KITCHENER ALIVE, ENGLAND BELIEVES

Lloyds Agency Issuing Policies Insuring that K. is Actually Dead.

By Courier Leased Wire New York, Sept. 14.—A special cablegram to the New York Sun from London says:

"At Lloyds, where insurance against practically anything can be obtained, a policy was issued recently insuring that Lord Kitchener would remain dead at a premium of five shillings per hundred pounds (about $2.50 per $1,000). Hundreds of persons were flocking to take similar policies.

"One firm announces that the widespread belief that Lord Kitchener is alive is causing a flock of applications, many of which offer much higher premiums. More than $1,000,000 of such insurance has been asked from a single firm, the applicants including army, navy, professional and business men."

CAMPAIGN IS FAILING

Entente Military Conference at Paris Postponed a Month.

By Courier Leased Wire New York, Sept. 13.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says:

"Great Britain and the United States are experimenting with an anti-submarine device which is said to be more promising than any of its predecessors. The nature of the invention is not disclosed, but even representatives of the British Government, who have been disappointed often in the past, and who are naturally less optimistic than our own navy men, are hopeful. In addition the convoy system is being extended and is still proving successful, which probably accounts for the reduction in losses announced this week.

"All in all, the submarine situation is believed to be better in hand than at any previous time. Or to put it another way, the defence against U-boat attack, has more than kept pace with the improvements in U-boats themselves. The recent dispatches from London calling attention to the gravity of the submarine situation are supposed to refer rather to the exhaustion of the allies resulting from U-boat destruction of merchantmen, than to the success of the U-boat at the present time."

Postpone Conference Washington, Sept. 14.—The projected Entente military conference which was scheduled to be held in Paris this month, has been postponed. Continued on Page Five

Further Defection Among Korniloff's Supporters is Reported; Leader is Powerless, and Near Surrender

By Courier Leased Wire. Petrograd, Sep. 13.—M. Soskice, private secretary to Premier Kerensky told the Associated Press to-day that the situation shows steady improvement.

Continuing he said: "General Korniloff has not surrendered, but he is quite prepared to do so and is in a position of complete powerlessness. We have just received an offer of surrender from 12 companies of Korniloff's troops who say they have been deceived, and General Kaledines, who with his Don Cossacks began a menacing movement against the government has been checked. We expect that he soon will be taken.

"Although we were badly wounded, upon our arrival at Gostrow, we were kept standing in the snow without boots from 1 a.m. until 10 o'clock at night. Several of us nearly died of starvation. When we were relieved we were either prodded with bayonets or the 'English blockade' was given as a reason of the shortage of food. The bedding was covered with vermin and we slept on straw on the floor.

"After weeks of this hell, we were set to work to build a canal. Several hundred men with arms and legs had to work, and if a man slacked off he received the butt end of a rifle. One day we saw several wounded men stashed by their guards and they were afterwards carried to a hospital. One man who refused to work was taken away and we never saw him again."

Railway service between Luga and Petrograd has been resumed.

CABINET CHANGES

London, Sep. 14.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Limited states that Vice Premier N. V. Nebrasoff has informed the press that he and M. I. Terestchenko, minister of foreign affairs, have decided to leave their posts in the cabinet, considering that their participation in the government narrowed their political horizon and, being only business ministers without party support, they did not possess sufficient strength in the cabinet. The vice premier also announced the withdrawal from the cabinet of M. Poescheonoff, minister of food and supplies.

Other changes in the cabinet, include the retirement of Toheronoff, minister of agriculture, who will be replaced by M. Askventieff, present minister of the interior, who in turn will be succeeded by M. Kischikin, a Constitutional Democrat. M. Kischikin enters the cabinet unconditionally. M. Koareptief, minister of communications, resigned because he did not consider it possible to execute Premier Kerensky's order to take certain measures against Korniloff.

NEW FRENCH CABINET AN INFUSION OF MANY PARTIES

Its Personnel Comprises Veteran Statesmen, Including Three Former Premiers; New Ministry of Missions Abroad

Paris, Sept. 14.—The new French cabinet contains a new ministry, at first called the Ministry of Propaganda, but later changed to Ministry of Missions Abroad. Owing to the absence of Franklin Bousillon, the new post is not listed with the other ministry designations in the official journal. The new ministry consists of 15 titular ministers, 4 ministers of state and 11 under secretaries. The new ministry is divided among five senators, eleven deputies and two, Louis Lecheur and Albert Clavelle, who do not belong to parliament. The 11 under secretaries are all members of the Chamber of Deputies. Sixteen of the new cabinet members have been ministers or under secretaries in previous cabinets, and three are former premiers. The political groups represented in the new ministry do not include the United Socialists. Premier Painleve represents the Socialist-Republican group, while the Socialist Radicals have three members, the Radical-Left three, the Republic Union seven members. Seven members of the Ribot ministry retain places in the new cabinet. The most noted perhaps, of the Ribot ministry to go are Rene Viviani and Albert Thomas. Continued on page three

BRITISH ABUSED IN PRISON CAMPS

Submitted by Their Captors to Wanton and Revolting Cruelty.

By Courier Leased Wire New York, Sept. 14.—A special cable despatch to the New York World from London, dated September 13, says:

"The revolting cruelty to which British prisoners are subjected in German military camps was described by repatriated soldiers who arrived in London to-day. Private George Eiseley, of a Welsh regiment, who was captured in Sept. 1914, said:

"Although wounded, we were kept without food or water for days, and when one of us begged for something to drink, the nurse brought him a glass of water and threw it in his face. Later we were removed to a hospital at Schwerin, where we were well treated and later still to the Gustrup internment camp, where we were treated like dogs."

"All the wounded men were kept standing in the snow without boots from 1 a.m. until 10 o'clock at night. Several of us nearly died of starvation. When we were relieved we were either prodded with bayonets or the 'English blockade' was given as a reason of the shortage of food. The bedding was covered with vermin and we slept on straw on the floor.

CANTILEVER'S CENTRAL SPAN TO BE PLACED

Fresh Attempt to Complete Bridge Will Be Made This Week.

WITHIN 48 HOURS

Method Which Failed Last Year Will Again be Followed.

By Courier Leased Wire Quebec, Sept. 14.—Another attempt to put the central span of the great cantilever over the River St. Lawrence near Quebec, into position, thus completing the structure, will be made some time during the next 48 hours.

The span built to succeed the link that dropped into the St. Lawrence September 11, last year, has been constructed at Sillery on pontoons and is ready to be dragged to the bridge site by tugs, there to be hoisted the 150 additional feet from the water level to the unconnected cantilever arms which stretch out from both sides of the river.

The engineers of the St. Lawrence bridge company, the constructors of the bridge, have decided that no better method of raising the span than that tried last year—by four huge chains attached to each corner of the link, and hoisted by six ton jacks from the cantilever arms above—has presented itself. They have, however, modified the three feet raise the jacks made last year, at each movement, to two feet. The wrought iron castings upon which the corners of the span rest, and which are connected to the hoisting apparatus, the breaking of one of which caused the disaster last year, have been this time constructed of the toughest steel.

It is expected that it will take several days to get the span into its place and operations upon it will continue night and day until concluded.

Savage Division, Though Avoiding Hostilities, is Not Yet Prepared to Surrender--Commission on the Revolt

By Courier Leased Wire. Village of Popovo, Near Tsarskoe Selo, Thursday, Sep. 13.—Having obtained the only permit issued by the chief of the Petrograd district staff to a correspondent since the beginning of General Korniloff's revolt, the Associated Press early this morning arrived at this village which is the headquarters of the staff of a rifle regiment of the Guard, which, with two other rifle regiments is engaged in holding the front opposite the famous "savage" division.

The situation here is as follows: "Although all danger of an armed struggle is now excluded, the "savage" division still is not agreed to surrender on the terms granted by the provisional government last night, but it has formally pledged itself not to attack the Kerensky forces. With its artillery and machine gun detachments the division which is composed of tribesmen from the Caucasus is quartered peacefully in villages south of this place without entrenchments, outposts, sentries or reconnoitering detachments.

Passing within forty yards of the Popovo church are the governmental lines, but the Kerensky forces also have no intention of attacking as negotiations are proceeding, and there is a prospect of a settlement being reached before nightfall.

Russian emissaries and officers constantly are passing into the camp of the Caucasians carrying proclamations signed by the supreme commander advising the troops of the "savage" division to abandon their officers and to march to Tsarskoe Selo. Likewise tribesmen from the division all the time are coming into Popovo with plans for a settlement.

KALEDINES ARRESTED.

London, Sep. 14.—According to a dispatch from Petrograd to Reuter's Limited, General Kaledines, head of the Don Cossacks, has been arrested at Rostove by the local council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies.

TO INVESTIGATE UPRISING

Petrograd, Sep. 14.—The provisional government, according to the official news agency, has sent an extraordinary special commission to the Russian headquarters in the field to investigate the Korniloff affair.

CLEVER KORNILOFF

London, Sep. 14.—(New York World cable)—The Petrograd correspondent of The Daily News says General Korniloff knew Riga would be unable to hold out and at the Moscow conference he colored this information in such a manner that when the city fell he was able to say the disaster was due to the disorganization of the army.

