The Old Boys Depart.

Though the Saturday afternoon sports portion of the proposed entertainment of the Old Boys sputtered outas anyone of foresight could have predicted-in every other respect the utmost cordiality was manifested. The city was beautifully and profusely decorated. Carriage drives and private entertainments were in evidence everywhere; ten thousand people turned out in Victoria Park to welcome the Old Boys, and not fewer than fifteen thousand on Sunday afternoon.

The bulk of the visitors did not come for the purpose of merely running a few foot races. They came to see old friends, and to see how the old hometown looked after the lapse of the many years since they had been kindly and impartially "licked" at the "Central School" by good old Nieholas Wilson. They came, they saw, they conquered. As to the abortive Springbank bit of the programme, the signal failure in that case does not derogate in the slightest degree from the general warmth and cordiality of the reception as a whole. Nobody was deceived-not even the visitors-as to what was meant by choosing a controverted place like Springbank, instead of some neutral place like Queen's Park, the Asylum Grounds, or Tecumseh Park. The challenge being thrown down, the public picked it up, with the result seen on Saturday. It was simply another object lesson to prove that there is no known method in a free country by which a small minority can impose its will on the large majority of unbought British subjects. Had the Street Railway Company been in accord with public opinion, they would have carried ten thousand people to and from Springbank on Saturday. The Advertiser was waited on this morning by several of the most representative of the visiting Old Boys' Associations, who desired us to state that while they regretted the Springbank misunderstanding, they were more than delighted with the general spirit of cordiality and welcome that greeted them everywhere.

Good-bye, Old Boys! When you come again, we hope to have an additional splendid meeting-place for you, in the shape of a magnificent new Armory Building, and before your next visit, also, the Street Railway Company may have become restored to their right mind-in which case you will be conveyed in comfort of mind and body down to Springbank, amidst the friendly good will of everybody.

There are two ways of looking at things in this world-one, to take the best view: the other, to take the worst. Our local contemporary takes the second course. The Free Press' lugubrious description of the "Old Boys' reception" reminds one of the Lamentations of Jeremiah.

Within the altar two chapels had been prepared, a larger one for the consecrator and a smaller one for the bishop-elect. When the consecrating party arrived within the altar, Mishom-elect prostrated himself at the foot of the altar, the others kneeling. Then the consecrator and the bishon-elect were arrayed in magnificent vest-

on the faldstool and the bishop-elect was led between the two assistant bishops, vested and mitred, and coming before the consecrator, bowed profoundly, and made reverence to him with uncovered head. The bishopelect and the assistants were then seated, and Rev. Joseph Bayard, administrator of the diocese, read the Papal mandate making the appointment. The bishop-elect, kneeling, took the prescribed oath administered by the consecrator. Following this was a lengthy examination, after which the assistant bishops led the bishop-elect to the consecrator, whose hand he reverently kissed. After this came the confession, and the bishop-elect, having laid aside his cope and put on sandals read the psalms and prayers. He then received the cross, and having been again vested, proceeded with the mass. Later his head was bound with a linen cloth, and was anointed by the consecrator; still later his hands were also anointed. He was then presented with the gold staff of the pastoral office and the episcopal ring, both of which had been blessed, the ring being placed on the right hand. was also presented with the book of the Gospels, and finally he was received by the consecrator and the bishops with the kiss of peace. Then both the consecrator and the consecrated proceeded with the mass in their respective chapels. When the offertory had been said, the new bishop followed by altar boys, bearing two large lighted candles, two loaves of bread and two small silver and gold casks of wine, approached the consecrator and kissed his hands, presenting him with the gifts. Then they both partook of the communion. The new bishop received the benediction, and the mitre was placed on his head. Gloves were put on his hands and the episcopal ring on his finger, and he was en-throned on the episcopal seat. Afterwards, wearing his mitre, and carrying the episcopal staff, he was led be-tween the two assistant bishops down the middle aisle of the church and

back to the altar. THE MORNING SERMON.

Rev. Father Tynan, of Pullman, Ill., delivered an eloquent sermon from the text: "In the goodness and readiness of his soul he appeased God for Israel. Therefore he made to him a covenant of peace, to be the prince of his sanctuary, and of his people, that the grandeur of the Episcopal office, and dignity of the priesthood should be to of the singular elevation to which it him and to his seed forever." (Ecclesiastes, xlv., 29-30.) "To say, my brethren, we have been and ordained to those things witnesses in this splendid ceremony of pertain to God. The speaker then dwelt upon the all those wonderful things which were done by God to Phineas of old. He has made to his servant here a covenant of peace. He has crowned him a prince of his sanctuary. He has made him a ruler of his people. He has completed in him the fullness of the Christian priesthood, which shall be to him and to his spiritual seed forever. These are the wonders that take place in the consecration of a bishop of the Catholic Church. "How impressive the language of the church-her sacred liturgy-through which she speaks her inward thought and feeling, and manifests to the world the richness of the treasures of truth and light and life and strength, with which her Divine Founder has endowed her. Perhaps the pomp and circumstance with which she invests her ceremonial may appear to the scoffer and the captious as empty and meaningless - gilded snares to catch the vulgar and unlettered. But the eye and the mind illumined by the light of faith discovers in every portion of her beautiful ritual, symbols of power, of wisdom and of mystery. When God chose Aaron for the high priesthood in Israel, he installed him with great pomp and ceremony to impress upon the people the dignity of the high priesthood, and the respect and reverence due to him who held it. 'He girded him with a glorious girdle, says the Holy Scripture—a token of the power, the dignity and the strength of the cacerdotal office. 'He clothed him with a robe of glory,' symbolizing the glorlous mantle of grace, and of blessing, with which he would adorn the soul of his minister, and the great holiness of life which should shine in him. He crowned him with majestic attire, that in his high priest should be reflected his own divine majesty. As God, himself, under the old dispensation, rected the introduction of his high priest into his sanctuary, so through his mouthpiece, the church, he orders the ceremony of consecration for the high priest of the elect. The rites which she uses unfold to us the nature and meaning of his holy office, and remind her ministers of the grave obligations which they assume towards her, and the fruits which they must bring forth in the exercise of their sacred calling. She must be reflected in them, for, through her ministers, she gives external evidence of her inward life, and particularly through her bishops, who are the pillars which support her. Cyprian tells us that the church is in the bishop, and the bishop is in the

"In the functions of the episcopate, we see mirrored the life of the church, her oneness, her sanctity, her sources of grace, her universal and apostolic character-those marks which point her out to the world as the bride of Christ, 'a glorious church without spot or wrinkle.' In the insignia with which he is invested, we see the dignity, the duties, and the life of the bishop."

The church, he said, preserved her unity through her prelates, who guarded the sacred deposit of faith, and handed it down from generation to generation intact. They governed and fed their flocks in union with the chief pastor, the vicar of Christ, the center and source of unity. "Through them the odor of her sanctity descends into the world," he said. "Through them she administers her sacraments, sources of grace, to the faithful; offers up holy and adorable sacrifice of the new law to God; infuses into the souls of men the sevenfold gifts of the Holy the anointed of God and Spirit. and teaches the world a doc-sioned of Holy Ghost.

truly universal. They were the successors of the apostles. "When the bishop is made a member of the nierarchy, he is given title to a noble ancestry. That glorious descent he can trace in an unbroken line to the days of St. Peter and of Christ. The doctrine of the blessed apostles is his doctrine; their orders are his orders; their mission is his mission-to teach, to preach, and to spread the kingdom of God, and rule in it." How significant the badges of his holy office! The royal purple, which belonged only to princes, well became him -a prince of Christ. As a messenger of the Gospel, the successor of those disciples whom Christ sent before him as messengers, to announce his coming, his feet were shod with sandals. The ring on his finger was the seal of his espousals with his church. The tunic placed upon his shoulders typified the seamless coat of Christ, a figure of the church and her indestructible unity. The ancient form of the crosier, which he carried, mystical writers interpreted as indicating the duties of the pastoral office—with the sharp prod of reproof and correction he was to urge on the lax and lagging members of the flock, and with the crook of patience and charity, draw back into the fold the sheep, lost and wandering.

As ruler of God's people the bishops

wore a crown differing in form and significance from the crowns of earthly rulers, the double point being the symbol of his two-fold office-legislator and guide. The sign of his Master's triumph, which he wore on his breast, was a reminder ever before him that his Divine Model went to his glorious victory by way of the cross, and that victory awaited him only at the end of a similar journey. From these few reflections, said the speaker, might be formed some idea of the dignity and elevated a poor weak mortal, for "every pontiff is taken from amon bishop's responsibilities to God, whose ambassador he was, and upon his duties to his flock, whose shepherd he "It requires a strong man, was. courageous man to be a bishop," he said. "Meditating on those responsibilities so great, is it any wonder then that men, holy men, in all ages, have fled at the very thought of being called to bear them." He must first be that in himself, which he would afterwards be to others. His diocese, the portion of the flock entrusted to him, became his care and solicitude. He became the pattern of the whole flock the example both for priests and people. The reverend speaker went on to say that if the shepherd had his duties towards his flock, so had the flock towards their bishop. The bishop had a right to expect a return for his labors from the whole flock-loyalty, fidelity and repentful submission on the part of his priests; affection, gratitude, support and filial obedience on the part of the laity. The bishop, ever a high priest, in character and spiritual power, was always the same. But his relations towards the world assumed varied features with the ever varying moods and conduct of the world towards the church. "In the first ages," he said, "the bishop presented his Master to the world as priest and victim by being the first to suffer and die for the faith and lead his flock to follow his example. Farther on they were not only the teachers and spiritual shepherds, but the succor and defense of their flock from the tyranny of secular princes. In these days martyrdom the exception. The previous rulers of the world put in at last a pretense of justice and humanity in dealing with their subjects. Is there then peace for the Church of God and rest for her ministers? Alas, no! Greater dangers lurk in the shadows of the ancient evils and call for redoubled vigilance on the part of the watchmen who man outposts of Israel. Greater the evils and more dangers, because less easily apprehended by ordinary people. and because they conceal their true character under the pharisaical garb of those stock phrases, "modern thought, enlarged liberty, intellectual emancipation." Under this guise so catchy, the prince of evil is luring poor deluded humanity to its fall. With these weapons does he seek the distruction of the kingdom of God. The minds of men are becoming gradually infected with false ideas of God, the human soul, man's destiny, the world about him, the cause and reason of its existence-in a word, with a false solution of the problems of this life and the life to come. Poor, weak man is striving with all his might, but in vain, to foster the idea begotten of his intellectual pride, that he is self-sufficient, that he can do without God.

He would make human effort and material results the meter of his measurement in everything-science, edu-cation, progress, civilization. "Dust thou art and to dust returneth, was not spoken of the soul." has no longer any meaning for him. Religion and its social obligations, he would leave to women and to monks as having no claims on the mind and heart of a man of the world and its affairs. Nations professing to be Christian would banish God and God's representatives from participation in human affairs and take to themselves the regimen of the souls and consciences of men-usurping the power and office which belong only to the anointed of God and the commistrine which is most holy, 'the bread of the Word of Life.' "

Through her bishops, the church was lized nations of the earth gathered in

The Old Boys Depart.

