Report of the Judges Against Gamey All Through-Whitewash Stratton.

Not a Word of Condemnation of Stratton's "Forget" Sugges-tion—A Partisan Deliver-

Toronto, June 5:-Chancellor Boyd and Chief Justice Falconbridge reported to the Legislature yesterday their finding in the Gamey charges. After a lengthy review of the evidence they go on to say :-

Mr. Gamey had no personal intercourse with any member of the Ministry except the Provincial Secretary. With two or three of the others he had some official correspondence, but with with two or three of the others he had some official correspondence, but with the rest not even that.

With regard to the added charge of conspiracy, the Commissioners are of the opinion that, as a matter of law, there is no evidence whatever to sustain it as against the members of the Government and the other persons charged. And, according to the methods of an ordinary trial, they would be discharged from the said accusation by the ordinary trial, they would be discharged from the said accusation by the ordinary of the Covernment and the other persons that the said accusation by the ordinary of the Covernment and the other persons the provincial Secretary there is the testimony that has been commented upon.

In our opinion the corrupt charges stand disproved by a great body of evidence which appears to be more accurate and credible than that adduced in support the seed of the said of the forest sealed of the said o omissions invite critical consideration. Its preparation was undertaken in a leisurely way, with care, with deliberation, during part of at least ten days, and with corrections, with a desire to make it accurate, and with opportunity to refer to books and memorandum of dates to assist, and subject to the final perusal of Mr. McGregor, Mr. Gamey's alleged confidant and counsellor throughout. It was thus prepared (comprehending everything that was deemed important) in order to make a solid base for the impeachment of the Provincial Secretary on the floor of the House.

The commissioners now proceed to consider in the light of the evidence already summarized, and of other evidence to be adwerted to, the next division of this inquiry, that is, as to the protest and the patronage, and both may be treated of together.

Eliminate the element of corrupt payment of money, and consider whether, apart from that, any imputation can be cast upon the Provincial Secretary. The whole trend of the evidence, (apart from the statement of Mr. Gamey) goes to show that the matter of his supporting the Government, in power was first broached by him, and stated as a settled thing on which he had long made up his mind. The letter of the 10th September, signed by Mr. Gamey, was a correct expression of his sentiments in writing, in accord with his many early utterances on the same line. It is in these words, dated, addressed and signed in his handwriting:—

Mr. Grant says that the detailed report of the result of the investigations as to corrupt practices in Manitoulin received by him on the 16th September was discouraging to his hopes of success, so that he was willing to make adjustments to zet it of 10th September, and had no communication with any member of the Government about this "settlement by saw off." He says it was dealt with as others, and in no exceptional way. (Pages 1,035 to 1,005.) And herein he stands uncontradicted.

(It may be noted that the Provincial Secretary asys he did not know that the letter of the 10th September was signed by Mr. Gamey until he was so told on the 23rd October.) (Page 2,623)

However undesirable may be this method of suppressing election petitions, it is one in which both political parties concur, and it is not forbidden in terms by legislation, though it well might bea, selection Judges have at different times recommended. But to return: There is nothing in the evidence to lead to the behing that Mr. Grant acted in these election protests any less fairly than Mr. Bristol, whose conduct has not been impugated. Nay, the statement read in the House itself exculpates Mr. Grant, who is referred to as a lawyer "prominent in Liberals ranks," and it proceeds, "No question was made in his presence of supporting the Government, and no question of trial was spoken of; we had only a short talk, and he went out and I have never heard of him in any way in the deal since." (Exhibits, page 52).

Proceeding now to deal with the matter of patronage: Though it is mentioned in the statement, yet it is so in no emphatic manner, as compared with the alleged money payments, but to appreciate the value of what is mentioned in the statement as to patronage it is necessary to begin some time before the interview with the Sullivans and the 7th of August. FRIDAY, JUNE 5.

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH. The announcement that one of the largest stock speculating establishments in Canada has gone down in the wreck of falling securities makes a sensational incident in connection with the fever of bucket shopping and stock speculation which has afflicted this country for the past couple of years, comments the Ottawa Citizen. The firm in question might be said to be regarded as the head centre of the movement. It handled blocks of Canadian stock, good, bad and indifferent, with whom it fed the market to provide much of the material for the stock gambling craze which has touched all classes of the community. During the bull movement of the first year the firm and its clients and the clients of its agents were on velvet. All the green speculator had to do was to drop his money in the slot and watch the values go up. Then the re-action set in and the inexperienced were all at sea. The man who got "cold feet" and dropped out was perhaps the weakest, but the wisest. Some held on longer and finally took their losses and succumbed. Others got so badly dipped they were afraid to let go and clung to the market hoping against hope. At this stage, and later, some smart people concluded that the worst was over and re-invested because the market "could not possibly go lower"-and they have been hanging on. Yesterday, when the announcement of the failure of this firm occurred the bottom fell out of the "Canadian group" of securities and the public need not be surprised if during the next few days various communities are startled by the reports of local failures and possibly a few more tragic echoes of the crash.

