amend the acts incorporating Victoria and Albert colleges, giving legal effect to the avalgamation, was next taken up. Rev. Drs. Carman and Burwash, with Geo. H. Shepley, solicitor, were present to support the bill. Mr. Mulholland, M.P.P., was present in the interests of the town of Cobourg. The only objection raised against the bill was to the clause renaming the university the "Victoria university." Mr. Mulholland read the following resolution, which had been adopted by the town council on Friday last:—

That whereas the people of the town of Cobourg having originally provided a site for the univertity of Victoria college, and contributed towards its construction, and afterwards subscribed towards the erection of additional buildings on land purchased for the purpose by the corporation, this council considers it would be an act of the grossest injustice to drop the name of the town from the title of the institution, and respectfully request that the words "at Cobourg" be inserted in the bill in conjunction with the title of Victoria university whenever the same occurs.

Considerable discussion took place as to how the bill really affected the town of Cobourg. Several amendments were moved and the following was adopted by and Messrs. Hart, Cooke and Lees with the government.

The greater part of the sitting was spent in discussing the details of the government license law amendments. One of the most interesting matters was a new point raised by Mr. Gibson of Hamilton, who wished to have inserted a clause making the purchaser of liquor within forbidden hours equally guilty with the vendor. After a keen and interesting discussion the clause was withdrawn—whether temporarily or not remains to be seen—at the request of the government, several members of which spoke against it as a dangerous experiment. several members of which spoke against it as a dangerous experiment.

The municipal committee finished its sittings yesterday, and it is expected that the private bills committee will wind up its work to-day. Mr. Waters' bill to confer the municipal franchise on widows and unmarried women was passed through committee, but a determined effort will probably be made by its opponents on both sides to kill it in the house on the third reading. The fate will depend somewhat on the popularity of the promoter.

how the bill really affected the town of Cobourg. Several amendments were moved, and the following was adopted by a vote of 12 to 8: "Nothing in this act contained shall in any way affect the rights (if any) of the town of Cobourg, or of any person or persons in respect to the location of the said university." Dr. Carman thought such an amendment to the bill would be of great disadvantage to the church in its educational work, and asked time to consider whether the bill would be withdrawn.

Competition in Telegraphy.

There is every probability of competition in telegraphy before many weeks. The completion of the Ontario and Quebec railway will give a telegraph line between Pacific railway, it would seem, is determonious working between the syndicate the other day inspired the following despatch, evidently written by the Great Northwestern managers:

Special to New York Times.

This is the Great Northwestern's view the case, and it is put forth in plain language. The Globe undertook to say the same thing yesterday on behalf of the Great Northwestern but it covered it up in subterfuge. If the Globe's article of yesterday meant anything it meant that it did not wish to see competition in telegraphy, or rather it lent itself to say that it did not desire such competition. We all want it. The syndicate is a big monopoly in many ways, but just now it is holding out to Ontario both railway and telegraph competition, and for these favors we do not see that it ought to be hounded. And this is just where the conservatives and the syndicate have the pull on the Globe, and the reform party, which appear bound to abet should have travelled on Sunday last from Grand Trunk and Great Northwestern a political meeting at Napanee to Ottawa. monopoly in Ontario. Whatever their notives may be the syndicate is, in so far as this province is concerned, fighting of taking a bribe to oppose the C. P. R. the battle of the people; we wish we could say the same of it in regard to the North- little less pronounced in his denunciation

Looking For Lambs.

The New York Times says a broker told the following story to a party of men in His office :

His office:

"Four years ago a lawyer of this city came to me with $2500, which he said was all the amoney he had. He owed considerable money, and he wanted to increase his savings so that he could pay his debts. I took the $2500 with the understanding that I was to do the best I could with it. My friend did not know one stock from another. He had got an idea into his head that money could be made in Wall street, and he wanted me to make it for him. Well, I did the best I could, and I have been handling money for him ever since. He now has a very large balance here in securities and cash. James (turning to a bookkeeper) how much is there to the credit of Mr—?

