PARLIAMENT PROROGUES THIS AFTERNOON

$112,000,000 IN ESTIMATES ARE PASSED BY HOUSE IN LAST TWO HOURS OF ALL-NIGHT SESSION

Voting of Supply Was Slow Procedure Up Until Half Past Three This Morning, When Work Was Speeded Up To Limit—Questions of a Really Contentious Kind Are Passed On To Next Session.

Ottawa, June 4.—(Canadian Press).—After an all-night sitting the House of Commons adjourned at half-past 5 o'clock this morning, with the work of the session practically cleaned up. No definite announcement in regard to prorogation was made on adjournment, but it was stated in the corridors that it would take place at 4 or 5 o'clock this afternoon.

During the last two hours of the sitting, the House passed estimates almost as fast as Deputy Speaker Boivin could call them off. Approximately $112,000,000 was voted between half-past three and half-past five o'clock. Occasionally there were pauses in the rush for prorogation when members interrupted to ask a question, but if any item proved contentious it was allowed to stand over until the next sitting. It developed that an arrangement had been made between the prime minister and leader of the Opposition that all non-contentious items were to be passed before the House rose. As a result of this there are comparatively few items standing over. The estimates of the department of labor remain to be passed, an agreement having been made between the Government and Opposition leader that these would not be considered until the next sitting. The voting of supply was a slow business up till about half-past 2 o'clock. Estimates of the postoffice department were under consideration, the total amount to be voted being some twenty-six million dollars.

Moved Adjournment.

When these items carried, Roche Lanctot (La Prairie-Napierville) moved that the House adjourn. Objections were voiced from both sides of the House, and finally the motion was defeated on a standing vote of 37 to 13. Then the committee settled down to work and passed estimates as fast as they could be read. An item of $1,000 for the board of commerce caused queries from the Opposition. What was this money required for?

"To wind it up," said Dr. Reid.

"Funeral expenses," remarked A. R. McMaster (Brome), from the Opposition benches.

It was noticeable that the vote of two millions for maintenance of the Canadian navy slipped through without even a comment from the Liberal members. It was thought that this item would be the subject of bitter debate.

Following the voting of supply, concurrence was given to a number of supply resolutions before the House rose.

In the hurry of breaking up, no question as to the business for today was asked, but practically the only thing that remains to be done is to pass the estimates of the labor department, and those which were postponed as contentious. Then all will be ready for prorogation.

Tells Ministers They Should Hold Centre Of Stage, Not Choirs

Dr. Clavis D. Chappell Scores Preachers Who Inflict Congregations With Discourses On National Economics and Political Problems— Sermons Should Be Simple and Short.

The minister who serves his congregation with discourses on national, economic and political problems, and relegates the Gospel to the background, was scored by Dr. Clovis G. Chappell of Washington, D.C., principal speaker at the ministerial session of the London Methodist Conference in Askin Street Church this morning.

"You can so pray for your minister that somehow, though he may stumble, he has a wonderful message for you," he declared. "You have got to have a preacher. He is the salt of the earth. I always preach the Gospel. I am a single-track pastor, a specialist in the grace of God, and I stick to the main line. There are no lectures from my pulpit."

"I tell them who it is that saves, and the ground rings true under my feet. Don't let the devil sidetrack you. It is a great reflection on a preacher who comes before a hungry congregation and does not feed them the bread of life. Wherever music is the biggest factor in a church the preacher ought to move. I have no fifteen-minute anthems in my church to give me the delirium tremens before I preach."

"You hold the centre of the stage. Don't let them set you in the background, and about 12:10 Sunday noon let you get at a tired congregation. You should start your sermon at 11:30. Every man ought to have enough in his sermon to save a hungry soul. Any minister who has a deep sermon has a shallow congregation."

"The time has passed when men are going to come out and puzzle over a sermon. It must be so simple that the biggest muttonhead can understand."

The speaker took for his text: "And said Cornelius thy prayer is heard and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God."

"That is a great moment in a man's life," he began. "When he gets an announcement like that it is better than an appointment. Then Paul opened his mouth. I am glad Paul opened his mouth. Some preachers never do. All preachers ought to keep up their private devotions, but I am sorry for the preacher who has to keep them up Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A man depends upon his audience, unless he is a spiritualist and can shake up an empty seat. I am not a spiritualist. I cannot do it.

"Some audiences can almost put life in the dead. They can make a stick preach. We are not a very reverent people. By that I do not mean that we do not pull long faces. A very flippant heart may be behind a long face. It is a great deal easier to have a pious tone than a pious conviction and some of us substitute the two. There is as much good religion in laughing as in sobbing.

"If we are going to hear God's voice we must listen reverently. There are two kinds of listeners easy to speak to. There is the enthusiast for the preacher and the enthusiast against him, but the audience impossible is the indifferent one. I once spoke to a long-faced congregation, and, when they refused to laugh at my funny story I said: 'If you people cannot see anything in this world to laugh at, go and look in the mirror to see why the other fellow laughs.'"

Rev. W. J. Hibbert of Essex, conference president, paid a tribute to Dr. Chappel this morning, as follows: "The wonderful smoothness of the conference sessions is largely due to Dr. Chappell. He has filled every gap in the conference, and over all he has exalted my Lord. I believe the ministers and laymen will go back with a greater loyalty to the cross."

Miss Wyatt of Stratford sang a solo during the devotional exercises, and a choir of ministers also took part in the singing.

Financial Report.

At the regular session this morning the financial report of the conference was read and adopted after discussion. Reports of the educational committee and educational fund are being received today, and the circuit boundaries commission will bring in a recommendation that Mount Pleasant be taken from the Fullarton circuit and placed with the Kirkton circuit. This change affects Stratford district and will likely be adopted by conference. The session will also pass a joint resolution with the lay association in appreciation and support of Attorney-General W. E. Raney for his stand on the liquor traffic.

The book and publishing department will also be reviewed at the session, and Rev. W. E. Millson will report on evangelism and social service, which is his department. The stationing committee meets at 1:30 p.m. today to hear deputations before completing the final draft of stations.

At 2:30 p.m., ministerial and lay delegates to the conference will be taken for a motor ride through the city and Springbank Park, with a stopover at the latter resort. All delegates are invited and 100 motor cars will be on hand for the visitors. Dinner and supper will be served as usual during the conference in Askin Street Sunday school Sunday.

An ordination service for probationers passed by conference for ordination will be held in Askin Street Church Sunday morning. Rev. S. Dwight Chown, D.D., LL.D., general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, will preach the ordination sermon, followed by the ordination service conducted by President W. J. Hibbert. Prior to this service a love feast and fellowship will be conducted by Rev. R. A. Miller.

COLORADO FLOOD CAUSES DAMAGE OF MILLIONS; 4 LIVES ARE LOST

Heaviest Losses Will Be Sustained Around Pueblo.

STREETS UNDER WATER

Arkansas River On Rampage Following Cloudburst.

Denver, Col., June 4.—Continued heavy rains early today in Eastern and Central Colorado gave little hope of relief from the floods which yesterday swept those sections.

Meagre reports indicated a loss running into the millions, with the heaviest loss at Pueblo, where a large part of the business section and several residential districts were inundated by waters from the Arkansas River. The known loss of life was four.

The situation early today was:

Pueblo inundated, and cut off from wire communication for hours. Private news dispatches placed loss at about $4,000,000.

Marshall, a town of 200 inhabitants, threatened by a break in the Marshall Lake dam.

Louisville Inundated.

Louisville inundated, several houses and other buildings washed away.

Floods put out of commission the electric power plant from which Weld County towns get their light and power.

A cloudburst at Swallows, 15 miles west of Pueblo, at 3 o'clock yesterday, two hours later had sent the Arkansas River on a rampage. Before 8 o'clock it had overflown its banks, inundated the business section, and sent scores of families fleeing for their lives. Eighteen families were rescued in boats and boats were also used to rescue several persons from the Federal Building. Damage to the postoffice alone was officially estimated at $600,000.

Five feet of water was reported as standing in the streets of Pueblo early this morning.

A Western Union operator remained at his key in the Pueblo operating room sending out news dispatches concerning the flood until the flood waters had crept around his ankles.

TROOPS PATROL STREETS.

Pueblo, Col., June 4. — National guardsmen are patrolling Pueblo early today, permitting no one to enter the section of the city flooded by waters from the Arkansas River, while several fires, started by lightning, raged unchecked in several parts of the city. All telegraph and telephone communication was lost at 9:10 o'clock when the flood filled many of the business houses to a depth of six feet.

BIGGS SAYS WILSON CHARGES ARE LIES

Ottawa, June 3.—Canadian Press.—When the House resumed this afternoon, G. C. Wilson (Wentworth) read a statement from Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways in the Ontario Government, to the effect that statements made by Mr. Wilson, with respect to the provincial road building program were deliberate lies. Mr. Wilson declared that he stood by every statement he had made, and would debate the question with Mr. Biggs on a public platform.

SEVERELY BURNED BY TONGUE OF FLAME

Cornwall, June 4.—A flame fully ten feet long, resembling a flash of lightning, shot out from the lightning arrester in the power house of the Canadian Cottons, Limited, plant here last night and struck Thomas Julien, hurling him to the ground and severely burning him about the hips, side and shoulders. Julien, an employee, was engaged in sweeping near what is known as the lightning arrester, which carries 10,000 volts, when the tongue of flame leaped at him.

WORKING FOR FUSION.

Paris, June 4.—Pan-Germans are trying to organize in Eastern Hungary a movement favorable to fusion with Germany, says a dispatch from Budapest to the Hungarian agency here. They are particularly active at Magyarovar, 16 miles southeast of Pressburg, where manifestations in favor of union with Germany have occurred.

Showers have also occurred in British Columbia, but in all interior districts fine weather prevails.

EXPECTS CHURCH UNION TO PASS BY FOUR TO ONE

Rev. W. R. McIntosh Returns From General Assembly.

ISSUE WELL DEBATED

First Move Will Be Linking Up of Colleges.

That the Presbyterian General Assembly, now assembled in Toronto, will at Monday's session pass favorably upon the proposed union of all the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregationalist Churches in Canada, is the firm opinion of Rev. W. R. McIntosh, King Street Presbyterian Church, who has been in attendance at the conference the past week. He expects that the opinion of the delegates is in the neighborhood of 4 to 1 for the amalgamation.

The issue was well debated and lively, Mr. McIntosh says, and the assembly was split into three factions—those who favored union, those who were strongly against it, and those who approved of union, but wished to move cautiously and without undue haste.

The latter, apparently, have gained the upper hand, as Mr. McIntosh intimates that in the event of the union of these three denominations, unity will not take place throughout Canada immediately, but only in those branches where deemed feasible.

"We will move gradually," said Mr. McIntosh. "It is not the wish to irritate any person who may at this moment be against the union. There will be no undue haste. It is not unlikely that the first move will be along educational lines; the linking up of the different colleges of the Dominion, for one thing."

WIRTH CABINET NOT EXPECTED TO SURVIVE

Indirect Vote of Confidence Is Likely To Be Passed Today.

Berlin, June 4.—As a result of interpellations the cabinet led by Dr. Joseph Wirth was expected to become the beneficiary of an indirect vote of confidence in the Reichstag today. This was looked upon here as an eleventh-hour escape from what threatened to be a disavowal of the new Government.

A resolution introduced by the present coalition bloc, approving the Government's program of fulfillment, was withdrawn after the chancellor and leaders of the coalition parties had succeeded in winning over the German People's Party and the Independent Socialists to a definite promise that these two factions would oppose a resolution of censure proposed by the Nationalists which would deny to the new cabinet the confidence of the Reichstag. It was decided that the Nationalist resolution would be rejected by the Majority Socialists, the Clericals and the Democrats, who comprise the present coalition, aided by the People's Party and the Independent Socialists. The result of this manoeuvre is that the Wirth cabinet will, by indirect action, receive the Reichstag's approval for the time being. Parliamentary leaders were outspoken last night, however, in declaring that the new ministry could not possibly thrive indefinitely on such "benevolence."

RANEY FLAYS MEIGHEN FOR ALLOWING BETTING ON CANADIAN TRACKS

Undermining the Nation and Threatening Character of Its Youth, Declares Attorney-General — Enormous Profits Fall Into the Hands of a Few

Straight from the shoulder criticism of the Meighen Government, without any mincing of words, was meted out in an address of Attorney-General W. E. Raney of Ontario, read before the Laymen's Banquet of the London Methodist Conference in the Askin Street Sunday School last evening. Owing to the serious illness of his mother the attorney-general was unable to be present, and he forwarded a copy of his intended address, which was read by Rev. J. T. Cosby Morris, pastor of Askin Street Church.

The criticism of Mr. Raney was directed, because of Government laxity in allowing race track betting to flourish throughout the Dominion, with a "rake-off" always in evidence. He quoted figures to show enormous profits in this type of gambling, and several times during the reading of the speech, cries of "Shame" were voiced by the 350 laymen and ministerial delegates present.

A Great Utterance.

"This is a great utterance," declared Rev. J. T. Cosby Morris, pastor of Askin Street Church.

"We should have it put in the press, and printed copies spread broadcast," declared Rev. J. T. Hibbert of Essex, president of the conference. "It is the best propaganda against that infernal business in Windsor and Toronto."

Following the reception of the address, Delegate Hunt of the Lay Association presented a resolution of appreciation to Attorney-General Raney for his prompt attention to the law of the province, with special regard to the liquor traffic, but it was postponed for further action until today, owing to the fact that ministerial delegates wish to add their support to the motion at its earliest regular session.

"Premier Drury made no mistake in selecting Attorney-General Raney," declared Delegate Hunt in presenting the motion.

Undermining Nation.

After stating that the race track gambling as permitted by the Union Government was undermining the nation, and threatening the character of its youth, the attorney-general mentioning Premier Arthur Meighen, said: "He is quoted as having said at Sterling:

"On the one side I see the builders of this country on foundations tried and true. On the other side are those engaged in the cheerful exercise of tearing down. I put the question to you: 'Are you going to be a nation-builder or a nation-wrecker?'"

There is no way in which the parliament of Canada can more effectually tear down and destroy the fabric of our young constitution than by trifling with out fundamental law for preserving the character of our people. And I put to Premier Meighen his own question: 'Are you going to be a nation-builder or a nation-wrecker?'"

The Address.

The address of the attorney-general in part is as follows:

How often did we hear it said between August, 1914, and November, 1918, that after the war the world would never be the same again? Those of us who stopped to think realized that what was meant when we said that the world would never be the same again was, not

EXECUTED AT LIMERICK.

Limerick, Ireland, June 5.—Thomas Keene, sentenced to death by a court-martial on conviction of having been improperly in possession of arms and of having taken part in an attack on the police at Singland, was executed by a firing squad in the barracks square here this morning.

Keene met his fate without a quiver. As the execution was being carried out large crowds outside the barracks offered prayers and sang hymns.

Motor Cars Are To Soon Make Their Own Fuel

Boston, June 4.—A prediction that automobiles within a few years would carry individual stills to produce fuel for their operation was made last night by Thomas A. Edison jun. in an address here. He declared he had himself been seeking a substitute for gasoline for ten years. The problem would be solved, he said, by individual distilleries to be attached to the cars, the stills to be operated by the heat and motion of the motors, and to produce from petroleum and other ingredients a combustible mixture supplied as constantly as current is generated by electric current while in motion.

A car of average power, in his opinion, could be equipped to produce sufficient fuel to run itself and enough by-products to pay for its maintenance.

PATENTS ACT IS TO BE AMENDED

Rights Which Lapsed Through War Service To Be Restored.

Ottawa, June 3—Canadian Press.—Third reading was given in the House of Commons today to a bill to amend the patents act. In the discussion in committee, Hon. Jacques Bureau (Three Rivers) objected to a clause providing that for the purposes of the bill the war would not be considered as over until the bill went into effect.

"You are taking quite a responsibility in ending the war with a bill amending the patents act," observed Mr. Bureau.

"The war will terminate when peace is made with all the powers with whom we were at war. We have not yet made peace with Turkey," retorted Right Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice.

S. F. Glass (Middlesex East) stated that while the provision to secure the rights of patentors which had lapsed owing to their war services was commendable, he thought that perhaps Canada was going further than was necessary. The Nolan bill, in the United States, revived patents of civilians or soldiers which had lapsed during their period of service. In order that Canadians might be benefited by this legislation, it was necessary that Canada reciprocate with a similar bill.

APPOINTED A MAGISTRATE.

Ottawa, June 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The appointment of His Honor Lucien Dubuc of the district court of Peace River, Alberta, to be a stipendiary magistrate for the Northwest Territories is gazetted today.

FIGHTING RESUMED ON LONDON, ONT. "ROOSHIAN" FRONT

Barrage of Foreign Language Falls On Magistrate Graydon.

Although the police have curbed the crime wave, house to house (or rather backyard to backyard) fighting has been renewed on the "Rooshian" front in London. This morning police court resembled a League of Nations court, for the heads of two foreign households unloaded barrage after barrage of unintelligible words in several tongues.

Thefts, attempted poisonings, and juvenile scrimmages were among the sidelights of the campaign.

Nettie Solson charged Joe Barbridge with using grossly insulting and abusive language toward her. As a matter of fact, Nettie had not had a talk with Joe at all, but claimed that Joe had spread propaganda to the effect that she had stolen his chickens and his wagon and poisoned his dog. Then, she said, Mary, Joe's wife, had thrown some poisoned cornmeal into her chicken yard, attempting to do away with all her "biddies." She charged Mary with being disorderly. Every year, she swore, the said Mary playfully did away with some of her flock. Last year, nine of them were ushered into the fowl heaven via the poison route.

Mary said that Nettie had dispatched her children to conquer the only "childs" under the Solson roof. Windows had been broken as a result.

When Nettie delivered a long harangue to the interpreter in answer to a question which only called for a direct negative or affirmative, Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon intervened and said: "Now, now, it can't be all that."

The interpreter was instructed to tell the parties in the conflict that they were going to be released this time, but if another upheaval occurred in Little Russia, the whole colony would be "pinched" and fined. The parties then decided to return to their domiciles, and never to take their grievances to court again, as there would be no grievances to take.

School Teachers Must Not Use Straps, Whips

Pittsfield, Mass., June 4.—The use by school teachers of lengths of rubber hose, straps and whips to discipline school children is ordered discontinued in a bulletin issued by Superintendent of Schools Gannon. The bulletin says a "light rattan applied on the palm of the hand should suffice." Complaints have been made concerning the form of corporal punishment used by some teachers.

MASKED MEN ATTACK CREW OF STEAMER

Old Point Comfort, Va., June 4. — A party of masked men boarded the United States shipping board steamer Mitchell in Hammpton Roads today and attacked the crew, badly injuring eight and slightly injuring several others. A naval detachment answered the Mitchell's call for help, but before the arrival of the bluejackets the attackers escaped.

SCHOONER RUNS AGROUND.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., June 4. — The packet schooner William H. Draper, with 90 immigrants aboard, bound from Brava for New Bedford, went aground three miles south of Gay Head, early today. The point of her stranding is at the western entrance to Vineyard Sound.

LIGHT FROST IS EXPECTED TONIGHT

According to forecasts from the Weather Bureau at Toronto there is a real danger of light local frosts tonight. Citizens are therefore warned to cover small plants, flowers and garden products.

Waiters Protest Because Women Saved Situation

Ottawa, June 4.—The allied trades and labor council was informed last night that the cooks and waiters who went on strike at the Chateau Laurier resent the manner in which Liberal women who were assembled for a banquet stepped into the breach when the waiters struck and served the banquet.

The union has forwarded a letter of protest to Hon. W. L. M. King, and he is informed that when votes are looked for at the next general elections, the union will remember how Liberal ladies worked against the waiters when they left their posts for the purpose of bettering labor conditions. Delegate Martin, of the cooks and waiters, also objected to the Kiwanis Club holding a weekly meeting while the strike was in progress. "The members of the Kiwanis Club are businessmen," Mr. Martin declared, "and as such ask us to patronize them in their business. They had their luncheon at the Chateau and thus showed us that they were not helping us in our strike."

SIR SAM MUCH IMPROVED.

Ottawa, June 4:—Following a blood count yesterday, the condition of Sir Sam Hughes was said to be better than it had been for the last two and a half months. During the last few weeks a gradual improvement has been noted in his condition, except during the extreme heat, which affected him considerably.

NEUMANN IS ACQUITTED.

Leipsic, June 4.—The formal acquittal of Lieut. Karl Neumann, charged with sinking the hospital ship Dover Castle while he was in command of a German submarine during the war, was announced today.

When the case of Neumann came up on May 31 before the court trying those accused of war guilt, the proceedings were stayed, a preliminary examination having resulted in the establishment of Neumann's complete innocence.

EXECUTIONS FAIL TO CHECK POLES IN FOOD RIOTS

The Situation in Kattowitz, Silesia, Is Growing Worse.

Kattowitz, Silesia, June 4.—Drastic steps have been taken by the leaders of Polish insurgents near this city to prevent plundering. Firing squads are busy every morning, and several times recently six men have been executed at one time for various crimes. In spite of the severe discipline, the Poles continue rioting, and are reported to have robbed four convoys.

A young German was captured near this city yesterday and was beated to death by the Poles.

The food situation in the industrial district near here is serious. There is no fresh meat, and babies are dying because of the lack of milk. No beer can be secured, and because of the insufficient coal supply lights are cut off at 8 o'clock at night.

JAP NAVAL GARRISONS ORDER TO WITHDRAW FROM PACIFIC ISLANDS

Tokio, June 4.—The minister of the navy, it was officially announced, has ordered the withdrawal of the naval garrisons from the islands in the Pacific, including the Island of Yap, leaving the protection of the islands, including the wireless installation in Yap, to the police force attached to the civil administration.

Several destroyers, it is added, will remain in the waters as guardships.

The action of the Japanese naval authorities announced in the foregoing was forecast in the Tokio press on May 1. The navy, the newspapers then said, was preparing to withdraw the principal garrisons of the Pacific islands held by Japan under mandate, and to place these islands in control of the colonial bureau.

ON WAY TO CONVENTION.

Winnipeg, June 4.—More than 150 editors of weekly newspapers in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, en route to Vancouver to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, arrived in Winnipeg this morning and are spending the day here. The party were the guests of the city.

THIS CROWD SURELY HAD KEEN APPETITES

Just how many tons of sandwiches were needed to appease the appetites of the 16,000 people who picnicked at Springbank yesterday has not been computed, but the pic ture shows one of hundreds of groups snapped in the open while enjoying a mid-day lunch.

School Picnic Was A Record-Breaker; 16,000 Attended

Showers Did Not Interfere With the Fine Program of Sports, and Youngsters Enjoyed a Real Outing.

Although Jupiter Pluvius, assisted by a cold northwesterly wind, was not too kindy on Friday, the day will always be one of the brightest spots in the memory of more than 8,000 children who attended the annual picnic of the Protestant public schools of this city in Springbank Park. Despite the unfavorable weather it is estimated that 16,000 people visited the park between sunrise and sunset.

As a result of the splendid work of the committee who organized the outing the picnic was undoubtedly the most successful ever held. The program, which had been carefully prepared and advertised long in advance, was adhered to closely by the different schools, and everything was carried out according to the plans. The attendance, too, as far as the children were concerned, was much larger than in any previous year, although the unsettled weather discouraged many parents from attending.

Had a Great Time.

From early morning until noon innumerable cars and their trailers took a steady stream of children to the park to the tune of "Soda Water, Soda Water, Ginger Beer and Pop," sung by husky young voices in many different keys. From then until late in the evening the park was filled with great confusion of sounds, as everywhere the young picnickers romped and played.

Afternoon Games.

In the afternoon the Collegiate Institute and the Technical School held their sports, and then baseball held sway until twilight came. Several schedule games were played, as well as many impromptu ones.

The first of these was a game played by picked teams representing the north and south of the city. After five innings of some real baseball the southerners won by the score of 8 to 0. Then picked teams of girls, representing the same districts, engaged in a five-inning contest. When the smoke and dust of battle had cleared away it was found that the northerners had emerged victorious, with the score standing 6 to 5.

The first exhibition of ground hockey in this district was played by the girls of the collegiate institute. Teams chosen from the senior classes played strenuously, but they were so evenly matched neither team secured a goal. Previous to the hockey game the girls of the first and second years of the collegiate played baseball. The second year girls won easily by a margin of ten goals.

Play Fast Ball Games.

The comedy of the day was crowded into a five-inning baseball game (with apologies to all other ball games), in which the principals, lined up on one side, locked horns with the trustees.

Neither team won as far as it is known. The official scorer lost count on the runs several times, but at the end he estimated that the score was a tie. The teachers set the pace all the game through, but in the last inning their pitcher, Dr. Bryant, "blew," and six runs were garnered by the trustees, making the score 8 to 8. The scorer announced these figures without blushing.

Assistant Principal Campbell, also of Lord Roberts, was at the receiving end for the principale. Trustee Eggett commenced pitching for his colleagues, but was derricked in favor of Trustee Langford when the principals started their heavy hitting. Mr. Eggett then went in to catch, and Mr. Hutchinson was sent to the outfield after playing a brilliant game behind the plate.

This game proved the closing act of the day, officially speaking, although the zoo and the various amusements continued to attract crowds until late in the evening.

METHODISTS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR FOUR PASTORS

Tributes Paid To Ministers Who Have Died During the Year.

CHURCH UNION DISCUSSED

Rev. Thomas Symington Conveys Greetings From Presbytery To Conference.

An impressive memorial service for Methodist minister of the London Conference who have died during the past year was conducted in Askin Street Church Friday afternoon. Rev. George Daniel, M.A., Ph.D., of Chatham, being the principal speaker. Four members of the conference, three of whom were from Exeter District, and one from London District, who succumbed to illness since the last conference, were eulogized at the service. They were: Rev. E. G. Powell, Lucan; Rev. John G. Kennedy, Exeter; Rev. J. G. Yelland, Parkhill, and Rev. G. Howson of this city.

After the obituaries of the deceased had been read and resolutions passed incorporating them in the conference minutes, Dr. Daniel began: "This is the conference hour of mourning, and with sorrowing hearts and subdued emotion we are here to pay a respectful tribute to the memory of our brethren who have fallen in the ranks. Some of them have passed away so recently we can hear the echoes of their voices. Though far away they are near to us, and though dead they yet speak to us.

Four Deaths During Year.

"We have four brethren who have been translated. Why mourn them with tears? I have known all four for 28 years at least, three of them being in my district. Rev. G. Howson was never superannuated. He died in active work. John G. Kennedy was a godly man, a faithful minister of the word. I liked Rev. J. G. Yelland's genial manner and learned to love him. Rev. E. Powell did not die because of pressure of old age, but simply because, with his tasks like a soldier in the field, he died with the weight of his armor. He is gone home.

"I love to talk of the men of God, whose life is an inspiration. Don't talk of death. They have merely crossed the river. Some of us look across the water as we are moving that way; I will sum up in one sentence: He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Rev. E. G. Powell, who at one time preached at Port Stanley and Delaware, was secretary of the Huron County Temperance Association at the time of his death at Lucan, May 17 last.

Rev. John G. Kennedy died March 3, 1921. He was a former pastor of Hill Street Methodist Church in this city. Rev. J. G. Yelland's death took place August 9, 1920, while Rev. G. Howson, a former pastor of Askin Street Church, and 48 years in the Methodist ministry, died November 21, 1920. During the service special hymns were sung by the many delegates who filled the church to capacity.

Prior to the memorial service Rev. Thomas Symington of Knox Presbyterian Church, London, addressed the session, conveying cordial greetings from the presbytery of the district to the conference. "We want to work together and co-operate," he declared. "We do not want to take advantage of one another's mistakes. We believe God is leading us to larger things and better places. Even should our church be wrong in its decisions, what shall we do?

"We have been moving to a better feeling. Great changes have taken place in both the ranks of our churches. I bring to you on behalf of the presbytery of London the sincerest greetings in your assembly, and I want to say that you have our confidence and our friendship. I believe we will stand together and true to one another, even though for the time being we may think the other has made a mistake, because we are one in the Lord."

Reasonable Progress.

To which Rev. Dr. Thomas Manning, former pastor of Dundas Centre Church here, replied: "I believe there are a good many reasons why the Presbyterians should not start church union, but I see more reasons why they should. I believe they are making reasonable progress. I do not see how they can go any faster. They have my sympathies. (Laughter). I assure my brother that this conference reciprocates in an equally fraternal manner every expression of sympathy and cordiality that comes from the Presbyterian Church."

During the session Rev. W. E. Donnelly of Wallaceburg was elected conference statistician. Rev. Frank Langford secretary of the general board of Sunday schools and young people's societies. He urged a larger appeal to the churches, asking $45,000 this year.

Resolution of Appreciation.

A resolution of appreciation and support of the conference was passed on a motion by Rev. A. C. Crews. Rev. Byron Snell of Alvinston declared that there are 10,000 young people in the conference, and that there is not a greater field for evangelism in the world. He urged better support, as the secretary asked for "a mere pittance. Surely we can come to the rescue of the board."

Rev. Arthur Paige of Guiles presented the report of the committee on religious education. Sunday school enrollment totals 2,267 for the conference. He stated that there are 11,000 boys and girls in the conference between the ages of 12 and 17 years, and urged the pastors to take the best interest to retain them for the Sunday school. The report concluded by urging the distribution of official Methodist publications in the Sunday schools.

NINE YOUNG MEN DEDICATE LIVES TO SERVICE OF CHURCH

Tell Methodist Conference Receiving Them Why They Choose Ministry.

Nine young men who are to become ministers of the Methodist Church were publicly received by Methodists of London, and those in attendance at the conference at the Askin Street Methodist Church. Each one gave a short address telling of the events leading up to his decision to give his life to the church. The young men are: A. Harold Johnson, C. Elmer Taylor, E. William Jewitt, B.A., Duncan M. Guest, Harold N. Swan, B.A., T. Chester Wilkinson, Stanley R. Johnson, B.A., E. Russell May, B.A., and Duncan McTavish.

Almost in every instance the parents' upbringing was said to be responsible for the resolution to serve God. One candidate credited his wife with helping him to attain his desire. None of them could cite any instance where they had become converted suddenly, but all said that they had followed Christ since the time that they were taught by their father and mother to love Him. The majority of the young men were returned soldiers.

Apply Gospel Ethics.

Rev. H. J. Uren, of the Mitchell Methodist Church, said: "Our thoughts and interest tonight have centred in this class of young men," adding that the hearts of the congregation had been strangely warmed by their testimonies. The realization that God needed the young men would save them from mere professionalism in the ministry, he said. He told the members of the class that they must apply the ethical standards of the gospel to present conditions. "Are we willing to pay the price of fidelity to God?" he asked.

J. W. Hibbert of Essex, president of the conference, charged the young men that they not minimize the great and wonderful opportunities God had given them. "The world is hungering to know Jesus. Be not deterred by misunderstanding, petty persecution or any hardship. Even to be premier of the empire is not greater than to be an ambassador of God."

Special music was provided by the choir, which also led the congregational singing.

Y. M. C. A. RIFLE CLUB WILL PICNIC TODAY

Prizes Won During April Will Be Presented at Sage's Farm.

