IRVING AND HIS WIFE. Why the Great Actor Does Not Live

With Her-She Did Not Appreciate His Genius.

"Did you ever hear the reason why Irving and his wife live apart?" said one man. "Well," he continued, "Irving married when very young and very poor. He was a junior member of a traveling company, and it was not until his marriage knot had been firmly tied that he discovered how averse to the stage his wife was. She never lost an opportunity to run down the profession, and she made a practice of telling her husband that he had better turn to some other profession before it was too late, for he could never make an actor. This sort of thing lasted for several years, and finally the Irvings agreed to live apart. All this time Irving's fame had been increasing in the provinces, and finally late in sixties he was engaged to play

Mathias in London. "John Toole's brother, a great chum of Irving, meanwhile had tried to bring nusband and wife together again. The econciliation took place on the day of the first performance of "The Bells." Mrs. Irving magnanimously agreed to waive her objections to the theater for once and to witness her husband's performance. "Of course everyone knows the result of that performance. It was one of the greatest triumphs ever scored in a London theater. It made Irving in a night. Directly after the performance, flushed and elated by his triumph, Irving hurried to his wife's rooms. She was sitting up, waiting "'Well,' he exclaimed, with the enthusiasm of a school boy, 'what did you think of me tonight?' "'What did I think?" remarked the wife in a withering tone, 'I thought I had never seen you act so foolish be-

MRS. MAYBRICK AGAIN. London, July 13.-The release of Mrs. Florence Maybrick is more probable to be decided upon during the present month than at any period since her conviction. The custom of the Home Office is to review sentences passed on female convicts at the end of seven rears from the date of sentence. Mrs. Maybrick has now been seven years in prison, and although the Home Secretary announced lately that he had reconsidered the case and held to the conviction, there is reason to hope that he will assent to a revision of office of the architect of the Board of Education up till 5 p.m. on Monday, July 20, for the several branches and departments of the works mentioned above. Dastardly Election Fraud in North Ontario.

Ballot Boxes Robbed and Counterfeit Ballots Inserted.

Mr. Davin Gets a Seat Through Marks of Returning Officers.

Whitby, July 13 .- Sensational developments characterized the North Ontario recount, concluded here on Saturday. In five polling subdivisions there were found with Warden Duncan Graham's ballots 21 ballots marked for Mr. McGillivray. These fraudulent ballots had been substitued for ones that had been counted for Mr. Graham on election night by the different deputies and certified to by the scrutineers representing the two candidates. They were found as follows: Polling subdivision 4, 2 ballots; No. 18, 3; No. 27, 5, and No. 33, 6. None of them were initialed, and, though beautifully marked with crosses in the disk opposite Major McGillivray's name, the precaution of folding them up first before placing them with the genuine ballots had been overlooked, so that they were without a crease, and could never have passed through the slots into the ballot boxes. The total vote cast was 4,714, of which 2,344 were decided by Judge Burnham to be for Mr. McGillivray, and 2,334 for Mr. Graham, with 36, including the 21 fraudulent ones, rejected, so that Mr. McGillivray holds the seat until he carries out the intention of resigning it, which Judge Burnham told the Globe correspondent Mr. McGillivray expressed during the renet, sworn in this afternoon by the count, when the facts as to the fraudulent ballots became clear, and also that when Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, who appeared for Mr. Graham, announced that the election would be protested, Mr. McGillivray stated that he would not become the defendant in such an action. Judge Burnham allowed ballots with crosses in the oblong space, also when marked in any other way to clearly indicate the voter's intention. Although in his written finding in the recount Judge Burnham simply states the fraudulent ballots were found with Mr. Graham's, and that they were not initialed, in conversation with the Globe correspondent he freely discussed the matter and expressed his abhorrence of such a crime. As the aggravating details of the recount became public, the feeling, irrespective of political sentiments, is very strong here that so bold and reckless an attempt to tamper with the ballot papers, as is clearly evident has been done in the case of the North Ontario election between the date of the official count, July 6, and Friday, ought to be thoroughly investigated, and the guilty persons pun-dshed. In his decision the judge rejected the twenty-one ballots which had been substituted for the twenty-one stolen from the Graham package. This left Mr. McGillivray's honest vote 2,344, but, as twenty-one of Mr. Graham's ballots had been stolen, his total was left at 2,334. Adding these twenty-one stolen ballots, Mr. Graham would have a majority of eleven.

jority of 1,820. CANNOT STAND. Winnipeg, July 13 .- Judge Richardson on Friday declared Mr. Davin elected for West Assiniboia. He threw out two McInnis votes, because they had been numbered by the deputy returning officer. This brought the count out a tie, and the returning officer gave a casting vote for Davin.
There is considerable feeling at Regina over the matter and $600 was subscribed freely by the mayor and other citizens to go on with the protest. Mr. Macdonnell, the Liberal member for Selkirk, is confirmed in his seat, the Conservative application for a recount having fallen through on account of the necessary fees being paid to the wrong court officer.

Terrible Accident to an Excursion Train in Iowa.

Twenty-Seven Persons Killed and Many Injured.

The Disaster Occurred While Rounding a Curve-Names of the Dead and Injured.

Omaha, Neb., July 13 .- An appalling

eccident to an excursion train occurred Saturday evening at Logan, Iowa, 35 miles east of this city, on the line of the Chicago and Northwestern in which 27 persons, living in this city, Council Bluffs, Missouri Valley, and intervening points, were killed, and 40 injured. Many of the injured will in all probability die.

The train consisted of fifteen coaches, filled with members of the way Methodist Tabernacle, Toronto, has extended a unanimous call to Rev. J. Van Wyck, of Gore Street Church, Hamilton, formerly of Strath-

Union Pacific Pioneers' Association, of Omaha, and their families and friends. The excursion party left Omaha early in the day, picking up recruits at Council Bluffs, Missouri Valley and Woodbine, Iowa. Its destination was Logan, Iowa. About 7 o'clock in the evening the journey home was commenced. The train had hardly passed the limits of the city erland, he was born into an extraorand was rounding a curve, when it was run into by a fast freight, and all the coaches were ditched.

