"Where you pay Cash and Pay Less in the Blackboard Building, Webster St. Kentville Nova Scotia"

The young man who has been looking for a suitable chance to enlist will now find it in the Pioneers. See add in this issue.

Dr. John Lewis, stomach specialist of Boston, Mass., was in town on Saturday last and made a hurried trip to Aldershot with his nephew, Dean Rogers of the 193rd Battalion. He was on his way to Windsor on a special call and had to return to Boston at the earliest opportunity to look after his important cases. there.

Aldershot, N. S., is the biggest military camp east of Valcartier. The camp is conducted on a war-like basis and is full of interest for every man, woman and child in this country. Nova Scotians have no other such opportunity to see history in the making. Stepping off the train at Aldershot Station you hear, in the distance, the continuous rattle of musketry and the sharp slashing, staccato notes of machine guns. Firing squads are over a mile away. Topping the hill along a distant sky-line are marching hundreds of khaki clad men. Passing along the front line of the regiment are...

Across an open expanse to the south may be seen the barbed wire entanglements and lines of trenches just as they are on the Plains of Flanders, with dugouts, shell-proof shelters, sand bag trench works.

There are sounds of music, and coming in from a route march, are several thousand men who have probably been out since five in the morning, each regiment headed by its band. There are, in all, including brass and silver instruments, pipers, fife and drums, and bugle corps, fifteen or more which add much to the lure of camp life.

Through the courtesy of the Military authorities Camp Aldershot will be open to receive its friends on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 25TH. There will be a grand review, march past, band concerts, athletic sports—a splendid opportunity to see the men at work and at play.

The Pioneer Battalion needs good men. Will you be one.

Owing to the extremely busy season the ladies of Kings County Red Cross Society will be unable to receive the soldiers on the August 24th as announced in our last issue. They, however, hope to do something later.

Why not go overseas with an experienced man like Captain F. G. Burgess. His announcement in this paper invites you to go with him. 1 o&a Capt. F. G. Burgess late engineer of the North Mountain Railway is now seeking for men for his company of the 5th Pioneer Battalion, Capt. Burgess is well known here and desires to get associated with him the best blood of our Nova Scotia stock. He is a man of wide experience serving through the South African war in the Royal Engineers winning the South African medal and five clasps, also two years in Egypt. Has been on engineering work in nearly all parts of Africa also England, Spain and Portugal. Active young men who wish to see good service should join his company.

The services at the Kentville Baptist Church Sunday were of an especially interesting character. Rev. A. W. West, the new pastor was in charge of the services, giving an excellent address in the morning. At the evening service Rev. M. E. Fletcher, finance minister for the Baptist Denomination, gave a splendid address on missions, his subject being "Giving." Excellent special music was given at this service including a solo "O, Rest in the Lord"—from the Messiah. Splendidly rendered by Sergt. Roy Whynacht of the 219th Battalion, and a finely rendered duet by Mr. Morehouse of the 219th Battalion, and Mr. J. M. Cross, also a pleasing cornet solo "The Lost Chord" by Mr. Roy Walsh with organ accompaniment by Miss Viola Bishop.

Y. M. C. A. Work in Camp

A phase of Y. M. C. A. work, not at all obvious to the men performing the active duties of camp, is that which is being quietly carried on in connection with the Field Hospital.

In the tents on "Hospital Hill" there are always from one hundred to one hundred and sixty men who have been temporarily laid aside by sickness or accident. The excellent care and medical service which they receive there cannot entirely prevent the days from being somewhat monotonous and lonely. In the relief of this condition the Y. M. C. A. finds another of its many opportunities to serve the men through the provision of comforts and conveniences not afforded through the regular military channels.

Illustrated Reading

Magazines and papers, especially the illustrated ones, such as "The Illustrated London News," "The Daily Mirror," "The Sketch," and "The Graphic," are a never failing source of interest. These are provided as freely as possible from a limited supply by the Y. M. C. A. men who visit the hospital daily. The distribution has thus their personal attention, and is not left to be done, or undone, by disinterested persons. The maximum of service is derived from each copy by passing it along from patient to patient. A good, illustrated paper can provide many hours of profitable pleasure, and contribute greatly to the cheerfulness and perhaps the recovery of the sufferers. Persons who are seeking an opportunity to help an opportunity to help our soldiers in some way, and have magazines or papers such as those mentioned above can meet one significant need by sending them along to the Y. M. C. A.

Letter Writing

Writing paper and envelopes are also supplied free to the men in hospital as it is also to the rest of the men in camp, stamps are provided, and letters never remain unmailed because change is lacking to buy postage, the Y. M. C. A. assumes that responsibility.

