CENTRAL OIL AND GAS CO.

Mr. Coste Says It Is In No Way Connected With Standard Oil Co.

ARE AFTER FRANCHISE

Mr. Eugene Coste, of the Central Oil and Gas Co., told a Planet reporter in conversation on the street last night, that if his company are fortunate enough to have their tender for supplying the city with natural gas accepted by the City Council, that they would have the gas brought up to the city and use the snow flutes this winter.

"We are not at all associated with the Standard Oil people," said Mr. Coste. "The Central Oil and Gas Co. is backed up by purely Canadian capital. In proof of this, I will name you our shareholders if you wish to publish them. They are the following gentlemen of Toronto, who are all well known in the financial world: Wm. McKenzie, D. D. Mann, D. B. Hanna, Z. A. Lash, K. C. By, E. Walker, Frederick Nicholas, E. R. Wood, myself and brother. All of these gentlemen are well-known. Some of them are bank managers, others are interested in railways, and all are men whose financial standing goes unquestioned. We have seven and one-half millions of feet of gas already, with a rock pressure of 615 pounds. We can supply this seven and one-half millions of feet of gas per diem, and we expect to have more. We will make it a point to supply this gas to the citizens of Chatham at the very lowest possible cost, and we hope that the Council will act at once in the matter, because if Chatham does not accept our offer soon we will have to make application elsewhere.

"Our plant in this city will cost not less than $300,000, and the metres alone will cost in the neighborhood of $23,000, not to speak of the expenditure which will have to be made in the field."

Mr. Coste has been in the oil and gas business for seventeen years and he is an old and experienced man in the business.

LIGHTS PUT IN

Manager Brisco Has Installed Emergency Lamps in Opera House

"I hear that Ald. Potter has been complaining about the lighting in the Opera House," said Manager Brisco yesterday. "I might say that I had installed emergency lanterns some time ago, but they were not in working order on the night in question. As far as the safety of the Brisco Opera House is concerned, I am of the firm belief that if my Opera House were placed in the city of Chicago it would be found to comply with all the strict fire regulations of that city. I have had exits put in and lights placed over every one of them, and I have a staircase and hose ready so that the firemen could extinguish a fire on a moment's notice should one occur. Living up to all these regulations has been quite a bill of expense, and when the Alderman talks about having my house closed, I don't think he is aware of how well the regulations are being lived up to. The Brisco Opera House has been made ready for any emergency in case of fire, and I think we ought to get credit for the amount of trouble we have gone to make it so."

Fire Chief Pritchard said this morning that regulations at the Opera House had been well complied with. The only fault which could be found was that with regard to the emergency lights not being lit on the evening when the Red Feather played here. This, the Chief said, would be strictly lived up to from now on.

Two new emergency lights, presumably for use in the corridors, were purchased by Manager Brisco this morning, and they will be put in use at the Opera House this evening. These are for use should the electric lights go out.

PASSED AWAY

Miss Jane G. V. Noel, a much respected resident, passed away this morning after a short illness. The deceased for some time past had been living in apartments in the Victoria Block.

The funeral, which is to be private, takes place to-morrow to Maple Leaf Cemetery.

On page three of to-day's issue will be found—outside of important telegraph news—a column of household hints which should interest every woman in Chatham. It is the intention to make this column a daily feature of The Planet. The latest seasonal recipes will be given, and other valuable pointers on the management of the home will be found in this department from day to day. At present the fruit season is full swing, and the subject for to-day's column will be noticed, "Pears and How to Cook Them."

GAS FRANCHISE WILL BE GRANTED MONDAY NIGHT

This is the decision of the City Council—Ald. Potter Objects to the Haste and Would Like to Know More Concerning the Different Propositions.

The gas franchise question is to be settled at the regular meeting of the City Council next Monday night. Such was the decision arrived at by the aldermen at a seven-minute special meeting, held to consider the question last night. Ald. Potter was the only member who seemed desirous of having any discussion on the matter. The others merely stated their votes on the matter, and the Mayor seemed to be of the opinion that the matter in hand should be dealt with as quickly as possible.

Those present at the meeting were—Mayor W. S. Marshall, and Ald. Austin, Scullard, Stone, Benson, Edmondson, Radley, Potter and Thompson. The Mayor opened the meeting by explaining the meeting before the Board. He said that at a meeting of the Gas committee, held during the afternoon, it was decided that the Council should not possibly deal with the question at once, on account of the fact that some of the tenders were in before others, and in this way some of the companies had the advantage of knowing what the others were tendering at before they put in their figures. Ald. Scullard then read the resolution which was drawn up by the committee at their meeting in the afternoon. It was to the effect that five tenders applying for the privilege of piping the city with natural gas had been received, but as none of the tenders had been in compliance with the specifications, it had been moved by Ald. Benson, seconded by Ald. Edmondson, that these tenders be opened to be finally dealt with at next Monday's regular session of the City Council.

Ald. Scullard, as chairman of the committee, moved that the resolution be adopted by the Council, and the motion carried on the following vote: Yeas—Austin, Scullard, Stone, Benson, Edmondson and Radley. Nays—Potter.

Ald. Potter seemed to think that next Monday was too soon to finally deal with so important a matter, which the Council knew so little about. I, for one, he said, want a little more information on the subject in hand before I cast my vote for or against. I am not a member of the Gas committee, and perhaps that is the reason why I am not fully informed on the question, but at the same time I do not care to pass final judgment on so all-important a question till I know whether we are making a bargain possible under the circumstances. The consideration of the franchises has been in good hands, but I see by the resolution that the tenders must be in and finally dealt with next Monday evening. What is the reason of all this haste? Why are we not giving a week's time for the various companies to get their tenders ready, and I don't think it would be at all advisable under the existing circumstances. We will not be in a position to vote intelligently on the matter by that time, as we have not a knowledge of the field from which the gas is to be brought or how much should be charged by the companies for supplying gas to the citizens. Would it be fair for us to take such hasty action? We should make the best bargain we can for the city, and if there are other companies who would be likely to tender, I think that they should be given a chance. If we accept any one tender next Monday night, it means that the matter is settled for all time, as every alderman at the Board will agree with me that there will only be one tender accepted.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE

An important change has been made in the specifications for gas franchises. This is to the effect that each company tendering must state what special rate they will give the city for supplying gas to Harrison Hall, the three city schools, the College Institute, the Free Library, the market building, the fire hall, the market hall and the police court. The companies are now also asked to put up $10,000 bonds. This $10,000 registration will have the effect of freezing out the smaller companies.

WOODS IS STILL GAME

Says He Will Spar With Parties Named For Any Amount Of Money

ANSWERS KID MITCHELL

In answer to the "Kid" Mitchell interview, published in The Planet, relative to the prize fight that did not come off, Mr. Woods, one of the prospective contestants, contributes the following letter:

To the Editor of The Planet: Dear Sir,—In reply to the gentleman giving his name as "Kid" Mitchell, of Detroit, in your paper of yesterday, I wish to say that the "Kid," as he calls himself, had nothing whatever to do with the match, which was made by Wm. Bates, the East End Cigar man. He put up of the $140, the balance was put up by Bates' friends; while I put up my own. I offered to pay Mr. Bates' and his man's expenses to a point in Michigan; but they said they had interviewed the police and were told not to, and they must have back their money.

