MR. ROEBUCK'S LETTER TO LORD JOHN RUSSELL.

My Lord .- Were Parliament sitting the present letter would not be written, as h should then be able in your Lordship's pre-sence to speak that which I now feel compellod to write. I believe that great prin-ciples are in danger, and that to you is attributable the imminent risk to which they are exposed. Great men have thought they is an empire like ours, in which are united under one Government people pro-fessing every description of religious belief and who by law are permitted to exercise and who by law are permitted the right of private judgment, and to suppor by argument, both in writing and spoke assourse the truth and wisdom of their their asscourse the truth and wiedom of their own opinions, any attempt to degrade by law, and by the imposition of civil dis-abilities, any one class of believers, was not morely unjust, but in the highest degree impolitic also, and that while any doprivaimpoliticalso, and that when a cause was a tion of civil rights for such a cause was a gross injustice and crual injury—the affix ing on them badges of social inferiority, because of the peculiarity of their faith would be an insult more galling still than injury — and therefore it was that they said, inake all men, whether Catholics or dissen-ters, equal befere the law ; and let us, under the inscription of a generous philosophy, and in accordance with the teaching of ex-perience, be wise in time ; and forgetting those mournful days when the friends of freedom thought themselves compelled, for afety's sake, to intolerant, erase from ou laws those cruel and impolitic enactments which have made religion a curse instead of a blessing—a cause of hate and strife, and a blessing—a cause of hate and strife, and weakness, in place of being a bond of peace of unity, and strength. In accordance with this dictate of justice and policy was the conduct of the Whig party when they with great honour to themselves, aided their opponents in passing the Emancipation Act-in 1829. They then glornously belied the oft repeated imputation upon one who was once a great Whig, and they did not "Give no to party what was meant for mas-

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE Municipal Elections are all over. The Township Councils have met and elected their Reeves, and on Munday next, the County Council will meet to elect the Couny Officers, and transact some part of the County business. We have, as yet, little information respecting the men who are to constitute our local Legislature for the present year. But, believing as we do, that the County Council will exert a very coniderable influence, either for good or evilon the affairs of the Counties, we intend to bestow much attention upon its proceedings. And, as the people have not only a deep interest in these proceedings, but have also a salutary control over the Councillors, we will faithfully record and publish the votes on every important question that may be discussed and submitted to a vote. By doing this, we will put the inhabitants of each Township in possession of the true Councillor character of the respective Reeves, and thus furnish them with facts for their guidance at the next year's Municipal Elections. We feel truly desirious of impressing the public mind with a thorough consciousness of the actual importance of the Municipal Council. We would wish to make the people understand that the action of the Council will, as we have frequently stated, make a more immediate appeal to their pockets, and exercise a more direct influence on the prosperity and improvement of the Province, than the ordinary action of the Colonial Legislature. The Council may indeed be said to hold the pursestrings of the locality over which it presides. We are decidedly in favor of economy, and while we advocate the necessity and the wisdom of fair, reasonable taxation, we insist upon a judicious and frugal expenditure of the taxes. It is obvious, that taxation is justifiable and useful only in so far as it tends to improve the comforts and conveniences of those who are taxed ; and if the whole or even the half of the taxes are spent in paying the salaries of officers connected with the imposing and levying of the taxes, then, taxation is a grievance which should The News from the continent is not of then, taxation is a grievance which should much importance. The Electer of Hesse neither be defended nor submitted to. For returned to his capital on the 17th Dec., he instance, we are informed that the Councillors of the United Townships of Ashfield. Wawanosh, &c., voted themselves six shillings and three pence per day for each man, see, which was merely a mutual attempt of the several Councillors to shift the labor from their own shoulders. It is necessary that each Committee should contain at least one member who has some experienc in the matter, and, to secure this, it would be necessary that he should be nominated before the ballotting took place. For instance, supposing a Finance Committee and a School Committee were required, David Hood Ritchie and John Holmes, Esquires, might be soverally nominated as Chairmen of these respective committees, and the other members might be drawn by ballot. as in the new Jury Law. In reference to economy, we would also hint, that in electing their County Officials, it is the duty of every Councillor to examine for himself, and decide in his own mind whether such an officer is really needed-whether the services are an equivalent for the salary, or whether they could not be procured at a cheaper rate, by employing the persons when necessary, and paying for the services required. This hint does not, of course, apply to the offices of Clerk and Treasures -these are always needed ; and as the serview required of them are both important and arduous, they should be handsomely paid. But it would certainly be better, and perhaps more satisfactory to all parties in terested to pay the Surveyor, the Auditors, and the Solicitor, for the duties performed. than to pay them by fixed salaries. It may so happen that the salary will not be half remuneration for the services performed : pen, and, it sometimes does happen, that, in some of these instances, the salary is literally thrown away. No services are required-none are performed, and, yet, the salary has to be paid. This we call a prod igal expenditure of the public funde. We understand there is to be great scram bling for the Solicitorship this present year, and it is even in contemplation to put it to offer, in the same way as the Council printng is let. This, we think, would be wrong for there are had and scores in the lawyer and sat so many days throughout the past trade. And therefore, we object decidedly, year, that the account for Councillor's wato a sularied Solicitor. In the "glorious ges amounted to thirty pounds ! This is an uncertainties" of law, a Solicitor is just as outrage upon the intention of the Municipal liable to give erroneous advice as any other Act, and altogether intolerable. It is prob lawyer-if the advice is bad, the Conneil able that not one of the Ashfield Council. cannot make him responsible for the conse lors could have earned half a dollar a day uences. One is from the New York "Christian Enquirer," and is valuable for the calm christian spirit in which it is written-the other is a Letter. addressed by John Arthur Roebuck to Lord John Rus sell, which fearlessly exhibits the common sense view of the subject.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NURON SIGNAL. The best legal opinion in the Province can be obtained for five pounds, and we are not sure bat for one year's salary of a Solicitor, the Attorney General would furnish a commen-tary on the Municipal Act, which would supercede the necessity of legal opinions, so long as the Act itself remained in force. We therefore, advise the County Council and the Town Council, if they wish to get ton, to have no Solicitor.

