BRITISH PLUGGING AHEAD IN SOMME OFFENSIVE FRENCH GAIN IN NEW OFFENSIVE IN CHAMPAGNE SECTOR BRITISH WIN DESPERATE 48-HOURS' BATTLE FOR WOODS

NEW THRUST BY FRENCH AT HARRIED HUNS; GAIN MADE IN THE CHAMPAGNE

A New Attack by Joffre Launched Last Night, Trenches Along a Front of 500 Metres Being Captured—Five Attacks by Germans in the Vosges Were Repulsed and French Take a Line of Enemy Positions on the Somme.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, July 10, 11:45 a.m.—A new attack was launched in the Champagne by the French last night. The war office today announced capture of trenches over a front of 500 metres.

On the Somme front the French took a line of German positions in the neighborhood of Barleux. In this section 950 Germans were captured yesterday and last night.

The Germans made attacks at five points simultaneously in the Vosges, but all their assaults were checked completely by the fire of French machine guns. The French attack in the Champagne was made at a point west of Mesnil. The French troops changed three times.

On the Somme front, north of the river, the night passed quietly. In the Verdun sector artillery continued at Fleury, La Lunette and Chatenault.

LIKE WELL OILED MACHINE.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, July 10.—The French advanced their line south of the Somme Sunday a mile and a half, capturing the German third positions along a length of 3½ miles, and are now within a mile of Peronne. French critics believe that the capture of Peronne now is a question almost of hours.

Under the system of interlocking echelons it was the turn of the right wing to push forward, the other echelons on centre and left being saved to effect the moves required of them. The troops south of the Somme apparently had made good use of their breathing spell. When the word was given they moved forward with the precision of a well-oiled machine. They swept across the northern of the two plateaus which face Peronne, clearing out the German positions, and establishing themselves solidly in the trenches, which had been turned into quagmires by the combined effects of bombardment and incessant rain.

The Germans offered the best resistance they could but the French artillery has been keeping up a formidable drum fire upon their lines of communication making it almost impossible for them to get either reinforcements or food in suitable quantities.

Yesterday's success is important in that it should enable the French heavy artillery to push forward into a position from whence it can pour a fire into the flank and rear of the Germans who are resisting at Comblès, four miles to the north, and at Clercy, half a mile north, on the other bank of the Somme.

Yesterday's movements of the French paved the way for the next movement of a central echelon, for which preparation continued steadily all day, virtually without interference from the Germans.

STRUCK TOGETHER.

London, July 10.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Paris under Sunday's date says: "The two armies yesterday co-ordinated in striking out at their junction point half-way between the north bank of the Somme, near Maricourt. The town of Comblès, the junction point of the armies, is necessarily a delicate point and this makes a complete co-ordination of yesterday's successful operations all the more praiseworthy."

Counter-Attacks Failed.

By noon yesterday the Allied front, by a rectangular movement, had been pushed forward at a bound three-quarters of a mile eastward from the former British positions, and as much northward from the previous French position. In the afternoon the Germans counter-attacked successfully from Guillemont on the north and from between Comblès and Maricourt on the east, but without any success.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Paris, July 10.—2:40 p.m.—The text of the communication follows: "North of the River Somme the night passed quietly. To the south of this river our troops."

Joffre's Gallant Soldiers Prove

Against Germans.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, July 10.—The new French drive south of the Somme River yesterday had been prepared for by artillery bombardments more than two days ago, and the complicated system of German defences in the loop to the northward, made by the river, had been disorganized. The task of artillery preparation had been carried through rapidly and the infantry attack probably would have been made sooner had it not been for the bad weather.

Yesterday morning the rain at last stopped and the signal for the assault was given. The French troops began to move along a 2½-mile front. The left wing rested on the bridge over the Somme, one mile east of Sornon Farm, while the right wing lay a little north of Belloy.

The left wing and the centre crossed the German trenches with a single bound and progressed rapidly in the direction of Biaches. This village was attacked from two sides, the north and east, at once. The Germans, who had been expecting a frontal attack, found themselves in a dangerous position. The only means of escape was the river, but the French were too fast for them. The village was captured and the Germans were driven back to the river.

Meanwhile the right wing threw the Germans into disorder and arrived at the outskirts of Barleux, where the German situation now appears to be precarious.

French military opinion characterizes the capture of Biaches as a brilliant and important operation. Whether the Germans are still holding on to the network of canals or have retreated to the other bank of the Somme, the French position on the last plateau before the river is of the utmost importance. The capture of Biaches was the first step in the direct command of the valley immediately above Peronne.

BRITISH GAIN MORE GROUND IN FIGHTING AROUND CONTALMAISON; BIG BATTLE FOR PERONNE NEAR

Move—Move—Move

(Joseph Mercury.)

A big military camp was built at Valenciennes at the beginning of the war. We have it on no less authority than Sir Sam Hughes that it was the finest ever built. But it seems to be no good now.

London went to the expense of adding to the training grounds near that city, and spent thousands of dollars. They handed the soldiers from the elusive military department, and they paraded there in thousands, and London thought all would be well.

But now London has been informed that their premises are N. G. So the soldiers are to be carted off to Camp Borden, included in them being the Wellington Battalion. Every move and every new camp costs thousands of dollars.

Quebec can thank its lucky stars that this city was not roped into an expenditure of good legal coin in an effort that threatened to develop at one time into the insane competition for the turning of every city into a military centre. The militia department is too tickle to bargain with.

COUNTER-ATTACK IN MASS

Three Successful Raids Made

Line.

London, July 10.—3:06 p.m.—The war office today made the following announcement:

"In the past 48 hours particularly severe fighting has centred around Trones wood, which is triangular in shape and measures some 400 yards from north to south, with a southern base of 400 yards, and has been strongly defended by the Germans with trenches and wire entanglements.

"On the morning of July 8, after a heavy bombardment we succeeded in capturing the southern end of the wood. Subsequently we extended our position towards the north and drove back a determined counter-attack with heavy losses to the enemy.

Counter-Attacks in Mass. Yesterday afternoon, as already reported, two more German counter-attacks in mass against our positions in the wood were crushed by our artillery. Again last evening the enemy bombarded the wood with all manner of armaments, and launched two strong attacks against it from the east and southeast. The first of these was completely repulsed. The second succeeded in penetrating the southern end of the wood, but the Germans were at once ejected with heavy losses.

Later in the night a fifth desperate attempt was made to drive us from our positions, but this also was completely crushed by our fire.

"On the Flinders front the enemy's artillery was active and heavily bombarded our trenches near Hooze for three hours. In this neighborhood we made three successful raids into the German front line."

JUDGE BARRON WEDS
A LADY OF SARNIA

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 10.—The wedding took place here this afternoon of His Honor Judge Barron of Stratford to Mrs. J. T. Keating, daughter of Mrs. R. S. Gurd, North Christina street, Sarnia, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Canon Davis of St. George's Church at the residence of the bride's mother, "Fairhome," at 2:30 p.m.—The affair was a very private matter, only the immediate relatives of the bride being present.

The couple left Sarnia on the 4:25 express for London and points east, and will not be at home in Stratford until August.

Haig's Infantry Carry Another Point in Offensive North of Somme, Taking Three Guns and Several Hundred Prisoners—Russians Now Within Few Miles of Three Important Strategic Points of Teutons, and Heavy Fighting Is Developing—Whole Austrian-German Front From the Pinsk to the Carpathians Driven Back With Heavy Losses.

(Canadian Press.)

London, July 10.—3:05 p.m.—British troops have made a new advance northwest of Contalmaison in the field of their offensive north of the Somme, it was officially announced this afternoon. Three additional guns and several hundred prisoners were captured.

FOUR NEW BATTLES COMING.

(Canadian Press.) London, July 10.—Four towns to the possession of which the Teutonic allies have attached great importance, having made preparations to defend them on the largest scale—Stanislaw, Kovel and Baranovitch on the eastern front, and Peronne in the west—are now coming within range of the guns of the Entente Allies, and four great battles are expected.

RUSSIA'S CLEAN-UP.

Of the advances of the Allies, that of the Russians upon Kovel from the east is the most striking. At the beginning of the offensive the Russian attack towards this town was directed along the railway from Rovno, and Austro-German reinforcements were brought up to meet this threat.

GERMANS IN DISORDER.

The Russians suddenly showed greater activity along the Sarny-Kovel railway and above that line, with the result that the Germans, according to Russian accounts, have been driven back in disorder to a point a little more than twenty miles from Kovel. It is believed this sudden onslaught will compel the Germans to abandon the defence along the Stokid River, as beyond that stream German stores have been set afire. Some English military writers are of the opinion that Kovel itself may have to be given up.

CLOSE TO STANISLAW.

In Bukovina Gen. Letichitzky has advanced upwards of sixty miles and is now within striking distance of Stanislaw. In fact, with the exception of a stretch between Tarnopol and Stanislaw, where Gen. Von Bothmer has withdrawn his line only a short distance, the whole Austro-German front of 250 miles from Pinsk to the Carpathians, has been driven back with heavy losses in men and material.

MUCH BOOTY.

Gen. Letichitzky alone in the two weeks ended July 7 added upward of 30,000 prisoners and 18 guns to the booty captured in the original drive. French occupation of Biaches, opposite Peronne, is considered the most important gain of the fighting in the west of the last few days, as it probably will necessitate the withdrawal of the German forces from the remainder of the territory in the bend of the Somme southwest of that village.

North of the Somme the British have made a slight further advance towards Comblès. Yesterday witnessed another heavy bombardment around the Yser and before Verdun.

EMBASSIES OF THE ALLIES ASK WASHINGTON GOVT. TO EXAMINE SUB'S CHARACTER

(Canadian Press.)

Baltimore, July 10.—Upon delivering his ship's papers to the office of the North German Lloyd Line today, Capt. Paul König of the submarine merchantman Deutschland disposed finally of the report that he carried a message from Emperor William to President Wilson saying there was no foundation for the story.

He also issued a formal statement in which he announced that the Deutschland was the first of several submarines built for the transatlantic trade, and that she would be followed by the Bremen.

(Canadian Press.)

Washington, July 10.—The British and French embassies today officially called the state department's attention to the arrival of the German super-submarine Deutschland, and asked that the United States Government assure itself of the vessel's character.

This will be done, it was announced, by the assignment of naval experts to assist the treasury department.

No Sailing Date.

When the start back across the Atlantic will be made, of course, is problematical. An official of the forwarding company said today it might be two weeks or it might be a month, but it was not denied that no advance notice would be given, and that the vessel would make her way out of the Cape whenever and however, the opportunity might offer to elude the patrols which undoubtedly will be waiting for her to appear.

The fact that boarding officers found the German merchant submarine Deutschland wholly unarmed goes far toward simplifying any question as to her status as a merchant ship in American waters.

Officials realize, however, that the British and French embassies while interested little in what the Deutschland has brought over, are concerned over the cargo of rubber and nickel she proposes to carry back to Germany, and expect that nothing will be left undisturbed by Germany's enemies to prevent or hinder her clearance.

Although the fact that the submersible is unarmed is of first importance, such factors as the composition of the crew and actual ownership will have to be established to determine whether the submarine could be classed as a naval auxiliary.

Upsets Blockade Ideas.

Naval officers consider the fact that the submarine successfully ran the allied blockade attracts them most. Some of them pointed out that if a successful means of running a blockade had been perfected one of the most potent measures of warfare had become a thing of the past.

NO LARGE ARMS.

