

GERMANY AND OPPOSING ALLIES MAY CLASH WITHIN THE NEXT TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

GENERAL ADVANCE OF BELGIAN TERRITORY BEGUN BY GERMANS; ARMY NUMBERING 12,000 CAPTURED BY THE FRENCH

Quarter Million Troops Pushing on Towards Northwest of Brussels—Forces Closing in on Tongres and St. Trond — Thousands of Kaiser's Army Advancing Through Aix-La-Chapelle and Liege — Gigantic Battle in World's History When They Meet Allies—Reinforcements Going To Aid of Belgians.

(Special cable to The Standard through International News Service.)

London, Aug. 14.—That the Belgian authorities admit that a general advance of the German troops is under way is seen by following despatch from Brussels:

"The German advance became more pronounced and is general today. Their infantry is advancing in the direction of Tongres and St. Trond and another attack is expected in the direction of Diest and Aerschot, to the northwest of Brussels by a force of 200,000.

"The German troops are marching on a front stretching from St. Trond to Hasselt. Their cavalry occupies a position to the right of Hasselt. "Formidable defensive works have been erected by the Belgians around Namur."

"The great mass of the German army in Belgium began a forward movement today. Large bodies of troops are moving in the vicinity of Tongres and St. Trond. Undismayed by the temporary set back the huge army of Meuse is swinging forward with their front extended from Hasselt to St. Trond.

"Great masses of German troops are being pushed forward through Aix La Chappelle and Liege in an apparent effort to crush the allies by a force of overwhelming numbers. The gigantic battle of history will ensue when these corps meet. The allies were reinforced, it was said today, by the English and large bodies of French troops.

Namur, a strongly fortified Belgian town, is preparing for an assault in anticipation of the town's fall though the forts still hold out, an civilians have been alarmed to save them from reprisals at the hands of the Germans.

Diest, where the German cavalry were defeated yesterday, lies in the path of the advancing hosts and doubtless will be the scene of another desperate struggle.

Within twenty-four hours a battle may be expected along the entire front of the German advance.

The bombardment of the Liege forts still continues, but the Germans have suspended that on the forts on the right bank of the river, and have switched to those on the left which are vigorously replying. In Alsace all the news continues to be favorable to the French, who, according to the war office have pressed northward in a desperate five days' battle along the ridges of the Vosges mountains hurling the Germans back from an important position at Saales Pass, thirty miles from Strasbourg. They now dominate the whole valley of the Bruche river leading to the city.

On to Strasbourg is the cry, and the latest reports from the theatre of war states that the French are marching on that historic city which is strongly fortified and should withstand a protracted siege.

Paris, Aug. 14.—What is deemed about the most important announcement of the war development of the day is that British commander Sir John French has joined General Joffre at headquarters today, but the location is ungiven. This is taken as an official indication that the main English and French troops have finally joined.

The announcement of the surrender of twelve thousand Germans was officially made by the war office which said:—"At one point Germany brought up formations of reserves to the aid of weakened troops, but the letter were unable to resist the French attack and were obliged to lay down their arms, an entire division of twelve thousand surrendering. The French held the town, and an civilians

Floating of Loans in the States for Nations at War

Wilson and Bryan Both Said to Be Opposed to it—Expression by Administration Unlikely for Fear of Giving Offense.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Although there was no formal expression from administration officials today, it became known that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were opposed to the floating of any loans in the United States for the benefit of the belligerent powers in Europe.

Both the president and Mr. Bryan today studied the situation arising out of the inquiry of J. P. Morgan and Company, as to what would be the attitude of the administration in case certain banking interests which had approached them should try to float a loan for the French government.

Mr. Bryan would not discuss the subject, referring inquiries to the bankers for information. Persons close to the administration said there probably would be no expression on the subject because of a desire to offend, even by inference to the French government, which happened to be mentioned as a prospective borrower. It nevertheless was generally understood that the president and Secretary Bryan disapproved the idea of loaning money in any form to any of the belligerents, whether the money was to be used as a credit for the purchase of American products, or for the ultimate purchase of war supplies.

The president consulted various authorities on the subject, among them Paul S. Reisch, at present American minister to China, and Oscar S. Strauss, former secretary of commerce and labor, both of whom made speeches on the question at the meeting here in 1908 of the American Society of International Law. It was said later that the president agreed with the ideas advanced by Messrs. Reisch and Strauss. At the time Mr. Strauss said everyone knew that the money advanced to belligerents signifies the giving to them of means for securing war instruments. Large Japanese loans were negotiated and obtained publicly in the United States and in Great Britain, and Russian loans were advertised and obtained in France and Germany, during the Russo-Japanese war. Money is the most effective war instrument. It is simply a neutral loan to a belligerent, without performing an unneutral act, and yet permit the subjects of a neutral nation to do this. Yes, the international authorities are practically agreed upon such a discrimination.

Mr. Reisch expressed this view: "No argument is required to show that war loans constitute a most potent asset to a belligerent power. Relying totally upon its own ready resources, many a belligerent would have hesitated to venture upon the fortunes of war. In other cases, the cessation of hostilities has been directly traceable to the exhaustion or closure of foreign sources of money supplies."

While the president realizes that there is a difference of opinion as to whether the floating of loans is unneutral, he is inclined against them as a matter of public policy, believing that they might stir up resentment in foreign countries as well as among foreign born citizens in the United States.

ment says, which France already knew from the Austrian ambassador. "It is evident," the note says, in conclusion, "that Great Britain's alleged reasons for declaring war not only are arbitrary alterations of facts, but deliberate lies. England has thus lightly broken her traditional friendship with Austria in order to support France, but, nevertheless, she will not aid Austria unprepared."

INSURING MEN GOING TO THE FRONT

Special to The Standard

St. Stephen, N. B., Aug. 14.—Ganong Bros. Ltd. and one or two gentlemen of St. Stephen are taking out policies of insurance in the Confederation Life Insurance Association for one thousand dollars on each of the volunteers from St. Stephen and vicinity who may be sent for service outside of Canada. In this included the extra war premium of fifty dollars per thousand.

RUSSIA GETTING ACTIVE; HER FORCES MARCHING ON PRUSSIA AND GALICIA

Military Strategists See In Germans Unexpected Delay in Advance on Belgium, Russia's Chance to Marshal Forces on Eastern Frontier.

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily Telegraph learns from a diplomatic correspondent that the Japanese government intends to carry out to the full its obligations under the Anglo-Japanese treaty. The correspondent says that the Japanese navy has put to sea and will co-operate with the British fleet in taking effective action against the enemy's ships in the Pacific.

Military strategists are of the opinion that the Germans are nesting with delay which they did not count upon and that every day the increase of their fighting means an increase of Russian forces on their eastern frontier.

They express the belief that unless Germany soon disposes of Belgium and France she will have to choose between withdrawing a great part of her army from the west or leaving the road to Berlin open to the forces of the Emperor of Russia. The peace conference following the war is reported to be marching toward Prussia on the one side and to Austrian Galicia on the other. The latter country they are said to be in the vicinity of the Str river, which is on the route to Lemberg.

The official news bureau of the army and admiralty has issued a warning to the public against placing the slightest reliance in the many rumors current daily regarding alleged victories or defeats or concerning the arrival of wounded or disabled ships of Great Britain. "These are, with exception, baseless," the warning says. The probable attitude of Japan and Italy is still the subject of much speculation. Conversations are going on continually between Japan and Great Britain concerning Japan's duty under her alli-

FRENCH LINED UP IN BELGIUM READY FOR FIGHT

Transportation of Forces Who Will Aid Belgians Completed—Attacks on Liege Forts Still Ineffectual.

London, Aug. 14.—The Brussels correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says the transportation of French troops into Belgian territory is now complete, and that all the troops that had been expected are in battle order at a place fixed according to the plans of the chief of staff.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Adolphe Messimy, French minister of war, states: "Our armies cover a front of more than 250 miles from the North Sea to Switzerland. Among the several millions of men, each officer and each soldier is lost. He is given over to the impressions of the moment and of the place where he is and is without care for the others and without news of the war."

London, Aug. 14.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from its Brussels correspondent says the force German attacks. The Germans have been trying to rush Pontisse by main force, no longer relying upon a force of German infantry. They have been unable, however, to get beyond the glacis of the fort where they have been mowed down by the fire of the defenders.

The object of the Germans obviously is to seize the forts on the left bank of the Meuse, which, in the hands of the Belgians will be terrible weapons against the invading forces, should the Belgian main army march toward Liege. On the other hand, these forts in the hands of the Germans would serve as a base for their action direct against the Belgian centre, or for defence against the Belgian attacks.

London, Aug. 14.—3.55 p. m.—A despatch from Brussels to Reuters says the following official announcement was issued at noon today: "The general staff has heard nothing of the reduction of the forts of Liege. Rumors to that effect therefore are false."

London, Aug. 14, 2.53 p. m.—Great Britain, France and Russia have sent a sharp demand to Turkey for the immediate repatriation of the officers and crews of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

It is reported that the two cruisers were met by Turkish vessels outside and escorted into the Dardanelles. There is no official confirmation of the actual purchase of the cruisers by Turkey, but the report to that effect is generally credited.

Five Days of Fierce Fighting in Vosges Mountains Crowned with Success for Troops of France—Large Forces of French Pressing into Belgium—Winghe, near Brussels, Likely to be Scene of Important Battle.

(Special to The Standard through International News Agency.)

Brussels, Aug. 14.—A great battle is impending tonight between the Germans and their allies at the village of Winghe, which is only five miles from the Belgian headquarters at Louvain and twenty-six miles east of Brussels. The excitement here is at a paroxysm stage in consequence.

London, Aug. 14.—It was announced in Paris that Field Marshal Sir John French, the commander of the English army, had joined the French General Joffre at the French headquarters.

It was officially stated in Paris today that the French troops in large numbers have entered Belgium and are proceeding from Charleroi to Gembloux, ten miles from Namur. A great battle is expected tonight between the Germans and the allies at Village of Winghe, five miles north-east of the Belgian headquarters at Louvain and only twenty-six from Brussels where the excitement has reached a paroxysm stage in consequence. An entire division of German infantry numbering twelve thousand has been captured by the French in the Vosges mountains as the result of five days' fighting. The location which is given is the western border of Alsace near Muelhausen.

CANADA MAY SEND BRIGADE OF MOUNTED INFANTRY TO THE FRONT

Three Mounted Regiments With Battery of Horse Artillery—Over 500 Men of Army Service Corps at Valcartier—Mistake in Orders Sent Out for Enlistment of Gunners.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—It is probable that steps will be taken by the militia department to raise an additional brigade of mounted infantry to follow the army division now being mobilized at Valcartier. Such a force would consist of three mounted regiments with a battery of horse artillery, and other complementary units of a complete brigade with the total number of men would be approximately 2,300.

The sending of such a force would be in compliance with the suggestion of Earl Roberts in regard to the raising of an imperial light infantry corps. The men and horses for such a force could be easily raised in Canada, and there is no doubt but that there would be a rush to enlist in such a contingent, especially from Western Canada. An offer of a Canadian mounted brigade will probably be made to the war office, as soon as the question has been fully considered by the cabinet.

Transport arrangements for the mobilization at Valcartier are now practically completed. A score of railway officials were here today conferring with the minister of militia and the headquarters staff in regard to special trains, etc. It is expected that the first infantry units will begin to arrive at Valcartier early next week, and the whole force should be mobilized within a fortnight. Over 500 men of the army service corps are now at Valcartier, working night and day preparing the camp.