The Y. M. C. A. Rifle Club Field Day will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Sage's Farm, where the presentation of prizes won during the month of April will take place.

There will be an open competition for all boys in attendance, five rounds of shot for each boy. Those not taking part in the shooting match will be in attendance to those firing and the feature for them in the afternoon will be a paper chase.

The boys will carry their own lunches and after the events will enjoy a swim and cook their own suppers.

Mr. Houlding and E. E. Murtagh will be in charge.

Peter Glen, who donated the prizes, will present them.

LAYMAN WILL TAKE ST. LUKE'S SERVICES

Raymond Smith, Formerly of Church Army, Will Preach Sunday.

With the closing of Huron College for the summer vacation, Rev. A. S. H. Cree, rector of St. Luke's, Broughdale, and the Church of the Redeemer, found himself left with two churches to provide with services without a curate and the valuable assistance of students from the college. He has succeeded in finding help for the month of June among the laity. Raymond Smith, formerly of the Church Army and the Diocesan Canal Mission at Thorne, Yorkshire, Eng., will take the services alternately with the rector during June, beginning with morning service at 11 o'clock, and evening service at 7, both services at St. Luke's on Sunday, June 5. The forward movement of the church is intended to develop more laymen for such work, as well as bring out young men for ordination.

ELECTED DELEGATE TO SUPREME CONVENTION

Ed. J. Ryan has been elected one of ten delegates to represent the province of Ontario at the supreme convention of Knights of Columbus which opens at San Francisco on August 2.

George Hanrahan of Windsor will be the only other delegate from Southwestern Ontario. Mr. Ryan, with Dr. Claude Brown and Frank Forristal, represented London at the state convention for Ontario held at Peterboro on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. There were over 100 delegates present.

HAVE SIGNED CONTRACTS.

BRANTFORD, June 3.—No drop in milk prices is likely here at present. Twelve cents a quart is the present quotation, and most of the distributors have signed contracts covering a year. The breakage of bottles is given as another reason for the price remaining high, carelessness making replacement costly.

WEEKLY HIGH COURT

Four cases occupied the attention of the weekly high court this morning, Hon. Mr. Justice J. Logie presiding.

In the case of Ernest R. Gray, an application was made on behalf of a feeble-minded person, relative to the proposed sale of certain land in which the latter holds an interest. It was directed that the local master ascertain if the price is reasonable, and if so the order will probably be allowed to go. J. W. G. Winnett appeared for the vendor, and J. Vining for the purchaser.

An order was made in the case of Thomas Ibbotson of Southwold Township declaring this person incapable of handling his own affairs. His daughter is herewith appointed committee of his person, and the London and Western Trust Company of his estate. J. G. Robertson of St. Thomas applied for the motion.

The appeal in the case of the Kenneth Clayton estate for obstruction of the will will rest in abeyance until June 25, at the request of the parties involved. J. G. Robertson appeared for the executors, and F. B. Betts for the guardian.

In the case of G. Sinclair a motion under the vendors and purchasers act was made, and an order resulted to declare a description of the property in question. The motion was made by R. G. Fisher, while I. Hodgins appeared for the purchaser.

ST. THOMAS TEAM WINS

United Veterans Trim Junior R. C. R.'s in Soccer Fixture.

Last evening an exciting game of soccer was played in the Junior Soccer League between the R. R. R.s and the United Veterans of St. Thomas at Carling Heights, the Vets beating the local team by a score of 4 to 2.

The score was two-all up to ten minutes of full time, when the Vets put the finishing touches on the game by scoring twice in quick succession.

WILL PAY COUPONS.

New York, June 4.—An announcement by the New York agency of the Bank of Montreal states that the agency will pay coupons, due on April 1, 1921, detached from Grand Trunk Pacific Railway 4 per cent mortgage, prairie section, series A, and mountain section, series B, and Lake Superior branch bonds. The payment of the interest on these bonds, amounting to approximately $500,000, has been in technical default since April 1. They are largely held in investment envelopes in London and New York.

MOTOR CLUB WILL GIVE CHILDREN AN AUTOMOBILE TRIP

Executive of Club Will Oppose Closing of Victoria Park.

TO CHECK SPEEDING

Signs To Be Placed At Outskirts of City For Use of Motorists.

The children of the different homes and orphanages in this city will be made happy on Friday, July 8, when they will be taken for an outing by the members of the London Motor Club. The executive of the club decided to hold this outing at a meeting Friday evening.

It is expected that scores of cars will be loaned by the members of the club on that day. The children will be loaded into them shortly after noon and taken for a ride through the city and surrounding country. After the ride they will be treated to ice cream and other dainties.

The executive of the club went on record as opposing the efforts of certain city officials who desire to close Victoria Park to all vehicles. It was felt that motorists should not be deprived of the beauties of the park. It is claimed by the city officials that motor cars are a menace to the safety to the children and aged people who frequent the park.

Because the Pipe Line road on the outskirts of the city is paved, the members of the club believe that motorists will be tempted to speed, and to prevent this as much as possible signs will be placed along the road warning all car drivers to keep within the speed limits.

On all the main roads leading to the city large signs are to be placed bearing information regarding the speed limits both in the city and the country. They also will give other information of interest to motorists.

The membership of the club has reached 750. It is expected that before the season closes the organization will be 1,200 strong. This number will be 200 in excess of the membership of last year.

City Briefs

NEW CONSTABLES ON THE FORCE.—Constable Albert Lauder is the latest addition to the local police force. Chief of Police Robert Birrell has made several additions to his staff lately.

FAREWELL SERMONS.—Staff-Capt. H. C. Ritchie will preach his farewell sermons at the different corps tomorrow before leaving for Hamilton, Bermuda, where he will take full charge of the corps there. Staff-Capt. Ritchie and his wife will leave the city on Saturday, June 11, and will sail from New York on Wednesday, June 15.

INSPECTS R. C. SCHOOLS. — Rev. Father M. A. Brisson, bursar of St. Peter's Seminary, returned today, following a week's tour of inspection of the Roman Catholic schools of the diocese of London. He was accompanied on the trip by Theodore Heniroth, the supervisor of singing in all the Roman Catholic schools of New York city.

L. M. HOULDING IN CHARGE.—At the request of the authorities of Military District No. 1, the executive committee of the Y. M. C. A. Western Ontario summer camps has decided to take charge of all athletic features at the different militia camps at Carling Heights this summer. L. M. Houlding, local boys' work board secretary, will have charge of all tests. Special features will be provided at the cadet camp when about 1,500 boys are expected to be under canvas. Mr. Houlding will be assisted by two other boy secretaries from "Y.'s" throughout Western Ontario.

NO PROOF THAT STORY OF HOLD-UP ON FARM HAS ANY FOUNDATION

Farm Hand Found Bound With Rope and Placed in Box.

When George Belcher, a farmer residing at 1062 Oxford street, returned home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, he found his farmhand tied with a stout rope and in a wooden box, and also found $30 missing. George Lewis, the hired man, attributed his plight to a visit of auto bandits. He said that they had first tied and then put him in the box. The money was taken from the pockets of a pair of trousers owned by Belcher. Inspector of Detectives Thomas Nickle was called and stated today that as far as could be learned the story was without foundation. No marks of an automobile or of a scuffe were discovered.

EXECUTED FOR TREASON.

Warsaw, June 4.—Lieut. Henry Iwanicki, of the Polish Flying Corps, convicted by a court-martial of high treason in disposing of military secrets to men who were alleged to be British agents, was executed Friday by a firing squad at the famous Warsaw citadel.

DUNCAN-HEWTON.

A wedding of wide public interest was that which tok place this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Cronyn Memorial Church, when Miss Clara Hewton of this city became the bride of Mr. T. C. Duncan, the local postmaster, the Rev. G. Quintin Warner officiating. The ceremony was very quietly solemnized, only the immediate friends of the bride and groom being present.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Albert Hewton, was smartly gowned in a suit of navy silk, navy and white hat, and wore a handsome fur stole. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan have gone to Niagara Falls for their honeymoon, and on their return will reside on Waterloo street.

SCENE AT THE BIG SCHOOL PICNIC

Young and old had the best kind of a time at Springbank Park yesterday. The youth with the bottle of pop was caught while enjoying only one of the many delights of the day. The youngster next to him has his attention fixed on a keen sport contest.

WITH THE YOUNGSTERS AT THE SCHOOL PICNIC

If fickleness is in fact an attribute of the gentler sex, as is oft alleged by disgruntled males, then surely it must have been the weatherman's wife who was in charge of the weather supply yesterday. Beginning with a dull, fretful appearance at the time the first cars were due to leave the city schools laden with their living freight of future citizenhood, the weather conditions ran nearly the whole gamut, every variation short of real winter being sampled before the last of the picnickers reached home.

But nothing can long dampen the virile spirits of youth, and despite the very brief glimpses of sunshine every one of the nearly 8,000 boys and girls who participated in the annual outing thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The wisdom of having had a good strong committee, comprising the principals of the different schools, with an energetic and initiative chairman in charge of the day's program was evident throughout, the program of games and sports being carried out in excellent order and in a manner which made the task of the newspapermen responsible for recording the results of the various struggles for leadership much easier than in years gone by.

Trustee Ed. Smith, as chairman of the picnic committee, proved himself a most competent organizer, and almost tireless in his oversight of the day's doings. He was "on the job" from the time the first car left the city with its crowd of happy youngsters a most until the last of the tired but still happy youth of the city had boarded the cars for home.

In regard to the big task of transporting the big army of boys and girls with their teachers, parents and friends to and from the park the London street railway surpassed themselves and great credit must be given for this, not alone to the officials, but to every motorman and conductor. Courtesy and helpfulness were the outstanding features of their contribution to the day's pleasure for all who participated in any way in the outing.

While the "mentioned in dispatches" list is open, mention must be made of the invaluable aid given in the successful handling of the loading and unloading of the crowds of children, as well as of the general supervision of everything, rendered by Sergt. "Bud" Lucas and other members of the city police force. It is by such evidences of their interest in the welfare of the citizens at large that Chief Birrell's force has won the kindly regard and respect of the children, who think before criticising.

Nor must the services and ready help given to the committee in charge of the day's doings by the park officials be forgotten. Their task was far from ended when the picnickers left for home, for days of work will be needed to tidy up the grounds and to gather the tons of paper wrappings off food parcels, which were carried all over the park by the brisk wind which prevailed throughout the day, and which defeated to a very large extent the efforts of even the most tidily inclined to comply with the request that paper and empty boxes be put in the rubbish receptacles.

In spite of the fact that the ground was quite damp, the majority of the picnickers luncheoned truly "al fresco," and when the coy sunbeams, which at intervals peeped from behind the clouds, shone upon the scene, they produced some most delightful pictures of happy Canadian families, the vari-colored dresses of the women and girls mingling in a kaleidoscopic effectiveness that from a distant point gave the appearance of a vast flower garden in which flowers had the power of suddenly moving from place to place and forming new color effects.

While the day was unmarked by any serious accident, the Junior Red Cross tent, with the public school nurses in attendance ready to render first aid in cases of sickness or in the care of lost children, proved its value. But it was unfortunate that it was thought well to close the tent at 4 o'clock. That the three nurses who were on duty at the tent should have stayed on duty longer than they did could not be expected, but it was pointed out that there are in the city of London a large number of women holding nursing certificates capable and willing to have given voluntary aid on such an occasion, and so lightened the spell of duty for the school nurses and insured the tent being available till after the children had all left the park.

That the value of school colors as an incentive to the creation of a healthy "esprit de corps" and rivalry between the various schools has not yet been fully recognized by all the schools, was evidenced by the fact that while the scholars of some half dozen or so of the schools sported their ribbons with pride, some only did so half-heartedly, and others not at all. This matter of school colors would also appear to be one that the board might investigate with a view to great range of combinations and the avoidance of clashing of badges. For instance, the colors of the Collegiate Institute and Empress avenue school, purple and gold, are the same, a fact which tends to some confusion if one of the older scholars is being sought in the crowd. A suggestion was heard at the park that in the carrying out of this school colors idea each school should have a flag made, which would prove an effective rallying point for the children, and also a point to which anyone seeking a certain school could go.

To their sorrow, the little picnickers discovered that falling prices had not affected the things which go to make a picnic worth while. Everywhere lemonade, pink and otherwise, sold at 10 cents for a very small glass. In most places orangeade sold at the same price.

A new stunt for intimidating umpires was worked with considerable effect by the trustees when they battled at baseball with the principals of of the public schools. Trustee Edwin Smith, official coach, insisted on accompanying each runner around the bases with a trusty bat in his hand. The trustees got all the decisions on the bases.

Probably also, it was due more to Mr. Smith's actions than to the playing of his team mates that the score was announced an 8-to-8 tie at the end of the game. At the end of the second inning the score stood 11 to 2 in favor of the principals.

Thanks to the watchfulness of automobile drivers and others there were but few accidents. The outing, however was rather spoiled for a little girl of the Aberdeen School, who, while running in a sack race with a paper bag over her head, bumped with considerable force into a post. She spent the remainder of the day nursing a swollen forehead and a bruised eye. She was given treatment by the school nurses.

One boy lost three teeth towards the end of the day when he was hit in the mouth by a baseball. The hospital tent was closed at that time so he was forced to do his own doctoring with a bit of absorbent cotton which the nurses had left behind.

Only the presence of mind of Motorman Samuel J. McCue, 839 Ellas street, saved the life of a little tot who had fallen in front of the car he was driving. The little girl was attempting to cross the tracks near the pavilion when she tripped and fell directly in the path of the moving car. Mr. McCue immediately dropped the fender, lifting the child out of danger before the emergency brakes had time to bring the heavy car to a standstill.

LONDON CAFE IDEAL PLACE FOR DINNER

Special Provisoin For Prompt Attention To Patrons At Meal Hours.

Day by day the London Cafe has increased its popularity. There are several reasons. First, its outward appearance is inviting, and the interior of the cafe and equipment is kept spotlessly clean. The food served is of the best quality, secured from merchants and farmers who have a reputation for selling only the best produce.

Efficient service is another of the proprietor's aims, special care being taken during meal hours to see that every patron is given prompt attention.

The kitchen equipment is of the latest type, and it and the fixtures in the kitchen and in the dining section of the cafe are of materials that are easily kept clean.

The prices are moderate and are adjusted from time to time in accordance with the cost of living.

Our regular patrons are numerous, but we want to prove to you that we can suit your taste. If you are a person who wants entire satisfaction, order your next meal at the London Cafe. We are open for inspection at all times. —Advt. b

CADETS ARE ACQUITTED.

DUBLIN, June 3.—The eighteen auxiliary cadets charged with looting in Antrim on February 9, whose trial opened here on Saturday last, were acquitted by the courtmartial hearing the trial today. Four of the men, however, are being held for trial in connection with charges arising from a subsequent raid. The others were released.

FARMERS' CLUB PICNIC.

INGERSOLL, June 3.—The Pierian and Cloverdale Farmers' Clubs held their fifth annual picnic today on the farm of J. C. Kennedy, West Oxford. The event was most successful, the attendance being over 200. Dinner was served on the lawn after which baseball, football and athletic events kept interest at high pitch.

HUSBANDS LACKING; MARRIAGE MARKET REVIVED IN FRANCE

Would-Be Wives Line Up, Armed With Parasols for Defence or Offence.

KISSING UNDER GUARDS

Accepted Swains Retire, Those Rejected Receive Blow With Sunshade.

PARIS, June 3.—With a superabundance of comely marriageable women unable to find husbands, the ancient marriage market idea is being revived in some parts of France, particularly in western departments, such as Poitou and Vendee. There tourists are witnessing some extraordinary sights, as scores of would-be wives line up in the central market place, each armed with a huge colored parasol. Kissing is as common as smiles, the whole day being given over to osculating youngsters, abandoning all else to press lips, but always under the watchful eye of the market guard.

Frequently during the market a willing swain is accepted, the usual sign being that the couple turn their back on the rest of the crowd and continue their kissing behind a sheltering parasol.

But oftener the market fails to bring immediate results and the applicant is rejected by receiving a hearty blow on the shoulders with the parasol.

Officials insist that the practice should be extended to all parts of France, pointing out that in districts where wives are chosen like vegetables there are more happy marriages, fewer divorces and fewer illegitimate children than in any other departments.

In Paris the movement has taken another form. New matrimonial bureaus are opening daily, all of them being designed to lure spare francs from the working class of girls, but apparently operating in good faith, and well equipped with long lists of the names of men who are willing to become husbands. The usual fee is 200 francs, paid in advance, with the promise of another as soon as the spouse's confidence is obtained sufficiently to enable the wife to "touch" him for a loan on the pledge of wifely obedience.

LITTLE CHANCE OF WATER SHORTAGE

The Reserve At Present Is 17,500,000 Gals., Says E. V. Buchanan.

Daily reports made to General Manager E. V. Buchanan by the waterworks department indicate that there is very little prospect of the city of London experiencing shortage of water this year.

The morning's report on the quantity of water in reserve in the reservoirs at Springbank show that there is approximately 10,000,000 gallons in the new reservoir and 5,500,000 gallons in the old one, with 1,000,000 gallons in the Ridout street tank, and another 1,000,000 in the Springbank ponds, making a total of 17,500,000 gallons.

"The city could go through a 20-day drought without drawing on its reserve," remarked Mr. Buchanan. "So far this year the needs of the city have been more than met by the pumps, and at that we have never yet had to run all the wells at once."

CUBAN SUGAR GROWERS WARNED.

New York, June 4.—Warning that unless Cuban sugar growers abandon their attempts to maintain prices artificially, the results may be disastrous for the island, was given in a statement issued today by the Federal Sugar Refining Company.

Coincidentally, it became known that banks in New York have approximately $40,000,000 tied up solidly in Cuban sugars. With huge losses confronting the United States bankers, it was said to be their intention, however, to carry their usual customers along until the situation improved and frozen credits began to thaw.

The bankers hold the view, it was stated, that no matter what happens in Cuba they cannot "draw out" now as the republic's complete financial breakdown would follow and might cause a situation requiring years to overcome.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

JOSEPH LONEY BURIED.

The funeral of Joseph Loney, who died on Wednesday, June 1, was held from his residence, 147 Piccadilly street, this afternoon at 2:30, to Woodland Cemetery.

Services were conducted at 2 o'clock by Rev. Canon C. R. Gunne of Christ Church.

ALEX. FLEMING WINS HORT. ESSAY CONTEST

Pupil At Wortley Road School Writes On "London's Civic Flower, the Peony."

Alex. Fleming of Grade VIII., Wortley road school, has been declared the winner of the first prize offered by the London Horticultural Society for the best essay on London's civic flower, the peony. Following is the essay:

"As most of the citizens of London are admirers of flowers, the peony with its exquisite beauty and ornamental value makes a suitable civic flower for such a beautiful city. The peony is not only beautiful, but it is one of the easiest to grow. It requires little attention, except in very dry seasons, when an occasional watering on a mulch of grass cuttings or strawy manure is a great benefit.

"There is no other plant I know of that combines so many fine qualities as the peony. The first and most essential is its hardiness. It may be grown in almost any kind of soil. Then there is its beautiful floral effect in June, and when its flowers are dead it makes a beautiful background for other blooming plants. Peonies range from high to low in prices, but they come within the means of all.

"One great quality of the peony is its immunity from diseases and insects. The ants which crawl on the bud do no harm whatever. They just eat the gum from the bud, and thus help it to open. The peony has one quality that not many other flowers have. It endures without injuriy the most intense cold.

"In China it is said to have been the chief pride and glory for nearly 1,500 years, and has been prized by emperors for its beauty and fragrance. The Chinese have kept a record of the new varieties raised from seed for 1,000 years. It will be interesting to know that the name, peony, was derived from Dr. Peon, who used its roots for medicine.

"Some great originators of the peony are Dessert and Lemoine of France, Kelway of England and Mrs. Pleas of United States.

"Why not be an originator yourself? It is a simple operation. You take the pollen from one bloom, place it on another, and keep the seed you get in the fall. Plant the seed, and a year from the following spring you will get a small plant. From four to eight years from time of germination you will get your first bloom.

"Some splendid varieties at a moderate price are Festiva Maxcinma, a beautiful white tinged with red; Felix Crousse, a bright crimson, and Jules Elie, a silvery pink. Some beautiful ones are Soulange, an indescribable brown, and La Cygne, a creamy white which truly bears out its English meaning of 'The Swan.'

Peonies like good rich soil, but will grow fairly well without it. A good way to plant them is as follows: Dig a good-sized trench about three feet deep and fill it to the depth of one foot with a mixture of good earth and manure. Fill the rest in with good soil and lay your bulb about three inches below the surface. You will not need to worry about the soil for six or eight years.

"Peonies should not be planted near building foundations or under trees. The shade is too dense under trees and near building foundations the soil is either too dry or the plant is subject to roof drippings. This is bad for any plant.

"These are only a few of the reasons why the peony should be London's civic flower. Many great men have written of the usefulness and beauty of the peony. Thus I think it is a suitable emblem for this city."

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, June 4.—The stock market was under constant pressure this week, representative shares losing 2 to 5 points, while issues of less importance sustained declines of 5 to almost 20 points.

Further revision of estimates dealing with financial, industrial and commercial conditions were attended by additional dividend suspensions or reductions, these in a few instances coming as a shock to investors.

Call money rose to 8 per cent, the steady depletion of time funds for legitimate as well as speculative requirements.

Rejection by the British miners of the government's latest overtures renders the international remittance situation more obscure, exchange on London showing especial weakness, which extended in variable degree to most continental centers.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, June 4—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The strength of southern rails or cotton carriers was a noteworthy feature at the opening of today's stock market. Atlantic Coast Line rose 5 points and Louisville and Nashville, one of yesterday's few strong stocks, gained 1½. Pierce Oil preferred, which was under sharp pressure yesterday, rallied 6 points. Some of the other oils were heavy, however, Standard Oil of New Jersey losing 2¾ and Dutch Oil 1. American Woolen, Atlantic-Gulf, United States Rubber, Colorado Fuel, Steel Foundries and Cuban Cane Sugar were inclined to react. Exchange on London was weak, further selling of British bills resulting from the walkout of the cotton spinners.

CORN PLANTING IS NEARLY FINISHED

LOBO, June 3.—The recent showers in this district have done much good. The corn-planting is nearly finished, and all crops look well.

J. Marsh of Coldstream received a shipment of coal on Monday, and sold it out at $15.50 a ton. Farmers came for miles for coal, making sure of their winter's supply. Oliver Arrand of Coldstream has a new way for drawing coal. He had five wagons attached to his engine, each wagon holding 5,000 pounds.

Miss Viola Bowman is visiting in Port McNichol.

Miss Mabel Singular has returned after visiting with relatives in East Williams.

OXFORD W. C. T. U. IS MEETING AT WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK, June 3.—The 33rd annual convention of the Oxford County W. C. T. U. is in session here, with Mrs. Joseph Dickout of Salford presiding. The reports submitted show a slight increase in receipts. Mrs. E. A. Stevens, Toronto, provincial president, was the principal speaker. She gave a general survey of the work accomplished by the W. C. T. U. in Ontario, and impressed on those present the necessity of stepping forward, and not show a tendency at relaxation in their efforts. Other addresses were given by a number of the members from the different branches of the local association.

S. A. GIBSON HEADS INGERSOLL LEAGUE

INGERSOLL, June 3.—At the annual meeting of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, the following officers were appointed: Chairman, S. A. Gibson; vice-chairman, E. A. Willson; secretary, H. Swallow; assistant secretary, F. G. Rich; treasurer, W. C. Johnston; executive committee, Donald Sutherland, M.P., Mayor James Henderson, C. H. Sumner, W. J. Elliott, G. C. Ellis, H. C. Wilson, George Naylor, J. C. Norsworthy, R. B. Hutt, M. J. Comiskey, Charles White, P. C. Hays, R. A. Skinner, George H. Barns, Thomas Hammill, Alfred Knights, and representatives of the I. O. D. E., to be appointed by the local chapters.

FIRST HUSSARS WILL ENCAMP 350 STRONG

The 1st Hussars, the second oldest cavalry regiment in Canada, will camp at Carling Heights' Camp for nine days, beginning June 24, with about 350 officers and men, although only 65 per cent of the regiment will go to camp. The staff of officers include: Lieut.-Col. C. H. Reason, D.S.O., O.B.E., officer commanding; Major A. F. Taylor, D.S.O., second in command; Lieut.-Col. J. P. French, D.S.O., adjutant; Lieut.-Col. Harkness, D.S.O., Croix de Guerre; Major P. Hillier, Leamington, and Capt. G. Sterrett, M.C., Petrolea.

In an interview with The Advertiser, Col. Reason stated: "We are unique in the fact that, as far as I know, we are the only cavalry regiment in Western Ontario which retained its identity overseas, and although many of the familiar faces are missing I am pleased to see members of the original force in the persons of R.S.M. A. Turnbull, R.Q.M.S. F. White, Sergt.-Major Bert Simmons, and Trumpeter-Sergt. Stevens, among those present.

Good Camp Expected.

"We expect to have a good camp, and the officers and men are looking forward with keen anticipation and eagerness to the day on which we make camp. The training will consist of mounted drill and training of calvary in conjunction with other branches of the service. To understand the importance of this branch of the service it will be well to remember that a small force of Gen. Allenby's cavalry took over 55,000 prisoners in the offensive in Palestine, and the cavalry also showed very efficient service in the Mobile district, Suez Canal and the Somme."

Lieut.-Col. Reason is one among few who have had the distinct honor of being mentioned personally by the war office in London, England, for his good work in England and France. He was in charge of the Canadian Hospital at Etaples, which was bombed by the Germans in 1918, with heavy casualties to his staff of nurses and men.

A Fine War Record.

Lieut.-Col. French has had a fine war record, having served in the South African war, for which he holds the King's and Queen's medal; the Zulu war and the world war, in which he received the D. S. O. He also served with the R. N.-W. M. P.

The date on which the field day for the regiment will be held has not yet been decided, but will be some time during their camping period.

CHURCH REOPENS SUNDAY.

The reopening of the Talbot Street Baptist Church will take place tomorrow. The church has been closed for two months, owing to the need for alterations and the installation of a new organ. The work has been completed and the organ has been installed. The organ will be dedicated at the morning service, and will be known as the Matt Westervelt Ferguson Memorial Organ. Frank Oldfield, baritone, of Toronto will be the soloist at both services. Rev. T. S. Roy will preach in the morning on "What Mean Ye by These Stones" and in the evening on "The Triangular Life." There will be baptisms at both services. Mr. Sharratt will play a short program of organ music after the evening service. The organ will be officially opened on Monday, June 13, with a recital by Dr. Healy Willan of Toronto, assisted by Miss Anna Cochrill of this city.

RANEY SCORES MEIGHEN FOR ALLOWING BETTING ON CANADIAN TRACKS

that there would be no more greed or selfishness in the world—but that the law of the jungle: "The simple plan, that they should have who have the power, and they should keep who can," would more and more give way to the ideal of human brotherhood. But society is not transformed by miracle or in the twinkling of an eye.

For what is civilization? It is not factories full of labor-saving machinery; it is not railways and steamships and automobiles; it is not smiling farmsteads and the cattle on a thousand hills; it is not even schools and universities and churches—good though all these may be. These are but the shell. The kernel is something quite otherwise. It is the character of the individuals who compose society.

Ingredients of Character.

And what are the ingredients of character? Well, first there is the foundation—conscience. Upon that foundation may be built gold, silver, iron, clay, stubble. The greatest of educationalists agree that the aim of all true education is character building, the education of the conscience.

If the leaders of European thought of the present generation had been taught more of the science of right and wrong and less of the science of diplomacy and war, more about the moral law and less of the doctrine of might, the late war would never have happened and your sons and mine and millions of other sons of other fathers and mothers would have been alive today.

War, the last war, the next war, any war, is the consequence of a state of mind. The state of mind of a community is a consequence of the educational processes to which it has been subjected. If we are to escape another world war—a war that might set civilization back a thousand years—or even destroy it altogether—it will be by the education not only of our boys and girls, but of some of our educators and lawmakers in the simple science of which Arnold and Bryce spoke, the science of clear thinking and straight seeing, the science of right and wrong.

A Bad Law.

Any influence that tends to confuse the lines that separate right from wrong is inimical to society. Such an influence is a bad law, a law of the land that contravenes the moral law, or a law that gives special privileges to particular people. Let me illustrate what I mean. Before the war the Germans made elaborate provisions for the regulation of gambling and prostitution. One object was to raise revenue, another was to make the vices of the military class cheap, comfortable and safe, so long as they kept within the rules. Such laws were the product of, and in turn contributed to, the moral degeneracy which brought about the war.

In 1916 the Legislature of Ontario, by the adoption of the Ontario temperance act, abolished the barroom; relegated it to the company of the other disorderly houses—bawdy houses, betting houses, gaming houses and opium joints.

Then in 1919 the people themselves by direct vote approved of this law, and in April of this year the people again by direct action voted to prohibit the importation and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes.

Millions of Capital.

The conflict in one form or another is never ending, and while the people of Ontario, and for the matter of that of the whole of Canada, have for these years been laboring to cast out one kind of disorderly house, the Government of Canada has been legalizing another kind of disorderly house; so that what was in 1910 an infant betting house industry, leading a quasi-illegal and precarious existence, is now a legalized vested interest—a vast betting house trust with millions of capital and with poisonous tentacles reaching far into the social, political and financial fabric of the country. It is a long and sordid story, the most shameful chapter perhaps in the annals of Canada. I have time only for a very brief summary.

"In 1910, the so-called jockey clubs of Canada procured from the Parliament of Canada the amendment to the criminal code that has since been the law of Canada, exempting the common betting houses conducted by them from the penalties against that kind of disorderly house. They procured this extraordinary exception to the criminal law in the face of an adverse report by a strong committee of the House of Commons, and in the face of the strongest evidence of the demoralizing effect of such places.

"They procured it in the face of the fact that nearly all the states of the American union—including the great states of New York and Michigan—were then enforcing stringent laws against the race-track betting houses. They procured it in the face of the opposition of the churches and the farmer and the labor organizations of Canada. They procured it on the representation that they were sportsmen and horsemen, and that such an amendment of the law was necessary in the interests of the thoroughbred horse. That these representations were false pretences has been abundantly established by the report of the Government auditors on the operations of the jockey clubs and by the evidence taken before Commissioner Rutherford and by his report made to Parliament last year.

"It is now clear that of the millions of dollars of profits from their betting house rake-off, made by the jockey club betting houses of Ontario alone between 1910 and 1917, nothing at all has been diverted to the thoroughbred, but that the whole amount has gone into the pockets of the shareholders of the jockey clubs, for the most part either professional betting-house men or men of high social position, many of them occupying seats or otherwise exercising political influence in the Parliament of Canada or in the Legislature of Ontario.

Jockey Clubs Won.

In 1910 a proposal to legalize race track betting was strongly opposed in the Canadian Parliament, but the jockey club lobby was too well organized and had too many representatives on the floor of Parliament, and the Government of the day was complaisant and the jockey clubs won.

