James Madison—"Father of the Constitution"

THE FOURTH PRESIDENT of the United States considered it a greater honor to be declared the Father of the Constitution than to have been elected twice to the highest office in the gift of his countrymen. No more ardent, intelligent, far-sighted and constant student of governmental problems ever lived than Madison. They were his life-long passion. He it was who labored with all his gigantic ability and indomitable will to have deeply imbedded in our National Law those vital principles which forever guarantee to all Americans Religious, Commercial and Personal Liberty. In private life he was genial and social—yet temperate. Many a foaming glass of good barley-malt beer he drank with his bosom friend Thomas Jefferson—Father of the Declaration of Independence. Madison died at 85 and Jefferson at 83; both were unalterably opposed to tyrannous Prohibition Laws, and advocated legislation which encouraged the brewing industry. Upon the tenets of the Constitution of the U.S.A. (to which Madison devoted the best of his genius) Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago founded their great institution. To-day 7500 people are daily required to produce and market their honest brews. Their chief brand Budweiser is sold throughout the civilized world—the drink of your forefathers—the drink of the noblest men who ever lived—the drink of the great triumphant nations. Budweiser sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

Stella Mordaunt: —OR— The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XXIII

"Good and pure! Yes, she is an angel," he said. "And I have got to woo and win her, or my life's happiness has gone."

"You—you must not let her see—must not frighten her," said Lady Cecilia.

He nodded and sighed. "I know! I have got to be very careful. I must keep a guard upon my lips, my very glances. She is like a delicate flower that shrinks from a rough breath of wind. Do you think I don't know that?" He laughed half sadly and pushed his hair from his forehead. "Oh, I'll be careful; trust me."

He went upon the deck where Stella was sitting, thinking over the arrangement which Lady Cecilia and she had made, and wondering whether indeed she could be of any use to her; whether she could earn enough to take her back to Rath; and she started from her reverie as Lisle, humming a tune as usual, came up to her chair.

He had been the most light-hearted of men until this wail of the ocean had floated "cross his ken," and he was resolved not to play the forlorn lover. He was wise enough to see that Stella was sad enough as it was, and needed a cheerful and amusing companion. So, though his heart throbbled with the love which had sprung so suddenly into being, he smiled and nodded in his almost boyish fashion, and said:

"The nearer one gets to England, home, and beauty, the more time seems to lag, doesn't it, Miss Mordaunt?"

Stella, though she felt that she was going farther and farther from her home—her heart's home—assented.

"What do you say to a game of quots?" he asked, brightly.

Stella said that she had never played the game; but he made light of the objection.

"Oh, that's of no consequence! The beginner often does better than the veteran; and you'll soon learn."

One of the crew, looking as smart as a man-o-war's man, brought the quots and set up the pins, and Lisle showed her how to hold the ring of rope and canvas and pitch it on to the "jack." It seemed easy enough as he did it, but she made a score of misses before she succeeded in throwing the quoit on to the pin, and insensibly she began to get interested in the game.

Lisle played in the most matter-of-fact way, and, strangely enough, though he was a very good hand at the game, made a great many misses. His sister, as she lay back in a chair and looked on, could scarcely repress a smile as she saw the almost audacious way in which he just permitted himself to win the game.

"That was a near thing," he said, cheerfully. "I only got it by one point. Shall we have another, or are you tired?"

During her stay in the island, Stella had acquired a supple wrist and dexterity at most things requiring quick eye and manual skill, and she soon picked up the game and began to score. Lisle was delighted with her success, and glanced covertly and proudly at the smiling and amused Cecilia.

"I never knew anyone pick up the game so quickly," he declared. "Most people, women especially, take days before they can get home with one quoit. You must have a good eye, Miss Mordaunt, to say nothing of a steady hand."

But he would not let her play a third game, and insisted upon her going back to her chair, and when he had wrapped her up he lit a cigarette and went off to the other end of the yacht, leaving her and Cecilia alone, though he longed to remain beside her, if not to talk to her, to sit and glance at her occasionally.

He pursued these tactics for the remainder of the voyage. Sometimes they played the games with people who passed the time on ship-board, sometimes he would lean over her chair and tell her stories of his college days, and of his travels; and once or twice he offered her his arm, and got her to walk with him up and down the deck, talking all the time in the casual, unconcerned way into which he had schooled himself, though his heart was beating painfully as he felt the light weight of her arm, and he had hard work to meet her glance with a calm and matter-of-fact expression in his own.

And day by day Stella grew stronger, and if not happier, less utterly wretched. She was still preoccupied and absent-minded—how could she be otherwise when she was forever thinking of Rath?—and often Lisle knew, by the sad, far-away look in her eyes, that she was not listening to him; but love, though impatient enough, can also be patient; which is a paradox, but true; and Lisle "served and waited," as the old song says, your true lover will. But with her recovered health, Stella's natural courage revived. Hope whispered that she might win her way back to Rath, and Hope is the grandest medicine and tonic known to the College of Physicians; so that when the "Kingfisher" glided to the crowded quay, she leant on the taffrail and looked about her with something like colour in her clear cheeks and a light in her eyes.

"Welcome to England!" said Lisle, coming up to her, "and in a few hours I shall be able to say, 'Welcome to the Abbey!' We are going straight on there, as you know. No, don't worry about anything—for Stella had turned with, 'I must see if I can help Lady Cecilia'—'everything is done and ready; and you must not forget that you are not yet quite off the sick list.'"

Stella laughed softly. "I am quite well, Lord Lisle," she said, emphatically; "and you must not treat me any longer as an invalid!" and she left him and went down to the saloon. He looked after her with a sigh, then forced a resolute smile as he told himself that a time should come when he would be able to say, "Stay here by my side, dearest!" and she would stay.

So that they should not have the tedium of a wait at the noisy port, he had ordered a special train; and towards evening they reached the station, where the Abbey carriage was awaiting them. On their way to the house, Lisle leant from his seat and pointed out to Stella the various objects of interest.

"It is a lovely country," she said in a low voice; but with an absent look in her eyes; for she was thinking of the fairy-like beauty of the island. Lisle was as delighted with her approval as if he were trying to sell her the whole country.

"I think you will like it when you have seen something of it," he said. "Here is the Abbey."

Stella looked in the direction indicated and saw an old mansion covered with ivy, which emphasized rather than obscured the beauty of the building; and she uttered an exclamation of admiration.

"How beautiful!" she said. "How —proud you must be of it!"

"He is," said Cecilia, laughing, "though he is always grumbling because the rooms aren't lofty, and are sometimes damp."

"Oh, they're not damp now," he said, falling into the trap. "Don't permit yourself to be alarmed, Miss Mordaunt."

Lady Cecilia laughed. "I thought that would nettle him," she said. "Yes, dear, we are both proud of the Abbey. You see, Cecil has not possessed it very long, though the Lisles have been there for five centuries. I think we bought it—or stole it, was it, Cecil?—about 1400."

As the carriage drove up to the entrance, Lisle handed them out, and, passing through a lane of servants who looked and spoke their welcome to their young lord, they went into the hall. A fire was burning in a fire-place almost as large as a room, and its glow gave a cheerful aspect to the walls of panelled oak, the big family pictures, and the effigies in armour which stood grimly beneath them.

"And now I can say, 'Welcome to the Abbey!'" he said.

"And a cup of tea!" added Cecilia, lightly and quickly, lest Stella should notice the scarcely veiled passion in her brother's eyes; and she went to the table where the stately butler stood beside the costly tea equipage.

A great deerskin which had welcomed his master and mistress with affectionate but dignified delight, came up to Stella and thrust his nose in her hand, and, bending over him, she was enabled to conceal the tears caused by the kindness of her friends and rescuers.