The troops will be kept in training there for at least a fortnight, and possibly longer before they are sent abroad. The department wishes to emphasize the fact that the artillery are not to go to Valcartier at once with the infantry, but will mobilize at their brigade headquarters in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, respectively. The object of this is to complete organization and equipment more expeditiously than if the whole force were assembled at once at Valcartier.

Owing to a mistake in the orders sent out for enlistment the height of the war office was placed 5 feet 7 inches, instead of 5 feet 5 inches, as intended. In consequence a considerable number of good men were rejected by the recruiting officers. At Hamilton alone some fifty men were rejected as being under the required height. The department announces that rejections from this cause will be rectified, as far as possible, if the men apply again, and are trained in artillery work.

BRITISH EMBASSY GIVES OUT LIST OF PORTS WHERE ALIENS MAY LAND

Washington, Aug. 14.—Charge Barclay, of the British embassy, tonight submitted the following memorandum Secretary Bryan:

"The following is a list of approved ports in the British Isles, Dundee, Aberdeen, West Hartlepool, Hull, London, Folkestone, Falmouth, Bristol, Holy Head, Liverpool, Greenock—all other ports are prohibited ports. Aliens, subjects or citizens of friendly powers can land or embark at the approved ports with the permission of the alien officers at the ports, but can land or embark at the prohibited ports only with the permission of the secretary of state. Permission to land by the secretary of state in any case is to be obtained on arrival; aliens desiring permission from the secretary of state to embark should be furnished with proper papers of identity. The secretary of state desires to restrict landing and embarking of all aliens to the approved ports as much as possible. Any port may of course be closed altogether to traffic if the naval authorities consider it necessary."

TENDERS FOR TREASURY BILLS AMOUNTING TO 15 MILLION POUNDS

London, Aug. 14.—The Gazette tonight states tenders will be received by the Bank of England Wednesday next for treasury bills amounting to 15,000,000 pounds sterling, payable six months after date, August 22, 1914.

DECLARATION OF WAR BY JAPAN ON GERMANY SEEMS CERTAIN

(Special cable to The Standard through International News Service.)

Tokio, Aug. 14.—There is every indication that Japan will declare war on Germany. There is feverish activity in the war and navy departments. Long cablegrams being exchanged between Japan and England are believed to relate to Japan's status in the division of spoils if she joins the fight and Germany is whipped.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Field Marshal John French, commander-in-chief of the English army, joined General Joseph Joffre, French commander at headquarters according to a Havas News Agency.

Breits, Aug. 14.—Heavy fighting between Belgians and Germans near Diest, thirty-five miles from Antwerp, has been reported showing great heroism and determination to press forward to Antwerp. Reported now that Germans fighting in that section of Belgium number 250,000 which is believed smaller than combined Belgians-French. German prisoners say army almost foodless and horses dying from lack of food.

SHOT DEAD BY SENTINEL IN MONTREAL

Tragedy in Which French Reservist from Cape Breton Lost Life Result of a Misunderstanding.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—One man shot dead and another in the general hospital suffering from a rifle wound, the outcome of a misunderstanding between the former and a sentinel at the Craig street army depot about 5 o'clock this afternoon, indicates that war conditions prevail in Montreal.

The dead man, Antoine Notter, a French reservist, arrived in this city this morning from Cape Breton. He was having his photograph taken by an itinerant photographer on the street close to the Craig street army depot, and was waiting for it to be finished, when ordered away by Sergeant Hooten of the garrison artillery.

Notter either did not understand the order, or was perverse and would not obey it. It is said he could not speak English. The sergeant attempted to expedite his order by showing the stranger away with his rifle, which was clapped between his extended hand, whereupon the stranger showed a disposition to resent the treatment. Then the sergeant, it is said, put his rifle to his shoulder and fired, without further parley. The bullet entered his groin, passing out through his body. He was being hurried to the general hospital when he died.

The man who was wounded in the fracas is Theodore Corbell, a cigar maker, 735 St. Christopher street, an unfortunate bystander. It is said the bullet which went through Notter's body is the bullet which caused Corbell's wound, and a peculiar feature of the accident is that Corbell was shot in the groin also. He is in the hospital, but his injury is not regarded as serious.

UP-TO-DATE NEWS OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

NEWSY NOTES FROM LYRIC AND UNIQUE

Fourth chapter of Million Dollar Mystery is sensational installment—Other fine features.

The opinion of those who have enjoyed the privilege of seeing the fourth chapter of The Million Dollar Mystery, "The Top Floor Flat," to be shown at the Unique Monday and Tuesday, claim it as being by far the most interesting, mystifying and sensational installment of the wonderful serial yet presented. The novel manner in which each climax is reached establishes a precedent in picture production. The method in which Florence (Miss La Balle) outwits the four hundred in itself a masterpiece in the art of offering sensational photo scenes. The settings in this chapter are also wonderful while the acting is up to the high standard set by the Thanhouserettes. It is not yet too late to begin for that ten thousand dollar prize offer, somebody is going to get it and with the cool and living going up with the war, the inducement to solve the mystery should appeal to everybody.

Additional features on the Monday and Tuesday program will be the Domino business drama wherein a detective plays an important part, "The Silent Witness," and an amusing Keystone playlet, "The Fatal High C."

Views in motion of people and places directly connected with the present war were presented at the Unique Theatre last Wednesday and Thursday to delighted audiences. The patriotic music rendered was also greatly appreciated, and in fact at both Charlotte street theatres demonstrations of a patriotic order were given sent to by the audiences upon the showing of the King's picture upon the curtain.

Two exceptional good vaudeville acts have been booked for the Lyric the first three days of next week. Miss Jennie DeWeese who is said to be one of the most beautiful single women in vaudeville, will offer her act which embraces singing, dancing, trick music and ending with some startling tricks exploited by a trained dog. The second attraction is what the management feel quite satisfied in calling a genuine novelty as far as St. John is concerned. They carry a complete set of stage apparatus and exploit an act that baffles description, it being so different from anything seen in St. John for many years. You will be quite pleased with it.

Miss Margaret Williams of Mack's Musical Revue has been scoring a hit this week at the Opera House singing, "When You're Old Enough to Notice You are Old Enough to Kiss." The number is from the pen of a local gentleman, and Miss Williams' rendition of the song was such that it cannot help but prove popular.

Chapter nineteen of Our Mutual Girl at the Unique Wednesday and Thursday is somewhat of a get away from the usual. After looking at the latest styles in summer gowns at Stern Bros., Margaret once more goes in search of her protegee, Ada Taylor at this time meets with an adventure resulting in the disappearance of Our Mutual Girl. On the same program will be the Majestic home study, "The Baby."

Barber and Lynn are affording Lyric patrons much pleasure this week in their pleasing offerings of Rubie child impersonations, music, singing and dancing. They are a clever couple and well merit the applause they receive at each performance.

For Friday and Saturday of next week the Unique Theatre will present a stirring war drama in two acts by the Broncho Co., "The Colonel's Orderly." It is said to be replete with stirring situations and thrilling scenes. "Nat" is still putting over some good ones at the Opera House, and is sure of getting a laugh at any old time, whether he happens to be "in the office" or out of it.

Beach and Carrol, two ladies who are known as the Irish Fatties, will hold sway at the Lyric the last three days of next week. They will be seen in a singing and talking sketch that is expected to just suit the taste of Lyric patrons.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS." "Polly of the Circus," at the Opera House for four nights and Thursday and Saturday matinees, starting next Wednesday, tells a story that makes true, clean play. With Miss Elsie St. Leon in the title role, the play comes here with the endorsement of a solid season's run at the Liberty Theatre, New York, and another season divided between Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. It is perhaps not fitting that in a season remarkable for attacks by religious and civic organizations upon recent plays because of their alleged questionable tendencies, "Polly of the Circus" should be proud to add to its laurels the fact that it is the cleanest, prettiest story told on the stage in many years. There are no high-sounding dissertations on marriage and divorce, no acute analysis of emotions, but just a compelling human study of a tender child, born and reared among the hardships of the circus tent, thrown by accident into the home of a young clergyman and awakening to love, to knowledge, to hope and to God. Miss St. Leon will appear as "Polly," supported by a very capable company. Seats on sale Monday morning.

GEM OFFERINGS NEXT WEEK

A bill of excellent merit has been secured for Waterloo Street Theatre

A splendid programme of picture hits has been arranged for next week at the Gem Theatre, beginning on Monday with the presentation of chapter six in the great serial "Lucille Love, the Girl of Mystery." This takes up her adventures from where she was taken aboard the steamer in last week's installment, to find her arch enemy on board. He disguises as a Chinese mandarin in order to trap her and secure certain valuable documents in her possession, but well it would be a shame to spoil the story by trying to describe it. The sixth installment is fully as captivating as any yet shown.

A story of graft and politics and the exposure of underhand methods of the machine is what is promised for Wednesday and Thursday in the two-part Essanay production of "Night Hawks." Francis X. Bushman is featured in the leading role, and the story is most convincing. Besides this at the mid-week show the Selig-Hearst News Pictorial with late current events will be shown.

The week-end show will feature one of the most fascinating Kalem Indian offerings for some time, a two-part story of the early western plains, "The Call of the Tribe." It portrays the anguish of the Indian, his suffering under the cruelties of the whites, and there is a charming love touch in which a pale-face maiden and a Redskin chief are the principals. But the call of blood is dominant, and the Indian brave turns his back upon his white foes, and returns to the shelter of his encampment, answering "The Call of the Tribe" which has made him leader.

Marc McDermott will appear in "A Matter of Minutes," another in the Edison series of "The Man Who Disappears," carrying the adventures of this favorite character further along in a maze of mystery. The Gem orchestra will have another fine list of musical novelties at every show.

Mack's Musical Revue, the most popular success the Opera House has ever had, remains here for Monday and Tuesday and then gives way to "Polly of the Circus" for four days. For Monday and Tuesday, in deference to requests of many patrons who missed the splendid programme of the opening week of the Revue engagement here, the management is repeating some of the features of the programme, such as "The Angelus," "Days of Boys and Girls," "I Wish I Was Back Home Again," "Polles of the Day," the big Tango number and others. At 2 hour programme will be given as usual. Matinee on Monday and Tuesday. The Revue company returns to the Opera House again on Monday, August 24th for another indefinite engagement.

HELPED CONVICT Harry Pollard of Beauty fame recently received a letter from a California state prisoner, asking his help in raising money for an appeal to the supreme court. The man was accused of stealing a horse, and is seeking an opportunity to prove his innocence. He has made a beautiful bride of plaited leather, decorated with horse-hair in fancy colors and designs, which he is anxious to wear in the prison. Often Beauty films would be shown and the prisoner decided that among all the actors he saw on the screen, Harry Pollard was the man who would aid him if he could. His instinct was right, for Mr. Pollard has answered the letter, promising to buy the bride.

NOT MARRIED Despite an article that appeared in the July number of the Blue Book in which Miss Mabel Normand, the Keystone Comedy Star was married off to the director general of that company without her knowledge or consent, Miss Normand wishes to emphatically state that not a wedding bell in the whole city of Los Angeles or any other city ever struck a note in her behalf. Miss Normand is not married. Neither does she intend to be, and her venture in the matrimonial line so far without her knowledge or consent, of great annoyance to Miss Normand, causing her much discomfort and she wishes to announce to her friends and admirers that she is still Miss Mabel Normand, the Keystone girl.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Chief Campaign of the police force of Montreal said today that everything would be done to see natives of Germany and Austria were not molested so long as they remained quiet, but if they showed any evidence of creating trouble they would be promptly arrested and kept in detention until such time as the war was over or they were released by the military authorities. It is believed there are spies from the enemies' countries in this city at the present time.

