TRAGEDY AND TRIUMPH.

Good Friday and Easter Sunday are mot days set once and never again in the year's calendar. They are not days at all, they are principles and motives and ideals. The Gethsemane and Golgotha of Good Friday belong to every age and cas: their shadow athwart every life. The strange stir in the new tomb and the haunted enchantment of the gray dawn in the Arimathean's garden, with their forefeeling and assurance of Eastertide, are not solitary incidents in th legends of the Syrian land, but Life's unbroken pledge that Duty triumphs at the last, and that in the end Grief is disproved and Death shall die. The light of common day may make our routine life dunskied and weary, but standing beside every man's path is the tragedy of Good Friday, and beckoning before is the triumph of Easter.

Good Friday stands for the oughtmess of life; Easter for its triumph. It was because His life was charged with the moral imperative of Duty that the Christ set His face steadfastly to go up to Jerusalem, even though the way led on to Cavalry. It was because in a moral world Life is more than Death and the compulsions of moral obligation issue in moral triumph that it was not possible that He should be holden of the grave. The oughtness which compelled and inspired the tragic self-sacrifice of Good Friday found its justification and its reward in the masterful resurrection of Easter. And life is the same to-day and for every man. It is neither a joke nor an accident. Through the short span of the individual's life, as well as through the wide circuit of the ages, there runs the increasing purpose that makes life real, and the issue of it all is that "Far-off divine event To which the whole creation moves." No man's life has dignity or authority or power that is void of the constraint of what ought to be. Ought is the one imperious idea in a moral world. What ought to be must be, is the authoritative maxim of a moral life. There is no condition or circumstance or relationship in life which a man may find relief from the insistent obligation of what ought to be. It may seem to carry with it the failure and defeat of life's most splendid vision. It may involve the bitterness of Gethsemane and the shame of Golgotha. That matters not. The imperative of what ought to be admits of neither condition nor alternative. Man has to do with loyalty to the sense of oughtness in his own soul; The consequences of that loyalty are bound up in the issues of those great laws which hold the moral universe together. To blot Good Friday and its tragedy out of one's life is to make impossible the triumph of Eas-

And loyalty to the "ought to be" of Good Friday makes inevitable the "shall be" of Easter. Not alone for the Man who first bore the cross of Death and Shame, but for every man who in his own place and for the sake of Truth and Love stands fast, unseen hands roll away the stone, may be tragedy, in a world like this there must be tragedy, but no life is a mistake or a failure that is true to its highest ideal. It may pass through the shadow of Good Friday, for it, somewhere in the sunshine, the lilies of Easter are waving .- Globe.

Interesting Session of the Teachers

On Thursday last A. W. Thornton, D. D., finished his lecture on Teeth, which was adjourned from Wednes gave a lecture on History. This, together with the lecture on Geography the previous session, formed one of the pleasing features of the Convention. Speaking of the teaching of History, Mr. Saul said: "The teaching of history in the junior grades must be wholly confined to the teaching of biography. It would be well not to confine this part of the subject only to the lives of men who stand out politically in the co-ordinated history. At this stage it is well to take up the lives of men and women, too, important on account of art, commerce, etc. In the senior grades there will be scarcely time for these lives." Moved by Mr. Plewes, seconded by Professor Alexander, of Toronto, gave a very interesting lecture. Speaking of Literary Interpretation, Professor Alexander said:—

"It is not the method that is adopted for the pursuit of an object that leads to success, but rather the force behind the method. We find this especially true in advantage, Culthat leads to success, but rather the force behind the method. We find this especially true in education. Culture subjects are the hardest to teach, and consequently they are not as well taught as the other subjects. Literature is the great culture study. The great object is to interest the pupils in great things. The time we have them under our care is so short that we cannot hope to teach them everything. The most we can hope to do is to arouse interest and hope it will bear fruit after they pass from our supervision."

To illustrate the points brought out in his lecture, Professor Alexander took a class in literature on two very difficult poems of Browning.