Though the Saturday afternoon sports portion of the proposed entertainment of the Old Boys sputtered outas anyone of foresight could have predicted-in every other respect the utmost cordiality was manifested. The city was beautifully and profusely decorated. Carriage drives and private entertainments were in evidence everywhere; ten thousand people turned out in Victoria Park to welcome the Old Boys, and not fewer than fifteen thousand on Sunday afternoon.

The bulk of the visitors did not come for the purpose of merely running a few foot races. They came to see old friends, and to see how the old hometown looked after the lapse of the many years since they had been kindly and impartially "licked" at the "Central School" by good old Nicholas Wilson. They came, they saw, they conquered. As to the abortive Springbank bit of the programme, the signal failure in that case does not derogate in the slightest degree from the general warmth and cordiality of the reception as a whole. Nobody was deceived-not even the visitors-as to what was meant by choosing a controverted place like Springbank, instead of some neutral place like Queen's Park, the Asylum Grounds, or Tecumseh Park. The challenge being thrown down, the public picked it up, with the result seen on Saturday. It was simply another object lesson to prove that there is no known method in a free country by which a small minority can impose its will on the large majority of unbought British subjects. Had the Street Railway Company been in accord with public opinion, they would have carried ten thousand people to and from Springbank on Sat-

The Advertiser was waited on this morning by several of the most representative of the visiting Old Boys' Associations, who desired us to state that while they regretted the Springbank misunderstanding, they were more than delighted with the general spirit of cordiality and welcome that g ed them everywhere.

Good-bye, Old Boys! When you come again, we hope to have an additional splendid meeting-place for you, in the shape of a magnificent new Armory Building, and before your next visit, also, the Street Railway Company may have become restored to their right mind-in which case you will be conveyed in comfort of mind and body down to Springbank, amidst the friendly good will of everybody.

There are two ways of looking at things in this world-one, to take the best view; the other, to take the worst. Our local contemporary takes the second course. The Free Press' lugubrious description of the "Old Boys' reception" reminds one of the Lamentations of Jeremiah.

Within the altar two chapels had been prepared. a larger one for the consecrator and a smaller one for the bishop-elect. When the consecrating party arrived within the altar. Maham-elect prostrated himself at the foot of the altar, the others kneeling. Then the consecrator and the bishon-elect were arrayed in magnificent vest-

on the faldstool and the bishop-elect was led between the two assistant bishops, vested and mitred, and coming before the consecrator, bowed profoundly, and made reverence to him with uncovered head. The bishopelect and the assistants were then seated, and Rev. Joseph Bayard, administrator of the diocese, read the Papal mandate making the appointment. The bishop-elect, kneeling, took the prescribed oath administered by the consecrator. Following this was a lengthy examination, after which the assistant bishops led the bishop-elect to the consecrator, whose hand he reverently kissed. After this came the confession, and the bishop-elect, having laid aside his cope and put on sandals read the psalms and prayers. He then received the cross, and having been again vested, proceeded with the mass. Later his head was bound with a linen cloth, and was anointed by the consecrator; still later his hands were also anointed. He was then presented with the gold staff of the pastoral office and the episcopal ring, both of which had been blessed, the ring being placed on the right hand. He was also presented with the book of Gospels, and finally he was received by the consecrator and the bishops with the kiss of peace. Then both the consecrator and the consecrated proceeded with the mass in their respective chapels. When the offertory had been said, the new bishop follow-ed by altar boys, bearing two large lighted candles, two loaves of bread and two small silver and gold casks of wine, approached the consecrator and kissed his hands, presenting him with the gifts. Then they both partook of the communion. The new bishop received the benediction, and the mitre was placed on his head. Gloves were put on his hands and the episcopal ring on his finger, and he was enthroned on the episcopal seat. Afterwards, wearing his mitre, and carrying the episcopal staff, he was led between the two assistant bishops down the middle aisle of the church and

back to the altar. THE MORNING SERMON.

Rev. Father Tynan, of Pullman, Ill., delivered an eloquent sermon from the text: "In the goodness and readiness of his soul he appeased God for Israel. Therefore he made to him a covenant of peace, to be the prince of his sanctuary, and of his people, that the dignity of the priesthood should be to him and to his seed forever." (Eccles-

"To say, my brethren, we have been and ordained to those things which iastes, xlv., 29-30.) witnesses in this splendid ceremony of pertain to God. all those wonderful things which were done by God to Phineas of old. He has bishop's responsibilities to God, whose made to his servant here a covenant of peace. He has crowned him a prince of his sanctuary. He has made him a ruler of his people. He has completed in him the fullness of the Christian priesthood, which shall be to him and to his spiritual seed forever. These are the wonders that take place in the consecration of a bishop of the Catholic Church.

"How impressive the language of the church-her sacred liturgy-through which she speaks her inward thought and feeling, and manifests to the world the richness of the treasures of truth and light and life and strength, with which her Divine Founder has endowed her. Perhaps the pomp and circumstance with which she invests her ceremonial may appear to the scoffer and the captious as empty and meaningless — gilded snares to catch the vulgar and unlettered. But the eye and the mind illumined by the light of faith discovers in every portion of her beautiful ritual, symbols of power, of wisdom and of mystery. When God chose Aaron for the high priesthood in Israel, he installed him with great pomp and ceremony to impress upon the people the dignity of the high priesthood, and the respect and reverence due to him who held it. 'He girded him with a glorious girdle,' says the Holy Scripture—a token of the power, the dignity and the strength of the cacerdotal office. 'He clothed him with a robe of glory,' symbolizing the glorlous mantle of grace, and of blessing, with which he would adorn the soul of his minister, and the great holiness of life which should shine in him. 'He crowned him with majestic attire,' that in his high priest should be reflected his own divine majesty. As God, himself, under the old dispensation, rected the introduction of his priest into his sanctuary, so through his mouthpiece, the church, he orders the ceremony of consecration for the high priest of the elect. The rites which she uses unfold to us the nature and meaning of his holy office, and remind her ministers of the grave obligations which they assume towards her, and the fruits which they must bring forth in the exercise of their sacred calling. She must be reflected in them, for, through her ministers, she gives external evidence of her inward life, and particularly through her bishops, who are the pillars which support her. Cyprian tells us that the church is in the bishop, and the bishop is in the church. "In the functions of the episcopate, we see mirrored the life of the church, her oneness, her sanctity, her sources of grace, her universal and apostolic character—those marks which point her out to the world as the bride of Christ, 'a glorious church without spot or wrinkle.' In the insignia with which he is invested, we see the dignity, the duties, and the life of the bishop."

The church, he said, preserved her unity through her prelates, who guarded the sacred deposit of faith, and handed it down from generation to generation intact. They governed and fed their flocks in union with the chief pastor, the vicar of Christ, the center and source of unity. "Through them the odor of her sanctity descends into the world," he said. "Through them she administers her sacraments, sources of grace, to the faithful; offers up the holy and adorable sacrifice of the new law to God; infuses into the souls of men the sevenfold gifts of the Holy Spirit. and teaches the world a doctrine which is most holy, 'the bread of proof in the spectacle lately presented to us, the representatives of the civihe Word of Life."

truly universal. They were the successors of the apostles. "When the bishop is made a member of the nierarchy, he is given title to a noble ancestry. That glorious descent he can trace in an unbroken line to the days of St. Peter and of Christ. The doctrine of the blessed apostles is his doctrine; their orders are his orders; their mission is his mission—to teach, to preach, and to spread the kingdom of God, and rule in it." How significant the badges of his holy office! The royal purple, which belonged only to princes, well became him -a prince of Christ. As a messenger of the Gospel, the successor of those disciples whom Christ sent before him as messengers, to announce his coming, his feet were shod with sandals. The ring on his finger was the seal of his espousals with his church. The tunic placed upon his shoulders typified the seamless coat of Christ, a figure of the church and her indestructible unity. The ancient form of the crosier, which he carried, mystical writers interpreted as indicating the duties of the pastoral office-with the sharp prod of reproof and correction he was to urge on the lax and lagging members of the flock and with the crook of patience and charity, draw back into the fold the sheep, lost and wandering.

wore a crown differing in form and significance from the crowns of earthly rulers, the double point being the symbol of his two-fold office-legislator and guide. The sign of his Master's triumph, which he wore on his breast, was a reminder ever before him that his Divine Model went to his glorious victory by way of the cross, and that victory awaited him only at the end of a similar journey. From these few reflections, said the speaker, might be formed some idea of the dignity and grandeur of the Episcopal office, and of the singular elevation to which it elevated a poor weak mortal, for "every pontiff is taken from amongst men ambassador he was, and upon his duties to his flock, whose shepherd he was. "It requires a strong man, a courageous man to be a bishop," he said. "Meditating on those responsibilities so great, is it any wonder then that men, holy men, in all ages, have fled at the very thought of being called to bear them." He must first be that in himself, which he would afterwards be to others. His diocese, the portion of the flock entrusted to him, became his care and solicitude. He became the pattern of the whole flockthe example both for priests and people. The reverend speaker went on to say that if the shepherd had his duties towards his flock, so had the flock to-wards their bishop. The bishop had a right to expect a return for his labors from the whole flock-loyalty, fidelity and repentful submission on the part of his priests; affection, gratitude, support and filial obedience on the part of the laity. The bishop, ever a high priest, in character and spiritual power, was always the same. But his re-lations towards the world assumed varied features with the ever varying moods and conduct of the world towards the church. "In the first ages," he said. "the bishop presented his Master to the world as priest and victim by being the first to suffer and die for the faith and lead his flock to follow his example. Farther on they were not only the teachers and spiritual shepherds, but the succor and defense of their flock from the tyranny of secular princes. In these days martyrdom the exception. The previous rulers of the world put in at last a pretense of justice and humanity in dealing with their subjects. Is there then peace for the Church of God and rest for her ministers? Alas, no! Greater dangers lurk in the shadows of the ancient evils and call for redoubled vigilance on the part of the watchmen who man outposts of Israel. Greater evils and more dangers, because less eastly apprehended by ordinary people, and because they conceal their true character under the pharisaical garb of those stock phrases, "modern thought, enlarged liberty, intellectual emanci-pation." Under this guise so catchy, the prince of evil is luring poor de-luded humanity to its fall. With these weapons does he seek the distruction of the kingdom of God.

The minds of men are becoming gradually infected with false ideas of God, the human soul, man's destiny, the world about him, the cause and reason of its existence—in a word, with a false solution of the problems of this life and the life to come. Poor, weak man is striving with all his might, but in vain, to foster the idea begotten of his intellectual pride, that he is self-sufficient, that he can do without God.