We were compelled to refuse admission to our patrons from six to eleven o'clock at night, and are anticipating a record-breaking attendance on the days we show this picture.

BRITISH NAVY IN PICTURES

Imperial Theatre Has Great Film Monday. An Inspiration and a Re-assuring Lesson in this tense period of apprehension.

Just as all the world is awaiting news from the North Sea—a tense, tragic expectancy, the answer to which may have as much bearing upon history as did Waterloo—pictures of Great Britain's floating armament will be most interesting. These come to Imperial Theatre Monday and Tuesday of next week. During the present week they have been attracting capacity business to Princess Theatre, Montreal.

"Our Navy" has been a wonderfully absorbing film in the peaceful period gone by, but now that Britain is not only defending her very shores, but has taken up the fight for an abused and weaker country, these living photographs of battleships, cruisers, torpedo boat destroyers, submarines, etc. will give shore-folk a close and intimate view of the strength and operations of King George's sea force.

Britain's bulwarks are being assailed on more than one sea and it depends on their ability to withstand the attacks of the enemy whether or not civilization retrogrades into the grasp of a war-loving autocrat or basks in the peaceful sunshine of Great Britain's tender yet resolute watch and care.

The Imperial Theatre management has set aside a splendid bill of miscellaneous films to display this British picture at a time when the people of St. John feel the need of close touch with England's Strong Right Arm; a time when loud alarm and the electric atmosphere of strife, even to death grips, brings a not unnatural feeling of apprehension. Whether Jellicoe and Callaghan win or lose in the mystery-waters of the North Sea, "Our Navy" will prove an inspiration and a delight to all who love their country and uphold its struggle against the bullying war-lord of Berlin.

Capt. A. E. G. McKenzie, of Campbellton. Mrs. Wm. Buckley, of Methuen, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. A. Craig. Mrs. Wm. Simmonds, of Loggieville visited Loggieville friends last week. Mrs. A. C. Allen is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Metcalf, in Moncton. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Walker and James Copp, of Brunswick, Me., spent the last three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Russell.

Mrs. Allan Russell returned on Saturday from her visit to Moncton.

ROUT OF GERMAN COLUMBIAN EXST OF THE ROYAL COMMISSION OF DOWN

Forced to retreat before Belgian onslaught—German patrols take refuge in Switzerland.

London, Aug. 14.—A despatch from Brussels to Reuter's Agency says that a battle near Egezeze, north of Namur, which occurred yesterday at Nouville Tavers, on the Namur-Tienen railway line, was very keenly contested. The Germans, according to the despatch, were mostly cavalry men. They were surprised by the Belgians and sustained very severe casualties.

The despatch adds that three German aeroplanes flying over Dieulouart were brought down by the Belgian artillery. Two of the aviators were killed, by being dashed to earth, and the third was terribly injured.

Brussels, Aug. 14.—No movements of importance have taken place since Wednesday's serious engagement between the German and Belgian troops, according to official announcement here today. The communication adds: "The situation of the Belgian forces remains favorable."

The Belgian war office announced today that a column of 400 German soldiers had been routed by Belgian troops in an engagement at Geitz Beiz, in Brabant Province, and forced to retreat. The column, which was of Louvain, headquarters of the Belgian army.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 14, via London.—Considerable anxiety is felt here in connection with the reported purchase by Turkey of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, as it is feared the acquisition of these two vessels may make Turkey uncompromising on the subject of the disposition of the Aegean Islands. A rumor that Turkey had named one of these warships Mithlene is taken as a justification for this belief.

London, Aug. 14.—A despatch from Paris to the Exchange Telegraph Company today announces that the French ministry of war has received news from Bern, Switzerland, that numbers of German patrols have taken refuge in Switzerland. It is said that no French troops have crossed the Swiss frontier.

London, Aug. 14.—Belgian accounts of yesterday's cavalry encounter, known as the battle of Haelen, give the total of German casualties as high as 4,000 killed and wounded. No German report of the engagement has come to hand. The Belgian staff believes the German movement at Haelen was an attempt to reach Brussels, which today is stated to be "no longer in danger."

SHORT SESSION ADMIRALTY'S REASSURING MESSAGE

P., received a telegram from the Governor General as follows: "Canadian national fund will be made wide enough to cover dependents of French, Belgian, Serbian and Russian reservists who have joined the colors from Canada. I wish your meeting every success. Know I can depend on your co-operation."

It was announced at the meeting that the governor-general would call a general meeting of representatives of Canadian patriots at Ottawa within two or three days for the purpose of establishing the Canadian patriotic fund for the relief of soldiers families.

GERMAN FLAG FLIES OVER CITY OF LIEGE

Main Battle hasn't developed yet—Germans making desperate attempts to prevent cutting off their communication from rear.

London, Aug. 14.—The German flag now flies over the town hall at Liege, according to a despatch to the Daily News from its correspondent in Rotterdam. The Liege police are sharing the duties of the German soldiers in preserving order, and the city is quiet. A German military band plays each afternoon in the public square, the music being accompanied by the sounds of cannonading from the forts, which are still intact.

The German army today was apparently still feeling out the position of the allied forces. The main battle has not yet developed. Through the Belgian and allied armies have been victorious at several different points, as a result of engagements Wednesday, the fighting was apparently a part of the German reconnaissance in force.

The Germans are now making desperate attempts to prevent the Belgians from cutting off their communication in the rear. The defeated troops are in danger of being driven back across the Dutch frontier, where disarmament would be necessary, Holland being neutral.

TURKEY'S MOVE GIVES A NEW TURN TO SITUATION

Purchase of two German Cruisers, Goeben and Breslau, breach of Neutrality — Allied Governments opposed to Germany and Austria, intend to bring Ottoman Empire to realization of infringement of Law.

Paris, Aug. 14, (6.25 a.m.)—The allied governments opposed to Germany and Austria-Hungary have agreed to bring Turkey to a realization of its obligations as a neutral power in connection with her purchase from Germany of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

Rome, via Paris, Aug. 14 (4.30 a.m.)—The news that Turkey had purchased the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau reached here only tonight. This new development in the war situation was discussed with interest in the political circles, where it was held that it was fraught with the possibility of grave results.

It was stated in semi-official quarters that the vessels would be a strong weapon in the hands of Turkey if Constantinople abandoned its attitude of neutrality. The belief was expressed that the purchase precludes a new position on the part of Turkey and in favor of Germany and Austria-Hungary, which is especially important as bearing on the interests of the Balkan states.

The Tribune says that the preparation made at Messina for a "noble death" by the officers of the German cruisers, who, before sailing from that port, made their wills, left the public unprepared for this farce. Seeing the impossibility of escape from the Anglo-French fleet, if they followed their original idea of molesting the transports moving French African troops, the German cruisers sought refuge in the Aegean Sea, where, with the com-

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows: Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of milk have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Important.—In ordering Parmit always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it, or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, P. Q., who make a specialty of it.

THE TENNIS MEET AT YARMOUTH

Special To The Standard. Yarmouth, N. S., Aug. 14.-Today's events in the tennis tournament were very warmly contested and exciting throughout.

Can it be that at last Joe Jackson is to attain the long-sought honor of a triumph over Tyrus Raymond Cobb for the batting supremacy of the American league? Can it be that this year of ups and downs in the sporting world is to culminate in the downfall of the Georgian, who has held away as king of swatsmiths for seven long years?

Another stage in the tennis tournament was passed yesterday. It was ideal weather for tennis, and some exciting plays were witnessed. The following are the results:

Ladies' Singles. (Semi-Finals.) Miss Schofield won from Miss Raymond, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Robertson won from Miss Church, 6-4, 6-1.

JOE JACKSON BATTING KING THIS YEAR

Can it be that at last Joe Jackson is to attain the long-sought honor of a triumph over Tyrus Raymond Cobb for the batting supremacy of the American league?

The batting averages of the Johnson organization just issued by demostriatician, George Moreland, show that during the past week the shoeless wonder of Birmingham's tallenders has jumped to the fore in the batting melee with an average of .356.

Considerable Battle. This Cobb-Jackson warfare for batting supremacy has been the most bitter in the history of the grand old game. Back in 1911 Joe startled the world of swatting by flashing across an average of .408.

Too Many Vocations. This has been a bad year for Cobb. What with illness, accidents and assaults on his person, he has been out of the game over half the time.

VOLUNTEERS DRILLING IN PREPARATION FOR SERVICE

Animated Scenes at Armories as Training Commences—Home Defense Appeal meets ready response from all classes of citizens—Must crush Germany.

The first drill for the men who have volunteered for foreign service from St. John took place yesterday morning when all the men who have enlisted from the 62nd Regiment, with the exception of one man who had been unable to get into the city, were on hand and drilled for two hours morning, afternoon and evening.

The men reported at eight o'clock at the armory and drill was conducted for two hours. They were then dismissed until after afternoon, when they were kept busy for another two hours. Last evening they were again at the armory. The drill will be kept up in this order until Tuesday next when it is possible that the men will be sent to St. Johns, Quebec. No definite orders for the future movements of the men have so far been received.

The first parade of volunteers for local training and home defense connected with the 62nd Regiment was held last night in the armory. Many young men turned out and there is no doubt that many more will follow their example.

It is felt among the military men that every citizen physically suited for service should enter and be properly trained so that if the need should arise they would be in a position to help Canada to cope with the situation.

Men who wish to engage in this service will have an opportunity of drilling in the evenings and they would be able to still engage in their present occupations.

Home Defense

Training for home defense should appeal to all the younger men of the city and there should be a general response to the call. The officers of the 62nd Regiment will be on hand in the armory on Monday evening to receive any who wish to enlist with the corps for home defense.

Should St. John be the port to handle the bulk of the trade with the old country this season and the indications point to that there will be need for men to properly protect and watch the docks and elevators and for this service men with military training will likely be selected.

Should there be a possibility of an attack by the Germans, perhaps not as a concentrated effort, but some-

Effect of Conflict on Local Trade

Merchants believe several lines of trade will suffer—Many have secured this year's orders.

A number of local merchants interviewed yesterday were disinclined to express an opinion upon the effect of the war upon business in St. John. There was a general feeling that the war had given a set back to trade, but there was a decided disinclination to giving specific instances as to the effect upon German or European trade.

St. John merchants have been in the habit of importing considerable quantities of goods and novelties from Germany and Belgium, more especially for the Christmas trade. Importers of goods and novelties for the Christmas trade seemed to be of the opinion that the effect of the war would not be serious, as there would be no demand for articles made in Germany or Austria anyway.

Wholesale dealers in German goods said their orders had been placed before the war, and that in most cases orders for the current year had been filled. About the only matter which seemed to worry importers was the question of trade with Belgium.

It was felt that the war would curtail production there, and that many articles formerly imported would be hard to get. So far as St. John is concerned, the effect of the war upon Germany has been of small stuffs, novelties and Christmas presents, the loss of which will not be serious.

Among the most important imports from Germany are drugs and dyes and the cutting off of which may cause some temporary inconvenience.

CASHIER SAYS HE BURNED FIRMS BOOKS AT END OF EACH YEAR

Montreal, Aug. 14.—E. Hubert, cashier and director of the Harris Construction Company in the civic investigation in connection with the Notre Dame De-Grace sewer, testified today that he had burned the company's books. He had been called upon to produce the company's books, and surprised Mayor Martin and the controllers by stating that in the past five years he had burned all the books at the end of each year. "My poor friend," said the mayor, "I am really sorry for you. I would hate to be in your shoes after the evidence you have given here today."

