The Heir to Beecham Park

CHAPTER XIV.

Her letters to Miss Lawson were cheerful and chatty, but the governess put them aside with a strange sensation of pity. She felt that there was some great sorrow, a sorrow which Margery must bear alone, that none could alleviate. She was gratified at the success of her pupil, and from her sister, Mrs. Fothergill, she heard of the warm friendship that already existed between Lady Enid Walsh and her companion. The girl's heartfelt gratitude pleased and touched Miss Lawson, and she was glad to know that her judgment of the maid's character had been right; that Margery was all she had expected. Gratitude, indeed, was the warmest feeling in Margery's breast just now; she could not thank her governess enough for assisting her at a time when she most needed assistance. To have stayed at Hurstley would have been worse than death, she told herself. As she crept away in the freshness of the morning, she took her farewell of all that had been dearest and best to her, and with a courage born of despair, faced the unknown future unflinchingly. Reuben Morris had accepted with little surprise the news of her hasty departure; he knew that Miss Lawson loved the girl in her quiet way, and would watch over her, and her speed to be gone matched his own plans, for the vessel started three days earlier than he had expected, and there was no time to be lost.

Margery travelled up to the great city, silent and sorrowful, her hand clasped in Reuben's, with Miss Lawson by her side. Not till she reached the docks, whither she had pleaded to be allowed to accompany Reuben, did she learn that Robert Bright, too, sailed away from the old country in the same ship, and the news was the last drop in her already overflowing cup of grief. She spoke a few words to him, urging him to stay; but, when she learned that her love was all that could keep him, she was silent; it was impossible—it could never be. So the two men went together, and Margery stood beside Miss Lawson, the tears blinding her eyes as the huge vessel glided away. Then, in silence, they retraced their steps, and Margery was launched upon the world. Her secret was safe. Hurstley chattered of her as in Australia, with Reuben Morris and her lover; but Miss Lawson's lips were closed; she kept her promise.

CHAPTER XV.

Margery was walking slowly to and fro in the square garden, buried in her thoughts, when a firm step coming toward her made her raise her head, and she saw Lord Court, looking almost handsome and undeniably soldierly in the sunlight.

"I am sent after you, Miss Daw," he said, raising his hat with a smile that lit up his plain face. "Enid is pining for you, and thinks you will be fatigued with so much walking."

"Now Feeling Fine and Able to do my own work"

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Coe Hill, Ont., writes:
"I was in such a weakened, run-down condition that I could not take care of my household duties."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
60 cts. a box of 60 pills, Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto

GERALD S. DOYLE, Distributor.

Margery laughed a little slyly, laugh that sounded strange in her own ears—it was long since she had been merry.

"Lady Enid does not know my capabilities," she answered. "I am a country girl, and walking comes naturally to me; but I am quite ready to go to her."

Lord Court turned and kept pace beside her.

"I can see walking is a pleasure to you," he remarked, easily. "I have been watching you, Miss Daw, and have been struck by the very un-English nature of your carriage; you bear yourself like an Andalusian. There is something peculiarly ungraceful in the ordinary Englishwoman's walk."

"I think high heels have a great deal to answer for," Margery responded, the color just faintly tinting her cream-white cheeks. "I have been seriously alarmed at the shoes I have seen since I came to town; it must be almost like walking on stilts."

"They are for show, not use," said the earl, smiling. "What a beautiful sky! It reminds me of the sunsets we used to see at Court Manor. My sister, I dare say, has spoken to you of our old home, Miss Daw?"

"Lady Enid is never tired of dwelling on its beauties; she seems to love it so much."

"I have not seen it now for years," the earl said—and Margery saw a shadow cross his face; "but its memory is very dear. In point of beauty and value it does not compare with either Drake Park or Hohen Castle, both Court possessions; to me, however, it is far more beautiful." He paused, then said, abruptly, "Miss Daw, do you think it would make Enid happier if she returned to the manor for a while?"

"Yes," Margery answered, simply; "I am sure of it. She is so good, so sweet, that she never complains; but I know she is pining for a glimpse of the country, and I think she would grow stronger out of London—she has been in town so long."

"What a selfish brute I have been!" muttered the earl to himself. "Poor child—poor Enid! Thank you, Miss Daw," he added, quickly. "I will speak to her at once, and make arrangements to start whenever she likes. But you—you do not object to leave London?"

"It" questioned the girl. "No, Lord Court, I have no objection; it matters little to me where I am."

He cast a quick, earnest glance at her.

"You are young to say that."

Margery flushed; she had spoken unreflectingly, and she regretted the words as soon as they were uttered.

"And wrong," she said, with forced lightness. "I shall enjoy the change; and anything that makes Lady Enid happy is a great pleasure to me."

Lord Court was silent, but he read her assumed manner rightly. He knew Margery's history well; still, he felt instinctively it was not her orphan state alone that had caused such a remark.

Margery was unaware of his covert glances; she picked two or three leaves from the trees as she passed and arranged them in a cluster with an artistic touch.

"You are an artist, Miss Daw," the earl observed, as they approached the gates.

"I paint a little, but only flowers," she returned.

"I used the brush a few years ago," Lord Court said, "but I do nothing now, and, with the exception of a few Egyptian sketches, I have no drawings of my travels."

He opened the gate as he spoke; then, suddenly meeting the full gaze of her wondrous eyes, he said almost involuntarily:

"I think I could paint you, if you would allow me."

"I would sit to you most willingly," Margery returned, smiling, "but only on the condition that you make a picture of Lady Enid."

"It is a bargain!" he cried, and Margery felt a thrill of pleasure at his words.

By this promise she knew she would bring happiness to the young sister—happiness because her beloved Nugent would be near her.

"Let us go and tell her at once," she said, turning her lovely face, flushed with pleasure, to him. "Ah, you will see my words were right last night! You will be a better physician than I could ever hope to be."

The earl made no reply, but followed her across to the house. At the door of Lady Enid's room Margery paused.

"It will gladden her more coming from you," she whispered, and she hurried away.

Lord Court watched her disappear, then entered the room.

"Have you found her, Nugent?" asked Lady Enid, fixing her brown eyes upon him.

"Yes," he answered, drawing a chair to her couch and looking at her pale face and fragile form with a dull pain at his heart. "We have been talking together, Enid, and we have made two arrangements which we hope will please you. The first is for us all to go down to Court Manor as soon as ever you like. The second is for me to paint your portrait and your friend's—Margery Daw. Does that please you, my darling?"

Lady Enid raised her hands to her eyes—her face was hidden. She made no reply, and her brother leaned over her and kissed her tenderly.

"My sweet Enid!" he murmured. "My poor little one. How selfish I have been!"

Lady Enid let her hands drop. "Selfish—you selfish, Nugent! How can you say so, when by this very proposal you sacrifice your own wishes?" No, my dear brother; I cannot accept it."

"But it is my wish, Enid. It will be like a glimpse of peace to see the old place; and, back in her own nest, my darling will grow stronger, please Heaven."

Lady Enid's face had grown a shade paler, her lips were trembling.

"Nugent," she said, slowly, "I will go; but, first, will you do something for me?"

"Anything on earth!"

"Then, dear, I wish you to visit Drake Park and Hohen before we start for the manor. It is our duty, indeed, Nugent. Think, you have not been near your property for so long that the tenants do not even know you. Will you do so?"

"But I thought you would like to go straight to the manor," the earl said, slowly.

"I would rather wait and go with you, dear, and then we can commence the portraits without further delay. I shall be so glad to have a picture of my sweet Margery. Ah, here she is. What plots have you two conspirators been hatching? Come, confess!"

"Do they not please you?" inquired Margery, kneeling for an instant beside her.

"Please me? Nothing on earth could give me greater pleasure, but I want Nugent to postpone the journey till his return from the country."

The earl moved to the window, and was standing with folded arms. His face wore a puzzled, almost distressed expression.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THAT BLESSED FILE.

What a joy any kind of system is, once it gets itself established in one's life.

Do you keep a file of any sort? If you do, you don't see how anyone can get along without one. If you don't, you probably can't see what any ordinary person not in business wants with a file.

Before And After Taking.

I am in that second stage now. I used to be in the first. Perhaps an attempt at a word picture of myself before and after taking will help you to understand what some sort of file means to an ordinary person.

Before taking.

Me, about to oil the typewriter:

"Has anyone seen those documents for oil the typewriter? It seems to me I put them in the dictionary, but I can't find them. In the secretary drawer? No, I've looked there. Oh dear, I don't know what I shall do. This machine is sticking terribly and I haven't the least idea how to oil it."

Me, about to go up to the library:

"I wish I knew some really good books to get. I copied down some books out of that article I read, but I can't find where I put it."

The Last Snapshot.

Me, to visitor while I rummage over the odds and ends in my desk: "I thought I had that snapshot that Katherine sent me of herself and the five children. I know you'd love to see it, but it isn't here. I don't see where I could have put it."

After taking.

Me, about to start down town. "I must take that prescription for my glasses. Where is it? Oh yes, business of taking down file and turning to index, "right here under P in Prescriptions and Directions."

Me, watching a card trick performed by my young nephew: "Wait a minute and I'll show you another one you can teach the boy who taught you that." Business of consulting file under Tricks. I have tricks, games, etcetera. All the amusing little tricks and catches you hear and forget I jot down there, and find them very good stock in trade for a difficult group or a dull evening.

Something Good To Read.

Me, when my friend says: "I wish I knew of something good to read."

"Wait a minute. I've got a list I made while Elsie was here. She's always up on all the new books." Business of consulting file.

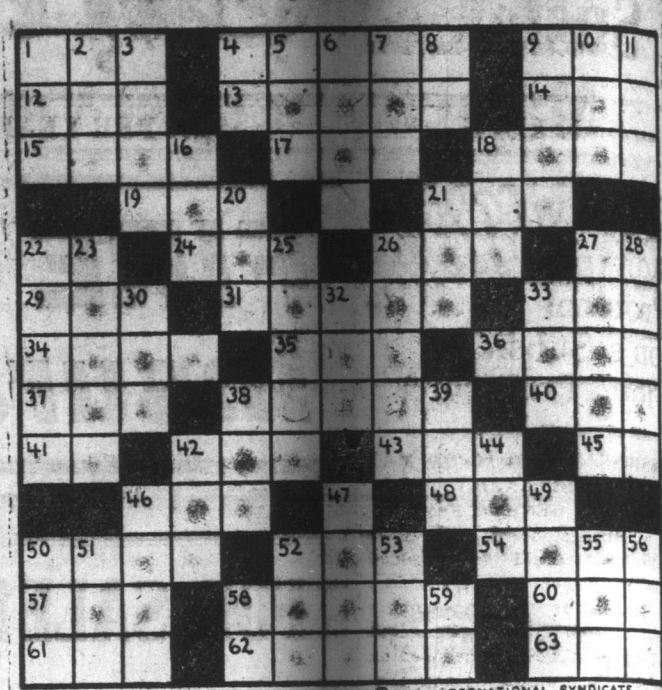

Of course the precise way you will make of the different sections of your file, or card catalogue, or whatever system you use, depends on your interests and your daily routine.