Mr. Vanfalkenberg $10 if he would put the gloves on with me, but he still showed the white feather.

In conclusion, I will say that I will spar Mr. Bates' man for anywhere from $100 to $1,000, and bet him on the side another $1,000, at any outside point he will say. Furthermore, I will bet I can beat his man in any other sport he can name. Thanking you for your space, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,

C. WOODS.

WAS DELIGHTED

My son, said the strict mother, at the end of a moral lecture, "I want you to be exceedingly careful about your conduct. Never, under any circumstances, do anything which you would be ashamed to have the whole world see you doing." The small boy turned a hand-spring with a whoop of delight. "What in the world is the matter with you? Are you crazy? I demanded the mother.

No'm, was the answer. I'm jee so glad that you don't 'apee me to take no baths never any more! — St. Louis Republic.

HOW TO RUN A PAPER

Ald. Austin Joins the Ranks of the Multitude of "Free Advice" Artists

MUST SAY NICE THINGS

Ald. Charles Austin read something in last night's Planet which did not please him, and he took the trouble to tell a reporter so at the conclusion of the Council meeting last night. In passing it might be remarked that Ald. Austin is a gentleman who reads the papers closely and keeps himself in touch with all that is going on in his city, and all that is of interest to it outside.

Ald. Austin did not like the article about the gas franchise business which he said insinuated that some of the Council must be grafters. He thought that such things should not be published, as he claims that they hurt the city. He thinks that the papers should only tell the people about the beautiful things going on around and about us, and that the muck-rake should be hung up and forgotten. He said that anyone reading the article in last night's Planet would come to the conclusion that some members of the Council were getting "something out of it" by hustling the gas franchises through. "Tell the people about the bright things you see," he advised the reporter. "Don't be always raking up scandal. It gets around to outside places and it only injures the city in the long run."

Mayor Marshall, who was sitting nearby at the time, apparently doesn't read The Planet as carefully as Ald. Austin. He gave out the impression that he had not read the article in The Planet at all, but nevertheless he seemed quite interested when the topic was brought up. He wanted to know from Ald. Austin what The Planet had said about any of the Council.

"Why," said Ald. Austin, "they tried to make out that we were going to rush these gas franchises through for some purpose. The article insinuated that one member of the Council is rushing the matter through, and that the Standard Oil people who are backing up one of the concerns had agreed to furnish this member with gas for his premises free of charge. There is only one member of the Council that the article could hint at," and Ald. Austin looked at Mayor Marshall.

"I am the one who wanted the matter dealt with as quickly as possible," remarked Mayor Marshall, and he said something about not caring what the papers said, anyway.

From Ald. Austin's remarks, it is apparent that he wished the papers to publish only that and of news that would please everybody, and wouldn't seem nasty to anyone. Papers according to the Austin theory should only contain nice things about everybody.

As a matter of fact The Planet did not try to make out anything. They published the fact of the rumor going around the streets. The members of the Council should know what is common gossip.

KILLEE IN TRAIN COLLISION

Minneapolis, Sept. 25.—Six persons are dead and a score or more injured in a rear-end collision on the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad about noon yesterday at New Prague, Minn. The southbound passenger train leaving Minneapolis at 9.35 a. m. crashed into a freight train, which was on a siding, splintering the first three cars on the former and derailing the entire train. Both engine crews were killed.

THE PENINSULAR FAIR.

We hope it isn't necessary to use any strong arguments to bring out the citizens of Durham and the residents of the surrounding townships to witness the South Grey Fair, the best of everything brought in from the country," was the comment of a Durham newspaper recently, and the same applies to Chatham and the West Kent Agricultural Exhibition. The directors are anxious for success financially as well as in the character of the exhibits. The city is anxious to see a large crowd out, not because the business men expect a record-breaking day for business, but because it shows interest and activity in agricultural pursuits which, after all we may say, do and think, is the mainspring which moves the wheels of progress and the most independent pursuit in which any man can engage.

We believe we are safe in thinking that farmers, as a rule, do not sufficiently appreciate the high and lofty position in which they are engaged as tillers of the soil. If any man is in a position to hold up an independent head it is an honest farmer. The farmers have advantage of us all, but the different lines and callings of life are so co-existent and interdependent that no one class can call himself absolutely independent of the other. September 26th and 27th are the farmers' days in Chatham, and we hope to see them out in large numbers.

SCHOOL DISCIPLINE.

A Toronto school teacher was hauled before Police Magistrate Denison on the charge of assaulting a pupil. The evidence showed that the lad had refused to obey him and had also refused to hold out his hand for a strapping. In summing up the case the magistrate said:

"I think he got just what he deserved. The trouble is that he thinks his parents will encourage him in his rebellion against the teacher's authority. The case will be dismissed."

"There is altogether too much hanky panky nonsense with reference to reasonable punishment of children. The kid never lived yet for whom a spanking once in a while wasn't beneficial."—Brantford Courier.

"The flogging of children in school is repellant to modern ideas," adds the MMail and Empire, "but the judicial and judicious insistence upon discipline and the levying of penalties for breaches of the little laws of the juvenile world are necessary. Parents ought in these matters to be the assistants rather than the police court prosecutors of the teachers. A word of sage advice from home sources will make school life a period in which the child imbibes respect for authority and reverence for law—and this, after all, is the beginning of that branch of worldly wisdom which helps to keep men and women in the right path."

All of which is undoubtedly true in reference to the case in question, but the fact remains the same that more can be accomplished through kindness than harshness. The day for the school strap is past. It has done its duty in the days gone by and it is time that more modern, and less barbarous methods were used in maintaining school discipline. The system of hammering in education may have worked well in the early ages, but the men and women who have undergone this course of study are not anxious to have their children go through the same experience.

To put an end to graft seems to be the chief desire of the East Elgin electors, says the Mail and Empire. And, truth to tell, these citizens could not render a better service to the country than to declare their opposition to the middleman and the "take-off." A good stiff pronouncement against public dishonesty would wake up the Ottawa politicians, and perhaps save us from further losses.

That which suffers on faith of ten suffers on critical analysis.

WHAT DO WE LACK?

When Shakespeare wrote his plays and things
He had no rhyming dictionary,
And no thesaurus lent him wings
By helping him his words to vary;

No ready reference books he had,
All nicely filled with apt quotations—
I grant his work is not so bad
Considering those limitations.

When William Shakespeare wrote his verse
His gray goose quill was apt to linger,
He had no fountain pen—and worse,
No type machine he had to finger.
These things had been a precious boon

To him, had he but known about them.
But William lived a while too soon,
Alas, he had to do without them!

To-day we've every kind of aid
To make the art of writing easy;
We've books of every kind and grade
To help to make our fancy breezy.
On press and verse, both night and day,
The type machines go clicking,

Yet Shakespeare beats us still, they say,
I wonder what the deuce is lacking?

The Bartered Bridegroom.

