

BRITAIN TALKS STRAIGHT TO SULTAN; "NO COMPROMISE," TIME RUNNING SHORT

Turkish Foreign Minister Has "Proposals," But Is Told That There Must Be Nothing Less Than Absolute Compliance With British Demands.

Constantinople, May 11.—Tewfik Pasha, the foreign minister, called at the British embassy yesterday and made proposals in regard to the Tabah question which Ambassador O'Connor unhesitatingly rejected. The pasha was informed that any compromise suggestions were quite inadmissible and that nothing less than absolute compliance with the British demands would prevent drastic action. The ambassador also warned the minister that time was running short and counseled him to be under no misapprehension in regard to the determination of Great Britain to enforce the Turkish evacuation of Egyptian territory on the Sinai Peninsula and a joint delimitation of the frontier.

Tewfik Pasha returned to the palace and an immediate meeting of the council of ministers was summoned.

Cairo, Egypt, May 11.—The belief is strengthening in official circles here that a satisfactory settlement will be reached in the Tabah boundary dispute between Egypt and Turkey.

His Sickness Still Stubborn.

London, May 11.—The Times correspondent cables from Constantinople as follows: In spite of the support afforded Great Britain by the French and other embassies at Constantinople, in spite of the movements of the British fleet, in spite of the fact that the Sultan shows no sign of yielding, his advisers cling to the belief that the British Government is not really in earnest, and the coercive measures it is likely to take will be of the kind to which they are accustomed and would be able to contemplate without repugnance. This is a very dangerous illusion for them to harbor, for it is now practically certain that if Tabah is not evacuated before Monday the action taken by Great Britain will be so decided and energetic that the Turks will bitterly regret their obstinacy.

MRS. JEFF DAVIS ILL.

Wife of the Confederate President Is Eighty and May Succumb.

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Southern Confederacy, is dangerously ill of the grippe in the Hotel Gerard here. As she is nearly 80 years old, it is feared that the attack may be fatal. Mrs. Davis has been living at the Gerard for several years.

EVERYTHING SAFE

$17,000,000 In "Frisco Bonds Found Intact in Vaults.

San Francisco, May 11.—The main vault of the city auditor's office has been opened and everything contained therein was found to be intact.

This vault contained all of the valuable papers and books of the auditor's office, including the bonds issued for $17,000,000 for specific permanent improvements, such as school buildings, the acquisition of parks, etc. Besides these, all of the official bonds of the present city officials, books, vouchers, and financial accounts, with the city tax collector, treasurer and state controller and treasurer, were found intact.

SEIZURE OF YANKEE SMACKS CAUSES UNCLE SAM TO WORRY

Will Take the Matter Before Durand Immediately Upon Return.

Washington, May 11.—The seizure by Canadian cruisers of the fishing smacks Rayman, of Boston, and Parthia, of Gloucester, adds another to the many vexatious cases of this kind regarding which the State Department is now preparing to negotiate directly with the British Government through Ambassador Durand upon his return to this country from England. It is pointed out, however, that from the press reports these new cases appear to differ essentially from those of the Gloucester boats seized a month ago off the Newfoundland coast and brought into St. John's.

Zulus Sacrifice Children to Balk British Bullets

Durban, Natal, May 11.—Thousands of Zulus from Chief Kula's kraal are reported to be on their way to join the rebel chief, Bambata, and colonial troops are being hurried forward to prevent their junction. Chief Kula, who is suspected of disaffection, and was recently arrested, was placed in jail at Pietermaritzburg today. Natives captured by the colonial forces report that witch doctors are sacrificing children in order to render the rebels immune from British bullets. Before a battle they kill a girl and concoct "medicine" from her body, with which they anoint the warriors.

UPROAR IN ROME; MEMBERS RESIGN

The Entire Socialist Section of Chamber of Deputies Leaves House.

Rome, May 11.—All the Socialist members of the Chamber of Deputies have resigned as a result of the refusal of the chamber to discuss the bill presented by their party, providing for the regulation of the use of arms on the part of the police and troops, and has issued an address to the country. During the day a largely-attended meeting of strikers was held in the Colosseum. Socialist deputies delivered inflammatory speeches and a resolution protesting against the use of arms against the people was adopted.

Later collisions between the strikers and the police and troops took place and several hours elapsed before the demonstrators were finally dispersed.

IT WAS NO JOKE

Massachusetts Legislators Summoned Before a Special Grand Jury.

Boston, May 11.—One hundred members of the Legislature appeared at the office of District Attorney Moran at the Suffolk County courthouse today, in response to subpoenas issued in connection with alleged bribery, which was a feature of the defeat of the anti-bucket shop bill. Only 25 senators and representatives were designated for examination today before the grand jury. There was a marked change today in the attitude of the legislators with regard to Mr. Moran's proposed wholesale examination. On Wednesday and Thursday the affair seemed to be generally considered as something of a joke, but today some of the men upon whom subpoenas had been served strongly condemned the investigation as an outrage.

NOT ONE FAILED

London Boys Did Well at School of Practical Science Exams.

The results of the annual examinations at the School of Practical Science, Toronto, just published, show that every London student who wrote was successful.

F. W. Slater secured his degree of bachelor of applied science, and thus completed his course.

In the department of civil engineering, H. Thornley and E. M. Dann obtained first-year honors. In the second year, J. A. Stiles obtained honors, and J. C. M. Moore passed.

In the mechanical and electrical engineering department, P. C. Boves and N. A. Campbell obtained honors in the first year; Alex. C. Spencer and H. D. Bowman honors in the second year, and H. H. Betts and C. W. Hookway honors in the second year.

The London boys certainly did themselves credit.

BAPTISTS ROBBED OF A HUGE SUM

$12,000 in Bonds Taken from Suitcase of Free Church Treasurer.

Lynn, Mass., May 11.—A suitcase containing $12,000 worth of bonds, stocks and other securities many of which are said to be negotiable, was stolen last night from the High Street Free Baptist Church, where the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist Churches have been holding their annual convention. The suitcase belonged to Rev. W. L. T. T. Lawrence, the treasurer of the organization, and the securities are the property of the association. Rev. Mr. T. T. Lawrence left the case in an ante-room while he went to supper. When he returned the suitcase had disappeared, and a raincoat belonging to Mr. T. T. Lawrence, and containing about $20 in cash, was also missing. The police were notified at once, but up to midnight the thief had not been apprehended.

PISTOLS AT 25 PACES

French Editor and Count Fight a Duel in Paris.

Paris, May 11.—Lucien Millevoye, editor of the Patrie, and Nationalist member of the Chamber of Deputies, fought a duel with pistols today with Count Mathieu de Noailles, as a result of the street encounter between them on May 9, when M. Millevoye broke his cane over the count's head. Beyond the facts that pistols were used and that two shots were exchanged at 25 paces, no details of the duel were obtainable, as his dispatch was filed.

THE CANADA NORTHERN

Applies for Approval of New Line Ottawa to Montreal.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, May 11.—The Minister of Railway and deputy minister heard this forenoon an application to the Canadian Northern Railway Company for approval of their plans for Georgian Bay to Ottawa and Montreal, and from Toronto to Ottawa.

Mr. G. Ruel, accompanied by W. K. Wicksteed, chief of the application, appeared in behalf of the application. Mr. C. R. Drinkwater appeared for the C. P. R., Mr. F. A. Magee for the Grenville, Carleton and Central Railway, and Mayor Ellis and the city solicitor and city engineer for the city of Ottawa.

Part of the line between here and Montreal was approved, and the remainder stands over for further consideration.

GOOD WORK

What Chicago Did to Aid San Francisco Refugees.

Chicago, May 11.—The railroads ceased granting free transportation to San Francisco refugees yesterday, the privilege expiring by limitation last night. All refugees hereafter will be dealt with individually by the Chicago Relief and Aid Society. Since the earthquake disaster in California, the Chicago Commercial Association has cared for 2,151 persons from San Francisco. A majority of these have been provided with clothing, meals and transportation to other points.

The giving of free meals at the railway stations also ended last night.

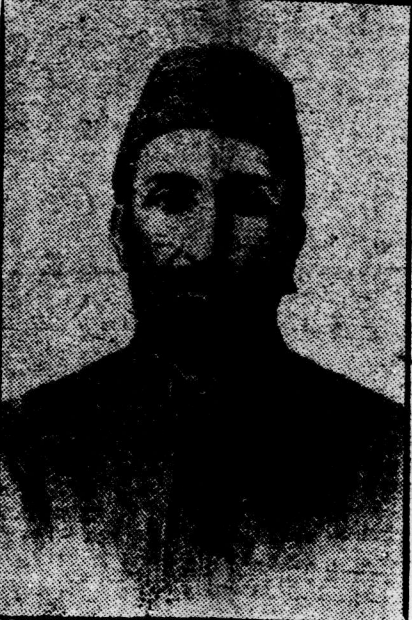

Here's Another Seizure

Windsor, May 11.—Inspector Chauvin found enough black bass and pickerel in one box among several of a shipment destined to Detroit yesterday to warrant him in seizing the entire lot. The fish have been turned over to the Home of the Friendless.

No Trace of Chababran.

Kingston, May 11.—Chababran, the escaped murderer, has not yet been traced. It is stated that Inspector Stewart, as a result of his investigation, will recommend an increase in the number of guards and keepers. There has been a great reduction in recent years. In the insane ward one man was doing the work that three had performed previously.

Will He Give In?

THE SULTAN OF TURKEY.

Has once more been sharply notified by Britain that drastic measures will follow refusal to evacuate Tabah.

HE WILL AND HE WON'T

Bryan Makes a Statement in Regard to Democratic Nominee.

Chicago, May 11.—A dispatch to the Tribune from St. Louis says: M. C. Wetmore, of this city, a personal friend of W. J. Bryan, yesterday received from Mr. Bryan, who is in Egypt, a letter, in which he says:

"I am satisfied that the things I have been fighting for are growing, but who will be most available in 1908 is a question that cannot be answered now. I shall not do anything to secure another nomination, and do not want it, unless circumstances seem to demand it—time alone can determine that."

This is the first authoritative statement of Mr. Bryan's attitude toward the presidential campaign, and his comment on the national situation is the most interesting to the public from the fact that it is the frank utterance of a party leader to a confidential friend.

The Eleventh Legislature Winds Up Its Business

Power Bill and Other Measures Given Final Readings and House Will Prorogue Monday.

Toronto, May 11.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

By holding three arduous sittings yesterday, the business of the second session of the eleventh Legislature of Ontario was concluded at 11:15 last night, and there only remains the formal prorogation on Monday, a function which is attended annually by only a handful of ministers and members. Half a dozen most important measures were given their final readings yesterday, and they, with the other bills already passed, will become law on receiving the lieutenant-governor's assent on Monday.

The power bill was given its final reading without a division.

The Opposition offered amendments to the county councils act, the education act and the university act, but the majority voted in favor of 51 to 14, and the same division was accepted for the others, in order to save time.

The discussion was resumed on Mr. Crawford's motion to reinstate in the city of Toronto bill the clause permitting the city to sell hay and feed at the City Cattle Market. Mr. Crawford declared that the stockholders of the union stockyards were not farmers, drovers and breeders, but merchants and financiers.

Mr. Foy said the opposition to the amendment was inconsistent. If the city was entitled to have its market, it was entitled to do the incidental business connected therewith.

THE PREMIER DENIES IT

No Truth in Report That Hon. Mr. Foy Will Retire.

Toronto, May 11.—Premier Whitney, when his attention was called to it last night, said there was absolutely no truth in the statement that Hon. Mr. Foy, the attorney-general, is to retire. Hon. Mr. Foy himself declared that there was no foundation for the report.

MR. PRESTON'S DENIAL

Says Report Regarding Liberals and Power Bill Is Untrue.

