THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY.

As every thinking man in the Dominion foresaw, the Government has been compelled, in order to make both ends meet, to increase the taxes. It has, we think, done this in the way that will give the least disturbance possible to business. To place a begin a campaign of depreciation, and, we might almost say, of insult, against Mr. Chamberlain.

But we cannot disguise from ourselves the fact that the continued snarling at Mr. Chamberlain, which is permitted among certain of the camp-followers of Conservatism, has produced and is dangerously aggravating a painful and perilous tension of feeling. We disagree on many points with Mr. Chamberlain.

We are unable to follow the line of reasoning by which he held himself to be bound to give his vote for the second reading of the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, but is to be feared that the honest though short sighted zeal of some Conservatives to whom the Church is more than an object of ted that the Government have considered it secular politics is egged on by the self-seek necessary to take back part of the sugar tax ing of others who are jealous of the share of office that might fall after a victory for the Unionists to their allies.

This is very plain speaking and it is calculated to have the effect intended. It is to be observed that Mr. Balfour is too largeminded and too clear-sighted to give any countenance to the mischief-makers. He is, in fact, as severe upon them, but in another way, as the Times. The Liberals, who have If anyone was so sanguine as to expect prospect of a schism in the Unionist party, been bubbling over with gratification at the contest against disintegration.

Position of European Protesting Powers Complicated by Ratification of Treaty of Shimonoseki.

The Eastern Outlook Defined-Rumored British Cabinet Crisis-Interesting Gossip.

London, May 4.—There seems to be little doubt that China and Japan have both ratified the treaty of Shimonoseki, which complicates the position of the European

At the request of the Associated Press, for the fruits of her victory and to take orders from St. Petersburg. Russia orders Japan to give up her foothold upon Chinese soil because, for sooth, she may disturb that mystical mumble called the balance of power. This order is backed up by the voices of France and Germany. The voice of France is weak, not because she does not love Russia, because she also loves Japan, because she hates Germany more than she loves any other country.
Germany is sacrificing the friendship of Japan for reasons strictly political. The Emperor of Germany desires to show good will for his Eastern neighbor, particularly at the outset of the present Czar's reign. For the past ten years the relations of the two countries have been very much strained, even to the point of imminent war in 1891. Germany is now experimenting with a platonic alliance between the Czar and the Emperor. It cannot last long, but it is profoundly conceived. It tends to weaken the French hatred of Germany and to wean the republic from slav-ish obedience to Russian dictation and to isolate her still further. A large party in Germany hates England cordially and is ready to make any sacrifices for the gratification of this feeling. This hatred springs largely from commercial rivalry, but still more from the feeling that German expansion in Africa has been hampered by John Bull. Germany hopes in a vague way that England may purchase her good will by large concessions in the Dark Continent, and at present therefore, the Emperor's government is tak-ing great pains to array itself with the enemies of England, and so Africa and Alsace-Lorraine are be settled on the banks of the Peiho and Yang Tse Kiang.

"But Japan has her Alsace-Lorraine. There is an island within sight of Japan called Saghalien, and there is no Japanese who would not gladly enlist in a war to recover this island, for it was stolen by Russis in 1875. I was at Tokio the year after this extraordinary land grab and can well recall the fury of the Japanese.

"If the Russian government give but an opportunity, the army that has just thrashed China will turn against Russia with finer gusto. That was a kind of land grab that we could only appreciate if a foreign power should occupy Long Island or the eastern shore of Maryland. Russia has kept all she has stolen and wants more. She wants Korea and above all she wants the very Port Arthur, which Japan proposes to keep.
Japan may be bluffed into surrendering Japan may be bluffed into surrendering or, permaps, and some of her claims; but her true interests lie in fighting Russia at once, while her to be inquiring into the latter scheme.

The Pope has sent to all the cardinals, heads of orders, etc., a document referring to the political conditions of the papacy, which takes the form of his political testa ment. His Holiness reviews the history of his position in the see of St. Peter, and makes a warm appeal to the cardinals at any future time to keep his ideal before them and continue the policy he has heretofore pursued. He requests the cardinals to hasten the election of the next Pope as much as possible, so as to give no time for outside intrigue or jealousy of the powers to influence in any way the free votes of the cardinals, or to place difficulties in the way of the newly elected Pope.

Moral force is very good and can do a great deal if it is well backed up by physical force, or by the reputation of possessing it and being prepared to use it when occasion requires. But we fear that moral force alone would not go far in maintaining a nation's rights, or in securing it from encroachment by ambitious and unscrupulous neighbors. A SPECIMEN FAKE.

It will be remembered that a few weeks Both the actual murderer and the alleged hypnotiser were arrested and tried. The hypnotiser was condemned and executed. while the man subjected to his influence, although there was no doubt about his firing the shot that killed the victim, was acquitted on the ground that he did not know parties concerned, including that of the the adopt indge who admitted the evidence of hypnotic suggestion, and who, on the strength of it, condemned the hypnotiser and allowed his subject to go free. The story was an interesting one, and was considered so important it both in Canada and the United States. The account of the trial was interesting, but anhappily the part of it that made it interesting and important was altogether false. It is true that Patton was murdered by Thomas McDonald, and that Anderson Gray was tried as accessory before the fact, but it was not true that McDonald pleaded that he had been hypnotised, and it is, of course, not true that the judge admitted the plea.

A letter from Judge Burnette, the judge presiding at the trial, appears in the American Lawyer, in which he says " the question of hypnotism was never raised, never insisted upon either in the evidence, the arguments or the instructions. In the opening statement for the defence one of the attorneys, in describing the relative responsibility of the two men, discussed the question of Gray's influence over McDonald, Gray being a man about fifty. per. seven years old and the owner of a large farm and a man of independent will and in. by law the relative value of iron and copper, domitable energy, and McDonald being a boy of easy-going disposition and about to fix the relative value of gold and silver twenty-one years of age, and in the employ under the same conditions. All this possessed a hypnotic power over McDonald, does not mean that silver should not be used and that was the only reference, either direct or remote, during the whole trial that was made to the question of hypnotism."

STORMING THE MALAKAND.

A Horrible Scramble-The Spear and the Bayonet-Tough Fighting.

The Swatis Completely Routed by the British-Skilful Manœuvring.

An officer who was in the fighting line has furnished the following narrative of the storming of the Malakand Pass:

Early in the morning the Second Brigade began the march from Dargai towards the Malakand Pass. The road lay up the bed of a mountain stream, and the travelling was bad. The Scottish Borderers led the advance at the outset, the native regiments some shots being fired at half-past nine from the lower hills in the valley at the entrance

The Highlanders were halted, and the Guides infantry were ordered to the front and directed to crown the height on the left lar fire. Until the heights were occupied the Borderers remained halted but as soon as that work had been accomplished the order to advance was again by this time close up.

