

Fighting at St. Eloi Between British and Huns
Germany Now Wish to Have Peace Very Soon
British Air Service is in Excellent Condition

GERMANY IS NOW ANXIOUS TO HAVE AN EARLY PEACE

This is the Deduction Drawn From the Speech of the Chancellor in the Reichstag and Other Sources.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, April 7.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune cables as follows: The speech delivered in the Reichstag Wednesday by Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, is considered good evidence that Germany is anxious for an early peace. Following closely Dr. Von Hefferich's admission of the seriousness of Germany's financial situation, the chancellor's statement that "the allies will be to blame if the massacre goes on" is interpreted here as a very strong sign that the German Government is weakening and fears to face the people. With a big allied offensive only a matter of a short time in the future, the German chancellor is evidently preparing the people for big losses, losses which the country is finding it harder and harder to bear.

ASQUITH'S RETURN PUT CONSPIRATORS TO UTTER ROUT

Cabal Against Him Fell Flat After His Speech in the Commons. BONAR LAWS' FINE EFFORT Between the Two Crisis Was Met and Government Saved.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 7.—(Cable to the New York Times)—Premier Asquith arrived in London in the early hours of yesterday morning from his trip to France and Italy. Prior to Mr. Asquith's return, doubts and fears were paramount among politicians as to his ability to checkmate the moves which have been made to undermine his leadership. The Westminster Gazette on Wednesday said: "Mr. Asquith will find that in his absence a little group of people who pursue him with unrelenting hostility, have prepared what they imagine to be a fatal trap for him. The married men's agitation is to have its climax in parliament one day next week, when according to their calculation, either Mr. Asquith or Mr. Bonar Law will be driven to resign, and in either case the coalition will be broken up. Mr. Asquith has said he will not carry the military service any beyond single men. Mr. Bonar Law has said he will not remain in the government if the Unionist party votes against him. It only remains, therefore, to obtain a vote of the Unionist party in favor of compulsion for married men to require Mr. Bonar Law to resign or the prime minister to go back on his word, and either course, it is considered, must be fatal to the government. Mr. Asquith appeared in the House yesterday afternoon and received a royal reception. He knocked the bottom out of the conspiracy by declaring that the government was not going to be rushed in a premature decision on the recruiting problem and the position of untested married men. He intimated plainly that he was not going to allow himself to be hustled by either the Glinger groups in the

Germany Again Ready to Explain Sub "Mistake"

By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, April 6, via London, April 7.—United States Ambassador Gerard held a conversation yesterday with Dr. Zimmermann, under secretary for foreign affairs, regarding the submarine situation. It is understood that the Foreign Office had no information to convey to the ambassador regarding the Sussex and the other steamships in which the German government has manifested an interest, but that there was an intimation that Germany is undoubtedly ready, as indicated in Dr. Zimmermann's statement of April 3 to meet the United States more than half way if it should develop that the Sussex was torpedoed erroneously.

British Aviation Record Shows 150 Disastrous Flights Out of a Million

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 7 (New York Times cable)—A high British authority states that the reports published in American papers relative to the air supremacy of Germany on the western front, are exaggerated. He also asserts that Mr. Pemberton Billing's statement in the Commons as to the number of accidents which have befallen British aviators, must be considered in relation to the number of flights made by members of the Royal Flying Corps. This total, it is said, runs to nearly a million and that 150

Committee of Reichstag Thinks It Effective Weapon Against Britain. By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, April 6, via London, April 7.—An official report on the submarine question in the ways and means committee of the Reichstag, published today, gives new details regarding the attitude of the committee itself, voiced by the Nationalist, Ernest Bassermann, one of the leaders of the faction, urging an extended use of submarines, who drafted the report. Earlier reports of the committee's deliberations were from government sources, Major Bassermann, in his report, declares that the resolution of the committee intended to express neither confidence nor lack of confidence in the government, nor to criticize the earlier conduct of the submarine campaign, but only to bring out the belief in the Reichstag that the submarine weapon could be used as an effective means of meeting Great Britain's methods and winning a satisfactory peace.

CANADIAN TROOPS IN ACTION

By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, April 7 (by wireless Sayville)—Capture from the British of the mine crater positions, south of St. Eloi near Ypres, was announced today by army headquarters. The positions were defended by Canadian troops, according to the statement. The text of the official statement is as follows: "German troops after careful preparations and a tenacious fighting conquered British crater positions south of St. Eloi, defended by Canadian troops."

Sima Sunk

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 7.—The British Steamship Sima of 5,884 tons gross, has been sunk. Eleven members of Asiatic crew were drowned. The rest were saved. The Sima was built at Greenock in 1894 and was of 5,884 gross tons with a length of 430 feet and 48 feet beam. The last mention of her in the shipping records is dated November 23, 1915, and it is presumed that she has latterly been employed in the government service.

German in Reichstag Says U.S. Should Stay Clear of the Struggle. By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 7.—Frederich Von Payer of the Progressive Peoples party touched upon German-American relations in an address in the Reichstag yesterday from which Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent speaks as follows: "The political influence of America has risen with the duration of the war. Its growth lays the heaviest responsibility on those European states which caused the war. "We must have the right to live

Germans Attempt to Recapture Positions Which They Lost Ten Days Ago—Struggle Still Proceeding. London, April 7.—The British official statement on the campaign in the western zone, issued last night, reads: "Early this morning, after a very heavy bombardment, the enemy attacked our new trenches at St. Eloi strongly. The fighting proceeded all day, and still continues. "At Hooge a small hostile raiding party, which entered our trenches, was promptly ejected, suffering several casualties. The Situation.

On the east side of the Meuse the German attack in connection with the Verdun operations has at present writing, suffered a most notable check, on the west side of the Meuse the enemy is making some progress. This in brief is the existing state of affairs with regard to the memorable struggle. It looks as if the French may have to do some falling back West. The central fact remains that after weeks of violent assault and tremendous sacrifices, the Huns are scarcely any nearer to their object than when they started. The explanation is obvious and it is that the Kaiser's army has been brought to a halt with reference to any more sudden massed achievements.