He would make human effort and material results the meter of his measurement in everything—science, edu-cation, progress, civilization. "Dust cation, progress, civilization. "Dust thou art and to dust returneth, was not spoken of the soul," has no longer any meaning for him. Religion and its social obligations, he would leave to women and to monks as having no claims on the mind and heart of a man of the world and its affairs. vention to deliberate on measures for the preservation of peace among men, while the Vicar of Christ, the ambassador of the Prince of Peace, is excluded from any part in those de-liberations. With these dangers threatening it, are the sentinels of the army of Christ silent or asleep? Are there and champions of God's divine right?
Are there no witnesses of his power, his justice, his creatorship, his providence? Has the voice of God sounding through the depths, "I am the Lord thy God. Thou shalt have no other gods but me," been smothered by the foul miasma of error, irreligion and unbelief? Continuing, the speaker said: To this age of unbelief, to this age of godless teaching, to this age of troubled minds and distressed consciences, the bishop is the mouthpiece of God, and represents the prophetic character of Christ." Bishops were never better circumstanced for the fulfillment of their prophetic and apostolic office than in these last days of the nineteenth cen-tury. Difficulties to the Christian bishop developed his sacerdotal character, brought out his latent strength, plumed his courage, and exercised every element of that sacramental energy which was infused into his soul at his consecration. "To such an inheritance," said Father Tynan, in conclusion, "has he who this day has been consecrated your bishop, failen heir. Upon his consecrated head he wears a crown of the highest honor, the princeship in God's canctuary, the ruler of God's people, the dignity of the high priesthood. Within it he wears his crown of thorns, for upon his shoulders has been placed the heavy burden of most sacred duty.

A quarter of a century of unbroken and affectionate friendship gives me title to speak for him, though his well-known humility bids me to silence. For I say it, and I believe it, that, clothed as he is with all the splendor and glory of the episcopal office, he sits before you a humbler man now than when a short hour ago he entered this stately temple, a simple priest. The honors and dignity which are now his, come to him unsought, but not despised. He knows what honors mean. quote himself, in his reply to my note of congratulation to him on his elevaand they but too often serve to turn men's heads.' He knows that the vain seek them as the 'Honors are dangerous things, child does its toys, to satisfy an everchanging fancy, but the man of sense and judgment sees in them only increasing responsibility and weightier burdens. Will he prove worthy? Goodness of soul merited for the holy Israelite of old the honor to stand between God and his rebellious people. Goodness is akin to love. Love in Christ for one's fellow-men and a life service spent for his weal are the sum of goodness. Such has been the whole priestly life of your new bishop. If the high priest of old merited God's favor because of his goodness of soul will not because of his goodness of soul will not he find favor also, the one excelling trait of whose sacerdotal life has been the display of this same goodness. If God's favor be with him, what can he do, then, who is against him? Oh, yes, I know he will prove worthy. Will he perform his sacred duty? Ask his fortner bishop, whose right arm he has been for so many years; ask his fellowbeen for so many years; ask his fellow-priest, who has been associated with the work of the ministry; ask the different flocks over whom he has been placed. They will answer, I need In every position which he has filled, whether high or low, whether in the humble pastorate of a scattered congregation, in offices of honor and trust, he has been guided always by a sense of duty. My God and my duty has ever been his motto. May we not, then, presumably judge the future by the past. He comes to you today as your bishop, to assume the chief pastorate of this great Diocese of London, to take up and continue the work so ably conducted by his illustrious predeors. He comes to you 'non neophytus,' not a neophyte, but a man of ripe experience, thoroughly schooled in the duties of the ministry, and perfectly equainted with the wants of his flock. He comes to you, sent by the Holy Ghost, to be a prince in God's sanctu-ary, a prince of God's people, 'a high priest taken from amongst men and ordained to those things which pertain to God,' to offer sacrifice for sins. He comes to be the 'pastor and shepherd of your souls.' I congratulate the people and priests of this great diocese, and I know you will bless the day on which the Vicar of Christ, moved by the Spirit of God, sent Fergus Patrick McEvay to be your bishop. God bless his noble sires who left him no avenue escape from his Celtic origin. What is this day the loss of the Diocese of Hamilton in the person of one of its most worthy priests, will be the gain of the Diocese of London in its worthy bishop; the bishop and friend of his priests, and the vigilant and good shepherd of his people. You will receive him, then, my brethren, as the Galatians received St. Paul, 'as an angel from beaven. angel from heaven, yea, even as Jesus Christ, whose ambassador he is. May the blessing of God attend his ministration among you. My prayer for my dear old friend is: "Oh, God, give him wisdom which sitteth at thy throne, that she may be with him and may labor with him, that he may know what is acceptable to thee."

THE PRIESTS' ADDRESS.

Then the following address was read behalf of the clergy of the diocese of London by Rev. Father Flannery: To the Right Reverend F. P. McEvay,

Bishop of London: May it Please Your Lordship:

On this solemn occasion of your consecration to the high and responsible office of bishop of the diocese, the priests over whom you are called to preside desire to give expression to their joy and gratification. Though many are absent, owing to the sacred obligations which detain them in their respective parishes, yet all are here in spirit united with us in wishing your lordship a thrice hearty wel-come. From the altars at which they minister they are offering a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the Father of Lights from whom descend all good and perfect blessings, which we, who are privileged to witness this solemn rite of consecration, join with them in gratitude for this crowning gift of God to our diocese-a kind-hearted, just and exemplary bishop.

charity that marked your career in Peterboro, winning to you all hearts as rector of St. Mary's and vicar-general of Hamilton, leave us no room to doubt that your labors in the dio-cese of London will be crowned with equal, if not more brilliant success. The scope and extent of the new field in which you are appointed to bring forth fruits that shall remain are vastly increased, but are in no way disproportionate to the holy zeal and welldirected energy of which you have given ample proofs in the past. The gratifying recognition of your mark-ed abilities has come to you in titles and dignities from the Holy See, preliminaries of the eminence to which, in virtue of apostolic letters, you have this day been exalted.

Your saintly and illustrous prede cessors have wrought marvels of industry and left to us imperishable monuments of their pious zeal. But a more numerous clergy and an evergrowing population will impose new burdens, and probably demand from your lordship greater and more continued sacrifices. Willingly, then, and joyfully do we promise prompt obedience with active co-operation in every work it may please your lordship to undertake for the glory of God and the salvation of the souls committed to your episcopal charge and paternal solicitude.

Allow us to express also our thanks to the Rev. Joseph Bayard, in whom we found, while the see was vacant, an able and painstaking administrator. Our public testimony is due for his unvarying kindness and his satisfactory

THE LAITY OF LONDON. On behalf of the Catholic laity of London, Mr. Daniel Regan, chairman of a committee of 36 members of the church, read the following address: To Right Rev. Fergus P. MoEvay, D.D., Bishop of London:

May It Please Your Lordship: Being aware long before your arrival among us of your laudable aversion to any public demonstration, nowever well intended, we deem it a special privilege deserving of our heartfelt gratitude that you should have relaxed this rule in favor of the laity of your discese, permitting them to voice the satisfaction which greeted the news of your appointment, and to bid you a hearty welcome to your new home.

Deep emotions are for the most part silent, and our hearts, stirred to their utmost depths by the solemn and beautiful ceremonies we are guthered together to witness, find but feeble expression in words, which, comparatively speaking, are halting and cold, yet, my lord, we trust that in the loyalty and goodwill we hereby pledge you, you will find a language more eloquent than that of graceful word or flowing periods.

While congratulating you upon the well-deserved recognition with which your merits and attainments have met at the hands of the Holy Father, we feel that we also are to be congratulated upon the appointment of so worthy a successor to the illustrious Archbishop of Toronto, Most Reverend Denis classmates of the class of '79, St. Mich-O'Connor, who, for almost a decade adae's College, Toronto. We also reoice that the harmony and good feeling existing among the dif-ferent creeds and classes of our Forest City, a harmony founded on mutual respect and largely due to the prudence of two previous administrations, will be further fostered by one whose kindly heart and broad toleration have gainfor him universal esteem in his former field of labor.

In conclusion, my lord, we have but to beg your blessing on ourselves, and on our homes, that on our part there may be nothing lacking in the holy relation thus solemnly inaugurated: we have but to reliterate our promise of earnest co-operation in such measures as you may deem necessary for the advancement of the interests of God, and of his church, and to wish you health and length of years in the Diocese of

DANIEL REGAN, Chairman. THE BISHOP REPLIES.

Bishop McEvay, replying to the clergy's address, said: It is a great pleasure for me today, on the solemn occasion of my consecration, to meet so many of my good priests, and learn from you that the clergy who have been detained by parochial duties have remembered me. Your warm words of welcome are most gratifying to me as your bishop, and your expressions of loyalty and obedi-ence are worthy of true priests of God's church who are loyal to their bishop, not so much on account of any personal merits he may possess, or because we are taught by our holy faith that bishops are the successors of the apostles, and that they are placed by the Holy Ghost to rule the church of God, and as the exemplary priests of the London diocese have alvays been loyal and true to the wise. able and zealous prelates who have pi_ceded me as your present bishop, unworthy as he is of the high office, expects and is assured by you, in your beautiful address, that he will receive the same good will, obedience and hearty co-operation. jubilee he had been happy to assist. The titles of distinction he had received came chiefly upon the recommendation of the archbishop.

"I am glad to hear of the good feeling existing between Catholics," his lordship said, "and those of other faiths in this country. As Catholics, we will always profess our faith openly, but we will also recognize the rights of others. I hope these charit-able relations may long continue for the happiness of all."

His lordship then responded to the address of the laity. What he had said to the priests applied also to them. He was glad that priests and people were one together. Although his abilities were limited, he hoped, with the help of God, to use them for his glory for the good of the people whom the blessed Lord had entrusted to his care. He realized the responsibilities of his office, and accepted them with the hope that God would bless his work. He would strive to walk faithfully in the footsteps of the bishops before him, to carry on the work which they so courageously began and con-tinued. The result of their work was to be seen in the multiplication of schools and churches, and religious and charitable institutions. These were the best monuments a good bishop could leave behind him. They told, too, of the generosity of the good people, who gave of their means to erect these in-stitutions. The co-operation of the laity was very necessary in all good works. They had every reason, his lordship said, to show their gratitude to God, who lived in this beautiful section of the country, where people of different races were all dwelling together in unity. The replies were concluded with a blessing. Each member of the laity committee knelt and kissed his lord-ship's gloved hand. The congregation then dispersed.

DINNER AND RECEPTION. After the consecration services Bishop McEvay entertained the visiting clergy to an elaborate dinner at the Sacred Heart Convent. There were flower favors for each guest, and each was pre-sented with a beautiful picture of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, as a souvenir of

On behalf of the Sisters of St. Mary's Academy, Rev. Dr. Flannery, Dean of Windsor, presented Bishop McEvay with a beautiful episcopal sash, accompanied by a gracefully-worded address signed by Rev. The prefect of police and Chief of Police Viguer arrived just before six, and began the superintendence of police measures. At this time only half a dozen gendarmes were vistble. They were stationed at the portal of the Lysee, and inside the garden in front of the Lysee, which is separated from the sidewalk of the Avenue de la Gare by a high iron railing, which no one was allowed to pass until Dreyfus had been transferred from the military prison to the room within the Lysee building, where he was to await the moment when he should be sum-Including Saturday's game, the London and Hamilton clubs have played twelve games on the home grounds. The Hams have captured one game only. One game was drawn, and the victorious Cockneys have taken ten from the once celebrated mouthpieces of the Mountainous City. The loss of the one game was due to a slight error of Manager Lohman, who replaced Seiver with Cooper in the seventh inning. This was on June 6, and the Hams have been here frequently since, but have been unable to win. Cooper again demonstrated his superiority, and made several of the visitors will before his left-hand shoots. Eight struck out, and in one inning only did they suc-ceed in batting him to any extent, making two doubles.

