

EVENTS OF THE DAY AS SEEN BY THE CARTOONIST

MAY PUT PLACARD LABELLED "UNCLEAN" ON MARKET HOUSE

Members of Board of Health Determined That Building Be Sanitary.

APPEAL TO PROVINCE FOR DRASTIC ACTION

Dr. Williams Says Authority to Clean Up Covent Garden Will Be Secured.

The sanitary or insanitary condition of the Covent Garden market house is a perennial subject of discussion by the board of health, and so far little has been accomplished. The present board has sent several communications to the council relative to the matter, the latest being filed by No. 3 committee last evening.

The members of the board of health interpret this action as a challenge, and it is probable that interesting developments may follow. Dr. E. Williams, chairman of the board of health, stated that the action of the committee was not surprising, but that did not end the agitation.

An appeal to the provincial board. "The refusal of the committee to do as we asked means that the board either must appeal to the provincial board of health, or resign," he said. "The spirit of resignation is not upon us, and you can understand that we will take this question to the provincial board. The building is not sanitary, and it will have to be made so. As soon as we can we will take the matter up with Toronto. Then definite action will follow. It is possible that in the meantime, we might instruct the medical health officer to placard the building as insanitary. That might cause definite action to be taken at once. The filing of our resolution does not settle matters."

EX-ENGINEER WAS MADE SCAPEGOAT ALDERMAN STATES

Mr. W. D. I. Wright Says Advantage Was Taken of Official's Illness.

THEN ALL BLAME SADDLED ON HIM

"Affair Is Not Settled, Make No Mistake," Exclaims Member of Council.

The fact that the city council has accepted the resignation of former City Engineer Wright does not end the matter. A warm debate will probably follow in the council on the matter at an early date.

Ald. W. D. I. Wright, in particular, is of the opinion that the former city engineer did not get a square deal from the council, and will say so.

"This man was ill, and out of the city," he stated. "Advantage was taken of this fact to saddle all the blame for the sidewalk on him. I do not think he is altogether to blame; in fact, I am positive of that, and will not hesitate to say so, when the time comes. Mr. Wright has been made a scapegoat. He worked hard for the city, and his present illness is due altogether to the fact that he did his best to protect our interests. Mr. Wright is no relative of mine, but I want to see fair play. This affair is not yet settled, make no mistake."

To Remain Some Time.

Mr. Wright is still in Muskoka, and it is possible that he will remain there for some time. He went away originally for a month's holiday, intending to rest up. When the report of the special committee was brought down, he intended coming to London in time for the regular meeting next Monday evening. However, the council was called in special session and his resignation was accepted. There is no need now for him to hurry back to London, and the chances are that he will remain in the north country until he is greatly improved in health. Friends of his state that he will probably rest up all winter.

CITY BUILDINGS IN COURSE OF ERECTION WOULD FORM SKYSCRAPER OF 43 STORIES

Era of Prosperity in the Community Is Strikingly Shown By the Extensive Building Operations.

Commercial Institutions Rebuilding, Adding Accommodation and Constructing New Quarters.

Building operations in London continue rushing, and work on a large number of structures of no mean proportions is providing employment for an army of workmen.

The new five-story Grand building, embodying the most advanced principles of fireproof construction, is now well under way, the cement work of the whole affair having been practically completed. The frame shell, which extended a considerable distance on each side of the pillars and walls of the Grand building, prevented the carrying on of work on the Brewster store, a three-story structure immediately to the west, and also in the area cleared by the million-dollar fire of November last.

Steelwork Is Reared.

The latter building will now be rushed ahead, the steelwork having been raised for the three stories.

The steel skeleton for the Ashplant saloon's headquarters, which is being erected, three stories high, on Carling street, arrived in the city yesterday, and the construction work will therefore be greatly facilitated.

The new Perrin factory, which is to be six stories in height, and which will be one of the finest manufacturing plants in Ontario, both in matter of appearance, construction and accommodation, is now well under way, but will not be completed for several months.

The Bell Telephone Company's four-story addition to the Park avenue exchange is progressing well, the steel framework having arrived here. The capacity of the exchange will be doubled, and switchboards to accommodate 10,000 lines will be installed. It is expected that the place will be ready for occupancy in May, 1913.

Building Practically Completed.

The new four-story building for the Canada Abattoir, Limited, has now been practically completed, and the machinery is being installed.

The handsome new four-story factory of the Dominion Corn Flakes Company on Dundas street east is well advanced.

One of the finest structures in the city is the Molsons Bank building, which is now ready for interior finish.

The London Printing and Lithographing Company's four-story addition on Queen's avenue is progressing rapidly.

The McClary Manufacturing Company is again making extensive additions, and a fine building is being erected to provide further accommodation for the city plant on Wellington street.

The Masonic Temple on Queen's avenue, opposite the Public Library, will soon be ready for occupancy.

Extensive additions to Victoria Hospital are being rushed ahead.

Factories Being Enlarged.

The London Concrete Machinery Company has its new additions well under way, while a large number of other manufacturing plants have extensive improvements under advisement.

In addition to this construction work many magnificent residences are being erected here and tens of thousands of dollars are being expended.

"Building is very brisk in London at present," said Mr. J. Vicar Munro, of the firm of Moore & Munro, architects, to The Advertiser today.

Bold Thieves These; Enter Hotel, Take Phone Cash Box

An original line of thievery in London was accomplished at the Brigg House Wednesday, when some person entered the Bell telephone pay station, and removed the slot machine connected to the telephone.

The box had been recently emptied, but despite this it is thought to have contained a considerable amount taken in local and long-distance messages. The police are working in the matter and expect to land the culprits. To prevent the detachment of other machines public stations are being closely guarded.

The same style of theft was worked in St. Thomas a few months ago, someone getting away with a considerable amount of cash.

BUILDING IN LONDON.

Forty-three stories of new commercial buildings are being erected in London at the present time. While the city does not run to skyscrapers, if all the new buildings could be placed one above the other they would form a structure that would rival in height the giants of New York City. The buildings in course of construction, together with those to which additions are being made, are as follows:

Grand building, Dundas street, five stories.

Brewster store, Dundas street, three stories.

Ashplant building, Carling street, three stories.

Perrin building, Dundas street, six stories.

Bell Telephone Company building, Park avenue, three stories.

Abattoir building, Pottersburg, four stories.

Corn Flakes building, Dundas street, four stories.

Molsons Bank building, Dundas street, three stories.

London Printing and Lithographing building, Queen's avenue, four stories.

McClary Company, Wellington street, large building.

New Masonic Hall, Queen's avenue, four stories.

Scores of new residences.

LUNG TORN OUT WHEN SHOTGUN DISCHARGED

James Howe Tried to Kill Crane by Smashing It With the Stock of Gun—Little Hope Held Out For Recovery.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Whalen, Oct. 17.—James Howe, aged 22, an Englishman apprenticed with James McAllery, blacksmith, was probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon when a shotgun he was using discharged and tore one lung almost completely out, and horribly lacerated the lower part of one side.

During a lull in the business at the blacksmith shop, Howe saw a big crane flying past, and taking the gun went out to shoot it. He succeeded in wounding the bird, and it fell to the ground. Howe reloaded his gun and then hurried to where the bird lay on the ground. He saw that it was still alive, and tried to kill it by striking it with the stock of the gun. The jar caused the weapon to discharge, and the shot literally cut one lung completely out. Drs. Quakenbush, of Exeter, and Campbell, of Kirkton, were called and are doing everything possible to try and save Howe's life. Very little hope is held out for his recovery.

TELEPHONE CALL RECORDS TELL AGAINST LIEUT. BECKER

Counsel For Officer Says He May Be Put On the Stand.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 17.—The state had but a few remaining witnesses to call when the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker was resumed today, and it was expected that the defence would be well along before the close of the session. A tentative outline of the defence, as reported this morning, called for the appearance in Becker's behalf of William Travers Jerome, formerly district attorney of New York. John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for Becker, would neither confirm nor deny the report. It was said, however, that Jerome would be called to refute Jack Rose's testimony concerning his (Rose's) telephone conversation with Becker after the murder. Rose, in telling of this conversation, quoted Becker as having guilty knowledge of the murder. Jerome, it was said, having been present at the Bar Association with John W. Hart, of counsel for Becker, will say that Becker did the telephoning there, and said nothing to indicate any connection with the murder. Rose swore also that Becker telephoned from a public pay station.

The defence will also try to show that the state seeks to sacrifice Becker and let the promoters go scot free, and that, as a matter of fact, Rose was the victim of a gamblers' conspiracy. A mass of evidence will also be introduced, attacking the character of the state's witnesses and supporting the contention of the good character and reputation of the defendant.

Becker May Take Stand.

FINANCIER SAYS LONDON IS HURT BY DISCRIMINATION

Mr. T. H. Smallman Says He Has Always Been Advocate of Flat Rate Power.

OTHER CITIES GET ALL THE INDUSTRIES

Government Shows Favoritism to Municipalities Located Near Niagara Falls.

MR. T. H. SMALLMAN.

Mr. T. H. Smallman, financier, is another prominent Londoner who is strongly in favor of the flat rate for power. He points out that this city is laboring under a great disadvantage in its campaign for industries owing to the much cheaper rate furnished other cities.

"I have always been and still am greatly in favor of the flat rate," said Mr. Smallman to The Advertiser. "I advocated that early in the inception of the scheme. The present system is working out greatly to our disadvantage. For instance, in the past, when all used steam power, we were on an equal footing with our competitors, as steam power costs practically the same the country over. We are not nearly so well off now."

Cheap Power No Benefit.

"The Government by the construction of the transmission line, shows favoritism. Cheap power is no benefit to us, as our competitors, situated more closely to the Falls than we are, can sell it so much cheaper. The scheme intensifies our disadvantages. Toronto, for instance, is enjoying a much more favorable rate than London. The Government, when the transmission line was built, should have made the same rate for all citizens within the power zone. That would have worked out equitably. I am sure."

Mr. Glaubitz To Speak.

It is stated that General Manager Glaubitz, of the electrical department, will make an effort to answer the growing demand for a flat rate for power throughout the province.

In the past no attempt has been made to answer the arguments of the advocates of this policy, and since the agitation has become so insistent, Mr. Glaubitz will make an answer.

WON'T INDORSE EITHER

Temperance People Pledge Support to Neither Candidate.