The Germans have made a strong attack upon the British trenches at St. Eloi in the Ypres region. This is on ground previously taken by the Old Country forces. At last accounts the battle was still raging.

The British are now pursuing the Turks on both sides of the Tigris, and as Russia continues to attend to a like job in the Caucasus, the sons of Allah must be wishing more sincerely than ever that they hadn't.

Prohibition.

Saturday, Sept. 16th will be the last day for the sale of liquor in the hotels, shops and clubs of this Province. Mr. Rowell, leader of the Opposition, made the criticism that an earlier date should have been set, but surely that objection was rather small-minded business. The sale of intoxicants, however much a great many people have objected, as they undoubtedly have, especially during late years, has from time immemorial been a legitimized business, with a large number of people employed in the same and large capital invested. Under such circumstances, any reasonable being will be inclined to agree that five months in which to give these people a chance for the entire readjustment rendered necessary by the obliteration of a hitherto recognized trade, in which they have their all, is not too much. There should be common decency in all things.

Premier Hearst has made it very clear that considerations arising out of war conditions constituted his sole and only incentive in connection with the legislation just announced. In this respect he recently said:—

"Some men have said that by this measure I have sealed the political doom of my government and signed my death warrant as a public man. But I would rather ten thousand times go down to political oblivion and disappear from view as a public man than fail in what I believe to be my duty at the present time. The man who chooses against the path of duty is not worthy of the support of the splendid body of men that sit to the right of the Speaker of this House, or of the great body of citizens who belong to the grand old Conservative party, and above all, is not worthy to stand in the shoes of the great Whitney, who was ever bold enough to be honest, and honest enough to be bold.

"In this day of national peril, in this day when the future of the British Empire, the freedom of the world, and the blessings of democratic government hang in the balance, if I should fail to listen to what I believe to be the call of duty, if I should neglect to take every action that in my judgment will help to conserve the strength and power and manhood of this province for this great struggle in which we are engaged, I would be a traitor to my country, a traitor to my conscience, and unworthy of the brave sons of Canada who are fighting, bleeding, and dying for freedom and for us."

"Personally, it matters little to me whether my career as prime minister of this province is long or short, but it does matter that I discharge my duty to the best of my ability while I retained that position. It matters much to this province that its prime minister, whoever he may be, should be guided and guided solely, by a sense of duty. And I am not unconscious that many of my best and warmest personal and political friends feel that I have made a mistake, even some may feel that they cannot continue further to give their allegiance to the party while I am its leader. I have, personally, faith without a doubt that not only the public of to-day, but the public of years to come, will say that the government did what was right under conditions as they existed at the time, and I fear not the verdict of this day or of the future generations, and I am content to await the verdict of the people when the right time comes for them to render their verdict."

Sincere and manly words these. Mr. Hearst might very easily have taken refuge in the claim that Rowell's slogan, "Abolish the bar," failed in the recent Ontario contest, but from an absolute sense of duty he has done what he deems to be right.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The wise spring robin is still sticking to his muffler.

The Huns are now commencing to think of peace in order to save the pieces.

The story of the planes, as far as the war is concerned, is now quite satisfactory from the standpoint of the Allies.

It is announced that a thaw is in evidence on the Dvina front. Thank goodness this doesn't refer to the old time nuisance of that ilk.

Uncle Sam is commencing to realize that Villa is a decidedly hard man to catch. Rumor had it that the bandit had lost a leg as the result of a wound. At last accounts, however, he seemed to be running about as well as usual.

The Street Railway returns for the first quarter of this year once more serve to demonstrate the wise course of the citizens in taking over the enterprise as a Municipal venture. By the bye, what has become of the croakers who claimed that the sale of the Paris to Galt end of the line would cut into the Grand Valley receipts?

Commons or by newspaper campaigns outside the House.

The government's position was strengthened by a debate which followed on the payment of M. P's. Mr. Law, whose loyalty to the coalition government never has been in doubt, made a speech which carried the great majority of Unionists. He expressed his conviction that continuance in office of the coalition was necessary to the prosecution of the war.

Henry Duke, the eloquent K. C. followed with a vehement onslaught on "the intriguers and cables underground plotting, secret tactical manoeuvres."

After that, as the Chronicle's parliamentary correspondent says, nothing mattered. The conspirators were scattered in confusion. The battle was won. Asquith returned, saw and conquered.

One of the commonest reproaches made against Premier Asquith is that he takes matters too easily.

WATER COMMISSIONERS HELD REGULAR SESSION

Several Matters Up Yesterday For Discussion and Action.

The Water Commissioners met yesterday in the city hall. There were present his Worship Mayor Bowly, chairman, Jno. Fair and A. G. Montgomery.

The minutes of the meeting of March 30th were read and confirmed. The communications received were: Statement of water pumped for the month of March. Turbine Equipment Co. April 3rd with proposition regarding electric and steam turbine pumps recently installed. Professor R. W. Angus, University of Toronto, April 4th with summary of report submitted on March 16th. From David L. Webster, Asst. Supt., April 6th, pointing out certain work to be done in connection with the galleries and requirements. All of which were quickly as possible, so that there will not be any unnecessary delay. Carried.

Moved by A. G. Montgomery, seconded by John Fair, that the secretary write Chipman & Power, asking them to arrange a meeting with the Water Commissioners in Brantford with Professor Angus of the University of Toronto, the Turbine Equipment Co. and themselves, to go over the official test submitted by Prof. Angus, to hear and consider the propositions to be made to fill the conditions of the contract, and to advise the board as quickly as possible, so that there will not be any unnecessary delay. Carried.

Mayor Bowly voted nay to the above resolution. He says he does not see any necessity for bringing Willis Chipman to Brantford, that Professor Angus's report is very full and intelligent, and it is a useless waste of public funds to pay Mr. Chipman his fees and expenses.

Moved by John Fair, seconded by A. G. Montgomery, that the work of cleaning out the Moore's gallery and placing manholes on same be gone on with and completed as soon as possible.

sible, and that a Burnham receiver pump be purchased for the boilers. Carried.

Commissioner Montgomery gave notice that he would bring in a resolution at the next regular meeting of the board to re-adjust our engineering staff at the pumping station.

A list of small accounts were passed.