"Of course I'm dying to show you over the place," said Lisle; "but I'm not going to yield to the temptation. You must both rest until dinner-time I insist upon it! To-morrow morning we will make a round of inspection."

"During which you will have to praise everything you see, whether you admire it or not, Stella," said Lady Cecilia. "Cecil is firmly convinced that there is no place in England—in the county, at any rate—to compare with the Abbey for beauty and antiquity!"

Lisle laughed as he lit a cigarette. "Don't you believe that I'm such an idiot, Miss Mordaunt! If you admire the Abbey, you wait until you see some of the other places—Ratton Hall, for instance."

"Well, we will wait!" said Cecilia. "Come along, Stella!"

She linked her arm in that of her "companion," and led Stella to the room set apart for her. It was one of the best in the old house, and Stella, as she looked round it, almost murmured her appreciation and admiration.

"It is beautiful!" she said in a low voice; then, shyly and hurriedly, she added: "You are treating me as a guest, Lady Cecilia!"

"Well, and aren't you?" retorted Cecilia, opening her blue eyes. "Oh, I forget; you are my 'companion!' Oh, yes, that is all right; but, you see, I want my companion to be happy, and so I give her a pleasant room—it is pleasant, isn't it, dear? Isn't that a lovely view?" She led Stella to the window. "My dear child, there are thirty or more bedrooms in the old place; why shouldn't you have one of the best? Now, you must lie down—Cecil is a tyrant in his way, and will be angry if we disobey him—and when you hear the dressing-bell ring a maid shall come to you."

But Stella drew the line at this. "No, no!" she said, with a laugh. "Please do not send her! I have never had a maid, and I should not know what to do with her."

"Oh, Susy will know what to do," said Lady Cecilia, easily. "Don't bother, there's a dear girl." When she was left alone, Stella sat down and looked round her like one in a dream.

Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1309.—A Dainty "LINGERIE" COMBINATION.

Ladies' Corset Cover, Cap and Negligee.

For this dainty dressing sack, one could choose embroidered crepe, lawn, dimity, batiste, cashmere or silk. The design is easy to develop, and charmingly simple. It will be found delightful, cool and very becoming. The corset cover is a one piece model, with gathered fullness at the neck edge, that may be drawn up by a casing covered with a band of dainty embroidery, or with embroidered eyelets, or beading. The cap in popular Tipperary style may be of net, lace, lawn, chiffon or mull, or of the same material as that selected for the sack. The Pattern comprises all styles illustrated, and is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium and Large. It requires 1 1/2 yard of 27 inch material for the Corset Cover, 1/2 yard for the Cap, and 2 3/4 yards for the Sack, for a Medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1307.—A PRACTICAL UP TO DATE UNDER GARMENT.

Ladies' Corset Cover and Petticoat.

This style is good for lawn, cross-bar muslin, dimity, crepe, cambric, batiste, or silk. It may be trimmed with lace or embroidery edges, or the free edges may be embroidered in scallops, and the fullness over the fronts drawn up through embroidered eyelets. The neck edge could be finished with a casing of beading or band of embroidery. The skirt may be made without the ruffle, and like the corset cover may be embroidered, or lace trimmed. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium and Large. It requires 3 3/4 yards of 36 inch material for a Medium size, without the ruffle which will require 3 1/2 yards of embroidery.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

LONDON, May 25.
The Governor, Newfoundland: Italy has declared war upon Austria-Hungary, and Germany has declared war upon Italy.

LONDON, May 25.
The Governor, Newfoundland: General French reports seven machine guns captured on the 16th to 17th near Festubert. Yesterday three German batteries were silenced by direct hits east of Ypres. The Germans attacked, again using poisonous gas, and firing asphyxiating shells. Some of our trenches were evacuated, the enemy penetrating our line in two or three places. The positions at the original line have already been recaptured.

The French Government reports enemy attacks repulsed near Steenstraete, and prisoners captured. North of Arras fresh progress has been made by British troops, north of La Bassée and north of Neuville; the Germans, attacking with very considerable forces, were checked, suffering very heavy losses.

The Russian Government reports a successful offensive in Galicia. Over 2,000 prisoners were captured with over a dozen machine guns and material. Italian troops have crossed the frontier at Friuli. An air raid on Venice arsenal and ineffective bombardments at various points on the Italian coast have been repelled. An Italian destroyer entered Portofino, doing considerable damage and capturing 47 prisoners.

HARCOURT.
CANADIAN CASUALTIES.
OTTAWA, May 25.
Losses by Canadians in last Thursday's engagement were very considerable. Latest figures show total casualties of 300, of which 66 were killed, 132 wounded, and 102 missing.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.
PARIS, May 25.
The French War Office this afternoon gave out the following report: It was a night of considerable activity between the sea and Arras. In Belgium, following a violent bombardment, a German attacking column endeavoured to gain footing on the highway between Langemark and Ypres. It was definitely checked. The Germans delivered two attacks yesterday to the north of Arras, in each case they were repulsed. To the north of Neuville they delivered four attacks, each one of which was checked by the fire of our artillery. In these various aggressive endeavours, all of which resulted in complete failure, the enemy suffered heavy losses. Nothing has been reported from the remainder of the front.

PARIS, May 25.
An official to-night says: To the north of Arras our attacks to-day have resulted in important progress. To the northwest of Angren (south of La Bassée) in front of Fosse Cloume we carried a salient called Cornailles. In the same region our troops took by assault another German work which was very strongly fortified.

More south, east of the road from Aix Noullette to Souchez, we have captured, on a front of one kilometre.

recent Italian complications the feeling in Berlin regarding the States is more calm. Everything possible will be done to avert trouble. German submarines are being instructed in accordance with this policy, although the note will explain that on principle, Germany cannot openly stop submarine warfare.

CALLS OUT RESERVES. LONDON, May 25. Instructions have been received at the Italian Embassy from Rome that all Italian reservists in the United Kingdom should be notified to return home at once.

IN THE DARDANELLES. LONDON, May 25. Recent operations in the Dardanelles are described in an official statement given out to-night. The statement says that the following information has been received from the General Officer commanding the Mediterranean expeditionary force, on May 21st: The first French division made considerable progress, and is now close to the Turkish trenches.

GERMANY COURTING ROUMANIA. LONDON, May 25. German diplomacy is exerting itself in every possible way to persuade Roumania to preserve its neutrality, says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. Emperor William has invited Roumania to send a military mission to the German headquarters. Prince Charles von Wied is being sent to Bucharest on a confidential mission from the Emperor.

CAUSE OF DELAY. WASHINGTON, May 25. The President told callers to-day that he did not know the cause for the delay of the German reply to the American note on the Lusitania, but presumed the German Government was for the moment absorbed in the new circumstances arising from Italy's entrance into the war.

THE SOONER THE BETTER. PARIS, May 25. When the French troops in the region of Alilly, near the Meuse, hoisted the Italian flags upon the trenches, says the Paris Temps, the German soldiers in positions opposite them called out: "So much the better; it will be over the quicker."

RESIGNS PREMIERSHIP. LISBON, May 25. Joao Chagas resigned the Premiership of Portugal to-day.

AEROPLANE SUNK. LONDON, May 25. Telegrams from Harwich say that a British destroyer arrived there, bringing a German submarine Lieutenant and a mechanic from a Taube aeroplane, which was found floating in the North Sea. The aeroplane had been forced by engine trouble to descend. After the Germans had been rescued, the aeroplane was sunk.

SPECIAL LEGISLATION TO BE ENACTED. LONDON, May 25. Probability of special legislation to be enacted to prolong the life of Parliament is stronger than ever, in view of the reconstruction of the Cabinet. Conversations which have taken place between the parties recently, had apparently favored this way out of the difficulty.