BRITAIN DELIVERING SHIPS WHICH WILL CRUSH GERMANY

Five Words Voice Determination of Shipbuilders to do Their Bit Against U-Boats; A Trip to the Old Land Ship Building Yards

By Courier Leased Wire Glasgow, Sept. 14.—(By mail)—On the hull of a big ship being built in one of the many yards that line the river banks of Scotland and northwest England, a workman has written with chalk in bold letters six feet high, five words that express the determination of British shipbuilders "to do their bit" towards defeating the German submarines. The five words are these:

"We will deliver the ships."

A staff correspondent of the Associated Press has just completed a trip through the yards of the Rivers Tees, Tyne, Wear and Clyde as the guest of the foreign office and the admiralty. Great Britain not only will deliver the ships; they are being delivered now dozens of them, scores of them, even hundreds of them. On the four principal shipbuilding rivers of the country every available foot of adjoining land has a ship more or less complete over it. Nearly engine works are turning out motive power for the vessels at a tremendous rate. Shipbuilders of various sorts men, women, boys, girls—all are working at top speed to beat the Germans. MISSIONARIES IN ARTIC REGIONS

Party Travelled 25 Miles in Year; Seeking Blond Esquimos.

By Courier Leased Wire Regina, Sept. 13.—Rudolph M. Anderson, chief of the southern party of the Stefansson Arctic Expedition, who was in Regina to-day, stated to a Canadian Press representative that he had just received a letter from Rev. H. Gerling, Emmanuel College, Saskatoon, who for three years has been trying to reach the Blond Esquimos. The little boat in which the party was travelling, was blown up by an explosion this spring, and the party lost the greater part of their supplies.

During a year, the party of three missionaries had succeeded in travelling only 25 miles along the coast, so many difficulties are being experienced.

AERIAL ACTIVITIES

British Naval Fliers Continue Raiding Campaign Successfully

By Courier Leased Wire Paris, Sept. 14.—A German attack against the French positions on the Casematcs Plateau in the Alsace region last night, was repulsed after hand-to-hand fighting, the French war office officially announced to-day.

The text of the statement follows: "On the front north of the River Alsace, the Germans at an early hour this morning executed a sudden attack against our positions on the Casematcs Plateau. The assault, which was preceded by a violent bombardment, was repulsed after hand-to-hand fighting in which the enemy suffered heavy losses.

"In the Champagne in the course of a reconnaissance, we penetrated the German trenches to the west of Navarin Farm and took some prisoners. "On both banks of the River Meuse (Verdun region), there was the usual artillery activity. "There was nothing to report from the rest of the front."

German Official Berlin, Sept. 14.—The German "shoot troops" yesterday penetrated as far as the second French line west of Guignacourt on the Alsace front and inflicted heavy losses on the defenders, according to the official statement issued to-day by the German war office.

In Flanders the artillery battle increased to drumfire, the announcement adds, but no English attack developed.

Naval Air Raids.

London, Sept. 14.—British naval airplanes made another raid on the night of Wednesday and Thursday on German military establishments in Belgium. An official statement, issued by the British admiralty to-day says:

"A bombing raid was carried out during the night of September 12-13 by the Royal naval air service on military objectives at the Ghintelles airfield and the Thourout air-drome. A large quantity of bombs were dropped. All our machines returned safely."

British Front Quiet.

London, Sept. 14.—Field Marshal Haig's report from the British headquarters in France, issued to-day by the British war office says: "There is nothing of special interest to report."

NEWS OF NORFOLK

Simcoe Women's Institute Holds Its September Meeting.

Write Simcoe Agency Box 311 or 'phone 356-3 all matters regarding delivery or subscriptions; News Items or advertisements.

Simcoe, Sept. 14.—(From our own correspondent) The beautiful farm house lawn of Mr. and Mrs. George Potts, Woodhouse, presented an animated scene yesterday afternoon while the Simcoe Women's Institute held their September meeting there in warm September sunshine and balmy air.

It was a combination of work, instruction, recreation and financing, for many of the ladies had been knitting recipes of articles brought in, which were read and discussed and the articles were sold. Ten members paid the membership fee. The collection amounted to $4.15, and the vice-president, Miss Pidge Matthews, who presided in the absence through illness, of the president, Mrs. Williamson, handed over the sum of $26.00, obtained from the sale of lilies from her private garden. This gift was earmarked for the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. W. B. Tomlinson addressed the meeting, informally, giving a narrative of points of interest in her experience as travelling lecturer, throughout the province for the past months. There were about thirty-five present, and those from town left the farm just about the time their assistance with the milking and general chores might have been acceptable.

The Simcoe Reformer is wrothy this week because an article in the London Free Press credited this county with 55 fatal casualties, among men who passed out of the county through Simcoe. Coming out a few days later, Mr. Donly finds the county with 55 fatal casualties, a total 68. His authority, Lt.-Col. Aiken, he claims, is the best to be had. In this most will agree. But Col. Aiken says Pte. Stort was the first Norfolk man killed. Mr. Donly says not. He claims Pte. Watbuth was the first to fall. The Reformer protests also that Norfolk should take credit for all the Norfolk born, wherever they enlisted. Following this rule the casualty list for the county would probably shrink a little, for of the first thirty to leave Simcoe, only eleven were Canadians, according to Mr. Donly, and of the others there were: English, 14; Scotch, 4; Irish, 1; and it is possible that the eleven were not all Norfolk born.

So it really turns out that while on one page the Reformer reviles the Free Press for slighting Norfolk county, on another page publicity is given to the fact that approximately two-thirds of these first thirty-five are men upon whom lands across the sea should have first claim, if we are to follow the dictum set forth. In turn, then, the Reformer should be scoured for doing an injustice to this county.

Odd Ends of News
Sergt. Bland left for the front at 3.15 to-day, from the L. E. and N. depot, and was given a farewell cheer by Mayor Williamson and Reeve Carter, and other citizens. Herb. Hammond has recovered sufficiently from wounds to be again into the reserve battalion of his brigade.

Dick Wier is reported among those recently landed in Halifax. Signaller Wm. Layland is now reported seriously ill. Dispatcher Ted Noble, of the L. E. and N., paid Simcoe a visit yesterday. Miss Carrie McNally, of Niagara Falls, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. A. McIntosh.

The rivers are overhung with smoke; blast furnaces are glowing everywhere; streaks of red go back and forward in the rolling mills and through it all on these busy rivers there is a roar of automatic riveters, the clash of sledges on steel plates and the throbbing of ponderous machines that punch holes in plates an inch thick which at times truly is deafening.

Just now the builders of ships are rushing through work on countless destroyers, cruisers, and other naval ships that must remain for the present as "mysterles." They too are working at a tremendous rate, completing merchant ships—of which there appear to be hundreds. Some are large and some are small. Some are being built for private owners, some for the government. Especially fast work is being done on the merchant ships, as the government and the builders are anxious to increase British tonnage by building standard vessels, of which many are even now under construction, many having been launched.

THE BUSINESS WOMAN

To-day, more than ever before, is woman's opportunity. Many new occupations are now opened to her, which, before the war, she was deemed unfitted to fill. And truth to tell she has risen to the opportunity, and now shares many business responsibilities in former times confined to men. But, as women are subject to more frequent fluctuations of health than men, many will be handicapped early, if they regard their health requirements too lightly.

The nervous strain, long hours and prolonged mental or physical fatigue thin the blood and weaken the nerves. Such conditions as women are now called upon to undergo can only be endured by a full-blooded constitution. This is as true for men as for women, only weaker women suffer sooner. The woman worker, in any line, requires her blood replenished frequently. She needs new, rich blood to keep her health under the trying conditions of business life, and to fortify her system against the effects of overwork. This applies also to the woman in the home, who, perhaps, has more worries and anxieties than usual. So let all girls and women take heed and renew their blood promptly at the first approach of weakness, lack of appetite, headache or backache. This can be best and most effectively accomplished by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which make new, rich blood and thus help womanhood so perfectly. No woman need fear failure of health if they take these pills occasionally to keep them well, or give them a "trial" if they find themselves run down.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TRIBUNALS PUBLIC

Every exemption tribunal under the Military Service Act must be appointed by the 30th of September, and if the nominations have not been made by that time, the minister of justice is empowered to fill the vacancies. His Honor Judge Hendry, county judge of Brant, stated to the Courier that the sittings of the tribunals would probably be held in public, and that all claims for exemption would be heard in this manner. His Honor has not yet heard from the Board of Selection of the county judge of Brant County tribunals.

TEST ARTESIAN WELL

A test artesian well is to be drilled on the waterworks property by the commissioners to discover whether or not a sufficient supply of pure water is available for the use of the city. This course was decided upon yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the commissioners held in the city hall. Mr. W. S. Lee, consulting engineer of Montreal was present at the meeting and consulted with the commissioners on matters relative to the waterworks, securing their views and opinions before proceeding with the work he has on hand.

then put the marks and frames, and other coin untainted. In time of war prepare for peace, that peace of mind unending, which comes to prudent folk who cease all vain and useless spending; who have a package put away, should evil days come nigh them, who'll do without their plea to-day, if they lack coin to buy them. Keep out of debt, for debt's a curse when times are calm and cheerful, and now that war is here it's worse—it's something dread and fearful. Be prudent, now, before the stress of war has made us humbly, and when the crisis comes you'll bless the day you took a tumble.