Some of the other headings in mine are Snapshots of Friends, Addresses of Interesting Places to Go, Health and Beauty Stuff, The Some-day House, Addresses of Business Firms, Odds and Ends which mean a few memoranda and letters I can't bear to throw away.

I am naturally one of the most unsystematic people the Lord of a universe whose first law is order ever created. But every time I do manage to establish a bit of system I am undyingly grateful to myself, and so enthusiastic that I feel I am about to become absolutely systematic and orderly in every respect.

But somehow I never have yet.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

SOLUTION OF MONDAY'S PUZZLE

WOMEN AND WOMEN.

WOMEN AND WOMEN.

I drove along a country lane in my tin limousine; the fields were lush with growing grain, the grass and leaves were green, and all I saw seemed safe and sane, with sunshine in between. But when I reached Kyoga Falls, a hamlet in the mists, I saw a dame in overalls, who wrestled with a tire; I heard her make some frantic calls for help, in trouble dire. "Why don't you stop?" my aunt exclaimed, "and help that female there? She looks as though her arms were lamed, and grease is in her hair; for fierce endeavour, you were frayed, and you have strength to spare." I said: "She dresses like a man, she looks like one who'd say that modern woman surely can beat man at work or play; so let her follow up her plan, and fix her busted dray. When woman played a woman's games, and woman's dress displayed, I'd gladly wade through mud or flames to give her timely aid, but I won't help distressed dames in mannish garb arrayed." So I drove on with haughty mien a paragon or two; the sun was shining, bright, serene, on everything in view; and then my blamed old limousine went dead, and would not chug. I labored with my wrench and jack, I pried things with my lyre, I sprained my wrists and broke my back and patched them up with wire; and then that dame came up the track, the one who changed a tire. She heard me pray, she saw me weep, she took the tools away, and roused the motor from its sleep, fixed up my broken dray; and I was feeling then so cheap I had no word to say.

A wide belt of pierced suede is worn on a frock of crepe satin, bound and appliqued with contrasting fabric.

In Paris they wear wrinkled, elbow-length black gloves with gowns of cerise or granatium color.

Inflation Will Not be Permitted by Herriot Administration--No Discussion of Peace Protocol Until September W. T. Preston's Subsidizing Scheme Denounced--Floyd Collins is Dead.

DISCUSSIONS ON PROTOCOL MAY BE POSTPONED.

GENEVA, Feb. 16. That all discussions of the Geneva Peace Protocol should be postponed until the September assembly of the League of Nations was the opinion expressed by M. M. Franco, President of the Council at the opening of the initial meeting of the new Disarmament Commission here to-day.

FRANCE TO MAINTAIN FINANCIAL PROBITY.

PARIS, Feb. 16. Premier Herriot, in explaining the Government's financial policy to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, declared emphatically against any inflation. Cost what it may, he said, France must maintain her reputation for financial probity. She must resist all temptations to abandon the policy of avoiding inflation.

GOVERNMENT DEFEATS ATTACK.

LONDON, Feb. 16. The Government was victorious in the House of Commons to-night against the first Opposition attack on its general policy when, by a vote of 235 to 145 it defeated Ramsey MacDonald's resolution declaring that the Government was not to be allowed to revise its safeguarding of industries duties must lead to a system of general tariffs.

COOK ATTACKS HODGES.

LONDON, Feb. 16. A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, has delivered a violent attack upon Frank Hodges, former Secretary of the Federation, from the platform of the Labour Party. Hodges was a member of the Ramsay MacDonald Cabinet, but has returned to the Labour Party, though he is now likely to become the first paid secretary of the International Miners' Federation. Hodges has been preaching modern methods and abandonment of propaganda. "Hodges is a traitor and playing a traitor's game," declared Cook. "I am who uses the Capitalist press and refused to use the Labour press might not to belong to the Labour Party."

RAIDERS TAKE $1,500 IN HOLD UP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. Three masked men, armed with revolvers, held up a Greek cabaret, 471 West 23rd St. this morning, and snatched $1,500, taken from fifteen men and women patrons in that place.

SCHOONER SUNK IN COLLISION.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 16. A schooner, Gloucester, Mass., with 30 thousand pounds of fresh halibut on board, was struck by the tugboat, Republic, 99 tons, owned by the Cape Breton Company, was struck on the port bow at eight o'clock last night by an unidentified three-masted schooner. Forty minutes later the Gloucester sank to the bottom. Sixteen of her crew of eighteen are known to have been away from the sinking schooner in four dories, five minutes after the collision, but it is not known if Capt. Peter Dunphy, and one man, Samuel, were among the number. Of the four dories known to have got away, three reached the life saving station.

"Painful, back,--For two or three days every night I would have such pains in my back and sides that I could not do anything--could not even lie quietly in bed, and my head ached, too. I was this way about three years, but was worse after I got married. I was on a farm with a house nearer than five miles and there was not a person to advise me, so my folks lived in Manitoba. My sister-in-law told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took her advice and have been thankful for it ever since. ## Charing Cross New Bridge

"The disappearance of the Charing Cross railway bridge, and its replacement by a memorial road bridge worthy of the position are no longer the mere dreams of a few," says the Observer. "They are coming events in full sight and advancing steadily. Recently a deputation from four representative societies, including the Royal Institute of British Architects, waited on the Bridge Committee of the London County Council in order to protest against the mis-application of public funds to the erection of a worse than unnecessary bridge across the Thames by St. Paul's. That scheme is fortunately dead, or, at least, moribund. The deputation therefore wisely turned to constructive suggestions."

Believed Lost With All Hands.

PRINCE RUPERT, Feb. 16. It is assumed by the Provincial Police here that the auxiliary schooner Haysport No. 2, under charter to M. P. Polson, Vancouver, to take gasoline and explosives to Skagway, founded with a crew of four about January 24th, near Ivory Island, in Mill Bank Sound. The schooner has been overdue for several days and part of her deck cargo was picked up near Ivory Island.

ROUGH ON PRESTON.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. "A barnacle on the ship of state," was the way Donald Sutherland, Conservative, South Oxford, characterized W. T. Preston, author of the now famous Preston report on the North Atlantic Shipping combine. Sutherland had vigorously opposed the appointment and accused Preston of having a shady political past.

THE KLAN IN ONTARIO.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 16. Acting on behalf of C. Raymond Larson, engineer, and Carlton B. McCowan, operator, J. R. Code, local barrister, has applied to the City Registry office for and has been granted registration of two fraternal societies, one known as the Invisible Empire Knights of Klux Klan of the Dominion of Canada, and the other Hidden Knights of the Midnight Sun of the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Code received word to-day that objection to the registration had been made and that it might be necessary to apply for letters of incorporation. Rumors of Klan activity in Ontario have been circulating for some time, but this is the first definite movement made for its registration as a society.

DEAD.

HALIFAX, Feb. 16. (Flash)--Collins is dead.

NEWFOUNDLANDER DROWNED.

YARMOUTH, N.S., Feb. 16. The crew of the schooner Republic, sunk in collision with an unknown tern schooner off Cape Sable Island last night, arrived here to-night and will sail for Boston on their way home to Gloucester. One of the members of the crew was Joseph Dalton, hailing from Newfoundland. No trace of the tern schooner has been reported but it is not believed she suffered serious damage. The Republic sank in forty minutes. She was en route to Gloucester with a load of fish. The crew landed in small boats at Cape Sable Island and Shag Harbour. The collision occurred at night three miles off shore. Captain Peter Dunphy of Gloucester, and Samuel Cole, Newfoundland veteran of the Spanish-American war, were drowned when the fishing schooner Republic was rammed and sunk.

Laughing at the Centuries

After being in use since the reign of Queen Elizabeth, the gates of Exeter Ship Canal have just been removed to Exeter Museum.

Similar relics are to be found in museums all over the country, but few people realize how many of our surviving examples of ancient workmanship are still in actual use.

For instance, there is an ancient stone weir, dating from about 1100, which was adapted a few years ago to drive the machinery which supplies Chester with electricity.

Even older than this is the Foss Dyke, in Lincolnshire, which was cut by the Romans, and is still in use as a canal.

Employers Offer to Share Profits

SUGGEST SCHEME AS ALTERNATIVE TO BRITISH SHIPBUILDERS' DEMANDS.

LONDON, Feb. 2. (Associated Press)--The British Shipbuilding Employers' Federation has made an offer to the two chief workers' unions, to fix wages on a profit-sharing basis, as an alternative to the men's demands, which the employers rejected on the ground of the unprecedented depression from which the industry is suffering, says the Westminster Gazette.

The proposal contains an offer to place the fullest information at the workers' disposal, even permitting their accountants to examine the figures. The only parallel for this offer is the scheme of profit-sharing in the mining industry, inaugurated some time ago.

The newspaper expresses hope that the proposal, if adopted, will lead to a revival of the shipbuilding industry, the decline of which has been one of the most startling features of Great Britain's industrial history since the war.

Disasters Caused by Dust

FREAK EXPLOSIONS IN MINES AND MILLS.

An explosion which occurred during a fire at Burton-on-Trent was caused by gases given off by stored grain after water had been poured upon it. In certain circumstances many ordinary substances become violently explosive.

Some years ago there was a terrific explosion in the famous Say sugar refinery near the Orleans Station in Paris. The whole of the first floor blew up with a noise like thunder and forty-two people were injured. The explosion is said to have been caused by a spark from a dynamo which ignited the fine sugar dust suspended in the air.

That organic dust suspended in dry air can form an explosive mixture is now a well-recognized fact, so much so that the law of this country insists upon dry coal pits being watered at stated intervals.

Big Bangs.

Mills in which flour or malt is ground are always danger spots. In 1872 the Tradeston Flour Mills in Glasgow were the scene of an explosion which killed twelve people. A few years later the Washburn Corn Mills in Minneapolis blew up with a loss of eighteen lives.