The march up the valley continued cautiously but steadily. The path gradually narrowed to a spot where there was a sharp turn in the pass, and here the enemy had made their strongest works. The position was admirably chosen. Sangars were numerous and amply manned, and the enemy's firing was continuous, and at times

Then the Scottish Borderers, the lordon Highlanders and the 37th Dogras, from the First Brigade, were sent up the hills on the left of the pass to dislodge the Swatis. But the enemy were not yet beaten. Though the walls of their sangars had been lestroyed they still held their ground and fired steadily upon our advancing troops

The Queen's Birthday Lacrosse Games. -Baseball Excursion-Notes of Many Events.

In the annual report of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association for 1894, which has just been issued, there are many parbiculars at once new and interesting to British Columbia riflemen, especially in connection with the achievements of the Canadian team at the N. R. A. prize meeting at Bisley. There British Columbia was directly represented in 1894, by one of her native westminster, who though not the first representative of the province at the Nasons, Gunner George Turnbull of New tional meeting, was the first to win a place in direct competition at Ottawa. The example he set was cleverly followed last season by Gunner J. C. Chamberlin, also of New Westminster, who will be considered. St. Mympne—Messrs. R. Chappell, T. Inn., T. Knight, J. Hopkins, J. Major Ibbotson, who commanded the Canadian team, in his report dwells with ger. pride upon their successes, pointing out twenty members won seven first prizes, five second, five third, and 121 others, amounting to £550 in cash, besides prizes in kind to the value of £65. The prizes in kind to the value of £65. The most important individual prize ever captured by Canada was won by Staff Sergt.

W. C. King, who in a field of 1833 combut Mr. Hillier leads the best by three petitors took first prize in the St. George's competition, winning for the year the St. George's challenge vase and Dragon cup, besides the gold cross and cash prize of £30.

COAL SHIPMENTS. This match is in two stages—the first consisting of seven shots at 600 yards, and the second of ten at 800. Sergeant King's score was 77 points out of the 85 possible. This prize ranks next to the Queen's in importance, being—unlike the Prince of Wales', several times taken by Canada—open to all efficient volunteers.

After referring to the advantage to Canada of being thus creditably represented each year at Blsley, Major Ibbotson says:

The returns for the April are as follows: There seems no reason why the various provincial associations, in conjunction with would cover. In some such way the team might be substantially increased, and men of undoubted ability who for various reasons may have missed getting into the twenty contingent. With such a plan no province need be left unrepresented in any year.' This suggestion was no doubt promp the fact that Ontario had secured sixteen out of the twenty places on the team for PARIS WALKING COSTILME. noon toilets have the skirts not only stiffened under the lining, but have as well strips of whalebone sewed in some of the breadths, while two strips encircle the skirt at the bottom. The early importations also make it appear that conservative women who have been flattering themselves that they could save this country from an influx of the much dreaded crinoline will have to gird themselves afresh for the fray.

This tendency to width is accentuated by the sleeves expanding from the elbow and the hats, on which all the trimming is located at each side of the brim. For this fashion Sarah Bernhardt is partly responsible, as she is for so many vagaries in modes and manners. As the Byzantine Gismonda, she wears huge clusters of orchids, which protrude on either side of her head behind the ears. In like manner have her fanciful country women elected to dress their heads. The hair is turned back from the forehead in a thousand undulations, which fall over the ears and disappear in a tiny coil or bunch of curls at the back, set rather low on the head. The hats accord with this arrangement of the tresses.

The conservative woman cannot find it in her heart to commend this strange freak of fashion. For a tiny face rising from a tall figure it might make an efective frame, but the ordinary, diminutive woman appears more ridiculous than picturesque with these excrescences to right and left of her.

The blouse style of bodice which promises to prevail in thin dresses for summer is a pleasing one and welcome alike to tall and short women. These bodices are, many of them, made on a tight fitting lining and are trimmed with lace and ribbons. That old time favorite valenciennes lace is revived in both white and cream shades and will be largely employed on all thin gowns. The sleeves of thin gowns are being made up without lining and are rendered elaborate with lace insertions and frills. Blouse waists are furthermore made dressy with a full bertha of lace over the shoulders, the bertha in some instances crossing the waist in front. Bishop sleeves are much used for blonse waists. For heavier materials, such as pique, duck and linens, short coats with revers, also Norfolk waists, will be worn with plain skirts.

SPRING MILLINERY

nations, Many of Them Becoming. Spring millinery is an creatic jumble of shapes and combinations of materials and colors, with millions of glittering spangles of every hue thrown in for further diversity. But if we avoid the exaggerated perversions of real millinery art it is a simple matter to find the most charming little bonnets and the most becoming hats imaginable.

A special feature of the new millinery is that the flowers and leaves are mostly very large, the hydrangea being one of the favorite blossoms. Petunia is one of the most popular colors and appears in straw hats as well as flowers and ribbons. The wide effect gained by wings and outspreading bows is still a dominant characteristic of both hats and bonnets, but the broad Dutch bonnet, so fashionable all winter, has grown a little point in front, which makes it resemble the Marie Stuart shape and is infinitely more becoming to the majority of faces.

The jet bonnets, with their bunches of bright flowers at either side, are very attractive. Three shades of one flower are usually grouped together,

In fact, there is every shape of hat imaginable, and the straws are so soft and prettily colored that middle aged women will find less trouble than ever in getting a becoming hat.

Toques are a little larger, but they are to be worn as much as ever. Deep yellow straws, trimmed with valenciennes lace, will be popular later when the warm days are with us. Another confection has a crown of sequin jet embroidery over gold tinsel, iridescent green wings and fan ends of fine French ace, with bunches of pink roses. A butterfly toque of mechlin lace has bows of amethyst ribbon and piquet of tea roses. A small fan of lace falls on the hair, fastened with a brooch. Bows and rosettes are placed on the crown of some hats. The reverse is notoriously the case. The troubles began in December, 1872, when, after twelve years of peace under a missionary episcopate, the question was suddenly and publicly forced apon the congregation whether they must passively submit to Ritualistic, and indeed my teaching which an irresponsible author ity might see fit to allow, or not to forbid. their well-known principles was generally reprobated throughout the province, and was, if I remember rightly, recorded, and not with approval, in your own columns. When the Archbishop of Canterbury consecrates a bishop with jurisdiction abroad, it is a purely missionary arrangement, not of the church, but by promotion of devout individuals or associations, jurisdiction meaning simply limit of area, precisely as in other bodies. Such a person, like any other missionary, goes forth, not with authority from the national church, but as a "bishop in the church of God," either to preach the Gospel, or to seek whom he may persuade to follow the old ways, whether of worship or order, under his rule and governance, but with no authority over or cause of animosity against those who, either for conscience sake or desire to drop some things which they have felt a burden, decline or withdraw from communion under his rule.

