EDMONTON REJECTS GIFT OF $60,000

COMMERCIAL TRAINING Albertans Own More Autos Per Head Than Any Other Province

Edmonton, Alta. Aug. 15.—Sixty thousand dollars is not sufficient inducement to the members of the board to carry the name of Andrew Carnegie over the entrance of a library that would meet the requirements of the city of Edmonton.

Commercial education is to receive full attention in the public schools of Edmonton, beginning next month, and in carrying out its programme the school board will engage an expert, who is to receive an initial salary of $1,700 a year.

Statistics compiled from government reports show that in comparison with other provinces in the Dominion of Canada, there are 124 cars for every 1,000 people, estimating the population at 574,063.

Saskatchewan is fourth. It has 2,837 cars for each 100 persons of its population of 492,432. Ontario has the largest number of cars, reporting 7,238 for every 1,000 of a population of 2,925,208.

Edmonton will not become a city of architectural monstrosities, commonly called skyscrapers, unless the clause in the building by-law, adopted at the last meeting of the council, is repealed.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY

Sir George Armstrong Who Terminated the Dictatorship of Lord Fisher—The Youngest M. P., Sir Philip Sasson, Head of Illustrious Family

Sir George Armstrong, who is a passenger on board the "Adriatic" will be recalled by many as that retired Lieutenant of the Royal Navy, and subsequent newspaper owner and editor, who played so important a part in terminating the former dictatorship of Lord Fisher at the Admiralty, by publishing letters which the admiral had been exchanging with subordinate officers of the fleet commanded by Lord Charles Bessborough, criticising and ridiculing the latter. These letters, which Fisher had invited and obtained from the officers in question, probably from Captain Reginald Bacon, R. N., Fisher caused to be printed for office use, and for private circulation among those officers who had taken part with him against Bessborough. One of these pamphlets fell into the hands of Sir George Armstrong, who published it, showing that Fisher had not only encouraged disloyalty, insubordination and delation among the personnel of Bessborough's fleet, but had communicated directly with the latter's captain, instead of being obliged to go through the admiral, as strictly required by the naval regulations.

The exposure created an immense sensation, exciting the keenest interest in naval circles all over the world, and led to the retirement of Fisher from the post of Lordship of the Admiralty, to the retirement of Captain Reginald Bacon, who reached his rank within a few days of being shelved, and also that of Lord Charles Bessborough, who received by way of consolation the Grand Cross of the Bath from the king. Sir George Armstrong's action in publishing the pamphlet was universally commended, as putting an end to an era of back-biting, treachery to superior officers, and lack of loyal comradeship that had sprung up among the commissioned men of the navy under the administration of Lord Fisher at Whitehall.

It must be a source of regret to Sir George Armstrong that Winston Churchill, now at the head of the Admiralty, has called Lord Fisher out of his retirement to become chairman of a naval committee on fuel, his most influential adviser.

Sir George, who is the son and grandson of distinguished soldiers, is still the owner and editor of "The People," but has sold "The Globe," one of the principal London evening papers, to the ownership and editorship of which he succeeded on the death of his father. Under his direction both these papers have always been very friendly to the United States, and his father, the first baronet, a Crimean warrior, invaded one of the services for several months during the Indian Mutiny, did not like America or Americans, and looked very differently at expressing his feelings.

One of the most amusing instances of this was offered by a strongly-worded editorial in the Globe against American chorists who were denounced for "the familiarity with which they treat the audience in the stalls (orchestra seats) and boxes." The article went on to declare that "it was amusing when the first American Calypso singer addressed remarks to the audience and pardonable when she even smiled at some particular member of the audience to divert and become objectionable when a crowded chorus devotes itself to winking and smugging at the audience." The article concludes with the following exordium: "No one can doubt that this modern free and easy spirit, with its increasing familiarity and even impudence, tends to drag musical comedy into the mire. The descent from the Savoy operas to the American importation in which the chorus girls ogles the audience has been swift and painful."