The consolatory feature of the affair is that it is a purely speculative smash. It is a thing apart from the trade of the country-a gambling side issue in which stocks are the medium instead of poker chips or roulette wheels or the "bones." Stocks which were legitimate investments on their merits had their merits artificially inflated for gambling purposes by outsiders, but the intrinsic value remains the same, though the influence of the collapse may carry them down a few points temporarily below their real marketable value which is determined by their actual earning power in dividends. Some of the "Canadian group" may not have been of this character. They were special classes of securities issued for the more or hess exclusive purpose of being inflated and furnishing material for manipulation by the stock gamblers, and these, too, will find their real tevel now, which will in all likelihood be very low. But the main thing to be kept in mind is that the legitimate trade and the legitimate securities and the general prosperity of the country are neither involved in nor impaired by the creation, maintenance and eventual collapse of these artificial conditions of a purely speculative and gambling character.

Party journalism in Winnipeg still makes the mistake of over-bitterness. Here, for instance, are some extracts from a Liberal newspaper's report of he, and in answer to the query he brought forth a school text book printed in French, which he had distributed free among that people, Mr. Roblin followed this up with a despairing appeal for their votes for having given them this book." What is the good of that sort of thing?

Ancient Needlework. Some of the oldest needlework extant was found in Egyptian and Egypto-Roman tombs-a rough sort of flaxen clotn, like the bath toweling of our own day. It has loops of wool worked with some kind of needle, raised on one side of the stuff only, and a kind of tapestry partly woven and partly outlined in needlework. The mummies which an insatiable modern curiosity has disturbed are wrapped in linen, as less liable than woolen cloth to the ravages of moth, and the art of weaving the flax that grew so plentifully on the banks of the Nile was probably learned by the Israelites during their sojourn in Egypt.

Ezekiel speaks of "fine linen with broidered work from Egypt." Linen seems the natural ground and foundations. tion of all embroidery. It often lasts longer than the work itself, can be longer than the work itself, can be cleaned and will not fray or wear out, as do more costly silks and satins.— London Spectator.

A MINE ON FIRE.

Theme for the Descriptive Writer Swamp

When the Dominion Coal Company's mines in Cape Breton caugh fire the other day the newspaper con respondents had no time for going into picturesque details. They knew that the people who were most interested were the investing public, the men who had put good money inthe men who had put good money into Dominion Coal, the men who were keeping the telephone wires hot with enquiries to the newspaper offices. A million tons of coal on fire, or possibly on fire miles under the sea, was something for the descriptive writer to handle, but the descriptive writer is at a discount when millions of dollars are concerned, says Day by Day in The News, Toronto.

The Later Thought.
And yet there was that in the tele-And yet there was that in the tele-graphed despatch that brought some men back in fancy to those great submarine workings, where the gal-leries stretch for miles and miles, wide, spacious, in many places, and always well lighted. The better the light, the more coal the miners are able to blast out in a day. There would be no saving in keeping the galleries gloomy or the air bad, for no man can work well in the dark, and no man can work at all, for any protracted time, in vitiated air. And so the big pumps force fresh air through all the workings and the and no man can work at any protracted time, in vitiated air. And so the big pumps force fresh air through all the workings and the men, with the exception of the pallor that comes to any human who is denied the healthy sunlight, seem to thrive. Down beneath the sea, too, are horses, some hundred and fifty of them, which spend, perhaps, six months at a time in the mine. They have the trolley loads of coal, and they never leave the lower levels until the veterinary employed by the company decides that they need a trip to the surface, to green fields and sunlight. Some of the horses can endure the life in the pit for much greater periods than can others. They endure the life in the pit for much greater periods than can others. They are like men, differing in endurance as in intelligence. But to each of them comes the time when the vet. says he must "go up," and the elevator runs him aloft to the holiday that he has earned. that he has earned.

Herses Go Blind in Mines. After six months or so of semi-darkness the horse is almost blind. The optic nerve is nearly atrophied and he is led unseeing and staggering to the meadow where he is to recuperate. When the halter is cast off and the animal is left to himself he is like a nyctalops suddenly dragoff and the animal is left to himself he is like a nyctalops suddenly dragged from his lair and thrown into the sunlight. By this time he had worked himself into a white swear, and his wild bellowings were at times, to those who appreciate platform courtesy in public life, indeed painful to listen to.

With thick tears in his voice Mr. Roblin again turned his attention to the gathering. "Have I forgotten the French people?" sobbed he, and in answer to the query he care. M.P.'S WHO ARE DOUBLES.

veral Couples in the Dominion Parlis ment Who Bear a Very Strong Resemblance to Each Other.

Though nature never repeats a human face or figure, absolutely line for line, it would be strange indeed if there were not some startling resemblances. The House of Commons contains two hundred and thirteen members, and at least eight pairs of likenesses striking enough to be noted by the most casual observer.

First on the list is the likeness between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Talbot, M.P., who sits for Bellechasse. It cannot be said that they are as like as two peas, for they are not. Seen together they have many points of difference. The Premier is cast in a large mold; Talbot in a small one. The Premier's proportions are heroic; Talbot's are what artists call academic.

Looks Like the King.