"James pulled out a big ledger, turned over a few pages, and replied: "About $350,000. sir."

This story was floated to catch mor lambs for the shearing. The number o people who think that they have only to go into stock speculation with a few hundreds to come out in four years with hundreds of thousands, is still large, though it

Perhaps they have now learned to stick to the business they know something about. But the publication of such a story as that we have quoted may tend to bring in new fools, and it seems to have been started for that purpose.

Sunday Observance. Le Monde of Montreal has an article or this subject. It holds that Sunday is better observed in Canada than anywhere But with this state of things certain parties do not appear to be content. They wish, says Le Monde, to make the law still more perfect. They propose to do this by act of parliament.

To this Le Monde raises objection. The law is strict enough at present. But a still stronger objection is that the matter of Sabbath observance ought to be left to the provincial legislatures and to the municipal ouncils. The people of Quebec have different ideas on this question from those of Ontario, and so each province ought to settle for itself.

Mr. Charlton belongs to the provincial rights party at Ottawa, but he is treading on his own toes in proposing a dominion law regarding Sunday excursions.

Readers of the parliamentary debates at Ottawa are indebted to Mr. Alonzo Wright for his speech on the motion for papers in the Luard-Williams controversy. It i Toronto and Ottawa and Montreal. The seldom that any member of the house o commons lends so much charm to his argumined to have a telegraph system of its ment, or expresses his conclusions with own; the syndicate feel that the Grand such polished wit as the cultured member Trunk and the Great Northwestern are on for Ottawa county. An thinks proper to discuss, abilities o announcement to this effect in The World a high order, and an insight as keen as his sense of humor. His speech, as reported in the papers of yesterday, is most refreshing reading, and lifts the rhetoric of parliamentary debate out

Northwestern managers:

Special to New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 7.—It is reported that the question as to whether the powers granted to the Canadian Pacific railway company enabled that company to do general telegraph business has been discussed by the ministers. It is claimed by the railway company that in addition to its powers and franchises as a railway company, without restriction as to amalgamation and leasing, and can do business all over the dominion without limitation as to rates enforced by parliament on the regular telegraph companies. If these powers are as ample as claimed, other telegraph interests may be seriously imperiled. The government, by its large subsidies to the rail way company, will be contributing toward the practical confiscation of existing telegraph property in Canada by the competition which the Canadian Pacific could thus carry on. Moreover, as its property is exempt from taxation, while that of the other telegraph companies is taxable, it would have an enormous advantage. It is believed that the government is of the opinion that the telegraph powers of the company are limited to the lines and stations of its railway, and that, while the language of its charter is very general, it was clearly not the intention of parliament to give such extraordinary and exclusive powers.

This is the Great Northwestern's view of the company are limited to the intention of parliament to give such extraordinary and exclusive powers.

This is the Great Northwestern's view of the company are limited to the intention of parliament to give such extraordinary and exclusive powers.

Another province, or rather paper, the Quotidien of Quebec, proposes that the province of Quebec secede from the union That paper, referring to the points of sup posed difference between the Quebec.and Dominion governments on the subject of "better terms," said: If we do not get a revision, secession must result. How will the British government act towards us? Will it be necessary, as it once was in the American republic, to settle the question by recourse to arms?

The Quotidien is conservative, like the ecessionists in the Northwest. A letter signed Sympathy comes to u rom Ottawa bewailing the fact that the ibrarian of the supreme court there only gets $600 a year. R. general, and that if its charges against political opponents were of the same character as those against Luard, they were entitled to no confidence. These are significant signs of the times. The country is weary of government by organists. Any newspaper that aspires to influence the sublic opinion of the future must abandon he rude and dictatorial methods and traditions of the vituperative school of Canadian journalism. Even leading party rgans must learn to take aim before they

The proposed treaty between England and Abyssinia is one of the most important results of the Soudan rebellion. Whatever terms may be finally agreed upon with King John, the English are likely to secure a firm hold all along the west shore of the Red Sea. With this strip of territory practically under their control, the exact political status of the interior may become of less consequence to them. A noteworthy feature of the plan, as now forecast, is the proposal to give Abyssinia two ports on the Red Sea. The greed of Egypt in per sistently shutting up the kingdom of Abyssinia without a seaport has already led to costly wars. Had King John, embittered by this treatment, aided the Mahdi, with the idea also of seizing Massowah for his own country, the situation in the Soudan would have been far graver than it is.