St. John as an open port would probably not be attacked by the Germans, were the international law observed, but there is a chance of the enemy not observing these rules in the strict letter. There is a possibility that the German cruisers in the north Atlantic waters might engage in privateer work, in that event the men of St. John should be prepared for service if the need presented itself.

There can be no better way of preparing than in the ranks of the 62nd or other home regiments that may be engaged in that kind of work. While the men may never be called upon to engage in active strife, the training would be wholly beneficial and help to put the men in good physical condition.

One military officer pointed out that the present war was as much Canada's as that of any other part of the empire and that the danger from many was as much Canada's peril as England's.

Militarism had predominated the German empire and the people of the countries opposed to her in the present struggle would have to adopt extreme measures in order to cope with the situation and finally bring about a permanent universal peace.

Russia and France

The Russian empire has put forth a gigantic hand in the shape of vast military bodies. France has shouldered a great responsibility and the other countries opposed to Germany have given of their best for the fight. The people of England have also made a strenuous effort and the appeal to the colonies for aid should be answered by all. The nations of the world are looking to England to lead in this struggle against universal militarism in the form of Germany.

The 62nd Regiment will have a recruiting office at St. Prince William street where officers will be on duty from ten a.m. to ten p.m.

FIRST CATHOLIC DIVORCE SUIT IN PROVINCE

Macaulay testified and at the afternoon session the plaintiff gave evidence. Earle Logan appeared for the plaintiff.

UHLANS FIGHT WITH AWFUL FURY.

Grim realities of war in country between Tirlemont and Saint Trond—
 Seize private money.

Special to The Standard from the International News Service
 By DR. E. K. DILLON.

Brussels, Aug. 14.—Two hours motor ride from Belgium's capital takes one to a world of grim realities and inister contrasts. Over the country between Tirlemont and Saint Trond, but yesterday rich in corn fields and carefully tended gardens, the withering breath of war has passed. Approaching the village of Dormaal, a unmistakable tokens of desolation meet the view.
 Shattered window panes and domestic utensils flung among the cabbages in the gardens, or before the wretched doors here, a couple of children pratt-ling in subdued tones. There a mother leading three orphaned little girls from the still smoking ruins of their home. Everywhere is the loathsome sequel of war.

Inhuman hate appears to possess these Prussian invaders. Belgians who dealt with them at close quarters at Dormaal declare that the Uhlans fought with the bitterness of personal enmity.

HORRIBLE WOUNDS.

Many corpses have their hands raised and their elbows on a level with their shoulders. Horrible wounds were inflicted with weapons fired at a distance of a couple of inches from the mouth or breast. The Uhlans seized 2,000,000 francs belonging to the National Bank of Belgium at Hasselt.
 The bank being a private concern this act of piracy constitutes a violation of the 53rd article of the laws and customs of warfare drawn up in 1870.

Frederick, afterwards emperor, forcebably seized the specie of the Bank of France on condition that it be not employed to sustain resistance to the German arms. Similar funds of the Bank of France at Strasbourg at first sequestered by the Germans, were restored as private property.

FERIE FIGHT BETWEEN AUSTRIAN AND RUSSIAN TROOPS IN GALLICIA

London, Aug. 14.—A St. Petersburg despatch to the Central News reports that fierce fighting between Russian and Austrian forces took place yesterday at Tuzora on the River Dniester in eastern Galicia. The report says that the Austrian forces met with severe defeat, four infantry regiments and one cavalry regiment being practically wiped out.

rest. Between the outposts the moon was shining last night while from the woods in the distance sudden flashes showed the troops vomiting death fire on the enemy while on our flanks invisible batteries were continuously spitting destructive shrapnel against the purple sky.

One could see moving masses of our soldiers—a vision of hell which only Dante could describe. The bullets whistling through the trenches, cracking in the trees or clattering with a muffled thud in the earth.

The Belgian provision for the wounded was efficient and adequate. So far the maimed warriors, homeless families, destitute women and orphaned children who are receiving attention remind one only of the harvest of misery yet to be garnered.

HOW THE CORPS OF GUIDES LIVE DURING WAR TIMES

The above picture of the Corps of Guides in New Brunswick shows how the men live while in the field. On active service the Guides act as the eyes of the army, operating several miles in front of the main bodies. They note the topographical conditions and the operations of the enemy. The Guides on active service when taken prisoners are usually hanged or shot as they are regarded as spies. Two St. John men, Frank Withers of 105 Hazen street, and Daniel Heywood of Brussels street, have joined the Corps going in the first contingent. The Canadian corp will be commanded by Major C. J. Merzereau of Hampton. Many of the soldiers in this picture will go to the front.

Lieut. Ernest Welch of St. John who will go to the front with the first Canadian contingent.

SAYS TURKEY INTENDS TO STAY NEUTRAL

New York, Aug. 14.—The Turkish consul general here today received through the Turkish ambassador a sufficient number of the minister of foreign affairs at Constantinople. "In order not to let any doubt subsist as to the present attitude which the imperial government has decided to observe in the present conflicts, I deem it imperative and urgent to notify you again that our government is firmly resolved to maintain the strictest neutrality."

Colonel B. R. Armstrong, officer commanding 3rd Regiment Canadian Artillery.

ST. JOHN MEN READY TO FIGHT FOR MOTHERLAND

LEAVE OF ABSENCE WITH SALARY FOR PASTOR WHO IS GOING TO THE WAR

Special to The Standard.
 Fredericton, Aug. 14.—The following resolution was passed at a meeting of the corporation of St. Thomas' church at Stanley this week:

"Whereas, our rector, Rev. A. L. Skerry, has tendered his resignation for the purpose of going to the front with the Canadian troops, and
 "Whereas, while regretting to lose his services, we know he has qualifications which fit him in an unusual degree for work he will have among men at the front;

"Therefore resolved, that we, corporation of this parish, do not accept his resignation, but grant him leave of absence, with salary as at present, during the progress of war or for the balance of the church year.

 son, Edward Thomas, Robert Logan, George F. Dunham, Charles Tomlinson, Scott McNeill, E. W. Douglass, Fred Rodgers, Stanley Douglass, vestry men.

RECRUIT MILITIA TO WAR STRENGTH.

Volunteers Waiting Word to Proceed to Mobilization base at Valcartier, Quebec—The War Spirit.

The call to arms has been answered by the people of Canada and from every part of this vast Dominion her sons have offered their services to the Motherland. Canada has realized that the present war is just as much her's as England's and the people of this North American colony will unite with the people of the Empire in the fight for the supremacy of Britain and her allies and the maintenance of universal peace.

In St. John the war spirit is prominent and from every quarter of the city families have given of their sons to go forth to fight the battles of the Empire. While large numbers have volunteered for overseas service many have come forward for maintenance of sufficient force to protect the Canadian coast.

The spirit displayed throughout the province has been one of loyalty and all have been eager to help in the present difficulty. Regiments have been recruited to full war strength and there has been no lack of volunteers for foreign service.

From St. John.

It is expected that about three hundred men will go from St. John for service in the first contingent and these men were started in their drill yesterday. Final orders for the gathering together of the troops have not yet been received but it is expected that the men will be sent to St. John's, Quebec, where the first Canadian contingent will be assembled.

One hundred and twenty-eight men will be sent from the 62nd Regiment, seventy-nine from the 3rd Regiment and there will be men taken for the Army Service Corps, the Ambulance Corps, the Dragoons and the Signal-ling Corps.

Ten officers have volunteered for foreign service and others are only waiting to find out how many officers will be required before placing their names on the roll.

For the defence of Canada the different regiments and corps are being recruited to full war strength and the call has been answered by many more than has been required.

SCENE REPRESENTING A WAR STRENGTH OF ABOUT FIVE MILLION MEN; RUSSIAN CAVALRY CHARGING OVER WATERY GROUND.

In the Illustration Zeitung, a German weekly paper, of July 16, a German officer who had spent some time observing the Russian army, criticized it and the point he emphasized was that the present fighting machine of the war is no more like the machine that went down to defeat before the Japanese than the German army of 1871. It is like the army of today. The improvements that have been made in the Russian army are remarkable and while it probably does not equal the German army in efficiency, its superiority in numbers should make it equally formidable. It is in fear of the Russian army that has driven the Kaiser to invade Belgium and Luxembourg. He is following the old Napoleonic principle of destroying his enemies sepaately. The success of his land campaign depends upon his being able to crush the French army before the Russians can get into action. Having beaten France to the ground, he will turn on the Russians and drive them back. That is the general strategy of the war from the German point of view.

 It is this strategy that may have been defeated already by the unexpected Belgian resistance at Liege.

The war with Russia showed the Russian military authorities that the army was not to be depended upon.
 The tactics of Dragomiroff were useless for attack, since they seem'd to be based upon the assumption that the enemy's fire would invariably be accurate and so deadly that it was not to be thought of. That is why one may search the records of the Russo-Japanese war in vain for examples of Russia, advancing in force upon the enemy. Russia's advancing was almost invariably toward the rear. The infantry lacked power to win battles because of their prominent formation, and the over-spreading of their front ranks, the cavalry preceding the infantry in single formation and the artillery scattering in small groups and firing from positions of concealment. In the years 1911-12 these old principles were abandoned and regulations founded upon those of Germany and France took their place.

 Lopping off Deadwood.

It was five years after the war with Japan before Witte and Stolypin were able to quell the threatened revolutions of the country and gather up sufficient funds to begin the reorganization of the military machine, but even before the money was ready the work of improvement had begun. In 1906 no fewer than 26 out of 31 army corps and 38 out of 61 army divisions received new commanders, and in the next few years 846 generals were placed in enforced retirement. Thus the incompetents at the head of the army were lopped off, and their places taken by younger men. In the year 1911 for instance, of the general staff officers promoted to be colonels, four were 34 years old, ten were 35 years old and 21 were 36 years old. Other steps were taken to make the military profession one that would attract the best class of Russians.

Czar Honors the Army.
 Previous to the war there had been two distinct systems for training officers. There was one school for the nobles and another school for the rest of the cadets, and the result was that two distinct classes were turned out.
 The difference was abolished, and all the officers who have been trained in the past half dozen years have gone through the same school. Moreover, as soon as the finances of the country were adequate, the salaries and pensions of officers were increased. The Czar copied the example set by Emperor William and lost no opportu-

Russian Soldiers Willing.

In the Russo-Japanese war practically every Russian soldier looked like everyone else. The men might have been nothing but numbers. Since then the custom has been cultivated of permitting particular corps to wear distinguished dress. Numerous regiments have received special marks, traditions and honorary colonels, and the esprit de corps of the army has thus been revived. Not only has the strength of the army been increased, but it has been provided with the most modern of weapons and it is said that in military aeriatrics Russia is now the leader of the world. There have been also great improvements in the machinery of mobilization, and there will be no such delay on the part of the Russian troops getting into action as there was at the time of the war with Japan. Moreover, in the present war the Russian peasant will fight with all his heart. Against Japan he

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN

Accepts Call to Harvey.
At a meeting of the Presbytery of Lunenburg and Greenwich, held on the 29th ult., Rev. J. F. McKay, of Clyde River and Barrington, N. S., accepted the call addressed to him from the congregation of Harvey in the Presbytery of St. John. Mr. McKay's pastorate in his Nova Scotia congregation terminated August 9, and his induction to the pastoral charge of Harvey will take place at an early date.

