yet the fundamental idea is no doubt good and praiseworthy, and M. Cochon's centre doings have at least had one good effect, that of drawing public at- tention to the matter.

There are hundreds of destitute peo- ple, and often very respectable work- men, with large families, evicted from their lodgings on quarter day. It is a beautiful creature who attracts only to conquer.

RECEIVED DEGREE. Alexander C. Gorham, of North End, was one of the students to be awarded the degree of B. S. A. at Macdonald College, Ste Anne de Beaupre, P. Q., last week. He is the son of George Gorham, harbor master at Indiantown. John K. King, of Smith's Creek, N. B., and W. E. Raymond, of Woodstock, also received the same degree.

THEFT CHARGE AGAINST BOY. In the police court this morning a lad aged twelve years faced Magistrate Ritchie, charged with having entered the barn of Maurice Jacobson in Acadia street and stolen some boots and shoes. As the lad's father was not in court and as he is a minor, he was not asked to plead but was sent below, until his father appeared for him. The case will likely come up tomorrow.

TAG DAY FOR ST. PHILIP'S. Rev. W. B. Pearson of St. Philip's (Methodist Episcopal) church is planning a tag-day campaign to raise funds to build a hall beside or in rear of the church, in order that it may not be necessary to use the church auditorium for concerts and entertainments in future. The pastor has done much work for his congregation and has had the church and parsonage repaired and painted, and he has decided upon further improvements after he and his church members have fixed a date for tag day. A meeting is to be held this evening to perfect the plans, and the pastor will then make an appeal for generous public support.

DEATH OF MRS. HENDERSON. In the death of Mrs. Priscilla Jane Henderson, wife of George E. Henderson of Centerton, Kings county lost one of its ablest residents. Her death occurred yesterday afternoon at three o'clock in her seventy-third year. Mrs. Henderson has been ailing for the last two years but not until about six weeks ago was her condition thought to be serious, and the news of her death came as a great shock to many friends. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. Boxold of Centerton, two sisters, Mrs. John Rogerson and Miss Sarah Todd, both of Long Island, Kings county, and two brothers, Abraham Todd of Boston, and Samuel Todd of this city. Two grandchildren also survive. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence. Interment will be at White Head.

TAKE CARE OF THE TOMBSTONES

The Loyalist Society and the Old Burial Ground—Letter to the Council

A letter from D. R. Jack asking that a time be appointed for hearing a delegation from the Loyalist Society presented to the council on this afternoon. The society wishes to be heard in connection with the care of the old burial ground. Mr. Jack writes that, since 1883, when a copy of the inscriptions was taken, several monuments have disappeared entirely and that others have been broken up and piled in a corner. The destruction of the stones he ascribes to children playing in the burying ground and also to the carelessness of workmen while cutting the grass in summer and plowing the snow in winter.

The society desires to see some one made responsible for the care of these relics of the Loyalist days and suggests that if this authority were given to one of the workmen employed there no extra expense would be incurred.

SEVERAL MATTERS BEFORE PROBATE COURT JUDGE

In the probate court today the matter of the estate of Henry Lord, shipper, was taken up. He died intestate leaving his wife, Mary Grace Lord, and six children all infants. On the petition of the wife she was appointed administratrix. There is no real estate; personalty $725; life insurance $1,000. J. H. A. L. Fairweather is proctor.

The will of Mrs. Mary Ann Akroyd was proved. She gives all her estate to her sister, Maria Morrissey; her brother, William H. Coates; her nephew, Fred Ernest Morrissey and her niece, Lena Bradley, share and share alike, and she nominates her nephew, Fred Ernest Morrissey as executor. He was accordingly sworn in as such. There is no real estate; personalty, $1,500. Baxter & Logan are proctors.

The will of Mrs. Mary A. Reid, widow of David Reid, late of St. John, sail maker, was proved. She gives her piano to her daughter, Florence May, wife of Nelson G. Trueman of Salem, Mass., the rest of her household furniture to her daughter, Edna Gertrude Reid of St. John; the rest of her estate to her two daughters equally and she nominates them as executrices. They were accordingly sworn in as such. Real estate is $5,000; personalty $2,500—total $7,500. Barnhill, Ewing & Sanford are proctors.

