Items of Interest.

Irish exchanges record the death of Right Rev. Mgr. McNamee, P. P., V. F., at the age of eighty-four. Deceased celebrated Mass in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Omagh, the day before his death.

Mother Mary Anastasia Beckett, of the Convent of St. John the Evangelist, Orry, Ireland, died recently in her sixty-first year, and the sixty-sixth of her religious life, being the last of a band of English ladies who in 1839 joined the Order of Mercy, established in Dublin by Mother McAuley. Mrs. Beckett was a convert, and was instructed and rooted into the Church by the Rev. George Spencer at St. Mary's Church, Osoot.

Press despatch from Rome says that a manifesto, issued by Bishop Bonomelli, of Verona, who is known as a favorite of the Pope, has created a sensation throughout Italy. It shows that reconciliation between Church and State is within a measurable distance. It admits that the Church, irremovable in matters of faith and morals, is adaptable to a new political situation, the restoration of the temporal power of the Church being impossible and antagonism being ruinous to both Church and State. Bishop Bonomelli strongly praises the King, and expresses the hope that the Pope, like Pius IX., in 1848, will soon give his blessing to Italy.

It is not very many years since the power of the Catholics in Holland was a small, almost a negligible quantity. But they have limited their German co-religionists in nursing their political strength, and now they are a very strong force. The press has just recorded the results of the general election to the Second Chamber of the States-General. Twenty-three Catholics, thirteen Orthodox Protestants, eight Liberals of the Left, three Liberals of the Right, eight Historic Christians and five Liberal Democrats have been returned. The Catholics have formed a working agreement with the Orthodox Protestants, and the united body can easily overcome all opposition.

Says the London "Catholic Times": "We chronicled last week the result of the debate in the French Chambers as to the allocation of the churches. Under Article XI the ownership of them is given to the local associations of worship. But the text of the article is very ambiguous, and already violent anti-clerical papers, like the "Action," are proclaiming that the application of the law will soon oust the Catholics. Meanwhile the 14th article has decided the fate of the episcopal palaces, the presbyteries and seminaries. After some discussion, it was voted, by a majority of 255, that the episcopal palaces should be granted free for two years to the use of the Bishops; the presbyteries to the priests for a period of five years. After that the latter would fall to the possession of the State, and be paid for at a rental, by the local associations for the use of the resident priest. And the seminaries? The Government would that theological seminaries be a part of the Church organization, and kindly granted it a free use of the episcopal palaces and regarded as second try. But the small sem. schools and such establishments, i. e., they will be promptly refused authorization and made over to the State. The outlook for the French Church is clearly very clouded. Perhaps Catholics may waken up and put in at the elections of 1906 a majority that will respect their wishes. We shall see. Grave indeed is the blow dealt at the principle of ecclesiastical authority by the article number fifteen of the separation bill. Hitherto the Bishops have been able to make their will operative in the financial as well as the spiritual sphere. But henceforth they will be powerless. The local associations of worship are to have complete control of the goods of the Church, and as they will be composed of in-habitants living and domiciled in the commune concerned, it is clear that the principle of ecclesiastical jurisdiction over ecclesiastical property is seriously imperilled. The Bishops will practically cease to wield control in matters affecting parochial property of any kind. Several speeches appeared to the Chambers not to violate the ordinary ecclesiastical legislation, but in vain. The Government retained every speech, and forced through the same as it stood, thus delivering the parishes and their property to a committee of people who may be Catholics, Jews, Free-thinkers or anything under the sun. The passing of Article XV. will make arrangements with the Holy See, and the latter will be forced to come, as the vast majority of them have become and are yearly becoming, honest, industrious and upright citizens, a credit to themselves and a glory to Mgr. Nugent.

In Conversation

It is the correct thing.

To remember that more talk looks a great deal of being conversation.

To remember that personalities are ill-bred.

To listen respectfully to old people and those whose position entitles them to consideration.

To avoid talking, scandal and gossip.