A Tour in Miramichi Presbytery.
The assembly's board of social service and evangelism has requested Mrs. Bertha Putnam to make a tour of Miramichi Presbytery in the interests of the board. A comprehensive itinerary plan has been outlined by the Presbytery's committee of which Rev. J. L. Jobb is convener. Beginning at New Mills on Sabbath last, Mrs. Putnam will visit every congregation within the bounds of the Presbytery, closing with Rexton on September 20. During the month of July she undertook similar work in the Presbytery of P. E. I. Her mission is of very great educational value, and has been highly appreciated in all parts of the church to which she has gone.

Visiting Ministers.
Several ministers from other parts of Canada have been taking advantage of the summer vacation season to make or renew acquaintances with personal friends and congregations in various sections of the maritime provinces. Notice has already been taken in this column of the visits of such men as Dr. Herdridge, moderator of the General Assembly; Dr. John Nell and Rev. John McNeill, of Toronto, who were each gladly welcomed to pulpits in the places of their visit. To these may be added the names of Rev. W. H. Sedgewick of Hamilton, Ont., who is visiting his home in Middle Musquodoboit, N. S.; Rev. T. W. Taylor, of Toronto, who is spending a few weeks at Rothesay, N. B., and who preached to an appreciative congregation in St. Paul's church there last Sabbath; Prof. Alex. Laird, of the Military College, Kingston, a native of Prince Edward Island, who is visiting different parts of his home province and Nova Scotia; Rev. M. A. Campbell, of First Presbyterian church, Montreal, who is announced to preach in St. David's church, St. John, for a couple of Sabbaths; and Rev. D. MacDormund, of Pembroke, Ont., who is to preach for a Sunday or two to his former congregation of St. John's church, Moncton during his visit.

Delayed by the War.
The European war has laid its disturbing hand upon almost every phase of social, commercial and political activity, even at this distance from the seat of conflict. Among other things it is now announced that the departure of several of our missionaries from the maritime provinces for their field of labor in Korea has been postponed. Revs. L. Young, D. W. McDonald and E. J. O. Fraser, with their wives, and Miss Edna Cruikshank were to sail from Vancouver on September 3, but as the British Admiralty has taken over the Pacific Express boats their sailings have been postponed. They will be able to undertake the trip from Vancouver to Korea by way of Japan some time in October.

Eighty Years a Sunday School Teacher.
To be a teacher in the Sunday school continuously for eighty years is a distinction of most unique character. It is doubtful if such a record could be duplicated anywhere else in the whole world. Yet this is the story told in last week's Continent of Mrs. Anna M. Bruer, of the First Presbyterian church in Belvidere, New Jersey. U. S. A. Mrs. Bruer is ninety-two years of age, and has been serving as a Sunday school teacher at the early age of twelve years. Mrs. Bruer's father was a lawyer of much distinction. Her first teacher was John McClintock, afterwards president of Dean Theological Seminary. Her husband was a minister. Rev. A. D. Bruer, and her son is also a minister, Rev. J. delhart Bruer, of whose church she is a loyal and helpful parishioner. She hears her son preach twice every Sunday, attends mid-week prayer meetings regularly and conducts, besides, each Sabbath day a Bible class for women, and a ten o'clock mission band for girls.

BAPTIST
Rev. Perry J. Stackhouse, former pastor of Amherst Baptist church, pastor-elect of Tabernacle Baptist church, Ulica, New York, is spending a short vacation with his parents at St. John West. Mr. Stackhouse will be the speaker on Sunday evening at the East St. John Baptist Mission, Edith avenue.
Rev. W. and Mrs. Camp have returned from a four weeks holiday. During his holiday Mr. Camp was at Newcastle, N. B., at the induction of his pastor, Mr. Richardson representing the N. B. Association in an address

GERMANS KILL 3,000 DEAD ON BATTLEFIELD AT HAELEN

Sacrificed their men without scruple—Fell in droves before fire of Belgian Gatling Guns—Report from Brussels says City is no longer in danger.

Brussels, Aug. 14 (via Paris, 12.35 a.m.)—The German casualties in the engagement at Haelen on Wednesday were 3,000 dead and wounded. The Germans, apparently, sacrificed their men without any scruple. During the fight the Germans were obliged to pass two bridges over the Gette and Vileva, where they were exposed to a heavy fire. The retiring Germans left piles of dead and wounded at those bridges. The same carnage occurred on the road from Threok to Haelen, where the German cavalry exposed to the gatling guns of the Belgians, fell in droves.
The German infantry and cavalry had a similar reception near Colfaek.

The success of the Belgian arms is considered particularly important here, as most of the Belgian troops participating had not been under fire before.
The Belgian casualties at Haelen were light indeed, as the troops were well entrenched, but many were wounded. The situation, which was somewhat critical on Tuesday morning when the German patrols had arrived close to Brussels, was held to be rapidly improving from the stand-point of the Belgians twenty-four hours later.
The victory described above was followed by new and successful engagements near Noville-Taxisers and Eghzee, about nine miles north of Namur on Wednesday and Thursday. These operations proved that the Germans are retreating further and that the allies, being steadily reinforced, are resolutely pushing ahead.
Brussels is no longer in danger but the situation a few days ago was such that the eventuality of its occupation by the Germans was considered.

London Aug. 14.—The Daily Mail's Brussels correspondent describes the engagement at Haelen as showing that the Belgians have passed another good test. He says that intermittent heavy guns was audible all morning. This was punctuated about eleven o'clock by sharp detonations, as the Belgians blew up the bridges over the River Gette just in the nick of time. They were under shrapnel fire, and the German cavalry was just about to engage, when the bridges destroyed the fight resolved itself into an artillery duel, the shrapnel bursting, leaving a long trail of white smoke. In the meantime, a squadron of Mecklenburg dragoons, with rather reduced strength, attempted to penetrate the town of Diest at a gallop. About a mile from the town they dashed into a barricade of wagons lined by Belgian infantry. The Germans had

Skin Without Wrinkles
Now Easy to Have
There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of salicylic and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter what their nature, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, a debilitated condition of the system, or by age. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make and use at home, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of lightening the skin and heightening its vitality is to immediately affect every wrinkle, and the skin becomes so smooth and firm as to wish for nothing. The proportions are: salicylic acid (powdered) to one-half pint witch hazel, ingredients when mixed every day with a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of freckles, red cheeks, and, as well as sagging below the eyes.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Kathlyn Hare, believing her father, Col. Hare, in peril, has summoned her, leaves her home in California to go to him in Allah, India. Umballah, pretence to the throne of the principality, has imprisoned the colonel, named by the late king as his heir, because he fears the American may insist on his royal rights. Upon her arrival in Allah, Kathlyn is informed by Umballah that her father being dead, she is to be queen, and must marry him forthwith. Because of her refusal she is sentenced to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts.

John Bruce, an American and fellow passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allah, saves her life. The elephant which carries her from the scene of her trial becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril she takes refuge in a ruined temple. The holy men and virgins, leaving her to be an ancient priestess, rises from the tomb, allow her to remain as the guardian of the sacred fire. But Kathlyn's haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to flee from it, with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allah to the public mart. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmitive, throws her into the dungeon with her father, Bruce, and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel. Umballah's attempt to recapture them is unsuccessful, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of King Khan.

Supplied with camels and servants by that hospitable prince, the party endeavors to reach the coast, but is overpowered by a band of brigands, and the encounter results in the colonel being delivered to Umballah. Kathlyn and Bruce escape from their captors and return to Allah, where Kathlyn leaves and she is forced to flee from it, with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allah to the public mart. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmitive, throws her into the dungeon with her father, Bruce, and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel. Umballah's attempt to recapture them is unsuccessful, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of King Khan.

Kathlyn's resourcefulness and bravery are the means of rescuing him, and once more they steal away from Allah, but return broken hearted when they learn that Winnie, Kathlyn's young sister, has come to Allah. Umballah makes her his prisoner. She is crowned queen of Allah.

One attempt to get Winnie out of the closely guarded palace almost costs Kathlyn her life, but the second plan succeeds, and Kathlyn and Winnie, their father, and Bruce find a hiding place in the home of their Indian friend, Ramabal, and his wife Pundita.

Umballah has crept back to the city, and with one of the women of the harem as an accomplice, murders the poor old king. It is arranged to have Pundita, a member of the royal house and wife to Ramabal, crowned queen. Umballah secures the priesthood, the great power in Allah, as ally, comes back to the palace with absolute authority. His first official act is to imprison Kathlyn, Winnie, the Colonel, and Bruce.

There is an old saying in Rajput that woman is the wind which weaves the web of fate. It is the same mother; blew hot, blew cold, balmily or tempestuously, from all points at once.

In the palace at the royal palace there was a woman, tall, lithe, with a skin of ivory and roses and eyes as brown as the hulk of a chestnut. On her neck she wore a necklace of emeralds and rubies and sapphires, and she had a pair of hands that were as white as pearls and emeralds and rubies and sapphires. And still she was not happy.

From the ceiling of her chamber, she strained at the roots of her glossy black hair and the whites of her eyes glistened. She bit her lips to keep back the sob that rose in her throat. She pressed her hands together so tightly that the little knuckles cracked.

"Al, al!" she wailed softly.

She paced the confines of her chamber with slow step, with fast step; or leaned against the wall, her face hidden in her arms; or pressed her hot cheeks against the cool marble of the lattice.

Human nature is made up of contraries. Why, when we have had the courage coolly to plan murder, or to aid or suggest it, why must we be troubled with remorse? More than this, why must we battle against the silly impulse to tell the first we meet what we have done? Remorse: what is it?

Now, this woman of the zennas believed not in the God of her fathers and mine. She was a pagan; her heaven and hell were ruled by a thousand gods, and her temples were filled with their images. Yet this thing, remorse, was stabbing her with its hot needles, till no torture devised by man could equal it.

She was the poor, foolish woman who loved Durga Ram; loved him as these wild Asiatic women love, from murder to the poisoned cup. Loved him, and knew that he loved her not, but used her for his own selfish ends. There you have it. Had he loved her, remorse never would have lifted his head or raised its voice. And again, had not Umballah sought the white woman, this butterfly of the harem might have died of old age without unbending her soul. Remorse is the result of a crime committed uselessly. Humanity is unchangeable, for all its variety of sins.

And here was this woman, wanting to tell some one!

Umballah had done a peculiar thing; he had not laid hands upon either Ramabal or Pundita. When asked the reason for this generosity toward a man who but recently put a price on his head, Umballah smiled and explained that, Ramabal was not only broken politically but was a religious outcast. It was happiness for such a person to die, so he preferred that Ramabal should live.

Secretly, however, Ramabal's revolutionary friends were still back of him, though they pretended to bow to the yoke of the priests.

So upon this day matters stood thus: the Colonel, Kathlyn, Bruce, and Winnie were prisoners again; Ahmed was in hiding; and Ramabal and wife mocked by those who once had cheered them. The ingratitude of kings is as nothing when compared to the ingratitude of a people.

A most ridiculous country; to crown Kathlyn again (for the third time) and then to lock her up! Next to superstition as a barrier to progress there stands custom. Everything one did must be done as some one else had done it; the initiative was still chained up in the temple, it belonged to the bald priests only.