The fear thus expressed by the old baronet, lest the impudence of American chorists should by its influence impair the maidenly reserve and strict propriety of the London ladies of like profession at the Gaiety, who have already entangled some two dozen British peers in the matrimonial net, is exceedingly funny, and Sir George's ponderous editorial on so frivolous a subject was suggestive of the shooting of a butterfly with a blunderbuss.
Sir Philip Sasson, who is arriving on board the Mauretania, enjoys the distinction of being the youngest member of the House of Commons, to which he was elected last spring, for Hythe. He has also quite recently come into a very large fortune in the neighborhood of fifteen or twenty million dollars, through the death of his father, the late Sir Edward Sasson, and from his mother, the late Lady Sasson, who was a daughter and heiress of Baron Gustave Rothschild of Paris, third Baronet of his family, he has also taken over his father's controlling interest in the British telegraph system in Asia and Northern Africa. The services which the late Sir Edward would have been raised to the House of Lords had it not been for his untimely death. As it is, the heritage intended for him is likely to be bestowed upon his son, Sir Philip, as soon as the Unionist party returns to power.
It is not only that the control of this telegraph system in Asia and Africa by the Sassons ensures the safety, from any interruption, of communications through the cutting of the wires by the natives, but that the Sassons for the past 250 years, and from long before they migrated from Baghdad to Bombay, have been the principal bankers of the Orient. It is their money that has financed almost all the native trade of Asia and Northern and Central Africa, and though nothing but personal security is ever asked by them from the native borrowers, and collateral is never demanded, yet their losses are low and far between, the traders, the tribesmen, and the various chieftains and rulers knowing that "to fail the Sassons" would be to lose all possibility of trading again. The consequence is that in spite of the almost continuous strife raging about its former headquarters at Baghdad, and around so many of its branch establishments in Asia and Africa, so attempt has never been made to confiscate the wealth of the house, or to loot its treasure.
The Sassons are in the dangerous pass of Afghanistan, in the provinces of China, where white men are most abhorred, in the most fanatic Khanates of Central Asia, in the wide of Arabia, and among the savage desert tribes which inhabit Sahara and Sudan, a passport or safe conduct bearing the signature and seal of the Sassons constitutes an infinitely better protection than any document bearing the stamp of the Czar of Russia, or of King George, Emperor of India, or of the Emperor of the United States.
The Sassons are descended from a Jewish sect known as the Ibn-Shohatan, who in older days, and before the expulsion of the Jews from Spain, held the position of Nossai or chiefs of the Jewish community of Toledo. The name of Shohatan, which signifies "Lily" in Hebrew, was corrupted into Sasson, which means "gladness." The name is also descended from King David, and Abraham Sasson, who flourished at Baghdad in the seventeenth century, is a direct descendant of the prophet, and compiled a genealogy showing that he was a direct descendant of Shephal, the fifth son of Jacob, and that he was descended from the name of the family in ancient Hebrew literature. The Sassons are also descended from the Oppenheims, the Cahen d'Anvers, and several other famous bankers, the Sassons have always remained true to the faith of their fathers, and even when Edward VII. and King George were guests of the late Arthur Sasson at Tulchan Lodge in Scotland, the host and hostess faithfully observed the Day of Atonement in silence and fasting, and out of respect for their feelings their royal guests did not shoot on that day.

What to Wear Mornings
by RUTH CAMERON

SOME ladies think they may under the privileges of the deshabille be loose and negligent of their dress in the morning. But by you, from the moment you rise till the moment you go to bed, be cleanly and properly dressed as at the hour of dinner or tea. A lady who has been seen as a sloven in the morning will never efface the impression she has made with all the dress and pageantry she can afterwards involve herself in.
Jefferson in a letter to his daughter.
A young girl was sorting out her clothes for the week's washing. She held up a moment, and then put it back in the wardrobe. "That's too soiled to wear afterwards any more," she declared, "but I guess I can wear it with my morning dresses another week."
Don't you think that's rather a queer point of view?
When the morning is the freshest, sweetest time in all the day, why should anything too soiled to be worn at the end of the day be considered suitable to wear then? I guess you'll admit that it is a very common habit among women to exact a few days of wear in the kitchen from the afternoon toggery which is too soiled to appear again in the living room before it has been washed.
And just as "tacky" as this habit of wearing half soiled things in the morning is that of finishing up half worn garments in the evening. One of the nicest girls I ever knew had this queer trick. She was a wholesome looking girl who would have been a perfect picture going about her housework in a fresh, airy gown of one's housework. One of the nicest girls I ever knew had this queer trick. She was a wholesome looking girl who would have been a perfect picture going about her housework in a fresh, airy gown of one's housework. One of the nicest girls I ever knew had this queer trick. She was a wholesome looking girl who would have been a perfect picture going about her housework in a fresh, airy gown of one's housework.
It seems to me that no matter how wealthy one might be, she could not buy anything more beautiful for the morning than a fresh and simple cotton dress. A young girl I once attended one of the wealthier guests used to appear at breakfast in a rich negligee of pale blue silk and lace. It probably cost ten times as much as the little pink gingham dress of her next neighbor, but to my mind it was not half so beautiful because not half so appropriate to the genius of the morning.
To dress simply and suitably in the morning ought to be just as much a part of every nice girl's sartorial ambition as to dress richly and fashionably in the afternoon and evening.
And Thomas Jefferson's advice is quite as good today as the day he gave it.