At a meeting of the temperance workers held this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, it was decided not to indorse either Mr. Geo. W. Neely, the Conservative candidate, or Mr. William Sutherland, the independent candidate.

DR. HARVEY ACQUITTED.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—In a county criminal court sitting, lasting well into last night, Judge Winchester gave a finding of not guilty in the case of Dr. W. J. Harvey, accused of uttering a check forged upon an English bank by "Dr. J. G. Evans, his partner, who was convicted of that offense in the sessions last week. The draft in question credited the Empire College of Ophthalmology with $5,000, and drew upon the account of John Revell, who under the assumed name of Spurr, had rooms above that institution until his death last November, which was followed by the forgery.

BALKAN STRUGGLE BEGINS TURKEY DECLARING WAR ON BULGARIA AND SERBIA

Powerful Armies of the Sultan Are Advancing to Meet the Invading Forces of the Allies.

GREEK DESTROYERS DARE THE GUNS OF TURKISH FORTRESS

Greece Not Included in Turkey's Declaration of Hostilities, and Constantinople May Cede Crete to the Grecian Government.

London, Oct. 17.—War today became general throughout the Balkan Peninsula. Turkey, which for a week or more, has been fighting with Montenegro this morning, issued a formal declaration of hostilities against Serbia and Bulgaria.

Greece for some reason was not mentioned in the official document delivered to the Serbian and Bulgarian legations at Constantinople, and the Greek minister has not been asked to leave the Turkish capital, as were his Serbian and Bulgarian colleagues. The Turkish minister, however, left Athens without the usual formalities.

ACTUAL WARFARE.

It is also announced that fighting between the Turkish and Greek armies has begun on the frontier, while two Greek gunboats provided the first naval engagement of the war by forcing the straits between the Gulf of Arta and the sea. In doing so they had a sharp gun duel with the Turkish forts.

TURKISH PEACE STRENGTH	375,000
RESERVES	350,000
OTHERS AVAILABLE	2,000,000
TOTAL WAR STRENGTH	2,725,000
MONTENEGRIN PEACE STRENGTH	0
WAR STRENGTH	50,000

In her declaration of war, Turkey places the blame on Bulgaria and Serbia, whose recent actions, she says, forced her to take a decisive step although she was desirous of peace.

ALLIES NOT READY.

It had been generally expected that the first declaration of war would be a joint one by the three new allies. They, however, are apparently not quite ready, as only today it was announced that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria was going with his staff to the frontier, where, after consultation, he would issue either a proclamation or a declaration.

GENERAL ADVANCE.

Although Turkey has anticipated the Balkan states and ordered a simultaneous advance of her armies against Bulgaria and Serbia, it is quite expected in military circles that the Serbians and Bulgarians will be ready to meet the Turkish invading force.

The troops may, in fact, be ready for an immediate big battle, but military authorities do not expect one to occur for some days.

TURKEY AND GREECE.

Turkey's withdrawal of her troops from the immediate vicinity of the Greek frontier, and the omission of Greece from the declaration of war, were doubtless dictated by Kiamil Pasha, president of the council of state and the real head of the Turkish Government. He has been desirous all along of avoiding a fight with Greece, whose interests, as he recently told the Greek Premier, are identical with those of Turkey. He also desired to cede the island of Crete to Greece.

There is an inclination among military men to think the importance of the Montenegrin victories has been exaggerated, and that much has been made of them in order to screen the struggle that is going on for the possession of the forces guarding the Turkish town of Scutari.

The Montenegrins are fighting desperately, but they neglect the commissary service and the hospitals, which are essential in such a campaign.

BRITISH CABINET MEETING.

The British cabinet had a long session this morning to discuss the French proposal for a conference of the powers. It was also said the Turkish Government was supporting the efforts being made to raise a Turkish loan in London, but this is denied at the foreign office.

TWO

THE WAR IN THE BALKANS

London, Thursday, Oct. 17.—The Northern Montenegrin army has taken Berane, according to dispatches received last night from Belgrade. The Turks were driven out after two days' fighting, and, according to the dispatches which come from Montenegrin sources, lost 700 prisoners, besides 14 guns and large amounts of supplies. The same dispatches tell of another Montenegrin victory this time to the credit of the southern army of invasion, which is said to have taken Mount Mourich, a fortified post opposite Tarakosch. Constantinople reports indicate that skirmishes are in progress along the Turkish-Serbian frontier near Kossovo, and also have taken the Montenegrins of the southern army have destroyed the villages between Lake Scutari and the sea, and have massacred the women and children they found in them.

News of the middle army, which is encamped in the neighborhood of Tuzla, is lacking so far tonight.

AMUSEMENTS

"Lion and the Mouse" Tonight.

"The Lion and the Mouse," which will be presented by the United Play Company at the Grand tonight, has scored a pronounced success in all cities in which it has been produced. In New York alone the play ran for two years at the Lyceum Theatre, having made a new record in dramatic annals, by playing through an entire summer without a break.

The author is Charles Klein, who is also responsible for "The Gambler," "Maggie Pepper," "The Music Master," "The Third Degree," and several other successful plays. "The Lion and the Mouse," Mr. Klein deals with one of the widely discussed topics of the hour—the influence wielded in American politics by money.

"The Blindness of Virtue."

The announcement of the forthcoming appearance of "The Blindness of Virtue," by the original Little Theatre, London, east at the Grand tomorrow night and Saturday, has given rise to a great deal of discussion. Mr. Hamilton has approached a very big subject in his new play and dealt with it in a bit of realism which is genuinely dramatic notwithstanding its surface coating of comedy. It is when robbers hold up the train, when a man in a suit and tie is shown under conditions which are supposed to be fraught with danger. Many men will be astonished to learn, when they see the play, that this train is a train of robbers, and that the women have about their person for the concealment of jewelry and valuables. It made a record run in New York, continuing for three months, while in Chicago and Boston it continued six and four months, respectively. Seats Saturday, 9 a.m.

FATALLY BURNED

Little Woodstock Child Played With Matches in His Yard.

[Special to The Advertiser.]—Woodstock, Oct. 16.—Robbie Lawrence, son of W. S. Lawrence, aged 2, was probably fatally burned here today.

The boy had evidently been playing with matches in front of the house, as he suddenly ran in with his clothing burning fiercely. His mother smothered the blaze with a blanket and the child was removed to the hospital. Nearly all the skin of his body peeled off.

BANISH THE BAR

Waterloo Temperance People Rally to Support Leader Rowell.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—A public meeting in the interests of Leader Rowell's "abolish-the-bar" platform has been called for Thursday evening by President C. K. Hagedorn, of Waterloo County Temperance League, the object of which is to consider the advisability of placing a temperance candidate in the field for the Legislature at the forthcoming provincial election. The temperance men of both parties are strongly in favor of the latest movement in the political situation in this riding.

INSPECTOR DUNCAN ON PENSION LIST

Toronto Police Commission Compromise Offer Charges Against Officer.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Almost as dramatic as the developments in the case of Inspector Walter Duncan was its denouement. After protracted sessions and lengthy considerations of the police commission, Mayor Geary and Judge Winchester were unable to arrive at more than a compromise. No finding was made on the matters which incensed the suspension of the inspector, his conduct of the Farmers' Bank case, his evidence before Chief Justice Meredith, or the question of his reliability and veracity. In lieu of the two commissioners adopted a resolution, recommending the officer and retiring him, appending provisions under which he will be enabled to collect his pension if recognition falls due.

The remaining commissioner, Col. Denton, found against the officer on the counts upon which he was charged, and recommended that his pension be made permanent. His pension from the compromise reached by his colleagues was included in the resolution disposing of the case.

MOORE—MOORE

Pretty Sarnia Township Girl Becomes Bride of Plympton Man.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. C. Moore, of Plympton Township, recently, when Miss Clara Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, of Sarnia Township, was married to Mr. Byron Moore, of Plympton Township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Moore, of Point Edward, in the presence of friends and relatives from London, St. Thomas, Tillsonburg, Wyomissing, and Sarnia.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in her wedding suit of blue cloth, with cream silk bodice and large picture hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Sarah Moore, of St. Thomas, wore a gown of blue and white, with a large picture hat to match. The groom, Mr. Byron Moore, brother of the bride, wore a suit of blue cloth, with a large picture hat to match.

The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and other relatives to the church, where the ceremony was performed. The wedding party then returned to the home of the bride, where a reception was given.

Store Closes at 6 p.m. Today

Fashion Convention Continues Today and Friday---Fourth Floor

Ladies thronged the store yesterday, but never a crowd. What function could call together such an assemblage or where in the city could be accommodated so comfortably so many ladies as assemble here from day to day? Indeed, there is no other place in this city frequented by so many people.

This new building was arranged so that its wide aisles and spaces make visiting always comfortable, and large as it is, hasn't in it a waste corner anywhere.

The great spaces enable us not only to give ample room for all the exhibits, but to be roomy everywhere to prevent any crowding or jostling, which most women dislike, and it does seem that the more space we have the better service we can render and the more we can do for our patrons. We invite you to visit the special display of afternoon and evening fashions today and Friday from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

DELAWARE FAIR WAS A RECORD BREAKER

Perfect Weather and Splendid Exhibits Made Show Ideal For Crowd.

[Special to The Advertiser.]—

Delaware, Oct. 16.—Perfect weather brought a record crowd here today for the Delaware fair. Fully four thousand people were here, and every street was lined with automobiles and the vehicles of all kinds. Many people came out in cars from London.

The fair itself was the best of a long line of successful shows held here. The program of speeding events was never surpassed, and the neck-and-neck finishes kept the crowd in a great state of excitement.

The dairy hall, in the centre of the village, which contained the ladies' and domestic work, was one of the principal attractions, and the displays were among the distinctive features of the fair. The bread and butter displays were especially worthy of mention. In the neighborhood of 30 entries of each of these products completely occupied the centre tables.

Some Fine Horses.

The horses were fully up to the average of former years. It required much deliberation on the part of the judges to choose the winners. Mr. W. M. Fauds, of Monsey, had eleven entries in the agricultural and heavy draft classes and secured several of the prizes. Neil McLean, Mayfair, and Carmichael Bros., of Melbourne, also had large exhibits.

In the cattle division the principal winners were: H. N. Gibson and H. L. Weld, of Delaware, and McPherson Bros., of Calder, in Shorthorns. The latter two and Jones Bros., of Calder, had some fine animals in the Grade class, while Mr. J. E. Pincombe, of Delaware, was an exhibitor and won prizes in the fat cattle class.