In the matter of the estate of Annie Eaton Moore there was return of citation to pass the accounts of the executors. Hearing was adjourned until Monday, July 7. J. Roy Campbell is proctor.

AWAY TODAY TO THE CONFERENCE

Many Methodist Clergymen and Laymen to P. E. I.—The Matter of Union

The opening of the N. B. and P. E. Island conference in Charlottetown tomorrow, is attracting many members of that denomination from these two provinces to attend the sessions. Many clergymen and lay delegates left at noon today to attend from this city, and several others passed through on their way thither. Matters of importance to this district will be considered at the meeting, amongst other items under consideration being the stationing of clergymen. It is expected that changes affecting about thirty or thirty-five will be tabled at the conference.

Rev. Neil McLaughlan, formerly of Portland Methodist church, but now of Fredericton, passing through the city this morning on his way to the conference said that the matter of church union would not engage the attention of the congress this year. "That's up to the Presbyterians now," said he. "The question of the Methodists joining with them has long been an interesting topic of discussion but to my mind it is increasing in favor steadily, and I look for the union to come within, well, say four years at the outside. There seems to be a strong feeling amongst the Presbyterians in favor of the union and it seems to me that it is certain to come."

Besides Mr. McLaughlan there passed through the city, Revs. D. R. Chown, secretary of the conference, of Nash, N. B.; Rev. Thomas Hicks, of Marysville; Rev. Charles Flemington of Gibleau; Rev. George Arves of Florenceville; Rev. Mr. Whiteside of Andover, and Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick of Perth. Practically all of the local Methodist clergy will attend the conference, most of them going today. Rev. T. J. Deinhardt will remain at home.

TWO OR THREE MORE NEW ONES FOR BANGOR

Perley, of Last Year's Woodstocks, and Possibly Girard in the Line-up Today

After the Bangor team dispelling the fogs on Saturday afternoon, a large crowd was expected for this afternoon's contest when they again met the Marston team. Manager Magoun has further strengthened his line-up by the addition of two high class players who took their seats with them this afternoon. The two new ones are T. C. Perley, who was with the Woodstock club last year and is expected to be a good game. He will open in the left garden this afternoon, Dolan going to rightfield, replacing Priestly. The other man is H. A. Girard, a pitcher who was let go by Fredericton on Saturday and whom Manager Magoun has picked up from the Hampshire State College team, and the Bangors will add him to their roster on their return home tomorrow.

The Marston team will appear in the same order as in Saturday's game with either Shankey or Terbell on the firing line.

Manager Magoun has received a telegram from a first baseman named Swasey, with whom he has been in communication, saying that he would report to him in Bangor yesterday. He is reported to be a good man on the initial bag having played previously with the Hampshire State College team, and the Bangors will add him to their roster on their return home tomorrow.

MR. AND MRS. DOWNIE HOME FROM WEST, TO SAIL FOR THE OLD COUNTRY ON JULY 4

William Downie, general superintendent of the P. E. I. who returned from the west on Saturday will leave again the first of next month and will sail from Montreal on July 4 for England, accompanied by Mrs. Downie. They will spend the summer in England, Scotland and Ireland and the winter on the continent, returning to St. John in May, 1914.

On the trip after which he has just returned, Mr. Downie officiated at the twenty-fifth anniversary of Cascade Masonic Lodge in Vancouver, which he helped to organize. He found the west prosperous, although not any more so than the east. He was impressed with the air of activity throughout the western provinces, but said that, although they do things with more of a flourish of trumpets, he did not know that they accomplished more than the eastern people.

CAREY CHILD TO GET A HOME; WILBUR BOY WITH FATHER

Little Ida May Carey is to be placed in an adopted home. S. M. Wetmore, secretary of the S. P. C., returned to the city today from McAdam where he had gone to interview the father of the little one. The father was before the magistrate today and signed a statement agreeing to give the child over to the care of the society and the latter will place her in a good home. The little Wilbur child, who has been in the Evangeline Home, was called yesterday by the father. He denied that he had thought for a moment of deserting the boy, saying that he had left him in care of the stewards with the intention of his being sent to Boston to meet his mother and he was greatly surprised to learn that the little fellow had been stopped from entering on the journey. He expressed his hearty thanks to the matron and staff of the Evangeline Home for their kindly treatment of the lad.