A fair crowd attended, notwithstanding the counter-attractions. Several of the "old boys" witnessed the game, and loudly cheered the Londons when occasion deserved it.

On Friday, when the Hams were in the lead, before that fatal eighth inning, they jeered Cooper more than once. Finally Cooper called back, "Wait until I get at you tomorrow." was as good as his word, and never once had the Hams the slightest show of winning.

The Hams got one single in the second and a double in the third. Second and third bases were occupied, with one out, in the third inning, but they fatted to score. The fourth gave them three runs, on McCann's double, McKevitt's pass and Conwell's double, with Moh-ler's fumble of Hagerman's easy hit, which sent Conwell over the plate. This would have been the third out. Mc-in Chicago, and will not be abl Kevitti's single in the sixth was the only safe hit in the next three innings. In capacity "The Rossin" can com-fortably accommodate 400 guests, 50 of its rooms having bathrooms attached. As a protection against fire it is built with brick partitions throughout. There are five stairways from the upper to the first floor, and, nightly, watchmen patrol the comidors, insuring the perfect safety of guests: An additional feature of the house is the absence of winding passages—all the hallways being attractively wide and lofty. In every respect the architect, with an eye to safety, health and comfort, wrought on a generous scale. In fine, the house is like its management, like its cuisine, like its patronage, the best and most modern in the city.

This hotel home, it will be known with no surprise, has numbered among its guests at various times, members of the royal family, of the nobility and Proprietors.

IN HIS SLEEP

Grand Trunk Man Made a Terribie Dive That May Have Patal Results

Detroit, Aug. 5.—During a freak of somnambulism, Ralph S. McCormick, employed as a draughtsmin for the Grand Trunk Railway, dove from the third story window of his home at 347 Fort street west. His condition is precarious, but the attending physicians have hopes of his recovery.

Tuesday afternoon last McCormick went bathing at Belle Isle. He returned home in the evening and retired comparatively early. About midnight Miss Jessie Hedge, who has a room on the lower floor of the building, heard a crash and the noise of a falling body. She immediately awakened the household, and McCormick was found on the ground below the window. McCormick is unable to account for the queer prank. He says he occasionally walks in his sleep, but never attempted to jump before. He thinks the swim of the afternoon was too much for him, and that he imagined he was diving into the river when he leaped from the window through the

Luckily none of his bones were broken, but his spine is slightly affected and he is thought to have internal injuries. The distance from the window through which McCormick jumped to the ground is about 35 feet. McCormick is about 30 years of age.

MISSIONARY BEHIND THE GUN

Keeps a Crowd of Chinamen in Check -Wouldn't Assist at an Idol Procession.

Tecoma, Aug. 5.-The steamer Victoria brings the following advices of a desperate defense made by a missionary single-handed against a Chinese mob: Rev. W. H. Nichols, of the Methodist-Episcopal mission, received two notes telling him that if the Christians did not contribute toward the expenses the idol procession the missionaries would be driven out or killed. The missionary's residence is near the starting-place of the procession. The streets were jammed with the populace. The procession stopped in front of Mr. Nichols' residence and refused to go any further until the foreigners were driven out or killed. Mr. Nichols' family were all away, and he was the only foreigner present. The crowd began to batter down the front gate. The missionary appeared with a rifle in his hand, and the mob fled to the back gate. This was soon torn down, and the crowd rushed into the backyard. Mr. Nichols fired one shot and the mob again dispersed. In a short time another attack was made both at the front and back. All lights in the house were put out. Presently a leader appeared with a lantern. A well-aimed shot from the rifle destroyed the light and sent the leader away and the crowd disappeared. Soldiers were left on guard all night, and the Christians soon ralled their forces to protect the missionary.

British Liberals Satisfied With the Political Outlook -- Naval Maneuver's Disappointing to the Public.

hiament practically ended on Friday miral Dewey is known, from his inter-course with German naval officers, as evening, and the prorogation will take evening, and the prorogation will take a quiet, thoughtful gentleman, incapplace on Wednesday. There seems to able of giving vent to such incautious be a very general belief that it will be utterances." the last full session of the present parliament, shrewd political prophets predicting that a general election will be held next July at the latest. With the kaleidoscopic transformation occurring Incessantly in foreign politics, it is difficult to forecast the result of an appeal to the country, but unless some coup rehabilitates the prestige of the present cabinet, it is not deficult to in the shape of an enormously decreased Conservative majority, although it is hard to indorse the optimistic views of the Liberals, who apparently are satisfied that a general election will return them to power. Candid criticism, however, compels the statement that there are too many cross currents in the Liberal party to admit of success until Lord Rosebery or another such Liberal Imperialist arises to weld the various sections now following Sir Henry Campbell-Banner-man, Sir William Vernon Harcourt and John Morley, respectively, and to proclaim an aggressive, active programme instead of a narrow, negative policy which is confined to the purely obstruc tive tactics so characteristic of the present divergent leadership.

A DISAPPOINTMENT. So far as popular interest is concerned, the great naval maneuvers have ended in disappointment, as there was no fighting, the rival fleets failing even to sight each other. The naval authortties, however, are delighted at the success with which the British fleet found and convoyed safely to Milford Haven the flotilla of food supply ships from Halifax. The maneuvers were carried out under conditions which might be expected to prevail in the event of war with France. The latter pinned her faith to torpedo boats, while Great Britain steadily increased the number of her torpedo boat destroyers, and although dark and misty nights were favorable to the torpedo boats, they seem to have completely failed, while the destroyers fully sustained the hopes of their advocates on the few occasions when they came in contact with the torpedo boats. TELEGRAPHY SUCCESS

The maneuvers seem to have placed beyond question the value of the Marconi telegraphy. Admiral Domville relied upon it for much useful information which could not be otherwise obtained, and successfully transmitted information over distances of from twenty to thirty miles, neither fog nor darkness apparently interfering with the transmission of messages. The experts are satisfied that wireless telegraphy adds indefinitely to the value of scouting.

THE SANTO DOMINGO REVOLT. The occurrences in Santo Domingo have naturally led to comment upon the probable action of the United States. It is generally recognized that something must be done to prevent the Island from slipping back to African civilization, and the trend of comment points to the United States as the natural pacifier of the country and indicates that absorption will follow as consequence. Rumors come from France of objections from that quarter, Rumors come from but while the French have considerable financial and commercial interests in their former dependency, they will hardly go to the length of actively opposing any action America may see fit to take toward establishing a protectorate over both Santo Domingo and UNPLEASANT READING. The 53rd report of the commissioners in lunacy is unpleasant reading. In England and Wales the lunatics on Jan. 1 of the present year totaled 105,-086, an increase of 3,114 over 1898, the largest increase yet recorded. An analysis shows that this spread of lunacy is not confined to any one class, al-though naturally the largest increase is among paupers. The situation is regarded as so alarming that an early official inquiry is demanded into the causes and the best means of combat-

IN WANT OF RAIN.

The abnormal weather is seriously affecting the health of Europe, and the prolonged heat and drought threaten water famines at various points. The factories requiring large supplies are already discussing closing. Some idea of the weather is gatherable from the fact that on Thursday absolutely no rain was recorded in any part of West-ern Europe, except at Bodo, within the Arctic circle.

THAT KILLARNEY LAKE YARN. Richard Croker, before leaving Loncon for Southampton, whence he sailed for New York on board the American Line steamer St. Paul, said to representative of the Associated Press, who asked him if there was any truth in the report that he had pur-chased the Lakes of Killarney: "I never heard or knew anything about any sale of the Lakes of Killarney or Muckross Abbey until I read about it In the English newspapers."

DEWEY AND THE GERMANS. Admiral Dewey's alleged anti-German uatterances at Trieste are more extensively commented upon in the American than in the German press. With a few exceptions, the tone of the latter is moderate and conciliatory. Most of the papers disbelieved the truth of the Bridgeport, and three ambulances and alleged utterances from the first, citing the admiral's past conduct and well-authenticated friendly attitude towards the German representatives in the east.

The influential Boersen Courier says:
"On the German side no serious politician, for a moment, has attributed any cogswell, of Stratford, improvised a train to the boat. The wharf is own-

The Agrarian Deutsche Tages Zeltung likewise expresses disbelief, adding: "After all, we need not trouble ourselves about Admiral Dewey's views of Germany, Prince Henry and German naval officers.'

The Tageblatt repeatedly expressed the conviction that the whole story is inaccurate, and other important papers, like the Cologne Gazette, Hamburger Correspondent and the bulk of the German papers said it would be interesting to know just how much and how little truth there was to the whole

REFORM FIRST. Although the Prussian Diet reassembles Aug. 16, the fate of the canal bill is as uncertain as ever. Its chances have not improved during the vacation. The Center, whose help is vital, insists on the passage first of the communal reform bill, to which arrangement the Prussian Government seriously objects. The agrarian opposition remains de-termined. Even the fact that the emperor has come out publicly and strongly in favor of the canal bill makes no

FOR THE DREYFUS TRIAL. Rennes, France, has awakened from Its normal condition of sleepiness, and with the arrival of hundreds of journalists from all parts of the world and witnesses and other actors in the Dreyfus drama, the town is assuming an animated appearance, The trial opens today (Monday) at 6:30 a.m. The leading event of Saturday was the arrival of the "hero" of the Dreyfus ar-Ploquart!" and "A mort a l'Eau!" from the few anti-Dreyfusites present. But the bark of the latter was worse than their bite for not the slightest attempt was made to carry out the threats, which Col. Picquart utterly ignored. The authorities were apparently becoming anxious regarding the maintenance of tranquility in Rennes during the trial, owing to the invasion of the town by a crowd of anti-Dreyfusard agitators. Cards of admission to the trial were issued to the representatives of the press on Saturday, every two foreign correspondents, without exception, receiving one card between them, which means that the leading papers of the world outside of France will only be able to be represented every other day. Capt. Dreyfus will be conducted to the new court room in the Lycee, which faces the military prison across the broad Avenue de la Gare, every morning, and return in the evening, between a double row of gendarmes. Workmen have been busy fitting up the Salle des Fetes in the Lycee for the trial, and the installation of benches, desks, etc., is already practically completed. A large crucifix has been brought from the military chapel and hung beside the seats of the judges. which are placed on the stage. As the Salle des Fetes is really a theater, the proscenium has been left untouched, and will form a frame for the scenes of the trial.

Hong Kong, Aug. 5 .- Aguinaldo has

Hong Kong having become too hot for the Filipino junta through the efforts

couraged to try this daring experiment

by the fact that under a recent decree

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

It is understood that the plan of operations for the fall campaign contemplates a division of the islands into several military departments, and General

Lawton will have command of the one in which cavalry troops will operate.

It is probable that General Wheeler will be given command of a brigade of cavalry in General Lawton's department.