The best single turnout was won by A. McFarlane, of Littlewood, with H. Edwards, of Komoka, winning second and third money. These were the only entries in this class.

The feature of the exhibition was the horse races. All the contests were keen and especially so in the ladies' contest. Miss Gladys Malcolm, driving

LONDON, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17

THE EAST MIDDLESEX ELECTION

East Middlesex is to be deluged with Sir James Whitney's "spell-binders." The torrent of oratory to be poured out in Mr. Neely's behalf is the measure of his weakness as a candidate, and of the fears of the Government. The Prime Minister himself is to be brought to the riding to try to cozen or dragoon Conservatives back into the ranks, which they left when Mr. Neely insisted on being the standard-bearer last year. After the vacation of the seat by Mr. Sutherland's death local Conservatives again urged Mr. Neely to stand aside. In his obstinate refusal he had the support of Mr. Hanna, who came to the nominating convention to plead Mr. Neely's case. In spite of this, one-third of the delegates voted against him.

If Mr. Neely was non persona grata to many Conservatives a year ago, his subsequent conduct has made him even more objectionable. His petition to unseat Mr. Sutherland made wholesale charges of corruption, which were repeated by Mr. Neely and his agents after they had declined to carry the petition into court. The reputation of the late Mr. Sutherland, a man of integrity, should have been respected by his enemies, unless they were prepared to prove their accusations. The numerous Conservative friends of the late member resent the aspersion wantonly cast upon him after his death, and they are not likely to have any warmer feelings for Mr. Neely in consequence.

Mr. Wm. Sutherland, the independent candidate, has been known as a Conservative, but naturally supported his late brother against Mr. Neely, and as naturally desires to vindicate his brother's memory. On questions of public policy Mr. Sutherland's position is such that Liberals can consistently give him their support, while there is every reason to believe that many Conservatives of an independent turn of mind will prefer him to Mr. Neely, of whom he preferred his brother. Mr. Sutherland's pledge to support Mr. Rowell's temperance policy will appeal to opponents of the barroom. Recent happenings in East Middlesex have been a temperance lesson to all citizens. Now is the opportunity to make the Government learn it.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S NEW MOVEMENT.

The formation of the Young People's Societies Union on Monday evening is an event very typical of the present day. Other cities have developed of late just such concentrated campaigns against evil. New York witnesses a great men and religion movement, and the lairs of vice in Chicago have had to submit to a cleaning-up process by effort of the churches. Smaller cities follow the lead.

As competition and jealousy were characteristic of older times, co-operation is the watchword of this century. It is quite a large matter that such a measure of church union should be brought about as will be realized in London at once. But it is in line with the general current of events.

Perhaps it is significant that union thus first comes about in what is really a new activity, destined however to be an activity of capital importance to the Christian churches. Formerly the church thought its duty, apart from pure charity, was confined to exhorting the individual soul. Now, more and more, social endeavor, the study and application of sociological principles go hand in hand with the spiritual appeal of the churches as well as of their members. It is easier to unite or co-operate first in a phase of church life which postdates the days of theological strife.

There seems to be a good prospect for happy results from the new organization in London. This city is as well behaved as any of its size, but there is plenty of room for improvement. Three circumstances seem to have combined particularly to rouse the local churches to a systematic and scientific crusade: the agitation of children, the moral conditions of the streets, much noticed of late, and finally the revelations of an un-Canadian standard of living in the Russian colony. Undoubtedly there are conditions which call for wise and vigorous treatment. The new union starts out full of zeal and courage to make a better London along lines in which all social workers are agreed.

WESTERN ONTARIO SNUBBED.

The Dominion Government has filled the two Ontario vacancies in the Senate by the appointment of Mr. Corby, of Belleville, and Mr. Gordon, of Nipissing.

Why this discrimination against Western Ontario? Of the 22 Ontario senators only 3 live west of Toronto—Senator Coffey, of London; Senator Ratz, of Parkhill, and Senator McMullen, of Mount Forest. Western Ontario has not had its proper numerical strength under the late Government, but in the past year two seats vacated by the deaths of Sir John Carling and Senator Wilson have been filled from these already under-represented western counties. The counties east of Toronto have no fewer than 13 of the 22 seats, Toronto itself having 5.

It is an unwritten law that the members of the Senate shall be chosen with some regard to local consideration. The most prosperous and populous counties of this province are almost ignored in the composition of that chamber, with no valid excuse. The choice of a rich eastern whiskey manufacturer is not complimentary to the Government, nor to the Western Ontario Conservatives whose claims have been urged and passed over.

Defending the barroom in East Middlesex is a particularly ungrateful task just now.

Before the next election to the Duma the Czar of Russia might set pointers from the Roubin Government.

No Liberal can object to the appointment of blown-on-the-bottle Conservatives to the Senate, but why a whiskey bottle?

The Whitney Government is flooding East Middlesex with orators, domestic and imported, in the belief that Mr. Neely needs all the help he can get.

A thousand-pound contribution to the British tariff reform fund brings an invitation to dine from the Duke of Westminster. Watch the new-found zeal of rich Canadian toadies for tariff reform—in England.

It will be surprising if Mr. Monk drops his cabinet job in preference to his pledge to support a naval plebiscite. He told the House of Commons in the last session he was "chained, bolted, and padlocked" to his portfolio.

Servia, Bulgaria and Greece have declared war on Turkey, and the opposing armies are already in motion. The peace with Italy leaves Turkey with both hands free. The old racial has been always a sturdy fighter on land, if not on sea, and his enemies will have no winter carnival.

Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the wealthy advocates of woman suffrage, who have been twice imprisoned for militant methods, have parted company with Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughters over a question of policy. If this marks the beginning of the end of militancy, it will be a good thing for the suffrage cause. The quiet work done by the non-militant organizations has been obscured by the violent tactics of the minority.

Two persons, who worked for the Government candidate in Macdonald, Man., have been given a secret trial. They pleaded guilty, and were fined $50 without the three months' imprisonment demanded by the law. There has been a miscarriage of justice, but it is not surprising in Manitoba, where the fountain of justice is polluted at the source. The Manitoba Government is a disgrace to that province, and a disgrace to the federal authorities who strike hands with it.

Keir Hardie says the aim of the British Labor party is to drive the Unionists and Liberals together, so that there will be two parties only—Socialist and non-Socialist. Hardie, however, does not speak for the moderate wing of the Labor party, led by Ramsay MacDonald. Mr. Hardie's best allies are the aristocratic stand-patters and their retainers, who oppose every scheme for bettering the present social order. If the Liberal party is crushed between the two millions, there will be no moderating influence, and the change will be revolutionary, not evolutionary.

WHERE A CANADIAN FINDS HIS REAL POLITICS.

[Toronto Weekly Star.]

When a Canadian visits England, it is safe to bet that he will either come back more of a radical than he ever expected to be, or he will return with an accent and a theory that only an aristocrat can save a country from the blighting effects of a plutocracy. A man either sees or he does not see the host of poor in London. He sees the people they get between him and the cathedrals, the museums and picture galleries. He sees humanity sacrificed to institutions, and the square deal brushed aside in favor of traditions and dusty usages. In much that others admire, he sees but rather clever attempts to beguile people into looking at something other than the real facts.

vened between the intellectual height occupied by Milner and those far depths in which Laurier exists. In the depths of the man who wrote in this funny spirit, Milner has the inestimable advantage of being a lord and a non-resident of this wooden country. That we have toadies among us who would renounce every Canadian sentiment, every honest native impulse, in the hope of winning a tourist's smile—as a benighted Esquimaux might have deserted his tribe to troop at the heels of Dr. Cook—we all know and blush to own it. But in the end the men who make a country are those who stand fast in their faith in it.

HIS IGNORANCE.

NO THOUGHT OF WAR.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

But while dwelling on the more important incidents of the year of 1812, let us not forget that it was a hundred years ago, and that in the century that has now almost elapsed since the war was brought to a close, the blessings of peace, almost without interruption, have been enjoyed along the international boundary line, and the enemies of 1812 are living today on such terms of friendly relationship that their future has become almost unthinkable.

The boundary line itself, extending over thousands of miles is practically unguarded on either side. More than defended on either side. More than defended on either side. More than defended on either side.

BIRTHPLACE OF THE BAGPIPE.

[Westminster Gazette.]

The introduction of M. Sazonoff to the Highland bagpipe at Balmoral, it is said, not the surprise the Highlanders expected it to be, the eminent statesman remarking that a similar instrument is used in the countries of Russia. Of late musical antiquaries have been looking outside Scotland for the birthplace of the bagpipe, and Major F. W. von Herbert, a recognized authority on musical instruments, ancient and modern, has just issued where in the vast territory once ruled by the Skjolds, the ancestors of the modern Turks. On the authority of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the principal national instrument, and as a Scotsman recently declined any responsibility for the invention of the bagpipe.

MODERN LANGUAGES MOST IN FAVOR.

[Westminster Gazette.]

The Mercure de France has been making some inquiries as to the respective popularity of the various modern languages in the schools of Europe, and it finds that French is still far ahead of all competitors. It says that in England German finds less and less favor, and that pupils who have any option in regard to a modern language, choose French. In France, however, since 1870, German has perhaps secured a preponderance over English in the Lycees. In Germany the study of French has progressed to the detriment of English, but the Government has intervened in order to develop the teaching of English, which it regards as of great importance in commercial matters. French is not taught in Italy more than ever before, but German is also gaining some ground, especially in the north. In Spain French has more pupils than any other foreign language, and English comes next.

ACCUSES COUNTRYMAN OF THEFT OF MONEY.

Polack Alleges That $20 Was Snatched From His Hand.

Philip Casalo, a Polack, was arrested Wednesday night by Policeman Burdick on Bathurst street, near the Michigan Central tracks, when Alexander Brennaman, or Clemas, another Polack, and one time friend of Casalo, set up a shout for police, claiming that he had been robbed. Casalo was brought before Police Magistrate J. C. Judd this morning and was remanded until Friday for trial. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

According to the complainant, he was talking to Casalo on Bathurst street, near the M. C. R. sidings, when he had occasion to take a roll of bills amounting to $20 from his pocket. He alleges that as he stood talking Casalo suddenly snatched the notes from his hand and made off. P. C. Burdick heard the trouble and gave chase, landing the alleged offender after a short sprint.