Change in Milk Delivery

On Saturday, September 15, The Hygienic Dairy Co., Ltd., will commence Day Delivery of Milk. The reason for this will be plain to all our customers who enjoyed its advantage last winter.

They found that delivery was more sure. That the milk reached them in better condition. Day Delivery in cold weather overcomes every disadvantage of night delivery.

We found that our salesmen work better in the daytime—that they enjoyed their work more. We found a noticeable increase in efficiency in the organization. Our service was improved.

In line with our fixed policy of making The Hygienic Dairy service of as high quality as the Hygienic Dairy Milk, we have instituted the change this year as soon as weather permitted.

You who are our good friends and customers, will welcome this increased efficiency and courtesy of our service.

In future our drivers will sell tickets for cash only, which means the customers must pay for ticket at the time of receiving it.

This will eliminate a large amount of labor and expense in book-keeping and we believe will be much more satisfactory to our customers as well as ourselves.

Kindly co-operate with us. Our ambition is to please you. Save milk Friday for Saturday's breakfast.

Very truly yours,
HYGIENIC DAIRY CO., LTD.

It is reported that the American Company have a large block of the Newray, and on the results of Mr. Yeangle's examination will rest their decision regarding the exercise of the option. The inspection of the property will occupy several weeks.

Russian Exchange Outlook—London—The position of the Russian Exchange is becoming daily more unfavorable. To-day's rates, quoted at from 440 to 450 roubles per 100 pounds sterling against a normal of 94.60, indicates a loss of confidence in the ability of the government in Petrograd to meet their engagements under present conditions.

Kerr Lake Production—New York—Kerr Lake Mining Company produced 200,855 ounces of silver in August. This compares with 183,392 ounces in July; 251,367 in June and with an average of 215,000 for the twelve months ended August 31.

Selling Wave in Cotton—New York—After a good opening, with prices moderately higher, a selling wave developed that brought about a serious decline, though the reasons for selling are largely outside of the cotton situation itself, being based mainly on the weakness in the stock market, a bad state of affairs in Russia and a general pessimistic feeling which always develops when stocks decline. Nothing has occurred in the belt to change the situation itself. The immediate future will depend a good deal on the development of the tropical storms.

THE SITUATION
 The attempt of Gen. Korniloff to boss the job in Russia has apparently been short lived. As far as censored despatches indicate, his overthrow has been accomplished without bloodshed, but it is asserted that this is largely because a reform which he desired has been promised—that soldiers committees must not interfere with military commanders. Meanwhile the announcement is made that Russian forces have been advancing in the Riga region, and have occupied villages, while on the Romanian front, Russo-Romanian armies have not alone repulsed enemy counter attacks, but also taken a height. The Muscovite temperament is certainly a most complex thing.

Still more trouble is looming up for perfidious Sweden. Following hard on the heels of the Buenos Aires disclosures, the American state department now announces that the Swedish minister in Mexico has also been transmitting military advice to Berlin. It begins to look more and more as if the country in question needs some of the class of treatment applied to Greece.

The strongly reinforced Austrians have been making bitter efforts to drive the Italians from Monte San Gabriele, but without result. All attacks have been repulsed and General Cardona is continuing his powerful offensive toward Trieste.

An unofficial statement from Ottawa asserts that the proclamation calling on the men of the first class under the Military Service Act, is likely to be issued about Oct. 1st. Local exemption tribunals are to be appointed by Sept. 25th, and the pay of members will be $5 a day.

CERTIFICATES DELAYED.
 There has been a delay in forwarding certificates to county entrance candidates who left school to work on farms prior to the summer examinations. The local board have recommended the pupils who were entitled to the certificates and these will be distributed as soon as the Department of Education, at Toronto, expresses its approval. In the meantime the pupils have been allowed to attend the Collegiate Institute conditional upon their receiving the certificates.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE.

Y. M. C. A. POLICY.
 A policy for the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. was drafted this week by the committee, and will be submitted to a general meeting of the board on Monday night next.

James D. O'Brien, of Bowmanville, died at St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of injuries received by getting off a moving train near Burketon on Friday night.

PROPOSED AS RUSSIA'S RULER.
 Prince Dolgorouki, one of Russia's greatest nobles, the man whom Korniloff is reported to desire as nominal ruler of Russia.

PREMIER BORDEN'S SPEECH
 The reply of Sir Robert Borden to the complaints of the leader of the Opposition in connection with the war franchise bill constituted a forcible effort.

In the first place, he called Sir Wilfrid to account for attempting to disparage Canadian war steps by asserting that the "United States had done more in four or five months than had the Dominion in three years." To that he made the most emphatic denial. There was no need to make comparisons, and our neighbors were doing magnificently; at the same time, had the States made the same proportionate effort that Canada made in the first few months of 1914, that Country would within six weeks not only have had to raise an army of 500,000 men, but also to have them on the way to France. However, such comparisons were not in any sense desirable and he was at a loss to understand the motive which had prompted the Opposition leader.

This was a war-time election which the leader of the Opposition had forced upon the country. So far as the disqualification of aliens of enemy nationality was concerned, there were some considerations that Sir Wilfrid had not taken into account. Was it seriously proposed that these men should be sent to the front line trenches to fight men of their own blood. If they were to be called upon to pronounce judgment upon the issue of war, in the election would Sir Wilfrid shrink from declaring that they ought to be subject to military service, the same as other citizens of Canada.

"If he takes the one position," Sir Robert declared, "it seems to me that he should take the other. He has taken care, however, not to put that forward, for reasons which are very obvious."

It would be cruel to send naturalized enemy aliens to the front to fight their own kith and kin. With exemption from service it was also equally proper that they should not have a voice in determining the issues of a war-time contest.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had developed a very deep and sudden sympathy for granting the franchise to the women of Canada. The Prime Minister contended that the women of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, were not entitled to vote at federal elections. Therefore, the bill would not deprive these women of a vote. The question of conferring the franchise on all the women of Canada was surrounded with a great many difficulties and perplexities. One consideration was that the citizenship of a married woman was not dependent upon any individual application on her behalf for naturalization. Her citizenship with one trifling exception which became law for the first time in 1914 was dependent upon the citizenship of her husband. What was the remedy? If a woman was to have an equal status with a man in the franchise, was it not a reasonable thing that she should have an equal voice in determining what her citizenship should be? This would imply amendments to the naturalization law, and this could not be accomplished in the remaining weeks of Parliament.

The principle upon which the Government had proceeded was that of service and sacrifice. 300,000 men of the best that Canada could produce had gone overseas. It would depend entirely upon military operations as to how many of those men would have an opportunity to vote and it was beyond question that many thousands of them would not have the opportunity. "More than that," Sir Robert continued, "30,000 of them lie buried in France and in Flanders, and is it not right that the immediate relatives of these men should have some voice to speak on their behalf when the issues at the next election come to be determined? There are also some thousands of these men prisoners in Germany, undergoing hardships and privation, to whom it is impossible to give the opportunity to vote at the impending election. Is it not right that some one in this country should have the opportunity to speak on their behalf? There are thousands of these men in the British or allied forces who are residents in Canada and would have had the right to vote at the next election except for this war and the services they are giving. And I think it right that some person in this country should speak in their behalf.

"These are the reasons and the considerations which have impelled the Government to propose this measure to Parliament. It is the voice speaking on behalf of the men who are serving the country overseas, and on behalf of those who will serve it in the future and on behalf of those who have died in order that Canada might live."

Sixty thousand employes have been added to the roll of the United States Ordnance Department since the declaration of war.

HE'S A BEAR
 By Courier Lensed Wire
 Weedon, Quebec, Sept. 14.—Flaccid and instantly killed and Joseph Deschamps seriously injured here. The two men were mistaken for bears, by Carl Willard, of Marlinton, member of a hunting party.
 Charles Leroy, of North Vancouver celebrated his 102nd birthday. He was born in France and fought for the North in the Civil War of the United States.

ECONOMY AND HIS WORSHIP

Comfortably ensconced in an easy chair, in an attitude of physical relaxation, Brantford's leading citizen, His Worship Mayor Bowley this morning delivered himself of a profound soliloquy on the conservation of waste and thrift movement.

"I have received," he observed, "a flattering invitation to attend a convention to be held in Louisville, Kentucky, by the Conservation of Food and Raiment Association of the United States. I am referred to as the dean of municipalities on this continent because of my record while in attendance at the conference in Pittsburg last winter. This may be very flattering to my vanity if I have any, but I have absolutely no confidence in these meetings."

"At the meeting over which I presided in Victoria Hall the other evening, in the interests of the conservation of food, the daintiest of muslins, ribbon and silk stockings adorned the exquisite feminine. The men, too, were well dressed. They stood up in a body in support of the resolution, and not one of them ate less for their breakfasts the next morning, nor have worn cheaper garments since."

"If I could be of any service to the race or to mankind, I would cross the continent or go to China, but just because I am the dean of all American municipalities is not going to do this movement any good."

Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace proposals as a school text book.

Since her son had the husband and father had leaving her with no means of support. The case was investigated and found to be a worthy one, and particulars were forwarded to the militia department, with the request that the mother be given a gratuity allowance and a check covering the amount would have received had the ments been made since her listed.

HYDROPLANE ROUTE TO MANITOBA MINES

American Capitalists Are Now Reported to Be Trying to Secure Machine and Aviator for Trial During the Present Season—Mining Men Confident.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—Hydroplanes will shortly be utilized in the development of the now practically inaccessible deposits of gold and copper in Northern Manitoba. Such is the confident assertion of American capitalists and prospectors passing through this city to and from the south.

Every train northbound during the last three months has carried a goodly number of mining men from New York, Boston, Chicago and other United States centres, on tours of investigation of the great hinterland, which Hon. Edward Brown some time ago declared will produce more wealth than the vast wheat-fields of the west. Not a train comes south without men hurrying to New York or some other financial centre, to mobilize funds to engage in the mining industry far beyond the fringe of civilization in Northern Manitoba.

Land on Rivers and Lakes. At the Pas the hydroplane is regarded as certain to figure largely in mining operations. Its suitability for the work is unquestioned. Airplanes will not do, as the country is such that the lakes and rivers must be depended upon for landing places. There is doubt whether hydroplanes can be secured before the end of the war, but that efforts are now being made to secure machines and test their efficiency in mining operations is regarded as certain. It is a generally accepted fact at the Pas that M. M. MacCrever, of New York, and other prominent American mining men, engaged in or investigating the proportion of successfully overcoming the northern mining difficulties, are confident of the feasibility of the gold and copper fields. These are believed and already efforts are being made to purchase a machine and secure an aviator for trial operations during the present season.

Mining men argue that hydroplanes of one-half ton capacity would furnish immediately facilities for transporting prospectors and miners as well as supplies, while to obtain such facilities in any other way would require years and millions of dollars. Rocks, muskeg and forest make entry impossible, excepting at cost beyond reason, to what are known to be the richest of the gold and copper fields. These same men contend that there are stores of free-milling ore which could be carried out even by the expensive hydroplane

CANNING FRUIT
The intricacies of the art of canning fruits were explained yesterday afternoon, in Victoria Hall, by Miss Grey, the government demonstrator. The attendance was fairly satisfactory, and those who turned out were well repaid for their effort. On the platform, Miss Grey completed the work of canning vegetables that she had commenced the evening before, and also preserved some peaches and plums.

Wonderful Stories Told.
From Northern Manitoba there are coming the same class of stories that have come from other mining fields, stories that sound more like fiction than fact, of wonderful strikes, and prospects beyond power of calculation. A tanned and weather-beaten old prospector here the other day from the Pas asked about the outlook, and after a moment's hesitation, said:

"Well, I've seen forty years of mining, all kinds of it—good, bad and worse. I could tell you a lot about what I know is up there in the north, but it would be only a waste of time—you wouldn't believe it. The best of it is hard to get at, and hard to get out, but it's coming slowly, and not far from some startling showings. With the phenomenal success of the hydroplane in the north, I expect to see it work wonders in mining if it can be operated safely in the now inaccessible districts beyond the Pas. Some of them are going to give the air machine a trial, and be as sure as you're alive, and believe me it's going to be some winner if it does what they expect it to do."

Board of Trade Chambers, when dates were set, Mayor E. B. Robinson, Sept. 12, was communicated with by Divisional Director L. Porter Moore, representing the Italian Red Cross Society, and as a result an arrangement was made to hold their last appeal for the Italian war relief fund at the same time as in Brantford.

Tentative plans for the campaign procedure here are for a canvass by business men's teams on Friday next, automobiles being provided for the purpose by the Rotary Club, which is co-operating. On the second day of the campaign, the women of the Brantford Red Cross Auxiliary and Chapters of the Daughters of the Empire, will conduct a house to house canvass, and feature "Italian Flag Day" on the streets, selling small Italian flags.

Two meetings to-night, that of the council of the Board of Trade in its chambers in the Temple Building, and the "A. R." club at the Y. M. C. A. are to make definite plans for their co-operation next week-end. On Monday night, members of the campaign citizens' committee, both women and men, will meet in the Temple Building for final information and instructions. L. P. Shunway of the Italian Red Cross Society, will address the meeting at 8 p.m.

Paris also will have its organization meeting Monday night at the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Moore, of the Italian Red Cross Society making the address there. A tentative objective of $500 was talked of in Paris at last night's meeting.

The Italian Red Cross campaign in Kitchener opened yesterday and continues to-day and to-morrow—three days. From the Southern and Western Ontario Division campaign headquarters of the Italian Red Cross Society in Canada located here in the Temple Building, Mr. Moore announced this morning after telephone conversation with D. A. Bean, secretary of the Kitchener campaign citizens' committee, that over $2,000 was the estimated total subscription yesterday by merchants and business men to the business men's teams, making the first day's canvass.

CHILDREN'S SHELTER.
During the past month 44 children received care at the Children's Shelter, according to a report submitted at the regular meeting of the Society yesterday afternoon. At the present time there are 14 children at the institution. One of these is a five months' old baby waiting to be adopted. The ladies of the house committee have accepted the offer of operating a refreshment booth at the Plowmen's Convention to be held at Oak Park Farm in October.

To The Editor of The Courier

ENDORSE ALDERMEN
Brantford, Sept. 12, 1917

To the Editor:
The Moulers' Union, Local No. 29, of Brantford, at its last regular meeting held Sept. 7th, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That this organization of Brantford working men places itself on record as approving the progressive and non-partisan efforts of Ald. MacBride, at the City Council. We are particularly pleased that notwithstanding the effort to create a false impression in connection with his purchase and sale of potatoes, Ald. MacBride was able to present a report which effectually silenced his critics.

It is to be expected that any progressive measures of this kind will be subject to more or less criticism, but the working men of Brantford should consider well where such criticism comes from. We further pledge Ald. MacBride and English our support in every way possible, in their efforts to secure on behalf of the municipality, the power to purchase and sell coal and other commodities as necessary to the wage earners. We understand that it is their intention to have the council submit a referendum to the people on the Food and Fuel question, at the next January election, and we respectively urge every working man to make the most of the opportunity which will at that time present itself, and once and for all time place in the hands of the municipality the power to protect its citizens from coal shortages and exorbitant prices.

Yours very truly,
ARTHUR HEMINGWAY,
Secretary.

WANAMAKER, WHO HAS MADE RETAIL BUSINESS HISTORY

How the Christmas Disappointment of a Small Boy Directed an Organizing Genius to the Service of the Public—Believes Largely in Advertising—Some Rules Which He Has Always Observed—A Sunday School Worker.

On a Christmas eve a country lad entered a Philadelphia jewelry store to buy a gift for his mother with a few hard-earned dollars. "I'll take that," he said, pointing to a little trinket and handing over his money. At that moment he saw something in the window and he turned back. The letter and said he would take it instead. "It's too late; you've bought this and must keep it," snapped the jeweler. As the indignant youth walked out of the store, resentful and sorrowful, he resolved to start some day a store of his own where customers would not be so treated. The country lad was John Wanamaker. When he opened a new store half a century later the President of the United States deemed it fitting to lay a leading part in the ceremonies. But Wanamaker has been more than a successful business man; he has, as he himself says, been an experimenter, to find something greater and higher than mere money making. Not long ago he dedicated two acres of his Philadelphia store space solely to educational purposes with the idea of combining business and education. Here is something of the career of the man who founded a great resolve on a Christmas eve disappointment, as told by B. C. Forbes in Leslie's.

He began his business career in 1862 as an errand boy in a Philadelphia book store when he was 14, after a somewhat scanty education. "I have picked up my education as I have gone along, as railway engineer, taking up water from track tanks," he has since said. He next entered a lawyer's office as copyist and office boy, but his parents—of Dutch and Huguenot stock—moved with their seven children to their grandfather's abode in Indiana. Before he was 18, however, he returned to Philadelphia and entered a clothing store. All this time he had been improving his education diligently, and acquired some facility for writing. "Everybody's Journal" and other magazines became the first paid secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Philadelphia. He had not forgotten however the treatment he received when he determined to open a store of his own where customers would receive consideration. On April 8, 1861, before he was twenty-three years of age he formed a partnership with N. M. Brown and opened the men's clothing house of Wanamaker and Brown, in Oak Hall, a building which was looked upon as a freak because of its extraordinary height of six stories, built upon the site of the home once occupied by George Washington when president.

The first day's drawings amounted to $24.67. The $24 was that night invested in advertising and the 67 cents left in the till to make change next day. Four days later the first shot on Fort Sumter was fired. Neighbors shook their heads and predicted that nothing but early disaster could befall the heedless boys for their audacity in starting business at such a time. But the neighbors could not know the amount of ambition and grit and enterprise behind the new store. It was not uncommon for the partners to work all night.