There are held here many "confidential weddings," as they are called when the ceremony is kept unusually quiet. But sometimes they are too confidential to please the relatives of the parties. The coercion of prospective brides under such circumstances is a proceeding well authenticated in fact and fiction. A kidnapped bridegroom, however, is unusual, though he happened at St. George's not long ago. He was a gentleman of position and he wished to marry a lady who had nursed him through an illness. There was no cause or just impediment save social rank. The gentleman was determined, and the lady seconded his plans admirably. But the day and the details leaked out, and before the time fixed the bridegroom's male relatives deployed strategically through Maddox street and surrounded the church. He drove up in a hansom cab. With his eyes fixed on the expectant bride, he prepared to alight. An athletic uncle and a brother sprang forward, thrust him back, with a "Glad to meet you, old fellow" manner that deceived the cabman, who obeyed the quick direction he heard and drove the three away. The lady, with tears in her eyes, went into the vestry. "There will be no wedding," she said. "They've run away with him." And that was the last St. George's heard of them.

Forests' Unnatural Death.

The life of nearly all forests is cut short by fire or by the hand of the lumberman. When a spruce forest is entirely destroyed by fire, young spruces do not at once spring up and cover the burned area. The seed bearing cones have been burned, and the spores and seeds of other plants which are readily carried by the wind find their way in first. The task of preparing for the forest is begun again, but this time it is to be a shorter one. The first year after the fire mosses and often tiny flowering plants appear. These are replaced by the fireweed and other flowers whose seeds are provided with hairs so that they reach such places quickly. These are soon joined by raspberries, roses and other bushes. Among these the young seedlings of aspens appear in a very few years. The latter grow rapidly and in a score of years form a low sunny forest. An aspen forest makes a brilliant contrast with the dark green forests of spruce.—St. Nicholas.

Origin of Ascot Races.

When did Ascot races begin? They are mentioned in the first "Racing Calendar," published in 1727, and the usual statement is that they were founded by the Duke of Cumberland, uncle of George III. But an entry in the accounts of the master of the horse in 1712 suggests that they were founded by Queen Anne on Aug. 6, 1711. The truth, no doubt, is that Ascot races, like many other august institutions, gradually developed from a germ, so that it is difficult to say when they really began. At any rate, they were quite the sort of thing that enthusiast of the turf, Queen Anne, would have founded. She was a thorough Stuart in this passion. It was her great-grandfather, James I., who encouraged, if he did not establish, horse racing in Scotland and popularized it in England.—London Chronicle.

A LASTING REMEMBRANCE

How soon we are forgotten,
Our memory put aside,
Although we have been mighty
And much puffed up with pride!
A gentleman from nowhere
Steps in our place to fill.
How soon we are forgotten—
Unless we owe a bill!

We go out west or somewhere
To grow up with the place,
And few will mourn our going,
And few will miss our face.
But an account unsettled
As a reminder stays:
The owner will recall us
Once every thirty days.

The ones that we have favored,
The ones that we have fed,
The fellows we have boosted,
Will count us with the dead
Or, if we still are living,
They languidly may guess.
The ones with money coming
Hang on to our address.

How soon we are forgotten
And on the pile of the dead,
Our name no longer mentioned,
Our memory effaced;
Recalled at times by no one
Our prowess and our skill,
How soon we are forgotten
Unless we owe a bill.

August.

It's the time of merry crickets
Piping up their sprightly song
In the fields beyond the thickets
When the golden days are long;
Time of tempting harvest apples
Growing in a country lane
Where the summer sunshine dapples
Fields of erstwhile golden grain.
August, matron of the seasons,
Round and ample, full of breast,
Gives her romping children reasons
For repose and dreamful rest;
August nights are nights of vision,
August days are days of ease,
Where the soul in fields Elysian
Wanders under lotus trees.

Perfect all of them; expressing style and refinement to the last fold. We're pardonably proud of this new skirt aggregation. Every one of them designed, cut and tailored by expert workpeople in our immense factory. Made from carefully selected materials of the latest weaves with an eye to what would be most popular and fashionable. An Arab Fishing Yarn.

A fishing yarn from Algiers: "Some Arabs were fishing from a boat with lines off the coast when a dolphin seventeen feet long, eleven feet in circumference and weighing four tons swallowed one of the baited hooks and dashed off at a tremendous speed. The fishermen paid out as much line as possible and then made it fast. This brought the dolphin up sharply, but the strain snapped the line. The monster then attacked the boat and capsize it, flinging the fishermen into the water. Other Arabs shouted till the dolphin was clear of the men and then killed it with rifles."

Oronhyatekha Says Order Were Disobeyed By Foster

S. C. R. ENDS HIS STORY

Toronto, Sept. 25.—When the Insurance Commission opened yesterday, with Dr. Oronhyatekha in the witness box, Mr. Shepley took up the asset of $20,000 held by the I. O. F. under the head of provincial. He claimed that this should be held by the Union Trust, but witness could give no further information than he had already given as the matter had been turned over by him to Messrs. Laidlaw and McGillivray. Questioned on the purchase of certain C. P. R. subsidy lands in connection with the Great West Land Co., he knew that the I. O. F. had loaned the company money, but that he had received no personal profit out of the transaction whatever. The interested parties were Messrs. Foster, Wilson and McGillivray. One hundred shares of Great West Land Co. in his name he had received to the order, but by mistake it had gotten into the hands of the syndicate. He knew nothing of another deal concerning 237 1-2 shares. About $58,000 of Union Trust funds were put up for the syndicate.

"It seems a pity that you were not looking after the Union Trust Co.," observed Mr. Shepley.

"If I had been," said the S. C. R., "some things which were done might not have been done."

"Then you would not have approved of the handing over of corporation funds for private speculation?"

"No, I don't think I would."

"What other transaction had you in mind," asked Mr. Shepley, "when you said that some would not have gone through if you had been in direct charge of the Union Trust?"

"I don't see any objection to saying this: The directors had given certain orders not to do certain things, and I understood Mr. Foster had done them, in disobedience of orders."

"You have in mind the particular matter or matters as to which there was a breach of the Union Trust?"

"Yes. It was buying stock which was non-dividend-bearing. I had very decided opinions in the matter, and had had orders given by the directors not to buy non-dividend-bearing stocks, and I understood that Mr. Foster did buy. I don't like it."

"What stocks have you in mind?"

"Some railway stock. I don't know what. The reason I was hesitating was that Mr. Foster in a sense did perfectly right in buying them."

The Supreme Chief Ranger's examination was concluded, and Hon. E. G. Stevenson of Detroit, supreme councillor, and the man who handles the legal business of the I. O. F. in the United States was called to the stand. Matters connected with the Union Trust were discussed.

"It was stated," said Mr. Stevenson, "that there was a proposition, involving Quebec timber. Three or four men were to take over 49 per cent. of the interest in the Union Trust to advance the money on their covenants, and we four, Foster, McGillivray, Wilson and myself were to borrow the 51 per cent. also from the Union Trust. I said that I had no such funds, and I demurred at borrowing from the Trust company, on the ground that we were trustees. Then the proposition dropped."