The liability of dust to explode was not known at that time, but a few years later a similar disaster at a candy factory near New York proved its cause. A workman who was carrying a tray of starch on his head stumbled and threw a quantity of dust over a stove. The air in the neighbourhood was laden with starch dust, and the whole place went up like a powder mill.

An explosion which did $50,000 worth of damage occurred on the premises of the Ipswich Milling Company, and this again was caused by fine dust and dry air mingling in the requisite proportions. There was a similar explosion in a malt-grinding works, while near Waterloo Station, London, the premises of an oatmeal manufacturer were badly damaged in the same way.

A New Wireless Wonder

Wireless valves, it has been discovered, can be used to melt masses of steel into white-hot liquid. This discovery was revealed by Dr. C. H. Desch, Dean of the Faculty of Metallurgy at the University of Sheffield.

"Two years ago, said Dr. Desch, "nobody would have dreamed of wireless valves being used for furnaces, but within a few months there will be furnaces in Sheffield worked by these valves."

"Furnaces have actually been built in which the motive power for melting the metal is supplied by large thermionic valves, which are of special use in the manufacture of certain nickel alloys."

It was explained that a 200-volt direct current is passed into the valves, which convert it into alternating current of extremely high frequency—much higher, in fact, than can be obtained from a mechanical generator of alternating current. This current is passed through the metal, which may be said to melt itself.

"The melting metal," Dr. Desch added, "is often far hotter than the crucible in which it is being heated. A piece of Swedish iron was melted in this way before the crucible in which it was contained was thoroughly warm."

The Time is Not Yet

Recently it was stated by the Trade Review that a Major J. A. Green was organizing an immigration scheme whereby 45,000 people would be brought out from England to settle on the land in the district of Bay St. George. Major Green, the article continued, had returned to England to complete his arrangements for sending out the first contingent of immigrants in the spring. The Board of Trade Report also referred to the project and commented favourably upon it.

Enquiries at the Agriculture and Mines Department have failed to throw any light on the scheme, and consequently it must be concluded that it is in the nature of a private enterprise, but the fact that the Government have not been consulted in the matter is somewhat peculiar, and before anything further is done, it would be as well for the authorities to ask the promoters for full particulars.

It is not our intention to throw cold water on any scheme undertaken to help develop the country. A practical proposition whereby new blood, provided it is of the right stock, could be introduced would be welcome, but first we must be satisfied as to who are behind the project, and secondly, what their chances are of carrying it through successfully.

The intention of these settlers, apparently, is to engage in farming, which, as far as the soil and climatic conditions are concerned, should be a successful venture, but there are other factors which must be taken into account, and unfortunately at present they are non-existent. We refer to the lack of markets for the produce and the lack of transportation facilities.

In one of the best Agricultural Reports ever produced by the Department, Hon. Dr. Campbell in 1919 valued the potatoes imported into the country at $115,651 and hay at $120,896—war prices. Other imported crops to which he referred, and which he pointed out should be raised locally, were oats, cabbages, turnips, carrots, parsnips and beet. Mangels also, it was recommended, should be more extensively cultivated. The Report deals as well with the raising of livestock, and although both the statistics given and the comments made on our agricultural possibilities indicate that we could undertake considerably more extensive operations, there is nothing to suggest that conditions warrant the influx of a large body of farm settlers.

The fact cannot be overlooked that at present the available markets for supplies are limited. With the exception of St. John's, Grand Falls, and the Humber, there are few settlements in which the consumption is much greater than the amount raised locally. Some day perhaps when industrial centres have sprung up in connection with the development of our mineral resources, there will be ample opportunities for extensive operations. The utmost that can be done to-day is to encourage people to put an end to the importation of produce, which can and should be raised locally. Surely no one will claim that 45,000 more farmers, or for that matter, a tenth of that number, could be provided with a living by raising what the imported amount represents!

To bring a large body of ex-military and naval officers here under present conditions would be to court disaster. Unfamiliar with the peculiarities of soil and climate, ignorant of the cost of living in Newfoundland, unfamiliar, many of them, with the first principles of farming or the natural difficulties which would have to be overcome before the land would be ready for cultivation, they would find themselves in a serious situation unless they were financially in a position to live on their means for several years. It is not as though there were other forms of employment to which they might turn when the enterprise failed. There are none. Year after year we have a large number of people seeking work, and there is nothing for them to do, and it would be most unwise to permit of any scheme being carried out whereby our army of unemployed was increased. Further it would be most unfair to the immigrants themselves to bring them out on a wild goose chase.

If there are men in the Old Country who, possessed of independent means, feel inclined to come out here and start farming, they will be warmly welcomed, and we can assure them they will find in Bay St. George in particular every inducement that any country can offer to prospective settlers. The more of such men the better, but to those of limited means, men who are looking for a quick return on their investments, we would say that the time is not yet in Newfoundland.

"Arizona Cowboy" a Great Success

WILL BE REPEATED TO-NIGHT.

The comedy drama "An Arizona Cowboy" which has already had such a successful run in the city, was re-produced at Canon Wood Hall last evening to a good audience. The performance was witnessed by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardice, His Lordship Bishop White, Rev. A. Tulk and Rev. J. E. Elliott, all of whom were received by the members of the Orphanaid Club. The performance was on a line with the former productions, all the principals giving splendid interpretations of their parts. Between the acts there was an exhibition of club swinging by Mr. J. Morgan, a recitation by Mr. Bert Colton and a song by Mr. Fred King, besides selections from the C.L.B. Band, all of which added much to the evening's pleasure. The play will be repeated for the last time to-night, and a large audience is hoped for. There will be new specialties and the Mount Cashel Band will be in attendance. The proceeds are being devoted to construction work at the C. of E. Orphanage.

Rosalind in Port

S.S. Rosalind arrived in port at 8 o'clock last evening from New York and Halifax, bringing the following passengers:—Richard Tobin, Claire Kane, Wesley Parsons, Fenwick Crane. Seven passengers came second cabin. On the passage from New York the ship was delayed by fog, but from the Canadian port to here fine weather was experienced, and consequently there was no delay. The Rosalind brought a large cargo and mail.

Awards in Dr. Chase's Almanac Contest

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—The results in the Dr. Chase Almanac contest for 1924 were announced here to-day, the judges awarding three of the nineteen prizes to Newfoundland: 1st, to Miss Florence Miller, Topsail; 2nd, to Mr. Thomas Humphries, St. John's; and 3rd, to Samuel Vatcher, Deer Island. The prizes will be taken to Newfoundland by Gerald S. Doyle, the firm's representative, who is now in Toronto, and will be presented to the winners personally. This is the second year that Newfoundland gained the distinction of first place in this international known contest.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Feb. 16th.—This morning it rained so hard, though it was cold yesterday, that I am now convinced that the spring is come, and if it be so is the earliest breaking up of the winter in the memory of most men now living. Up and abroad, and the walking beyond all comment, being that the streets are like glass, and covered with filth, so that I take the greatest care to prevent myself from falling. That part of the towns where I was this day rife with rumours of divers kinds, being the usual thing before the opening of the House. Among other things a tale of a petition circulated to seek the nomination of a prominent politician in the event of a bye-election in the East End of the city, which I do not think will be held this year. So also divers names mentioned for the new seats in the Legislature, being now 3 of them vacant, and among others, a well-known news writer named for one of them. A great diversity of opinion on the proposed Bill to give the vote to the women, and not all the members of the House do favour it, albeit most think the Bill will pass, and like to be somewhat similar to the English Bill. It is given out this day that Mr. Cahill will move the appointment of a committee to draft an Address in Reply, and Mr. Browne will be the second. The debate on this subject will not like to last much over the full session, so the House may get down to business without loss of time. This night a despatch out of Halifax telling how Collins, the man that was buried alive in the Kentucky Caves, is now dead, and was imprisoned more than a score. This business, at first thought to be a hoax, but the news of his death would seem to disprove it.

Take Care on Quidi Vidi

Owing to the long period of mild weather and the amount of water that has been running into the pond, the ice in places on Quidi Vidi is in a dangerous condition, and those who resort there should take every care. On Sunday two young girls who went through the ice received nothing more than a sticking owing to the presence of mind of those who were near at hand, and yesterday more by good luck than good management another victim was extracted from a similar predicament.

Capt. Stevenson Heard From

By last English mail a letter was received by the Management of the Railway from Capt. L. Stevenson, of his safe arrival in Holland. At the time of writing Capt. Stevenson had written a letter to state in connection with the building of the new steamer, other than that the keel had been laid on the 22nd. The ship is expected to be launched by the end of May.

ATTENTION, TROUTERS! Passenger car will be attached to freight train, leaving Railway Depot 7 p.m. to-day, Tuesday, to accommodate troutermen for points as far as Whitbourne. Car will also be attached to freight train leaving Whitbourne about 7 p.m. Wednesday and pick up troutermen returning to St. John's. Feb. 17.

Government Boats

Argyle left Argentina 4 o'clock this morning. Glencoe left St. Jacques 5.30 p.m. yesterday, going west. Kyle left Port aux Basques at 10 a.m. with thirty first class passengers on board. Portia left St. Mary's last night, and is due in port to-day.

Personal

Mrs. Gordon J. Oke will be at home to her friends at her residence, 123 Quidi Vidi Road, on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 3 to 4 p.m. By S.S. Rosalind, sailing to-morrow night, Sir Richard and Lady Squires, with their family, will proceed to Boston. Sir Richard's family, it is understood, will reside in Boston for the remainder of the winter, whilst he proceeds to the Mediterranean fish markets in the interests of a northern concern.

Mrs. W. M. Butt left to-day's express to visit her father's who is very ill at Elliston.

We are glad to learn that, although still confined to his house, Rev. Canon Bolt is considerably improved.

Mr. Patk. James, who has resigned from the service of the Bank of Nova Scotia, went out to Brigus by yesterday evening's train.

Hon. M. S. Sullivan is a passenger by the incoming express.

Dr. H. F. and Mrs. Cowperthwaite, who have been on a short visit to Sydney, N.S., are returning by the express.

Mr. J. A. MacKenzie entered hospital yesterday to have a slight operation performed.

Mr. Alex. Ledingham, Assistant Inspector of Fisheries, is a passenger by the express from Halifax.

Capt. T. Bonia underwent a successful operation at the General Hospital yesterday for the removal of a cataract from his eye.

J. J. Whelan's Store will be open to-morrow from 9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. Watered Fish will be for sale. As no orders will be delivered, customers will have to send or call for same.—Feb. 17.