The Mills being completed as herein set [ Nors .- We do not pretend to be a d with which he never had any thing to do, udge of either the matter of the foregoing communication, or of the manner in which it is handled. Mr. Longworth regards himself as a victim to the vindictive selfishness of the Canada Company, and alledges that this Letter, addressed to the Company's Directors in 1846, is the cause of the persecution which he has since endured. He so licits the privilege of setting himself right with the public on this subject. And as we have always a feeling of sympathy for men who have seen better days, we have allowed him the use of our columns. It is probable that Mr. Longworth has stated many facts in this long letter. But if his intention was merely to inform the public that the Canada Company have fallen far short of fulfilling their contract with the Imperial Go vernment, in reference to the amount of money which they were bound to lay out on Improvements in the District, we certainly think he might have adopted a much shorter as well as all other improvements most strenuously opposed by Mr. Commissioner Wid-der. We have also to re mark that Mr. Longworth's statements in could over their origin to Commessioner Wid-der, he not having anything to do with the affairs of the Casada Company in Canada until the year 1339 ? reference to the late Dr. Dunlop, are altogether at variance with what we under-

Sec. 28. Your committee beg leave to say that we consider if

of the writering dynamical and be devices and there ment of Crown Lands in the Province, and there are few prepared to deay, that the history of the system warrants attacks much fiercer than it has yet sustained. Its evils are acknowledged on nearly very hand, and both British and Canadi-an attesmen write in a disapproval of the plan in present pursued. Long leases have been tried, high prices have been tried, free grants have been tried; and all have failed in success-roon. But, whilt, we Constians have the been tried; and all have failed in succes-tion, high prices have been tried, free grants have been tried; and all have failed in succes-roon. But, whilt, we Constians have they been making experiments in the matter, a neight oring people have pursued the only ration-al contret, (the one which we have be untouch-ed), and glory now an seting the i off the crown-ed with most gigod hancess. Whilst we have tried the lease-hold system one day, the high-tice system another, and the free-grant system in still another, the United States government has percevered in the cheap system all the time, and found it remuserative, hold directly and in-nivereity. With such an example before our eyes, in would be folly indeed not to attempt, at least, to follow it. The sales about to be made afford an accellent oppartunity for copying from the American hock. That the time has come when some radical change must be nade in the management of the Pull chards, admits of fittle dispute. In the evidence delivered by the Hon, W. H.