It is part of the policy of the association to provide every facility possible to keep men in touch with the folks at home. Letter writing under the right condition is a good occupation even for a sick man, and a popular one too, if one may judge from the number of letters turned out daily from the hospital—sometimes averaging about one per patient.

Toilet Services

Another service rendered by the visitor which is worthy of mention, and which is most acceptable to men who must be their own barbers, is the honing of razors. Perhaps the ease with which an otherwise painful and unpleasant duty is performed after the razor has been down to the Y. M. C. A. will impress itself as favorably upon the mind of the practical soldier as any service which might be performed. Five or six razors per day make their journey and return to their work with new inspiration.

Gramophone Concerts

With very rare omissions the residents of the hospital are treated each evening to such entertainments as a gramophone affords. The machine is carried up from the Y. M. C. A. tents and operated by members of the Soldiers Service League from the battalions. The concert is given at several different places on the grounds so that all may have a chance to hear. Let this be a suggestion to any who have good double-disc records of which they have grown weary, or who wish to make an acceptable and practical donation to a good cause. Sick soldiers may also grow tired of music too often repeated;

Flowers and Song Service

There is still another detail of the work, which involves also Mr. E. B. Newcombe of Kentville, who has generously provided the flowers which the "Y" man carries to the patients. Practically every man is supplied with a nosegay. Needless to say this contribution is highly appreciated. In future, with the assistance of an organ donated by the ladies of Fort Massey Church, Halifax, it will be possible to hold song services on Sunday evenings, in this way sharing the sick men some of the advantages enjoyed by their more fortunate comrades who attend the evening sing-songs at the Y. Recruiting for 246th. Battalion

For the present the lines of the 246th Battalion are West of the 97th. Lieut. Colonel Parsons, C.O., has established his headquarters and is busy completing arrangements for the further organization of his unit. The full list of officers cannot be given this week but will appear in a future issue of "The Highlander."

This battalion furnishes an opportunity to the man who was not quite ready to enlist at the time the Nova Scotia Highland Brigade was formed. It is the reserve battalion and is therefore part of the Brigade. As several battalions have already enough surplus men to form their reserve company, it is important that those wishing to join should send in their names without delay.

We want the very best men for the 246th. It will be part of that battalion to reinforce the other battalions of the Brigade when they need genuine assistance. It may be that at a time when the fate of the Nova Scotia Highland Brigade hangs in the balance the order will go out to bring up the reserves and that day it will be up to the members of the 246th to prove their worth in no uncertain manner.

Motoring is two things—a pleasure and a business. One might say it was used sixty per cent. for entertainment and forty per cent. for commercial purposes. Yet no matter whether you use your car to get orders or cargo, your greatest economy will be the reduced cost of mishaps.

No accident ever befel an automobile but what the tires were forced to play a part in it. And no accident ever was averted but what the tires had a say in that, too.

Military Dance was a Social Success

Function By Kentville Citizens—Dances Much Enjoyed

Highly successful was the Dance, given by the Citizens of Kentville in honor of the officers in Aldershot Camp, and held in Pastime Hall last Thursday evening.

Three hundred guests were present, amongst them being Lt.-Col. A. H. Borden, the Brigadier of the Nova Scotia Highlander Brigade; Lt.-Col. Phinney, O.C. 85th Battalion; Lt.-Col. Day, O.C. 185th Battalion; Lt.-Col. Muirhead, O.C. 219th Battalion; Lt.-Col. Jolly, O.C. 97th Battalion; Lt.-Col. Walker, and a large number of other officers of the various units in Camp. Also presents as guests were many of the leading citizens of Kentville.

The Chaperones were: Mrs. H. H. Wickwire, Mrs. G. E. Graham, Mrs. A. A. Thompson and Mrs. Barclay Webster. The hall was attractively decorated with flags and bunting kindly furnished by Mr. G. E. Graham, General Manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway.

The floor was excellent, the music by the Barker Orchestra, directed by Miss Harrington and assisted by Bandsman Harry Murray at drums and traps, was, in each dance, an irresistible invitation to take the floor. The dances included—One step, waltz, fox trot, one step, fox trot, one step, waltz, fox trot, one step, waltz, fox trot, one step, waltz, fox trot, one step, waltz; and three extras following the serving of refreshments.

Late Estimates of Recruiting in All Canada

Figures Show Men Enlisting at Rate of Two Hundred and Fifty Daily

Ottawa, Aug. 18—In a fortnight ended August 15, 3,524 men were recruited for overseas services.

Of this number the divisional enlistments were as follows:

London	207
Toronto	577
Kingston and Ottawa	694
Montreal	446
Quebec	41
Maritime Province	193
Manitoba and Saskatchewan	541
Alberta	227
British Columbia	603

The aggregate enlistment is 358,105.