But Umballah had made two mistakes; he should have permitted the white woman to leave the country and given a silken cord to the chief eunuch, to apply as directed. There are no written laws among the dark peoples that forbid the disposal of that chattel known as a woman of the harem, or zennas

Allah to the ground, and crows and vultures and tigers and jackals shall make these temples their abiding places, and men will forget Allah as they now forget the mighty Chitor." She swung round toward the priests. "You have yourselves to thank. At a word from me, Balakhan enters or stops at the outer walls. I have tried to escape you by what means I had at my command. Now it shall be war! War, famine, plague!"

Her young voice rang out sharp and clear, sending terror to all cowardly hearts, not least among these being those beating in the breasts of the priests.

"Now," speaking to the soldiers, "go liberate my father, my sister, and my husband-to-be; and woo to any who disobey me! For while I stand here I shall be a queen indeed! Peace, or war, famine, and the plague. Summon the executioner. Arrest Durga Ram. Strip him before my eyes of his every insignia of rank. He is a murderer. He shall go to the treadmill, there to slave till death. I have said it!"

Far in the rear of the cowed assemblage, near the door, stood Ahmed, in his old guise of bhaiji, or water carrier. When he heard that beloved voice, he returned to the palace. She was rather dizzy over the success of her inspiration. A few days might pass without harm; but sooner or later they would discover that she had tricked them; and then, the end. But before that hour arrived they would doubtless find some way of leaving the city secretly.

That it would be many days ere Pundita wore the crown—trust the priests to spread the meshes of red tape!—Kathlyn was reasonably certain.

"My girl," said the Colonel, "you are a queen, if ever there was one. And that you should think of such a simple thing when we had all given up! They would not have touched Umballah. Kit, Kit, whatever will you do when you return to the humdrum life at home?"

"Thank God on my knees, dad!" she said fervently. "But we are not safe yet, by no means. We must form our plans quickly. We have perhaps three days' grace. After that, woe to all of us who are found here. Ah, I am tired, tired!"

"Kit," whispered Bruce, "I intend this night to seek Balakhan!"

"Yes. What the deuce is Allah to me? Ramabal must fight it out alone. But don't worry about me; I can take care of myself."

"But I don't want you to go. I need you."

"It is your life, Kit, I am certain. Everything depends upon their finding out that Balakhan will strike if you call upon him. At most, all he'll do will be to levy a tribute which Ramabal, once Pundita is on the throne, can never well pay. Those priests are devils incarnate. They will leave no stone unturned to do you injury, after today's work. You have humiliated and outplayed them."

"It is best he should go, Kit," her father declared. "We'll not tell Ramabal. He has been a man all the way through, but we must sacrifice our chances for the sake of a bit of sentiment. John must seek Balakhan's aid."

Kathlyn became resigned to the inevitable.

Umballah. He tried to bribe the soldiers. They laughed and taunted him. He took his rings from his fingers and offered them. The soldiers snatched them out of his palm and thrust him along the path which led to the mill. In Allah political malefactors and murderers were made to serve the state; not a bad law if it had always been a just one. But many a poor devil had died at the wheel for a reason other than that he had offended some high official, disturbed the serenity of some priest.

When the prisoners saw Umballah a shout went up. There were some there who had Umballah to thank for their miseries. They hailed him and jeered him and mocked him.

"Here is the gutter rat!"

"May his feet be tender!"

"Robber of the poor, where is my home, my wife and children?"

"He'll rot in the grave with a pig!"

"That ever been thirsty, highness?"

"Drink thy sweat, then!"

"Give the 'heaven-born' irons that are rusted!"

A most ridiculous country: to crown Kathlyn again (for the third time) telt the blood rush into his throat. Aye, they were right. Who but a goddess would have had at such a time an inspiration so great? But it gave him an idea, and he slipped away to complete it. Balakhan should come in fact.

So he did not see Umballah upon his knees, whining for mercy, making futile promises, begging for liberty. The soldiers spat contemptuously as they seized him and dragged him off.

The priests conferred hastily. Balakhan was a Peshawar, a ruthless soldier; his followers were without fear. The men of Allah might put up a good defense, but in the end they would be whined; and the gods of Hind would be cast out to make way for the prophet of Allah. This young woman with the white skin had for the nonce beaten them.

Durga Ram had played the fool; between the two women, he had fallen. They had given him power, and he had let it slip through his fingers for the sake of reprisal that it was not needed. Let him go, then, to the treadmill; they were through with him. He had played his game like a tyro. They must place this young woman who the people believed was their queen, but who they knew was the plaything of the politics and expedients.

The chief or high priest salaamed, and Kathlyn eyed him calmly, though her knees threatened to refuse support.

"Majesty, we bow to your will. Allah cannot help you with Balakhan's fierce hiltens. All we ask is that you abide with us till you have legally selected your successor."

"Who shall be Pundita?" said Kathlyn resolutely.

The chief priest salaamed again. The movement of his head struck her not only wisely, but bravely. He had struck not only wisely, but bravely. He had struck not only wisely, but bravely. He had struck not only wisely, but bravely.

the way his eyes took fire at the contents of that letter. The filigree basket of gold and gems; the trinkets for which he had risked his own life, Kathlyn's, then Winnie's. In turn Bruce and Ramabal perused the letter, and to Ramabal came the inspiration.

"They would seek this treasure, but only he, Ramabal, and Pundita would return. Here lay their way to freedom without calling upon Balakhan for aid. The matter, however, had to be submitted to the priests, and those wily men in yellow robes agreed. They could very well promise Durga Ram his freedom again; pursue these treasure seekers and destroy them, that would be Durga Ram's ransom.

The return to the palace was joyous this time; but in her heart of hearts Kathlyn was skeptical. Till she trod the deck of a ship homeward bound she would always be doubting.

Bruce did not have to seek Balakhan. The night of Kathlyn's defiance Ahmed had acquainted them with his errand. He was now on his way to Balakhan. They need trouble themselves no longer regarding the future.

"All goes well," said Ramabal; "for, to reach this hiding place, we must pass the city of Balakhan. I know where this cape is. It is not large. It juts out into the sea, the Persian gulf, perhaps half a dozen miles. At high tide it becomes an island. None lives about except the simple fisherman. Still, the journey is hazardous. The truth is, it is a spot where there is much gun running; in fact, where we found our guns and ammunition. I understand that there are great secret stores of explosives hidden there."

"Any seaport near?" asked the Colonel.

"Perhaps seventy miles north is the very town we stopped at a few weeks ago."

The Colonel seized Kathlyn in his arms. She played at gayety for his sake, but her heart was heavy with foreboding.

"And the filigree basket shall be divided between you and Pundita, Kit."

"Give it all to her father. I have begun to hate what men call precious stones."

"It shall be as you say; but we may all take a handful as a keepsake."

Two days later the expedition was ready to start. They intended to pick up Ahmed on the way. There was nothing but the bungalow itself at the camp.

Umballah was thereupon secretly taken from the treadmill. He was given a camel and told what to do. He flung a curse at the minarets and towers and domes looming mistily in the moonlight. "Ransom!" he would destroy them with his hands, skulking about the camp at night, dropping behind in the morning, not above picking up bits of food left by the treasure seekers. Money and revenge; these would have kept him to the chase had he been dying.

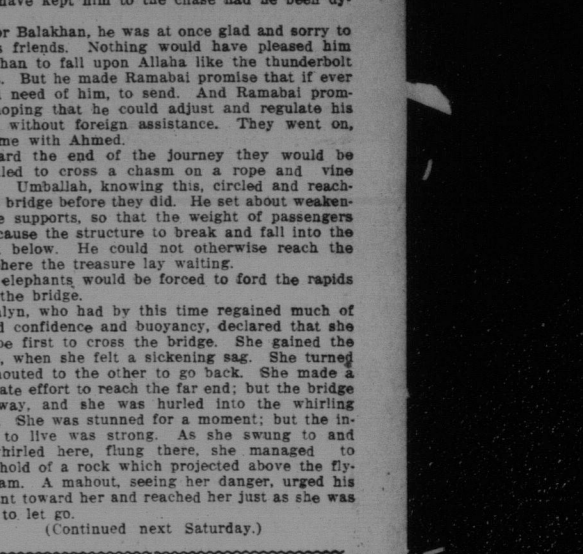

As for Balakhan, he was at once glad and sorry to see his friends. Nothing would have pleased him more than to fall upon Allah like the thunderbolt he was. But he made Ramabal promise that if ever he had need of him, to send for him, and Ramabal promised, hoping that he could adjust and regulate his affairs without foreign assistance. They went on, this time with Ahmed.

Toward the end of the journey they would be compelled to cross a chasm on a rope and vine bridge. Umballah, knowing this, circled and reached this bridge before they did. He set about weakening the supports, so that the weight of passengers could cause the structure to break and fall into the torrent below. He could not otherwise reach the spot where the treasure lay waiting.

The elephants would be forced to ford the rapids below the bridge.

Kathlyn, who had by this time regained much of her old confidence and buoyancy, declared that she must be first to cross the bridge. She gained the middle, when she felt a sickening sag. She turned and shouted to the other to go back. She made a desperate effort to reach the far end; but the bridge gave way, and she was hurled into the whirling rapids. She was stunned for a moment, but the instant to live was strong. As she swung to and fro, whirled here, flung there, she managed to catch hold of a rock which projected above the flying foam. A mabout, seeing her danger, urged his elephant toward her and reached her just as she was about to let go.

What is it? What do you wish to confess? cried Ramabal.

able city on behalf of Ramabal.

The frail woman who loved Umballah raised her hands in supplication.

She shook her head. Umballah should end his days in the treadmill; he should grind the people's corn. Nothing should stir her from this determination.

"I am not a murderer, now filled with another kind of remorse. You shall return to the zennas for the present."

"Then I am not to die, majesty?"

"No."

"And Balakhan?" inquired the priest.

"He shall stand prepared; that is all."

The people, crowding in the temple and in the square before it, salaamed deeply as Kathlyn left and

The keepers enjoyed this rallery. Umballah was going to afford them much amusement. They forced him to the wrist bar, snapped the irons on his wrist, and shouted to the men to tread. Ah, well they knew the game! They trotted with gusto, forcing Umballah to keep pace with them, a frightful ordeal for a beginner. Presently he slipped and fell, and hung by his wrists while his legs and thighs bumped cruelly. The lash fell upon his shoulders, and he shrieked and grew grim. He had fainted.

Among the late king's papers they found an envelope addressed to Kathlyn. It was in grandiloquent English. Brevity of speech is unknown to the East Indian. Kathlyn read it with frowning eyes. She gave it to her father to read; and it hurt her to note

Library For Women's Institutes

With the desire to receive as much benefit as possible from such organization as the Women's Institute, many branches are following up the idea of adding to their own libraries which the Department of Agriculture gives to each Institute having a paid membership of fifteen and holding at least four meetings a year. These books include: The House, Food and Dietetics, Home Care of the Sick, Study of Child Life, The Complete Housekeeper, and Practical Cooking and Servicing, (Hill). Questions follow each chapter so that a course of study can be taken up.