Mr. Shepley went on to ask what the witness had to do with the second transfer. He explained, in reply, that when Dr. Oronhyatekha departed for India, in October last year, the expectation was to have lands turned over to the Settlers' Land Co. The Montague lands were part of the 123,000 acres which finally found their way into the Northwest Land Co. After the doctor's departure, there was considerable agitation against subsidiary companies. Witness had reported that the Foresters might be laying themselves open to suspicion. A syndicate was formed, consisting of Messrs. (Dr.) Montague, Kitchen, Jackson, Gault, Bizar and John Montague. They were to purchase the lands at $5.75 an acre, and to bear all the expense, giving their notes for $10,000. They went on, and became the Settlers' Land Co. The Union Trust subscriptions were cancelled, and they became subscribers to $100,000, provided by the trust lending them $100,000 on their note, secured by their stock.

The final result was a net profit of $118,000 for the Union Trust.

Too Many Eggs.

The original intention of the Northwest purchases was to assist members of the order to get a fair start there, with a chance to finally buy. "That," said the witness, "had to be abandoned when we took the back track."

"When you awoke to your land policy in the Northwest, what were your interests there?"

"Four hundred thousand acres, ultimately involving two million dollars."

"How did that strike you as the policy of a trust company?"

"I thought it was too many eggs in one basket."

The witness was asked about the Northwest Land Co. of which he was aware first in 1904. He told of an intricate deal, with which objection was finally taken, as he felt that money advanced by the Union Trust was not sufficiently secured. In the fall of 1905 stock taken by the Union Trust was cancelled, and retired, and a mortgage made covering advances made, and those subsequently required, thus giving the trust a first claim.

Mr. Stevenson gave further evidence. "Pope and Fowler," he said, "had a contract right to purchase 200,000 acres in the west at $3.50 per acre. They turned that over to a syndicate on a $4.50 basis."

"The syndicate being Foster, McGillivray, and Wilson?"

"Yes."

Increase in Values.

"This syndicate, in turning the proerty over to the Great West added another fifty cents on the acre. For their $200,000 profit Pope and Fowler, or whoever they represented, got $150,000 cash and $50,000 Great West Land Co. stock. When the fifty cents extra was allowed the syndicate, they got $55,000 stock instead of $50,000. That left $95,000 representing the increased price. Of that 237 1-2 shares were transferred to the company and 100 to Dr. Oronhyatekha. I understood it to be the bonus of the Union Trust Co. for undertaking the transaction. They got their money back, interest and profit, in the ratio of 337 1-2 to 1,500 for financing it."

"When the transaction took the form of a mortgage, what happened?"

"It was turned back to the syndicate. I am down on the minutes as fathering the resolution. I don't accuse anyone of falsifying anything, but if I made such a resolution, I never intended it."

"Then Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson were really the Great West Land Co.?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"I'm not certain of that. I was told in a very indirect way that Mr. Wilson had purchased nearly all the stock in the company."

"Then you were not aware of the relationship of these three gentlemen to the Great West Co. as managers or controlling directors?"

Mr. Stevenson was not.

"I know, however, that Messrs. Foster, McGillivray, Wilson and Chancellor Boyd were directors of the Great West Co., and also of the Union Trust Co."

"And the money for the Great West Co. was all advanced from the Union Trust?"

"Every dollar of it."

"Then, whatever was acquired by the company was due to the use of the funds of the Union Trust Co.?"

"Yes."

Mr. Foster Takes the Stand.

When the examination resumed Mr. Shepley read the letter to Mr. Wilson, wherein Dr. Oronhyatekha protested that the 100 shares of stock in the Great West Land Co., which he had intended to transfer to the Union Trust Co., had in realization been transferred to the group in the company that borrowed money from the I. O. F. to engage in the speculation.

At this juncture, after 15 minutes' delay, Hon. George E. Foster took the witness stand.

From June, 1901, to May, 1906, witness was manager of the Union Trust Co. Mr. Foster had no written agreement with the company, except a verbal contract with Mr. McGillivray and Dr. Oronhyatekha. Witness was to receive $5,000 per year for five years. He was also to have freedom with his public work in politics and other business that he was in previous to that.

Witness is the present secretary of the Great West Land Co. He is also a director of that company. He had the custody of the books of the company, and an agreement between the C. P. R. and Pope & Fowler, dated April 24, 1903, also an agreement of June 24, 1903, with the Town and Farm Sites Co., Limited, and himself.

Mr. Shepley asked Mr. Foster if he had numerous papers, agreements, etc., of the Great West Land Co., and other books, to which witness replied that he had them in his possession.

"Have you the letter-book of the 'syndicate'?"

"I don't think so."

"Has it been destroyed?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Will you produce these books and documents?"

"I have no authority to produce any books or documents unless a document many years ago I have no intention except to assist the commission in getting all the information necessary for the legitimate purposes of enquiry. I will produce all the books and documents except the stock book."

"You do not want to take the attitude that anyone in this country is above a royal commission?"

"No, not at all, as long as the commission was within its powers."

There was another delay of 12 minutes at this point, while the messenger went for the books.

Mr. Stevenson took the stand.

A Series of Agreements.

Mr. Shepley took up, first, the charter of the North Ontario Farm and Town Sites Co., dated March 5, 1903. There were 10,000 shares of stock, value $100 each. The provisional directors were Messrs. Boeckh, Diver, Dussau, Kydd, Vandusen, and John Montague. The company was to do a general land business.

The next document was the agreement of the original option obtained April 24, 1903, from the C. P. R. by Pope & Fowler for the purchase of 200,000 acres of land in the Northwest at $3.50 per acre, of which one-sixth was to be paid in cash and the balance in five consecutive annual payments.

The agreement of May 20, 1903, between Pope & Fowler and the Union Trust Co. was read. This document provided for the Union Trust Co. to pay Pope & Fowler $33,520 for the right or option to purchase said lands, and a further payment of $28,146.66. The agreement also recited the payment of $60,000 to the parties of the first part (the money they had taken to the C. P. R.) by the Union Trust Co. The transaction simply meant that Pope & Fowler transferred the land to the Union Trust Co. at an advance of $1 per acre, and the Union Trust Co. in turn gave it to the Town and Farm Sites Syndicate at $5 per acre.

Mr. Shepley went further into the minute book of the Union Trust Co. One minute provided for the loan of $140,000 by the Union Trust Co. to the Town and Farm Sites Co. Witness became aware of this in the spring of 1904.

Mr. Shepley produced another document, an agreement between the directors of the North Ontario Town and Farm Sites Syndicate, on the first part the original incorporators, the second part, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Col. J. A. McGillivray and Matthew Wilson as the third part. The intention of the agreement was to vest a one-half interest in the land deal in these three.

—Foster, Wilson and McGillivray—Mr. Shepley read the minutes of a shareholders' meeting of the New Ontario Co., also a letter from Mr. Foster, offering an option of western land for 1,000 shares in capital stock in that company.