For the first time since the outbreak of the war, the Toronto division loses its pre-eminence. The Ottawa Kingston division takes first place and British Columbia second, Toronto comes third.

Recruiting is now proceeding at the rate of about 250 men a day, or seven battalions a month.

Our Well-Protected Coast

Ottawa, Aug. 14—That the Atlantic coast of Canada is, as regards aids to navigation, the best patrolled in the world, was the statement made today by Alex Johnston, deputy minister of marine, who has just returned from a two weeks' inspection trip. In company with Colonel W. P. Anderson, chief engineer of the department, Mr. Johnston paid his first visit to all the more important light stations on the Bay of Fundy and the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coast. As a result of their visit, certain improvements will be recommended in a report to be made to Hon. J. D. Hazen. However, Mr. Johnston's conclusion, as stated, is that no country in the world can boast of a similar stretch of coast as well protected.

MORALE--That Vitalizing Force That Wields Armies and Wins Wars

It is what Kipling had in Mind when He said: If You Can Force Your Heart and Nerve and Sinew to Serve Their Turn Long After They are Gone—and so Hold on, When There is Nothing in You Except the WILL Which Says to Them "Hold On."

By Staff Q. M. Sergeant E. E. Kelley, 193rd Battalion

A very wise person has remarked that the vocabulary of the ordinary mortal is considerably restricted. Indeed, it would seem at times that a fair working knowledge of the English language isn't at all in favor in certain circles. Some, apparently, incline to the idea that the fact that a word is expressive does not warrant its use, for the simple reason that it is what the proletariat regard as a "big word."

We have no quarrel with the man who would rather clip his G's than use them, as we have no quarrel with the individual whose tastes pendulate toward "learnin'," when knowledge is the better word.

This isn't meant as a lecture on English grammar—it is merely set down as a set of facts apropos of the strength and potency of the Biggest word in the Vocabulary of Life.

That word is PSYCHOLOGY. And the peculiar feature of the case is contributed in the fact that immediately following the use of the word Psychology, those of the "elect" who don't reach for the dictionary, will lay a charge of pedantry against those who employ the term. Remarkable—but true.

Really, it should be neither remarkable, nor true. Psychology is—well, as we have said, just the biggest word in the Vocabulary of Life. Every man should know the significance of the term, as every man should use it.

Particularly and peculiarly does this apply to the case of the war, because psychology supplies the driving force. It isn't a driving word, as it isn't a militant, a belligerent, word. And that is the strangest feature of the fact. Indeed, one might almost say, that is the "psychology of the situation, paradoxical as it may seem."

Psychology is the Science of the Mind. Napoleon said that the morale (or mind) of an army is worth three to one to the physical. That is to say, physical down the morale of troops, and the victory is three parts won. In this war it has been demonstrated that morale is IT. Morale is IT, because morale is the vitalizing force, exactly the same as a ton-and-a-half of modern auto is "excess baggage" without the tiny, but necessary, spark plug.

Brawn and muscle are impotent shorn of the driving force of the mind—the WILL TO DO. And this brings us back to the "psychological question." Morale isn't psychology—but "registers" morale. Psychology is the underlying science of men's minds. And that is why we hold it to be the BIG word—BIGGEST word.

"The morale of our troops remains unbroken"—how often do we read those words in the official despatches. And what a splendid story they tell of troops, emerging from an inferno of battle, eager and willing for more—as confident of ultimate victory, as they are confident of their own existence! Morale isn't made in a day. Morale doesn't have birth in the trenches. The morale of the troops of a nation is just as fine, just as deep-rooted as the age and pride and courage and determination of that nation dictates.

When we point with pride to the British Navy as "Twenty Miles of Power" (plus), a mighty fighting machine, unbeatable and unafraid,—that's morale—the morale of a proud nation, backed by centuries of glory, tenoned and mortised in a marvellous chain of dominance welded by this World Empire.

When we fling back the Prussian's challenge in his face, when we point him Kitchener's "contemptible little army" swelled to a powerful mass of millions of finely-trained troops, whose fighting qualities are all and more than all the traditions of the British peoples demand—that's morale.

When Canadians march into their baptism of fire, strong and resolute and UNBEATABLE, because the "First Hundred Thousand" blazed the way with a record of deeds that have made the name of Canada immortal—that's morale—the solid, powerful morale of troops who know that because their blood brothers passed through the Great Crucible of War, and assayed full-karet pure, they can do no less.

Whose heart did not swell with pride in this Aldershot Camp, as Sir Robert Borden recounted the glorious deeds of the Canadians who closed the gate to Calais with a tough, impenetrable wall of pure Canadian brawn and bone and grit? Who was not proud to be a Canadian when the Prime Minister painted in glowing letters the glory of Langemarek and St. Julien and Ypres? Who, surely! THAT WAS MORALE.