La Minerve says they propose to get up sweepstakes in Montreal on the English Derby, which is a straight gamble ; but if the French Canadians get up a little lottery to further colonization they at once begin

To the Editor of The World.

SIR: As it seems very doubtful if Mr. Foster's bill were passed in parliament it would be possible to carry out prohibiting vessels from foreign countries bringing wines and liquors to these shores, the next best thing to do would be for the advocates of temperance to fall back upon the estimable, useful principle set down in Ireland years ago by Father Matthew, who knowing that Great Britain could not atknowing that Great Britain could not attempt to interfere with commercial business from France, etc., by preventing such merchandise being landed in England, the wise Father Matthew and his disciples adopted the system of inducing drunkards to take the pledge, and leave persons who were temperate in their habits severely alone, as he considered them able to take care of themselves. Surely, theefore, it is high time for teachers of practical science to turn all the light they can upon this subject and to instruct the public as to its nature. I beg to suggest that gentlemen of the civil ser vice, who are of a scientific turn of mind, vice, who are of a scientific turn of mind, make this matter an object of special study for the future, in preference to other subjects. The public has a special right to expect from this class, whom it supports in comfortable livings, free from the ordinary wear and tear of bread winning, a study of what is needful to secure the safety of the commonwealth, of which they form so privileged a part. Your journal this morning contains an account of the formation of a class of special detectives for this dynamite business. Surely some of our Canadian civil servants might try and fit themselves for such service should the safety of the state require it. NOTE.

come off at Belleville.

Capt. William Cotterell, the well-known turfman of Mobile, has just closed the sale of a half interest in fourteen head of thoroughbreds, two and three years ald, for $13,800.

The Primrose baseball club of Hamilton has a membership of 70 and is officer d as follows: Maurice Foley president, John Welsh vice-president, John Jones treas urer, Timothy Sullivan secretary, James Jenigan manager, David Garrison field captain.

The skating race between Tuder of Parkhill, and Johnston of Strathroy, four miles, $25 a side, was keenly contested I riday. For the first two miles and a half both men stayed well together, but at the conclusion of the four miles, Johnston won by one lap and a half. Time 18 minutes.

"So hot water is a great cure, is it? Well, I shan't let any of my boarders get sick for want of medicine. Just put a gallon of hot water in that oyster soup, Maria; and I guess you better take out the oyster now—it might be too rich."

The Excelsior lacrosse club of Brampton has reorganized for the coming se soon with the following officers: President, E. T. Stork; vice-president, John Clarke; secretary, Thos. W. Duggan; treasurer, J. L. Stork; captain, S. Charters; con mittee, R. Blair, B, Nichols, E. Joyce.

Stork; captain, S. Charters; committee, R. Blair, B. Nichols, E. Joyce.

The Kingston trotting association and Mr. Wilson, owner of the track, cannot come to terms for a meeting. They offered him one-third the receipts, he obear one-third of the expense, but he refused the terms. The prospects are that the meeting will fall through.

"The peach crop is entirely killed by the last cold snap; cherries badly injured; blackberries and black raspberries killed to esome extent."

"All right, John, order a lot of new baskets with the bottoms a half-inch nearer the top than last year. I am determined to keep down prices out of regard to our poor customers."

In the Seeley's bay races, three minute trot, Bay George was 1st, Blue Bell 2nd, and a Brockville horse 3rd. In the free-for-all (green race) Bay George was 1st, Johnny B. 2nd, Church Boy 3rd, and Ful ler 4th. In the green race Lady Kate was 1st, Mountain Maid 2nd, and Lady Rocket

"I've got horses entered for all the English spring handicaps. At my stable there I now have Girofia, Sutler, Hopeful, Deceiver, Harold and Mr. Pickwick. I've got another horse entered for the Derby, which I shall buy if he shows sufficient speed. I lost $60,000 on the last races, but I'm going back in April to have another bout with the bookmakers."