(Canadian Press.) Baltimore, July 10.—Persons who talked with Captain König are authority for the statement that the only arm of any description aboard the Deutschland are four automatic pistols belonging to the officers, and a sportsman's rifle, used for firing alarm rockets.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect the Deutschland. As soon as she reached her dock an army of guards drove away all river craft and a huge chain of logs was drawn around her to prevent vessels from approaching within a hundred feet of the ship. On the land side of the dock a high board fence, reaching far into the river had been erected. On top of the fence are half a dozen rows of barbed wire and curtains with burlap to shut off all view. No one without a permit was allowed near the entrance to the docks.

Only orders are from my home government," said Capt. König. "No one can go aboard without authority. I am sorry. I would like the whole world to see."

A story that the Lake Torpedoboot Company was preparing to libel the submarine on the ground that her construction infringed upon its patents apparently did not interest the German captain.

THOUSANDS SAW 135TH BATTALION LEAVE FOR NORTH

Middlesex Men Disgusted at Being Ordered to Camp Borden.

TRAINS LATE LEAVING

Lieut.-Col. Robson Is More Than Proud of Troops He Commands.

The 135th Battalion ("The Pride of Middlesex") left for Camp Borden on Saturday night over the Grand Trunk.
The hour of departure was slated at 5:30 and 6 o'clock, standard time, but owing to the short time given to get cars, the Grand Trunk was unable to move the troops out until well after 6 o'clock. However, the men did not reach the East End station until nearly 9 o'clock, so there was ample time for relatives and friends to bid them good-bye.

Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson had his men in good shape for their removal from London. The majority were able to go home and bid their relatives farewell, and when muster was called in the evening there were not so many absentees as anticipated. In all probably 100 men were missing, several of them being away on leave.

The 111th Battalion formed the escort. It arrived at the station at 8 o'clock and cleared the grounds for the man. An hour later the 135th Battalion swung into Rectory street. The roads and walks were crowded with people, who cheered themselves hoarse at the gallant Middlesex boys marching down the line. In spite of their heavy kits and the hot weather they looked veterans, every man of them, and it was with a thrill of pride that every citizen watched them go by.

The 135th Battalion is particularly dear to Londoners, as nearly 600 of the regiment belong to London. They were London citizens, and many of the officers came from the London regiments.

Big Crowd Present.
At the station on Rectory street, a very large crowd had gathered. No well, however, had the 111th Battalion cleared the ground, that the relatives and friends were able to spend a couple of hours with their husbands, sons and sweethearts.

The 111th Battalion Band also rendered a fine program of music to enliven the time before the departure.
There were hundreds of visitors from the county to see their boys depart.
Scores of automobile parties came from the villages and county, and the citizens themselves turned out well, in spite of the fact that the time of departure was quite uncertain.

"I am proud of the Middlesex Battalion," said Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson to the Advertiser. "We have had a very hard day, getting ready to go away, but the men turned in with a will, and we are prepared. The weather has been trying, but I have heard little complaining. We have practically a full battalion, and we are in good health and spirits. Rest assured we will do our best, and we will give our best count of ourselves, whether in Camp Borden or elsewhere. I want to thank the citizens of London, and the people of the county of Middlesex for their unfailing kindness to me and to my men. We will do our duty."

There was a narrow escape from a serious accident at the crossing, just prior to the departure of the men. On Ottawa car was standing south of the track, and was given the signal to cross the tracks. As the car got on the C. T. R. tracks a switch engine bore down from the east. However, the motorman and the engine happened to see the danger, and stopped within a very few feet of each other. The incident caused much nervousness for a time.

A squad of police under Sergt. Birrell, assisted in keeping order.

There were no outward incidents, and the 135th Battalion gained itself
many friends by the splendid behavior of the men during their stay here, and when they went away.

Many of the men expressed themselves as disgusted at the order that took them away from London. Their loyalty to Lieut.-Col. Robson, however, prevented many from deserting, as they might have done under any other leader.

THREE RETURNED MEN WILL RETURN TO DUTY.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
CHATHAM, July 9.—Pte. Clifford Steen, a Chatham soldier, who was invalided home from the front some months ago, has fully recovered. He was suffering from shock. Pte. Steen has been attached to the Strathcona Horse, which regiment he hopes to join in a week's time.

Sergt. Jack Perrin and Pte. Rene Daniels, two Chatham soldiers who returned a little more than a week ago, will report in London Tuesday next,
when they will go before a medical board.

Denied Agreement With City

ALIBI IS A WEAK ONE

Promises Check for $8,000 To Cover the Losses of Land.

The retreat from Ottawa took place on Sunday at noon, the members of the deputation from this city returning to their local haunts shortly before 12 o'clock.

They were not able to save the camp,
but some of the members of the deputation are hopeful of good things—sometime in the future. In the meantime, seven battalions quit this hospitable city, and two more would have done so, had other circumstances not intervened. They will probably go a little later.

The deputation received the assurance from Sir Sam Hughes that from 3,000 to 4,000 troops would be left in London during the summer, that the Government would return to the city $8,000,
the amount expended in leasing land for camp purposes, and that there would be a big military camp here this winter. The battalions from this district, which have been sent to Borden Camp, and which will not go overseas, will be returned to London when the snow flies, he stated.

Did Not Get Check.
This was the substance of the promises given to the deputation. However, the check for the $8,000 was not brought home with it. There was a sufficiency of promises.

When the party reached Ottawa, it was suffered to enter the presence of Sir Sam Hughes, when it was suggested that the deputation would lay the claims of London before the minister.

Sir Sam was the speaker of the occasion, and he delivered an oration, of some what familiar outlines, in which he stated that London was highly favored in having the troops tarry in its midst for such a length of time.
That other cities had complained more vociferously when troops were moved to Valcartier and other points, but they had calmed down, and the uniform conclusion was that London had beyond all question quite the presiding genius of the universe, and that his judgment in centralizing the camps meant probably the salvation of the Empire.

Denies Agreement.
He then went on to assure it that London would not suffer by losing the troops.

He was stopped in the midst of his oratorical outburst, and reminded that London had spent many thousands of dollars on the camp on a written agreement that the camp would remain here.

"Where is the agreement," he said.
"I never saw any agreement. There was none."

However, he was shown a document from the military headquarters, asking that the city lease many acres of land, and make other arrangements for the camp.

Was Sir Sam overcome when he saw the document? He was not, and immediately placed the blame on some other officer, who had done something without his sanction or leave.

Sir Sam also doubted that London had expended so much money on the camp, and was shown an itemized

SIGNALER KANE OF LONDON'S OWN LOSES HIS LIFE

Swimming at Camp Borden.

MIDDLESEX MEN ARRIVE

First of Units to Reach Camp
on Sunday—Welcomed
by 142nd.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
CAMP BORDEN, July 9.—The first accident to occur among the Western Ontario units happened this afternoon, when Pte. Victor Kane, a signaler in "London's Own," was seized with cramps while swimming in the Nottawasaga River. The body has not been recovered. Kane's home was in Walkerville.

He had been swimming with other members of the section, and while racing across the river must have been seized with cramps, as he sank suddenly without being observed. The nature of the stream made it impossible for his companions to find him, but word was sent to headquarters, and grappling hooks were secured, with which an attempt was made to recover the body,
a hastily-constructed raft being the only craft available.

It was while working on this that a second accident, which might have meant a second drowning, occurred, the grappling hooks fouling a root, with the result that the raft broke apart and the men upon it were thrown into the water. One of these, as the planks came apart, received a kick in the stomach from one of the other men that disabled him, and he had gone under once again. He was rescued by Company Q-M-Sergt.
Alf. Hogg of the 142nd, a former swimming champion of the London Y. M. C. A.

Numerous battalions reached camp
today, and swelled the number of men here to over 30,000. The first to arrive this morning was the 158th Middlesex Regiment, under command of Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson. The regiment had a fair trip up here, and on their arrival in camp were introduced to their new location by the 142nd. The officers and men were breakfasted by "London's Own" regiment, who had such a short time in camp.

The Middlesex regiment is located directly north of the London unit and is surrounded by the other Western Ontario battalions. Other regiments to arrive today included the 149th Lambton, the 205th Hamilton, the 114th Dumfries, the 158th North Waterloo, the 156th Guelph, the 151st Huron, and the 186th Chatham.

The units paraded to divine service
today.

Around headquarters a staff spent the time putting the various offices in order.

A rumor to the effect that the 135th and 142nd Battalions were to be moved back to London was denied by Gen.
Legie tonight. Col. Graham and Col.
Robson had no word of any change.

ST. THOMAS, July 9.—The recruiting sergeants from Toronto are meeting with some success in this city in their efforts to secure men for the construction battalion.

Recruiting officer Lieut. York-Hardy of this depot, announced today that 20 men had been secured for this unit.

The 160th (Huron) Battalion was the next to leave. At 9:30 the first section pulled out and at 10 o'clock the second section left the city. Many Huronites came in to cheer their battalion off.

The last battalion to go was the

the others, in two sections, the first at 11 o'clock and the second at 11:30, amid the cheers of a large crowd of Oxford people who came to see them off.

All departures were made on stand-

I. O. D. E. CHAPTER GIVES VICTROLA TO WESTERN UNIT

Members of Lord Roberts' Branch Make Presentation

EXPRESSES GRATITUDE

Lieut.-Col. Seaborne, O. C., Praises Women for What
Has Already Been Done

A most interesting and welcome interruption took place today in the midst of the regular morning drill of the Western University Hospital unit when a large representation of the Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. D. E., arrived on the campus at 11 o'clock for the purpose of making a presentation of a victrola.

By request of Lieut.-Col. Seaborne,
O. C. the members of the chapter practically all who are still in town—took their places on the veranda, while officers and men lined up in front on the driveway below.

Stepping forward, Mrs. E. B. Smith, in a few words, made the presentation on behalf of her chapter of a Columbia victrola and some two hundred records.

"The Lord Roberts Chapter," she said, "by courtesy of your colonel has come out to ask you to accept a gift to carry overseas. We feel it a distinct honor and privilege to be here. We are asking you to accept a Columbia victrola and 200 records.
We trust it will be a reminder to the loyal hearts of the women who remain at home, and whose thoughts and prayers go with you as you go to the front, magnificent and splendid work which lies before you. Our warmest wishes go with you."

"On behalf of the Western University unit," said Lieut.-Col. Seaborne, in reply, "I thank you most sincerely for coming out here to make this presentation to us. I cannot find words to express to your chapter and

WORLD-EMPIRE.

THERE has been often quoted, since the war began, Bismarck's saying that the first principle of German foreign policy should be to keep peace with Russia. But when the present kaiser dismissed the man of blood and iron he began to lay plans for world domination which were bound sooner or later to provoke Russia to hostility.

It was after the Japanese war and the consequent political unrest in Russia that Kaiser Wilhelm conceived he could largely disregard the old chancellor's precept. Russia was humbled, corrupt, divided, and a Duma had arisen to weaken, as the German autocrat believed, the czar's power for military action. There was an age-long rivalry of Russia and Austria for acquisition in the Balkans; both powers looked to Constantinople as a goal of imperial ambition. The kaiser made up his mind definitely to take up for Germany this anti-Russian Balkan policy of his Austrian ally. Hence the action of Germany in backing the Austrian annexation of Bosnia in 1908. Since then no permanent peace has been possible between Potsdam and Petrograd. Finally came the attempt on Serbia.