Daily Hints For the Cook

TUTTI FRUTTI FROSTING.
To boiled icing add an ounce each of candied cherries, candied pineapple, almonds chopped and blanched, citron chopped, and seedless currants. — Ruth.

APPLE PUFF PUDDING.
Peel, core and fill with sugar, 3 large or 8 small apples. Bake slowly and cool in serving dish. Beat whites of 2 eggs, a pinch of cream of tartar, and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar; beat one or two spoonfuls on each apple and brown in the oven. Serve with custard made of the egg yolks. Half this recipe is enough for a small family.

SCALLOP AND TOMATO SCALLOP.
Slice and peel an eggplant, cover with strong salted water and let stand half an hour. Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of the eggplant, cover with peeled and sliced tomatoes, sprinkle generously with soft American cheese, cut into small pieces, dot with bits of butter and season with pepper, salt and cayenne. Continue in this manner until the dish is nearly full, sprinkle with crumbs moistened with melted butter and bake until tender.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or ringing in the ears. If not treated promptly, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be got out and the ear restored to its normal condition, hearing will be lost forever. It is easy to cure, but only if you use Dr. J. C. Cherry's Ear, Nose and Throat Remedy. Sold by Druggists. Write for free literature. J. C. CHERRY & CO., Toledo, O. GRAMMAR

There was a young lady from Kent,
Whose grammar was terribly bent;
She said to her friend:
"I'm glad you have come,
But I'll miss you so much when you've went."
—Pittsburg Post

He coaxed her one morning to fly;
They fell from half way to the sky.
When asked to explain,
She replied with much pain:
"It almost killed me and I."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

He said to her, just as a joke:
"Your grammar ain't half so broke."
A tear dimmed her eye.
As she said, with a sigh;
"I'll remember them—words you have spoke."
He replied, in a sarcastic tone:
"Just study your grammar alone."
She grew mad as she spoke.
While she tossed up her head:
"I guess that you ain't half-grown."
—Toronto Globe.

Last Night's Fire
Fire last night badly gutted a building at Starr's wharf, owned by James Dunlop and occupied by John Seely, C. H. Ramsey and Samuel Dunlop. The fire was discovered at 10:30 o'clock, and before it was extinguished considerable damage had been done. The carpet cleaning plant of Mr. Ramsey was destroyed, and some valuable carpets belonging to the Union Club and others were destroyed. He carried no insurance, except on his machines. Mr. Dunlop's mill rigging loft was also badly gutted. Seely's warehouse contained only salt and fish, and was not so badly damaged as the other parts of the building. The building was uninsured.

The above illustrations show (1) a large hat of rice straw, trimmed with butterflies made of lace, and rose velvet piping at the edge of the brim; (2), a toque in rose colored tulle, the brim with an edging of string of colored Valenciennes lace; the large bow of taffetas in a deeper shade of pink is veiled with tulle and stands up on the crown with excellent effect; (3) a leghorn hat lined with malines lace, a powder blue velvet ribbon is laid out all round the brim, and there is a shower of roses on the crown; (4) a shady hat made of broderies Anglaise, with a gathered crown of black taffetas, two large Anglaise, with a gathered crown of black taffetas, two large red roses are laid on either side of the brim.