Six armed men guard Windsor waterworks.

A Dane returned from Berlin states that the weekly bread allowance for each person is only sufficient for three days. On the remaining days they eat potato cakes.

In the arrest of C. C. Hoyt, on a charge of defrauding several persons in Baltimore out of amounts of money ranging from $300 to $400, detectives say they have in their custody Chas. D. Sheldon, formerly of Montreal, where he received a prison sentence.

PLEASANT EVENING

The improvement society of Grand View last night paid a visit to the Echo Place society, a musical program being presented, and a very pleasant evening spent. A return visit will take place soon.

RECRUITING MEETING

The speaker at the recruiting meeting at the Brant Sunday night will be Captain Minard of the 97th Battalion (American Legion), who will say something of interest. Rev. E. A. Woodside will occupy the chair. Before the speaking commences, a film "His Country's Honor," a war picture, will be depicted on the screen.

TWO RECRUITS.

The 125th Brant Battalion secured two more recruits to-day: John Williams, English, age 43, single, farm hand, 3 years with the German Light Infantry South Africa. James Freeman Polhurst, Canadian, age 35, teamster, married 147 Market street.

NEW CANNING FACTORY.

The probability of a canning and preserving factory on the east side of Clarence street is apparently displeasing to residents of that section, as there is on file in the city clerk's department a petition from a number of ratepayers who object to the presence of such an establishment there in the vicinity. A communication from the Waddell Preserving Company, Limited, has also been received in the city clerk's office making application for a fixed assessment on their premises, 131-133 Clarence street, as they are anxious to commence active operations at once.

MEAT INSPECTOR'S REPORT

The report of Inspector Devereux for the quarter ending March 31, now on file in the city clerk's department shows that some 34 cases of tubercular meat were discovered on the market in the past three months. All of these, to an aggregate weight of 735 pounds, were seized and burned at the sanitary farm. The building of stalls for butchers on the market is approved, as it will afford a protection to the meat from dust and dirt in hot weather. Butter during the quarter past, was all up to the standard weight, but considerable trouble was experienced by Inspector Devereux in the matter of potatoes, many vendors placing very poor specimens at the bottom of their bags. The inspector reports having warned several against this practice, and threatens prosecution in the future. The city horses are all in good condition save one, which is lame. A large number of dogs have been running loose about the city, an average of three persons having been bitten per week. A number of animals were quarantined, but no cases of rabies were discovered. The premises of all milk vendors throughout the city are reported in good condition, but the inspector comments that only about half of these vendors have taken out their 1916 licenses.

Board of Education

Three Applicants For Leave in Order to Join 215th.

Reports and Other Routine Matters Are Dealt With.

Routine business was transacted at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education held last evening. Three applications for leave of absence in order to join the 215th Battalion were dealt with, as were a number of other communications. The reports of the various committees of the board were received and filed; and the printed copies of the by-laws drawn up by the board of 1915, discussed.

After calling the meeting to order, Vice-Chairman I. S. Armstrong, who presided in the absence of Capt. W. N. Andrews, called the attention of the board to the rule compelling all members to address themselves to the chair and to confine themselves strictly to the matter in question.

The minutes of the last regular meeting of the board and also of the special meeting held since, were then read and confirmed.

The communications to the board were next read and disposed of. The request of Wm. Walker, junior of the Central School for leave of absence in order to join the 215th Battalion, was referred to the buildings and grounds committee, and those of Messrs. Holsworth and W. Joyce for the same, to the management committee, together with a communication from Lt. Col. Cockshutt of the 215th Battalion permitting Mr. Joyce to retain his position until April 1, and Mr. Holsworth until further notice. Other communications referred to the management committee were from Miss Jessie McLaughlin, resigning her position on the Public School Gamble stating that the inspection of public school cadets will take place on May 1, and requesting that all teachers and pupils interested be allowed to attend this event; the reports of Principal Burt and High School Inspector Spotton, emphasizing the need of more class rooms in the Collegiate Institute, and a request from Garnet C. White, asking for an increase in salary. Communications received and filed were—Reports of the boiler inspection in King George; Alexandra, Ryerson, Dufferin schools and the Collegiate Institute; the report of Nurse McPherson for the months of February and March; a communication from the Militia Department in defence of the non-payment of grants hitherto made for cadet uniforms, since the outbreak of the war; the monthly report of Public School Inspector Kilmer, which showed the attendance at the various Public Schools throughout the city as follows:

A communication from the Ontario Educational Association, asking that delegates be sent to its convention which takes place April 25, 26, 27, next, was dealt with by the appointment of Messrs. Powell, Shepperson, Lane and Armstrong to attend the convention with Principal Mutter of the evening classes.

All the communications on hand having thus been disposed of, the meeting was adjourned at the early hour of 9.50. Chairman Armstrong thanking all present for their attendance and congratulating them upon their rapid disposal of all business in hand.

Those present at the meeting were Trustees Armstrong, Coulbeck, Lane, Powell, Shepperson, Lahey, Dr. Gamble, Dr. Elliott, Principal Burt, Inspector Kilmer and Secretary A. K. Bunnell.

Mlle. Balaschova, premier danseuse of the Imperial Ballet at Moscow, is on her way to America to appear in the Russian ballet when it opens at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

The report of the buildings and grounds committee reported the awarding of the contract for supplying coal to the Public Schools to John Mann and Sons, their tender being the lowest received. The request of Wm. Walker for leave of absence was granted, and it was recommended that the committee be empowered to make whatever temporary arrangements necessary during his absence.

The report of the Finance committee recommended a large number of accounts for payment. As an amendment to this report, a motion was passed recommending that the contract for school supplies for the year

March 31, 1916-April 1, 1917, be awarded to Messrs. Sutherland and Stedman Bros at an advance of 10 per cent. on invoice prices.

The report of the industrial committee reviewed the work of that committee done at the meetings of March 20 and April 3, and the commercial advisory committee that of its meeting of March 23. The report of Dr. Landymore for the seven months ending March 31, 1916, was referred to the dental committee for consideration.

The printed copies of the by-laws drawn up by the 1915 Board of Education were next discussed, it being resolved to include in the booklet the names of those forming the 1915 board, Brantford's first Board of Education and not those of this year.