As the Train Rolled North

By FRANK H. SWEET Copyright, 1904, by Frank H. Sweet

When the Southern Palm Limited When the Southern Paim Limited drew out from Jacksonville, north-bound, there were two young men on board under widely different circumstances. One was crouching upon the second step of a Pullman, forward, with his eyes fixed grimly upon the door through which the conductor would pass on his round of ticket collecting. The other was in the observation car at the rear of the train, two seats from the end, staring at an two seats from the end, staring at an open letter with eyes widened in despair, horror and desperation. This train made few stops, but at the first station, in obedience to a signal from the bell cord, it slowed down sufficiently for the conductor and brakeman to thrust the man from the brakeman to thrust the man from the second step of the Pullman; then it shot ahead at full speed to make up the few seconds lost. The tramp remained standing where he had dropped, his face now keen and alert, and his right arm upraised. As it swept by the train brushed his clothing and the wind of it stirred his rough unkempt. wind of it stirred his rough, unkempt hair and beard. Three cars passed; then came the observation car. Suddenly his hand closed like a vise upon the rear railing, his body swung out and writhed for a few moments in midair, then his feet caught, and he drew himself in by sheer force of mus-cle and nerve to the same crouching position he had eccupied on the Pullman forward.

Inside the car the other man was now tearing the letter into the most minute fragments, as if striving to annihilate its contents. When the pleces were too small for further re-duction they swept through the open window and were scattered thinly over a half a mile of the roadbed. The man rose and glanced about the car. It was almost empty, and the other passengers were buried in papers or books. He turned back quickly, open-ed the door, and with a light spring threw himself from the train, but not to the ground! Just as he sprang, the tramp flung himself out suddenly, with nothing but his left hand grasping the rail. As the two bodies came together the tramp's right arm closed like a steel band around the other, while the weight of it bore them down, down, until their legs almost swept the mocking rails of the roadbed.

Ing rails of the roadbed.

Not many men—not one in a thousand—could have sustained such a weight in such a position, swinging from side to side under the motion of a train going at fifty miles an hour, but gradually, little by little, the left arm contracted and drew them up, up and in until finally, with a last desperate effort, they were both crouching upon the rear platform, white, gasping, too exhausted to stand or speak.

too exhausted to stand or speak.

The well dressed man recovered first.

The horror was still in his eyes, but with it was something more. Perhaps that instant in midair, with death in that instant in midair, with death in front, had made him see more clearly; perhaps his miraculous rescue had made possible the greater rescue from himself. As he rose staggeringly the tramp's arm went out in feeble protest, but a hand fell upon the arm gently. "No need of that now, my friend," the still white lips whispered. "I am awake and in my right mind. I shall never attempt anything like that again."

The train began to slacken, and at again."

The train began to slacken, and at that moment the door opened and the conductor came out. They were pasting over a short piece of road where pasting over a short piece of road where pasting over a short piece of road where repairs were being made, and slow speed was necessary. The conductor noded to his passenger, but seemed surprised at his disheveled appearance. Then his gaze fell upon the tramp, and his face darkened. "You here." he exclaimed, "after ba-his face darkened.

"You here," he exclaimed, "after baring put off once too? And, from the looks of this young man, you have been up to more than stealing a ridu this time. I"—

There was a sudden jerk, which intimated that the train was about to increase its speed. The conductor caught the tramp by the shoulder and with a quick twist sent him from the train. The passenger uttered an angry cry of remonstrance and tried to stay the act, but too late. As the train gathered headway they saw the tramp go plunging and staggering down a steep embankment, at the bottom of which he righted himself and waved his hand cheerfully at the receding train.

Five minutes later the young man was back in the car, two seats from the end, still dazed and white. Suddealy the door at the forward end opened, and a girl entered, holding a paper in her hand. She came straight to him.

"Robert, what does this awful thing about you mean?" she exclaimed. "I suppose you have seen the paper." He was holding to the back of the seat for support, his face drawn and haggard.

"No, you needn't show it to me, Hel-on," he answered. "I have not seen the paper, but I know what it contains. It paper, but I know what it contains. It is true. I only discovered it myself a short time ago. I was given my mail as we left the hotel and slipped it into my pocket. I did not read it until I left you and your mother and came back to the observation car just now. It was all in a letter from my partner."