Toronto, May 11.—Mr. Preston, member for Brant, was asked this morning if there was any truth in the published report that at an informal caucus of Liberal members of the Legislature he had been requested to voice their views on the power question. He replied that the paragraph in question was not deserving of serious notice. No one had spoken to him relative to the debate on the power bill, and the gentlemen whose names were mentioned in the article agreed in the statement that their position had been misrepresented, and that there had been no caucus, either formal or informal, with reference to the Beck bill.

MORE INDIANS DEAD

Two Succumb to Florida Water Drench—Others in Terror.

Rosetown, Sask., May 11.—Two more Indians dead and at least six others in a serious condition from the latest development in the Florida water tragedy at the Duck Lake Indian reserve. The wildest excitement prevails. The Indians are terrified, not knowing who will be the next to succumb. Mrs. Angoie testified that she, her husband, and five others drank one bottle of Florida water. Only one of the party is now living. The inquest adjourned till Tuesday next. Inspector Genereux, acting for the Government, will search the Indian shacks and the Duck Lake stores for the fluid.

The Florida water, that caused the deaths is said to be one particular brand. The poison produced blindness after drinking, which ensued until death. Those recovering have blind spots.

GRAND TRUNK'S PROPOSAL IS NOT $300,000 OR NOTHING

Manager McGuigan Corrects Erroneous Impression—Says Company Must Have Help from City.

Manager McGuigan and Superintendent Brownlee of the Grand Trunk Railway are in the city today, and for over two hours were closeted in the officials' car with Mayor Judd and City Solicitor Meredith.

Previous to the meeting, The Advertiser had a short interview with Mr. McGuigan. He was in his usual affable mood, and he did not appear to regard the differences between the city and the company as insurmountable.

"I prefer that any statement regarding the negotiations shall come from the city's representatives," Mr. McGuigan said to the reporter, when pressed for a statement as to where the city and the company stand. "If we should fail to come to an understanding, however, I will make a statement to the people of London through the newspapers."

The reporter then began to ask questions, and he succeeded in getting Mr. McGuigan to answer several of them. "The people of London have the idea," the reporter told him, "that the Grand Trunk's proposition is $300,000 or nothing if the improvements are to be made."

"That is erroneous," Mr. McGuigan replied. "But we do admit frankly that if the work is to be proceeded with we must have help from the city. Otherwise we cannot go on."

"Some people also allege that as the negotiations have dragged on so long, the Grand Trunk does not want to go on with the work this year."

"That is quite wrong. We are anxious to proceed with the work at the very earliest moment."

Reverting to the proposal that the city should help the company, Mr. McGuigan said that the Grand Trunk is the biggest industry in London, and he thinks it should receive some consideration from the city.

He left the impression that the company is willing to negotiate still further, and is willing to give and take, but that when once a thing is agreed

A PLAIN TALK WITH THE CZAR

President of the New Parliament Off to Peterhoff for an Interview.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—Prof. Mourmoutseff went to Peterhoff this afternoon to notify the Emperor of his election to the presidency of the Lower House of Parliament. It is known that he expects to speak plainly to his majesty on the views of the country, and the constitutional democrats hope that much good will result from the audience.

Besides demanding amnesty, Prof. Mourmoutseff will present in behalf of the constitutional democrats a majority suggestion that the Council of the Empire be made a purely consultative body, with no right to stand between the representatives of the people and the sovereign.

The deliverance of the political prisoners and those who have suffered for freedom's cause is now a passion with the masses, and it is difficult to see how the Government will be able to resist.

The central committee of the Constitutional Democrats is working out a reply to the speech from the throne. The principal points will be amnesty and equality of political and civil rights. An attempt will be made to come to an agreement with the peasants, who are drawing up an independent reply. Their chief demands are amnesty, the reorganization of the labor laws, the reorganization of the army, the disbanding of the Cossacks, the separation of church and state, a general extension of the schools, and equal rights for all nationalities.

Pittsburg, May 11.—Sutcliffe, a mining town on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, two miles east of Hillsburg, is threatened with destruction by fire, and help has been requested from this city. Connellsville, McKeesport and Braddock. A number of buildings in the town have been destroyed and the fire is beyond the control of the local department.

STIFF EXAM FOR TRAINMEN

IS STILL IN PROGRESS HERE

G. T. R. Men Making Satisfactory Headway, However, Under Examiner Hall.

The somewhat antiquated-looking coach, which stands just east of the old bank house and close to the Waterloo street crossing of the Grand Trunk, has been the scene of some pretty hard work on the part of the railway trainmen during the past three weeks or a month, for the examination of the conductors, engineers, firemen, brakemen and baggage-men who "run" out of London has been in progress under the direction of Mr. Wm. Hall, conductor of Samia Tunnel.

Some might wonder at the examinations extending over such a long period, especially when it is remembered that several hundred boys and girls can write the high school entrance, with its numerous papers, in three or four days at the outside, and that there are less than a hundred men engaged in the train service of the Grand Trunk with headquarters in London. But there is a vast difference between the two.

The trainmen are compelled to pass not only a written examination, but they are given a stiff oral examination on the standard rules, which contain no less than 225 questions and answers. And this after attending a series of lectures by the examiner.

Carried Off Terrier.

Windsor, May 11.—A man, who gave his name as Welch, went into English's cigar store, and while the clerks were picking up the proprietor's dog Manchester terrier, which is a perfect specimen of its breed, and one of the most valuable dogs in the city, and started for the door. Ferry Customs Officer Wilker recognized the animal as having been stolen from the town, and called the police. Welch was taken off the boat and arraigned before Magistrate Bartlett, who fined him $12.

Office May Be Abolished

Interesting Rumor in Connection With G. T. R. Vacancy.

A successor to Mr. Fred H. Price, master of transportation for the multiple division of the Grand Trunk, has not yet been named.

It is rumored that no one will be appointed to the position, and that the work of the office will be taken over by Mr. U. E. Gillen, assistant superintendent.

Mr. Price is leaving today for Montreal, where he will assume the duties of his new office.

Then, again, it is impossible for the trainmen to attend the lectures and examinations daily until they are "passed," unless they secure substitutes for their turns, which cannot always be arranged. Thus the exams extend over a considerable period at each divisional point.

Of the men employed in the five branches of the train service, the conductors and engineers have by far the hardest examination. They are chief in the matter of responsibility in the handling of trains, and the company requires them to have at their fingers' ends the entire rule book, from A to Z. Every one of the 225 regulations has to be memorized, and the conductors and engineers have to satisfy the examiner that no matter what contingency might arise during a trip they will know exactly what course to follow. The firemen, brakemen and baggage-men escape more easily, for they are compelled to pass the examination only on 125 of the questions.

The examinations, which are now being held on all parts of the vast system, were not rendered necessary by any change in the rules. The Standard code, which was put in force shortly after the change of management, is still applied, and it is only with a view to still further perfecting the service that the trainmen are once more compelled to write the rules.

The superintendent—or whoever it may be—made no mistake in the choice

THE ELEVENTH LEGISLATURE

out the provision for the appointment of a superintendent of education. The motion met the same fate.

Labrosse Complains.

Mr. Labrosse (Prescott) protested against certain statements published in the Orange Sentinel, which he characterized as untruthful and malicious. It was absolutely false that 80 per cent of his French-Canadian compatriots were unable to read and write. He pointed out that their children took high standing in competitive examinations. He asked what steps were being taken by the Government to promote the interests of the separate schools of the Province.

Premier Whitney, in reply, declared it was impossible for the Minister of Education to answer such questions at such a time. What did the member mean by waiting three months and then bringing up the matter in the dying hours of the session? The member was out of order, and though he might not be trying to create ill-feeling, he was taking a certain way to do so. The Minister of Education had nothing to do with matters between the member for Prescott and the Orange Sentinel.

Mr. Ross said that Mr. Labrosse had waited three months, and seeing nothing done, had naturally called attention to the matter.

The University Act.

On the third reading of the university act, a series of amendments were offered by the Opposition, and negatived on the division already recorded.

Mr. Harcourt moved that any expenditures which would impair the permanent endowment of the university should first be approved by the Legislature.

Mr. Graham moved that the veto power in appointments should remain with the lieutenant-governor in council. He urged that this connecting-link with the management of the university be retained.

Mr. MacKay objected to the fixed revenue based on a percentage of the succession duties for an average of three years. The Government should have taken some less variable basis than the succession duties. The Legislature should pass in review year by year the estimates of the university, just as they did those of the institutions. The intention of the clause was good, but its passing would be a very bad thing for the university.

Hon. Mr. Ross took objection to the sections giving the board of governors power to alter or modify the constitution of any of the university bodies except cept the senate. He moved that the clauses be struck out.

The bill received its final reading.

Hon. Mr. Foy introduced a bill to confirm certain orders in council passed last August, by which the Gilles limit, Carr Lake and Cobalt Lake were withdrawn from prospecting. The mineral rights of these three rich areas are by the bill invested in the commission to be appointed.

Heavy Expenditure.

At the opening of the evening session Mr. Ross sounded a warning note. The expenditures, he pointed out, would be $1,417,317 in excess of those for his last year in office. He favored enterprise and generosity, but he could not approve of the increases arising from making wholesale appointments. He pointed out the effect on the credit of the Province.

Mr. Matheson said much of the apparent increase was for capital account, and all was justifiable.

The Premier informed Mr. Harcourt that the locations for the new normal schools had been selected.

Mr. Ross questioned the need of appropriating $3,000 to enforce the automobile law. Mr. Hanna was absent, and neither the Premier nor the Treasurer knew why so much was wanted. The item went through on trust.

Another item challenged by the Opposition was $10,000 for gratuities.

A bill respecting joint stock and other companies, which will not be passed this year, was introduced by Hon. Mr. Hanna. Mr. Hanna said that the measure would be distributed for consolidation. It is a consolidation of a number of statutes regarding, among others, timber slide companies, piers and dry-dock companies, exhibition buildings companies, gas and water companies, light and power companies, cheese and butter companies, co-operative societies, benevolent and provident associations, trust companies, cemetery companies, etc. The legislation gives the Government greater power and enables it to control more thoroughly their formation.

Cheers for T. L.

Hearty applause greeted the Treasurer's motion that all the members should be paid the full indemnity.

Finally, as the order paper had been cleared of all unfinished business, the Premier at 11:15 moved the adjournment of the House until Monday at 11 o'clock in the morning, and after the singing of the National Anthem, the members dispersed.

BETTERS IN DOUBT ABOUT BROOKLYN

Still There Is Some Brisk Wagering on Handicap to Be Run Shortly.

New York, May 10.—Betting on the Brooklyn Handicap, which is but two weeks off, is very brisk, but it is so open a race that the bettors are in doubt as to which of the entries to pin their faith to.

The fact of Roschen working a mile and a furlong, with good weight up, in 1:54 is regarded as good a performance that many are turning their eyes in the direction of the Ben Strome gelding. In the belief that he will redeem himself for the disappointment in the Excelsior Handicap and carry off the honors in the big event at the Gravesend track.

The fact that Israfel, regarded as a very ordinary colt, beating a half dozen fairly prominent Brooklyn candidates last Saturday also has had a tendency to upset the speculators and convince many of them that the Brooklyn will be a twenty-horse race.

Oiseau, Stewart and Tanya have all worked good miles, but unless three or four of the highest class of the entries should show top form on May 21, there promises to be a scattering of the wagers on the event.

H. J. Weller, the noted Cincinnati future book pinner, has had some large wagers on the different entries, among which are $20,000 to $1,000, to Charles Bowman, western horseowner, on Tokalon; also, to the same wacker, $20,000 to $1,000, on Delhi. Weller laid $6,000 to $100 straight and $1,500 to $100 to show on Go Between, said to be a commission from a friend of the Shielders. To the same better $10,000 to $200 was laid against Brooklyn. S. E. Randolph bet $1,500 on Cedarstrom, split three ways, at 20, 12 and 6.