Thus has Germany challenged the great Slav power in taking up an Austrian interest. Where Bismarck aimed to make Austria subordinate Germany's advantage, the kaiser has misled his country into playing Austria's daredevil game of conquest, though doubtless in the idea of swallowing Austria along with the Austrian policy.

In a way, however, both Vienna and Berlin have been acting on the old medieval dream of a universal German hegemony. As the Hohenstauffen ruled Central Europe, both north and south of the Alps, but afterwards Teutonic dominion dwindled to a shadow, the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns have each aimed to revive and realize that long-faded vision of world rule. The Triple Alliance, which Italy fled from in good time, was to evolve under war's hammer strokes into an all powerful empire, directed, as Kaiser Wilhelm hoped, from Berlin. In this middle ages there had been the so-called Eastern or Greek Empire, with Constantinople as its capital, this also claiming to be universal. It became then the idea of Berlin and Vienna to bring the Turks, usurpers of the old Eastern Empire, into one predominant power, including the two medieval pretenders to universal dominion, viz., the German or Holy Roman Empire and the Greek Empire.

Pan-Germans claim Dante as a Teuton, probably in the main because he was so hearty a champion of the world-empire idea of Germany in his day. Pan-Germans have pointed Italians to Dante, as the prophet who recognized the German right to rule over Italy, the German inheritance of ancient Rome's paramount position. How disloyal has Italy been to Dante, cry the Teuton propagandists, wringing their hands.

The truth is that in the pursuit of the medieval world-empire idea, Germany and Austria have deeply alarmed and antagonized both Italy and Russia. Italy refuses to be absorbed in a revival of the medieval central empire, the Holy Roman, and hits back defensively to recover lost ground from Austria. Russia, roused by the theft of Bosnia, and driven to arms by the brutal attack on Serbia, resists the attempt to incorporate the old Eastern with the old Holy Roman Empire, herself aiming to be something of a successor to the Eastern Empire at Constantinople. The kaiser has got himself into a fight to a finish with Russia, as Bismarck said he must not do.

TEUTONIC BRAVERY.

TRIBUTES to the bravery of German soldiers and sailors have been freely bestowed by British commanders, with admirable frankness and fairness, the latest being that of Admiral Jellicoe in his report on the great naval battle of May 31st. The admiral says:

"The enemy fought with the gallantry that was expected of him. We particularly admired the conduct of those on board the disabled German light cruiser which passed down the British line shortly after deployment under a heavy fire, which was returned by the only gun left in action. The conduct of the officers and men was entirely beyond praise."

Time after time British officers have lauded the valor of enemy troops which have hurled themselves against defenses or worked their guns in the face of a charging host with utter disregard of death.

These plaudits serve to emphasize the fact that Germany is entirely in the wrong in bringing on this war; had she not been so, many of these broad-minded men, ready to do utmost justice to the foe, would have spoken out in her favor.

Furthermore, they indicate what would probably have been the result had Germany and Britain been fighting over a disputed question to which there were two distinct sides, each having its own virtues, and had Germany fought honorably and with regard to international laws.

Under these circumstances, the British people would have acquired increased admiration for the brave men who fought against them, and for the people in the fatherland who endured hardships and hunger and gave their all to their cause. The nations would have come to a better understanding of each other, as did Britain and Boer, and the hatred now felt by Britishers for Germans and vice-versa would not have existed.

What has prevented these results? Two things: first, the absolute unrighteousness and devilishness of the Teuton cause, and secondly, the atrocities committed by the Huns and their faithlessness so far as all treaties and undertakings are concerned.

It is not because the Germans are Britain's enemies that hatred has been engendered. It is because they massacred Belgians, encouraged the Turk to slaughter helpless Armenians, sank peaceful merchant ships carrying women and children, and have shown no feeling except blood-lust and bestiality throughout the long months of the war.

These are the things that have damned the Germans of today in the eyes of Britain and the whole civilized world. Had they fought for an honorable cause, even if mistaken, and had they behaved as civilized human beings, the bitterness of the war would have been immeasurably lessened.

THE LLOYD GEORGE MIRACLE.

IN A FEW words the Hamilton Herald "sizes up" the wonder of Lloyd George's career, pointing out that the man who came close to death for opposing what he considered an unnecessary war with the Boers is today the leader of Britain in the greatest war ever waged. It adds: "Now he has as his understrapper the Earl of Derby, head of one of the greatest noble houses of England. Two or three years ago he was distrusted and hated by the upper classes as a dangerous iconoclast; now he is regarded by all as one of the chief pillars of state."

Lloyd George came of humble stock, and as a child, like the two-fisted Roosevelt, was sickly. In fact it has been said of the great Welsh lawyer that his family physician once debated the question as to whether or "poorly" a child should be left to struggle and suffer in the world. Yet what genius, what might for democracy lay in the feeble frame, what a mighty conflagration of spiritual enthusiasm in the flickering flame!

There are many Lloyd Georges in the world. Unknown, their feet enter the quiet paths in the deep forest of obscurity. We all know or knew some blacksmith at his forge who is a philosopher; we have met men who have the keenest perception in the transaction of their wee, small affairs. Would they not adapt this ability to the large-scale task? Certainly brains are not necessarily handed out with silver spoons. The common people do not have the same chance for success as the noble-born or the middle class. Often they cannot use their talent. But in a new country like Canada any man with determination can place his feet of children upon the path that leads to achievement. Two generations usually takes a family out of shirt-sleeves.

THE REAL REASON.

THE SECRET of the wild rush of men to Camp Borden is out. It was difficult for a time to understand why officers and men should be bunched up, without consideration for their battalion or domestic affairs, at a time when the railways were not ready to handle the movement, and London camp depleted in a few hours, with the result that the country lost scores of good soldiers, and a feeling of resentment and a sense of injustice was created in the minds of hundreds more, created in his impending departure for England. Sir Sam Hughes decided to hold a review at Camp Borden on Tuesday. He did not realize that he was going to do this until a few days ago, and then he commenced to wonder whether Camp Borden, with the troops then encamped there, could produce a review worthy of Canada's minister of militia! It was true that he had reviewed the troops at London and other Ontario camps a few days ago, and he was aware, if he is capable of judging, what perfection was theirs. Therefore it could not have been for the benefit of the troops that he ordered them to Camp Borden. They were not anxious to leave, and they felt that they were shabbily treated. The order was given in order that the vanity of Sir Sam Hughes might be gratified.

He wanted all the pomp and display that could be produced west of Toronto, in order that he might feel greater than a Nero at his spectacles. He cared not for the military disadvantages of playing tricks with the men and their communities, nor did he give a thought to the harshness of his action in tearing men from their families without leave and without warning.

His pomposity caused hundreds and hundreds of men to deny the authority over their souls and bodies of such a strutter as Hughes. They took "French leave" by the hundred. One of the finest battalions ever raised in Canada, which was to leave London Saturday, had only a corporal's guard answer the roll when Saturday morning came. They felt that while they were treated fairly, the military authorities were their masters, but when there was a display of what they regarded as Prussianism, they asserted themselves as Canadians, and, rightly or wrongly, they went to see their families. The great majority of them returned in time to depart for Camp Borden, but the disorganizing effect of Hughes' conduct will never be altogether remedied. Not an unworthy action has been chalked against the even battalions in training in this city since they came here. Under the guidance of an officer whom they trusted and respected, their down-town discipline has been perfect. They were ready to obey the last word of their officers. But when Sir Sam Hughes tried to make of them so many chattels to be used to make a Roman holiday for a great boulder, they declined to agree.

No doubt the matchless minister will rap out some great catfish when he hears of it. But in the end he will have had his grand review, although the men sleep on stumps, and so long as his "bounce" is served, that is all that matters.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Pastor Russell has been taken from a train in Manitoba and deported. He should never have been admitted.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will tour Ontario in the interests of recruiting. Now what evil motive will the Tory papers discover?

For war grafters Germany hands out two years in prison and a huge fine. There are things Canada may still learn from Germany.

London reports the widow of an English officer is a cousin of the kaiser. Is the death of her husband in action not enough burden without harping on the other?

If Sir Sam Hughes could realize that a special car is not at the disposal of every soldier's wife to take her around free of expense, he might have a little consideration in ordering troop movements.

Dispatches from Ottawa indicate that having decided to break faith with London and take all possible troops to Camp Borden, the military authorities are now hunting around for plausible reasons for the action. Effect before cause.

MEXICAN HEAVY ARTILLERY.

[Oklahoma City Times.]

But don't make the mistake that Mexico is entirely unprepared. Of course, the country is ruined, the people are starving and the de facto government is broke, but a glance at the Mexican papers will convince anyone that there are some 42-centimetre lead pencils down there in the sanctums of the Montezumas.

IN PRAISE OF THE KAISER.

[Deutsche Rundschau.]

It may be said with truth that the kaiser, despite temporary aberrations, has been a better England since his early method; all credit to him for that; and such aberrations as were noted from time to time, with regret, were doubtless due to the desirability of conciliating the perditional Englishish feelings towards them.

AN APPEAL FOR MEN.

[Fritz Hermanns.]

Men of the breed of the Briton are needed;

As never before, they are needed today.

Oh, the sons of our blood! the call must be heeded.

Less Freedom be strangled and perish for aye.

Nobly, in haste, with but one aim before us.

When Belgium was raided and needed our aid.

Britons unitedly joined in the chorus, "We'll fight for the sake of the promise we made."

"Contentment," though, in the eyes of our foe.

That first little army Great Britain sent forth.

Inspired with zeal, which is victory's omen,

Has dealt to the Teuton the force of its wrath.

Now, the vast armies our dead chief created.

Are holding the trenches in Flanders.

With overseas men, as Britons related, they are all of one mind and wait to advance.

Led by the spirit of heroes departed, Our soldiers are fighting that Freedom my life!

Awaiting the Drive, so soon to be started.

Their lives for the cause they are willing to give.

Colonial Britons, pride of our breeding,

Are winning distinction and glory and fame;

Go thou, where comrades are fighting and bleeding.

To brighten the luster of Canada's name.

Men of the breed of the Briton, awaken!

Respond to the call of your country and God;

Lest Freedom triumph, your freedom be taken,

And the land of your love come under the rod!

Men of true blood—of the breed of the Briton!

Let it be said, when the record is written,

You heeded the message and helped in the war.

THE PUSHLIF DANDELION.

[Calgary News-Telegram.]

The Winnipeg Telegram has discovered that the simplest way to check the growth of dandelions on the front lawn is to cover the surface with concrete to the depth of nine inches. This may answer for the effete Winnipeg dandelion, but the Calgary variety will try to grow up through the concrete, and a man of concrete and tin can't stop it from growing solid wherewith to stay its growing-pains.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.

[Montreal Star.]

It is very interesting to note that the great newspapers in the United States which have most frequently insisted that President Wilson must "stop the war" in Europe are now most bitterly rejecting the notion of capitulation by a third party between their own country and Mexico.