Mr. Shepley then took up the minutes again. One minute provided for the resignation of the provisional board of directors and named Messrs. McGillivray, Foster, Wilson and McGillivray.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS FOR WOMEN

A Column Specially Prepared by The Planet for the Busy Housewives of Chatham and Vicinity.

PEARS AND HOW TO COOK THEM

Housekeepers are beginning to realize that the pear is almost as useful as the peach in the making of fancy desserts, and as its keeping qualities are excellent it will probably become more and more popular for these dainty dishes. Sliced very thin and served simply with sweetened whipped cream, even an epicure should be delighted with it, or it may be served in the same way combined with bananas, peaches, or very ripe, rich-flavored apples. Only the finest flavored pears should be used for serving with cream and sugar.

A Pear Custard.

A pear custard is delicious. To make it, core and pare six very ripe, large pears, cook them in a little rich sugar syrup until perfectly tender, then drain them from the syrup and chop very fine. Turn them into a deep glass dish and pour over them a boiled custard, made with the yolks of four eggs well-beaten, three cups of milk, three heaping tablespoons of granulated sugar and a scant teaspoonful of vanilla. Whip the whites of the eggs to a firm snow with four tablespoons of sugar, and drop in, in large spoonfuls, into a shallow pan of boiling water. Cook a minute on each side, lift out with a skimmer, and just before serving pile it over the custard. Dot with little mounds of red currant jelly and serve very cold.

Pear Croquettes.

Pear croquettes are more novel and quite as delicious. Pare, core, and chop very fine six large, ripe pears. Mix with them two tablespoons of clarified butter, three-fourths of a cup of sugar, four well-beaten eggs, sufficient finely grated bread to make smooth, and stiff, and nutmeg to flavor. Mould into small croquettes, drop them into boiling water, and let simmer for half an hour. Roll in finely chopped almonds mixed with a little cinnamon and powdered sugar, and serve at once with lemon sauce.

A PARENT'S PLEA.

My little boy is eight years old. He goes to school each day. He doesn't mind the tasks they set. They seem to him but play. He heads his class at school work. And also takes the lead. At making dinky paper boats. But I wish that he could read.

They teach him physiology. And, ah, it chills our hearts. To hear our prettily innocent. Mix up his inward parts. He also learns astronomy. And names the stars by night. Of course he's very up-to-date. But I wish that he could write.

They teach him things bonafide. They teach him how to draw. He babbles of mythology. And gravitation's law. And the discoveries of science.

With him we suffer a fate. They tell me he's a clever boy. But I wish that he could add. —Life.

THE MOTHER'S "NO."

There are few things more conducive to disobedience and stubbornness in children than the constant use of the words "no" and "don't." The mother should hesitate more than once before saying them. Listen patiently to a little one's request before saying "no," no matter how trivial it may seem to you. It may mean much to him. If the request is reasonable, even though it may cause you some little inconvenience, try to grant it. If, however, before saying "no" but once said, stick to it; do not retreat. —Marian Wheeler, in Harper's Bazar.

CARE OF THE CHILD.

In the first place, establish a system which will help you much in the care of your baby and little ones. Have a regular time for rising, bath, meals, airing, bedtime, etc. There is no reason, if the child wakes up at four o'clock in the morning and wants amusement, that the tired mother should give up those early hours of sleep, which are the most beneficial to her, just because the child wants her. The younger the baby the easier it is to teach him to sleep at the proper time; children of two, three, four years and older have most active brains, and if they wake early, do not go to sleep again as easily as a baby. They want a frolic or they cry lustily for attention and amusement, says Harper's Bazar; they want a cracker or something to eat, or they want to crawl like mother's cat, or to toddle, play, tease, or fret. If the mother allows this sort of thing, she establishes a bad precedent; the children soon learn to impose upon her. This creates a certain selfish lack of consideration, which increases as the child grows older.

Rheumatism is not incurable. Stubborn! Yes! But Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy will, if faithfully used, drive it out of the system. It's the blood that's at fault. Poisonous crystals like sand get into the joints and muscles. Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy prevents this. It drives Rheumatism from the blood and then Rheumatism dies. We recommend and sell it.

TAFT WANTS AN ARMISTICE

Palma Will Concede All To Rebels And Liberals

TEXT OF THE TERMS

Havana, Sept. 25.—It was rumored late yesterday afternoon that the Government and the moderates had tacitly decided to concede practically every thing to the Liberals and rebels.

Terms of Armistice.

The following are the terms of the armistice agreed upon by the opposing forces:

"1. No movement of troops shall take place on either side without a notification to the opposing authorities, viz., the secretary of the interior of Cuba; Alfredo Zayas, representing the Liberal party, and the American peace commission."

"2. This peace shall be effective throughout Cuba."

"3. If either party violates any of the expressed conditions the opposing party shall not take hostile action until after a complaint notification to the peace commission."

"4. Hostilities shall not be resumed for at least 24 hours after notification to the peace commission."

The Cuban Secretary of State agreed, upon the condition that he should notify Secretary Taft instead of Senator Zayas (president of the Liberal party), if the Government desired to move troops.

NO CHANGE MADE

Montreal, Sept. 25.—At the Methodist general conference yesterday the improvement of The Guardian was discussed. The price of the paper was fixed at $1.50 a year.

No change was made in the pastoral term, although there was a warm debate on the motion for an unlimited pastorate.

The new mission board is composed of Revs. Dr. Ryckman, Dr. Heustis, Dr. Langford, Dr. Young, Dr. Briggs and T. Albert Moore and Messrs. Powell, Flavelle, Cushing, Koenig, MacLaren, Abram Shaw.

At motion was carried to pay the price of the keep of a horse where such was required, the cost being set at $100. This practically raises the minimum stipend to $800.

The widow of a pastor will be paid salary and permitted to occupy the manse for the balance of the year in which his death occurs.

SEVERAL MISHAPS

London, Sept. 25.—Edmond Murphy, a C. P. R. conductor, was severely injured at Eton bridge on the Port Huron branch of the C. P. R. A heavy piece of timber falling from a car breaking his leg and severely injuring him internally.

William Cooley and a man named Bolton were injured yesterday afternoon while working under a heavy crane. The crane, which had been hoisted into the car and the men were caught underneath. Cooley had his leg and foot badly crushed, but Bolton was only slightly injured.

Ald. Foristall, who injured his knee a month ago, suffered a similar injury on Saturday night by the sudden jolt of a street car.

Treating Wrong Disease.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he, assuming that he is curing the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, shop girls, house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing, cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuritis, hysteria, spasms, chorea, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One is three doses. Easy to take as candy.

He laughs loudest who laughs at his own jokes.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

DISINTERESTED INVITATION.

Though the teeth of the bather may chatter As into the water he dips, He smiles with the utmost good nature And bravely compresses his lips; Though down in the region of zero Or colder, he makes not a sign, But calls to the ones undecided, "Come in, boys; the water is fine."

The fellow who buys in a suburb Where things are as dead as a stone Wants not to be grasping and selfish, Or in on the good things alone. Though doubtful enough is his bargain, He doesn't look grim and repine, But sings to his friends in the city, "Come in, boys; the water is fine."