Alice Hegan Rice's Latest Book

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," must have earned enough money from her first work to keep her in affluence all the rest of her life. Popular authors, however, usually come back for another round of applause and show-ers of ducats from a charmed public. Sometimes they come back every year. But Mrs. Wiggs (it seems more natural to call her by that name than by the more staid real name, Alice Hegan Rice), has not wearied us by her literary activity. She has been famous now for over ten years and has only two or three slim stories to her credit. But this year the urge of genius has come upon her again, and she has produced a story, a long one, "A Romance of Billy-Goat Hill" (William Briggs), which will probably be one of the big sellers of the season.

When I read the first paragraph of this romance I thought that Mrs. Wiggs had got "off her beat." If I may be pardoned for using a police force metaphor. For this is the way she begins the story: "It was spring time in Kentucky, say, irresponsible, southern spring time, that comes bursting impetuously through high-ways and byways, heedless of possible frosts and impossible fruitions. A glimmer of tender new green enveloped the world, and the air was sweet with the odor of young and growing things." This was bad: I felt hurt to think that Mrs. Wiggs would condescend to use such commonplace language as this. And I didn't feel a bit happier when she took me into a richly furnished Kentucky mansion and introduced me to the colonel, who was, of course, drinking mint julep, and to Miss Lady, a spoiled and beautiful daughter, who had just fallen in love for the first time with a young Kentucky aristocrat named Don.

And I was still feeling very sad when I passed on to the second chapter and read a description of Miss Lady and Don galloping over the sunlit fields, with "Romance pounding in their wake; Romance, whose hoof beats made their pulses dance in their son, whose breath upon their cheeks made them laugh for joy in the face of the wind." Pretty soon this would have been unbearable, but the hero and heroine met Chick. Chick was a boy with large wistful eyes, and a broad smile that showed where his teeth were going to be. When I came to this boy and this picture of him, I breathed a sigh of relief, for if not right in the good old cabbage patch, I felt that I was getting pretty close to it. Across his narrow chest a ragged, elbowless coat was hitched together by one button, while a pair of bare, spindling legs dwindled away respectively into a high black shoe and a low-cut tan one, both of which were well ventilated at the heels. Chick was not a good talker; when he tried to express himself he made a queer quivering sound in his throat, and had to depend upon his chum, Skeeter, as interpreter.

Well, when you run across Chick and Skeeter, and Chick's Pa and Ma, and Aunt Myrtella, you feel that you are back with Asia and America, and settle down to enjoy the story. I suppose that many readers will enjoy the romance in the book and will never draw an easy breath until Miss Lady and Don kiss each other after the big trial and that the obstacles which always beset true love (in a romance), are ended; but as for me, why I simply endure Miss Lady in order that I may follow the happy hazard, ash-barred existence of Chick and watch the human comedy in the home of his shiftless Dad, otherwise known by the joyful name of Flathers.

In reading this romance you come to the conclusion that life is not without its delights even in Bean Alley, where Flathers Jones as the Micawber of Billy Goat Hill. Every member of the household from Phineas, the idle dad, down to the boarder, the young, fast-burnt of Chick, who came back to live at the Alley when she lost her situation as cook, is a joy. She is situated in the order of the Cooks' Mill, and had long since won her spurs. Wonderful were the sparring matches between her and her shiftless brother Phineas, and even more wonderful was her generosity to the five little Flathers, including Chick.

Phineas Flathers, the author of Mrs. Wiggs has scored another triumph. He certainly knows how to make the Flathers type live, and she invests the life of those who live in the Bean Alley of the world with an interest and a never-failing humor that show that she has the gift of genius.

Brener Foreman Says Porto Rican Threatened to Cut His Throat.

ASSERTS HE WAS ROBBED

Prisoner Denies That He Made Assault—Magistrate Reserves Judgment.

The case arising out of the alleged attack upon Joseph Levine, superintendent of the Brener cigar factory, by one of his employees, Raymond Vasquez, who was arrested yesterday morning by Detectives Nickle and Keggel on a warrant, was tried before Police Magistrate Judd this morning, and judgment is at once necessary. The court did not appear to be impressed strongly with the evidence offered by the prosecution, although Mr. Levine told a vivid story of the attack upon him on York street in the darkness of Tuesday evening.

Complainant on Stand.

The complainant testified that Vasquez came first to the factory last year, and went away for a time, and returned six weeks ago. There had never been any trouble between the men, standing at the corner of York and Clarence streets, talking to Mr. Meyer, foreman of the packers. Vasquez approached and asked Levine to come around behind the depot till he talked to him. Mr. Meyer asked in German, so that Vasquez could not understand, would he go along to protect Levine. Witness did not think it was necessary, and proceeded with the witness toward Wellington street.

"I'll Cut Your Throat."

"I want you to discharge Moralis from the family out of the factory, or I'll cut your throat," demanded Vasquez, at the same time drawing a razor from his coat pocket, and holding it menacingly a few inches from Levine's neck. Levine readily consented, and promised to give immediate employment to a Cuban friend of Vasquez, who is now in Montreal.

Vasquez then demanded Levine's valuables, and searched his coat so as to make his pockets more accessible. Vasquez then stepped still closer, and, shouting "Murder!" as he ran, he reached the Dominion House safely and was met by several people. Vasquez did not follow.

Cross-examined by Mr. W. R. Meredith, acting for Vasquez, Mr. Levine denied that he had gone to the vicinity of the Griggs House, knowing that there was a meeting of Cuban cigar makers there.

Was Badly Frightened.

Levine recognized Joseph Sage, clerk of the Tecumseh House cigar stand, when he ran for safety to the Dominion House. Levine did not complain to the police because he was too badly frightened to make a move, he said. Vasquez appeared at the factory next day, and said to Levine that he wanted out, and the trouble that resulted in the summoning of the police followed.

Joseph Sage testified that he was at the Dominion House when Vasquez appeared, hatless, coatless and breathless. Sage returned with Levine and found

FULL LENGTH PIROT COAT FOR GIRL WHO WANTS SOMETHING SNAPPY

The merry ways of the mad-cap clown are pleasantly called to mind by the distinctly novel feature of this handsome, full-length Pirot coat. They are the huge seal-skin buttons which are used, not only as fastenings, but for trimming on the sleeves and back of the coat.

Contrary to supposition, these big, furry balls are not in any way grotesque, but lend themselves readily to the clever scheme of contrast which is carried out in the model. The material of this dress-up wrap is a lightweight chinchilla, and the color a delicate baby blue, which the deep seal-skin collar sets off capably. As usual the touch of fur adds greatly to the costly appearance of the coat without seriously increasing its expense.

This outdoor apparel may be worn equally well in the afternoon or evening, and has the double advantage of being warm and looking well.

Dear Miss Grey: We have had an argument as to who was provincial license inspector for hotels. Would you tell me through your columns what his name is, and where he lives, and oblige a reader of your paper. G. D.

A.—This query is somewhat outside of Miss Grey's province. Mr. Thomas Duffin, of Thornhill, Ont., is license inspector at the present time. (Ed.)

Making the Column a Mutual Benefit.

The spirit of helpfulness which appears to characterize the readers of this column, has led to no less than eight responses being sent in answer to Mrs. M. E. H.'s request for a recipe for green tomato mince-meat. I am indebted to Mrs. S., Mrs. F. Z., Mrs. D. (Ingersoll), Mrs. S. T. (London Junction), Young Housekeeper, Mrs. J. L., Mrs. John Stone, and Mrs. J. I. C., for recipes, all somewhat similar in nature.

Just read this housemother's letter. It seems to breathe out the very essence of kindness:

"I have found your department of the paper both helpful and entertaining. I was cooking my tomato mince-meat last evening, and while watching that it did not burn, I took a peep at your part of the paper. In it I saw a request for a recipe for green tomato mince-meat. I have received so many good ideas from your columns. I am delighted to send it. I have made some from the following recipe for the last three years, and find it to prove very convenient to have some put away for late spring and early summer when apples are gone and there is not many things to make a pie with, before the small fruits come in. I have tried four different recipes and prefer this one to any other: The Recipe:

"One peck of green tomatoes, 5 pounds of light coffee sugar, 1 pound of raisins (stoned), 1 pound of currants, 2 tablespoons ground cinnamon, half tablespoon cloves, 1 tablespoon (scant) salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg (grated), 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 cup suet, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup boiled elder.

Chop tomatoes rather fine and drain. Cover with cold water, put on the stove, bring to a boil, and drain off all the water; repeat this a second time. Then take tomatoes, raisins, currants, suet, sugar and salt, and cook 1 hour. Add cider, vinegar, and spices. Let come to a boil; put in sealers while very hot. This recipe makes about six quarts."

I publish one of the other recipes, which differs the most from the one above:

One peck green tomatoes, slice and drain, pour boiling water over them and drain again. Then chop and add 5 pounds of brown sugar, 1 cup suet, 1 cup vinegar, 1 pound raisins, 1 pound of currants, 1/4 pound peel, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, 1 of cloves, 2 of salt, 1 nutmeg, 4 large apples chopped fine. Boil for one hour, then bottle.

The above is but one of many ways in which this column may be made of mutual benefit to our readers, and I am only too pleased at any time to receive such help from them, where I have been unable to supply the desired information.

Baste the Pattern.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you kindly tell me how I can transfer a blue pattern on a black satin waist so that I am able to see it plainly on satin?

Thanking you in anticipation, I remain, E. C.

A.—As far as I can judge, the only method would be to baste the design on the satin and embroider right over it. I do not see how you can transfer the pattern. But why not inquire about it at a local fancy-work store? They will be better able to give you the information than I.

Making First Calls.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you kindly tell me if it is customary for a bride to return a call when she is absent and a card is left, or should she wait until the neighbor makes a second call?

When making a call, should she leave two of her husband's cards and one of her own; and when making a call, should she introduce herself on entering the house?

Thanking you very much, A READER.

A.—1. The bride should return the call any time within three weeks after the cards were left.

2. At this first call one of her own and two of her husband's cards should be left. For subsequent calls the leaving of her husband's card is unnecessary. It will probably not be necessary for her to introduce herself, as the neighbor will doubtless know her by sight and recognize her.

Boston Red Sox Are World Champions for 1912

GIANTS BEATEN OUT IN TENTH INNING IN DECIDING GAME OF BIG STRUGGLE

Snodgrass Muffed Engle's Fly and Paved Way For Red Sox Rally That Resulted in Two Runs and Mathewson's Defeat.