To avoid coarseness in conversation as one would the leprosy.

To remember the Golden Rule and do unto others as you would have them do unto you, when tempted to repeat an ill-saturated or compromising bit of gossip.

For women, old and young, married and single, not to indulge in indelicate and coarse expressions, or select topics for conversation which they would blush to have overheard by gentlemen.

To manifest marked displeasure when indelicate and immodest subjects are broached.

To frown down all mention even of salacious books and newspaper scandals. Good breeding as well as delicacy requires this.

To speak deferentially to superiors, kindly to inferiors, and courteously to equals.

To remember that if you can not keep your own secrets, it is hardly fair to expect your friends to keep them for you.

To remember that slander is a grievous sin.

To remember that religious discussions in general conversation are usually productive of but little good.

To explain patiently, clearly, and lucidly any point connected with the Church to those who are sincere in seeking information.

If unable to give a clear answer to say so at once, and not run the risk of giving a false impression in what might prove a serious matter.

To correct patiently and courteously any misstatement made in regard to the Church or her history.

For a person who mingles much in cultivated society to be familiar with the Catholic position in regard to the leading questions of the day, and to be "leaded and primed" conversationally when the occasion demands.

To remain always calm, cool, and collected in an argument.

For a Catholic to offer to loan suitable books to one seeking information, and then decline, if he feels like it, any further discussion at the time.

To practice Hannibal's tactics, and carry the war into Africa, in an argument; in other words, to ask an explanation of the creed of an opponent rather than to spend all one's force in defending one's own.

To remember that a fool can ask more questions in a minute than a wise man can answer in an hour.

—The Correct Thing for Catholics.

Mgr. Nugent Dead.

Advice from Liverpool, England, announces the death on the 4th inst. of Right Rev. Mgr. James Nugent, the venerable philanthropist, whose zeal and self-sacrifice in behalf of orphans and outcasts have made his name a household word throughout Great Britain for nearly half a century. Mgr. Nugent, who was in his eighty-fourth year, recently visited this country in company with Dom Gasquet, abbot-president of the English Benedictines. He had many Western cities, and was about to begin his return journey when he suffered a severe rheumatic attack. After several months of rest and careful nursing he sailed for Liverpool, where he landed May 17. During the voyage he sustained a serious fall, caused by a sudden lurch of the vessel, and though recent reports were to the effect that he was slowly regaining his strength, the accident is supposed to have been the indirect cause of his death. In the great Mercury express Mgr. Nugent, or plain Father Nugent, as he was more familiarly known, had for many years been the most prominent and most popular citizen, beloved by all classes and creeds. He first attracted public notice when he established a "Boy's Brigade," which he maintained out of his own private means, and when these were exhausted he raised the necessary funds by delivering sermons and lectures, the legends of which were contained in the motto which he chose for this excellent institution, "Save the Boy!" A very forcible and eloquent orator, he drew large congregations and audiences at the sermons and lectures, and the results that have followed his great work in this direction have been most successful—schools after schools have been established, and thousands of homeless and friendless boys have been rescued from the dangerous life of the streets and placed, educated, and cared for in the most desirable manner.

MYSELF AND BOYS.

A little boy of four years of age, on noticing for the first time a lock of grey hair on his father's head, asked, "Papa, why are some of your hairs grey?"

"Thinking to drive home a moral lesson, the father answered, 'Papa has a new grey hair every time his little boy is naughty.'"

The child seemed lost in thought, but after a pause said bravely, "Then grandpa must have had seven naughty boys."

C. O. RICHARDS & CO.

Gentlemen.—Last August my horse was badly cut in eleven places by a barbed wire fence. Three of the cuts, (small ones) healed soon, but the others became foul and rotten, and though I tried many kinds of medicine they had no beneficial result. At last a doctor advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT and in four weeks' time every sore was healed and the hair has grown over each one in fine condition. The Liniment is certainly wonderful in its working.