The Highland Brigade needs morale. The Highland Brigade has morale. You will find it primarily in the pride of the men of the Highland Brigade who feel that their respective units are just a little better, just a little finer to belong to than any other.

You will find morale in a spirit of confidence displayed by our men in our officers. We are proud of the men who have made sacrifices of home and business—and we want that fact known.

And greatest of all, you will find morale in the Nova Scotia Highland Brigade in the fine impatience of every one of the four units to march aboard the transports.

Very soon those transports will be "on the tide." On that day Nova Scotia will bid God Speed to as fine and soldierly body of men as have sailed, or will sail, from our shores. The Nova Scotia Highland Brigade isn't a name—it is a body of fighting Nova Scotians, who are going to the trenches because they know they are NEEDED THERE. They have joined the colors out of a sense of DUTY—because they know they are capable of performing that duty.

The Nova Scotia Highland Brigade is confident. CONFIDENCE is MORALE.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE A WHOLE ARMY

83,200 Men Taken in Week

Petrograd, Aug. 14—The retreat of the Austrians from the Stripa continues, with the Russians pounding the Austrian rear-guard, Podiacy, on the Koropce, has fallen, and General Count Von Bothmer's forces are taking up positions on the west bank of the Zlota Lipa.

The surrender of Miriampol by the Austrians has enabled General Letchitzky to straighten on the front of his advance toward Halez, this now forming an almost direct east and west line only seven miles from that town at the nearest approach.

The Rech, in its summary of prisoners and booty taken by the Russians during last week's operations, estimates that 83,200 men and 1,720 officers were captured and sixty nine guns and 342 machine guns and bomb throwers taken by Generals Letchitzky, Scherbachoff and Sakaroff.

Worth Its Weight in Gold

Mi-o-na Has Reached a Gold Standard, Says Harry Ellis of Fergus, For Stomach Trouble

Harry Ellis of Fergus, Ont., says I believe that Mi-o-na for the cure of stomach trouble, is worth its weight in gold. It cured me from a stomach difficulty that seemed to puzzle all other prescriptions and remedies. I was unable to eat, the food would ferment and form gas and make a serious pressure on my heart. There were terrible pains in the pit of my stomach I became weak, discouraged and later I got nervous and could not sleep or rest. This disease makes one feel like not wanting to see any human being and produces melancholy and foreboding. I was told to try Mi-o-na and when I commenced on the first box I had hardly any faith in it, but the first two days treatment made the pain in my stomach cease, and to make a long story short, the upset of my using Mi-o-na was that it cured me wholly and I now can eat what I like and when I am hungry. I am an ardent advocate of the use of Mi-o-na.

J. D. Clark sells Mi-o-na Tablets, the dyspepsia remedy

GEN. SMUTS IS AGAIN SUCCESSFUL

London, August 18—The ring around the forces defending German East Africa is being drawn closer. An official statement received today, from General Smuts, commander of the British forces in German East Africa, reports that the British have cleared the difficult hilly country and captured several important positions, being separated from the Central railway by only 25 miles of open country.

REVIEW AT ALDERSHOT AND EXCURSION

Duke of Connaught to Inspect Troops on Saturday

On Friday an opportunity will be given all sections on the railways between Halifax, Truro, Lunenburg and as far west as Yarmouth to visit Camp Aldershot. On that day the military authorities have arranged so that the relatives of the thousands of young men in camp may come and witness their noble boys in all kinds of drill and manoeuvres and see the tented city at Aldershot. This is an opportunity at a very low railway fare for all to visit their boys in camp before their departure overseas.

On Friday after the arrival of the special trains from East and West there will be a grand review and march past of the Highland Brigade, the 97th and others in camp. Visitors will have an opportunity of seeing thousands of soldiers on parade, at drill and other activities of camp life. The panorama of tents, the buildings and equipments and the opportunity of seeing the camp routine of a soldier will be an experience which many will want to see.

The various brass and reed bands including bagpipes, fife and drums of the various battalions will be called into play giving the spectators a series of concerts in martial, popular and symphonic music such as they never may have the privilege of witnessing or hearing again.

Announcement of the visit of the Duke of Connaught on Saturday will be given in Friday's issue.

MILITARY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith and daughter, Margaret, of Halifax, spent the week end at Aldershot.

Mrs. Van Horne, wife of Major Van Horne, is, we regret to say, ill at her home in Yarmouth.

Before many weeks it is expected the Highland Brigade will be sent overseas and other battalions will be placed and re-

Captain Tupper, Chaplain of the 193rd Battalion, who was ill last week was able to deliver a fine address at the open air service of the Y. M. C. A., Main St., Sunday evening.