SOME GLACIERS GROWING WHILE OTHERS SHRINK

Science Cannot Account For Former, But Business Reasons Account for Latter

Berne, Aug. 15--For the last two years observations of glaciers in Europe have clearly tended to show how much they were shrinking, especially in the Swiss Alps. In Savoy, however, in particular in the Chamonix Valley, it has recently been observed that they appear to be advancing somewhat. During the last ten years it has been noticed that the glaciers in this region at more than 6,500 ft. altitude above the sea level have, at any rate, remained stationary, while those at 8,000 feet and over, such as the Glacier du Tour, the Glacier d'Argentiere, the Mer de Glace and the Glacier des Bosses, have visibly increased in size.

The Glacier du Tour has increased considerably during the last two years, while the Glacier des Bosses, the terminal face of which is rather less than 4,000 feet above sea level, has advanced about 100 feet in the last year. The Grindelwald glaciers, on the other hand, are retreating and for a very good reason--namely, that workmen are constantly hacking away at the terminal face and loading the chunks of ice chopped off into carts to be taken away by train and exported to other countries. Last year it was only the Upper Glacier which was being forced to yield up its treasures of ice; but this summer the Lower Glacier is also being worked by an overzealous company.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT REVIEWS FORCES AT HALIFAX

Halifax, Aug. 15--As field marshal of the British army Sir H. H. the Duke of Connaught on his grand tour of the Atlantic coast reviewed the royal British Veterans, the veterans of the Fenian Raid, the cadets and of the Grand Prior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. He presented certificates to a large number of members of the St. John Ambulance Association, a body coming under the head of the first mentioned.

Despite threatening rain large crowds congregated outside the parade and along the streets, none but those directly interested being allowed within the enclosure. Not the least striking feature were the long lines of soldiers drawn up on either side of the street, the "Thin Red Line" of infantry together with artillery. The members of the royal party arrived at the parade sharp on time, the dukes not being present. The princess and her lady in waiting were the only ladies included. It was noticeable that the duke and the members of his staff wore military uniforms. As their autos rolled up to the parade the royal standard was broken from the flag staff amid cheers.

The Royal British Veterans were the first to receive attention from the field marshal. He passed down the lines, speaking a few words to them as a body. Then the Fenian Veterans, some two hundred strong, were reviewed, then the Cadets and Industrial School Cadets, the former under command of Instructor Johns, the whole body being under command of Major Ouliffe. At the close of the review the Veterans and Cadets joined in three hearty cheers.

It is generally conceded that for all dress occasions — receptions, at-homes, society meetings, etc.—a patent leather is indispensable. The experience of the past few years places patent colt among the materials that in nine-out-of-ten cases gives absolute satisfaction in wearing qualities.

MILLION COLLAR HOTEL PLANNED FOR ST. JOHN

T. L. Morrissey Here in Connection With Project—To Use Big Block Opposite Customs House as Site

The erection of a large hotel that in point of architectural beauty and equipment will compare favorably with the best in Canada, is one of the next important steps to be taken in the forward movement in St. John. T. L. Morrissey, of Montreal, who for some time past has been interesting local and outside investors in this project, arrived in the city yesterday accompanied by James E. Adelman, a prominent architect and engineer of Montreal.

Mr. Morrissey brought with him a copy of the plans for the new building and told a reporter for The Telegraph that the building was to be erected on the property which he purchased in Prince William street, opposite the customs house, and would involve an expenditure of more than $1,000,000.

It is planned to have the preliminary excavation work started for the actual construction work begun next spring with the work rushed from that out to so as to have the hotel ready for occupancy by April 1, 1914.

There has long been a feeling in St. John," said Mr. Morrissey, "that the erection of a modern and in every way up to date hotel was greatly needed." With this remark he produced and explained the plans which he brought to the city and remarked, "you see that is what we propose to give you."

The plans of both the interior and exterior of the structure are on elaborate lines. They provide for a six story building with roof garden having a frontage of 180 feet in Prince William street and a depth of 140 feet on the north side and 163 feet on the south side. In addition to the main entrance there are to be two side entrances and provision is made for three stores on the ground floor. The hotel is to be provided with a large reception room, ball room, grand stair case, a drawing room, elaborately furnished waiting and writing rooms, and three electric elevators. Arrangements are also made to have separate apartments for the use of a grill room with separate kitchen attached, is to be among the many features of the hotel.