The girl looked at him, her lips trembling, but she smiled. "I know it is not true, Robert," she declared positively," "not a word of it. I have known you ever since we went to school together, and you are utterly incapable of a thing like that. You have not read the paper, so you do not understand. Why, Robert"—her voice quivered with indignation—"the paper says you stole half a million dollars, and from poor people, mostly people whose means of support it was. It's absurd. You have been with us the last three months, and this has all happened within that

"But don't you see it's just the same, Helen," he said gently. "The money was intrusted to me, and I am the sole one responsible. If I neglected the trust and allowed my partner an op-portunity to do the rest I am really the one to blame."

one to blame."
"I say you are not," she interrupted emphatically. "Maybe it was unbusinesslike and maybe you are legally responsible—I do not know about that. But I do know you are no more guilty than I am in the way the paper puts it. Of course you will let every cent of your property go toward paying these poor people, and if it isn't enough we will pay the rest off just as fast as we

"Helen, Helen!" he remonstrated sharply. "You must not talk like that. You do not understand. We cannot be married now. Why, dear, I may be ar-

'All the more need you will have for my help, then," she replied quickly. "If I am to be a helpmeet there will never be more occasion for it than now. We will be married just as soon as we reach Washington, just as we planned, and then we will work together to live this thing down. Why, Robert!"

For the young man's head had suddenly dropped to the back of the seat, and his shoulders were heaving convulsively. She sank to the seat beside him. slipping one of her hands into his, stroking it softly until he should regain

And miles behind them on the track sat a tramp waiting for the next

Wanted Judge to Be Overruled.

Up in Maine there is an old custom of opening the courts with prayer, which custom in one instance, described with considerable gusto by ex-Judge Henry E. Howland, led to a petition Henry E. Howland, led to a petition with which the judge couldn't exactly sympathize. The minister who was to officiate at this court was one of the good old fashioned, simple living, long praying kind who flourish in country churches. He prayed for the welfare of the nation and its executive and his cabinet; he prayed for the state officials and for mankind in general. Then, "O Lord, give to this presiding judge the wisdom he so much needs," besought the dominie with fervor. "Overrule his decisions to thine eternal honor and glory." The presiding judge, appreciating the spirit of the petition, while hardly relishing his diction, had to live down the reputation which his associates tried to confer on him in accordance with the characterization of the prayer.-New York Tribune.

Hindees and Cows.

The Hindees or natives of India, worship idels of wood and stone. They also worship animals and plants. The cow is considered the most sacred animal; still they worship the ox and the bull, the fish, tortoise and bear; also serpents, monkeys, demons and spirits. They believe that when a person dies the soul passes into some animal or plant and lives another life, continuing to do so until it has lived millions of lives. They think that perhaps some one of their ancestors may be living in the cow or some other animal. For that reason they are very kind to animals and dare not allow them to be killed. When the cows bethem to be killed. When the cows be-come old, or for that reason become helpless, they are sent to the "asylum for animals" in Punjakole, India, where they are well kept for the rest of their lives. A good Brahman or Hindoo priest will feed his cow before he takes his own breakfast.

In the Natural Way.

During a session of the supreme court of Maine at Augusta a tedious and complicated real estate case had pretty nearly worn out the patience of the counsel on both sides. One of the lawyers engaged was Fred A. Appleton, whose fame as a wit was wide-spread.

ton, whose fame as a wit was wide-spread.

Opposing him was a lawyer of pompous mien and much avoirdupois, who kept making blunder after blunder until even the judge became irritated. After making a particularly aggravating error he said:

"I beg your honor's pardon; that was another mistake. I seem to be inoculated with duliness today."

"Inoculated, brother?" said Mr. Appleton. "I thought you had it in the natural way."

The story is told of an old Roman here who desired to found a great city, and for a sum of gold he purchased from a barbarian tribe as much land as he could cover with the skin of an ox. By cutting the hide skilfully into one long strip, he encompassed enough space to establish a stronghold. The human skin is full of little tubes, which are called sweat-glands. If all these glands were unravelled and laid end to end, they would be long enough to fence in an area of over a square mile! When they are all working properly they rid the body of two quarts of poisonous matter every 24 hours. If the surface of the skin is not kept clean and the mouths of these minute tubes open and free, all the substances extracted from the blood will be forced back into the system. Suitable bathing and rubbing will keep the outside clean, but the inside also needs attention. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Pleasant Pellets" relieve the glands of much unnecessary work, by opening up the bowels and kidneys. The strain is relieved; the bloom of youth returns; the mind feels clearer, and the body becomes stronger and more able to resist disease.