Tod Sloan got down a bet on Oliver Cromwell at 60 to 1, but Weller will not take any more at that price. A friend of Sloan wagered $200 to $5,000 on Red Knight, backing that horse because Radtke will ride it in the Brooklyn. Weller has received a heavy commission on Tippee, at 50 to 1. This is the horse that is said will carry August Belmont's colors in the Brooklyn.

STRIKE WAVE HITS ITALIAN CITIES

Serious Disturbances at Rome, Milan and Bologna—Socialists Blamed.

Rome, May 10.—The general strike in this city continued without any incidents worth noting. The authorities have taken measures to provide the inhabitants with light and food, should such a step become necessary. The newspapers have stopped publication. The troops are being kept in readiness for immediate service. Later in the day the strikers attacked several shops and broke a number of windows.

Socialist deputies addressed the rioters urging them to be calm and the strikers dispersed.

At Milan all is quiet and the strikers generally condemned. Disturbances of a grave nature have occurred at Bologna, where several officers and soldiers were wounded, and many buildings, including some of the hospitals, were stoned by the strikers.

In the other large cities of Italy the strike has not yet been declared.

The general strike in Italy is the result of the socialist wave now sweeping over Europe. The strikers in France were followed by strikes in several Italian towns, which were afterwards organized into a general strike, the workmen demanding shorter hours, increased pay and incidentally greater political power.

URGES DISARMAMENT

Notion in British House to Reduce Army and Navy.

London, May 10.—In the House of Commons this evening Henry Vivian, Laborite, made a resolution calling on the Government to take drastic steps to reduce the expenditure for armaments and to press for the inclusion of the question of armament reduction by international agreement in The Hague conference.

Former Premier Balfour said peace in Europe and the success of British diplomacy depended on necessary military and naval backing.

Sir Edward Grey, foreign secretary, said he believed Mr. Vivian's motion was worth having for the effect it might have on other nations. There was a growing disposition in other countries, the foreign secretary said, for some reduction. He thought the question should be discussed at The Hague, but it would depend upon the responses of other nations. The Government welcomed the motion.

He hoped other nations would regard it as an invitation from the British House of Commons to respond to their feelings in the matter.

James Bryce, chief secretary for Ireland, debating the question bill in the House of Commons today, said the bill gave no preference to any particular creed; it was simply a prohibition to teach a creed.

THEY ADVERTISE THEMSELVES.—Immediately they were offered to the public, the "Vegetable Pills" became popular because of the good report made for themselves. That reputation has been maintained and now rank among the first medicines for use in attacks of dyspepsia and biliousness, complaints of the liver and kidneys, rheumatism, fever and ague, and the innumerable complications to which these ailments give rise.

There are people who are such base imitators that even their sin isn't original.

CLEAN FOOTBALL; PLEA MADE FOR IT

Intercollegiate Committee Asks Strict Observance and Enforcement of Rules.

New York, May 10.—An appeal is being made to every collegiate institution in the country playing football to enlist its co-operation in the effort of the American intercollegiate football rules committee to secure a strict observance and enforcement of the rules, and the prompt and severe punishment of such players as offend against its morale in its endeavor to effect an improvement in the spirit pervading the game. To this end the following statement is being mailed to all the colleges:

The committee believes that football like all games involving personal contact of players, must be dependent for its quality and continuance upon the spirit in which the game is played. Improvement in the spirit is measured by the degree to which unnecessary roughness and unfair play are eliminated. This elimination cannot be effected by rules makers, but it can be accomplished by the drastic punishment of habitual offenders by the institutions which they represent.

The committee has appointed a sub-committee to aid in a more intelligent and efficient enforcement of the rules. This subcommittee does not intend or desire to force upon the several institutions undesired jurisdiction, nor does it plan to interfere with their independent action. It stands ready to aid, however, at any time and in every way in its power in the improvement of the quality of officials, and will furnish explanations and interpretations of the rules whenever requested to do so.

The committee has increased the penalties for offenses of a brutal nature, and formally urges that all institutions playing under these rules shall banish from the game for a year any player disqualified twice during a season of such play.

This appeal is made by the rules committee because it lacks the power to enforce the provision of the rules to that end, and it must depend on the individual institutions to see that offenders are so punished.

CHEERS SHAKE THE RUSS HOUSE

Turilling Scene at Opening of the First Muscovite Parliament.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—The scene around the Tauride Palace today was in striking contrast with that at the Winter Palace. Each, indeed, was typical and told an eloquent story.

At the Tauride Palace tens of thousands of people were acclaiming their representatives, at the Winter Palace the hundreds cheered for the Emperor.

Nevertheless, the proceedings of the Lower House were not spectacular, in fact they were almost tame by comparison with those at the Winter Palace.

The only genuine flashes of fire which showed the real temper of the House were when Prof. Mourontzoff, who had been elected president of the Lower House, invited Government officials and clerks to leave the hall, and when Ivan Petrunkevitch, in a few eloquent words from the rostrum, told the audience that the first thought of Parliament should be for those who suffered for the cause of liberty, who now filled the prisons, and whose arms were stretched out in hope and confidence to the people's representatives.

More enthusiastic cheering than that which greeted this appeal never was heard in a political convention anywhere.

Constitution and amnesty were the keywords of President Mourontzoff's speech.

By the irony of fate Ivan Petrunkevitch, whose first mention of the word constitution twelve years ago was dismissed by Emperor Nicholas II, as a foolish dream, today stood in the front rank of the members of the representative chamber, while Emperor Nicholas put his final seal upon the Russian Parliament, and begged the representatives of the people to cooperate with him in working for the welfare of the country.

The Lower House of the Parliament adjourned over until tomorrow in order not to interfere with the opening exercises of the council of the empire, and also to permit the committee of the constitutional democrats to consider the reply to the speech from the throne.

Dispatches received here from all parts of Russia indicate that the opening of the Parliament was celebrated everywhere.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—A pathetic figure in the brilliant scene at the palace ceremony today was that of Count Witte, of whom your correspondent caught a glimpse before the ceremony, pacing the corridor, entirely alone. Later he entered the throne hall, clad in the gold and black uniform of a secretary of state, one of the highest dignitaries of the court which still remains to him, and with the ribbon of the Alexander Nevsky order on his breast. He took his place in the ranks of the old bureaucracy.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—So far as known, the only disorder reported today occurred near the Winter Palace between an officer and a party of roughs who declined to make way for him.

Finally one of the roughs struck the officer in the face, whereupon he drew his sword and cut him down. The officer was arrested. The man is not mortally wounded.

One hundred and fifty of the 679 members of the new House of Commons are total abstainers.

A MERRY HEART GOES ALL THE DAY.—But one cannot have a merry heart if he has a pain in the back or a cold with a racking cough. To be merry one must be well and free from aches and pains. LONDON, FRIDAY, MAY 11.

Freedom Launched in Russia.

The Czar managed to traverse the streets of St. Petersburg yesterday without inviting an attempt on his life. He was surrounded by walls of infantry and cavalry, and no bomb-thrower could get within striking distance. It must have been a fearful ordeal for the royal pair. The Russian liberals could share their relief when it was all over, for any untoward incident would have given the parliamentarian government a setback. The assassination of Alexander II. postponed for a quarter of a century the rites of freedom over which his grandson has presided.

The ceremony yesterday was charged with tremendous historical significance. When the Czar faced the representatives of the people in the winter palace, it was the despotism of centuries surrendering its sword to the conquering spirit of liberty. It was one of the greatest tableaux of the ages.

The constitution, which has been promulgated by the Emperor, is the expiring effort of autocracy to "keep in a little life." The Emperor reserves the right to make loans should parliament refuse to pass the budget. The control of supplies was the decisive weapon of the British House of Commons in its struggle with the crown, and the Czar would keep it out of the hands of the Duma. His theoretical right to borrow money, however, will not be of much practical advantage to him. It is improbable that he could float a loan abroad, when it had not the sanction of his parliament.

There is a great work of social amelioration to which the progressive party is pledged. This is the agrarian problem, and it may bring about a mighty clash with the sovereign and the grand dual influences behind him. It is stated that in forty-nine provinces nearly 50,000,000 peasants have less than 355,000,000 acres of land, while the crown and imperial family hold 425,000,000 acres, the church 23,000,000 acres, and the large landowners 250,000,000 acres. The constitutional democrats advocate the leasing of crown lands to the landless peasants, and the purchase in their behalf of church lands and much of the lands of private owners, payment to be in interest-bearing certificates, guaranteed by the Government. If the Democrats carry this programme through the Duma, as seems likely, the Czar can oppose it only at his peril. If there is to be a struggle, the peasantry may repeat the awful excesses of the same class in the French revolution.

Facing the Music.

The House of Commons had a full, free and frank discussion of the indemnity and pension bills on Wednesday. If the House had done this before passing the bills, there would not have been nearly so much hubbub in the country. People resented the seemingly stealthy way in which the legislation was rushed through in the dying hours of the last session. The members of the Government were not entirely responsible, as the question was suddenly and peremptorily thrust upon them by the device of the round robin.

The increase in the sessional indemnity could have been readily justified, so far as members of the Commons are concerned, and the latter would have spared themselves much harsh criticism had they taken the public into their confidence at the proper time. The matter has now been fully ventilated, and reasonable people will admit that a good case has been made out for a more liberal remuneration of members of the House, corresponding with the increase of the public business. It is reassuring to have the testimony of the leader of the Opposition that "he had never seen a better attendance at any session since entering public life than at this session." This may be placed to the credit of the new regulations, which require that $15 shall be deducted from a member's indemnity for every day of his absence.

The House admits the force of the objections against the pension bill in its present shape. Under the British usage pensions are seldom or never granted to ex-ministers of the crown, except those in straitened circumstances. It is difficult to frame a law on these discriminating lines, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier promises that an attempt will be made.

A feature of the debate was the chastisement of Mr. W. F. Maclean by his fellow-Conservatives, Mr. Borden, Mr. Lawton, and Mr. Ingram. In connection with the indemnity bill Mr. Maclean turned one of the sharpest curves on record. He was silent when it passed the House, and his newspaper, the Toronto World, had even a word of mild approval for it the next day. Two days afterwards the World was shouting "salary grab!" having received, as Mr. Borden expressed it, a remarkably sudden light. Mr. Ingram pointed out that Mr. Maclean drew his full indemnity of $2,500, though by reason of his absence he was not entitled to this sum. Mr. Ingram also accused Mr. Maclean's newspaper of false allegations against the party whips. Altogether, the Maclean had a very bad hour. It is fortunate for him he is not at all sensitive, or he would have hid his diminished head.

Principle Versus Practice.

Mr. Whitney and his followers, in Opposition, were doughty opponents of the railway bonus. They ascribed to it a parental relation to campaign funds. They were particularly severe on the practice of bringing down railway aid measures near the close of the session. This was one of the high crimes and misdemeanors charged against the Ross Government. After becoming Premier, Mr. Whitney was waited upon by a deputation from the Farmers' Association, which asked that the railway bonus be a thing of the past. Mr. Whitney's reply sent his interviewers away glowing with satisfaction.

On Wednesday night he repeated his theoretical objections to railway grants, and then asked the House to sanction bonuses aggregating $340,000 in cash. "The policy of the Government now, and when in opposition," said Mr. Whitney, "is that bonuses should not be granted where they cannot be justified in the public interest." Was there ever a railway bonus granted by any government which it did not attempt to justify as being in the public interest? Of the $340,000 which the Province is pledged to pay, $285,000 goes toward building a road to give the people of Manitoulin access to the mainland. Manitoulin has done a good deal for the Government, and expects the Government to do something for Manitoulin. Meanwhile, it is satisfactory to know that the Government is dead against the pernicious railway bonus on principle, and only countenances it as a necessary evil. This is a high moral position, but it may not be appreciated by the Farmers' Association.