The question was raised by Mr. Powell as to under whose control an epidemic of any infectious disease such as the recent one of measles, came. This was answered by Inspector Kilmer, who stated that the visiting nurse reported any such cases, discovered and that the medical health officer was also consulted.

All the business in hand having been disposed of, the board adjourned at the early hour of 9.50. Chairman Armstrong thanking all present for their attendance and congratulating them upon their rapid disposal of all business in hand.

Music and Drama

Manager J. T. Whittaker of the Grand Opera House announces the coming to Brantford of the famous English actor, Darwent Hall Caine, who will be seen at the Grand Opera House, for one night only, Thursday, April 22nd. Hall Caine's successful play, "Fate," has been for years a member of the Royal Naval Division and, naturally, is keenly interested in the rumors from Berlin that the German navy is preparing for a sortie against the grim line of waiting maintained by England's superdreadnoughts and smaller war craft. The young London actor-manager does not attach importance to the vague stories about the 17-inch or larger guns that Germany is said to have mounted on her marine giants, and which German sympathizers declare can far outshoot the big 15-inch guns of the British fleet.

"Even if these claims be granted, and no account is taken of England's equally secret preparations," Mr. Caine says, "it might be well to remember that England's ocean bulwarks are lying just beyond the range of the German land guns at Heligoland, impatiently awaiting the first appearance of a German boat beyond the protection of the German naval base. No matter what range the alleged new German guns might possess, the boats that mount them must come within range of England's guns before opening fire. Everyone who has had even my limited opportunities to study the effectiveness of the British naval fighting machine hopes and prays that the German admiralty will decide on a test of strength at sea."

Mr. Caine hoped and expected last year to have a part to play in England's sea program. As a member of the Royal Naval Division he awaited with impatience a call to the colors from the moment war was declared. At the height of his successful revival of "Fate" at the Aldwych Theatre in London last September the call came. He cancelled all contracts and reported for duty.

"I went down to Deal and was there just long enough to be all full of getting to the front," he says, "and wondering with the other fellows, how soon we would be sent, when the surgeons sent for me and a lot of the others. They found my leg wouldn't do. I smashed it to baggins at St. Mortiz some years ago. It has been all right enough for me, but they said it was not a navy leg, so there I was, out of it—turned down, as I believe it is expressed on this side."

Mr. Caine's rejection by the English navy has made possible, however, his appearance in Canada and the United States in his famous father's most successful play. At the end of the present spring tour he will begin a New York run in "Fate" under the direction of Henry Miller. Brantford is one of the few cities that will see "Fate" with the original Aldwych Theatre production, prior to the Broadway presentation.

There is a rattling good bill for the last half of the week. The specialties include Burke Bros. and Kendall in the finest club manipulation act ever seen here, and Frances and Sally do a vaudeville stunt which is much beyond the ordinary, including some marvellous animal imitations. The ever popular Mary Pickford, the highest priced woman vaudeville artist, appears in "The Foundling," and she has never been seen to better advantage. The rest of the show is also excellent.

Colonial
The Princess Players registered another hit to their credit at the Colonial last night when they presented that always new melodrama, "Jesse James." A crowded house laughed at the funny "Tige," a colored servant played extremely well by Lloyd Neal and applauded "Jesse James" played by Geo. Ormsbee. "Zelda Rawlston," the wife of the famous outlaw, gave Kitty Kirk an opportunity to display her talent in a role entirely different from any that she has heretofore appeared in. The balance of the company were excellent in their respective roles and the play was given in a spirited way that pleased and delighted the many admirers of this clever company has made during their stay here. "Jesse James" will be repeated again to-night and Saturday matinee and night.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL.
To keep little ones well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. Nine-tenths of childhood ailments are caused by derangements of these organs. Baby's Own Tablets never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels—that is why thousands of mothers would give no other medicine to their little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. A. Turner, Marie Joseph, N. S., writes:—"We have been using Baby's Own Tablets off and on for the past year and a half and have found nothing to equal them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

H. A. Wiles supposed pauper, dead in Butler, Pa., had $3,000 concealed in his ragged clothing.

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mothers! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs," because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Thomas Cutbert, aged 50, formerly of Woodstock, was found dead in a suburb of Chicago. Foul play is suspected.

Buffalo Secures Two Boston Pitchers

Boston, April 7.—The sale of Pitchers McCabe and Anderson to the Buffalo Club of the International League, was announced by the Boston American's management last night.

C. Walker Goes to Boston.

St. Louis, April 7.—Clarence Walker, outfielder with the St. Louis Americans, was sold yesterday to the Boston Americans.

Odd how major league managers wanting to send out players for seasoning overlooked New Iberia, La. That's where they make tobacco sauce.

Honus Wagner during his entire career has never been a holdout. When a man becomes so proficient that he writes his own contracts, it's not necessary to hold out.

Tommy Leach has an eighteen-year-old son who is said to be a much better ball player than his dad was at that age. Maybe so; but he'll be some Leach if he sticks as long.

While Myers and Meyers were working as a battery for Connie Mack the other day, Adams and Adams were in the points for the Phillies. Some troubles ahead for Philadelphia scorers is right.

Joe Tinker's stars (?) gathered from among 60 players, are being banged from pillar to post as anything but the promised pennant hope predicted for it.

George Gibson is in his eleventh year as a major league catcher. But Joe Tinker is not the senior backstop. The honor goes to Charley Dooin, who is entering his fourteenth year, coming in to the league towards the close of the 1902 season.

Now we know why John Evers visited the camp of the Yankees and hobnobbed with Bill Donovan. He was seeking players for his Troy team in the New York State League—and he has landed a couple of them.

Fred Anderson, the pitcher secured by the Giants from the Buffalo Fed, has looked pretty good so far and McGraw fancies he will be a regular in one of the games against the Tigers.

A few years ago Benny Kauff and Taylor Farrell were teammates at Huntington, W. Va. Now both are outfielders with the Giants. Farrell, however, is likely to be in the International League before the season opens.

Reports from the camp of the Boston Braves seem to agree that Orville Bill James is through as a pitcher. John Evers is quoted as saying that James' case is hopeless, that he is absolutely through and is not being counted on.