Wait and See. The duration of the war is a matter of speculation. Some recently returned American observers have come back strongly impressed with the belief that the war will be long and ugly and point to Germany's preparations for another winter's campaigning as proof of the faith that is in them. To the financiers who are called upon to provide the funds for the problem of the war's duration is very trying, and they cannot yet afford to go on record as prophets, much as they may wish they could. Lloyd George in his recent budget speech said that if the war lasted another six months the amount to be raised in Great Britain by taxation in the fiscal year 1915-16 would be $2,790,453,000 ($4,000,000,000). If twelve months hence the war was still going on its demands on British taxpayers would be $5,680,000. The deficit if the war lasts six months at the present rate of taxation would be $2,570,000,000. For a year's fighting the deficit would be in excess of $4,300,000. Mr. Lloyd George deferred the new taxes, now proposing to await the course of events before submitting a fresh schedule. This postponement has given the Chancellor's present scheme the nickname of the "Wait and See Budget." Great Britain is financing not only itself, but the "Dominions" and its Allies, having already advanced to the latter more than $263,000,000.—(From the Boston Transcript.)

 WEDNESDAY, May 26, 1915.

Queen Mary's Birthday.

The whole Empire with one voice will acclaim Queen Mary on her birthday. Forty-eight years ago today Princess Mary was born to the Duke and Duchess of Teck, and on July 6th, 1895, she was married to the Duke of York, who afterwards became Prince of Wales, and succeeded his father, Edward VII, on May 6th, 1910. Britain has been blessed during the last eighty years with Queens of goodness, grace and homeliness. The character of the grandmother of the King was aptly summed up in her cognomen of Victoria the Good, that of Alexandra as the Queen of Grace, and Queen Mary has earned for herself the womanly name of Queen of the Home. Long life, prosperity and happiness is the greeting of those who acclaim her to-day, who are bearing the trials and tribulations of war, and whose courage and steadfastness are borne up by the devotions of a good mother, a homely wife and a wise Queen.

The National Cabinet.

The formation of a national cabinet by Premier Asquith is a matter of satisfaction, as it marks a real and firm alliance of political parties for the national purpose of bringing the war to a successful issue as soon as possible. It is a matter for congratulation that Mr. Asquith remains at the head of affairs and that Sir Edward Grey still directs foreign affairs, in which he has proved so successful in marked contrast to the failure of German foreign policy, which is especially marked by Prince Buelow's failure to keep Italy out of the war. The relieving of Lord Kitchener of the duties connected with the supply of munitions and the cooperation of Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Henderson, the Labor Leader, in that work are steps which will meet with general satisfaction. Lord Kitchener can now devote himself more closely to making efficient the great army he has called into being since August last. It is a colossal task, and no small part of it will be to train the new officers for their responsible tasks.

The self-abnegation of Mr. Winston Churchill is commendable. It is as pleasing as unexpected. It is a good trait in the character of Churchill which the national emergency has brought to light. We should have been more pleased if Lord Fisher had been given a seat in the Cabinet as First Sea Lord as well as Mr. Arthur Balfour as First (Civil) Lord of the Admiralty. The Dreadnought Navy, its concentration to meet Germany, its gunnery and general efficiency is mainly the work of Lord Fisher. It is to be hoped that at all events, he remains as First Sea Lord. The despatches received to-day so far make no reference to Lord Fisher, and it would be a misfortune if Balfour's acceptance of office as First Lord entails the retirement of the creator of Britain's modern navy.

Baseball.

The following are the baseball fixtures for the coming season:—
 June 9th, Wanderers vs. Cubs; 16th, Shamrocks and Red Lions; 23rd, B. I. S. and Wanderers; July 7th, Cubs vs. Shamrocks; 14th, Red Lions vs. B. I. S.; 21st, Wanderers vs. Shamrocks; Aug. 4th, Red Lions vs. Wanderers; 11th, B. I. S. vs. Cubs; 18th, Cubs vs. Red Lions; 25th, B. I. S. vs. Shamrocks.

These dates are subject to any changes which the League may deem advisable to make, and will depend on weather conditions. All the teams are now hard at practice and this season's games promise to be no less interesting than those of last year.

Amusements.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was the usual packed house last night at the favorite place of amusement. Miss Kathleen Barnes received great applause when she sang her patriotic song: "We don't want to lose you." To-day there will be an entire change of programme, and a special matinee at Rossley's East End Theatre, under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson and the Misses Davidson. Time and prices as usual.

SPECIAL MATINEE TO-DAY—ROSSLEY'S PANTOMIME.

The best of all shows, the best in the city, in fact there is no comparison, because at Rossley's it's a real production of a very high class: "The old woman who lived in a shoe." The large crowd that filled the Rossley Theatre last night were delighted. To-day there will be a special matinee under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson and the Misses Davidson. Seats are selling quickly for Friday's contest. On Friday night will be a gala night at Rossley's; there is the pantomime, the six first prize winners to compete again and the usual contest—two contests; the pantomime and pictures. It must be remembered all can't gain admittance on Friday night, so see the pantomime while you can.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY.

The wonderful story "The Million Dollar Mystery" of which so much has been heard of late, begins at the Nickel Theatre to-day and is certain to attract large audiences. The opening chapters have been read by the majority of our citizens and all have expressed delight with it. There are forty-six reels in the picture and two will be shown, each evening of the mid-week performances. Don't miss the opening show this evening. The other pictures will also be good and an enjoyable time is assured all.

AT THE CRESCENT—"TOO MANY HUSBANDS."

Sidney Drew, the great Vitagraph comedy star appears at the Crescent to-day in a special two reel feature: "Too Many Husbands," he is supported by Jane Morrow, Lillian Burns and all the Vitagraph stars; there are also two splendid dramas and a funny comedy. Every story in this great mid-week programme is complete in itself. Mr. Delmonico is singing: "Tennessee I hear you calling me"; this is a new song made famous by Al. Jolson at the New York Winter Garden, and is one of Mr. Delmonico's favourite songs. Go to the Crescent to-day and hear him.

LAST DAY TO SEE QUO VADIS.

One of the spectacular scenes in "Quo Vadis" is the burning of Rome. Those who have perused ancient history remember the splendid buildings and edifices that at that time adorned the world's historic centre. All the wealth and labor of that period was spent in beautifying Rome and in order for a tyrant to satisfy an inborn imbecillity vanity an order was given for Rome to be destroyed, and while it is burning, the author, Nero, looks on in calm serenity. When it is reported home to him he puts the blame on the Christian people and the sufferings which followed on them is minutely shown and every incident graphically described. See this picture, have the satisfaction of knowing that you saw one of the most costly productions for an insignificant amount.

THE BRITISH THEATRE.

The British Theatre has a beautiful programme for to-day, and it is certain to attract large audiences. There are five different subjects each of which is well worth a visit. The British is now the popular resort in the evenings. Everyone likes to go there because the pictures are the best and the theatre is snug and cosy. The British is open in the afternoons, too, and patrons are assured a good time. Bobby Connolly, the little star actor, is featured in the "Little Captain" to-day. Don't miss this.

BRUCE PASSENGERS

The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.35 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in saloon:—Miss C. Parsons, Miss B. Allan, J. C. Elliott, C. H. Habbell, A. C. Smith, Rev. S. Bagge, D. A. McDougall, Rev. E. Anthony, W. R. Warren, A. M. Marshall, Rev. H. Cotton, Adjt. Simmons, S. Butt, W. Crowe, Kelly, Butler, and J. C. Burwick.

THE NATIONAL CABINET.

LONDON, To-day.