"BIG SIX" PITCHED WONDERFUL BALL AND SHOULD HAVE HAD EASY WIN

Bedient and Wood Figured in Boston's Victory—Stahl's Men Put Up a Game Fight in Final Inning and Won When All Hope Seemed Dead.

Boston, Oct. 16.—There is no particular hero in this simple tale, only a villain of deepest dye, Fred Snodgrass by name, who, in the tenth inning of today's game, with the Giants leading, 2 to 1, found a baseball weighing as much as a baby rabbit, the Red Sox came back, threw it to hold, muffed it, and took some $20,000 from the safe deposit vaults of his friends and associates.

Boston did the rest, given the material and moral advantage of the Snodgrass muffed ball, the Red Sox, a beaten team, took instant and thorough advantage of the inevitable confusion that set in among the previously cocky and confident Giants, muffed two bases, hit a single and a sacrifice fly, and scored not only the one run that tied it, but the second tally that made the Boston champions of the world. And thus for three seasons in succession has the banner emblematic of creations of the diamond laurels floated over an American League camp.

RED SOX DESERTED. Deserted by even their home roots, the most loyal in the world, accused of quitting, setting out, "blowing up," of possessing a saffron streak as broad as Woodward avenue, of having less courage than a caterpillar and less aggressiveness than a baby rabbit, the Red Sox came back, threw it to hold, muffed it, and took some $20,000 from the safe deposit vaults of his friends and associates.

GIANTS KEPT THREATENING. The Giants threatened always, having men on the bases in every one of the ten innings, getting nine hits, three of them extra bases, receiving four bases on balls, and profiting by four misplays afield. In almost any round a momentary lapse of efficiency on the part of the Boston pitchers meant utter, ignominious defeat, black disgrace. No one substantial testimony to the splendid work of Bedient in seven innings and of Wood in three is needed than a glance at the number of Giants left on bases. The eleven of them in the course of the game, one in each frame, except the second, in which two were left on base, the side from a commanding position on the right of way.

The Red Sox are game, it is true, but now it is easy to understand that what appeared to be a back of grit merely was a manifestation of extreme youth, for most of the Sox are very young. They may have been so badly flustered by a lot of the very warm friends were ready to brand them quitters of the runkest sort, but today, with the honor of their club and of the American League at stake, not to mention that $1,400 difference between the winners and losers, they showed themselves able to stand a grueling pace without whimpering.

Mathewson a Hero. If one were asked to pick a particular hero for this contest, he would name Christy Mathewson, the magnificent hurler, who, for more than a decade, has been the greatest pitcher in the National League since. No other pitcher, not even a Mathewson, can win ball games single-handed; none can constantly cover up the failings of an entire team. Dr. Drush, had they earned pay from John T. Brush.

Had It Won in Tenth. "Big Six" had his game won in the tenth. Everybody except the Boston players and the gods of baseball who thought that this contest was over, to spring a practical joke, was willing to admit that a base on balls, two infield outs and a strike by Murray had given New York a run in the third, and this kept the Giants in the lead until the seventh.

Here Matty's luck first went back on him, a pop fly from Stahl's bat falling safely among a convention consisting of Murray, Snodgrass and two other. At least two of these players could have reached the ball, it seemed, but each excused somebody else to grab it, and while they were standing around the mound, answered gravity's call and dented the sod. Wagner let four successive wide balls sail by and walked, which put Manager Jake on second.

It looks as if this would be the time and place for the Boston "big six" to pitch, but the "big six" did not pitch, but a substitute pitcher might do something, let the big catcher bat for himself. A weak fly set the Giants. This matter was settled by bringing Harkness to the bat in place of Bedient. First Henry let two strikes go over and then he viewed a ball as a bad one. On the next pitch he burned one straight to third base, the ball striking the canvas and rolling out for a fielder. Stahl scored easily, and Wagner, hitting the off season run, was out for amusement, went to second. There was a chance for Boston to win it right here, but Hooper went out on a strike, Snodgrass, who for some reason was playing left centre for a right field hitter.

Joe Wood Enters. Joe Wood came in with the eighth, and for the next two innings there was no scoring on either side. Woody had one out in the New York tenth when Murray, after fouling out, batted to furnish souvenirs for nearly every fan present, doubled into the left field seats. Markle, doubled into the left field seats. Markle, after swinging wildly at one and letting another pass, connected for a single just to the right of second base.

Speaker, in his haste to get hold of the ball and try to head off Murray at home, in, with Markle on second before quiet was restored. The pitcher was addressed a supply of smoke that he had been saving for just such an emergency, fanned Hooper, and looking a liner for Meyers, tossed that savage out himself.

It was a gloomy crowd that watched the Red Sox come up for their turn at bat. With the absolute necessity for getting one run before three men died, there was a curse issued from the mouth of a yell of triumph, for Snodgrass, pushing aside all other contenders for the title of the biggest chump in baseball let the white sphere fall to the ground, placing Engle on second with nobody out.

Even Mathewson's poise, which usually is as firm as that of a marble statue, was unequal to the shock of this unexpected play. The pitcher showed his disgust by a toss of his arm, and from the stands it could be seen that he was addressing Snodgrass with something beside an invitation to surrender.

Now Mr. Engle, the man who was on second by virtue of this shabby error, is the fellow whose baseball head furnished the original model for the Kahn statue of reinforced concrete. Clyde has imagined ever since he has been in the game that there is a man who has taken the man who gets caught out of the base, offest. If there were such a bonus Engle would receive it annually, for in the department of sack navigation he is without a rival for the booby prize.

MOTHER FAINTS WHEN SNODGRASS MUFFED THE BALL

[Canadian Press.] Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—Overcome with emotion when the electrical score board at the local theatre yesterday showed Fred Snodgrass's muffed fly which cost the New York Giants the world's championship title, Mrs. Snodgrass, mother of the New York outfielder, fainted.

Mrs. Snodgrass is an ardent "fan."

Looked Like Blow-Up. It looked for a few minutes early in the game as though the Red Sox were about to blow up with a report that would be heard around the world. Even Charlie Wagner, who has been by all odds the defensive star of the series, fell down on a soft chance, while Larry Gardner made a couple of errors that would have looked out of place in the women's annual outing and picnic at Bois Blanc.

Still Hugh Bedient, hero, toiled lining after lining, steady as the earth in its orbit, calm as a statue, slow as the coming of the millennium. They used to say that Joe Doyle, one of the Highlanders, was slow, and George Mullin has been called deliberate, but Doyle was hasty and Mullin precipitous compared to this fellow Bedient. In a close game it seems that hours elapse between his deliveries. Doubtless there is something in his slothfulness, however, for a batter is bound to get nervous when the hurler stands for hours calmly staring at him.

Wood was less beset by trouble than the juvenile whom he relieved when the necessity for strong pitching was made it expedient to remove Bedient in favor of a pinch hitter. He had men on bases in eight and nine, but the first two were gone. In the tenth, after the Murray-Merkle combination had scored what looked like a sure run, he made it expedient to remove Bedient in favor of a pinch hitter. He had men on bases in eight and nine, but the first two were gone. In the tenth, after the Murray-Merkle combination had scored what looked like a sure run, he made it expedient to remove Bedient in favor of a pinch hitter.

Mathewson Wasn't on Easy Street. Mathewson was not on easy street all the way by any means. With a lead the Sox often had a base on balls, and he had to work hard almost constantly. One out, the score tied, the winning run on the first, and with one out in the second and ninth without scoring, and on the third two gone in the sixth, all this, in a game where the margin of victory was so small, and many trying situations to face and deep down the knowledge that he was backed by one of the poorest fielding clubs in any major league, "Big Six" did his best.

Just one defensive feat stood out above all the rest, not only of the game, but of the series as well. Harry Hooper was his author and him the Red Sox can affirming. Captain Doyle hit a fly ball in right centre for a home run. Taking just one look at the ball, Hooper raced to the rim of the inclosure, turned Mr. Ball and threw it back to the diamond. Had the outfielder been unable to reach the ball, it certainly would have bounded into the bleachers and for home run, and even had he got it to the third, and the hit and the run, Hooper immediately afterward would have scored as every Red Sox fan knows.

Here's Christy Mathewson's Best Baseball Story Told By the Great Pitcher Himself

MATHEWSON'S FAMOUS "HANK OF HAIR" A CARICATURE OF THE GREAT WORLD'S SERIES PITCHER.

[By Christy Mathewson.]

"Dominie" Mullany, for years manager of the Jacksonville team in the South Atlantic League, but now an umpire, I understand, pulled the funniest thing I ever heard of a number of years ago. It was a pun that would be appreciated by a northerner, but it failed to make much of a hit with the dyed-in-the-wool southerners at the game. It got Mullany, who is quite a character, in a lot of trouble, but it saved the umpire from rough handling, so was worth while.

If memory serves me correctly, Jacksonville was playing at Augusta. Things were breaking badly for the home club, and the umpire seemed to be trying to make it worse.

With Augusta hopelessly beaten, the fans forgot the game about the sixth inning, and started on the umpire. What they said would not look well in print. What they threatened to do to the umpire after the game, would have caused a man of less nerve to take it on the run.

Red Sox Victory a Hollow One Boston Fans Are Sore at Club

Little Enthusiasm Being Displayed in Beantown Because of Treatment Accorded Royal Rooters at Tuesday's Game—A Sympathy Strike Palled Down the Attendance on Wednesday.

Boston, Oct. 16.—Little noise is heard in Boston's downtown district tonight. The crowds on the streets are few. The Red Sox have won a world's championship and Boston should be the biggest spot on the baseball map tonight, but it resembles Mudville after Casey took his last healthy wallop in that memorable contest.

That remark let the umpire get away with his life, but Mullany had a strenuous time of it at the end of the ninth.

Just for the privilege of showing their loyalty. When they arrived at the park yesterday, that section of the bleachers in left field which had daily been kept in reserve for them, was filled. They had to stand. Robert B. McRoy, who for several years was Boston's secretary, and who last year bought a block of stock from John I. Taylor and became secretary of the Red Sox, had sold the seats.

The Royal Rooters broke down the left field bleacher fence. Mounted policemen drove them back, and policemen kept them in check throughout the game. They were missing today. The Royal Rooters passed a resolution demanding that McRoy be discharged, and refusing to attend another game until the club got rid of him.

These Royal Rooters are the 500 fans who gave Boston its reputation for loyalty in baseball. They have always sat together, the same crowd, day after day, season after season and now, after spending a lot of money for the privilege of showing their loyalty, they are practically kicked out of the park.