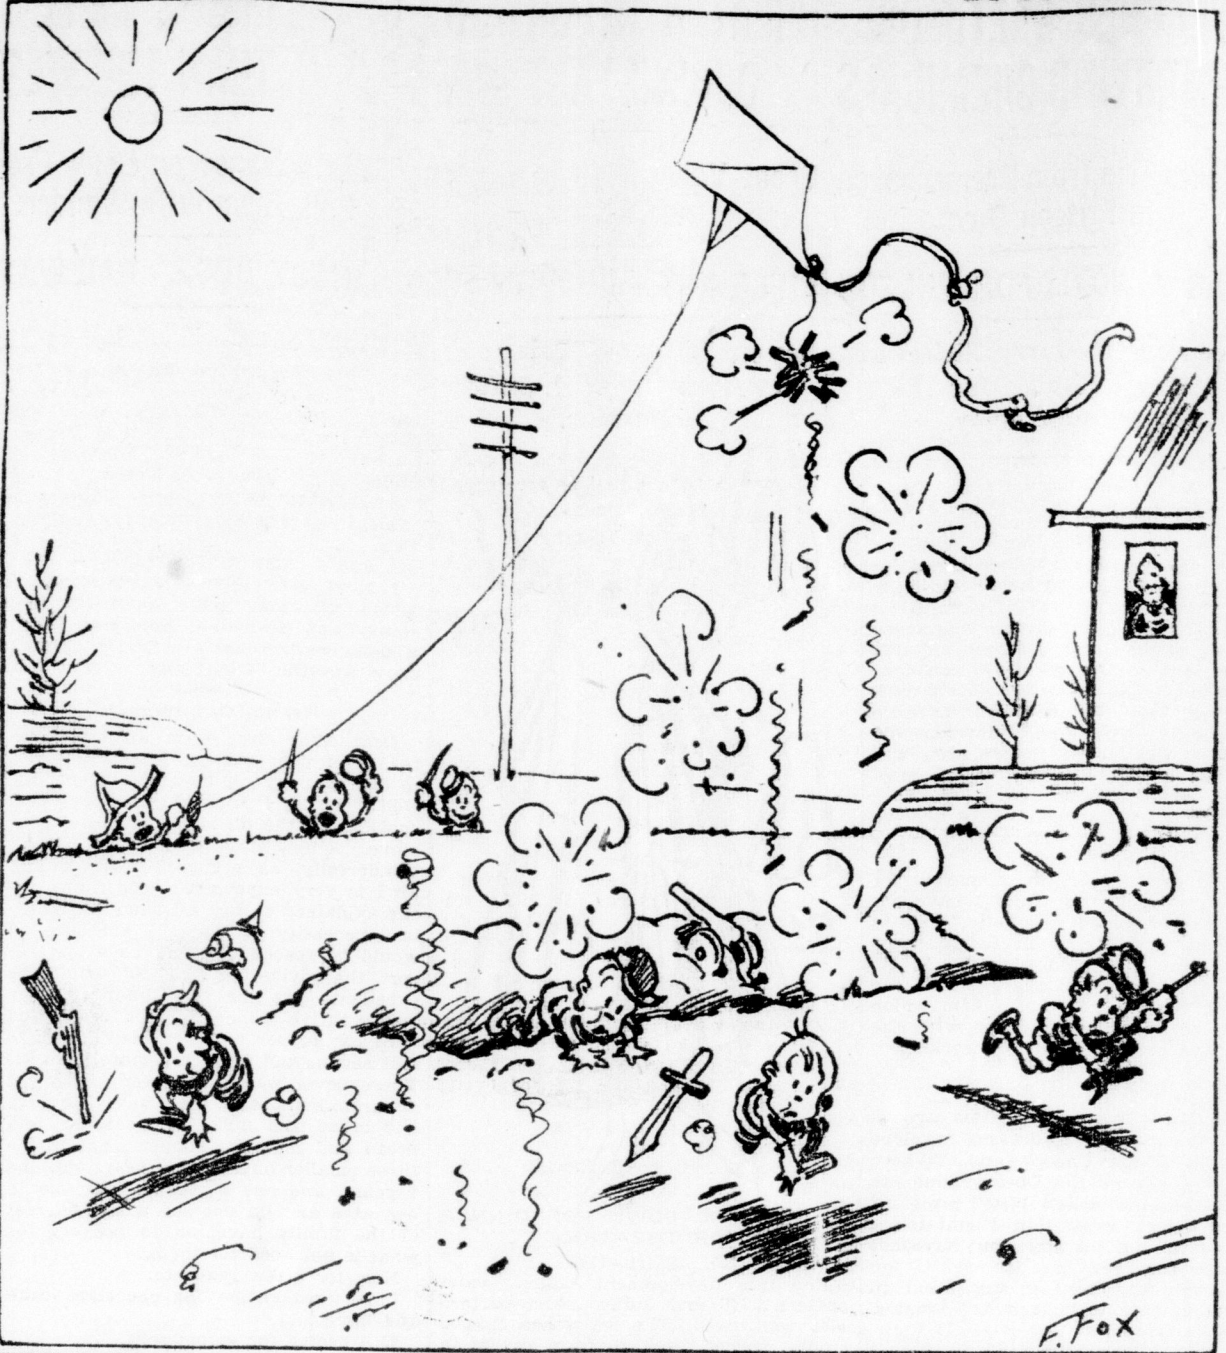

EVIL LOVES THE DARK.

[Ottawa Journal.]

Governments will never be entirely free from what we designate as graft. No government, no party, no nation has a monopoly of virtue. But graft in politics is bound to thrive in proportion to the extent to which the public is not permitted to know what is taking place behind the scenes. Secrecy is the handmaid and twin brother of corruption. And a government which courts secrecy is more apt to be dishonest than a government which shuns it.

Spectacular Air-Craft Which Cleared the Enemy Trenches

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

The Burglar

BY IRENE TAYLOR.

When a young man gets the farming hee he generally goes West, where he can till the soil on a large scale. It is rather unusual for a college-bred man to throw up deliberately a good business and settle down to the monotony of cultivating a small twenty-acre plot of old Pennsylvania. But that is exactly what George Cassler did, a student, athlete and all-around fine fellow.

Fortunately, he had a fat bank account, so he would not be reduced to the dire necessity of having to live upon what he might produce—or fail to produce.

After looking over several farms, he finally bought a small tract abounding and abutting on that portion of land known as the Sanderson place—a well-kept little farm whereon dwelt the widow of Sanderson and her daughter, Myrna, a very attractive young woman of 22—just eight years Cassler's junior.

Not many weeks passed before Cassler declared himself and as he and Myrna had become good chums he was not a little surprised when his proposal was gently, but emphatically, turned down.

"No," Myrna said firmly, "I've seen quite enough of married life. I like you and I want to be friends, but both my mother and sister were unfortunate in their marriages, and I am not going to take any chances along that line. I am happy now and I don't purpose to run the risk of being wretched for the rest of my life. Perhaps some day I may change my mind, but doubt it."

For several weeks thereafter Cassler undertook to persuade her that she had changed her mind, but she was not to be moved, and, moreover, after a while, waxed a bit angry at his persistence.

He finally ceased calling and became engrossed in his agricultural experiments. This, however, did not prevent him from letting the weeds sprout, while he gazed longingly across the big field to the Sanderson home, moving occasionally he could see Myrna where industriously about the yard.

The next few weeks were filled with gloom, romantic dreams and a minimum of scientific research. Then something happened.

One night in August, Myrna was awakened about midnight by stealthy sounds on the back porch. She listened intently. Someone was unmistakably trying to force open the door.

"Did you hear that?" gasped her mother, who was also awake. "And me laid up with a sprained ankle. Oh, Myrna, what shall we do? I told you, Myrna, you ought to put that money in the bank. Can't you hide it somewhere? You haven't even a club up here, either, have you?"

"No, I haven't." And, springing out of bed, Myrna rushed to the open window, leaned far out and screamed for help at the top of her voice.

Almost instantly a faint "Hello!" answered her from Cassler's house, which was only about 600 feet distant. To the girl standing there trying to peer through the night it seemed hours before the stalwart form of Cassler emerged from the darkness beneath her window.

"What's the matter up there?" he called, rather sleepily.

"Oh, George!—Mr. Cassler—they are trying to get in through the back door. I thought they'd go when I called, but they're there yet."

George started around the house on a run. There was a wild scramble, a shout and silence. A moment later, he reappeared at the front.

"No," Myrna said firmly, "I've seen quite enough of married life. I like you and I want to be friends, but both my mother and sister were unfortunate in their marriages, and I am not going to take any chances along that line. I am happy now and I don't purpose to run the risk of being wretched for the rest of my life. Perhaps some day I may change my mind, but doubt it."

For several weeks thereafter Cassler undertook to persuade her that she had changed her mind, but she was not to be moved, and, moreover, after a while, waxed a bit angry at his persistence.

He finally ceased calling and became engrossed in his agricultural experiments. This, however, did not prevent him from letting the weeds sprout, while he gazed longingly across the big field to the Sanderson home, moving occasionally he could see Myrna where industriously about the yard.

The next few weeks were filled with gloom, romantic dreams and a minimum of scientific research. Then something happened.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Also Wants Songs.

Dear Miss Grey, Some time ago there appeared in the paper the songs: "Lips That Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine," "Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies," also "Keep the Home Fires Burning." I would be pleased to get these three songs.

F. E. B.

No Trouble at All.

Dear Miss Grey,--Would it be asking too much of a favor if you could kindly publish the cure known as Buffalo Bill's cure for gonorrhea? Trusting I have not asked you too much for the first time of writing to you.

V. D. C.

Ans.—No trouble at all to repeat the recipe. Call again for it. I am sending you a bottle of the cure. It is a half dram of potassium iodide in four ounces of water. Dose: Take one teaspoonful before or after meals. This is supposed to kill an unnatural growth anywhere on the human system.

From Faded Lily.

Dear Miss Grey,--I wish to thank you very much for your kind letter. It was a sad shock to us to lose our dear little boy; he was a dear little fellow and seemed all right till three days before his death.

I wish to thank the readers for the whooping cough cures. I am sending "Happy Go Lucky's" hair and flake back. I am very sorry I cannot make her switch, but our baby's death was such a shock to me, and the doctor says I am a nervous wreck, so it is impossible for me to do much at present. If I feel better later on I will let the readers know.

Some one asked how to tell fortunes by the tea-cup. I am sending directions which I cut out of a book.

PAID LILLY.

Ans.—I hope this meets the eye of "Irish M.L." and "Betsy Margaret" before they send parcels on to "Faded Lily." Our sympathy certainly goes out to her in these days of loneliness and sorrow.

The 65th Battalion.

Dear Miss Grey,--As this is my first letter to your Mail-Box, shall try to be very brief.

I saw in Saturday's issue where "Mabel the Second" was asking for information about the 65th Battalion at Saskatoon. My only brother joined that battalion last January, so will try and tell her what I know of it. On June 10, I believe it was there at the front, tawa being inspected by the governor-general; from there they went to Halifax to sail for England on the following Sunday, and I believe it was on the 13th that it arrived safe in England. It is a very anxious time for all of us who have loved ones at the front, but hope and pray they may return safe to us all. Last of all, what do you think of my writing?

SPRUCE SHELTER.

Ans.—A very welcome visitor you are indeed, S. K., and I'm ever so glad to receive your information for "Mabel." You write a neat, graceful, characteristic hand.

Proud of the 149th.

Dear Miss Grey,--I saw where "Laughing Eyes" asks you if you had heard the 149th Battalion Brass Band, and I could not keep still any longer, as the "One Four Nine" is our very own battalion from this county. I have one brother, five cousins and a host of friends in it. From this small village

If she means by garden slips, geraniums, wax balsams, chrysanthemums, briar roses, petunias or anything like that, I will be glad to exchange with her, as we have many kinds of geraniums, etc. If she will send her address and flags in to you I will send slips carefully packed and mailed to her, if these are the kinds she wishes.