The boundary line of Lawton's department will embrace the territory in which there will probably be the heav-iest fighting, so that Lawton will be in charge of the most important forces in the field, and in this way General

From the wharf a slip or plank 40 feet long and 10 feet wide led up to the boat. The slip was hinged at the imner end, the outer end being supported by chains, by which it was raised or lowered to suit the tide. The wharf extends on both sides flush with the end of the gang plank. When the excursion train from Bangor arrived at the ferry there was a rush for the steamer Sapho. The piling of the wharf partially penned them in on three sides and the boat lying at the wharf closed tured twice; Margaret Farrell, right the outer end of the opening.

SAVING THE DROWNING. After the first moment of stupefaction the work of rescue began. Ropes and life preservers were thrown to the crowd, but in the panic, the people in the water clutched one another, and many sank thus in groups in a death grapple. Many taken from the water were unconscious, and were revived with difficulty. Doctors were summoned from all directions, but it was half an hour before the first arrived. The freight house at the ferry was turned into a morgue, the bodies being taken there for identification as fast as recovered. By noon seventeen had been recovered. Three other persons were taken on board the Sappho and died on the way to Bar Harbor. AMONG THE DEAD.

OTIS WANTS MORE GUNS. Washington, Aug. 7.-General Otis has asked for a number of Sims-Dudley guns, Gatling guns and Hotchkiss 12-pounders for use in the Philippines. All are rapid-fire guns, and are especially adapted to such warfare as must be prosecuted there. The ordnance bureau has been very busy gathering up the guns asked for by General Otis, as they have been scattered about the country in different forts and arsenals, but a sufficient number to meet the present demand has been procured and ordered shipped to Manila.

A Worthy Record of a Worthy School.

The attention of our readers is called ed to the exceptionally bright and encouraging record of the Canada Business College, of Chatham, for the scholastic year ending June 30 last, which proved to be the most successful in the history of this far-famed institution of business training.

The attendance showed representatives from 133 cities, towns and villages in Canada, and five states of the Union, together with Newfoundland. From Brooklyn, N. Y., on the south to Manitoba and the Territories on the north, were students in attendance. school has now acquired a continental reputation, and is well worthy of the strong support which it is enjoying.

The home reputation is best shown by its home support. Chatham and Kent county alone had over 100 pupils in attendance, while 23 counties and districts outside of Chatham sent 198 pupils. Manitoba and the Northwest Territories sent six, while five states of the Union sent ten representatives. Perhaps the most interesting part of the year's work to those who are contemplating either a course of business or shorthand training will be the record of students who acquired good positions. During the seventeen months ending June 1, 236 pupils found, or were placed in, good positions, with good business houses. This is certainly a remarkable showing and they have this list prepared to send out to those who might wish to see it.

The result is certainly a most encouraging one, and many will congratulate Messrs. D. McLachlan & Co. on their success. They will have the best wishes for even greater prosperity during the approaching scholastic year, which commences Sept. 5 next. bd&bw CHICAGO, Aug. 5 .- Dull and irregular markets prevailed on the board of trade today. Weakness of corn and favorable crop conditions were features in a decline of 1/4c to %c in wheat. Coarse grain showed the most weakness in new crop features. December corn closed 4c to 3c lower, September losing only a shade. September oats closed a shade higher, and December %c lower. Provisions de-clined 7%c to 12%c. Opening trade in wheat, both for December and Sep-tember, were at slight declines from yesterday's prices, September starting at 1/2c to 1/4c lower, at 69%c to 691/2c, and in the course of the next halfhour's trading the price took a further drop to 69%c. English markets were closed, and domestic news was more or less colorless, as a rule, and the interest in trading was small, even at the opening. Sellers were in the majority, however. The weather in the Northwest was favorable for harvesting openations and the Kangas State ing operations, and the Kansas State crop report predicted large crops of both wheat and corn, the condition of the latter being put at 100. This developed weakness in corn and the narrow wheat market sympathized to some extent with the drop in the coarset grain. Minneapolis and Duluth received 240 cars, against 344 last week, and 58 a year ago. Chicago re-ceipts were 76 cars, 12 of contract grade. Total receipts at primary points were 675,000. A moderate covering movement started at the decline to 694c. Some buying was also done against weekly puts, and by 11 o'clock the September price had recovered to 69%c. Atlantic port clearances equalled 448.000 bushels. There was some demand for exports, but little in that line was done. September gradually line was done. September gradually eased off to 69%c to 69%c, and was bringing that price at the close.

in light supply, and the market for these was barely steady. Sheep and lambs—Receipts were light, only 5 cars, and so limited that it operated against the sale of the very few lambs that were here, as there were not enough to go with them, and the market was therefore full easy to lower for those on offer $6.25 being the best bid tor on offer, $6 25 being the best bid tor choice lambs, a few fair to good selling at $5 25 to $5 85 to $6, and culls and common quotable at $3 50 to $5. Sheep were regarded as about steady, with good mixed quotable at $4 80 to $5, and culls to fairly good, $2 50 to $4 75; good to choice yearlings scarce at $5 to $5 40, and good handy wether sheep $5 10 to $5 20. The market closed full easy for lambs at prices quoted, and about steady for sheep. Veals and calves— Receipts, 50 head; market slow; tops, $5 75 to $6; few fancy more; common to good, $4 25 to $5 75. Hogs—Receipts, 15 cars; the market opened active, and all of 10c to 15c higher for pigs and Yorkers, with the heavier kinds about a nickel stronger, and with a good demand all were sold. The bulk of the good corn Yorkers sold at $5 10 to $5 15. mostly $5 15, with grassy at $4 90 to $5; light mixed at $5 to $5 05, and heavier mixed at $4 90 to $4 95; handy light medium grades sold at $4 90 to $4 95; but heavy grades were sold at $4 85 to $4 90 early, with but $4 80 bid later for choice lots; pigs, $5 to $5 05, a few going in with the Yorkers at $5 10 to $5 15; roughs were also stronger, but the coarse heavy roughs sold at the lowest prices, the lighter ones bringing the best figures, $4 10 to $4 20; heavy ones,

Grand Trunk Transport Lans down Runs Into a Steam Barge.

Both Vessels Settle ito the Bottom of Detroit River-Loss Placed at $40,000.

Detroit, Aug. 7 .- People flocked to the river front by thousands all day yesterday to take personal inventory of the results of the terrific collision of yesterday morning between the steam barge W. B. Morley and the car transport Landsdowne, of the Grand Trunk

Very little concerning the cause of the collision or the party responsible for it is obtainable.

The accident occurred at 12:15 o'clock. The Landsdowne was backing out of the slip No. 2 in Windsor, with eighteen cars of freight to be transferred to the Wabash slip in Deof going either way, and continued to back on down the river.

The steamer Morley was coming up the Canadian side with 2,800 tons of coal for Duluth. It is the habit of captains to go up on the Canadian side at night, on account of the bright electric lights on the Detroit side, which dazzle them. So far as can be ascertained, neither boat knew of the presence of the other on that side of the river, and just opposite Church street, Windsor, the crash came. It was a head-on collision. There was a tremendous crash, the prow of the Morley penetrating the Lansdowne for eleven feet immediately between the two tracks that are laid on each side of the center of her deck. The shock punctured the Morley on her starboard bow, making a cleancut hole about four by six feet. The engines of both boats were immediately reversed. Water was pouring into the hold of both vessel, and they both Water was pouring into began to settle. The Lansdowne returned to slip No. 2 and the cars were immediately taken off her. There was just one carload of goods damaged. It was a load of planos and organs. Several others cars were tipped off the track by the shock. The damage, it is estimated, may reach $40,000. Wreckers and divers are busy $40,000. at work on each boat.

THE NEW BISHOP

Brief Sketch of the Life and Work of Bishop McEvay.

Bishop McEvay made a most favorable impression on the members of his new diocese yesterday. He possesses in a high degree that genial warmth of nature and attractiveness known as personal magnetism. As a prelate he will be honored and respected, and as a man he will be loved.

Right Rev. Fergus P. McEvay was born in Lindsay, Ont., on the 8th of December, 1852. He received his education at Lindsay separate school, St. Michael's College, Toronto, St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He took the Dowling medal for literature at St. Michael's in the class of 1877, and Michael's in the class of 1877, and stood high in all his classes and captured several prizes. He was ordained priest on the 9th of July, 1882, and was then appointed parish priest for Fenelon Falls, where he remained five

After this he was appointed rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro, and chancellor of the diocese. On May 1, 1889, on the occasion of the translation of Bishop Dowling to Hamilton, it was arranged between the Bishop of Peterboro and the Bishop of Hamilton that he should be transferred to the diocese of the latter. This arrange-ment was subsequently ratified at Rome, and he obtained a new titulus for the diocese of Hamilton. Soon after this he was appointed rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, which position he had held with great acceptability.

OLD BOYS

Detroiters Censure the Free Press-A Wanton Insult to the Light Guards' Band.

An indignation meeting of Old Boys, chiefly from Detroit, was held at the City Hotel this morning, and a resolution of censure on the London Free Press was carried unanimously. The Old Boys present considered the Free Press' references to the Detroit Light Guards Band as unjust and inhospitable, and a virtual insult to the Detroit visitors, who had brought the band along. The Free Press practically ac-cuses the Detroit band of trying to spoil the military tattoo on Saturday by leaving in the middle of the even-ing, and with offending the Sunday audience by playing secular airs. The fact is that the Detroit band and Old Boys' Association several months ago accepted an invitation from Col. Leys to be his guests on the Saturday evening of the London celebration. When the band found that their services were desired at the military tattoo, they cheerfully compromised by agreeing to participate in the Victoria Park affair until 9 p.m. The tattoo was not in the least interfered with. On Sunday afternoon the band rendered a programme of sacred music, interspersed with national airs. The Light Guards have gether. To the Editor of The Advertiser: I saw with my own eyes and heard with my own ears, and others beside me, heard and saw what we thought was near causing a riot. We were standing opposite the city hall, and by me stood Chief of Police Williams, P. Cs. Kelly and Egelton, the latter in plain clothes. After the procession had broken up, some of the street cars, which had been waiting to get through the crowd, came along, and hundreds shouted "Scab," of course. The chief pointed out and ordered P. C. Kelly to go and arrest two Toronto Old Boys, on the other side of the street, and the officer crossed over to arrest them. One got away, and he run the other down in the doorway, and was making the arrest, when a big crowd gathered around, and it was as near a riot as I have ever seen, which made the chief change his mind. I suppose he sent his lackey over to tell the officer, who had been ordered to make the arrest, to only take his name, and let him off, and we all thought it was a good thing for our fair city that he did. Now, I should like to ask any fair-minded person why the chief of police should single out these two Old Boys. He must have felt sore because they would not ride on the cars to Springbank, and so far forgot himself as to order their arrest. If there had been a big row who would have been to blame? These are 58 Wellington street, city.

Compositors and Stereotypers Quit Their Work.

Powers of Strikers Defined by the Appellate Court at Chicago.

New York, Aug. 7 .- The compositors and stereotypers of the New York Sun, 120 in number, who went on strike Saturday, were still out Sunday night. The press and composing rooms were in darkness, but the editorial room presented the usual appearance. The Sun appeared yesterday morning with only been indefatigable in their efforts to entertain the citizens of London, and have played more than the other bands put to-

The strike which was ordered and sanctioned by Typographical Union No. 6 was ratified in Teutonia Hall at one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the union. The meeting unanimously passed a resolution offering the entire funds of the union, amounting to $40,000, for the use of their striking brethren in case of a necessity. A telegram was received from Samuel B. Donnelly, of Indianapolis, president of the International Typographical Union, offering to place the available funds of the parent association at the disposal of the local organization.