Books We Should Read.
In an article on "Books and Reading" written by Lord Playfair for an English magazine a few years ago, he opened his subject with the following words: "In olden times, such as those of Greece and Rome, when literature and philosophy flourished with such splendid luxuriance, it was difficult for the people to participate in the treasures of learning which had been produced from their own ranks. These did not arise from kings and princes, but were the actual production of those engaged in industry. The philosophers were the sons of citizens, and generally carried on the trades of their fathers. Thales was an oil merchant, Aristotle a druggist,ocrates a stonemason, Plato a merchant. There were no books then as understood by us, for manuscripts were rare and costly; so lecturers took the place of books; Socrates taught in the market place of Athens, Plato in the groves of Acadamus, and Aristotle walked up and down lecturing to those who followed him in his walks. Thus much of the wisdom of these men became lost to mankind. Of Socrates we have only shreds and patches of his works and sayings. He gave to his students that intellectual and moral strength which have made their writings immortal, but of the works of Socrates we have none left. How indistinctly better we are in our time. The press multiplies books so that there is no chance of a worthy one being lost. We are not limited to the personality and to the generation of an individual author, but we possess him forever. The lecture age is past and the age of libraries for the people is inaugurated. Before we reached our present condition, ages rolled by when the learned were sparated from the people."

Books an Inexhaustible Subject.
This subject of books is an almost inexhaustible one, and one who hardly knows where to begin or where to end. Lanford says in his Essay on the Pleasures of Books: "As companions and acquaintances, books are without rivals; and they are companions and acquaintances to be had at all times and under all circumstances. They are never out when you knock at the door; are never 'not at home' when you call. In the lightest as well as in the deepest moods they may be applied to, and will never be found wanting. In the good sense of the phrase, they are all things to all men, and are faithful allies to all." I could fill several sheets with quotations, but have selected a few from the many. This from Carlyle: "If time is precious, a book that will not improve by repeated readings, deserves to be read at all." Another from Bacon: "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested." This one from Holmes: "The foolishest book is a kind of leaky boat on a sea of wisdom; some of the wisdom will get in anyhow."

How to Choose a Good Book.
Now it seems to me in this age when books are so plentiful and so easily obtained, there is no longer an excuse for any of us to remain ignorant. Still it sometimes puzzles us to know what to read and it is much easier not to know, and not to read. For instance, there is our natural indolence to overcome. We do our work during the day and it required an effort on our part to add to our stores of knowledge, when our day's work is over.

By the increasing demand for books from the free libraries of our towns and cities, we know that there is a desire among the working classes to make this effort. They sometimes wish to be read, as we see in the demands made to tell them what are the best books. We see prizes offered in the newspapers for a list of the best one hundred books suitable to readers in public libraries. The purpose is commendable, but the answer is impossible, because instruction, recreation and all the varieties of the human mind are involved in the answer. It seems to me that if the mind of the individual is healthy, the choice had better be left to the person concerned. Experience in reading soon teaches one how to distinguish the gold from the tinsel.

An ancient Rabbi once said, "The penalty of untruth is untruth," and if we confine our reading to trashy novels and all impossible romances, I fear we would soon degrade our moral standard. So if we would avoid such books our whole inner man will be improved. Emerson has said,—"The good reader that makes the good book, a good head cannot read amiss; in every book he finds passages which seem confidences or asides hidden from all else, and unmetaphorically meant for his ear." And Goldsmith says,—"The first time I read an excellent book, it is to me just as if I had gained a new friend; when I read over a book

I have perused before, it troubles the meeting with an old friend. It would be difficult for one person out of his or her experience to tell others just what books they should read. My advice would be, read any book providing it is a clean book.

Historical Books.
Let us, if you will, take a journey to the land of books and look around, for the people who live there are not only wealthy but hospitable, and will entertain us as long as we like to stay. We will glance first at history, with its story of the nations, their rise and change and fall. By the reading of history we learn how the present born of the past and how nothing that is can be well understood, without some knowledge of that which has been.

Biography.
After history perhaps Biography will attract us next. A writer says: "By reading Biography we preserve the memory of the dead and hold forth examples to the living." We are also reminded that the great business of life is to live that something helpful and noble may live after us.

Books of Science.
Science, which to many is a delightful study, may be glanced at next. We desire to know where light dwells, and where the place of darkness is, and the rays fall, and how the flowers grow, we must go to the books of Science. Samuel Johnson, "He who reads books of science, though without any desire of improvement, will grow more knowing."

Fiction.
Perhaps no other books are read so much at the present time, by a certain class of people, as books of fiction. "Novels are sweets, all people love with healthy appetites love them. Almost all women, a vast number of clever headed men, are notorious novel readers," says Thackeray. However, we must remember we cannot live on sweets. We require val-everybody used to read it, and you would see it on the table as frequently as you did the Bible, and often you would see them side by side. A short time ago an enquiry was made of a Chicago paper, called the "Inter Ocean," who the author of Pilgrim's Progress was, showing that some at least are not familiar with it. To any who have not read it, I would say, read it and give it to the boys and girls to read.

Missionary Literature.
Last, but not least, we should read Missionary Literature. In this age when the world is on fire with missionary zeal, the best and most up-to-date books on missionary needs, facts and arguments are available. Not only should we read missionary literature and become acquainted with the workings of this great movement, but we should join the rank and file of those who are engaged in this great work for God, and not only get a blessing for ourselves, but make the world a little better for our having lived in it.

ety in our reading as in our food. There are novels and novels. Some have an uplifting character and others just the reverse. Some one has said that the difference is not greater between fiction and fiction. This is the point where we need the healthy mind to choose between the gold and the dross.

Books of travel are also a great joy to some, for while we may not all be able to travel, a good book enables us to compass the world, while we remain at home.

Poetry.
We must not overlook books of poetry. It may be possible that poetry is not read as it once was. Poets there are in plenty, and poetry too, but is there an equal love for it as in the years gone by. Who reads Milton and Chaucer, Dryden, Spenser, Scott, Burns, or any of the British poets as they were once read?

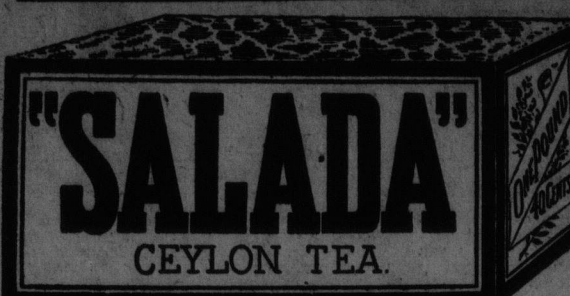

We seldom hear of Grey mentioned, and yet it was General Wolfe who said, after reading "Grey's Elegy" to his men, "Now gentlemen, I would rather be the author of that poem than take Quebec." Bulwer Lytton, in his Eugene Aram, says,—"I do love poetry, especially the sacred. For there is summum in it which smooths a man's heart like a clothes brush, wipes away the dust and dirt, and sets all the nap right."

The Book of Books.
Whatever books we read or leave unread, let us not forget to read the "Book of Books," the "Bible." Sir Walter Scott, when dying, asked his attendant to bring the Book. The attendant asked, "What book, my lord?" His answer was, "There is only one book the Bible." This is what Watson says of it: "The Bible is a rock of diamonds, a chain of pearls, the sword of the spirit; a chart by which he daily walks; the sundial by which he sets his life; the balance on which he weighs his actions."

If we want to read history, we can find it in the Bible, or if we have a love for poetry, where can we find poetry to equal that in the five poetical books of the Bible. Some have gone so far as to say we have all the love for poetry, where can we find poetry to equal that in the five poetical books of the Bible. Some have gone so far as to say we have all the love for poetry, where can we find poetry to equal that in the five poetical books of the Bible.

The Value
By Wilber J. Frazer, Chief Husbandry, University of Illinois
A few cows may do little harm to the dairy herd but a few will do untold damage. Free dairymen, hold the penny so the eye it is impossible to see a dollar a little farther off, and just what a man is doing with good dairy herd of grade cows only one and one-half pounds at a milking, above the profit of their dams, this would mean a loss of $100.00 per month or $1,200.00 per year. The cow should give milk. The cow should also be a much more profitable milker than the one that gives only a few pounds of milk per day. It is not only the quantity of milk that counts, but the quality. The milk should be rich in cream and should contain a high percentage of solids. The cow should be healthy and should be able to stand the heat of summer and the cold of winter. The cow should be able to produce milk for a long period of time. The cow should be able to produce milk for a long period of time. The cow should be able to produce milk for a long period of time.

Improvement second year ..... 7.50
Improvement third year ..... 7.40
Improvement fourth year ..... 7.10
Improvement fifth year ..... 6.75
Improvement sixth year ..... 6.45

Improvement for six years $43.85

The total increased income of a cow over her dam by having a good sire is therefore $43.85.

In an ordinary dairy herd of thirty-five to forty cows an average of five to seven calves should be obtained, and twelve of these should be worth raising, making it easily possible for a bull to raise twelve calves worth $43.85, or $526 per year. This would amount to 1,578 in the three years that a bull is ordinarily kept in service.

Cost of providing every heifer one good parent:

Cost of sire ..... $150.00 $ 30.00
Interest, 3 yrs. 5 p.c. .... 25.50 4.50
Cost of keeping, 3 years ..... 100.00 100.00
Risk, 3 years ..... 50.00 10.00

Total expense, 3 yrs. $322.50 $144.50
Value at end of 3 years ..... 100.00 30.00
$222.50 $114.50

Considering the many calves as worth no more than if sired by a scrub, it would then cost $36 to provide one good pure-bred parent for twelve better calves which are raised each year, or $3 per heifer. Where else can such an investment be found? Three dollars expended brings in an investment in any dairy herd.

Trade in Second-Hand Cows

The second-hand cow has for some years been in rather bad repute in dairy circles. Just who is responsible for the large amount of bovine junk in the cow market is a question not yet fully solved, but the finger of accusation seems to point in the direction of the professional cow dealer.

who by well-studied methods raise high-class stock from their own herds the cow dealers is primarily a middleman, and he has to make his profit from buying animals at a low price and selling them at a higher price. The legitimate dairy business is so well organized that breeders' associations and cattle clubs enable their members to dispose of the best surplus animals without the help of a middleman. Such stock also usually has the association's guarantee.

Naturally the cow dealer gets only the stock that does not readily change hands among the best breeders. These are the poorer cows. They may have pedigrees, but they are the "black sheep" of the better herds. Perhaps they have tuberculosis, or their milk records are low, or some other defect has led the owner to sell them to the cow dealer. But a skillful salesman can find a market for them.

One cow dealer in Illinois sells 10,000 milk cows a year. "There is good money in this business," says this cow dealer. "For instance, I recently bought eight cows for $1,500. They were well-bred, but at that time they were not in any condition to sell. I brought them to my farm, gave them the care which they were entitled to, and after some weeks of this treatment, I sold them for $2,500. Now, while this is not all clear profit, as the care of these animals amounted to considerable, yet it shows what can be done when a man goes about it right."

All of which goes to show that some dairymen paid the cow buyers nearly $100 a head for the few weeks' work of putting the animals in "condition."

You'll Find Exceptions—But They're Few.

The cow buyer has his agents in the principal dairy States of the country to buy second-hand cattle, laws regarding the sale of dairy cattle and the movement of tubercular cattle in interstate trade are distributed to the cow dealer. George P. Paul, an Illinois correspondent, in discussing his visit to a cow dealer's farm near Elgin, Illinois, says of the dealer: "He is not the least bit enthusiastic about the tubercular test. In fact, he declares that it is opposed to it, as he believes the test works an injury to the cows."

Of course such talk on the part of a dealer is silly. He naturally is opposed to it, as he believes the test works an injury to the cows. A recent number of the "Kansas Farmer" cites the slaughter of 100 cows in one Kansas community because of tuberculosis, and explains that "most of such an-

THE VALUE OF A PURE-BRED SIRE

By Wilber J. Fraser, Chief of Dairy Husbandry, University of Illinois.