From N. S. Highlander.
Major E. K. Eaton reported on the 16th of August and entered upon his duties as Brigade Major. Major Eaton served fourteen years with the R. C. R. and went overseas with that regiment, remaining with them in France till transferred to the staff of the 9th Canadian Brigade. While convalescing from the fever he received orders to return to Canada and take over his present work.

Major Eaton's two brothers are now at the front, Colonel D. I. V. Eaton, commanding Brigade of Field Artillery and Major R. B. Eaton, second in command of the 50th.

The badge that is worn by the boys of the 97th is of a design that is of particular interest to Canadians. The design shows the Washington coat of arms on the maple leaf. The Washington coat of arms of course is English in origin and it is noteworthy that it should be now united with the maple leaf as the design of the 97th Battalion that is going to fight side by side with Canadians.

Mrs. Katherine B. Norman of Jacksonville, Florida, is a frequent visitor at Aldershot Camp, having come to see her son, Pte Earl R. Norman, 97th Batta.

LUMBERMEN WANTED FOR OVERSEAS BATTALION.

Nova Scotia lumbermen are wanted for overseas service. Many are already serving in the 224th Forestry Battalion, and now another company is needed. Lieut. S. Downer, of the 219th Battalion, Nova Scotia Highland Brigade, is being transferred from that unit to the 242 Forestry Battalion. He will assist in recruiting the company in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Lieut. Downer plans to visit the various lumbering centres of the Province and will personally interview the lumbermen. There will be 250 men in the company, all officers and non-commissioned officers being from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, according to plans outlined by Mr. Downer and Lieut. Col. White, who is to command the battalion.

One description of the Forestry Battalion and the duties assigned to it says, "Included in the men they are after blacksmiths, checkers, and woods and mill foremen, teamsters, rotary sawyers, engineers and chauffeurs. They are particularly after men of the trade. The members of the unit will be able to go forward with a minimum of drill, their work being for the most part some distance behind the lines and with a minimum of military discipline."

The object of having these battalions is to employ trained woodmen to cut down the oak groves and forests of France. These world famous groves, standing for generations and one of the glories of the old land must go to do their share in winning the war. The present Canadian Forestry Battalion is now employed in the great Windsor forest, cutting down the trees and with their mill, a portable structure, converting trees into railway sleepers and board at the rate of anything from 75,000 to 100,000 board feet a day.

These lumbermen's battalions are considered to offer the lumbermen of Nova Scotia an enviable opportunity to do their bit for the country at this time. It is confidently expected that no time will be lost before the company from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island will be complete.

MAJOR MARGESON IN ONTARIO

Major J. W. Margeson, M.P.P., Lunenburg County, was one of the Speakers at Hamilton, Ontario, to the draft from the C. M. R. Battalion, which left that City a few days ago.

He emphasized the importance of every soldier being given all the practical work possible and stated that in his opinion, "Camp Borden is an excellent place for carrying on this kind of training." He had spent some days there, and while the weather was very hot, and the dust on certain windy days rather disagreeable, yet he declared that the feeling of dissatisfaction among certain of the Regiments there had died away. Major Margeson is visiting the various Military Districts in Canada, giving instruction to the several overseas units in the matter overseas Pay and Records. He obtained practical knowledge of this work while paymaster and Assistant Adjutant in the 25th Battalion.

The Major's health has greatly improved of late and he hopes before long to be again able to return overseas. He is now at Camp Niagara.

Robert Hopkins, the National Superintendent of Bible Schools of the A. C. M. Society will speak in the Christian Church, Port Williams, on Wednesday evening, Aug. 23rd at 7.30 o'clock. All interested in the work are invited. Silver collection.

Mrs. Doane, wife of Major Doane, of Halifax has taken rooms near Aldershot and will reside here during the stay of the Brigade in Camp.

TWO LIGHT CRUISERS SUNK BY GERMANS

Enemy Lost Two Submarines.

London, Aug. 20—The presence in the North Sea of a German squadron of some fifteen warships, including large cruisers is reported by trawlers arrived at Ymuiden, Holland, a Reuter despatch from that point says. The squadron was sighted early yesterday morning in the region of White Bank, and was accompanied by two Zeppelins. It was taking a north-westerly course.

Two British light cruisers the Nottingham and Falmouth, were sunk Saturday in the North Sea by German submarines while the vessels were searching for the German high seas fleet, according to an official announcement issued by the admiralty by the British, while another was rammed and possibly sunk according to the statement, which follows:

"Reports from our lookout squadron and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North Sea, Saturday, the 19th.

"The German high sea fleet came out, but learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength the enemy avoided an engagement, and returned to port.

"In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks—H. M. S. Nottingham, Captain C. B. Miller, and H. M. S. Falmouth, Captain John Edwards.

"All the officers of the former were saved, but 38 of the crew are missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Frick died of injuries.