THE CAUSE. It appears that the compositors, stereotypers and boys employed in the composing rooms of the Sun who went on strike Saturday night, constituted the whole force of union representatives of the various alited printing trades in the office. According to J. J. Ferrell, the president of "Big Six," the cause of the strike is an effort of the Sun to break away from the rules and scale of wages of the allied printing trades, and to employ union or non-union men, as it suits the heads of the paper. strike will also affect the Evening Sun, in which office more than 70 union compositors and others are employed. POWERS OF STRIKERS.

Chicago, Aug. 7. — In a decision rendered by Judge Windes, of the appellate court, sitting as a circuit judge, it has been decided that striking workmen may use persuasion to induce other men to quit work for a firm against which a strike has been ordered. They may also visit the fac-tory or plant of the company and use whatever peaceable means they can to prevent others from working for the concern, or induce those who are at work to quit.

THE PORT HURON CAR SHOPS. Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 6.—Master Mechanic Muhlfeld, of the Grand Trunk, arrived here yesterday, and has arranged to receive a committee of the union on Monday and listen to the grievances claimed by them. The helper, Stubbs, the placing of whom in charge of a machine brought on the strike, has been reduced to his old position and the prospects are that matters will be amicably adjusted. As a result of the agitation all those working in the shops here and residing in Canada have been notified by government officers that they are violating the alien labor law and to hold their positions must take up their residence in this city.

THE BOYCOTT IN CLEVELAND. Detroit News special: The 35,000 union workingmen of Cleveland supporting the 800 strlking conductors, motormen and linemen of Henry A. Everett's Eig Consolidated street railways in their boycott of the company's cars represent, with their wives and children, fully 100,000 persons. Fully as many men in Cleveland working for daily wages are members of unions as are not. One of the best-informed politicians in Cleveland says fully threefifths of the entire population come within the common definition of workingmen and shop employes. One can hear plenty of conjectures that merchants and business men generally will soon begin to defy the order not to ride on any of Everett's 680 cars under penalty of being boycotted, but the three-fifths of the population referred to will stay with the men until the Big Consolidated president consents to recognize the strikers' union. The boycott today is as thorough as at any time since it was started.

MRS. HARRIET PRINGLE. The death took place yesterday at the family residence,218 Clarence street, of Mrs. Harriet Pringle, widow of the late John Pringle. Deceased was born in Ayr, Scotland, and came to London in 1844, and had resided here ever since that time. She was always active in good works, and was a member and worker in the Southern Congregational Church. Mrs. Pringle joined Victoria Lodge of the Daughters of Rebekan, I. O. O. F., in 1861, and at the time of her death was the oldest Daughter of Rebekah in the world. One son and

Mr. Charles Jones, one of the oldest residents of London township, passed away recently at the advanced age of 85 years. Nearly all his life was spent in this city and London township. He came here in 1822, when but 8 years old. Five of his children survive him, viz.: Mrs. F. A. Fitzgerald, Mrs. H. McDougall, Mrs. S. F. Peters, Miss Lottle and Mr. C. A. Jones. There are only two persons now living in London township who came out to this country previous to Mr. Longs they country previous to Mr. Jones, they being James Howard, of lot 6, con. 4, and John Foster, of lot 17, con. 5, both of whom sailed in the ship Brunswick, in 1818, when but 2 years of age, with what was known as the Brunswick colony, in charge of Richard Talbot.

LONDON WILL LOSE REV. J. W. PEDLEY

He Has Accepted the Call to the Western Church, Toronto.

Rev. J. W. Pedley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, announced to law. his congregation last night that he had decided to accept the call to the pastorate of the Western Congregational Church, Toronto. He goes at a smaller salary than he receives here to a church burdened with a $20,000 debt. His congregation were surprised at his decision, and learned it with the greatest regret.

Mr. Pedley stated that he would remain in London during the present month, instead of taking his holidays, and tide the church over the period which is so difficult for churches. It was somewhat difficult to sever his connection with the church, but it seemed to him that that was the way his destiny pointed at present. He asked his hearers' sympathy, because he realized that he had a hard task before him. He was about to take a church in a bad condition financially, and work it He wanted to help the London church to secure a successor, and he hoped this month would be full of harmony, earnestness and zeal, and that when the end of it came he would with his people with the same good feeling that has existed since he

Members of a Visiting Band Hustled Off to the Railway Station Like Vagrants.

A most disgraceful incident occurred on Dundas street, half-way between Richmond and Clarence streets, after 11 o'clock Saturday night. Charles Alhead with his baton. He was nearly 11 o'clock Saturday night. Charles Alknocked unconscious. Mr. Bowen has lan, a 20-year-oid boy, was brutally clubbed by a member of the city police force, for no other reason than he had stopped for a moment to listen to a speech by a celebrating visitor. The boy was struck with such force, that in spite of the protection of a suff nat, his temple was laid bare, and the wound required nine stitches to close it. P. C. Egelton was the boy's assailant, and witnesses of the affair say that but for the interference of bystanders he would have struck the boy again, while he Ray stunned in the arms of one of them.

Allan is a slender boy, a quiet disposition. He is the son of Mr. Robert Allan, messenger for the Bank of Commerce, one of the oldest elders of St. Andrew's Church, and a most nighly respected citizen.

Young Allan was returning west on Dundas street, to his home, at the corshortly before 11 o'clock. Two cars, going to the barns, had just passed, and a couple of stones had been thrown at them from a crowd gathered in front of the Hub. One of the car windows was broken. This occurred before Allan, who was on the north side of Dundas street, came opposite the crowd. An enthusiastic and somewhat bibulous visitor was making a patriotic speech in front of the Hub. Allan crossed the street to hear the man talk, and joined a crowd of 300 or 400 people, who were laughing and chatting in the neighborhood. Just as Allan reached the south side of the street a policeman seized the speaker, and pushed him into a hallway. Then a number of the police charged the crowd with their batons. Allan happened to be standing near Egelton, who, before the boy could get out of the way, struck him a terrible blow on the temple with the end of his club. A young man standing by caught Allan in his arms. He was roughly told to get the boy away out of that, and Allan was taken over to Strong's drug store. Dr. Kingsmill was called, and attended to the boy's injuries, putting nine stitches in the wound. The cut was very deep, and the boy's clothing was soaked with Dr. Kingsmill said that if the blow had been an inch lower on the temple it would probably have killed the boy. The greatest indignation is expressed among the citizens generally at the unfour daughters survive. They are.

During the evening a few car windows had been broken, but at the time the crowd was dispersed and young Allan hurt, there were no cars running, and there was no apparent reason for interfering with the crowd, who had been given the freedom of the city, and were merely enjoying themselves in peaceable enough fashion, with perhaps a little hilarity.

Another instance of police officiousness was the quite uncalled-for dispersing of a small group of the visiting Foresters' Band, who were gathered at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, at about 1 o'clock on Sunday morning. The streets were almost deserted, and the boys had to wait a couple of hours for their train, which left for Toronto at 3 o'clock. To pass the time the little colored drummer with them was doing a buck and wing dance in the middle of the street. Half a dozen of the city police swooped down on them and ordered them to "get away out of this."

"Where shall we go? We are waiting for our train," they replied. "Go to the Grand Trunk station and wait there," said the officers of the Official Programme.

Visitors Outplay the Resident Old Boys in a Ball Game.

A Grand Cake Walk Which Brought

Down the House-Other Sports. The visiting Old Boys had a good time this morning. After Saturday afternoon's fizzle some of the reception committee decided to depart from the "official" programme for this morning, and it was arranged to have games at Tecumseh Park. The Detroit Light Guard Band kindly consented to lead a procession to the park; as many as possible of the visitors and reception committee were notified. Business men left their stores and offices, and in all about 2,000 people turned out. A baseball match be-tween visiting and resident Old Boys was played, races run and a grand cakewalk indulged in. "I haven't had so much fun in twenty years," said one of the enthusiastic "Old Boys" from Toronto, when the impromptu programme was concluded. The whole affair was a glorious sunburst after Saturday's clouds. THE PROCESSION. At 10 o'clock a large number of the guests and reception committee had assembled at the Tecumseh House. Then, headed by the Detroit Band, they marched to Dundas street and east to Wellington, returning along Dundas to the park. Willie Small, son of Mr. W. A. Small, of Chicago, dressed as "Uncle Sam," and Eugene Lockhart, the well-known little danc-er, as "John Bull." Each of the boys is about six years of age, and they made a cute pair. In response to the enthusiastic greeting of the onlookers along the line they gallantly raised their plug hats time and again. The procession was a long one, over 200 people being in line.

AT THE PARK. The grand stands were quickly filled, and the spectators loudly cheered the visitors, who marched around the bicycle track. Then the ball game got under way. Three innings were played, and resulted in victory for the visitors, the score being 9 to 4. The resident Old Boys won the toss, and went to bat first. B. C. McCann singled, but was caught trying to steal the keystone bag. Dr. Wood made a nice, clean single, and scored during a misunderstanding among the Western, Eastern and National League representatives in the field. They had not played together since they went to the Union School here, so it was not strange that errors occurred when the of the policemen appear to have exerput out at second. "Barney" McCann, cised some discretion.

like Casey, struck out, and Dr. Wood was too eager to keep up London's reputation for good base stealing. One run was batted in the third inning. The visitors made only one run in the first. J. J. Ward went out on a foul fly. Small singled, and scored on a wild throw. Tom Duff struck out, and Lind did the same, leaving Donohue on first base. Lewis and Cooper each went down before B. C. McCann's mighty twirling. Fentiman, Small and Weston made hits, and Duff again failed to connect. The score was a tie at the close of the second inning. Five singles added five runs in the third and cinched the game. Bert Sheere and Jack Bowen, of Chicago, were eminently satisfactory umpires: Score: VISITING OLD BOYS.

A tug-of-war was attempted, but the rope broke and a double scrimmage resulted. The cake valk, headed by "John Bull" and "Uncle Sam" was a great feature. A large number of the visitors and committee took part in it, and the crowd on the stands cheered them to the echo.

The 100 yards race was won by T. Fentiman, of Toronto, with A. Lashbrook, of Detroit, second. There were several entries in the fat man's race. Thomas Duff, of Toronto, weighing 250 pounds, won, and W. A. Small, of Chicago, 215 pounds, wes second. The prizes will be awarded the winners this evening at the Tecumseh House.

TO THE COUNTY CLUB. A large crowd of the "Old Boys" accepted the invitation of the County Club, and assembled at Victoria Park at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and proceeded on wheels and in carriages to the club's beautiful grounds. The Detroit Light Guard Band accompanied them. Dancing will take place at the grounds this evening.

COAL GOING UP

Soft Product Will Jump Again About Se ptember 1.

