POETRY.

The Coming Man.

O not for the great departed
Who framed our country's laws,
And not for the bravest-hearted
Who died in freedom's cause,
And not for those living here
To whom all bend their knee,
My muse would raise her song of praise—
But for the man to be.

For out of the strife which woman
Is passing through to-day,
A man that is more than human
Shall yet be born, I say,
A man in whose pure spirit
No drop of self will lurk,
A man who is strong to cope with wrong,
A man who is proud to work.

A man with hope undaunted,
A man with godlike power,
Shall come when he most is wanted,
Shall come at the needed hour.
He shall silence the din and clamor
Of clan disputing with clan,
And toil's long fight with purse-prond
Shall triumph through this man.

I know he is coming, coming,
To help, to guide, to save,
Though I hear no martial drumming,
And see no flags that wave.
But the great soul-travail of woman,
And the bold free thought unfurled,
Are heralds that say he is on the way—
The coming man of the world.

Mourn not for vanished ages,
With their great heroic men,
Who dwell in history's pages,
And live in the poet's pen,
For the grandest times are before us,
And the noblest worth of this old Earth
In the men that are to be.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

SELECT STORY.

Pretty Miss Smith.

BY FLORENCE WARDEN.

CHAPTER V.

Mrs CAMDEN seemed not to be able to make enough of me when she found me willing to accept the situation; from this I was, of course, able to gather that there was some great drawback to the eyes of the young persons who had applied for it, and she continued to assure me repeatedly that the house was not haunted, I came to the conclusion that it had the reputation of being so.

"Who lived here in Mr. Marshall's time, ma'am?" I asked Mrs. Camden, who seemed very willing to talk, and who had just informed me of the manner in which the distillery came into Miss Smith's possession.

"Nobody, I think, except a caretaker. And so, of course, he might get about of white ladies and things of that sort, as they always do of shut-up houses."

"And does Miss Smith think she sees white ladies, ma'am?" I asked.

"I thought it was very unlike the fun-loving Mary. I used to know to be frightened by mere rumors of ghosts."

"I don't know what she thinks of the see," said Mrs. Camden, hastily. "I think it is some trouble with her fancy that makes her so depressed and fanciful. Lately she won't see him or anyone."

I remembered Hilary's complaint that Mrs. was jealous, I hadn't time for many reflections about the meeting I had witnessed between him and the fair-haired lady, when Mrs. Camden asked me whether I could stay at the house that very night and send for my boxes. I wished for nothing better, as by this means I might hope for a chance of an interview with Mary without delay. I at once assented to the proposal, therefore, and Mrs. Camden herself led me upstairs.

It was a comfortable sort of old house, with wide passages and staircases, nearly destitute of modern improvements, but roomy and convenient. I was shown into a little room overlooking the river, and opening into Mrs. Camden's.

"I don't know how long you'll be able to keep it, I'm sure," said that lady dubiously. "Miss Smith has a fancy for constantly changing her bedroom, so that any day we are liable to be turned out, both you and I. I have been moved twice already. This room opposite," she went on, opening the door of a larger and much brighter apartment which the sun was only just leaving, "is where you will do your needlework. We keep the linen in this dresser."

She unlocked a huge piece of furniture, unwieldy and worm-eaten, in which the linen of a regiment might have been stored, and then, saying that she was late, and must go and dress for dinner, she left me at the door of my room, returning to say that she would have my tea sent up to me. I was to be spoiled then, evidently, in consideration of my condensation in accepting the situation. It was a very uncomfortable position for me, and I felt so guilty that Mrs. Camden had scarcely left me when I suddenly resolved to confess the deception I had practised upon her, and with that intention ran out of my room and down the passage.

I followed with alacrity, most anxious to examine every nook of the house which had proved the tomb of Mary's high spirits. There was nothing in the least suggestive of phantoms or mysteries about the place. Roomy, airy, and well lighted, this floor contained a series of large, lofty rooms most of them having two or more big windows, and each having a good sized ventilator in the ceiling.

"What a nice, large house," said I, in admiration, as I looked out of one of the open windows of the room which Emily said was "Miss Smith's, while the fad lasted."