As I have been identified with that body from its commencement in 1874, I trust you will afford me space in your columns for a reply, especially as, if we may judge from inquiries concerning our episcopate recently made in high quarters, the cause, whether last trespects curselves or others, is of no as it respects ourselves or others, is of no and traditions, to be accepted on the author-In reference to your correspondent's imputations on the congregation, as following not principles but men: as reseased of a gree has been too effectively handled in your columns already for me to enlarge on it here. But, as a river, to those who have escaped drowning, is "of more fearful recollection than the channel in which it flows," so, to those who have experienced its alarms, the actual power of the apostolic order is more tween themselves and the body, as such, from whom they worship apart, But when he goes on to reflect upon them as which has procured for it a tremendous force, more widely operative, perhaps, than many are at all conscious of or willing to admit. The prerogatives of the "apostolic" pastor, being antecedent to law and above law, involve, for those who admit them, vague and unlimited consequences. Possessed of no human authority, though leancomes, a commission from God, not only to rule the church, but to create it. From hence the reproach of "schism" derives its most awful significance, rendering those who incur it worthy of excommunication, with privation of rites of sepulture and of al spiritual benefits. Having been ourselves pursued by these censures and maledictions we deem ourselves justified in inquiring in to the nature and composition of a body which claims supremacy, not by virtue of apostolic truth, but of mere traditional pre rogatives. For evidently truth is not the indispensable condition. For, sir, the image of the indispensable condition. For, sir, the image of the image tinct branches, Greek, Roman, and what > make "the Church" to be, and apart from whom there is no salvation, or at least no assurance. Now, sir, we can accept "a Bishop in the Church of God" according to the national polity, but we cannot accept a bishop who, identifying himself with such a brotherhood, comes in the name of an "apostle." We hold the pretensions of such apostles as of nothing worth (Rev. ii 2), for hese reasons : First, because " the Church' in whose name they speak is not a Church, but only themselves and their traditions. Secondly, because they bring their prerogatives into, and did not receive them from the Church; they are no part of the polity of the national church, with which polity, as established in its standards of octrine, nething can be in stronger contrast than the Canone Ecclesiastical are distinctively the production of the apostolic" section. And thirdly, because the solemn scriptural ordinal of the Church of England has throughout in view only the congregations of the faithful, the living churches, having their being and origin in Christ alone. From THE DAILY COLONIST, May 4. H. B. HARDT.

Says He Was Canadian Commissioner at the Midwinter Fair at 'Frisco.

And Demands Money From Exhibitors Before Handing Over Diplomas or Medals

In March last a communication was received by Mr. J. R. Anderson, deputy minister of agriculture, from Mr. A. C. Wells, of Chilliwack, in which that gentleman stated that a man signing himself H. B. Hardt, had written from Portland that he held the diploma and medal awarded to Mr.

Wells for cheese at the Midwinter Fair, San Francisco, and that they would be forwarded on receipt of $6.50. Surprised at this demand, Mr. Wells, not knowing Hardt, asked Mr. Anderson for information. Mr. Anderson thereupon communicated with Hardt, inquiring how it was he should have in his possession awards made to Canadian exhibitors.

Back came a letter from Mr. Hardt setting forth that "I was the acting commissioner for Canada at the Midwinter Fair, appointed by authority." He had, he claimed, acted in that capacity, "which services I performed honorary," he explained. Through his valuable services, went on to intimate, given free space at the He had all through the fair, he said, assisted Mr. Anderson, the superintendent, in every way, and after Mr. Ander son had left had written him as to the disposal of the Canadian awards, but got no reply. He therefore had directed the fair ommittee to hand them over to him. The expressage, engrossing, telegraphing and correspondence were the expenses for which he was charging. It may be stated that the Mr. Anderson referred to by Hardt is Mr. James Anderson, of Ontario, who was appointed by the Dominion government Canadian commissioner at the Midwinter Fair.

Deputy Minister Anderson wrote back to Hardt expressing surprise at the heavy charges, when 10 cents would have been sufficient postage to carry a diploma and medal around the world. Why, he asked, were not the medals left with the fair committee to ferward, and how many more besides Mr. Wella' award were in Hardt's possession ?

For answer he received the following little list with the charges annexed : Chilliwack Cheese Factory (Wells), $6 50; Lacy B. Johnson, Vancouver (medal and diploma), $5; New Westminster Slate Co. (medal and diploma), $6; R Dunsmuir & Sons, Wellington (medal), $3; R. Dunsmuir & Sons, Comox (medal), $3; Rosenfeld & Son, Nanaimo (medal), $3; Galt Co. (diploma and medal), $6; G. A. The attendance was and fair reion of the strength of the streng ma), $5; Jaems Anderson, residence good and fair prices were realized. The unknown (medal and diploma), $5; Indian movement bids fair to assume considerable Head Experimental Farm (diploma and medal), $6 50; and Oil Cake Co., Winnipeg two hundred to four hundred head of cattle (medal and diploma), $6 50. Mr. Hardt will be disposed of each month. They will had forwarded free their awards to the be sold at both auction and private sale, Geological Survey at Ottawa and the Domin thus giving the small butchers of the city Geological Survey at Ottawa and the Dominion government. He further intimated that if those diplomas and medals were wanted he had better be written to soon, as he expected to leave for the Mexican international fair at the City of Marico by Mary rs to Mr. Anderson Hardt sent a small cutting from the regulations of the Midwinter Fair committee in regard to foreign sections exhibitors could be delivered to the commissioners of the several sections unless otherwise directed by the commissioner. He carefully had, however, cut off the preceding paragraphs, which stated that diplomas and medals would be delivered free to exhibitors, the medals neatly packed and the diplomas in mailing tubes.

In the meantime Mr. Anderson, the deputy minister of agriculture, wrote to the Department of the Interior at Ottawa and to Mr. James Anderson, the Canadian commission Yesterday a reply was received from Hon. T. M. Daly, Minister of the Interior, stating that already a similar complaint had been laid before the department, who advised the writer to have no dealings with Hardt, but to communicate with Emory E. Smith, secretary of the committee of awards, San Francisco. The department was, it was stated, making further inquiries into the matter and would reply. Mr. James Anderson wrote to Messrs. Gardner & Thornley at San Francisco to inquire as to Mr. Hardt's authority to act as commissioner for Canada, and Mr. Thorn-ley's reply was to the following effect:

"I have been informed that Mr. Hardt appeared in this city, before the fair opened, and presented a list of intending exhibitors from various places in Canada; after he had secured space he assumed the title of commissioner for Canada, and was recognized by the management of the fair, which, I learn, was the only authority he had.