"Had we inherited a business or been able to command the assistance of rich friends," says Mr. Wanamaker, "we might have had had the schooling that cut the back-log of this business. Business in the Old Days "In those days it was the custom to start work at 6.30 in the morning and keep on until seven or half past at night. There was no selling price for goods—there was an asking price and the most persistent haggle bought the goods far below the unwary. Seldom was cash paid for travels to the employees making clothing. The general rule was fortnightly settlements in grocery, coal and other orders, on which the manufacturer had a percentage. The courtesy which customers received, the fairness of the prices charged, the care given to ensuring a right fit and the vigor injected into the firm's advertising soon began to tell. These four epochal reforms were instituted, the first from the moment the store was opened, the second in the following year and the other two in 1865.

First—Cash payments on the spot to working people on completion of the work. Second—Shorter business days. Third—Not two prices—one price and only one. Fourth—Take back anything sold and returning the money if unsatisfactory.

In less than ten years from the inauguration of his one-price and money-back policy, John Wanamaker had built up the largest retail clothing store in the United States. Competitors were constantly predicting the downfall of so adventurous a young man, with his fantastic ideas about coddling customers, his Sunday school notions about the handling of his help, his penny-pinching advertising practices, his "upstart" special sales, and his other new-fangled foolishness. They rubbed their hands in glee when the terrible panic of 1873 struck the country like a hurricane, prostrating and demolishing even the strongest of enterprises. Even they chuckled. John Wanamaker would meet the fate they knew all along was awaiting him.

What actually happened was that in the midst of the almost universal disaster, John Wanamaker opened negotiations with the head of the Pennsylvania railroad for the acquisition of the road's abandoned eight depots on the outskirts of the city at Thirteenth and Market St. a monster building covering over 2 acres of ground, and the completion of the deal was announced the following year. This brought more dire predictions of disaster. His mushroomlike success must have turned Wanamaker's head. Was not the city's business centre? Was it not a most unsightly barn, utterly unfit to use as a store. And why—It would take half the clothing in Philadelphia to fill it.

Mr. Wanamaker advertised it as the "New Kind of Store," and its opening in 1876, excited interest second only to that aroused by the Centennial Exposition. On March 12 of the following year, when there was a gala celebration of the inauguration of ladies goods as part of the stock to be carried, the Grand Depot, as it was then called, was visited by 70,000 people. The store became the mercantile marvel of the country. It attracted visitors from far and near. President Grant, when conducted over it, declared: "It takes as much generalship to organize a business like this as to organize an army."

And indeed the organizer of this mammoth store was kept busy thinking and planning and executing. To attract customers in sufficient numbers to maintain the establishment demanded energy and enterprise and originality of a high order. Whole-page advertisements were used in newspapers—for the first time by any merchant. Goods in profusion were brought from Paris, Berlin, London and elsewhere. Special sales, since become seasonal events, were inaugurated. And, to crown all, Wanamaker's became the first store to be lighted by electricity, an innovation which excited wonder and even awe. Another novelty that caused much talk was the installation of pneumatic tubes as cash carriers—still the first in any store. It was this same policy, which led Wanamaker to be the first to install a Marconi wireless service between Philadelphia and New York stores; introduce a general free delivery by rail, express or freight; and to add aeroplanes to his stock in trade—he sold his first flying machine as long ago as 1903.

In 1913 the whole mercantile business was astonished by an announcement that the old A. T. Stewart business in New York had been bought by John Wanamaker. An editorial in the New York Times in November of that year said: "Within the last 45 days stocks aggregating at retail value $3,000,000 have been gathered for this New York Wanamaker Store. The combined stocks of the Philadelphia and New York stores amounting to $6,850,000. The revival of this great business means work for factories which would otherwise be shut down; means occupation for thousands who otherwise would be idle; and it means that in the face of all the grumblings about hard times there has been one man so well convinced of the renewal of prosperity that he takes unto himself a duplicate business of one whose astonishing proportions would stagger the average merchant."

But, after all these are not the most important things that Wanamaker has mixed with business. His greatest service has been in elevating the whole standard of store-keeping, in making it possible for workers behind the counter to maintain their self-respect, in securing honest treatment for customers, in introducing and adhering to such commercial standards that it became practicable to be a merchant or store-keeper at the same time a Christian, a follower of the Golden Rule. The reformation—the revolution—in the treatment of customers by merchants which has occurred within the lifetime of most of us has been accelerated by the example of John Wanamaker more than that of any other individual. That is a strong assertion, but it is not beyond truth.

My notebooks contain so much data about his career and his characteristics that I can not do justice to them here, picked at random, may best convey what manner of man he is. No Wanamaker driver is allowed to carry a whip. He never takes many unfortunates whom he has rescued. One of his favorite pursuits is scouting for down-and-outs. During the first eight years he was in business he was not off a single day. His associates declare he has extraordinary powers of concentration and an phenomenal versatility in turning from one matter to another. Among his hobbies are horses and flowers. His office door is always open. He has been his lifetime custom to be early at the store and to wait for the report of the day's sales from the head of each department. He has tremendous recuperative powers.

John Wanamaker knows no games. He finds his recreation in his work and in his multifarious outside activities. He has never advertised and will not discuss business on that day. He never takes his business troubles home with him. They are locked in when the store is locked at night. In New York, as in Philadelphia, the Wanamaker methods—"close application, integrity, attention to details and discreet advertising," to use the merchant's own words—worked miracles. The A. T. Stewart business which had languished since the death of its famous founder expanded to such an extent that the building at Broadway and Ninth St., though many times the size of the old Stewart building on Broadway and Chambers street, had to be supplemented by the construction of a still more commodious mercantile palace covering the whole of the ad-

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, and to his credit, I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice.—It will be confidential.

Joining Broadway block, the twin stores giving 32 acres of floor space and forming perhaps the best known department store in the metropolis. Even more Napoleonic achievements were in progress at Philadelphia. These were crowned in 1916 by the completion of the present Wanamaker store with its forty-five acres of floor space, one of the most remarkable mercantile castles in the world and in certain respects wholly unique—its school and university features, its musical facilities, its accommodations for entertainments and other social events, and its art gallery.

The youth whose receipts during a first day's business totaled $26.47, and who spent all but the cents in advertising, to-day is America's largest general purely retail store owner having distributed, in his life time, into the homes of the American people more than half a billion dollars of goods.

He employs in busy seasons a maximum of 15,000 workers in his stores along with a manufacturer on a small scale, while his branch offices in Europe and his traveling representatives in the Orient and elsewhere comprise another small army.

The Wanamaker Systems But it is no so much of Wanamaker figures that I wish to write; the spirit, the ideals, the ambitions, the qualities which have given their birth are of infinitely greater importance. They are John Wanamaker's greatest monuments and will do most to keep his memory honored. For almost a generation the Wanamaker stores have trained citizen soldiers who often than once have stepped, full trained, into the field when their country had called, just as they are stepping to-day. Wanamaker soldiers have gone into camp training regularly every year, they have been systematically instructed by capable officers they have a full-fledged military band and bugle and drum corps and they have supplied the United States with more than a handful of regular army officers.

Music, too, has been blessed with merchandising by John Wanamaker. There is a John Wanamaker chorus of 500 voices, there are junior and senior choral societies, there are minstrel corps comprising hundreds of members. The grand organ in the Philadelphia store is the most powerful in the world—over 60 horsepower—and has so many parts that when it was removed from the St. Louis Exposition to Philadelphia it filled thirteen railway cars and took several months to be put together again. One Wanamaker concert hall seats 1,400 people and there are others seating

Art, also, has been mixed with Wanamaker's store-keeping. Not only have Mr. Wanamaker and his son Rodman Wanamaker brought together a wonderful collection of paintings in their stores, not only have they inspired many to appreciate and to acquire good pictures, but art has been infused into the appointments of their stores, including the Hoppe Palace.

Recreation has been given little less attention than education. On the Philadelphia store roof there are running tracks, tennis courts, basketball courts and other facilities for athletics, while athletic clubs are attached to both stores and enjoy opportunities for their activities in the country.

Years and years ago Mr. Wanamaker began mixing his business with such innovations as terms shipping every December with his employees, an insurance association which has distributed $500,000 (each employee, building associations, a pension roll, a circulating library and, of course, medical and hospital benefits. He was the first great retail merchant to establish a Saturday half holiday for employees and in more recent years he led the way in allowing a full holiday every Saturday during July and August.

The extent of John Wanamaker's non-mercenary activities outside his store might well scandalize merchants who have an eye and a heart only for profits.

He founded the famous Bethany Sunday School, now among the largest in the world, when he was twenty, and has guided and supported it ever since. He was the first salaried secretary in America of the Y.M.C.A. and erected Y.M.C.A. and college buildings and churches in India, China and Japan and other foreign countries when still a comparatively young man. He helped to establish the Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia and his family donated a child's ward; he was president of the first Penny Savings Bank there; he was one of the founders of the Christian Mission during the Civil War; he took a leading part in raising the first million dollars for the Centennial Exposition of 1876; he was a foremost organizer of the City Relief Committee for relief in the Irish famine—and has ever since been among the first to rush succor wherever and whenever catastrophe has created dire need, his latest conspicuous service in this connection being the dispatching of food-laden block to stricken Belgium when that land was laid waste.