The common sign of the business man's slavery is "weak stomach," the natural consequence of the rapid eating, the indigestible pastry, the coffee and pie or doughnust, with which many a man stuffs his stowach under the name of "quick unch." The quickest way back to a strong stomach and sound health is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery until perfectly cured.

Newspaper Advertising. The Louisville Courier-Journal of-fered five prizes for the best suggestions for advertising the city. The theory has lately been advanced, and with a measure of acceptance, that a city needs to be advertised as much as a business does. The judges decided that the most effective plan proposed was the raising of a sufficient amount of money to advertise the city's advantages in the leading newspapers published in the territory from which the city expects to draw trade and population, followed up by advertising in the leading journals of the country. All the proposals had reference to some form of newspaper advertising.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made upy mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Warm Retort. "While I have hitherto sworn off smoking as a New Year's pledge which has never been kept," said a Universal ist minister at the Jewelers' club dinner in Chicago some years ago, "this night, with a beautiful smoking set as a souvenir, has brought to me the de termination to make a new pledge that I can keep—to smoke as long as I live." William Porter Williams was the toastmaster. He had been considerably scratched at by the Universalist brother. When the minister was seated Mr. Williams said, "When I reflect upon the uncharitableness of my brother in what he said about me, I am con-strained to wonder why in making that resolution to smoke as long as he lived he necessarily drew the line at his death."—Everybody's.

Important Meeting of the Board Deals with Applications for Licenses ome Places on Trial.

The West Kent Board of License Commissioners concluded their meeting late on Saturday afternoon, having been in session all day dealing with the applications for liquor licenses for the ensuing year. Chairman W. R. Baxter presided and there were also present Commissioners Andrew McKibbon and Thos, C. Martin and Inspector Nathaniel Massey. The main matter emphasized by the Board was strict adherence to the law and the exclusion of "bums' and offensive loungers from licensed places. Several applicants were placed on three months' trial in order to give them opportunity to show how they intended to conduct their

The city by-law, reducing the Chatham licenses by three, of course centred interest in that part of the proceedings. Upon the premises of each applicant the Inspector reported, but it was after five o'clock ere the city applicants were finally dealt with as follows:

Licenses granted—Frank T. Merrill, Emilie A. Bechard, Alex L. Eberts, D. J. McDonald, Jos. J. Carron, Hogan & Hoy, J. W. Miles and Nancy Courtney, taverns; and F. A. Robert, shop.

Three months' extension granted—John F. Dunlop, Idlewild, and W. F. Fairbanks, Station House.

Thirty days' extension granted—John H. Glassford, John Pleasance, Nora Mount and D. M. Martin, taverns; and W. D. Sheldon, shop.

The question of the Park House was felt for further consideration when the parties come to an agreement.

At the Dangerous End.

After the collapse of the Confederacy ex-Senator Wigfall, a member of the Confederate congress from Texas, fell in with a party of Union soldiers in that state. Being well disguised, he entered freely into conversation with the soldiers of the guard, in the course of which he asked what they would do with "old Wigfall" if they were to catch him. "We should hang him, sure," was the prompt reply. "Serve him right," exclaimed Wigfall. "If I were with you I'd be pulling at one end of the rope myself!"

Lattakia Tobacco. Lattakia tobacco, an article of commerce well known in Europe and Amer-ica, is black in color owing to its fu-migation by the Nusairieh mountaineers in the smoke of a tree called "elez-zer" or "ezr," which imparts to it a peculiar aromatic flavor. The grows wild, seldom attaining the size of the oak, and gives out its aromatic odor when burned in the green state.

Tibetan Monks Who Suffer Life Im-prisonment in Dark Cells. Perhaps the most terrible penance suffered for religious reasons anywhere in the world is that of the monks of Nyen-de-kyl-buk, as described by Per-cival Landon in "The Opening of Tibet" These monks live in the ordinary manner during the novitlate; then they go into cells for a period of six months; then, after an interval, for three years and ninety-three days; la ter for life.