"Then the race-track betting houses had it all their own way till 1917, when, under stress of the war an order-in-council was passed taking away betting house privileges from the jockey clubs. Deprived of their rake-off, they closed down, and many good citizens hoped that, with the experience before it of the years between 1910 and 1917, the Parliament of Canada would repeal the legislation of 1910.

"Instead of doing so, the Government in 1919 appointed a commission to again inquire into the matter, and named as commissioner, Dr. Rutherford, an advocate of betting privileges for the jockey clubs, who as such had been a principal witness for the jockey clubs on the inquiry in 1910. Then last year, after his report had been received, the law was further amended so as to still further tighten the grip of the betting house fraternity on the criminal code.

"The amendment of last year is along the German line of making the practice of vice still cheaper and safer, and the pari-mutuel betting machines, which are gambling machines just as much as roulette wheels, are now recognized by the criminal code to the exclusion of the bookmaker, and the percentages to be taken by the machines are definitely fixed.

"The dominion minister of agriculture, that is to say, the Government of Canada, becomes the patron and protector and regulator of gambling devices, the owners of which, if they were in England, would be liable to conviction as common rogues and vagabonds, and which are prohibited by the criminal law of every part of the North American continent north of Mexico, except on the race tracks of Maryland, Nevada, Kentucky and Canada.

"And then came, a few days ago, the crowning indignity in the announcement by the Government of Canada that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are to be utilized by the Government to supervise the operation of the pari-mutuel betting machines at the race meetings. In other words, the dominion police are to be used to regulate conduct that is universally recognized the world over as anti-social and criminal conduct. They are to be the croupiers for the betting houses.

"It is quite apparent that the organized betting houses are doing now at Ottawa what their first cousin, the organized liquor trade, did at Toronto in the heyday of its power—they are themselves dictating the laws by which they are to be governed.

Sires Dwindling.

"As the evidence before Dr. Rutherford showed, even the thoroughbred has dwindled under the blighting influence of the betting houses, almost to extinction, for whereas there were 68 thoroughbred sires in this province in 1906, the number had fallen off in 1920 to 16, which is less than one per cent of all the purebred sires in the province.

"And what part of the electorate of Canada is it that requested the Government of Canada to put itself on a level with the governments of Cuba and Mexico in this matter?

"But if the Government at Ottawa has not been actuated in its attitude on this question by the electors of Canada, what has been the motive force? Well, let us see who these people are who have been able to get concessions from the Government of Canada by way of amendments to the criminal code under which they have carried on practices which have made thieves and defaulters of Canadian youths (for such is the evidence), and under which they have been able to amass for themselves vast fortunes from the betting house rake-off.

Two Classes.

I forebear mentioning names, but there are two classes. First, there are the professional betting house men, most of them from the United States, names well-known in sporting house circles. Not one of these men is a real horseman; not one of them a real sportsman. It would be a compliment to call them gamblers, because gamblers take chances and these men take no chances at all. They just take the rake-off, whether wins or loses.

"Needless to say, these men did not go to Ottawa to ask for amendments to the criminal code. Such a request from such men would itself have been the strongest reason for refusing it. The Government would have had no difficulty in seeing clear and thinking straight in dealing with a request from notorious gamblers to amend the criminal law in their relief.

"So the request was not made by these men, but by their associates in the Canadian Racing Association, the class to which I will now refer. That class, as I have already indicated, is made up mainly of citizens of Ontario, men occupying high social position, a number of them in the recent past members of the Parliament of Canada or of the Government or Legislature of Ontario. Some of these men have since sold out to the foreign gamblers, others have dropped out of public life. Two only of the jockey clubs in this province remain now under practically the same control as in 1910. I refer to the Ontario Jockey Club of Toronto and the Windsor Jockey Club at Windsor. It is the members of these clubs chiefly who by reason of their social and political influence have been able to get and keep and strengthen the concessions from the Government of Canada.

The Government of Canada knew, because their commissioner, Dr. Rutherford, gave the figures which told them so, that all the so-called jockey clubs, those controlled by the professional gamblers as well as those controlled by respectable people, were alike run as common betting houses, and that the respectable gentlemen at Toronto were pocketing their hundreds and thousands per cent per annum profit with no more compunction than the professional gamblers on the other tracks.

Rutherford's Report.

Dr. Rutherford's report, which deals with the situation between the enactment of the amendment of 1910 and the passing of the order-in-council in 1917, shows that on an investment of $10,000, the members of the Ontario Jockey Club drew cash and stock dividends from their betting house business of $710,000, and the stock dividends were and are worth more than cash. This was an average of more than $100,000 profit a year, or more than 1,000 per cent per annum on their investment. And of this vast sum nothing went to the thoroughbred. It all went into the pockets of the gentlemen shareholders.

But if the betting house profits of the Ontario Jockey Club down to 1917 were amazing, what shall be said of those of 1920, as disclosed by reports filed with the treasurer of Ontario. The rake-off for that year was $516,506, as compared with the previous high-water mark of $177,687 in 1916, and as compared with $58,932 in 1910—in other words, an increase in rake-off of almost tenfold in ten years. In addition there were gate receipts last year of $212,555, making a total revenue from these two sources of $774,061, out of which purses were paid amounting to $202,282. I hesitate to estimate the percentage of profit for 1920 on the club's investment of $10,000, but it must have been somewhere between 5,000 and 10,000 per cent on their investment of $10,000.

Hamilton Club

At the Hamilton Jockey Club the investment was $4,000. On this original investment the club paid $378,300 in cash dividends between 1910 and 1917, and its capital investment in 1917, according to figures prepared by the club itself for the commissioner of taxation, and reported by Dr. Rutherford, was $688,229. In other words the $4,000, under the fertilizing influence of the amendment to the betting house section of the criminal code of 1910, grew to the total sum, principal and interest, of $1,066,529—an average profit of more than 3,000 per cent per annum for the members of parliament and their relatives and sporting house men who held shares in this club. The returns to the treasurer of Ontario for 1920 show that the rake-off at this club last year was $444,927, which was more than twice the rake-off for any previous year, and more than seven times the rake-off in 1916.

At Windsor.

At Windsor there are three jockey club betting houses, and, as might perhaps be expected from the proximity of Detroit, the chief of these, the Windsor Jockey Club, is the greatest money-maker of them all. On an investment of a few thousand dollars, dividends far in excess of a million dollars were paid down to 1917. The total rake-off, according to Dr. Rutherford's figures, for the four and a half years ending with August, 1917, was $844,642. But the rake-off for the year 1920 alone, according to returns to the Ontario Government, was $848,054, or more than that for the four and a half years ending with 1917. In addition to this, the gate receipts last year were $255,881—making a total revenue of $1,103,935 for these two sources for the year 1920, out of which the club paid $187,700 for purses.

Fort Erie Track.

A similar tale, with variations, could be unfolded with regard to the betting houses that are run by professional betting house men at the Fort Erie track and at the Devonshire and Kenilworth tracks at Windsor and at the Thorncliffe and Dufferin Park tracks at Toronto, but time forbids.

At the Woodbine.

The season of 1921 has opened more auspiciously than ever before for the jockey clubs. Woodbine Park at Toronto never held such a crowd as that which assembled to witness the race for the King's Plate a week ago last Saturday. Though the entrance fee had been raised, the jam at the turnstiles was so great, according to the newspapers' reports, that several women fainted and were carried into a side room to revive, while everybody arrived disheveled in clothing or a bit out of temper because of the jostling. But still it was a notable pageant. I quote from the newspaper reports:

"As the band struck up 'O Canada,' the brass-helmeted, scarlet-coated dragoon escort from Stanley Barracks swept into view from the track, and behind it came the official coach with its blue and white clad postilions and red-coated attendants," and so on.

And the gambling carnival having been duly opened at the only club which is in a position to stage a social function, it will now proceed down the line to the other tracks of the Canadian Racing Association that are betting houses pure and simple, and Toronto will, during the racing season of 1921, have 42 days of it, and Windsor 42, and Hamilton 14, and Fort Erie 14—in all, 112 days of unrestrained gambling for the Province of Ontario.

The Dominion law is not rude enough to require any publication of information by the betting houses, and even Dr. Rutherford's report conveys no information as to the amounts wagered on the Ontario tracks from year to year. But a law passed last year by the Legislature of Ontario, to which I shall refer in a moment, row calls for such information, and as a consequence we now know the amount wagered on the different tracks last year. The sworn returns made by eight clubs to the treasurer of Ontario for the 112 days on which racing meetings were held in Ontario in 1920, show that the grand total that passed through all the pari-mutuel machines was $42,164,546, and that the rake-off to the jockey clubs was $4,384,237. In addition to this they took $1,351,425 as gate receipts, and $218,379 from other sources, or a total revenue from all sources of $5,954,041, out of which they paid purses of $1,287,199, three-fourths or more of which went to United States horses.

In England, owing largely to the greater sporting propensities of the people and the existence of many large cities, the vice is more deep-seated than it has yet become here.

The members of one Ontario family received in the three years ending with 1917 no less a sum than $502,800 in cash and stock dividends as their share of the rake-off profit from two of the Ontario jockey club betting houses, and it may well be that the Parliament of Great Britain thought that the process of millionaire-making by stock speculation was inimical enough to society without introducing a new process of millionaire-making through a business of commercialized vice.

The Facts.

But it will be said to me: "Your government taxes these betting houses; what about that?" Let me give you the facts. Until last year Ontario treated the jockey clubs rather tenderly. I have before me a pamphlet issued by the late Government of Ontario just before the election of 1919, entitled "Ontario's Successful Financing." Let me read one paragraph:

"Legislation introduced during the session of 1916 increased the taxes on race meetings, which had been taxed in 1914 at $500 per day to $1,250 per day. The revenues from this source have been:

"1914	$ 42,250
1915	42,350
1916	136,265
1917	100,722"

The present Ontario Government last year increased this tax from $1,250 per day to $7,500 per day, an increase of sixfold, and last year realized $77,000 revenue from this source. I have no apology to offer for this.

There is still another evil that is subtler and therefore even more dangerous. It is the confusion of the moral standard produced by an immoral law, and by the support of that law by people of high social and political standing. People reason: How can it be wrong if it is approved by the law? How can it be wrong if it is approved by Sir This and the Honorable That? But if legalized and protected betting houses, why not legalized and protected disorderly houses of the other classes mentioned in section 228 of the criminal code, as advocated by many army men, and why not Sodom and Gomorrah? The descent to hell is easy once you let go your grip on the moral law—once you forget to bring things to the test of right and wrong. And people do forget to do that when the offending thing is put forward with official sanction and under the glamor of distinguished patronage.

It will be idle to say that I am attacking sport or the thoroughbred horse or horse racing or even betting such as goes on on baseball or cricket fields. I am not attacking any of these things. As to horse racing the evidence is clear that it was a great national sport both in England and on this continent before bookmaking or the pari-mutuel was invented, and that it is a success now without these concomitants where the race trackmen are real horsemen and sportsmen.

Purposely Refrained.

I have purposely refrained from giving the names of the professional gamblers who are in control of the majority of the racetracks of this province—and as such are associated with honorable gentlemen of this province in the Canadian Racing Association—some of whom are now or have been recently also proprietors of gambling resorts in Chicago, Baltimore, Cuba and Mexico. It would have been invidious for me to do so without also giving the names of the honorable Canadians, their associates in the Canadian Racing Association, and I have not done this because I am not without hope that these men will yet abandon a business that is degrading to them and to the Government of Canada, and that is fast debauching their country.

The racetrack betting house was not good enough for the land of its birth. New York and Michigan and Missouri and New Jersey and other states penalized it as a disreputable thing, and then the Government of Canada was not above inviting the men who had been expatriated as not good enough for Detroit or St. Louis or Buffalo to come to Ontario and establish their betting houses just opposite the cities of Detroit and Buffalo. That was an act degrading to Canada and offensive to neighboring states, and especially humiliating to Ontario.

It is idle to put the blame for the amendments to the criminal code of 1910 and last year on the professional betting house proprietors. It will be equally idle to attempt to call the racetrack politicians to account, for most of them are not now in public life, or if they are they are under cover so far as their racetrack interests are concerned. But there is fortunately no difficulty in locating the responsibility. Whatever may be said about other laws, the Government of the day must take full responsibility for amendments to the criminal code.

Then, as a final word, let me remind the Canadians who are associated with these jockey clubs, of the great need at this time for all good citizens to stand firm on the principle of one law for the rich and the poor alike—not one law for the millionaire member of Parliament who has influence enough to secure an amendment to the criminal code in favor of his gambling resorts, and another law which hustles the two-dollar handbook man off to the jail farm for six months, as happens every little while in Toronto. It is such laws that make Bolshevists.

Died for Justice.

Every few days we still read of the death of some poor young fellow from the effects of German poison gas or of wounds received in defence of our civilization, and their names are added to the scores of thousands of the Canadians who lie in France and Belgium whose memories will abide for evermore. They died for justice and right; and, to adapt the words of President Lincoln at Gettysburg, it is now for us, the living, who urged them to the sacrifice, to be "dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of their devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The royal commission in the racing inquiry reported that the London Jockey Club was incorporated on the 18th March, 1912, under Dominion letters patent, the applicants being R. R. Bruce, J. L. Counsell, William J. Southam, Horace W. Wilcox and St. Clair Balfour, all of the city of Hamilton.

The capitalization was two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, divided into twenty-five hundred shares of $100 each.

The club was not represented at any of the hearings in this inquiry, but the information furnished by Mr. J. L. Counsell, barrister, of Hamilton, Ont., one of the original applicants for incorporation, is as follows:

The club has secured one hundred and twenty-five acres of land on Dundas street, just east of the city of London, Ont., where it was preparing to build when the war broke out.

Mr. Counsell stated that "Messrs. Madigan and Larkin" were co-owners with him of this property until the spring of 1919, when he bought out their interest. The Mr. Madigan named is probably Mr. John Madigan, who is the president of the Niagara Racing Association, referred to elsewhere in this report.

He states that the club held one meeting at London some years ago, but the commissioner has been unable to secure from him any details, financial or otherwise, as to this meeting.

A Good Fight.

Dr. Clovis G. Chappell of Washington, D. C., also addressed the meeting. He congratulated the delegates present on their support of Mr. Raney, saying: "I am glad to see you have a good fight on, here. The Christian people get to be mighty flabby unless they are militant saints. I believe in a fighting Christianity. It always takes battle and encouragement to enforce the law, and the fellow on the other side respects us bette."

This eloquent speaker kept his auditors in an uproar with his wealth of humor and witty after-dinner stories. Miss Frances Nickawa, an Indian maiden of the Northwest, and a protege of the Methodist Missions, appeared in native costume and regalia. She entertained those present with two readings of poems selected from the works of Pauline Johnson, Canadian Indian poetess. T. B. Shillington, retiring president of the Conference Lay Association, acted as chairman at the banquet.

Louise Huff the Famous Actress Tells How To Instantly Beautify The Hands and Arms

New York—"The girl or woman who neglects to beautify her hands and arms (now that short sleeves are in vogue) has only herself to blame if she is passed by unnoticed," says that beautiful actress, Louise Huff. It only requires a few minutes twice each day to make your hands and arms beautiful and attractive. With no covering to protect the elbows they become dark and rough and no matter how often they are bathed they look ugly and repulsive. This can be easily and quickly overcome by taking proper care of them. The best way I have found to accomplish this is to soften the elbows with a good cold cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best) then wipe off the superfluous cream with a soft cloth and apply that popular beautifier, Derwillo, to the hands and arms. This combination instantly beautifies the hands and arms and if you ever try it once you will never be without it." Just make this test: Try Derwillo on one hand and arm and then compare it with the other, and you will need no further argument to convince you that there is nothing like it and you would not have missed it for anything. Derwillo comes in three shades, white, flesh and brunette. Use white on the hands and arms and the shade you are accustomed to for the complexion. Derwillo gives the skin that youthful appearance every normal woman craves. It puts the blush of a rose on your cheeks and a lily-white baby softness on the hands and arms. It cannot be detected. Derwillo has become a regular fad and over five hundred thousand discriminating girls and women use it in place of face powder as it stays on better and does not rub off on clothing. Perspiration does not affect it and is wonderful for a shiny nose, oily skin, freckles, dark, sallow, rough skin, and poor complexions. It's famous for the quick results it gives. The very first application will astonish you. Try it today. It can be obtained at the toilet counter of any up-to-date drug or department store and if your druggist does not carry it he will be glad to order it for you if you will ask him to. All wholesalers keep it so he can get it from them or the manufacturers direct. Accept no substitutes, then you will not be disappointed.

NOTE—Derwillo and Liska Cold Cream are sold everywhere with the distinct understanding that if you are not pleased your money will be refunded. They are sold under the above guarantee in this city at all department stores and druggists, including the Standard Drug Stores and Strong Drug Store.

CHAIRMAN BLAMED FOR DESTRUCTION OF VALUABLE RECORDS

Judge Snider Presents Report Upon Recent Ottawa Case.

OTTAWA, June 3.—The editorial committee is charged with responsibility for destruction of valuable papers and documents at the department of public printing and stationery, in the interim report of Judge Colin G. Snider of Hamilton, tabled in the House this afternoon by the prime minister.

The commissioner who investigated the removal of the papers in question, which included valuable records, some of them dating back to before confederation, concludes his report to the Government by saying: If the books which were discarded and destroyed, or any of them should not have been discarded and destroyed, the editorial committee and particularly its permanent chairman, Fred Cook, are responsible for it because the discarding was done according to what Mr. Normandin and Mr. Bailey (the expert), in their evidence and in their notes made to the meeting on August 11 say was then directed by Mr. Cook and concurred in by Mr. Lynch.

"If Bailey and Normandin misunderstood the directions then given them, this fact is due to gross negligence of duty by the head of the committee and its chairman in not doing anything to make sure that the instructions given were properly understood and that the notes taken were correct and in entirely neglecting in any way to supervise the discarding which Mr. Cook and Mr. Lynch knew was about to take place. Mr. Cook, the permanent chairman paid not the slightest attention to it."

BUILDERS' CONFERENCE CALLED.

OTTAWA, June 3.—Following an appeal by the mayor for a round table conference, the secretary of the Association of Canadian Construction Industries states that a committee from the contractors will attend such a conference on Monday morning. Senator Robertson will also attend.

COMPLAINANT IS CALLED "PRETTY SMALL POTATO"

Mayor's Opinion of Anonymous Writer Who Criticized City Laborers.

ST. THOMAS, June 3.—Stopping to fill their pipes, rolling the "makins," talking, shouting and pulling the end out of crusty cream cones, are the complaints made today by a writer to the mayor, of the conduct of corporation laborers, all over the city. The mayor objects to move for an inquiry into the charges unless the party finding fault with the men sends in his name. The mayor calls the citizen who did the writing a "pretty small potato and "has not brains nor nerve enough to sign his name to the communication." Although the letter bore the signature of "Spectator."

The crime of eating ice cream between smokes has already been proven against the men, and the rolling of the "makins" has been in evidence. But the other items complained of wait for an investigation.

Stolen Goods Identified.

The auto wheel and robe recovered by Detective McCully on Thursday apparently belong to H. G. Joliffe, Springfield, who reported the theft of these from his car some weeks ago and the tires secured by the detective may belong to H. L. Pressey, Aylmer.

The Death of W. N. Small.

William Nathan Small, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Small, Talbot road, East Yarmouth, died last evening after ten days' illness.

The funeral will be on Sunday afternoon to St. Thomas Cemetery.

Charged With Non-Support.

Charged with non-support of his wife, who had been allowed 50 cents a day for her keep by her husband, George Weedon, colored, who was given a week by the magistrate this morning to increase Mrs. Weedon's allowance.

The Peony Exhibition.

President F. E. Bennett, Secretary Edgar Jeffrey and H. Middleton Loudon of the Ontario Peony Society have arranged the details of the second annual exhibition to be held on Saturday, June 11.

The Lake Erie Coal Company, Walkerville has been given the contract for the supply of coal to the gas department, at $6.01, F. O. B., Elgin.

Will Not Carry Mail.

The report is current that the Grand Trunk afternoon train going east and the night train coming west will not carry postal matter after the summer time schedule becomes effective.

Row Over Chickens.

Hit with the edge of a spade, on the head, and his ear macerated, over a row in which a bunch of chickens were the primary offenders, Daniel J. Scott, a merchant, Fingal, has been charged by Leonard D. Palmer, another merchant of the village, with doing him grievous bodily harm. He will, if his condition permits, come before the magistrate tomorrow morning. Palmer is said to be seriously injured.

Scott's chickens had climbed the fence and are alleged to have done no little damage to Palmer's vegetable garden.

DECLARES TYRANNY IN RANKS OF LABOR WILL CRUSH ITSELF

Hamilton Conference Opposes Printers' Demands For 44-Hour Week.

HAMILTON, June 3.—Rev. Dr. S. W. Fallis, Methodist book steward and business manager of the Ryerson Press, Toronto, in presenting his annual report to the Hamilton Methodist conference here today, referred to the strike of job printers, pressmen and bookbinders in Toronto, and said not 5 per cent of the men would have gone out if they had not been connected with international unions.

"Some day," he said, "tyranny in the ranks of labor will crush itself."

The conference indorsed the action of not granting the demand of the men for a 44-hour week. Mr. Fallis is chairman of the Toronto Employing Printers' Committee which is fighting the battle for the employers against the strikers.

A pathetic incident at the conference today was the appearance on the platform of Rev. Thomas M. Jeffries of Oakville, Ont., who, if he lives until next February, will be 100 years old. The aged minister told of the pioneer days in his ministry, when he frequently had to go hungry, and sometimes, after a long ride on horseback had a dish of peas as his dinner.

"But, thank God, I am still here," he said.

The conference rose to its feet as Rev. Mr. Jeffries left the platform and returned to his seat in the body of the church.

DRURY WAS UNABLE TO REACH CHESLEY

Heavy Rain Interfered With Big Soldiers' Reunion Celebration.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHESLEY, June 3.—A heavy rain which poured down continuously for several hours marred the Soldiers' Reunion Celebration here today. The committee decided to carry on under the adverse circumstances. The morning parade attracted a large crowd from the surrounding towns and country. In the afternoon about 4,000 people gathered in the park to greet Premier Drury, who was coming from Owen Hill in an auto, but got stalled at Stayner on account of the condition of the road. It was decided by the committee in charge to postpone the horse races until Monday, June 6, on account of the condition of the track, although 31 horses are here to compete.

In spite of the bad weather an enjoyable afternoon was spent in baseball and lacrosse matches. Owen Sound defeated Chesley in baseball, 14 to 11, and Tara defeated Paisley at lacrosse, 7 to 2.

Music was furnished by the Chesley-Bruce Regimental Band and the Wiarton Pipe Band. The day was brought to a close by a grand concert in the roller rink, followed by a community dance.

KING'S BIRTHDAY PASSES QUIETLY

Closed Doors of Banks and Public Buildings Only Sign.

ST. THOMAS, June 3.—The only visible reminder that today was King George's birthday was the locking of the front doors of all the local public offices and banking agencies. So far as the marking of the anniversary by casting a few flags to the breeze or manifesting any other outward observance of his majesty's natal day, the people generally appear to have overlooked a hitherto appropriate and loyal custom.

The Historical Society and Women's Art Association will hold their annual outing on Fraser Heights, Port Stanley, Monday afternoon.

Crops Look Good.

The district agricultural representative, C. W. Buchanan, finds in his investigation of crop conditions in the county that oats are somewhat backward in East Elgin. Hay will be short. Wheat looks good north of Aylmer in the Springfield section. The oats in West Elgin have shown considerable progress during the last week, owing to the weather situation.

Dead Years Ago.

The press announcement a week ago from Medicine Hat that Col. Howe of Howe's Circus raged over the brand of mud grown in that town and threatened vengeance on the rainmaker Hatfield, is just newspaper bunkum, said C. W. Finney of John E. Robinson's circus today.

Col. Howe has gone the way of the departed spirits, confided Mr. Finney, and has had his reckoning with St. Peter years ago. If the colonel complained so vigorously of the rain, declared Mr. Finney, it is fairly good proof that his present habitation must be in a temperate atmosphere and not where water is as scarce as chickens tooties.

S. O. S. Purchase Park.

The Sons of Scotland, Dutton, have secured five acres in the village which will be made suitable for park purposes, athletic grounds and public gatherings.

The Kiwanis Club will hold its first hop at the Lakeside Casino Monday evening in aid of the playgrounds fund.

NEARLY 9,000 AT MERCHANTS' PICNIC

WINDSOR, June 3.—Between 8,000 and 9,000 residents of the Border Cities attended the annual picnic of the Retail Merchants Association at Bob Lo Island today. Showers did not dampen the ardor of the excursionists or mar the proceedings. One of the features of the program was an open air wedding, the ceremony being performed by Rev. O. C. Gray. The bridal couple received gifts from local merchants valued close to $1,000.

CHATHAM MAY SEND PROTEST TO OTTAWA

Lack of Appropriation For Repairs Is Causing Criticism.

CHATHAM, June 3.—The absence of any appropriation for urgent repairs to Government property here has aroused keen resentment in this city. The supplementary estimates, although providing for a sum of $15,000 for improvements at Rondeau in the southern part of the county, make no mention of providing for repairs to the huge revetment wall on Tecumseh Park. It is possible that Chatham bodies will send a formal protest to the Dominion Department of Public Works to at least take the necessary precautions of reinforcing the wall in question so that it will not topple into McGregor's Creek, which is the only drainage outlet for a large section of Kent County.

MILK PRICES ARE LOWER AT EMBRO

EMBRO, June 3.—The price of milk is down to 11 cents a quart, and according to rumors may go lower. Eggs are firmer again, and 21 cents is being paid at the stores, and 26 cents by the egg circles.

Crops all through this district are in excellent condition, and there is every promise of a splendid harvest.

The ladies of the Congregational Church intend holding their annual garden party on July 1.

Rev. L. B. Gibson of Knox Church, Woodstock, will occupy the pulpit of Knox Church here on Sunday morning. The Young People's Society will conduct the evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cody and family are moving this week from John street to Huron street to their new home which they recently purchased.

The baseball league game, which was played here between Plattsville and Embro, resulted in a score of 5 to 2 in favor of Embro. Embro and Kintore play at Kintore on Saturday evening.

Are You a Born Advertiser?

Certain merchants get a reputation for being born advertisers.

They may have earned the reputation. They were not born that way. Their particular genius has lain in the fact that, having marvelous faith in the power of Daily Newspaper Advertising, they went ahead with it regardless of immediate results.

They had courage. And the courageous advertiser gets the greatest rewards.

There are those whose temperament is not suited to Napoleonic tactics. Neither will their product or pocketbook permit them to use these tactics even if they were so inclined.

Daily Newspaper Advertising is as another brain to the sales force of these men. It is the one medium from which they get quick and accurate returns; and are able to repeat their advertisements as often as conditions warrant and the treasury justifies.

This is particularly true at this time of the year, when the season, the weather, the change of fashion, the state of public mind and attitude of competitors, all combine to affect daily sales.

* * *

The born advertiser is not necessarily the large space advertiser, nor does he have to have more than one thing to advertise.

If he is quick to seize every incident in his daily life and capitalize it in his next day's advertising — the public will soon pay him that tribute of admiration expressed in the words "a born advertiser."

Single chum race—1 Miss M. Gendron and Clifford Jones, 2 Edythe McCutcheon and G. McNiven, 3 Wilma Harding and Mr. Beattie.

MAY STIMULATE BUILDING

BRANTFORD, June 3.—With bricklayers' wages down 10 cents an hour, and carpenters 5 cents lower, and with material cuts from 25 per cent to 33 per cent, as compared with December prices, the announcement of the drop coming today, local builders are expecting a considerable boom in building. The lumber price-cut is the second within the last two months.

TWO BARNS BURNED IN DRESDEN BLAZE

Fire For a Time Threatened Several Other Buildings.

DRESDEN, June 3.—Fire destroyed two barns here today, one owned by N. Swift, a local milkman, and the other to Essex Vandyke. The fire started in the building belonging to Mr. Swift, and he was badly burned about the arms while getting his horse out. He succeeded in saving the animal, although it received injuries from burns, as well as its owner.

Another barn and the home of Mrs James Stephens were in imminent danger from the flames several times, but the firemen succeeded in confining the damage to the buildings destroyed.

Charles Kaake has purchased Mrs Dennis Perry's property, South Dresden and the latter has bought Mr. Arthur Wicks' home in North Dresden. Mr Wicks family will move into the apartments above his grocery.

Mrs. J. N. Love attended the funeral in Chatham on Tuesday of Charles Rutley, of that city.

BIRD SANCTUARY FOR LONG POINT

SIMCOE, June 3.—Hon. Beniah Bowman, minister of lands and forests, and Dr. E. J. Zavitz forestry commissioner, are in Simcoe today on what they call a pleasure trip. While the minister takes a holiday at Dr. Zavitz's summer cottage at Turkey Point, the forestry station at St. Williams will be visited and a bird sanctuary established in the new 500-acre public park on Long Point.

"We hope to justify some of those fish yarns we hear about," said Mr Bowman, as The Advertiser scribe left him contemplating a dish of home-grown strawberries in the dining-room of a local hotel.

HYDRO EXTENSIONS TO BE CONSIDERED

WINDSOR, June 3.—Word was received today by Major Wilson from Chief Engineer Gaby of the hydro commission that Sir Adam Beck and other members of the commission will be in Windsor on Tuesday afternoon to meet representatives of the border municipalities, regarding street car line extensions. Double tracking of Ouellette avenue and Wyandotte street will be considered, but the deliberations will also include proposed improvements to the radial system all along the border. In municipal circles the visit of Sir Adam and members of the commission is regarded as an indication of early government approval of the extensions planned for the border.

PLAN SCHOOL PICNIC IN ENNISKILLEN

PETROLEA, June 2.—Preparations are being made for the annual Enniskillen Township school picnic, to be held at Trott's Grove on June 25. The schools of the township will compete in track and field sports, medals being awarded to the winner in each class. An enthusiastic committee has charge of the arrangements, and indications are that the event will be fully as successful as those of former years.

Disruptive Forces at Work To Split the Allies

The flare-up over the Silesian episode revived, for a moment at least, the persistent German dream of a break in the Entente and at the same time it brought to the press of the Allied and associated nations a sobering realization that the failure of France and Great Britain to reconcile their conflicting interests might fan into flames the smoldering hatreds of Europe. Thus, immediately after Lloyd George's flat-footed demand that France and Poland curb Korfanty in Silesia, a Berlin correspondent of the New York World announced "on high authority" that "a beginning has been made toward a rapprochement between Great Britain and Germany, directed against French aggression in the Ruhr and Silesia. Business competition inspired the Anglo-French friction over Silesia, thinks the Springfield Republican, which remarks that "it is plain that the British business world, while it favors the claim of France to a large indemnity, is opposed to a Franco-Polish monopoly of the coal of Europe." The Pittsburg Leader hints at French plans for a war on Russia, in which case France would find a strong Poland an invaluable ally.

"THE FOOLISHNESS OF PREACHING."