Opening Trepassey Branch Railway

At 1.25 p.m. yesterday an engine with push plow attached left the city to open up the Trepassey branch railway. Good progress was made up to Petty Hr. last night, when operations were discontinued until this morning. The management of the railway are hoping to have the line opened up as far as Renewa within a few days, so that the regular schedule can be started about the end of the week. The road men report that ice is frozen hard to the rails in places and this makes the work all the more difficult.

Legislature Opens To-Morrow

The second session of the Twentieth General Assembly opens to-morrow at 3 p.m. We understand that the motion for the appointment of a committee to draft an Address in Reply will be moved in the Assembly by C. J. Cahill, M.H.A. for Harbor Main, and seconded by W. J. Browne, B.A., B.Sc., M.H.A. for St. John's West. Among the legislation foreshadowed is a redistribution bill, a Highways Commission Bill, Motor Control Bill, a Bill to incorporate Outport Municipalities, a Bill for the Revision of the Companies Act, it is rumored that the Prime Minister will introduce the Woman's Franchise Bill as a private measure. In addition the proposals in connection with the Labrador Boundary dispute will be considered by the House.

Will Appear on Thursday

A communication received from the Harbor Grace Committee in reference to the dispute with the United Towns Electric Co. is unavoidably held over to-day and will appear on Thursday.

Trainman Replies to Engineman

Editor Evening Telegram
 Dear Sir:—I shall allow me a little of your valuable space to tell "Engineman" that in my opinion he has tumbled his remarks. We all know what he is getting at, but the fact remains that the Management's findings are correct. It is in very poor policy to switch it on the other fellow, and who wants anything from the well stock-ed leader on a 12 mile run? I'd be long sorry to knock the head and man, but when a fellow in defence of enginemen hits rear end—although that's an everyday occurrence—it is time someone pulled the air. And if the Management takes him at his word and puts him to the test, well, good jobs are scarce. It is a pity for enginemen to stick to his subject and not cast reflections on men who are just as anxious as he is to have the road clear.

Yours respectfully,
 TRAINMAN.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

SOUTHERN EUROPE IN GRIP OF A BLIZZARD.

LONDON, Feb. 16. For the past 24 hours a large section of Europe, including Italy, the Bavarian Alps, portions of Austria, France, Switzerland, Portugal and Spain as well as Morocco have been visited by snow storms, and gales of extraordinary character approaching tornado force. Communications are down in all directions and details are not available, but no casualties have been reported.

RESCUERS FIND COLLINS' LIFE-LESS BODY.

CAVE CITY, KENTUCKY, Feb. 16. Sappers reached the spot in Sandstone Cave, where Floyd Collins, cave explorer, has been imprisoned for 17 days by a fall of stones and earth, only to find the man dead. He is believed to have died 24 hours before the rescuers reached him.

ESTIMATES TABLED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. The main estimates providing for an expenditure of $3,420,365,976 during the coming fiscal year were tabled in the House of Commons by J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance to-night. This is a reduction of $6,993,279 from the total estimates voted for 1924-25 for similar services.

BRITISH HELP TO MOROCCO LEADER DENIED.

LONDON, Feb. 16. Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, questioned in the House of Commons to-day regarding reports that British sources had rendered assistance to Abdel Krim, leader of the Moroccan rebels, and the British Government has supported these reports, made an emphatic denial. "His Majesty's Government sympathizes with the Spanish Government in the difficulties confronting them in Morocco," said Mr. Chamberlain, "and have consistently refused and will continue to refuse any continuance of relation or communications between British subjects and Abdel Krim."

ELEVATOR CONSTRUCTION VOTE.

OTTAWA, (By Can. Press.) Provision for elevator construction at Halifax and Prince Rupert is made in the main estimates tabled by Hon. James A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, to-night. For the former the sum of $75,080 is asked and for the latter the sum of $500,000.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN DISAGREE ON MANUFACTURE OF ARMS QUESTION.

GENEVA, Feb. 16. France and Great Britain were in discord on the question of putting forward an international project for the control of the private manufacture of arms. France cited Germany as one reason for going on immediately, and Great Britain cited the United States as one reason for putting off all idea at the present of concocting an international conference. No decision was reached and the question will be taken up again to-morrow. The discussion took place at the inaugural session of the League's new Disarmament Commission which included representatives of the countries on the Council, Military experts, Economic and Financial Experts and Delegates from Labor and Capital. M. Boncour argued for immediate preparations for a conference because France desired to see the League of Nations fortified in its Covenant calling for action in the problem of the private manufacture of arms.

CANADA TAKES COUNT OF HER ARREARS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17. Arrears of revenue to the United States for 1922-24 which is increase of more than $25,000,000 over the previous year, according to a preliminary report of George Gonthier, Auditor General, for the year ended March 31, 1924. Mr. Gonthier states some arrears accrued 15 to 20 years ago.

AVAILANCE OVERTAKES COTTAGE.

During the storm yesterday there was enormous avalanche in the Morone Valley near the village of Prestone. A hut in which workmen were sleeping was overwhelmed and four men killed. Seven were injured and taken from debris and it is feared others are buried.

SCHOLARSHIPS ANNOUNCED.

The establishment of twenty $3000 fellowships for British graduate students, unmarried, and not over 30, at Universities in the United States was announced here to-day by directors of the Commonwealth Fund, the organization administering the funds.

FEDERAL PENSION FUNDS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17. An amount of $34,154,073 pensions is provided in the main estimates tabled last evening in the House of Commons. This is an increase of $1,000,000. The provision made last year of a total of

Radiology

(By DR. HAM.)

Two stages of the transformer coupled audio frequency amplification is sufficient for genuine enjoyment of a good broadcast programme. True you can add a stage of "Push Pull." These two tubes in parallel, each taking half of the load will permit greater output without overloading. This is the output that may be heard by loudspeaker unless the policy arrives in time to save it. If you put distortion into a push pull amplifier you will get discordance out.

Resistance coupled audio frequency amplification is again better revived in an effort to do away with some of the distortion we now get with transformer coupling. It takes three in volume two stages of transformer coupled, and the resistance coupled is harder on "B" batteries. One stage of transformer, and two stages of resistance coupling seem to be the solution for quality. There was a time when big volume from the loud speaker was considered the sole criterion of radio merit, but that day is gone, and radio fans now want quality not volume.

Your radio diagram may be harder to solve than a cross word puzzle. You should not only solve it but learn it by heart. The amateur who builds his receiver without first learning his diagram may be conducting a costly experiment. "Safety First."

A male voice is richer in harmonics than a female voice, and is better for broadcasting. Some orchestral instruments sound better over the radio than others. Generally speaking the deeper toned instruments sound best. Deep toned ones like the piano or organ fare worst.

Grand Bank Notes

Winter is about to take its departure. Its pale, icy features are already beginning to change, and the earth from her peaceful slumber. Her covering of snow is gradually disappearing and soon the voice of Spring will soon bid her begin her work of restoration. And just as we expect to wait for the coming of Spring with its sunshine in flower, so do we hope for the coming of prosperity, and long for another chance to take advantage of the gifts that land and sea provide for us.

Still winter has its work to perform, and it has given us our winter pleasures and enjoyments. For the past few weeks the pond has been a scene of industry for the business firms have been putting in their supply of goods for the summer. This has given employment to a large number of men, one firm alone putting in as much as eight hundred blocks in one week.

The woodmen have been taking the last stage of the good driving to get their wood for the summer. All other departments of life have been functioning normally.

Sunday, Jan. 25th, was observed as Thanksgiving Day in the Methodist Church. A spirit of thanksgiving seemed to possess the people. The church, which is always well attended, was filled. The services were inspiring. The pastor, Rev. Ira Curtis, in his usual good form, and interpreted the meaning of thanksgiving and that real giving consisted in, not the giving of our money to the point of sacrifice, but, more than that, the giving of ourselves on the altar of service in the service of God and man. The thanksgiving collection amounted to $1005.59.

The annual school celebration took place on Feb. 5th, and although weather conditions were unfavourable, the assembly was crowded. While dinner and tea was being served a very interesting programme was being carried out. In the afternoon a school concert was very successfully followed by a pie-eating contest, a basket ball etc. The last item on the day's programme was a debate by the G.B. on the subject being: Resolved that the Government should pay a bounty on all fish caught. The speakers for the Affirmative were Messrs. A. Buffet, Max Dunford and Const. The Negative side of the question was upheld by Messrs. Wm. Forster & A. Gill and H. G. Harris. The affirmative speakers maintained that the fisherman who is the greatest taxpayer of the country, is taxed to produce nearly every other industry of the country and it is only fair that he should be recompensed by the Government. They quoted Canada, the States and France in support of their view. The main contention of the negative was that the country could not afford the expenditure and that a reduction in taxation would benefit the country. They condemned protection and class legislation as being detrimental to the best interests of a country. The negative won with a great majority. The proceeds of the day amounted to $1010.50.

The rink has proved to be a source of enjoyment to a great many of our young people who have passed many enjoyable hours there. The ice has been in good condition until the past few days. We are still looking forward to a few days of good skating before the season closes.

Although the poor service of the mail boats has isolated us somewhat, still each boat brings some pleasure to our town.

At the present time Mr. C. Forsey, manager of the Epworth Trading Company is here on a visit to his parents. Also Mr. J. Porter who is managing a business at Lamaline is here for a short stay with his relatives.

Mr. Merrill Tibbo who was on a business trip to St. John's returned by the last boat.

We regret to say that the Rev. Ira Curtis, Methodist Minister, has been taken ill and is leaving for St. John's for the Portia for treatment. We hope that his normal condition may be speedily restored, and we may soon have him with us again.

Valentine Dance

The Valentine dance at Columbus Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies Association, was attended by nearly 100 couples, and all spent a most enjoyable night. The hall was splendidly decorated for the occasion and the music was furnished by the Prince's Orchestra.

A Valentine Dance which was on the programme, was a splendid feature and the prizes were won by Mr. Cecil Salter and Miss M. Jackman, whilst the elimination dance was won by J. Darcy and Miss A. Kelly. During the interval for supper, a special Orchestra from Terra Nova Council played extra dances in a very acceptable manner. For those who did not dance a card party was held, and was much enjoyed. The auction prizes were won by W. Murphy and Mrs. M. Juffy, and the bridge prize by Mrs. Dixey. Supper was served at eleven o'clock. This is the last dance of the association before Lent.

QUARTER MILLION IN BELMONT

NAGS GO TO HARRIMAN.