A few cows may do little permanent harm to the dairy herd but a poor sire will do untold damage. Frequently dairymen hold the penny so close to the eye it is impossible to see the dollar a little farther off, and this is just what a man is doing who has a good dairy herd of grade cows and thinks he is economizing by buying a poor or even common sire.

If the good pure-bred sire improves the milking capacity of his daughters, only one or two extra pounds of milk at a milking, above the production of their dams, this would mean an increase of 200 pounds of milk for the ten months or 200 days an ordinary cow should give milk. The daughter would also be a much more persistent milker, that is, would give milk for a longer time in the year, and she would regain her flow of milk and produce an unavoidable shortage of feed, as in a summer drought. These daughters may certainly be credited with 1,000 pounds more milk per year than their dams produced. At the low estimate of $1 per 100 pounds this extra amount of milk would be worth $10 per year. The average cow is a good producer for at least six years, or until she is eight years old. It will on the average be four years after purchasing the sire before his first daughters will have brought in the first extra $10. Eight dollars and twenty-three cents kept at compound interest for the three years at 5 per cent will equal $10, so the daughter's improvement or increase of income the first year is worth $8.25 at the time her sire is purchased. The cash value of the daughter's improvement (inherited from the sire) figured in the same way for each of the last six years she gives milk is shown in the following table:

Improvement first year ..... $8.25
Improvement second year ..... 7.50
Improvement third year ..... 7.40
Improvement fourth year ..... 7.10
Improvement fifth year ..... 6.75
Improvement sixth year ..... 6.45

Improvement for six years $43.85

The total increased income of a cow over her dam by having a good sire is therefore $43.85.

In an ordinary dairy herd of thirty-five to forty cows an average of five to seven calves should be obtained, and twelve of these should be worth raising, making it easily possible for a bull to raise twelve calves worth $43.85, or $526 per year. This would amount to 1,578 in the three years that a bull is ordinarily kept in service.

Cost of providing every heifer one good parent:

Cost of sire ..... $150.00 $ 30.00
Interest, 3 yrs. 5 p.c. .... 25.50 4.50
Cost of keeping, 3 years ..... 100.00 100.00
Risk, 3 years ..... 50.00 10.00

Total expense, 3 yrs. $322.50 $144.50
Value at end of 3 years ..... 100.00 30.00
$222.50 $114.50

Considering the many calves as worth no more than if sired by a scrub, it would then cost $36 to provide one good pure-bred parent for twelve better calves which are raised each year, or $3 per heifer. Where else can such an investment be found? Three dollars expended brings in an investment in any dairy herd.

THE DAILY HINT FROM PARIS

The best way of all to secure dairy cows is to raise them yourself. If foundation stock is needed get it in a straight channel from the man who raised it.

To be sure, there are some exceptions which we are glad to mention. Some creamery companies have bought dairy cows for distribution among their patrons. Most of these cows were good milkers, and were sold at reasonable prices. And occasionally you will find a cow dealer of integrity who observes the highest ethics of the dairy business in all his transactions. Such a man guarantees the stock he sells, and tells you as nearly as he is able just what you may expect from any animal he has for sale. But in most cases as much time and patience are needed to find such men as it would to find the farm where reliable stock may be bought.

Look For a High Market

By L. K. Brown

With the coming of midsummer there has been an improvement in market conditions. In the past there is usually a rise from the June prices, which has its top late in July or during August, then the early shipments of spring pigs begin to appear and this increase starts the autumn decline.

Packers are desirous of cleaning up their old stock of provisions before the new packing season begins, so that they are willing to give a firm support to the hog market for its effect on provisions. Current conditions favor them. Receipts are small, so that only a moderate amount of investment is required to operate on a strong market, and a strong undertone has developed in the provision market.

As long as the receipts remain light and the packers have a large stock of meat, a good market can be expected. The current price of live hogs and provision prices have given the packers a good market, and there will be no such rush as last year, as cattle feeders have had a lean year. There is a demand for calves of good quality, and this class capable of producing baby beef will sell high. There is a better feeling in the country, and farmers and business men are beginning to feel that even with a Democratic administration the country is not yet going to the bows.

SHEEP AND LAMBS SCARCE

By J. P. Ross

The leading feature of the market just now is the scarcity of both sheep and lambs. Though the demand is only moderate, yet this shortage of the supply keeps prices from any downward tendency. Prime wethers have been selling up to $6.50; the best finished ewes from $5.25 to $6. Light-weight ewes are in good demand at from $5 to $5.50, the heavy around $4.50. There are more ewes offering than seem desirable, considering the demand for a steady increase in our breeding flocks.

As to lambs, the shorn ones come in slowly, prices ranging from $7.25 to $8.50. The crop of spring lambs is smaller than usual this year, though prices are tempting, an extra size lot now and then reaching $10, while the bulk of the desirable ones go from $8.25 to $9.75.

Most of the wool crop has passed out of the growers' hands, generally the removal of the tariff, so the setting of them in the immediate future will rest between dealers and manufacturers.

THE VIEW OF AN OUTSIDER REGARDING P. E. ISLAND

A Former Resident of the Island tells of his Impressions on a Recent Trip Back Home after a Prolonged Absence—The Fox Business Reviewed.

The following was taken from the Eastern Farm and Home: Well, the people of Prince Edward Island are certainly enthusiastic in regard to the silver black fox industry. I had the privilege of spending several days on the island garden recently and I am frank to say it was time well spent—well spent from various standpoints. On the mainland, in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, many people are interested in silver black foxes. Some to a moderate extent and some to a greater extent. In Prince Edward Island the interest is intense. Everyone talks about foxes and the mere mention of the fact that one is really and truly interested in the great industry is an open passport to consideration and attention.

What a change the fox business has wrought in the island. Years ago, when I was a boy—please do not ask me how many years ago—Prince Edward Island was the land of potatoes, oats and horses. Now it is the land of black foxes. The fox industry has been called the Garden of the Gulf and it is certainly well named. At the time of the writer's visit, about a fortnight ago, the crops of hay and grain certainly looked splendid, certainly much better than the crops on the mainland, where in general the yield will be far below the average. As a rule the railway seems to go through the worst part of the country, through barren wildernesses and rocky deserts. It is quite different on the island. The builders of the P. E. I. Railway may have looked for the barren places and perhaps that accounts for the crookedness of those island rails, but evidently they had given up the search for poor land for the reason that there is no poor land on the island. I may be stretching the truth here but I can sincerely say that though I have travelled quite extensively on Prince Edward Island yet I have still to find a spot that is anything suggestive of poor land. And those who have some of them, at least, are located right in the beauty spots of the beautiful garden. No wonder the island people are proud of the island.

They have reason to be. But then while the island seems to have few if any faults I have frank to say that the island people have enough to make up a fairly respectable average. Now please do not put on a pained expression because I really am not going to say anything very bad about the people and before I am done I may say several very complimentary things, enough to offset the criticisms anyway. First I will say a good word. The island people are very hospitable and kind—especially the hotel people. It is their business of course and they make you pay for it well but nevertheless they are hospitable to a marked degree. As a rule the island people are chatty and are ready to talk to you and give you whatever information you want. They do not stand on their dignity but are ready to meet you more than half way on the platform of sociability.

But then the island people are not yet educated to the automobile and in this they are laboring under a very serious handicap. Thousands upon thousands of dollars that now go elsewhere would be spent on the islands where motor cars allowed to run at will. Gradually, of course, the people are coming to the auto idea. They will have to that is all, but at the present time a man with a car either in Summerside or Charlottetown is about as happy as a boy with a new pair of pants who is forbidden to put them on. True, autos may run on certain days in both the towns named but then it is barely possible that a man might want to go somewhere on one of the forbidden days and then he would be up against it, so to speak. When a man is confronted with a prohibition he straightway wants to do the forbidden thing and I would bet money that the man who owns a car in P. E. I. wants to go out the worst sort of way on the forbidden days. Summerside has been described as a one Automobile town but Charlottetown seems to have a lot of them, probably forty or fifty. The day will come soon—it can't come too soon—when the prohibition against cars will be removed. Then there will be something doing on the island. Then there will be a call for better roads. Summer tourists will come in greater numbers. Motor car repair shops will spring up. More gasoline will be sold and so on. It would be a rich treat to motor from one end of the island to the other. I wonder when it will be allowed?

Both Summerside and Charlottetown are very prettily situated. Both are on the shore; both have plenty of trees and parks; both have comfortable homes and pleasing residences. In Charlottetown, on some streets at least they have not pulled down their high board fences. Frequently one sees a high board fence separating one neighbor from another. Then very often fences mar the landscape in front of the houses. If these fences were torn away and a bon fire made of them the town would certainly be greatly improved.

But to return to the fox industry. One may talk about different things on the island but sooner or later one returns to the discussion of foxes—all kinds, black, patch, cross, pedigree, western, Alaska, Ontario and in the language of the auction poster, others too numerous to mention. Dividends, of course, come in for a large share of attention. A man may be sceptical about the fox business, but when he meets a man who in a few years has made say fifty thousand dollars with a capital of a few hundred to start with, well it begins to get in ones blood and no mistake. You may call it speculation, you may call it a gamble, but nevertheless, one is drawn to the fox business pretty strongly and the fact that few if any have lost any money in the industry, makes one feel that there is a lot more than a gamble in the fox industry. Wisconsin may scoff at the foxes but the same man will probably advise you to take stock in a solid industry, full of water, which lasts for a few years and goes to financial ruin. In many instances the only possible profit that is open to you are dividends of say seven per cent. In the fox business you have a chance to make big dividends and make them quick.

One thing is impressing itself upon the fox men of the island, viz., the necessity of interesting outside capital in the fox and fur farming industry. A large part of the available silver black foxes; if the industry is to grow and develop more money must come from the outside. With this idea in mind efforts are being made to get in touch with the people of the United States and other countries. It is most gratifying to know

SUGGESTIONS FOR RANCHERS
 A few pertinent suggestions for the Maintenance of Fox Industry.

M. I. Bolger of Charlottetown has some good suggestions for the betterment of the fox industry and in a letter to the Charlottetown Guardian recently he outlined his ideas. Among other things he suggested that if the following were enacted in a law they would go a long way towards bringing about the desired effect:

1st.—As to Ranches: In addition to present regulations have every ranchman make a return under oath giving number, color and age of every fox in ranch. What litters were born and what kind of pups in litter. List of foxes bought and sold and who the seller or buyer was. If foxes were lost and how. If disease appears notify a government veterinary who will immediately investigate.

that these attempts have been crowned with success. Every day sees more capital rolling towards the island province; every day sees an increase in the number of converts to the great industry. Hardly a day passes but some man, hitherto skeptical, joins the band of fox enthusiasts and invests his capital in some ranch. To the islander the future looks bright with promise. His island home is the centre of the great industry, which he is confident will prove to be a permanent business.

Well, may his fondest hopes be realized. Here's to the fur farming business, the most fascinating, the most wonderful, the most lucrative in the world.

2nd.—As to promoters: Have every company file a statement under oath showing number and kind of foxes bought and from whom bought. License every man who wishes to sell stock in fox companies on the island.

3rd.—As to all others who buy, sell or trade in foxes or shares of stock. Compel the issuance of a license and the return under oath of a description of all foxes handled with name of seller and buyer.

4th.—As to health and valuation. Employ a competent veterinary and an expert fur man.

Silver Black and Patched Foxes supplied for companies and private ranches at reasonable prices. For sure and prolific breeders and high quality of fur it is doubtful if Ontario foxes have any superiors and few equals.