Jack Barry never had met Hans Wagner until he arrived at Hot Springs this spring. He immediately asked to be introduced. "I consider him the greatest ball player the game has ever known, and consider it an honor to shake his hand," said the second baseman of the Red Sox.

There is one bright spot in the whole mess that the Chicago Cubs are in and that is the pitching of Hippo Vaughn. In the final game of the disastrous series with the Phillies Hippo pitched three innings and allowed but one hit. He also fanned four of the champions, including Cravens and Luderus.

Harry Hellman, who has been playing firstbase for the Tigers, is expected to take Burns' place, but he has been making a strong bid for a regular job. He hit for .364 in the Coast League last season, and in 98 games. In two games at Waco this spring he made four doubles and a home run for Jimmy Burke's rookies.

The reception given Tris Speaker by his teammates when he reported at Hot Springs was anything but cordial, according to reports. It seems the players felt that Speaker has treated the Boston Club badly and they had hoped to show President Lennin they could win without the Hubbard City man.

Galvin, the University of Wisconsin star with the Chicago White Sox, took strenuous measures to oust Jack Fournier from the first base job which Galvin covets. He ran into Fournier and spitked him badly, putting him out of the game for several days and thus getting a chance at the first sack himself.

Three New Players For the Leafs

Jersey City, N. J., April 7.—The Toronto Club has landed three new players, said to be two pitchers and an infielder from the New York Highlanders. The New York management declines to make public the names of the players.

Neal Ball persists in refusing to report. He may change his mind after being allowed to cool his heels awhile, as the Leafs have no intention of allowing the useful veteran to have his release to manage the Bridgeport club. Should he report and any of the prospective infield fixtures fail to measure up to expectations, he may be used.

Trainer Frank Carroll is of the opinion that Layden will not be incapacitated for more than a week with the pulled tendon which resulted from the accident to the player this afternoon. Anyway, Layden will have to step lively to take an outfield job away from Becker, Reid and Brackett.

Tesch, a former Brantford and Ottawa Canadian League infielder, turned out with the Leafs yesterday. He was sold last season to the Kansas City team of the American Association, but jumped to the Federal League, playing a few games with the Brooklyn team, of the independent circuit. He did not sign with Kansas City, and therefore jumped the reserved clause only. He has been signed by the Astoria Club.

While discussing the prospects of the Leafs, Manager Birmingham intimated that he might be found in the infield himself this season. Joe broke into the organized game as an infielder after playing third base for Notre Dame and Cornell Universities.

FINANCIAL POSITION

Is Becoming More and More Serious Each Day in Germany.

Paris, April 7.—London Daily Telegraph dispatch—According to information emanating from neutral sources the German financial situation is daily becoming more precarious.

German capitalists and financiers already have taken precautions in view of coming events.

Several well known bankers, this information declares, have migrated to Switzerland with capital, with the object of going to the United States, if necessary.

It is apprehended that prohibitive measures may be taken to prevent the further exodus of German capital abroad.

Many German business men now turn their eyes towards South America as a field for their operations, because in many other parts of the world their activity, henceforward, will be less acceptable.

German financiers declare the last loan was subscribed only through clever manipulation and doubtful methods, which are a grave danger to the empire.

MASSED ATTACKS COST THE GERMAN FORCES HEAVILY

The Crown Prince Has Modified His Tactics With-out Result.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 7.—(Cable to The New York World)—The Daily Mail's Paris correspondent wires:

"Massed attacks, so dear to the Germans, having entailed enormous losses without any corresponding success so far as the capture of Verdun is concerned, the Crown Prince with in the last day or two has modified his tactics.

The plan pursued Tuesday when the Germans made an attack on the French trenches south of Douaumont village, showed the new formation at work. First came several lines of infantry in extended order, the men being from three to four yards apart.

Small columns in support followed, taking advantage of all possible cover. On these devolved the real work of the day. Their task was to storm trenches, and for this purpose they were provided with ladders and foot bridges. Some were supplied with dynamite petards to blow up barbed wire entanglements and others had picks and shovels.

"All this elaborate organization proved useless, for the Germans never got near the French trenches. When they were still 200 yards away the French opened such a withering fire that the skirmishers were mowed down, and the storming columns, after wavering for a moment, fell back and finally fled for shelter to the Chaufour wood. This afforded them very inadequate protection, for the French 75's continued to pour a pitiless hail of shells among the trees. Of 10,000 men who started out to demonstrate the superiority of the new tactics, only a miserable fragment answered the roll call at close of day."

Billy Sunday was received by President Wilson at the White House.

The Canadian Soldier: "That's about the worst mess of a forest I ever saw." The Canadian Woodsman: "It is, eh? Then you ought to see what's left after a forest fire. I'll take you to a hundred townships right here in Canada that will make such a picture look tame. We think it is a pity for European forests to be smashed and yet we smash our own by nearly 10,000 timber fires per annum." The Soldier: "H'm! That's a new way of looking at it."

Ocular evidence was furnished at Hertford by a coachman who applied for exemption from military service because he had only one eye. When asked for evidence in support of his plea the applicant dropped his right eye, an artificial one, into his hand. The court allowed the claim.

An interesting gift to the Red Cross sale, to be opened shortly in London, consists of a flag of France which was taken at the battle of Waterloo. The museums of France possess similar flags with the gilt eagle on the top. Military banners taken in battle very rarely come into the market.

Settlement of Northern Ontario is Being Planned

Announcement Made by the Government to This Effect—Loans Will be Given to Desirable Settlers.

Toronto, April 7.—The Ontario Government's proposals to encourage and assist settlement in Northern Ontario were announced in the Legislature by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson yesterday, in introducing an amendment to the Northern Development Act, that will open the way for extensive financial help to desirable settlers.

Briefly stated, the Government proposes, through a special commissioner, to make loans at a low rate of interest to any settler whose application proves worthy. That assistance will be limited for the present to $300 to a settler, and the basis upon which the loan will be made will be the amount of land cleared—probably from $25 to $35 for each cleared acre.

These loans will by the simple filing of a notice become a first lien upon the settler's land.