The twenty horses the late August Belmont had in training at Belmont Park probably will have a new home by this afternoon. W. Averell Harriman, young financier and sportsman, has agreed to buy them for a quarter of a million dollars. Mr. Harriman made the offer for the horses before he sailed for France a week ago and his representatives will probably close the deal at once. As soon as the heirs decided to sell, Harriman made known his desire to buy all the horses which could race this year.

Not being a breeder, Harriman did not want Ordinance, which was sold last Friday to Mrs. Payne Whitney for a price said to be $60,000.

Among the horses in the deal is Ladkin, the 4 year old son of Fair Play, which beat Epiphany in the second international race last year. He was valued by the Belmont family at $100,000. Two others are Blind Play and Lucky Play, both 4 year olds, and said to be worth at least $15,000. The remainder of the lot are youngsters which never raced.

One of the juveniles, a golden chestnut, son of Fair Play, is being heralded by trainers as a wonder colt. His name is Chance Play.

PROWESS OF FINN SUPER-ATHLETES $10,000,000 AD.

Finland's prowess in the world of athletics to-day is worth no less than $10,000,000 to her. This rating was given the little country by Wall St., as a new feature to the visit of Paavo Nurmi, champion Finnish runner.

Athletic achievements in the Olympic games at Paris, in meets in Chicago and New York by the little hand of Fins, captained by Nurmi, have given Finland more advertising than her declaration of independence.

People sought to know more about the small republic that produces such sturdy, courageous men as Nurmi, Rittila, Sivasvuo. Thousands of enquiries have been made at the Finnish consular offices in this country, and to the Minister of Finland at Washington.

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank, sponsor of three recent Finnish loans, was decorated with the Order of the White Rose, Finland's most honored decoration.

Leonard Astrom, a Minister of the Republic of Finland, came to America to make the bestowal.

Campana's Italian Balm is a soothing, healing lotion for chapped hands, rough skin, sore lips and all chapping caused by wind or weather. For over forty-five years it has been one of the most popular Canadian toilet articles. It is also used as an application for burns, bruises and for those who do housework. It is unexcelled to keep the hands soft and white. It's delicate odor, its healing qualities and its economy makes it an invaluable household article. For men as an after shave lotion it is in a class by itself. Try a bottle to-day and be convinced. Two sizes: Price, 25 and 60 cents.

Enjoyable Dance

The dance held in the C.L.B. Gymnasium last night, under the auspices of the W. & N.C.O.'s Mess, proved a social success, and those present had an enjoyable evening. The music was supplied by the C.L.B. Orchestra, who played a programme of fifteen dances and several extra, all of which were enjoyed. Supper was served by the lady friends of the Mess. The affair concluded at an early hour this morning.

Annual Meeting

CHILD WELFARE ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Child Welfare Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Old Colony Club rooms, and was attended by a large number of members. The President, Miss Southcott, presided, and opened the meeting with a short address, referring to the work of the association during the past year. The reports of the Secretary, Treasurer, Sewing Committee, Miss Anderson, Midwifery and Emergency Hospital were then read. All told of splendid work which had been accomplished during the past year on behalf of the children of the city. Lady Allardice, who was present, was asked to address the meeting, which she did, briefly. She said when she had been asked to come to the meeting, and was told she may be asked to say something, she thought it would be easy, but after she had heard the reports she found it very difficult to say anything. All she could say would be contained in one word "wonderful". The meeting of the Child Welfare Association that she had attended shortly after coming to the country, was not a very large one, but the work had steadily grown and with it interest had increased, which was evidenced by the large number present. She was pleased with the different reports read and congratulated heartily those who had made them. The Treasurer's report especially was gratifying, as it would appear from it that the Association would soon be able to afford proper headquarters. The need for a properly equipped children's hospital is also apparent, but that is not for the Child Welfare Association to undertake, it is the duty of the country to provide it; but she felt confident if an appeal was made, it should soon be forthcoming. All the reports showed devotion and care, and splendid work and also that soon all difficulties will be able to be solved. To Miss Anderson and her nurses, a special word of praise was due for their splendid services given at much inconvenience, and, at times, hardships, especially in the winter season. Lady Allardice congratulated all the workers and she had no fear that the coming year would be even a better one than ever before.

Bovine Tuberculosis

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Kindly allow me space in your valuable journal to speak on a matter which is without doubt of growing importance to the public and to the Dairyman. That is "Bovine Tuberculosis." Some few months ago this matter was much talked of, and an Inspector was appointed by the Government to administer the Tuberculin Test, and prospects looked very good for obtaining Tubercular free herds supplying milk to the city. The matter, I am sorry to say, seemed to have dropped shortly after it started, and since the Inspector was appointed little if any testing has been done. I, as a consumer, would like to know what has caused the delay. If testing had started when the Inspector received his appointment, which was six or seven months ago, their would have been quite a percentage of cattle tested, and the work would have been well underway.

So, Mr. Editor, speaking from the standpoint of a Veterinary Surgeon, I may say that I have had a lot of experience with the Tuberculin Test, and have performed post mortems on carcasses in all stages of T.B.

When the test is performed in a careful manner and the proper technique followed, it seldom fails to give satisfactory results, and is one of the most valuable diagnostic agents we have for detecting disease in domestic animals.

There are three recognized tests, namely, Subcutaneous, Ophthalmic and Intra-dermal. The last two are used in conjunction with each other, and it is a test which for various reasons is popular. There are other tests which are used more or less in laboratory work which are of secondary importance here.

The control of this disease has always been a difficult problem because it is so prevalent, and in order to carry out the test successfully it would need the support of the stockowner. Half measures are useless, and if we are to rid our country or community of bovine tuberculosis we have got to start from the ground floor and test every beast in the community, then we will enjoy the pleasures of tuberculin free herds.

The most recent T.B. eradication policy is the "Restricted Area Plan" which is in operation in Canada at the present time, regulations being passed in December 1922. Its object is the establishment of tuberculosis free areas and all cattle are tested in a given territory. Prompt slaughter of all reactors and disinfection of premises provides a clean territory for the healthy herds. These herds are further protected from infection from outside sources by cattle not being permitted to come into the area except for immediate slaughter under certain precautions, unless they have passed an official satisfactory tuberculin test.

This is an economical way of dealing with this disease. In one district in Manitoba, which embraces twenty townships, this system was started and in the first test of all cattle in this area, numbering 16,550 head, there were 992 reactors, that being 5.97 per cent. These reactors were promptly slaughtered and the premises disinfected. The first test cost in compensation five and a half times as much as all re-tests and the annual re-test of all herds in the area combined, and there is every prospect that this area will soon be free of bovine tuberculosis.

This would be the plan that I would suggest for this community, because it is the most economical system and should receive the wholehearted support of the stockowner and also those organizations which are doing so much for the children of this community, namely, the Rotarians and Child Welfare, as well as all right thinking citizens of St. John's. Why not get busy and get this matter going and see that the public of St. John's get a square deal, and more particularly the children, who are more likely than the adults to fall victims to the disease originating from bovine T.B.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor.

Yours sincerely,

Silver Cliff Mine

ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF LONDON FINANCIAL GROUP.

Latest news received from The Silver Cliff Mine is of a most encouraging nature and it is learned that since the electric power has been installed by The United Towns Electric Co., Ltd., the production from the concentrating mill has shown excellent results. Over 100 tons of Galena Ore per week is now being run through the mill and the Management of the Company have plans in hand for more than doubling this capacity on completion of the work now being carried on in connection with the sinking of "Job's Shaft." When the desired depth is reached a new tunnel will be driven on the body of ore lying under the present workings. It is possible that a second tunnel will also be opened up from the shaft as indications point to the existence of another vein which it is proposed to work from the shaft development. The ore shoots already established are constantly improving in both capacity and quality and altogether the prospects are the most favourable since work at "Silver Cliff" commenced.

A quantity of ore from this mine, as well as a display of their concentrates, formed part of the Mineral Exhibition in the Newfoundland Pavilion at Wembley last year and as a direct result of this exhibit a group of London Financiers have, through the Nfld. representative at the Exhibition, been put in touch with the Directors of The Silver Cliff Company with a view to furnishing capital that will enable development to be carried out on a large scale.

Preliminary negotiations have, it is understood, already been commenced, and it is hoped that some satisfactory working arrangement will be the outcome. Introduction of capital to develop the natural resources of the country is something that should receive every encouragement from all interested and the Government is to

Official Report of Mr. D. James Davies, B. Sc.

The Cod Liver plant and sample were very well displayed and enquiries were received from various quarters. The West-Indian and the West-Indian on the Oils to all the children's parties around London, also to the big firms. I had long known of the big firms, and I was very glad to see them. Their work shows that our product is superior to the Cod Liver Oil of any other country. In the talks I had with some of the representatives of the big drug houses and Emulsion, I was glad to find that the fish drug manufacturers have been at last the fact that our Oil is ahead of the Norwegian product.

Many enquiries were received about the possibility of putting up fish plants in this country. There seems to be a good market for fish oil in London and the price last year was in the neighbourhood of 10s per ton. Herring Meal, prepared by Mr. Howlett, of the Department of Fisheries, was exhibited at the Exhibition.

The Seal Exhibit, which I might have mentioned under the Main Industries, is particularly interesting on account of the beautiful show of leather goods that were manufactured from seal skins. The pouches, pocket-books, bookbinders, evening shoes, were a revelation, even to many from Newfoundland. The articles were acknowledged to be equal, if not superior, to similar articles from the best Morocco leather exhibited at the Palace of Industry.

The new "Nonia" industry of Newfoundland was a very attractive exhibit and it came in for many favorable comments. The articles that should sell well, as sales counter if the prices do not exceed the prices of the Fair Is Limited articles.

First number of English sportsmen came to chat over the tourist's of Newfoundland. Many of the people used to visit Norway annually for the salmon fishing, but in recent years the Norwegian salmon fishery is getting more and more extensive and is now beyond the reach of the "New Poor" of England.

They were delighted to hear of the fishing and the comparative cheapness of a holiday in our country. One Anglo-Indian officer, who came to the West Coast during the summer, had the courtesy to write to me on his return and thank me for having put him in the way of a most delightful holiday. He has decided already to pay another visit next year.

I believe there is a future for our country in this respect, but we must have the necessary facilities. A headquarters hotel at St. John's, with small branch hotels on our sporting rivers, appears to be necessary in order to promote the tourist business, and another essential is a good fortnightly service between St. John's and Liverpool.

I do not wish to make a too lengthy report and if I have left anything out I would like to state that it has not been done intentionally.

Attached to this report you will find an additional report on the changes that we are proposing to make in our Pavilion for the Wembley Exhibition of 1925.