It is recorded of St. Paul, who shines with transcendent lustre among apostolic messengers of the Gospel, that no Christian in all history accomplished so much effectual work in twenty-eight brief years. Equipped with profound scholarship, doubtless embracing the great languages of the times, and gifted with a remarkable power of expression for his overmastering and imperial purpose as a herald of truth to the nations, he manifestly had no light nor indolent conception of the means of propaganda; and yet in his letter to the church at Corinth he designates it as the "foolishness of preaching." Having in mind the groups at that community of admirers of Grecian philosophy and the easy-flowing eloquence of Apollos, as well as those of the "not many noble and not mighty" class, he disarms the highbrows elated with human wisdom by a satirical approach, observing that the message of The Cross to those who perish is an exhibition of folly, but to those who profit by its saving resource it becomes the veritable, transforming power of God. He could cite Jewish history to show how the political wiseacres who sought worldly alliances like that of Egypt against Assyria had been confounded and came to grief. Furthermore, it was a pungent criticism of the hopeless failure of philosophic intellectualism to deliver from moral degradation communities where public prostitution was made a part of their so called religion! So, while Jews stumbled over the meek and lowly Redeemer and Greeks speculated, Paul comes with a vindicating demonstration that it had "pleased God by the foolishness of preaching" to proclaim the all-sufficient deliverance.

In the pre-Messiah ages preaching by the prophets was the accredited means of making known disclosures of the Divine mind and purpose. Many of the messages like those of Ezekiel and Isaiah were garbed in language of such inimitable and imperishable splendor as to sustain the conception of the Divine afflatus operating through qualified human instrumentality, analogous to the way in which the Word of the Eternal becomes the Sword of the Spirit to bring conviction to the mind and heart. Then, in the fullness of time, up and down the Jordan valley John the Baptist heralded the Messiah's advent with a startling message. In the new dispensation it was continued and from those days to the present, by repeated and Holy Spirit-renewed commission, the voice of the preacher as an exponent of the Divine oracles has never been stilled nor outgrown. By its fruits it bears the confirmation of the ages. Through the printing press The Word itself is diffused in multiplying millions, and the periodical page possesses all the potentiality of an illimitable ally of the pulpit. But no purely earthly agency can supersede the living personality as a convincing expression. However strong the printed discourse may be, it can never retain the spiritual fervor, the swaying and determining influence of the speaking Punshon, Chalmers, Beecher, Baldwin, Phillips Brooks or their successors. Hence as a universal means of communicating revealed truth and awakening spiritual consciousness, experience past and present confirms the scope and vindicates the necessity of the Christian pulpit.

The call of the times is said to be for an ethical gospel. Surely, the fruits of it must be ethical. But the daily record of the news that's fit to print proclaims the need of a voice that will cry aloud and spare not. Human statesmanship is unequal to the task. Without for one moment forgetting the goodness, sympathy and generosity abroad in the land, the eyes cannot be shut to the appalling story of violence, greed and lust, becoming an oft-told tale of commonplace. Ethical platitudes have little potency to reach gunmen, gamblers or profiteers with their hands in the public pocket, or to arouse Laodicean apathy. Looking out over the field an American newspaper the other day saw a mad orgy of selfishness, sensualism, acquisition and crime; nights sported away in luxurious animalism, while thousands perish of hunger, exposure, disease or martyrdom. "Every possibility of materialism is exhausted to create one last thrill of sensual pleasure and the social conscience is seared until we witness without even the lifting of an eyebrow, the governor of one great state inviting the president of the republic to attend a slugging contest in which one highly-trained human animal is expected to knock another similarly-trained animal into insensibility, or possibly death." For such conditions nothing but a revival of sincere religion would suffice. The Right Rev. Charles D. Williams of Detroit, Episcopal bishop of Michigan, lately warned clergymen against the commercial standard: Is he able to put his parish over in the financial campaign? If study, prayer and spiritual preparation were crowded out by material activities decadence would result in their own and the lives of their people. Rev. Dr. John Clifford, the grand old man of the English Baptist communion, who knows the meaning of "enduring hardness," once said to his brethren that the weakness of the church was its refusal of the cross. We have it in the manuscript and literature and among our ornaments, but it is not in our lives. We preach the "cross" and talk of the "blood," he declared, but choose the easier places in life, seek the primrose path, and will not take the sorrows and plagues of men upon our own heart; and so we sigh in vain for a revival of religion. In an address before the Chicago Methodist ministerial meeting Bishop W. F. McDowell, while commending the teaching ministry, pointed out that it was no excuse for not being a soul-winner. Didactic preaching could only be saved from death by an evangelistic purpose and aim. The lives of men were lost. Humanity was fallen—and falling. "The train is not simply late; there had been a wreck." But the power of Christ was sufficient to the complete redemption of human life. At the centre of this great undertaking stands the Christian minister. "To this task in Christ's name let us this day give ourselves." It is the biggest job in sight.

THE HEALTH OF THE PEOPLE.

The keynote of the conference held at Niagara Falls under the auspices of the inter-relations committee of the Ontario Medical Association was the advisability of forming an allied council of the organizations represented at the meeting, the object of such council being to get together on common ground and discuss problems concerning the welfare of the general public. The organizations in question include nursing associations, women's institutes, manufacturers, farmers, engineers and members of the Rotary Club, the Red Cross and the Canadian Dental Association.

It certainly looks as if a council so widely representative would be able to do good work in combatting various public evils and in promoting the welfare of the people, providing that the danger of overlapping the functions of existing bodies is sufficiently guarded against.

The fighting of tuberculosis and other diseases is at least an object which all can assist in with all their might, and much might be accomplished by concentrated effort in this direction. The health of the community is, after all, one of the country's greatest assets, and its preservation is really the conservation of one of Canada's most valuable resources.

In this connection it is interesting to observe that Dr. J. Heurner Mullin of Hamilton, president of the Ontario Medical Association, in his opening address made the statement that "the lack of present day hospital requirements in rural communities was appalling," and he urged an extension of hospital facilities to the country districts. The medical profession in Ontario, the doctor said, should assist in the development of some plan for the improvement of the service to the community. He was of the opinion that the poor should receive the best without any suggestion of charity, and that much of the cost of sickness should be transferred to the people at large.

This object was to a large extent attained in Great Britain by the passing of the national health insurance act, and Dr. Mullin's suggestion that the matter should be taken up and advanced along proper lines is well worthy of serious attention.

THE DISCREDITED CABINET.

Government newspapers throughout the country carried an inspired article not long since in which reference was made to the "quiet" work that had been done in Quebec, and the marvelous transformation of opinion in that province which was going to reflect itself when a by-election came along. We have no doubt that there has been a good deal of "quiet" work of one kind and another done in Quebec. The Meighen Government has a campaign fund laid up that puts campaign funds of the past in the shade, and there are probably friends of the Government in plenty who are willing to co-operate with it in the spending of the money. Naturally the gentry who are charged with the judicious spending of the money in Quebec are not likely to turn in gloomy returns, otherwise their occupation would be gone, and someone else appointed who could produce more favorable news. Now that Yamaska has cast its vote the Meighen Government will have a chance to ponder over the effects of the "quiet" work of its paid agents.

It is not enough to say that Quebec has made up its mind to remain "solid" or to claim, as the Government organs claim, that old issues were raked over in that campaign. Old issues are raked over in every campaign. The Meighen Government will rake over old issues when a general election comes along in order to conceal its own wretched record. The fact of the matter is that Quebec added just one more touch to the general repudiation of the present Dominion ministry, a repudiation that is noticeable in every province of the Dominion. East Elgin voiced the feeling of rural Western Ontario when it defeated the Government candidate, notwithstanding the fact that the premier visited the riding twice and tried to make the people think the election was one vital to the whole country. There are not many seats that the Meighen Government would care to open up today and risk its chances of success. The prospect of by-elections is a constant nightmare to the administration.

It is a pitiable spectacle that is presented of a government simply holding on to office, though repudiated in every quarter. In York-Sunbury resort was had to attacking the Farmer candidate as associated with Bolshevism, the same kind of stuff that Premier Meighen voiced in his Stirling speech, and that Sir George Foster, even more crudely, voiced at Aylmer. It is a hint of what may be expected when the general election comes. The Meighen organization is evidently planning to set itself up as the only supporter of law, order and British connection, and to brand all opponents as disloyal or Bolshevist. The opponents of the Government may as well be prepared for this sort of thing and be ready to meet it. Flag-waving is still the refuge of Toryism in Canada in just the same degree that it was in the days of Sir Allan MacNab.

LETTERS

"DO NOT MARRY."

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I read an article in a paper some time ago asking why there are more bachelors in Canada today than there were years ago, when there were less women. I am not a married man, but I know why there are so many bachelors in Canada today.

Many young women of today refuse to marry until a man has as good a home as what her father has, which took him a lifetime to make, and is more interested in dancing and other society recreation than in exercising her ability by helping a man to make a home, but would rather sit in an easy-chair, and build castles in the air, and wait for a wealthy man to come her way.

Some women do not know that an intelligent man with good common-sense does not need much money to prosper, if he has substantial ideas and is industrious. I notice that an intelligent woman with good common-sense will marry a man lacking integrity and common-sense, so that she can count the money and be boss, while he is her slave, while on the other hand an intelligent man with good common-sense finds it difficult to marry a woman equally as good, but can easily marry one of an inferior type.

A man with a sound judgment and a mind of his own will not allow a woman to be his superior under any condition whatever, so refuses to marry.

I agree it is right for a woman to have a say in financial matters, but when she seeks to be superior to a man that is going too far. We do not need to wonder why there are so many inferior children today, which is the fruit of like breeding. Yours truly,

FRED STRATTON.

WOMAN AS A TEACHER.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I regret the stand you take in reference to female teachers. Knowing you to be fair and square and honest in your expressed opinions I would like you to look on the other side of the picture. I have watched the progress made in our schools, academies and colleges for nearly 50 years, and I am fully convinced that, providentially, the women have been permitted to take a hand in the education and upbuilding of the youth of our country. I may be wrong, but I think no man living—all points being equal—can take the place of a woman in the moral and mental education of our boys and girls.

You mention in one of your able editorials that a conference of the National Association of Schoolmasters was held in England recently, at which they "condemned the appointment of women as organizers and administrators of the physical education of boys." No mention was made of women as teachers in our schools of learning, either public or private. The experience of the English people in reference to female teachers is the same in old London as in new London. "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." Woman was God's last and best handiwork. Woman always has and always will take a higher stand morally, mentally and religiously than man.

The boy of 14 who said that his female teacher was afraid to offend him by being severe, struck the nail on the head. This is the crux of the whole matter. Who has the greater "pull," the man who persuades and reasons through a spirit of love, or the man who takes you by the throat and attempts to force you? Who will a boy do the most for, his father or his mother?

So far as ability goes a woman is man's equal every time. In this day and age that claim goes unchallenged. If a boy refuses to obey the dictates of his better nature and fails to be guided by a woman who is his teacher, woe to the man—and boy, too—if the birch or rod is used.

Objection is made to equal pay. Justice demands and makes equal pay proper and up-to-date. A man should show himself to be a man and never admit that he is "henpecked" professionally or otherwise. It is no wonder that male teachers are decreasing in numbers, not only in England but in this country and every country. Truly, the world is moving on. Yours, very truly,

JOS. S. GADD.

ADAM'S DISADVANTAGE.

[Kingston Whig.]

Adam had one disadvantage. He couldn't tell Cain and Abel what a good little boy he had been at their age.

A GREAT NEED.

[Guelph Herald.]

One of the greatest needs of the present day is better regulations for parking husbands in the huge drygoods stores.

DANGERS OF RACIAL CONFLICT.

[La Patrie.]

"It would be idle to deny the significance of Saturday's verdict: The province of Quebec has not yet forgiven the campaign of injuries which was directed against it four years ago, when, apparently with the approval of those who then governed the country, the French province was, in the press and at all public meetings, put under a kind of ban of the confederation. The wound thus deliberately inflicted has not healed, and considerable time must elapse before the dead past is allowed to bury its dead. Several of our English contemporaries would read the Yamaska result in the sense of a defiance on the part of the Quebec block, and it is declared that the challenge thus thrown down may be taken up by the rest of the Dominion. There is in such language a perfidious insinuation of dangerous bearing. Are we again to see politicians apply themselves to an exploitation of prejudices with the aim of setting the English province against the French province? The deplorable consequences of the campaign of 1917 ought to turn from such line of conduct all those who profess the slightest interest in the Dominion's welfare. It is not in sowing seeds of disunion and hatred that we shall recover a firm footing on the road of progress and prosperity. The political party that will attempt again to put race against race will be guilty of a criminal act which ought to find no encouragement in any province. The public welfare demands today that all the influences in all the provinces shall be directed towards a reign of harmony and concord."

LADY ASTOR.

[Kingston Whig.]

Whenever Lady Astor rises to address the House of Commons the members expect a hearty laugh, and her ladyship seldom disappoints them. Several days ago, while defending the guardianship infants' bill, she convulsed the usually dignified body by declaring that there are "men in all parties who pay only lip service to women."

But those who suppose that Lady Astor plays no greater role than parliamentary jester know very little of present political conditions in Great Britain. The fact is, she is a power in the nation. It is reliably stated that Premier Lloyd George takes pains to consult her upon every question of importance concerning the Government's internal policies.

Nor is the reason far to seek for she is the acknowledged leader of the woman's movement and holds in the hollow of her hand enough votes to make or undo even the present strong government. The Commons laughs at her witty sallies, but at heart they have a deep appreciation of her ability and a still deeper respect for her power.

Poetry and Jest

NIGHT.

[Rev. George Scott.]

The sunset's kiss of charity
Lieth alike on land and sea,
The woodland and the woodland streams
Are hushed in deep, quiescent dreams.

Slowly the golden west grows dim,
High over the horizon's rim
The twinkling stars mount sentinel
To guard the land, and all is well.

The quarry and the quarried stone
Are melowed by the monotone,
And breezes on the mountain's breast
Whisper their lullabies of rest.

And ships are sailing o'er the foam
For havens where they fain would come,
Their watchful lights and ghostly spars
Safe piloted by faithful stars.

And night's dark mantel covers all
Our restlessness in cot and hall,
Alike the peasant and the king,
Are still in sleep's safe harboring.

"I HAVE WENT."

[Boston Transcript.]

Several correspondents of the London Morning Post have written protesting against the incompleteness of the story told by Mr. Neil of the boy who wrote "I have went." According to W. H. M., the fully story runs as follows: Tommy would persist in saying and writing "I have wrote." To cure him of this his teacher set him the task of writing 100 times the words, "I have written," after school hours. The teacher went home, and forgot the boy for a time. On hurrying back she found he had left this note on her desk: "Dear teacher—I have wrote 'I have written' a hundred times, and I have went home."

LULLABY.

[Mary E. Sangster.]

The mother bird sits on her nest and sings
Under the twilight sky;
And her babies cuddle under her wings,
As the night time breeze creeps by.
But I hold you close in my arms, dear heart,
And I sing you a little tune;
And kiss your cheek, that is like a part
Of the pinkest rose of June.

The mother bird sits in her swaying nest,
In the top of a tall old tree;
And her babies cuddle close to her breast—
But, oh, little heart of me,
I hold you tight till your eyelids fall,
And I rock in a comfy chair—
And, dear, as the evening shadows fall,
I whisper a little prayer.

POOR EDWIN!

Angelina—I'm afraid you'll forget me while you're away.

Edwin—My dearest, I'll think of you when all else is forgotten.

Angelina—Just what I feared. You'll think of me only when you've nothing else on your mind.

A SPLENDID HOLIDAY.

As the evenings lengthen out and summer approaches, the question of "What shall we do this summer?" is in the minds of many. A new publication on Algonquin Park, the wonderful Ontario Government reserve, has been issued by the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways. It is filled with information helpful to those planning their summer holidays. The booklet is a handsome one, beautifully illustrated and describes the many attractions to be found in the park. It also contains views of the hotels that are situated there, and information as to the rates. There is probably not another section of the country that compares to this extensive territory for the canoe cruiser, camper and angler. With an altitude of two thousand feet above the sea, the air is pure and bracing. Two hundred miles north of Toronto and one hundred and seventy miles west of Ottawa, it is easy of access. For pleasure, rest and recuperation there is no place like Algonquin Park. For full information and free copy of illustrated booklet, write any agent Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railway, or C. E. Horning, D. P. A., G. T. R., Toronto, Ont.

What's In a Book?

By Kathleen K. Bowker.

"Dodo Wonders," by E. F. Benson (McClellan & Stewart, Toronto) is a war book.

Let not that affright you!

Dodo in the war is just as different from other people—just as delightful—as she was elsewhere. (And at that, the war is only in the middle, like the filling in the sandwich.)

"I made an art of saying something first," remarks Dodo, "and putting a meaning to it afterwards." And she does it (or the author of her being does it for her) in a way that is an art, truly.

Are you interested in graphology? The advanced student of that art, can study character from a "client's" handwriting, without knowing what the actual written words are. And if you admire handwriting, you will enjoy a letter written in a flowing yet original "fist" for the mere sake of savoring the fine formation of the letters. It is in this spirit that one may read a Benson book—and take twofold pleasure from it. There is the pure oral charm of that glancing and inimitable style; after which it is quite worth while to read it over again for the story, and for the real power of the thought that is enmeshed in those flashing paragraphs.

One reads such a book, much as one watches a beautiful dancer doing a symbolic dance, with flowing draperies and interpretive lighting.

The pleasure of form, color and a movement that has been so carefully studied that it appears spontaneous, appeal first. The symbolism is of secondary—though more lasting—moment. Contemplation of the performance brings wonder, gratitude and enlightenment, as to the power and the purpose of the whole.

And so, through these delightfully described scenes of Dodo "flying" to meet the visiting German prince and princess—of the effect that they had upon Edith Arbuthnot (I always did love Edith!); of that same lady a-fishing in complete at-and-de-tachment, Dodo's tea-gown and Jack's tennis shoes, of Dodo and David in church, and on the 'bus; of "Jumbo" and Dodo's dance, of Dodo and the mop (when the war crashed); of Edith and her symphony, of Edith's own personal bomb, of David's day, of Dodo's breakdown and how she managed never to do it again; of the soldier to whom an evening of unadulterated Dodo in her big house "fair give 'im the 'ump"—by all this one is amused and charmed, and filled with stimulating chuckles—and then, like Dodo—one wonders.

Is the substitution of parlormaids for butlers to be the great and lasting result of the war, for the leisured and ruling classes? Even at that a butler—a rather pampered and demanding butler, it is true—is hovering on the doorstep, when the door closes upon his contemplative mistress.

Take a Day Off For This!

Is there a more perfect day in the world than one of those that sometimes come the way of mortals—when it is possible to lie under the trees in a hammock—and just read?

Such a day should be devoted to "The Kingdom Round the Corner" by Conigsby Dawson (Copp, Clark & Co., Toronto).

Tabs—or Lord Tabourly—steps off his demobilization board right into the first page of the book—and the fringes of your heart.

His little dream lady-love, Terry Beddow, awaits him in a motor car that she has "wangled" from a friendly general. All through the long fierce fighting years, Tabs has been counting on just this. He knew—he was over thirty—that this dear child, growing to womanhood in the shadow of the great terror, had been to him, half herself, and half a peg—no, no! that's too stiff a simile—say a glorious budding branch—on which to hang his hopes, his trust, and his inspiration.

Of course, being a sensible man, he expected her to be different, but not so different! What he had not realized was, that while he had used Terry as the spirit of his dream, she had used him as a catch-all for her inconvenient emotions. The other emotions had been placed in nearer hands.

Nobody blamed Terry—nobody ever did, seriously, except perhaps honest little Terry herself. Only fate, that follow-it-up preceptor, handed her a punishment which, while it didn't hurt so much, was horribly humiliating.

Tabs, returning prepared to marry Terry that actual moment, finds her intrigued and fascinated by this mysterious war office friend of hers—a new army general—extraordinarily forceful man, with absolutely no "push" but his own—whom the limelight shows as Tabs' own valet—the very valet with whom he had enlisted as a private, and lost sight of during the war. Tabs, being a "noblesse oblige" persons, ungrudgingly gives honor where honor is so notably due; squirming meanwhile at his own inability to forget the original relations. If only Braithwaite had been former valet to the King of Siam, the situation would have been so much simpler!

Terry having engaged herself to Braithwaite, in response to the passions of imagination, goes back on her word, and clinging to Tabs, begs him to take her, on her own terms. They are the ruthlessly, almost unconsciously, selfish terms of youth; and she uses their engagement purely and simply as a shield and buckler for herself. Honestly, she is afraid of her general. She is not big enough (and he is a big man) to swallow him, boot-brushing, clothes-folding past, and all—to take him so in the face of parental opposition, and the jeers of her own world—and against the sinister humor of her own heart.

Tabs lets her have her own way with the situation. In spite (or because) of the salient fact of Anne, his incomparable maid. Anne, you see, had been practically engaged to the valet, and Anne had believed him missing. Anne, however, reads the papers, and she is no fool. But Anne is just as noblesse oblige-y as Lord Tabourly himself, and proves that all things come to her who is able to wait—with forethought, control, and intelligence—just as she herself has been trained and accustomed to waiting, in the very best families.

And then, there is Maisie; Maisie the much-married, yet the wife of one husband only. Maisie—

O, you may cherish the most Puritan resolutions, but you love Maisie—and know that she is fundamentally as "all right" as she is fascinating—the moment you lay eyes on her between the lines.

But why spoil it?

Maisie occupies almost half of this entrancing book; and even the very buoyant belief that I have in my own powers of description, does not convince me that I can do justice to her in a quarter of a column.

Besides, why should I want to debar you from a personal visit to that idyllic little house, in the Fairy Square; from the miniature garden with it's toy pond and boat?

Go there—and meet the other woman—at whose existence between these pages, I haven't so much as hinted. But she's there.

No. 4—OLD QUEBEC.

This week we will swing from Ontario to Quebec; from the Niagara to the St. Lawrence; from a little town facing a river and a lake, to a big city that forms a gateway to Canada.

That is what Quebec is: a big city and a Gateway One to the big Canada beyond. It is where most of our history begins, for it was here that Champlain built the first house, "Le Habitation," he who was the first governor of Canada under French rule. That was over three centuries ago. A lot of water has passed under the bridges of Time since. The Canada of a few hundred population has expanded into the Dominion of nearly nine millions, and with a corresponding development in wealth and importance.

This Little Trip should be a satisfying one from every point of view. Take in the historic old centre in panorama first, as it is approached by steamer: a jumble of steep roofs and dormer windows, of spires and statues, of steep and winding streets connecting Upper and Lower Town. Old ramparts and walls, ancient cannon peeping at you from ancient embattlements; staircases on stilts, narrow streets that suddenly end at a rock wall, little bridges that span the space between top stories, where the week's washing is hung out to dry.

There's something worth seeing at every turn of the road. The Church of Victory, for instance, in Lower Town, telling of the repulse of an English fleet away back in the 17th century when France and England were fighting for a new continent; Sous-le-Cap, the narrowest thoroughfare in all Canada, with its planked floor; the water front alive with craft of all kinds, making a foreground for the marine picture of men-of-war and ocean vessels anchored in midstream in the mile-wide St. Lawrence. Lower Town is a bit of Old France in New Canada, where the French tongue is chiefly heard, and where the citizens live in the old French way.

Lift your eyes now and what will you see? High overhead the Dufferin Terrace, topping the cliff and carrying the great Chateau Frontenac that reminds one of a French Chateau of the Middle Ages; the massive walls of the Citadel tower still higher, and on the topmost corner thereof the King's Bastion, from which the eye will feast on an incomparable picture of city and stream, of smiling country and blue Laurentian mountains in the farther distance, where the waters of Montmorency falls and the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre attracts their thousands of visitors and pilgrams.

There is still left the imposing old Laval University, filled with art and historic treasures, the Ursuline Convent, with the skull of Montcalm kept in a glass case; the Cathedrals—Catholic and Anglican; the Champlain Market where the Habitant foregathers to bargain, the striking Parliament Buildings facing a noble park and avenue and, farther west, the battlefield of the Plains of Abraham, where Wolfe fell in his moment of victory, and when the British Conquest opened a new page of history.

All this may be seen on this Little Trip, and much more, for the half has not been told.

SPANISH DOUBLOONS

BY CAMILLA KENYON

"I say, Shaw," cried the beautiful youth enthusiastically, "Miss Harding's the most ripping sport, you know. Not the least nervous about the trip, I assure you."

"I was," I announced, moved to defiance by the neighborhood of Mr. Shaw. "Before we started I was so afraid that if you had listened you might have heard my teeth chattering. But I had at least the comforting thought that if I did go to my end it would not be simply in pursuit of sordid gain."

"And indeed that was almost a waste of noble sentiment under the circumstances," answered the dour Scot, with the fleeting shadow of an enraging smile. "Such disappointingly calm weather as it is! See that Miss Harding has some coffee, Bert."

I promised myself, as I went with Mr. Vane toward the fire, that some day I would find the weapon that would penetrate the Scotchman's armor—and would use it mercilessly.

Cookie, in his white attire, and with his black, shining face and ivory teeth gleaming in the ruddy firelight, looked like a converted cannibal—perhaps well from his errors by one of Mr. Vane's missionary Johnnies. He received us with unctuous warmth.

"Well, now, 'clar to goodness if it ain't the lil'e lady! How come you git ashore all dry lak you is? Yes, sah! Cookie'll get you-all some'n hot immejusly." He wafted me with stately gestures to a seat on an overturned iron kettle, and served my coffee with an air appropriate to mahogany and plate. It was something to see him wait on Cuthbert Vane. As Cookie told me later, in the course of our rapidly-developing friendship, "Dat young gemmun am sure one ob de quality." To indicate the certainty of Cookie's instinct, Miss Higglesby-Browne was never more to him than "dat pusson," and the cold aloofness of his manner toward her, which yet never sank to impertinence, would have done credit to a duke.

On the beach, Mr. Shaw, Capt. Magnus and the sailors were toiling, unloading and piling up stores. Rather laggingly, Apollo joined them. I was glad, for a heavy fatigue was stealing over me. Cookie, taking note of my sagging head, brought me somebody's dunnage bag for a pillow. I felt him drawing a tarpaulin over me as I sank into bottomless depths of sleep.

I opened my eyes to the dying stars. The moon had set. Black shapes of tree and boulder loomed portentous through the ashen dimness that preceded the dawn. I heard men shouting, 'Here she comes!' "Stand by to lend a hand!" In haste I scrambled up and tore for the beach. I must witness the landing of Aunt Jane.

"Where are they? Where are they?" I demanded, rubbing my sleepy eyes.

"Why didn't you stay by the fire and have your nap out?" asked Mr. Shaw, in a tone which seemed to have forgotten for the moment to be frigid—perhaps because I hadn't yet waked up enough to have my quills in good pricking order.

"Nap? Do you think that for all the treasure ever buried by a pirate I would miss the spectacle of Aunt Jane and Miss Browne arriving? I expect it to compensate me for all I have suffered on this trip so far."

"See what it is, Bert," exclaimed the Scotchman, "to have a truly gentle and forgiving nature—how it brings its own reward. I'm afraid you and I miss a great deal in life, lad."

The beautiful youth pondered this.

"I don't know," he replied, "what you say sounds quite fit and proper for the parson, and all that, of course, but I fancy you are a bit out in supposing that Miss Harding is so forgiving, old man."

"I didn't know that you thought so badly of me, too!" I said timidly. I couldn't help it—the temptation was too great.

"I? Oh, really, now, you can't think that!" Through the dusk I saw that he was flushing hotly.

"ad," said the Scotchman in a suddenly harsh voice, "lend a hand with this rope, will you?" And in the dusk I turned away to hide my triumphant smiles. I had found the weak spot of my foe—as Mr. Tubbs might have said, I was wise to Achilles' heel.

And now through the dawn-twilight that lay upon the cove the boat drew near that bore Mr. Tubbs and his fair charge. I saw the three cork helmets grouped together in the stern. Then the foaming fringe of wavelets caught the boat, hurled it forward, seemed all but to engulf it. Out leaped Mr. Tubbs, and disappeared at once beneath the waves. Shrill and prolonged rose the shrieks of my aunt and Miss Higglesby-Browne. Valiantly Mr. Shaw and Cuthbert Vane had rushed into the deep. Each now appeared staggering up the steep, foam-swept strand under a struggling burden. Even after they were safely deposited on the sand, Miss Browne continued to shriek.

"Save! Save Mr. Tubbs!" implored Aunt Jane.

But Mr. Tubbs, overlooked by all but this thoughtful friend, had cannily saved himself. He advanced upon us, dripping.

"A close call!" he sang out cheerfully. "Thought one time Old Nep had got a strangle-hold, all right. Thinks I, I guess there'll be something doing when Wall Street gets this news—that old H. H. is food for the finny denizens of the deep."

"Such an event, Mr. Tubbs," pronounced Violet, who had recovered her form with surprising swiftness, "might well have sent its vibrations through the financial arteries of the world!"

"It would have been most—most shocking!" quavered poor Aunt Jane, with feeling. She was piteously striving to extricate herself from the folds of the green veil.

I came to her assistance. The poor plump little woman was trembling from head to foot.

"It was a most—unusual experience," she told me as I unwound her. "Probably extremely—unifying to the soul-forces and all that, as Miss Browne says, but for the moment—unsettling. Is my helmet on straight, dear? I think it is a little severe for my type of face, don't you? There was a sweet little hat in a Fifth avenue shop—simple and yet so chic. I thought it just the thing, but Miss Browne said no, helmets were always worn Coffee? Oh, my dear child, how thankful I shall be!"

And Aunt Jane clung to me as of yore as I led her up the beach.

CHAPTER V.

The Captain's Legacy.

When in my tender years I was taken to the matinee, usually the most thrilling feature of the spectacle to me was the scene depicted on the drop-curtain. I know not why only the decorators of drop-curtains are inspired to create landscapes of such strange enchantment, of a beauty which not alone beguiles the senses—I speak from the standpoint of the ten-year-old—but throws wide to fancy the gate of dreams. Directly I was seated—in the body—and had had my hat taken off and been told not to wriggle, I vaulted airily over the unconscious audience, over an orchestra engaged in tuning up, and was lost in the marvelous landscape of the drop-curtain. The adventures which I had there put to shame any which the raising of the curtain permitted to be seen upon the stage.

I had never hoped to recover in this prosaic world my long-lost paradise of the drop-curtain, but morning revealed it to me here on Leeward Island. Here was the feathery foliage, the gushing springs, the gorgeous flowers of that enchanted land. And here were the soft and intoxicating perfumes that I had imagined in my curtain landscape.

Leeward Island measures roughly four miles across from east to west by three from north to south. The core of the island is the peak, rising to a height of nearly three thousand feet. At its base on three sides lies a plateau, its edges gnawed away by the sea to the underlying skeleton. On the southeastern quarter the peak drops by a series of great precipices straight into the sea.

Dr. and Mrs. Alex. S. Thompson announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Alexander, to T. Norman Chambers of Santiago, Chile, the marriage to take place in St. John's Anglican Church, Strathroy, on Wednesday, June 22.