While the plans which he has in his possession have not been definitely decided upon, Mr. Morrissey said he expected they would be carried out pretty well to the letter.

MORNING LOCALS

That the opening of the Panama canal, providing the United States keeps her agreement with Great Britain, will greatly benefit Canada is the feeling of Senator King, who is in the city registered at the Royal. On the other hand the senator thinks that if the Americans place any of the talked of restrictions on Great Britain and her colonies, it will prove a black eye for Canada and result in working up some bad feeling.

The committee from the board of trade, which made such a vigorous protest against damming the Tobique River, has been instructed by the board to look into the matter of net fishing for salmon in the St. John river and lodge a protest with the proper authorities so that this practice may be stopped in future.

Friends of Medley K. Parlee, first Rhodes scholar from King's College, Nova Scotia, will be pleased to know he has won his degree from Queen's College, Ontario. Construction of a new building, commenting upon Canada's building operations, points out that the number of permits granted in St. John in July amounted to $276,450, as compared with $260,000 in July last year, or a gain of $16,450, or 59.9 per cent. This is more than a creditable showing and compares favorably with the best showings throughout the Dominion.

Col. J. L. McAvity returned from the P. E. I. after his mid-summer vacation. He says that the weather in Sussex is very hot, but that the marksmen are showing up well. He says that the present meet will be the most successful one ever held by the association. He will return to Sussex tonight.

In spite of the threatening weather the annual picnic of St. Peter's and Holy Trinity churches was held at Foxburg yesterday and was very largely attended. Over four thousand people attended and the games and other amusements were well patronized. The City Cornet Band was in attendance.

The Tropic Boys annual fair was held at the Ferns yesterday afternoon. The state of the weather prevented as large a crowd as possible but otherwise the day was successful. The Sons of England band was in attendance. The gate price of $5 was won by ticket No. 1092. The winner can get the prize by calling on H. Sellen at the D. A. R. office.

The steamer Victoria and the tug G. K. King were in collision in the river yesterday during their trip. The tug was damaged and the Victoria was damaged. The Victoria proceeded to Fredericton.

The members of the Sussex Institute are to hold an excursion on Tuesday next. They will come to St. John and from here take the steamer May Queen for Westfield Beach where sports will be held. The return to the city will be made in the evening.

A prominent flour dealer said yesterday that the price of flour is likely to diminish within a very short time. Although, he said, the crop in the west is going to be a bumper one, the large supply will not necessitate a falling in price. This is largely in the hands of the millers and, to some extent, the stock market. Last week a decrease of twenty-five cents was made, and in the next week or two there may be another decrease.

ALL WANT NATURAL GAS
Moncton Transcript—About a week ago The Transcript published the number of services put in for the supply of natural gas in the city, but since then the Moncton Tramways, Electricity & Gas Co. has been virtually "shooting them" in. The company is swept off its feet by the rush. All the good people who were going to wait until next winter and see how their neighbors got along this winter, have changed their minds about it. They are satisfied now, when their neighbors are cooking dinner for two cents, breakfast for one cent and tea for one-half a cent, that that settles it. They are all finding that the regular gas stove is better than fixing up old ranges. The number of services put in when last reported was 250. It has now reached 300, of which about 250 are present consumers and the others are getting ready.

Edward Dumont, a man about fifty-five years of age who had just returned from the west, was found on Monday night, hanging in a barn belonging to his brother-in-law at Grand Lake a few miles below Edmundston.

In India, When the Groom's First Choice Failed, He Accepted a Volunteer.