The man who annexes a lady, The loveliest one in the land, Sees charms in the marriage relations That single men can't understand. He brings her home often to dine, And all of the time he is saying, "Come in, boys; the water is fine."

And thus down the line you may travel, The man who is caught in the net, And giving of his friends and his neighbors To think he has made a fine bet. He labors to back up his judgment By getting the others in line, And giving the old invitation, "Come in, boys; the water is fine."

Montreal, Sept. 26.—William Haggerty, the man who was nearly asphyxiated in the accident at the oil fields the other day, passed away in this place this morning at four o'clock. He never regained consciousness from the time of the accident.

The late William Haggerty was 73 years of age, and had been working in the oil fields for the past three months. He is survived by one son and one daughter. The daughter arrived from New York last night, and the son has been at the sick man's side since Saturday night. The deceased's wife predeceased him some five years ago. The remains have been sent to Sugar Grove, N. Y., where interment will take place.

The deceased had been under the efficient care of Dr. Bell, of this place, who did all in his power to effect a recovery, but on account of Mr. Haggerty's extreme age, such was looked upon as doubtful from the first.

Joseph Bellaine Surrenders For Shooting Ray Keyes

IT WAS A SAD AFFAIR

St. Catharines, Sept. 26.—Full details of the fatal accident to Ray Keyes, only son of Barrister Jas. A. Keyes, have been received from Charles Henderson of Sudbury. The young man left camp on Thursday, saying he was going to try for a partridge, and taking his revolver with him. As he did not return that night, his father and brother started a search party. They found his body about forty yards from the road, with the revolver, all chambers loaded, about two feet away. He had been shot through the body. It is thought he was hit by a stray bullet, or that he may have been taken for a bear and killed by a hunter. The body was brought to St. Catharines on Monday, and the funeral took place yesterday.

Bellaine claims that he shot, believing at the time that it was a bear. When Keyes was found he was wearing a black sweater, which makes Bellaine's statement more probable. Besides, so far as known, there was no motive for the deed.

Mrs. Johnson, coming unexpectedly into the dining room, where the new girl was laying the cloth for dinner, looked at her with a sudden interest. "Haven't you been crying, Johanna?" she asked kindly.

"Ach, it isn't much," the woman said, a refractory tear starting down her cheek; "it's that America's so strange—iss—the city—I the cows miss—and the garden and making the butter—yes." And her exceedingly blond skin turned red with the effort she made to keep the tears from coming in torrents.

Mrs. Johnson's eyes looked meditative while she tried to think what form of comfort to offer. "I'm sorry you are homesick; it's an awful feeling, but cheer up," she said sympathetically. "I'll give the cook money for theater tickets, and you can both go to see that spectacular thing they say is so wonderful."

Johanna smiled gratefully. "You so very good iss," she said as she went toward the kitchen.

In the midst of his dinner Mr. Johnson thought of something and commenced laughing.

"I had a most unusual order today from a customer down south. He or-

"I'M JOHN BURDEN," HE SAID SIMPLY. "I'm a widower, and I'm looking for a wife."

Mrs. Johnson's eyes were wide with unbelief. "Charles Johnson, you certainly are joking! The man couldn't have been so foolish as to be in earnest."

"It wasn't for himself; it was for a country customer—a young widower with a dairy farm on his hands that has been going to rack and ruin since his wife died."

Mrs. Johnson was evidently struck with an inspiration. "Oh, Charles, how would Johanna do?" she suggested enthusiastically.

"I think she would do finely—just fill the bill—if she would go." Mr. Johnson finished dubiously. "But if I sent down a piece of pink and white yellow haired perfection as Johanna I am afraid I would have an order from every farmer in North Carolina and would be forced to open a matrimonial bureau."

"Do you know anything about the widower?" Mrs. Johnson asked at length.

"Yes; Hayes wrote me a letter and gave a pen picture of his life from the cradle to the grave—his wife's grave," he added, with a grin appreciative of his wit; "says he will absolutely vouch for him and that if I can find a woman who is suited to the man he described it will be a good thing for her. By Jove, I believe Johanna is the ne plus ultra—it'll go. Pity she can't talk better English."

"Oh, her little foreign talk won't make any difference. He can stand it. You see, I'm able to stand your Latin or French, whichever it is—I can never quite determine from your accent."

John Burden pulled the horses up under the shade of an elm near the door of the ladies' waiting room, and handed the reins to his companion, with a sheepish smile.

"Hold on to these, Mr. Hayes. You got me into this business, and you must help me through. Do I look much like a fool?"

Martin Hayes, dealer in general merchandise, chuckled as he took the reins. "No, sir. You are the personification of the gray and festive bridegroom—not an unnecessary sign of foolishness about you. Of course, the new suit and the rosebud in your buttonhole are allowable as befitting the occasion. Nicest suit I had in stock, old boy. Hope she'll like it."

Burden arranged his necktie with clumsy fingers. "Glad all this internal quaking don't show on the outside. There's the train in sight. Gee! Don't believe there's ever a day made as hot as this."

He made his way through the crowd around the depot and stationed himself where he could get a good view of the passengers alighting from the train. "I've been staid and have traveled

In the usual rut all my life," he commended himself, "but if this ain't acting like a fellow in a novel, I never read one."

He kept on the lookout for a woman wearing a dark blue dress and carrying a suitcase marked Johanna Gersler. Mr. Johnson had written that he would see that the name was printed in large letters and that there would probably be no trouble as to identity in a town where the incoming travelers were few.

Johanna stepped from the train, her blue eyes looking at wondering and as childish as they did when she landed in America six months before. She paused helplessly, and just then Burden saw the name on the suitcase.

He looked at the woman's face—its blond fairness an unusual style in a southern town—and the thermometer seemed to jump several degrees upward.

"She looks like—like—an angel!" he muttered. "She will be disappointed in me," and he went to her anxiously and diffidently.

"I'm John Burden," he said simply. "You—did you want me to come?" Her voice trembled and he saw tears in her blue eyes.

"Want you? Want you?" His tone gained assurance. "Anybody with an ounce of sense would want you to come—and to stay," he said, his face radiant as he took the suitcase from her.

After the dinner with Hayes at the hotel and the quiet marriage ceremony in the hotel parlor they drove the five miles to Burden's farm and reached there just at the beginning of the long summer twilight.

The climbing rose was in full bloom over the veranda, and a flock of white geese were wandering through the gate toward the barnyard.

"Do you like it?" he asked, his voice almost a whisper.

"It is so much home," she gasped in her halting English, "even the cows that in the farmyard stand."

He led her into the house and paused before the sweet, clean room whose muslin curtains blew in and out the open windows.

"This is your room," he said simply. "Mine is across the hall, where I can hear if you get afraid and call me."

His honest unburdened face was full of kindness, and although her comprehension of English was limited, she caught a glimpse of his soul in a language that is universal.

"Take off your hat, little woman. I hear old Jenny putting supper on the table." He looked at the pale gold of her hair where her hat had pressed it tightly against her moist forehead, and he hesitatingly touched it with his hand and freed it from her temples.

"I hope you'll feel homelike and will grow to love the farm—and maybe some time—me," he added timidly.