I have the honor to remain, Your obedient servant,

D. JAMES DAVIES, Exhibition Commissioner for Nfld. at Wembley in 1924.

NEWFOUNDLAND AT WEMBLEY FOR 1925.
The Exhibition of 1924 was opened on April the 23rd and Newfoundland, like the great majority of the other Dominions and Colonies, was not ready on the opening day, and once the doors of the Pavilion are thrown open to the public the great crowds of sightseers make it most difficult to get anything done.

In view of that I should like to emphasize upon the Government and Committee the importance of promptness and speed in getting ready any proposed changes for 1925 in good time.

I have had prepared a floor plan of our building with the spaces assigned for our new exhibits.

The 1924 Fisheries section had to be collected very hurriedly by the Committee responsible in St. John's and it was generally agreed that it was not up to the standard expected from a country like Newfoundland, whose main and staple industry is the Fisheries.

In consultation with Captain Gordon, and Mr. Turcott of Canada, I decided to scrap a good many of our wild animals and use three deep and narrow glass cases, thus freed, for a fish aquarium. This exhibit will occupy more than half of one end of our Pavilion and when they are made up on the same lines as in the case of native trout, already on show, they will prove very attractive. We should obtain as many varieties of our fish as possible in this country, but if the time at our disposal proves to be too short, I should advocate the buying of suitable fish in England.

The Committee in St. John's have made excellent arrangements for the displaying of our salt codfish for 1925 without any addition charges on the funds at their disposal.

The present Mineral exhibit will remain as it stands but I should like to suggest certain additions.

In consultation with the Manager of the Australian Pavilion I came to the conclusion that it would be advisable to impress upon the visitors to our building the idea of quantities in our Mineral section, and I have arranged for the erection of platforms (provided the idea meets with your wishes) to hold tons of Lead and Zinc Ores, and tons of Copper Ores, Slate and Coal, piled in pyramids. I have the Slate and Copper at Wembley at the present time so it will only be necessary to approach the owners of Silver Cliff and Buchanan's River Mines in order to get the Ores.

I have talked over the Armstrong, Whitworth section with Major Jennings and he will do his best to get some movement into the beautiful view of the Humber country shown at the 1924 Exhibition. Any movement in a scene of that kind is of great help in arresting the attention of the visitors.

It is proposed to have a fairly large space for a sales counter for next year where post cards, stamps, Labradorite articles, furs, fish goods, leather goods, etc., will be for sale. The Eastern Pavilions, which were on the lines of bazaars rather than Exhibitions, made a very big trade during 1924. The Committee have the new fur Exhibits already well in hand.

The Furness Withy Company hope to get a model of the new ship "Newfoundland" ready in the Pavilion for the opening day, and I would like to suggest that the Red Cross Line should have a model of one of their steamers to remind our visitors of one of the connecting links between the United States, Canada and Newfoundland.

Our exhibits consist chiefly of the natural resources of our Country and the color scheme for last year was considered to be too hard for what is bound to be a rather severe show, and I am proposing that the color scheme should be changed.

I have again consulted Mr. Turcott of Canada, in connection and he has promised his advice. We should have the color that will make our walls a suitable framework for our Natural Resources.

This work, if approved by you, should be commenced before the end of February.

I may say that the Newfoundland Government are responsible for the 1925 Exhibition.

Lord Stevenson, the Chairman of the Board, worked very hard for months to get Wembley re-opened in 1925, but all the Dominions and Colonies are sitting on the fence waiting for one another to make the first move. At last a cable came from Newfoundland that they had decided to exhibit at Wembley in 1925 and that they would pay their own expenses. Lord Stevenson, at a dinner held on the night the cable arrived, put his two arms around me and said, "Davies, your Dominion has made history once more," and he used that cable as a lever to get the other Dominions and Colonies into line. Canada soon decided, then Australia, and one by one they all came to the conclusion that Wembley was worth while for another year.

In view of our promptness in deciding on a 1925 Exhibition we should settle immediately on the proposed changes, collect our new Exhibits and get them shipped for London on the first available boat from St. John's, and we should do our very best to have our Pavilion complete and ready when the 1925 Exhibition opens its doors to the public on April the 23rd or on May 1st of the present year.

I have the honor to remain, Your obedient servant,

D. JAMES DAVIES, Exhibition Commissioner for Nfld. at Wembley for 1924.

One Bottle of Carnol relieved his weakness

Three bottles of Carnol restored him to perfect health

Don't let yourself get run down. When you do, your system is weakened and you are likely to take anything that is going. If you feel tired, depressed, weak, nervous, watch yourself. These are the warnings to you that something serious may follow. It's at a time like this that you need a tonic—something which will tone up your system, purify your blood, quiet your nerves, give you strength. This is the way Mr. Collins felt before he took Carnol. He says, "I was in a run down condition. For six months, I was very weak and suffered from loss of appetite. I tried all kinds of drugs, but without success. Then I met a friend. After stating to him my condition of health I referred to different drugs I had taken without benefit. Then he advised me to try Carnol immediately. He told me not to spend another cent for useless drugs that would not even bring temporary relief. Then I purchased one bottle of Carnol which relieved me of my weakness. After taking three bottles the blessings of health, which I formerly enjoyed, were again restored to me. As a builder and uplifter when weakening conditions exist, there is nothing equal to Carnol. I can boast of my health now. I cannot express or find words to praise Carnol for all the good it has done for me. I have proof of what it can do and advise all suffering under such conditions to give Carnol the first trial. A trial will convince you and if continued will bring permanent relief. It will bring back to you the lost health you once enjoyed."—Mr. R. G. Collins, 130 Richmond Street, Sydney, N.S.

Engine 151 recently ran away from the yard at Humbermouth, and now lies a heap of ruin over the bank of the Humber near Devil's Dancing Pit. So far as we can gather, the cleaner when leaving the engine got his overalls caught in the lever which operates the throttle. The engine started and before it could be stopped it had got beyond control. Fortunately the cleaner managed to free himself before the engine had gone far—Western Star.

The world has worried me a lot And what it's coming I don't know. I'd like to see upon the spot The blameworthy things, The shameful things, My children's children do.

I was a worry to my dad As they have been to me. He vowed he'd never get old. I've vowed the same as he. And now it is my own regret I shall not live to view The actions of the younger set, The fearful things, My children's children do!

And yet perhaps I need not wait, The future world to know My children, then, as I, will state The charm of long ago. And they will cling unto the old And shudder at the new, And shake their heads as they behold The painful things, Distasteful things, Their growing children do.

For Those Who Use Water

To the ever-lengthening list of societies formed for the purpose of promoting this or that object must now be added the National Association of Water Users, which has come into being to protect its members from the "excessive demands of water authorities."

The association has been formed in the interests of every class of water consumer, including the ordinary householder; builders and engineers whose work embodies the fitting and repairing of water pipes and fittings; manufacturers, property owners, architects and surveyors, and various public bodies, all of whom have joined as a means of removing the different evils to which they are subjected and of improving the conditions of water supply generally.

For example, many water authorities will not supply water to a house or other premises unless the fittings are of a pattern approved by them. Actually these authorities have no power to make such a stipulation, which tends to stifle invention, arrest progress, and increase the cost to the consumer. Another of the association's objects is to provide a standard of efficient fittings, so that the waste now so prevalent, as well as misuse and undue contamination, may be avoided.

Already, it is stated, the association has been instrumental in introducing reforms, not the least of which is a change for the better in the attitude of some water authorities to the consumer. The association is recognized by the Minister of Health, who has appointed a committee to investigate the whole question of water fittings and the improvement of the conditions of supply.

From Seed to Cigarette

The growing of tobacco for cigarettes is an interesting subject, for centuries of patient culture and crossing have been devoted to the evolution of the right seed. The seed is so tiny that a single tablespoonful will produce plants enough to cover ten acres. Certain growers whose crops are always of the highest excellence will not sell a single seed at any price.

Every crop is kept in the warehouse from three to five years for the purpose of "mellowing" or "sweetening" which occurs twice yearly—before the leaves are subjected to "stemming." Sand and dust that have remained are shaken out by sieves, with the result that the tobacco is 25 to 30 per cent. lighter because of the absence of the midrib and sand.

Nimble-fingered girls can make 2,500 cigarettes a day, but machines can turn out 400 finished cigarettes a minute, or 190,000 in an ordinary working day.

Big Feature and Music at the Majestic

PATRONS DELIGHTED WITH "WOMEN WHO GIVE."

If you loved a man and believed him faithful, if your own father turned him from your house, if your brother loved a girl of the fishing village and was shamed to prevent him marrying her, if the ship was wrecked and the man you loved braved death to save your brother, before you say what you would do see what the girl Emily did in Reginald Barker's "Women Who Give," a Metro picture presented by Louis B. Mayer, showing at the Majestic Theatre now.

It's the greatest thrill-drama of storm-bound love that you ever saw! With Renee Adoree, Robert Frazer, Frank Keenan, Barbara Bedford and others.

Those who saw it last night were delighted with this exceptionally thrilling photoplay. It will be repeated to-night, to-morrow afternoon and night.

A special treat in the offerings of Jacobson and Evans likewise received the warm approval of the Majestic patrons who encored and applauded vigorously the various musical and singing numbers as follows:

Prologue to "Women Who Give" (When the Bells of the Lighthouse)

Major J. Hall-Edwards, one of the first martyrs to the X-Rays, lies dangerously ill at his home at Edgbaston.

Within a few months of the discovery of the X-rays he contracted dermatitis, which necessitated the amputation of his left hand and forearm and four fingers on the right hand.

Despite this sacrifice, Major Hall-Edwards, who is a Carnegie hero, continued to work for 30 years with X-rays. In his spare time he painted landscapes.

For 20 years he was senior medical officer to the X-ray department of Birmingham General Hospital.

Crystals and Crystal Detectors

Despite the great overwhelming number of multi-tube receivers in use to-day the fact still remains that a good crystal receiver can and will do very satisfactory work and bring in a lot of "dx." We still get a thrill out of a thousand miles of "dx" on a crystal, and it can be done on a good receiver hooked up to a good antenna and a ground connection that is a ground connection.

The idea of "getting something for nothing" always appeals to everyone, and we have a fine example of how this can be done in the crystal detector radio received. We have no tube to replace, no batteries of any kind to purchase or replace or keep charged—nothing to pay for after the initial layout has been invested in.