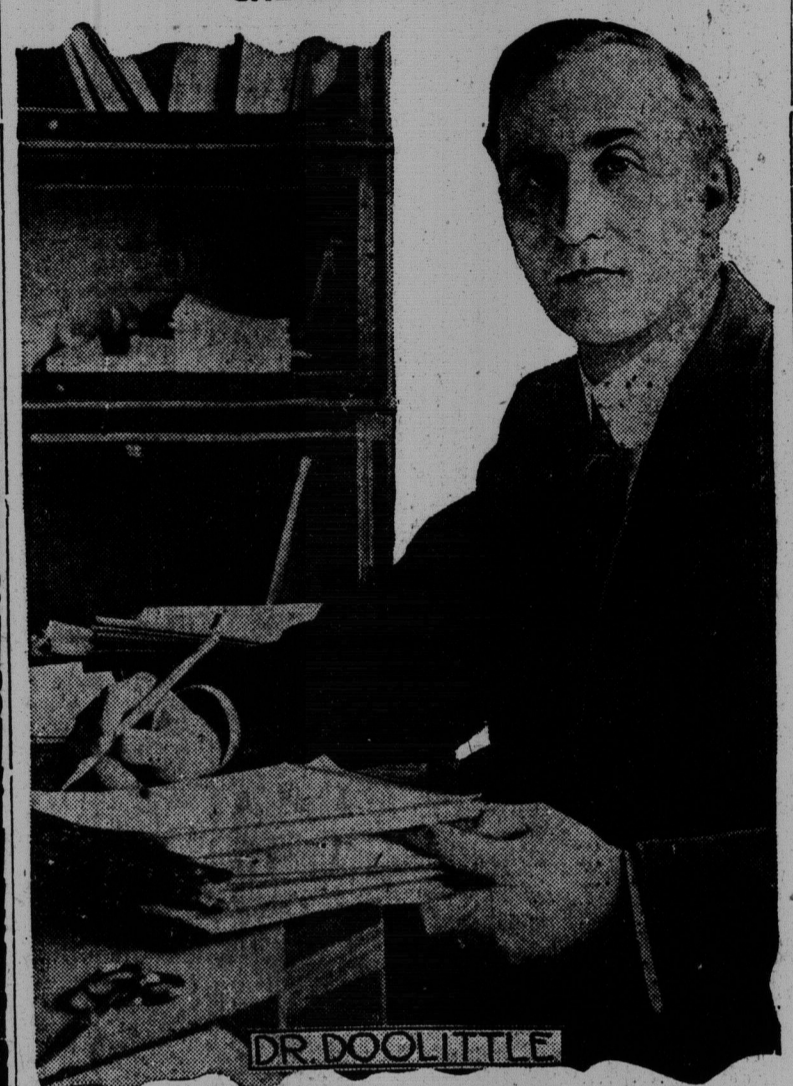

The Youth's Companion recounts a story of a wedding described in Dr. Winifred Weston's "A Bismarckian in India." "Yesterday I went to a native Christian wedding. Many guests had assembled and the ceremony had progressed to the point where Mr. Grey asked the bride: "Do you take this man to love, cherish and obey?"

WHAT DR. CHURCH Of Ottawa, Says:

"I am convinced after close investigation that the Neal Three Day Drink Cure is a scientific treatment and highly efficacious, and I frankly admit the results greatly surprised me; and I cheerfully testify that I sent a patient suffering from the worst form of alcoholism to the Neal Institute, at the same time having no faith that he could be cured and feeling that it would meet a great need in helping to check the ravages of drink."

(Signed) H. C. CHURCH, M. D. Three Doctors in Ottawa after investigating and watching cured patients during the past year have invested their money in this great work to further the good work we are doing.

GIRAFFE A CURIOUS BRUTE

Though Exceedingly Frightened by Slight Rustle, He is Quite Indifferent to Loud Noises. Among the curious characteristics of the giraffe is its strange indifference to loud noises, as contrasted with its peculiar "sensitivity" with reference to slight sounds. Noisy sounds, like that of a man walking near in a boat, or the rattling of a cart, do not seem to disturb the giraffe.

Chinese Traits

The Chinese are orderly, law-abiding and well-behaved; they have a strong sense of right and justice—are fair minded; they are reliable in commercial dealings—pay their debts and keep their agreements, whether verbal or written; they are dutiful to parents, fond of children and mindful of etiquette and punctilious about returning courtesies or favors; they are respectful to elders and superiors; they honor and respect character and intellectual ability, and do not recognize an aristocracy of wealth.

Despised Thistle a Forage

It was by accident the western Kansas farmers found that Russian thistles make a good forage crop for cattle. The farmers for years had battled against the Russian thistle pest, and the state legislature appropriated money to combat it. One day after a heavy windstorm a farmer found all his cattle eating Russian thistles that had banked up against a barbed wire fence. The news spread rapidly over the western part of the state and as a result Russian thistles are now harvested with as much care as alfalfa.