Wallace Ross can, when fit and well, and on a fine day, row three miles with a turn on still water inside 20 minutes. This dison still water inside 20 minutes. This distance is about equal to the Thames championship course, which, though about four miles and a furlong, has at least a quarter of its distance neutralized by the strong tide which runs through the British water highway. The best time ever shown over this course is outside 22 minutes, so that Ross has much the best of the bargain on paper; what he will do on the water will be seen to-day.

Tipping Women In Gotham.

From the New York Truth.

"Do you think there are many tippling ladies in New York:"

"Many? Yes, there are more than one would suppose, notwithstanding the tatt is the metropolis of America, and the tippling habit among the ladies, some of whom may belong to the upperdom, seems to be growing. To be sure, many of them drink nothing stronger than beer, but that is intoxicating you know. I will hazard the assertion that one-fourth of the malt and spirituous liquors consumed in New York city is drank by women and girls. I might mention one saloon on the west side whose proprietor told me that his sales resolved $60 daily, and that $50 of that amount was from the so-called quart and 'pint' customers—that is, people who send palls, pitchers, jugs or bottles to be filled with beer or ale. This class of patronage is usually from women who prefer to drink in the privacy of their homes. Some of them imbibe large quantities every day, and yet the public generally are not aware of it."

The Hot Water Cure. From the Philadelphia Call, arding-house Keeper—"A glass of hot water! What can the man want with a glass of hot water? He doesn't shave," Cook-"He wants ter drink it."

He enlisted in the army for five years in the regular service at a salary of $15 a month. He served that time without drawing a cent, and last fall, during the races, he came here with $750 in his pocket. The first day he struck town he lost $700 on Monticello in the heat race, when Gus Matthews beat him. He came in from the track and put the other $80 upon the high card and lost it on the turn. He then borrowed fifteen cents to get shaved on, and walking off he enlisted for five years more. Talk about nerve; I've seen men soak their wives' clothes and their coats off their backs to play, but that man had more nerve than any man I ever saw."

The rhinoceros, which is said to be the largest ever shipped to this country, was confined in a strong case, and was constantly attended through the voyage by a keeper. He was captured in Africa a year ago and has been wintering in Bremen. At 11 o'clock to-day he will be put upon a truck and carried to the Central park, where he will be kept for a couple of weeks before being sent west. Six hundred dollars duty is claimed by the custom house authorities before the rhinoceros can be landed. He is valued at $5000.

A salutary reform in reference to noblemen's degrees is contemplated at Cambridge university in England. The council of the senate have reported that they are of opinion that there are no sufficient reasons for continuing the practice of conferring the complete degree of B. A. upon peers and sons of peers who come to the university in their youth, and recommend that peers and sons of peers who may hereafter enter the university and desire to proceed to the degree of B. A. should be required to keep by residence the same number of terms as other students in arts under the same conditions.

at Montreal.
From the Montreal Witness Among Montreal's many mansions ten anted by the merchant princes of the dominion many have claimed the notice of lavished with unsparing hand upon them, and they shine in summer time resplendent mid well cropped lawns and behind artistic fences. Walking up Drummond street from St. Catherine street, in the direction of Sherbrooke street, where so many of these mansions are to be seen, the stranger cannot fail to notice one residence particularly. Is it an art repository? Hardly, because there are too many evidences of household comfort about it. Yet it differs materially from the other dwellings one sees round. It is unobtrusive in its grey limestone dressing, and yet there is about it an air of elegance and unpretentious splendor that challenges the admiration at once. A pause and inspection of its detail shows it to be Palladian in style, and the pillars, three of which on each side support the balcony that forms a roof to the portico, fences. Walking up Drummond street balcony that forms a roof to the portico, are so admirably carved that they bear the inspection. The more one looks the more of artistic design and well executed cutting is to be noted. So well woven is the delicate cutting with the massive proportions that harmony is the result. As the eye carving and the heavy stone cornices the more does the whole picture interest him.