The most important single item which enters into the construction of a crystal detector outfit is the crystal itself. There are a number of minerals which show detecting action when used in a radio receiver, but only three or four which are sensitive enough to count on for "dx." Most prominent among this vast number are "silica" and "galena." Silica requires a rather heavy contact with a piece of steel wire—piano string wire about No. 24 is admirably suited for the contact wire of a silicon detector. It is fairly sensitive and the surface of the detector is pretty well covered with sensitive points. The sensitive point of contact is not easily "burned out" by static and the pressure of the wire on the crystal is usually strong enough that the detector can stand considerable jarring before the sensitive point of the crystal is lost.

Galena (lead sulphate) is very much more sensitive, but requires a rather light contact with a fine wire. For the contact, you should use a No. 20 or No. 24 copper wire. The surface of galena is not uniformly sensitive, nor are cubes from the same piece of material always sensitive. To get a really sensitive crystal, especially galena, requires much testing of various specimens.

The crystal should be mounted in a small brass cup, a trifle larger than the crystal. The cup from the carbon of an ordinary dry cell makes an excellent container for a crystal. The crystal should be mounted in the cup by means of some low melting point metal. Woods metal, of the amalgam used by dentists, makes an ideal material to seal the crystal in the cup. Either of these metals can be melted in boiling water. In no case should solder, or any high melting point metal, be used, as the sensitivity of the crystal will be immediately destroyed.

What Great Men Have Said on Votes for Women

Pope Benedict XV.—"I would like to see women vote everywhere."

Cardinal Moran.—"The woman who says she does not want the vote and would not know how to use it is a silly creature."

The late Mr. Harding said—"The world has reason to welcome every effort looking toward large co-operations, better understanding, and the minimizing of differences and frictions. In this direction the women with their fine sense of human values, their generous purposes and their unselfish aspiration for the betterment of the race will be able to contribute much."

President Coolidge said—"Society is more and more taking counsel of all its parts. The rule of the people is being more and more extended, common welfare is the concern of all. There are some problems with which men are peculiarly fitted to deal, there are others which lie within the special province of the women. There is great opportunity for mutual benefit in mutual consultation and for mutual help through mutual sympathy."

Lord Astor, a word to my anxious brother-husbands—"When you look for a definition of the word 'home' don't use a pocket dictionary. Take the large definition you will find that the home means the homeland. If your wives take a real interest in political life you will find that they are helping make conditions better for all the people of your homeland. Let your homelands make all homes more like they should be. You can do this, like one, you have the right wife."

ARRIVED AT HALIFAX.—The ship, Union Jack, arrived at Halifax from Port-au-Prince, after a rather lengthy passage. A message to the above effect was received by Messrs. Monroe Export Company yesterday.

Astonishing Facts Of Keen Interest to Newfoundland People.

Whilst it has been an established fact that the Old English House of WM. P. HARTLEY, LTD., of Liverpool and London, England, is controlling the major portion of Newfoundland's Preserve Trade, it will no doubt be of keen interest to many to learn that even this major portion has reached an astonishing stage.

Though 1924 was a record year in the sales of Hartley's Jams, Jellies and Marmalade, 1925 has begun with even still bigger business, and present conditions point to a tremendous output during the coming months.

Stores, large and small, far and near, sell the Hartley line. Why? Simply because

Arle Marks Plays an Adorable "Brat"

IN OLIVER MOROSCO'S GREAT SUCCESS NOW AT CASINO.

A great reception was accorded the Arle Marks presentation of "The Brat" last night. The Casino being again filled to its capacity. Although we have already seen this play, it is nevertheless always new, and particularly so in its present offering, for Miss Arle Marks gives new life to the title role and literally lives the part. She has grace and charm coupled with unusual magnetism. By her winsomeness, vivacity and sense of humour she makes delightful the role of "the brat" and in the serious scenes which call for emotional work she is excellent. The role of "the brat" is filled with heart interest and delicate humour and immediately wins and holds the audience's sympathy. Lindsay E. Perrin increased his popularity by his work in this bill in the role of Steve Forrester. His acting is delightfully natural. Mac Forrester is very cleverly impersonated by Paul Brady who is exceptionally fine in this character. Ames Stutz as Mrs. Forrester is all at home in this role, in which she gives a flawless performance. Merle Scott, Peggy Logan and Susie McDonald do effective work and keep up their end of the show in good style. Paul D'Mathos as The Bishop gives a faithful portrayal of this gentleman, whilst W. L. (Billy) Phillips as Timson is excellent.

The story itself is beautifully interpreted by the above cast and is very pleasing with strong audience appeal. Then, too, there is a delightful little romance running through it which is capped off by a beautiful climax. "The Brat" with its attractively appealing story, its blending of pathos and humor, and the charm and artistry of Miss Arle Marks should prove excellent entertainment for the lover of the spoken drama.

Miss Marks and Mr. Perrin gave the audience an extra treat last night by appearing in a specialty, in the form of song and dance which was loudly applauded. Miss Merle Scott's violin selections were beautifully rendered and this together with Micky Kane's numbers were received with enthusiasm. The Scotch Lads and Lassies appeared in a new review which was well up to the usual high mark of perfection.

To-morrow afternoon there will be a matinee, for which there will be a general admission, which is advertised elsewhere in this issue.

ANNUAL TEA.—The annual tea of the C. M. B. C. will be held in the Synod Hall to-morrow evening, beginning at 6.45. The C. L. B. Band will be in attendance.

LUX

You cannot buy good woollens, good silks, good satins, good voiles, or in fact any good article unless you pay a good price.

Just as Diamonds cost more than glass beads, as gold costs more than brass, so does Lux cost more than ordinary soap flakes.

If you wish to save money, don't buy inferior soap. This play, it is, nevertheless always new, and particularly so in its present offering, for Miss Arle Marks gives new life to the title role and literally lives the part. She has grace and charm coupled with unusual magnetism. (Billy) Phillips as Timson is excellent.

Lux is made and guaranteed by Lever Brothers, Ltd., soap-makers to His Majesty King George. Lux is reliable. Lux is as pure as the most expensive toilet soap.

Wash your baby's clothing with Lux. Use Lux for washing expensive clothes, your silks, voiles, woollens, satins, crepes, etc. Lux is sold only in packages.

When you pay many dollars to get the clothing you like, it is foolish to buy inferior soap flakes which will ruin good clothing.

Lux is so pure you may use it to shampoo your hair, or in your bath. You can depend on Lux: beware of imitations, take care to get Lux, which costs only 10 cents per package.—Jan 12, 1925

"The Dark Swan" Has Wonderful Theme

A FILM NONE SHOULD MISS AT THE NICKEL.

How many have sought happiness in the glamour of youth, married women of the water type much younger than themselves, to find, eventually, that they have made a mistake.

It is not until the pollen is brushed from the gossamer wings of romance that the man's vision clears. Then he sees that his young wife seeks companionship amongst those of her own age and secretly despises him for his inability to go the pace.

How one man was disillusioned after he had cast aside the deep and true affections of a quiet and accomplished girl and married her younger foster sister, is aptly portrayed in "THE DARK SWAN," which was adapted into a Warner Bros. Screen Classic from the powerful novel by Ernest Pascal, and which is on view at the Nickel Theatre.

Louis Dike, a middle aged banker, loves Cornelia Quinn, a rather plain but interesting and secretly romantic girl. He meets Cornelia's foster sister, Eve, a sophisticated and beautiful flapper. He becomes infatuated with her and they marry. Eve becomes tired of her husband's quiet tastes and finds excitement at hilarious parties. After a hectic existence they are divorced and then Dike comes to a realization of his love for Cornelia.

The cast is headed by Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, Helene Chadwick, and includes Lilyan Tashman, Vera Lewis and Carl Miller, in addition to many other well known players.

"THE DARK SWAN" was adapted to the screen by Fred Jackson; and Millard Webb created a film classic through his masterful directing.

Drama of Lost People

THRILLING HUNTS FOR THE MISSING.

Missing! The word suggests all sorts of possibilities, and hence a great hunt is often made for a person whose whereabouts are a mystery.

A search for a youth who disappeared a few years ago was continued for nearly two months and cost more than £1,000. His description was advertised in the newspapers and on boardings, and inquiries were made at hospitals, hotels, boarding-houses, recruiting and shipping offices, and other places all over the country. Yet all the time he was in the army.

Still more comprehensive was the search for a London woman doctor whose body was ultimately discovered by chance in Richmond Park. A special feature of the efforts was the circulation of thousands of handbills among cabmen, waiters, hotel servants, and the like.

Scouring the Mountains.

On different lines was another remarkable hunt. A young farmer having disappeared from the parish of Craswell, near Hay, South Wales, search parties were organized on a large scale, and these scoured the neighbouring mountains, even going so far afield as the Brecon Beacons and the Carmarthenshire hills. All efforts, however, were unavailing. Twelve years afterwards his relatives discovered him in Exmouth Asylum. In a similar hunt eleven hundred miners spread themselves over the Aberdare Valley, and ultimately found the object of their search—a little boy—in a railway van about a quarter of a mile from his home.

To find a boy missing from the Rhondda Valley an exploration committee was formed and a fund was raised. After the search, which ended in the discovery of the boy's body on the highest peak in the Glamorgan mountains, the balance in hand was disposed of by presenting gold medals bearing appropriate inscriptions to the more prominent of the explorers.

Seventeen Hundred Searchers.

In the Merthyr Vale some years ago took place one of the biggest hunts of this kind ever known. Six hundred colliers set out in search of a boy who had disappeared. As they were unsuccessful, three hundred others took up the quest on the following day, to be succeeded by a fresh batch of eight hundred on the morrow, the services of the whole of these men representing a loss of wages of about £425. But all measures were in vain.

A house-to-house collection was then made, and with the proceeds a diver was obtained from Cardiff to search the deep pools in the Taff. Again no trace of the child was found. Twenty-one days after his disappearance, however, his body was discovered in the river.

Perhaps the greatest of all searches for the missing is one that is still in progress. It is for Ambrose J. Small, a millionaire theatre owner, of Toronto, who disappeared in December, 1919. One evening he left his office in the Grand Opera House and vanished.

30,000 Miles—for Nothing.

Since then every clue to his whereabouts has been followed up regardless of expense. Eleven months after his disappearance, for instance, a caretaker reported to the police that he had seen two men carrying something apparently heavy from a motor car to a refuse dump. This story, even if true, did not amount to much. But a steam navy was obtained, and with it every yard of ground near the place pointed out by the caretaker was turned over.