"I like it all—and you," she answered softly.

Time to Change.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the lecturer after bowing to the first round of applause that followed his introduction. "I propose this evening to address you on the all important subject of 'the training and rearing of boys.' It is a broad subject that is demanding more and more attention every day. In the beginning, and in order to lay a broad foundation for the proper treatment of this great subject, I will—"

"Excuse me, professor," interrupted the harassed little man who was almost hidden away in the corner, "but how many boys have you?"

"Well, er, um—well, the fact is, sir, I have no children at all," stammered the lecturer.

"That's all right, then," said the little man, sinking back into his seat. "I was afraid you had a few of 'em, and if you had I knowed it 'bout raisin' 'em. You kin go ahead and I'll listen, 'cause I'm lookin' for expert advice on the subject."

But somehow or other the lecturer thought best to change the subject.

Fines Built the Mansion House.

The Mansion House, London, was partly built out of money unjustly wrung from dissenters. By an act of Charles II. no one could take office under the corporation without taking the sacrament according to the rites of the Established church. By another act a sheriff who declined to serve was rendered liable to a fine of £400. A dissenter was elected sheriff, and as he could not take the sacrament, he declined to serve and paid £400. A second was elected, with the same result. This ingenious method of taxing dissenters was repeated until forty-five had successively paid the fine. No. 46 was a stiff-necked gentleman, and he declined to either serve or pay. He was sued for the fine, but the judge held that the disqualifying act relieved the dissenter of the duty of service. The £18,000, however, already secured was voted by the corporation to the building fund of the Mansion House—London Standard.

Beggars Outwitted.

Many years ago an ingenious plan was adopted by the grand duke to rid Florence of beggars. It was proclaimed that every beggar who would appear in the grand plaza at a certain mentioned time would be provided with a new suit of clothes by the duke free of cost. At the appointed time the beggars of the city all assembled, and the grand duke, causing all the avenues to the square to be closed, compelled the beggars to strip off their old clothes and gave each one, according to promise, a new suit. In the old clothes thus collected enough money was found concealed to build a beautiful bridge over the Arno, still called the "Beggars' bridge," and the city for the time being was relieved of the beggars by which it had been previously over-run, as none would give to the well-dressed individuals who implored charity, not believing their tales of distress.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Albert Mann Mrs. Chester Curry

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you, all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Drink Unsettled His Mind.

Apparently tiring of his work he came to Ottawa in 1901 and started literary work, contributing for the most part to American newspapers and periodicals. He was successful for a time, and, according to Mr. Mitchell, saved money. But the drink habit seemed to grow and his mind became unsettled. He removed to Florida, to which his father had migrated from France and became a Baptist preacher.

Two years of this sufficed and he came back to Ottawa. There were no Turkish baths in the city so he established one and called himself "doctor." He flourished, but the demon drink had him in his grip and his profits were squandered.

A Test.

When Bernhard once fell victim to a sudden attack of homesickness while she was traveling in eastern Europe. She announced that she was going back to Paris immediately. Bucharest was the next city on the route and Bernhard's impresario at once sent the following telegram to his advance agent, who was then in the Roumanian capital: "Wire me immediately as follows: 'Nobility and leaders society preparing magnificent reception. Minister of fine arts will be represented station. Torchlight procession, massed bands. Wire exact hour arrival.'"

This telegram was duly sent and the impresario showed it to the actress, who forgot her homesickness in view of the magnificent reception awaiting her. When they arrived there were sixty solemn gentlemen in evening dress, with many decorations, on the platform, there were torches, flags and flowers, massed bands played the "Marsellaise" and the triumphal procession started for the hotel. "Are you not coming with us?" said the impresario to his advance agent, who showed signs of reluctance at the station instead of going to the hotel. "No," he said. "I must look after the nobility and leaders of society. I am afraid they will bolt with their dress clothes." But the actress, so the story goes, never guessed that the sixty great men at the station were supers hired by the advance agent at 36 cents a head.

Life Saving at Fires.

If lives are in danger at a fire it is a universal rule that life saving takes precedence over fire fighting. If fire escapes are lacking or seriously obstructed all hands devote their entire energies to the work of rescuing by raising ladders, by forcing a passage through smoke filled hallways or by other emergency means.

Life nets are spread and held ready for those who have not the nerve to wait for their rescuers. Life saving consumes valuable time which could be applied to advantage in fighting the flames, and the probable necessity for expending this time, governed as it is by many considerations, plays an important part in studies of underwriters. Occasionally pomper ladders or window scaling ladders are used in emergencies for making rescues. These furnish thrilling incidents for the newspapers, but are less efficient, slower and a great deal more dangerous both to the firemen and the rescued than the plain or extension ladders—Insurance Engineering.

There's a story of a farmer and his son driving a load to market. On the way they were driving one was a steady, reliable old gray mare, the other a fractious, bulky black horse. On the way the wagon was stalled and the black horse balked and refused to pull. "What'll we do, father?" said the younger man. "Well," said the father, "I guess we'll have to lay the gad on the old gray." That homely compliment to women, "The gray mare's the better horse," suggests how often when there's an extra strain to be borne it is laid on the woman's back. How often she breaks down at last under the added weight of some "last straw." Women who are dragging along wearily through life can gain real strength by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, puts back its concentrated form the strength making material which working women use up more rapidly than it can be restored by Nature in the ordinary processes of nourishment and rest. When Bernhard Was Fooled.

Sarah Bernhardt once fell victim to a sudden attack of homesickness while she was traveling in eastern Europe. She announced that she was going back to Paris immediately. Bucharest was the next city on the route and Bernhard's impresario at once sent the following telegram to his advance agent, who was then in the Roumanian capital: "Wire me immediately as follows: 'Nobility and leaders society preparing magnificent reception. Minister of fine arts will be represented station. Torchlight procession, massed bands. Wire exact hour arrival.'"

This telegram was duly sent and the impresario showed it to the actress, who forgot her homesickness in view of the magnificent reception awaiting her. When they arrived there were sixty solemn gentlemen in evening dress, with many decorations, on the platform, there were torches, flags and flowers, massed bands played the "Marsellaise" and the triumphal procession started for the hotel. "Are you not coming with us?" said the impresario to his advance agent, who showed signs of reluctance at the station instead of going to the hotel. "No," he said. "I must look after the nobility and leaders of society. I am afraid they will bolt with their dress clothes." But the actress, so the story goes, never guessed that the sixty great men at the station were supers hired by the advance agent at 36 cents a head.

Neck Ruches Still Popular—Ballet Novelty—Stripes to Be Worn.

pliques, although the latter are very fashionable. They look well with English openwork, which has not been at all subordinated by the blind embroidery used so extensively.

No woman should indulge in a princess gown unless her figure is graceful. There is no style which shows up the defects as this one does, and, on the other hand, there is nothing more becoming to the possessor of a fine form.

It is evident from certain sartorial signs that stripes will be in vogue in the fall for tailor made and other simple costumes.

The motor hat pictured is very smart for short runs about the country. It is made of heavy white linen stretched plainly over the frame, and finished about the face with a narrow fall of English embroidery. Brown velvet encircles the crown.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF.