That is why Boston looks like Mudville tonight, and why enthusiasm is lacking. The hand that did the feeding was bitten too severely.

CUBS WENT TO PIECES AND SOX WON AGAIN

Reulbach and Cheney Are Batted Out of the Box in the Eighth Inning. When Sox Score Four Runs.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Chicago National League Club went to pieces in the eighth inning of today's game for the Chicago championship with the Chicago Americans. Both Reulbach and Cheney were batted out of the box and the "Sox" clinched the game by scoring four runs. The series now stands 2 to 2 in favor of the National League.

White was wild and gave way to Benz in the fourth inning. Benz was equally wild, but held the National League to two hits. Score: Nationals—1 0 0 0 1 0 1—5 2. Americans—0 0 1 0 2 0 4—7 9. Batteries—Reulbach, Cheney, Smith and Archer; White, Benz and Schalk.

THE ADVERTISER BULLETINS ATTRACTED A LARGE CROWD DURING THE WORLD SERIES

Many Tributes Paid Service, Which Was the Fastest and Most Correct in City—Traffic Blocked During the Final Sessions of Yesterday's Game.

Probably one of the largest crowds that ever gathered around a bulletin board in London during a world's series of any other sporting event, stood in front of The Advertiser office, posted there when the reports of the final game were being posted. There seemed to be an even number of Red Sox and Giants' supporters in the throng, and there was considerable cheering when the scores in the final innings were being put up.

The Advertiser's bulletin proved more popular than ever this year, and two policemen were kept busy keeping traffic open along Dundas street. When the ninth and tenth innings scores were coming in, the crowd jammed in so close to the bulletin board that the "cops" were nearly swept off their feet, and for some time all traffic was blocked. As in former years, The Advertiser had the fastest and most correct service in the city.

The bulletins were posted "hot off the wire," and only a few minutes separated the time when the plays took place until the time London fans were reading an account of them in front of this office. Many favorable comments of the service were heard on all sides, and several tributes were paid on the street to the bulletin. The Advertiser's bulletin board was the only one in the city giving the public the very latest in the quickest possible time.

Already arrangements are being made for a "bigger than ever" bulletin service next year when the baseball season starts, and local fans can be assured of something even better if that can possibly be.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MAGNATES WILL DISCUSS FOGEL CHARGES

Are Meeting at New York
Today to Look Into Charges Against Umpire's Fairness

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Oct. 17.—The magnates of the National League gathered in New York today for a special meeting, called by President Thomas J. Lynch, to consider the charges against the umpire, Fred McQuinn, who had been charged with unfairness in the National League game, and in stating that certain members of the staff had favored the Giants to the detriment of the other clubs on the circuit.

President Lynch considered the alleged charges as a reflection on him, and in Boston was reported as saying that if the league did not take action in the matter he would resign.

In answer to Lynch's demand for an investigation, Fogel recently said: "I made no direct charges, I simply expressed an opinion. If Lynch can construe my assertion that New York got the best of the umpire's decisions during the last two years into some horrible charge, well and good, but he can't change my opinion."

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulcerations, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

The Silent Barrier

(BY LOUIS TRACY.)

People in Leadville soon discovered that Spencer was a bright man—"Yes, sir, a citizen of whom the chief mining city of the Rocky Mountains has every reason to be proud—and the railway magnate who had nearly ruined him by years of hostility buried the past grandly and generously."

"Charles K. Spencer can't be sidetracked," he said. "That K isn't in his name by accident. Look at it—a regular buffer of a letter. Tell you what, you hit the K looking out for trouble."

Whereupon the miners laughed, and said that the president was a mighty smart man too, and Spencer, who knew he was a thief, but was unwilling to quarrel with him for the sake of the company, thought that the best months' vacation in Europe would make for peace and general content.

He had said, "I was free to wander whithersoever chance led him. Arriving in London from Plymouth late on a Thursday evening, he took a base driver's holiday on Friday. Finding a tunnel under the Thames in full progress, he sought the engineer in charge of the work, and spent several pleasant and enjoyable hours in crawling through all manner of uncomfortable passages below the level of the Thames."

And this was Saturday, and here he was, at three o'clock in the afternoon, standing in the best of the city, and sending on an expensive trip abroad a girl who had not the remotest notion of the history of the tunnel, and who, as a result, was a very good deal of a nuisance to the city."

J. P. MORGAN MAY BUY A PALACE IN ITALY

Expresses Idea of Purchasing Famous Strozzi Edifice, Which He Admires.

Rome, Oct. 16. — Of many rumors current whenever J. Pierpont Morgan sets foot on Italian soil as to his speculations in the domain of art and antiquity one has survived tenaciously his latest visit to Rome as well as to Florence. This report is that Mr. Morgan has been negotiating for the Strozzi Palace, one of the most splendid and historically famous buildings in Florence.

He began in 1489 for Filippo Strozzi, celebrated adversary of the Medici, and finished in 1533, it is the most perfect example of the Florentine palatial style.

Though negotiations are not actually in progress for the sale of the palace, Mr. Morgan during a short stay in Florence expressed his admiration for the edifice, and after repeated visits said he had serious thoughts of buying it.

As he well knew at the time the head of the family and owner of the palace, Prince Piero Strozzi, was a comparatively uneducated and unworldly man. When Piero died the palace passed into the hands of his two brothers, Robert and Leone, but the property was mortgaged to Prince Strozzi, whom Prince Piero divorced, for $300,000. At this point the Italian Government desired to step in as purchaser, and Mr. Morgan was credited with an intention of presenting it as a gift to the nation.

Mr. Morgan's adventure has befallen King Victor. While travelling incognito in the neighborhood of Venice his motor car was driven up at the ancient castle of the Count of Rivoli. The king's faithful steward, Mattioli, asked the lodge-keeper:

"Can we motor through the park and visit the castle?"

The hoary Italian veteran, who has been a servant of the Roccacelli family since he fought his country's battles 50 years ago, snapped out:

"No, you can't. We want none of your sort here. Mr. Strozzi is a strict disciplinarian. He is a personal friend of the king's, and he will not permit any of your kind to take snapshots of the grounds and buildings."

"I will give you two minutes to clear out, you and your steam heater," said Mattioli. "If you don't go I'll blow both your brains out."

The king was highly amused, and mentioned to Mattioli the incident.

The Duchess of Genoa, an aunt of the King of Saxony, whose death put the Italian court into mourning, was delayed only by her royal household, taking the theatrical procession and playing at the private court theatre.

There are many people who run about after happiness in an absent-minded man hunting for his hat, and all the while is on his head—Sydney Smith.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY ADVICE

(BY MRS. MAE MARTIN.)

Cells. You can't expect to appear fascinating with a complexion all over your face. During the summer anyone's blood is likely to become thick and clogged, and an outbreak of pimples, which frequently find an outlet in the face. This condition can be overcome by taking a good skin and blood-purifier. An excellent and inexpensive, old-fashioned tonic of tried merit is a quart of half-pint alcohol and one quart of water. Dissolve one ounce of karoene in half-pint alcohol and one quart of water. Spoonful before each meal and you will soon feel like a new person, and your complexion will clear and take on a healthy tone.

W. J. B. Those annoying hairs on your chin will quickly vanish after an application of a delicate paste, made by mixing together a little water and powdered alum. This should be applied and rubbed off the skin two or three minutes. The skin will be clear and smooth, and always leaves the skin clear and smooth.

E. B. S. Although gray hair is sometimes caused by worry, it is generally due to a diseased scalp, as indicated by such symptoms as dandruff, itching of the scalp and brittle, falling hair, of which a healthy condition, first keep it clean by shampooing every day with a good hair wash. Then massage the scalp, using a good quality hair-oil. You can prepare the tonic yourself by adding one ounce of karoene to a half-pint of alcohol (not whiskey) and a half-pint of water. This is much better than the ready-prepared tonic, as it contains nothing to make the hair coarse, sticky or "stringy." It will remove the most stubborn dandruff, and stop your hair from coming out. You will find it an ideal dressing for the hair and very refreshing to an itching scalp.

Harriet. For your tired, dull, inflamed eyes you need a good eye-tonic. Dissolve one ounce of karoene in a pint of water. Two or three drops of this in each eye daily will strengthen your eyes and make them bright and sparkling. This tonic will not smart and has proven a great aid to those who wear glasses. A friend of mine who wears glasses, and who tells me that she uses this simple tonic regularly to keep them bright and clear, and to remove the inflammation for weak, inflamed, tired eyes and granulated eyelids.

Madge. For your hollow cheeks and wrinkled face I recommend frequent applications of a good grade of complex cream-jelly, also brisk massage. By stirring together one ounce of cream, two teaspoonsful glycerine and one-half pint cold water, allowing to stand over night, you will have an extra good complexion-jelly. Use this also for massaging. It will clear up your skin fine, removing all dirt from the pores, and soon you will find your complexion smooth, plump, fresh-looking and unlined. This is an excellent cream for treating blackheads, pimples and roughness of the skin, and will rid your face of those very large pores. I have never found anything to equal a complex cream-jelly for improving a complexion.

S. R. O. If your superfluous flesh prevents you from looking as good as you are, following fat-reducer which has given excellent results. Dissolve four ounces of karoene in a quart of water, and strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. This remedy is harmless, and does not require any dieting and taking plenty of exercise, you will find this remedy will cut down your weight very rapidly.

Mrs. Ruth. There can be no possible excuse for a woman of your age neglecting her complexion. It is a duty you owe yourself to look as youthful and charming as possible. I would not encourage you to use face powder; it rubs off too

MANY brands of Baking Powder contain alum, which is an injurious acid. The ingredients of alum baking powder are never printed on the label.

Magic Baking Powder contains no alum and is the only baking powder made in Canada that has all the ingredients plainly printed on the label.

GERMANY'S ARROGANT WAY AROUSES U. S. GOVERNMENT

Berlin May Be Called to Account By Washington If War on Standard Oil Culminates in Violation of Treaty Rights.

Washington, Oct. 16. — If the German Government and the financial interests behind the movement to oust the Standard Oil Company from Germany think they can ruthlessly attack the American concern because it has been prosecuted as a trust, they are due to be rudely disillusioned. It was made very clear, and with considerable emphasis, at the state department today, that any attack on the Standard Oil Company by Germany will meet with a defence just as vigorous as the United States Government can put up.