The Government, however, proposes to go further. Not only will the settler be given financial assistance but the department in charge will assume more direct charge of the location to newcomers. Instead of being allowed to go into the North Country and settle down wherever they fancy, settlers in the future will be placed together, no new townships being opened until those now open have been filled.

The situation in Northern Ontario, as far as colonization is concerned, and the settlement and development of the land, is one that has been receiving great attention at the hands of the Government for some time," stated the Minister in introducing the bill. Settlement has been progressing fairly rapidly under conditions to be met with in that section of the province such as are not met with anywhere else in the Dominion of Canada.

The Minister went on to point out that Ontario was approaching a new era of development. With the close of the war there would be a heavy tide of immigration to Ontario and to the land, and the Government had realized the importance of being ready to provide accommodation for that new population.

Ontario had in the North a vast area of land that was pregnant with opportunity for success along agricultural lines. At first the timber of the North was looked upon as its chief asset, then its mines, but now it was recognized that Northern and North-western Ontario were destined to become great agricultural stretches.

In the North Country there were some twenty millions of just as good land as could be found anywhere west of the Great Lakes, as good as land anywhere else on the face of the globe.

That had been demonstrated by the men who had gone in and in the face of great difficulties had made for themselves valuable farms.

Ferguson stated that in the District of Timiskaming alone there were 28,000,000 acres of land, 17,000,000 of which were available for settlement. There had been sold almost 800,000 acres of that land, the great part of which was in the hands of settlers.

In the District of Timiskaming there were 6,000 settlers, all heads of families, who had gone in recent years. For the past year returns showed that there were raised three-quarters of a million dollars.

The Minister reviewed the results attending the distribution of seed grain on credit among the settlers of the north country. Four thousand settlers had secured seed and in Timiskaming alone $30,000 had been advanced to the settlers in seed, protected by a lien note.

"While these loans did not become repayable until the first of this month, the money is now being paid at the rate of $1,000 to $1,500 a day," said the Minister, in demonstrating the improved position of the settlers by reason of the assistance given them by the department in getting crops last year.

"The great majority of those settlers have now enough seed for their own uses and some of them have a surplus to set aside for the next year. We are again giving seed on credit to worthy settlers, but it is a striking fact and tangible evidence of the splendid progress made by the settlers here up to the present time we have had only 400 applications for seed, where last year we had about 4,000 applications."

LOANS ON CLEARED LAND
The Minister in explaining the government's plan for aiding the settlers, referred to the importance of providing them with live stock and stated that the Government had that matter under consideration.

"Our thought in connection with these loans is that as they are made from time to time they shall be made largely upon the basis of clearing done. If inspection indicates that in a certain district it costs from $40 to $50 to clear the land, it might be well for the Government to advance the settler $25 to $30, according to his land. If he should leave the country, the province would always have the improvements as ample security against any advance that has been made.

I take it there will be absolutely no risk by the Government and there will be inestimable advantages and good to the settlers able to secure loans from the Government.

The Government believes that it is desirable to keep the advancement of provincial or public moneys to the settlers as far as we can possibly keep it from Government or political control in any sense. We, therefore, propose under this act to appoint a statutory commission through whom these loans will be made.

That commission will make the investigations into applications, make the valuations and decide whether a loan should be made or not. To safeguard the province against loss, or rather against extravagance or improper loans and to keep this matter within the limitations of legitimate assistance, we will limit the amount of a loan in each case to $500. That should be in all ordinary circumstances—much less in most of them—be enough."

The Minister declared that the department was working upon plans for the carrying out of an energetic colonization propaganda from now on.

"We propose to be prepared for after-the-war conditions and we propose to have our machinery ready to take advantage of every opportunity that may come to this country after the war, in the way of new settlers or immigrants of any kind."

"Our thought also is that we shall open new townships only as they are required for settlement. We shall keep closer supervision over actual colonization than in the past. We propose that it shall be done on some systematic basis. We do not intend to let settlers get located in any part of the country where they may be isolated and become a liability to the country. It is thought that we shall group our settlers as we go along and keep close supervision over every settlement as well as the business and economic phase, there is the social side of life to be provided for and unless we can satisfy the settler's wife to stay there we are not much help to the settler making any success. We must keep the settlers sufficiently in touch so that there shall be some social life amongst them, so that they can have churches and schools and all the advantages of municipal organization."

APPOINT SPECIAL AGENTS
Mr. Ferguson stated that the department proposed to appoint a number of special agents at points in the north whose duty it would be to welcome the settlers, advise and give them all useful information and to look after their business affairs and the storing of their household goods until the settler can get settled.

The new work will be under the direction of an experienced business man, with a staff of men thoroughly in touch with conditions in the north.

SPRING BLOOD IS WATERY BLOOD

How to Get New Health and New Strength at This Season.

Spring ailments are not imaginary. Even the most robust find the winter months most trying to their health. Confinement indoors, often in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the home, the office, the shop and the school—taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery and is clogged with impurities. Some people have headaches and a feeling of languor. Others are low-spirited and nervous. Still others are troubled with disfiguring pimples and skin eruptions; while some get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when they went to bed.

These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order and that a medicine is needed. Many people take purgative medicines in the spring. This is a serious mistake. You cannot cure yourself with a medicine that gallops through your system and leaves you weaker still. This is all that a purgative does. What you need to give you strength and energy in the spring is a tonic medicine that will enrich the blood and soothe the jangled nerves. And the one always reliable, tonic and blood purifier is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These Pills not only banish spring weakness but guard you against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anaemia, nervous debility, indigestion, rheumatism and other diseases due to bad blood. In proof of this Mrs. D. E. Hughes, Hazenmore, Sask., says: "About a year ago I was badly run down, my nerves were all unstrung, and I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. As I was a long ways from a doctor I determined to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in the course of a few weeks I felt like a new person. As an all round restorative, I can heartily recommend this medicine."

"WE'RE READY, BUT SEND SINGLE MEN FIRST."

An open-air meeting of the "Union of Attested and Married Men" in one of the London parks. These men, attested under the Derby scheme, are calling on the Government to fulfil its pledge to send single men of military age first. At a conference this week Lord Derby agreed to urge the Government to carry this out.—(Exclusive Courier Pictorial Service, in conjunction with the London Daily Mirror.)