THE NEIGHBOR.

Ans.—I've had a little experience with developing and printing pictures myself, but not recently. Do you conduct the process in an absolutely dark room (all save the red lamp) or have you a tank? What kind of developer do you use? Maybe to change, you will have better luck. Shall welcome suggestions from experts.

2.—You'd be disappointed to receive no response to your offers, but maybe someone will reply now.

3.—Re your inquiry for a market for handkerchief work, I'm afraid I have but little encouragement to offer. There is no woman's exchange in London outside of one connected with the Y. W. C. A., which is not on a large scale. Am sending you the name of a firm which should be able to supply you with the serim and proper thread for working.

Received No Reply.

Dear Miss Grey,--Some time ago I sent a stamped and addressed envelope for "The Black Sheep" and "Where the Sun Turns the Ocean Blue to Gold," which "Charles's Wife" promised to return for a song that I sent in. I have waited quite a while but have not received them yet.

Say, "Twenty-One," I am proud to know that you claim me as a sister. Also Miss Grey.

I am afraid that my letter is getting too long, so will close with best wishes to "Twenty-One."

A SOLDIER'S SISTER.

Ans.—Am sorry you received no reply from "Charles's Wife"; maybe she forgot and this will refresh her memory.

Want Wynne's Patches.

"Wynne's" offer of silk patches has been eagerly seized upon by several of our readers. I am forwarding to her the names received, and as these will probably clean up "Wynne's" supply, readers will kindly not write asking "for more." Names sent to "Wynne" today are: Red Wing (10 cents included for postage), "Mother of Four" (stamps included), "Bizzie" (10 cents stamps included), and "Rosebud" (return envelope). If other applications have been received I shall send them on, of course.

Rhubarb Wine.

"Always in Want."—The recipe appeared in Friday's, but just in case you missed it, here it is again:

Rhubarb Wine.—Four pounds of rhubarb cut in small pieces, pour on a gallon of boiling water, strain, add four pounds brown sugar; let stand a few days and bottle.

Sorry if we've kept you waiting.

"Daisy."—Am sending you a little book loaned the Mail-Box by "Miss True." You may find something useful therein. Please return it to me when you are through.

Mother of Eight.

"Stupidity's Mother"—I yield the palm to you. With eight kiddies, a husband, and farm to look after, your life must be a busy one. You must be proud of a busy one. Not everyone who takes "honors" at twelve years. Thanks for your appreciation; you don't know how it helps sometimes to think that it's really "worth while."

Making Christmas Gifts.

Dear Miss Grey,--I have started my Christmas gift box, and am a little puzzled about following:

1. How wide is the top hem for sheets made?

2. What do you think of my "south-paw" writing?

Kindly also tell me full particulars about "Aunt Nanny's" quilt. I have been sick for over six weeks, and I have not been able to read paper. Yours truly,

PEGGY III.

Ans.—What an early bird you are to be planning for your Christmas gifts this July weather. Most of us make very late resolutions immediately after the 25th of December—and then go away and forget them, until within a month of the festive season next year!

1. Use the initial of your friend's husband's surname. If it's "Jones," "J." or "E." if it's "Brown."

2. Two or two and a half inches is a customary width for the top hem of an upper sheet, if you are hemstitching it, or the intended to embroider a design on the sheet. The remaining hem should be an inch in width, when finished.

3. I like your writing very much; it's a type that appeals to me. If you have a few blocks for "Aunt Nanny's" quilt to be of red (turkey cotton preferred), and white. Centre patch of white, cut 5½ inches square, corner blocks of white, just half an inch wide, and red, making in all a block 10 inches square; on the centre patch, work your pen name and address in red thread.

Blue blocks are plain squares of ten inches; the centre draw a circle or square, and work in white, also your name.

Shall be glad to receive one from you. Sincerely hope your recovery is a final one.

For Blue Eyes.

Dear Miss Grey,--Would you please give me the words of "Don't Take My Darling Boy Away" and "The Lips That Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine?"

BLUE EYES.

Ans.—Who will send copies of these? I have a stamped envelope from "Blue Eyes" all ready to pop them into.

They Laugh at Her.

Dear Miss Grey,--Here is another newcomer in for a chatter. I think your page is splendid, but can't see why some read it before the war news. I don't. The first page is too interesting.

I don't think much of people who criticize the soldiers. I am glad there are so few who do. Perhaps it is because they haven't anyone of their own in khaki. Two dear friends have given up their lives and my dearest "boy" is at the front. God will take care of him. I love to see the soldiers marching, but it makes me so sad. I am so glad that I wasn't born a German. I would like to make a piece of quilt for "Aunt Nanny," but I guess I can't.

I certainly think that "Twenty-One"

ADVERTISER PATTERNS

A CHARMING GOWN FOR DINNER OR THEATRE.

Waist—1745. Skirt—1746.

For this development ladies' waist pattern 1745 and ladies' skirt pattern 1746 was used. The waist has shaped fronts, turned back to form revers in low neck style. The skirt may be finished with or without the drapery. The sleeve is close-fitting in wrist length, and has a flare cuff extension in short length. Either style is pleasing and attractive. Caberline, tulle, crepe, linen, batiste, gingham and chambray are nice for this style. The waist pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The skirt is cut in six sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 8½ yards of 36-inch material with the drapery, without will require one yard less for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures 3 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for two separate pieces which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents for each pattern in silver or stamps.

ADVERTISER PATTERN DEPT.

Please send above-mentioned pattern, as per direction given below, to:

Name

Address

Province

Age (if child's or misses' pattern)

Caution: Be careful to include the above illustration and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is bust measure you need only mark 32, 34 or whatever it may be. If it is waist measure, 22, 24, 26, or whatever it may be. If it is skirt measure, when "Misses' or child's pattern," write only the figure representing the age. If it is not the size of the "inches" or "yards." Patterns cannot reach you in less than one week from date of application.

We aren't settled after moving yet. How I should love to knit for one of "Twenty-One's" friends! But I found, after knitting three pairs for the aforementioned "only boy," that I never was made to knit. I used to be strong, but for the last year or two have felt weaker every day. And how I loved to play tennis and basketball, to row and swim! I wish I had a grand-mother like "Aunt Nanny." I love to skate and dance. It's the music that gets me. I never was at a dance and can't "do" any of the modern "walks."

I hunt up some old Scottie and his bag-pipe and then don't I hope? Sometimes I think I should go crazy with delight. But that is over for me, unless I recover my energy.

Don't you think that when a girl is fifteen and old enough to be a really "respectable" person, and she has some things I say are amazingly funny when I mean to be quite serious. Yet I am always being told that I look on the dark side of life. Can you tell me how to stop being impulsive and asking questions?

Don't you girls worry about your height, etc. You can't beat mine. I'm five feet six inches and four inches, and weigh 102 pounds. What think you of that?

What does Miss Grey think of my writing? Does it show an impulsive nature? Do you like my letter? Has any one the words or music of "Arra Wana," or "I Love a Lassie"?

Harry Lauder sings the latter. Regards to all. BOBS O' BLUE.

Ans.—Do you think I am a despatch hard letter to answer—that is, to answer in the most helpful way. I'm ever so sorry that you have poor health and I sincerely hope that you'll take care of yourself and grow strong again. I think it's partly your health that makes you sensitive to other folks' opinions. Perhaps at no time in one's life does a person take herself so seriously as when she is very young and the older folks forget that they were once fifteen—and impulsive, too—and laugh at Miss Fifteen's remarks and ideas about life.

Just try not to be too sensitive about it, won't you? For I certainly should not advise you to try to "stop being impulsive" or "asking questions" either. Your writing and letter form are very good. This time I hope to receive a few questions.

Sends Some Songs.

Dear Cynthia,--I saw your last letter in the paper and I have been a bother asking questions. This time I hope to be a helper, and send some songs. I am "one of Bunny's fifteeners." I have my cushion started, but I am still waiting a few more to finish it. I like white satin once in the flowers, or the flag series, please.

I have a few more songs I can send. In fact, I have nearly a hundred, but it gets tiresome writing them out. Now for a few questions:

1. Could any of your readers supply me with a song which goes to the tune, "Keep the Home Fires Burning"? It goes like this: "Thus I wear this pure white flower in memory of thee." It's about mother.

2. Can any of your readers tell a person's character by their writing? If so, please let them tell mine. I wish "Mrs. Homebody" would let me be her nursemaid. I love babies. I have two sweet little nephews and a darling little niece.

I certainly think that "Twenty-One"

is a very brave young man. I hope you all have decided to knit the day the picnic was to be on.

3. Would some of your readers send me the song, "Save Your Kisses Till the Boys Come Home"? THOUGHTLESS.

Ans.—"Thoughtless" has written out quite a few songs, the names of which are: "The Soldier's Bride," "My Little Girl," "Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "It's Not the Uniform That Makes the Soldier," "Till Return, Mother Darling, to You" and "A Bird in a Gilded Cage."

1. Referred to readers. The song evidently bears reference to Mother's Day.

2. and 3. Also referred. I have a few flower flags at hand, which you may have on receipt of stamp and address. For your good wishes, many thanks, although I don't know who the "friend" is.

Healthy and Happy.

Dear Miss Grey,--Am an interested reader of your column, and would like to express my opinion re "Kentucky Nell's" letter. I think she manages well considering the disadvantage of a poor stove. A new stove would help her out wonderfully, as prepared food of any kind is very expensive these times. If she explained to her husband the absolute necessity for such, I am sure he would be reasonable, but as a last resort, the advice of "Finis II." would be excellent. As for the children, they would thrive wonderfully on bread and milk for supper and breakfast. I have had seven, and I am not more than 31. There never was a healthier family of children born, and they have porridge and bread and milk for breakfast, and bread and milk for supper; that is the three smaller ones—one 3 years old, one 4 years, and one 2 years. They go to bed at 6 and do not see what the rest of the family have, so do not cry for what is not good for them.

Now for a few requests:

1. A good recipe for chocolate cake and icing.

2. A recipe for amber jelly.

3. Would white middie blouses be suitable for a married woman of 30, who is in second mourning?

SPRING OF LILAC.

Ans.—What a fragrant penname is yours! I'm always sorry the sweet lilacs last so short a time. Your little red bread and milk for the younger kiddies sounds excellent to me. One sees so much of overfed children, and giving them fancy foods; then the dear parents wonder why Johnnie's or Susie's little "tummies" get out of order!

1. This is a reader's recipe; personally, I'd use a little less sugar. I think: Chocolate Cake—Two eggs, 2 cups brown sugar, ½ cup butter, ½ cup (scant) cocoa, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Chocolate Icing—One and a half squares chocolate, ½ cup scalded cream, few grains salt, yolk 1 egg, ½ teaspoon melted butter, confectioners' sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Melt chocolate over hot water, add cream gradually, salt, yolk of egg, and butter. Stir in confectioners' sugar until of slight consistency to spread, then add flavoring.

2. Can any member of our helpful circle tell how to make amber jelly? The very name sounds good.

If she finds these convenient for wearing while at her morning's work, I see no reason why she should not wear the blouses. Convenience means a great deal to a busy housewife and mother.

NOTES.

"Soldier's Lassie."—I have copies of two songs here for you: "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and "Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies." Please send addressed envelope and a stamp for them.