There was another lawn on this side, which was the front of the house. I gathered that the front door was not much used for the drive which led round the house up to it was grass grown, and the steps, which I could see protruding from under a heavy portico, also looked green with damp and want of use. Beyond the lawn, which was fringed with trees and shrubs, was a wide, built-up path, which ran along the bank of the river, from the distillery on the right as far as the boundary wall of the garden—some distance away on the left. The river was no pretty pleasure stream, but a busy high-way, for great flat barges which, heavily laden and drawn in long procession by puffing little tugs, or empty, drifting with the tide, kept the black water stirring and rippling hour after hour, day and night. A flat marsh, formed the outlook on the opposite shore. On the right the great body of the distillery, with the high square tower in the centre, could be distinctly seen.

"What a pity," I went on, drawing my head in again and turning to the maid, "not to use more of these lovely big rooms."

"Yes," said Emily, "the house is full of wasted space. There's a floor above this which is nothing but an immense attic, full of lumber from the works. It was built by the late Mr. Marshall to ventilate this floor into. There's a splendid view from it, if you like miles of chimney pots; only you can't get up there from the house; you have to go through the door that leads to the works first, and that's kept locked of course."

A great, big attic, above, entered only from the works. Here, thought I, is where the ghosts collect, and all manner of weird noises are heard, the wind whistling through the chimneys and crannies, and the rats and mice holding high revel. My reflections were interrupted by Emily, who was beginning to get restless and impatient of manner.

"And now I shall have to be off," she said. "You won't mind being left alone for a bit, will you? It will be daylight for a long time yet, you know."

I said I did not mind at all, and the girl hurried off, so full of excitement that I unkindly concluded it was some more interesting to her than her mistress whom she was going to meet. For I had not been in her company nearly an hour without discovering that Emily's horizon was bounded by thoughts of "young men."

As soon as I was alone I returned to the workroom and again looked out of the window. The sun hid 'nisk lower, but there was still a bright red glow in the west. Emily had said that dinner would be over by this time, and I was hoping that Mary would return to the garden. I had only waited a few moments when this wish was fulfilled. I saw my poor girl leave the house slowly, with a heavy, listless tread, as different as possible from the fairy-footed pace at which she used to trip across the lawn at Bayswater. She went straight across the orchard, and there amongst the trees I lost sight of her. Running down the staircase and through the hall like a hare, without meeting anyone, I followed her. The shadows were growing black upon the rough, long grass under the apple trees.

Mary's face, when I caught sight of it, looked ghastly in the cold shade. She was standing still, her hands hanging listlessly down, her eyes raised and fixed on the branches above her with an expression of utterly forlorn and helpless misery. My heart was beating fast, my eyes were filling with tears, and something seemed to rise up in my throat and choke me.

"Mary," I croaked out huskily. "My poor old Mary! Don't you know me? You haven't forgotten me? Mary?"

I was holding out my arms, not daring to advance any nearer, for she looked frightened at the first sound of my voice. As I finished speaking, however, I made one forward movement, with a stifled cry, my poor girl, with a rapid gesture as if to drive me away, turned and ran back into the house.

I did not attempt to follow her this time. I was appalled. I could no longer doubt the horrible truth of Tom's words: Mary was out of her mind. At the same moment I felt with passionate certainty that this calamity was the result of no accident. I would never rest until I had discovered who had brought it about.

Russell Sage to Boys.

The boy who is wanted in this business world of to-day must be educated, says Russell Sage in an admirable article on "The boy that is wanted," in November Ladies' Home Journal. If his parents cannot afford to give him a high-school or college education, he must learn to study without the aid of a teacher, in the early morning before business begins, and in the evenings after business hours. It can no longer be truthfully said that an education is out of any one's reach. Our splendid school system, where one can study by day or in the evening, has put the priceless treasure of an education within the reach of all. The main thing, in the beginning that I would impress upon boys is one of the great commandments, "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." The boy who respects his father and mother, who treats his sisters and brothers with loving kindness, has laid a good foundation for a successful career. You will do as your parents tell you, and that certainly will be to study. Don't be in a hurry to get away from your school-books. The cares and responsibilities of business life will come soon enough. Go to school as long as you can, and remember, every hour spent in study in your youth will be worth a day to you in after life. Read good books—the Bible above all. Make yourself acquainted with history. Study the progress of nations and the careers of men who have made nations great. If you have no library of your own, join one of the numerous associations to be found in all cities, where good healthful books may be obtained. Study religion, science, statecraft, and history. Learn to read intelligently, so that you may turn to practical use in after life the readings of your youth. Be sure you begin right. Do not waste time in reading trashy books.