Mr. Wanamaker even found time to discharge important political duties, which culminated in his appointment by President Harrison as Postmaster-General of the United States from 1889 to 1893, during which time he established a rural free mail

HOW AUSTRALIA CARES FOR DEFENDERS BACK FROM FRONT

Soldiers Settlements Plan to Provide for Men Disabled—60,000 Acres is Space Set Aside—Smaller Areas in Various Districts Devoted to Same Purpose

(Special Correspondence of the Montreal Star.)
 Sydney, Sept. 13.—Under the provisions of the Discharged Soldiers Settlement Act, the government of the State of Queensland, Australia, has power to set apart any Crown land for the purpose of soldier settlements. Up to the present, three large areas have been set aside at Beerburrum, Pikedale and Oswald Track.
 At Beerburrum, about forty miles north of Brisbane (on the railway) an area of about 60,000 acres has been reserved and about 20,320 acres of this has been designed into 456 portions of 20 acres and upwards, and the balance is being cut up into further suitable areas. Clearing and improvement work are being carried out, and the portions are being allotted to discharged soldiers as the work advances.
 The principal industry on this area will be the growing of pineapples, but other farming pursuits such as poultry raising and bee-keeping will be carried on. On several of the portions allotted three acres have been cleared and made ready for planting. Clearing operations are in progress in other portions. It is the intention to plant three acres of pineapples on each portion. A training farm has been established at the settlement for the purpose of instructing men who have had no previous experience on the land. It is also proposed to erect a canning factory to deal with the surplus products that may not be absorbed by the local markets. A general store also is in course of erection on the settlement.

Good Orchard Land
 About 17,000 acres in the vicinity of Pikedale, 14 miles west of Stanthorpe—150 miles from Brisbane, on the Brisbane-Sydney Railway, has been similarly set aside and surveys of 128 portions, comprising 4,368 acres have already been made—the portions ranging in area from 15 to 75 acres. This is good orchard land and is well adapted for growing apples, pears, peaches, plums and other stone fruits. Five acres on each block are now being got ready for cultivation. Some road improvement work through the settlement has been done, and more will be done as the time goes on. An area is being set aside as a nursery, and 20 acres have already been cleared for that purpose. It is also proposed to erect a cannery on this settlement.
 In the Innesfall district, in the northern part of Queensland, an area of 157,000 acres has been set aside at a place known as Oswald Track. Surveyors are now at work dividing the land for dairying, agriculture and sugar cane growing purposes. Already 5,865 acres have been cut up into 48 farms ranging in area from 80 to 160 acres.
 The Act also empowers the acquisition, either by agreement or compulsory of any land, and the setting apart of such for soldiers. This power will be used in any district where there is not suitable Crown land available, and where a demand exists for farming land, and sites suitable for the erection of soldiers' homes.

 Already notice has been given for the resumption of 125 acres on the South Coast Railway—9 miles south of Brisbane. This land is well suited for soldiers' homes. Further areas in the vicinity of Brisbane are being reported on with a view to similar action being taken. The country lands will be made available as perpetual lease selections, and the town and suburban lands as perpetual town and suburban leases. The conditions attaching thereto are as follows:

Conditions Attached
 No deposit is required to be lodged for the applicant to select, nor is any rent to be paid during the first three years of the lease. Commencing with the fourth year, the survey fee is payable in ten equal annual instalments without interest. From the fourth to the fifteenth year the rent to be paid yearly shall be 1-1/2 per cent of the capital value of the land. The annual rent for each succeeding period of 15 years shall be determined by the Government, which also has power to remit or postpone the date for the payment of any rent.

The selector must perform continuous and bona fide personal residence on his selection during the whole term, but the land court may suspend such conditions for six months in any one year. The selector need not commence to perform residence conditions until two years after the commencement of his lease. Within the first five years of his term the selector must enclose the land with a fence, or effect other improvements to the value of such sum as the Government may determine. The improvements must be commenced not later than 12 months from the commencement of the term. The selection cannot be transferred during the first five years, nor is it capable of being transferred for a further five years, except to another qualified soldier. However, in the case of the death or insanity, or incapacity, owing to illness, accident or misfortune of the selector at any time during the first 10 years, the selection may be transferred to another discharged soldier.

Further smaller areas in various districts are also being specially reserved for discharged men, and opened for selection with priority of application, to them under the ordinary group selection provisions of the Lands Act as perpetual lease selections. The terms and conditions are similar to the above, except that personal residence is required during the first five years only after which the selection may be transferred to any qualified person.
 Furthermore the selector must deposit a year's rent and one-fifth of the survey fee with his application to select, and must pay the balance of the survey fee in four equal annual instalments. Rent is also payable during each year except the second. After securing a block under this system the soldier may, if he likes, have the selection brought under the operations of the Discharged Soldiers Settlement Act.

ture, dairying, etc., has been made available under these conditions. So far, 70 portions with an aggregate area of 26,500 acres, have been allotted. Further areas adapted for the purpose will be dealt with from time to time. With this object in view, land commissioners are reporting on various suitable lands in districts all over Queensland, and upon reserves which may no longer be required for the purpose they were set apart for. Several of these areas have been reported on, and are now being dealt with.
 Information is now being supplied to the soldiers on active service in France and elsewhere concerning the arrangements that are being made for them—this being considered highly desirable so that no time may be lost in setting them on their return. Every effort is being made to provide suitable and sufficient areas for the returned men, and ample provisions will be made for their settlement on the land as they are discharged from time to time, and at the termination of the war.

Advances may be made by the Government Savings Banks to the returned men for the purpose of making improvements on the lands and for the erecting workmen's dwellings, etc. The maximum amount that may be advanced under this is $2,500. Any sum expended by the State in clearing or effecting permanent improvements on the land in anticipation of settlement shall be deemed to be an advance from the bank. The term for the advance shall be for 40 years and shall be repayable with interest.
 In the case of Crown (or Government) land, the interest during the first year shall be 3 1/2 per cent; during the second year 4 per cent; and during each following year at an increased 1/2 per cent on the rate charged in the last preceding year until the rate equals the actual rate of interest payable by the State in financing the scheme. In cases where the land was acquired by the Government the rate of interest during the whole term shall be fixed by the Government, taking into consideration the rate of interest payable in respect of the loan money, out of which the compensation for the land acquired was paid. In neither case shall the rate of interest exceed 5 per cent. The amount advanced with interest shall be repaid within a term of 33 years, commencing after the expiration of 7 years from the date on which the advance was made, by half-yearly payments of 3-1/8 per cent. Advances, not to exceed $3,500, in addition to the above, can be made under the Savings Bank Act, for the purpose of the purchase of stock, machinery or implements, and for further improving the property. These advances have a currency of 5 years. The rate of interest is 5 per cent—simple interest being paid for the first five years, and thereafter interest and redemption must be paid in half-yearly instalments of 4 per cent.

Men and Their Clothes

These Are The Days of Opening Displays!

THERE is an idea, a big, broad idea, back of this clothing store. It is bigger than seems possible to most buyers of Clothing, for they have been educated to the idea that selling clothing was just a matter of so much cloth, so much making, for so much money. Before a Suit or Overcoat is bought from this store, service is considered. What service will this Suit or Overcoat give to its owner? Then we divide the probable purpose and service demanded by the wearer and make with a vision of our customers before us. The old clothing idea of "barter and trade" has no place in this new organization of mode-to-measure tailors.

RAIN FOLLOWS
75TH BATTALION
Tradition at Front, Says
Pte. A. G. Plumer of that Unit.

The following interesting letter is sent from England by Pte. A. G. Plumer, of the 75th battalion. I guess you have received the last letter I sent from France by this time. As I told you in my last letter I was not sure if I would make England with this wound. Well, I arrived in England two days after I sent that letter, and you can bet I was a happy boy when I landed. I could not tell you very much in my letter when I was in France, but I can tell you all I want to now. Gee, it feels good to be in a nice clean and soft bed once more. When I left England on the 4th of May, I went to a training base. We had to work hard, but I had a good time there. I was there three weeks and then I went on a bombers course for another two weeks. I passed on that on the 5th of June. I arrived at Vimy Ridge. Our company went into the front line June 7th. The first night it rained, and you can bet I was mud (it nearly always rains when the 75th moves anywhere, that is what the boys say.) Well, on the 9th of June we went over the top on a bombing raid. There was something doing that night. Well, I got through that safe. The next day I was laying in my dugout having a little rest. The Hun started shelling, and he dropped a coal box on the top of my bunk hole and buried me. I was not hurt, only shook up a little. On the 11th of June we pulled out for a rest, and you can bet we needed it. I think we had about five weeks out of the line, and was feeling in good shape for a scrap (and we got it). The next time we went into the trenches was in front of Lens (some place). That was some time in July. I forgot the date. I hope you don't get tired of reading all this stuff, only I like to tell you where I have been. Well, the drive for Lens started on the 15th Aug. We were all told what we had to do, and what we had to take. We went over the top about ten past eight. We had to go out in small parties. Our party went out first. We had to take a crater. It was a strong point. We took it and held it for five hours. The Hun made two counter attacks on us, but we stuck to our post. There was about 19 of us out there. The corporal in charge of us was killed, so I had to take charge of them. We had a hot time of it out there. I never thought I would get out of it alive. When he found out he could not take it by force of men, he started shelling us. We had five men killed with one shell, and about six of them were