Miss Mabel Warner, a June bride-to-be, was the guest of honor at a shower, given on Thursday evening last, at the home of Miss Bessie Copeland, Waterloo street, when a number of her friends presented her with a variety of pretty useful gifts. The evening was spent in dancing and music.

Mrs. Clarence Foreman was recently pleasantly surprised when the Girl Guides of St. Paul's Cathedral, of whom she is captain, presented her with a beautiful silver flower basket as a farewell gift. Miss Ila Chelew read the note of appreciation which accompanied the gift, while Miss Joyce Arnold made the presentation.

Mrs. Roy Cairncross was the hostess of a delightful dinner party last night in honor of Miss Agnes Morrison, whose marriage takes place shortly. Covers were laid for sixteen at small tables attractively decorated with pink roses and peonies. A very special table was arranged for the bride, centred with a silver basket of Ophelia roses. After dinner the guests enjoyed an evening of bridge.

Mrs. Russell Court, Emery street, recently entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Mary Barons, whose marriage takes place shortly. The living-rooms were prettily decorated with orange blossoms and marguerites, while in the dining-room white streamers came from chandelier to table, where orange blossoms and marguerites were again used effectively.

The gifts were presented in a flower-bedecked clothes basket, the bringing in of which was preceded by the playing of the wedding march and the presentation to the bride-to-be of a lovely shower bouquet and wreath of orange blossoms.

The St. Joseph's Alumnae entertained the graduating class of that hospital at a banquet held on Thursday evening at the Cafe de Luxe, about 60 being present. During the evening Mrs. Tighe was presented with a handsome cut glass tray, the presentation being made by Mrs. Wilson, on behalf of the alumnae. Other interesting presentations were made to two recent brides, a cut glass vase being presented to Mrs. Joseph Henry and a pretty piece of silver to Mrs. Walter Dodd. A pretty pink and white color scheme was carried out in the table decorations, which were chiefly snapdragon and carnations. At the close of the banquet the evening was spent in dancing.

KERR—FARNSWORTH.

A quiet marriage occurred at the Methodist parsonage, Dresden, on Thursday, when Miss Grace Farnsworth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Farnsworth, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick Kerr of London, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kerr of Dresden. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Osterhout, B.A.

ROGERS—STINSON.

A pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stinson, con. 7, Dawn, on Thursday, when their youngest daughter, Ruth, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Prescott Rogers, son of Mrs. Rogers and the late J. J. H. Rogers of Dawn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Jennings of the Anglican Church, Dresden, in the presence of about fifty guests. The youthful bride was charmingly gowned in white satin and georgette, with bridal veil crowned with orange blossoms. Mrs. Thomas Stinson played the wedding music.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, the young people taking the evening train for Windsor and other points. On their return they will reside on con. 6, Dawn.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

CII—"THE GAME IS UP AT LAST!"

Neither by look nor sign did Miss Crowell show that she had heard. But all the same, a scheme had formed instantaneously in her mind. She must see this girl at once, must speak to her.

"I think I'd like to get out and walk a bit—I'm feeling rather stiff and cramped," she remarked nonchalantly. "You two can drive home without me; I'll follow."

In spite of April's protestations she signalled to the driver to pull up, got out and ordered him to drive the others home.

"Really, that woman takes far too much upon herself," remarked April peevishly, when Miss Crowell had disappeared down the country lanes.

Jask Trevor did not answer. And April, turning toward him, saw that he was trembling like a leaf. The unexpectedness of the meeting with Betty Gordon—the sight of the girl he loved—had completely unnerved him.

His thoughts were miles from April Moore—and April knew it.

As for Miss Crowell, she had hurried after Betty and caught up with her.

"I—I hope you don't mind my speaking to you—like this," she panted nervously, an arresting hand on Betty's arm. "But I'm Mr. Trevor's nurse—I was with him in the carriage just now when we passed you—I had to speak to you."

Betty looked straight into the nurse's eyes with a strange, unfathomable look.

"Did he send you to me?" she asked, in a low voice that shook a little. That little shaky quaver somehow told the nurse all that she wanted to know concerning the genuineness of this little country girl's affection for her patient.

"Well, not exactly," she answered. "But—he wants to see you very badly."

The girl with the pretty, pale face drew back a step.

"I'm sure you are mistaken," she said with steadier voice and head held well up. "If Mr. Trevor wanted to see me he could communicate with me."

There was an awkward pause. The nurse was nonplussed.

"We—we're so disappointed that you cannot come to the Manor House tonight to see the theatricals. Mr. Trevor was expecting you," she stammered nervously, feeling completely at a disadvantage.

The pretty country girl tilted her little chin up a shade higher as she replied:

"I couldn't possibly have accepted the invitation."

Inwardly she was miserably saying to herself:

"Jack Trevor must think I have no pride at all, if he imagines I'd come running to the Manor House after the way he treated me!"

Miss Crowell wasn't going to be easily defeated, however. She tried again.

"I know I'm acting unconventionally, my dear," she said, in her kindly, motherly tones, but my patient wants to see you very much. He has spoken of you to me many times during his illness."

"But," interrupted Betty blankly, "he's engaged—why, even now he's with his fiancee, April Moore! You're quite mistaken in thinking that he wishes to see me. Everything of that sort's over. Didn't he—didn't he get the—the packet that I sent him?" She twisted her little hands together nervously. This interview was positive torture to her sensitive heart. Why had this woman come to open up old wounds?

"The packet? Tell me, what packet?" A sudden suspicion dawned in the nurse's mind.

"The—the ring—a pearl ring—I never want to see it again—I sent it back to him——" Betty broke off, her lips trembling.

Miss Crowell laid a kind hand on the young girl's shoulder.

"A pearl ring? What was it like?" she asked breathlessly. "The suspicion was changing to a certainty.

But with a proud little movement Betty drew back. She couldn't let anyone ask questions on this subject. She couldn't let anyone glimpse the pain in her heart.

"I intrusted it to Mr. Davon—he promised to mail it to Mr. Trevor," she said, in a little distant voice. "The fact that I returned his gift—to Mr. Trevor—shows that no further meeting between us is possible. You can tell him that, if he speaks of me again to you, Good-bye."

Betty turned and hurried off into the woods, like some frightened little forest creature.

When Miss Crowell reached the Manor House she at once sought out April Moore. She found her in the library, cosily ensconced with Charlie Dawson, who had just arrived.

April introduced the latter airily as "My great friend, Mr. Charlie Davon."

But the look on Miss Crowell's face was curious as she stared unflinchingly at Davon.

"Where is the ring you stole from Betty Gordon?" she said sharply. "The ring that Mr. Trevor gave to her, and that you pawned for $250?"

Then, turning sharply to April:

"And where's the will that Mr. Trevor made in Betty Gordon's favor? And the $25,000 you stole from him in Maine? Oh, I know all about you both"—and she flung a scornful look on Davon, then on April—"but the game's up at last. If neither of you will confess the truth, I'll phone at once to the police and have you both arrested!"

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Have you had a kindness shown; pass it on! 'Twas not given for you alone, pass it on! Let it travel down the years, let it wipe another's tears, till in heaven the deed appears, pass it on!

From General Maid.

Dear Friend,—I wrote to your Mail-Box about one year ago several times, and sent in some recipes, also received a great deal of help from you. I never failed one day to read the Mail-Box since, and have received much valuable information, but this is my first time writing for a year, although I intended to do so many times.

I just finished reading today's Mail-Box, and would very much like to get the Easter Lily bulb offered by Sunflower, so thought I would sit right down and write, and perhaps be first. I will pay the hospital fund whatever Sunflower says is right for the bulb if she will send me instructions how to use it the year 'round. If she will send it to you, you could print a notice in the paper it was in, and what Sunflower says it is worth, and I will at once forward you the amount for the hospital fund.

Now, before I close I have a little help for the hospital fund. I have quite an amount of butter bean seed, and it is not too late to plant them, as May 24 is considered about the right time. Now, I will do these up in small packages and give as many for 10 cents as you can buy elsewhere for 20 cents, and send to you at once if there are many demands come in for these. I will watch the paper, and if you print requests for them I will send them in the next day. The money for the hospital fund, of course. When I wrote to you last time I signed myself Mother of Six, but as someone took this pen-name I will sign this time General Maid, as that is what I am, as I keep house and look after nine people, with only a woman's help one day a week to clean. My own home, of course, so that makes it easier to be maid.

GENERAL MAID.

Ans.—Am mailing you Sunflower's address, as I thought it would be more satisfactory to write direct to her. Thank you for mite, also for offer of beans.

Wants Songs.

Dear Miss Grey and Boxites,—Here comes another nuisance. I have never written to the cosy-corner before, but have been a consistent reader. I sure enjoy the letters and often get useful hints. I also am a bookworm. I just love a good, interesting book.

I see in today's paper where Pretty Mickey will supply the words of a few songs. I would be much obliged if I could get the words of "You're a Million Miles From Nowhere," "Arabian Moon," "Lucky Fellow," "I'm So Tired of Dreaming Dixie Lee," "Afghanistan," "Take Me to the Land of Jazz," "An Old-Fashioned Rose," "My Mother," "Feather Your Nest," "Margie," and "Meet Me at Twilight," if it won't be asking too much. Will try and be of help next time. Here is 20 cents for fund and postage.

SNOWBALL. NO. 2.

Ans.—Thank you for hospital mite. You will have to be Snowball No. 2.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Willful Diphtheria.

When a sufficient majority of the public acquire a little knowledge of hygiene and sanitation it will be as disgraceful to the individual or the family to have wilful diphtheria as it now is for the community to have typhoid fever. For we have today not only an absolute antidote for diphtheria poison, an absolute cure called antitoxin, but also an absolute individual prophylactic or preventive. This preventive or prophylactic against diphtheria is no theory. It is a very simple and absolutely harmless hair of the dog that bites you. It has already been administered to thousands of school children and younger children in cities rightly noted as centres of intelligence. Such a city is St. Paul, Minnesota. Without any complete statistics on the subject, I venture to say that there is no other city of more than thirty thousand population in all America where there is a higher degree of intelligence to the square foot than you will find in the city of St. Paul.

This assured protection for the individual against infection with diphtheria is quite as safe as ordinary cowpox inoculation against smallpox; it is even less annoying to the person who is to be immunized. In fact, there can be no valid objection to it on the part of an intelligent parent or guardian, and it is unfair to the child to withhold this great boon when the protection is not only easily available everywhere that doctors live, but is freely offered and urged by all alert and progressive health departments and health officers.

Some children are not susceptible to diphtheria. Such children do not need this prophylactic. Whether your child is or is not susceptible is determined by the Schick test, a harmless skin reaction of the same nature as that commonly employed nowadays in testing infants or adults for various food idiosyncrasies or hay fever or asthma patients for pollen or protein sensitization. St. Paul and other forward-looking cities employ this Schick test successfully upon thousands of young school children.

Diphtheria causes more deaths than typhoid fever. Negligence on the part of parents must now be reckoned responsible for diphtheria in the household.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Warts on Scouts.

I am in the Boy Scout organization and live among boys in camp a great deal of the time. I have warts (?) on my left hand. At one time I tried to burn them out with muriatic acid, but since then several new ones appeared. Are warts contagious—should I or other boys with warts handle food to be eaten by boys who have no warts? How do warts originate, and what is the cure for them? (J. P. F., Jr.)

ANSWER—To begin with, warts are medically termed verrucae—which is discouragement at the outset, for when doctors are up a tree the first thing they resort to is a frightful term, which often does subdue the inquisitive patient. Of course, there are the usual fifty-seven varieties of verracuae, of which verruca vulgaris is perhaps the most interesting to us.

Warts are probably very mildly contagious, but provided your manner of handling the food is cleanly, there is no objection on that score. That they are communicable, however, has been proved by numerous inoculation experiments.

There is some reason to think that warts may be caused by frequent contact of the skin with all kinds of dirt—what everybody understands by dirty hands, for example. No specific germ has been determined.

Sometimes painting the warts and intervening skin with iodine, once each four or five days if the skin does not become too irritated, will apparently cause them to disappear after a few such applications.

Warts come and go inexplicably that their going is just naturally associated with all sorts of remedies, from pork-rind filched from grandma at midnight to a mild sunburn of the affected area. If anybody told me he knew a sure cure for warts, I'd never believe in him any more.

Sparking with the high frequency electric current (fulguration) is a very successful treatment. In some cases this has to be repeated a second time.

Freezing with solidified CO-2—carbon dioxide snow—is another good remedy, applicable only by a physician.

One or two or three warts on the hands or elsewhere would be best excised under local anesthesia.

Sometimes the daily painting of a wart with the familiar corn cure proves successful:

Salicylic acid .....30 grains
Flexible collodion ..... 1 ounce

The following lotion has given good satisfaction in the removal of considerable numbers of warts from any part of the skin, though I do not advise it for the face unless under your own physician's direction:

Burnt lime ..... 4 drams
Sublimed sulphur ..... 1 ounce
Distilled water .....10 ounces

Boil, constantly stirring, down to six ounces, then filter. Apply to skin each night for a week. Stop if skin becomes irritated.

LORNE AVENUE M. C.

At the regular meeting of the Lorne Avenue Mothers' Club, held at the school on Thursday evening, the members decided to hold a picnic at Springbank on June 23. Other business of the meeting was the voting of $25 towards the Children's Hospital, which makes the total club grant now $100. During the evening Mrs. Ralph Osborne, the pianist, who is leaving for Florida next month, was presented with a handsome cluny cloth by the club members. Musical numbers by Mrs. Raynard and Miss Vera Cline completed the program.

GIRLS! BLEACH SKIN WHITE WITH LEMON

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

HOUSEKEEPER'S CLOSET.

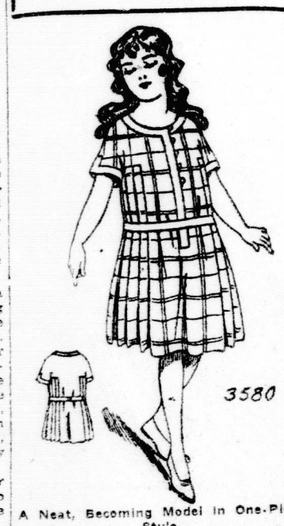

Somewhere, as near the kitchen as possible, there should be a closet with shelves and a row of hooks. Here the larger utensils for cleaning, perhaps the ice cream freezer and tin of coarse salt, the clothes baskets, the box brushes and cleaners for silver and brass, the pile of newspapers for constant daily use, the extra leaves of the dining-room table, the brooms, sweeper, and mops may be kept, at hand, but not in view. This place must be kept clean and sweet also, and it is not a place for food of any kind.

Part of the housecleaning is turning out such a closet, to get rid of the accumulation of empty tins, bottles and boxes that do gather in it, in spite of the best of housekeepers, especially where there are children. White paint is the best finish for shelf and woodwork here, all the more because such a closet is likely to be dark.

The fact that the white paint "shows dirt" is the best of guarantees that it will be kept clean. White oilcloth in such a closet is good to use on the shelves if the paint seems too much care. It should not, however, be tacked on, but cut to fit the shelves exactly, and bound with brown or gray tape. Then it can easily be taken out, washed, and returned, several times during the season.

A good rule for the floor of such a closet is that there should be nothing standing on it. Everything should be hung on hooks or placed on the shelves. This makes it easy to keep the floor clean and forces the housekeeper to resist the constant temptation to pile boxes and baskets and what not in the corners. Prevention is better than cure, all the time, in housekeeping. We can save ourselves a great deal of work, particularly in housecleaning, just by never making it.

Lacking a closet of this sort, a clever woman can adapt an old wardrobe to the purpose. Some good storage place of the kind she must have.

BEAVERS PUT STOP TO TECUMSEHS' WINNING STREAK

Beavers Stop Winning Streak Up Dead With a Swat Fest in the Tenth

Schwab's Homer and a Triple in Tenth Against Herbst Gives Kitchener 8--5 Win and Even Division of Series.

Kitchener added good finishers to their "good starter" characteristics, when they tied up yesterday's ball game 5—5 in the first of the ninth, and in the tenth jumped on Herbst for a homer, triple and single, good for three runs. London couldn't do anything in their half of the tenth, and they were stopped up dead in their tracks, and the ir late winning streak to the sweet tune of 8—5.

It was a game replete with heavy knocks and accidents, and it was due indirectly to these London was wean ed away from their winning streak. Briger was the first to go, when, aft er one of his famous slides on a pilfering expedition, Dunn went up into the air after the peg and came down on Joe's hand, nailing it to the sack wit h his spikes. Shay went next, when a peg of Curry's down to second split his finger. Curry replaced Briger, and while he put up one of his snappiest g ames, the tieing run came through his attempt to put the ball on Sharp com ing into the home plate in the ninth instead of blocking him and blocking h im hard. Sharp punted the ball out of the London catcher's hand for a safet y touch, and the marker which sewed things up.

Carmen and Kirley both were chas ed after they had worked the seventh stanza. "Georgius Leftus" had slightly the worst of his argument with Mathew, the hard-working Beavers getting to t he London south side hurler to the extent of ten hits before Wetzel paged Herbst.

The little bit of argument there wa s for Herbst in his tilt with Schwab was knocked slithery, when Schwab in the tenth maced a homer into far right with one man on.

Sharp put the "O Perfect Day" rec ord on to jazz time yesterday, when he pulled down five clean hits and a wal k out of six journeys to the plate, scored three runs bare-facedly, stole fo ur bases, and made a spectacular catch of Curry's long fly to the signs in the sixth.

Sharp, the Self-Starter.

It was Sharp that started things in the first when he singled, second man up in the first frame, stole second, spiking Malmquest accidentally at that station, and came home on Rust's first triple. Rust came in on Regan's sacrifice fly, which had Vandyke leaning right up against the paint to get.

Walter Malmquest, who gamely continued in the game, tripled to right to start the London second, and got back one of the runs, when he came in on Calbert's smash to left.

London went into the lead in the third, Stutz cashing in through Vandyke's single to centre, and Vandyke registering the second tally of the frame on Wetzel's good crashing sacrifice through the mound. Malmquest bounced one for a double off the left field signs, but Crichlow was a third out.

The Tribesmen apparently put away the game in the fifth, when two more runs came in. Stutz stretched a single into a double, when Kyle took the liberty of taking his time about the throw-in and Shay walked. Both were sacrificed along by Vandyke, and Buzz's sacrifice blow to left scored Stutz. Shay stole third and came in when Kirley threw one to the gate.

Carmen worked great in the sixth, but in the seventh after Lariviere had arrived at first, Shay threw wild to the fence, putting the Beaver catcher on second. Two were out, but Sharp was right on hand to start trouble with a single to left, which scored Larry. The ginger-haired outfielder stole second, and then Rust procured himself his second triple of the long afternoon, and the Beavers were again within a run of the Londoners.

Herbst got by the eighth all right, with one gone, Ernie Sharp again obligingly came forward into the glare and worked him for a walk and stole second. Rust was whiffed, but Regan speared one, good for a single, and though the relay was in Curry's hands in plenty of time he failed to stop Sharp and lost the ball.

Schwab wasn't oozing confidence even when he whiffed Crichlow, and he wasn't any more cocky when Calbert hit the signs and landed up at second. Curry popped and Herbst lifted a high fly to right for the last outs.

He Did a Merkle.

Grimes, the Kitchener first sacker, was the first on the list in the tenth. He banged out a long hit to the right sign boards, and the ball rolled through a hole. He started on the leg of the four bases, but Umps Griffin said he Merkle-d second base, and he was declared out. He threw everything but a fit, but it went. It didn't help matters as it turned out, for Carlin, next up, smote a triple to right and was scored by Lariviere's slam at Stutz. Schwab, who was announced when he relieved as "Swab," proved that the umps was right when he banged his homer to right and pattered in behind Lariviere for Kitchener's third run of the frame.

Stutz and Delotelle, who played first from the seventh on when Shay's removal caused an infield shift, both got on in the London tenth, but Vandyke flied out and Buzz and Malmquest popped out. Score:

Yesterday was the heaviest bombardment laid down over at Tecumseh Park this season.

* * * *

Twenty-two bases in extra knocks, and eleven went down to each team, so it wasn't entirely how many, but when they came, that counted.

* * * *

Harry Tolton, the genial president of the Kitchener club, booted a foul in the press stands along about the fifth. Made him forget the troubles of an owner for the nonce.

* * * *

Curry did some good pegging yesterday. First when he tipped one in the air, and Rust started for third, only to get nabbed, and then in the fifth, when he retired both Sharp and Rust with perfect pegs to the second station.

* * * *

Vandyke handles the flies that come his way so easily and cleanly that the old ball must feel like landing into a down comforter.

* * * *

The Beavers show some awfully rough edges at times. They did yesterday, when they missed a chance to double up Briger at first when he laid down a choice. Rust held the ball just a second too long.

* * * *

Rust, however, can't be criticized for his work at third, as third is not his station. He's a catcher, and has been plying that trade up until the last few days. And to give him credit, he doesn't look like a catcher at third, but a fairish third-sacker.

* * * *

The Brants are going to stay in Brantford for this season, anyway. It was about time somebody did some ball boosting for Brantford besides Tom Nelson.

* * * *

The possibility of the Brants leaving Brantford let out the reason they could never play inside stuff behind the dyke. They didn't have a proper fence around the park.

HAM ERRORS HELP BRANTS GRAB SECOND GAME BY 8—4 SCORE

Relieving Pitcher Lets Four Brant Runs In in Second—Vehics Clean Up Aces.

HAMILTON, June 3.—Brantford took the second game of the series from Hamilton, 8 to 4. Karl started on the mound for Hamilton, Brantford getting two runs off him in the first inning, and he was taken out in the second, with one out and the bases full. He was replaced by Gullman, who did not relieve the side until four runs were scored. Both the Hamilton pitchers had wretched support, there being no fewer than six errors. Wanner held the Hamilton scoreless until the eighth, after which Hamilton scored four runs, one being a home run by Gullman. It was the first ladies' day of the season.

... VEHICS' CLEAN SWEEP. ...

SAGINAW, June 3.—Saginaw's loose fielding today allowed Flint to take a clean sweep of the series from the Aces, the count of the final game being 7 to 4. Gillenwater pitched good ball, but his three erors alone were enough to cost defeat. Shurlow held Saginaw well in hand until the ninth, when a belated rally scored two runs.

Brahts Will Stay In Brantford

BRANTFORD, June 3.—With businessman of the city offering to go out and sell 250 books of tickets, netting $3,500, and insuring large attendance at the local games, the Brant Michigan-Ontario League team will stay in the city. This afternoon business and professional men waited on the ball club and offered to dispose of that many tickets, thus solving the financial problem, since daylight saving time had been turned down by the council and the parks board had taken no action to reduce the ground rental, alleged to be excessive. As it was primarily a financial problem, the offer of the businessmen, which will be backed up by the Kiwanis and Rotary and 50,000 Club and the Merchants' section of the chamber of commerce and the trades and labor council, will insure that the franchise is not sold.

RUTHVEN TAKES GAME FROM BELLE RIVER 6--1

RUTHVEN, June 3.—The locals, before a crowd of 1,500 people, beat their ancient rivals, Belle River, by a score of 6 to 1 in one of the fastest games of ball ever seen here. Dawson twirled well for the winners, but Rose did not receive good support from Belle River.

MOLLA MALORY MEETS MLLE. LENGLEN, LA-LA!

ST. CLOUD, France, June 3.—Today's matches in the world's hard court tennis championship competition brought about the elimination of United States players in the mixed and men's doubles. Two, however, are still in the running, William T. Tilden II., of Philadelphia, world's grass court singles champion, and Mrs. Molla Birstedt Mallory, United States women's singles champion, by winning their individual matches today, earned the right to play in the finals.

Tilden will have for his opponent M. Washer, of Belgium, who defeated the Danish player, Erick Tegner, in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Mallory will face the French champion, Mlle. Lenglen.

THIS MAY ACCOUNT FOR PIRATES' BIG SUCCESS

Further evidence of the team spirit as one of the biggest factors in the Pirates' early season drive, which is now slowing up a bit, is contained in the report that the Pittsburg players were so pleased with their reception here, when they played the exhibition with the London Tecumsehs, that they handed their share of the day's receipts over to their leader.

Their share, incidentally, even when divided over the whole club, made a pretty fair day's pay, and a good deal more than they might ordinarily receive. Considering that this is their livelihood, and such exhibition games are put down to the "velvet" account at the end of the season, their action in turning it over to "Mooney" shows a spirit not often exhibited, especially in professional baseball ranks.

That spirit may probably decide the resting-place of the 1921 pennant in the National League, and ultimately the world's championship.

WAGNER'S DOUBLE WINS FOR LEAFS

Two On When Crash Comes—Orioles Sweep Series With Skeeters.

TORONTO, June 3. — A double of Wagner with two runners on bases and two out broke up today's game in the ninth inning and gave Toronto a 5 to 4 victory over Buffalo. The Bisons won the series, 3 games to 1.

The score: R.H.E.
Buffalo .....000 310 000—4 8 2
Toronto .....010 011 101—5 12 1
Crandall and Bengough; Fortune and Devine.

ORIOLES AS USUAL.

JERSEY CITY, June 3. — Baltimore took the entire three game series from Jersey City by winning the final game today, 6 to 1.

Groves held the Skeeters scoreless and hitless until the eighth inning.

The score: R.H.E.
Baltimore .....010 020 111—6 12 0
Jersey City .....000 000 010—1 3 5
Groves and Egan; Blemiller, Lucy and Frietag, McNell.

READING WINS.

NEWARK, June 3.—Reading made it two out of three here today, when they defeated the Bears, 7 to 3. Brown pitched steady ball for the Marines, while his teammates pounded Perryman hard.

The score: R.H.E.
Reading .....010 211 002—7 12 1
Newark .....010 000 020—3 9 4

CRAIG BEATS ST. MARYS NINE 28--5 AT HOME

AILSA CRAIG, June 3.—The big event today was the game between the local nine and the St. Marys Vets, the game going to the locals by a score of 28—5. It was a day of accidents, for Umpire Hurlbut was taken out with a badly injured leg from a thrown ball, and Lavelle, the visiting catcher, retired with a broken finger.

MACKMEN EQUAL RECORD WITH SEVEN HOMERS ONE GAME

Wetzel, With Flint Last Year, Beats Yankees With Homer.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 3. — Philadelphia equalled the major league record by registering seven home runs in its 15 to 9 victory over Detroit today. A drive into the bleachers by Blue of Detroit in the ninth made the total for the game eight. Dykes and Welch hit two each, and Perkins, Dugan and C. Walker each poled one circuit smash. Three were hit off Leonard in the first inning; three off Holling were scattered and Welch's homer to deep center came off Cole in the eighth inning. C. Walker drove in six runs with his circuit drive and a double with the bases filled.

The score: R.H.E.
Detroit ..... 111 120 201— 9 18 2
Philadelphia ..... 501 014 22x—15 16 2
Leonard, Holling, Cole and Bassler; Naylor, Harris and Perkins.

PINCH HIT WINS.

BOSTON, June 3.—Pinch-hitter Vick's single to centre with the bases full and one out in the last of the ninth gave Boston a 7 to 6 victory over Cleveland today. Pratt's hitting for Boston and Sewell's and Stephenson's for Cleveland were responsible for many of the early runs. Four pinch-hitters were used, three hitting safely and Ruel being hit by a pitched ball.

The score: R.H.E.
Cleveland ..... 000 301 011—6 15 3
Boston ..... 202 001 101—7 14 1
Coveleskie, Morton, Uhle, Bagby and Thomas; Russell, Pennock and Walters.

FABER IN FORM.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—Faber was effective in all but one inning today, while Chicago bunched hits on both Mogridge and Erickson, and took the second game of the series from Washington 8 to 3.

Mulligan, with a home run and a triple, batted in five of the visitors' runs.

The score: R.H.E.
Chicago ..... 002 002 004—8 12 3
Washington ..... 003,000 000—3 [illegible]
Faber and Yaryan; Mogridge, Erickson and Gharrity.

MINT LEAGUER'S HOMER WINS.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Seven runs in the fourth inning, three of them the result of Wetzel's home run, enabled St. Louis to defeat the Yankee in the second game of their series by a score of 9 to 8. Ruth hit his sixteenth home run of the season.

The score: R.H.E.
St. Louis ..... 000 700 110—9 14 3
New York ..... 001 102 202—8 13 1
Davis, Burwell and Severoid; Hoyt, Collins, Sheehan, Quinn and Schang.

DESCAMPS ANNOUNCES GEORGE'S MEASUREMENTS

MANHASSET, Long Island, N. Y., June 3.—Four slow rounds of boxing and a rope-jumping session were the extent of Georges Carpentier's training this afternoon. A crowd of several hundred men and women who had hoped to see him at his best, left the camp disappointed.

In the morning he spent two hours in the woods jumping fences and singing. His sparring partners said that the challenger is entirely free from worry and doesn't show any fear for the coming fight with Dempsey.

Manager Deschamps today announced Carpentier's measurements as follows:

Weight—172 pounds.
Height—5 feet 11½ inches.
Wrist—7¼ inches.
Ankle—8½ inches.
Neck—16¾ inches.
Biceps—14½ inches.
Chest—Normal 41 inches.
Chest—Expanded, 43¼ inches.
Waist—31 inches.
Reach—73 inches.
Thigh—23 inches.
Calf—16¾.

AYR BEATS STRAUSBERG 1--0 IN SOCCER GAME

AYR, June 3.—The fifth game of football played by the locals was played at Strausberg.

The second half seemed the lucky period for Ayr, as "Irish" Brown scored the first and only goal on a nice side kick, as he only had the Strausberg goalkeeper to beat to win his play. McLeod and Appleyard, and again Brown, were the stars of the second period.

Games Ayr Has Played.

Flattsville vs. Ayr, 1 to 0 for Ayr.
Dundee vs. Ayr, 1 to 0 for Ayr.
Blair vs. Ayr, 3 to 0 for Ayr.
Roseville vs. Ayr, 2 to 1 for Roseville.
Strausburg vs. Ayr, 1 to 0 for Ayr.
Ayr stands: Games played 5, won 4, lost 1, goals for 8, goals against 2.

FULLARTON TAKES THRILLER FROM KIRKTON

FULLARTON, June 3.—The locals in a regular game of the North Wellington beat Kirkton, 2—1, in a game all thrills. The score was tied 1—1, when the ninth came around. The batteries were: Berry and Shier; Woodley and Haines.

J. TAYLOR'S RINK WINS AT ELMWOOD CLUB

Sixteen rinks were out at the first of the Elmwood Friday nights. I. Taylor's four won the evening's prize in a close competition. There were several rinks with as many games won, but their plus scores were lower.

The winning rink was: J. W. Scott, J. M. Donaldson, W. Sangster and I. Taylor with three games won and a plus of 11.

AYR ELEVEN WON 1--0 FROM PLATTSVILLE

AYR, June 3.—Ayr eleven beat Plattsville here tonight, 1—0, in a fast game. Bert Munn scored the tally in the first half. Plattsville scored in the last period, but Referee Wallis Tucker ruled it offside.

WOODSTOCK WON CLOSE GAME FROM TAVISTOCK

WOODSTOCK June 3—Woodstock intermediates defeated Tavistock intermediates 1 to 0 in a well played and closely contested W. F. A. game here tonight.