'After the fair had closed considerable delay occurred in getting the awards ready for distribution, and it was finally decided to give exhibitors a diploma and bronze

" Mr. Anderson (the Canadian commissioner) requested me to get the awards from the committee and send them to the department at Ottawa for distribution, but I was unable to get them for the reason that the secretary of the committee on awards had sent the diplomas to Mr. Hardt at Portland, Oregon, without consultation with those connected with the Canadian exhibit, it being claimed that Mr. Hardt was recognized as the commissioner for Canada by the managers of the fair, and, therefore, the proper person to take charge of the diplomas awarded to those exhibitors whom he represented. The secretary informed me that the diplomas and brouze medals were given free of charge, and that no person was authorized to collect a cent for them. A charge was made for gold and silver medals and for

made for gold and silver medals and for duplicates of the bronze medal."

All this goes to show that the exhibition people apparently recognized Hardt as Canadian commissioner without his having any authority to aet for this country, and now that he has got hold of the medals and the setimate.

Ameeting of the general committee will be held in the city half on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

The letter concludes; "I cannot imagine how in the world our Canadian people should have selected such a man as Hardt to represent their interests, for if everyone has been treated in the same way that I have it will certainly tell very much against any Canadian exhibits in future."

The city council had a special meeting last night at which the first matter to come up was the protest from the Taylor Mill Co., the Shawnigan Mill Co., and James Leigh & Sons against being obliged to pay a wholesale traders tax, as they were, they said, retailers. In this connection P. McQuade & Son also registered a protest against paying wholesale tax.

There was considerable dissatisfaction, the Mayor said, among people as to what constituted a wholesale and what a retail dealer. A wholesaler had to pay $50 every six months, while a retailer only paid $25 for the same period.

ALD. MACMILLAN had always objected to these trades licenses as they never could be collected equitably. ALD WILSON suggested as a way out of the difficulty to charge the mills both retail and wholesale tax. (Laughter.) Everybody who sold by wholesale should pay a wholesale license and retailers should pay the retail tax. It was an easy matter to find out

It was against the first principle of taxation.

His private opinion was that the matter would have to be solved in the courts. ALD. PARTRIDGE supported Ald. Humph rey's motion on the subject. It might be that the next council would be able to find some other means of raising revenue when better times came. ALD. MoLELLAN opposed the water pipe tax—the idea of a man paying a tax on water, the freest gift to man. It might be possible to adopt a sliding scale of business tax as was done in San Francisco.

He did not think there was a single case of trouble between the local government and the taxpayers on this account. This system it might be possible to introduce the latter part of the year.

Ald. Macmillan seemed to have given this made their purchases in this city. Simon Laiser & Co. will ship three carloads of supawards, which provided that awards to excellent pipe music was provided as well as to introduce the latter part of the year.

The following interesting paper was re-cently read by Mr. James Deans before the British Columbia Natural History Society; By a civilization I mean the advance which any people has made from a primitive low estate to one of considerable refinement and intelligence. The subject of this paper is not the civilization of the lost Atlantis, nor that of the Mayas, the Incas, the Toltees, the Aztecs nor of any nation of Central or South America; nor that of the mound builders and others of North America. Neither is it on those civilizations in other parts of the world, the theme of many an ancient story. Mine is not a treatise on the conquests of Alexander of Philip, of Cæsar, the Saracens, nor of others of bygone or modern times, nor do I mean the kingdoms of whom a poet has

A description of their clans and crests is but a history of these people and their civilization. There are, as part of their social usages, three sorts of crests. 1, The clan crest; 2, the sex crest; and 3, the individual crest. The first two are called by the Hidery ton; for example, the Kimquestan ton is the frog's crest; the Choo-itza ton is the wolf's crest, the Chootsa ton is the bear's crest. The first of them is a distinguishing mark or coat of arms, inherited and acquired. The sex crest is one inherited from the mother and controlled the system of marriages. For example, a man or woman was not allowed to take a wife or husband from the same crest. If the one belonged to the raven phratry the other had to belong to the eagles. The third was not in reality a crest. t is a totem. Among the Indians of North America the totem is an animal, a bird or a fish, and is regarded as the protector of tribes and individuals. These were the crests or coats of arms for he clans, and as soon as a youth or maiden had the means to pay for it, they had themselves tattooed with all the creats belonging their phratry—the boys on their breasts, arms and legs, the girls on their arms and legs. By doing so they not only raised higher but got a better name. They were ese means initiated into other privileges in unison with the social usages of their nation or people.

London, May 2—In the House of Commons to-day the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir W. Vernon Harcourt, presented the budget. He estimated that the deficit would amount to £319,000, which would be converted into a surplus of £181,000 by the re-imposition of a duty of sixpence per gallon on beer. The only other proposal was to abolish the extra sixpence on spirits,

When a chief or slave-owner died his slaves were killed in order that they might be useful to their dead owners in the other life. Moreover, when a house was being built a slave was killed and his or her body placed on the bottom of the bole in which the curring or main carved hole in which the guyring or main carved old king's wings and flew off, returning becolumn was to stand, its lower end being fore evening with a piece. If a slave had been killed for that purpose an image of a man or woman, as the case might be, was carved with their head down, on the lower part of the column, showing what had been done. Being always on the make, to the Hidery conseliving slave was worth forty dead ones. one living slave was worth forty dead ones. one living stave was worse forty dead once.

So they quietly sold a slave to another tribe. Of course they had to place an image, with the head down, all the same as if one had the head down, all the same as if one had fieldged eagle.

For instance, the house of the owls, "nah coot quinees," owl house; the people living in it were owl house people—too-quinees hidery—so named because they belonged to the coot-quinees ton or owl crest. A house through which the wind sounded was named "nah querga-heegan." That is, wind sounding house. A house in which were a lot of boxes or had a box for its door step, was named "cotta nass," box house. ability explain the unique hieroglyphics or Not far from the east end of egate town, Queen Charlotte Islands, form erly stood a house named "choot nass," Eagle's house, because all the people who lived in it belonged to the eagle clan. The eagle, commonly chosen as their representative or coat of arms, is a bird very common on those islands-the bald, or white headed variety. I had a model of this house made and sent to the World's Fair. It always drew a great amount of attention, not only for its elaborate carvings but for the stories connected with it. I shall now give a reading of its picture writings, including the tory of the eagles. On the projecting ends of the roof beams, six in number, were six bears; on top of the two front corner-posts were as many eagles. The bears showed the crest of the husband. and the eagles that of his wife, and at the same time gave the name of the house to b "Choet mass," the eagle's house. The fig-ures on the post—on the totem post—were seven figures, namely, a man, a brown bear, a young bear. These show that the man who built this house be longed to the bear clan, and the young bear that he had a son. This part belongs to the husband alone. The next part belongs entirely to the wife. The four a dog fish with a woman's head. This roman had several names ; first, Hath ling z), or bright sunshine; and second, "Call cah jude," or woman of the ice; and the third was "Ittal-cah jud," or typical woman of the Hidery. In this paper I can only tell the story of the eagles; were I to tell the story of the bears and of the woman it would be too long, so I must leave them to anothe time. This much I shall say, that the woman got the name of woman of the ice because in by-gone ages, Haida tradition says, when the people fied before the encroachment of the ice she was the leader of the Hidery people to a country further south. In all the Hidery carvings she is represented as having a large cabret or lip piece. -In by gone days every Hidery

China Negotiating a War Indemnity Loan-Japan to Have Additional Compensation.