EX-SHERIFF NOW
ENDORSES TANLAC
Hon. A. R. Anderson Says
Money Couldn't Buy Good
It Has Done Him.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I gladly recommend it for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, of Houston, Texas, Ex-Sheriff of Harris County, recently. Mr. Anderson is unquestionably not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular men that ever held public office in "The Lone Star" state. After serving as Deputy Sheriff of Harris County for twelve years, Mr. Anderson was elected Chief of Police of the City of Houston. He had occupied this office only a short time when the Sheriff of Harris County died. Mr. Anderson's friends persuaded him to make the race for the unexpired term of Sheriff to which he was easily elected. He was honored with re-election seven different times and served the people in this important office for fifteen consecutive years. Four years ago Mr. Anderson declined re-election and retired to private life. He cast his lot among the people of Houston and is a large property owner and foremost citizen of this interesting and prosperous city. "I was in a run-down condition," continued Mr. Anderson, "and had no appetite at all. I could hardly sleep at night and never felt like getting up in the mornings. I was so gested, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar, as when I drank it with sugar, I would just belch for hours. I would bloat and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered with neuralgia pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me only in a temporary way. I just can't tell you how I did suffer for the past four years and up to the time I began taking Tanlac, a few weeks ago. "When I read the testimonials of some who had been relieved of troubles like mine I just felt like I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac and it has done even more for me than I had expected. I began to feel better after taking my first bottle and have just now started on my third and I'm a different man all ready. I sleep like a log now and eat just any and everything I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards. I am glad to endorse Tanlac because it does the work and I'm telling all my friends just what I'm telling you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. I am willing for you to publish my statement and let every suffering person know who may wish benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

I think out of the nineteen that went over, there was five of us left, but you can bet your life we killed a few ourselves. I shot five, and I know some of my chums got some, and the rest of the boys made good. I was real glad to get into the hospital and one night the nurse came to my bed and said, "I believe you are going to Blighty to-night." I nearly had a fit. When I arrived in England, I was sent to a hospital in Woolwich, 7 miles from London. It is a swell place. The food is of the best, and plenty of it, and on Thursdays and Sundays it is a visiting day, and people come in and see us, and give us all kinds of good things. Oh, yes, I am having a good time, you can see I am getting on fine. We are getting some fine weather over here. Well, I hope you all are in the very best of health. I hope you are having good weather. Give my love to everyone around Echo Place. I think I have told you all the news, and I am feeling tired after writing all this, so good-bye. FRED

SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson XII.—Third Quarter, For
Sept. 16, 1917.
THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Dan. iii, 16-27. Memory Verses, Isa. Golden Text, Isa. xliii, 2.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns. We shall not understand this third chapter of Daniel unless we have grasped in some measure the second chapter. The Bible must be studied as a whole, and each book as a whole, and yet each as an essential part of the whole revelation of God's eternal purpose by His Spirit. As the heavenly bodies of our solar system and all the systems in the universe move in circles, so is it also with God's heavenly truths. One set of two chapters in the Bible completes the circle, which begins with the first two, telling of this earth without sin or sorrow or death. The third chapter from the end (Rev. xx) completes the circle which began with Gen. iii, telling of the great adversary, his beginning in relation to the earth and man and his end. We have seen in recent lessons that we have come in the Bible story to the beginning of what is known as the times of the gentiles, but this book of Daniel covers the whole period and tells us of the end of those times, which we are now in the history of the world approaching or are already in. In chapter ii we have God's revelation to Nebuchadnezzar of the whole period which began with him and will end with the setting up of the kingdom of heaven after the times of the gentiles, a kingdom which shall never be destroyed, but shall stand forever, and these things are certain and sure (Dan. ii, 44, 45). In chapter vii we have the same period covered in a vision given to Daniel and ending in the same consummation (Dan. vii, 13, 14, 27). To a man of the world like Nebuchadnezzar the vision was fascinating, as are the things represented by gold and silver and brass and iron to such people, but to a man of God like Daniel the whole thing was represented by wild beasts devouring each other. Chapters iii and vi are another pair showing what it costs to stand for God in these evil times, while chapters iv and v are another pair showing how God will humble all pride, to bring to repentance if at all possible or, if not, to bring to everlasting punishment. The vision of empire given to Nebuchadnezzar so affected him that instead of making him humble by the honor thus conferred upon him by the God of heaven he became filled with pride and had a great image of gold made and set up in the plain of Dura and caused all the people of his kingdom to assemble to worship it, threatening with death in the fiery furnace any who would dare to refuse to worship the image which he had set up. Now here is another strange circle of truth, for at the very end of the times of the gentiles during the last three and a half years after the church has been taken away there will be another image set up by the world power that shall then be, and all who will not worship that image shall be killed (Rev. xiii, 14-18). The pride and blasphemy of the king of Babylon are seen in such a saying as "Who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?" (ii, 15). But it will be exceeded by the blasphemy of the anti-christ of the last days before he shall be sent alive to the lake of fire (Rev. xiii and xiv, 10, 20). Of all the multitudes who were assembled on the plain of Dura that day only three young Jews dared to refuse to bow down to the image, and that was because they knew and worshipped the only Living and True God. What offered a second opportunity to bow down and thus spare their lives they most decidedly refused in the glorious words of verses 17, 18. May our hearts ever cry, "Our God whom we serve is able!" Bound in their clothing they were cast into the burning fiery furnace, which had been heated seven times hotter than usual, so that the flames slew the men who cast them in. But the three young men walked about in the furnace, unharmed, because the God of heaven was with them; and they lost nothing but their bonds. I do most heartily believe what the wise counselors and great men saw when these three came out of the furnace—that there was no smell of fire upon them, nor was a hair of their head singed (verse 27). So it will be in the last days when some shall refuse to receive the mark of the beast or worship him (Rev. xv). See in verses 28-30 of our lesson how God was glorified in these men by the decree of the king that no one should dare to speak anything amiss against a God who could deliver in this way. The only place where God was seen that day was in the burning fiery furnace, and when God allows any of His people to pass through fiery trials of any kind it is that He may be seen with us and in us, and He will fulfill the words of our Golden Text. In chapter iv we see this proud king humiliated, and the last word in his worldwide epistle is "Those that walk in pride He is able to abase" (iv, 37). We would do well to adopt as our own the words of Paul in II Tim. iv, 18. "The Lord shall deliver me from every evil work and will preserve me unto His heavenly kingdom." We should remember also that it is the purpose of the Lord to stain the pride of all glory and bring into contempt all the honorable of the earth that the Lowly alone may be exalted (Isa. xlii, 9; ii, 11, 17).

CHAPTER IX.

PICARON.

Plucking perceptibly at her cloak, Lyttleton drew the girl to him and, seizing her hand, without further ceremony dragged her round the clump of shrubbery to a spot secure from observation.

"She submitted without a hint of resistance. But she was trembling violently, and the contact with his hand was as fire to her blood.

"Pausing, he stared and laughed uncertainly.

"Of all people!" he said in an undertone. "I never for an instant thought of you!"

Controlling her voice tolerably, she asked directly: "How did you get up again without my seeing you?"

"Simply enough—by the steps of the place next door. I saw you watching me—saw your head over the edge of the landing, black against the sky—and knew I'd never know who it was, unless by strategy. So I came up the other way and cut across to head you off."

He added, after a pause, with a semi-apologetic air: "What do you mean by it, anyway?"

"What?"

"Watching me this way—spying on me—"

"But I didn't mean to. I was as surprised to see you as you were, just now, to see me."

"Honestly?"

His eyes searched her suspiciously. Flushing, she endeavored to assume some little dignity—drew up, lifted her chin, resumed possession of her hand.

"Of course," she said in an injured voice.

"Sure Mrs.—sure nobody sent you to spy on me?"

"Mr. Lyttleton!"

"I want to believe you."

"You've no right not to!"

"But what, will you tell me, are you doing out here this time of night?"

"I came out because I wanted to—I was restless, couldn't sleep."

"He reflected upon this doubtfully. "Funny freak," he remarked.

"You're impertinent!"

"I don't mean to be. Forgive me. I'm only puzzled."

"So am I puzzled," she retorted with spirit. "Suppose you tell me what you're doing out here at this time of night—down on the beach— anxious to escape notice. If you ask me, I call that a funnier freak than mine."

"Quite so," he agreed soberly; "and a very reasonable retort. Only I can't tell you. It's—er—a private matter."

"Look here, Miss Manwaring; this is a serious business with me. Give me your word—"

"What makes that essential? Why do you think I'd lie to you?"

It was just that little quaver preceding her last two words which precipitated the affair. But for it a question natural enough under the circumstances would have proved innocuous. But for the life of her she could not control her voice; on those simple words it broke, and so the question became confession—confession, accusation, and challenge, all in one.

It created first a pause, an instant of breathless suspense, while Lyttleton stared in doubt and Sally steeled herself, with an effort of trembling reluctance, upon the brink of some vast mystery.

Then: "To me," he said slowly. "You mean me to understand you might lie to another—but not to me?"