R. C. R.'S NINE WON

R. C. R.'s beat Scott-Chamberlain in the Manufacturers' Baseball League last night by a score of 9—7.

$1,500,000,000 IS ESTIMATED COST OF DEEPENING RIVER

New York Engineers Make Report On Proposed St. Lawrence Scheme.

INTERNATIONAL PAYMENT

Four Times More Costly Than Panama Canal and Far More Difficult As Regards Engineering.

Toronto, June 3.—In an elaborate report, made to the international joint commission, on the deepening of the St. Lawrence for ocean-going vessels and the development of the power possibilities, the engineering firm of Hugh Cuuper & Co., of New York, propose to finance, on behalf of private capitalists, 1,000,000-horsepower, and to construct a 30-foot navigation channel.

The cost of the canalization is not more than $30,000,000 each to the governments of Canada and the United States. The power will cost consumers, exclusive of state and federal taxes about $17 per horsepower.

The first installation, it is proposed, will be on the American side, and will supply 400,000-horsepower, 50,000 of which will be available for distribution in Canada, and when the demand exceeds this quantity, construction on a Canadian site will commence.

The ultimate electrical energy that can be produced is stated to be 6-625,000-horsepower. This would replace 66,250,000 tons of coal annually, and, by the improvement of the canal system, the present 46 miles of canal and 21 locks can be replaced by 3½ miles of canal and 6 locks. The cost of this improvement in navigation and the power development is estimated at $1,-500,000,000.

The report states that this cost is four times that of building the Panama Canal and involves far more difficult engineering. It is also pointed out that the Great Lakes Tidewater Association of the United States and the Canadian associations, representing more than 50,000,000 people in the two countries, illustrate the great interest of the general public in this movement.

Schemes Contrasted.

It is difficult to compare the scheme as outlined by Cooper & Co. with that proposed by the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association. The plans of this association contemplate an expenditure of about $150,000,000, opening up the St. Lawrence for tidewater shipping, but not going as far into the power development project as seems to be the idea of those compiling the Cooper report.

The financial program presented by Cooper & Co., on behalf of the people they represent, is that the funds for the construction of a control station and two power houses at Croil Island will be provided by private interests. The navigable facilities required by the governments of Canada and the United States will be paid for, owned and operated by the respective governments, and all damages will be paid for by the governments.

The Cooper Company also propose that they will act as the agent of the two governments in the design and construction of the works for a fee of 6 per cent on the adopted cost estimate when the plans are approved. This fee will be in full payment for all of the engineering and inspection services, including inspection, as may be required, to complete the enterprise for commercial use.

It is asked that all duties be remitted on materials and tools required for construction, and all labor restrictions between the two countries waived until the works are completed. The first installation of 400,000-horsepower is promised to be ready for delivery, subject to uncontrollable delays, within five years from the signing of the contracts, and the balance of 600,000-horsepower will be developed as market conditions demand.

From the first 400,000-horsepower the whole or any part of 50,000 will be available for delivery to Canada from the American power house, and when the Canadian requirements exceed that amount, work on the Canadian power house will commence, this to be completed in three years. The cost of the Canadian power house is to be paid for by Canada at a guaranteed rate per completed unit plus a pro rata cost of the Canadian half of the control dam.

STORE TEETH HELP CUPID IN FAR NORTH

Wives Without Sharp Ivories Lose Eskimos' Love.

Winnipeg, June 3.—Who will be the first odontological pioneer to carry the gospel of enamel crowns, gold fillings and false teeth to the Eskimos of the far north? Fortune awaits the dentist who will swing his shingle from an igloo and accept pay in furs and walrus tusks, according to a representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway returned from the Mackenzie River.

Chewing skins among a people who take their blubber raw and care nothing for the delicacies of the culinary art is the chief accomplishment of a wife. The wonderful furs the Eskimos wear are made soft and pliable by feminine teeth. An Eskimo girl may be a beauty, but she will go begging in the matrimonial market unless her jaws are equipped with sharp ivories.

Rougish eyes, cherry-red lips and cheeks like roses in bloom are alluring only as the setting of sound molars. Romance is largely dental. Domestic bliss is measured by the wife's ability to chew pelts. She holds to affections of her lord and master by her teeth. Love's dream is over when her incisors are worn to the gums by masticating the tough hides of seal and walrus.

Eskimos have acquired many arts of the white men. They take their game with steel traps and rifles and have cultivated a connoisseurship in canned beans and plug tobacco. But they still treat an aching tooth with a hammer and chisel, and the woman who has lost her grinders is a tragic ghost of forgotten usefulness.

Civilization could confer no greater boon upon these contemporaries of the stone age than to send them good dentists. Crowned incisors would cure heartaches as well as toothaches, and a set of false teeth would keep alive the flame of domestic happiness in many an igloo.

"TALE OF TWO WORLDS" AT THE ALLEN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

The colorful events of the Boxer uprising of 1899 form the background for "A Tale of Two Worlds," an original screen story from pen of Gouverneur Morris, one of the best short-story writers of America. "A Tale of Two Worlds," will be the feature attraction at the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The story begins in China during the Boxer uprising of 1899. In this native rebellion, a young American girl has lost her parents and their priceless collection of porcelains and jewels. The girl is brought to America by a Chinese servant and reared as a Chinese, being kept in ignorance of her real nationality for several years. Involved in the plot is the quest of the jeweled sceptre, of which it has been said that it is bathed in the tears of women and the blood of men. Through the machinations of a tong leader, the beautiful girl is about to become his bride, when an American finds her in San Francisco's Chinatown, rescues her, and in the end marries her. A love story runs like a thread of virgin gold through this tremendously exciting drama of the underground dens of San Francisco's Chinatown. Real Chinese—hundreds of them—lend sinister color to the remarkable scenes in the most famous quarter of its kind in the world. In addition to "A Tale of Two Worlds" will be shown a "Snub" Pollard comedy, Chester Outing Pictures, and the Allen World News.

"HABIT," WITH MILDRED HARRIS SHOWING AT THE ALLEN THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

"Habit," starring beautiful Mildred Harris, which will be the feature attraction at the Allen Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, is a story of unusual dramatic power and further notable for a scene in an atelier of a Fifth avenue importer and designer, where models wearing over $100,000 worth of furs and furbelows parade. The play deals with the tremendous grip habit can acquire. Mildred Harris, in the character of Irene Fletcher, finds herself clinging to her extravagant habits, although her father is bankrupt. She dreams she has married the poorer of her two suitors, and the plot revolving around the efforts of the discarded one to possess her. The latter gets her in his power, when she is lured to his apartment, and a terrific struggle ensues. Her husband breaks through the door and kills Munson. Just at this tense moment, when the police are about to arrest Marshall, her husband, Irene awakens to find her father and both Marshall and Munson bending over her. Confusing the events of the dream with reality, she calls Munson a villain and Marshall her husband. Then she is fully awakened, and consents to wed Marshall.

Throughout the play the allegorical spirit of "Habit" is glimpsed at her elbow, tempting her to fresh extravagances.

Among the added attractions will be shown another of the Booth Tarkington comedies, "Edgar Gets Rick Quick," Allen World News, and the 12th episode of "Son of Tarzan."

WILLIAM S. HART PLAYS BANDIT TO CATCH FUGITIVE IN NEW PICTURE, "O'MALLEY OF THE MOUNTED."

William S. Hart rode into a bank in a small town the other day and took $5,000 from the cashier, making his escape to the hills with little difficulty! He committed this crime to ingratiate himself with "the Hill gang," which had been menacing the town for some time, in order to catch a fugitive from justice, who was under the protection of the bandits. He was exposed later and barely escaped with his life, owing to the help of the very man he had come to capture, who befriended him because he in turn had befriended the fugitive's sister.

Being a member of the Canadian Mounted Police, Hart had to take his man. But on this side of the border he found he could not bring himself to repay kindness by placing the youthful slayer's neck in the noose, so he left him, and going to headquarters, resigned.

That's the story in a nutshell of "O'Malley of the Mounted," by William S. Hart, which will be shown at the Loew Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

BUSTER KEATON AS SELF-EXTINGUISHER IN "HARD LUCK."

Those many troubles attendant upon a firmly-rooted but rather vaguely directed desire to become a self-extinguisher form the merry basis for the continuous hilarity of "Hard Luck," the sixth of the Buster Keaton comedies which is being shown at the Loew Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

With that same sombre air of bewilderment which has made him such a scream to thousands of fans wherever motion pictures are shown, Buster goes through a course of suicide sprouts that lift that usually tabooed subject right into the middle of the comic spotlight.

In his version of hard luck the sombre-faced comedian gives some hilariously funny depictions of just what a man is up against who courts a quick end because his pockets have nothing but their entrances, while bed and board are forgotten luxuries.

TRAINING FILM AT LOEW'S.

The interest in the Dempsey-Carpentier fistic fight is growing throughout the entire world, and both fighters are in the midst of steady training. FILM PRODUCERS FIND BRAINS ARE NEED OF MOVIES

Plenty of Pretty Girls in England, But They Lack Personality.

FAIL AT HARD TRAINING

Want To Be Mary Pickfords Over Night, So Public Favors Americans.

London, June 3.—Never before have there been so many pretty women; never had pretty women less intelligence. That is the verdict of film producers in this country and France, who have been searching for months for stars who will outshine the popular Americans in the screen world.

The motion pictures that get over here feature Americans—Mary Pickford, Pearl White, Norma Talmadge, Clara Kimball Young and the others. Their very names posted outside will crowd houses in all parts of the British Isles, and this has led to a campaign to find English girls who are just as pretty so that they may usurp this popularity.

But if ever fair faces and dancing eyes failed to register they failed here, according to the producers' decision. Men who want to make money in the movies have discovered that a pretty face is not enough—that brains are necessary. Hundreds of beautiful girls have been found, but they have failed miserably before the camera.

According to Rene Navarre, famous French actor and film producer, who despaired of finding the right actresses in France and came here to try his luck and was also unsuccessful, the only remedy is for the producers to combine and start an academy for film acting, in which prospective candidates can be put through a few years of hard training.

Obstacles to Big Enterprise.

This dearth of good film actresses is the main obstacle to schemes such as that of the great film city founded by Navarre and built on the Los Angeles plan which has sprung up at Nice during the last few months. Navarre, who aspires to be the Griffith of the Riviera, has several studios completed, with thousands of workmen building more. But his single absent attribute is the women stars.

Miss Violet Hopson, famous British movie actress, says that it is an unfortunate fact that very few girls in this country succeed in becoming screen stars, while on the other side of the Atlantic such stars appear to shoot up in bewilderingly rapid succession. Miss Hopson has been working with Walter West Broadwest, producer, trying to discover promising British talent, but after much encouragement which they gave to many English beauties they admit that the result is distinctly disappointing.

"We have found that the girls, who are only too anxious to wal kon in the early stages," she said, "become lazy, unpunctual, and unwilling to work through the long hours that might inconvenience them. My own impression is that these girls generally are inspired by sheer vanity. They appear to be highly indignant if offered character parts in which they do not screen as beauties, while a very few, I fancy, are willing to undergo the hard drudgery that is really necessary for them to learn the business.

No Easy Road.

"I know from experience that there is no easy roaad to success in fil mcting. I am afraid the American girl who sets out with the ambition to arrive at the top as a film artist is inclined to be somewhat more thorough in her methods than the English girl. She is more apt to realize the necessity of studying human nature everywhere—in the train, the tube, the racecourse, the football field, the street and the restaurant. She watches manners and memorizes types. The girl who wants to succeed must study literature, too. The heroines of the great tragedies and romances of ancient and modern times should be familiar to her. She must study history, particularly social history, so that she may know how people behaved and ate and drank and how they dressed in the days of long ago. a

"The study of poetry, too, will stimulate her imagination, and will help her in portraying scenes. A girl requires a strong personality. So many English girls are inclined to think that the possession of a pretty face will raise them out of the crowd that must be satisfied with small parts. They will not realize that in acting for the screen they do not have the aid of speech to portray emotions, and that they must actually lle nd feel the parts."

A prominent English producer who likewise has given up in despair says that all applicants want to be Mary Pickfords over night. "These girls," he said, "are inspired by seeing 'Little Mary's' films, and with the natural beauty and coquetry they think they possess, and probably do, they expect to achieve wonders, but they do not realize as I do that Mary Pickford spent years in the hardest work possible and the most careful study of human nature, nor that besides being pretty she is astonishingly intellectual, possessing faculties of insight which surprise her own managers.

"Until our girls develop in a like manner they will fail, despite their pretty faces, and our public still will be clamoring for American films."

FRENCH SALES TAX HAS A DISASTROUS BUSINESS EFFECT

Disappointing in Its Results and Repeal Considered Almost Certain.

PARIS, June 3.—France being one of the two countries which has experimented with a sales tax such as has been under discussion in the United States, the American people might be interested to know the result of the French experience in this connection. The tax has worked badly here, according to both the Government and the man who pays the tax, but how much this is due to the inefficiency of the French tax machinery, which is notorious, is a question.

"The French sales tax has shown itself as exerting a disastrous and paralyzing effect on business generally, and it is only a question of time until it will have to be superseded by a more rational method of raising money, such as an increased levy on salaries and other incomes."

This statement was made to a correspondent of the New York Herald today by Guillaume de Tarde, state counsellor and adviser to Lucian Dior, minister of commerce. M. de Tarde is considered one of the best tax experts in France. As he indicated, the tax is so disappointing in results here that its repeal is almost certain as soon as the Government experts determine on an alternative policy.

Amendments Proposed.

Meanwhile Parliament is considering for the fourth time a new series of amendments to the measures which are designed to stop the gap until another tax system is devised. Regarding the operation of the tax, M. de Tarde said:

"Never before has France devised a tax which was received so badly by both business firms and the public, the former because of the inquisitorial inspection methods which are necessary to prevent wholesale dissimulation in accounts and the public because of the tendency of the businessmen to throw the burden, wherever possible, on the purchasers rather than on their own business profits. It is impossible to collect the tax without having Government agents making the closest scrutiny of business records. It is also impossible for French finances to support such an army of functionaries as this would require, and as the tax therefore is left to the honesty of merchants and producers, who merely sign monthly statements of their sales total and pay to collectors, there is consequently much danger of the records being arranged to suit the taxpayers' purposes. It is unquestionable that the tax is passed on to the consumer in a majority of cases.

"This was particularly true recently when the public expected prices to fall and found that their failure to do so was partly due to the fact that the prices asked in many cases, as was frankly explained, were maintained by the sales tax. The result was that the buyers' strike became worse than ever, reducing greatly the amount of business done and producing a great diminution in the tax returns, as compared with the estimates. It is certain that a less intricate and more collectable method must be found. The only solution of the problem now presenting itself is the increasing of the tax on incomes, although this would affect the public just as visibly as does the present tax, and because of the present high rates on income an increased levy probably would arouse great opposition. But France must have money, and as the sales tax system has not satisfied anyone the law will have to be changed."

Receipts Below Estimates.

The sales tax was the pet project of Frederic Francois-Marsal when he was minister of finance, the Government then drawing up a careful estimate for each month of what the tax ought to yield and calculating the budget accordingly. The result has been appalling, considering France's budget difficulties and need of money. Instead of yielding 3,300,000,000 francs, roughly, since its imposition, it has yielded only 1,400,000,000. February's receipts amounted to only one-third the estimates.

The French system gives the widest opportunities for dishonesty, especially in taxing so-called "de luxe" articles, the law providing a 10 per cent levy instead of 3 per cent on articles such as dresses, mantles, hats, etc., costing more than 600 francs each. But by changing the bill to show two dresses, for instance, at 500 francs each, instead of one bill for 1,000 francs, the French treasury immediately loses 7 per cent. the tax on an article costing 500 francs being only 3 per cent. At the same time prices of these articles are based on the higher tax rate, thus increasing rather than decreasing the public's burden.

Then there is a constant duplication of the tax, each middleman adding the percentage demanded by the Government, so that in many cases the tax will have been paid four or five times on the same article before it reaches the consumer's hands, each levy adding to the public's dissatisfaction and increasing the ire of the merchants when the Government, seeking a solution of the problem, orders the taxpayers to open their books.

Some merchants have estimated that the cost of living here, especially in so far as clothing and household necessities are concerned, would have dropped more than 25 per cent had the sales tax never existed, and naturally the public, realizing they have been imposed on, will welcome a workable method of meeting France's difficulties.

Seasonable Pointers For Farmers

Culling the Chickens Will Soon Be In Season

Some Useful Hints On How T o Determine the Undesirables in the Coop—Vigor, Health and High Producing Qualities Should C haracterize Others.

The hatching season should now be over on the well-regulated poultry plant and attention directed to culling the flock to make room for the growing youngsters.

In the first place, there should be vigorously culled from the flock all birds that show any physical defects, such as crooked beaks, backs or breasts, excessively long toe nails, sunken eyes and long "crow" head, knock-knees or other sign and poor stamina and low vitality.

At this season, if they have not already been discarded, the hens over two years old, unless possessing the characters of extra high production and retained as breeders on this account, should be marketed as soon as they stop laying, show signs of broodiness or moult.

When trap nests are used this condition is readily noticeable, but if not the hens that have stopped laying can be easily distinguished by their shrinking combs and fading color of face and wattles, also by the contraction of the pelvic bones.

These bones, slightly protruding on each side of the vent, remain spread to the midth of about three fingers, placed perpendicularly between them, as long as the hen is laying. In the poor producer they will be found closed to the width of about three fingers, when the latter conditio nis evident early in the season, when she should be still producing, it is a fairly good indication that the bird has given up too soon, and is not the type that makes the high record.

Vigor, health and high-producing qualities are shown by distinctly visible characters, and all birds that do not carry these qualities in a marked degree should disappear from the flock.

The high-producing characters of primary significance are: Full, red comb, bright, bulging eye, long keel bone with lots of width between stern extremity and pelvic bones, showing depth of body with capacity for feed and room for the producing organs; fine pelvic bones spread well apart, and an elastic, velvet texture to the skin of the abdomen.

Hens that moult late in the season, and in the yellow-skinned varieties those individuals that fade out white in the sections that show pigment, namely, the skin, beak, shank and ear lobe, also indicate the possibility of high production, and should be kept in preference to those that do not carry these qualities.

There are more intricate, decisive characters that help in the selection of good from poor layers, but the foregoing will be of some use in an elementary way, to the farmer in selecting his breeders to carry over to the next season. If carefully followed, they will eliminate most of the undesirable specimens that are a source of expense without profit and rob the deserving hens of the flock of their creditable record. W. T. Scott, Poultry Division, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

Feeding of Thin Milk Good For Growing Pigs

Experiments Prove That a Profitable Amount To Feed Is From Four To Six Pounds Per Day—Using Water in Meal Mixtures Not Satisfactory.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The tendency of the farmer to ship all his supply of milk direct to market is one that always gives room for criticism, but yet excusable in many cases. If fair profits can be made with a minimum of labor, the dairyman does not readily persuade himself into the belief that to separate the milk and feed the skim milk on the place is worth while. But surely where the milk is shipped to the creamery and the skim milk resold at as low a price as 20 cents per 100 pounds, as is the case in the Chilliwack Valley, B. C., at the present time, it would be well for farmers to make good use of that milk. It is questionable if he could make more profitable returns any other way than by feeding up a number of pigs on a ration composed of skim milk in combination with mixed meal. It has been found at the Experimental Farm, Agassiz, that feeding skim milk at 50 cents per 100 pounds, in proper combination with concentrates, is profitable. Although substitutes, such as tankage for example, may well take the place of skim milk when the latter is not available, yet skim milk has a value peculiar to itself in building the muscles and bony framework of young animals. Although skim milk may serve its highest purpose when fed to calves, yet, when properly combined with a grain ration, becomes one of the most useful of all available feed for the pig.

Realizing the value of skim milk as a feed for pigs, the next important point is to determine the most profitable quantity to feed in combination with a grain ration, for it is impossible to feed pigs, even young pigs, profitably on skim milk alone.

Some Comparisons.

With this object in view, therefore, a series of experiments in swine feeding was set on foot at the Experimental Farm, Agassiz, in the winter of 1917-18, and similar experiments have been carried on every winter since. As a result of these experiments it is very interesting to note that in every case the larger the amount of milk fed the greater are the gains. Comparisons have been made where a standard ration of grain was fed to all lots, with varying quantities of skim milk in the different groups, as contrasted to groups fed water in place of skim milk, and to groups fed some substitute, such as tankage. Skim milk was fed at the rate of 2 pounds, 4 pounds, 6 pounds and 8 pounds per pig per day, and although the average gain in each group increased, yet the most economical gains centered all around the groups receiving from 4 to 6 pounds per pig per day. Feeding any of the various meal mixtures employed in the experiment without skim milk or substitute, but with water only, gave unsatisfactory results and proved that water is no substitute for skim wilk.

The general conclusions arrived at are that a profitable amount of skim milk to feed to growing pigs is anywhere from 4 to 6 pounds per pig per day. But where the skim milk is exceptionally cheap, it may be fed profitably at the rate of 8 pounds, or even 10 pounds, per pig per day, and especially is this true of certain pigs with more vigorous characteristics than others.—K. MacBean, Experimental Farm, Agassiz, B. C.

Early Swarming of Bees May Be Looked For Season Is Further Advanced Than Usual and Beekeepers Must Get Busy—Clipping Queens and Other Operations Must Not Be Delayed.

Colonies that have been well cared for are in general stronger than they should be for the season. The result is swarming. Considerable swarming has been reported from all over the southern part of the State of Michigan. Considering the strength of the colonies and the length of time until the clover honey flow is due, it is probably not advisable to cut the queen cells and throw the swarm back to the hive. Instead, the swarm should be hived on the old stand and fed. From half to two-thirds of the bees left in the old hive should be added to the swarm. This effectually prevents after-swarming. Indications are that colonies handled in this way will be able to get into shape for some surplus, and at the same time yield an increase of one each. This has been a wonderful spring for early increase. Ordinarily I do not advise making increase early in the season, as it is almost sure to be ruinous to the honey crop. This year, however, the circumstances are so different that it seems advisable to make some increase either through swarming or by judiciously withdrawing brood and bees from colonies that are too strong for the length of time until the main honey flow.

Preparation of Supplies.

Every year a certain number of our beekeepers neglect folding their sections and putting in foundation until need for it has arrived. Also a number neglect to secure and prepare hives in which to hive the swarms when they emerge. Negligence in these two matters is a source of serious loss to many beekeepers each year. It is hoped that this year a greater number than ever before may get their supplies ready to use before the time comes for using them.

Clipping Queens and Outside Feeding.

Those who have not already clipped their queens will find that between the end of the fruit bloom and dandelion flow and the beginning of the clover flow, they will encounter some difficulty in clipping queens. One of the greatest of these is that during a dearth of nectar, bees are inclined to rob. Often times it is necessary to have the hive open for a considerable time in looking for the queen. When this occurs it is not unusual for a certain amount of robbing to get started. A part of the robbing can be avoided by working first in one end of the yard and then changing quickly to the other end of the yard. In this way part of the robbers get lost in the sudden change, and it takes some time before they discover the location of the work that is going on. If the yard is of a considerable number of colonies, it may be best to do some outside feeding of sugar syrup in order that the robbers, which are such a terrible nuisance in working, may be attracted to other places. The sugar syrup is made of one part of sugar to four parts of water, and placed in a wash tub or other vessel, with corn cobs, sticks or ground cork floating on the top so that the bees may not drown. As soon as the bees have started work on this, five parts of water are added, thus reducing it to a nine-to-one mixture, which is of about the same consistency as nectar. A four or five-to-one mixture will cause robbing instead of preventing it; therefore, as soon as the bees have started to work on the syrup, it should be diluted to the proper consistency.

Treating of Foul-Brood.

Beekeepers having American foulbrood should be prepared to treat the disease not later than the beginning of the clover to treat strong colonies previous to that time. The danger from robbing and scattering the disease more widely must be constantly kept in mind. The treating of colonies late in the evening after the bees have quit flying will, of course, reduce the chance of robbing very greatly. Colonies treated now will, of course have to be fed constantly after the first three days, in order that they may build their combs and rear a hive full of brood in time to produce surplus honey. Those who have combs to spare will find that it will pay to shake the colonies into an empty hive with a queen excluder, setting under the hive body, or a queen and drone trap at the entrance, and three or four days later transfer these bees into a hive full of comb. A feeder should be placed on the tive at the same time. This gives them the opportunity to begin brood-rearing at once, without having to wait for comb to be produced. The above, of course, applies only to American foul-brood.

In case of European foul-brood, sufficient colonies should be doubled together to make a strong colony. The old queen should be killed and young Italian queens should be introduced as soon as the diseased larvae have been removed.

Spray Poisoning and Disappearing Disease.

It is unfortunate that spray poisoning and disappearing disease both affect the bees during the month of May. The result is that many cases of disappearing disease is also known as May disease, because of the time at which it usually occurs. The symptoms are briefly these: The bees crawl out from the entrance and are found dead and dying in large numbers about the front of the hive. Many bees are unable to fly. They are shiny in appearance and tremble. The disease comes on suddenly and usually leaves equally as sudden. The cause is unknown.

In case of spray poisoning the bees die anywhere between the source of the poison and the hive. Very few bees die in or around the hive, although they may be found in great numbers within 100 to 500 feet of the bee hive. In the cases of spray poisoning which I have observed, one could walk on dead bees from the apiary to the orchard where the spray poison was secured. Beekeepers should be very careful to distinguish between these two troubles, as often the orchardist is blamed for what he is really not to blame.

CANADIAN STOCK VERY HEALTHY

Reports Show That Canada Is Healthiest Country in World For All Breeds of Live Stock.

The report of the veterinary director general recently issued covers two years, the first part for the year ending March 31, 1919, and the second part for the twelve months terminating March 31, 1920. The health of Canada's live stock during both years is shown to have been highly satisfactory. In fact, it is easy to believe that Canada is the healthiest country in the world for all breeds of live stock.

No country can claim to be absolutely free from ailments in its cattle, horses, sheep and swine any more than it can that every human being is health-perfect. But Canada, it is safe to assert, comes nearer to the ideal state than any other land. None of the epizootic diseases that cause most anxiety to sanitary officials, such as foot and mouth diseases, cattle plague, and contagious pleuro-pneumonia, are found within our borders. Diseases that do exist to a very limited extent, such as glanders, hog cholera, and cattle mange, the report shows, are being kept well under control and are diminishing in number year by year. Glanders is proven to have existed only in Northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and in those provinces extremely few cases are reported.

All the outbreaks, the veterinary director general is able to state, have been efficiently dealt with and the disease eradicated. Where hog cholera and cattle mange have appeared vigorous action has immediately been taken with the result that contagion has been everywhere checked and districts entirely cleared. Regarding hog cholera, experience shows that nearly all cases originate on premises where garbage is fed to the animals. Cooking, if properly done, is stated to be an effectual safeguard. Full statistics are given in the report of the activities undertaken all over the country which indicate the remarkable results achieved. A marked increase is shown in the number of live stock inspected for exportation in the year 1919-20 compared with the previous year, the figures being 340,000 as compared with 100,000.

WHAT IS A TON OF ENSILAGE WORTH?

One ton of silage equals one ton of sugar beets.

Three tons of silage equals one ton of clover hay.

Three and one-half tons of silage equal one ton of alfalfa hay.

Three and one-half tons of silage equal one ton of prairie hay.

BUY FERTILIZERS CONTAINING THE MOST PLANT FOOD.

The present state of transportation and labor conditions renders it more advantageous today than ever before to use the most concentrated forms of fertilizers. When a farmer buys a ton of the average commercial fertilizer, he buys, in reality, not more than about 300 pounds of actual plant food elements. For example, a ton of 16 per cent acid phosphate, the best grade on the market, contains about 140 pounds of available phosphorus, or a ton of "2-8-2" fertilizer contains about 136 pounds of phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium. For the reason that the plant-food elements in fertilizers can never contain 100 per cent of actual plant food.

In buying a cheap or low grade fertilizer, still less plant food is obtained. The cost of sacking, handling and freighting is the same for a ton of either kind. Therefore, it is evident that the manufacturer can sell the plant food in a high-grade fertilizer cheaper, per pound, than he can the plant food in a low-grade fertilizer; in other words, as a general rule, the higher the grade the cheaper can the plant food be bought. So farmers are advised to purchase only high-grade fertilizers; that is, those containing high percentages of the elements which it is desired to obtain. This would mean, for example, the purchase of a 14 or 16 per cent acid phosphate rather than a 10 or 12 per cent grade. The best rule is to buy the fertilizer which will give the desired plant food elements at the lowest cost per pound, laid down at the farm where the fertilizer is to be used.—Kentucky Agricultural Station.

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD IN ONTARIO

Fall Wheat Well Up To the Average and Fruit Prospects Fair.

Below is a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the head office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

Prairie Provinces.

Seeding of wheat has been completed in practically every district under favorable conditions and farmers are now finishing the seeding of late coarse grains.

Edmonton District—Wheat well up, oats above ground.

Calgary District—Growth well advanced, particularly wheat. Conditions now favorable.

Lethbridge District—Early grains well up. No damage by wind or frost.

From Lomond, Retlaw, Bow Island and MacLeod there are reports of damage by cutworms, rendering some reseeding necessary. Grasshoppers are also appearing and causing anxiety. Pasturage excellent.

Regina District—Fifty per cent of the wheat is up. General conditions good. In the region of Yorkton, continuous rains have delayed operations.

Saskatoon District—Wheat up in healthy condition. Conditions generally satisfactory.

Winnipeg District—Crops generally well advanced and making good progress. Grasshoppers reported in some districts.

Province of Quebec.

Reports from all sections indicate crops are suffering from drought, and in some instances re-sowing has been necessary. Grass pasture and hay are in need of heavy rain. Fruit prospects are fairly favorable.

Province of Ontario.

Conditions in general are very satisfactory, and recent rains have been beneficial. Weather conditions of late have improved fall wheat, the growth of which is well up to the average. Other grains most satisfactory. Roots making good growth. Fruit prospects fair. Conditions of hay and grass pasturage is excellent. Tobacco—a small acreage planting now in full swing.

Maritime Provinces.

In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, seeding has been completed and operations generally are well in advance of last year. Grass pasturage is in good condition, but rain is needed. In certain districts fruit crop prospects are favorable. In Prince Edward Island seeding is well under way, and finished in some districts. Pasture is good. General conditions excellent.

Province of British Columbia.

Weather favorable. Field crops making steady growth. Blossom past on all tree fruits in Okanagan, and reported heavy set has taken place. Pasturage above average.

A FIELD DAY AT GUELPH COLLEGE

The recently-formed Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association will hold its first summer meeting and field day at the Agricultural College, Guelph, on Saturday, June 11. A splendid program has been arranged to combine useful association work with pleasure. The girls of the Macdonald Alumnae have agreed to unite in the entertainment, and a joint picnic luncheon, supplied by Miss Cruickshank, will precede an afternoon of games and social reunion. Every student and ex-student, in fact, every O. A. C. man within reach, will be welcome. This summer meeting, coming when the college grounds are at their best, will make an ideal time to renew old friendships. The association has already a long membership list, though it is aimed to reach 600 before the summer is out. Its objects have been succinctly summarized as follows: A fraternity of ex-students, the stimulation of progressive rural life, the co-ordination of practical and professional agriculture, and co-operation and leadership in agriculture.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Prune weak growing roses severely for flowers.