In a loyal colony there must be

In a loyal colony there must be somebody of course who looks like His Gracious Majesty King Edward VII. This honor in the House of VII. This honor in the House of Commons goes by general consent to Ross of South Ontario. Ross, M.P., has the same pointed beard sprinkled with grey, the same contour of head, and arrangement of hair, the same cull blue eye chat we associate with pictures of the King. He is a bit taller, but seen in his seat in the House, the resemblance is close enough to arouse lively feelings of homage. Ross, M.P., however, says that people take him often for Joseph Seagram than for King Edward, the reason being, of course, that Mr. Seagram is known to be doing business in this country, while His Majesty's business confines him chiefly to Great Britain. Mr. Ross has become se accustomed to compliments come so accustomed to compliments on his whiskers that he takes them as if they belonged to him. He has also given many anxious enquirers also given many anxious enquirers valuable tips as to what his horses may be expected to do at the spring meeting. Another representative of Royaltyin the House is the Minister of Agriculture. Since the Royal visit last summer it has been generally recognized that Mr. Fisher is a "ringer" for the present Prince of Vales.

Pretty Nearly Dremies. Another case, not of two Dromios, but pretty near it, is the likeness between the Minister of Militia and Harty of Kingston. Dr. Borden is a tall man. With a clean shaven upper lip and chin, and flowing whiskers. Mr. Harty is not so tall, more flor-id, but his arrangement of whiskers is the same, with the exception that his are more of the mutton-chop variety.

McCreary of Selkirk would pass for Dr. Montague before the ex-mem-ber for Haldimand shaved off his ber for Haldimand shaved off his moustache. Mr. McCreary brings to the House the same fluency in debate and the same acquisition of general information that made Dr. Montague a prominent figure. The difference is that the member for Selkirk is "wid the Government, not agin" it."

The likeness between Emmerson of Westmoreland, and the late Clarke.

Westmoreland and the late Clarke Wallace has often been noticed. The ex-Premier of New Brunswick. ever, goes in for soft hats, while the late member for West York largely affected the silk tile. Like Clarke Wallace, Emmerson, M.P., is a dark-avised man, with a thick tangle of heir and a trick mountackingle. hair and a triste moustache.
Wright and Snetsinger.

Wright, who sits for South Ren-frew, is such a good second for Snet-singer, who sat in the last Parliasinger, who sat in the last Parliament for Stormont, that even the attendants of the House were deceived by the likeness. Mr. Wright has the flowing beard that went with the member for Stormont, and to complete the confusion he sits at the same desk that his prototype occupied two years ago. He has been taken, he says, at least a hundred times for Snetsinger of Stormont. He relates with a great deal of gusto the story of a commercial traveler who interviewed him one afternoon at the Windsor in Ottawa as Mr. Snetsinger, and called on him the next afternoon at his office in Renfrew, and addressed him as and addressed asked the puzzled drummer.

"You're wrong," said the member for South Renfrew. 4But you're Wright, aren't you?" asked the puzzled drummer.

"Don't you think I'm the wrong
Mr. Wright? You know I was Snetsinger yesterday."

Then the explanations followed.
Ontarlo people who have seen the Minister of Finance have been pleased to detect a likeness between him and Sir William Ralph Meredith. Mr.
Fielding is a force.

Fielding is, of course, not as tall a man as the Chief Justice, but now that he, is putting on flesh the re-semblance is more marked than ev-

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM AND ADDED TEN POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

Mr. Ed; J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

Shadow Superstitions.
Our proverb, "Devil catch the hind-most," is based on one of the curious shadow legends. According to the fable, the devil had a regular school at Toledo, Spain. Commencement was inaugurated by the graduating class running through a long subterranean hall. The devil hid at a place known only to himself, and if he "caught the hindmost" he eyer after claimed him or her as his special property. Sometimes he only caught the shadow, and the persons thus deprived of their "second self" were supposed to make the best astrologers and magicians.

Nearly all East Indian tribes as well as the Malayans and several African sects believe that if a man walks along the south bank of a river casting his shadow across the water a croco-dile will seize it and thus draw the owner to certain death.

Several writers, Fiske among the rest, say that the Zulus have a superstition similar to that of the old Baby-lonians—viz, that a dead body has no shadow. The Modocs and the Klamaths of Oregon formerly refused to have their pictures taken for fear that the process would take away their shadows. In the Aryan folk tale the "witchdalo," or "infernal Sabbath," was celebrated only by witches' shad-

Hitch Your Wagon to a Star, A student of the horse thus explains where Emerson's epigram, "Hitch your wagon to a star," originated: Long before the war there was a famous trotting stallion of the name of American Star, belonging to one Seely. American Star mares became scattered all through New England and New York, for they were the best roadsters in the country, and every farmer must have one. It soon became well understood that in order not to lose the respect of the community one must drive nothing else. Later it became a subject of ban-ter. If one farmer passed another on the road, he would look over his shoulder and shout, "Why don't you hitch your wagon to a star?" Unquestion-ably Emerson many a time had heard the remark, and in his lecture on "American Civilization" at the Smith-sonian institution in 1862 he rung it in for the first time, advising mankind in general to aim high and "Hitch your wagon to a star," thus converting a common incident into a figurative al-

-Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dyspepsia is no respecter of persons. It attacks rich and, poor alike and gradually though painfully reduces them all to the same stage of misery and despondency.

You can avoid it sometimes by regulating your diet; but only sometimes, for those foods that relieve one stomach only bring additional trouble to others. But you can avoid it always by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest all foods and bring comfort to all. Of course you want proof of this. Here it is. Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacquese de L'Achigan, Quebec, writes:

"I certify to laving suffered two years with Dyspepsia caused by inflammation of the stomach. I took three medicines without any relief. I became discouraged until one day seeing an account of cures performed by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets I bought two boxes of them.