France Requested to Assist China Obtaining Money to Meet War Expenses.

LONDON, May 8 .- A despatch to th Standard from Berlin says that rumors are current that a six per cent. Chinese war indemnity loan will be issued at 102.

A despatch to the Times from Paris says that Japan has surpassed the hopes of the friends of peace, and even the conditions arranged by Russia, France and Germany, In a leader the Times says: "We welcome Japan's decision with satisfaction, as emoving a danger to the peace of the far east. Had Japan allowed herself to become implicated in a struggle with Russia, the peace of the world would have been jeopar-dized."

A dispatch from Shanghai says the Chinese Emperor has written to the Czar and President Faure, asking for assistance to meet the war expenses, and promising to meet the war expenses, and promising to grant important commercial advantages to Russia and France in return therefor.

It is reported that in consideration of Japan's abandonment of the Leactong peninsula, she will receive an additional indemnity of $10,000,000.

peace between China and Japan. The French press, generally speaking, is satisfied with the course Japan has adopted regarding the remonstrance of the powers as to the treaty of peace with China. Naturally, however, there are a few dissenting voices. La Lanterne says : "We shall be lupes of Russia unless an agreement of the hree powers also applies to the settlement of the Egyptian question, and Russia re-turns on the bank of the Nile the service she has just received from us." It is stated that France is negotiating

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

TORONTO, May 7 .- (Special) - The Mail-Empire says : " What the Manitobs govrament will do with the school question in now fairly well understood. When the case was sent to Winnipeg, the first impulse of Premier Greenway and his colleagues was to cast it promptly and abruptly into the Federal arena. Now it appears that the Manitoba government is going to say that it will take no action now; that it say that it will take no action now; that it thinks no legislation should be given; but that it cannot take full action, as inter-preted and understood by Mr. Sifton's read-ing of the remedial proposition, until the general election is held. WINNIPEG, May 8.—(Special)—The members are nearly all in the city for the re-assembling of the Manitoba legislature to-morrow, when the Dominion remedial order comes up for discussion. Winnipeg, May 7.—Hon. Dudley Majoribanks, brother of Lady Aberdeen, and R. H. M. Ferguson, Ottawa, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and left for the West to-day. They are going to spend the summer on Lord Aberdeen's fruit farm in the Okanagan valley.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 8.—Reports from the surrounding country indicate that the hail and rain storm did greater damage than at first reported. The storm in reality appears to be a cloud burst, nearly three inch-

Reports from our tain points aver that hall fell to a depth of six inches on the level. For miles in attretches not a leaf was left on the trees in the path of the storm, while vegetables and B corn were out into ribbons and totally destroyed. The damage to crops generally will be most severe.

THE ARMENIAN OUTRAGES.

LONDON, May 7.—An immense meeting to protest against the Armenian outrages was held this evening at St. James Hall, the Dake of Argyll presiding. In opening the meeting, the Duke said it was a hopeless task to overcome the causes of corruption in Turkey. Speeches were made by Mr. Clifford, Canon MacColl, the Lord Provest of Edinburgh, Canon Wilberforce, the Bishop of St. Asaph and the Bishop of Hereford. The latter in the course of his remarks made a political allusion, which was met with cries of "No party politics allowed."

All sections of the press condemned the false report regarding the Bank of Montreal, which started the run and showed that there was no possibility of loss to the noteholders of Canadian banks. FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1896. THE FRASER RIVER FISHERY.

Sir Hibbert was then Minister of Marine and Fisheries. His desire while in this Province evidently was to get all the information he could relative to the fisheries and to the grievances of which the canners complained. It was very clear that he made his inquiries with an open mind and in a conciliatory spirit. He acknowledged that mistakes had been made in the regulation of the fishery and he promised to correct what he was convinced were mistakes. It is greatly to be regretted may after a little while be no use that the news of Sir John Thompson's death for it in Victoria. Except for compelled him to hasten to Ottawa before he had completed his inquiries. It was while he was personally prosecuting those inquiries on the Fraser that the telegram containing the sad news reached him.

Although he is no longer head of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, he has no doubt acquainted his successor with the British Columbia.

We do not think that the Hon. Mr. Costigan has any prejudices to overcome in the matter of the Pacific Coast salmon fishery. He has the reputation of being a reasonable man, ready to hear patiently and without prejudice the pros and cons of any subject that is submitted to him for decision, and he has no doubt given his best consideration to all that has been said to him about that fishery by his predecessor and by the representatives of the province. He is, no doubt, acquainted with the importance of the salmon fishery to this province, and he must see that it is only fair to interfere with the business of the canners as little as possible consistent with the preservation of the fish.

The men who have risked their means in the business of fishing and preserving the salmon are in a different position, as regards the Government, to almost of New Brunswick the province will second every other class of business men. The object which the Government has in view is not to hamper the canners or to interfere unnecessarily with their business, but to preserve the salmon. It is not difficult to see that any regulation or interference that is not calculated to effect predictions to that effect : that object is unnecessary and vexatious. The principle, therefore, that should underlie the administration of the salmon fishery is to interfere with the fishermen and canners only when it is clear that the preservation of the fish requires such interference. If this principle had been kept steadily in view and acted upon there would, we think, have been very few misunderstandings between the canners and the Government.

Well-meaning persons, who knew little or nothing about the habits of the salmon or the effect of the regulations in vogue, have been nervously apprehensive that the salmon would be soon exterminated. They were continually exclaiming against the practices of the canners and complaining that if they were continued the river would soon be fished out. Many of these predictions are fortunately on record. They have barons. The officers of justice are also nearly all proved false. The regulations fiendishly cruel. A certain class of agitators are continually declaring that in the Mother Country, and indeed in every other within the bounds of civilization, the poor re-said as an undoubted truth. Victoria Sealers Missing on the West Coast-A Relic of the Lost "Montserrat."

Rithet's Review for April-Warships Homeward Bound From Nicaragua-Waterfront Notes.