A runaway couple pursued by an angry father rushed into the bedroom of a sleeping Justice and demanded an immediate marriage. Arrayed in a flowing gown of white, the startled Justice leaped from his couch, and, seeing a woman present, he quickly leaped behind the bed.

"What do you want?" he thundered, pouring wildly over the headboard.

"Want to get married!" shouted the man.

"Take her and go, and God help you!" cried the Justice.

And the nuptial knot was tied.

An amusing story is told of a young man, teaching school, who had occasion to punish a mischievous girl and as usual in that day and age, was about to resort to the fable. To the offending maid he said: "Miss —, give me your hand." She dropped her head and blushed. "You have said sternly: 'Miss —, I say, give me your hand.' Slowly lifting her eye she remarked: 'Mr. Vedder, this is embarrassing for me. You should not make such proposals in public. However, you must ask me papa first.'

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., NOV. 20, 1891.

New Industry. Wolfville is likely to have a new industry. We understand that a laboratory is to be built at once for the preparation of a class of German-American remedies...

Maritime Union. Of late this subject has been given considerable attention by some of the foremost journals of the Dominion. We are glad to see the matter coming up, and would like to see it thoroughly discussed...

Dr Borden Unseated. The sitting of the Supreme Court for the trial of the Election petition against Dr F. W. Borden was opened at Kentville on Monday, at 2 P. M. Judges Ritchie and Townshend were present to hear the case...

The Electoral List. Revising Barrister F. A. Masters, of Kentville, will begin holding his court in the different wards next week for the final revision of the voters' lists. The courts will begin in the township of Aylesford, and extending along the Windsor & Annapolis railway through Horton, they will close at Canard and Canning early in December... partly was more vigilant than another, for both Liberals and Conservatives felt that a new election was pending and that they must be fully prepared. At the revision over two years ago the Liberals put on the lists all they possibly could, while their opponents did but very little, and thus it can be seen that more applicants could be found at the present for the latter party...

The Brazilian Republic. Of the political forces of the present none is more conspicuous than the republic of Brazil—republic in name only. The imperial government was overthrown just two years ago, Dom Pedro II. was dethroned and left the country. The revolution was not a sanguinary one; no battle was fought, no shot fired, no blood shed. The emperor understood the condition of affairs immediately around him better, seemingly, than he understood the condition and needs of his subjects in the interior of his empire...

Acadia Seminary. The numerous friends of Acadia Seminary will be pleased to learn that work is going on smoothly, and that the outlook for the year is very encouraging. Miss Graves has entered upon her duties with her well-known energy and enthusiasm, and inspires both teachers and students with increased love for their work. Miss Augusta J. Dodge, so widely and favorably known throughout the province, is once more on the staff of instructors in instrumental music...

Weston Notes. C. E. Sanford, Esq., has entered into partnership with J. B. Chute in the boot and shoe trade, in Berwick. They have rented a store in the Oddfellows' Block. Miss Maude Sanford is visiting her sister, the wife of Rev. Percy Raymond, New Germany. Rev. H. Buel preached in the Hall last Sunday evening, with much acceptance and gave a very instructive, illustrated lecture on Africa, on Monday night. Mr Isaac Shaw is preparing land to set out ten acres of orchard next spring. Miss Cassie Caldwell, of Cambridge, is engaged to teach here this winter. She is a sister of Miss Mable Caldwell, of the Freshman Class at Acadia College. Mr. Randall Hiley is going to spend the winter with his brother in Dakota. Miss May Thomas, of Somerset, is giving lessons in instrumental music to a class of Weston girls. This is the second year Miss Thomas has had the patronage of this village. Mr G. Beardsley has moved into the Bog-Moor-Outtage.

Cambridge Notes.