VERSE--New and Old

The following epistle from a "near-London" Old Boy, now living in Boston, Mass., was received recently by His Worship Mayor Stevenson, who, realizing the value of The Advertiser's "Old Song" column, forwarded the same to this office. Mr. Stevenson is located on an old piece of verse which may be the one desired. The request is as follows:

"The Honorable Mayor City of London, Ontario, Canada:

"My Dear Sir:—When I was a boy I lived near London, and later near Parkhill. I remember the songs, or some of them, that were sung by the country folk, especially those of the Irish persuasion. I want to trouble you about it, can you refer this letter to someone who can send me the words to the following old songs: 'You'll Think On Those Words When We're Cold in the Grave,' 'Bloody Waterloo,' I think the latter is a Scotch song. I can just remember the older folks singing these songs, the tunes to which I can still recall, but the words have long since left the place. I would be very grateful for your assistance. Very sincerely yours,

"J. L. C."

A copy of the following will be mailed to J. L. C. BANKS OF CLYDE.

As a fair maid was walking along the Banks of Clyde, I saw the tears roll down her cheeks as I passed by her side.

I saw her leaving home; her words were kind and true. Saying, "I fear, I fear my Willie's slain on Bloody Waterloo."

As a soldier was passing, this fair maid he did see. "What ails thee, my pretty maid, thy bosom heaves so high?"

"I had but one true love, and he wore a bonnie blue— And I've never seen or heard of him since Bloody Waterloo."

"What were the clothes your Willie wore?" the soldier did reply. "He wore a Highland kilt, with a feather standing high. He wore a bright sword by his side, so gallant and so true. Those were the clothes my Willie wore on Bloody Waterloo."

"I was your Willie's comrade; I saw your Willie die. Five bayonet wounds he did receive before he died down here. He took me by the hand, saying 'Some Frenchman's slain me, too!'"

It was I that closed your Willie's eyes on Bloody Waterloo."

"Oh, Willie! dearest Willie!" and she could say no more. She threw her arms around him whom those dreadful tidings bore. Saying, "Death, open wide your jaws, and swallow me up, too. Since my Willie lies a mangled corpse on Bloody Waterloo.

"Had I the wings of an eagle, I would soar as high. I would fly to yonder battlefield where my dead Willie lies. I would light on his fond bosom and these words I would renew. And I would kiss his clay-cool lips, on Bloody Waterloo."

"Stand up, stand up, my pretty maid," the soldier did reply. And throwing off his great coat, he passed the myrtle by. He opened up his bosom, and he showed his wounds so true. Saying, "I am your own dear Willie that fought on Waterloo."

He threw his arms around her, saying, "Maiden, do not sigh. Since we have met no more to part, I will make you my bride. Since we have met no more to part, I will make you my bride. So they joined their hands in wedlock, all on the Banks of Clyde.

Are you a patriotic woman? Do you want the Allies to win the war? Your place Tuesday evening is at the grand patriotic rally, Masonic Temple.

Before bedtime, he may have a sponge-bath. This phrase, "sponge-bath" must not be taken literally, for physicians hold that a sponge is a disease-carrier. The baby is laid on a pad and washed off lightly with tepid water, his skin is scrubbed with a square of sterilized gauze or old linen or toweling which is scrupulously clean. The little body must be thoroughly dried—patting is better than rubbing.

If the body is kept cool and clean, special baths are not necessary. If the body breaks out with prickly heat, do not use soap; instead, tie a cupful of branched in a bag of muslin, or cheesecloth and squeeze this in the water until the latter takes on a milky color. When the child chafes easily, particularly at the buttocks, a soda or starch bath is soothing. One teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda should be added to the water in the usual infant's bathtub, or a half cupful of laundry starch, powdered very fine, to the same quantity of water.

To not overdress a baby in hot weather. In hot weather, a normal baby needs only the belly-band or binder, diaper, thin balbriggan shirt, and little slip. For cool nights and mornings, a kimono or wrapper of outing flannel may be slipped on, and if the day turns cold suddenly, a flannel skirt can easily be drawn up under the slip.

GRAFT, CORRUPTION AND COMMISSIONS TELL WHOLE STORY

E. F. B. Johnston Flails Borden Administration.

THREE "I'S" DOMINATE

Eminent Counsel Is Disgusted With Affairs at Ottawa—Foster Alone Loyal.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
TORONTO, July 9.—E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., the celebrated counsel who represented the opposition before the recent Meredith-Duff commission in its investigation of the Hughes, Allison, Yaskum, et al. shell committee transactions took the political platform for the first time in his career, at the Liberal picnic at Markham on Saturday.

He scorchingly arraigned the Borden Government. He declared Premier Borden to be utterly spineless and unable to act in the interest of his country at a time when its destiny required strong leadership.

"The history of Mr. Borden's Government during the war," said Mr. Johnston, "can be written in three words—graft, corruption and commissions." The trouble was that the Government was utterly self-centered and self-concerned. "Three I's dominate it. There is Sir Thomas White, who says, 'I know it all'; Sir Robert Borden, who says, 'I am that one man who must keep quiet and get into no trouble, because I have no spine'; and Sir Sam Hughes, who says, 'I am the whole thing—the rest don't count.'"

Mr. Johnston declared that his experience at Ottawa had disgusted him with the whole Government. Not a member of that Government except Sir George Foster, said he, had done his part in encouraging the Dominion to render its utmost assistance to Britain in the present great struggle.

SAM GREENE WAS DROWNED AT PORT WHILE IN BATHING

Colored Cook Jumped Into Water 18 Feet Deep.

WAS UNABLE TO SWIM

Body Was Recovered After Being in the Water Nine Hours.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
PORT STANLEY, July 9.—Sam Greene, aged 25, colored assistant cook in the C. and B. liner, State of Ohio, was drowned here at 10:30 Saturday night. His body was recovered shortly after. Sunday morning an identification card found in the clothing gives his home as 3917 Central avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Greene, with another negro, was taking a bath off a raft tied to the "State of Ohio," then in dock. Neither of the men could swim, but could "bottom" the water at the point where the raft was tied. The raft gradually worked its way out from the boat and when Greene dropped off the end of it he ended in water 18 feet deep. He came up once and then disappeared. A number of the crew tried to locate his body, but were unsuccessful. At one time he body was located, but when lines were secured, it had drifted away. The keener started its trip to Cleveland at midnight.

Fred Pollock and George Moore of the village, started dragging the harbor where the fatality occurred with a line and large cat-fish hooks Sunday morning. A hook had caught in a bandage in Greene's finger and the body was pulled to the surface. The remains were sent to the morgue in St. Thomas. Coroner Jackson of Union, was called and decided an inquest was unnecessary.

William Greene, a relative, was communicated with at the Cleveland address. The body is being held for view from him.

Through errors on the identification card it was thought at first the man's name was Truman, but careful study of the card revealed the right name.

ENTRAL PLACE NEEDED FOR CONDEMNED PERSONS

Jury Says Closer Watch Should Have Been Placed on Tony Legatto.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
GUELPH, July 9.—At an early hour Saturday morning the jury inquiring into the suicide of Antonio Legatto on the eve of the day of his execution, returned a verdict that he had been strangled to death, and also stating that there should have been more care exercised in guarding him.

At the suggestion of the coroner a plan was attached to the verdict recommending that there should be a central place established to which all condemned men should be sent as soon as they came under a death watch, and where the most perfect machinery might be installed to carry out the death sentences. There was no sensational evidence brought out.

OCKWOOD MAN KILLED IN FALL FROM HAYLOAD

Lesley Harris Victim of Accident Near St. Catharines.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
GUELPH, July 9.—Samuel Harris of Rockwood, received word Saturday of a accident to his son near St. Catharines, which terminated fatally. While working in a hay field Wesley Harris was thrown from a load, breaking his neck. Death was not instantaneous, and the injured man was removed to St. Catharines Hospital, where an operation was performed. He did not regain consciousness. He is survived by his father, his wife, a daughter of 17, and a son of 10, who is a member of the Rockwood family.

MONTREAL ENGINEER DIES.
MONTREAL, July 9.—Charles H. Osier, 439 St. Catharines street, Westmount, an engineer in the gas department of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, died suddenly Saturday in his office of heart trouble. He had been with the company for more than twenty years.

NORTH PERTH TODAY FACING BIG ISSUE

Electors Have Chance To Condemn Extravagance.

TORIES HAVE FINAL SAY

Lucas and Hanna Spout in Stratford, But Evade Pert Questions.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
STRATFORD, July 9.—Public interest centres on North Perth, where tomorrow will decide who will represent the riding in the Provincial House for the balance of the term—Mr. Hay or Mr. Makin. The day will show whether the electors approve of Conservative administration since 1905 with its wanton recklessness of the public funds, and lack of foresight in the great questions affecting the social, industrial and agricultural welfare of the province, or whether they believe this Government and its arrogant rule is deserving of a rebuke by the election of F. W. Hay.

Though of only two weeks, the campaign has aroused province-wide interest, and is important in many respects. A win for Mr. Hay will indicate that the sentiment as expressed in Peel, Hamilton and Dundas has spread throughout the province, and that the people appreciate what Mr. Rowell is doing in their behalf in the House and are anxious to strengthen his hand. On the other hand, should Mr. Makin be elected it will be the result of the efforts of practically the whole of the Ontario cabinet, including the premier himself, together with half a dozen provincial and as many federal members who have spared no efforts to defeat the Liberal candidate.

Have Straddled the Fence.
Claiming temperance to be the issue and appealing in some quarters to temperance voters, they have straddled the fence in other quarters and angled for anti-prohibition support. By the introduction of bilingualism, they have attempted to stir up racial strife in a mixed riding, and accuse the Liberals also of inciting the German element against a war-time Government. Liberals have been accused of an alliance with the liquor interests, and the stand of Mr. Hay on the temperance issues has been grossly misrepresented, as also that of Mr. Rowell on bilingualism.

Liberals on the other hand have rallied solidly to Mr. Hay and are relying on thorough organization for his election with self-evident conditions at Toronto.

What of Finances?
But what electors are asking is in what condition are provincial finances. What has become of the public funds, and why the vastly increased expenditure? Conservatives had a last-hour appeal Saturday when Hanna, Lucas and H. B. Morphy spoke. Any who attended in the hope of receiving any light on the provincial financial condition were sadly disappointed. C. M. Bowman, on the night previous, threw out a direct challenge to these men to deny that for capital expenditure the borrowings exceeded the ordinary five million, between 1905 and 1910; that not one cent of the provincial war tax was expended for war purposes; that the province lost $750,000 in taxes by reason of a secret agreement with International Nickel Company. During the hours of speaking on Saturday night there was a marked absence of any reference to finances. The challenge was ignored entirely.

The Lucas Salary.
Mr. Lucas tried to justify his $11,400 salary by charging that Mr. Bowman had made a fortune out of Government contracts, while Mr. Hanna spoke of prison reforms and temperance, telling how when equipment for Ontario's new hospital in England was needed they went to the prisoners at Guelph and in the Mercer to have the work done, as against legitimate channels of labor.

NEW RUSSIAN MOVE MENACES 2 GROUPS OF TEUTON ARMIES

Masters of Triangle Formed by Three Towns.

FAIL TO TURN RUSS FLANK

Gruziatyn Captured, Although Defended by 200,000 Men.

LONDON, July 9.—10:55 p.m.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says that the Russians have crossed the Stokhod River at Ugli, which is approximately half way between the railways running to Kovel from Samy and Rovno. The dispatch adds that inasmuch as the Austro-German forces defending Kovel are chiefly concentrated along these lines, the Russian move in the centre threatens the group.

