STR. SENLAC,

Which Is to Perform the South Shore Service.

Will Be Launched Early Next Month

The New Vessel Will Be Excellent One in All Respects.

This steamer, which it is expected will enter upon the service between St. John and Halifax, calling at the more important places along the South Shore of Nova Scotia, about the middle of next month, is being built by the firm which will be launched in the course of a few days, and will be almost ready to proceed to the performance of the service which she was built for. The Senlac's dimensions are as follows: Length, 190 feet over all; beam, 33 feet. She will draw 9.5 feet. This boat has been built to suit the South Shore trade, having light draft, which should enable her to go into any of the ports at low water, and having ample cargo accommodation, nearly all in the 'tween decks, which prevents the extensive breakage so often occasioned by coasting boats on account of having to hoist the cargo out of the hold. With such large 'tween deck accommodation, it is expected that nearly all the cargo can be carried there, and it will be trucked in and out of the steamer, no hoisting being required. The only obstructions to the whole length and width of the ship in the 'tween decks which would deride it from carrying cargo, are the messroom for officers, situated in the fore part of the deck, and the storeroom and refrigerators. The balance of the space outside of the engine room casing will be clear, affording great floor space to sort and stow cargo. The passenger accommodations are very complete, the passages and rooms being finished in white and gold and well carpeted. All the berths have wire springs, carved brass head and foot boards, and are furnished with the best of linen. Electric lights are everywhere, even through the cargo space, and a 5,000 candle power search light will contribute to the safety of navigation at night. This boat will carry 27 of a crew, and sleep in addition to this 95 passengers. She will have passenger berths for 500. The remaining space is fitted and ventilated. Commencing forward the whole of the width of the accommodation deck is taken up with state rooms with two side passages by the engine room, and the engine room situated some of the officers' and engineers' rooms and the lavatories. All of this is the ladies' cabin, with Wilton carpets and upholstered in plush, and further aft is the dining saloon, which will seat 45 people. An excellent arrangement has been made dividing the pantry and galley from the dining saloon, which are on the same floor, by double walls, and being placed right aft will avoid any obnoxious smell of cooking being noticeable in the ship. The accommodation station deck to the upper deck access is to be had by an oak stairway leading into the social hall, off which is the purser's room and office. On the upper deck forward deck is the smoking room for the officers and the smoking room. The smoking room is finished in white and gold, and all the interior work in connection with the boiler room, which are on the same floor, is provided with stockless anchors, which does away with the old fashioned crane and the excessive labor required to get the boiler up to the deck. The anchors will be hoisted right into the hawse pipe by the steam windlass. Steam capstans for mooring are situated on the deck both forward and aft, and the capstans are of windlass for any cargo that may have to go in the lower hold.

The engines and boilers are situated amidships, and the boat has extra boiler power tending to the stern in fuel. The exhaust from the steam windlass, the capstans and winch are returnable to a tank in the engine room, which saves both fuel and fresh water. The ashes are discharged by a See's patent ash ejector, which mixes them with water and forces them 100 feet clear of the steamer in half an hour. The hull was built by David Lynch, cabin accommodation by Geo. V. Beattie, installation of electric piping by Frank Vaughan, and dynamo by the R. E. T. Fringe Co., engines and boilers by James Fleming, plumbing by F. S. Walker, and all the furnishings have been bought in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The dining saloon has five tables, large oak sideboard, and fireplace with mantel. Instead of the old-fashioned swing chairs, this saloon has regular oak dining chairs, like the best hotels. The skylight over this room is 18 feet long and 7 feet wide, built of teak, with stained glass panels. The galley and pantry are very complete, with a six-foot range, steam tables, tea and coffee urns, and communicate with the refrigerator and storeroom on the deck below by a private stairway.

C. P. R. MAY MAKE WAR OF RATES.

Rivalry With the Great Northern Railway May Result in Low Winter Freight Rates Which Will Benefit St. John.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—James J. Hill denies that his co-operation with the Canadian Northern in the establishment of the so-called "short" service between St. Paul and Winnipeg indicates an intention on his part to fight the Canadian Pacific. He says he has no objection to the extension of the Soo line northward, but adds that it was always intended to put on such a service as this as soon as the Canadian Northern was ready. It is purely and simply a traffic matter, and will not, says Mr. Hill, lead to any trouble with the Canadian Pacific.