Gladiolus planted now should bloom nicely early in September.

A planting of Golden Bantam sweet corn, beets and carrots for autumn and winter should be made now.

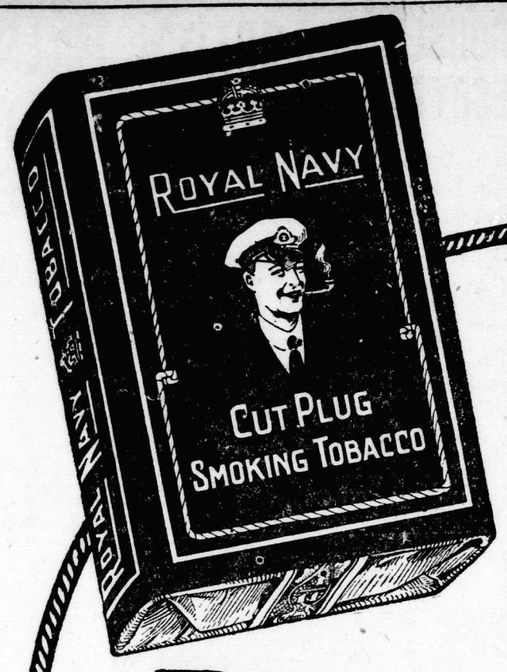

Add fertilizer to the lawn occasionally. It will help keep the weeds down by giving a strong growing grass.

Tomatoes should be a good crop to grow this season if fruit is as badly injured in the fruit sections of the country as early reports would indicate.

Early flowering shrubs may be pruned as soon as they are through flowering. Autumn flowering shrubs should be pruned early in the spring.

Good advertising will sell goods, whether it be farm produce or merchandise. Every large growing business advertises heavily. It pays the vegetable grower, fruit man or florist to interest other people in his products.

More small home grounds, churches and schools were landscapd this year than ever before. Would your home look better if a few trees and shrubs were planted near the house or in groups at the side of the house?—Le Roy Cady, associate horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

CHURCH UNION IS VIGOROUSLY DISCUSSED BY PRESBYTERIANS

After An All-Day Discussion, Featured by Some Bitter Remarks, Question Is Left Over Until Tuesday — Message Read From Archbishop Matheson Regarding the Anglican Attitude.

TORONTO, June 3.—At the General Assembly today Sir Robert Falconer announced that the moderator had received a letter from Archbishop Matheson, the primate of all Canada, on the subject of church union. It was stated in the letter that if the Synod of the Church of England in Canada should approve of the Lambeth proposals at the meeting in October next, steps would be taken to open conferences with the other churches with a view to the reunion of Christendom.

No Vote Taken.

Undaunted by the heat of a crowded church, the commissioners to the Presbyterian General Assembly listened with rapt attention all day today to the perspiring debaters on the question of church union and adjourned at 5:30 without a vote having been taken. The discussion will be resumed on Monday afternoon at 2:30, other matters having been billed for attention tomorrow. fireworks was on the minds of those who may be still wavering on the union Just how effective all the oratorical issue, the remarks of two delegates when leaving the meeting may be significant. "There was a lot of tommyrot talked there today; they might just as well have taken the vote and settled it," said one of them, and his companion agreed.

Strongly Opposed.

The discussion ran along smoothly all day without any show of mental heat until late in the afternoon, when Dr. S. Banks Nelson of Hamilton, Ont., took the floor in opposition to union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches, and began to display some Irish wit at the expense of some previous speakers. Emphasis had been laid on the fact that the rural districts of the West were strongly in favor of union, and that they were likely to persist in their views. Dr. Nelson told a story about one of his parishioners who had said to him that union might be all right for the "ruler' districts, but it was no good for the cities. He wondered whether they had not had just enough dictation from the "ruler" classes. He was proceeding to say that the farmers had seized the reins of government, and were now trying to control the kirk, when a hum of dissent broke out, and someone hissed.

"What are you hissing for?" roared Dr. Nelson. "Don't you think I know what I am talking about?"

Had Gone Too Far.

The moderator succeeded in restoring order, and then said it was quite improper for any commissioner to show dissent by a hiss, nevertheless he believed it was the sense of the gathering that Dr. Nelson had gone too far. After that a comparative calm reigned.

The mover and seconder of the resolution, calling on the assembly at once to consummate union, finished their speeches before luncheon, and at 2:30 p.m. Principal D. J. Fraser of Montreal moved his amendment, that no step be taken towards uniting wtih other churches without a definite mandate from the people. He wished to have it understood that the anti-union section of the committee had not agreed to let a vote of the assembly on the issue stand as representing the views of the whole church. His resolution, Principal Fraser said, stood for co-operation with other churches, and did not debar any supporters from accepting organic union in the future, providing a pronounced sentiment grew up within the church for union. The main motion left room for manipulation and coercion, he said, while his amendment embodied the principle of free co-operation. He emphasized the fact that only about one-third of the church membership had voted for union, and many of the best people had been shocked by the decision of the assembly at Winnipeg in favor of carrying union into effect. It should not be forgotten, Dr. Fraser declared, that a mere fraction of the ministers and elders did not constitute the church.

Co-operation Essential.

Finally, he urged that the surest road to lasting union was by carrying all the people with them in a spirit of co-operation.

In seconding the amendment, Hon. R. M. McGregor of New Glasgow, N. S., said he felt that every vote that was not cast for union in the referendums should be counted against union. The audience appeared to dissent from this view. At any rate, he could see no justification for proceeding towards union when only 33 per cent of the church membership voted for it. In bringing about a union it would be necessary to get legislation from Ottawa and all the provinces, and he shuddered to think of the confusion in disposing of church properties. Under union he believed there would be a large exodus of Presbyterians to the Anglican Church.

Dr. Wylie Clark, Saskatoon, said his church had given only six votes against union. The East, he said, had not caught the vision of the West, which had a broader outlook. He thought the mandate from the people to unionize was sufficient.

Deprecates Attitude.

Rev. J. H. Shortt, Olds, Alta., was not one of those who thought the west should dictate to the east. Many western congregations had been nursed along on money from the east, and now they were telling the east to hurry along and accept their views or they would break away. He deprecated that attitude. Personally, he had found a strong body of opinion in Alberta against union.

At any rate the movement towards union had not got out of hand as Dr. Oliver had declared was the case in Saskatchewan. A Methodist minister in Alberta had said to him: "We are situated much like the man who has lived all his life in a rented house, while you have a comfortable home. In case of union it will be easy for us to move in."

Rev. J. A. Cormie, superintendent of home missions in Manitoba, said there were 57 union charges in Manitoba and about 250 union preaching stations. He believed that about twenty congregations were waiting for a pronouncement from the assembly before merging with other churches. It was generally felt that the present arrangement in the west was only a makeshift and that they could not get down to a good working basis until union had been accepted as the policy of the churches.

Only Minority.

Dr. Banks Nelson pointed out that only a minority of the membership had voted for union, and minorities had never yet been allowed to change the constitution of any nation. Even in the great free west any citizen who attempted any such enterprise would be put in jail. He declared that the feeling against union had grown, and he challenged the assembly to take another vote of the membership. "I charge a majority of the union committee with putting blinders on in order to get through a report backing up the Winnipeg resolution." They had shown criminal and almost sinful indifference to the feelings of the people on the subject. They were willing to allow others to come in and "skim the cream off our milkpan." Dr. Nelson conceded that the west was rapidly developing, but it was not necessary, he felt, to look to the farmers and foreigners of the west for guidance and leadership on the question of church union.

Union Is Needed.

Dr. John Pringle, of Sydney, N. S. said that his experience in the ministry all across Canada, from the Yukon to the Atlantic, had convinced him that union of the three churches should be brought about. He was not anxious to hurry matters unnecessarily, so long as this assembly placed on record its intention to go forward towards union. He believed that union was a necessity in the east, even more than the west. All over Eastern Canada were decaying villages trying to support ministers of more than one church. Dr. Pringle told the audience that although the people were mostly Highland Scotch in Cape Breton the sentiment was almost unanimous for union. There were union churches also in the town of Inverness and in the city of Halifax.

The Real Issue.

An opinion that the presence of so many unionist congregations in the west might be due to the desire of the people to run their own show, was expressed by Judge Farrell of Moosomin, Sask. The community idea was strong out there, he declared. The issue was whether Presbyterians should go into a new church or remain in their own. He reminded the unionists that unless they had the whole church body behind them they would find it difficult to get legislation ratifying church union.

John Fleming, a Winnipeg delegate declared the process of disruption in the west was already going on, and any delay of the consummation of union would make matters worse for the Presbyterian Church. Of course there was a way to preserve the Presbyterian Church. For instance, there was the Egyptian method.

MAY PROROGUE THIS AFTERNOON

Every Effort Being Made To Finish Up Routine Business.

OTTAWA, June 3.—(By Canadian Press.)—In an effort to reach prorogation this afternoon the House of Commons devoted the early morning hours to discussion of estimates. Postoffice department estimates were under consideration at 2:30 o'clock, those of the agriculture and Indian affairs departments having been previously disposed of. At that hour there was no sign of adjournment.

Although no definite announcement was made, the expectation at an early hour was that estimates would be disposed of this morning. This would permit of the prorogation ceremonies being held in the afternoon.

FINED FOR SUNDAY ICE CREAM SALES

Manufacturers Escape Conviction by Proving They Merely Delivered Orders.

KITCHENER, June 3.—Local restaurant keepers lined up in police court here this morning and paid fines of $5 each for selling cigars, candy and ice cream on Sunday, contrary to the Lord's day act. There seemed to be some misunderstanding among the restaurant men regarding the interpretation of the act. Magistrate Weir gave them all a proper understanding of the laws before they left court.

Ice cream manufacturers, charged with selling on Sunday, produced evidence to show that they had merely delivered orders contracted for on Saturday. They were discharged.

PALE AND NERVOUS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Need Rich, Red Blood to Regain Health and Strength.

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time homework, examinations, hurried meals and crowded schoolrooms cause their blood to become weak, their nerves overwrought and their color and spirits lost. It is a mistake to let matters drift when boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness or weak blood. They are almost sure to fall victims of St. Vitus dance, or drift into debility that leads to other troubles. Regular meals, outdoor exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat the nervous wear of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the school child's blood supply. Keep this rich and red by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the boy or girl will be sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Watson, Grand Falls, N. B., who says: "In the spring of 1919 my daughter Thistle, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness which developed into St. Vitus dance. She seemed to lose control of her limbs and at times every muscle in her body seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

COTTON MILLS CLOSE TODAY 500,000 IDLE

Manchester Workers Fighting Proposed Thirty Per Cent Reduction in Wages.

MANCHESTER, June 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Virtually a half million operatives in the spinning and weaving sections of the cotton mills will cease work tomorrow, owing to the fact that it has been impossible to arrive at an agreement with the Cotton Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association over a proposed reduction of 30 per cent in wages.

The commission which has been trying to adjust the wage dispute announced today its failure to bring about an agreement. Therefore, all the cotton mills will close tomorrow, when the present wage agreement terminates.

The employers had made a concession of a 25 per cent reduction, instead of the 30 per cent as announced May 11, but the operatives declined to agree to a cut of more than 12½ per cent.

The operatives contend that a reduction of 25 per cent would bring their standard of living below the pre-war scale, and that the present depression in the cotton trade industry is only temporary and largely due to the strike of the coal miners and other special circumstances. The operatives announced that they were willing to accept the cut of 12½ per cent if the mill owners would review the wage scale three months from now.

If you want a good attendance at your meeting, let Advertiser readers know when it is going to be. The rate is 2 cents per word or 15 cents per line.

MAY SUE TP. FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

Jury Declares That Drain Should Have Been Protected.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

FOREST, June 3.—"The decision of this jury is that Lella Barbara Wilson and her two children came to their death by drowning, caused by the overturning of their auto in the McPherson drain, about 25 rods east of the 8th Concession of Bosanquet, on the Town Line between Warwick and Bosanquet, on the afternoon of May 29. This jury is of the opinion that this drain should have been protected."

The above was the verdict returned tonight by the jury, which under Coroner Hubbard, investigated the fatality in Bosanquet last Sunday afternoon, which cost the lives of Mrs. Stanley Wilson and her two children.

The principal witness was Stanley Wilson, who was driving the car. He stated that at the time of the accident he was proceeding slowly, not above ten miles an hour.

Four other witnesses were called.

MILLION-DOLLAR RAIN HELPS QUEBEC CROPS

QUEBEC, June 3.—Jupiter Pluvius has handed out to the province of Quebec during the past few days a real "million dollar rain."

Wheat crops, which were beginning to show the effects of the long dry spell, are stated to be looking better than for many years, and oats and barley are responding wonderfully to the much-needed moisture. The chances for a bumper crop were never brighter, according to Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture, who states that from all sections comes the same report that prospects are particularly bright.

MAY RAISE SPEEDERS' FINE

WINDSOR, June 3.—Intimation that the fine on speeders in the Border Cities will soon be raised to $1 a mile was made by Magistrate Gundy in police court today. He has been levying fines at the rate of 50 cents a mile, though a few days ago he increased this to $1 a mile for infractions on Riverside Drive.

WILL NOT TRANSFER SUGAR BEET CASE

TORONTO, June 3.—Chief Justice Mulock has dismissed the application of the Dominion Sugar Company for transfer from the county court of Middlesex to the supreme court of an action for $850 by H. A. Gilroy, farmer, in respect of the sale of sugar beets. The company said that contracts to the extent of $100,000 were involved by the principle at stake in this action. The judgment said that Gilroy's right to trial in the lower court should not be taken away to determine the rights of other persons.

PUBLIC BUSINESS BEING NEGLECTED SCANDALOUSLY

Sharp Protest Against Meighen Inefficiency Made by Hon. W. S. Fielding.

OTTAWA, June 3.—When the bill respecting the department of customs and excise was called for third reading in the House of Commons this afternoon, Hon. W. S. Fielding protested against "the scandalous manner in which public business was being conducted." The business of the Government had fallen to the lowest stage and because the premier was going overseas to attend the conference of British premiers it was no reason why public business should be rushed through with indecent haste.

Other premiers had gone overseas, but in those occasions the public business had been conducted with a marked decency. There were many evidences of undue haste. It would be better if Mr. Meighen went to the conference and left the business of the country to be conducted in an orderly manner. Today was the King's Birthday, and business was required by law to close, yet Parliament was sitting at 3 o'clock in the morning, resumed at 11 o'clock and again at 2:30. This conduct would not secure from the people at large respect to which Parliament was entitled.

Vote Themselves Indemnity.

Last session members voted themselves a generous indemnity increase on the ground that the sessions were becoming longer. This session had only lated three and a half months so far and in view of the increased indemnity, members should see to it that the business of the country was carried on in a decent way. Tht present situation was discreditable to the Government and to Parliament.

Mr. Meighen said the attitude taken by Mr. Fielding was most unfair to the administration. "I almost said unfair to myself," Mr. Meighen added. No attempt was being made to rush the business of the House, but it was the desire on both sides to carry on with as little obstruction as possible. "What has the Government done that is indecent?" the premier asked.

Mr. Meighen had said that he felt it his duty to stay in Canada until Parliament prorogued, and he would continue next week if necessary. There had been no indecent haste, and every step was taken with the co-operation of the Opposition.

The empire would not fail if he did not attend the conference, and as far as important legislation being brought down in the dying hours of Parliament was concerned, all legislation was important.

This was the first session in the history of Canada where the forenoon sessions were brought on so late. Parliament always saw long hours toward the end of the session. The Government had sought to act in harmony with the Opposition, and Mr. Fielding's attack was unfair, uncalled for and wholly surprising. There was no desire on the Government's side to rush business, and Parliament would meet again next week if it was necessary for the proper dispatch of affairs.

Premier Must Have Trip.

Dr. Michael Clark thought no large public interest would benefit by extending the session as compared with what would be lost if the premier had to forego his plans.

Sir Robert Borden said it would be most regrettable if the premier were obliged to postpone his trip. Judging by his experience, there was nothing new in Parliament being prodigal of time at the opening of a session, and of having therefore to be most economical of it at the close.

The bill was read a third time with further discussion.

FURTHER EFFORTS FOR WELFARE FUND

Association Decides To Continue Canvass Till Objective Is Obtained.

Analyzing the final reports of the various teams, the executive of the Welfare Fund Association at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to institute a further determined effort to reach the initial objective. The total subscribed to date is $114,212.97, of which $42,363.23 has been already received in cash, with the remainder pledged.

It is the intention of the executive to get in touch now with any who may have been overlooked, or were ill or out of the city during the week of the campaign. In addition to this it was decided to approach again those whose contributions this year did not equal their 1920 offering, while those who did not donate this year will be appealed to a second time.

EAST ELGIN CROPS IN FINE CONDITION

AYLMER, June 3.—Present indications point to a splendid yield all through East Elgin. Crops are reported to be in excellent condition and much further advanced than is often the case so early in the season.

The Misses Farr of Toronto are visiting Miss Margaret Thayer.

A break in the water main at the high school is making rather a mess of part of the grounds. Another break at the west end of the town is being repaired.

VETERAN IS APPOINTED.

AYR, June 3. — Harry Griffin, who served overseas, has been appointed librarian of the Ayr Public Library, also customs officer. Thomas Fairgrieve, the former librarian and customs officer since the library was built in 1910, is leaving next week for Vancouver and other points on a summer vacation, after which he will retire.

WHEN BABY IS ILL

When the baby is ill; when he cries a great deal and no amount of attention or petting makes him happy, Baby's Own Tablets should be given him without delay. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. Concerning them, Mrs. Desire Theberge, Trois Pistols, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with my use of Baby's Own Tablets. I have found them of great benefit to my baby when he was suffering from constipation and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

BATTLE MAY END IN AN ELECTION

Drury Govt. Will Fight To Finish For Provincial Rights.

TORONTO, June 3.—The Ontario Government is going to stake its very existence in fighting to keep control of the waters of the Lake of the Woods, according to information available here. By passing legislation declaring those waters to be to the general advantage of Canada, the Federal House has roused Premier Drury and his colleagues for a battle that will in all probability end in a general election in the province it was learned today. Speaking on the subject, Premier Drury said: "That legislation must be contested. We must do everything in our power to have the matter repealed and we are going to make this an issue. It will either be a legal issue, an election issue or both. Reports are being gathered now in preparation for action in court.

"And if we lose in the legal battle," he continued, "then we shall most certainly go to the people of the province with the control of our waters as an issue."

"For two years, while private interests had control of the Norman Dam which regulates the flow into Winnipeg River, and the Federal Government kept still and did nothing. But just as soon as Ontario obtains absolute control of the Norman Dam the private interests' cry is raised. It's so inconsistent."

BRANTFORD YOUTHS RESUSCIATED LAD

Murray Smith of Grandview Had Been Submerged Five Minutes.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, June 3.—Knowledge of the Shaefer method of resuscitation saved the life of Murray Smith, Grandview, here today. He, with his brother Charles, and E. Marr, all about 11 years of age, went wading in the Grand River below Wilkes' Dam. The two Smith boys went over their depth. Charles escaped, but Murray went down, and was under water five minutes. George Verity and Gordon Lambert, youths, were across the river and responded to the call for help, getting the boy out and then reviving him. The lad was removed to the hospital by the firemen.

THREE ARRESTED IN TORONTO FOR THEFT

Louis Gurofsky, Son and Clerk Wanted by Winnipeg Police.

TORONTO, June 3.—Louis Gurofsky, his son, Murray Gurofsky, and a clerk in his employ, Philip Cowan, were arrested here today under instructions from Chief of Police C. C. Newton of Winnipeg. According to a telegraph message from the Winnipeg chief of police, the three men are wanted on a charge of theft. No further information came in connection with the arrest, except that officers had left Winnipeg for Toronto.

Louis Gurofsky is a well-known citizen of Toronto, and conducts a steamship ticket office. Efforts to obtain bail for him and the other two men failed and the three men had to spend the night in the police cells, although friends offered to put up any amount of money demanded for bail. Assistant City Crown Attorney McRuer refused to grant bail because the accused were wanted in another city. An appeal to the deputy attorney-general failed to obtain the temporary freedom of the trio. They will appear at the police court tomorrow.

H. A. Agar, counsel for the accused men, said he understood the charge arose out of complaints to the effect that money had been expressed to the ticket agency of Gurofsky & Company, Winnipeg, by relatives to bring their friends from different points in Europe to Canada. Mr. Agar said his clients had informed him that so far as they could learn the amount involved was less than $1,000.

LEAMINGTON CADETS MADE A FINE SHOWING

[Special to The Advertiser.]

LEAMINGTON, June 3.—The high school cadets were warmly complimented by Lieut.-Col. W. A. McCrimmon of London at the annual inspection here yesterday afternoon. The corps made an unusually fine showing, and Principal Courtice, who has drilled and taught them continuously, was rewarded for his pains. The cadets will go to the summer camp at London from June 24 to July 3.

Harry Lendon, R. Fairful, J. Hutchinson and E. Winter are in London attending the Thistle Club's bowling tournament.

INJURIES RESULT FATALLY.

ST. CATHARINES, June 3.—Franklin C. Schieffel, a former Welland businessman, who for some time has been living in Buffalo, died at the Welland County Hospital today, from injuries received yesterday when he was struck by a street car at Welland. Last year a brother was killed in an automobile accident. Another brother was drowned in the Chippewa Creek a few years previously.

COMING TO INGERSOLL.

INGERSOLL, June 3.—Rev. E. Sheppard, for the last four years pastor of the Methodist Church, will be succeeded by Rev. M. E. Sexsmith of Picton, who will begin his pastorate the first Sunday in July.

MISS JOAN ARNOLDI AGAIN PRESIDENT EMPIRE DAUGHTERS

Order Discusses Plans For Helping the Returned Men.

TORONTO, June 3.—Miss Joan Arnoldi of this city was unanimously re-elected president of the National Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire this evening by the 40 councillors, whose own selection was announced this afternoon. The balloting for councillors took place yesterday.

Other officers of the National Chapter elected are: Vice-president, Mrs. Graham Thompson, Toronto; Mrs. Angus MacMurchy, Toronto; Mrs. C. M. de R. Finnes, Quebec; Mrs. Frank Wise, Toronto; Mrs. Colin Campbell, Winnipeg, and Mrs. R. M. Balfour, Regina; secretary, Miss M. L. Bollert, Toronto; treasurer, Mrs. W. Hamilton Burns, Toronto; organizing secretary, Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Perth; educational secretary, Miss Constance Laing, Toronto; standard-bearer, Mrs. O. L. Boynton, Vancouver.

The convention tonight discussed means by which the order could help the returned men. Dr. Hart of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment suggested that the order secure social service nurses to visit the homes of the ex-service men. He stated that a committee of the Red Cross Society had arranged to meet the officials of the department of civil re-establishment, and at his suggestion the I. O. D. E. decided to name a committee to join the Red Cross Society at the conference in question.

The president of the I. O. D. E. presented Mrs. George Cooke Adams, president of the Daughters of the British Empire in the United States, with a silk flag given by the mayor of Toronto, T. L. Church.

At the conclusion of the convention tomorrow the ladies will be given a trip around the Toronto harbor. On Monday they will visit the Niagara Peninsula.

ENGRAVERS' STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED

Agreement Involves Prompt Negotiations For New Wage Scale.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Settlement of the newspaper photo-engravers' strike was accomplished today, when publishers and engravers signed an agreement, which involves the prompt negotiation of a new wage scale. The engravers will return to work under the old conditions pending the presentation of the new contract.

The agreement provides that in case a new and satisfactory contract is not evolved within 60 days the matter will be referred to an arbitration board comprising two representatives each of the Publishers' Association and the photo-engravers' local and three disinterested parties. The agreement states that the decision of the body will be held binding by both parties and will be retroactive to the day of resuming work.

The engravers, who went out June 1, demanded a flat increase of $8 on a 44-hour week. Under the existing scale night workers receive $60 a week and day workers $55.

NOT EXPECTED TO RECOVER.

MONTREAL, June 3.—Shot in the back while making his escape from a special constable of the Dominion Messenger and Signal Company, who responded to a burglar alarm call, Leo Mahoney, 19, was probably fatally wounded tonight outside the rear of the premises of Dorkton Brothers & Company, 140 McGill street.

VETERAN TEACHER DIES AT DURHAM

DURHAM, June 3.—The death took place last evening at his home in North Egremont, of W. L. Dixon, aged 65. He was widely-known through this part of the county as a school teacher, having taught successfully for many years, in the vicinity of Durham. His wife survives him, with a family of eight children; George in Montana; Charles in Saskatchewan; Mrs. R. Renwick, Dromore; Mrs. J. Sinclair, Hopeville; Mrs. B. Weir and Mrs. G. McKay, in New Ontario, and Joe and Miss Edna at home. The funeral will take place tomorrow, to Ebenezer Cemetery.

CLOSED DOWN INDEFINITELY.

HAMILTON, June 3.—The Hamilton Bridge Works, one of the biggest manufacturing concerns in this city, closed down tonight to remain closed for an indenite period, and the employees were advised to look for work elsewhere. Slump in trade is the reason given by the officials of the company—not sufficient orders to keep the concern running.

They Turn to Life Insurance

OVER a thousand persons every day in Canada are turning to life insurance for the purpose of caring for the future of their dependents.

Life Insurance to the amount of over Six Hundred Million Dollars was issued in 1920. This amount of money would provide an income of One Hundred Dollars a month for fifteen years to fifty thousand families.

The proceeds of the vast number of life insurance policies being issued year by year will bring untold benefit to the families of those who have made this wise provision.

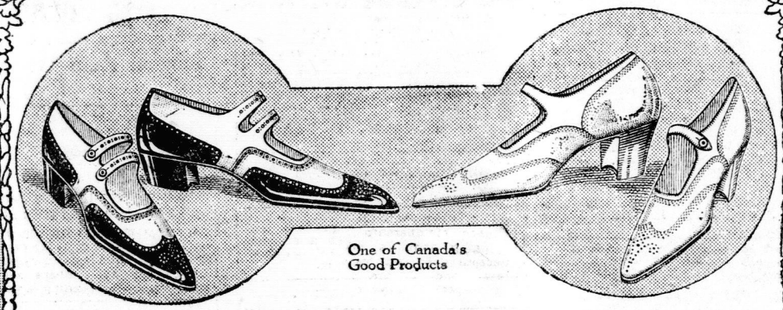

You may be able to care for your wife and children as long as you live but life insurance will provide for them as long as they live.

INJURIES FATAL TO ALBERT HOLMES

Ingersoll Youth Dies From Result of Shock and Fall.

INGERSOLL, June 3.—The injuries received on Wednesday by Albert Holmes, son of Chief of Police Walter Holmes, when he was shocked and fell more than 20 feet from a pole on which he was working proved fatal today. He was badly injured internally, and from the first recovery was considered doubtful. He was in his 21st year, and one of the town's popular young men. Besides his parents, brothers and sisters he leaves a widow. The funeral will be held on Sunday. He had been in the employ of the local hydro commission for some time.

FIFTEEN ENTRIES IN NORFOLK COMPETITION

SIMCOE, June 3.—There will be keen competition this year for the $250 in prizes offered for the best potatoes by Norfolk fair board. There are fifteen entries and seven prices to be awarded. The contestants are: Alex. Chouler, Thomas Leedham, N. S. Palmerston, Neff Bros., and Howard Turvery, all of Delhi; E. W. Bancroft, Geo. Marshall, Bruce Wilson and Percy Yeager, of Townsend; W. C. Butler and Cecil Yeager, of Windham; W. C. Everett, of Woodhouse; William Goodhue and J. E. Johnson & Bros., of Simcoe.

VETERAN PRINCIPAL BURIED AT MT. CARMEL

MELBOURNE, June 2.—The funeral of W. G. Robinson, held to Mount Carmel Cemetery yesterday afternoon, was very largely attended. The members of the Sunday school marched from the house to the church with the pupils of the public and continuation school, of which he was principal for 24 years, all bearing flowers, and the girls wearing white. A large number of Odd Fellows of the district also marched in a body to the church, where the services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Brown, assisted by Bro. John Elder, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, also Rev. Wm. R. Vance, Rev. C. R. Durrant, Rev. C. Clarke and Rev. B. Snell, all of whom have been pastors of the Methodist Church here.

William Lewis, superintendent of the Sunday school, sang a solo, "Sleep On, Beloved." Among those who contributed flowers were: The family, the Methodist Church, Methodist Sunday school, I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 344, Anna Rebekah Lodge, No. 118, the school, Form 3, Appin, school boys, Miss Snell and Miss McNabb, Miss Davidson, W. W. Watson and family, sisters and brothers and Mr. Tanton of Strathroy.

SCRATCH FROM WIRE CAUSES POISONING

DELHI, June 3.—Joseph Bertling, who has been seriously ill with blood-poisoning, is somewhat improved. While at work recently he cut his hand on a piece of wire, but paid no attention to the wound until it swelled badly.

Crops all through this district are making rapid growth, and never looked better. There will be a splendid yield of strawberries.

Jack Campbell, who was kicked in the face by a colt he was leading, is recovering nicely.

In the death of Pieter C. van de Kamer, which occurred at his home in Lynedoch, this district loses one of its best citizens, and an expert tobacco-grower. Mr. van de Kamer was 54 years old, and a native of Holland. As a young man he went to the Island of Sumatra for the Dutch East India Tobacco Company, and became superintendent of a plantation of 2,000 acres, worked by 2,000 Chinese and Malay laborers. After fourteen years in Sumatra he started on a voyage around the world, and in his travels visited Norfolk County, where he was greatly impressed with the possibilities of tobacco-growing. Mr. van de Kamer spoke four languages fluently, French, Dutch, English and German.

URGES TRAINING FOR CHARITY WORK

TORONTO, June 3.—"Thank God the church still clings to the word 'charity.'" Rev. Robert F. Keegan, secretary of charities for the Archbishop of New York, said in an address to the Catholic Women's League at a meeting in Massey Hall here tonight in connection with the league's convention.

"The word 'charity' comes down to us with sanctity from our Master," Father Keegan said, though it had been easy to fall into the term social work and forget the consecrated word 'charity.' His subject was "Catholic Social Service."

Father Keegan charged the audience to remember when performing work of this nature that they must never forget their religion. He advised special schools for the training of those who were to engage in such work.

INSPECTED THE HIGHWAYS.

BRANTFORD, June 3.—The Waterloo County Council and officials were in Brantford yesterday making an inspection of the highways system in force in Brant, where the good roads plan is being carried out, all work done being permanent. In Waterloo the old township plan is still in force.

FRENCH EXPECT NEW RED DRIVE

Attack On Poland Believed Due in Spring—France to Come to Her Rescue.

BERLIN, June 2.—Will Lenin and Trotzky, when the warmth of spring settles down over Russia and the rest of Europe, put into operation their dream of using force, without stint, to impose their political beliefs on the outside world?