Moreover, an official of the state department declared emphatically that in case this Government has to go to the aid of the Standard Oil, the "arrogant attitude" of the German Government and press of Germany toward American commercial interests in the last few months will be borne in mind. The state department has not failed to take note of the abuse and threats directed at the United States Government and American commercial interests recently by newspapers which are known to be semi-official. If the plan to oust the Standard Oil Company from Germany materializes, and the circumstances make it possible for this Government to act, there will be no hesitation about calling Germany to account.

BECKER SAID PUBLIC WOULD REWARD KILLING OF ROSENTHAL

Told Fellow-Prisoner That He Would Get Pension for Deed.

New York, Oct. 16. — "When this sensation blows over, the public will give me a pension for killing that crook Rosenthal."

These are the words attributed to Police Lieut. Charles Becker by James D. Hallen, his fellow-prisoner in the Tombs, at today's session of Becker's trial on the charge of instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, who "squealed" against him. Hallen was one of fifteen witnesses who testified today for the state. Assistant District Attorney Moss announced when adjournment was taken that he had only one or two more witnesses to call to complete the case for the people.

Two witnesses from the Union Square Hotel told of frequent meetings between Becker and Rosenthal in the hotel dining-room when "they talked a long time."

One of the witnesses said he saw Rosenthal pass the police lieutenant "a roll of bills."

Hallen testified that last August while he was an inmate of the Tombs prison, he heard a conversation between Becker and Detective White, formerly of the police lieutenant's strong-arm squad of gambling raiders. White had been locked up on a charge of "framing up" Jack Zeig.

The witness could not recall the exact date, but from a memorandum, to which he referred, he thought the conversation occurred on a Friday.

Becker's boast, the witness testified, "Chief, I have been looking for you. I have it straight that they have arrested Louie, and that he has given the whole thing up." Becker stepped out of the bathroom.

Becker said: "That's only one more crook. They have only crooks to tes-

A Serious Situation.

While Ambassador Lelshmann had reported to the state department the published facts about the plan to drive out the Standard Oil Company, it is not known exactly what the scheme will entail. It depends upon what steps are taken to carry out the intention as to whether the United States will have grounds to interfere. Until the German Government has adopted the plan, and its details are known, it will be impossible to decide whether any treaty right protecting American commercial interests in Germany has been violated. State department officials are now merely watching and waiting.

Information received here is to the effect that the German Government propose that the German Government shall create a Government monopoly in oil throughout the empire. This is to be done, it is said, through the taking over of all the oil interests now operating in Germany. If the Standard Oil objects to such treatment, the plan is to have the property condemned and confiscated by the Government, the owners to receive whatever sum Government appraisers decide it is worth. There is no secret making of the fact that the real object is to drive out the Standard Oil Company.

KEIR HARDIE TELLS OF BRITISH PROBLEMS

Discusses Political Problems at Opening of Guelph Canadian Club.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Guelph, Oct. 17.—Keir Hardie, the British Labor leader, opened the first meeting of the Canadian Club last night with an address on "The Political Situation in the Old Land."

Replying to a question from a member, following his prediction that if on the next dissolution the Conservatives gained the day, the two parties would have to unite to form a Government, Mr. Hardie said that the policy of the Labor party of Great Britain is to force the other two parties into a coalition, and then fight on an open field the battle of property-owners vs. the workmen, of capital vs. labor.

Asked regarding the stand of the Labor party on prohibition, his reply was that they did not believe prohibition would solve labor problems, for in the most temperate countries, had the poorest people in the world.

He denounced Sir Edward Grey's foreign policy as one which embroiled Britain in all European controversies, and which led to the Russo-British partition of Persia, and a railway through that country to India.

Miss Wylie, the British suffragette, who is touring Canada, is to address a meeting here next Wednesday on "Votes for Women."

BAPTIST CONVENTION OPENS AT BRANTFORD

Striking Address Delivered By the President on Conditions in Quebec.

Brantford, Oct. 17.—Nearly four hundred delegates of the Baptist Churches of Ontario and Quebec assembled in this city last night for the annual convention.

Rev. Dr. A. L. Therrien, of Grand Ligne, the president, delivered a striking address at the opening session in Park Baptist Church, and Rev. C. W. Rose welcomed the delegates to the city.

Reference was made by Dr. Therrien to Canada's present condition of peace as compared with a century ago. Issues affecting the progress of the Baptist Church had also been settled, the progress of other races of Canada and the endowment of McMaster University having been disposed of harmoniously. Touching on the future of the Grand Ligne mission, Dr. Therrien said that if the mission was merged into one convention it was felt that the other conventions might be alienated, and one convention would not be able to bear the burden of French evangelizing.

Proclaiming a message of liberty, the president declared that Baptists as Protestants claimed the right to be played on an equal footing with fellow citizens of other races and creeds. There was no national church in Canada, and Baptists protested against any law or interpretation of law which gave to any church special privileges.

The president urged a uniform law. Dr. Therrien said that the efforts to place the French language on a par with English throughout the Dominion were to be deprecated. One language and one system of education should prevail.

In concluding his address the president paid a striking tribute to the Government in Quebec and declared that the people of that province were awakening from their Rip Van Winkle slumbers, and the clouds of ignorance and superstition were passing away. The French people were becoming endowed with progressive ideas, and already Quebec stood ahead of other provinces in reform work.

The convention will continue until Tuesday next, an unusually heavy program having been arranged.

CLAIMED $100

Interesting Horse Deal Was Settled After Jury Disagreed.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Oct. 16.—A horse case of unusual interest was tried at the sitting of the division court here, in which Mr. Frank Falden, of Falden's Corner, was the defendant, and Mr. H. W. Fildes, of Ingersoll, was the plaintiff. The suit was for breach of warranty, the plaintiff claiming $100, because, as he stated, the horse was not as sound as he was represented to be. The defendant, however, claimed that he had represented the horse as having worked well for him, and though spirited, had behaved well, not having as the plaintiff alleged, it had gone since became his property.

Evidence was also given that Falden did not have knowledge as to the horse being a kicker. The jury disagreed, and the case was set for a second day.

Under the circumstances, the case was set for a second day, and the jury was to meet again on Friday.

THE BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

October 17

Guard against accident, and do not seem to notice small details. After a while your friendships will be successful and pleasant friendships will be formed.

Those born today will be inclined to act upon hasty judgment and will meet with many mishaps. They will be quick to learn and their experiences will often teach them to be careful. Later in life they will be more fortunate.

Around the Table

In laying the table for a company dinner twelve inches of space is allowed for every guest, or more if you can spare it, measuring from the center of one plate to the center of the next.

First place the chosen ten-inch dinner plates exactly in the middle of the space allotted to each person and the proper distance apart; this is called the service plate and should occupy this space from the beginning of the service until exchanged for a warm plate when the first hot course is served after the soup, which is the fish course.

It is considered bad form not to have a plate in front of each guest until dessert, but before the serving of this course (the dessert) the space is bare and the crumbs are removed with a crumb knife and tray and this is the proper time and place to brush the crumbs.

Place at the right as many knives as will be required before the dessert, which are two, one large dinner knife with a steel blade, and a smaller knife for fish, (the latter not much used today, as all fish served at dinner is served either boiled or baked, and in each case they are needed to separate it with the sharp edges turned toward the service plate, and at the right of the knives place the soup spoon with the inside of the bowl turned up, then oyster fork or small fork for oysters.

At the left place as many forks as will be needed before the dessert, unless you are to have many courses, when two small silver forks of display.

Place the forks in the order in which they are to be used, the fish fork at the left, then the oyster fork, and then the large dinner fork for the roast, all with the tines turned up, the dinner fork lying close to the plate.

After the fork is served with or without the meat course, the choice spoons, which our hostess may have, and is sometimes tempted to place on the table from the beginning, show better taste if placed on the plates at the right of the oyster glass.

All silver is placed one inch from the edge of the table. On the extreme left is placed a large dinner fork of the same elegant quality as the dinner cloth, laminated beautifully and folded four times, then folded diagonally, and a piece of linen or broad or roll placed in it, but in a straight line.

Bread and butter are not served with the course dinner, the purpose of this roll or piece of bread is to be broken into bits to hold up the fork, and a refractory morsel of food on the fork that could not be placed there without it.

While the paramount issue is salesmanship, often subjects are included, in certain English branches, in cash systems and the knowledge of textile and the art of selling merchandise as well as discipline and diplomacy.

Much of the instruction is designed primarily to inform the younger members of the force regarding the policies, systems and merchandise of the particular stores involved, but there is a strong tendency to make it of even broader range.

Should advanced training become general the effect upon saleswomen would be a dual one—personal and economic. Good salesmanship is a composition of more science and a great deal of art. The science can be taught in the form of certain rules and principles—the art can be developed through experience, wisely supervised and interpreted.

Industrial instruction will unequivocally have a beneficial effect upon the economic status of the women. With increased efficiency and a higher standard of help the merchant will undeniably be the gainer. The immense time saved will represent to him a material profit, and the additional advertising in conducting a superior store will be an important asset.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO

British Government Asked to Permit Free Entry of Store cattle.

London, Oct. 16. The Canadian Cattle Importation Association is exerting every effort to bring pressure upon members of the Government with a view to the removal of what is deemed to be an unjust trade embargo upon Canadian store cattle to British ports. The various chambers of commerce throughout the country are being invited to appoint two of their most influential members to become delegates on a strong deputation which will go to the House of Commons at the earliest possible moment.

Some currency has been given to a report that the Dominion needs all her present supplies for her own use, and exportation is out of the question. It is therefore felt that a pronouncement upon the subject would be of material assistance.

COOK--LOCKEY

Pretty Wedding Was Solemnized in Ingersoll Baptist Church.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Oct. 17.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Cook, of West Oxford, when their daughter, Miss Mary Cook, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. C. Lockey.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. J. McLean, pastor of the Ingersoll Baptist Church, and was witnessed by a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was very becomingly gowned, was attended by Miss Lockey, sister of the groom, while Mr. B. Baker Cook, brother of the bride, was best man. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of and congratulations showered upon the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Lockey will reside in Ingersoll.

GUTTED BY FIRE

Drader's Planing Mill at Chatham Was Completely Destroyed.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Chatham, Oct. 17.—The large planing mill in North Chatham, owned by William Drader, of this city, was completely destroyed by fire last evening.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is supposed to have started in the engine-room. The building and contents, including a large amount of machinery, is a complete loss. There was very little insurance.