Pacific people, on the contrary, say that if Mr. Hill is not looking for a fight, he takes the ground that Mr. Hill is now and always has been the aggressor. They say that ever since the Canadian Pacific bought the Soo line both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific have done everything they possibly could to make the purchase valueless, or at any rate to minimize its value to the Canadian Pacific. They say that they have stood for long times in the morning tactics of Hill officials, and that they have stood it with good grace. They admit that there have been reprisals at times, but claim that the reprisals were not by any means what they might have been.

A BOSTON BOXER AFTER THE CROWN.

John (Twin) Sullivan Now in Line for the Middle Weight Championship of the World.

(Boston Herald, Nov. 25.)

The most talked of and probably the most popular boxer in Boston just now is John (Twin) Sullivan of Cambridge. Since his fight with Jack O'Brien, in Philadelphia, a week ago tonight, Sullivan has won friends for himself by the score, not only in Boston, but in New York and Philadelphia as well. Certainly a man who was able to make such a showing against the boxing idol of Philadelphia that Twin did must be a clever boxer. For nearly the entire six rounds which they contested, Sullivan had the better of the going and did what few men have been able to do, and that was put the mighty Philadelphia Jack to the mat. This he did not only once, but several times. He was so confident that he is willing to concede him the win.

Had Sullivan in the last round taken desperate chances, and Sullivan grown somewhat careless, the result could have been nothing but a win for him. A boxer who can make such a stand time after time, and who can win well felt proud of his showing.

Sullivan with his manager, Fred Church, got back to Boston Monday, and he was in the city for the night through which he had gone excepting a bruised ear.

Sullivan wants to arrange a match for a longer distance with O'Brien. He is so confident that he is willing to back himself to the extent of five hundred dollars that O'Brien cannot stop him in fifteen rounds. He feels that he will win, if O'Brien makes the weight in one hundred and fifty-four pounds at three o'clock on the afternoon of the contest. This is the weight at which Twin desires to meet the Philadelphia champion.

A match may be made between them for the near future, and if Sullivan's work in this is satisfactory, he will go to New York to meet O'Brien in the middle-weight championship of the world. O'Brien is the only man who stands in the way of his meeting Ryan. For this reason, especially, Sullivan has given less thought to the latter must make weight. At one hundred and fifty-four pounds Sullivan is sure that he will win from the fast Philadelphia boxer. In their last bout, O'Brien was knocked out 20 pounds the better of the weight.

Sullivan is undoubtedly one of the best boxers Boston has produced in many a year. Since entering the game he has never been beaten, and he is the country at his weight and has never been decisively beaten. A few decisions have been given against him, but never has any boxer had more than a shade the better of it with him. Twin John has never been knocked out, but has several times sent opponents into dreamland. His improvement in the past year has been wonderful, and he is being readily talked of as coming champion middle-weight of the world. Within a year, Sullivan has met and defeated Andy Carey, Rochester, N. Y.; Jim Judge, Charles O'Rourke, Jim Guider, George Cole, Tom Carey and Jack Williams. His rise in the ring has been certain and steady, and his future certainly is bright.

CHewed HIS LIP OFF.

Brutal Assault on Alexander Longon by James Ramsey, Alias Jimmy the Quealer.

James Ramsey, otherwise known as Jimmy the Squealer, has added another character to those which already make him well and unfavorably known in police circles. Thursday night he chewed the lower lip of or at least a considerable portion of it, off Alexander Longon.

Very little is as yet known of the affair, but about half past nine Mrs. Longon went into her home on the Westmain road and found her husband sitting on the table. Her husband, also seated in the room, the lamp was out, and the windows were broken. There were other signs of trouble, so Mrs. Longon, after taking an inventory of the room, complained to the police that Ramsey had assaulted her husband. About an hour later Officers Covey and Greer arrested Ramsey. Longon did not appear anxious to give him in charge, but to make any complaint. When arrested Ramsey bore marks of the fight. His face was badly bruised and scratched. It was found that Longon was in an even worse condition. A large piece of his lower lip had been chewed out and the wound was bleeding profusely. The man was taken to the hospital about midnight, where Dr. Lunney found it necessary to put a number of stitches in his face. He was unable to appear in court yesterday. Ramsey is charged with assaulting, beating and biting Longon and with breaking a lamp and four panes of glass in his home. The men live next door to each other, and it is said that both had been drinking.