Steamer Thistle, Captain Langley, com-pleted the first of her regular West Coast trips Sunday evening, being absent from port just four days. Soon after her return she left for Tacoma with a number of passengers and will be back again to-day. Her coast voyage was uneventful, she have ing met but one sealer. On the return trip the schooner Sapphire was spoken at Clayenced bad sealing weather and reported the loss of two white men and an Indian, who are probably only missing. A few days prior to the Sapphire's arrival at Clayoquot she had spoken the Triumph with 312 skins. These, with the Sapphire's catch, will be shipped down to Victoria as soon as the Triumph reaches Clayoquot. The Sapphire reports having heard that the schooner Otto missed two of her canoes and a boat. H. K. Prior, of the E. & N. railroad, made the round trip on the Thistle.

SHIPPING FOR APRIL

Mesers. R. P. Rithet & Co., Ltd., in their report for April say: "During the month a substantial advance has been established in grain freights, which indeed have not been so active as of late for many years. The tendency is still upward, and as most of the vessels due in the near future have aiready been fixed homeward, a further advance may be looked for. It is not to be lost sight of however that the carry-over in California will be very large, and that unless weather conditions prove untoward later on in the season, the next crop will in all probability rival that of 1882 in quantity. Wheat freights being strong the tonnage available for lumber is not, as so often happens, swelled by vessels which cannot find employment as grain carriers, and rates consequently are firm. A very encouraging demand has lately been shown from China, and now that the war is practically over, this may be expected to develop. Inquiry from other quarters is well distributed although the volume of business is not large. Preparations for the coming salmon season are now in active progress, and the usual tonnage is being provided. Up to the present three fair sized vessels are reported as chartered. The rates, however, have not vet been announced.

THE LOST " MONTSERRAT "

The circumstances in connection with the loss of the two steam colliers, Montserrat and Keeweenaw, are still fresh in the minds of all. On Friday, Dec. 7, the two boats passed out of the Straits of Fuca on their way from Nanaimo to San Francisco, coal laden. A terrible storm came on that same afternoon and to escape being dashed on the coast they probably put to sea, only to be of the performance will be the coast they probably put to sea, only to be engulfed by the tremendous waves that were running. From then until the present nota word has been heard from either boat or a single plece of wreckage found. Word has just now been received that on February 28, the Montserrat's medicine chest was found on the shore of a small island in latitude 56 2 morth and longitude 132.37 west, by a man on his way to Calbreath's cannery, on Eto-line Islank. The naval authorities at Esquimait received word yesterday from Admiral Stephen-son that all mail matter for the Royal Arthur should be held for delivery, the Wild Swan having already started North, to be followed almost immediately by the flagship, both being due to arrive prior to May 24. This news may be taken as indicating clearly that no further trouble at Nicaragua is anticipated by the home government.

RE DUTY ON FRESH SALMON.

J. C. Saunders, collector of customs at Port Townsend, to inquire whether such was the case or not, and the Brooklyn; W. D. Evans and Miss Mary C. whether such was the case or not, and the following reply from that gentleman clearly shows such to be the case :

"OFFICE OF THE COLLECTOR, "Port Townsend, May 2, 1895. " Messrs. J. H. Todd & Son, Victoria:

"SIR:—Replying to your letter of recent date I have to advise you that under a decision of the board of general appraisers at New York, made on January 17, 1895, salmon are admitted as fresh water fish, under Paragraph 481, Tariff act of August 1994 fresh date. 28, 1894, free of duty. Respectfully yours,

The immediate local effect of the above is the Canadian tariff must pay half a cent a pound duty, equal to four or five cents on each sookeye salmon, for any fish they get from Point Roberts or any other U. Such being the case, we hope the Canadian government will at once, either by order-in-council or otherwise, allow the importation of salmon and other fresh water fish duty free into Canada. fish duty free into Canada.

G. E. Jorgenson suggested that $25 be set aside for instruments to ascertain the rainfall at Elk lake for the purpose of getting accurate data as to the water supply. He offered to make the observations. The amount was granted.

The water committee recommended the extension of 4 inch pipe from Fernwood to Chambers street along North Pembroke and along Chambers to Whittaker; Spring road from South road to North road; Ridge road from Fernwood along North road to Spring Ridge; from Pleasant street to David street and Henry street; from Bridge street along David to Pleasant; Ellis street to David on Bridge; from Rithet street along South Turner to Dallas road; from Dallas road to Carr street ; on Battery street from Parr to Carr streets. This was adopted. On the usual bills being read Ald. Humphrey objected to an item for two gallons of spirits for the Old Men's Home for medical purposes. The medical health officer, he held, should be told that no more liquor was to be sent to the home.

ALD. McLellan said as far as he was concerned he had decided to withdraw his motion for street paving. The determination of the council to have a concrete found. ation would make the sum up to $45,000, which he was sure in the present hard times the ratepayers would not pass.

The street committee recommended that 75 cents per lineal foot be paid towards the cost of laying a cement sidewalk 10 feet wide where the work is done by the property owner in front of whose property the sidewalk is laid; also that tenders be called for raising the sidewalk on the south side of Yates street from Government to Langley. "That the E. & N. ALD. MOLESLAN knew that some men were always calling people who put their money into great enterprises monopolists. The "monopoly" of the Dunamuirs had been losing the company $30,000 a year ever since they began to run the road. He had the greatest admiration for men of enterthe greatest admiration for men of enterprise and not for men who stood on the street corners with chin music for stock.

ALD. BRAGG looked at the matter from the standpoint of a citizen and a resident of the province. He considered that as such they should support anything that would develop the province.

After considerable discussion, the motion on the proposal of Ald. Williams was amended to read that any residents who can prove by written proof signed by two well known residents that they are permanent residents of the city shall also be eligible to work on the waterworks, it being understood that Chinamen and Japs are excluded.

This was carried. Ald. McLellan's motion that tenders for building the coffer dam at Beaver lake by contract be called for was carried, Ald. Williams and Macmillan voting against it. The council then adjourned.

All were aware that the ALD. McLellan suggested that this shelter for the homeless, and in an economical way such as the Army alone seemed able to do. It was really astonishing the amount of work they had performed with Lellan's suggestion. He did not care the small sum at their disposal. Here for whether he was politically doomed or not, he considered the Jap and the Chinaman as bed, supper, a bath and breakfast, and if he a brother and a child of the same God and had no money or was not able to work he would never support a resolution that took could have this free. The city had given $1,000 towards the shelter, and he was sure that the money had been well spent.

Rev. Dr. Campbell extended his congratulations to the Army on the noble work achieved. He spoke of the readiness with which the public and the press of Victoria responded to any charitable call, and added that the ratepayers could not have expended $1,000 to better advantage, or in a way that would give back better returns than those granted to the depot. The army followed the example of Christ himself in looking after bodily necessities first, and then the spiritual welfare. Christ first fed the 5.000 and then said to them, "I am the staff of life." The shelter reached a class of people that the churches could not, for they were people who could not be got into the churches.