"By the time I had finished taking them I was cured and I have had no Dyspepsia since."

Thousands of others tell the same story. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Dyspepsia and cure it permanently.

ORNITHOLOGY.

Prize Article on Its Pursuit as a Pastime

—May Be Followed at All Times

(by These Who Have Eyes.

Of any pastime or pursuit none, in or any pastime or pursuit none, in my opinion, can be more fascinating than the study of birds. It is a subject that should interest every Canadian, for our insectivorous birds are an important factor in the cultivation of crops, of the successful growing of which the prosperity of the country in some measure dethe country in some measure de-pends. Many persons, otherwise in-telligent enough, appear extremely uninformed concerning the native fauna of the land, as if it were not sufficiently interesting or abundant stinctify a study. Ornithology is a pursuit that may be followed at all times, for by constantly having your eyes about you, you can become gradually acquainted with many spegradually acquainted with many species, and continued observation will extend your knowledge. It is by every-day attention that most can be learned, writes James McFadden of St. Mary's, Ont., in The Globe, though an excursion through fields and woods, especially if the student is supplied with opera class and and woods, especially it the schools is supplied with opera glass and notebook, is very helpful, and is particularly necessary for the studying of certain varieties. But as good a place as any in town or country for noting birds' habits is country for noting birds' habits' is an orchard or garden, and the best time of the day the early morning. Py remaining as quietly as possible in one place, the birds forget their natural fear, and will then approach sufficiently near to allow of their plumage being closely observed. With their description jotted down it is possible to identify them in any good book on ornithology, although it is not always an easy matter. It has been said, indeed, by those who know that, in this study books are not of vital importance. Some of the best living naturalists began without their aid, and worked themselves up by slow but sure degrees. Nevertheless, books are of assistance, and may even be deemed indispensable. description jotted down it is

Best Books on the Subject

Some of the best ones published to aid amateur ornithologists are, to aid amateur ornithologists are, I think, Chapman's "Birds of Bast-ern North America," Cones' "Key to North American Birds," Florence Merriam's "Birds of the Village and Merriam's "Birds of the Village and Garden" and Neltje Blanchan's "Bird Neighbors." But the best volume for the ornithologist of this Province is "Birds of Ontario." written by Mr. McIlwraith of Hamilton, whose daughter, Miss Jean N. McIlw!aith, is noted as a novelist and historian.

To a beginner ornithology may prove a rather difficult study. There are a vast number of birds that in size and color greatly resemble each other, when considerable experience is needed to discern any difference. Some varieties will permit a friendship to be developed at once. Others, again, require a lengthy acquaintance ere they are satisfied that you do not intend them any harm. It is a pastime that will cultivate the highest traits of perseverance and minute observation, and in time you may have the pleasure of adding "a new fact to the world's stock of knowledge."

Plenty of Material. Plenty of Material.

The one who takes up this pastime will find in this country plenty of material to work upon, for we are well supplied with birds. At all seasons of the year a certain number are to be observed. Even in winter time, we have, in addition to the ubiquitous crow and sparrow, the cheewink, tree creeper, chickadee, junco, snowflake, or "snowbird," longspur, hairy and downy woodpecker, two varieties of nuthatches, several kinds of owls, as well as other common and interesting birds. other common and interesting birds. In spring the robin is generally the first migrant to arrive; he may be seen hopping about some frosty morning, cheerfully oblivious to the fact that much wintry weather may intervene ere he can build his nest. Following him closely, the bluebird appears, and after that comes a host of song sparrows, kingbirds, plovers, blackbirds, etc. About the same of song sparrows, kingbirds, plovers, blackbirds, etc. About the same time you may see the plump-looking meadow-lark, his black necklace fringed with yellow, or perhaps the vesper sparrow, red above, light beneath, and easily recognizable by the white tail feathers showing when he flies. Then will come the American goldfinch or "wild canary." and the white-throated and white-crowned sparrows, as well as many other birds, the most distinguished of which is the Baltimore oriole, who arrives in early May, and is perhaps our most beautiful bird. His brilliant dress of orange and black is well contrasted by the green foliage and white blossoms in which he delights to sport, and as you watch him circling about you cannot refrain from thinking that the name bestowed upon him—that of "feathered meteor"—is well deserved.

The Flycatchers.a

The Flycatchers.

The Flycatchers.

When the swarms of warblers, vircos and flycatchers arrive the student will have his spare time fully occupied in classifying them all. Of the first-named family it is known that thirty-one members occur in Ontario, and as experienced observers are frequently confused by this multiplicity the amateur needn't feel discouraged if at first he doesn't succeed in satisfactorily establishing the identity of each individual.

It is no little achievement to be always able to name a bird, itself unseen, merely by its song. One may become extremely expert at this, and thus when a score or more of birds are singing in concert in various The Flycatchers.a

is probably the best authority on birds' songs.

The killing of birds for their identification should never be practised, as it is a cruel and unwise expedient. In studying them one should remember, as a writer has observed, that "A bird in the bush is worth twe in the hand."

The growth of a big business is merely a survival of the fittest.