And such a cell! "Almost on a level with the ground," says Mr. Landon, "there was an opening closed with a flat stone from behind. In front of this window was a ledge eighteen inches in width, with two basins beside it, one at each end. The abbot was attended by an acolyte who, by his master's orders, tapped three times sharply or the stone slab. We stood in the little courtyard in the sun and watched that wicket with cold apprehension. I think, on the whole, it was the most uncanny thing I saw in all Tibet. After half a minute's pause the stone mov ed or tried to move, but it came to rest again. Then very slowly and uncer tainly it was pushed back, and a black chasm was revealed. There was again a pause of thirty seconds, during which imagination ran riot, but I do not think that any other thing could have been as intensely pathetic as that we actu

"A hand, muffled in a tightly wound piece of dirty cloth, for all the world like a stump of an arm, was painfully thrust up, and very weakly it felt along the slab. After a fruitless fum-bling the hand slowly quivered back again into the darkness. A few mo-ments later there was again an ineffectual effort, and then the stone slat noved noiselessly across the opening.

"Once a day water and an unleav ened cake of flour is placed for the prisoner upon that slab, the signal is given, and he may take it in. His diversion is over for the day, and in the darkness of his cell, where night and day, moon, sunset and the dawn are all alike, he—poor soul!—had thought that another day of his long penance was over."

We recommend as follows:

That no pavement be laid without a good concrete foundation, and if bricks or asphalt blocks to be laid in cement in place of sand cushion, the same as on Park street.

We believe vitrified brick well laid is a good pevement, the only objection being the nose. Judging from the appearance of King street west and Park street we consider asphalt block when laid in the same way as Park street as being first class paving material, making a smoother pavement and far less noise than brick, and as far as we can see, equally durable. Skilled workmen should be employed to lay bricks or asphalt blocks to insure evener surface.

Detectives Says They Are Getting More Evidence Re. Miss Lowery's

Murder From Mrs. Covell Rodney, April 22.-Very little new light was shed yesterday on the murder mystery. All the clues have been der mystery. All the clues have been exhausted, and the detectives have very little to go on. Word of the arrest of Prestage Clark, a Toronto laborer who has been working in the burnt district at Jeannette Creek, reached the officers last night and he will be brought here to-day for examination. The man says he spent the night of the murder in Tom Hutchinsen's planing mill, and that he left the next morning. The mill is 13-4 miles south from the scene of the murder. Nothing is expected to develop as a result of the arrest.

Provincial Detectives were with Mrs. Covell for two hours yesterday afternoon, and last night they pointed out that they were getting more evidence.

Covell for two hours yesterday after noon, and last night they pointed out that they were getting more evidence each time they went. To support the theory that the murder was someone that lived in these parts years ago is the fact that the murderer thought Miss Lowery, the dead woman, was Mary Taylor, who died over year ago. Had the murderer been a present resident the officers point out that he would have heard of her death.

The use by the murderer of the names of Tom Barlow, John Head and the old couple's nephew, Benjamin J. Covell of Bismark, is also put forth as a circumstance to strengthen the theory. Last night another nephew of Mr. Covell was examined by the detectives and allowed to go.

Provincial Detective Greer goes to London to-day to attend the Loomis murder preliminary investigation. The prisoner, Clarke, the detectives say, may be the man who was driven to Ridgetown as stated by a farmer on Wednesday after the murder, The farmer will see bim to-day.

Paris, April 22.—After a notable Faris, April 22.—After a notable service of nearly eight years in the direction of foreign affairs. Theophile Deleasse yesterday informed the president of the Council Rouvier of his desire and intention to resign.

Loubet and the Ministers, M. Rouvier earnestly besought M. Delcasse to retain his place in the Cabinet.

It is evident that M. Rouvier's earnest appeal caused M. Delcasse to waver in his determination, M. Delcasse, he said, had promised to reserve his determination until to-day. It is believed that M. Delcasse will withdraw his restration lieved that M. Delcasse will withdraw his resignation.

The Reason Why.

The motives leading up to M. Delcasse's sudden determination to retire are primarily attributed to international controversies over French neutrality in the Far East. The Opposition headed by Socialists and Nationalists have directed their criticalists. tion headed by Socialists and Nationalists have directed their criticisms on M. Delcasse. It is felt that his retirement now would be halled in Germany as a German triumph, and this is one of the considerations leading M. Rouvier to earnestly appeal to M. Delcasse to remain in the Foreign Office. In order to secure definite co-operation between three departments of on between three departments of the Government, namely, naval. and foreign, a conference yesterday was held between leading representatives of each department. This brought about a clear understanding regarding the measures necessary for the maintenance of the neutrality of Indo-Chinese waters. nese waters.