Thanksgiving week has past, and the people of this village have every reason to be thankful for the abundant harvest this year. Grain, apples, potatoes and turnips were fully an average crop. J. H. Cox raised over 1000 bushels of turnips, and J. H. Webster had nearly that many. A large quantity of lumber has been shipped from here this season beside cord wood, potatoes and apples. Omer Woodman has moved into his new house, which he has nearly completed. He is now building a barn. His new buildings will be an improvement to the place. The "Cambridge Glee Club" held a successful entertainment on Friday evening last. They are now to have a literary contest during the remainder of the quarter. A "Christian Endeavor" society has been recently organized in this place. It has every reason to be encouraged in its work, for already it has about 25 active and 20 associate members. A splendid opportunity was given to those who were out Sunday evening of witnessing the eclipse of the moon. Mr Shaw, from Middleton, has the school in this section for the coming term. Miss Mable Caldwell is now attending Acadia College. Miss Caldwell passed examinations for both Grade C and B honors, and has been teaching for a year or more in this county. Miss Jennie Craig is now at home and intends studying for Grade B honors this winter. Miss Craig also has a College course in view. Miss Jennie Webster has the school at Woodside. John Caldwell is building a new store near his house. A new bridge is soon to be built over the Cornwalls river at this place. It is needed very much. Quite a number of sportsmen have visited the place this season, but game appears to be very scarce. More anon.

A Pleasant Evening. Monday evening last, Wolfville Division, No. 112, was visited by the members of the "Crystal" Band of Hope. After some business, which seemed very funny, not to say unnecessary, to the band, the following programme was carried out by members of both societies: 1. Recitation—"Tim's Shoes," Miss Elsie Abbott. 2. Piano Duet—Misses Caldwell and Patrinquin. 3. Reading—"Mie at Play," Miss Evelyn Keirstead. 4. Reading—"Pat and the Frog," Mr C. A. Patrinquin. 5. Song—"Baby Bye, Here's a Fly," Miss Lorinda Brown. 6. Recitation—"Two Brothers," Master Robie Tufts. 7. "Representation of a Drunken Man," Mr Warren Moore. 8. Piano Solo—"The Hobin's Return," Miss Sleep. 9. Recitation—"Sleepy Head," Miss Elsie Abbott. 10. Speech—Mr B. O. Davison. 11. Reading—"What the Liquor Did," Miss Maggie Moore. 12. Speech—Mr Turner. 13. Reading—"Burdock's Goat," Miss Florence Van Baakirk. The programme was good and was much enjoyed by all. The manner in which little Miss Abbott gave her recitations was very pleasing. Mr Warren Moore's "Representation of a Drunken Man" could not perhaps be surpassed, though we may safely say that he did not act from experience. The speeches by Messrs Davison and Turner were appreciated because of their brevity. Miss Evelyn Keirstead's reading was well rendered and enjoyed by all. Master Robie Tufts' recitations are always funny and pleasing. After refreshments, very kindly provided by the Division, the Band was dismissed, leaving the Division to finish their session in peace.

Notes from Berwick. The face of the town clock has made its appearance on the tower of Oddfellows' Hall. The new firm of Chute & Sanford are setting up shop in the new block. The Berwick Hotel, under a new name, "The Thornyke," by a new proprietor, Mr Carlyle, is to be conducted in future on strictly temperance principles, so 'tis said. Pastor Daley has recovered his health. Rev. H. Buel lectured on Darkest Africa, &c., on the 18th inst. The lecture was well received. Messrs Clark and Read have returned from the Pacific, and are now better satisfied than ever before, with their native land. Going 7000 Miles to Wed.—Last Thursday, Miss Hibbert, daughter of Captain Hibbert, of Yarmouth, purchased from H. B. Short, general ticket agent at Digby, the first through ticket ever issued at that station to a person going to Hong Kong. The lady went by the Bay of Eunday steamer to St John, where she takes the C. P. R. for Vancouver, thence to Hong Kong by steamer. She is due at Hong Kong on the 16th of December, on which day she is to wed, Capt. Brown of Mantopok, but who is now in charge of the docks at Hong Kong. The particulars of the case are a bit romantic. Miss Hibbert visited Hong Kong early last summer, with her father. There she met Captain Brown—for the first time. She promised to marry him, but fell and married him and she has kept her word!

The minimum cost of electric lighting and electric power is attained where the water fall is used for transmissions over comparatively long distances. The dynamo can be placed close to the water wheel and wires run to the cities and towns for miles around. A company in Maine operating electrical plant by hydraulic means, furnishes power at 50 per cent. less cost than average companies in New England. There is a pointer here for our people. One of the Conspicuous Wonders. The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, has been enlarged and vastly improved. It is really a wonderful paper. Its success is phenomenal. It's not strange people are wondering how such a magnificent paper can be supplied for so small a subscription. People who are interested in the wonders of the age should see the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. V. Rand, drug-gist.