An army order announces that the King has approved of a new medal being struck to commemorate local military operations against native tribes or rebels in East, Central, and West Africa. It will be known as the "Africa General Service Medal."

The same order notifies that the new medal, with clasp "Shimber Berris, 1914-15," has been granted to officers and men under the command of Colonel T. A. Cubitt, D.S.O., who took part in operations against dervishes at Shimber Berris in November, 1914, and February, 1915, with the clasp "Nyassaland, 1915." The medal is granted to the forces engaged in operations against rebels in the Shire Highlands of Nyassaland in January and February, 1915.

A food-raising experiment is being very successfully carried out in Croydon. Nearly 300 workmen are growing their own vegetables on ground lent free of cost. This enterprise is managed by the Croydon Vacant Lands Cultivation Society. The plots are chiefly land which is lying idle till the building trade revives. Others are the gardens of untenanted or "desert" houses.

Factory proprietors have given up their surplus land for the time being. Plots are let under legal agreement, the committee in most cases undertaking if called upon to give up the land at four days' notice. In that event the plot-holder gets compensation from a common fund to which all these "small holders" pay 4s. a year.

A wounded soldier is seriously ill at Eastbourne as the result of eight days imprisonment in an empty well. He is unable to give any account of how he got into it. He was discovered by some people who were walking through the wood at Paradise. One of the party looked over a fence into a well, and exclaimed, "There's a soldier." An ambulance party was summoned and by means of a ladder and ropes the man was brought to the surface. He was not unconscious, and could walk, but he appeared to be very ill, and was quite unable to give an account of himself. He had almost a week's growth of beard, and was covered with mud and chalk. He was placed in a motor car and taken to comfortable quarters, where he was put to bed. The well, now not used, is about twelve feet square and thirty feet deep. In the past it was used to take overflow from a reservoir. The soldier must have kept himself alive by catching water as it trickled from the side of the well.

The Cornwall sea fisheries committee states that the herring fishing season has been one of the best ever recorded from a monetary point of view. Abnormal prices have been realized. Owing to men being on active service the fleets are smaller than usual, and on one of the St. Ives boats the youngest man is over 60 years of age.

A superstitious belief prevalent in some of the rural districts of Devonshire, that it was unlucky to cut a baby's nails, was referred to at a recent meeting of the Devon Nursing Association. In one case a woman, whose husband is at the front, had allowed her baby's nails to grow for a twelvemonth. The result was that the little one's face was terribly scratched.

A Serial Story of Absorbing Interest.

The man looked doubtfully at his best employer, but the gentleman signed to him to obey, and when the two moved away he followed at a little distance.

Lucy deposited her box in the cloak room and paid for it, and as she gave a small tip to the porter asked—

"Is there any quiet respectable hotel near where I could get a room for the night?"

"I don't know, ma'am. I am a stranger here myself," he said indifferently, and turned away.

Lucy put her hand in the pocket of her dress to feel if the purse containing the bulk of her money was safe. The gentleman who was unobtrusively observing her saw her start and flush, and then grow white and frightened. She felt her pocket over and over again. She opened a little handbag she carried, and took out a couple of shillings and a few coppers and looked at them despairingly.

"My pocket has been picked," she cried, running after the porter, who was lingering near. "My purse is gone."

"You should have taken better care of it, miss. You will never see it again."

"Oh, what shall I do? Where shall I go?" But the man was gone in answer to a summons from a superior officer.

Though Lucy was young and inexperienced, she was neither a coward nor without solid judgment. She felt she must do what she would have given much to avoid. There was one person in London who she knew would gladly help her. She had meant they should be strangers for the rest of their lives. She had promised it should be so, but the difficulty in which she found herself obliged her to break her resolve. It was impossible she should stay all night on the platform, now fast becoming deserted. She made up her mind to go to Lisabel Beresford, and hurried to the exit from the station and looked up and down the street. The cab-stand was at a little distance and was nearly deserted. She timidly hailed a four-wheeler, but when the man heard her destination he declared himself "engaged."

Perplexed and beginning to be frightened, she was again met by the gentleman who had befriended her before was addressing her. His manner was perfectly respectful, and there was something about him which made her instinctively trust him.

"Excuse me! You want a cab? Allow me to call one! It is late, and I am afraid you may have some difficulty in getting home."

"Oh, thank you!" she said gratefully. "I did not know what to do."

They walked on a few yards, and her companion signed to a hansom and put her in.

"What address?" he asked.

She gave it to him mechanically. He started slightly and looked as if he were going to speak, but changed his mind and gave the address to the cabman. Then, with a pleasant "Good night!" he was gone.

She was sorry she was more lonely and desolate than before. He was more like a friend than a chance acquaintance. She was sure he was a gentleman, and he had seen that she was a lady in spite of her shabby dress and being unattended at that late hour.

She had a considerable distance to go, and she had time to conjure up a thousand fears and surmises before she arrived at her destination.

"Here you are, miss," said the cabman, opening the door. "Shall I ring?"

"No, thank you," said Lucy nervously. "How much is more fare? I am afraid I have not much!"

"The gentleman paid me, miss; it's all right! I'm off home!" He whipped down the street.

Lucy went slowly up the steps of the mansion and rang the bell. The door was instantly opened by a servant in livery. He looked inquiringly and somewhat suspiciously at her. Lucy's heart sank.

"Is Miss Beresford at home? Will you kindly take her my card and say I wish to see her?"

"Miss Beresford is not here," said the man, beginning to do down the door, "and, if she was, she doesn't see visitors at this time of night."

Lucy held the door desperately.

"Where is she? She would wish me to wait for her."

"No doubt, young woman, but there is no use waiting, for she isn't in London. She has gone down to Brighton, and won't be back for a week."

At this moment a carriage drove up, and a footman in the same livery as the one at the door let down the steps, assisted a lady in a white opera-cloak to alight. Lucy turned eagerly towards her as she ascended the steps.