"The Russians are masters of the whole triangle, comprising Rafalovka, Manevitche and Koiki," says the dispatch. "The capture of enemy positions northwards and southwards of the Samy-Kovel railway permitted the cavalry to rush the centre, resulting in the occupation of the station at Manevitche."

"The infantry marched hard on the heels of the cavalry and is now in firm possession of the Manevitche positions astride the Pinsk-Koiki high road."

German Effort a Failure.
"Thus the enemy's attempt to turn the right flank of the Russian army, which is thrust into the Lutsk salient, completely failed. The continuance of the Russian advance in the region of the Stokhod and west of Koiki compels the Germans to fall farther back from the Sty to the Stokhod."

"There is particular satisfaction over the capture of Gruziatyn, west of Koiki, which for days has been the arena of sanguinary fighting. It is stated that Austro-Germans, amounting to five corps (200,000 men), have been entrusted with the defence of the approaches to Kovel. The Austrians have been strengthened by German reinforcements between Kovel and Rafalovka."

ENEMY FAILS IN BUKOWINA.

PETROGRAD, July 9.—Via London, July 9.—1:55 a.m.—An official statement issued this evening reads: "In Bukovina, west of Kimpolung, near the villages of Foundoul-Moldava and Valepounta, we repulsed the enemy who left many dead on the field. We took prisoner seven officers and 530 soldiers."

"Between June 23 and July 7 Gen. Letchinsky's army took prisoner 674 officers and 50,475 soldiers, and captured 18 cannon, 100 machine guns and

The World's Most Powerful Low Priced Car 31½ H.P.

ANNOUNCING THE NEW SERIES
$890 75 B Overland $890
J.o.b. Toronic J.o.b. Toronto

This newest Overland is the world's most powerful low-priced car.

It has a 31½ horsepower en bloc motor that is a perfect marvel for speed, power and endurance.

By increasing the bore of the motor from 3½ to 3¾" we are able to offer a power plant which at 1950 R.P.M. develops full 31½ horsepower.

Tests under every condition in all parts of the Dominion demonstrate that it easily develops better than fifty miles per hour on the road.

Speed of course varies under different conditions, but in practically every instance it has been getting fifty miles an hour and with ease.

We have scores of telegrams showing that twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

Take any other low-priced car on the market. Pit it against this new Overland. Compare them for sheer speed, for abundance of power, for riding comfort and economy, and you'll find this car will back anything else clean off the boards.

That's a strong statement, but a fact nevertheless.

Try it yourself and see.

Here are more important facts.

It has four-inch tires which are more than generous for a car of this size.

Not only has it a large and roomy body, but it has an attractive, up-to-date streamline body.

It has the latest and most improved system of ignition.

It has the cantilever springs—the easiest riding springs in the world.

What's more, it's complete. Not a thing to buy. You get the finest Auto-Lite electric starting and lighting system, magnetic speedometer, one-man top, demountable rims and practically every accessory found on the highest priced cars.

From a driving standpoint, the new car is ideal. It's light, easy to handle and anyone can drive it.

Take one look and be convinced.

And mark these words—the car is destined to be regarded and referred to as one of the really great achievements of the great automobile industry.

Yet it only goes to prove how big production can cut cost and save you money.

First come, first served. Place your order now.

"There was nothing important on the remainder of this front."

"Black Sea: An enemy submarine, without warning, sank the hospital ship Viperide (Wperid) which carried all the distinguishing signs. Seven men lost their lives; the others were saved."

Caucasus front: On Saturday in combats west of the Erzerum line one of our columns took prisoner 64 officers and 1,650 soldiers, and captured a great quantity of arms, ammunition and engineering material."

GERMAN REPORT ON EASTERN FRONT.

BERLIN, via London, July 9.—The German war office report issued today says regarding the eastern front: "Army group of Prince Leopold: The Russians repeated several times their strong attacks against part of the front mentioned yesterday. The attacks again broke down with heavy losses for the Russians. In the fighting of the last few days we have captured two officers and 631 men."

"Army group of General Linsingen: Russian attacks at several points were unsuccessful. Near Molodochno bombs were dropped freely on troops awaiting transport."

"On July 7 a Russian aeroplane was shot down in an aerial battle east of Borovono on the Stokhod."

AEROPLANES AGAIN!

Crowd at Port Stanley Victims of Same Old Hoax.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
PORT STANLEY, July 9.—The old aeroplane scare was revived at Port Stanley Sunday. Towards evening a number of residents on the beach noticed three bright lights, thought to be the headlights of the dreaded air invaders. The chief of police was notified, and crowds collected to watch the lights.

At length one seemed to come near to earth and the more timid among the watchers made for shelter. Down, down it came, till it fell in front of the casino.

The object picked up was the shattered remains of a tissue-paper toy balloon.

ENEMY AEROPLANES BOMB ENGLISH COAST

Anti-Aircraft Guns Drive Off Raiders—No Damage Reported.

LONDON, July 10.—1:55 a.m.—Hostile aeroplanes have dropped bombs on the English coast, but so far as is known did no damage. An official statement issued this morning says: "Shortly before midnight Sunday enemy aeroplanes visited the south-west coast of England. From the information available about five bombs were dropped. No damage is reported so far. Anti-aircraft guns engaged the raiding machines."

"No further details have been received."

SUFFERS STROKE AT PICNIC.
ST. CATHARINES, July 9.—Mrs. Charlotte Richards of Toronto, while attending a Sunday school picnic at Port Dalhousie on Friday, suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died this morning. She leaves four small children and her husband, who is now with his battalion in Belgium.

MAY AMALGAMATE ALL UNITS UNDER STRENGTH

Will Be Drafted Into Other Battalions to Complete Training.

TORONTO, July 9.—Military men state that it is the intention of headquarters to make use of the order of last spring, by which recently authorized infantry units would be drafted into other battalions if they did not reach a strength of six hundred men when it was time for them to go into camp for summer training. It has been pointed out that the competitive system of obtaining recruits has not the effect of early spring. The most successful method would be to bring as many battalions up to strength as possible immediately, that they may have battalion training at the camps. Unless this is done, the training of many units would be incomplete when the summer camps break up.

628 BRITISH OFFICERS IN 4 DAYS' CASUALTIES

Lists Give No Indication of Casualties in Ranks.

LONDON, July 9.—9:07 p.m.—The lists of casualties among British officers, issued in the last four days, apparently composed almost altogether of losses suffered in the past week's advance, give a total of 94 killed, 504 wounded, 20 missing.

A small proportion of these probably refer to other operations, while some of the casualties were possibly included in the lists earlier than Thursday's. It is impossible from the lists thus far issued to judge of the casualties in the ranks.

SHACKLETON TO TRY AGAIN.
LONDON, July 10.—A Reuter dispatch from Buenos Aires says that Sir Ernest Shackleton expects to start a week hence for Elephant Island in another attempt to rescue the main body of the Antarctic expedition. He will sail on the schooner Emma.

GERMAN STEAMER SUNK BY RUSSIAN SUBMARINE

Sent to the Bottom Off Sweden After Crew Is Removed.

LONDON, July 9.—The German steamer Dorita, of 3,650 tons gross, has been sunk by a Russian submarine off Gernsköold, Sweden, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen. The steamer was sent to the bottom after the crew had taken to the boats.

The Swedish steamer Lisa has been sunk, according to a report received by Lloyds.

The Lisa, a vessel of 1,170 gross tons, was built in Kiel in 1908 and was owned in Helsingborg, Sweden. She was last reported in maritime records as arriving at Gelfe, Sweden, June 8.

REGULAR LINE OF TRADE SUBMARINES PLANNED BY HUNS

Deutschland's Captain Says
His Boat First of Fleet.

WILL TAKE BACK MONEY

Those Who Have Suffered by Blockade Now Expect Relief.

[Canadian Press.]
Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Definite announcement that the German submarine merchant fleet, which reached Chesapeake Bay yesterday, is the first of a fleet of such craft built to play regularly in the trans-Atlantic trade, was made here today by Capt. Paul Konig, master of the super-submarine.

"This is not the only one that is coming," said the captain. "Just wait," he said more here soon, and we are going back for another cargo. We are going to have a regular line."

It was to port officials that the captain talked. As his vessel was preparing to move up to dock from the lower harbor, where she dropped anchor last night. To newspapermen shouting questions over the ship's side, he was not so communicative, explaining that a formal statement would be issued later by the representatives of his owners.

The document describes the Deutschland as "a vessel engaged in the freight trade between Bremen and Boston or other eastern Atlantic ports."

SEND BACK MONEY.
New York, July 10.—The arrival at an American port of a German submarine, and the possibility of establishing a carrier service between the United States and the blocked Teutonic nations, has aroused particular interest here among persons who have suffered from their inability to send money and goods to their families in Germany and Austria-Hungary.

It is said today that the submarine returns home she will carry an important consignment of bank drafts and legal papers of various kinds. Money more than anything else has been held up by the Allied powers. It is a contraband of war.

Ordinarily, $150,000,000 a year is sent from this country to Austria-Hungary, but with the war this fell off to $15,000,000.

The settlement of at least a dozen estates now in the surrogate court here has been a description of the impossible to send or receive the necessary legal documents to or from the cities of the Central Powers. Mortgagees have been foreclosed, but it was impossible to obtain the necessary documents from Germany and Austria-Hungary. This effect of the blockade has been felt in all the cities of the United States, where there is a large Teutonic population.

No Torpedoes.
One thing the boarding officers noted particularly. There were no torpedoes aboard the vessel. They had been told that she mounted two small calibre rifles for defence, but came ashore convinced that the visitor was wholly unarmoured.

It was learned that the boat left Bremen with her load of about 750 tons of valuable dyestuffs, which her owners hope to sell to American manufacturers for a fortune. At the moment she waited a few days, leaving her June 23 to plow deep beneath the surface of the North Sea to escape the watchful eyes of the allied blockaders. Capt. Konig intimated that the purpose of his delay was to "Hogland" was to deceive the enemy, who undoubtedly had heard rumors of the submarine's coming.

This account goes to the belief in the United States that the vessel was a war vessel, a misapprehension that caused German embassy officials to fear that she had run into allied warships off the coast of Ireland. When the boat once out of the blockade lines and into the Atlantic, according to the captain's story, he headed straight across, and only deviated from his course once when he saw what he took to be enemy craft. Most of the time he sped along on the surface, making around 14 knots an hour with his powerful twin Diesel oil engines. Submerged he could go at the rate of 7 1/2.

Approaching the Cape, late Saturday the captain found his way apparently clear. He laid to with his decks awash, however, waiting until darkness fell before nearing the coast. When the bright half moon went down, shortly after midnight, he put on all speed and shot between the Virginia Capes, to be greeted by the tug Timmons sent there more than a week before to await his coming. On board the submarine are the captain, first and second officers and 26 men, all wearing the regulation uniform of the German mercantile marine, with the North German Lloyd insignia upon their caps. The skipper is a trim, slightly-built man of medium height, around 40 years of age.

FRENCH SENATE SHOWS ITS CONFIDENCE IN GOVERNMENT

Paris, July 10.—The Senate at the last of its secret sessions adopted last evening, by a vote of 251 to 5, a resolution of confidence in the Government. Similar action was taken by the Chamber of Deputies several weeks ago. Among the six who refused to uphold the Government were ex-Premier Georges Clemenceau and ex-Foreign Minister Stephen Pichon.