Now that the wonderful power bill is on the statute books, what is the city of London going to do about it?

The train robbery is one of the few surviving picturesque features of the west, which can best be spared.

An orchestra played "God Save the Emperor" at the opening of the Russian parliament. The selection was not inappropriate.

Two hundred British immigrants, who got as far as Toronto, have decided to return home. Had they come 120 miles further west nothing would have induced them to go back.

The Provincial Government spent $5,336,016 last year, and estimates the expenditure for this year at $6,288,333. The expenditure in 1904 was $5,267,452, and the Ross Government was fearfully extravagant, its opponents said.

The Whitney Government says it will get Niagara power for the municipalities at $11 per horse power, the price at which it is sold by Canadian companies to United States consumers. The Canadian companies are obliged by the terms of their charters to give Canadian customers this rate. Is the Whitney Government, with all its blowing, doing anything more for Ontario power users than the last government?

A Sad Reflection.

[Chicago Record.]

Another sad thing about it is that "The Fall of San Francisco" will, for a while at least, take the place of "The Last Days of Pompeii" at the fireworks shows.

Judging by Experience, Perhaps.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

An evangelist is to deliver a lecture, "To Hell and Back," in a Washington theatre. Probable most of his hearers will be familiar with the scenery going, but the description of the return trip should be a decided novelty.

Witty Winston.

[New York Tribune.]

Winston Churchill, the English convert to Liberalism, is making a reputation for sharp wit. His curt retort to a woman heckler, "Madam, I will not be heckled," was the best thing of the recent campaign. He is now raising a mustache. A fair lady was being taken into dinner by the budding politician. "Mr. Churchill," she said, "I like your politics as little as I like your mustache." It should have been a crushing shot, but not so to Churchill. His reply was on the instant: "Madam, you are not likely to come in contact with either."

Too Much of a Good Thing.

[Jerome K. Jerome in Cosmopolitan.]
"Even assuming that humor is the salt of life, we don't want to eat salt with a spoon. But here in America everything seems to be sacrificed to humor. Your politics have to be made humorous. Your courts of justice have to be made humorous. Before a great time has gone by you will be having funny sermons. We shall hear that Rev. Mr. So-and-So's Sunday morning's sermon was a real screamer—that it was received with roars of laughter. Then the church service will be considered a bit too slow, and will have to be rewritten by some bright young humorist from a newspaper office. Your very murder cases will have to be made 'bright.' It is a foregone conclusion that domestic tragedies shall be side-splitting. I really am not sure that in time America will not get a comical funeral service, with a low-comedy undertaker."

That Power Bill.

[Kingston Whig.]

What is in the bill more than is in the act of 1903. The same power to expropriate and acquire private property and advancement of regulation and adjustment is there. The cities are the moving agencies. They pay for all eventually. The only perceptible difference, as admitted by Mr. Whitney, is that the Government appoints the commission and not the municipality, and the Government pays for it and its contingencies.

Now that the promise of the Government has been fulfilled, will the municipalities be satisfied? Is this the public ownership they expected? Is this the something Mr. Beck's talk led them to expect? Will there be a rush to take advantage of the scheme? Time will show how the new scheme is regarded. Electric power is more in demand, of course, but the cost is everything in the development of it, and there must be a combination of municipalities to make it a go.

Power Promises Broken.

[Brantford Expositor.]

The power bill, which has been introduced in the Legislature by Hon. Mr. Beck, will not be regarded as an adequate discharge of the promises which that gentleman has made to the people of the province, and it will not be accepted as a discharge of the promises made by the Conservative party while in Opposition and since repeated by Hon. Mr. Whitney and other members of the Government. It is in effect little more than an advance made by the legislation introduced by the Ross Government in 1903, enabling any municipality, or union of municipalities, to develop or distribute power.

A Greater Race.

[Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Galt.]

"There is a land of the living which has demonstrated to all the world that all the pristine brawn is not yet extinct from the lordly Anglo-Saxon race, and who has won the tribute of the kings of the earth. And yet, and yet, in this great city of London, there is some lad greater far than he, some young man who has been caught in the vortex of some secret sin, in the custody of a voracious habit, and has lost his way back inch by inch. His is a greater race, and his a nobler crown."

Nuts for Sherring.

[Toronto News.]

The Hamilton city council has already decided to purchase ten cents worth of peanuts to grace the feast when Sherring gets home.

The Field of Waterloo.

[London Tribune.]

Several passages in the very interesting article "A Week at Waterloo" in the April "Century Magazine," bring home to us what to the English visitor of today is undoubtedly the most striking impression of the scene—its exceeding smallness. There is perhaps no better way of appreciating the difference which the modern firearm has wrought in the whole art of war than to stand on the very ground, bald slope held by the British infantry on that memorable June Sunday, and to look out over the field from Hougomont to La Haye Sainte and across to the position some few hundred yards distant occupied by the French forces. The whole field is so contracted a scale that a rifleman from any point could easily command the whole of it, including the position of the artillery and reserves, and the very armies as they lay encamped could have shouted to each other across the narrow intervening space. The whole evolution of modern tactics, from those days of massed infantry to the present day, thus, in the present, suggests itself to the visitor, who surveys the narrow arena on which the armies of ninety years ago could decide the fate of Europe.

Chance to Build a Model City.

[New York Sun.]

Canada has one of these rare opportunities. She has a chance to build a model city. The western terminus of her Grand Trunk Pacific line from ocean to ocean will be at a place which it has been decided to call Prince Rupert. The new railway is a national enterprise, and as such the Dominion Government has practically full control of the plans for the new city at its western end. Its location is some four hundred miles north of the present city of Vancouver, not far from the mouth of the Skeena River, and only a short distance from the southward projection of Alaska. The region is now practically a wilderness, and Canada has a chance to build a city as it should be. She can lay out broad streets, plan sewer systems, provide for ample parks, reserve suitable plots for public buildings, and impose restrictions upon the class of structures to be erected in particular districts.

Financial Anarchists.

[Wall Street Journal.]

Let us call things by their right names. The railroad that violates or buys laws; the corporation which evades law in order to attain its purposes; the financier who keeps an expensive lawyer at his elbow so as to suggest ways of doing things that are lawless and yet will not subject him to criminal prosecutions; the company official who makes a false statement of its condition; the accountant who indorses a doubtful receipt; an auditor who doctors books; a manipulator who circulates deceitful reports—all these are anarchists. They are taking the law into their own hands. They are making their own will, their own ambition and their own greed, superior to the law under which they live.

Labrador a Peaceful Land.

[From the United States Consular Report, April 30.]
Sir William MacGregor, governor of Newfoundland, of which province Labrador is a dependency, has recently issued a report of a scientific and official visit which he made to that remote seaboard last summer, and among other aspects of the subject he treats especially of the absence of crime in the region.

"Labrador," Sir William says, "has a resident population of 10,000, of whom 3,500 are white, settled along its south coast. Many of the Indians are half-breeds, and there are 3,000 Esquimaux scattered along the northern waterfront. In addition it is visited each summer by some 20,000 Newfoundlanders, who engage in fishing, which is the chief pursuit of these people. Yet there is no court or jail, magistrate or policeman or any other officer of the law on this 1,000 miles of seaboard, where all these people are wrestling a subsistence from the ocean. For thirty-three years there has been no session of court held, and in forty years the only criminal charge which is recorded is that against an Esquimaux whose jealousy was aroused against a rival in his wife's affection, and who shot the man as he walked with her. Forty years ago there was a circuit court sent there every summer, but as it found nothing to do it was abolished. In the past Labrador was a famous pirate stronghold and a French squadron used to reduce annual attention has been called to Labrador within the last year and this may lead to a change. When any serious charge is made now a magistrate is sent from Newfoundland to attend to it."

THE TRAILING DRESS SKIRT

[From the Montreal Star.]

The Germans, who are nothing if not scientific, thorough and logical, have undertaken to deal with the trailing dress skirt. The town council of Nordhausen, we are told, has forbidden ladies to allow the trains of their dresses to drag in the streets. The more timid masculine governors of other communities while feeling the same, have never gone farther than advice or gentle ridicule; but Germany is the land of police regulation, and what they do not like, they do not hesitate to prohibit.

Anyone who has walked behind a lady with a trailing skirt on a dusty sidewalk, has noticed that it is not only her own health and that of her family which she is endangering. Nothing stirs up the dust and loads the air with it like a dress skirt, except an automobile. The skirt does not collect all the dirt and germs as does a carpet sweeper; it rather flings the most of the lighter particles into the air to settle on the nearest objects as it does the broom.

Just why the dainty sex is determined to sweep up the filth of the streets with her skirts and then carry a large portion of the collection home to her dressing room and the recesses of her wardrobe, must ever remain a mystery to the mere man. He gets his boots into the dirt, but he takes pains to clean them as often as possible. Moreover, when he fails to leave as much of this refuse of the street on the door-mat as possible, he anticipates a lecture from the household guardian just as soon as she has brushed about the house with her dusty skirt and provided microbes for the children's breathing.

Legislation on the subject would never be tolerated in this free country. We can forbid smoking in certain places; we can attempt to cut off the supply of cigarettes; we can prohibit the scattering of papers on the streets. But to interfere with a lady's taste to trundle a microbe-museum at the bottom of the walking skirt would be too much for the constitution. Only the efforts of men to defile the air and litter up the streets, can be attacked in this community where women are denied the ballot.

POEMS THAT LIVESong to the Violet.

[James Russell Lowell.]

Violet, sweet violet!
Thine eyes are full of tears;
Are they wet
Even yet
With the thoughts of other years;
Or with gladness are they full,
For thou art so beautiful,
And longing for those far-off spheres?
Loved one of my youth thou wast,
And I see
Thy face
All thy fair and sunny past,
All its openness and truth,
Even fresh and green in to-day,
As the moss is in the sea.
The little heart that hath, with love
Grown colored like the sky above,
On which thou lookest ever,
Can it know
All the woe
Of hope for what returneth never,
All the sorrow and the longing,
To these hearts of ours belonging.
Out on it! no foolish pining
For the sky
Or with the stars so calmly shining;
Like thee, let this soul of mine
Take hue from that whereof I long.
Self-stayed and high, serene and strong,
Not satisfied with hoping, but divine.

Violet! dear violet!
Thy blue eyes are only wet
With joy and love of him who sent thee,
And for the fulfilling sense
Of that glad obedience
Which made thee that nature meant thee!

This is a little story of Joe Jefferson that has never before appeared in print. In the staging of one of his earlier plays a friend accompanied him to a rehearsal, at which a lively discussion arose between the two of the actresses as to the possession of the center of the stage during a certain scene. While the manager poured oil on the troubled waters Mr. Jefferson sat calmly swinging his feet from the rail of an adjoining box. "The friend could stand it no longer," said Lord, "Jefferson," he cried, in an excited aside, "this will ruin your play. Why don't you interfere? You could settle matters if you only would!" Mr. Jefferson shook his head with a gravity that completely veiled the twinkle in his eye. "No, George," he replied, soberly, "The Lord only made one man who could ever manage the sun and moon, and you remember even he let the stars alone." Exchange.

A New Species.

Some interesting photos and particulars of huge gorillas hitherto unknown have been obtained by M. Eugene Brasseur, a French official and explorer from Northern Africa. One of these huge monsters was shot by one of the official's sharpshooters. The animal measured 7 feet 6 inches in height, and was 4 feet in width across the shoulders, and weighed 720 pounds. It had been impossible to come to close quarters with them. According to native reports, however, the animals are unusually ferocious, not hesitating to attack caravans during their passage through the country. The beasts differ essentially from the gorillas familiarly known. The ears are small, the shoulders and thighs are covered with dense and long black hair, while the chest and stomach are almost bare. It is believed that they belong to a species that has not hitherto been known. Scientific American.