Adjutant Archibald, for the army, assured the Mayor that no stone would be left unturned to make the depot a success. There was no man so low down that he could not Morning.

The scaling schooner Dora Siewerd. Captain Siewerd commanding, which returned to port from her spring ecaling exthe well known Walter A. Earle, which captized in the fierce gale raging on Easter Sunday, with a loss according to present reports of all hands aboard.

At the time of the disaster the Earle, in company with the Favorite, Capt. McLean. was hunting in the neighborhood of Cape St. Elias, in latitude 58 north, longitude 142 west. The weather had been very dirty for several days and on the 14th April a fiero gale arose, which carried away a considerable portion of the Favorite's running gear and gave her a hard battle for her life.

When the morning of the 15th broke and the storm had in a measure subsided, Capt. McLean looked, but looked in vain, for his consort. The Earle had disappeared. Afterward the Favorite came upon an overturned hull which was taken to be that of the Earle, although weather did not permit of the lowering of a boat to make a close inspection, and suspicions could not therefore at the time be verified. They were a few days after, however, when, according to the mate of the Katherine, Indian hunters from the Favorite got close enough to the turnedturtle craft to make out her name.

The masts were then in place, so the Indians said, and the schooner had apparently been simply swung over by the storm, in

There was no particular disorder aboard the vessel, but it seems that the Indians, like other native crews this season, were very headstrong and did not show a very keen appreciation for work. For all the awful night the Libbie as well as the Favorite ought the tempest, nor could she do more than with difficulty hold her own.

The three schooners had before this been together; after the storm the Libbie sighted only the Favorite, and on next speaking her, Captain Hackett received the news, of the wreck of the Earle, which already guessed, from Captain McLean. IN THE GREENROOM.

One evening at the Odeon, when they were playing the "Depit Amoureux" as a curtain raiser, and the beautiful Sophie Cherubin, who personated Marinette, was still on the stage, Fabrecyou know, perfectly well, Fabrec, the deputy with the golden beard who has so young an air despite his 40 yearshalf opened the door of the dressing room without knocking and called out, 'Cuckoo!'

He was not a little disappointed to find the dressing room empty. Then Constance, the old dresser, came out from behind the screen:

"If monsieur will have the goodness to be seated, madame will return in five minutes.

Fabrec let himself drop into a tapes tried armchair, crossed his legs, tapped his patent leather boots with the tip of his cane and lost himself in reflections, while the old woman arranged the little things on the dressing table. After all, for what had he come here? Not from love. Hardly from desire. One day, when he had urged his claims, she had said to him, with a show of reason:

"Listen, Fabrec. You are very nice, but I have 40,000 francs of debts, and for you the beautiful days of Panama are finished. Come here to gossip when you will, but we will never be other than good comrades." Frankly she was right. Nevertheless an attraction drew him always in that direction, content to obtain here and there little privileges. He amused himself near this woman of a profession so beautiful and gay and laughed heartily at her sallies of wit and cynicism, and then again it was necessary to kill time. While meditating Fabrec regarded mechanically the after that an old friend who plays the his reverie by the face of the little old But I am at the end of my strength glass. What a ruin! One evening I went to the little theater of the Gobelins, where I was overcome with love for the young premiere, Blanche Lilas, the moment she appear ed on the stage. Was she young? she pretty? I ask myself today when I know that the beauty of an actress may disappear with some cold cream and two towels, and that ingenues generally have a son who is a lieutenant of cavalry or a sous prefet. But then Mile. Blanche Lilas appeared to me the most fascinating of women. I no longer lived but to dream of her and then to admire her upon the boards of the Gobelins, the Montparnasse or Grenelle—for the troop moved about. I sold all my old books to thanks to Blanche Lilas I know all the plays of that day. Ah, she was charming in Polder! She is the only woman for whom I have ever made verses. "Hein? What, my good woman?" "I have a request to make of you. Voila, I am ill. I no longer have my health, and it is with difficulty I do my work. I would like to be admitted into a hospital for incurables."

"Very well, the next time I come you can give me a note," responded Fabrec But the dresser had not finished. "And then, monsieur, there is a thing which will perhaps interest you further. I

ABOUT THE ESTIMATES.

Some Details of the Dominion Expenditure About to Be Veted by Parliament.

The Drill Pay for the Militia-Changes in Appropriations for this-Province.

"The Estimates" of the Deminion expenditure for the year from July 1, 1895, to June 30, 1896, have arrived by the mail and ontain many interesting particulars not touched upon in the brief dispatch from Ottawa stating the main particulars of the general retrenchments. On consolidated depth of these lakes. This was found to be extremely uniform over considerable parts of their area, but with unexpected and as yet unexplained exceptions. Little Shuswap lake has a nearly flat bottom, with a depth varying from about 58 feet to 74 feet measured in this as in other cases, from the mean high water mark. The deepest water found in Great Shuswap lake was 555 feet, about six miles northward from Cinnemousun Narrows, in the Seymour arm, but nearly the whole lake is notably deep, Adams lake however, much exceeds either of the Shuswap lakes, as it is for a length of some twenty miles, about 1,150 feet, the greatest depth being 1,190 feet. As the height of the surface of this lake is 1,380 feet above the sea level, its present bed is therefore 196 feet early above the sea, although distant meaning year against only $3,386 in 1894 95.

Why not have a national wedding? Say one's part of the connection with the wed-ings, with their conventional white connection wit fund account—that is, with respect to the fearly 200 miles from the nearest part of the to stop public improvements, for failway and canal construction expenditure is to be out down only $367,000, to $2,527,420, and

Although Boston baked beans have achieved a national reputation and are served on many tables all over the Union, it has often been remarked by connoisseurs that nowhere but in the Hub itself can the genuine article be found. The bean itself may be quite the same, but the cooking somehow is not. The dish hasn't the right taste; there is something lacking, though what it is impossible for the disappointed house-

For the benefit of these I give the following recipe, which I guarantee will bring smiles of complete satisfaction to the lips of Boston baked bean loving husbands, sons, daughters and guests, before whom the article is placed. Give heed to the minutest details, as it is upon these seemingly unimportant points rest the whole difference in the

Before putting them into the oven prepare a pound of fat salt pork in the following manner: Wash the pork thoroughly and scrape the riad until it looks white; then take a sharp knife and gash the rind through to the meat in fingerlike strips. Now sink the pork in the center of the beams, so the rind will be one a level with the top of the beams; then put in a half teaspoonful of baking sods (not baking pewder) and 2 large tablespoonfuls of common molasses. Cover the whole with cold water and put in the oven to bake. When the water coeks away, fill up the pot with warm water, but when the beans are nearly done allow the water to cook nearly away, so that the rind of pork may cook orisp and dry and the beans brown on top.