"An enemy submarine was destroyed, and another was rammed and possibly sunk.

"There is no truth in the German statement that a British destroyer was sunk and a British battleship damaged."

Points of a Good
Piano

First, is the case beautiful? (a good action is never hidden in an ugly case.)

Second—is the tone rich? (a golden tone is not acquired by action, it is the product of the highest skill and the most painstaking craftsmanship on parts of the piano that will never be seen.)

Third, is the piano permanent, the tone lasting, the case built to endure? (the goodness of a cheap piano changes quickly to the shoddiness of old age.)

The Heintzman Pianos we show at our store will pass these tests triumphantly, as they have been doing for 66 years, because the Heintzman is made by a firm that has been making good pianos for so long it is too proud to make any other kind. Come view their masterpiece at our store!

Acadia Rhodes Scholar Gives Life For Country

News of the death of Lieutenant Vere K. Mason, of the 11th Suffolk regiment, England, was received by his mother on August 11th. He was killed in action on August 4th, the second anniversary of the war.

Lieutenant Mason, the son of the late Francis F. Mason, was a native of Falkland Ridge, Annapolis, where he attended the public school of the village taking high honors in all subjects. He then entered Acadia university, from which he was graduated in 1914.

During his four years' course at Acadia he not only distinguished himself in his class work, being a leader in all his subjects, but was an enthusiastic athlete, making the football, baseball, hockey and track team. He was of irreproachable and sterling worth, a christian gentleman and a favorite with all. He was the unanimous choice of his classmates for the Rhodes scholarship.

Vere left his home on September 8th, 1914, spending a few weeks with friends in Massachusetts, for his four years' course at Oxford university.

He spent three weeks at school and then enlisted in the infantry of a McGill unit of Montreal, which had arrived in England. He remained in England with his unit from October 1914 to March 1915 and went with it to France where he remained till January 1916.

He was then gazetted and made lieutenant and took a six weeks' course at the military school at Ipswich, England, after which he enlisted in the 11th Suffolk regiment, which remained in training in England till the last of June, 1916, when it was ordered to the front. On this occasion he again wrote to his mother saying: "Mother! This is the life. I have 25 men under me and I feel that I can buck up against the whole German army." This was characteristic of the man. He was always full of enthusiasm and courage, ready to do a man's share; and knowing him as we do, we know that during those days of July and August, he was doing his "bit" and doing it well.

On the arrival of his relatives from the United States a memorial service will be held in the Baptist church, Falkland Ridge, the church of which he was a faithful and consistent member.

Aldershot an Ideal Camp and Splendid Location

U. S. Army Officer, Major J. T. Greeley, Inspects Camp

An Interview by Sergt J. D. Logan, 85th. Batt.

For ideal location and for modern sanitation Aldershot takes a unique place amongst the military camps on the American continent.

This is the deliberate view of Major James T. Greeley, of Nashua, New Hampshire, who spent a few days of last week, as a guest of Colonel W. E. Thompson, Camp Commandant, and who made, under escort of the latter, a thorough inspection of the topography.

FROM POINTS WEST OF KENTVILLE

Special Train leaves Kings- on 11.33 a. m., fare 85c; Auburn 11.43 a. m., 70c; Ayles- comparisons with military camps in the United States, which, while Major and Medical Officer in the First New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, during the Spanish-American War, he knew at first hand. With the health and sanitation of several camps, but more particularly with that of Chickamauga Park, where 75,000 men were mobilized at one time, Major Greeley had much concern and much to do. His appreciation of Aldershot Camp given in an interview solicited by The Nova Scotia Highlander is, therefore, as noteworthy as it is authoritative.

Sanitary Soil

Beginning with the physi- ography of Aldershot Camp, Major Greeley observed that the Camp was naturally sani- tary, owing to the fact that the sandy soil assisted the rains to be drained off through percolation. No matter how heavy a rain might fall, the surface of the soil would soon be dry under foot. In most camps that he had visited, heavy rains meant sloppy travel and wet, heavy mud under foot for several hours and sometimes days— thus menacing the health of soldiers. The surface soil of Aldershot Camp quickly dried, and was a natural aid to con- serving good health amongst soldiers. Major Greeley remark- ed, too, the delicious air, the wealth of sunlight, and the good quality of the water. "Physically taken," he said, "Aldershot is ideally located for a sanitary military train- ing camp. In fact, I have not seen elsewhere its equal."

Absence of Flies

Another advantage that Major Greeley observed as singu- lar was the absence of flies in Aldershot Camp. It would only be natural to expect that in a place where there were, as it were, open-air kitchens and dining tables, scores of lustrines, great quantities of garbage and the possibility of debris of all sorts, flies would be swarming in my- riads. That there were no flies relatively, was due, in Major Greeley's opinion, to the splen- did system or methods of sani- tation employed in Aldershot Camp.