Foot-ball. Two exciting games were played on the campus on Saturday, 14th inst. One was between the H. C. A.'s and a mixed team from Kentville and Wolfville; the other was between the Acadia first fifteen and the seventeen next best. The ball was kicked off for the first game at 2.30 P. M., and in a few minutes Dimock, by a splendid run, secured a touch-down for the H. C. A.'s. At this point, the outside team, which was two short, added another man. The ball was again kicked off, and soon fell into the hands of Dimock, who carried it a second time behind the enemy's goal. After this more scrimmaging took place, and the H. C. A.'s showed themselves equal to the occasion by forcing the ball once more across the touch line. In the second heat the outsiders had the full number of men and did better work. McNeitz secured a touch-down for the H. C. A.'s and Densison one for the visitors. When time was called the score stood, four touch-downs and two goals for the H. C. A.'s, against one touch-down for the mixed team. A. Shaw umpired for the Academy boys and R. A. Tingley for the outsiders. P. A. Starratt acted as referee. At 8.30 P. M. the second game was begun. This was a much closer contest, and victory was secured to the first fifteen by a touch-down made by Goucher. We hope that at the match against Dalhousie on the 21st Acadia may wear the palm.

"A Yard of Roses." One of the popular paintings at the New York Academy of Design was a long panel of Roses. A crowd was always before it. One critic exclaimed "Such a bit of nature should belong to all the people, it is too beautiful for one man to hide away." The Youth's Companion, of Boston, seized the idea, and spent twenty thousand dollars to reproduce the painting. The result has been a triumph of artistic delicacy and color. The Companion makes an autumn gift of this copy of the painting to each of its five hundred thousand subscribers. Any other who may subscribe now for the first time, and request it, will receive "The Yard of Roses," without extra charge while the edition lasts. Beside the gift of this beautiful picture all new subscribers will receive The Youth's Companion free from the time the subscription is received till January first, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas Double Numbers, and for a full year from that date. The price of the Youth's Companion is $1.75 per year. Every family should make this the brightest and best of illustrated papers, in addition to its local paper.

Messrs Clark and Read have returned from the Pacific, and are now better satisfied than ever before, with their native land. Going 7000 Miles to Wed.—Last Thursday, Miss Hibbert, daughter of Captain Hibbert, of Yarmouth, purchased from H. B. Short, general ticket agent at Digby, the first through ticket ever issued at that station to a person going to Hong Kong. The lady went by the Bay of Eunday steamer to St John, where she takes the C. P. R. for Vancouver, thence to Hong Kong by steamer. She is due at Hong Kong on the 16th of December, on which day she is to wed, Capt. Brown of Mantopok, but who is now in charge of the docks at Hong Kong. The particulars of the case are a bit romantic. Miss Hibbert visited Hong Kong early last summer, with her father. There she met Captain Brown—for the first time. She promised to marry him, but fell and married him and she has kept her word!

The minimum cost of electric lighting and electric power is attained where the water fall is used for transmissions over comparatively long distances. The dynamo can be placed close to the water wheel and wires run to the cities and towns for miles around. A company in Maine operating electrical plant by hydraulic means, furnishes power at 50 per cent. less cost than average companies in New England. There is a pointer here for our people. One of the Conspicuous Wonders. The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, has been enlarged and vastly improved. It is really a wonderful paper. Its success is phenomenal. It's not strange people are wondering how such a magnificent paper can be supplied for so small a subscription. People who are interested in the wonders of the age should see the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. V. Rand, drug-gist.