Detroit Free Press: But two months remain before people will have to begin to stock up to keep out the chilling blast, and naturally many are beginning to think about the supply of coal. When, therefore, a dispatch from Pittsburg chronicled an advance in soft coal a feeling of apprehension took possession of the prospective buyers.

"So far as the Pittsburg product is concerned it will cut but little ice in this market," says W. H. Jones, secretary of the O. W. Shipman Company. "There is very little of that coal used here, and only for special purposes. Consequently the advance in that field will not affect the local market. The Pittsburg output is consumed by the lake and local trade and very little of it comes to Detroit.

"However, there has been an advance in soft coal of ten cents. This was made Aug. 1, and another advance will be made about the 1st of September of ten cents, and again about Oct. 1. It is the usual fall advance of coal used for domestic purposes. The supply, and consequently the price will be in a large measure be decided by the supply of railroad cars. There is a shortage at present, and the cars will continue to be a factor in the coal

"I wouldn't go when I found that Roy wanted to get rid of me!" said the transformed wife. "When I put him into the confessional, he owned who was his fellow-conspirator in the scheme of my banishment. For shame. Cousin, Jane! I have long suspected your of a weakness for my handsome professor, but you sit convicted of a deliberate attempt to remove him from the guardianship of his legal protect-or, that your designs upon his affections might be more vigorously prosecuted. And no sconer do you sup-pose that the coast is clear, than you present yourself, arrayed in your best dress and choicest smiles, and with actually a rose-bud in your brooch! to make sure of your game. I shall never trust in human friendship again!"

You are ungenerous to triumph over me openly—and in the poor, dear doc-tor's hearing!" returned her cousin, holding her fan before her face, with a theatrical show of detected guilt.
"I ought to have some compensation for the excruciating anguish the discovery cost me," returned Jessie, Tongue cannot describe the tremendous strubble I went through before I could bring myself to undertake the investigation of your perfidy and his susceptibility. I know just how poor Ester felt when she screwed her courage to the sticking point, and made up her mind and her toilette to face Ahasuerus and a possible gal-

Roy was pretending to listen to the doctor's elaborate disquisition upon an important political question, but he stole a sidelong glance at the sparkling face, across the hearth, and smiled in gladness of content.

She was his blithe, lovesome witch again. The baleful enchantment that had ensnared her fancy and distracted her thoughts from dwelling upon him and his love—(he refused to believe that he had ever lost her heart)was destroyed, and, by him remembered no more as a thing of dread. More to spare him pain than to shield Orrin, Jessie had not entered into the particulars of her estrang nent, or revealed who was the rame agent in bringing it about. Wy.lys' name was not mentioned by either.

"I had a bad, wild dream—" she thus explained her defection. "A dream that made me doubt you-heaven-myself-everything! that robbed me of love and hope, with faith. I was susceptible, giddy, undisciplined; and I was greviously tempted by an evil spirit. Maybe"—humbly—"I am no better or wiser now; but I am ready and thankful to give myself up to your guidance. I ought to be a good woman in future; for I have been dealt with very tenderly by my Heav-enly Father—and by you, my best earthly friend!" Roy had no fear. His second wooing was, he felt, crowned with richer, more enduring success than the first had been. He cared not to ask, or to confecture by what art his image had been clouded over, since he saw it now clearly mirrored in a heart tried by refining fires.

The christening feast was not held until December, at which date Master Kirke Lanneau Fordham was four months old.

Eunice had taken her school and cottage for a year, and the interesting fete could not be appointed until she could make her arrangements to be with her sister. Work for the good of others, and wholesome meditation, had brought to her, as they must to all healthy, God-fearing souls, healing and peace during the months she had spent in her own domicile. With the June vacation had come Jessie and her husband; and when the little claimant upon their love and care arrived, the lonely woman, who had put thoughts of her own wifehood and maternity from her forever when she turned the key upon the souvenirs of her one love dream, opened her heart and took in with the babe, comfort and hope that were to her fresh and beautiful life. What Roy's arguments and Jessie's entreaties could not accomplish, the innocent young eyes and clinging baby fingers effected within a month of her nephew's birth. If Kirke went to Hamilton she would follow, she promised, and early December saw her domesticated in the Fordham household. "I wish Orrin Wyllys and his wife were not coming this evening!" said Jessie, confidentially, to her sister, as they were arraying the boy for the Eunice looked in no way surprised at

"He cannot hurt you now, love Even poisonous breath soon passes from finely tempered steel." The look and tone silenced the other. Eunice's insight of the tempter's true character was deeper than she ima-gined. Even she never dreamed how,

and at what cost, the knowledge was gained. Miss Kirke was an attractive feature of the assembly that night, Many thought her handsomer than her more lively sister. There was not one present who would not have ridiculed the idea of a comparison between her classic beauty and Mrs. Wyllys' shrewish physiognomy. Once, the two ladies talked together for five minutes, near the center of the front parlor, the light from the chandelier streaming on both. Eunice was dressed with her usual just taste, in a lusterless mourning silk, a tiny illusion ruff enhancing the fairness of neck and face, her abundant hair arranged simply without ornament. She possessed the rare accomplishment of standing still without stiffness, and no nervous play of fingers or features marred the exquisite repose of her bearing as she listened to or replied to her companion Hester was in the full glory of broreade, diamonds, and point lace, with French flowers twisted in her pale tresses, and trailing bramblewise down her back. She fidgeted incessantly; her skin was muddy with biliousness and discontent; she perked her faint eyebrows into a frown every other minute; her laugh was forced, and the viscid tones had a twang of pain or ill-humor. She was getting tired of keeping up the appearance of conjugal felicity with so little assistance from her lord; growing bitterly conscious of the motives that had impelled him to the uncongenial marriage, and disposed to eye jealously every woman to whom he paid the most trifling attention.

"I suppose you are baby-mad, like the rest?" she replied, pulling viciously at the golden chain of her bouquet-holder. "I am in a deplorable min-ority here tonight. Christening parties are always a bore to me. I am so sincere, you know, so apt to say what I think, that I can never go into raptures over the little monkeys, as everybody else does. I presume, now, that it is considered rather a nice childif there is such a thing-isn't it?" "We think him a noble little fellow:

world to agree with us," replied Eunice. with unruffled politeness.
"I detest children! just perfectly abominate babies! I wouldn't have one for a kingdom. And Orrin loves his own case too much to want them. He is an awful hyprocite, Miss Kirke. You were very wise not to get married. He can't abide children"-raising her voice -"although he is making a fool of himself over the bundle of lace, lawn,

Eunice, inwardly provoked at the irreverent and inelegant description of the royal cherub, could yet respond to the ill-judged remark with apparent "He does it from a sense of duty, or a desire to please, probably." She followed the direction of the BRITISH OFFICERS HONORED. Put-in-Bay Island, Aug. 7.-The eight historic cannon which have recently been mounted in the park have been named. They are arranged about the historic "Perry willow," which has heretofore been the only monument to the brave American and British sea-men buried under it. Seven of these cannon are named after Lleut. Garland, Capt. Fannis, Lieut. Stokes and Commodore Barclay, of the British navy, and Lieut. Brooks, Midshipman Lunt and Midshipman Clark, Americans, who died in the battle of Lake Erie. The eighth cannon is named after Commo-

The shock and strain of being fired from a cannon daily through a circus season, would seem to be extraordinary. But it is not nearly so wearing upon the average woman's nervous system, as the strain and drain of the every day life of the married woman, It great shock of is not the which wears the the storm the "continual dropping." So in woman's the great delife it is not mands upon her energy which wear her out, but the interminable leakage of her strength through the diseases that affect the delicate womanly organs.

To stop this ceaseless leakage of strength is as much the desire as the duty of women. It can be done once and for all by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is not a cure-all but it is specially designed for a specific purpose, the cure of the chronic diseases peculiar to women. It dries up the drains, allays inflammations, heals the ulcerations and cures the displacements which are at the bottom of woman's chiseries. There is neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic contained in "Favorita Prescription."

"For five years my wife was in an almost helpless condition, suffering from female weakucss," writes J. S. Everitt, Esq., of Hagerman, Washington Co., Fla. "Last September I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She took several bottles of the medicine and gave birth to a ten pound son on January 31st, 1898. She is now sound and well and doing her housework."

Another Reason Given for M. Delcasse's Visit to the Russian Capital.

UNCLE SAM IN EUROPE. Whatever fanciful reasons are offered for the visit of the French minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, to St. Petersburg, it is safe to assume it has reference to the present unsettled condition of European politics. The appearance of the United States as a worldpower is primarily responsible for this disturbance, and there are repeated LATENT FRICTION between Germany and the United States, the latest being Admiral Dewey's alleged warlike statements, which give European statesmen cause for uneasiness, and are regarded as the motive for Emperor William's overtures for a rapprochement with France, is inclined to meet Emperor William, if once convinced that the Russian alliance has no real value. THE PRIMARY OBJECT OF M. DEL-

CASSE, therefore, is to get public evidence that the alliance holds good, by persuading the czar to visit the Paris Exposition of 1900, and also by personal contact with the Russian court and statesmen, to ascertain to what extent the alliance may be relied upon.

FOR PEACE. The visit of Herr Fischer, the prominent Orange Free State representative, to Pretoria, is regarded hopefully. His influence is expected to lead President Kruger to accept the proposal of the British secretary of state for the colonies, for a joint inquiry into the ef-fect of the franchise bill, will have upon the uitlanders.

NO HOLIDAY.

The young Duke of Albany, a shy, delicate boy, was recently induced by some of the enterprising fellow-Etonians of his own age, to ask the Queen to secure an extra week's holidays in honor of his impending departure for Germany, where he is to commence his education as heir to the grand duchy of Coburg. Her Majesty made the request to the governors of Eton, who, however, declined.

Five Persons Drowned in Returning From & Pleasure Resort-Suicide ot Winnings.

Baltimore, Aug. 7. - Five persons were drowned early Saturday morning by the capsizing of a small rowboat in the northwest branch of the Patapsco River near this city. Their names are Andrew Deems, William J. Lyman, James Welsh, Edward Garry, Mrs. Hoover.

The party was returning from a day's outing at a pleasure resort, and from the statements of Mrs. Deems, the only survivor, were skylarking in the skiff when it capsized. All went into the water, and appear to have sunk immediately, except Mrs. Deems, who clung to the overturned boat until rescued by a policeman, who swam out to the boat and assisted her to land. The woman's husband and sister were among those drowned. The bodies have been recovered. SUICIDE AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 7. — The body of a young man named Walter Tarry, aged about 25, was found on the river bank Friday. It looks like a clear case of suicide, as a bottle half-full of strychnine, and a tin can from which he drank the poison after mixing it with water, were found by his side. He was dressed very shabbily, and nothing is known as to his

FELL OFF A FREIGHT. Kingston, Aug. 7.—John Connors, aged 40 years, of Toronto, fell off a G. T. R. freight train at the city depot on Saturday, and one of his legs was crusher so badly that it will have to be amputated. He and a younger prother. Michael, had been working at Cardinal Canal, and s' ted for home, At Belleville they jumped on a freight and it brought them here. The pair had money but preferred the blind-baggage to the passenger car. LADY AND HER HORSE DROWNED South Manchester, Conn., Aug. 6.— Mrs. E. H. Coburn, of New York, who was spending the summer here at the home of her son, Hewitt Coburn, was drowned in the reservoir on Friday. Mrs. Coburn and a Miss Halstead started out for an early morning drive, and when near the lake Miss Halstead alighted and walked in front of the horse. The animal took fright and backed into the lake. Both Mrs. Coburn and the horse were drowned.