"The resolution notes with satisfaction the results accomplished by France and her allies in efforts which will assure united action on the front, and counts on the Government to take, in collaboration with Parliament, all the measures of organization and action which will hasten victory."

GERMANS ADMIT LOSSES OF OVER THREE MILLIONS TO DATE; MILLION ARE DEAD OR MISSING

LONDON, July 9.—7:20 p.m.—German casualties from the beginning of the war to the end of June, as computed from official German lists, are given as 3,012,637, in an official statement made public here today. This announcement follows:

"German casualties reported in German official casualty lists, exclusive of corrections, in the month of June, follow: Died of wounds and sickness, 13,555; prisoners and missing, 6,579; wounded and missing, 63,187; total, 83,321.

"These, added to those reported in previous months, and including corrections reported in June, 1916, bring the totals reported in German Official lists since the beginning of the war to: Died of wounds and sickness, 347,327; prisoners and missing, 342,673; wounded, 1,912,637; total, 3,012,637.

AUSTRIANS DECLARE RUSSIAN AVALANCHE SWEEP THEM BACK

Unable To Withstand Great Masses of Troops.

GREAT BATTLE IN GALICIA

Muscovites Endeavoring To Separate Von Bothmer and Pflanzer.

AUSTRIAN HEADQUARTERS, via Berlin to London, July 9.—The retirement of the Russian southern wings of the Austro-German army south of the Pripiet marshes was due to the superiority of the Russian forces, according to the throwing in of fresh forces and the blockade of the attack regardless of losses.

Spurred on by the success of Gen. Von Bothmer's troops south of the Pripiet marshes, the Russians brought up new troops to both sides of the Pripiet marshes, and, succeeded in stopping Gen. Von Bothmer east of the marshes, forcing him to abandon the lower course of the Pripiet. The new line to which the Austro-German forces retired follows the course of two brooks flowing into the Pripiet from the north and the south about twelve miles west of the Pripiet River. This distance represents the Russian gains.

FIGHTING WEST OF KOLOMEA.

The heaviest fighting in this section, however, occurred west of Kolomea, where the Russians are evidently trying to drive the German forces from the Pripiet marshes, and, succeeded in stopping Gen. Von Bothmer east of the marshes, forcing him to abandon the lower course of the Pripiet. The new line to which the Austro-German forces retired follows the course of two brooks flowing into the Pripiet from the north and the south about twelve miles west of the Pripiet River. This distance represents the Russian gains.

KING OF ANNAMITES HAS BEEN DETRONED

French Accuse Him of Fomenting the Recent Revolt.

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, July 10.—Duy-Tan, the king of the French protectorate of Annam, was virtually a part, a resolution of confidence in the Government. Similar action was taken by the Chamber of Deputies several weeks ago. Among the six who refused to uphold the Government were ex-Premier Georges Clemenceau and ex-Foreign Minister Stephen Pichon.

"The resolution notes with satisfaction the results accomplished by France and her allies in efforts which will assure united action on the front, and counts on the Government to take, in collaboration with Parliament, all the measures of organization and action which will hasten victory."

A dispatch from Shan-hai May 15 said the governor-general of French Indo-China, of which the kingdom of Annam is a part, had ordered that King Duy-Tan be deposed on charges of complicity in riots in Quang-Ngai and Quang Nam. Several uprisings against French rule have occurred in the last three years in Indo-China, and martial law was proclaimed throughout the country.

DEMAND OF HOLLWEGG MORE LIGHT ON WAR

Widespread Discussion For and Against Kaiser's Chancellor.

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, via London, July 10.—The recent appeal of the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung for less discussion and criticism and more concentration on the war or, briefly, "first win, then talk," has unleashed a flood of discussion for and against the chancellor. The Conservatives declared that the chancellor is demanding the nation's full confidence without giving the people an insight into his plans and policies. "The paralyzing silence" of the chancellor, they assert that the nation is still without an adequate definition of the great purpose of the war. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg refers to his speeches in the Reichstag, in which he outlined the aims of the war, and the connection the chancellor asks: "Is it not a great purpose to free from foreign control the gates of approach into the heart of Germany?"

North Sea Fight Has Made Safety For 200 Vessels

LONDON, July 10.—3:55 a.m.—As an immediate result of the great North Sea battle, nearly two hundred British merchantmen have been released from Baltic ports, according to the morning papers. These ships have been lying idle in Petrograd, Kronstadt and other Baltic harbors since the outbreak of the war. They have passed through the Cattegat without interference from German warships, and arrived safely in British ports.

READING

Often proves to you the imperfections of your sight. When it becomes necessary to hold the book nearer or further away from the eyes, depend upon it, something is wrong. When letters "run one into another," or the eyes ache, when fatigue follows reading, the condition of the eyes should be investigated. This is advisable, not only that your capability for reading may remain good, but also, because straining eyes are a great tax upon the health. We have an equipment which, together with our experience, enables us to determine exactly the state and needs of your eyes. Our methods are scientific and accurate.

LAWSON & JONES

PICNIC A SUCCESS

Bert Orr's Home Run Features

Ball Game.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

PORT STANLEY, July 9.—The 34th

annual picnic of the employees of the

Lawson & Jones Lithographing Company was held here Saturday. To the number of 200 they came on a special car from London at 12:30 p.m.

The picnic was held on the new amusement park, Fraser Heights.

Baseball occupied the morning program. The teams picked from the men were headed by Captains Clarke and Myers. A score of ten was piled up by "Barney" Clarke's team, while the Myers players were only able to score two runs.

A home-run hit elicited out by Bert

Orr provided the feature of the game.

The many errors of Captain Bus Myers kept the spectators in good humor.

George Bonney, as umpire, was made the "goat" of sly remarks from all quarters. Dinner was served in the dining-hall on the hill.

The afternoon was occupied by the general routine of sports. The most interesting and amusing of all was the balloon race for young ladies. Toy balloons were provided for each. The contestants were directed to hit the balloons through the air to a certain line. The wind blew from the direction in which the balloon was directed. The harder the girls struck the further the wind would carry the balloon out of the course. Misses Hicks, Ford, Nesbitt and Snyder managed to conquer

in the order named.

"Dressing Peggy" was a novelty. A clothes-pin was furnished to each girl with a quantity of tissue paper and a needle and thread. Prizes were given for the best dressed doll. The winner,

Miss Ida Warner, designed a hoop skirt costing $1.00. The second prize was second with a "Red Cross Nurse."

Misses Dyson and Parry won third and fourth prizes.

Prizes for the other events were as follows:

Boys' race, 6 years and under—L.

Wood, W. Atkinson, W. Needham, H.

Boys, 12 years and under—H. Bending, H. Dyson, F. James, W. Atkinson.

SAYS WOMEN MUST PROVIDE WORKERS FOR ALL INDUSTRIES

ORGANIZING ALL ONTARIO

Provincial Committee on Resources Informs Emergency

Corps of Its Aims.

A letter giving some idea of the plans of the Provincial Organization of Resources Committee has been received by the Women's Emergency Corps of

No. 1 district from Prof. A. H. Abbott, who was appointed several months ago to take charge of recruiting in No. 2

military district.

Immediately after the formation some ten days ago in Toronto of a Provincial

Organization of Resources Committee,

a letter expressing entire sympathy with the movement was forwarded to President Hearst from the executive of the Women's Emergency Corps of No. 1

military district, and also assurance of the willingness of the corps to cooperate in any way possible.

In response to this letter, the following reply has been addressed to the acting corresponding secretary of the Women's Emergency Corps, Miss E.

Norine Butler, by Prof. A. H. Abbott,

who is in charge of recruiting for No. 2

military district.

Dear Madam.—The prime minister has handed me your favor of June 23,

in which you express the sympathy of your corps with the work of this committee, and ask for any information we can give you.

Committees in All Municipalities.

We purpose to organize each municipality of this province as soon as possible and place in each a small representative committee, which shall at once be a medium through which we shall gather information and through which the plans of the committee will be worked out.

It is quite evident that before recruiting begins actively in the fall we shall have a better organization of the industrial forces of the province than at present, and that some scheme should be devised whereby recruiting will do as much damage as possible to our industries.

Not all the men which have been asked for have yet been given by the province, and if the war continues as the place of men, it is quite evident

we shall have to give more men than those asked for at present.

The work of this committee will be, in the first instance, to attempt to secure the largest possible force for overseas

with the least disruption of business.

Women Must Help.

As far as the work of the Women's Emergency Corps is concerned, it is clear that if a shortage of labor in our factories is to be made up help will have to come to a very considerable extent from the women of the province.

We are at present gathering information on this point. No one knows just how extensive the labor shortage is and

CHINESE AT HOME VASTLY DIFFERENT FROM THOSE HERE

A Missionary on Furlough
Praises Their Physique.

HARD LIFE OF DOCTORS

Those in Mission Service Compelled To Be Nurse, Orderly and All Else as Well.

Rev. Neville Ward, a missionary who is home on furlough from China, preached in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday morning, telling of the work being done in the diocese of Honan, the headquarters of the work of the M. S. C. S. in China.

Canadians, he declared, are in no position to form an estimate of the Chinese from the Chinese men he sees here.

The immigrants have come to Canada from Canton, and, in practically all cases belong to the lowest or coolie classes. The Canadian of the inland provinces who does not emigrate is splendid both in physique and character.

Tall, broad-shouldered and of fine appearance, he is the very opposite to the popular conception in this country of the Chinese.

Different phases of missionary effort were dwelt upon. Concerning medical missions, the preacher had this to say.

The life of the medical missionary in China is very different from the life of the doctor in Canada, who has his own hours and motors or drives out to see his patients. The medical missionary is a nurse, orderly and everything else,

as well. He ministers with his own hands to patients suffering with the most loathsome diseases. I have seen distinguished graduates not only of Toronto, but of Edinburgh and London,

England, as well, tending the sick and suffering with the grace of even Christ himself.

Evangelistic work, he stated, involves going from place to place, teaching and preaching. Here, too, the missionary meets hardships, traveling in Chinese carts without springs, and frequently with wheels which are circular pieces of wood without even spokes.

In connection with the important branch of missionary work, the educational, Mr. Ward related his own experiences as head of a boys' college in the capital of Honan, Kai Feng, where he has had as his pupils 80 boys, sons of officials, merchants and all classes

who can afford to pay for the education of their sons. Of these boys who have developed into young men, Mr. Ward has had the happiness of seeing twenty become earnest Christians.

In conclusion, a tribute was paid to the Chinese Christian, whose reverence and faith are evidenced by a transformed

life, the turning from the virtues of gambling, opium, etc., to the virtues which are the fruits of the spirit, love, joy, peace, meekness, long suffering, etc. The Chinese Christian becomes a leavening influence for righteousness in his community.

The evening service was conducted by the rector, Rev. Precentor Tucker, and the special music included a missionary

Would Oil Road and Erect Guard at "Hoodoo" Spot

Motorists Anxious to Have Dangerous Pipe Line Road Protected.

The "hoodoo" spot for the motorists of London is the dip in the Pipe Line road below Woodland Cemetery, and there is an agitation on foot to have the road in the vicinity oiled and heavy guard rails placed along the sides of the road.

Last week several cars were in trouble at this point, and it has been called the "dip of death" by those who have learned to proceed carefully. It would appear that proximity to Woodland Cemetery is all too suggestive of the dangers of the double hill, with steep banks on both sides, and motorists hope that something will be done.