The floor of the lobby is marble—three varieties of it radiating, so to speak, from a medallion in the centre, which is Vienna marble, and the Italian and French stripe and line the flooring. All up each side of the walls are Italian marble polished, with the panelling of Vienna marble—all except one large panel on the left, which is looks like a huge jewel. The ceiling is of mahogany, polished and panelled, while pendant from the centre is a huge lump of brass cut and fashioned without the aid of a mould. The glass panels which separate the visitor from the inner world of magnificent things are stained with figures of Winter and Summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "True friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the coming, speed which separate the visitor from the inner world of magnificent things are stained with figures of Winter and Summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the sentiments, crowning all of which is this, "true friend-summer to represent the coming, speed the way out, and we descend to the oaken dining-room.

It is a large, roomy place. On the left is a large oaken sideboard, with carving the beat and the polishing is evidently something difficult to cut and the polishing is magnificence itself. In the guests, the surroundings of which were admirably tiled and ship's rule,—Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest." Stepping aside into the waiting room, we notice the furniture, which is of rosewood, a glance at which tells that there is no veneering in that tells that there is no veneering in that work. The carving is superb, and is a reminder of the art of days gone by, for nowadays embossing and chasing take the place of the old-time carving. The massive tables, chairs, the French walnut panelling of walls and roof, with Burley ash margins, and the oaken floor margined with black walnut, were all strikmargins, and the oaken floor margined with black walnut, were all strikingly, hradsome. The coil-pipes for warmth were masked by a screen of brass, the ornamentation of which was cut by a jigsaw. From the reception, or waiting room, the visitor crosses the threshold of the library, and notices that the door strip over which he passes is of solid brass, burnished. The next things noticeable are the bookcases of rosewood, noticeable are the bookcases of rosewood the the the drawing-room is beyond description and cost $20,000 for the woodwork alone, not to speak of the magnificant functions at the subject to the d

Looking over the shoulder for a last glimpse at the handsomely tiled grate or chimney place, and the pretty brass brackets for lighting and the pretty brass brackets for lighting the library, the visitor passes into the main hall, and advances a few steps to view the mantelpiece and large grate and fireplace of the olden time, with its erane and swinging grate. A heavy mahogany pillar on each side supports a cross-beam of mahogany, polished and shining, while above this is another pair of pillars which support a panel with niches cut on each side of it for the statuettes that are there to be placed. Thus far only the massive of the rooms is costly, as though the owner. and there are panels of Mexican onyx at each side and one at the top. The fire-place itself is fitted throughout with porcelain tiles beautifully ornamented, and the whole is artistic. Turning to see where the light streams from so softly, the eye takes in a scene of magnificence.

The broad expanse of oak flooring and black walnut lining terminates in a staircase, on each side of which are heavy mahogany posts, and then on each side of manogany posts, and then on each side of the walnut steps which lead to the upper rooms is a heavy mahogany bannister with carved mahogany supports—all polished and carved after artistic designs. Looking upward the stained glass of the main window is seen, beautiful in the sunlight, while the ceiling above the staircase is of stained glass, the figures of poetry and song being admirably set in the stained ornaments. Ascending the stairs the rich mahogany dado is noted, and with the chocolate-tinted panels of the walls lead onwards and upwards. The top of the stairs terminates in a labby from which stairs terminates in a lobby, from which the doors of the suites of bedrooms are reached, and turning around one inspects the neavy mahogany hammer beams, trusses and pendants, upon which bracketlike combination the roof rests.