AN AWFUL SCENE. Both engines and the first passenger coach were demolished. The shrieks of women and the moans of injured and dying in the gathering gloom rose above the crash of the heavy machinery and the screeching of escaping steam from the wrecked locomotives. The engineers and firemen of both engines jumped, and both crews escaped without injury. Conductor Modelin, of the freight, says that he was running under orders, and that the excursion train was not. The engineer and fireman of the excursion disappeared after the

TO THE RESCUE. Immediately on receipt of the news in Omaha, a special train was made up and a number of physicians and surgeons were sent to the scene of the wreck. The news spread like wildfire, and hundreds spent the night at the Union passenger depot awaiting the arrival of the train bearing the dead and wounded. The scene was a pathetic one in the extreme as the names were bulletined, and several women fainted and had to be taken home in carriages.

FELL FROM A CHURCH ROOF. Palmersten, Ont., July 13.-Saturday evening, as the workmen on the Presbyterian Church were about to trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a helf bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Presbyterian Church were about to quit work, one of the guy ropes slipped from its fastenings, and in an instant the whole of the heavy roof timbers crashed to the ground, killing a workman named John Whitely, about 35 years of age. Several others, who were on the roof at the time, had very narrow escapes. Deceased leaves a widow and one child.

ord Ronald Gower Says It Must End.

He Wrote a Letter to the London Chronicle Denouncing Tall Hats, but So Far is Not Meeting With Success.

The N. Y. Herald asks: Is the tall hat to go at last? It has been with us for more than a century. Its stiff hideousness had been more or less remotely foreshadowed for centuries before its actual appearance—now in the ungainly chimney-pot of the Roundhead and the Puritan, again in the dissenting broad brim of the early Quakers. During all the period of its actual life, it has been the object of almost universal execration. Yet it has held its own against all opposition.

Our restless Western fashions feast With every varying dish's lures, But changeless as the unchanging East, Firm above flux the hat endures.

But now Lord Ronald Gower says that it is doomed. He has headed a new revolt against it. To the London correspondent of the Paris edi-erland, he was born into an extraordinary social position. But he does not believe in birth alone as a passport to consideration. Worth above birth is his motto. Why, the man might make an excellent citizen of the United States if he would only come over and be naturalized. In this glorious Republic it is well known that we prize nothing save worth. Birth! Pshaw, we look upon that as an exploded superstition. No one here ever runs after a lord with the disgusting sycophancy of the average Briton. Our lovely daughters wouldn't think of marrying a lord unless to the meretricious accident of birth he added the more solid attainment of worth.

Now to prove his worth, Lord Ronald Gower has taken up the study of art. He is a sculptor of European reputation. His dual position as a social leader and as authority on aes-thetics make him a powerful cham-pion of right in the matter of hats. And the right, in his view, involves an uncompromising hatred of the tall hat and a determination to do away with it at all hazards.

So for the moment he has dropped the chisel to take up the pen. A sharp, keen, incisive pen it is, and he dipped it in gail in order the better to express the full measure of his detestation. But he talks even better than he writes. The best contribution he has yet made to this important discussion is his interview with the

The latter found his Lordship amiably brimming over with indignation at the lack of artistic sense in the British public. He had just received the groans of the wounded mingled this anonymous postcard from a mean souled assailant:

Sir,-In today's Daily Chronicle your detter is simply stupid. A good silk hat is considered a fitting covering for Brains, but you, I fear, have (sic) but little use for such. Yours respectfully, TOLERATION.

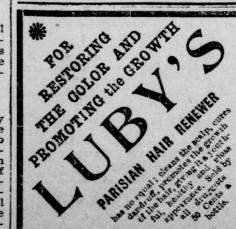

Holy Trinity, will preach to them on allowed admission. Headless trunks, bodies without limbs, and limbs withmons, for instance, that England has a greater percentage of young baldheaded men to show than other counries. As indirect proof of cause and effect Lord Ronald instanced the Blue Coat Boys-who never wear a head covering, and who, it is asserted, are earely bald in after life. But this is a rare exception, for though Britannia rules the waves she cannot rightfully assert that her never will be slaves when in fact they are held in the bondage of tyrannous custom. Alas and alack! there are moments when even so independent a man as Lord Ronald Gower himself has to bend to public opinion and don the "topper." And the masses copy the upper classes in their aberrations. "And as for the hideousness of the thing, just fancy if you can," added his Lordship, "the Apollo Belvedere, or the Hermes of Praxiteles attired in a frock coat and a silk hat.' Even the Prince of Wales, who is to London "the glass of fashion and the mould of form," no sooner leaves the capital than he patronizes the "bowler," the "billycock," and, above all, that variety which is generally known as the "Tyrolese;" but his Royal Highness has a preference for silk hats "in town '

Has the wave of reform started by Lord Ronald reached these shores? Have the first echoes of the conflict rung in the ears of our Anglomaniac dudes? Only one dealer had ever heard the name of Lord Ronald Gower. All claimed that the American was too loval to his own country, too wedded to his opinions to submit to transatlantic dictation. Some of them did, indeed, admit that about six years ago-i.e., about the time when the Prince of Wales first affected the Derby hat-there was a slight decrease in the sale of tall hats. But they claimed that through synchronous the two facts were not interdependent. They attributed the increased sale of the Derby, the decreased sale of the tile to economical reasons. Depression in trade had stimulated thrift, that was all.

As to the tall hat, the unanimous opinion of New York experts is that it is practically immortal. Not ridicule, not the love of the beautiful. not the example of an effete foreign anistocracy can divorce the Yankee from the hat to which he is indissolubly wedded.

HIS BOY'S DEATH KILLED HIM. Saginaw, Mich., July 13.—Joseph Mader lost by death his 16-year-old son on Friday, a lad of very lovable disposition and bright promise. Defections from the Ranks of the Salisbury Government.

In a Muddle Over the Irish

Land Bill.

An Unparalleled Naval Spectacle Promised This Week.

Preparations for Princess Maud's Wedding-The Duchess of Albany's Sensational Ride - Arthur Balfour Called Down by Salisbury.