The fire had gained considerable headway before the alarm was given and the flames were past control when the firemen arrived on the scene. This is the sixth or seventh time that Mr. Drader has been burned out in this city.

Why Some Women Have Beautiful Hair

[From London Saturday Review.] "The popular method of caring for the hair is wrong," says Prof. H. L. Shively. "Make your own investigations, and see for yourself. Take the woman addicted to frequent shampooing with scented soaps and the use of so-called hair dyes, and compare her with the woman who depends upon sane and sensible dry shampooing. Only too often you find the soap-and-water woman's hair thin, scanty, brittle and dull, while the hair of the woman who uses dry shampooing is clean and healthy. You'll find no dandruff or soap scales on that head."

"Any woman to properly care for her hair should use a dry shampoo. Mix 4 ounces of powdered orris root with 4 ounces of theriac. Sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture upon the head; then rub the powder well through the hair. The theriac and orris root mixture is much better than orris root alone—and theriac can be depended upon to grow hair if anything will."

"Dorothy! What are you doing?" mother called, coming down the path. "Oh! How could you spoil your pretty dolly? See the paint running down her poor cheeks! She is just ready to fall to pieces."

"I wanted her clothed in green," Dorothy cried.

FACTS ABOUT TYPHOID FEVER

[By a Physician.] Typhoid fever is due to the typhoid bacillus. Man is the only animal that has it. The bacilli find their way into the human body exclusively through the mouth. Milk and water are two of the chief typhoid carriers.

Air or wound infections do not have to be considered. Therefore food—and particularly raw foods—should be carefully guarded.

Typhoid may last from four to six weeks and much longer if there are complications. Those usually met with are:

Secondary infections, particularly pneumonia, inflammation of veins, inflammation of glands, perforations and secondary peritonitis and hemorrhages.

A tired feeling and some aching are usually the first symptoms which appear after the bacilli have been in the intestines at least ten days.

Constipation and fever follow, and when the temperature is taken it will probably be over 100.

It generally takes a week from the time the fever starts to be fairly certain of the diagnosis.

A person having typhoid fever should get the best medical and nursing service he can get, and should be kept in bed. Equality is necessary when one has typhoid fever. There should be no worrying and no fretting. The attitude should be one of accepting and trusting, and if you have secured the best of aid it will be comparatively easy to follow this course.

The old-fashioned, long-drawn-out typhoid has practically been eliminated through precaution and care. The next step is to prevent the disease by removing the causes.

Then what is the man to do who has not had the disease and proposes to keep clear of it?

In ordinary times be careful of the water. Do not drink any raw milk unless you are sure the source is safe. Do not let others peel fruits and vegetables to be eaten raw if you can do it yourself. If you cannot prepare them yourself and are not sure how the work is done or by whom, eat the cooked vegetables and fruit.

Cook oysters and clams unless certain about food. Do not eat food where flies abound. Wash your own hands before eating. Insist that others should have clean hands when preparing the food.

If a cook is employed see that he or she has not had typhoid recently (within the last six months), or has not been in places where there was typhoid.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

WHOO-OO? "What does the child mean?" asked mother, as father came across the lawn. "What's the game, Dot?" father questioned.

"You said the rain would give the trees spring clothes, and Dolly wanted her green dress, too."

"Bless the child!" cried father, laughing. "But a little wooden doll couldn't put on green like the trees," said mother. "Did you really think it was Dolly?"

"The trees are wood, too," she answered, with a choke in her throat. "Then mother took her in her arms and kissed her, and Dorothy wiped her tears on that dear shoulder and felt almost happy again until she saw Dolly still sitting on the wet ground."

"Now she must go without clothes," she sobbed. "I thought a green dress would be better than none, but I wanted a pink one."

"And you shall have it, darling," promised mother, and mothers always keep their promises. There are never any young men in big, red cars to make them forget.

Dolly had her new dress, and brother Jack, who paints pictures, gave her some new red cheeks that made her prettier than ever. So she was none the worse for her bath.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe
No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a fairly supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in galsol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

SLEEP DESTROYERS.

Tea and coffee.

She suffered from nervousness by day and sleeplessness by night. "Up to three years ago," writes a young woman, "I was in the habit of drinking coffee freely and did not realize that it was injuring my health" (tea contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee) "till I was suddenly made the victim of nervous headaches so violent that I was compelled to give up household activities and stay in bed much of the time. Then insomnia came upon me and the wretchedness of sleepless nights was added to the agony of painful days."

"This lasted till a year ago, when I was persuaded by a friend to give up coffee entirely and use Postum. The result was, in less than a week, I began to feel the change for the better, my nerves grew stronger and I began to sleep nights. Day by day the improvement continued and in a short time I was restored to health. My headaches left me, the nervousness passed away entirely and I enjoy good, sound sleep at night."

"This is what I owe to Postum, and I feel it but right to tell you of it." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read this book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY IS EASILY WORTH

Agricultural Expert Says It Cannot Be Surpassed for Fruit Growing.

GROWERS ORGANIZE
CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY
No Part of the Dominion Can
Be Made More Profitable
Than This District.

A representative meeting of local fruit growers was held at the home of S. D. Dawson, Woodbank, on Tuesday evening, and a Co-operative Association was formed. That Middlesex would be a banner county for fruit production was the unanimous verdict of all, and the convincing testimony given by various growers of what had already been accomplished, strongly supported this prophecy.
Professor I. B. Whaley, agricultural representative of Middlesex County, was present, and made a fine speech.
Fruit growers, he said, in Middlesex County, need a corporate association.
Whatever the individual grower can accomplish alone, he can only reap the maximum of profitable crop production and financial recompense for his labors by combining with his fellow growers. He had travelled all over the county, and found that for apple, pears, plums and small fruits, it could not be surpassed anywhere in the Dominion.
He predicted that land would be worth $1,000 per acre in the near future, as it was in all the chief fruitgrowing counties. He advised the growers to stick together, and a great future was certain. Quality should be their aim, for it was the only way to build up a solid business.
The following officers were elected:
President, S. D. Dawson; vice-president, Mr. Elyea; manager, J. Shar-man; secretary, W. Bartlett, jun., of Woodbank; treasurer, H. Shore.
It was decided to adopt the name of the Middlesex Fruit-Growers' Association, and the next meeting to be held on Saturday, Oct. 19, at Professor Whaley's office on King street.

Charge of Parliament
Church.

The resignation of Rev. C. M. Carew, who has taken a call to Toronto, was received Wednesday evening at the regular quarterly meeting of the board of Mail-land Street Baptist Church. Mr. Carew will leave in a month for the Queen City, where he will be associate pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, of which Rev. T. T. Shields is minister.
He will, however, be in direct charge of Parliament Street Church, which is operated as a branch of the Jarvis street congregation. It is not known as yet who will be called by the Mailland street congregation to succeed Mr.
Carew.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—The resignation of the finding of the committee on the legians asked that the decision awarding the game to Queen's be reversed. This the committee declined to do, so the resignation was accepted.

BAD LIVER OR SLUGGISH BOWELS
This Gentle, Effective Fruit Laxative Thoroughly Cleans Your Stomach, Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Poisons, Gases and Clogged-Up Waste.

A harmless cure for sick headache,
for biliousness, for a sour, gassy, dis-ordered stomach, for constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness, pimples—take delicious Syrup of Figs.
For the cause of all these troubles lies in a torpid liver and sluggish condition of your 30 feet of bowels.
A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs tonight means all poisonous waste matter, the undigested, fermenting food and sour bile, gently moved on and out of your system by morning, without griping, nausea or weakness.
It means a cheery day tomorrow—
many bright days thereafter.
Please don't think of gentle, effective Syrup of Figs as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself, for luscious figs, senna and aromatics cannot injure anyone.

Sarnia, Oct. 17.—It is an unusual sight this fall to see a boat of any considerable tonnage lying idle at the docks, and the same condition prevails all over the lakes. Vessels of all kinds and sizes have been pressed into service to meet the enormous demands of waterway transportation, which is greater this season than it has been for many years.
Ships that have lain abandoned at wharfs and anchorage, others that have rested on the bottom along the shores of the river, have been hauled forth by their eager owners, repaired, rebuilt and placed in commission again
to handle the ever-increasing traffic.
Those of the older generation can stand on the river bank these days and see going by every day boats with which they were familiar years ago and perhaps sailed on, antiquated old steamers strange to the eyes of their children.
There are many who prophesy that wrecks will be plentiful on the lakes before navigation closes because of the number of old-timers that have been resurrected to meet the demands of the shippers in the Northwest, but despite their years the old wooden vessels can hold their own in a storm as well as many of the modern steel monsters.
Boom Point Edward.
The new buildings to be erected at Point Edward by the Northern Navigation Company will mean quite a little boom for the village, and it is predicted by real estate men that land values there will increase considerably.
The laundry which is to be of re-forced concrete, 50 by 100 feet, will give employment to about 35 people.
The plant will take the place of the one at the Soo, where all the laundry-ing for the company's fleet is done.
The storehouse and cold storage combined in one building of the same dimensions as the former will also employ several men, and the extension of the present dock and warehouse will likely mean that the working force of freight handlers will be increased.
Those people who all require homes, and the increase to the population will mean a good deal to Point Edward.
Will Build Dwellings.
It is understood that the Mueller
Brass Company will erect a number of houses in the south end of the town next spring for their employees. The dwellings will likely cost about $2,000 each, and it is thought that the contract for their construction will go to some local contractor.
There has been some talk of installing a system of calling patrolmen back to the police office when on duty on their respective beats. Under present conditions, calls often come to headquarters for a policeman, and there is no established method by which any of the officers on duty can be notified that they are wanted at the office.
Chief Forbes is in favor of a system similar to that used in Stratford, which is operated by means of red lights.

Sarnia, Oct. 17.—The graduation exercises of the Sarnia General Hos-

evening and five of the nurses received their diplomas. The graduates are Miss Anna Tuckly, Stratford; Miss Estelle Morlock, New Hamburg; Miss Margaret Marshall, Barrie; Miss
Sarah C. Brown, New Monkon, and Miss Etta May Element, of London.
The hall was well crowded and a delightful occasion was provided for the public. Rev. Mr. Barracough delivered a fine address to the nurses who graduated, and was followed by Dr. MacDonald and Dr. MacLean, both of whom spoke along the practical lines of the profession.