"I am Lucy Carden," she said. "I came up to London from Brighton by a late train, and unfortunately I had my pocket picked and am left with only a few pence, so that I am unable to go to an hotel. I came here, knowing that Miss Beresford would take me in for the night. The man said she was from home, but may I ask you to extend so much hospitality to me as to give me a supper? I have no money and know no one else in London. I have not even sufficient to take me back to the station."

Here Lucy faltered, for Mrs. Beresford's stony face had not relaxed, and she was gathering her skirts around her to pass on.

"May I ask what motive you had for leaving Brighton so suddenly?" Lucy hesitated and Mrs. Beresford continued—

"I have been deceived in you, like others. Can you deny that you were summarily dismissed by your late employer? No, you cannot! I had a note before going out from the Principal, giving me her reasons fully for the step she had taken, and express-

you had not seen me?"

"Don't think of it any more. Hello, officer!" said a policeman passing, who looked suspiciously at the pair standing by the lamp post and the waiting cab.

He drew the man aside, and a short colloquy ensued; then he returned to Lucy.

"This officer is on his way home, but he will first take you to a quiet hotel he knows of and will put you in safe keeping. You must promise me to remain there until I communicate with Miss Beresford, and she comes to you. There must be no more midnight wanderings, no more romantic adventures," he said in his kind voice.

"I will promise with all my heart!" "I hope you believe I am grateful, but I can never tell you how grateful!"

"That's all right! This is in Lisabel's name, and you can arrange it with her"—slipping some gold and silver into her hand.

She silently accepted. Then he put her into the cab, and the policeman pointed the box beside the driver. Lord Brixton raised his hat, and as the cab drove away Lucy saw him in the brilliant light of the lamp. A yard or two farther on a party of gipsy men came round a corner and headed towards the spot she had just left. She shuddered and hid her face in her hands.

CHAPTER XVI.

The next morning Lucy Carden was sitting in one corner of the big, dimly lighted coffee-room of the hotel in which she had found refuge through the kindness of Lord Brixton, when a telegram was handed to her. She had slept badly, and now a strange lassitude clung to her. Her spirit had long been harassed, she was delicately organized, and her body had given way under the long strain; she languidly tore open the orange-colored envelope and read:

"Had a telegram from B. this morning. Am coming up at once. Expect me about one o'clock. Have spoken to no one of our business. Shall be so very glad to see you again. Don't fail to wait for me.—L. Beresford."

How good he had been! What would have happened to her if he had not taken such pains to help her in her need? Lisabel was, indeed, a happy girl, for Lucy had read his secret in the softening of his voice and the light in his eye when he spoke her name. They deserved the happiness that was coming to them, but for her—all that was gone by forever.

She wondered idly what had become of Sir Everard Denham. Did he ever think of her now. He had been strong and true, but fate had been against him, and no one could fight long against fate. She smiled faintly at the thought. She had thought of it all now. She had fought passionately against her lot; she had suffered agonies of grief and loneliness; she had put all she prized away from her; she had lived hardily, and worked incessantly; and now she smiled in wonder as she thought of these things. Why had she endured it, when it turned out to no use? She cared for none of these things now. All she wanted was quiet and rest.

EVERYBODY AT SALONIKI GOES TO "FLOCA'S"

Soldiers in Greek City Make the Little Cafe Famous.

Saloniki, April 7.—(British Official Eye-witness)—Floca's has become the social focus of the Entente armies in the Balkans. Some such rendezvous comes to be associated with almost every expeditionary war. The bar of Shepherd's Hotel in Cairo was the place through which everyone passed sooner or later in the time of the Sudan campaigns; the Rand Club at Johannesburg had a similar function in South Africa. Here the same unexpected greatness has been thrust upon Floca's, so that its name will always remain in the memory of those who took off to spend this tedious winter at Saloniki.

Floca's in peace time was just a commonplace cafe, with no more than the modest distinction of being the best of such establishments in Saloniki. Here on an ordinary weekday were to be found a sprinkling of Levantine gentlemen drinking Turkish coffee while they discussed with fluent gesture the latest political rumors from Athens.

Its fortunate proprietor, who, like so many others here, is making a small fortune, has to thank two of the most cherished Allied institutions—the Englishman's afternoon tea and the Frenchman's afternoon aperitif or appetizer. From four o'clock in the afternoon until eight, Floca's is more densely populated than any spot in Saloniki. It is filled with officers of the allied armies—base officers, camp officers, embarkation officers, staff officers, flying officers, French, British, Serbian, Greek—such a varied collection of officers of every rank and corps that Floca's might be the animated fashion book of a millionaire of international clientele. But Floca's would hardly be a success in fashionable London. Its interior is gloomy and often foggy. Its green waiters of sinister aspect, only descend to serve when their attention is attracted by a series of sharp hand-claps. But in Saloniki men count themselves lucky to find a table free, and for those who have lived for months on a barren mountain side it is a most desirable and restful spot of the institutions of home.

Famine and Destitution in Jerusalem

Hundreds of Thousands Are Daily Fed From American Relief Fund.

Alexandria, Egypt, April 6.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The American relief fund here, 400,000 persons in Jerusalem are now receiving daily rations from the American Relief Fund.

A woman engaged in relief work there writes:

"Everything costs four times as much as before, so you can imagine what a state the people are in. Our poor children look like skeletons. Bread is very dear and the prices are taken away for soldiers and the mothers are miserable and weak."

An English woman who has arrived here from Palestine by way of Cyprus, states that the Turks fully expect that the Allies will invade the country and are devoting much energy to preparations to repel them. They have constructed numerous military roads. They have fortified the Mount of Olives and believe that they have made it impregnable.

Meanwhile, she says, the economic situation is deplorable. As it is impossible to export the oranges, they have been allowed to rot on the trees. Public executions are frequent. At Jaffa, Haly Hamis, the chief boatman of a tourist agency and the Kavass (military courier) of the American consulate, well known to all tourists in Palestine, has been hanged on a charge of espionage. Emil Knesovich, a son of the British consular agent at Jaffa, was saved from a similar fate only by the intervention of Dr. Glazebrook, the American consul at Jerusalem. He was accused of having received letters from his father, a refugee in Egypt.

More than 400 men, mostly privates, students and ex-students of the agricultural College, are now in uniform.