London, July 12.-The Suakin debate in the House of Commons revealed a serious defection from the Government ranks and a great reduction of the "Unionist" majority over the question of making the ordinary pay of the native troops sent to the Soudan a charge upon the revenues of India. Many prominent "Unionists" voted egainst the Government. Sir William Harcourt has exulted, probably prematurely, over the disintegration of the "Unionist" majority, which, he agreedy falling to pieces. Affairs in Rhodesia are not improving. The Matabele revolt is still formidable, and Col. Plummer is embarrassed by the difficulties of transport. There seems to be a lack of administrative efficiency in Buluwayo, and the officials are not pulling together. Mr. Rhodes is piainly doing more harm than good, and would not be missed if he were to return to the Cape and attend to his private business affairs. The Chartered Company, by its want of administrative attility, is furnishing convincing proof of the necessity of a thorough Parliamentary inquiry and the conversion of Rhodesia into a systematically governed country. The Cretans are yielding to European pressure, and will probably take advantage of the Sultan's terms of amnesty, and be well represented in the assembly which the new Christian Governor-General has called together. asserts, is already falling to pieces.

IN A MUDDLE. The Government has gotten into a muddle over the Irish Land Bill, which measure is acceptable neither to the Nationalists nor to the Ulsterttes, as it stands. Gerald Balfour, the the Chief Secretary for Ireland, has tried to conciliate both parties by amendments, with the only result of increased discontent among both. It is understood that T. W. Russell, Liberal ber of the South Division of Tyrone, threatens to oppose the measure if the Government persists in the amendments, and it seems likely that the Government will have to with-draw the bill altogether.

THE BRITISH NAVY. The enormous unarmored cruiser Terrible, recently built on the Clyde trip from Glasgow to Portsmouth, and it is asserted that her maximum speed was 24 knots, which is certainly remarkable in view of her size and length, 14,200 tons and 500 feet respectively. Not less remarkable the Terrible's coal-carrying capanaval experts are not satisfied, how-ever. They are still crying aloud for more men, more quick-firing guns and such like things, which, of course, mean more money. The leader of the malcontents, Captain Lord Charles Beresford, loses no opportunity of warning Englishmen that they are living in a fool's paradise, and being deceived by the very people who ought to tell them the whole truth. No doubt, he says, we are gradually remedying the grave defect of too few ships, but what is the good of building ships if you don't at the same time increase the number of this occasion a larger naval force than was ever before mobilized by one power in the history of the world. The number of ships that will take part in the maneuvers will be about 105, compared with the 75 vessels which were sent to sea for the same venirs, and they persuaded the waitpurpose last year. Every class of venirs, and they persuaded the waited fleets mobilized, including 15 battleships, 25 cruisers, 21 gunboats, 20 for common steel knives, which, it torpedo destroyers, 24 torpedo boats, and a number of dispatch vessels and other craft. There will be 22,000 men on board these fleets. The leading point to be decided by the maneuvers is expected to be whether torpedo destroyers can effectually protect blockading ships against torpedo boats. Last year they proved able to catch and sink torpedo boats, but and sink torpedo boats but int to be decided by the maneuvers were not able to hinder them entirely from catching the ships. The admirality announce that a feature of the mimic war will be the watching of one fleet in part by the other. The spectacle in Plymouth Sound, where the channel fleet is anchored, is the finest ever witnessed. The vessels cover an area of nearly two miles cover an area of nearly two miles within range of the national Armada memorial at Plymouth Hoe.

MAUD'S MARRIAGE. The arrangements for the garden party at Buckingham Palace on Monday are on a gigantic scale. Two tons of fruit, especially picked for the occasion, will be sent from the Windsor Castle orchards. The gardens of the palace are now filled with materials for the party. It has now been decided that there will be three prossions from the state apartments to the private chapel, the members of the private chapel, the members of the royal family and the royal guests, the bridegroom and his supporters, and bride and the bridesmaids. The Queen will be wheeled to the entrance of the chapel, which she will enter alone, just before the bride. The Queen's state trumpeters, outside of the chapel, will herald the arrival of each procession with a fanfare. Princess Maud has already received five picycles as wedding presents. Regarding the marriage settlement, appears that Princess Maud will ave $4,000 out of the allowance

In the Lords the debate on the Dethe lucid and eloquent speech of the Duke of Argyli, was not a brilliant one, and was wound up in a depressing style by Lord Dunraven; but the bill, which has been dabated more or less earnestly for forty years, was passed by a majority of 38. As the House of Commons will not have time to consider it this session, the struggle will again be renewed another year, with increasing probability of the final entities. increasing probability of the final en-autment of the bill. A majority of the newspapers express themselves as satisfied with the adoption of the bill. It is believed that at least twothirds of the members of the Lower House are in favor of the measure, while, outside, it can safely be said that the mass of the people, except a section of the church party, is also in favor of the bill.

THE QUEEN CREATES A BREEZE. Queen Victoria has sent an official invitation to young Czar Nicholas and his wife to visit Balmoral during the coming autumn, and the news of this of the Czar's wife, and certainly had no idea of arousing international pas-slone: but it looks as though that would be the result if the Czar comes to this country. The French ambassader has been instructed, so the story goes to delicately hint to the Czar that he had much better stay at home, or, if he wants a change, that he should take it on French soil. It is should seem probable that if the there was a generous display not only he should take it on French soil. It would seem probable that if the French should presume to give advice and make representations in connection with such a purely family affair as a visit to Queen Victoria, the Czar, as likely as not, will tell the Frenchmen to mind their own business. The German Emperor seems to think that if he is not to go to England this year, no other man diplomats undoubtedly would regard the Czar's visit to this country as an intentional rebuke to their efforts to get England within the meshes of the Triple Alliance. Hence meshes of the Triple Alliance. Hence it is possible that there will be a prodigious pother over a distinctly innocent transaction on the part of a sovereign, of whom it may truly be said that she personally has never, in the 60 years of her reign, made a serious mistake of policy or etiquette in dealing with foreign monarchs and international questions.