Her response was little better than a gasp. "You know it!"

"He acknowledged this with half a nod; he knew it well, too well.

And she must have seemed very lovely to the man in that moment of defiance. She saw his eyes lighten with a singular flash, saw his face darken suddenly in the pale moonlight, and heard the sharp sibilance of his indrawn breath.

And whether or not it was so, she fancied the wind had fallen, that the night was hushed once more, and now more profoundly than it had ever been, as though the very world were standing still in anticipation.

And with that she was in his arms. Then fell a full. She was conscious that his embrace relaxed a trifle, heard the murmur of his consternation: "Oh, this is madness, madness!"

But when she tried to release herself his arms tightened.

"No!" he said thickly, "not now—not after this! Don't. I love you!"

She braced her hands against his breast, struggled, thrust him away from her, found herself free at last.

"You don't love me. Don't lie to me! Let me go!"

"Why do you say that? You love me, and I—"

"Don't say it! It isn't true! I know I threw myself at your head. What else could you do? You care nothing about me; to you I'm just one more silly woman. No; let me be, please! You do not love me—you don't, you don't, you don't!"

He shrugged, relinquished his effort to recapture her, muttered uncertainly: "Blessed if I know—"

Recovering a little, she drew her hands swiftly across face and eyes that shone with her kisses.

"Oh!" she cried brokenly, "why did you—why did I—"

"What's the good of asking that? It's done now," he argued with a touch of aggrieved resentment. "I didn't mean—I meant to—I don't know what I meant! Only—never this."

He took an impatient stride or two in the shelter of the shadow, turned back to her, expostulating: "It's too bad! I'd have given worlds—"

"But now I've gone and done it!" she retorted bitterly. "In charnir, her own indignation mounted. "It is too bad, poor Mr. Lyttleton!"

"That was too much; he came closer and grasped her wrist. "Why do you talk that way to me?" he demanded wrathfully. "What have I done?"

"You? Nothing!" she broke in, roughly wrenching her hand free in a fury of humiliation. "Do you ever do anything? Isn't the woman always the aggressor? Never your fault—of course not! But don't please, worry; I shan't ever remind you. You're quite free to go and forget what's happened as quickly as you like!"

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH YOUNG CAMERON

JUST POOR EQUIPMENT.

The other day I sat down to write a letter and found myself shrinking from the process more than usual.

"Now why is it?" I wondered as I took up my pen. And then I knew I had a poor, scratchy pen and an ink well so scantily supplied that I had to keep dipping my pen.

Consciously I had forgotten the defect or I would have remedied it, but subconsciously the sense of my poor equipment had been a factor in my disinclination.

The Man Who Hates to Carve

Take the case of the man who hates to carve. Sometimes it's just a poor pure masculine laziness; but other times the fact that he lacks a good, sharp efficient knife may enter into it.

And then there's the man who never wants to do any little job about the house. Perhaps he too is handicapped by inadequate tools. A good sharp saw and axe might be a valuable investment for his wife to make.

Needles Too Small for the Thread.

I know that some of my childish dislike of sewing came from the fact that the needles my mother gave me were too small for the thread (from my point of view). I realize now that it is the sign of a good needlewoman to sew with as you like!

Needles so small that it is a struggle to get the needle threaded, and of a good housekeeper to wash dishes with water so hot that you cannot bear your hands in it. To my natural disinclination to sewing was added a dread of the initial struggle with the needle.

Sometimes it is one's physical equipment which is inadequate. I once knew a woman who couldn't bear to touch a needle. It made her so nervous, she said. Finally she had acute trouble with her eyes, had them tested and glasses fitted. And behold it no longer makes her nervous to sew.

Give the Child a Better Equipment

If I had a child with a natural disinclination to any line of endeavor, a boy who wasn't handy mechanically, a girl who hated sewing, I could make their equipment satisfactory. I would give the girl the daintiest and most completely fitted work bag possible and the boy a good set of practical tools. Also, I would make sure there was no defect in physical equipment.

To be sure you can't make a handy man or an expert needlewoman out of unpropitious material, but you can at least push away some of the obstacles that make the right path the path of most resistance.

Good Night Stories

SQUEEDEE, THE RIGHTER OF WRONGS

There was quite a stir in the barnyard the evening Gray Horse returned from town. His lovely white tail and mane had been cut short, and he certainly looked funny to his friend Susan, the old brown cow.

"What did they do that for?" she asked.

"Some one told Master Tom it looked more stylish for a carriage horse to have a short tail, so he had it clipped," replied Gray Horse.

"It's a pity. There wasn't a horse in the village who could boast of a prettier coat than yours; but without a tail—oh, dear!" exclaimed Susan.

"What will he do next? Clip my ears, I guess."

Jackie, the black crow flew down on the stall to get a grain of corn. "What's all the rumpus about?" he inquired.

"They cut my tail off and the flies are simply eating me up. I can't shoot them away," Gray Horse replied, with tears in his eyes.

"Well, of all things!" cried Jackie. "I think it's about time to complain. I'll go and tell Squeede. He'll know what to do," and away he flew.

That night after Master Tom had crawled into bed, Squeede and a band of his imps flew in through his

LADY'S DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.

The new sport materials, such as poplin, khaki-wool and other popular weaves, need a simple design like No. S.434, to show their gay patterns to good advantage. The long waisted effect is a style which is becoming to the majority of women, especially when it is modified by a belt. The Dutch neck and side closing are splendid style features. One may choose either the long or short sleeves, as both styles are considered good this season. A three eared skirt is attached to the long waisted upper section and the pockets are cleverly made by slashing the skirt, turning back the edges and facing them.

The dress pattern, No. S.434, is cut in sizes 36 to 44 inches bust measure. The 36 inch size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, with 3/4 yard of 36 inch contrasting goods.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

WANTED—By October 15th House with modern conveniences in vicinity of West George or Brant avenue. Source is used to heat the offices of the company and the houses of the employees. Several years ago it was decided to use some of the surplus steam from the turbines to operate a small horizontal engine. This was installed and used to furnish the various pipes in the works and is still used as occasion demands.

When the low-pressure steam turbine was invented it was seen that it might be possible to use this steam as a source of power. Vents were selected, borings made and it was found that no diminution of pressure occurred when the borings were made to 100 feet. Holes were then put down to a point where a pressure of 150 lbs. per sq. in. was maintained at a temperature of from 19 to 20 degrees C. could be obtained from the steam. The power thus obtained was utilized for the production of electric energy which could be transmitted to neighboring towns. A portion of the capital was invested and a small electric plant erected. Pipes and borings were made into the earth from which the steam is carried to the turbines. As the steam is high temperature, the tubes are of aluminum outside. The steam is applied to these tubes and water, obtained from other sources, is pumped into them in turn, operates a turbine connected with the dynamo. There are installed at present three groups of alternating turbines.

CLASSIFIED IN THE EARTH FINISH POWER

Successful Industry Pursued in Desolate Italian Region of Volterra.

FRENCHMAN'S METHOD Boracic Acid Obtained From Clouds of Subterranean Steam.

In the barren desolate region in the vicinity of Volterra, in southwestern Tuscany, are great fissures of cracks in the earth's surface from which small clouds of steam arise, evidently of subterranean origin, is a curious report to the Department of Commerce from Comte Dumont, Florence, Italy. Almost a century ago Francois de Lardere, a Frenchman, visited this region and made an analysis of the steam, and he discovered that it was heavily charged with boracic acid. Beginning at the Pozzo Casa la Serra, extending south over the summit and down the valley of the river Cornia, he found numerous fissures from which steam arose. Selecting the largest of these at what is now the town of Lardere, he established a plant for the extraction of what is now a most successful industry.

In the present plant the vents are covered, the steam condensed by the water in the cracks, and the resulting water is led in open, wooden troughs into shallow pans, where by the aid of certain precipitates and evaporation, boracic acid in crystalline form is obtained. These pans lined with lead, about six feet in length and four inches deep are arranged in rows on the slopes of the hill so that the water delivered by troughs into the highest pan of each set, drains through each pan of the series and finally into a tank or vat. As evaporation proceeds, crystals of boracic acid are deposited along the edges of each pan, the edges being flattened and sloped as to facilitate this process, from which they are gathered and taken to drying rooms and spread out on shelves to hasten drying. Both evaporation and drying have been assisted in the manner of pipes much used in the steam heating industry. The steam used being obtained from the earth fissures. Steam from the same source is used to heat the offices of the company and the houses of the employees.

Several years ago it was decided to use some of the surplus steam from the turbines to operate a small horizontal engine. This was installed and used to furnish the various pipes in the works and is still used as occasion demands.

The company known as the Societa Boracifera di Lardere, has its offices in Florence and is controlled there. On a capital of 5,645,000 (over $1,000,000) dividends at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum are paid. The company spent 1,500,000 lire in 1915 on new construction. Outside of the power produced, it is stated that in 1914, 2,537 tons of crude boracic acid, 933 tons of refined boracic acid, 1,164 tons of borax, and 55 tons of carbonate of ammonia were produced. The steam is strongly impregnated with sulphur in one of its forms, but this is eliminated when the steam reaches the open air.