Foot-ball. Two exciting games were played on the campus on Saturday, 14th inst. One was between the H. C. A.'s and a mixed team from Kentville and Wolfville; the other was between the Acadia first fifteen and the seventeen next best. The ball was kicked off for the first game at 2.30 P. M., and in a few minutes Dimock, by a splendid run, secured a touch-down for the H. C. A.'s. At this point, the outside team, which was two short, added another man. The ball was again kicked off, and soon fell into the hands of Dimock, who carried it a second time behind the enemy's goal. After this more scrimmaging took place, and the H. C. A.'s showed themselves equal to the occasion by forcing the ball once more across the touch line. In the second heat the outsiders had the full number of men and did better work. McNeitz secured a touch-down for the H. C. A.'s and Densison one for the visitors. When time was called the score stood, four touch-downs and two goals for the H. C. A.'s, against one touch-down for the mixed team. A. Shaw umpired for the Academy boys and R. A. Tingley for the outsiders. P. A. Starratt acted as referee. At 8.30 P. M. the second game was begun. This was a much closer contest, and victory was secured to the first fifteen by a touch-down made by Goucher. We hope that at the match against Dalhousie on the 21st Acadia may wear the palm.

"A Yard of Roses." One of the popular paintings at the New York Academy of Design was a long panel of Roses. A crowd was always before it. One critic exclaimed "Such a bit of nature should belong to all the people, it is too beautiful for one man to hide away." The Youth's Companion, of Boston, seized the idea, and spent twenty thousand dollars to reproduce the painting. The result has been a triumph of artistic delicacy and color. The Companion makes an autumn gift of this copy of the painting to each of its five hundred thousand subscribers. Any other who may subscribe now for the first time, and request it, will receive "The Yard of Roses," without extra charge while the edition lasts. Beside the gift of this beautiful picture all new subscribers will receive The Youth's Companion free from the time the subscription is received till January first, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas Double Numbers, and for a full year from that date. The price of the Youth's Companion is $1.75 per year. Every family should make this the brightest and best of illustrated papers, in addition to its local paper.

Local and Provincial.

Conductor Edwards was the recipient of a very handsome and expensive cigar case and holder on Thanksgiving Day.

Another vessel will probably be built at Canning next year. She will be either a three-masted schooner or a barquentine.

Mr John R. Palmer, councillor for Ward 10, died at his home in Morristown on Tuesday morning of last week of paralysis.

The celebrated cow-boy pianist who visited Wolfville last winter and made such a favorable impression, is again to come to the Province. We hope he will again visit Wolfville.

Mr L. E. Duncanson, of this place, is to have an auction of stock and farming utensils, &c., on Monday next. Those in need of anything in that line will do well to attend. See posters.

Both the Baptist and Methodist prayer meetings are now held on Wednesday evening. This makes all the prayer meetings on the same evening, which we think will be found much better.

Mr A. E. Shaw, of Annapolis, a graduate of the class of '88 at Acadia, has opened a law office at Windsor. Mr Shaw is a clever young man and will no doubt rise rapidly in the legal profession. We wish him success.

MEN'S Gymnasium Shoes, just received. C. H. BORDEN & CO.

The total eclipse of the moon on Sunday evening was witnessed by many persons in Wolfville, and was an extremely pretty sight. The moon was full and the sky cloudless, and the eclipse could be carefully observed from the time the shadow came on until it had departed. The moon entered the penumbra at 5.52 and left at 10.19 P. M.

The ladies of the Pieria Society of Acadia Seminary are to give another of their entertaining recitals in College Hall this evening. An excellent program has been prepared and a very enjoyable evening will doubtless be spent. Don't forget, the recital takes place this evening, not on the 26th as stated by the first posters, through an error.

Springhill News: J. W. Hunter, timber contractor of Cumberland, has just closed his contracts with the Springhill Mining Company for the season. For 11 years Mr Hunter has been engaged in getting loams and props for the mines. Last year he delivered 1,000,000 pieces, 50 carloads having been got out in one month. Sixty men and twenty horses are employed.

Messrs S. P. Chase & Son, of Berwick, have just purchased from Mr W. C. Archibald, of this place, 1,000 plum trees, of the "Moore's Arctic" and "Lombard" varieties. Mr Archibald is receiving orders from all directions for his stock. He says he finds his advertisement in the ACADIAN a good investment. Messrs Chase & Son are among the foremost of our small-fruit growers, and we expect to hear of big results from their plum orchard.

Our contemporary, the Yarmouth Light, has again been enlarged, and now contains 32 columns per week. Since it was started, less than two years ago, the Light has made steady progress. It is a cleverly written and neatly printed journal, and one of our most valued exchanges. We are glad to note its prosperity. Evidently the people of Yarmouth know the value of a good paper and show their appreciation by a liberal patronage.