CALLED DOWN. Arthur Balfour has been forbidden by Lord Salisbury to make a speech at the annual meeting of the Bimetallic League on London, as arranged. This course was taken by Salisbury, owning to fear that his nephew, who is an enthusiastic bi-metallist, might make references unpalatable to the United States. Balfor the navy, maintained a speed of four was to have introduced to the is to address the league on the monetary question. Salisbury's interference is looked upon in some quarters as another proof of the anxious desire of the English authorities avoid all cause of offense to the United States.

city, enabling her to steam 25,000 miles without recoaling. Her sister ship, the Powerful, is soon to be in commission, and then the British Admirally may claim to hold the world's the Duchess of Albany riding on a rd in this class of vessels. The fire engine, clinging to the brasswork, while the horses were galloping at a great pace. The Duchess of Albany and the Princess Elizabeth of Wal-deck-Pyrmont had been visiting the chief fire station, where they saw the fire escape and water tower drill, as well as a mock fire in a huge building at the back of the station, from which the occupants were rescued by the firemen. The Princess and Duchess then went for a drive in answer to a supposed fire alarm. The of Albany was greatly amused, but she got a good shaking.

men?
The maneuvers of this week will be on a larger scale than yet attempted. They will open with a preliminary cruise, followed by tactical exercises. A sham war will be the maxt feature of the programme. The ships will be divided into the channel and reserve fleets. The latter, according to the scheme, protects the coast against the channel squadron. Great Britain will send to sea upon this occasion a larger naval force than THE ANCIENTS IN LONDON. transpires, were the property of the contractor at Windsor, who supplied the feast, and had never been used inside the castle.

STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS EX-PECTED.

Lord Salisbury has arranged to leave London early in August for the Riviera. Parliament will not have adjourned before the Premier starts, but reasons of health, and of State also, expedite his departure. Special importance is attached at the Foreign Office to his sojourn in the Riviera. Recent communications from the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Duke of Sermonita, expressed the desire to have a personal conference with Lord Salisbury, with the view, it is understood, to discuss the Anglo-Italian relations in all their bearings. Lord Salisbury has received an important statement from the Duke of Sermonita setting forth the policy of Italy concerning the retention of Kassala, the understanding with England for payal co-operation in mainland for naval co-operation in maintaining the balance of power in the taining the balance of power in the Mediterranean, the French occupation of Tunis and the encroachments of France upon Tripoli. Nothing less than a wider and close understanding between England and Italy, especially directed egainst France, is anticipated in English official circles from the conference. The result will bring England, it is expected, into closer relations with the Driebund, and will lead to some startling developments. lead to some startling developments of German policy in Eastern Africa.

THE WEDDING OUTFUT. The coming marriage at Buckingham Palace once more demonstrates Regarding the marriage settlement, the partial release of fashionable London from the thraidom of Paris. Most don from the thraidom of Paris. Most of the dresses, not only of the bride, but of the princesses and peeresses inof Wales in 1889 and the Crown Princess of Denmark makes an allowance of f10,000 to Prince Charles. The couple will occupy a suite of rooms in the palace of the King of Greece at Copenhagen, and they will also occupy a villa near Boinsterf Castle, as their country residence in Denmark, while a small mansion at Appleton, near Sandringham, will be the English home of the couple. Thus they will have £4,000 to £16,000 a year and no rent to pay.

Beautiful and Impressive Scenes in the Junior Tent-Cleveland Takes the Banner.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—The services in the junior tent of the Christian Endeavorers Saturday were partioularly beautiful and impressive. A special service had been prepared for the occasion by Mrs. James Hill, of Salem, Mass., entitled "The Juniors' Love of Country." And to carry this into execution required the participasolos and choruses, and made a pret-ty spectacle on the large stage, array-ed in the red, white and blue. They stirred the vast audience to frequent manifestations of applause and appre-

The meeting in Tent Washington was also one of the most successful of the whole convention, and the Salvationists and the fine male chorus aroused the vast assembly to a mar-velous height of enthusiasm. General Booth-Tucker made a strong impression, and in his peculiar style succeeded in addressing himself to each and every one of his auditors.

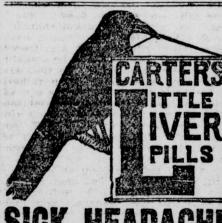

In the Christian Endeavor meeting at night President Clark presented the Christian Endeavor banner to the Endeavor Union of Cleveland, O., for the best work during the year in promoting Christianity. Syracuse, N. Y., has held this banner for the past year. Nashville, Tenn., was selected as the next meeting place.

A list of 80 meetings, arranged to be held in the tents and churches Sunday evening, offered various attractions to 40,000 Christian Endeavor dele gates in attendance here upon the fifteenth international convention. The were mostly denominational rallies, and they drew large crowds, according to the numerical strength of each particular denomination. The Baptists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists occupied the three tents on the White Lot. Speeches were made at these rallies by prominent members of the several denominations.

Following these rallies Evangelist B. Fay Mills, of Fort Edward, N. Y., addressed a large audience of citizens in Tent Washington. A Sabbath ob servance meeting was held also in Central Hall, Mr. Wm. Shaw, of Boston, presiding. Speeches were made by Wilbur F. Crafts, of Washington; Mrs. H. T. McEwen, of New York,

At seven o'clook Sunday night Christian Endeavor meetings were held in all the churches of the city. Preaching services, both morning and evening, in the city churches, were well attended by the citizens and En-from impure blood, which develops scrofulous ulcers on the eyeballs, iritis. granulated eyelds, etc. In such cases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been marvelously successful in restoring sight. It shows its powers as a blood purifier and radical cure for scrofula, by removing the cause, thus curing the eyes and restoring all the affected parts to healthy condition. Read this:

'As an act of justice and for the benefit of other mothers who may have afflicted children, I write this. About the first of February, 1892, my daughter Zola, then three years old, contracted sore eyes of the worst formand in a few weeks was entirely blind, being unable to tolerate light of any kind. She suffered and cried until I was almost heartbroken. The best eye specialist in the county treated her for months, but the became worse. Then I took her to a specialist in Indianapelis, who said he could do nothing. I came away with a heavy heart. I met my father's physician, Dr. Berryman, who examined Zola's eyes, and told me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began to give it as directed and wash her eyes with warm water. Soon I began to notice improvement, and now, having given the child over a half dozen bottles, her eyes are greatly improved and she can see as well as any one. She is five years of age, and goes to school. When she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, she had to eat her meals in a darkened room, but now she is able to sit at the table with the rest of the family." MRS. OLLIE BUSER, Colfax, Indiana.