Elbow Sleeves to "Go" in the Fall.

For the Girl Who A-fishing Goes.

During the hot weather there is no evidence of the elbow sleeve abating in popularity, but there are rumors of radical changes coming early in the autumn. The moderately full elbow sleeve which narrows toward the elbow to meet the glove and fitting the arm closely gives the same silhouette of the long sleeve and finds favor with women of all classes.

A girl went fishing the other day in what is called a trout suit, though it is doubtful if she caught a fish of that persuasion. The material was a silver gray novelty lightly spotted to imitate trout. Her hat was trimmed with a spotted veil with long ends that flew Monkeys as Nurses.

"Monkeys make poor nurses," said a zoo keeper. "When they live near a stream of water and one of the colony falls sick they invariably toss him overboard. They don't want him around. His sighs and groans annoy them so. 'Past! Off the dock!'"

They bite the end of his tail, they drag him about, and they pinch him. Finally, when he dies, as many as can find room sit on his body, close together, very solemn, as though engaged in some religious rite."

THANKS CUTICURA FOR COMPLETE CURE

"Some time ago I wrote you for a book on the Cuticura Remedies and received it O. K. and went and bought the Soap, Ointment, and Pills. They did me more good than any medicine I ever used. I got medicine of a doctor, but it did not cure me, and when I saw in a paper your ad. I sent to you for the Cuticura book and I studied my case in it. I then went to the drug store and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment, and one vial of Cuticura Pills. From the first application I received relief. I used the first set and two extra cakes of Cuticura Soap, and was completely cured. I had suffered for two years, and I again thank Cuticura for my cure. If you wish, you may publish this. When Buchanan Was King.

George Buchanan was a scholar, historian, controversialist and the best Latin poet of his age. Buchanan was tutor to Mary, queen of Scots, and to her son James, afterward James I. of England. One day he caused himself to be made king of Scotland, and this was the way of it: Having observed in James a tendency to too ready acquiescence, he drew up a paper for the royal pupil to sign. James did so at once without having read it. The document happened to be a transfer of the royal authority to Buchanan for fifteen days, and no sooner had the poet got it into his possession than he began to play the monarch, even before the king himself. James thought the man a lunatic until the instrument was produced by which he had signed away his sovereignty. This incident was used by the worthy preceptor to illustrate the day's lesson on the responsibilities of monarchs.

TO ENFORCE REGULATIONS

Ald. Potter Will Make An Effort To Have Gas In Opera House

MONDAY'S EXPERIENCE

"I saw an article in to-night's Planet stating that the lights in the Opera House went out at the conclusion of the show the other night, and while the people were making their way down the stairs," said Ald. Wm. Potter in conversation with a reporter for this G. H. J. last night. "This was a most regrettable and dangerous state of affairs, and there should be provision made that such a thing could not occur. There should be gas lights as well as electric lights in the Opera House, if the by-law were carried out to the letter, and I am going to see that the rules are enforced. Such a thing as that which occurred Monday evening will not happen again, I'll guarantee that. If the Fire Chief doesn't see to it that emergency lights are placed in the main portion of the building and the corridors, I will order the Chief of Police to have the place closed up till the regulations are lived up to. "I spoke about this matter before, and the manager of the Opera House told me that he would rather not put in gas as it was dangerous. There was some other kind of strong light which he would prefer for safety's sake. I told him to go ahead and put it in, and if it proved satisfactory all well and good. If not, why gas would have to be installed. As the house is at present, the regulations are not being lived up to, and I am going to see that they are. "If there had been a stampede the other night much serious injury to the people rushing down the stairs might have ensued. As it was I am told, a number of ladies had their dresses torn by men tramping on them."

HOW TO JUDGE A BEAU
My grandmamma has often said, The way to judge a beau is by the kind of cuffs he wears And collars, don't you know! But ladies now-a-days have found A better way to judge:— Unless he wears 'Cowman's' shoes The girls will say, "O, fudge!"

AFTER 50 YEARS

Grand Rapids, Mich., September 23.—Mrs. Lorenzo Watson, of Spafford, Ariz., is making the acquaintance of her sisters, Mrs. John Peterson, of Cedar Springs, and Mrs. Adelia Baker, of this city. These friends moved to Salt Lake City and the little girl never learned that she had sisters until she was married, when she was told her right name. She was brought up in the Mormon church, but says she has never known of a case of polygamy.

THE STAGE

ANNOUNCEMENTS
(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

At the Brisco Opera House—
When Women Love—Fair nights, Sept. 26th and 27th.
Florence Gale in "Love's Victory"—Oct. 1.
Local Widow Brown—Oct. 6.
John Griffith—Oct. 11.

"WHEN WOMEN LOVE."
"When Women Love" is the title of the drama which will be the offering at the Brisco Theatre to-night. "When Women Love," and we all only too readily know the comfort of one good woman's love. There have been titles innumerable, looking from a box-office standpoint, of plays calculated to catch the public fancy, but the simple old, old theme of "When Women Love" is such sweet remembrance to us all that the play of Spitz & Nason will, no doubt, be very successful for some time to come.

POPULAR FLORENCE GALE

There are a few actresses on the stage who are closer to the hearts of the theatre-going West than Florence Gale, who will appear in a new romantic play by Margaret Mayo, entitled "Love's Victory," at the Brisco Theatre on Monday, October 1st. In this city she is a strong local favorite, made so by former visits in dramatic plays, notably her charming impersonation of Rosalind in Shakespeare's immortal comedy of "As You Like It." Judging by the numerous inquiries made at the box office, her forthcoming appearance will be greeted by a capacity audience. "Love's Victory" is said to afford Miss Gale a better opportunity for the display of her talents than any play in which she has previously appeared. Some critics have asserted that Miss Gale's impersonations in this remarkable play is nothing short of a sensational triumph. She will be supported by William Bonelli and a fine company, and the advantage of a beautiful production.

ANNAND-RANNIE

Yesterday afternoon, at the Marlborough Place Presbyterian Church, London, N. W., Dr. W. Fraser Annand, eldest son of Mr. R. C. Annand, of Huron, Ont., South Shields, was married to Miss Jennie Rannie, seventh daughter of the Rev. John Rannie, late of Perth, British Columbia. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. C. Russell, of Durwell, assisted by the Rev. J. Munro Gibson, D. D., of Marlborough Place Church.

The bride wore a dress of white chiffon de soie, and carried a bouquet of white heather and orchids. She was attended by four bridesmaids, Miss M. D. Rannie, sister of the bride; Miss M. Annand, sister of the bridegroom; and the Misses Natalie and Freda Dunn, nieces of the bride. The best man was Mr. James Annand, brother of the bridegroom. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rannie received their guests in the hall of the church. Later in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left for Cornwall—The Shields Daily Gazette and Shipping Telegraph.

Rev. John Rannie, father of the bride, is a brother to Mr. William Rannie, tax collector for this city. Rev. Mr. Rannie was formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Church, this city, which position he filled for seventeen years. He left here in 1876.