France Arouses Russia. France Arouses Russia.

Paris, April 22.—As a result of communications between the Governments at Paris and St. Petersburg, the Russian Government has forwarded urgent orders to Admiral Rojestvensky, rigorously to respect the neutrality of French waters. This is a precautionary measure. In addition, special instructions have been serviced. ary measure. In addition, special instructions have been sent to the Governor-General of Indo-China, M. Beau, and Foreign Minister Deicasse has instructed the French Minister at Tokio to give the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs assurances that it is France's purpose to preserve strict neutrality.

Discussed in London.
London, April 22.—All the Government offices were closed yesterday and most of the officials were out of town making it almost impossible to secure an official statement regarding Great Britain's contemplated or actual action in connection with the neutrality question in the indo-Chinese waters. The question was discussed between Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, and Foreign Secretary Lansdowne. Sir Francis Bertie, the British Ambassador to France, left London yesterday morning for Paris, and it is considered likely that he is the bearer of special inly that he is the bearer of special instructions France Makes Good. Saigon, French Cochin-China, April 22.—Admiral Jonquieres of the French navy returned Thursday evening from Kamranh Bay on the torpedo boat destroyer Takou, and announces that he left in Kamranh harbor a cruiser and five formedo beat to incurse and stroyer Takou, and announces that he left in Kamranh harbor a cruiser and five torpedo boats to insure neutrality. He confirms the statement that certain ships of the Russian Baltic squadron are in the outside bay, but will not disclose whether they are battleships or cruisers, or whether any of the ships belong to the main fighting fleet of Admiral Rojestvensky. The admiral did say there had been no breach of diplomatic usage. The Russian warships are well outside the territorial three-mile limit for which France is responsible because of the Colonial rights in Annam. Admiral Jonquieres sailed from Kamranh Bay at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, and this establishes the fact that the Russian ships are not on their way to Formosa.

Where Togos is.

No Japanese cruisers or other warships have been reported since Tuesday night, when Admiral Togo's flying squadron was seen north of the Paracels Islands, about 240 miles from Kamranh Bay.

Diana To Disarm.

Orders have been given for the disarmament of the Russian orquiser Diagram.

You're uneasy, restless, without appetite. Still worse you are thin and fagged out. Work must be done, but where is the strength to come from?

Make your blood nutritious and you'll have lots of strength. Your only hope is Ferrozone, an instant blood-maker, blood-purifier, blood-enricher. It brings keen appetite, digests food and supplies nutrition for building up all the bodily tissues. Ferrozone makes muscle and nervefibre, increases your weight, instils a reserve of energy into the body that defies weariness or exhiustion from any cause. To have virility and healthy vigor use Ferrozone, which all dealers sell in 50c. boxes.

Diana To Dianrm.

Orders have been given for the disarrament of the Russian cruiser Diana, which took refuge under one of the coast forts in August, 1904. She has undergone important repairs to essential portions of her machinery, which now will be handed over to the French authorities here. She was supposed to have done so September 6. 1904.

No Hope For Russ Fleet.

Tokio, April 22—The situation of the Russian fleet is regarded here as hopeless. It posstion is accurately known in every respect, and every move that it may make from this time forward will be with the knowledge of Admiral Togo and the other chiefs of the Japanese navy. The first sea battle undoubtedly will occur whenever the Russian admiral begins his journey toward the Formosa Straits, as the attack by Urlu's flying squadron is sure

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the cily way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone gives that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dolars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen. Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

All that medicine can do for these the grows, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must c.i.d. asthma Hay Fever-Induenza Richery Diseases.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhibitanting, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; seems to be no doubt that the movement against Kirin is progressing rapidly, and that important results may be expected within a few days that will for some time challenge worldwide attention to the land forces in Manchuria. The announcement in a bulletin yesterday afternoon that Japanese force with guns has appeared southwest of Changchun is the most important development in the last 24 hours. The milliners generally get the first look in with early novelties, for it is possible to air one's new chapeau be-fore it would be wise to dare the winds of March with spring costumes. Here we have a certain novelty, the little in-dented toque with tufts of flowers pushed into the curves and twists made by the upturned brim, which requires to be worn at a somewhat rakish angle on the head and shelves up sharply off the hair at the back, making the back view of the head rather long and straight. This undeniably captivating chapeau requires, a small, piquant face, good hairdressing and a certain insouciance of bearing to be successful.