SOME BICYCLE PROVERBS. It is a wise man who looks to his bicycle before he takes it with him on the road. The last ride may have loosened a nut here, a screw there, or strained some little part to which a moment's attention will prevent a complete breakdown. Other bicycle proverbs from St. Paul's are to the following effect:

A wise man feareth and departeth rom crowded streets, but the foel rideth and is confident. A scorcher loveth not one who reproveth him; neither will he go into the police station.

A flat road maketh a cheerful countenance; but by a steep hill is the spirit broken. When a biker's way please the constable, he maketh even the 'bus drivers to be at peace with him. Whose mocketh the divided skirt, reproacheth his manhood; and he that is glad at a skirt lifted by the wind shall not be unpunished. It is better to ride alone on a "bone-

The police magistrate called Rae up, and then Mr. Hogg, remarking as he sized them both up, "He didn't stand much of a chance with you." Rae admitted it was an accident, he having struck the old gentleman in the heat of passion. John Burdick and Wm. Cain, two Frederick C. Arons, a colored artist, had made a contract with Mrs. Paladino to do some painting, whitewashing and paper-hanging. The price was to be $8, he to do the work within a specified time. It appears that he hired William Howard to help him, and when the job was partly done he went to Port Stanley on a picnic. Mrs. Paladino then made a new contract with Howard to complete the work. Hence the suit. Arons sued for $3 50. He was sent to the division court.

A Pleasant Afternoon and Evening at Port Stanley.

Fine Music-A Ball Game-Races and a Good Time Generally.

The annual outing of the men who make the newspapers was held at Port Stanley on Saturday, and many hundred printers roamed around the shore of old Erie. The inevitable "devils" were there, too, and the coolness with which they "pied" the lunch baskets was characteristic of their class. The gathering was smaller than would otherwise have been the case, on account of the ball match and the proximity of the Twelfth, but those who did go thoroughly enjoyed themselves. and will remember in the future to wait for this event-the union printers' picnic. The major portion of the excursionists did not leave the city until the 1:30 train, and this was followed by another one at 2:30. The band accompanied the 1:30 train. played for half an hour at the depot before starting, and were applauded on each number. The crowd stepped aboard to the sweet strains of "Manhattan Beach.' On arriving at Port Stanley a "full galley" of events was entered upon. There were no "outs" in this galley, and the whole business came off without a "ringer." The "form" of the different contestants as they "chased" one another around and became mixed up like "pi," was amusing to the on-

The baseball match was the feature of the games. It was between nine picked from the job rooms and pitted against those from the news rooms. Howell pitched italic "S" which the job men could not hit with the "shootin'-stick," making the affair a "horrible case" as far as they were concerned. They were captained by Alex. Woonton, and he, together with Begg, were the only two to cross the "plate." In the sixth inning Ferguson, for the news room nine, thumped the ball into the lake. ner in which the bloycle service was employed by the Associated Press for the delivering of verbatim reports of the convention during the night ses-sions to the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company down town. Three expert blevole riders were employed—Alfred H. Shughue, M. H. Beebe, and W. W. Phelps. These men rode in relays similar to that of the peny express, employed to deliver the United States mall over the plains in former times. The first rider con-veyed the report as far as Fifty-fifth street and Michigan avenue, where it was delivered to a fresh rider, who proceeded with it to Thirty-first street; there it was delivered to a third rider, who conveyed it to the Western Union building, where, through pneumatic tubes, it was delivered to the various newspaper offices of the city. A practical test of this system proved its great efficiency, and the young genlemen so employed won encomiums for the promptness with which they performed their work.

Arthur Rae, for Astaulting Old Mr. Hogg Makes Money Compensation-The Case Settled

The city Police Court this morning had quite a large number of onlookers. The docket was empty, save for one solitary drunk, who was arrested on Saturday night for monopolizing all of Dundas street by wobbling and abusing his bicycle. His name is Jas. Wall, and he lives at Watford.

Arthur Rae, the young man who was charged by Henry Hogg with assaulting and cutting his father, Thos. nouse, take his wife out dining, and Hogg, old and partially blind, was a penitent. Mr. Frank Love appeared for him, and Mr. McKillop crown. Mr. Love submitted that Rae had done wrong, that he was sorry, and had made money compensation for the injury and suffering he had caused Mr. Hogg, and asked that the case be dismissed.

Mr. McKillop had no objection, but stated that the plaintiffs would have to pay all expenses in connection days. A party of twelve persons occupied it, and they brought, besides make the compensation he did. He was only a workingman, and could ill afford it, having a large family. The magistrate could not see that the prisoner was entitled to any consideration. Arthur Rae was bound over in $50 to keep the peace, and James Murphy, man who owned the bulldog which fought Wm. Morrow's terrier on the corner of Simcoe and Maitland streets, on July 4, which was the cause of the whole affair, was also bound over to keep the peace. The police nagistrate called Rae up, and then Mr. Hogg, remarking as he sized them both up, "He didn't stand much of a chance with you."

Rae admitted it was an accident. he having struck the old gentleman in the heat of passion. John Burdick and Wm. Cain, two drunks, stood up, and the police magistrate.

looking at the pair keenly, "Burdick, where you ever here before?" Prisoner-No. sir. The Magistrate-One dollar.

Cain was not so lucky. "You have been here before," said the magistrate Cain-Yes. sir. The Magistrate-How many times?