Hundreds of men and women are asking themselves that question. They are not well—and yet not exactly ill. Doctors say—"all run down—need a tonic." But tonics fail to bring back health and strength. It may be that your kidneys are affected. Here's a simple test to prove it:—

Collect the urine passed in the morning, in a glass vessel or bottle, and let stand 12 hours. If there is a reddish deposit—if the urine is cloudy or milky—or if there are floating particles or shreds—then assuredly there is some serious derangement of the kidneys.

Healthy urine stays perfectly clear.

ROYALTY TO LIVE IN A FACTORY

The Kaiser's Son and Bride
Choose Queer Domicile.

BUY CASTLE OF THE CAPUTS

Cousin of Czar Claims for Life
Dresden Walker, Whose Face
He Dislikes.

Berlin, May 11. — That the Kaiser's second son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, and his young bride are going to live in a factory, sounds rather incredible, but it is nevertheless a fact.

The young couple, who have already grown tired of Villa Ingenheim at Potsdam, which the Kaiser furnished and decorated for them more according to his own taste, it is said, than according to the taste of his son and daughter-in-law, have for some time been house-hunting and are now said to have decided to make their future home in the Castle of Caputs, an old building which for many years has been used as a factory of leather ware and linen goods.

By purchasing this old castle they will get back the property which came into possession of the Hohenzollern family more than 200 years ago, but which since then has passed through many hands.

The original castle, part of which is still standing, was built in the middle of the sixteenth century by Kurfürst Joachim who called in the famous Dutch painter, Gallus Kitter, to decorate four large halls in it. In 1695 the castle was lent to a Count Heinrich von Bluditz, for three years, but in 1808 it again became the summer home of the Hohenzollerns.

King Frederick the Great sold the castle for 22,000 thalers to an English manufacturer, Counsellor of Commerce Smith, who used it as a factory of Turkish ware and later it was used for tanning and pressing English leather. Since 1820 it has been in the possession of members of the family of Von Thunen.

In its present condition the castle is far from being a place for the home of the prince and princess, and extensive repairs will have to be made, but the young prince has fallen in love with its old walls and there is little doubt that the Kaiser will have to buy it.

Although Prince Kisthouby is a cousin of the Czar of Russia, he has found scant mercy before the German courts. Evidently forgetting that he was to inherit the Russian throne, he treated a hotel employee at Dresden to a series of kicks because he didn't like his face, with the result that the man was injured for life.

His influential connections soon got him out on bail, but only under heavy bond, and a police magistrate, after severely lecturing him, sentenced him to pay a fine of 1,000 marks on the condition that he promised to pay damages to the man who he had injured. To escape more than six months in jail, which would have been his sure lot if he hadn't paid, the prince paid the fine immediately, but when it came to arranging matters with the injured man he absolutely refused to promise anything and a civil suit for damages was brought against him.

Now the supreme court awarded the hotel employee an annuity for life of 2,000 marks, which the prince must pay, and will pay, as the Czar has threatened him with all kinds of punishments unless he pays.

Because of their recklessness the Russian revolutionaries are losing the sympathy of a great many people who are anxious to see autocracy abolished, and who do not believe that crimes of the worst kind are the right foundation upon which to build a new order of things.

In order to maintain a full treasury for further struggle the revolutionaries are taking into their service expert criminals. In addition to systematic attacks on banks, postoffices and government liquor stores, forgery is being used on a large scale. During the past few weeks the proceeds of more than a dozen forged checks have been traced to the "Red" fund in Odessa.

In Kieff a revolutionist, posing as a stamp collector, had been using stamps as a vast scam that the local postmasters detected that one letter out of every twenty bears a forged stamp. In Kieff, a revolutionist, wearing the postal uniform of the other day, had a store authorized to sell stamps where he sold and received payment for one hundred roubles worth of stamps.

Arrested two days later he proved to be a locksmith, in no way connected with criminal crime. His papers showed that he was an agent of the social revolutionaries.

Revolutionists are also forging credit notes. A large number of forged notes issued at Harbin and supposed to be of Japanese origin have been traced to the Irkutsk Reds.

A man named Gureff, tried by a Saratoff jury for uttering a forged check, got off with three months' imprisonment by pleading that the body had gone to the Moscow revolutionists and furnishing the authorities with valuable information as a result of which a large number of conspirators in that city have been arrested.

WANT FEMALE POLICE

Women of Bayonne, N. J. would Have Them to Watch Children.

New York, May 10. — Mrs. Julia Goldzier, of Bayonne, who stirred that city some months ago by demanding of Mayor Garven that he appoint a force of women police to guard the morals of the boys and girls while at play outdoors, started in on a new tack to secure the attainment of her end. Her demand to the mayor was treated as a joke and the council, to whom it was referred by the mayor, referred it to the committee on health, charities and correction, where it lies dormant.

Yesterday Mrs. Goldzier started out with petitions, which she expects will be signed by several hundred women. The petitions demand the appointment of a force of women policemen. They declare that the boys and girls need the protection of woman guardians of the peace. They go on to say: "We, the undersigned mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of voters of Bayonne, who, though not represented, are yet taxed, notwithstanding it is contrary to the cause of the revolution of 1776 and the constitution of the United States of today, do hereby demand that the mayor and council take some definite action to provide women police."

Mayor Garven, when he learned of Mrs. Goldzier's plan, said: "This is certainly a tough proposition. I don't know just what action I will take when the petitions reach me. I want time to think it over."

PRaise for Prof. Loudon

Premier Whitney and Mr. Ross Speak of His Retirement.

Toronto, May 10. — In the Legislature this afternoon the Premier expressed his regret that President Loudon was about to retire from active work as the head of the university.

Some months ago the Premier received a letter from President Loudon that he would be unable to continue his connection with the university, at the same time expressing his strong love and attachment for the institution.

The Province was to be congratulated on the connection of President Loudon with the university. He had devoted a great deal of care, and had spent himself physically in his work, and that he would for many years look back with satisfaction on the years that he had been associated with the university.

As a last word, not of advice, however, to the proper head of government, Mr. Whitney said he hoped the board would not change the name of the university.

Mr. Ross added his testimony, speaking the connection of President Loudon with the university.

GREAT BRITAIN MASTER IN EGYPT

Dispute With Turkey Over the Port of Tabah to Cut Off Last Rival Claim.

Paris, May 11. — The trouble between Turkey and Great Britain involves the boundary line between Asia and Africa which the Sultan has taken the liberty of changing in order that he may have the use of the port of Akaba, or Tabah, as some of the maps have it, to send troops to suppress the rebellion in the Province of Yemen, in Southern Arabia.

Originally the boundary between Egypt and Arabia, which is the same as between Asia and Africa, was a direct line running from Suez, at the northern end of the Gulf of Suez, to the Port of El Arish on the Mediterranean. When the Sultan of Turkey recognized the semi-independence of Egypt many years ago he shifted this boundary 200 miles to the eastward and drew the line that now divides the continents, from El Arish to Akaba or Tabah, at the head of the Gulf of Akaba, which is the northern end of the Red Sea. The Sultan always has a motive for doing things of this kind, and in this case his purpose was to place upon the Khedive the responsibility of protecting the caravans of pilgrims from Egypt and other North African states which crossed the Peninsula of Arabia Petrea. At that time nearly all of the pilgrims went by caravan, now most of them go by steamer through the Suez Canal, the Gulf of Suez, and the Red Sea, to Jeddah, the port of the Holy City. Therefore there is no longer any need of protection and the Sultan has very serious need of a port at the head of the Gulf of Akaba.

For this reason he sent a body of troops about the middle of March to take possession of the port of Akaba and his officials, with or without his instructions, took the liberty to remove the pillars of stone which marked the boundary between that place and El Arish. When this was reported to the Egyptian authorities Lord Cromer, who nominally is only consul-general of Great Britain at Cairo, but is really the ruler of Egypt and is called "the Great of the Pharaohs," notified his Government in London. The British ambassador at Constantinople acted promptly as usual and the Sultan, according to his invariable habit, expressed his regret for the unfortunate occurrence, promised to comply immediately with the demands of Great Britain, and gave directions for the restoration of the boundary stones. Whether his orders have been or will be obeyed is doubtful. He never fulfills a promise unless he is absolutely forced to do so, and at the latest reports Turkish troops still occupied the disputed port of Akaba. As you have seen by the dispatches, the British Government has given him ten days to quit and if he has not withdrawn his forces and restored the boundary at the end of that time the British fleet in the Mediterranean will begin business.

The Sultan has placed himself in a very embarrassing position, for by this extraordinary move he is obliged to fight Great Britain or admit the jurisdiction of that Government over Egypt and Arabia Petrea. Although Egypt is really as much a part of the British Empire as Canada, it is a polite fiction to speak of the occupation of that country as "temporary." The Khedive is supposed to be the ruler of his people and his ministers are theoretically exercising independent powers, but each of them always has an English "adviser" at his elbow, and the Khedive would scarcely buy a pair of shoes or a new suit of clothes without consulting the consul-general. This episode will, therefore, bring the Egyptian frontier to an end and establish the jurisdiction of King Edward VII. over the Land of the Pharaohs.

SUIT OVER NECKLACE

Mary Antoinette's Jewels Involve Charge of Queer Swindle.

Paris, May 10. — Mary Antoinette's necklace, which lies in a pawnshop safe, has become the object of a lawsuit.

The real owner of the historic jewels, Prince Jaime de Bourbon, an officer in the Russian army, is fighting in the civil courts to regain the priceless heirloom.

The prince, who is the Spanish pretender's son, left the necklace two years ago with Parisian jewelers to be repaired. A shrewd and cunning man, who called himself Count Sp, got possession of the necklace. Without authorization by Don Jaime the latter swears, and gave it over to a firm of brokers, Pollak & Rothschild, who, the prince alleges, pawned the jewels for $10,000.

Don Jaime succeeded in having Deligne and moved to ten months' imprisonment by the correctional court. Now he revives his old grievance, claiming that, since the jeweler surrendered the necklace without his permission, they and the brokers should pay to get it out of pawn, and also for the bill for incident expenses.

The jeweler and the brokers laugh at the officer's charges and have been riding enough to testify that Deligne was the prince's paid accomplice, and that the whole affair of the necklace was a scheme to raise money for the impoverished Bourbon.

A MEDICINE FOR THE MINER'S PAIN. — Prospector and others living in the mining regions, where doctors are few and drug stores not at all, should provide themselves with a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Thread made from the spider's web is lighter and stronger than that which comes from the silkworm. In France there is a factory used only for the manufacture of spider thread.

Coughs, colds, hoarseness and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Glaxo tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

Killed in Runaway

Magnetawan, May 10. — N. G. Parker, a highly-respected farmer, and late bailiff of fifth divisional court of this district, living four miles from this village, was accidentally killed about noon today.

Mr. Parker was harrowing a field near his residence, when the team ran away, dragging him along the ground and causing fatal injuries.

His daughter, witnessing the accident, rushed to her father's assistance and succeeded in extricating him from his perilous position.

After raising himself up he fell back and expired almost immediately. Mrs. Parker was living alone with her father, there being no relatives in the district.

LAWSON TAPS HORNET'S NEST

Investigation of Massachusetts Lawmakers Is Sequel Charge.

Boston, Mass., May 11. — The most thorough graft investigation in the history of this state will begin tomorrow before the Suffolk County grand jury when 75 members of the House, the first 75 members of the House of Representatives, the first 75 in alphabetical order, will appear for examination. The rest of the 240 members of the House and the 40 members of the Senate will be summoned to appear daily thereafter in batches of 75 until all have appeared.

Every matter that has been before the present Legislature which has had a suspicion of corruption will be inquired into, and every member of the House and Senate will be questioned by District Attorney John B. Moran.