Lord Kitchener retains the post of Secretary for War in the Coalition Cabinet which received the approval of King George. The new First Lord of the Admiralty will be Arthur J. Balfour, Winston Spencer Churchill, former head of the Admiralty is given the portfolio of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster; Herbert H. Asquith retains the Premiership, Sir Edward Grey, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the old cabinet, will be Minister of Munitions in the new one. The Constitution of the new Cabinet is as follows: Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, Asquith; Minister without portfolio, Lord Lansdowne; Lord High Chancellor, Sir Stanley O. Buckmaster; Lord President of the Council, Lord Crewe; Lord Privy Seal, Lord Curzon of Kedleston; Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna;

Secretary of State for Home Affairs, Sir John A. Simon; Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey; Secretary for the Colonies, A. Bonar Law; Secretary for India, J. Austen Chamberlain; Secretary of State for War, Lord Kitchener; Minister of Munitions, David Lloyd George; First Lord of the Admiralty, Arthur J. Balfour; President of the Board of Trade, Walter Runciman; President of the Local Government Board, Walter Hume Long; Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Winston Spencer Churchill; Chief Secretary for Ireland, Augustine Birrell; Secretary for Scotland, Thomas McKinnon Wood; President of the Board of Agriculture, Lord Selbourne; First Commissioner of Works, Lewis Harcourt; President of the Board of Education, Arthur Henderson; Attorney General, Sir Edward Carson. The official announcement on the new Cabinet was given to the press to-night on the stipulation it should not be made public until the morning papers were issued. The Cabinet is composed of twelve Liberals, eight Conservatives and one Labourite, Arthur Henderson, and one non-partisan, Earl Kitchener. Thirteen members of the old Cabinet remain in office. Of these Asquith, Grey, Kitchener, Runciman, Birrell and Wood retain their old portfolios. The promotion of Sir Stanley Buckmaster, whose greatest activities during the war had to do with the management of the Official Press Bureau, to the high honor of Lord Chancellor and the acceptance by Winston Spencer Churchill, formerly head of the Admiralty, of the merely nominal duties of the Duchy of Lancaster, are two distinct surprises. A most prominent figure retires from public life in Viscount Haldane. His affiliation with Germany and the continued newspaper attacks, based on these, made his retirement as inevitable as Prince Henry of Battenburg's retirement some time ago from the Admiralty for the same reason. Viscount Haldane received an expression of the Government's confidence by the bestowal of the Order of Merit upon him. The retention of Kitchener as head of the army, while David Lloyd George with the newly created portfolio of the Ministry of Munitions, relieves him of the responsibility of managing the supply department, and also Balfour's acceptance of the Admiralty post were fully expected. The Marquis of Lansdowne whose health forbids hard work becomes a member of the Cabinet without duties except those of participating in its councils, and of the editorial writers in the London morning papers, raises but little enthusiasm in any quarter. Most that is accorded is a disposition to give the new Government every opportunity to prove its worth. More disappointment is noticeable among Liberal than Conservative papers, mainly at will be especially charged with the task of rallying workmen to the Government's support in the expected organizing of the country's industries. Carson represents the Ulster fraction of Ireland. There is regret that Redmond declined to enter the Cabinet and make the representation embrace all political parties. The Cabinet undoubtedly includes the strongest men in public life. Whether they will prove correspondingly strong as a working body is a question the answer to which the country will anxiously await.

ITALY FRUSTRATES HINDENBURG.

LONDON, To-day.

Austria has struck first with her navy aircraft along Italy's East Coast. Italy promptly countered by throwing a considerable body of troops across the Northeastern frontier, occupying a stretch of Austrian territory along the River Isonzo, thus although Field Marshal Von Hindenburg who has a reputation for forcing matters is reported to be in command of the Austro-German troops along the new front, Italy in a sense has frustrated him.

ITALY'S FIRST MOVE.

ROME, To-day.

It is officially announced that the Italians have occupied a number of comparatively important towns and have compelled the Austrians to retreat. This in brief summarizes the first 36 hours of the newest phase of the ever widening European conflict, which being new appeals to popular imagination rather sated by the seemingly unending struggle in other theatres of war. The rapid stroke of the Italian army would seem to bespeak long preparation, during out what the press of the allied countries contended months ago that Italy would throw in her lot with the allies and was only waiting for an opportune time. Rome's first bulletin dealing with the movements of the army indicates that two movements are under way. One to the Northward toward the Carnic Alps, the other through the region of Friuli, apparently aimed at Trieste and the Istrian Peninsula, Cervignano. One of the Austrian towns occupied by the Italians is only about ten miles inland from the Gulf of Trieste. Both thrusts would develop severe fighting. Just as Italy lightly characterized Monday's Austrian raids along her coast, so Austria characterizes the military operations to date as border skirmishes, while to-day's Rome official communication laid stress on the Italian rush across the border the official statement from Vienna ignores it and gives details of the Austrian swoop on the coast enumerating the damage and emphasizing the slight Italian resistance. The German claims for the day embrace both East and West, notably around Ypres and North Przemysl. In the latter region it is announced that General Mackensen is again surging forward and taking a colossal number of prisoners. The British War Office admits the British have been unable to reform their line dented by the German East of Ypres. This dove tails with the German claims of advance in the region of Flanders. The most interesting statement of the British announcement is that with due precautions gas attacks can be met and defeated. This is particularly pertinent as gas bids fair to be used more and more, possibly by all contenders. Attesting the extremely sanguinary character of recent land fighting in the Dardanelles where the British and French are seeking to dislodge strongly entrenched Turks came to-night, a list of 919 casualties among the Australians engaged in the enterprise. The Turkish losses have apparently been greater as it was necessary for them on Sunday last to secure an armistice to bury their dead, 3,000 of whom lay piled before the British trenches.

STEAMER COLLISION.

NEW YORK, To-day.

The steamer Ryndam, of the Holland-American Line, from New York to Rotterdam, with passengers and freight, collided with the Norwegian freight steamer Joseph J. Cuneo to-day off Nantucket Island. A wireless message was received here that the Ryndam has transferred her passengers and part of her crew to the Cuneo, but that both vessels are badly damaged. The Ryndam, 7,976 tons, sailed from this port yesterday afternoon with seventy passengers in her first and second cabins and 115 in third cabin.

CRITICISM OF NEW CABINET.

LONDON, To-day.

As might have been expected, the new Cabinet, while it meets with no strong disapproval at the hands of the editorial writers in the London morning papers, raises but little enthusiasm in any quarter. Most that is accorded is a disposition to give the new Government every opportunity to prove its worth. More disappointment is noticeable among Liberal than Conservative papers, mainly at shelving of Viscount Haldane and the appointment of Sir Edward Carson as Attorney General. Some dissatisfaction is also expressed that the new Cabinet instead of being smaller is larger than the old one, and also at the loss of David Lloyd George as Chancellor of the Exchequer. It is understood, however, that Lloyd George's appointment as Minister of Munitions, is only temporary and that he will come back to the Chancellorship when the question of munitions become less acute. Other appointments much criticized include that of Balfour as First Lord of the Admiralty, the ground being taken that the giving of this portfolio to him deprives the nation of the services of Lord Fisher. The elevation of Sir Stanley Buckmaster also is criticized.

THE ITALIAN ADVANCE.

ROME, To-day.

Offensive operations resulting in the occupation of Austrian territory all along the frontier of Lombardy, to the Adriatic are claimed in an official statement issued by the War Office. Italian troops have seized various towns in Trentino and forced their way through the mountain defiles on the Lower Isonzo. Attacks were continued to gain the line of the river. The Austrians are reported to have retired, destroying bridges behind them. Italian aviators bombarded Montefalcone, near the Gulf of Trieste.

2 P. M.

ITALIANS TAKE AUSTRIAN TOWN.

ROME, To-day.