Mrs. Coburn was 65 years of age. Detroit, Aug. 7.-Thomas R. Ryan, of 226 Harrison avenue, this city, was killed by a Michigan Central freight train in Toledo Friday morning. He was a brakeman on the road, and while he was switching cars in the yard, a foot caught in the frog, and he was instantly killed by a passing train. He was married and had a child. He was 25 years old.

Proposition Meets Approval of the People-Delegations From Each Faction Sign the Agreement.

San Francisco, Aug. 7.-The steamer Hong Kong Maru brings the following advices from Honolulu under date of July 29:

The United States steamer Badger, bearing two of the three Samoan com-missioners, arrived at this port Wed-nesday afternoon, July 26, eight days from Apia, on her way to San Francis co. On board are Hon. Bartlett Tripp, United States commissioner, and Baron Von Sternberg, representative of Germany; Mr. C. M. E. Elliot, commissioner for Great Britain, sailed by way of New Zealand and Australia for London to report directly to his government. The latter days of the commission's stay in Samoa were devoted to evelving a political organism that would be satisfactory to the Samoans, and would work satisfactorily to all parties concerned under the tripartite treaty. The scheme was adopted. The members of the commission decline to state its particulars until it has been referred to their respective governments, but they have given out that Samoa will in future be ruled by a white gover-nor appointed by the three powers, much as the chief justice is at present. The latter is still smarting under the humiliation of the Fashoda affair and There will be a native council or legislature, but the governor will have the veto power, and the chief justice will be the final authority in the land, from whom there will be no appeal. This arrangement met the approval of the Samoans. The day before the com-mission sailed, delegations of thirteen men from each faction met on the Badger and signed the articles, thus officially approving the arrangements in the names of their respective chiefs, Mataafa and Malietoa. When the commission sailed all was quiet, and seemed likely to remain so.

Residents of Samoa have filed with the commissioners claims aggregating $440,000 for property destroyed during the recent temporary occupation of Mulinuu by American and British sailors. The largest claim is from the Catholic Marist mission, $22,000, and is for the looting of the premises by natives, upon instructions, it is said, of the British commander. Another is from a German firm, $19,000, for much the same reasons. Other claims are from settlers, whose property was damaged in various ways. J. F. Hackfeld, for the past five years consul-general in the Hawaiian Islands for Austro-Hungary, has resigned that position. Mr. Hackfeld is interested in the Oahu plantation, which employ a number of Galician laborers, subjects of Austria. Some time ago a number of these laborers refused to work according to their contracts, and were arrested and tried, convicted and sent to jail until such time as they would take up their duties at the plantations. Mr. Hackfeld resigned because he felt he could not honorably remain in a position where his official duties would seem to conflict with his business in-

Ohristian Scientists Worship for the First Time in Their New Edifice.

Large Congregations in Attendance-Visitors Present From Many Parts of Canada and the United States -Interesting Services.

Yesterday was an auspicious day in the history of Christian Science in this outy, it being the occasion of the opening and dedication of the First Church of Christ's (Scientist) new edifice.

On July 12 last the old St. James' Presbyterian Church property was purchased and taken over by the board of directors of the First Church (Scientist). Since that time it has been undergoing repairs, and was completely renowated throughout. The congregation at yesterday morning's service completely filled the spacious building, which was prettily decorated with palms and foliage. Visiting prethren and sisters were present from a great many parts of Canada and the United States, and were deeply interested in the services. Rev. D. S. Robb, C. S. B., first reader of the church, spoke words of welcome to the visitors, and to the members of the congregation, who had gathered together to share the joy of the opening of the new church. He stated that in spite of much opposition, through honest and open investigations, it was becoming more and more clear that Christian Science was Christ's true doctrine. In 1891 he had come to London, and started to hold parlor meetings in the interest of his belief. The following year a church was established, with 40 members, and met in a hall. A few months ago the board of directors decided to have the church incorporated, which was accomplished on May 15 last. The church has a membership of 100, and a flourishing Sabbath school. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the author of the Christian Science text-book.

Rev. Arthur Vosburg, of Rochester, was first reader, and Mrs. Ruth B. Ewing, second reader, at the morning service. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. W. F. Pickard, choirmaster and organist, Toronto, rendered special music. Mr. Herbert Connop, of Brant-ford, sang "The Holy City," in fine Radiant with flags and bunting, resonant with music, and bubbling over with good fellowship and convivialityit is a long time since London has been so gay and animated as on Saturday. The Old Boys and the Old Girls found the heart of the old town throbbing with hospitality. They found "Welcome" written everywhere, and the glad hand extended with an open palm.

WOULDN'T GO TO SPRINGBANK. The first feature of the "official" programme after dinner was the trip to Springbank, where games and sports had been arranged. But the best-laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley. The Old Boys simply wouldn't go, and as the Old Boys owned the city, for the time being, they had their way. They knew the origin of the Springbank project; they knew it was deliberately planned, in spite of the sentiment of the city, and they declined to be used as the tools of the street ed to be used as the tools of the street railway company, when their sympathies were all on the other side.

"At 1:30 sharp," said the "official" programme, "all will assemble again at city hall and proceed to the park, where the afternoon's programme will be carried out." At 1:30 p.m., sure enough, from 1,500 to 2,000 of the Old Boys and their friends assembled outside the city hall. They crowded Richmond street from kerb to kerb. Nearside the city hall. They crowded Richmond street from kerb to kerb. Nearly every man wore a "We Walk" ticket in his hatband. The street cars, with an occasional Springbank trailer, wedged through the mass, and were jeered and ridiculed good-naturedly. The members of the local reception committee were in a state of paryous Standay the Sabsata Saturation and in the arcade and discussed the situation. The Springbank clique vowed that the programme would be care Many letters of regret were received ried out. But how? The Old Boys would not set foot on a street car. Neither would any of the bands. Without the Old Boys and the bands what would become of the programme.

THE HORNS OF A DILEMMA.

It was a most embarrassing and uncomfortable predicament. Level-headed members of the committee had foreseen it, but the warnings had fallen on deaf ears. Outside the city hall the Old Boys and their friends waited patiently for some signal from the committee. The Seventh Band meantime entertained them. The street cars glided by empty.

THE CLOUDS BREAK.

About a score of the members of the local reception committee hurriedly conferred in the council chamber, and unanimously decided to order a change of programme, to conform to the wishes of the visitors. Ald. Parnell, Graham, McCallum, Wilkey, and other committeemen then appeared at the window overlooking the street. Ald. Parnell was the spokesman, and announced to the listening crowd that as it was evident the visitors objected to going to Springbank, they had decided to substitute a concert in Victoria Park. He hoped the crowd would march thither with the band.

At this there was tremendous cheering, and the Old Boys threw their hats up in glee. The Seventh struck up a lively marching tune; the Old Boys fell in line behind and, cheering all the way, they paraded to the park, where they were speedily followed by thousands.

AT SPRINGBANK. The street railway company saw that the game was up, and ordered the Springbank cars into the barn. But a section of the committee, headed by Ald. McPhillips and Ald. Carrothers, were provoked at the defeat of their pet project. They immediately met in the city hall, and determined that the "official" programme should be carried out. They interviewed Mr. W. A. Small, president of the Chicago Old Boys' Association, and several of his brother officers, but these gentlemen declined to entertain any proposition to Springbank on the street cars. Ald. McPhillips, Ald. Carrothers, et al., then decided to go to Springbank themselves. They telephoned to the street railway company for cars, but the company replied that the Springbank cars had been ordered to the barns "for fear of trouble." Finally a car and a trailer were sent along, and the Springbank coterie boarded it.

Not more than 150 people went to Springbank in the afternoon. Bicycles, carriages and the street cars were the means of locomotion used by the handful of holiday-makers. The party gathered slowly, and was lost in the reaches of the park. About 3 o'clock a street car and a trailer bearing several members of the reception committee and other citizens arrived. In due time the baseball match, the first number on the "official programme," got under way. Sides were chosen, and in the absence of visiting Old Boys, both sides were composed of citizens. The captains were Frank Love and R. Southam. Mr. Love's team won, the score being 9 to 6. The players on the winning team were: F. Love, 1 b.; W. B. Laidlaw, 8 b.; J. S. Bell, p.; W. THE MEETING OF THE DISSENTI-ENTS.

The meeting of the members of the reception committee, called by the Springbank advocates, was held in the city hall at 4 p.m., Chairman McPhillips presiding. The chairman expressed regrets at the lamentable turn affairs had taken. He blamed it on wire-pullers. He (the chairman) had been hissed. He never felt more disgusted in his life. It would spoil all future reunions of the Old Boys in London. The committee had tele-grams from all the Old Boys' committees leaving all arrangements to the citizens' committee, and that committee, after due deliberation, arrived at an agreement, and every man should have endeavored to carry out that programme.

It was suggested that the Old Boys present be heard, but ex-Ald. Bennet demurred, saying it was not a matter in which the visitors should be brought He thought whatever the true feeling of the boys of London that the boys from outside would follow it up. By a vote of 35 to 22 the local meeting decided to go to Springbank. The meeting was made unanimous.

And if any member of that committee was not willing to take his responsibility and carry out that and go to Springbank he should not be on another committee. other committee. He moved that every member of the committee get on street cars and ride to Spring-bank. Ald. Plant asked that the motion be not made binding.

The Chairman—Then you are not in favor of carrying out the arrangements of the committee, whose programme you had printed?

Ald. Plant replied that he was in favor up to Thursday night. Spring-bank had been decided on after the programme had been printed. Mr. F. A. Duff, of the Toronto Old Boys' Association, said arrangements had been left to the London committee and the Toronto boys were pre-pared to abide by the committee. Mr. J. J. Ward, Toronto, declined to agree with Mr. Duff. Mr. Ward said it was distinctly understood by the To-ronto Old Boys at their meeting on Thursday night that they would not

Thursday night that they would not be required to ride on the street cars. Mr. H. T. Smith, Toronto, corroborated Mr. Ward. There was no mention of Springbank at the Toronto meeting, but there was a thorough understanding that the Toronto Old Boys would not be asked to go where they would have to use the cars.

Mr. Walter Bartlett, city, said the committee should never have decided to go to Springbank if they did not intend to carry out the vote of that committee. They had been made fools of. Every merchant had been called on to turn out and make the thing look well for the return of the Old Boys. This thing of being afraid to do this and afraid to do that would not do. They must stand out. Business men were losing at both ends. They were paying more taxes, while receipts were decreasing.

President Owens, of the Toronto Old Boys' Association, said the visitors were disappointed. Who had done it? At their meetings in Toronto it was unanimously understood that the city had extended its courtesy and freedom, and the Old Boys would do what they were wanted to. Ex-Ald. Bennet claimed that not more than five members of the committee had voted against the decision to go to Springbank. A motion to go to Springbank was then put and declared carried. A number dissented.