JOHN R. HOLDEN.

Witness, Perry Baker.

A man who knows it all was not in the least surprised when he heard of a motor-car which could be turned at will into a bedstead or grand piano. He said he knows a man who turned a motor-car into a telegraph pole, a ditch, a fence, and a horse, all within a few hours.

Minard's Liniment Cures everything.

A Terrible Cough.

Mrs. Thos. Carter, North Port Out, says: I caught a severe cold which settled on my throat and lungs and my friends thought it had remedied to my grave, when Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup completely cured me.

Mrs. Pancake (to a fourth-floor lodger).—Anything the matter with your steak, Mr. Hardup?

Hardup.—A trifle overstrained, maybe, madam; but really, I never saw a firmer muscle!

Minard's Liniment cures Burns, etc.

If a child eats ravenously, grinds the teeth at night and picks its nose, you may almost be certain it has worms and should administer Worm Syrup. This remedy contains its own cathartic.

Proceedings at Ottawa. (Hansard Report) On Thursday last, when the House of Commons was in committee of supply, the following item relative to this Province drew from the Island members the discussion recorded below:

Mr. Martin—How much per mile will it cost? Mr. Emmerson—About $21,000 a mile. Mr. Martin—It is $28,000 or nearly $30,000 a mile. What was the cost of the bridge from Charlottetown to Murray Harbor?

As our Ottawa advice elsewhere published in this issue, Parliament has passed, both sides agreeing, a resolution on which were founded bills making large increases in the sessional indemnity of members of the Senate and House of Commons; increasing the salary of the Prime Minister and the salaries of the Judges of the courts.

Mr. Martin—Does not the minister think that that is an enormous cost for a narrow gauge road? Does the minister know that in 1878 when there were no steam shovels and no such improvements in construction machinery as we have to-day; when rails cost $50 or $60 a ton instead of the $20 a ton they will cost on this road if the Intercolonial Railway rails are used; does the minister know that thirty years ago the original cost of the main line of the Prince Edward Island Railway was only $16,500 per mile as compared with $30,000 per mile for this railroad to-day. It is exactly the same thing with the Belfast branch. This is all very astonishing and it requires explanation. I have here the estimate made by the Railway Department for the Belfast branch when it was proposed to be built.

with deep cuttings and high embankments. I presume that this short piece of road will cost very much more per mile than a longer road would.

Mr. J. J. Hughes—The commercial necessity. It has been asked for for years, and hon. gentlemen opposite said that the present government were slow in building it.

Mr. J. J. Hughes—If the bridge that the minister speaks of are built, of course, the road will cost more than it has cost up to the present time. The hon. gentleman says that there was no iron or steel bridge on the old road when it was built. The Murray Harbor branch, as it stands, here one what I have stated.

Mr. Martin—There is a difference of $600,000. Mr. J. J. Hughes—If the bridge that the minister speaks of are built, of course, the road will cost more than it has cost up to the present time. The hon. gentleman says that there was no iron or steel bridge on the old road when it was built.

Mr. J. J. Hughes—I may say that this short piece of road crosses two deep gullies, one at the head of Brudenell, near Howatt's Mills, and the other near Montague; and in consequence of the two bridges thus made necessary, together

It is not certain that the test will be on the next trip and it may be delayed until the trip following. The time made can then be compared with that of the present via North Sydney.

Fifty-one persons were prosecuted by the best in Charlottetown yesterday morning. It was the hottest day up to date.