The bulletin issued by the War Office to-day, announcing that Italians had entered upon Austrian territory, caused great enthusiasm. The report showed that Italians were occupying all the mountains between the Itria and Isonzo Rivers, and that in advancing they had taken Cormons, which commands the road leading to Gorizia, an important Austrian frontier station passing from the north to the centre of Eastern Friuli. The report indicates that the Italians also had occupied the village of Versa, which is near the river of the same name and on the road to Gradisca, Austria, and that in addition in Southern Friuli, Servignano, another important Austrian frontier station leading to Montefalcone and Trieste had been taken. The Giornale D'Italia, commenting on the bulletin, says: The Italian advance occupies a front of one hundred kilometres about 65 miles and has extreme points at Catorro to the north to the Gulf of Trieste on the South. The first contingent of Italians penetrated into Austrian territory a distance ranging from two to four miles.

RYNDAM STILL AFLOAT.

NEW YORK, To-day.

Further messages from the Ryndam said that one of her holds was filled with water, that another hold and the engine room were leaking. She reported that she was steaming slowly toward this port, accompanied by the Cuneo, and would continue to proceed as long as she could master the water in the last compartment.

AUSTRIAN COMMAND.

GENEVA, To-day.

According to advices received here the Austrian Archduke has asked Emperor Francis Joseph to place him at the head of the army operating against Italy. The Archduke has been commander of the forces operating against Serbia. It is reported Prince Adelbert of Prussia, son of Emperor William, will have command of an Austrian naval squadron.

NO INTERNMENT.

ROTTERDAM, To-day.

The Current publishes a telegram from Berlin stating that Germany and Italy have agreed neither to intern civilians nor seize their property.

A NOVEL SITUATION.

COLOGNE, To-day.

A novel situation has arisen in the relation between Germany and Italy. According to the usually well informed Berlin correspondent of Volkes Zeitung, the German Government before leaving Rome that the German troops were so closely intermingled with Austro-Hungarian forces, that Italy in making war against an Austro-Hungarian army faced danger of firing upon German soldiers. The Ambassador is reported to have pointed out that Germany naturally would regard this as an unfriendly act and would take steps accordingly.

AMERICAN STEAMER TORPEDOED.

LONDON, To-day.

The steamship Nebraska, Hawaiian steamship line, to Liverpool for Liverpool New York with passengers New York with passengers was torpedoed or struck a mine, putting back to Liverpool. No particulars yet.

NATIONALIST SUPPORT NEW GOVERNMENT.

DUBLIN, To-day.

The Irish party at a meeting unanimously adopted a resolution approving of John Redmond's action in declining a seat in the new Cabinet. The party issued a statement, declaring that the events of last week have created a situation demanding serious and careful consideration of the Irish people. Reciting Asquith's assurance that coalition would not involve surrender by any person of his political purposes or ideals, the statement continues, we accept that declaration and so long as the pledge is honorably and strictly observed, we shall be ready to give to the new Government in carrying on war the same hearty co-operation as has been given by the party to the last Government.

St. Pierre Bulletin.

OFFICIAL, Midnight.

Important advance resulted in our attacks of to-day north of Arras. The fighting, opposite Calonne trench, we captured the salient of large German works known as Cornailles Works. In the same district our troops assailed and captured another German work, very powerfully fortified. Further southeast of the road running between Aix Noullette and Souchez we captured on a front of one kilometre a whole large trench in which the enemy has been resisting for a fortnight. West of the same road we advanced somewhat in Fond de Buzal Valley, the entrance of which was strongly fortified by the Germans and their artillery at Angres had up to now kept us at bay. Some progress was scored southwest of Souchez in Castle Carlet direction. Elsewhere on our front there is nothing to report.

Petrograd.—The offensive in Galicia continues successfully. We have captured over 2,000 prisoners with a dozen machine guns and some material. Rome.—The Italian offensive and invasion of Austrian territory are continuing. Many villages and strategic positions fell into the hands of the Italians who also captured prisoners. Italian aeroplanes bombed the electric and railroad stations of Montefalcone.

In Milady's Boudoir.

THE MORNING TOILETTE.

"MAKING UP" IN PUBLIC.

Years ago it was considered bad taste to do any part of one's toilet outside one's boudoir, but in those days we see women powdering their noses, applying lip sticks, and "fixing" their hair in almost every public place.

Wherever we look we see them holding up a tiny mirror while they painstakingly powder their faces; and, horrors of horrors! yes, rouge their cheeks and lips. When they have completed the process they complacently go on their way, no blush of embarrassment showing through the artificial complexion.

If true art is to conceal art, then they are very inartistic, for the result is as glaring as the breach of good taste. Of course no one is deceived—no one could be but a blind man, and it isn't done for him. There is a monotonous pink and white sameness in woman's complexion—they are neither blondes nor brunettes any more, nor pale nor rosy faces, just a tiresome procession of whitewashed noses and evenly rouged cheeks. And the men—what do they think of it? Why they laugh at it, not respectfully, and they resent it as a breach of good manners, and they are more embarrassed by the spectacle than the girl herself.

There is no doubt that women do these things to make themselves attractive and win the admiration, presumably of men. If they are only making themselves odious and ridiculous, isn't that reason enough for attending to those details in private?

"Salted Nut" People.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"No," said Molly, "and she isn't the kind who say nice things, either. I'll tell you what she's like, — salted nuts."

The Authorman's Wife is Surprised. "Salted nuts?" from the authorman's wife with equal parts of exclamation and inquiry in her tone. "Yes," said Molly firmly. "Don't you know some people are like candy, awfully sweet and nice but you get tired of them so quickly. Salted nuts are different, they're kind of fascinating and you can keep on eating them almost indefinitely without getting tired of them—and that's what she's like."

"Right-Oh, Molly," said the authorman, who had come in during this last remark. "That's a very good characterization. Give us some more."

Champagne and Water People. "What about champagne people?" put in the wants-to-be-cynic. "The kind that sparkle, the kind that exaltate you and make you think they're the only thing that makes life worth living at night, but leave you with a bad taste for every day living next morning."

"They're the antipodes to water-people, aren't they?" said the authorman. "Water's one of those things that you don't appreciate because you have plenty of it, but miss like all outdoors when you can't get it. I guess we all have met people like that in our lives."

"Beefsteak people are a kind I wish there were more of," said the cynic. "The plain, wholesome, hearty folks that put you on good terms with life in a healthy way. You know the kind I mean. All Hastings, wholesome and straight and clean, no frills and no need of any."

"You know what they say about olives," from Molly, "that you have to learn to like them but if you once get the taste, you'll never lose it. I know people like that that it takes you a long while to appreciate but you like them better than ordinary folks you get the taste."

The Cynic Grows Serious. "So do I," said the cynic, with what appeared on the surface to be unnecessary fervor in his voice.

"Do stop talking such nonsense," said the authorman's wife. "You people never know when to stop when you get started."

"It wasn't nonsense," said the cynic. "Was it, Molly?"

"I don't know," said Molly, strangely intent on the fire.

Questions and Answers. Question.—My little daughter has a "crush" on a girl several years older. She saves her pocket money to buy presents, worships her from a distance, and thinks all she does is perfect. What shall I do? Do you think it is a bad thing?

Answer.—That depends somewhat on the character of the girl she admires. It does none of us any harm to admire that which is admirable, and it inspires a humility and an upward striving which is good for the

Just how to give baby the morning bath will doubtless be welcomed by many young mothers. Bring the little one in to be bathed one half hour before feeding time and as near nine in the morning as possible. Lay him on your knees with his feet toward the bowl, and before he is undressed wash and wipe his face, hands and ears.