Every chancellery in Europe is asking this question. The one nation which is doing most to prepare the continent for an attack of Bolshevism is France. The worry in France is deep and sincere; in most of the other nations it is academic. The tens of millions of dollars which the czar's government owed to France are at stake, if the Bolsheviks win in Europe or even if they continue to maintain themselves in power in Russia, and martial France is ready, with money and advice and men to back up any movement in any part of the world that will hold back the Russians and serve to unseat their leaders.

Europe's Tender Spots.

Poland and Lithuania, according to French beliefs, are the tender spots in Europe; the weak places in the European line. In Poland the centre of French strength is Warsaw. In Lithuania, Riga is supposed to be the centre of Bolshevik attack. While the French are doing nothing at Riga to prepare against a spring drive—Riga is a port and French ships could easily bombard the Bolsheviks out of the place—they are undoubtedly planning to help the Poles in spring warfare, if spring warfare is begun.

In the city of Warsaw, it is estimated that there are 1,000 French officers, some of them of high degree, men who were on the French general staff during the war, and who now, after long study, know as much about Poland and Southern Russia as they did about their own land during the war.

These officers, with their military viewpoint, believe the Bolsheviks are ready to make another try at Poland in the spring. At this writing France is entertaining as its guest Gen. Pilsudski, head of the Polish Republic and commander-in-chief of the Polish army.

There is no doubt that Pilsudski knows what the French expect of him and the Polish army. The French cannot send an army to Poland; all they can give is advice, good cheer, and a lot of the army supplies which they bought from the American army. They are giving these things—and Pilsudski knows to what purpose he is expected by the French to put them.

Salesmen Aiding Poland.

All over Europe, you can meet on trains or in hotels traveling salesmen who are helping Poland get ready for the possible spring drive. The Poles pay for the supplies they find it necessary to buy, with bales of Polish marks, but it is possible for these salesmen, particularly if they are Frenchmen, to exchange these marks for French francs without even leaving Warsaw; it is done by the military courier service or even by telegraph communication with Paris.

Ten million Polish marks will not buy a great deal of anything; no salesman cares to carry them away from Warsaw. Though the American legation cannot assist American salesmen in Poland to change the marks they receive into the money of other countries, the French military authorities and the French banks aid French salesmen in every way to translate their Polish money into good French francs. All of which gives the French salesman the inside track.

That there is trade going on between certain business elements in Poland and the Bolsheviks is beyond doubt. Not long ago, in Warsaw, a Russian appeared with a large quantity of gold watches and diamonds. There were certain things he wanted to take back to Russia with him. The diamonds were large and clear and finely cut; the watches were high priced. He went to a certain business house, recently organized in Poland, and this business house made the purchase for him. Some of the material needed was sold in good faith, by an American to the supposed Polish firm. When it came to getting his pay, after the goods had been delivered, the firm presented to the American a handful of diamonds.

"We must pay you with these," was the only explanation. "Our client who bought your goods from us didn't have any money."

American Takes Diamonds.

The American was forced to take the diamonds. He got them to Paris and made a successful clean-up. But thereafter he demanded the color of a buyer's money before he let go of any of his goods.

The Poles are maintaining, it is estimated, an army of 500,000 men. Spring will find it well supplied with every sort of military equipment. It is a good army; it has been trained by Frenchmen ever since the Bolshevik drive last fall; it is probable that in all the world, there are no 500,000 men in any army who excel these intensively trained Poles. In addition to their training these Poles are assisted by an intense hatred of the Russians.

It is apparent, in studying recent Bolshevik politics, that the Russian leaders have learned the value of patience; they have discovered the wearing-down effects of time. They have learned how to keep the Poles and the French, too, on edge. For months there have been peace negotiations under way between the Poles and Bolsheviks, with the Polish masses and businessmen nervously hoping for peace, and the Bolsheviks placidly knowing what really was going to happen.

HANDWRITING SHOWS ONE'S DELINQUENCY

French Experts Hand Down Literary Dictum.

Paris, June 3.—If your handwriting is not of the best copper-plate style, absolutely regular in all its features, you are a "canaille," and everybody knows that a canaille is good French for scoundrel. But, says Monsieur Crepieux Jamin, head of the French Graphologists' Society, which celebrated its semi-centenary last week, and issued this dictum, there is a special interpretation of the word "canaille" when talking about public morals, or to have been condemned of more serious crimes.

"Every irregularity in handwriting," he said, "whether it is too much inclined or not enough, whether small or flowing, whether depicting an abandoned style also depicts the definite abandon of some detail of personal character producing graphic canaillehood or delinquency. But as far as the writing is concerned, this delinquency may be perfectly sane and innocent although at the same time abnormal.

ISADORA DUNCAN TO TEACH "RED SOCIETY" TO PRANCE

Disappointed in America and Snubbed in Paris, Barefoot Aesthete Decides To Cuddle Down Under Artistic Wings of Trotzky and Gregory Krassine.

PARIS, June 3.—Isidora Duncan is going to open a dancing academy for Bolshevist "society" in Russia, under the patronage of Leon Trotzky and Gregory Krassine. After denying any such intention for more than a year, the Graeco-American expert on aesthetic movements today admitted having accepted an offer from the Soviet Government to teach the young Bolsheviki how to dance more or less gracefully—just to keep their minds off the food shortage in Russia and interior politics.

Seated in her luxurious apartment here, Isadora received representatives of the press with her usual yearnings for publicity, but behind her decision to leave for Russia lies a story of disappointment. She tried to gain American interest for her Grecian dances, but her hysterical outbursts against New York society in the Metropolitan Opera House brought her into disfavor. She then turned to France, accompanied by her financial sponsor, who, when he saw that the aesthetic French wanted none of it, decided to go back to the United States.

She said she would leave here on July 10 and go to Russia by way of Reval. Once in Russia she will begin training a class of a thousand Bolshevist misses. She has abandoned her intention to re-open her academy here. So far she has not decided whether Walter Rummel, her pianist and confidant, will accompany her into Russia.

D'ANNUNZIO IN VENICE BUSY WRITING PASSIONATE POEMS

Lives in Seclusion With Newest Wife and a Few Faithful Arditi To Whom He Recites His Verses—Chateau Centre of Attraction.

PARIS, June 3.—Gabriele d'Annunzio has decided to abandon politics forever and will spend the remainder of his life in writing passionate poems, which will be promptly translated into French and Spanish by his lovely newest wife, whom he married after a Fiume court at his dictation had pronounced an earlier decree invalid.

Recent visitors to Venice had the opportunity of watching the poet working in his garden, but all appeals for interviews or invitations to social affairs met with stern refusal, even delegations of erstwhile Fiume compatriots being forced to return home without being able to pledge undying fidelity to the father of their country.

D'Annunzio's chateau, nevertheless, is the centre of great attraction, as neighbors are suggesting that the park with the poet's war horses running loose and doves cooing while he devises new strophes is nothing but a blind, and that some day d'Annunzio's temperament will break loose and cause another conflict.

Like Napoleon at St. Helena, d'Annunzio has taken a few faithful Arditi to his new home, but even they are allowed only to watch the hero from afar. In return for food and lodging in small pavilions in the park they form the first night audiences whenever the poet and his wife stage a recital of new verses, though if the comment is too caustic it is always enigmatical.

WOMAN LEPER FOUND CARING FOR LEPERS

Mary Reed Has Spent Thirty Years in Indian Colony.

LONDON, June 3.—A story of heroic self-sacrifice and devotion has reached England from the leper village of Chandag, India, where Mary Reed, a solitary white woman missionary, is giving her life to minister to the sufferings of her fellow-lepers.

News of her isolated life was brought back to Mr. Oldrieve, organizing secretary of the Mission of Lepers, who has just returned from a 70,000 mile journey visiting all the leper colonies in India.

Thirty years ago Miss Reed went into this desolate spot in the Himalayas, 6,000 feet above the sea level, offering herself to the leper cause. Although a victim of the malady, she is still able to carry on her spiritual work among those afflicted like herself.

Miss Reed seldom sees white people, for her station is 80 miles from the nearest railway line. There are 46 women lepers in the community and 19 men in the men's refuge a short distance away.

According to Mr. Oldrieve, there are 200,000 lepers in India. "At present," he declared, "it is not right to say that any cure for leprosy has been found."

PETROGRAD STRIKE GROWING SERIOUS

Bolsheviki "Inquisition" Is Powerless—Red Armymen Joining Factory Strikers.

Riga, June 3.—The Independent advices received here from Petrograd confirm reports that the strikes in that city are spreading, and that the statute of Volodarsky, the first communist commissar of Petrograd, was blown to pieces during a demonstration of Bolshevik sailors on May 15. In connection with new disturbances the Tcheka or Bolshevik "Inquisition," seems to be powerless, and is making but few arrests, the advices state.

A Narva dispatch telling of events up to May 18 says:

"In Petrograd events are in full swing. The factory workers are striking, and they have been joined by Red army men. In the streets meetings pass resolutions demanding the calling of a constituent assembly."

The statue of Volodarsky was erected in commemoration of his assassination several years ago. It stood some distance from the main business district and near the senate building.

Dispatches received here from Reval, Esthonia, assert that the strike situation in Petrograd is broadening. The workmen are said to be demanding bread and clothing, and the transfer into their hands of the power taken from them by force.

The factory districts are reported to be surrounded, and no persons admitted inside the cordon without passes. Bolshevik cavalry dispersed strikers at the big Retchkin railway car works last Tuesday. Fire was opened on the strikers with machine guns and many workmen were wounded.

According to advices from Petrograd, the more radical of the Communists consider the situation to have arisen through the new policy of leniency established by Lenine. It is declared that Governor Zinovieff, Leon Trotzky, the war minister, and other Bolshevik leaders are making not attempt to halt the progress of the strike until the situation grows worse. Trotzky is reported to have said: "Then they will have to call on me to get them out of the hole."

CAME FROM NISSOURI.

WINGHAM, June 3.—The funeral of Mrs. Falconer, wife of George Falconer, reeve of Culross, was one of the largest ever seen in the township. Mrs. Falconer was formerly Miss Alice Quinn from near Thamesford, and was in her 60th year. Relatives were present from Thamesford, Kintore and London. Surviving are her husband and six sons, William, Bluevale; Daniel, Ethel; John, Culross; Lester and Calvert, at home, and George, attending high school at Wingham. There are two brothers, Robert, Mill City and Daniel, Thamesford, and two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Shaw, Albany, Oregon, and Mrs. John Falconer of East Wawanosh. Among the floral tributes was a beautiful wreath from the township council.

DRESDEN

DRESDEN, June 3.—The funeral of William George Eberlee, infant son of Ernest Eberlee of Windsor, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Eberlee's father, William Bedell. The service was conducted by Rev. W. C. Pearce. Mr. and Mrs. Eberlee came to Dresden for a short visit on Saturday, and the little one became very ill on the journey, necessitating the calling of a doctor at Harrow and again at Blenheim.

The first game of the Kent Baseball League was played here between Thamesville and Dresden, the latter winning by a 9 to 1 score. Mayor McDuffe opened the game by pitching the first ball.

CHAMBERLAIN'S

Old Age and Happiness

Old age should mean experience, knowledge and wisdom. Not poor digestion, sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill-health, despondency and misery. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. Try Chamberlain's Tablets. You'll like them. 172

FINANCIAL, MARKET AND COMMERCIAL SECTION

FORCED SELLING IN NEW YORK MARKET

Impairment in Values Results —Standard Shares Lose One to Five Points.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Liquidation and forced selling forced impairment in the stock market today. Standard shares lost 1 to 5 points, while speculative issues fared even worse.

Pressure accumulated through tight money, indications of trade depression and further dividend omissions. Chief among these were Cuba Can Sugar, preferred, and Armour Leather, preferred, while International Harvester announced a cut in the common dividend.

The Cuba Cane dividend action evidently came as a surprise. The stock sustained an extreme loss of 13 points on heavy offerings, which included a block of 4,000 shares. Other sugar shares were extremely weak, as were many food stocks, motor subsidiaries, cheaper oils, chemicals and shippings.

Rails were dull and irregular throughout, and efforts of bull pools to elevate some secondary specialties met with slight response. The total sales of stocks amounted to 635,000 shares.

Yesterday's flurry in money was not repeated. Call loans opened and renewed into next week at 7½ per cent, a quotation that prevailed throughout the session. Rates for time funds were unaltered, but supply diminished and few dealings in commercial paper were reported.

The heaviness of foreign exchange, particularly sterling, was associated with selling from London on rejection by the British coal miners of the Government's proposals. German and Greek remittances alone showed comparative strength.

The chief feature of the bond market was a rally in Liberty 3½'s. These closed at 87.90, a net gain of slight more than 1 point, and almost 2 points above yesterday's low record. Other issues showed mixed gains and losses, and the general bond list was irregular. The total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $14,675,000.

SHARP SETBACKS IN PRICES OF WHEAT

Slowing Down of Export Business Counts As Bearish Factor.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Sharp setbacks in the price of wheat took place today after the market had touched new high record quotations for the July delivery. Slowing down of export business counted as a bearish factor, and so, too, did ideal weather conditions. The finish was heavy at 3¼c to 3¾c net decline, with July, $1.37 to $1.37¼. Corn lost 1¼c to 2c, and oats, ⅝c to 1c. In provisions the outcome varied from 2½c decline to 5c advance.

Wheat values began to break as soon as the opening figures were posted, showing that the season's high price record had again been outdone. In this connection it was said that large offerings to Europe overnight had not been accepted, and that Italy would need only 40,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, as against 110,000,000 imported last season.

Bears also made much of assertions that prevailing cool, cloudy weather would greatly facilitate the proper filling of wheat, and that crop estimates were likely to be revised upwards. Gossip was current, too, that assessors' returns showed a much larger acreage than was indicated by the Government. Some eastern buying on the decline caused one decided rally, but the effect was more than counterbalanced later as a result of arrangements to start trading in the September delivery here without further delay.

Corn and oats were depressed by a renewal of large rectipts of corn. The arrivals of corn were estimated to total 700 cars.

Provisions averaged a little lower in sympathy with grain and hongs.

STRAWBERRIES SELL AT 35 CENTS A BOX

Exceptional Demand Responsible for Boost in Price On Local Market.

Strawberries took an advance on the local market Saturday, retailing at 35c and wholesaling at 30c, although they seemed plentiful and in god demand. A number of the farmers sold out their entire stock before 9 o'clock.

Creamery butter dropped from 33c to 28c and 30c retail, and from 29c to 26c and 28c wholesale, although there was not a good supply as the farmers' wives are sending the milk to the cheese factories on account of the low returns from churning.

No change is noticeable in oats except that one load sold at $1.30 per cwt.

Lettuce, radishes, green onions, rhubarb and asparagus were plentiful, but prices were not changed.

There was also a good market of flowers, tomato plants and cabbage plants.

EVENING STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, June 3. — Thomson & McKinnon wire Jones, Easton, McCallum Co., Ltd., brokers, Royal Bank Building, London, at the close of the stock market today as follows:

After a steady but rather featureless opening, pressure and liquidating sales gave today's stock market a decidedly weak tone. On the whole it must be admitted that the market acted well in view of the conditions surrounding it. A significant feature is the action of rails. These are apparently being absorbed quietly, and this is being made easier by unsettled conditions in the rest of the list. It is based on sound underlying conditions and forecasts a return of prosperity for the carriers in hich the industrial situation as a whole will share.

BASEBALL REVIEW

Chicago, June 4.—The American League batting race has developed into one of the tightest in years, with Harry Heitman of Detroit leading and Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and George Sisler, last year's champion, setting a terrific pace, which daily promises to put any of them ahead of the Detroit outfielder.

Heitman's average, including games of Wednesday, is .435, 10 points better than a week ago. Cobb and Speaker follow, each with a mark of .408. Sisler has hit better than any of them in recent games, and in the past four weeks has boosted his average more than 150 points. His mark is now .404, against .373 a week ago. The St. Louis first baseman hit safely 17 times dur-

Heitman's average, including games of

Babe Ruth continues to pole out home runs, getting his 16th of the season on Friday, and incidentally establishing a new record for total home runs with 119.

Cravath held the old mark of 117. His batting average is falling off, however, and he has a mark of .338 against .345 a week ago, and .378 two weeks ago.

In stolen bases Sisler also gained on the leaders, and now is tied with Harris of Washington for the league supremacy, each man having 10 thefts to his credit.

In the National League Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis continues in a slight slump, which gradually is pulling his average down, but he still holds the leadership over men who have played in 25 games or more. Hornsby's average, including games of Wednesday, is .413, against .435 a week ago, and .457 two weeks ago.

Following Hornsby is McHenry, another St. Louisan, with a mark of .394.

Meusel of Philadelphia and Kelly of New York are tied for the home run leadership of the senior circuit, each having 9.

Southworth of Boston is an easy leader in stolen bases, with 9.

DEMPSEY WILL BEGIN INTENSIVE TRAINING

Atlantic City, June 4. — Intensive training to condition himself for his battle with Georges Carpentier in Jersey City is now occupying the full time of Jack Dempsey.

The champion, if called upon to break training again, will only lay off for a day or two at a time, Manager Kearns said today.

Dempsey resumes the task of conditioning himself with Martin Burke, a New Orleans heavyweight, who is in camp ready for action. Burke, who is expected to set a fast pace for the champion, is tall, a sharp hitter and aggressive. Dempsey will also have Larry Williams and Jack Renault as heavyweight sparring partners.

Negotiations are pending to have Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul middleweight, join the camp for the finishing drive.

AUDACIOUS TO ENTER RACE.

New York, June 4.—Audacious, which set an American competitive horse racing record of 1 minute 35 3-5 seconds for a mile Wednesday, is one of the nine horses named overnight for the Suburban Handicap today at Belmont Park. The race for 3-year-olds and up is at a mile and a quarter. Top weight has been assigned to Exterminator.

NEW RECORDS CREATED.

New York, June 4.—Two American League batting records were created and two major marks equalled in a slugging match between Philadelphia and Detroit at Philadelphia yesterday. The Athletics pounded out seven homers, surpassing the mark of five set by the New York team two years ago. Incidentally the Athletics equalled the major league mark of seven, set by Detroit when it was a National League team in 1886.

The grand total of eight home runs for the game was reached when Blue of the Tigers added another in the final inning, bettered the previous mark of five homers for two teams in a contest made on several occasions. Three of the Athletic home runs came in one inning, equalling a record performed by eight clubs.

SPINNEY BILL IS GIVEN ITS THIRD READING

Long-Winded Discussion Over Various Phases of the Measure.

OTTAWA, June 3.—(By Canadian Press).—Objection to giving the Civil Service Commission power to say when it was "in the public interest" to withdraw certain classes of appointments from being filled by the present competitive system employed under the Civil Service act, kept the Commons busy on the Spinney bill, amending the Civil Service act, for several hours this afternoon and evening.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, declaring that the bill looked like a return to patronage, opposed it as such. Canada might have moved too rapidly in civil service reform.

May Regret It.

"We have granted woman suffrage and we shall regret it some day," he asserted. "We have provided prohibition in many of the provinces and we already regret it. We have also that thing which discredits the name of the nation—the divorce evil. We have the record during the present session of one divorce a minute dealt with by the committee of the Senate. Sir, it has made of Ottawa the Reno of the northern part of the American continent." Having established the Civil Service Commission, however, Parliament should not interfere with it.

Were Offered Jobs.

Mr. Lemieux said in connection with the Yamaska by-election that instructions had been given by Hon. P. E. Blondin to the agent of the marine and fisheries department to give a job to fifteen men from every centre of population in the county on the dredges of the department.

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, declared he knew nothing about this; that the dredging was being carried on in the usual way.

John Best (Dufferin) found fault with the bill, because it did not go far enough. The sittings of the committee were ridiculous. Witnesses would not testify freely under the eyes of the civil service commission as they had been. The committee was now running the civil service, and before long it might be running everything else.

Favors a Report.

Hon. E. K. Spinney, father of the bill, moved that the commission be required to make a report to Parliament at the beginning of each session showing the positions struck off the competitive list. The amendment carried.

An amendment moved by Hume Cronyn, London, that returned soldiers should be given preferential treatment carried without division, but after some opposition.

A prolonged discussion on religious holidays in the civil service followed the moving on an amendment by Arthur Trahan (Nicolet) to declare All Saints' Day, Ascension Day, Epiphany and Conception Day civil service holidays. The amendment was defeated, and the bill given third meeting.

GRAHAM ROAD IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Highway Is Now One of the Best in Elgin.

CRINAN, June 3.—The graveling of the Graham road north has been completed. The work was done under the supervision of John D. McRae, who has had 26 teams hauling gravel from the Webster gravel pit on the Longwoods road. The Graham road is now one of the very best roads in the County of Elgin. The teamsters are now busy drawing gravel on the concession lines, which have been put in first-class shape to rthe work of graveling. This year statute labor has been abolished, and the township and ward commissioners have the oversight of the roads. So far this spring an effort has been made to have a good roadbed formed and the roads properly drained. Each concession line receives as its share this year from twenty to thirty cords of gravel, which is being drawn from the Nethercott pit on the Graham road.

Mr. Stuart D. McIntyre has received word from the postoffice department at Ottawa of the acceptance of his offer for drawing the mail over R. R. No. 1, Crinan.

CITIZENS MAY ASK INVESTIGATION INTO PRICES OF MILK

Tara Residents Believe Ten Cents a Quart Is Rather High.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TARA, June 3.—Some exceptionally fine fields of grain are to be seen in this district, and rapid growth has been made, owing to the unusually early season and the warm weather. Farmers are much interested in the present situation regarding the prices of farm products, and a great deal of comment is to be heard. In town some talk is taking place about the prices of milk. It is selling at 10 cents a quart. This is nothing like the reduction that has taken place in butter-fat, which fell from 60 cents a few weeks ago down to 23 cents. An investigation into the matter may be asked for by citizens.

In the meantime, however, they are thankful that some prices are down. Butter is plentiful and of fine quality at 18 to 20 cents a pound, and eggs are to be had at 23 to 25 cents a dozen. Owing to the uncertainty of the markets, dealers are refusing to quote prices on wool, and the demand is very slow.

Miss Violet Galbraith of Arran Township, daughter of Evans Galbraith, is reported to have fallen heir to an estate of $25,000 near Belfast, Ireland. The estate, which consists of a sheep rahch, was owned by her uncle, the late John Belmont. The will, it is stated, stipulates that she must live on the property, and she plans to go to Ireland in the fall.

PRICES TOO HIGH WORK IS LAID OVER

BRANTFORD, June 3.—The board of education will not erect the new school on Terrace Hill at the present time. Tenders just received were more than the $125,000 allowed by bond issue, and this, without provision for the site or architect's fees and equipment for the interior. All checks will be returned to tenderers and nothing done until either the prices lower or further funds are provided.

MODERN PUBLIC HEALTH

(University Extension Board of Western University.)
BY H. W. HILL, M.B., M.D., D.P.H.,
Director, Institute of Public Health of Western University, London, Ontario, Canada.
A Column Devoted to Public Health in All Phases.
Questions Addressed as Above Will Be Welcomed.

SIMPLE RULES OF HEALTH.
Rule Two—Investigate Every Fever.

Rule One was the rule for mothers—that fever in a child, or an adult, means that the child, or the adult, should be in bed—and stay in bed until the fever is gone.

Rule Two is like unto it: After the child, or the adult, is in bed, find out what is the matter—find out why the fever is running.

"WHY?"

It hardly seems necessary to answer such a question, and yet, when we know how many mothers will let a child with a fever stay up, play around, go to school, go to church, or something—"Not feeling well? Well, stay home from school, and I'll take you to the movies instead!"—it is not curious that the mothers often let the fever itself go without any inquiry into it at all. Perhaps this is because it is hard for a mother to bring her mind to the point of realizing that her child is no different from other children in its capacity to be sick or to die. No mother likes to think of such things concerning her own child, although she knows other children may suffer; so the idea of anything seriously. Often it is then too late its way into a mother's mind—and still longer, as a rule, into a father's mind.

RECOVER QUICKLY.

Also it is true enough that children often do have "little fevers," from which they recover without any very evident harm; and so, when a big fever comes along, it is treated like the little one for some time, before it is taken seriously. Ofetn it is then too late to avoid a good deal of damage, sometimes death.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of safety." It is true that parents can "worry themselves sick" about their children, when there is no need of it, always suspecting the child is about to die whenever it complains of the slightest little pain or ache or anything else. It is true also that such parents may get their children into an unhappy frame of mind, and may even teach them, unconsciously, to make much of everything that happens to them, fussing and crying and running to be comforted over all the little troubles they have or imagine.

But when fever exists, there is no question of imagination or exaggeration or sympathy-chasing. When fever exists, the clear-cut call, or "indication," as the physician says, is Rule One—Bed; and Rule Two—investigate. If every mother did these two things consistently, uniformly, with every sick child in her care, this world would be a very different place in a very short time indeed.

"WHEN SHOULD I CALL THE DOCTOR?"

The best time is the earliest time; but always call him if the fever lasts twelve hours. This does not mean that you should always wait twelve hours first and then call the doctor. It means, never let a fever go over twelve hours without calling him. If there is anything else the matter with the child besides the fever, plain and simple—if the child has fever and pain, or fever and vomiting, or fever and sore throat, or fever and headache, or fever and a cold, or fever and a cough, or fever and anything else, then have the doctor at once by all means. Far better to have the doctor ten times and find the trouble is not serious, than to fail to have him even one time when it is serious.

"WHAT GOOD IS THE DOCTOR?"

Well, of course, for the patient—to find out what is the matter, tell what is going to happen, prepare and arrange for the illness if it is likely to be a long one, treat the patient who is ill. But that is only part of it. The doctor can tell if the case is infectious or not, what to do about the others who may have caught the same thing, the treatment the well ones should have to prevent them getting the same thing, the precautions to take.

You will remember that there are a lot more infectious diseases than those well-known ones which must be reported, like smallpox and scarlet fever; so that there are a lot of fevers in which precautions against spread are required besides those diseases which the board of health looks after.

RULE ONE PLUS RULE TWO.

Remember, then, that fever means bed first and investigation second; and usually a doctor should make the investigation; always, if the fever runs over twelve hours; always if there is fever and anything else.

You think this is not a "rule of health at all, but a rule about disease. That "rules of health" are all about eating and drinking and sleeping and washing and keeping the windows open. Alas! the trouble is that we have so much sickness, so much that is infectious, so much that we cannot avoid by proper eating and drinking and sleeping and so on, that rules against disease are really more rules of health than real rules of health are!

Some day, when infectious diseases of all kinds are conquered (Rule One and Rule Two will hasten that day very much, if mothers will follow them), "some sweet day," rules of health will really relate to health more than to disease. But so long as we are willing to pay $1,700,000,000 per generation for the privilege of being sick, health is bound to be a rather academic matter.

Rule Three next week.

REBELS AMBUSH POLICE PATROL SIX MURDERED

Constables Fought Bravely, But Were Greatly Outnumbered.

CORK, Ireland, June 3.—District Inspector Stevenson, a police sergeant and four constables were killed and four officers were seriously wounded when a police patrol was ambushed by 100 armed men near Westport, County Mayo, near here last night. Arms and ammunition carried by the police were taken, and the three motor cars in which the officers were riding were burned.

When the police were attacked they replied with rifles and machine gun fire. The fight lasted several hours, but in the end the police lost all their arms, including their machine gun. One survivor, a constable, arrived at Westport at midnight with the news of what had occurred and medical assistance and reinforcements were then dispatched. Two of the wounded men are not expected to recover.

The patrol had gone out to fill up with commandeered labor a trench which had been dug across the road. On the return journey at a point where the road winds through some small hills, the party was attacked by Sinn Feiners, who had taken up a position behind walls which had been loopholed. Six of the constables took cover in a house where they continued fighting until their ammunition was exhausted.

At Ballyhofey, County Donegal, yesterday, a party believed to comprise a half dozen armed men fired upon a police motor car. The crown forces replied, killing two of the ambushers in County Tyrone, a bridge across the river. Owenkillew was demolished by explosives. The body of a youth, with the neck broken, was found in the debris. It is believed the charge exploded prematurely.

POLICE SEIZE 85 CASES OF LIQUOR

Shipment Taken Near Chatham On Way To Windsor.

CHATHAM, June 3.—High Constable Peters, acompanied by several Kent County policemen, seized a large shipment of liquor just east of the city on the Longwoods road this morning. The shipment was contained in a speed car and an ordinary passenger car. The Kent constables, who were in two automobiles, blocked the road and seized the shipment, which consisted of 55 cases of wet goods. The shipment in the passenger car was covered with sacks. The owners, who live in Windsor, will come up for trial before Magistrate Arnold on Thursday next.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN.

OTTAWA, June 3.—The much-contested insurance act amendments were withdrawn by the Government when the resolution on the order paper was reached today.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

Following were the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours prior to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 80; lowest, 66.

MINERS MAY MEET OWNERS OVER WEEK-END

Little Progress Being Made in Settlement of Coal Strike.

LONDON, June 3.—Canadian Press.—The determination of the mass of the miners not to go back to work except on their own terms is emphasized by the action of men employed at the Cannock Chase Pits. Only four out of the thousand miners responded to the owners' offer of work at two shillings a day less than before the declaration of the strike. A week-end meeting between the miners' executive and the owners is considered probable. It is thought that the Government will now discreetly retire temporarily into the background and let the two parties to the dispute attempt a settlement among themselves.

Slightly Extended.

As a result partly of the removal of the embargo on imported coal by the unions the train service has been slightly extended. The introduction of oil fuel, however, has had a lot to do with the increased service.

Army reservists called out by the miners' strike have been demobilized by the Government, the men receiving £5 as a bounty. Premier Lloyd George has issued an appeal to employers to reinstate the reservists in the jobs they left when called up to the colors by the labor situation.

Unemployment is acute in the Manchester district where it is reported that 800 are claiming unemployment insurance.

May Be Increased.

This number is likely to be augmented because the wage agreement between cotton manufacturers and their employees expires tomorrow. The employers have proposed a reduction of 5 shillings on the present weekly rates. The workers are ready to accept a half-crown reduction. The mill owners have posted a notice that if the cut is not accepted the place will be closed.

A rather significant statement has been made by Dr. Wakefield, Bishop of Birmingham. He says it is a great pity that statesmen do not get into touch with the miners themselves.

"Our great population will not permanently endure centralization of the country's management in London," said the cleric, who declares that the springs of the national life of the country are not in the metropolis.

DINE AT COUNTRY CLUB.

WINDSOR, June 3.—Members of the manufacturers section of the Border Chamber of Commerce held a dinner at the St. Clair Country Club tonight, at which addresses were made by Hiram H. Walker, P. N. Mainguy, P. W. Grandjean and C. T. Miller.

FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULTING CHIEF

Charles Goodchild Convicted of Attack At Amherstburg.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, June 3.—Charles Goodchild was convicted by Magistrate McCormick of Amherstburg on a charge of assaulting Policeman A. J. Wharton of that town. Ben Treaolet, similarly charged will be tried at the assizes at Sandwich, commencing on June 14.