There are some women who seem to be perennially youthful. The grown daughters are companions as well as children, and the color in the mother's cheeks, the brightness in her eyes, the roundness in her form, all speak of abounding health. What is her secret? She is at the middle age of life when so many women are worn, wasted and faded, and yet time has only ripened her charms. The secret of this matronly health and beauty may be told in the brief phrase, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The general health of woman is so intimately related to the local health of the delicate womanly organs, that where these are diseased, the whole body must suffer. "Favorite Prescription" dries the debilitating drains, heals ubcration and inflammation, cures female weakness and imparts to the delicate female organs natural vicor and vitality. Women who have lost their health and their beauty have been made "robust and rosy cheeked" by the use of this marvellous medicine.

Premier Whitney Hopes Foreign Orig nated Term Is Not Applicable to Cenditions in Canada.

Toronte, April 24.—In reply to a lab Toronte, April 24.—In reply to a lab-By delegation to Premier Whitney, Hon.

J. Foy and Hon. A. R. Pyne, on Saturday, to protest against terms of Becretary Younge's letter sent out to members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, suggesting that they abould not furnish the bureau of labor with statistics and information, requested by them, Premier Whitney said that he and his colleagues had been much interested in having the deputation before them and hearing the causes of their grievance, for, the causes of their grievance, for, without hearing the cause, it would be impossible to supply a remedy. As free people, all valued their liberties. This was a question affecting the material prosperity of those who earned their money by the sweat of their brow. As a people, they were near the werse erial prosperity of those who earned their money by the sweat of their brow. As a people, they were none the worse for that. All of them at some time had earned their mency in that way. This condition of affairs was likely to stay. He hoped the terms, "masses and classes," which originated in foreign countries, would be inapplicable to conditions here. This was not a question of Grit or Tory, but was one that any Government should deal with, and when they did deal with it, the problem should be solved. He promised that the Government would think over the matter. He was sorry to see there was tension; but it might be worse. If was a mystery to him why there should be objection to people of any occupation taking that interest in their work, and trying to perfect it so that the general welfare of all should be enhanced. If it were true that inspectors were winking at irregularities and that the law was not being carried out, he could promise them, without doubt, that this complaint would soon cease to exist.

The chief question was that of compelling manufacturers to furnish the department with information. It had

The chief question was that of compelling manufacturers to furnish the department with information. It had occurred to him that perhaps the labor bureau at Ottawa and the bureau in Ontario were overlapping each other, and perhaps one might assist the other. The session was now half ever, and the matter could not possibly be taken up this session. No evil was so great as hasty legislation, and while the matter could not be considered at present, it would be taken up as soon as possible, and thoroughly considered. No harm had come by it at present, and it remained to be seen what would and it remained to be seen what would be the result of the letter. A vote of thanks was moved, and

Government Accepts Buoys-Investigation Inte Cause of Explosion of Gas Buoys at Kingston,

Kingston, April 24.—Friday morning George P. Meurn, Montreal, agent of the firm, through whom the Gevernment purchased the buoys, gave evidence before the investigating board. He stated that no guarantee was ever given by the manufacturers of the pressure the buoys will stand. In his spinion they were safe up to 15 atmospheres. If the company had been required to give a guarantee they would have taken steps to inspect the buoys and give certificates for a limited time, as is done in the case of steam bollers. Then, at the expiration of this time, they would examine them again Kingston, April 24.-Friday morning time, they would examine them again and give a renewal if possible; but they had never been asked for a guarantee for their buoys, ether than that purchasees are told they were tested to 300 pounds before leaving the works. They did not say they must not exceed a certain pressure. He also stated that sectylene and air, when mixed in certain proportions, would ignite on slight appropriation. time, they would examine them again

J. F. Fraser, Dominion Commissioner of Lighting, stated that it was the Government's custom to accept maker's test of buoys. Those who finish the buoys stated they could be used under 18 or 13 atmospheres, and above this there was a considerable margin of safety. The buoys that burst were filled to 13 atmospheres.