Now turn the baby until his head is over the bowl, supporting the neck and head with the left hand and resting his feet in your lap. Add cold water to that in the bowl until it is just warm; now put soap on the wash cloth and rub the little head until there is a good lather. Then rinse with plenty of water. Dry with the towel and lay him again in your lap. Now add warm water to the bowl, remove the baby's clothes and soap him thoroughly. Cover him with the bath apron and add cold water to the tub until the water is comfortable to your elbow. Uncover the baby, slip your arm under his head, and while supporting his neck on your wrist, hold him firmly under his left arm at the shoulder. Grasp both ankles with your right hand, and lower him gently, then let him enjoy himself for five or ten minutes, then carefully lift him on your lap the same way you put him in.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The sad news was received in town on Wednesday of the death at Montreal of Mr. William Trappell, eldest son of John Trappell, Esq., of this town. Mr. Trappell who was only 31 years of age passed away at the Royal Victoria Hospital where he had been under treatment for pneumonia. He leaves a widow and five children.

The Rev. Mother of the Presentation Convent here passed away this a.m. after a lingering illness. Flags are floating at half-mast in town today which shows in some way how popular Rev. Mother was.

Quite a large number of outport people are in town to-day making or trying to make arrangements for the summer fishery operations. It seems that there is not nearly so much vim in the "getting ready" for the fishery as formerly.

Harbor Grace, May 21, 1915.

The schooner Eleanor E. discharged a cargo of building supplies to the Horwood Lumber Co. yesterday.

Mr. Dugald Munn spent Sunday at his home here, and return to St. John's yesterday.

Messrs. G. B. Lloyd and Alex. Bryden were among the visitors to town for Empire Day.

Some of our business men did not open their stores yesterday morning, as it was Empire Day. Others who were no doubt just as patriotic, but who were living in such a busy center, opened their stores as usual.

This caused the former to open up as well and the rest of the day was spent in business. It would have been patriotic, we think, to have observed the day as a holy-day, and have services in all the churches for our soldiers and sailors who are fighting our battles, while we are watching to see who will get a cent more out of business than ourselves.

We will in time get so small that we will all need a magnifying glass to see each other.

The children of Victoria Street school and their teachers, the Misses Butt, were in the country yesterday afternoon and had a very pleasant time.

Misses M. M. Kenj and Mona Brennan, R. C. teachers at Bay Roberts, were in town yesterday on a visit to friends.

A very enjoyable concert was given at Coughlan Hall last night by the pupils of the Methodist School. The Principal, Mr. W. Butt, and his associates spent much time in preparing the pupils for their appearance before the public. All did remarkably well. The proceeds, we hear, amounted to the very fine sum of $40. Mr. Butt is to be congratulated on the success both socially and financially.

At the House.

TUESDAY, May 25th, 1915.

In reply to Mr. Lloyd's question re railway station at Northern Bight, Long Harbour and Bay Bulls Arm, T. B. the Colonial Secretary tabled some correspondence on it.

Mr. Lloyd reminded the Premier to table copy of instructions to the Government Engineer with reference to the condition of the entire railway, as promised by the Premier several days ago. The Premier did so.

The Council's Amendments to the Bill relating to the Sale of Codfish on Labrador were read a first time.

The Bill concerning an Agreement between the Government and the Newfoundland American Packing Co.; also the Bill respecting Retriving Allowances were read a third time and sent to the Upper House for concurrence.

The Council's Amendments to the Disasters Fund Bill were concurred in and sent back.

The House was resolving itself into Committee on Ways and Means when Mr. Lloyd rose and drew the Finance Minister's attention to his promise on Thursday last to have the Resolutions printed and distributed on Friday. That was not done and on Friday the Minister promised to send copies of the Resolutions to members on Saturday. The fact was that it was only a few minutes before he started to speak that the Resolutions had been tabled. In view of the circumstances Mr. Lloyd asked that the order be deferred until Wednesday. This was ordered.

The House then went into Committee on the Prohibition Bill.

Mr. Lloyd thought that the provisions of the Bill should be examined more carefully to see how one section stood with another. He cited clauses which were in conflict, and pointed out the absence of a penalty in another clause. His remarks were endorsed by Mr. Higgins, after which the Committee rose and asked leave to sit again to-day, meanwhile the defects shown by Mr. Lloyd will be attended to.

The Bill respecting the Grand Bank Water Supply passed without amendment and will be read a third time to-day.

The Products Corporation Bill was deferred.

In committee on Bill to amend the Act respecting the Valuer General in this Colony, the Premier explained that the Act was extended for another year and read through the sections.

Mr. Lloyd took exception to Section 4.

The Premier said he would consider Mr. Lloyd's suggestion.

The House went into Committee on Resolutions respecting the Exportation of Timber. The Resolutions are amendments of the Act, passed last year and extending the time limit of cutting pit props for export to the United Kingdom and Republic of France for another year; also that the exportation of unmanufactured lumber from the Labrador be extended for 10 years. Minister of Finance and Customs Cashin, read extracts from a report of the expert who came here in connection with the pit props industry. If this industry didn't go ahead our people would be forced to live in idleness and probably die of starvation, the Minister contended. He said he would table the correspondence that had passed between this Government and the Home Government on the pit prop industry, also the report of the four experts who were here last year. Whilst he believed that the continuation for 10 years of exporting timber would be a boon to our workmen he said that the freight rates from Newfoundland were higher than from other countries.

Mr. Cliff rose to make a few observations on the matter before the chair, even though it was at the risk of being charged with making them from a party standpoint or merely for the sake of opposition. Hitherto it has been the policy of all Governments to prohibit the exportation of timber in its raw state, said Mr. Cliff, but he did not think sufficient reason had been given by Minister Cashin to warrant a departure from that policy. Continuing, he said the Minister had spoken very largely from a report written by some experts or persons supposed to know what they are talking about. He would like the Minister to bring down the report of the Experts and all correspondence and would like to know if there was any correspondence on the matter with the French Republic and what prompted the amendment of the law respecting the exportation of timber or pit props to the United Kingdom or France. At the present he was not inclined to support the Resolutions and he was strongly opposed to a continuation of the exportation of pit props or any other raw material that might be manufactured in the country. Referring to the war session of last year he said amendments were passed authorizing the exportation of pit props, but that was done on the ground that pit props were very necessary in England and France on account of war conditions. If it was shown that there was still a necessity for the pit props, Mr. Cliff contended there would be no objection to allow the exportation to continue. But the Resolutions now ask that the Act be continued in force for 10 years and he thought that before further amendments of the matter the House should have an opportunity of examining the reports made on the subject, also examining into conditions on the Labrador with regard to the timber licenses that are now existing in that territory. He pointed out that there are licenses granted to persons on Labrador for the purpose of cutting timber for the manufacture of pulp and paper and he understood that there are a number of applications under consideration of the Government for such licenses at the present time. He would like to know whether those holding licenses already on the Labrador and cutting timber for the purpose mentioned have complied with the law in erecting saw mills, etc., and if it is the intention of the new applicants to make such erections. If pit props are to be exported he did not see why they should not be exported from Crown Lands. Before proceeding further he would like to have some information as to the rights of holders of licenses cutting timber and disposing of it for pit prop purposes, and an opportunity afforded of studying the whole matter fully. He would have more to say on the Resolutions later.

Mr. Lloyd was of the opinion that before dealing with the Resolutions a report of the tensile test referred to in the statement read by Mr. Cashin as going to be made, all information possible on the subject should be furnished so that the matter could be gone into intelligently. The Minister said there was very little to go into. Mr. Lloyd came back with the rejoinder there is the entire reversal of the Colony's policy in regard to the export of pulpwood to be gone into. The Minister should remember we are not in the same position as he or his Government is, because the Government has had all the reports before them this long time and Government members have had the advantage of considering those matters with all the information at party meetings. There is no justification, said Mr. Lloyd, for the export of pulpwood and pit props except so far as the means the requirements of trade in the Old Country which is handicapped by the War. In that connection we ought to agree to aid those so handicapped. This new proposal is not merely to meet the necessities of war but a proposal to reverse the policy in regard to the Labrador for ten years. It is the culmination of a campaign which has been going on steadily for many years by persons interested in Labrador timber licenses and who have not lived up to the obligations of those licenses. It is now intended to ease out those obligations by pit prop licenses. This Mr. Lloyd considered a very serious matter and it was necessary to have full information as to why the Government has surrendered to the campaign of those who are timber holders on the Labrador.