Cain—Four or five times, I guess.
The Magistrate—Well, $5 or ten Frederick C. Arons, a colored artist, had made a contract with Mrs. Paladino to do some painting, whitewashing and paper-hanging. The price was to be $8, he to do the work within a specified time. It appears that he hired William Howard to help him, and when the job was partly done he went to Port Stanley on a picnic. Mrs. Paladino then made plete the work. Hence the suit. Arons sued for $3 50. He was sent to the division court. Valentine Yeo, the youth who stole Mr. Cecil Webbe's bicycle, was released on suspended sentence, being his first offense. He is wanted at Ingersoll on a similar charge, on

Printers' Outing

A Pleasant Afternoon and Evening at Port Stanley.

Fine Music-A Ball Game-Races and Good Time Generally.

The annual outing of the men who make the newspapers was held at Port Stanley on Saturday, and many hundred printers roamed around the shore of old Erie. The inevitable "devils" were there, too, and the coolness with which they "pied" the lunch baskets was characteristic of their class. The gathering was smaller than would otherwise have been the case, on account of the ball match and the proximity of the Twelfth, but those who The following members being the did go thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and will remember in the future to wait for this event-the union printers' pienic. The major portion of the excursionists did not leave the city until the 1:30 train, and this was followed by another one at 2:30. The band accompanied the 1:30 train. They played for half an hour at the depot before starting, and were applauded on each number. The crowd stepped aboard to the sweet strains of "Manhattan Beach.'

On arriving at Port Stanley a "full galley" of events was entered upon. There were no "outs" in this galley, and the whole business came off with-out a "ringer." The "form" of the different contestants as they "chased" one another around and became mixed up like "pi," was amusing to the onlookers.

The baseball match was the feature of the games. It was between nines picked from the job rooms and pitted against those from the news rooms. Howell pitched italic "S" curves, which the job men could not hit with the "shootin'-stick," making the affair a "horrible case" as far as they were concerned. They were captained by Alex. Woonton, and he, together with Begg, were the only two to cross the "plate." In the sixth inning Ferguson, for the news room nine, thumped the ball into the lake. The "dupes" were pasted and the "strings" measured as follows:

The programme committee meets at J. W. Jones' rooms tomorrow night. Already many interesting events are provided for. BEER CAUSES AN ACCIDENT.

Two young men named Fornet and Thompson hired a livery rig yesterday, and went out for a time. They drove down to Ward's, near Springbank, and on the return trip they met with an accident. Being under the influence of liquor, the animal was urged unnecessarily, and ran away, throwing the occupants out near the overhead bridge, rendering one of the party unconscious, and severely cutting and bruising both about the head. Dr. Gardiner was sent for, and attended to the men, who returned to Mount Pleasant, where the horse been caught. They drove to Mr. Hall's place, where the men were put into a hack and taken home.

SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Mrs. Alex. McKay Dropped Dead

Stratford Market Square. Stratford, July 13.—Death came very suddenly to Mrs. Alex. McKay, of North Easthope, who, with her son, came to market Saturday morning. While walking in the market square she fell, and on being raised a slight spasm passed over her, and she was gone. Dr. Rankin, coroner, was notified, but he did not consider an inquest necessary, as deceased had been under his care for some time, London Will Soon Have One of Its Own.

A Transformation Effected at Queen's Park.

Encircled by Magnificent New Buildings.

A New Half-Mile Track-Finest Horse and Cattle Sheds on the Continent -Laying Out the Park.

The White City!

That ought to be the popular name for the Western Fair Grounds in a few weeks. London's White City will be no mean city. Proportionately it will be larger than Chicago's. Several of the new buildings are modeled on World's Fair plans, and in their white dress will be things of beauty and joys as long as they last-and that will be longer than Chicago's.

Few citizens have any idea of the transformation already effected in Queen's Park. It is almost encircled by one vast stretch of imposing buildings, commencing at the Palace and sweeping west, south and east to Egerton street. The new cattle shed alone extends a whole block, from Campbell street to King streets. THE NEW TRACK.

The park is a beehive of industry, and there are apparently 200 men at work with hammer and saw, pick and shovel, putting up and tearing down structures, leveling the ground and grading the race track. An American horseman named James, who passed through the city with a string of racers the other day, visited the park and admitted that the track would be one of the best in America when finished. The course has been completely changed on the east side and carried out almost to the Egerton the corner of Waterloo and Horton street fence. The track is now exactly half a mile long. The home stretch has been placed 25 feet away from the grand stand, so that everyone in the stand can see the finish without rising and obstructing the was formerly on the staff of the Federal Bank in this city, and has relatives here, besides a large circle of the course are being leveled, and the horses will be in plain sight

THE NEW GRAND STANDS.

The Patrons of the Western Fair will be deeply grateful for the improved grand stand accommodation.

The family, who are almost heartbroken, parallel with the track as before, but have the deepest sympathy of many in the city and in London West, where they formed the horse race finishes, or even of the horse race finishes, or even the ring performances, from the open stands in past years; but this has been all changed. Under the covered stand will be the capacious dining halls.

THE STABLES. The new horse building stretches for half a block along Campbell street and is over 700 feet long. Standing at one end and looking down the long perspective, it makes a very impressive sight. There is a fine promenade between the two rooms of stalls. The latter are built on the most modern plans, and spectators may now see the horses in front and not behind, as under the old system. At the west end are the double-stalls. merkt. Mr. James H. Brown, well-known horseman, who is superintending the construction, says there will be no finer building for the purpose on the continent.

THE TRANSPORTATION BUILD-ING.

transportation building is patterned after that of the World's Fair, and is a big improvement on the old one, which was burned, and which was too small anyway. It is 180 by 60 feet, and is out in the most ap-d style. Already carriage proved manufacturers are asking space, and it will be filled to the utmost.

At a largely-attended meeting of the MACHINERY AND IMPLEMENTS. The machinery hall and implement sheds have been removed to Campbell street, convenient to the railway. Both buildings have been much enments were also made with the band of the larged and improved, the implement shed being covered in. The Massey-Harris and other big firms are already after sections of it.