VISITED FACTORIES

A number of the scholars of th Central school, including second, third and junior fourth classes visited a few of the Maple City factories and saw the men manufacturing products which are shipped all over the world. The Gray & Sons' carriage works, M. Campbell's factory, Chaplin wheel works and Cornhill's brickyard were visited yesterday, and a number of others are being visited to-day. This is a splendid idea and was originated by Principal Plewes, who is setting an excellent example for the other principals of the Province to follow.

SIGN OF TROUBLE

Maggie Willard has laid a charge against her husband, E. J. Willard, the great sign artist. Mr. Willard is the brush expert who painted the sign for the Reform Association that was daubed a year ago. That is, the sign, not the association, was daubed. Mrs Willard alleged that ner nusuamedid assault her by choking her, and that he had ended by stating that if she went to the police he would kill her. Mrs. Willard ran the gauntlet her troubles to the policeman. The case will be tried Monday.

strike this afternoon. There are eight men employed by the city in this capacity and they draw $1.50 per working day of ten hours. It is understood that the men demand $1.50 per working day of nine hours. The city engineer stated that the men had quit work all right but had given him no reason for doing so. He had no intimation as to what they wanted or what their reasons were for quitting. When seen he was waiting for instructions from the Board of Works.

They were looking for a site for a factory that will employ not less than 200 men and perhaps 500. The gentlemen have eighteen places in Ontario to look at and came to Chatham first. Ald, Piggott, chairman of the Industrial committee, got his committee together and as many of the aldermen as possible and representative citizens and showed the delegation around the city. The party was composed of the three Americans, Ald. Edmondson, Ald. McCoig, Mayor McKeough, Hugh Malcolmson, Harry Westman, G. P. Scholfield, Will Hadley and Chas. Austin. The party drove around the city, passing the different factories. The visitors were delighted with Chatham. They represent the largest seeding implement works in the United States. They control four large factories and have a capital of fifteen millions. They are considering establishing a factory in Canada to take advantage of the preferential tariff between England and her colonies. The three Americans looked with great favor on Chatham, both as a place to live in and as a factory site. From here the party went east to inspect the other places they have on their list.

Secretary Weir Says He Some times Gets Them Handed Out. -Passage At Arms.

"I think you were overstepping your bounds in this matter, Mr. Weir," said Chairman Dr. J. L. Bray at the bounds in this matter, Mr. Weir, said Chairman Dr. J. L. Bray at the meeting of the Water Commission Board, last evening, in reference to the matter of a meter of Mr. Wells being taken out. It seems Mr. Wells had had a water meter put in by Watt & Sons and it had not worked right, registering far above the water used. Mr. Wells applied to the Water Commissioners, and a flat rate was decided upon, and Mr. Wells had the meter taken out.

"Mr. Wells had the meter taken out without a permit and I told him he must put it back," replied Mr. Weir. "Brat. you are here to save the public, Mr. Weir," replied Mr. Weir." "Brat. you are here to save the public, Mr. Weir," replied the chairman.

"That's what I'm trying to do to the best of my ability, and if you don't think I'm doing my duty I'll step down. I'm trying to serve the Water Works," said the secretary.

"Yes; but after we had struck a flat rate with Mr. Wells he could do just whatever he liked with his meter," said Mr. Sheldon.

"Well, he has the meter out now, anyway," said the chairman, "so it's all right."

The promise was readily given and faithfully kept, the young man traveling to Thorpe-le-Soken, via Harwich, with her embalmed remains in one big chest and

Had Ancestor Hanged.

Such is the story of the Rosebery's Such is the story of the Rosebery's one family skeleton. It is pathetic rather than grisly. But the exact reverse holds good with regard to the history attached to the specimer belonging to the Earls of Ferrers For their particular skeleton is that of an ancestor who was hanged. The crime, for which he died, was committed by Lawrence Shirley, third Earl Ferrers, the scene of the tragedy being his lordship's private room at Staunton Harold in Leicestershire, then, as now, the principal room at Staunton Harold in Leicestershire, then, as now, the principal seat of the family. The victim was the murderer's own steward. He had been summoned there by the earl to go into certain business matters about which there had been disputes. These disputes were, it would appear, then and there renewed; and in the end the earl, a man of violent temper, ordered his retainer to sign a paper containing a confession of dishonesty. On his refusal, he shot him dead. him dead.

His lordship was in due course brought to trial before his peers in Westminster Hall, and, being found guilty, was sentenced to death. He was hanged by Tyburn, with a stilken rope, for the possession of which the executioner and his assistant fought three rounds while yet the body was dangling.

Grandfather a Prizefighter.

The grandfather of Mr. William Gully, Speaker of the House of Congress was a prize-fighter. There is mons, was a prize-fighter. There is little to be ashamed of in the pos-session of this brand of family skeleton; and as a matter of fact, it is eton; and as a matter of fact, it is pretty generally averred that the right honorable gentleman is rather proud of the fact than otherwise.

For John Gully, the ancestor in question, was, despite his profession, a thoroughly good-hearted, genuine sort of fellow; a staunch friend and generous enemy. He got into the King's Bench Prison for debt when barely twenty-one years of age, through "backing a bill" for a friend, and was got out of it again barely twenty-one years of age, through "backing a bill" for a friend, and was got out of it again by another friend, Henry Peace, the then champion of Emigland, who gave a boxing exhibition in the jail yard for Gully's benefit.