J. M. GODARD IS LAID TO REST.

The funeral of James M. Godard was held at his late residence, 712 Cedar street, yesterday afternoon, and was conducted under the auspices of the Modern Woodmen of America. Impressive and consoling words were spoken at the house and at the grave of H. E. Rogers, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal Church.

The Woodmen attended the funeral in a body and all details were looked after by the fraternity, thus relieving the sorrowing relatives of additional anxiety. Floral designs entirely covered the casket, attesting the high esteem in which the departed brother was held.

Rev. O. Walker, one of Helena's prominent citizens, is in the city, having come over to attend the funeral of James M. Godard.

WHEN THE CZAR TRAVELS.

A St. Petersburg despatch says: Whether M. Lopoukhin, director of the Russian police, really found in Rome the evidence of an unpopular reception for his imperial master, as everyone supposes, the director's visit to the Italian capital and its result are none the less significant, for they show clearly that instead of relaxing any of the stringent Russian rules for so long, the government is depending even more upon its secret police for the sovereign's safety. Probably the authorities of no other nation would have sent fifty special police agents to Rome six weeks ahead of their ruler to feel the public pulse, and it is doubtful whether any other nation would surround himself with such hosts of guards as have accompanied the Czar during his recent trip to Darmstadt.

With the hosts of enemies, however, which Nicholas II. is supposed to have, much of this precaution can be accounted for, but people who are accustomed to stand with reaching distance from the Czar, and who have seen his travels about may be astonished at the arrangements which always are incident to any journey the Russian Emperor makes. The sovereign chooses to take in his own country.

The parts of holy Russia which are to be honored by a glimpse of the sovereign begin to prepare for him some time before he arrives. Two days before the Czar is expected the police thoroughly search every building within twenty yards of the line over which the Czar is to pass. The detail selected to do this is the pick of the special police and always is composed of men who have been tried in toils, and the poverty-stricken peasants have no bombs concealed in their dwellings, the commission proceeds to close and seal with the sovereign stamp any outbuildings not in actual use, and the owners are notified to open these until officially notified to do so. After the commission stamp any outbuildings not in actual use, and the owners are notified to open these until officially notified to do so. KILLED BY SCRATCH OF CAT HE WOUNDED.

Blood-Poisoning Set In, and He Died Only Four Days, Despite Doctors.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Samuel Dykstra died in the General Hospital at first. Later some home remedies were applied, but these did not bring relief, and Dr. J. C. McCoy was called in. The leg was much inflamed, and on Sunday afternoon the patient was removed to the hospital. From the ankle to the knee the leg was much swollen and inflamed.

Dykstra was by this time delirious, and his pulse was rapid and weak. That night he was taken to the operating table and three incisions were made for the purpose of removing the accumulation of pus. The patient sank rapidly and died at 4.45 a. m. The diagnosis gives pyaemia, supplemented with cellulitis, as the cause of death. Physicians say they have never seen so rapid a malignant inflammation.

MRS. MARK N. JACKSON DEAD.

Clerk in Office of Supt. Rowe, Boston City Hospital, Bereaved After Two Months' Marriage.

(Boston Paper.)

The wife of Mark N. Jackson, clerk in the office of Supt. Rowe, Boston City Hospital, died at the City Hospital a few days ago. It was only last October that she became the wife of Mr. Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson was in her seventeenth year. She was Elizabeth M. Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson of Salisbury, N. E. She was considered a most beautiful girl. She counted her friends in Boston and Cambridge, in which cities she was well known, by the score.

Mrs. Jackson had the happy faculty of bringing sunshine and happiness wherever she went, and her presence at social functions always made the occasion pleasing. She was a general favorite and her death, after less than two months of wedded life, which was full of happiness and good cheer, cast a gloom upon her friends.

About ten days ago Mrs. Jackson contracted a cold, but thought little of it at the time. Although given the best medical treatment she grew worse and her husband had her removed to the hospital, where she could be better cared for than at home. She died not rationally.

Mr. Jackson, before entering the hospital as clerk, was well known in amateur and professional theatrical circles in the city.

There will be a brief service at the hospital chapel Thursday morning, after which Mr. Jackson will take the body to Salisbury, where another service will be held, and where the interment will take place.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment, and others have not heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease.