Mr. Piccott spoke for a long while, appealing to popular sentiment regarding the fishermen and said that he had gone over St. John's to get supplies for men for the fishery, without success, and stated that if our monied men were sincere now was the time to come along and show their sincerity and patriotism by helping the fishermen. Some of Mr. Piccott's own associates (suppliers) got their feelings hurt as they expressed themselves in bitter terms over the remark.

The Committee then rose till 8 o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

Mr. Coaker endorsed the request for the rising of the Committee on Pit-Props until to-day and the Minister of Finance acceded to the request and the Committee rose.

The House went into Committee on the Products Company Bill. The Bill was read through and a few minor amendments were made to some of the clauses.

Just before the adoption of the last clause of the agreement, Mr. Grimes moved that the matter of the confirmation of the contract be submitted to a plebiscite. He explained his reasons for favoring a referendum, and cited the Premier's remarks on the matter of prohibition, when he stated that the Government had no mandate to pass a measure that might conflict with the rights of the people without first submitting the question to them by a plebiscite vote. These remarks, Mr. Grimes contended, applied with equal force to the agreement before the Committee. The matter of granting such enormous concessions constituted a great public question, which was in his opinion, too important to legislate upon without consulting the wishes of the people. He therefore would move that the question be submitted to a plebiscite in December next.

Mr. Walsh, in reply to Mr. Grimes, held that the Government was carrying out its policy of 1908, by fostering the development of our natural resources. He then spoke on the contract for some fifteen minutes, during which he painted a glowing picture of the return of the exiled Newfoundlanders to labour in their homeland. He promised the measure his hearty support.

Mr. Coaker regretted that he could not see such a future for Newfoundland as Mr. Walsh had depicted, and thought that the measure was one that will in all probability rise up in judgment against the legislators responsible for it.

The Committee then rose and reported having passed the bill with some amendments. It will come up for third reading this afternoon.

"SHIPS' EARS" AS A DEFENCE

AGAINST SUBMARINES AND ICE-BERGS.

Remarkable Invention by Which Wireless Messages and Warnings Are Sent Beneath the Seas and Heard by Steel Diaphragms or Ships' Ears.

A remarkable new invention will enable battleships to keep out of the way of submarines. It provides a ship with "ears" or steel diaphragms or oscillators, which will hear wireless messages and warnings sent beneath the water—so that the screw of a submarine may be heard while miles away.

By means of these oscillators, or ears, a ship's commander could give orders to his submarines, and it is possible even for submarines and other ships to talk with each other by means of this submarine wireless telephony.

They Hear Icebergs.

These "ships' ears" by means of echoes will also give warning under the water when icebergs are approaching. Such an apparatus might have saved the Titanic—just three years ago. Echoes from icebergs six or eight miles away have been recorded. "These echoes were not only heard through the receivers of the oscillator in the wireless room, but were plainly heard by the officers in the wardroom and engine storeroom below the water-line."

The Inventor.

The inventor of these most sensitive "ships' ears," or oscillators, is Professor R. A. Fessenden, of the Submarine Signal Co., of Boston, Mass., who has described how it works to Mr. Cleveland Moffett for the American Magazine.

"All his life Professor Fessenden has been an active explorer in new fields of knowledge. For years he was associated with Thomas A. Edison. He was one of the pioneers in wireless telegraphy and his system of wireless transmission is used in the great Arlington towers at Washington, D.C. Also his system of electric power transmission was used by the Canadian Government in distributing the energy of Niagara Falls through the Province of Ontario. For years he was Professor of electricity and physics at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Two Ears.

"Does a vessel need more than one oscillator?" asked Mr. Moffett. "Yes, it needs two, like two ears, one on either side, which allows it to fix the direction from which a signal comes," replied the Professor. "This is done by a delicate instrument that takes account of differences in the intensity of a given signal as heard by the two electrical ears, one of which, on the more favourable side, hears the signal more distinctly than the other. A ship's officer has only to adjust this instrument and then read off on a dial the exact point of the compass from which the signal comes."

"How about the distance of a submerged submarine from a battleship—could the battleship tell that?"

"Yes, approximately, by the intensity of the sound received, for, of course, the oscillator's loudness grows less as the distance increases. There will be a distance indicator with a dial graduated in thousands of yards, and an officer will read off these distance indications just as he notes the points of the compass. Besides this, a battleship will get precise information from the submarine herself, if she means a friendly submarine, by talking with her in code, by asking questions as to her speed, direction, distance below the surface."

"From all of this it is plain that a battleship which can thus control the movements of submerged submarines has an enormous advantage over the ships of an enemy. A single cruiser, aided by half a dozen deadly craft, steaming far below the surface and able to manoeuvre safely on the lower levels, at the bidding of the mother ship might easily wipe out a whole squadron of Dreadnoughts unprotected against this new danger. With oscillators aboard, a battleship becomes an eye to see, a brain to guide, while the submarines, moving, sightless, through the deep, black waters, are arms that strike and destroy unerringly according to orders from above."

Safety for Battleships.

"Your invention increases the terrors of the submarine?" I said. "It leaves the Dreadnought practically helpless."

"The professor" shook his head. "That is true for Dreadnoughts not equipped with oscillators, but for others that are able to listen with electrical ears, the submarine becomes far less formidable. The oscillator makes it possible for a ship's officer to hear the propeller movements of an enemy's submarine while it is miles away. With our existing apparatus we can detect such propeller sounds at a distance of two miles; and we have a sound-amplifying device that will extend this distance to five miles or more."

FOR THE NURSERY.

"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind the easy trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household. Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or Circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber"—without any labour at all—independently of the state of the kitchen fire.

FOR THE BATHROOM.

An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance. Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at a cost! Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of hot kitchen in warm weather!

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

When "Spring cleaning days" engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force. But at all times—apart from convenience a gas water-heater makes an irresistible appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Later-day domesticity is difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving then unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes. The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous—may 12, 14

ARE THE DARDANELLES LINED WITH TORPEDO TUBES?

The difficulties and dangers of forcing the Dardanelles are much greater than most people realise. The strength of the forts, the number of guns, and so on, have been immensely increased by the German military experts since last August, and though the Straits might have been forced easily in that month, it is a very different matter now.

Among the defences of the Dardanelles which are extremely difficult to locate, are the torpedo tubes hidden along each shore. These tubes, exactly like those on board big battleships, are often hidden underground and fired from beneath the surface of the water, the cliff, representing, as it were, a battleship's side.

In the famous Narrows the width of the Dardanelles is only about a mile, and the chances of a torpedo missing at that range is very small. There is very little doubt, in fact, that the Irresistible, Ocean and Bouvet were sunk by means of these hidden torpedo tubes, and not from floating mines, against which it has been possible to guard.

A REMARKABLE CORPS.

Perhaps the most remarkable corps training in Canada just now is the Fourth Brigade of Field Artillery encamped at Toronto and Guelph.

They were selected in the first place on the score of their high standard of education. They are men who are more than ordinarily smart, mentally. Over ten per cent of them are University graduates, and over twenty per cent, are college men. There is a large number of professional men among them. One corporal is an ex-member of the United States Congress and a graduate of three universities. In the ranks of one battery there are three ordained clergymen. There are several college professors and demonstrators, engineers and mechanics of all kinds. There is nothing in the matter of technical skill that the Fourth Brigade cannot do. Then in its ranks are a number of men who have been in the royal navy. All of the twelve men who man the limber guns are ex-navy men—the limber gunner is really the caretaker of the machine, as it were—and all are excellent men, reliable, and careful mechanics.