Afterwards, Gully himself entered

Afterwards Gully himself entered the ring, won several battles, saved money, became a professional book-maker, and before he was forty had succeeded in amassing a million ster-ling. He left behind him, in addi-tion to his money, no fewer than twenty-four children, one of whom was, as has already been intimated, the father of the present Speaker.

Hanged for Murder. There is no older or prouder fam-lly in England than that of which Baron Mowbray and Stourton is the present reigning representative. They were a turbulent lot, too, in times past, and so many of them have past, and so many of them have lost their heads for political offences that the fact of one among them— the eighth Baron it was—having been hanged for murder stands out light.

They were hurried off, bound and helpless, to Stourton House, and there beaten to death with bludgeons, Lord Stourton looking on approvingly, and remarking, in answer by one of the actual murderers, that he would see that "they should no more be called to account for it than if they had killed two sheep."

In this he was mistaken, however for both he and they were called.

Afterwards the Lady Henrietta was removed to the family's palarial country seat in Surrey, where she was closely guarded. Nevertheless, she managed to apprise her lover of her whereabouts, and, aided by him, escaped, and rode on horseback to London.

After all this the course of true After all this the course of true love ought, according to all precedents, to have run smoothly. But it did not, Lord Grey, prosecuted by Earl Berkeley before the Lord Chief Justice of England for decoying his daughter away, and threatened with pecuniary and social ruin, wavered, and ended by showing coldness to his lady-love, who had dared and risked all for his sake. Whereupon that young lady vowed that never again would she trust any man; and, what is more, she kept her word, dying unmarried some thirty years later.

what takes place in the park doubtless happens in woods and forests all over the globe. Frequently, gardening experts 'say, young nut trees are found peeping out of the ground in early spring too far from any parent tree to account for wind having borne the heavy kernel on its wings. Similarly, exterminate the squirrels in any section of woods and the tree planting practically ceases. It is a well-known fact that seeds of plants frequently become lodged in the furs of wild animals only to be shaken off and to take root at some point far distant. But the planter-squirrel, I think, I discovered myself.

HAROLD BEGBIE HAS A CHAT WITH SIR OLIVER LODGE.

Achievements of Psychical Research—The Mighty Atom-The Election and How It Is Made Real to the Ordinary Man -The Great Misunderstoed-The In visible Is Passing to Modern Science.

I found myself at dinner the other night seated next to the man who first set Europe thinking of wireless telegraphy. Oliyer Lodge is not merely a likeness, but he is the express image of Lord Salisbury twenty years ago; a huge, massive creature, with mountainous head, quiet, cartious and matchill was a contracted to the contracted of ture, with mountainous head, quiet, cautious, and watchful eyes under a great dome of brow; the same stoop of the head, as though under its own great weight, and the same curious effect of the hair growing outward from above the sloping heck and high, broad shoulders. If Sir Oliver cared to flour his iron-gray beard and to brush his hat the wrong way, I am convinced he might walk into I am convinced he might walk into the House of Lords and tell the peers that the British Constitution is not odapted for business purposes.

Our talk began about "electrons," those invisible charges of electricity which are said to be the ultimate subdivision of the atom—the last thing in matter, I asked for some kindergarten figure that would make the electron real to me.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure The Mighty Atom. The Professor stroked his beard.

"Imagine," said he, speaking with incisiveness, as becomes the head of Birmingham's University, "a church 200 feet long, 80 feet wide, and 50 feet high, and scattered throughout the interior of this a thousand electric charges each the size of is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, re-quires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken interntric charges, each the size of the ordinary full-stop of a newspaper. That is how electrons feel inside the atom!"

"Room enough for each to expand into quite a handsome semi-colon," I

THE HILL OF TARA

For 300 Years the Centre and Meart of

Mr. Bryce. M.P., spoke recently before members of the Irish Literary Society on "The Hill of Tara," Tara, he said, for three hundred years had remained the centre and heart of the Irish monarchy, or what was understood as a monarchy. It was the scene of the triennial assemblies, like those at Delphi, where the poets sang, the lawyers argued, and the harpists harped, and also, as the poets had described, where everyone drank all the week (Laugh'er.) Tara was about twenty-two miles northwest of Dublin, in ty-two miles northwest of Dublin, in County Meath. The top of the hill was nearly 500 feet above sea level, and is raised about 200 feet above and is raised about 200 feet above the surrounding country. Although there were places of interest to antiquarians, such as Stonehenge, Avebury, Penrith, and Orkney, which had a history later than that of Taea, there were no data concerning them. They knew more about Tara, for events of the second century were clearly indicated. Tara remained the centre of Irish Government down to 560 A.D. It was recorded that the centre of Irish Government down to 560 A.D. It was recorded that St. Patrick visited there in 433 A.D., and there succeeded in allenating the Gallic people from their old belief. After that the place was cursed by the priests, and finally abandoned. The Kings of Ireland still, however, retained the name of Tara however, retained the name of Tara in their official designation. The hill was the capital of a kingdem which should make people realize the manysided life of a primitive people, the home of the ecclesiastic, the legal, the political and festive life of a na-tion. He could not understand how it was an ignorant, spiteful, private owner should be allowed to spoil and destroy that which ought to be-long in reason and equity to the whole people.