Professor R. R. Ouellet, arrived here Friday evening with his troop of educated horses, ponies, donkeys and mules. On Monday and yesterday the animals gaily entertained the principal streets of the city. They numbered twenty-five and presented a beautiful appearance. The handsome animals are black, white, bay, brown and mottled. The larger horses led the procession and they tapered down to the two smallest ponies in the world they may bring up the rear. On Monday evening and last evening entertainments were given by these educated animals in the Opera House. All these horses came on the stage and marched, danced and waltzed most gracefully. They executed military evolutions, fired guns and cannons. They gave a concert as ball-chasers; held a grand jury, shot, jury and prisoner; brought in a verdict of "not guilty," upon which the sheriff opened the dock and discharged the prisoner. They performed numerous other tricks, which could only be appreciated by being seen. They seemed to do nearly everything but talk, and all these performances were executed at simple words from their master. It is indeed a remarkable exhibition and well worthy of patronage. Between the acts some very interesting and most amusing living pictures were shown on the screen. "Starting for the holidays," and the "Race meet," were not only decidedly realistic; but extremely amusing. These performances deserve good audiences.

Use Steam to Settle Dust.

The city of Hartford, Conn., already equipped with the first practicable motor sprinkling cart built in America, comes to the front again with an automobile street sweeper, which has already demonstrated its utility in actual service. The length of the machine over all is sixteen feet, and it weighs four tons. Steam is used not only as motive power, but for laying the dust. Oil is used for fuel, the tanks holding a sufficient supply of oil and water for five hours' work. The operator steers the sweeper with a hand wheel, mounted on the front, and a traction engine or road roller, which it greatly resembles. The engine is wholly enclosed. Careful estimates, says the Automobileist, indicate that this sweeper with an eight foot brush, will do the work of forty men—18,000 square yards of street in an hour—and do it better, at a total cost of operation of less than $1 an hour. All dirt and refuse is thrown by the rotary broom directly into a dirt box large enough to hold two ordinary cart loads. This box is unattended at the curb and may be emptied in a few seconds.

Labrador Expedition.

Advices of the 13th, from St. John's, N.B., say: Sir Wm. McGregor, Governor of Newfoundland is busy with plans and preparation for a proposed visit to Labrador which will be the most complete ever undertaken by any governor of this colony, for it comprehends a scientific program of importance. His objects are to fix the longitude of some of the principal points on the Labrador coast, to make astronomical observations of certain spots from the Chateau and from Chidley, which will help to correct in exactitude, in the charting of the coast, the hydrographic investigations, to search for minerals, to collect botanical and zoological collections, and to conduct anthropological and ethnological studies of the natives of the region. Sir William will also have the advantage of the trained assistance of Commodore Paget of H. M. S. "Reynold," and Lieut. Reynolds, his navigating officer, as well as Captain Tucker of the "Elliott" and Dr. Grenfell. They will be equipped with a complete equipment of chronometers, which instruments are indispensable in astronomical and kindred work.

Fast Atlantic Steamers.

A Montreal despatch of the 14th, says: All previous records will be broken when the new Canadian Pacific steamships are added to this company's Atlantic fleet, May, 1905. These ships will have a guaranteed speed of 20 knots per hour. They will reduce the time from Montreal to Rimouski via Belle Isle to five days and four hours. These magnificent steamers will be 4,500 register, 400 feet in length and 65 feet beam, with triple screws and will have a half ton per ton by steam fuel tanks. They should prove a great attraction for the St. Lawrence route as against the longer route on the open ocean to and from American Atlantic ports. This fast service by these steamers will insure the delivery of the mails from Montreal to Montreal in 5 days and 25 hours, which will greatly reduce the time being made for Toronto, Western Canada, and western states. This service for mails and passengers will be slightly faster than the present time via New York.

Lightning Struck Boat.

A severe thunder storm swept over Charlottetown Friday night, during which the sea fell in torrents and the lightning struck two churches and several dwellings, causing a number of injuries. The first Congregational Church in the Registry Street, was struck shortly after nine o'clock and set on fire. The damage is estimated at $2000. Three houses in the north end district were struck by the lightning and slightly damaged. The steeple of the new Old South Church, in Regency Square, one of the tallest and most beautiful in the city, was also struck by lightning. Fortunately the lightning did not injure the steeple, but passed down it and entered the dining room adjoining the vestry, causing a number of residences in the Dorchester district were struck, but the damage was slight.