Next the men are selected for their good moral character. "We have no time," remarked Lt.-Col. Brown, the commander of the brigade, "to bother with men of indifferent character. Artillery work is so technical that it is only men of the higher type who have sufficient aptitude to master it." Thirdly, physical fitness is looked for; and lastly, some special kind of fitness in the applicant.

Gas Victims Die
in Awful Agony.

LONDON, May 18.—John Colton Clayton, a journalist who has worked in several American cities, has arrived in London with his left arm paralyzed from a sharp wound received in the fighting at Hill 60, near Ypres. Mr. Clayton, who is English by birth, became an American citizen, but resumed his British nationality to join the British Red Cross for the war. He bought his own uniform, paid for his own provisions and have his motor car without charge to the service in which it is engaged.

"I have been at the front since November and have passed through the most strenuous and horrible experiences of my life. My paralyzed arm is nothing. I want to tell you about that German gas. It pulls men's mouths right around on the sides of their faces. It sometimes dislocates men's jaws. They cannot speak, and they die in ghastly agony."

"It makes their eyes look as if they had been terribly mauled in the ring. Not only do the eyelids and brows turn black, but the cheeks and the forehead turn black also. Many lose their sight utterly. The skin of the face within a day or two after the gas has been breathed becomes ulcerous."

"It is 1,000 to 1 that any man who gets a good whiff of that stuff never recovers. Every day soldiers are coming into the hospitals gasping for breath and panting like dogs on blazing summer days. It is heart-breaking. No civilized being could believe it."

"I have seen other things. I have seen three little Belgian girls with their hands cut off at the wrist. It is pure barbarism; no Red Indian ever beat it."

Cure Guaranteed
Never known to fail; acts without pain in 24 hours. Is soothing, healing; takes the sting right out. No remedy so quick, safe and sure as Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sold everywhere—25c. per bottle.

Fads and Fashions.

Sports skirts are made of pique. Pointed Swiss belts are among the new notes. There are velvet parasols edged with roses. Parasols of white embroidered linen are chic. The finest of lace is coming into its own again. Eton suits are very much liked by young girls. Make the little flower girl's dress of point d'esprit. Much tulle is used, and it is either shirred or ruffled. Skirts are frequently lined with a contrasting color. Street frocks of dark blue taffeta will be much worn. Some of the new cravats are made to fasten in the back. Dull silks are more in fashion than the brilliant ones. In Paris at present the tailored suit is almost de rigueur. The princess mode is in fashion. The uneven hem is gaining in favor. Hats of white kidskin are the lat-

THE WALLING PLACE.

In this sad world, with griefs begrim, the more we howl, the more we're hurt. Misfortunes seem to keep the trail of those who raise the loudest wail. The business men, in pomp arrayed, who own big palaces of trade, and have their minions by the score, don't very often raise a roar. If things go wrong they do not sigh, or show the world a streaming eye. They do not advertise bad luck—that will not draw the patron's buck. They advertise the gorgeous fact that they have red rot bargains stacked, all through the store, all sorts and styles; and when you go you're met with smiles. The merchant in yon tin horn store, who's been there thirty years or more, who has a dribbling stream of trade from those who'll stand for goods decayed, is always at the walling place, has always tears upon his face. The man who aims to get ahead, and not be numbered with the dead, must sound the brave and joyful note, and keep a firm grip on his goat.

THE SUPPLY OF DOCTORS.

A scarcity in doctors is anticipated in the years that will follow the war. I have had a conversation on this subject with an eminent medical authority, whose duties bring him in close touch with the subject. He tells me that there had not been sufficient experience of the National Insurance Act at the time when the war broke out, to ascertain definitely whether any of the financial inducements which it offers to the medical profession, would be sufficient to overcome a reluctance of young men to qualify as doctors. The seriousness of the problem brought about by the withdrawal of students from their studies on account of the war, has been indicated by Sir Donald MacAlister, the President of the General Medical Council, and it is expected that he will have something interesting to say on it when that body meets in May. It has been suggested that one way to stimulate the flow of young men into the profession, would be to reduce the curriculum to four years. At present five is the minimum, and six represents a very usual length of the medical course. The medical authority with whom I conversed on the subject, tells me that any reduction of the curriculum is unthinkable. It would, he says, be entirely retrograde, and would only result in turning out an inferior class of practitioner. The consensus of opinion in the profession here, is hostile to even the suggestion of such a course, as the way out of the difficulty. But the problem of filling the ranks of the doctors is regarded as pressing.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. The cause may be the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, in a moderate or severe form, ask for Anti-Danalis Tablets, and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them as all druggists in any quantity, 25c worth, 50c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES
Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, does its fiercest work when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on, take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.
Genuine A-K Tablets bear the K monogram. At all druggists.

Italy as a Fighter

SOME INFORMING PARAGRAPHS ABOUT ITALY.
The Italian navy is manned by 40,000 sailors.
Italy's army at full war strength numbers three million men.
Italy possesses ten airships and about a hundred aeroplanes.
The Italian national debt is over five hundred million pounds.
The Italian field and horse artillery are armed with Krupp quick firing guns.
There are as many places devoted to lotteries in Italy as there are public houses here.
The Italian cavalry has the reputation for being amongst the finest cavalry of any of the European armies.

An Italian soldier serves two years in the regular army, six years in the reserve, and eleven years in the militia.
Since the war broke out Italy has been making her own guns. Formerly she got them from France and Germany.

Italy's population is 35,000,000, and its area 110,623 square miles, or not quite as big as the United Kingdom.
Service in the Italian army is compulsory and universal. The total period of service is 19 years, beginning at the age of 20.

The Italian soldier is armed with the Mannlicher-Carcano rifle. It is six inches longer than the British rifle and four ounces heavier.—Pearson's Weekly.

BRITISH PLAY WOODEN HORSE TRICK ON TURKS.

Dardanelles, via Constantinople, May 13.—History has duplicated the traditions of the plains of Troy, for by a ruse as ingenious as the wooden horse which gave the crafty Greeks entrance into the City of Troy, the British succeeded in getting their first landing party ashore for the land operations against the Dardanelles.

On the day preceding the landing, the Turkish patrols noticed a huge collier, her decks piled high with coal, drifting in apparent helplessness toward the shoals lining the shores near the plains of Troy. Finally the big boat struck bottom, and in the twilight which was falling, the crew was seen to take to the boats and row hastily towards the sea, where other ships were evidently cruising.

Feeling certain that the stranded vessel was safe for the night, the Turks made no attempt to board her, but when the patrols approached again in the morning they were met by a sharp fire from 2,500 British troops, strongly entrenched and supported by a battery of field artillery. These troops had landed under cover of night from the apparent wreck, where they had been concealed below decks.

Then the mist of shore rose and disclosed a long line of transports from which troops were pouring into small boats, which, under cover of the landing force, reached the beach with comparatively few casualties.

The Turks summoned reinforcements with feverish haste, and for a time the small landing detachment was in peril of extinction; but the intrenchments were too strong to be taken by assault, and when the Turkish batteries got into action enough troops had been safely landed to consolidate the position won by the strategic ruse of the collier's human freight.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"What does the bride do with her glove and bouquet, and who keeps the ring for the groom?" inquired the flurried prospective bride.
"The bride gives her bouquet and glove to the maid of honor who keeps them until the benediction is said. The best man keeps the ring for the groom and hands it to him when it is time for the groom to place the ring on the bride's finger," were her mother's calm instructions.
