The Georgette Decision.

Editor World: I should like to suggest to your correspondent Mr. Roberts, that it does not serve the cause of truth, nor is is for our good, to misrepresent the opinions of our opponents. Now I do not belong to any Georgette Society, or attend any of their meetings, yet from what I have read I do not understand to be, that land values should pay all the taxes and the industry which has given the value to the land should be freed from taxation. I fail to see either injustice or leveling in such a principle as this. Take the case of ground reut for land on King-street, for instance, which a generation ago was a dollar per look and now is a hundred. Whose labor has given it that increased value? Not the landlerd's. He has been all the time only the recipient of the value of his tenant's labor. What more equitable, then, than that the landlerd should bear all the bursher of taxation needful for the common good of both, and the tenant, who has only reaped the reward of his own labor, should be free from taxation.

From the tone of Mr. Roberts' letter I take him to be one of the well-to-do class in his own walk of life. Now, if all men who have to live by their labor were well-to-do, there might be no need to agitate this. I acter; but seeing that the great majerity of people are struggling for an existence by labor, and that taxation lakes away about a third of what the poor man charact this. In acter; but seeing that the great majerity of people are struggling for an existence by labor, and that taxation lakes away about a third of what the poor man carns, is it not right to agitate for the poor man charact this in acter; but seeing that the great majerity of people are struggling for an existence by labor, and that taxation lakes away about a third of what hat taxation lakes away about a third of what hat taxation lakes away STRAIGHT - WAY VALVES. The grain market shows no particular change except that it grows stronger. American and European markets are in sympathy and there European markets are in sympathy and there is no indication of a change. Some of the local operators are making long faces and if the situation does not alter abortly there will be trouble. Within the past few weeks there has been quite a lively speculation in corn, and now the venturesome ones are in grief.

Toronto's greatest attraction. rience with lightning of any person living fluid, each time, however, coming out successfully. He is an old man now, hale and hearty, and delights in telling of his hairbreadth and delights in telling of his hairbreadth escapes.

The first experience was about forty years ago, when he was a mere lad. He, with his parents, was visiting Mr. Issao Coursen. While there the worst electric storm ever known came up and the house of Mr. Coursen was struck and torn into fragments, parts of it being scattered over a field ten acres in extent Mr. Coykendall had retired for the night and becoming frights and extend the head of the stairs when the bolt came and they were both killed. Young Coykendall was fished out of theruins in an unconscious state. A physician was summoned, and it was found that the bolt had struck him on the forehead, crushing the soull and paralyzing every nerve. It was necessary to take out a portion of the scull and insert a piece of silver as a substitute. The piece inserted was a Spanish twenty-five cent piece, and a large sear now marks its location. Not long after he was riding on horsoback near the village during a shower when there was a flash and he was thrown from his horse. The horse was killed instantly, but Coykendall was only stunned and recovered after a time.

from his horse. The horse was killed instantity, but Coykendall was only stunned and recovered after a time.

A few years later, while sitting in front of his stove at home, a bolt descended the chimney, and pursuing its course down the stovepipe to the stove, again knocked him senseless, at the same time scattering the fire, stove-lide and ashes in every direction. He was picked up unconscious and bleeding, and badly injured from pieces of stove metal, but he soon recovered.

His fourth and last experience was on a farm. He was in a hay mow when it was struck near him. He was knocked senseless and the mow was set on fire and he came inear being burned to death, but with careful nursing came out all right.

Mr. Coykendall now thinks "that it will take a stronger agency than "Jersey lightning"

My high-blown pride at length broke under me and now has left me weary and old with service to the mercy of a rude stream than must forever hide me. How sad to be in this position, but how pleasant to be like the Army and Navy, just attaining to the full meridian of their glory and are to-day selling clothing cheaper than ever. Bareet Preaching in London.

Dr. Gordon in the Watchman.

We are spending the Sunday as the guests of Lady Kinnaird, in Trafalgar Square, one of whose daughters invited us to go to street meeting about 6 o'clock in the afte street meeting about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, the spot selected was a side street, near a public park. A portable organ was placed in the street sufficiently near the side-to give room for the carriages to pass. The young lady seated herself at the instrument and began a familiar hymn, and immediately the crowd commenced to gather from every direction. After a few hymns and fervent prayer by a workingman, who opened the services, I began my address. What a congregation! The most respectable and well-dressed had stopped to listen—a few only; and the most wretched and outcast in greater numbers. Poor women, with beer bloated faces, stood eagerly attentive through the entire address; many boys and girls with such marks of poverty and squalor as we rarely see in Boston streets; old topers with their pipes still puffing under noses whose lurid redness told how terrible the furnace fires of intoxication had burned within; women with the painted face, who stopped for a moment to hear of the divine love tenderer than a mother's, and then suddenly move on as though it was more than they could bear—all these serts and more were represented, and without exception listened respectfully. Policemen new and then drew nigh, but sever with the look of suspicion or disapsoval, as of those who were spying out-our niberty. The address finished, another hymn was sung, in the midst of which, at a given signal, the little organ was taken up, and we moved on, singing and drawing the bulk of the crowd after us into a hall, which became completiy filled. There were further services, and then a going among the crowd by Christian ladies and gentlemen, in order for personal talk, and to find out the sorrows, wants and distresses of each, if by any means they might be helped. As we finished our for personal talk, and to find out the sorrows, wants and distresses of each, if by any means they might be helped. As we finished our evening work and came out, we said to ourselves, "Surely, we have never addressed a congregation who more deeply needed the helping hand of the Gospel than these, and alas for the law-makers in America or in England who shall put obstacles in the way of that hand being freely extended to them?" Bevelop The Mines.

From The Thunder Bay and North Shore Miner.

The Chicago Mining Review in discussing the great desirability of the mineral resour ces of the United States being developed says several things which are quite applicable says several things which are quite applicable to Canada. The Review says an investigation into the legislation and history of the country fails to show any evidence that an attempt has been made to properly develop the vast and important mineral treasures of the country. As a matter of fact the whole matter has been left to individual impulse and direction with no definite plan or policy except that of personal benefit. A review of the matter of the mineral stores in the country, the season most strongly marked by the development of the mineral stores in the country, particularly in the gold and silver fields, have been seasons of unusual activity and lave been seasons of unusual activity and Room, Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on Saturday. the season most strongle marked by the development of the mineral stores in the country, particularly in the gold and silver fields, have been seasons of unusual activity and prosperity in every line of enterprise, and have been noted as prominent epochs in the history of national progress and advancement. Not only are these times marked by financial and commercial extension and financial and commercial extension and dominance, but in a corresponding degree the dominance, but in a corresponding degree the civilization, intellectual and moral expansion of the people is also advanced.

A country rich in minerals and possessing large stores of widely distributed wealth in this form holds an advantage which cannot be ever estimated. The product which it pours ture, is in a large sense permanent and indestructible is as well known that nearly all the mety are used again and again, in various forms and under changing conditions, but practically never desappearing. It will readily be seen that such products differ widely from chose that require to be constantly reple tished at the cost of further investment creation and capital and when once used lost and destroyed everything.