When done, the beans should be soft but not cracked open. Serve on a platter, with the pork in the center. JANE DODSON O'HERN.

Instead of the usual wedding march have the organist play "Lo, the Conquering Hero Comes?" and during the ceremony the service might be very impressive if old Scotch

In addition to the eloquence which they displayed there is another phase of their speeches to which I wish to call attention. The speech from the throne generally concludes with an invocation for divine guidance in the proceedings of parliament, and very often that paragraph is passed over ightly by movers and seconders; but on this occasion both of these hon. gentlemen referred to that paragraph in the most reversed to the people of British Columbia are concerned. On the trade question I will simply place one or two economic facts before the honorable the leader of the opposition, who has made extraordinary statements on the sub-ject. It is well known that food and pro-ducts of all kinds have not been so cheap for the last forty years in Canada, the Unit-ed States and England as during the last year. It is also known that there are more hungry, idle, unemployed people in these countries at present than there have been for years. What benefit is it to the farm laborer in England if foreign and colonial wheat, beef, cheese and butter are cheap if he cannot earn a day's wages? What benefit is it to the Manchester cotton spinner, and weaver, if imported American six? What benefit is it to the iron workers of Sheffield, Newcastle, Birmingham and Glasgow if foreign iron is cheap if they are working on half time? The hon, gentleman from Ottawa says: lower the duty and you will increase the revenue, but he failed to show how that could be done. England is held up by that gentleman and others as having the model financial and commercial system of the world. Does she lower her system of the world. Dees she lower her axation when increased revenue is required? Just the contrary; she at once raises her in come tax—and this very year it is higher than it has been, except when war was going on. Anyone who tries to show that the policy pursued there could be adopted here, is very much at fault in his political economy. The conditions of the two contries are entirely different. England has large accumulation of wealth, with abund-There are some particulars of special in-terest to Victorians in the annual report of the Department of Indian Affairs, just issued, these relating to the natives of this

Just think of the wealth and consuming power of this country to be able to absorb such an immense value in addition to our annual importation of about $120,000,000. Then, again, look at the large amount of wealth kept in the country by reason of this home

One can readily understand why a decline may take place in our imports and revenue, when we have so large a quantity of home production to supply our wants. As a mat-ter of course, the more we supply our home market with our own manufactures, the less we require to import, and the less will be the revenue from importations. With regard to the Manitoba school question, I am fully convinced that an injustice has been done the minority which should be and I hope will be rectified. A prescribed right exercised for twenty years has been ruthlessly taken away from the minority, an act not to the credit of the Gris government of Manitoba. My voice and my vote will go for justice to the minority.

No reference is made of the other prisoners coming under possible American jurisdiction. Secre-tary Gresham's letter will be made public at a meeting of the council to be held this week. The government has received no word from Secretary Gresham regarding Minister Thurston's alleged recall.

The Hawaiian government is putting into effect measures to equalize, and perhaps change altogether, the immigration stream.

A limited number of Chinese field laborers are to be brought in under restrictions, by authority of the act of 1892. For the present the board of immigration will refuse all applications for further importations of Japapplications for further importations of Jap-anese contract laborers. It is the intention of the government and the planters to en-courage by every means immigration from Europe. Negotiations are now under way for more Portuguese. On the Saturday the Nationals began their advance and after some fighting reached the city. Under cover of a dense fog, in the early Sunday morning, the National divisions advanced towards the centre of Lims by different routes. The Cacer. ists resisted stoutly and there was heavy fighting in the streets all day. During Sun-day night all was darkness outside in the streets and uncertainty inside the dwellings, from which the inhabitants dared not

At daybreak on Monday the fighting was resumed. Detachments of the National army appeared in the neighborhood of the Conception market, occupied the roofs of the buildings and attempted to dislodge the Cacerists from the tower of San Pedro stones at the corner of the streets and from behind these kept up a murderous fire of Manlicher rifles and Gatling guns, which drove back their assailants with terrible

Similar scenes were going on all over the city. All the inmates of the houses on the ground floor huddled together in the back rooms; those who lived in upper stories and could manage to gain the ground floor did so, while those who could not adopt this course got as far back as possible, and with furniture and mattresses endeavored to progiven the annexation movement a severe setback.

Minister Hatch has received a communication from Secretary Gresham, through U.S. Minister Willis, in regard to naturalized Hawalians applying for the protection of the United States. The communication deals entirely with the case of J. F. Bowler, who time opened their doors to snatch hold of and drag inside the unfortunate wounded who begged for assistance. Numbers were by this means saved from certain death. From the roofs of many houses and from the halomaker of others about working which balconies of others shots were fired which dropped several of the Cacerist officers. In the suburbs vast masses of the populace were formed and lept valuable assistance to the National army.

On Tuesday morning the fighting recomnenced, but the firing was more desultory meantime the combatants were repairing their barricades and preparing to renew the struggle. About 9 s.m. a rumor got afloat that the diplomatic corps was negotiating an armistice, and at noon a bulletin was issued, signed by the diplomatic corps; asating that an armistice of twenty-four hours had been arranged and that this would terminate at 2 n m on the following would terminate at 2 p.m. on the following

Corpses alone, or in heaps, surrounded by masses of coagulated blood, swollen up and already in a state of decomposition; numbers also of dead horses in all directions, their putrefied remains adding to the pestilential and sickening atmosphere of the streets; women crying and men looking on with horror at the scene of death and destruction before them; gas lamps shattered, doors and windows broken in; clubs and shops plundered by the Cacerist troops; pieces of wood, of masonry and of bricks lying about on every side, the flag stones taken up and barricades of them formed at the corners of

Shortly after the flag denoting that religious services were in progress on board the warships was hauled down, the marines, who had been drawn up in front of the one-tom house, were ordered to return to their ships. A few minutes later the British flag was hauled down from the government building, and soon the long strokes of the sailors were sweeping their heavy boats to the warships lying in the harbor.

Hundreds of persons had assembled along the shore to see the embarkation of the marines, and a cheer went up as the noses of the boats headed harborward. The war lips were soon riding at short cables, but their departure was delayed by the tide, which did not serve until the afternoon. It was expected that the flagship would depart with the two other vessels of the fleet, but when the water was high enough on the bar to pormit of the passage of the vessels only the Wild Swan and the Satellite got under way, and, with the red ensign of Britain mapping in the breeze, stood out to see.

At last, on Wednesday, the 20th, peace arrangements were signed in the presence of the diplomatic corps, and in consequence General Caceres, seeing that the Nationals were carrying all before them, resigned in favor of the provisional government and took refuge in the British legation, whence he retired to Callao and from there went to Buenos Ayres.