THE CATTLE SHED. Perhaps the finest building of the kind on the continent is the shed for cattle, sheep and hogs. Contractor Purdom calls it the St. Clair Tunnel, and, looking down its length of 754 feet, with its prettily arched roof, it has a tunnel-like appearance, except that it is lighted and ventilated, and is wood instead of stone. It will accommodate 1,000 head of cattle, to say nothing of sheep and swine. THE OTHER BUILDINGS. The poultry building has been greatly increased in size. And what was the entertainment hall will be used for the dairy display. The W. C. T. U dining hall will be moved back, as the mangateway will face the King street entrance LAYING OUT THE PARK. Visitors will be surprised at the change for the better in the grounds when they come to the Fair in the fall. The whole center of the park will be free of buildings, the latter being now wading through the rest of the now wading through the rest of the arranged in a circle on its outskirts. The spectator may start at the main building and visit all departments what is admissable under the circumstances then the signature is void. circling the park, and leading past all It was a fortunate thing for the Fair Board when they elected Mr. James H. Brown a director. Mr. Brown gives nearly all of his time gratuitiously to the board, and practically superintends the work at the grounds, which is no light task. He especially interested in the horse building, and marvelous progress is being made under his direction. The directors feel very grateful to Mr. Brown for his kind services.

Mr. R. Kirkpatrick, who is acting assistant city engineer, is on the grounds a good deal of the time, and gives Mr. Brown much assistance. A visit to the Queen's Park is well repaid these days.

Adding, "I ask if you can recall any better example of courage than that shown by St. Paul?" Moral courage, he said, is needed. In referring to the field of politics, the speaker said he was not speaking from a political standpoint. He declared it to be a field of shame. More upright men were needed. Only a glance at the daily newspapers was needed to show that the field of politics needed purifying. With the quality of courage should be combined the blessed spirit of gentleness. The speaker was glad to know that in the constitution of the Orange order stress was laid upon the possession of this latter quality. Orangemen, by the fusion of these qualities, would, instead of fanning the flames of bitterness against any fac-tion, be ded to seek their good. Yes. Trust to me and keep a good heart," replied the captain, without halting or looking back.

To pass from the narrow, black cell of a dungeon into the center of an illuminated salon in Windsor Palace, if suddenly effected, would be a transformation that would blind the eyes for the time and overwhelm the senses. If a light like the sun were suddenly to flash in the high heavens at midnight, people would ignore the phenomenon for the moment in the overwhelming effect upon the senses, yet something like this happened to Howard Blanchard. There was a short turn in the canyon—a turn that revealed what seemed to Howard Blanchard like the door of a mighty furnace filled with molten gold, and in this door the black form of Captain Brandon stood out like a statue against the sun.

"Hold your hand to your eyes for a bit," the captain shouted back, himself setting the example, and Howard obeyed him. After a few minutes the captain called out:

"Now, open your eyes and come on." This advice was to prepare the young man for the sudden effect of a light not need a second glance to discover that was natural, but dazzling on actual the handsome face and graceful form count of the change and the brilliancy of Louis Kyle. of the surrounding snow peaks from which it was reflected. "And a fitting name it it. The combined hands of humanity, working through all the ages, could not build so glorious a structure to the honor of the ever-living God," said the enraptured Howard.

Capt. Brandon, who had been standing bareheaded, replaced his hat and said, "Let us be moving on." As Heward followed him he asked, "Is it not curious that this place is not inhabited?"

They had come to a halt opposite a series of openings that looked like immense honeycombs cut anto the face of the wall. Both heard a noise and bent to listen. From far-off depths they caught the sound of a deep bass voice singing. Howard recognized the air. He had often heard it in the camp meetings of West Virginia. Two hundred feet from the entrance the hall widened into a chamber of such proportions that the farther walls were but indistinctly discernible in the "dim, religious light." In the center of this chamber—if such the splendid cathedral expanse could be called—a fire burned on what looked to be an altar, and about it the indistinct forms of a number of men could be seen. Saginaw, Mich., July 13.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention exclusively to the causes for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among otlers that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other simbles are largely due to the kidneys, and that the above-mentioned remedy is likly to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaint.

The Democratic Convention Concludes Business.

Arthur Sewall, of Maine, Nominated for the Vice-Presidency.

Another Dark Horse-He, Like Bryan, Was Selected on the Fifth Ballot.

Chicago, July 13 .- Saturday afternoon the Democratic convention nomlated Arthur Sewall, of Maine, for Vice-President, and adjourned without delay. The convention has been in many ways a remarkable one, and its results may be of prodigious and far-reaching importance, both to the party and the country. The last day was no exception to the previous days in sensational departures from precedent. There was the most stubborn contest over the Vice-Presidency that has been known in any national con-vention in years, and New England secured a place on the Democratic national ticket for the first time since the days of Franklin Pierce. The nomination was a bold invasion of the extreme east, where sound money men have been supposed to preponderate in the ration of about 16 to 1.

The nominee for President is the youngest man ever named by any party, and ten years younger than any man who was ever elected to that exalted position of duty. He is the first man ever chosen for President by either of the great parties who has lived to the west of the Mississippi He is the first Democratic candidate who, within the period of his own memory, has been named from any State but New York. The candidate for the Vice-Presidency is the first that the Democratic party has named from any eastern State since the days of George M. Dallas, half a century ago. The convention also left Democratic and doubtful States in the selost in the mists of the past. But the ada. enthusiastic adherents of the ticket the ticket, but in carrying the States that are the homes of the nominees. The contest over the Vice-Presidency was interesting on account of the closeness of the vote and of the uncertainty of the result, but was long drawn out and tedious. The balloting began with three prominent and promising candidates in the field. There were a dozen others who received votes, but it seemed to be certain that the convention would choose either Bland, McLean or Sibley. At different periods each of these men had flattering chances of success, but each withdrew as a candidate at the very moment that his chances seemed most encouraging. McLean would have been nominated if he had not withdrawn. He was about 50 votes ahead, when he telegraphed the convention that votes cast for him were without his author-The rugged Sloane, the fighting chairman of the Ohio delegation, in-sisted that the Ohio delegation did not agree to his withdrawal, but the stampede to other candidates began of State standards.

The nomination is said by the eastdelegates to be had previously been refusing to part now 78 years of age. ticipate in the convention, they came back to cast the solid vote of the State for him.