In this connection Major Greeley was struck also with the absence of disagreeable and putrid odors, especially about the lustrines. However much this absence of odors might be due to the method of sanitation, Major Greeley was inclined to give the credit to the stringency with which the orders for sanitation of the Camp lustrines were carried out and to the appreciation, both on the part of the military author- ities and of the men in Camp, of the absolute necessity for nothing but perfect sanitation.

Something, too, was note- worthy about the disposal of the debris—from the kitchens, out-door tables, tents, canteens, mess-marquees, and so on. Here again Major Greeley not- ed thoroughness and efficiency.

Ideal Hospital

Major Greeley regarded the fact that the Camp Hospital almost adjoined the Camp lines and was situated on an acclivity considerably above the level of the drill and parade grounds as making for ideal location. But he was much more impres- sed with the wards, departments, and equipment of the Hospital. He noted particularly the allot- ment, of eight cots in each small tent. "This provision," said Maj. Greeley, "is much bet- ter than having many cots in a large hospital tent. It assures better ventilation; there is no mingling of men suffering all sorts of illness; and each patient, gets individual attention, that is to say, the best attention possible."

He also favorably remarked the employment of female trained nurses. In his own ex- perience, he had to be satisfied with male nurses sent to him from the ranks in camp. It was impossible for these to be effi- cient and trustworthy. But the female trained nurses were as efficient and trustworthy as they were neat in their pretty uniforms, and had the tidy, smart, business-like appearance of real nurses on duty.

Dental Department

The new hospital building, which is being erected for oper- ating and consulting "is cer- tainly," said Major Greeley, "a step in the right direction. But, in my opinion, the equipment and work being done by the Dental Department are really splendid. In the past it was believed that a soldier with ailments or soreness in his feet, or any other part of his exterior anatomy should be at once taken in hand and cured. It had not occurred to the military authorities that a soldier with bad or aching teeth made an inefficient soldier, and the sani- tation of soldiers' teeth was neglected. I am glad to see that in Aldershot dental sanitation is splendidly taken care of. The department is equipped to ex- tract teeth, fill teeth, and make teeth. I admire, too, your den- tal chairs, which are so con- structed as to be good chairs for operating and also suitable for folding into small, compact space for shipment."

Cooks, Kitchens, Etc

Major Greeley was much taken with the methods and effi- ciency of the Camp cooks, kitch- ens and bake-shop, as well as with the quality of the food and the general service. "In my experience as a medical offi- cer," he said, "I found that good cooks are a very important fac- tor in maintaining the spirits and efficiency of a company or battalion of soldiers. A soldier well fed is a soldier in good spirits, and a soldier in good spirits is apt to take to arduous training, and thus to become effi- cient, with the grace and ease of a man training for field and track sports. Work becomes play. All this depends on the intelligence and skill of the camp cooks. For the personal health of soldiers largely de- pends on the quality and the preparation of the food they eat."

"At Aldershot Camp," contin- ued Major Greeley, "I note that your cooks are skillful, the food excellent and well served; the kitchens are wonderfully clean and sweet, the absence of debris, flies, and unwholesome odors being very striking. In your bakeshop I ate some of the bread made there, some a day old and some cooked the day I visited. The quality of the bread was excellent in both instan- ces."

In concluding his interview, Major Greeley observed signifi- cantly: "In general in military camps an allowance of two per cent of sickness is the rule. In Aldershot Camp the records show less than one per cent. That is an astonishing fact, and remarkable testimony to the healthfulness of the Camp."

Daily Camp Life

By Praeses C. M., in Nova Scotia Highlander.

What is written in this brief article is not meant for the eyes of anybody in the camp, to whom "the trivial round, the daily task" has become a dreary commonplace; but it is meant for the hundreds of readers in our Province and beyond, who seize "The Nova Scotia Highlander" first from the mail bag, and to whom the meanest detail in the soldier's life is a matter of deep interest.

It may be safely said that when the day breathes and scatters the morning mists in the Valley of Cornwallis, no eye beholds it save that of the military police. At 5.29 a. m. a silence like that of the Sahara still broods over the sleeping camp. At 5.30 a. m. the bugle boy puts his instrument to his lips and sounds reveille.

In the new comer these notes awaken romantic memories of all the stirring days in history whose dawn they have announced. To the old soldier of a few weeks' standing reveille has become tiresomely prosaic. The music has gone out of it. It merely orders him with a distinctiveness that cannot be gainsayed. "Get up and wash, get up and shave."