The management of such farm com-panies will of course be divided among the principal owners in such way that the talents and abilities of way that the talents and abilities of each shall be utilized to the best advantage. There is a chance here for the co-operative idea to be worked out to the profit of all concerned. And in many cases also this idea can be utilized without interfering at all with the independence of each farm family. This topic is one of big interest, and we would like tese its pros and cons discussed. Our friends who know of instances of this kind, whether successful or unsuccessful, are requested to write us about the same. Certainly there are important advantages to be gained by consolidation of farms in certain cases, but no general rules can be applied to the proposition—Orange Judd Farmer.

MARRIED IN HOSPITAL

Peterborough, June 4.-The marriage took place in Peterborough yesterday afternoon of Miss Helen Mac gregor Rogers, daughter of Lieut .-Col. H. C. Rogers, Postmaster of Peterborough, to Mr. Harold Bruce Robertson, barrister, of Victoria, B. C., son of the late Alexander R. Robertson, Justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. The wedding ceremony was nerformed at St. Joseph's Hospital, where the groom is confined in the early stages of diphtheria. The officiating clergyman was Rev. John C. Davidson, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, and the nuptial knot was tied in the presence of only a few of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. Robertson, who arrived in Beterborough on saturday night from British Columbia, where he is practicing law, complained of having a slight some throat on Sunday. The same evening two physicians decided that the patient's condition showed diphtheric symptoms, and he was immediately removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. A large church wedding had been arranged for to take place to-day, but all arrangements in that regard were cancelled, and the ceremony was performed quietly at the hospital at the appointed hour. The bride is one of Peterborough's most charming girls, and a member of one of the first families of the town. The groom's condition is not considered serious, as the attending physician states that it is only a mild attack of diphtheria. ceremony was performed at St. Josuncorroborated statements in material points, and where these statements conflict with those of independent or disinterested witnesses the latter should be preferred.

Whatever comment may be made upon the expression attributed to the Provincial Secretary by Mr. Hammond, other resulted (pages 2 105), it seems when recalled (wage 3,105), it seems to the commissioners unwarrantable to assign to it such exaggerated import as to overshadow the whole body of substantial evidence in favor of the Miss-ister and against the member. The testimony of Hammond was on a comparatively minor branch of the inquiry, that is, relative to The Globe interview, which, apart from the payment of money as to its price, does not doom largely in the investigation, and the statements of Hammond are not in conflict with those of the Provincial Secretary, save as regards some variation in details, which happen very commonly in evidence of different speakers.

It was a proper thing to take steps to advertise publicly the change in the political attitude of Mr. Gamey, and had greater prescience been vouchsafed, the publicity would likely have been more advantageous if made earlier. Mr. Sheldon Amos, writing of cases in which a member leaves his party on account of independent convictions, says: "As a matter of fact, very little encouragement is shown at present to defections of this sort, and when they occur the member who is guilty of them is invariably put to the utmost pains to defend his action, and, in the opusion of his own party, never does sucis invariably put to the utmost pains to defend his action, and, in the opiation of his own party, never does succeed in freeing limself from the imputation of disloyalty, not to say treachery. Nevertheless, if the grounds on which an individual departure from the ranks of party may be justified were clearly ascertained and publicly announced, it is probable that not only would the institution of party government be rid of much of the moral suspicion with which it is in some quarters regarded, but its true nature and object would be better appreciated throughout the country." (Pages 71 and 72, from "Fifty Years of the English Constitution, 880.")

Looked at in the large, Mr. Gamey's version is, that his purchase originated with Frank Sulliyau and the Provincial Secretary: that he was taken to the Minister's office, whom he did not know; that the letter he was to sign was all ready, and put before him for signature, and the information volunteered by the Minister that the protest would be withdrawn, all the patronage given to him, and unstated valuable consideration paid when he signed, but as the money was not ready, the bargain and sale was not then consummated.

He makes no mention in his statement to the House of how he came into possession of $1,200, part of the other moiety, said to be received by Sullivan, and of which he says $900 was paid into the Crossin books, the two pages containing entries for the rock and 17th September disappear, not by the hands of Mr. Crossin—and Mr. Gamey is the only other who had access to them;

Then follows the procuring of the deposit slip from the bank by Mr. Gamey, and its disappearance;

Then the explanation given to the reporters at Buffalo, with a view to publication, that this $900 was collected during the summer in Manitonlin Island;

Island;
And the final statement under oath, that it was part of a loan of $1,200 from Frank Sullivan.

The evidence on the other side precludes the conclusion that this $3,000 was received by Mr. Gamey from the Provincial Secretary on or about the 11th September, and if that be so its true source is not yet disclosed.

And, again, as to the $5,00 said to be received on the 29th January. Though Mr. McGregor comes expressly to assist Mr. Gamey at this stage of the enterprise, and does assist in correcting The Globe interview, and though he and Mr. McGregor meet that same night and discuss this matter, yet the money is not exhibited or mentioned. It is not shown to anyone, but carried about continuously in Mr. Gamey was finally preparing for making his statement, and planning to procure all possible corroboration from Sullivan, in the hearing of three hidden witnesses, and though the $500 wits then actually in his pocket (as he $450), he does not make the singhtest reference or allusion to it at the Crossin lactory on the night before the House met.

From these omissions the inference is most persuasive that no bribe or money was received from the Provincial Secretary on the 29th January, but that the money was alterwards acquired, and if that be so, then the real source of this money is not yet disclosed.