REMEMBER our offer, every pair of Boots you buy from us we will put the button fasteners on free of charge. C. H. BORDEN & CO.

Owing to an oversight last week we omitted to make reference of the new hardware firm of Messrs Franklin & Fuller. This firm succeeds Mr Walter Brown, and as both gentlemen are well and favorably known here, will no doubt receive a liberal patronage. Mr Franklin is known to nearly everybody in this vicinity, having been engaged in the blacksmith business here for a number of years; and Mr Fuller, as a silversmith both in the business of Mr Fred Brown as well as lately with Mr Walter Brown, has made himself very popular with the public. We wish the new firm every success.

Dr David Allison, the new president of Mount Allison University, received an enthusiastic welcome from the students upon his arrival at Sackville railway station on the evening. The "college yell" was given lustily as the train rolled in. The boys soon had possession of Dr Allison, put him in his carriage, took out the horse, and started at a good round pace for the "cottage." Dr Smith was constrained to bear him company in the carriage. The boys had a hard pull through very muddy roads, but seemed to enjoy it all and made the village ring with their shouts.

A new game called "Editors Delight" is played in this wise:—Take an ordinary sheet of writing paper, fold carefully, and enclose a bank note, sufficiently large to pay up all arrears and one year in advance. What adds immensely to the game is to send along the name of a new subscriber accompanied by the cash. Keep an eye on the editor and if a smile adorns his face the trick works like a charm. Now is the time to play the trick.—Ex.

At the Baptist church, Canard, on Wednesday morning the marriage of M. W. Pick, of Wolfville, and Miss Clara Dickie, of Canard, was solemnized. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. B. Kempton. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to Kentville and took the morning express en route for a few weeks tour in the United States. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents. The ACADIAN tenders congratulations.

Work on the electric light station is being rapidly pushed to completion. Eight men are engaged on the mason work and others have been constantly hauling supplies. About three feet on an average of the wall remains to be finished and if the weather holds fine the walls will be nearly completed this week. The engine and boiler have been hauled to the station and will soon be put in place. The dynamo, wire, posts, etc., are all in town, and if everything proceeds well, electric light should be operated by Christmas.—Western Chronicle.

Figs and Thistles.

The only hard place you can find in God's service is the one you pick out for yourself.

Some people, when they pray in public, push every window in heaven shut to begia with.

The devil has never been able to break up the man who had God for his partner in business.

The man whose income is from the devil has to ask his master what he shall do with his wages.

"Looking unto Jesus" is the only thing that will make the desert of life blossom as the rose.

The man who never has in his heart a desire for something better, has already begun to be a devil.

It makes the devil feel like going out and stoning the house when he sees people happy in church.

The man who undertakes to get rich at the expense of his conscience will find that he can't do it.

The man who finds the most fault with the preacher is the one who does the least to support him.

The Christian who is continually doing great things for his God is the one who is faithful in little things.

Going into eternity without knowing Jesus Christ is to leave this world with your back towards heaven.

The man who owns a railroad never gets half as much joy out of it as the one who travels on a free pass.

The devil don't care how much religion people get in they wait until they go away from home to practice it.

If you want people to believe what you claim to know about the Lord, don't go to sleep while trying to tell it.

The man who is a man never quits work and goes at whittling because somebody tells him the sun has spots on it.

The man who doesn't love his brother on the other side of the earth doesn't love his brother on the other side of the street.

Thousands of souls have been lost because somebody was afraid of doing something somebody else would find fault with.

Reclaiming Worn-out Land.

The only safe way to make farming profitable is to constantly increase the productivity of the land.

Those who rely on the profit from selling crops find that beside the cost of growing them some part of the farm itself has been sold.

Production carries with it part of the original capital. Unless this is restored crops decrease, until finally they do not pay cost of cultivation.

The best thing for swollen hands or feet is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment; soothing. Try it.

An editor calls himself we, because he thinks he's two. He's beside himself, you see.

Rely on a remedy time sanctioned. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was invented A. D. 1810.

"I proposed, and she said she was at a loss what to reply." "Well?" "I took her at a loss."

Ladies if you are suffering from any of the ailments peculiar to your sex give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. They will not fail you. Sold by all dealers.

Your friends may not know much, but they know what they would do if they were in your place.