This unexpected move on the part of the district attorney was prompted by disclosures made to him by Thomas W. Lawson at an interview yesterday afternoon. Street railway affairs, the overtime bill, the bucket shop bill, and several other matters were mentioned before the grand jury to discover whether or not improper methods were employed to pass or defeat any of them.

Lawson recently publicly announced that 70 members of the Legislature had been guilty of offering or taking bribes.

The legislators have been served with a legal summons from the grand jury, and the demand is made by Mr. Moran — so they will be compelled to appear in an appearance. The process servers from the office of the district attorney arrived at the statehouse about 1:45, while the House was in session. They had not the least difficulty in serving the summonses, which require the presence of witnesses before the grand jury at 9 o'clock tomorrow in the case of the Commonwealth against Richard D. Webb et al.

The process servers took their places in front of the entrance to the chamber of the House of Representatives nearest the private corridor of the lobbyists, and then the papers were as the members named appeared.

This development in the legislative scandal that has so excited the state follows the discovery that a fund of $5,000 was raised by the bucket shop proprietors of Massachusetts, to be used in the defeat of hostile legislation. It was contributed by bucket shop men in cities and towns throughout the state. Much of the fund already has been expended.

It has been said by those on the "inside" at the statehouse that the disposition of the corruption fund was placed in the hands of amateurs, green lobbyists, and that they made a mess of it. To this is due, to a large extent, the publicity of the scandal which shadows the House of Representatives. It is commonly reported on Beacon Hill that about 40 members of the House and Senate have been influenced by this lobby.

Another action to be looked into is the surprising defeat of the overtime bill, a labor measure also restricting child labor in the textile mills. This bill seemed sure to pass, but was killed at the last moment, enough members suddenly shifting their attitude and vote.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Thousands of women suffer untold misery every day with aching backs that really have no business to ache. A woman's back wasn't made to ache. Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to help her bear the burden of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Hours of misery at leisure or at work. If women only knew the cause, Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause in the world.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it's not to be wondered that they get out of order. Backache is simply their cry for help.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

will help you. They're helping sick, overworked kidneys all over the world — making them strong, healthy and vigorous. Mrs. P. Ryan, Douglas, Ont., writes: "For over five months I was troubled with lame back and was unable to move without help. I tried all kinds of plasters and liniments but without success. At last I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had used three-quarters of the box my back was as strong and well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or T. Doan Kidney Pills Co., Toronto, Ont.

STOP, WOMEN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman — a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers twenty-five years.

The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private ills to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. — Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Following we publish two letters from a woman who accepted this invitation. Note the result.

First letter.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — For eight years I have suffered something terrible every month. The pains are excruciating and I can hardly stand them. My doctor says I have a severe female trouble, and I must go through an operation if I want to get well. I do not want to submit to it if I can possibly help it. Please tell me what to do. I hope you can relieve me. — Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 60th and E. Capitol Sts., Washington, D.C.

Hurst has been "boosted" so much by the newspapers that he considers that he can do no wrong, and it is as much as a player's life is worth almost to look at him. At Detroit on the opening day he made a pass to Manager Jones, of Chicago, because he objected to a decision. The other day he assaulted Griffiths, of New York, in an argument. If these players had punched him they would have been blacklisted. It's a funny rule that don't work both ways.—Exchange.

When the sun is brightly shining,
And the skies above are blue;
And arbutus vines are blooming,
With their blossoms hid from view,
Shores that seem to wind and wander,
As the streams rush in and out;
Then it is I go up yonder
To the place where dwells the trout.

In the little streams that hurry
Round about in wondrous maze;
Where the speckled beauties hurry
And the rainbow gayly plays;
Where the tamarack and pine trees
Teem to summon with a shout,
Swaying briskly in the north breeze,
Then it is I go for trout.

Then it is you'll find me wading
Down the streams that hurry by;
To the spots the trees are shading,
Where I gently cast a fly;
And the thrill that fills my being
Tells to me without a doubt,
That the battle's well worth seeing,
For I hooked a rainbow trout.

Cold and hunger pass unheeded,
There's a sparkle in the eyes;
At this moment food's not needed,
Nor I've got another rise.
Kindly nature seems to strengthen
And to make a weakening stout;
And when evening shadows lengthen
I've a creel well filled with trout.

Sweet the rest that comes at nightfall,
When the beauties of the day
And the pleasures that delight all
Into darkness take their way;
Then I slumber on till morning
In a sleep that know no rout;
Till another day is dawning,
Then again I go for trout.

MORTLAKE LOOKS LIKE CONTENDER

English Horse Does Good Work at Woodbine—Hillhurst's Work Falls Off.

Toronto, May 10.—The cold weather this morning made it uncomfortable for the railbirds at the track, but despite this there was a larger crowd there than any day this week.

Most of the platers were only sent short distances. Wicklight and Court-martial worked out a mile, while Hill-hurst was sent a mile and a quarter.

The first work of the morning was done by the Seagram lot. Slaughter was sent a half mile with Half-Seas-Over, in 51½ seconds, showing that the plater can spring some. Haruko was sent a mile and a quarter with Sir Ralph in 2:24. Inferno worked out a half in good style in 49 seconds. The first quarter was done in 23 1-3 seconds.

Merry England, Cloten and Scotch Plums were sent three-quarters in 1:18½, the mile being done in 1:51.

Court-martial was worked a mile with Will King, and again beat him off. The time for the mile was 1:47½, the first six furlongs being covered in 1:19.

The fractional times were: 13½, 25½, 38½, 51½, 1:05, 1:19, 1:47½. The work was done well in hand all the way.

The plater Wicklight was worked a mile alone. He went the journey in 1:46½, with something left at the end. The fractional times were: 15½, 28½, 37½, 51½, 1:04, 1:18½, 1:46½, 2:03.

Wicklight is improving each day and when he gets his final preparation, should hang up a mark.

The plater Hill-hurst does not now look to be as dangerous a contender as early in the week. Today he was sent a mile and a quarter in 2:19, with little or nothing left at the end. Hill-hurst was sent out to do the work and ran out at the first turn. He was sent back to the head of the stretch and again started off, doing the work with blinkers on. The fractional times were: 25, 32, 1:04½, 1:49½, 2:04, 2:19½.

The English horse, Mortlake, owned by the Kirkfield stable, went the fastest mile of the day. He worked alone and covered the mile in 1:44½. He has a nice way of going and looks like a possible contender in many of the events to be run here. His six furlongs were done in 1:18. Lord Rosington and Kamsack went a mile in 1:51. The first three furlongs was done in 38 seconds.

The 2-year-old Ingratitudo was sent three furlongs in 36 seconds. Armo went the same distance in 38 seconds. Dr. Koch and Lucy Carr went six furlongs in 1:22. The first half was done in 51 seconds and the quarter in 25½ seconds.

The 2-year-olds Kirkfield Bell and Judge Nelson worked a half in 50 seconds. Frank Somers was sent six furlongs in 1:22.

The mare Cataline was worked out a mile and a quarter in 2:25. She did the work quite handsly.

The following horses have been declared out of the plate race: Teston, Penrith, Kinleydale and Fort Hunter were given a stiff gallop. Many of the platers will get their final trials on Saturday morning.

FOOTBALL TO BE PLAYED AT HARVARD NEXT FALL

Boston, Mass., May 10.—Football will be played at Harvard this fall. There will be a university eleven which will play inter-collegiate games under the rules as adopted by the American football rules committee, during the past winter.

This fact was settled this morning at the meeting of the board of overseers of Harvard University which was held at the corporation offices on State street. The overseers accepted the report of the Harvard athletic committee to the effect that the new rules were worthy of a trial under the conditions rising in inter-collegiate contests.

There was a large gathering at the overseers' meeting, and the discussion was a long one. The vote was 15 to 9 for the game. This action of the overseers is a great relief to the football men at Harvard, who have been working hard all winter to have the rules of football so changed that they will be acceptable to the authorities.

CLUBS NAMED TO PLAY BRITISH
BOWLERS ON THEIR WESTERN TRIP

W. O. B. A. Committee Draws
Up Programme and Decides to Ask for Grant.

A committee of the Western Ontario Bowling Association, composed of Messrs. Ed Weld (chairman), J. D. Tyler (secretary), and J. S. McDougall, London; S. A. Hodge and T. S. Ford, Mitchell; C. E. Nasmith, Stratford; W. C. Newman, Ridgeway, and W. K. Pearce, St. Thomas, met here last night and arranged the programme for the eight rinks of British bowlers from Aug. 17, when they come into the territory of the W. O. B. A., until they leave it on Aug. 27.

The W. O. B. A. take charge of the visitors at Berlin. On Aug. 17, the Chatham, Stratford and play three rinks from Stratford, and two from Owen Sound, the other three rinks of visitors going to Mitchell for the day.

On Aug. 18 three rinks will play Goderich at Goderich, and one rink will play Kincardine at Goderich, four rinks going to Clinton—two to play the home club, one to play Seaford, and one to play Wingham.

Monday, Aug. 20, will be spent here with the London Rowing Club (five rinks), Thistles (two rinks), and Asylum (one rink), and Tuesday will be given over to outside clubs, including St. Thomas, Aymer and Petrolia (two rinks each), and St. Marys and Stratford (one rink each).

On Wednesday the Britshers go from London to Ridgeway, where they will play three rinks of the home club, two from Blenheim, and one each from Chatham, Thamesville and Bothwell.

Thursday, Aug. 23, at Chatham, they will play four rinks of the home club, and one rink each from Leamington, Ridgeway, Dresden and Copleston.

From Chatham, the British bowlers go by boat to Walkerville, where they will be the guests of Hiram Walker & Sons, and the Walkerville bowlers, and it is expected games will be played with Windsor, Detroit and Walkerville.

The visitors will remain in Walkerville until Monday, the 27th, when they will go to Woodstock, and play three Woodstock rinks, and one from each of the following places—Listowel, Brussels, Mount Forest, Harrison and Tillsonburg. The same evening they will go to Toronto, and the entertainment of them by the Western Association will be at an end.

The committee decided to ask the Ontario Government for a grant (similar to that given Toronto), for the entertainment of the visitors in the west.

THE STRATFORD ARRANGEMENTS.

Stratford, May 10.—When the old country bowlers visit here in August, there will be three Stratford teams in competition. Teams from Owen Sound, Brussels, and Mitchell will also come to the city to play the visitors. Listowel will play at Woodstock when the visitors are in that town, and Clinton and Seaford will play at Goderich. The local committee having in charge the arrangements for the visit of the old country bowlers have outlined a form of entertainment for the visitors, but as yet there is nothing for publication.

WINDSOR MEETING
JULY 30-AUG. 3

Races To Be Held Month
Earlier Than Was Originally Intended.

Detroit, May 9.—Few changes in the State Trotting Association schedule were made at a meeting for that purpose at the Hotel Cadillac. The change of the Windsor date from Aug. 28-31 to July 30-Aug. 3, was probably the most important part of the revision.

Cairo takes Windsor's place in the August schedule. Windsor's earlier date was Cadillac's. The latter town under the new schedule will now hold races July 24-27. Bay City will open a week earlier than was intended.

July 17-20, the dates that were originally allotted to Cairo.

No other towns on the circuit were

"PLUGGED" TRAIN, AVERTED ACCIDENT

Pere Marquette Engineer's Hasty Action Saved Wreck of a Trolley Car.

An accident was narrowly averted about 1 o'clock today at the Pere Marquette crossing of Horton street. The Pere Marquette train from St. Thomas was coming in, and when near the crossing car No. 18 of the Oxford and Hamilton road line, crossed in front of the train. It looked as if an accident could scarcely be averted, and the engineer of the Pere Marquette plugged his train. The accident was just averted by a hair's breadth. There were several people in the street car at the time.