The nomination will, it is said, make Maine one of the most desperate battle-grounds of the Union. The Maine State elections occur in September. and the silver men mean to make an uncommon effort to carry it, or at least to materially reduce the Republican majority at that election. The result of the first ballot was:

Sewall 100, Sibley 163, Williams (Mass.) 76, Fithian 1, McLean 111, Williams (III.) 22. Bland 62, Clark 50, Lewis 11, Boies 20, Harrity 21, Blackburn 20, Teller 1, Daniel 11, White 1, Pattison 2; whole number, 673.

While the convention was awaiting the announcement of the vote the band played "Grover, Grover, Four More Years for Grover." But the rollicking song which 20,000 frenzied men sang in the wigwam in this city four years ago passed without notice. Even the galleries did not give it a hand. Second ballot: Sibley 113, Sewall 37; McLean 158, Bland 294, Clark 22, Harrity 21, Williams (Mass.) 16 Williams (Ill.) 13, Pattison 1; total cast, 675; necessary to choice, 450. Third ballot: Bland 255, McLean 210, Sewall 97. Sibley 50, Williams (Mass.)

15, Harrity 19, Clark 22, Pattison 1, Fourth ballot: McLean 296, Sewall 261, Williams (Mass.) 9, Harrity 11, Clark 46, Pattison 1, Daniel 54; votes

choice, 453. Fifth ballot: Sewall 568, McLean 32, Harrity 11, Williams 9, Clark 22, Pattison 1, Daniels 36; absent and not voting, 255.

This virtually ended the business of the convention. The customary votes C. K. Ladd, of Illipois, made an unsuccessful attempt to secure consideration of a motion to abrogate the two-thirds rule, and at 3:10 o'clock Chairman White declared the convention adjourned. Workmen were already up mong the rafters, with characteristic Chi-cagoan haste, tearing down th corations and the band played Am-erica" while the crowds filed out.

THE NOMINEE.

The Vice-Presidential nominee is a man very nearly twice as old as the head of the ticket. He is much older than he looks. He is a splendid example of physical manhood, carries himself with a soldierly bearing, and is what might be termed a fine-looking man. His hair and mustache are slightly tinged with gray, but the vrinkles of age have scarcely made their appearance on his face. He was born at Bath, Me., Nov. 25, 1835. The estate on which he was born and where he now resides has been in the possession of the Sewall family since 1760. His grandfather fought in the war of the revolution.

FEELING IN WASHINGTON. Washington, July 11 .- The feeling of Administration leaders here over the result at Chicago has only deepened with the announcement of the ticket that is to run upon the free silver platform. While Cabinet Ministers before the newspaper interviewer may valuation absolute silence regarding both platforms and candidates, to personal friends they do not hesitate to express their deep regret that the Democracy should have committed itself to declarations so completely at varlance with all the recognized tenets of Democratic faith. The feeling just now is apposed to the nomination by the sound money men of an independent ticket. Such a ticket would not be apt to draw more voites from the silver candidate than will be lost to him by the Democrats that will either support the Republican ticket or refrain from voting. In the hearts of one and all there is the hope that after this silver craze is passed the Democracy will again become a united party, and there is a strong desire to refrain from widening the breach between those who have fought under an independent ticket in the field. But above all and before every other consideration, the Administration officials and sound money De mocrats here feel that the national credit must be maintained and that at any cost. New York, July 13.-The World, in an editorial on the Democratic nom-ination for President, says: "The expected happened in the Chicago platform. The unexpected happened in the nomination for President. Lunacy having dictated the platform, it was perhaps natural that hysteria should evolve the candidate. As the party is doomed to defeat by its platform, the ticket is of minor consequence, except as it bears upon the future of

The Wife's Name.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage, according to Dr. Brewer, originated from a Roman custom, and became the common custom after the Roman occupation. Thus, Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Ciero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey and Octavia of Cicero, and in later times married women in most European countries signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of." Against this view it may be mentioned that during the 18th, and even at the beginning of the 18th continuous the beginning of the 18th continuous the same manner, but omitted the "of." WALTER L. MAIN'S CIRCUS CAR. One of the most complete-in fact, the most complete-circus advertising car ever seen in London, is now at the siding of the Grand Trunk station. It belongs to Walter L. Main's circus. which will show here on Monday, July 27. It is 66 feet long, painted white outside, and is adorned with pictures representing various features of the show itself. It is complete inside, accommodates seventeen men, and carries all the posters used for wall and fence advertising. The Walter L. Main show, or, rather, aggregation of great shows, will be shown here on the 27th of this month. Thirty-four cars are required to bring the circus to town. The show is said to be one of the best in the world today, and has played to immense business in Canada thus far. Some idea of the magnitude of the advertising staff's work may be gleaned from that fact that $2,200 was paid in duties for the "paper" brought into Canada, and that it requires ten barrels of flour each week to make sufficient paste for applying the bills. Another one will arrive here shortly with lithographic matter. Mr. Charles Pernard is in charge of this branch of the business.

BURNED OUT Fires at Lucan and Chatham-Several Buildings Wrecked.

Lucan, Ont., July 13.-The Central Hotel driving sheds and stable, on William street, the property of Robt. McLean, now of Grenville, Mich., were completely destroyed by fire on Saturday night. Alex. McFalls, the present landlord, lost one new buggy and cutter, harness and robes; also a quantity of oats and hay. Mr. Thos. A. Webb, baker, who had stable room rented in the burned building, had two fine horses perish in the 'flames. Wm. Parte's stable, John Armitage's dwelling, Webb's bakery, and the main stable in connection with the hotel, were all on fire, but were saved before much damage was done. The buildings are insured for $200. Nothing on the contents. Chatham, Ont., July 13 .- Last evening fire was discovered in Peace's store, on King street. The brigade was on the spot in a few minutes, but before they got to work the flames ex-tended to Von Gunten's jewelry store, and the rear of Richards' confection ery, on the west side, and Jahnke's furniture store, on the east. The upper stories of all four buildings were gutted, and the goods in the stores below completely ruined by water. After an hour's hard work the fire-men had the flames under control.