This much more may be said about "where the money came from," that source of this money is not yet disclosed.

This much more may be said about "where the money came from," that Mr. Gamey declined to make any statement under oath to the commissioners about the "deposit slips and those things" (pages 2,082 and 2,983), ostensibly on the ground that criminal action was being contemplated in that regard. But he said further that he "cannot understand how it is relevant to his case."

Without pressing against him the maxim "omnia presumuntur contraspoliatorem," and though the despoiling was done "pendente lite et sedente curia," it is very reasonable to believe that if the missing pages of the Orossin book could be seen they would be discovered the genesis of the $000 and of the $1,500, both coming, as Mr. Gamey now swears, from one and the Gamey now swears, from one and the same source.

His explanation of the particular source is not so worthy of credence as if the books had been left immutilated. It is difficult to trame any consistent account of Mr. Gamey's career as member, for it was throughout inconsistent, as he played a double part; but this much appears in the evidence. His politics was Manitoulin, with Gamey as member, on the side of any Government in power, to the end that he might serve his constituency, and also secure shares in the various deals supposed possible by not over-acrupulous men.

First, was formed the Jones-Gamey

First, was formed the Jones-Gamey combination, with a view of acquiring "franchises." But, as Mr. Gamey's friend, Frank Sullivan, by his braggart style and pretended access to the Minister (page 1,325), fostered the belief that he had more influence, the uncle was superseded, and the Sullivan-Gamey combination began. As the first move, support was assured to the Ross Government by the letter of the roth September, and on the same day Mr. Gamey takes part in the Conservative caucus at Toronto. Then rumors got abroad of his defection from party lines, and he notifies his manner of support by the amended fetter of 27th October, so that, while acting as occasion required in the interests of the Conservatives, he engages to support agricultations of that, while acting as occasion required in the interests of the Conservatives, he engages, to support the Government when the House meets if Mr. Ross has a reasonable majority. Accordingly, in January, 1903, he takes part in the North Perth campaign for the Conservatives, but is embittered because he was belittled by the action of the Conservative leaders. (Pages 2,006, 2,299, 2,300 and 2,302.) He repairs to the Provincial Secretary, and begins discussing appointments, but being confronted with his conduct in North Perth he declares his willingness to advertise publicly his real and true position. This was after the Government majority had increased to five. The Globe interview is published at the end of January, wherein his political affiliation is still further reduced below the standard of support promised, in the letter of the 27th October, and only extends to support "in all matters he is satisfied with."

Nevertheless, the publication brings trouble around his bead from the Constructions.

Nevertheless, the publication brings trouble around his head from the Conservatives, and his resignation begins to be talked of. (See letter 10th February, 1903, exhibits, 163, and account of the meeting at Gore Bay, by Mr. Gamey, on the 17th February, exhibits, 107.)

But Mr. Gamey is just as unwilling to resign at this gries as he was after the resign at this crisis as he was after the protest. Dr. Struthers then advised him, as friend, knowing more of the man and his candidature than a stranman and his candidature than a strangers, to resign and run as an independent, but the answer, then and always, was the "expense," and the risks and chances involved in another contest. Yet, the member is growing in disfavor with both parties; he is getting to be regarded as a double-minded man, with all that suggests. He surveys the situation. The glowing prospects pictured by. Frank Sullivan have failed to become facts. The prestige of directing Governmental patronage appears to be meagre and illusive. He learns that the Government, anticipating his resignation, are planning to put Mr. McMillan, oScialist candidate, in the field. And these, it may be, comes the patriotic plan of deliverance, by letting is leak out that money was at the bottom of mate that may be made of this report with its appendices of exhibits and evidence.

Mr. Gamey had no personal intercourse with any member of the Ministry except the Provincial Secretary. With two or three of the others he had some official correspondence, but with the rest not even that.

With regard to the added charge of conspiracy the commissioners are of the others is no evidence whatever to sustain it, as against the members of the Government and the other persons charged. And, according to the methods of an ordinary trial, they would be discharged from the said acquisations by the presiding judicial officer.

This being so the matter of, the original charge alone remains, and as to the Provincial Secretary there is the testimony that has been commented upon.

In our opinion the corrupt charges stand disproved by a great body of evidence which appears to be more accurate and credible than that adduced in support thereof.

The $1,200 mentioned hereinbefore has not been paid into the hands of the commissioners have impounded two sums of money $500 in cash produced by Mr. Gamey The commissioners have impounded two sums of money $500 in cash produced by Mr. Gamey in the House, and $5.500 represented by his marked cheque of the 3rd of April, 1003. These sums have been lodged in the hands of the accountant of the Supreme Court, and the commissioners advise that the amounts be carried into a separate account to be paid out upon the joint order of the Chancellor of Ontario and the Chief Justice of the King's Bench for the time being, upon its being made satisfactorily to appear that any claimant has legitimate title thereto.

This inquiry occupied twenty-seven days of hearing in open and public that any claimant has legitimate title thereto.

This inquiry occupied twenty-seven days of hearing in open and public session, during which 1ro witnesses were examined giving 3,512 pages of evidence, some 92 exhibits filed, giving 206 pages more, as embraced in a volume of exhibits and 8 volumes of evidence. The arguments of counsel appear in another volume, numbered 9.

All of which is respectfully submitted to your Honor.