The railroad crew declare the street car men were taking too many chances.

REAL BUSY NOW

Things Are Booming in the City Engineer's Department.

Business is booming in the city engineer's department these days.

Today the repairs to the asphalt pavement were begun, and the engineer hopes to have the work as far as the city's portions of the streets are concerned, completed in a week.

Two gangs of cement sidewalk men are at work today, and two more gangs will be set to work on Monday.

Two sewers were also begun today.

The street railway company has begun to pave its portion of Dundas street, between Lyle and Queen's Park, where the city has let a contract to the Barber Paving Company to lay an asphalt pavement.

Four gangs of men are working under the ward foreman fixing up the streets.

Several gangs are also cleaning up the streets by contract under the supervision of the engineer's department.

JUNK YARD OUT OF PLACE

Concern Close to the Hospital Not Complying With the Law.

Medical Health Officer Hutchinson today visited the premises of the Dominion Coal Company, at the corner of Maitland and Nelson streets, and investigated the complaints that have been made in regard to the conducting of a rag and bone business on the premises.

The doctor found that the company, which is composed of Moses Left, his brother, and a number of others, is running a junk business in flagrant defiance of the law which defines the area in which rag and bone businesses may be conducted. In the yard the doctor found about a ton of bones and a large quantity of rags.

It will be now up to the police to take a hand in the game, as licenses for the junk business are issued by the police commissioners, and no license has been issued to Left, because he is outside the area defined by the law.

It having been learned that Left was circulating a petition to be allowed to conduct a junk business on the premises, the property owners of the neighborhood have got out a counter-petition, praying the council to not interfere with the law, and to compel Left to take his junk business inside the area laid down by the city for such businesses.

The place where the big junk yard is now being conducted is only one block from Victoria Hospital, and it is pointed out that if Left is allowed to break the law it will not be long before junk yards will be found all around the hospital.

GRAND TRUNK PROPOSAL

upon he does not want the aldermen to attempt to change it.

After the meeting, City Solicitor Meredith, on the authority of the report, made a statement to the reporter. He said that the mayor and himself had gone over many of the clauses of the agreement with Mr. McGuigan with a view to ascertaining if the points of difference could not be cleared up. As to the result of the conference, he would say nothing, other than that there would probably be a meeting between himself and the Grand Trunk again in May or next week, when the agreement would probably be whittled into shape, so that it could be submitted to the committee and the council.

Such points as the bonus asked for by the company, and the bonus to the level tracks in addition to the proposed elevated tracks through the city, the mayor and the solicitor did not attempt to finally settle with the company, though these matters were discussed, and it is understood that unless something unforeseen happens, there will be nothing to prevent an agreement being reached.

As to the level tracks, Mr. McGuigan says they must remain, as they are needed by the businessmen of London for the handling of freight, but he is prepared to guarantee that there will be no through traffic from the west.

In other words, the level tracks are to be used only for placing cars on sidings for shippers and also for the taking away of the cars.

It is also understood that there is room for a compromise as to the amount of help the city must give the company in the way of an exemption. Mr. Meredith did not make this latter statement to the reporters, however. It came from other quarters.

Buried in Cave-In.

Worcester, Mass., May 11. Five laborers were buried in a cave-in at the Central Supply Company's new building on Foster street today. Those buried and an unidentified Italian are dead. One other Italian was seriously hurt.

FISH WERE SENT ON

Found That Three Boxes Were Not Liable to Seizure.

Three boxes of the fish seized here the other night have been sent on their way to New York. It seems that they were shipped from Port Lambton, and that there is no close season for pickerel in Lake Huron and River St. Clair. The inspector here was suspicious, however, and detained the fish until the department could be informed of the matter. The fish were ordered sent on.

The local authorities were of the opinion that the fish were caught on Lake Erie, and reshipped from Port Lambton. This is being investigated, and if found to be correct an interesting suit will probably result.

The rest of the contraband fish have been distributed among the various charitable institutions.

IS IT CUT AND DRIED?

The Librarianship Said to Have Been Decided Upon—Politics Behind It.

It was said at the city hall today that the Conservative Club, which for the past few weeks has had troubles peculiar to itself in the selection of a man to fill the position of librarian at the public library, has at last come to a decision, and that Mr. J. H. W. McRobert, principal of Grand Avenue school, will be appointed by the board tonight.

As has been known for some time, the Conservative majority has had its hands full trying to keep good friends with Mr. Manigault, the member of the library board, who is after the position, and also with ex-Alldredge, Carson, who feels that he, too, has a hold on the party, and asked to be made librarian.

Each gentleman had his friends and also his enemies, and the majority on the board was swayed from side to side as pressure was brought to bear.

According to the story told at the city hall today, Mr. McRobert was decided upon to keep both Mr. Manigault and Mr. Carson out of the job and thus patch up the threatened split in the party.

Mr. McRobert came here about two years ago and was appointed to succeed Principal Wallace, of Grand Avenue school, when that gentleman was made principal of Simcoe street school, after the death of Principal Graham.

He came to London from Mitchell, Ont., where he had taught school for some time. He is a young man, not 30 years of age.

DISORDERLY BOYS.

At the juvenile court this morning two small boys were found guilty of disorderly conduct. One of them was fined $2 or five days, while the other was discharged.

FINE REMITTED.

The fine inflicted on Contractor Simchombe, for failing to water Queen's avenue yesterday, has been remitted, the engineer having learned that the reports made to him, upon which he fined Simchombe, were incorrect.

BOTH WENT DOWN.

At the Carling street police court this morning, James Pease and John Johnston were fined $10 or 21 days each for being drunk. Both sang the same old song about wanting to leave town, but they could not have wanted to leave so badly, for they took the 21 days.

Joseph Heaton, an Indian, who was drunk, was discharged.

PROMOTED TO TORONTO.

Mr. Harold L. Garner, who for the past three years has been employed in the city ticket office of the C. P. R., leaves on Monday morning for Toronto, where he will continue in the service of the C. P. R. at the ticket office on the corner of King and Yonge streets. A few friends gathered last night to give Mr. Garner a farewell banquet. The party went to a downtown cafe, where a splendid spread was awaiting them. Songs were given, speeches delivered and altogether Mr. Garner was given a send off which was a splendid token to the high esteem in which he is held by his many friends.

TO REPLACE OLD STAGE.

For years the stage coaches have plied drearily in and out of London. Many of the old drivers have passed away, and been replaced by younger men, but still the stages of today are the same as they were years ago, and people have begun to look upon them as fixtures which will never disappear.

But even the stage coach seems to be giving away to the inevitable, for before the end of another week a modern auto-wagonette is expected to take the place of the Lucan mail stage. Mr. J. H. Hodgins, driver of the Lucan mail, has ordered a wagonette, which he expects will arrive in the city within the course of a few days. It will be propelled by a gasoline motor, and will be capable of running at the rate of from 10 to 15 miles per hour on good roads. It will have a seating capacity for twelve persons, and will, it is proposed, make two trips to the city every day during fine weather. The cost of the machine will be about $1,500.

STIFF EXAMS FOR TRAINMEN

of an examiner for this division. That is the general opinion of Conductor Hall—a Londoner, by the way, being a son of the late Mr. Wm. Hall, for half a century a Grand Trunk employee here—has made a hobby of the rules from the time of their introduction, and like the thorough railroader, had made a practice of following them to the letter in the course of his work as a trainman. Call off any rule in the book by number, and he can give it to you without any hesitation, and also at the same time name the other rules on which it has a direct bearing. Those who have been up for examination express the opinion that he has the right idea of how to handle men. He makes it a point never to say anything that might tend to discourage a man in his work. When he comes across a trainman who has difficulty with any one rule in particular he gives him time to further study it at home. There is never a hurry. A good story is told in connection with the examinations now in progress here. A brakeman went up for his written examination, got along famously until a score of rules which had tripped him could not put it on paper. He went to the examiner.

"I don't know how it is," he said, "but as soon as I get out of the car I can repeat that rule without any hesitation, but when I come to write it I fail." The fellow had done well with every other rule, and he was told that he could stand on the platform of the car and that if he could repeat the rule in question without an error it would be considered satisfactory. The examiner has already been at Toronto, Hamilton and Sarnia Tunnel, and when he completes his work on this district he will be called upon to continue it on another district. The examinations here will not be completed for some time yet.

STILL COOKING IN STREET

Quarter Million Rations a Day Being Issued at Frisco.

Washington, May 11.—The War Department received the following telegram from Gen. Greely at San Francisco:

"While conditions improve slightly, the miserable situation may be indicated by the statement that all the food for 300,000 people in the city is being actively cooked on the public streets. Difficulties about fuel arising, but the courage of everyone continues wonderfully good. Neither drunkenness nor disorder is anywhere evident, except occasionally from adjacent towns, where the situation is open. Mayor Schmitz still adverse to closed saloons, which have been constantly urged by me. Average of 100,000 rations daily, Oakland and elsewhere still exceeds quarter million rations a day. Every possible method being taken to reduce food issue."

"Prospects now look to steady decreasing demands for food, but the destitution and much suffering occurs on the part of many people, who resort to charity only in extreme cases. Altogether an encouraging."

"Although the President has decided that it is no longer for the United States Government to accept contributions from abroad for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, Secretary Taft has found it possible to do so in his capacity as president of the American Red Cross Association, and he has accepted a contribution from the Japanese Red Cross Society of $20,000, tendered through Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador."

TAFT TALKS PLAINLY

Says Panama Insurrections Will Be Squelched by the U. S.

Washington, May 11.—Revolutionary movements or election troubles in Panama which in any way interfere with work on the canal zone, justify the interference of the United States in support of the Panama Government.

Such is the tenor of instructions sent to Gov. Magoun, of the canal zone, by Secretary Taft, who also submitted to Gov. Magoun a letter from Secretary Root, of the State Department, setting forth in detail what is stated to be the justification of American interference in case of disorder in any part of Panama.

This emphatic setting forth of the position of the United States, it is believed, will prevent serious trouble at the elections to be held in June.

HORRORS ON U. S. SHIPS

Parents Appeal to the Representatives for Boys.

Washington, May 11.—Enlistment in the navy & the "little old man of the sea," with some of the members of Congress. While the house had under consideration the naval budget yesterday, the desks in the area about the Speaker's rostrum were crowded with members clamoring to be recognized, that they might tell of the horrors brought to their attention through applications of parents to bring about the discharge of their boys.

It occurred to some of the members that the posters used by the Navy Department to attract school children and so misleadingly to release him were full, and his father was summoned.

Learning there was only one way to save his son, he spoke to the engineer, and turned away while the man opened a sharp blade of his pocket knife and cut off the lad's tongue. Before Dr. Charles B. Neal could arrive the boy had almost bled to death. It is now thought his dare will cost his life.

GLUED TO FROZEN PIPES

Boy Placed on Them and Member Had To Be Amputated.

Millville, N. J., May 11.—Albert Travis, while playing at the Millville ice plant today, was dared by a boy companion to touch one of the frost pipes with his tongue.

"I never took a dare," he said and touched the white pipe with his tongue. In a moment he was writhing in pain. His companions laughed, thinking he was playing a joke. One of the engineers heard the cry, found the boy on his knees, almost unconscious. Young Travis' tongue was terribly swollen and frozen fast to the pipe. All efforts to release him were futile, and his father was summoned.

Learning there was only one way to save his son, he spoke to the engineer, and turned away while the man opened a sharp blade of his pocket knife and cut off the lad's tongue. Before Dr. Charles B. Neal could arrive the boy had almost bled to death. It is now thought his dare will cost his life.

A MISSION TO CANADA

Commission to Report on Chances for Trade Here.