The spell of silence once broken, there succeed those varied sounds, loved of the spring house cleaner, the flap of shaken blankets and the swish of brooms; and by a magic art, as yet undiscovered by the sanitary board of any town council, the abode of six thousand men is as clean and trim as a new pin. So much for system and discipline!

Light Duty

Then comes the succession of bugle calls that marks the day's routine.

At 6 a. m. there is the sick parade. Do not be alarmed, gentle reader. The beds in the hospital are not emptied. Men who are ill are not made to shoulder a gun and go on drill. It simply means that, should any one awake feel indisposed, he is taken to the doctor for examination and is given "a light-duty slip" that exempts him from any serious exertion during the day. Should he show, however, any suspicious symptom, he is sent at once to the hospital, where he is placed under the care of some of the best medical talent in the Maritime Provinces, that has loyally put itself at the disposal of the country in these days of need, and where he is tended by a band of nurses whose skill is only exceeded by their kindness. No finer tribute could be paid to the general health given the camp than the order given by a zealous sergeant, concerned about the prompt discharge of his duties: "Sick parade, double." When the sick can run, their friends at home need not expend on them needless anxieties.

Feeding Up

The next bugle call has a brighter note. At 6.30 it sings—this is the English of it—"Come to the cook house door." Breakfast is served on the long tables that stretch in front of the kitchen and lie across the tents immediately back of the tents. There are maternal eyes that would scrutinize those tables very closely. Of course, the army does not provide "a meal such as your mother gave you," but the quality of its food is well protected. The meat and fish are inspected every day by competent medical authority and ruthlessly rejected, if found the least below par. There is no bogus contracting around Aldershot. Of course all parts of good beef are not equally tasty and every one has to take his chance with the rest of the boys as to what cut comes his way that day.

For breakfast there is provided bacon and beans, bread and butter and good hot tea or coffee.

Should anyone desire further delicacies, the canteen across the way from the tables displays its varied assortments, but this has to be paid for out of the private purse of the soldier.

Serious Business

At 7.15 a. m., the bugle sounds its first call to the serious business of the day, "Fall in A, fall in B, fall in every company" sounds the bugles. With a fine swing the men come doubling round the corners of the tent rows and line up beside the markers on the battalion parade grounds. What a muscular, brawny lads they have become, every trace of pallor has vanished from the countenance, straight as a post, full of good humor and entering with zest on the day's tasks.

The hour from 7.30 to 8.30 is devoted to physical training, and the exercises used are the last word of science as to the best means of making the body supple and elastic. To the onlooker there may be a touch of the ridiculous in seeing whole companies prostrate themselves on the ground or swing their arms in supplicating attitudes. A worshipping Mumbo-Jumbo from central Africa might have exclaimed: "These then, are your morning devotions. Your christian rites do not differ so much after all from ours."

At half past eight there is a quarter of an hour respite for the men to get their equipment for the regular military drill, which begins at nine o'clock and lasts until noon, when the glad summons to cook house door is heard again, and a boy goes through the tents crying the Halifax papers, and so both body and mind are fed.

Field Post Office

Interesting Facts About Extraordinary Amount of Business Done Since Camp Opened

Few people are aware of the vast amount of work that is being done at Aldershot Camp by the staff of the Field Post Office. Besides the head office there are seven boxes on the grounds which are emptied four times a day. Mail is also delivered four times a day to each unit in Camp. At present there are thirteen points of delivery.

The head office is open to the Camp from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. The staff commence work at 6 a. m. and often it is midnight before the day's work is done. There are seven men on the staff—Lieut. E. A. Sullivan, Sergt. M. J. Theakston, Pte. W. J. Foley, Pte. J. K. MacDonald, Pte. F. H. McIntyre, Pte. T. Burnett, and Pte. A. J. Archibald. Stamps are also kept for sale at the Y.M.C.A. and Borden Hall.

A careful estimate places the number of letters going out from Camp at 37,000 a week and larger number coming in. The difference would naturally be so, for many letters going are mailed at Kentville and other places by the men, while all the mail received by them comes through the Field Post Office.

Registered letters average 1,700 a week ordinarily and pay weeks over 2,000. Since the 16th of June over 1,300 Money Orders have been purchased on the grounds, representing more than $19,000. During the same time 160 Money Orders were received, their total value being $2,000.

This money mentioned here is in excess of the signed pay sent home through the pay offices of the various units. In addition over a hundred postal notes have been sold during the same time and $6,000 worth of stamps. Often upwards of two hundred Money Orders are sent out in a single day.

In the incoming mail there are always a lot of parcels and papers in addition to the many letters. They come by the bushel.

Lieut.-Col. John Stanfield, M.P., Officer Commanding the 193rd Battalion, Nova Scotia Highland Brigade, was brought to Halifax Wednesday evening, accompanied by Capt. E. O. MacLean, M.O., 193rd Battalion.