The bedrooms were next thrown open and passing the huge mahogany sideboard, carved and mirrored, the entry was made into the suite of rooms of the lady of the mansion, Mrs. Stephen. Everything here is cherry and satinwood, the furniture being ll satinwood and made at a cost of $20,000 Here we find the same oak flooring and black walnutlining. Glancing at the magnificently carved bedstead, the wardrobe with its mirrored doors and pannels, looking past the buff tinting of the walls, one notes the cherry moulding and satin wood panelling of roof and walls, and passes into the boudoir, where much of the satin wood furniture, the cabinet, the blue-flowered silk velvet cabinet, the black of the soft polish of the satin wood table, with the carving and design of the bureau and other articles, are n admirable taste. The bathroom is admirably fitted, but the shower bath is of the ordinary pattern. The bathrooms are tiled, and the flooring lead lined, so that no leakage is possible. This ensures the building from danger from overflows. The walls are tiled and the rooms ventilated and lighted from a shaft leading to the large skylight overhead. Morley Punshon as a Reader. From the London Advertiser.

There was throughout a reminder of his father in Henry of Navarre, as he recited it at the Dundas street methodist church dozen years ago, and the entertainer of the evening proved himself a worthy son of a worthy sire, if we may be allowed to air our originality so far. The gas in the hall was bad—unutterably bad, and in terfered a good deal with the success of the readings, but Mr. Punshon surmounted all difficulties and gave a performance that was full of pleasure to everyone present.

"SCHUYLKILL JACK."

A Terror, Aged Ten, Calling his Teacher the White Squaw.

From the Philadelphia Times "John Kalor!" said Miss E. M. Taylor, facing her pupils in the Thaddeus Stevens secondary school, at Seventeenth and Olivet streets. In response to her summons a 10-year-old boy rose slowly from his desk, nodded to a 9-year-old confederate, who whispered, "Remember your oath," advanced up the center isle, faced his teacher, and, with his right hand resting on his hip pocket, cooly said:

"What does the White Squaw want with Schuylkill Jack?"

Had this pertinent inquiry been made in Sioux it would not have astonished the teacher more than it did, and the nine little fellows who, with "Schuylkill Jack," form a secret, oath-bound organization called the "Philadelphia Cowboys," looked upon their captain with pride.

"Johnny, I am told you have a pistol.
Where is it."

Where is it?"

Captain Schuylkill simply muttered "treachery" and glanced around the room in search of the face of a confederate willing to support him in his hour of peril, but their faces were buried in their books.

"Come with me," said Miss Taylor, moving toward the private room, and the moving toward the private room, and the boy followed her. Then Miss Allen, the principal of the school, was sent for, and she and Miss Taylor succeeded in disarming the bold "Captain Schuylkill" who burst into tears when his seven-chambered

Capt. Kalor is the second commander that the "Cow-boys' of the Thaddeus Stevens school have lost within a week, for on Friday last Capt. Charley Bedford, aged 11, was subdued by the teachers and disarmed of a navy revolver, which he had hoped to use in slaugh tering Indians next summer. Captain Charley has been imprisoned in his father's

The cowboys who were present when Captain Kalor took the oath and the ominous title of "Schuylkill Jack" were William Armstrong, aged 12; Charles J. Briggs, 10; Pearcy Bailey, 11; and John Boyle, 9. Kalor was one of the most advanced "cow-boys." His hero was Jesse James, but he admitted that Mr. James weld the much attention to train robbing by becoming pirates until summer came had any effect upon them. A Case of Suspended Animation. The results of a mining accident which occurred near Pottsville, Pa., nearly a fortnight ago, are being watched by the medical fraternity with much interest. A young man fell from a great height to the ground and was carried home insensible. No mark or fracture could be found on his No mark or tracture could be found on his body, and it was thought that his injuries were slight. Day after day has passed without his returning to consciousness. His respiration and pulse are nearly normal, his eyes open and close, and the action of the muscles is unimpaired, but all sense of feeling and percention have been sense of feeling and perception have been destroyed, and he lies in a state of almost suspended animation. NOTICE.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,

On the 27th of February, 1884, at the City Hall in the City of Toronto, I saw a casting which is supposed to be used for receiving the water from the gutters in streets, and conducting it into the main sewers. A part of this casting is an infringement on my receiver and stench trap for which a patent has been granted to me in the Dominion of Canada and also in the United States, and I hereby caution all parties who may manufacture or use any part of my patent without my written consent that I shall instruct my solicitor to commence proceedings in law against them.