London, May 11.—The Canadian Associated Press understands that the Association of Chambers of Commerce has received a communication from the commerce intelligence committee of the board of trade to the effect that the committee is considering the early dispatch to Canada of a Canadian mission to ascertain and investigate the extent and nature of the competition British goods have met; also with a view to indicating any further openings which may exist for British goods.

Walter Ryecroft, of Richardson, Lee & Ryecroft, Limited, Manchester, has been appointed to represent the Association of Chambers of Commerce.

The board of trade returns for April reported an increase in the exports of British and Irish products for over-sea trade.

A writer in the Birmingham Post says it is time the board altered that definition, for much of the exports are foreign manufactures repacked and sent out of the country.

Preaching at the City Temple on behalf of the Colonial Missionary Society, Dr. Horton said there was nothing better they could give the colonies than the principle of Puritanism. There was nothing more vital than the religion built four square on the New Testament, acknowledging no visible authority. The board of education, he suggested, might be asked to provide a textbook of the colonies for the schools, and a similar book might be adopted for the Sunday schools.

Mr. Hazleton, of North Galway, on Tuesday, will ask the Prime Minister whether he is aware that the Canadian Government will pay the sum of a pound to shipping agents in Ireland on the ticket of every emigrant to Canada, and in view of the fact that such encouragement of Irish emigration is an evil, and is injurious to the interests of the Canadian Government to have the practice discontinued without delay.

Judgment was given this morning by which the Albano Steamship Company was granted leave to appeal from the judgment of the supreme court of Canada, delivered in March last, when they upheld the judgment of the admiralty at Halifax, given in April, 1905. This judgment held the Albano Steamship Company responsible for the collision with the Allan liner Parisian outside Halifax, March 25, 1905. The appeal will be argued on the construction of the Canadian waters and shipping laws.

Servian Officers Dismissed.

Belgrade, Servia, May 11.—Five army officers have been tried by court-martial and dismissed from the service because they congratulated the editor of a local newspaper on his anti-regime campaign. The sentence has created a sensation, and disposes of the belief that the army is preparing to purge itself of the regicides.

According to the preliminary figures given out by the director of the mint, the production of gold in the United States last year was 4,178,592 fine ounces, valued at $86,337,700. This is a gain of about $6,000,000 in value over the output for the calendar year 1904. The gain comes largely in Alaska, while of the other large producers California alone shows a reduction.

WANTED TO DIE ON BRITISH SOIL

Last Hours of a Young Naval Officer Who Was Buried at Sarnia.

Sarnia, May 10.—The circumstances attending the death of Walter J. S. Green, of H. M. cruiser Flora, whose remains were buried here on Wednesday, were very pathetic. The young man, who was 23 years of age, tall and strongly built, was taken down with pneumonia while his ship was cruising in Japanese waters. From this attack he recovered, but later, on the way to San Francisco, he suffered a second attack of the disease, which developed into rapid consumption. On the arrival of the cruiser at San Francisco it was decided to send the young officer to his home in England in care of his friend, Staff Surgeon Duriton. He continued to grow worse, and it was thought he would die in Chicago Tuesday morning. After leaving LaPeere, Mich., he inquired how long it would be before they arrived in Canada, and on being told replied, "Thank God, I'll soon be on British soil again. I'll surely last that long." Soon afterwards he was taken with the final attack and died in a few minutes. On reaching Port Huron, Lieut. Green's friends made arrangements for the burial of the body in Lakeview cemetery, Sarnia, and Staff Surgeon J. C. Duriton, a marine, and a nurse from deceased's ship, and Rev. T. R. Davis, who conducted the service, accompanied the remains to the grave.

Between two and three hundred members of the craft assembled in the Masonic hall Wednesday evening when an emergent meeting of Tuscan Lodge, No. 437, A. F. and A. M., was convened. About 80 Masons from Port Huron, accompanied by officers of Pine Grove Lodge, No. 77, were present, the occasion being a fraternal visit to Tuscan Lodge, A. F. and A. M. The officers of Pine Grove Lodge exemplified the third degree of Michigan work, after which refreshments were served and speeches made. The meeting was one of the most successful Masonic gatherings held here in years.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becker, stockbroker, next Free Press building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Livingston today:

New York, May 11.—Noon.—Although at times developing irregularity, today's market has on the whole been very strong, and pressure to sell has been small. London houses were buyers, taking in the neighborhood of 8,000 shares of U. P. This stock sold at one time in the London market as high as 149½. Reading, which was yesterday's laggard, was taken hold of vigorously and advanced ½ pt. The fact that the market does not move uniformly is looked upon as evidence that the public is not interested to any extent, but that manipulation is rife. The short interest has been reduced, but is said to be still fairly large in U. P. Money has again been in good supply, with rates fractionally lower than yesterday. Sales to noon 503,900.

FLITTING FROM THE HAREMS

Turkish Ladies Leaving the Country in Large Numbers.

Constantinople, May 11.—An anti-harem epidemic seems to have broken out among the Turkish women and girls of the better classes. A few months ago two daughters of Nouri Bey, secretary-general of the administration of foreign affairs, fled from the harem and went to Paris. A little later a daughter of Redvan Pasha, city prefect, who was recently assassinated, fled to Broussa. Today, it is learned that the daughters of Memduh Pasha, minister of the interior, and of Turkish Pasha, administrator of pious foundations, have fled from the country in order to escape the deadly duties of harem life.

Similar cases are reported in other families of good standing. The Sultan is uneasy over the matter, and, in consequence, he is likely to sanction a law forbidding the intrusion of foreign ladies in the harems, inasmuch as they "constitute a grave danger to the peace of the souls of Turkish women," who frequently are too weak to resist the glowing, tempting descriptions of European women in contrast to the dismal harem life.

THE TEMISKAMING ROAD

Another Seventy Miles To Be Finished Before End of the Year.

Toronto, May 10.—The next division of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway is to be opened for traffic in about two months. This is 25 miles beyond the end of the first contract, which extended to Liskeard, and, though it is part of another contract, it will ultimately be included in the first division.

The terminus of the new portion is White River Crossing, to be called Englehart. Towards the end of the year another 70 miles will be opened, and will be the beginning of the final second division.

In order to keep pace with increasing traffic and provide for the extensions, the company is adding to its rolling stock. Four new coaches have been delivered from Cobourg this week and four others have been purchased from another road. Four new engines have been ordered from Montreal and tenders are being asked for two more.

Tenders for leases of the mineralized portions of the company's right-of-way and the northwest 40 acres of the town site of Cobalt, receivable up to noon May 10, will not be opened until the meeting of the commission on May 15. These include a number from the United States and Britain.

THE BANDITS CORNERED

Gang That Held Up C. P. R. Train Surrounded by Posse.

Vancouver, May 11.—It is reported that the train-robbers are surrounded in the woods near Campbell Creek. Their capture is certain. Their horses were found by the pursuing police and Indians outside the trackless, wooded area, in which they must have been hiding. From there they were driven out, and the robbers were seen to emerge shortly. Every avenue of escape is closed. A force of nearly 100 men are guarding all lines of egress. Sheriff Woods found the deserted camp of the robbers and evidence that they were traveling south with three saddled horses and one pack horse. With the horsemen behind him he galloped on, expecting to reach Wednesday night's camp of the fugitives. Later word was received that they had been cornered and requesting more men. Any hour the posse is expected to arrive. Although it is not impossible without a prelude of a bloody fight, both malefactors and pursuers being heavily armed. The former are practically in a cul-de-sac.

WHILE MORE PREVALENT in winter, when sudden changes in the weather try the strongest constitutions, colds and ailments of the throat may come in any season. At the first sign of derangement use Bickel's Anti-Cough Syrup. Instant relief will be experienced, and use of the medicine until the cold disappears will protect the lungs from attack. For anyone with throat or chest weakness it cannot be surpassed.

Fishes have no eyelids and necessarily sleep with their eyes open; they swallow their food whole, having no dental machinery. Frogs, toads and serpents never take food except that which they are certain is alive. Serpents are so tenacious of life that they will live for six months or longer without food.

HAD TO VACATE CHAIR

Ald. Wyatt Compelled to Make Way for Ald. Garratt.

Ald. Garratt got "even" just a little bit with Ald. Wyatt at the meeting of the board of works last night.

Ald. Wyatt had been named by Ald. Gerry to act as chairman during the absence of the latter, who is ill. Ald. Garratt took advantage of the occasion to show Ald. Wyatt where he is at.

Ald. Wyatt arrived a few minutes before Ald. Garratt, and he took his place at the head of the table to act as chairman. When the meeting opened, Ald. Wyatt explained that he had been appointed chairman, but Secretary Bell pointed out that a chairman, in case of the absence of the regular occupant of the chair, must be appointed.

Ald. Saunders then moved that Ald. Garratt take the chair, but Ald. Wyatt refused to vacate. He held the chairmanship for ten minutes, during which no business was done. Then the mayor arrived, and Ald. Wyatt appealed to his worship to give a decision on the point. The mayor sent for the rules, and he declared the secretary was right and that in order to conduct the city's business in a legal manner a chairman would have to be elected.

Ald. Wyatt then left the chair, and Ald. Garratt, with great solemnity, marched to the head of the table and presided at the meeting.

JOINS THE FORTY-THIRD

Mr. Charles Ward Leaves Seventh Regiment Band for Ottawa.

The Seventh band has lost one of its most valued members in Mr. Charles Ward, who has removed to Ottawa, where he has secured a good position. Mr. Ward goes to join the Forty-third Regiment Band, of which Mr. William Hiscott is the bandmaster. He is known as one of the best cornet players in Canada, and his loss will be a severe blow to the Seventh. "It seems a great pity," said a member of the regiment to The Advertiser today, "that musicians of the stamp of Mr. Ward cannot be kept in London. Surely London could do as much for a musician as Ottawa."

INSPECTION OF FIRE HALLS; COMMITTEE MAKES ITS ANNUAL

Also Gives Firemen Two Runs and Sees Fast Time Made—Halls in Good Shape.

Chairman Matthews and the other members of No. 2 committee—Aldermen Armstrong, Stevenson and Booth—yesterday held their annual inspection of the local fire department, and that they were pleased with its splendid efficiency was evident to all. The party first drove to the Grand Trunk roundhouse on Rectory street, where the chairman pulled a box. No. 1 and No. 2 companies responded to this alarm, No. 3 going to the central station, as is the rule.

It took the East London company 1 minute and 58 seconds to reach the box, from which the alarm had been sent. In 4 minutes and 30 seconds, beating the apparatus from the central station by about two minutes.

COMMITTEE GRANTS REQUESTS MADE BY THE STREET RAILWAY

Related to Paving of Company's Road Allowance—Wink at Repairs.

Paving matters in connection with the street railway company's portion of the streets traversed by car lines occupied the attention of the board of works for a couple of hours last evening.

Manager King was present, and he made several requests, which were recommended to the council to be granted.

First, Mr. King asked to be allowed to lay brick on the company's section of Richmond street north on a surface of concrete, instead of on gravel ballast. Mr. King told the committee that the vibration disintegrates the concrete, and that the gravel ballast is superior to any other foundation where the subsoil is sandy as in London. He pointed out that if the gravel ballast did not work satisfactorily here, the company is bound to make the repairs, but the mayor declared that the citizens should not be inconvenienced by the company continually pulling up the roadways to mend poor paving jobs.

Finally the request of the manager was granted, as far as the board is concerned, but a minute or so after-ward Engineer Rust, of Toronto, was telephoned to, and asked his opinion of the gravel ballast. His advice to the city of London was that under no circumstances should the council allow the company to use a gravel ballast.

It had been tried in Toronto and had proved a complete failure. The board, however, refused to change its decision. Mayor Judd being the only one who refused to concur, after Engineer Rust had been heard from.

The board granted the request of Manager King for a delay of a couple of weeks in the making of the repairs to the asphalt pavement, so that he may be enabled to secure a new class