In such attempts to clear up the mystery large sums have been spent. A Toronto detective has travelled more than thirty thousand miles in tracing rumors to their source in Canada and the United States, while a short time ago negotiations were opened with a man who professed to know definitely that Mr. Small had been kidnapped.

CONCEPTION BAY ELECTION.

(By F. SHUTTLES.)

Article XXV.

GRACE, Oct. 31, 1832.

Robert Pack and James Power, accompanied by their friends, marched into Market Place in this town and, after a few minutes' stay, the two bodies took possession of the Market Place with banners flying and strains of music, the strains of which considered the pleasure of the people.

After Charles Cozens and Robert Pack also arrived on the spot, they accompanied, and attended, the procession. Several banners, suitably decorated with the words "PEACE AND CONCORD," "POWER, COZENS and BROWN," "CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY," "AND INDEPENDENCE," were carried by the two bodies took possession of the Market Place with banners flying and strains of music, the strains of which considered the pleasure of the people.

At about half-past eleven the Deputy Sheriff, N. Stabb, came forward and the Proclamation and Writ of Mandamus of the Governor, William Dalton, were read.

Then proposed and John McPhee seconded the nomination of Charles Cozens. Suitable addresses were given by each. Mr. Cozens then pledged himself to serve the people with the most rigid economy and the most vigilant eye as the Main Dependence of our Island more especially the poor laboring classes.

Mr. John Stabb then proposed the nomination of Peter Brown, seconded by Wm. Molloy. Brown then gave a long speech, pled, if he were elected, he would give himself wholly to the service of the people, and the interests of the Bay with straight-forwardness, integrity and honest intentions. (Loud and repeated cheering.)

Mr. Charles Nuttall then proposed the nomination of Peter Brown, seconded by Wm. Molloy. Brown then gave a long speech, pled, if he were elected, he would give himself wholly to the service of the people, and the interests of the Bay with straight-forwardness, integrity and honest intentions. (Loud and repeated cheering.)

William Dalton proposed Robert Pack, as a fit and proper person to be the representative of the political sentiments and principles for any long speech of the Hon. Mr. Innot begged leave to read this motion, and stated that this was in close alliance with the best interests of the country. (Loud and repeated cheering.)

Mr. Pack then came forward and read the motion. After the speech he had given he had a splendid speech. He told how he had been a staunch advocate for the election of Local Legislature, as the only plan to avoid the taxation of the people, and will always be a friend of Civil and Religious Liberty. I consider it the duty of each member of the House of Assembly to represent his constituents, and not to give private opinions. He would support the best interests of the whole and repudiated the assertion that would only work for the good of the town. (Loud and continuous cheering.)

Mr. Chancy, amidst considerable cheering, proposed James Power, seconded by Mr. Wm. Bennett had pleasure in seconding the nomination of Mr. Power. They were both warmly received. Mr. Power then gave a long speech, pled, if he were elected, he would give himself wholly to the service of the people, and the interests of the Bay with straight-forwardness, integrity and honest intentions. (Loud and repeated cheering.)

Mr. Robert Prowse then addressed the meeting, and proposed Robert Prowse as a gentleman whose name was founded upon truth and whose character in so many respects was stamped with the impress of honesty. I call upon you to pause and consider the importance of the day you take this day, and do not carry away by an ostentatious display of banners.

Mr. John Stabb came forward, and reading this nomination, said, "I believe Mr. Prowse to be a man of sound judgment, of a virtuous life, of an amiable character, of conciliating manners, of every purpose, such a gentleman, a man I do sincerely and most respectfully solicit your votes for. He has shown himself to be a man of strict impartiality, of unswerving independence, and a true friend to universal freedom. Mr. Prowse is a man who has never been alive to the interests and happiness of his fellow citizens. He has dipped deeply into the springs of human character, and is fully qualified to judge of men as they are." made an eloquent speech giving his reasons for standing, and assured them he had no object in view, for his own benefit, but wished to see taxation levied on luxuries, instead of necessities, and economy used in everything. In closing he wished to explain that Mr. Pack's Committee in Carbonear had influenced him considerably in deciding to come out, but now he found them working against him.

Doctor Walsh now made an excellent speech from the front of the hustings. It was one of the best, most independent and amusing of all those delivered from the platform. To those who are fond of wit and humor it was quite a treat. He was repeatedly cheered.

At about half-past eleven the Deputy Sheriff, N. Stabb, came forward, stating that five candidates had been nominated, and if no more were coming forward he would proceed at once with the voting.

Mr. John Stabb and R. Anderson, notwithstanding their former eloquent addresses, did not come forward, and the vote started. At 4 o'clock the Deputy Sheriff announced the Poll as follows:

Mr. Pack ..... 380
" Cozens ..... 276
" Power ..... 271
" Brown ..... 264
" Pinsent ..... 1

After loud cheering, Mr. Stabb announced that the Poll was adjourned till 10 o'clock the next morning. After three cheers for the Deputy Sheriff and his impartial and gentlemanly demeanour throughout the day, which was highly endorsed by several gentlemen present, the proceedings were adjourned.

THURSDAY, THE SECOND DAY.

The candidates repaired to the Market Place in the same order as yesterday. Each of the candidates addressed the audience, and after a long discussion between Mr. Pack, Mr. Prowse and several others over a letter that had been sent to Mr. Pinsent, proceeded with the voting.

It is impossible to give an adequate description of the throng, and their anxiety, and yet good humour, as they walked through the streets of Harbor Grace during these two days. It was an excellent example of patriotism, with peace and order on this memorable occasion. At four o'clock the Deputy Sheriff, Mr. Stabb, announced the gross Poll:

Mr. Pack ..... 377
" Cozens ..... 271
" Power ..... 262
" Brown ..... 256
" Pinsent ..... 87

FRIDAY, THE THIRD DAY.

The proceedings of this election were resumed at 10 o'clock, and were carried on in the same way till 4 o'clock.

GROSS POLL.

Mr. Pack ..... 305
" Cozens ..... 794
" Brown ..... 780
" Power ..... 123

SATURDAY, THE FOURTH DAY.

The polling continued till nearly one o'clock, when it terminated in consequence of the resignation of Mr.

Pinsent. The Returning Officer immediately came forward and announced that Robert Pack, Peter Brown, Chas. Cozens and James Power were duly elected as Representatives of the House of Assembly for this District (Conception Bay):—

Mr. Pack ..... 936
" Brown ..... 923
" Cozens ..... 923
" Power ..... 944
" Pinsent ..... 149

This termination was acknowledged by the most deafening cheers, and a procession having been formed at the Market Place, the successful candidates, including Mr. Pinsent, were immediately "chaired" through the town, preceded by the music and banners. They stopped opposite the residence of Very Rev. Father Ewer, Rev. Mr. Burt, Rev. Mr. Tomkins, and several other gentlemen, and repeatedly cheered. The immense multitude soon after dispersed in the same good order and decorum.

I trust, Mr. Editor, that I have not wearied your readers with all these letters, but when we consider all that happened in the year 1832, it was undoubtedly a very important year in the Records of Conception Bay, and, in fact the whole country. It is a pleasure for me to record what has happened in our past history, and no person is worthy of being a representative in our Assembly, or any other important office, unless he is well acquainted with the past records of our country. I have made careful enquiries about some of these old localities mentioned in these records, but the oldest inhabitant of Harbor Grace cannot tell me for certain where the Market Place was, or where the "Hustings" were erected for the elections, and where important announcements were made.

There were so many improvements made in that town when Ridley, Donnelly, Mann, Rutherford Bros., and others held sway during the next thirty years and more, that some of these old spots are forgotten; but it is my belief that it was in the rear of the present Public Wharf, where Victoria Street was opened up, after the great fire I have mentioned. I can remember when there was a big rock jutting out into Victoria Street, and a flight of stairs leading from the street to the top of this rock to the entrance of the old Temperance Hall. This Hall is still in existence, but for the past fifty years it has been the Presbyterian School House.

I have often heard about that first Temperance Society. It was started to reform abuses at that time. Their motto was "Temperance in all things," but when it eventually came to "Total Abstinence" there were not sufficient members to keep it going. My friend, John Oke, tells me that he has a certificate for a few shares in the Temperance property among his valuable securities, handed down to him by his respected father, who was a staunch member of the Society to the end.

But to get back to my story. Before Temperance Hall was built, there was a dwelling house erected on the big rock by Alfred Mayne, who was a very important citizen in Harbor Grace. You will remember seeing Mr. Editor, that he was elected to important positions for the survey of the new streets, or firebreaks as they were often called. This dwelling was probably erected shortly after 1832, and always went by the name of "Mayne's Castle."

The remains of this big rock are still to be seen, but it was blasted away some years ago, and the place made safe for the Presbyterian pupils. On the top of this old rock was a favorite place for making speeches and announcements, and I believe that is where the "Hustings" was, as it was often used for similar occasions, notably, when Sir Ambrose Shea stood and was elected for Harbor Grace, which I can distinctly remember.

Now in conclusion—a few words about the result of these historic elections in 1832. They had a most exciting time in St. John's. Dr. Wm. Carson, whom Prowse calls the "Father of Agriculture and Responsible Government," was defeated at the first election, but they soon found a seat for him, and he was elected Speaker of the House. He was a Scotchman, and one of the most independent and aggressive men, and always took a prominent place in public affairs. It is a well known saying that Doctors will differ, and Doctor Kiely, an Irishman, who was also elected, had a misunderstanding with Dr. Carson, on the street, and wanted to fight. Dr. Carson started a lawsuit, and the whole country looked upon it as an insult to the whole House of Assembly, and it placed Governor Prescott in a delicate position. This case eventually went to the Privy Council, and established a precedent for all the other British Colonies. Our mutual friend, R. B. Job, of Job Bros. & Co. has a picture of the old Doctor (with that of Philip Francis Little), and it should certainly adorn the walls of the House of Assembly. I have heard it said that Dr. Carson, after he had purchased the carriage of the Roman Catholic Bishop of St. John's, visited his patients on his daily rounds in this vehicle, emblazoned with the Arms of the "Mitre" on the back, utterly indifferent to what the people thought, although I presume the Arms of the disciples of Esculapius would be more appropriate—the people and mortar. He was a grand and popular old man. The Representative Assembly was only a half measure, as the Council was appointed by the Governor, and the British Government took part in the proceedings.

Then there was an agitation against the system of Imperial appointments to official positions. Such a determined opposition was created among the people that eventually the full measure of Responsible Government was granted in 1955.

I will now leave it to my readers in the Telegram to consider whether we have prospered as we should. For my part I think that some good lessons could be learned from the Election Rules formulated in 1832.
